Having carefully considered the entire record before me, I FIND and CONCLUDE, pursuant to Brill, supra., that the instant matter is ripe for summary decision. I FURTHER CONCLUDE that summary decision should be entered on behalf of the Board grounded upon its arguments set forth in its brief.

With respect to petitioners Count One, alleging racial discrimination, in violation of N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(a) and (d) (LAD), the record is clear that the Board took no official action against petitioners because of race or gender which would trigger a LAD complaint. While certain Board members may have discussed petitioners' position with it, such discussions were engendered, in part, as a consequence of the Board fiscal problem. The Board faced a multi-million dollar deficit in its current expense budget. A careful review of *N.J.S.A.*10:5-12(a) shows, among other things, that it is unlawful practice or an unlawful discrimination for an employer;

> . . . because of the race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, genetic information, sex or atypical hereditary cellular or blood trait of any individual, or because of the liability for service in the Armed Forces of the United States or the nationality of any individual, or because of the refusal to submit to a genetic test or make available the results of a genetic test to an employer, to refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge or require to retire, unless justified by lawful considerations other than age, from employment such individual or to discriminate against such individual in compensation or in terms, conditions or privileges of employment . . . .

Petitioners have not shown that the Board discriminated against them in any manner as contained in N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(a). Both petitioners are employed by the Board, therefore, it did not refuse to hire or employ them. Nor did it discharge or require petitioners to retire or discriminate in compensation, terms, conditions or privileges of employment.

Nor have petitioners show that N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(d) is applicable here. That subsection of the statute reads as follows:

> It shall be an unlawful employment practice, or, as the case may be, an unlawful discrimination:
> c. For any person to take reprisals against any person because that person has opposed any practices or acts forbidden under this act or because that person has filed a complaint, testified or assisted in any proceedings under this act or to coerce, intimidate, threaten or interfere with any person in the exercise or enjoyment of, or an account of that person having aided or encouraged any other person in the exercise or enjoyment of, any right granted or protected by this act.

The petitioners have failed to show what, if any, reprisals the Board took against them. There is no evidence that the Board discriminated against petitioners under subsection (a) of the statute and, similarly, there is no evidence to show that the Board exercised any act of reprisal against petitioners individually or collectively. Individual Board members have a right to speak out on any topic affecting the operation, policies and administration of the schools under the direction and control of the Board. When faced with a fiscal crisis, all topics concerning the operation of its schools are open for discussion. That is the precise situation here. Petitioners' cannot demonstrate where the Board took any action of a retaliatory nature against them. The Board may have invoked petitioners' names and positions in its discussions. However, no duly adopted action was taken which would rise to an allegation of reprisal against petitioners.

Similarly, there is no evidence of a violation by the Board with respect to either of petitioners' tenured positions. As the Board observes, no action concerning petitioner Clarke's position as Assistant Superintendent of Schools may be considered by the Board absent the Superintendent's recommendation. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-16. No such recommendation by the Superintendent was offered to the Board. Nor did the Board certify tenure charges against petitioner Clarke or petitioner Woolley to the Commissioner. Therefore, neither of petitioners' positions was in jeopardy.

There is nothing in this record to demonstrate that the Board violated any provisions of OPMA. There was no action taken, nor was there any evidence that the Board members, individually or collectively, acted to circumvent the statutes embodied in N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to –21.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, pursuant to Brill, supra., summary decision must be entered on behalf of the Board and petitioners Petition of Appeal and Amended Petition must be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that SUMMARY DECISION is hereby ENTERED ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT BOARD.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal and Amended Petition of Appeal are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ELLEN WOOLLEY AND MELVIN CLARKE,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY, BERT LOPEZ, PRESIDENT, THERESA THOMAS, DANIEL GALLAGHER, MATTHEW DORAN, JAMES HERZOG AND THERESA KELLY, INDIVIDUALLY AND JOINTLY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

In their exception arguments, petitioners primarily contend that the ALJ improperly granted summary decision to the Board as a consequence of his misinterpretation of the provisions of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq. (NJLAD).[2]

[1] Petitioners requested, and were granted, an extension until June 16, 2000 to file exceptions in this matter. The Board, having indicated that it did not receive a copy of petitioners' exceptions until June 19, 2000, was accorded until June 26, 2000 to submit replies, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d). However, replies were not received on that date.

[2] For the first time, petitioners note that, "[w]hile this matter is pending before the Commissioner, the respondent board has voted to remove Clarke as Assistant Superintendent for Personnel from Personnel duties and transfer Woolley from the high school to an elementary guidance position. No explanation has been given for such drastic personnel actions." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 2, footnote 1) Since the Commissioner recognizes that "[e]vidence not presented at the hearing shall not be submitted as part of an exception, nor shall it be incorporated or referred to within exceptions," N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), such evidence is not considered part of the record before him. This determination, however, does not prevent Petitioner Clarke from filing a Petition of Appeal to challenge the Board's recent action.

Petitioners maintain that the standards set forth in Lehman, supra, for sustaining such a claim have been met herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that summary decision should be granted to the Board, since each count of petitioners' Amended Petition of Appeal must be dismissed for the reasons set forth herein.

The first two counts of petitioners' Amended Petition of Appeal allege violations of the NJLAD. To the extent the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear and determine these allegations, See Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 528 (1978), he finds with respect to the first count that, even accepting as true the facts alleged by petitioners, they have failed to assert that the "adverse employment actions" which they purport to have suffered (Initial Decision at 20) were actions taken because of their respective races, as prohibited by the NJLAD. (Initial Decision at 25) That is, the NJLAD "does not proscribe all discrimination, but only that which is bottomed upon specifically enumerated partialities and prejudices." Jones v. College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, 155 N.J. Super. 232, 236 (App. Div 1977), certif. denied, 77 N.J. 482 (1978). Here, petitioners argue that the "hostile work environment" they endured would not have occurred "but for" their reporting of the grade fixing scandal and their participation in the investigation subsequent thereto. (Initial Decision at 19) They do not allege an unlawful practice or discrimination based on race, or any other "invidious classification," see, Peper v. Princeton University Bd. of Trustees, 77 N.J. 55, 80 (1978), as prohibited by the NJLAD.

In the second count, petitioners contend that they have suffered unlawful reprisals as a consequence of their involvement in reporting the aforementioned grading scandal, in violation of the NJLAD. As the ALJ notes on page 26 of the Initial Decision, the statute provides that:

> It shall be unlawful employment practice, or as the case may be, an unlawful discrimination: ***
> For any person to take reprisals against any person because he has opposed any practice or practices or acts forbidden under this act or because he has filed a complaint, testified or assisted in any proceeding under this act. N.J.S.A. 10:5-12(d).

In their Amended Petition of Appeal, petitioners allege that they suffered such reprisals "for filing this lawsuit ." (Amended Petition at 6, paragraphs 29, 30) However, in their exception arguments before the Commissioner, they also appear to attribute such retaliation to their involvement in uncovering the aforementioned grade-fixing scandal. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 4, 5). In any event, the retaliations which they claim to have suffered consist of the following: statements by Respondent Loggi to Petitioner Clarke that other respondent Board members "were running the district and 'they had the votes to do what they wanted'"; Clarke's exclusion, by Respondent Loggi, from attending "a very important meeting with officials from the Department of Education"; Clarke's attendance at a Board meeting on August 17, 1999 where he was not permitted to represent the administration, as he had in the past; Clarke's public "reprimand" from Theresa Kelly for issuing a "Rice" letter to an employee; the Board's failure to discipline other staff members when they made disrespectful comments and took offensive actions against Woolley; and Woolley's exclusion, during the 1999-2000 school year, from participation on the school management team at the high school. (Amended Petition. at 6, 7)

Although the NJLAD does not define "reprisals," the plain meaning of the word is "any action taken by one person either in spite or as a retaliation for an assumed or real wrong by another."[3] Further, the Commissioner recognizes that:

> claim of retaliation involves several tiers of proof. The initial tier requires the claimant to establish a prima facie case. This is done by demonstrating by a preponderance of the evidence that (1) claimant engaged in protected activity known to the employer, (2) claimant thereafter was subjected to adverse employment decision by the employer, and (3) there was a causal link between the two. (Citations omitted). Jamison v. Rockaway Twp. Bd. of Educ. 242 N.J. Super. 436, 445 (App. Div. 1990).

Even assuming, arguendo, that petitioners' dual argument as to the basis of the retaliation suffices to satisfy the first prong, and, further assuming petitioners' allegations are true, the Commissioner, like the ALJ, cannot find on the record before him that the petitioners have been subjected to adverse employment decisions "which would rise to an allegation of reprisal ." (Initial Decision at 26)

Next, petitioners assert that respondents have violated the Tenure Employee's Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., as well as their "privacy rights," which rights, they aver, are protected by the tenure statute. In this connection, petitioners claim that respondents have made public statements indicating the Board's intent to terminate their employment. (Amended Petition of Appeal at 8) Notably, however, petitioners' exceptions do not challenge the ALJ's conclusion, herein affirmed by the Commissioner, that petitioners have failed to state a claim, which would, if true, constitute a violation of the tenure laws. Rather, petitioners merely assert that if their allegations are true, "this conduct by a public official is repugnant and should be punished." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 6) The Commissioner finds, therefore, with respect to the third count of the petition, that petitioners fail to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

[3] Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition.

Finally, petitioners claim that respondents violated the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-1 et seq. (OPMA) "by making public statements regarding petitioners' removal and/or performance ." (Amended Petition of Appeal at 9) However, since the Commissioner has incidental jurisdiction to hear and determine OPMA claims only "as they relate to controversies arising under the school laws," Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Education, 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979), and noting that petitioners have failed to establish any such valid school law claim, supra, the Commissioner finds he is without jurisdiction to consider the fourth count of the Amended Petition of Appeal.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

Petitioner,

Record Closed: March 24, 2000 Decided: May 23, 2000

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenged the Board of Education's determination of residency. The petitioner appealed to the Department of Education and on October 4, 1999, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, M.D., the mother of R.L., said she has lived at 812 B. Road, Mt. Ephraim, all her life except for the period of time 1980-1985, when she lived with her first husband, R.L., Sr. The house at 812 B. Road is owned by her mother. She is now married to S.D.

R.L. started in the Mount Ephraim School System in the 4th grade. He went to Gloucester County Special Services School in 5th and 6th grades (for which Mt. Ephraim paid), then he returned to Mount Ephraim schools for 7th and 8th grade. He went to Haddonfield High School for 9th grade (1997-1998 school year), because he was living with his father that year. In September, 1998, M.D. registered R.L. in Mount Ephraim School District for 10th grade in Audubon High School, and in September, 1999, M.D. registered R.L. in Mount Ephraim School District for 11th grade in Audubon High School.

Petitioner said that R.L. maintains a close relationship with his biological father, and frequently stays with him overnight. On the mornings after he stayed with his father overnight, he would walk to school, or R.L., Sr. would drive him. M.D. said that R.L. was living with her at 812 B. Road, and that she and R.L., Sr. have joint custody of R.L.

William J. Bittner, residency investigator for Mount Ephraim School District, said that he observed D. V. and her son leave her house in Haddonfield, stop at another residence in Haddonfield and pick up R.L., and transport both boys to Audubon High School. He said he made this observation 11 or 12 times, between January and February, 1999. He said he never observed R.L. leaving school.

Richard Serfling, Superintendent and Principal of Mount Ephraim, said that residency charges had been filed against both R.L. (the instant matter) and against D. V's son.

R.L., Sr., testified that custody of R.L. was with his mother, M.D., when their divorce was finalized in 1987, but that custody was made joint in 1997. He said he claimed R.L. as a dependant on his tax returns since the divorce, but stopped paying child support in 1997, when he obtained joint custody. He said that R.L. had told both parents in 1997 that he wanted to go to Audubon High School, to be with his friends. He said that, since 1998, R.L. would stay with him every other weekend and holidays, or if he was sick.

D.V. took the stand, but said that she had been advised by her counsel to remain silent.

Debra Rehn, Register of Mount Ephraim School District, said that no custody orders had been shown to the school in connection with R.L.'s registration.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to observe and to judge the demeanor and credibility of all witnesses in their testimony, and upon review of all the evidence and exhibits submitted, and drawing reasonable inferences there from, I FIND the following as FACT by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

1. A consent order of August 17, 1999, designates M.D. as the resident parent for her son, R.L. The consent order states that R.L. .Sr. is to share in the responsibilities of being a parent with M.D. As of August 12, 1997, custody of R.L. had been with his father, R.L., with visitation every other weekend with his mother, M.D.

2. The observation of the investigator for Mount Ephraim revealed that R.L. left his father's residence in Haddonfield for school in Audubon on February 17, 19, 23 and 26, 1999 and on March 31 and April 1, 1999, and on May 27, 28, June 1, June 2, June 3 and June 4, 1999.

3. R.L. attended Haddonfield High School as a freshman in 1997-1998. He attended Audubon High School as a sophomore in 1998-1999, and now attends Audubon High School as a junior in 1999-2000.

DISCUSSION

The connection between R.L. and both of his parents is commendable, however, it is evident from the investigator's reports that, for the late winter, spring and early summer of 1999,

R.L. still lived with his father. He began to live with his father in 1997, as reflected in the consent order, and attended Haddonfield High School for the 1997-1998 school year. R.L. then expressed a wish, testified to by both parents, to attend the same school (Audubon) as his friends. This was honored by his parents, in that the parent of another friend (V.) picked up R.L. up from R.L., Sr.'s house in Haddonfield and took him to Audubon High for the 1998-1999 school year.

The rapid succession of jointly obtained consent orders do track, to some extent, R.L. actual living arrangements and school attendance. Up to 1997, R.L. lived with his mother in Mount Ephraim and went to Mount Ephraim schools. In 1997-1998, he lived with his father in Haddonfield and went to Haddonfield High School. In 1998-1999, he went to Audubon High School. Where he lived that year is the subject of this case.

The custody order of August 17, 1999 (R-5) that gave residential custody to the mother, M.D., came about shortly after R.L., Sr. was advised (P-1, July 14, 1999) that the Mount Ephraim Board of Education was about to take action at their August 9, 1999 meeting to remove R.L.

However, there was no testimony as to R.L.'s living arrangements or transportation after June 4, 1999 – which presumably was near the end of the 1998-1999 school year, so no findings will be made on any period of time subsequent to June, 1999. With the transfer of residential custody to the mother (in Mount Ephraim School District) in August, 1999 and with the lack of evidence after June 4, 1999 to suggest otherwise, there is insufficient evidence to base a finding relative to R.L.'s district of residence for the 1999-2000 school year.

However, I FIND that R.L. was not living in Mount Ephraim during the 1998-1999 school year, but rather was living in Haddonfield.

Evidence was submitted after the hearing, at the request of this Administrative Law Judge, as to the tuition cost of Audubon High School, as the receiving district, and Mount Ephraim as the sending district. This amount is $6,128.58 for school year 1998-1999.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the tuition due from petitioner is $6,128.58.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Although the parties did not file exceptions, by letter dated June 13, 2000, counsel for petitioner notified the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the following:

> When we last appeared before [the ALJ] the hearing was not over but merely adjourned, in mid-testimony I might add, due to then present time constraints. At the conclusion of the day on February 24, 2000, Robert Lombardi, Sr., having been called by the [respondent], was on the witness stand giving direct testimony and [petitioner] had not yet had the opportunity to cross-examine him. Further, [petitioner] had not presented their rebuttal nor had we been able to re-examine Mr. Serfling as [the ALJ] ruled we could.

Petitioner's counsel thereafter requested that the ALJ withdraw her Initial Decision and allow the hearing in this matter to continue. This submission was deemed a motion to reopen the hearing in this matter, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:18.5(b). By letter dated June 21, 2000, the Board was accorded five working days to submit a reply to the motion. However, no response was filed. Accordingly, under these circumstances, the Commissioner determines to grant petitioner's motion to reopen the hearing, and hereby remands this matter to the OAL for continued proceedings, as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF GEORGE MONTGOMERY, IRVINGTON SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY.

Raymond L. Hamlin, Esq., for the Irvington School District Board of Education (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

James F. Villere, Jr., Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 4, 2000 Decided: May 18, 2000

BEFORE DANIEL B. MC KEOWN, ALJ (t/a)

INTRODUCTION

The Irvington School District Board of Education (Board) certified charges of unbecoming conduct against George Montgomery (respondent), a teacher with a tenure status in its employ, on May 20, 1998 to the Commissioner of Education for determination under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq. Respondent was simultaneously suspended from his teaching duties without pay pending disposition of the charges. When the matter was transferred on July 23, 1998 to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13, it was assigned Administrative Law Judge Mary Louise Lucchi-McCloud who became physically before she could conduct the hearing which had then been scheduled to commence the week of May 17, 1999. On or about May 3, 1999 and, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.13 (b), the undersigned was assigned on a temporary basis to hear and render an initial decision. At that time discovery had not been completed and respondent's counsel had moved to allow a substitution of counsel, with respondent's approval. The scheduled hearing for the week of May 17, 1998 was adjourned pending completion of discovery and pending disposition of the motion. The motion for substitution of counsel was granted, and a significant amount of time had to be devoted to discovery because of the nature of the charges. During the time extended for discovery, the parties continued good faith negotiations seeking a settlement of the issues presented under the standards promulgated by the Commissioner of Education and approved by the State Board of Education in Cardonick v Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, 1982 S.L.D. 842, aff'd. State Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 846.

When settlement efforts appeared futile in December 1999, the matter was scheduled for hearing during February, 2000. The hearing, which is incomplete, began February 16 and continued through February 17, 2000. After hearing the testimony of an administrative assistant and the superintendent of schools who brought the charges against respondent but who has since left the Board's employ, the parties renewed their good faith efforts to settle the matter. These efforts proved successful and a settlement was reached. The settlement agreement, though dated May 1, 2000 was received May 16, 2000, is attached hereto and incorporated herein as if set forth in full. This initial decision finds and concludes the settlement comports with the standards set out in Cardonick; the recommendation is reached that the Commissioner of Education approve the settlement.

CHARGES

On May 20, 1998 the Board determined to certify the following charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher to the Commissioner of Education for determination under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., The Tenure Employees Hearing Law which had been filed with its Board Secretary by the then superintendent of schools. The charges allege respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher in the following actions:

1. Drafting of a series of letters to the Superintendent of Schools, wherein numerous negative comments relating to his character and performance were addressed.

2. Drafting of a series of letters which inaccurately set forth the basis for the cancellation of a PTA meeting.

3. Drafting of a series of letters which alleged criminal and/or otherwise unlawful conduct on the part of Superintendent of Schools.

4. Drafting of a series of letters which alleged that the Superintendent of Schools was responsible for a deficit within the district.

5. Publishing of letters in the Irvington Herald[,] a local newspaper, which contained numerous inaccurate factual accounts, negative comments relating to the character and performance of the Superintendent of Schools, false allegations of criminal and/or otherwise unlawful conduct of the Superintendent of Schools and that the Superintendent of Schools was responsible for the deficit within the school district.

The Respondent, George Montgomery, a teaching staff member has also been charged with conduct subversive of discipline and morale of the school district which amounts to conduct unbecoming an employee. Said conduct subversive of discipline and morale of the school district which amounts to unbecoming conduct has been demonstrated by the Respondent's:

1. Drafting of a series of letters which utilized negative and belittling comments towards the Superintendent of Schools in his role as Chief School Administrator.

2. Publishing of letters which utilized negative and belittling comments towards the Superintendent of Schools in his role as Chief School Administrator and publishing said letters in the Irvington Herald[,] a local newspaper publication.

3. Actions in the drafting of letters to the Superintendent of Schools attacking his character and performance as the Chief School Administrator is contrary to district policy and standards for teaching staff members and has resulted in a negative impact upon morale of other teaching staff members and the Superintendent's ability to effectively direct, discipline and manage the school district.

BACKGROUND

For purposes solely of placing the recommended settlement in context, the background of the matter as discerned from the record is this.

Respondent has been a teacher in the Board's employ for more than twenty years, and a teacher for more than 30 years. Until the tenure charges were certified against him, he has not been the subject of discipline. The superintendent of schools, since departed from the Board's employ, had been the Essex County Superintendent of Schools between 1989 and 1995 before his employment with the Board as superintendent. The superintendent testified that during his tenure as the Essex County Superintendent he reviewed the proposed budgets of each of the then 23 school districts in Essex County for financial adequacy. Once he determined the proposed budgets were adequate to insure a thorough and efficient program of education in each district, he then authorized each board of education to advertise the proposal in anticipation of the annual school election.

The record of this case suggests a budget deficit developed in the Irvington School District at a time while the superintendent had been the county superintendent of schools. The superintendent testified that the Irvington District had been placed on Level II monitoring while he was the county superintendent. It appears that when the superintendent began his tenure with the Board as its chief executive officer, certain budget reductions had to be imposed in order to reduce or eliminate the deficit under a corrective action plan. Respondent had held a position entitled "staff developer", in addition to his teaching duties, which was eliminated as part of the budget reductions.

The budget reductions appear to be, in general, the origin for the dispute between the parties. The superintendent testified that respondent generally attended board of education meetings and was vocal on district expenditures. However, the superintendent did not seek to discipline respondent for his criticisms of board expenditures. There came a time in March 1998 when the superintendent determined a Parent Teacher Association (PTA) meeting was in conflict with a regional PTA founders day dinner. Respondent, as co-chair pro tem had scheduled the PTA meeting. The superintendent canceled the meeting without prior consultation with respondent. Respondent sought to meet with the superintendent who, according to the evidence thus far, was otherwise too busy to see him. As the result of respondent's alleged conduct in the superintendent's outer office, the superintendent issued respondent a written reprimand. In response to the written reprimand, respondent penned the following letter to the superintendent which forms the basis for the tenure charges:

> Once again, and for what I hope will be the last time, you have trashed my civil liberties by overstepping your authority to the point of interfering with my Constitutional Right of free association.
>
> On Friday, March 12th, I was informed that you had, without consent or authority unilaterally canceled the PTA meeting, which as co-chairpersons pro tem, [M.K.] and I had scheduled for March 19th. Furthermore, you directed that the meeting could only be rescheduled by either of two people which were arbitrarily of your choosing. Clearly, you are attempting to fully orchestrate the control of the PTA, an organization which is inherently designed to be autonomous and structured to allow open public participation in our public school system.
>
> I can understand your fear that I, even temporarily, would be in a position to influence public opinion and alert the school community to the incompetence of your leadership and the resultant tragic consequences to their children, Such was not my intent at the time, but you have left me with little recourse but the truth.
>
> Mr. Carter, in your tenure as county and local Superintendent, you have been directly responsible for the financial collapse and educational disparities which have plummeted Irvington schools to the abyss of educational deprivation. As County Superintendent, it was your fiduciary responsibility to approve and monitor the Irvington School District's budget and fiscal management. Under your authority and your responsibility, the school district accumulated an unlawful deficit of $10 million dollars over a period of two years. Where were you? Why weren't you doing your job as County Superintendent? To now disavow prior knowledge and thus avoid culpability for the deficit is to admit dereliction of duty while County Superintendent.
> Since becoming Superintendent in Irvington, you have only compounded the catastrophic effect of your previous blunders. After allowing the deficit to accumulate, you now have forsaken education to make amends for your prior fiscal and managerial sins, You have unconscionably eliminated successful, educationally meritorious programs while allowing political plunder to continue. Under your watch as Irvington Superintendent of Schools, legal billings had escalated to well over a million dollars in a single year, the same year in which the most dire cuts in educational programs took place.

> Unbeknownst to the general public, you have destroyed the last remnant of hope for quality education. I am incredulously appalled by your callous single-minded solution to the deficit problem which you were irresponsibly (sic) responsible for in the first place. Literally hundreds of school employees lost their jobs irrespective of their success with children or the dire need for their services. The successful ESL Academy was abandoned at considerable cost to our children, but with no real savings to the school district. My own successful efforts to improve teaching in the math content areas were sacrificed to placate the vengeful egos of the self-serving, political empowered who have perpetuated the Peter Principle. How ironic that the term was so appropriately named.
> Programs and personnel which have existed in name or title only, became fictitious budgeted line items which later were manipulated to divert funding and suspicion. The district budget itself, an intricately fabricated illusion of propriety is immersed in deception and only feigns legitimacy under a pretense of education improvement, which never comes.
>
> And who better to administer the public debacle than yourself, experienced as an imaginary watchdog at the county level, so familiar with the obscuring techniques which provide meaningless documentation for the bureaucrats, who quite frankly, don't give a damn about Irvington or its children either?
>
> Most sadly, Mr. Carter, you have deceived and betrayed the trust of your own people. You have indirectly denigrated the perception of their schools, mortgaged the entitlement of their children, squandered their hope of opportunity and sold out their futures. You have created an educational deficit, an insurmountable legacy, paid by a generation of failure and lost potential.
> Mr. Carter, I can no more compromise my values than change the truth, You once asked me why I was so intent on upsetting the proverbial apple cart, given the fact that, like yourself, I was so close to retirement. My answer remains the same; selling rotten apples to innocent children is not my idea of making a living.

While the foregoing letter was submitted to the superintendent, respondent also had the letter published in the Irvington Herald newspaper on Mach 19, 1998. In addition, the following letter was published in the same newspaper on March 26, 1998 over respondent's signature:

> It now appears conclusive that Superintendent Peter Carter has successfully thwarted an attempt by an uppity teacher, George Montgomery, to participate in the Myrtle Avenue PTA. In a scything show of dictatorial power, Carter usurped control, mustered his flunkies, and banished the fear of opposing thought. It is doubtful whether Montgomery, now recovering from a severe official > reprimand, will ever be allowed to exercise freedom of speech or free association again.

> Carter's Commandments, henceforth known as the Magna Carter, was issued to Montgomery on March 16th and is said to have ruined his Saint Patrick's Day. The lengthy, somewhat verbose document - but who am I to talk, even if I were allowed to talk - states that 'while we all welcome and encourage teacher participation, it is the parents who should be taking the lead with respect to PTA activities.' Mr. Carter, in a prior communiqué, made the determination of specifically which parents would be allowed to assume the leadership roles, so it is now suggested that the PTA acronym be changed to PCA - the Peter Carter Association. Obviously, the 'T' has become an anachronism.
> In a somewhat related incident, six parents showed up to attend the canceled PTA meeting of March 19. Discouraged by the cancellation, disgruntled by the inconvenience and dismayed by Mr. Carter's inept, trivial attempt at notification they returned home. It is questionable whether they will venture to participate again.

The foregoing letters form the basis for the charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher certified against respondent. Indeed, the specifications to the charges of conduct unbecoming make it abundantly clear that the letters published in the newspaper constitute the underlying conduct engaged in by respondent which motivated the charges to be certified against him. The superintendent did testify in the matter prior to the time of the settlement, as did two secretaries. The superintendent's testimony goes to the outrage he personally felt upon reading the letters and seeing them published in the newspaper, and the personal umbrage he took at being accused of being responsible for the deficit, and for the lower quality of education in the district during his superintendency, and for the questioning of his authority. He also testified that the publication of the letters undermined his authority simply by the fact of their publication, that the publication of the letters made his job more difficult, and that the publication of the letters showed respondent to be lacking in respect, professionalism, and loyalty. However, it must be noted that the superintendent also testified that the publication of the letters generated no reaction from the students, staff, or the public. Finally, the superintendent did not testify that respondent's performance in the classroom was harmed as the result of his letter writing.

THE SETTLEMENT

The settlement agreement recognizes the Commissioner's authority to review and approve all agreements which are intended to settle tenure charges that had been certified to him for determination. The standards necessary for such agreements to be approved are those set forth in In re Cardonick, 1982 S.L.D. 842, aff'd. State Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 846 and shall now be discussed.

1. The nature of the charges has to do with a teacher of more than twenty years experience, with no disciplinary record, expressing strong disapproval of certain actions engaged in by the superintendent of schools and having that expression published in a newspaper which presumably circulates within the district. The superintendent took umbrage and was and is outraged at the published criticism leveled at him - which he believes to be unfounded, false, and misleading. The charges of course implicate a teacher's right under the First Amendment to speak freely on matters of public concern, even to the extent of criticizing their immediate superiors, with the right of the Board of Education through its superintendent to operated its schools in an efficient manner. When such rights collide, they are subject to a balancing test under Pickering v. Board of Educ., 391 U.S. 563, 88 S. Ct. 1731, 20 *L.Ed.*2d 811. The Board has the obligation to show at minimum that the speech it found offensive interrupted the efficient operation of its schools; not merely that it is of the personal view that its schools were interrupted. Respondent has the obligation to show that his speech is protected because it is a matter of public concern; and that it is not merely a personal grievance he sought to bring to the attention of the public. The charges are not at all related to respondent's classroom performance, or to conduct deemed unbecoming related to students.

2. The circumstances justifying the settlement of the charges are that the continued prosecution of the charges drains the district of valuable resources in the form of money it can better use on the school program; of human talent who must sit in a hearing room listening to testimony when they may better serve the pupils at the Irvington School District; the talents of respondent who is not providing his talents as a teacher to the district; of the adverse publicity a tenure case generates in the prosecuting district; and, the uncertainty of the outcome of the case to either party. The balance of rights of the parties in First Amendment cases, and in this case particular, is more easily articulated than applied. A lengthy hearing process would result if the record must develop sufficient evidence to balance the rights of the parties. As an example, would respondent have to be granted leave to review in minute detail the budgetary records of the Board in order to prove the truth of his criticisms. If this were the case, then the Board could look forward to a lengthy hearing, and continuing disruption to its schools. Respondent could look forward to an uncertain future as a teacher of twenty years experience without any prior discipline. It is in the interests of both sides to settle this case.

3. Both parties agree to the settlement agreement as is evidenced by their signature affixed to the document. I further find respondent fully understands the settlement and that he embraces the settlement as a final disposition of the tenure charges against him. Both the Board and respondent have at all times been represented by more than competent counsel.

4. It is in the public interest that the settlement be approved. Respondent voluntarily agrees to teach as a teacher on special assignment during his last year of active service prior to retirement. So long as respondent is assigned duties within the scope of his teaching certificate and/or endorsements, it is in the interest of the public to have respondent so assigned as opposed to continuing with the tenure hearing. It is also in the public interest that respondent tender his retirement effective June 30, 2001 because between now and that date the Board shall receive value for payments of salary made him. Finally, it is in the public interest that the settlement be approved because all monies to be paid respondent will be for services rendered and consistent with the teachers' salary policy; there is no gift of public funds in this agreement. Respondent has had his pay resumed following the 120 day period of suspension without pay. It is in the public interest to have respondent perform service for the pay he is receiving.

CONCLUSION

For all the foregoing reasons, I FIND the proposed settlement agreement to be a fair disposition of the tenure charges brought against respondent in that the agreement with the standards announced in In re Cardonick, supra. I recommend the Commissioner of Education approve the settlement agreement as a fair and final disposition of the tenure charges certified by the Irvington School District Board of Education against George Montgomery.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS GEORGE MONTGOMERY and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,("THE BOARD") having amicably agreed to resolve their differences, and hereby stipulate and agree that the matter entitled IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION vs. GEORGE MONTGOMERY, under docket number EDU-07082-98N, Agency Ref. No. 164-6/98, shall be settled upon the terms and conditions stated herein;

WHEREAS, the Board Members of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, having the authority to act on behalf of the Board of Education, have agreed after due consideration to settle all claims related to the employment of GEORGE MONTGOMERY in connection with his duties and responsibilities as a teaching staff member and the decision to prefer tenure charges against GEORGE MONTGOMERY pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and GEORGE MONTGOMERY having determined that it would be in the best interests of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and GEORGE MONTGOMERY to enter into such settlement.

WHEREAS the aforesaid settlement is subject to the aforesaid conditions set forth below;

NOW THEREFORE the parties mutually covenant and agree as follows:

1. GEORGE MONTGOMERY was hired as a teaching staff member of the Irvington Board of Education, on or about September 1, 1979.

2. On April 28, 1998, the Board of Education preferred Tenure Charges against GEORGE MONTGOMERY pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

3. The IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and GEORGE MONTGOMERY, through discussions between their respective counsel determined that it would be most beneficial to the parties involved to enter into the within agreement. Moreover, in furtherance of the within Settlement Agreement both parties agree that there were no findings made with respect to the proposed charges.

4. In furtherance of the within settlement, it is agreed by and between GEORGE MONTGOMERY and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, that GEORGE MONTGOMERY shall retire effective June 30, 2001. To that end, GEORGE MONTGOMERY shall tender his letter of retirement on February 18, 2000, which same shall be voted upon and accepted by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION at its March 2000, meeting. Said tendering and acceptance by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION shall be contingent upon the Commissioner of Education's acceptance of the terms and conditions of the within agreement.

5. GEORGE MONTGOMERY shall continue to provide services to the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION as a "Teacher on Special Assignment", under the terms and conditions of his certification during the term of the within agreement as requested or assigned by the current Superintendent of Schools or his designee.

6. GEORGE MONTGOMERY shall continue to receive salary benefits in accordance with the within agreement through the date of his retirement of June 30, 2001. It is further agreed and acknowledged as of the execution of the within agreement that GEORGE MONTGOMERY's salary, for purposes of performing the job responsibilities of "Teacher on Special Assignment", shall be $85,294.00, for the academic year ending June 30, 2000 and $87,852.00, for the academic year ending June 30, 2001, all such salary predicated upon an eleven (11) month teaching schedule. GEORGE MONTGOMERY will also be paid all salary increments he would have received. In addition, GEORGE MONTGOMERY shall be covered by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION's health plan for teaching staff members during the period covered by the within agreement. GEORGE MONTGOMERY'S salary has been calculated in accordance with the teacher's salary guide which is currently in existence at the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION. As indicated above the salary is predicated upon an eleven (11) month teaching schedule.

7. THE BOARD, after fully considering this matter, has concluded that it is in the best interests of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION to settle the within matter involving GEORGE MONTGOMERY in view of the fact that the Superintendent of Schools who brought the within action, namely, Peter Carter is no longer employed as Superintendent of the Irvington School District, in addition to the fact that there is a potential for the further escalation of substantial legal and administrative costs, personal time and that the parties' interest would be better served in resolving this matter through the within settlement which resolves all issues involving the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION and GEORGE MONTGOMERY which are currently in dispute.

8. The within settlement agreement shall satisfy in full the matter entitled; IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION vs. GEORGE MONTGOMERY, under docket number EDU-07082-98N, Agency Ref. No. 164-6/98 and any other claims or demands which IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION now has or may have against GEORGE MONTGOMERY and that GEORGE MONTGOMERY now has or may have against the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, up to and including the date of this Settlement in addition to anything which occurs after the agreement is executed by the parties. Disputes concerning the within agreement shall be determined by a court of competent jurisdiction. Upon execution of the within agreement all matters involving GEORGE MONTGOMERY and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION shall be withdrawn with prejudice including all matters currently pending in the Office of Administrative Law and the New Jersey Appellate Division, which said matters involve an increment withholding, which have been resolved in the within agreement. It shall be noted that those matters which are currently pending in the New Jersey Appellate Division shall be adjourned pending acceptance of the terms of the within agreement by the Commissioner of Education and that in the event said agreement is accepted, that matter shall be withdrawn with prejudice as well.

9. GEORGE MONTGOMERY agrees not to participate in or attend any board of education meetings, from the date of the execution of the within agreement and beyond unless directed by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, the Superintendent of Schools or his designee.

10. GEORGE MONTGOMERY agrees to honor all duties and assignments as directed in good faith by the Superintendent of Schools in accordance with paragraph five (5) above.

11. The parties acknowledge that the dispute between them had at times been acrimonious. While this settlement is amicable, the parties recognize that ill feelings can return if care is not taken in the implementation of this settlement agreement. Both parties recognize that GEORGE MONTGOMERY has a constitutional right of free speech but that exercise of free speech contains within it the possibility, even if it does not breach this agreement, to renew animosity between the parties. A renewal of animosity is believed to lead inevitably to failure of the agreement. As a consequence, George Montgomery agrees in good faith that he will not directly or indirectly, publish or engage in activities whether union, non-union or otherwise, or disseminate in any medium of communication any expression which casts a negative light upon the Irvington School district, the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, and any current or former board of education employee. GEORGE MONTGOMERY agrees to perform the duties consistent with a Teacher on Special Assignment as directed by the Superintendent of Schools.

12. The IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION agrees that, if upon the request of GEORGE MONTGOMERY, any third party makes an inquiry into his employment history with the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, after his retirement, that such inquiry shall be handled in a professional and courteous matter in accordance with the confidentiality provisions of this Agreement. Moreover, all inquiries if any, shall be directed solely to the Superintendent of Schools, who shall be the only employee of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION authorized to respond to such an inquiry. The IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION shall also prepare and have available for review a general letter acknowledging his employment from September 1, 1979 and through his retirement of June 30, 2001. Said letter shall also include that GEORGE MONTGOMERY was employed and retired in good standing. Both parties acknowledge that should anyone inquire about whether or not GEORGE MONTGOMERY was ever the subject of tenure charges, it will be the responsibility of the parties to acknowledge same and to advise that the matter was settled. There shall be no comment from any employee or agent of the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION which casts a negative light upon GEORGE MONTGOMERY. Any deviation of this provision by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, its employees, agents and/or servants, shall subject the board of education to penalties as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, which may include damages, plus attorneys fees and cost of suit. (It should be noted that any violation of the provisions of paragraph 9 above shall serve to render null and void the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION's obligations as indicated in the within paragraph.)

13. GEORGE MONTGOMERY agrees to execute and deliver to THE BOARD a General Release and Waiver in the form prepared by counsel for THE BOARD. GEORGE MONTGOMERY expressly acknowledges that this Agreement and the General Release are intended to extinguish all claims which he may have against the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, resulting from anything which has happened up to the date of execution of the General Release by it and which were or could have been asserted, including those claims unknown to it and claims for attorneys' fees. GEORGE MONTGOMERY hereby acknowledges that the execution of this Agreement and the General Release which accompanies it shall absolutely bar any claims, action or suit against any releasee identified in the General Release.

14. In recognition of the sensitive issues at the heart of the within tenure hearing and the possibility that the agreement may be misconstrued by both the public and the district's employees, in the absence of full knowledge of the circumstances of settlement, subject to approval of the Commissioner of Education, the parties hereto, including each member of the Board of Education and their respective attorneys agree that, except as expressly provided below, each of them will forever keep confidential the terms of this Settlement Agreement and negotiations leading thereto and the substance of discussions leading to this settlement. It is further agreed that the parties and their respective attorneys may reveal only that the matter "was concluded" or that the matter was "resolved" to the satisfaction of both parties. No other information concerning the settlement or the discussions leading to settlement may be revealed. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties hereto may discuss this settlement with their attorneys provided that they agree to be bound by this confidentiality provision.

15. It is understood that neither the execution of this Agreement nor any other action taken by the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION in connection with this settlement constitutes an admission by THE BOARD of any violation of any law, duty or obligation, or that any decision or action with respect to GEORGE MONTGOMERY was unwarranted, unjustified, retaliatory, discriminatory or otherwise unlawful. The BOARD specifically disclaims any liability to GEORGE MONTGOMERY.

16. The parties have entered into this Settlement Agreement solely to compromise the disputed claims. No findings of any kind have been made or issued by any court regarding the merits of the claims of this action and neither party purports to be the prevailing party in this action.

17. GEORGE MONTGOMERY and IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION further agree that they will not hereafter make public or disclose to any third party any part of the documents filed, except in accordance with paragraph 14 above..

18. All parties to this Agreement and their counsel participated in the negotiation and drafting of this Agreement as equals. No particular party shall be deemed to be the drafter or provider of this Agreement and the parties agree that the Agreement shall not be construed against any particular party.

19. This Agreement and the General Release referred to herein sets forth the entire agreement between GEORGE MONTGOMERY and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, and supersedes all prior agreements or understandings, if any, between the parties regarding the subject matter of this Agreement. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

20. The parties acknowledge that they have consulted with their respective attorneys regarding this Agreement and the General Release that accompany it; that the terms of this Agreement and the General Release have been explained to them and that they have represented to their attorneys that they have read this Agreement and the General Release and fully understand them and agree to be bound by them.

21. GEORGE MONTGOMERY and the IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION shall not release any claims that either may have for the enforcement of this Agreement and that both maintain all rights to enforce this agreement should there be a breach by either party.

22. The respondent has been informed and understands the Commissioner's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 (a)(1) and In re Cardonick, April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education, April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, concerning referral to the State Board of Examiners for review and possible action regarding his teaching certification. Given the parties' relevant position, it has been determined that the pursuit of tenure charges is no longer in the public interest and would result in substantial and needless expenditure of legal costs and administrative resources.

23. This Stipulation of Settlement is subject to acceptance by and approval of the Commissioner of Education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereunder have signed this agreement as their voluntarily act and agree to be bound thereby.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF GEORGE MONTGOMERY,	:
IRVINGTON SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms, as clarified herein, since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters, and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a).

Term number 6 of the Settlement Agreement indicates that the salary to be paid to respondent shall be predicated upon an eleven-month teaching schedule. The record, as it currently exists, does not contain any information which would indicate that respondent, a middle school math teacher, was previously employed on an eleven-month basis. Therefore, the Commissioner emphasizes for the record the statement of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), found on page nine of the Initial Decision, which reads in pertinent part that "all monies to be paid respondent will be for services rendered and consistent with the teachers' salary policy; there is no gift of public funds in this agreement." As such, the Commissioner cautions the Board that it must assure that respondent's duties as a "Teacher on Special Assignment" are: (1) fully commensurate with an eleven-month work schedule; and (2) that the assignments are those of a teaching staff member.

Further, settlement term 12 stipulates various conditions for disclosure of employment information regarding respondent. The Commissioner accepts term 12 with the express qualification that the District fully comply with the conditions for public disclosure of employment information as set forth in Executive Order 11.

Lastly, settlement term 14 reads as follows:

> 14. In recognition of the sensitive issues at the heart of the within tenure hearing and the possibility that the agreement may be misconstrued by the public and the district's employees, in the absence of full knowledge of the circumstances of settlement, subject to approval of the Commissioner of Education, the parties hereto, including each member of the Board of Education and their respective attorneys agree that, except as expressly provided below, each of them will forever keep confidential the terms of this Settlement Agreement and negotiations leading thereto and the substance of the discussions leading to this settlement. It is further agreed that the parties and their respective attorneys may reveal only that the matter "was concluded" or that the matter was "resolved" to the satisfaction of both parties. No other information concerning the settlement or the discussions leading to the settlement may be revealed. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties hereto may discuss this settlement with their attorneys provided that they agree to be bound by the confidentiality provision.

The Commissioner emphasizes to the parties that he is not bound by this settlement term. On March 28, 2000, the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, ruled that the filing of tenure charges and tenure charge documents are a matter of public record. See, Dr. H. Benjamin Williams v. The Board of Education of the Atlantic City Public Schools et al., 329 N.J. Super. 308 (App. Div. 2000). Moreover, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.1(a), records of all hearings shall be open for public inspection unless, for good cause shown, the ALJ orders the sealing of the record, or any part thereof. Furthermore, the Commissioner cautions the Board that any action it may take with respect to disclosure of information regarding this tenure matter must fully comport with the requirements of New Jersey's Right-To-Know Law, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq.

Accordingly, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to the parties' compliance with the terms of the settlement, as clarified herein. A copy of this decision will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HARRINGTON PARK, BERGEN COUNTY, and DR. ROBERT B. WESTFIELD, SUPERINTENDENT, RESPONDENTS-RESPONDENTS.	:	DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 13, 2000

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Michael F. Rehill, Esq.

For the Respondents-Respondents, Rand, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff (Robert M. Tosti, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the determination of the Commissioner of Education that the district board's refusal to waive its policy requiring students entering first grade to attain the age of six on or before October 1 was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. We also concur that adoption of such policy was a lawful exercise of the district board's discretionary authority.

However, we find that adoption of such policy was under authority provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 (district boards shall make rules for the government and management of the public schools), rather than N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 (no child under five shall be admitted to any public school and no board shall be required to accept by transfer any pupil not eligible by reason of age on October 1). In this respect, we stress that "...the Commissioner has construed the legislative authority conferred upon a local board of education to make and enforce rules for its own governance under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 to include policies adopted by it consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5." H.A.B. v. Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 640, 647. We therefore affirm the Commissioner's decision to dismiss the petition in this matter.

IN THE MATTER OF MARTIN AROCHO,	:
NEW BRUNSWICK BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

July 13, 2000

IN THE MATTER OF MARTIN AROCHO,	:	Before the School Ethics Commission
NEW BRUNSWICK BOARD OF EDUCATION MIDDLESEX COUNTY	:	Docket No.: C16-99
	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed by Brian Villa on August 2, 1999 alleging that New Brunswick Board of Education member Martin Arocho violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., by voting for a resolution that the Board contract with the Puerto Rican Action Board (PRAB) and by serving on the Board while being a member of the PRAB. The complainant alleged that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (d). Mr. Arocho responded in his answer that he was a never a member of the PRAB, but explained that in November 1997, he became a salaried employee of the PRAB. On January 31, 2000, the Commission found probable cause that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by voting on the contract when he was an employee of the PRAB and dismissed the charge that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(d). The Commission now finds that Mr. Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure.

The parties were invited to testify at the Commission's meeting of October 26, 1999. However, as the Commission did not have a quorum to discuss the matter, it had to reschedule for December 21, 1999. Counsel for Mr. Arocho was unavailable for the November meeting. In December, respondent appeared with counsel, along with Mr. Villa, and testified before the Commission. No decision was rendered at that meeting. The Commission's regularly scheduled meeting of January 25, 2000 was canceled due to the snowstorm that closed the offices of the State of New Jersey. Therefore, a special meeting of the Commission was held on January 31, 2000. At that time, the Commission rendered a decision finding probable cause that Mr. Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). It directed staff to prepare a determination advising that it would accept a written submission as to whether Mr. Arocho's conduct constituted a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) since the material facts were undisputed.

At the Commission's special meeting of January 31, 2000, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that Martin Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he participated voted in favor of a resolution to contract with the Puerto Rican Action Board (PRAB) when he was an employee of the PRAB. The Commission found no probable cause and dismissed the allegation that Mr. Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(d). The Commission believed that Mr. Arocho could continue to hold his employment with the PRAB and serve on the Board without prejudice to his official board duties so long as he abstained from matters concerning PRAB. The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute regarding his employment and his vote on the resolution. Therefore, it invited respondent to submit a written statement on whether respondent's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act.

The Commission received a timely submission from Mr. Arocho. Mr. Villa also submitted a written statement although he had not been requested to file one. The Commission considered it nonetheless before reaching its determination.

At its meeting of May 23, 2000, the Commission rendered this decision finding Mr. Arocho in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and recommending a penalty of censure.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The Commission finds the following facts to be undisputed.

In November 1997, the PRAB hired Mr. Arocho as a Youth Outreach Worker. As a Youth Outreach Worker, he coordinates social services and community services of the organization. The program that he coordinates is funded by the New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs through a grant to the PRAB. Mr. Arocho's employment does not involve the PRAB's pre-kindergarten services to children in the City of New Brunswick.

On July 28, 1998, the New Brunswick Board of Education considered whether the Board should enter into a contract with the PRAB to provide pre-kindergarten services to four-year old children residing within the City of New Brunswick. The PRAB had previously provided such services to the Board. Mr. Arocho voted in favor of the contract.

Mr. Hendricks, on behalf of Mr. Arocho, agreed with the above facts, but asked the Commission to also include in the undisputed facts that the Board first contracted with the PRAB to provide pre-kindergarten services to the district in July 1993, prior to Mr. Arocho's employment with the PRAB in November 1997. He added that Mr. Arocho voted in favor of the contract in 1997 when he first became a board member and he was employed by the United States Postal Service. He also adds that the July 28, 1998 resolution to provide pre-kindergarten services was a renewal contract and the vote to do so was unanimous at six to zero (with one member absent). Mr. Arocho abstained on the vote in 1999. Again the vote to renew the contract was unanimous.

Last, Mr. Hendricks notes on behalf of Mr. Arocho that the PRAB is a non-profit charitable group with a stated mission to provide social services and community outreach for the Hispanic community in New Brunswick. Mr. Arocho was hired by PRAB to work under a grant provided by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, Division of Hispanic Services. He has no involvement in the pre-kindergarten program.

The Commission finds that the facts presented by Mr. Hendricks are undisputed and hereby incorporates them into its Statement of Facts in this case.

The question before the Commission is whether Mr. Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by voting on the contract with the PRAB. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

The Commission concluded in its probable cause determination that Mr. Arocho had a financial involvement with the PRAB since he was employed by that organization. In his written submission, Mr. Arocho stresses that PRAB is a non-profit corporation and that his salary is not dependent on the contract with the Board since his salary is funded through the DCA. The Commission does not find these arguments persuasive in the context of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). Subsection c requires the Commission to inquire as to whether the public would reasonably expect that the school official could not be objective in light of his connection to the matter. The Commission finds that the public would reasonably conclude that he could not. Therefore, the Commission concludes that Mr. Arocho had an indirect financial involvement with PRAB receiving a contract with the Board that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that respondent Martin Arocho violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act.

In determining the penalty, the Commission considered that Mr. Arocho had been serving on the Board for over a year at the time of the vote, so he should have attended training for new board members, which is required to take place in the first year. However, the Commission also considered the fact that this was not a new contract, but a renewal of a contract to which the Board had been a party since 1993. Based on these factors and all of the facts and reasoning set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and Mr. Villa.

IN THE MATTER OF MARTIN AROCHO, :

NEW BRUNSWICK BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, MIDDLESEX COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) have been reviewed. Comments with respect to the Commission's recommended penalty were timely submitted by respondent, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in rendering the decision herein.[1]

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), the determination of the Commission as to violation of the Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner, and that only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act has occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the School Ethics Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the recommended penalty and its implementation.

Upon thorough review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that censure is the appropriate penalty for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision.

[1] Complainant, Brian Villa, submitted comments to the Commission's decision by letter dated June 6, 2000. However, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6C-1.1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, Mr. Villa is not a party to the within matter so as to provide him with the requisite standing to file written exceptions to the Commission's decision.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Martin Arocho be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.[2]

The parents of J.C. moved before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for an Order reversing the decision of the Board of Education (Board) to promote their daughter to the first grade. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A decision on emergent relief was issued on August 26, 1999, granting the relief requested by the parent. The Commissioner returned the matter to the OAL for a plenary hearing. The Board wrote a letter to this Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) on September 29, 1999, indicating it would not seek a plenary hearing in the matter. The parent of J.C. has never responded in writing and has failed to make herself available for telephone conferences on at least two occasions. Moreover, due to the passage of time the matter is moot.

I therefore ORDER that the Decision on Emergent Relief become the Initial Decision in this matter.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the Cardonick standard.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ROBERT BARNES DRISCOLL, BOARD OF EDUCATION) OF CAPE MAY COUNTY VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAPE MAY COUNTY.

ROBERT BARNES DRISCOLL,

vs.

PETITIONER,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CAPE MAY COUNTY VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAPE MAY COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

ADDENDUM TO THE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STIPULATION OF FACTS

On October 17, 1997 and November 26, 1997 respectively, the above-captioned consolidated docket numbers were referred to the Office of Administrative Law and assigned to the Honorable Lillard E. Law for hearings, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. Prior to the conclusion of the matter the parties entered into a "Settlement Agreement" and also a document called a "Procedural History and Stipulation of Facts". Collectively, the documents comprised 23 pages of recitals. On or about September 29, 1999 the submission of those documents closed the record and on September 30, 1999 Judge Law approved the settlement and forwarded the settlement documents and his Order Approving Settlement to the Department of Education for approval. On November 10, 1999 the Commissioner of Education issued a decision disapproving the settlement and remanding the entire matter to the Office of Administrative Law.

It is the Commissioner's decision dated November 10, 1999 and the Commissioner's concerns that are now hereby specifically addressed in this Addendum for the purpose of attempting to comply with the standards of review set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, as follows:

In the Commissioner's decision on page 5, at the next to the last sentence, the Commissioner focuses on the fact that it is still the Board's contention that they question whether the tenured employee, Robert Barnes Driscoll, "is fit to resume his teaching duties and poses no threat to his students or any other students in the District".

That statement the parties in this addendum wish to qualify by stating first that tenured employee Driscoll pled guilty to one count of attempted criminal trespass, a fourth degree crime, and subsequent thereto was examined by one of the leading psychological experts in the State of New Jersey as relates to sexually aberrant behavior, Dr. Philip Witt, Ph.D., a Diplomate in Forensic Psychology and Chief Psychologist at Avenel for several years, now in private practice with a distinguished curriculum vitae. Dr. Witt clearly opined that tenured employee Driscoll presented no risk to his students if placed back in his work environment and his written opinion was offered after extensive testing, risk assessment and interview which was further bolstered by the fact that the incident did not occur in a school setting nor had any incident occurred with tenured employee Driscoll over the 17 years that he had served in the district. Counsel for the Board requested all of Dr. Witt's reports and the report of Dr. Dougherty, which doctor was a psychologist who had treated tenured employee Driscoll subsequent to the occurrence of the incident. All of those reports were then submitted to an independent psychological expert hired by the Board, specifically Timothy P. Foley, Ph.D., Director of Criminal and Forensic Services at the Joseph J. Peters Institute. Dr. Foley issued a report to the Board advising that he found that the tests administered by Dr. Witt were adequate, that Dr. Foley did corroborate the findings of Dr. Witt, and did not recommend any further testing, therefore, confirming the fact that tenured employee Driscoll, if returned to the workplace, presented no risk to his students as relates to the conduct evidenced in the incident leading to his guilty plea of attempted fourth degree criminal trespass.

Therefore, when the original Procedural History and Stipulation of Facts states that Driscoll contends that he "is fit to resume his teaching duties and poses no threat to his students or any other students in the District", and the Board rejects that contention as the Commissioner points out and focuses upon in his November 10, 1999 opinion. It is requested that the Commissioner read those contentions as initial contentions and realize that any individual layman's contention, even if collective, would be superseded by the three expert opinions which the Administrative Law Judge would be forced to give greater weight if the matter was brought to trial. It is requested that the Commissioner understand that while the Board's original contention may have been and may still be, as individuals or collectively, that there is a question of fitness, their opinion must be superseded by the opinions of the experts, including the expert hired by them, who unanimously agree that Driscoll is fit to teach.

Secondly, the Commissioner, on page 6 of his typed opinion states that "there is no indication in the record that Respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6", to refer tenure determinations for possible revocation of certificate to the State Board of Examiners for independent review. While it should be noted with all due respect to the Commissioner, that the records sent for his review did not include the extensive in court recorded record before the Administrative Law Judge with counsel for the Board, tenured employee Driscoll and his counsel, in attendance. Both attorneys by signing this statement will swear, as I am sure will Judge Law, that tenured employee Driscoll was advised of the independent review by the Commissioner and in turn of the then next and de novo independent review by the State Board of Examiners. This review was more than once related to tenured employee Driscoll and he acknowledged under oath that he understood that both of those reviews were independent. If His Honor the Commissioner would request and require something other than this representation, I am sure a transcript could be obtained whereby these representations could be confirmed.

CONCLUSION

The Board's probability of sustaining the position that tenured employee Driscoll is not fit to return to the classroom is highly unlikely in light of the facts in this case and the reports of three experts who have examined Driscoll. The probability that tenured employee Driscoll is fit to return to the classroom is highly probable and, therefore, the Board's early contentions against fitness could not prevail.

Secondly, the record will reflect that tenured employee Driscoll was clearly advised that there would be an independent review by the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Examiners.

For all of the above reasons it is requested that the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner of Education, and the State Board of Examiners review and approve this settlement agreement and its accompanying Procedural History and Stipulation of Facts in light of In re Cardonick, as well as all the other tenure hearing matters cited by the Commissioner.

Respectfully submitted.

ROBERT BARNES DRISCOLL, PETITIONER, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CAPE MAY COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAPE MAY COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	DECISION ON REMAND

The Settlement Agreement, Procedural History and Stipulation of Facts (see attached), Addendum to same, and Initial Decision On Remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 in this consolidated matter have been reviewed.

Upon review of the Addendum to the settlement agreement, which was remanded by the Commissioner to the OAL on November 10, 1999 for reconsideration and revision, as necessary, the Commissioner hereby approves the settlement terms as set forth in the two documents in their entirety, since they now comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990

Petitioner sought to compel respondent to provide his niece a free public education.

Petitioner failed to appear at the hearing of the matter and the ALJ, after hearing testimony of respondent's witness and considering the evidence presented, and having provided petitioner an opportunity to explain his failure to appear at the hearing, concluded that petitioner's niece was not entitled to a free education from respondent.

The Commissioner adopted as his own the recommendation of the ALJ dismissing the petition for the reasons set forth therein, and ordered that petitioner remit $6,552.54 to the Board for tuition during the period of his niece's ineligible attendance at respondent's schools.

Record Closed: May 10, 2000 Decided: May 26, 2000

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On October 20, 1999, petitioner, G.M., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (Board), to provide his niece, B.S.G., with a free public education in the Township schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On December 3, 1999, the Board filed its answer to the petition and on December 28, 1999, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on May 9, 2000 at 9:00 a.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. A Notice of Plenary Hearing was mailed to each of the parties on January 24, 2000. On the scheduled hearing date, no one appeared for the petitioner. To date, the petitioner has made no contact with the Office of Administrative Law to explain the failure to appear.

Evidence was taken from respondent's witness on the record, and the record closed on May 10, 2000 after the petitioner was given the required 24 hours to come forward with an explanation.

Josefa Lopez, the registrar for the District, is responsible for all new enrollments. She testified as the witness on behalf of the Board.

On September 23, 1999, G.M. completed an Affidavit for Non-Resident Pupil Enrollment (Affidavit), to enroll his niece, B.S.G., in the eleventh grade at West Orange High School. The affidavit stated that he was the sole support of his niece who came to live with him because her parents were unable to support her in Haiti, her native land. An affidavit, allegedly from the child's mother, J.M.S.G., was completed in New Jersey on the same date. She stated that she could not support her daughter in Haiti and, therefore, B.S.G. had been sent to live with her uncle in West Orange.

The New Student Registration Information form (form), prepared at the time of enrollment, shows that B.S.G. did not come directly from Haiti to live with her uncle. She entered the United States in Orlando, Florida, and attended Jones High School there for a few years. Other information provided on the form shows that her mother and father own their own business(es) in Haiti but no additional information was given.

Based upon the total lack of information as to B.S.G.'s parents' business(es) and income(s), the Board denied her a free public education in the district on October 26, 1999. She has been attending school there during the course of this appeal.

Lopez calculated the tuition owed by G.M. based upon B.S.G.'s attendance in the district for 118 school days from November 1, 1999. The per diem rate charged is $55.53. This is the daily rate spent on each pupil in the district in grades nine through twelve. I FIND that the total calculated tuition due from G.M. is therefore $6,552.54 (118 x $55.53).

N.J.S.A. 18A38-1(b)(1) provides that a child, living in the home of another person who is domiciled in the school district, must, among other things, be kept and supported gratis by that person for a period longer than the school term. The sworn statement of the resident attesting to these conditions must be accompanied by the sworn statement of the child's parent or guardian that he or she is not capable of supporting the child due to a family or economic hardship. If the district denies the claim of entitlement to a free public education, the burden is on the resident to prove entitlement by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

If the resident fails to carry the burden of proof, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides that the district can remove the child from school and assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the period of ineligible attendance in district schools. Further, if the resident fails to appeal the Board's determination or, as in this case, abandons the appeal, the Board is entitled to remove the student and seek tuition for the period of ineligible attendance as though an appeal had never been filed. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1(d)1.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that G.M. has failed to prove that B.S.G. is entitled to a free public education in the Township of West Orange or, in the alternative, I CONCLUDE that G.M. has abandoned his appeal and the Board is entitled to relief according to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1(d).

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that respondent assess tuition against G.M. in the amount of $6,552.54 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured clerk of respondent Board, along with her union, appealed the withholding of her increment for the 1997-98 school year.

After an Initial Decision was issued, the Commissioner remanded this matter to OAL for briefing and argument on the issue of jurisdiction, and for additional fact-finding, as necessary upon the exploration of such jurisdictional issues, in order to resolve this matter. The ALJ concluded that there is no statutory authority for the Commissioner to act on the increment withholding of non-teachers. Thus, the OAL has no jurisdiction over this matter. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner affirmed the opinion of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein.

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDUARL HISTORY

The Commissioner of Education remanded the Initial Decision in this case for briefing on the issue of jurisdiction and any additional fact finding as may be necessary to explore the jurisdictional issues. Petitioners argued that the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) has jurisdiction and respondent argued the opposite.

Eileen Wende, a tenured clerk of the Board of Education of the Township of Bergen (Board) appealed the withholding of her increment on June 27, 1997, by the Board. Petitioner filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner on August 6, 1997 and the Board filed an answer on October 3, 1997. On October 21, 1997, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the OAL for a hearing on the issue of the withholding of the increment. The OAL held a hearing on September 16, 1998, February 22, March 24 and June 8, 1999. On September 8, 1999, the undersigned issued a written opinion ordering the decision of the Board denying an increment to the petitioner be reversed. On October 28, 1999, the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter questioning whether the OAL had jurisdiction to hear the issue because Ms. Wende is not a teacher but rather is a clerk. Since the jurisdictional issue was not raised at the OAL, the Commissioner remanded the matter for briefing and argument on the issue of jurisdiction, and for additional fact findings as may be necessary to explore the jurisdictional issues.

In a conference with the parties, it was agreed that no additional fact findings was necessary and a briefing schedule was set out. The final brief was filed on April 7, 2000.

FACTS

The material fact necessary to decide this decision is undisputed in that Eileen Wende is a tenured clerk and not a member of the teaching staff. Moreover, she is not required to hold a teaching license and does not hold a teaching license.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Teaching staff members have a right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education when they have had an increment withheld by their respective local Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-1 to –14 addresses compensation of teaching staff members and each section must be read in pari materia with each other section. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 applies only to those person required to be licensed to hold a teaching position. Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Neptune v. Neptune Tp. Ed. Assn., 144 N.J. 16, 34 (1996). Non-teaching staff may have some rights to binding arbitration depending on the nature of the increment withholding as determined by Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC). N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 to 29. See Randolph Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Randolph Educ. Assn. 306, N.J. Super. 207 (App. Div. 1997). It is undisputed that petitioner is not a member of the teaching staff. Thus, petitioner has no right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education from an increment withholding. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the OAL has no jurisdiction in this matter.

Petitioner argued that fundamental fairness as well as economy of governmental efforts should prevent petitioner from having to retry her claim in another public forum, if one is available to her. However, where, as here, there is no statutory authority for the Commissioner to act on the increment withholding of non-teachers, there is no alternative but to dismiss the matter.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that this matter be DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ABSECON, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

M.L.G. AND L.G.-P., on behalf of minor child, B.G.,

RESPONDENTS.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Petitioning Board sought a determination that it is not responsible to provide B.G. a free public education pursuant to law and reimbursement from respondents of tuition paid on B.G.'s behalf to the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School.

The ALJ concluded that respondents failed to demonstrate that B.G. was a bona fide resident of Absecon and thus entitled to a free public education from the District. The ALJ further concluded that M.L.G.'s securing of an order of custody of B.G. was solely for the purpose of establishing residency in Absecon in order to entitle B.G. to a free education from the District. As such, the ALJ concluded that B.G. is not domiciled in the Absecon School District and, thus, not entitled to a free education from the District. In addition, the ALJ ordered that respondents reimburse petitioner tuition paid to the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School on behalf of B.G.

The Commissioner reversed the decision of the ALJ. The Commissioner concluded that an analysis pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) was inappropriate once it was determined that M.L.G. had legal custody of B.G. Consistent with decisional law, the Commissioner further held that the motives of respondents in obtaining an order transferring custody of B.G. to M.L.G. are not subject to inquiry, and, absent a showing of fraud or other exceptional circumstances, B.G., pursuant to the order awarding custody to M.L.G., is domiciled in Absecon and entitled to a free public education from the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Finally, the Commissioner determined that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement of tuition.

Record Closed: March 15, 2000 Decided: April 18, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of the City of Absecon (Board) alleges that pupil, B.G., is not a resident of its school district and, therefore, is ineligible to attend or enroll in its schools free of charge. The Board requests that the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) declare pupil B.G. to be ineligible to attend its schools and seeks an order requiring the parent to pay tuition for the period B.G. has attended its schools while a non-resident.

Respondents submitted its Answer to the Board's claims and filed a Cross-Petition with the Commissioner asserting, among other things, that B.G. is a bona fide resident of the Board's school district. Respondents seek the dismissal of the Board's Petition of Appeal.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was heard on March 15, 2000, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on March 15, 2000.

ISSUE

The sole issue for determination by this administrative tribunal is whether petitioner is legally domiciled within the Board's school district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

BURDEN OF PROOF

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. (1), the burden of proof lies with respondents under the preponderance of the evidence standard.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony and other evidence adduced at the hearing and having given fair weight thereto, and having assessed the credibility of the witness, I FIND the following FACTS.

L.G.-P., mother of minor child, B.G., testified that prior to December 1997, she and B.G. resided in the City of Pleasantville, Atlantic County, New Jersey. B.G. was enrolled and attended the schools under the direction and control of the Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville. In or about December 1997, L.G.-P. left her residence in Pleasantville and moved with B.G. to Absecon where they lived with M.L.G., L.G.-P.'s aunt. While living in Absecon, B.G. continued to attend the Pleasantville Public Schools through June 1998. There is nothing on the herein hearing record to demonstrate that respondent advised the Pleasantville Board of Education of B.G.'s change of residence beginning in or about December 1997.

L.G.-P. testified that in or about March 1998, she left Absecon for Virginia to attend graduate school. She did not reveal which graduate school she was to attend or what program she was to be enrolled. She asserted that she did not have employment and that she was to live with someone in Virginia. She stated that she was unemployed while in Virginia for a period of time of two or three months and did not have enough money to care for B.G.

Subsequently, B.G. enrolled in the R.E.A.C.H. Charter High School as an Absecon Board pupil on October 7, 1999, B.G.'s mother completed an Absecon Board Affidavit of Non-resident Parents Who Have Surrendered Custody of their Child to a Resident of the District (Affidavit). Therein L.G.-P. asserted that on October 7, 1999, she gave custody of B.G. to M.L.G., B.G.'s great-aunt. In response to Question 5, which asks,

> I/We am/are not capable of supporting or providing care for said child for the following reasons. (P-2)

Respondent answered "N/A (not applicable). L.G.-P. testified she did not answer Question 5 of the Affidavit because she did not believe the information was any of the Board's business.

The record shows that L.G.-P. is employed by the City of Norfolk, Virginia.

Tina Davisson, Absecon Board's Administrator/Board Secretary testified, among other things, that she is responsible for reviewing pupil residence cases. The Registration Form for B.G. for the 1999-2000 school year was brought to her attention where it listed the Pleasantville Schools as the last school attended by B.G. (P-1). Ms. Davisson testified, credibly, that she subsequently met with respondent M.L.G., who identified herself as B.G.'s great-aunt. M.L.G. stated to Ms. Davisson that B.G.'s mother had moved to Virginia and left B.G. in M.L.G.'s care. Ms. Davisson explained the school residence requirements to M.L.G.

On October 7, 1999, B.G.'s mother had signed the Affidavit where she testified that she believed that it was not any business of the Board's as to whether or not she was capable of supporting or providing for B.G. (P-2) Thereafter, on October 12, 1999, M.L.G. signed a sworn statement that she was the owner of the property, where B.G. resided and that B.G. had resided there since May 29, 1993 (P-3).

I FIND M.L.G.'s sworn statement in P-3 to be incredible in view of B.G.'s mother's testimony that she and B.G. lived in the City of Pleasantville, New Jersey, until December 1997. M.L.G.'s sworn statement asserts that B.G. had lived with M.L.G. since May 29, 1993. L. G.-P.'s sworn testimony contradicts M.L.G.'s sworn statement and, under the circumstances of this matter, L.G.-P.'s sworn statement is to be believed and M.L.G.'s sworn statement is not to be believed.

M.L.G. did acknowledge, in P-3, that she understood, among other things, that she would be responsible for B.G.'s tuition in the event B.G. was found not to be domiciled within the Board's school district.

Ms. Davisson testified, credibly, that a subsequent meeting was held in or about November 1999, with M.L.G., the Board's Superintendent of Schools, the Board Secretary and the Board's attorney. M.L.G. was asked about the employment status of B.G.'s mother and M.L.G. advised the gathering that B.G.'s mother was employed by the City of Norfolk, Virginia.

M.L.G. was then asked if B.G.'s presence in M.L.G.'s home presented a hardship and M.L G. stated, "no," there was no financial hardship. M.L.G. stated that B.G. remained with M.L.G. as a matter of choice rather than move with his mother to Virginia. B.G.'s friends lived in Pleasantville. The Superintendent of Schools, Ralph P. Ferrie, who attended the meeting in November 1999 with M.L.G. credibly corroborated Ms. Davisson's testimony.

M.L.G. testified on her own behalf and on behalf of B.G. and his mother L.G.-P. She challenged the Board's Secretary's assertion that there was no financial hardship to L.G.-P. M.L.G. admitted that no financial hardship was present when B.G.'s mother was employed. However, she stated that prior to L.G.-P.'s employment, a financial hardship did exist. M.L.G. asserted that B.G.'s mother could not provide for B.G. prior to her employment, therefore, M.L.G. assumed responsibility for B.G.

M.L.G. testified, among other things, that L.G.-P. answered Question Number 5 on the Affidavit with an "N/A" out of ignorance. M.L.G. stated that L.G.-P. did not understand the importance of the question or her answer.

M.L.G. testified that she contacted an attorney who gave her advice as to how to complete the necessary legal papers for M.L.G. to assume custody of B.G. M.L.G. asserts she now has legal custody of B.G., therefore, neither she nor L.G.-P. should be required to pay any tuition since B.G. is now a legal resident of Absecon. L.G.-P.s. testimony was similar to M.L.G.'s testimony.

CONCLUSION

The Board contends that B.G.'s legal custody is not dispositive of the issue to be determined by this tribunal. B.G.'s legal custody is a fact, however, the Board argues, it is not relevant to the test, as set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1). The Board contends that B.G. does not meet that part of the statutory test which states, in part, that B.G.'s mother ". . . is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district . . . " N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.(1).

The facts of this matter shows, by L.G.-P.'s own admission, that she was unemployed for a period of two to three months. Thereafter, she was gainfully employed on a full-time basis with the City of Norfolk, Virginia. Respondents can not demonstrate any economic or financial hardship. In addition, the proofs herein shows that B.G. did not join his mother in the move to the Commonwealth of Virginia because his friends are in New Jersey, not Virginia.

I CONCLUDE that respondents have failed to carry their burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that B.G. was a bona fide resident of the Board's school district. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the testimony of M.L.G. and L.G.-P., asserting economic and financial hardship to be without merit. As the Court said in the matter of Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958), "A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony."

I FIND and CONCLUDE that respondents have failed to demonstrate any financial or economic hardship. Rather, the proofs show that B.G. preferred to remain in New Jersey instead of moving to Virginia with his mother because B.G.'s friends lived in Pleasantville, New Jersey. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the transfer of custody from his natural parent, L.G.-P., to his great-aunt, M.L.G. was done solely for the purpose of establishing B.G.'s residency within the Board's jurisdiction in order for B.G. to attend the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School at the Board's expense.

In the matter of M.A.M. as Parent and Natural Guardian of M.M. v. Board of Education of the Black Horse Pike Regional School District, Camden County, 1974 S.L.D. 845, the Commissioner addressed and distinguished "residence" and "domicile" by quoting from State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238 (1955), where it was said:

> * It is everywhere conceded that a person can have only one true domicile, which is synonymous with the common understanding of the word "home," Stout v. Leonard, 37 N.J.l. 492

> (E & A 1874; Cromwell v. Neeld, 15 N.J. Super. 296 (App. Div. 1951).

> Residence, on the other hand, though parallel in many respects to domicile, is something quite different in that the elements of permanency, continuity and kinship with the physical, cultural, social and political attributes which inhere in a 'home' according to our accepted understanding, are missing. Intention adequately manifested is the catalyst which converts a residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. * 1974 S.L.D. at 849.

There is no question that B.G. has established his "residence" with M.L.G. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1) requires that B.G. to be domiciled within the Board's school district. M.L.G. has failed to demonstrate that her home is the one and only domicile of B.G..

I CONCLUDE, that B.G. is not domiciled within the Board's school district and, therefore, is ineligible for "receiving a free public education within the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1).

I CONCLUDE further that M.L.G. and/or L.G.-P. is/are liable for the tuition of B.G.'s attendance at the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School which is calculated to be $6,589 per year, in ten equal monthly installments.

I CONCLUDE that respondents Cross-Petition is without merit and should be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that respondent, B.G. be DECLARED a non-resident pupil under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1). It is FURTHER ORDERED that B.G. through his great-aunt, M.L.G. and/or his mother, L.G.-P., be required to pay the tuition for his attendance at the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School under payment by the Board for the 1999-2000 year, in the amount of $658.90 per month for each month B.G. has attended the school.

It is ORDERED that respondents' Cross-Petition is hereby DISMISSED for the reasons expressed above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ABSECON, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
M.L.G. AND L.G.-P., on behalf of minor child, B.G.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. It is noted that on May 4, 2000, after issuance of the Initial Decision, a letter was received from Ellen M. Boylan, Esq. (Education Law Center), indicating that she was now representing respondents who had, until that point, proceeded pro se in this matter. Respondents' counsel requested an extension of time to file exceptions because she needed to obtain and review the transcripts of the matter. An extension was granted for the filing of exceptions to May 30, 2000. This resulted in the need for the Commissioner to obtain an extension of time from the OAL until July 20, 2000 for issuance of the final decision. Because of a delay in obtaining the transcripts, respondents' counsel requested and was granted a second extension for the filing of exceptions until June 12, 2000. Exceptions were timely filed on that date. Petitioner's reply exceptions were also timely filed.

In their exceptions, respondents argue that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in not finding that B.G. is domiciled in Absecon, as it is undisputed that he resides with M.L.G. in Absecon and she obtained legal custody of him on December 2, 1999. Further, respondents argue that the ALJ failed to consider the equities in this matter and the Board's obligation to provide M.L.G. with written notice specifying the reasons for denying admission to B.G. Moreover, it is respondents' position that the ALJ miscalculated the amount of tuition owed by respondents for B.G.'s attendance at the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School.

More specifically, respondents aver that the ALJ's failure to establish Absecon as B.G.'s domicile in the Absecon School District is plainly erroneous and contrary to established case law, arguing, inter alia, that it is undisputed B.G. has resided with M.L.G. in Absecon since March 1997 (Tr. 3/15/00, at 16 and 32; Initial Decision at 7), and that M.L.G. applied for legal custody of B.G. in November 1999, which the court granted on December 2, 1999. As to this, respondents argue that it is well-established that, once legal guardianship is established, the only inquiry for a board of education is whether the guardian and child are domiciled in the school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and cite in support thereof Y.L., on behalf of M.A. v. Board of Education of South Orange-Maplewood, Number 658-97, decided by the Commissioner of Education December 24, 1997; L.A. v. Board of Education of the Town of West Orange, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 266 (1996), aff'd by the State Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554 (1997); and V.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Quinton, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 124, aff'd by the State Board of Education 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d 554 (1997).

Respondents further urge that the instant matter is wholly unrelated to the criteria for establishing affidavit student status pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), urging that since the domicile of the child follows the parent or guardian having legal control over him or her, B.G.'s domicile became Absecon once M.L.G. obtained legal custody of him. Respondents state:

> The ALJ accords no legal effect to the custody order, finding instead that custody was transferred to M.L.G. "solely for the purpose of establishing B.G.'s residency within the Board's jurisdiction." Initial Decision at p. 6. However, the Commissioner > has explicitly rejected the appropriateness of inquiring into the district resident's motives for establishing custody of a student. [Y.L., supra at 12.] Absent a showing of fraud on the part of the district resident, [V.H., supra] at 125, and where it does not appear that the custody order is a temporary one, the custody order must be accepted on its face. [L.A., supra] at 269. (Respondents' Exceptions at 3)

Respondents further aver that the instant matter is distinguishable from case law dealing with the issue of a resident's legal custody of a student and eligibility to attend school free of charge under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; See e.g., Cranford Township Board of Education v. A.McG. et al., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 74 (1994) (wherein the Commissioner upheld the denial of admission because evidence established that the resident obtained a custody order solely to gain school admission for children who actually resided with their mother in another town); R.N. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddon Heights, Number 161-98, Agency Docket No. 14-1/97, decided April 24, 1998 (wherein the Commissioner upheld the denial of admission even though the district resident had legal guardianship because there was no evidence that the child lived with the resident). Whereas, in the current matter, " there is no evidence of fraud. In fact, the Board concedes that M.L.G. and B.G. reside in Absecon and that B.G.'s mother, L. G-P., resides in Virginia. Petition, ¶ 2; T16-12." (Id. at 4) Respondents, therefore, argue that since M.L.G. has had legal control over B.G. since December 2, 1999, he has been domiciled in Absecon since that date and is entitled to attend the Board's schools under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

Respondents further argue that it would be inequitable to hold M.L.G. liable for payment of any tuition under the facts of this case for the period between October 13, 1999, when M.L.G. attempted to enroll B.G. in the Absecon schools, and December 2, 1999, when the custody order was entered. Of this, they aver that the evidence established that M.L.G. simply did not understand the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; i.e., that in order to enroll a child in school, the district resident must establish either legal control over the child, or the elements of affidavit student status. Respondents aver that as soon as M.L.G. understood that she had to obtain legal custody of B.G. to establish his domicile, she did so. Of this, respondents urge that:

> Under these circumstances, where there is no allegation that the child lives with the district resident solely to obtain an education in the district's schools; where the resident acted as the sole custodian and de facto guardian of the child for 21 months prior to obtaining legal custody; and where the resident obtained custody as soon as she understood the requirements of the school residency statute, it would be unfair and contrary to the purpose of the school residency statute to assess tuition against M.L.G. Indeed, a reading of the residency statute which fails to recognize the educational entitlement of students such as B.G., who are living in nontraditional families and may not fit as neatly as either domiciled students or affidavit students, conflicts with the student's fundamental right to a public education under the Education Clause of the New Jersey Constitution. (Respondents' Exceptions at 5)

Moreover, it is respondents' contention that, in this case, assessment of tuition would be particularly inequitable in light of the Board's failure to meet its obligation to explain to M.L.G. the basis for the denial of admission, including the obligation to provide written notice of the reasons for denial, citing in support thereof, J.A. v. Board of Education of South Orange-Maplewood, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (App. Div. 1999). As such, respondents urge that, without knowledge of the reasons for denial, M.L.G. had no opportunity to cure the deficiencies in the application. They also assert that the Board did not make an effort to assist M.L.G. with B.G.'s application for admission.

Lastly, respondents maintain that the Board failed to meet its burden of establishing an accurate accounting of tuition. Initially, respondents assert that, while there is no dispute B.G. attended R.E.A.C.H. Charter School in September, October and November, 1999, the Board admits that "[d]uring the initial weeks of school [for the 1999-2000 school year] B.G. remained registered as a Pleasantville student " Petition ¶ 5. Thus, respondents argue that Pleasantville apparently paid B.G.'s tuition at the R.E.A.C.H. Charter School for at least part of the school year, yet the Board provided no evidence of when Pleasantville stopped paying and it assumed responsibility for B.G.'s tuition. Respondents further assert that, while the Board Business Administrator testified that the State paid only .5 percent of B.G.'s tuition at R.E.A.C.H. for the 1999-2000 school year, the Board in fact received $1,133 in State aid for every student enrolled in the district.

In reply, the Board urges, inter alia, that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 clearly prohibits free attendance at school where the evidence demonstrates that the child's presence is solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district, and asserts that:

> [t]he evidence in the record shows that the purported "custody" order was obtained by M.L.G. only long after commencement of the legal proceedings. Prior to that time, she had indicated only that B.G. did not want to leave the area when his mother moved away. No more, no less. The "custody" order in question is an obvious "over-the-counter" document obtained by M.L.G. and her niece (B.G.'s mother) "solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district", as was obvious to the [ALJ]. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1-2)

In support of this contention, the Board points to the testimony of its Business Administrator that M.L.G.'s explanation as to why B.G. remained in Absecon when his mother moved to Virginia was that "'B. was just staying out of choice because he had all of his friends locally at the Pleasantville High School, so now he wanted to stay with his friends and was living at Mrs. G."s [sic] so he could continue school with the same group of friends [Tr. at 12].'" (Id. at 2) The Board goes on to state that "[t]he solution pursued for B.G. was to enroll in the local charter school at the expense of the Absecon school district. The only 'hardship' in this case is B.G.'s desire to attend school locally." (Ibid.)

As to respondent's exceptions regarding Absecon's failure to inform and/or assist M.L.G. with B.G.'s application, the Board urges that counsel for M.L.G. is attempting to enter facts into the record which were not pled prior to hearing or elicited in the testimony at the time of hearing, nor were they argued at the hearing. The Board further asserts that respondents' argument about "notice of reason" is refuted by the testimony of both its Superintendent and Business Administrator and that "the self-serving 'custody' order presented at trial makes it clear that M.L.G. was fully aware of the reasons why school admission was denied and tuition sought. Due process does not operate in a vacuum. M.L.G. was obviously aware of the problems. Why else would they attempt to cover their trail with the custody order?" (Ibid.)

Lastly, the Board urges that the tuition calculation made by its Business Administrator is proper.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the Initial Decision of the ALJ, as set forth herein. Initially, the Commissioner finds that as of December 2, 1999, when M.L.G. was granted legal custody of B.G., he was entitled to attend the Absecon schools free of charge pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). As was determined by the Commissioner and affirmed by the State Board of Education in L.A., supra, and V.H., supra, as of the date that a resident of a district takes legal control of a child, entitlement to attend school free of charge is no longer to be examined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b); the "affidavit student" provision.

Thus, in the instant matter, once M.L.G. assumed legal and physical custody of B.G., the only appropriate inquiry for the Board was whether M.L.G. and B.G. were domiciled in the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Inasmuch as the Board does not dispute that M.L.G. is domiciled in Absecon, and the domicile of the child follows that of the parent or guardian having legal custody over him or her, Mansfield Twp. BOE v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 479-480 (Sup. Ct. 1925), it is hereby found and determined that B.G. is entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) as of the date M.L.G. acquired legal custody of him. See also Y.L., supra. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that there is no claim of fraud on the part of petitioner. See, L.A., supra; V.H., supra; and Y.L., supra. Further, as was stated in L.A., and affirmed by the State Board, "the motives pertinent to the custody order are not determinative. The order must be accepted on its face." L.A., supra, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 269. See also Y.L., supra. Moreover, unlike the circumstances found in Cranford, supra, there is no claim that B.G. is not residing with M.L.G.

Further, the Commissioner finds and determines that, in light of the circumstances particular to this matter, an order for tuition from October 13, 1999, when M.L.G. sought to enroll B.G. in the Absecon school district, to December 2, 1999, the date upon which she acquired legal custody, is not warranted.[1]

Accordingly, for the reasons stated herein, the Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

WHEREAS, White challenges the basis for the District's action in withholding White's increments for the 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 school years; and

WHEREAS, the District has served White with a 90-day tenure charge notice for inefficiency; and White acknowledges that the payments reflected in this Agreement constitute the full financial obligation of the District with regard to her 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 increment withholdings and any appeal therefrom. White acknowledges that she shall receive no additional payments. In exchange for the above consideration, White, on behalf of herself, her heirs, successors, and assigns, hereby fully releases and forever discharges the District, its representatives, agents, officers and employees, for any and all actions, claims and liabilities arising from the withholding of her increments as set forth in OAL Docker No. EDUOR-11499-

WITNESSETH

WHEREAS, on or about 1-5, 1999, the South River Board filed a Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education disputing the determination of the Department that the South River Board was responsible for the 1998-1999 tuition costs for Michael Koehlepp, a student who was incarcerated on October 15, 1998; and

WHEREAS, the Petition alleged that the South Amboy Board was the responsible board; and

WHEREAS, by correspondence dated July 8, 1999, the Department notified the South River Board that the South Amboy Board was an indispensable party to this matter and therefore needed to be named as a respondent; and

WHEREAS, on or about July 21, 1999, the South River Board filed an Amended Petition naming the South Amboy Board as a respondent; and

3. The Department will reimburse the South River Board in the amount of $14,780.00 as repayment for the tuition costs previously deducted in error from the South River Board's State Aid for payment of Michael Koehlepp's tuition costs for the 1998-1999 school year.

4. Upon the full execution of this Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal, the South River Board of Education will withdraw its Amended Petition with prejudice.

JOYCE HOLLOWAY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SADDLE RIVER, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged respondent's determination to convert her position from full-time to part-time for the 1998-1999 academic year, and its failure to offer her the position of Technology Coordinator, which was awarded to a teacher with fewer years of experience.

The ALJ determined that petitioner was not entitled to the Technology Coordinator position because she lacked seniority in the appropriate category. The ALJ also determined that the Board was entitled to exercise its discretion in denying petitioner the position.

The Commissioner concluded that the record is insufficient to determine the appropriate certification required for the position of Technology Coordinator, or to evaluate respondent's contentions as to the requirements of the position. (Adler State Board decision) In addition, the Commissioner determined that the record contains insufficient information as to the endorsements held by the person who was appointed to the position of Technology Coordinator and his work history so as to enable him to appropriately consider petitioner's claims. The Commissioner therefore remanded the case to the OAL for additional fact finding.

Record Closed: December 15, 1999 Decided: June 8, 2000

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by an art teacher who alleges respondent Saddle River Board of Education ("Board") violated her statutory rights in connection with a reduction in force. The Board reduced petitioner's assignment as an art teacher from full-time to part-time for the 1998-99 academic year. Petitioner Joyce Holloway ("Holloway") contends that she should have been offered an assignment as a technology coordinator, but that the Board gave the assignment to another teacher with fewer years of service in the district. Basically, the pleadings raise three issues: First, whether the Board violated Holloway's tenure rights. Second, whether the Board violated her seniority rights. Third, whether the Board acted arbitrarily, capriously and unreasonably by selecting someone who has fewer academic qualifications as a computer teacher. In its defense, the Board avers that Holloway's only claim for preferred eligibility results from her actual service as an art teacher. Since Holloway never served as a technology coordinator, the Board maintains that selection of a different candidate was an appropriate exercise of its managerial prerogative.[1]

Procedural History

On July 20, 1998, Holloway filed her verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). The Board filed its answer on July 29, 1998. Subsequently, on August 12, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on November 5, 1998.[2] Both parties filed post-hearing briefs on December 3, 1999. Holloway filed a reply brief on December 10, 1999 and the Board on December 15, 1999. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix.

All of the relevant facts are undisputed. I FIND the following facts:

Joyce Holloway began her employment for the Saddle River School District in September 1967. At the time of initial hire, she held an instructional certificate with an [1] Shortly after approval of the reduction in force, the Board abolished its middle school and entered into an agreement to send its sixth, seventh and eighth grade students to the Ramsey school district. Originally, Holloway joined the Ramsey Board of Education as a respondent, contending that the receiving district failed to honor its obligation to recognize and preserve her tenure and seniority rights. Prior to hearing, however, Holloway reached a partial settlement with the receiving district and withdrew whatever claims she may have against the Ramsey Board of Education.

[2] Petitioner mailed notice of the pendency of this appeal to James Furno, the district's technology coordinator, on March 30, 1999.

endorsement in art.[3] Throughout her career, Holloway's only assignment in the district was as a teacher of art. In early 1998, the Board instructed Superintendent of Schools James Dwyer to recommend areas of reduction for the upcoming budget. Due to declining enrollment in art classes, Dr. Dwyer recommended a reduction in art. Although the Board had not yet decided to send it students to Ramsey Middle School, it was actively engaged in investigating that possibility. On May 4, 1998, Dr. Dwyer gave Holloway written notice that the Board was not offering her reemployment beyond June 30, 1998 until its staffing needs had been clarified.

By resolution adopted June 16, 1998, the Board voted to reduce Holloway's employment to a 4/10th position for the 1998-99 school year. Holloway sustained a salary loss of approximately $45,000 and also lost paid health benefits worth approximately $6,800. She had thirty-one years of service in the district at the time of the reduction. The school administration placed Holloway on a preferred-eligibility list for rehire as an art teacher.

Meanwhile, Holloway took graduate-level computer courses at the New York Institute of Technology and received a Master of Science Degree in instructional technology on June 19, 1996. She graduated "with distinction" and maintained a 3.9 grade point average. The school district had been supportive of her endeavor and reimbursed her for a portion of the tuition costs. Afterwards, in or about August 1998, Holloway obtained an endorsement in elementary education.[4] However, she did not possess the elementary endorsement at the time of the reduction and had never taught under that endorsement.[5]

For example, an art teacher is required to hold an instructional certificate with an endorsement in art. Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 626, 635 (1993). An endorsement in art "authorizes the holder to teach art in all public schools." N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(2).

[4] An endorsement in elementary education "authorizes its holder to serve as elementary school teacher in grades nursery though eight in all public schools" and "to teach common branch subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school." N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(6).

Saddle River School District had a preexisting job title known as "technology coordinator." Insofar as the record reflects, no particular qualifications are required for the job, other than an instructional certificate.[6] Nonetheless, prior holders of the title have been elementary classroom teachers holding an endorsement in a substantive academic subject. Judith Kuhn, the immediate predecessor in the title, held an instructional certificate with endorsements in elementary education and in mathematics. In late May or early June 1998, Kuhn resigned from employment by the Board to accept a job in the private sector. Thus, a vacancy arose in the title of technology coordinator as of September 1998

A written job description for technology coordinator specifies that its duties include: training staff members on computer hardware and software; developing lessons that integrate classroom curriculum with technology; overseeing the technology budget; and troubleshooting problems with lab and classroom computers. Dr. Dwyer emphasized the importance of being able to help students transfer knowledge acquired in the computer laboratory to the classroom.

To fill the vacancy, Dr. Dwyer selected James Furno, who held an instructional certification with endorsements in English, social studies and secondary reading. Having come to the district in April 1977, Furno had 21.21 years of seniority.[7] He had been a classroom teacher at various grade levels in the district. More importantly, he had practical experience integrating computer instruction into his own classroom and had helped other teachers with computers in their classrooms. Additionally, Furno had expressed interest in an assignment involving computers if one were to become available. While he had unspecified "training" in computer use, he does not hold any formal degree in computer instruction. Like Holloway, Furno had no prior service as a technology coordinator.

[5] While Holloway had previously taught at both the elementary and the secondary level, she did so solely as an art teacher.

[6] The title "technology coordinator" is not recognized in the Department's rules. Local school districts are required to submit an unrecognized title to the county superintendent of schools "for determination of the appropriate certification." N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b). It is unclear whether the Board followed this procedure.

At the commencement of the 1999-2000 school year, the Board again offered to employ Holloway in a 4/10th capacity as an art teacher. By then, however, she had reached a settlement with the Ramsey Board of Education and had accepted a full-time teaching position as an art teacher in Ramsey. While the settlement papers were not made part of the record, counsel represents that the Ramsey school board did not recognize her tenure status.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board was free to choose whichever qualified teacher it wanted for the title of technology coordinator.

Important conceptual differences exist between "tenure" and "seniority." Tenure is a status designed to protect teachers "from dismissal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons," Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982), and to afford teachers "a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Its benefits are conferred by statute rather than contract. Shelko v. Mercer Cty. Special Servs Sch. Dist., 97 N.J. 414 (1984). Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, a teacher acquires tenure by (1) working in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) holding the appropriate certificate; and (3) serving the requisite period of time. Spiewak, at 74. Thus, tenure is achieved by a teaching staff member who serves a probationary period either in a specifically designated "position," such as teacher, or in "positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates[.]" Ellicott v. Frankford Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 347 (App. Div. 1991). Accord, Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ. 6 N.J.A.R. 509 (Comm'r Dec. 20, 1982. Having acquired tenure, a teacher may not be dismissed except for cause after certification of tenure charges, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, or as the result of a reduction in force for reasons of economy and efficiency. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

As distinguished from tenure, seniority accrues in specific "categories" of certification fixed by regulation. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10, -12. See N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1. Seniority provides a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions in force and reemployment can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accordance with sound educational policies. Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J. 362, 368 (1983). Hence, seniority must be regarded as a consequence of tenure.

Both Holloway and Furno have attained tenure in the position of teacher. Achievement of tenure, however, does not confer greater rights to one tenured teacher over another. Cases cited by Holloway in support of her tenure claim involve disputes between tenured and nontenured teachers. In Bednar v Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), for example, the court held that an art teacher's statutory tenure rights prevented the school district from reducing his hours while retaining a full-time nontenured art teacher. Similarly, in Capodilupo v. West Orange Twp. Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), the court ruled a tenured teacher who taught physical education is entitled to retention as against a nontenured teacher with the same certification. Recently, in Ellicott, the court reiterated that a teaching staff member with an educational-services certificate had preference over a nontenured teaching staff member in all positions for which her certificate qualified her. None of these cases, however, address priority between teachers who both possess tenure, which must be determined in accordance with the seniority rules.

Seniority is measured by years of employment in specific job categories, "which are normally narrower than the subject fields which are endorsed on teachers' certificates." Bednar, 221 N.J. Super. at 242. Historically, teachers in New Jersey could obtain seniority credit irrespective of actual experience. Changes in the seniority regulations adopted in 1983 emphasize that "actual experience in particular positions should be the critical determinant in awarding seniority." Lichtman, 93 N.J. at 368. The essential purpose of the new regulations was "to limit each teacher's seniority entitlement in a district to those subject fields or levels at which the teacher has actually taught." Revision of Seniority Regulations: A Position Statement of the New Jersey Department of Education, at 3 (June 1983). Current regulations clarify that any person holding an instructional certificate with subject-area endorsements shall have seniority within the secondary level "only in such subject area endorsement(s) under which he or she has actually served," N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l)(17)(i), or, if a position at the elementary level requires a special subject field endorsement, "only in the elementary category and only for the period of actual service under such . . . special subject field endorsement." N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l)(18)(ii).

Holloway argues that she should have been offered the technology-coordinator assignment because she holds an instructional certificate and has more years of elementary seniority in the district. State regulations do not presently prescribe any particular endorsement for persons qualified to teach computer-related subjects. A data-processing endorsement allows its holder to teach keypunching, computer operation and programming, N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(4)(iii), although it is not the only endorsement relevant to the expanding field of computers. While the State Board of Education has noted that a specific endorsement may be necessary when a computer course involves highly advanced and technologically sophisticated skills, it has not yet determined by rule the specific endorsement it had in mind. Taxman v. Piscataway Twp. Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 3d (EDU) 189, 191 (Comm'r Feb. 8, 1993). Many districts treat computer instruction as part of the mathematics department and require computer teachers to hold a mathematics endorsement. E.g.,Taxman, supra. Apparently Saddle River did not specify any endorsement, although traditionally in the district the title of technology coordinator has been occupied by an elementary-classroom teacher holding an endorsement in an academic area of instruction.

Some support for Holloway's position may be derived from Brueck v. Fairview Bd. of Educ., 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 283 (Comm'r Jan. 10, 1997), wherein a teacher with more seniority in music had greater entitlement to a computer assignment than a teacher with less seniority in elementary education. Brueck is readily distinguishable, however, in that the elementary teacher had no seniority whatsoever in the secondary category, and thus lacked any colorable claim to computer courses taught at that level.

Brueck, at 288. In addition, the legal analysis failed to consider the regulatory language of the regulation limiting seniority to "the subject area endorsement(s) under which he or she has actually served."

Holloway served under an endorsement as teacher of art and her assignment was exclusively as an art teacher. Moreover, her duties as an art teacher, which relate to teaching art to students, are totally dissimilar from those of a technology coordinator, which involve training other teachers in computer use, integrating computer technology into the classroom and troubleshooting computer problems. Therefore, Holloway's seniority rights are limited to the category of art teacher.

Although Holloway claims seniority in the general category of "elementary" teacher, her seniority category is much narrower. She did not obtain her elementary-education endorsement until after the reduction had occurred. A teacher's preferred reemployment rights are based upon the scope of the teaching certificate and endorsement held on the date of the layoff determination. Francey v. Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1996). Accordingly, the Board acted properly by placing Holloway on the preferred-eligibility list in the category of art teacher. See, e.g., Rieder v. Caldwell-West Caldwell Bd. of Educ., EDU 7609-97 (Jan. 22, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html, adopted (Comm'r March 10, 1999), aff'd (St. Bd. July 7, 1999) http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html (Spanish teacher had preferred eligibility rights to the position of teacher of Spanish).

Lastly, Holloway urges that the Board acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably by not selecting the teacher who has the best qualifications in computer education. In general, "courts cannot supplant educators." Judges must refrain from interfering with the judgments of professional educators, "unless those judgments are palpably arbitrary or depart from governing law." Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 636, 643 (1993). Proofs amply demonstrate that the Board wanted an elementary-classroom teacher with an academic specialty and that Furno, who fit the bill, had achieved notable success using computers in a classroom setting. Whether or not someone else might have chosen otherwise, it cannot be said that the Board acted arbitrarily in selecting Furno for the job.

Order

It is ORDERED that the relief requested by Holloway is denied.

JOYCE HOLLOWAY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SADDLE RIVER, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner cannot, at this time, accept the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Rather, the Commissioner finds that, based on a recent decision of the State Board of Education, it is necessary to remand this matter to determine the appropriate endorsement, if any, for the position of Technology Coordinator; an assignment which petitioner contends she should have been offered by virtue of her seniority in the District.

In Florence Adler v. Board of Education of the Township of Shamong, Burlington County, decided by the State Board of Education July 7, 2000, the State Board reviewed the curriculum guide relative to the Computers/Technology Course to which the petitioner therein claimed an entitlement. The Board noted:

> Given the character of the computer course designed by the district, elementary certification was appropriate for this assignment. In so concluding, we stress that the fact that there is no specific endorsement for computer courses does not mean that any instructional certification will qualify an individual to teach such courses in all cases. Rather, individuals must possess certification that is appropriate to the assignment and, as here, that certification must be determined by careful reference to the particular curriculum that the district has adopted in a given case.
> (Slip Opinion at 4-5)

In the instant matter, the record does not include substantive information about the district's curriculum, such as a curriculum guide; it merely includes a "job description" for the position of technology coordinator which does not specify needed credentials or job experience and lists eight duties "[i]n addition to other duties enumerated in the Saddle River Board of Education's policy manual" which will be performed by the Technology Coordinator.[1] (Exhibit J-4) Thus, the Commissioner can neither assess the certification required for the disputed issue, nor evaluate the Board's claim that the position of Technology Coordinator requires "the ability to integrate computer technology with substantive instructional academic subject areas in order to teach teachers how to perform these tasks in their own classrooms." (Board's Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law at 4, ¶ 13)[2]

[1] Those duties are:
1. Train staff members on computer hardware and software.
2. Develop lessons that integrate classroom curriculum with technology.
3. Oversee the technology budget.
4. Preview new software and hardware.
5. Attend technology conferences and workshops with the support of the Board of Education.
6. Troubleshoot problems with lab and classroom computers.
7. Keep administrators informed about technology activities and problems.
8. Create long-term and short-term technology plans and goals for the school with the help and support of the administration. (Exhibit J-4)

[2] The Commissioner also notes that the Board apparently did not require the holder of the position to possess an elementary education endorsement, and that the record contains no evidence that the Technology Coordinator position, an unrecognized title, was approved by the County Superintendent of Schools, as per N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3. That approval process would include submission of a detailed job description and a determination of the appropriate certification and title for the position. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3.

Additionally, the record provides an inadequate account of James Furno's endorsements and work history prior to the date of the reduction in force. Specifically, the Commissioner seeks clarification as to the reading endorsement Furno holds.[3] The record on remand should identify: 1) the title of the endorsement and, if no longer recognized, what it authorized the holder to teach; 2) what grade levels Furno was actually teaching under that endorsement as an "elementary teacher of secondary reading," (Exhibit J-3); and 3) what years he taught under that endorsement.

Accordingly, in order to fairly consider petitioner's claim, the Commissioner remands this matter to OAL for expansion of the record and additional fact finding in accordance herewith.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: JUL 27 2000

Date of Mailing: JUL 27 2000

[3] Although the ALJ identifies it as a "secondary reading" endorsement (initial decision at 4), the Board refers to it simply as an endorsement in "Reading." (Board's Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law at 19)

[4] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HENRY KOMOROWSKI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:
HUDSON COUNTY.	:

Petitioning District certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent teacher. The District sought respondent's dismissal from his teaching position, alleging that respondent engaged in a series of discussions with students in his fifth-grade Gifted and Talented technology course, at the beginning of several classes, concerning methods of torturing and killing student L.S. The District also alleged that respondent brought to school a document showing how to purchase guns over the Internet.

The ALJ determined that the District substantiated Charges 1 through 10, and, in part, Charge 11. The ALJ concluded that respondent had, on several occasions during class time, engaged in discussions with students of methods of torturing and killing student L.S. The ALJ also determined that respondent had brought an advertisement selling guns to school and showed it to an administrator. The ALJ concluded that such conduct encouraged an environment in which violence was considered acceptable and fostered a moral climate of disrespect for life and bodily integrity. The ALJ recommended a penalty of dismissal, noting that, while respondent did not intend to harm L.S. or incite violence among his students, his conduct in condoning and directing the discussions of violence evidenced a lack of necessary self-control and restraint mandated by his position.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, concurring that respondent "breached his responsibilities as a teacher and engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member." The Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured teaching position as of the date of this decision and directed a copy of this decision be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9993-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 275-9/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF HENRY KOMOROWSKI, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY

Charlotte Kitler, General Counsel, for State-Operated School District of Jersey City, Hudson County, petitioner

Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., for Henry Komorowski, respondent (Wills, O'Neill & Mellk, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 5, 2000 Decided: June 8, 2000

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the State-Operated School District of Jersey City, Hudson County ("District"), certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher and unprofessional conduct against respondent, Henry Komorowski. The District submits that Komorowski's conduct warrants his dismissal from employment. Respondent denies any charges of wrongdoing.

On September 27, 1999, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On October 13, 1999, a prehearing conference was held pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-13.1. Hearings were held on January 19 and 20 and February 4, 2000. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on May 5, 2000.

THE CHARGES

The District filed eleven charges of unbecoming conduct against Komorowski. The charges are summarized as follows:

1. Komorowski has been employed by the Jersey City School District as a teacher of industrial arts, at Public School No. 27, since November 1, 1994.

2. During the 1998-99 school year, Komorowski was assigned to teach several courses, including a technology course for fifth-grade students. The fifth-grade technology course was scheduled for one period weekly for two marking periods. One of the fifth-grade technology courses for the latter two marking periods of the 1989-99 school year included students in the Gifted and Talented program.

3. In conducting the fifth-grade technology course for the Gifted and Talented program, Komorowski began the class by discussing with certain students ways of torturing and/or killing one particular male student, L.S. The discussions included the following means of torture and/or killing: cutting the boy's body apart with a saw; shooting the boy with a gun or pistol; using a flamethrower on the boy; sticking a sword into the boy; guillotining the boy; clubbing the boy to death; and drawing and quartering him.

4. The discussions of ways to torture and/or kill the student, L.S., took place at the beginning of class, for approximately fifteen minutes. These discussions continued for the duration of the fifth-grade technology course, through early June 1999. At that time, L.S. told his mother of the situation and the mother brought the matter to the attention of District officials.

5. When questioned by District officials, Komorowski admitted that he and students in L.S.'s fifth-grade technology class had engaged in discussing ways of torturing and/or killing L.S.

6. When questioned by the school principal about discussion of ways to torture and/or kill L.S., Komorowski admitted that he had used L.S. as an "example." He simply indicated, in a letter of June 8, 1999, that from that time on, L.S. "[would] not be used as an example during classroom discussions."

7. Komorowski admitted that he himself had suggested certain ways of killing L.S., including cutting the boy's head off with a guillotine; dissolving his body in bleach; and tying the boy's arms and legs to four horses, beating the horses and making them run in four different directions, thereby ripping the boy apart.

8. Komorowski further admitted that he had intentionally conducted the discussions of ways of torturing and/or killing L.S. He stated that the discussions were intended to get the attention of the students and put them in a relaxed mode.

9. Mr. Komorowski has also produced a document showing how to purchase guns over the Internet. Mr. Komorowski's students have access to computers and the Internet. Mr. Komorowski produced the gun advertisement at P.S. 27 during the week of April 26, after spring break and after the gun killings at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado, on April 20, 1999, which made national news.

10. Mr. Komorowski has been entrusted with the responsibility of teaching and informing students, which means teaching them not only specific course content but also sufficient social, ethical and behavioral standards to enable the students to become good citizens in society.

11. Mr. Komorowski, through his actions in conducting and condoning class discussions of ways to torture and/or kill a particular student in his class as well as through his distribution of an advertisement for the purchase of guns, has encouraged an environment in which violence is considered acceptable and has fostered a moral climate of disrespect for life and bodily integrity. His actions show tolerance, and even support, for means of inflicting bodily harm. Mr. Komorowski, through these actions, has demonstrated a callous indifference to the health, welfare and safety of his students and a gross disregard of the proper standards of civilized behavior to be impressed upon students. Mr. Komorowski, through these actions, has breached his responsibilities as a teacher and engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member, thereby warranting dismissal as an employee of the Jersey City School District.

ISSUE

If any of the tenure charges is sustained, is dismissal or a lesser penalty warranted?

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

The District presented the testimony of Sandra Frierson-Howard, Francis X. Dooley, Deborah S. Alexander and Linda Gallina. Respondent presented the testimony of Melinda Gallina, Mary Foley, Sandra Webster, Paul Spagnoletti, Joanne Youman and Catherine Coyle.

Sandra Frierson-Howard is the principal of P.S. 27. On June 7, 1999, Mrs. S. complained that Komorowski participated in class discussions about ways to torture and kill her son, L.S. Howard investigated the allegations. She held a group discussion with approximately ten students who were enrolled in the class with L.S. Howard asked the students if they had discussed ways of killing L.S. The boys responded, "Yes." Further, they said that they looked forward to these discussions every week and viewed the talks as fun and held in jest. The girls remained quiet about the matter.

Thereafter, Howard informed Komorowski of Mrs. S.'s complaint. Howard asked Komorowski if he discussed ways of torturing and killing L.S., such as by using guns or pistols, dissolving his body in bleach, cutting his body parts with a chain, shooting him with machine guns, and using a flamethrower. Komorowski admitted to participating in the discussions. He responded that the discussions lasted about fifteen minutes and that they were held in "fun." They did not, however, occur during every class. Komorowski admitted that he used poor judgment in discussing these topics.

Then, Howard met with Mrs. S. and Komorowski in the assistant principal's office. Howard described Mrs. S. as upset and "heated" because her son was being "ridiculed." Howard ended the meeting and asked Mrs. S. and Komorowski to submit written statements about the incident. Mrs. S. submitted P-1 and Komorowski submitted P-2.

Next, Howard reported the matter to her supervisor, Francis X. Dooley. Dooley is the assistant superintendent of schools and has been employed with the District for twenty-six years. After Dooley met with Howard, he spoke with Mrs. S. and reassigned L.S. to a computer class. Thereafter, Dooley met with Howard and Komorowski. Dooley asked Komorowski whether he discussed torturing and killing L.S. by dissolving him in bleach, using a chain saw, guillotining the boy, and using a wood chipper. Komorowski admitted that he participated in the discussions. Komorowski described the discussions as "silly major" or "major silly." They were a way to get the students' attention. Komorowski conceded that he used poor judgment.

Thereafter, on June 11, 1999, Komorowski and his union representative met with assistant superintendent Dr. Deborah S. Alexander and Dooley. They discussed the same items that were raised in the prior meetings with Howard and Dooley. Alexander asked Komorowski if he discussed in the classroom ways of torturing and killing L.S. Komorowski admitted that he participated in the discussions.

Henry Komorowski candidly testified about the meetings that he attended with school administrators. During his meeting with Alexander, Komorowski "viewed" Mrs. S.'s letter, P-1. The letter states in part:

> Dear Mrs. Frierson-Howard:
>
> On the evening of Friday, June 4, 1999, my son [L.S.] informed me . . . that during his Technology class, his teacher Mr. Komorowski and his classmates were discussing ways to kill him. . . . He said that for many weeks and at every Friday class, the first topic of discussion was always various ways that he could be tortured and killed. . . .
> [L.S.] said Mr. Komorowski had come up with the idea of putting his body through a wood chopper and having his head cut off with the guillotine ("a quick kill and fairly painless"). . . .
>
> I pressed [L.S.] for other ways he had heard over the weeks that he could be killed. Here is a partial list of what he could remember:
>
> - Dissolving his body in bleach
> - Cutting his body apart with a chain saw or rotary saw
> - Shooting him with machine guns, pistols and shotguns
> - Using a flamethrower
> - Clubbing him to death
> - Sticking him with a sword
> - Cutting his body with an axe.

Komorowski prepared a response to the allegations contained in P-1, which states in part:

> I like to link Applied Technology topics to regular courses of study as a way of supporting classroom teacher efforts in math, science, and social studies.
> On about ½ dozen occasions during 3rd and 4th marking periods, the 5th-grade G&T class was brought into planned or sometimes spontaneous presentations.
> Situation: According to [L.S.]'s mother [Mrs. S.] on June 7, [L.S.] was uncomfortable and later became distressed over some spontaneous presentations during my class.

> I do acknowledge that I used [L.S.] as a character example. He was always responsive, spontaneous, and seemed to enjoy the attention. At no time did he express that he did not want to be included.
> My Reaction: As a result of the meeting of Mrs. Frierson-Howard, [Mrs. S.], and myself, [L.S.] will not be used as an example during classroom discussions.

Komorowski denied any wrongdoing. He maintained that the charges were a distortion of what occurred during class and that the discussions were taken out of context. He described the classroom situation. Generally, the students entered the room, placed their belongs, e.g., coats and book bags, into closets, and prepared for class. Usually the boys were the first students to take their seats. While they waited for the lesson to begin they would engage in "quiet talk" or "pre-class chatter." Once or twice, the students initiated pre-class chatter involving L.S. They were cartoon-type stories that were presented as friendly, silly imagery. L.S. actively participated in the discussions.

Komorowski maintained that the discussions were spontaneous and tied to the curriculum. For example, the discussion about bleach flowed from a demonstration where a turtle had just eaten some food on a lab table. This learning experience involved biology, environment and chemistry. Komorowski discussed the nature and size of germs and how various public buildings such as hospitals and restaurants deal with the germ problem. He then used bleach to clean the table and explained how it dissolved germ presence. "I said, if [L.] fell into one of these tanks he could be dissolved." This demonstration lasted about fifteen minutes.

The guillotine discussion was also spontaneous. As the students entered the classroom, Komorowski overheard the boys saying, "Let's use a flamethrower or let's shoot him with a machine gun or pistol." Komorowski interrupted the discussion and addressed the boys, saying:

> What are you doing? Stop. What is this, the French Revolution or something, we're trying to get rid of enemies of the state . . . the conversation is stopped. The French Revolution, at least they had a scientist, I mean [L.] can be our famous scientist, Lavoisier, I said. Well, the French Revolution was kind of perverse because they were trying to > kill so many people that it got disgusted with the old ways and a guy named Guillotin developed the machine called the guillotine to chop people's heads off very nicely. And supposedly painlessly. So, if [L.] were a famous scientist in the French Revolution because you guys can all be scientists because you're very bright and we put his head in the guillotine he'd be like Lavoisier.

The discussion continued with Komorowski telling the class that drawing and quartering was common during the time of the French Revolution and was used to cause pain. On the other hand, the guillotine was painless. He then began the scheduled lesson.

Komorowski also testified about the charge concerning the advertisement to purchase guns over the Internet. He was concerned about easy access to guns over the Internet. Therefore, he conducted a search on his home computer and found an advertisement for gun sales. He showed the advertisement to the English teacher, Mrs. Foley, and the assistant principal, Mrs. Spagnoletti. He suggested that "Banning of Internet Gun Sales" might be an excellent topic for the eighth-grade monthly writing prompt. Also, the best essays could be sent to the students' congressmen. Spagnoletti rejected the idea as "too hot" for the students' grade level.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence, I FIND as FACT:

1. Since November 1, 1994, Komorowski has been employed by the Jersey City School District as a teacher of industrial arts/applied technology and assigned to Public School No. 27.

2. Komorowski acquired his teaching certificate through the alternative route.

3. During the 1998-99 school year, Komorowski was assigned to teach several courses, including a technology course to fifth-grade students.

4. During the fifth-grade technology class, Komorowski participated in discussions with certain students about ways of torturing and/or killing one particular male student, L.S. The discussions included cutting the boy's body apart with a saw, shooting him with a gun or pistol, using a flamethrower on him, sticking a sword into him, guillotining him, clubbing him to death, and drawing and quartering him.

5. Komorowski showed an administrator a document depicting directions for purchasing guns over the Internet.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the District has sustained tenure charges 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 contained in the Statement of Charges. I CONCLUDE that the District has sustained in part tenure charge 11.

State law provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Thus, tenured employees are protected "in their employment when they are subjected to unfair or improper attacks or when they are unable to perform effectively because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Maratea, 1966 S.L.D. 77, 106. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing, are required under the law to protect tenured teachers from arbitrary dismissal for unfounded or flimsy reasons. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee that may help to explain the situation. In re Romanoli, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

Petitioner has the burden of proof to establish claims against the tenured teacher by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982). The District charged Komorowski with unbecoming conduct and unprofessional conduct. Charges 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 are based in part on discussions Komorowski held with students in his fifth-grade class. The allegations contained in charges 9 and 11 concern an advertisement to purchase guns over the Internet.

"Unbecoming conduct" is broadly defined to include any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998), quoting In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (1960). Behavior that constitutes unbecoming conduct need not be "predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartman v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992), quoting Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955). In the context of a school tenure case, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974).

Charges 3 through 8 allege that Komorowski discussed in class ways of killing and torturing a student, L.S. Although the parties dispute the frequency and the duration of the discussions, Komorowski conceded that the discussions happened. Consequently, I reject respondent's arguments that the charges are based on hearsay and "no competent evidence" and that they "ignore the record below." Komorowski testified that the discussions occurred perhaps six times and for less than five minutes each. He maintained that the discussions were spontaneous and that they were taken out of context. Sometimes they were initiated by Komorowski to divert discussions already in progress. For example, he initiated the discussion about the guillotine after he overheard the boys talking among themselves. At other times, Komorowski used L.S. as an example during the class lesson.

The record reflects that the discussions centered on L.S. and involved several boys in the class. Komorowski described the boys as aggressive and believed that L.S. enjoyed being the center of attention. Komorowski also believed that he acted appropriately in bringing up the subject of the guillotine. His intent was to redirect the discussion among several students who were talking about ways to kill L.S., e.g., using a flamethrower, chopping his head with an axe, and shooting him with a machine gun or pistol. However, Komorowski did not stop the students from talking about ways to kill L.S. Instead, he joined in the boys' discussion and redirected their attention to the guillotine. Komorowski also believed that using L.S. as an example would make him feel good about himself.

Komorowski's reasoning is flawed. His references to L.S. and the guillotine actually perpetuated an existing discussion revolving around violent behavior. I agree with petitioner that comparing a student to a person who was beheaded does not build self-esteem. Komorowski showed extreme poor judgment when he used L.S. in a description of drawing and quartering. A belief that these discussions "were harmless and appropriate instructional strategies 'should be a matter of grave concern to those who have the authority to decide on [his] continuing as a teaching staff member.'" Petitioner's Brief at 35, quoting In re Lucarelli, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 537, 542.

Komorowski recognized the eager and inquisitive nature of the young pupils in his class. Discussions about ways to kill L.S., whether they were held among the boys themselves or with input from Komorowski, should have been stopped immediately. Instead, Komorowski used L.S. as an example. Even during a legitimate class lesson, the teacher's conduct was not appropriate. Moreover, under cross-examination Komorowski acknowledged that the topics and/or discussions about bleach and the guillotine were not specifically noted in his lesson plans for the fifth-grade Applied Technology course. Spontaneity in the classroom produces invaluable learning experience when used appropriately. However, a teacher using a student as an example in discussions of killing and torture demonstrates the exercise of extreme poor judgment, callous indifference to the safety of the students and gross disregard of the proper standards of civilized behavior expected from a teacher.

Indeed, members of the teaching profession hold a sacred position in our society. They have daily contact with their students, molding habits and nurturing young minds. Thus, teachers must be held to a high standard of conduct. Parents, law enforcement officials and the general public expect teachers to teach students "reading, writing and arithmetic" and to convey social and moral values appropriate to the setting. Clearly, teachers influence the opinions of their pupils and, indeed, teachers are role models. Also, teachers encourage students to set goals and then help to steer them on a path to achieve those goals. Further, teachers are entrusted with the care and custody of school children. Thus, they play important roles in the community. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99, the Commissioner recognized that:

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully . . . violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other severe penalty as set by the Commissioner.

Thus, it is essential that teachers avoid conduct that is in violation of the public trust or that creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated. Teachers are expected to exercise self-restraint and control.

Based on his candid testimony and demeanor, I am persuaded that Komorowski had no intent to harm L.S. or incite violence among his students. Nevertheless, a teacher may demonstrate unfitness in many ways. Conduct-related speech that is merely irresponsible or insensitive under ordinary circumstances may constitute unbecoming conduct when spoken by a teacher to his students. See In re Motley, http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu7421-97.html (finding a teacher's referring to impressionable children in derogatory language a gross distortion of his appropriate teaching function, representing unfitness to discharge his duties and responsibilities amounting to unbecoming conduct).

Unfitness to remain a teacher may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it is best evidenced by a series of incidents. See Redclay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). Here, the record reflects a pattern of instances where Komorowski made irresponsible and insensitive utterances regarding ways to torture and kill a student. Komorowski's testimony and demeanor persuades me that he hadn't a clue that those comments and discussions could be psychologically and emotionally harmful to young and impressionable students. Indeed, while Komorowski claimed to be upset over an advertisement to purchase guns over the Internet, he took a contrary position by conducting class discussions on ways to torture and kill a particular student Such conduct adversely affects his charge to teach students sufficient social, ethical and behavioral standards to help them become good citizens in society. Indeed, as the District notes, Komorowski's "conduct in condoning and directing those class discussions evidences a lack of the kind of self-restraint and controlled behavior which is compelled by his position . . . holding influence over the lives of children." Petitioner's Brief at 36-37. A teacher who decides to take any form of action or inaction does so at his own risk. No matter what the ultimate objective sought, the individual must accept responsibility for his actions and must accept the consequences of his actions. In re Nash, 1971 S.L.D. 284, 296. Although the District failed to prove that showing a gun advertisement to an administrator constitutes conduct unbecoming, it has presented compelling evidence that Komorowski's conduct in discussing ways to torture and kill a student demonstrated a callous indifference to the health, welfare and safety of his students.

Based on the totality of the evidence, including the arguments presented by the parties, I CONCLUDE that Komorowski's conduct encouraged an environment in which violence was considered acceptable and fostered a moral climate of disrespect for life and bodily integrity. Thus, I CONCLUDE that Komorowski, through these actions, has breached his responsibilities as a teacher and engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member.

Penalty

The District contends that Komorowski's conduct warrants dismissal as an employee of the Jersey City School District. Factors to be considered in assessing an appropriate penalty include the nature and gravity of the offense, any extenuating or aggravating circumstances, and maintaining discipline and proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 420-22 (App. Div. 1967). Except for the pending charges, Komorowski's record is unblemished.

Komorowski received satisfactory scores on two performance evaluations, which he presented at the hearing. Catherine Coyle, the associate superintendent of the District, hired Komorowski in 1994 under the alternative certification route. She observed Komorowski during several classes and found him to be a very good teacher. Coyle also helped to train Komorowski through meetings and providing him with documents. She acknowledged that he attended courses on teaching skills and strategies to obtain the proper certification to teach in the District.

Komorowski's colleagues testified that he was an asset to the school and a good teacher. Joanne Youman, an experienced educator and employed by the District for twenty-seven years, was Komorowski's mentor for school year 1994-95. She observed him in class and found him to be enthusiastic and excellent with the students. Sandra Webster, district supervisor of the Applied Technology Department, believed that Komorowski was an excellent teacher, innovative and had a good rapport with the students.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that the mitigating factors do not support Komorowski's continued employment with the Jersey City public schools. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the appropriate penalty is removal from his tenured teaching position.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Henry Komorowski be removed from his teaching position with the State-Operated School District of Jersey City and that all of his tenure rights be extinguished.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HENRY KOMOROWSKI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:
HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the District's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The entirety of respondent's exceptions contend that the District "failed utterly" to meet its burden of proving respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct. (Respondent's Exceptions at 1) To this end, respondent sets forth the following seven exceptions: 1) the ALJ selectively presented her summary of evidence in a manner biased to him; 2) the ALJ's finding of fact that he participated in discussions about ways of killing L.S. by cutting his body apart with a saw, shooting him with a gun, using a flamethrower, sticking a sword to him, guillotining him, drawing and quartering him and clubbing him to death is not based on the record below; 3) the ALJ incorrectly found that the District sustained charges three and four; 4) the ALJ failed to consider both the content of the guillotine discussion and the context in which it occurred; 5) the ALJ failed to consider both the content of the bleach discussion and the context in which it occurred; 6) the ALJ's conclusion that respondent "demonstrated a callous indifference to the health, welfare and safety of his students" (id. at 16) is not based on the record below and, moreover, contradicts her own findings; and 7) the ALJ's recommendation of dismissal is inconsistent with both the alleged harm and relevant case law.

As to his final point, respondent notes that there has been no finding of harm to L.S. He compares this case to In re Tenure Hearing of Ribacka, School District of Sussex-Wantage Regional, 1978 S.L.D. 929, wherein, despite extensive testimony from persons who witnessed respondent's alleged mentally and physically harassing conduct and its effects upon a student, the tenure charge was dismissed, and notes the differing result that was reached by the ALJ herein despite what respondent perceives as a lack of necessary proofs. (Id. at 19) Respondent advances that in another similar case, In re Tenure Hearing of Demarco, School District of Glassboro, 1980 S.L.D. 204, notwithstanding a finding from the hearing examiner that the respondent therein had actually threatened the student with bodily harm, the Commissioner found that removal was too harsh a penalty. (Respondent's Exceptions at 19-20)

By contrast, respondent maintains that, here, the ALJ ignored the facts, disregarded his teaching ability and his record in the District, and arrived at an unduly harsh conclusion. Based on his strong reputation as a teacher and his unblemished record, and in recognition of the fact that the District did not bring a single witness who had actual knowledge of the frequency, duration, content or context of any of the discussions that occurred, respondent urges the Commissioner to recognize that the District has not proven its charges "let alone that the conduct alleged is so serious, or that there are any aggravating circumstances, that would warrant [his]  dismissal." (Id. at 25)

In reply, the District counters that: 1) there is ample evidence in the record to support the ALJ's findings that respondent participated in the discussions, as found, and he also, at times, initiated the discussions, and did not stop them when they "were taking place among the boys but joined in the discussion and redirected their attention to other violent conduct such as beheading the particular student by guillotine" (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 8); 2) the ALJ's presentation of the testimony was not biased -- rather her presentation of the evidence suggests that she did not find respondent's explanations credible or sensible. (ibid.); 3) contrary to respondent's contention that there was no testimony that any student found the discussions to be harmful or objectionable, Ms. Frierson-Howard testified that L.S. told her that he was upset when respondent "spoke to him personally in class and mentioned taking his limbs, attaching them to four horses and beating the horses," (id. at 11-12); and 4) the recommended penalty of dismissal is warranted.

With respect to penalty, the District distinguishes Ribacka, supra, and Demarco, supra, from the within matter. In the former, the District argues, the board had not proven any improper conduct so as to warrant a penalty. In the latter, although the Commissioner affirmed that the teacher had made a threat against a student using profane and vulgar language, he also noted that the single incident took place while on a ski trip, a less structured setting than the classroom. Additionally, in Demarco, the students were 14 or 15 years of age. (Id. at 12-13)

The District asserts that:

> [t]he unbecoming conduct of respondent Komorowski in this case did not take place  at an unstructured extra-curricular activity outside the classroom[,] nor did it consist of a single incident. Indeed, the respondent's conduct is far more similar to [that in IMO Tenure Hearing of Zielenski, 1977 S.L.D. 786]  where the teacher was removed for using profanity in class when a student was late in handing in an assignment (citation omitted) and for maintaining classes in an inefficient and "careless, defiant and indifferent manner," (citation omitted). The Commissioner found that Zielenski had used profanity "which was heard by other pupils in the classroom," (citation omitted), and which "constituted gross misconduct" demonstrating "respondent's disregard for her professional responsibilities and public trust," (citation omitted). (Id. at 13)

The District underscores that, by respondent's own admissions and statements, the discussions herein took place every other week, and were sometimes initiated by him, in his classroom, with students who were approximately ten years old. (Id. at 14)

Similarly, the District advances that respondent's dismissal is consistent with a line of cases where teachers have been dismissed for grave failure to exercise proper care and control of the classroom. (See, Petitioner's Exceptions at 14-15, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sheridan, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 257 (1992); Morris School District v. Brady, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 410 (1992); Board of Education of Princeton Regional Sch. Dist. v. Campbell, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 196, aff'd 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 604 (1993), aff'd 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 211 (App. Div. 1995); and Flemington-Raritan Regional School Dist. v. Van Gilson, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 378 (1993). The District then concludes that respondent's unblemished record and supportive testimony from supervisory and administrative staff should be viewed in light of his relatively short service in the District, and urges the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision of the ALJ recommending respondent's dismissal.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts from the hearing conducted on January 19, January 20 and February 4, 2000, the Commissioner affirms the recommended decision of the ALJ. The Commissioner concurs that the District has established charges 1, 2[1], 3[2], 4[3], 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 by a preponderance of credible evidence. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner determines to sustain charge 11, in part, since the District has failed to establish that the gun advertisement which respondent obtained from the Internet was distributed to any students. Rather, as the record makes clear, respondent brought the advertisement to Ms. Frierson-Howard, who testified that she threw it away. (Tr. (1/19/00) at 34-35) Therefore, the Commissioner cannot attribute to respondent any deleterious effects of the advertisement on students. Neither does the District present any evidence to contradict respondent's testimony concerning his intended use for the advertisement.[4]

[2] Respondent disputes that he participated in the discussions noted in the third charge. Based on his review, the Commissioner finds that the record supports the conclusion that, although respondent's students initiated a number of the conversations referenced therein (i.e., killing L.S. by utilizing a flame thrower, by clubbing him to death, with a sword, and with an ax; see Tr.(1/20/00) at 67 - 68), respondent himself introduced the idea of dissolving L.S. in a vat of bleach (id. at 59), killing L.S. by guillotine (id. at 66) and drawing and quartering him (id. at 66-67), notwithstanding his contention that these comments were made within the context of "a lesson." Further, although respondent asserts that he attempted to stop these conversations when initiated by students in his class (id. at 68), the Commissioner is not so persuaded that respondent in fact attempted to do so. Had respondent been conscientious about deterring such discussions, he would not, have used L.S. as an "example" in his classroom lessons.

Nonetheless, the Commissioner finds that the record supports the ALJ's findings, including her observation that respondent has no "clue that [his pattern of irresponsible and insensitive utterances]  and discussions could be psychologically and emotionally harmful to young and impressionable students." (Initial Decision at 13) Therefore, like the ALJ, the Commissioner concludes that respondent "has breached his responsibilities as a teacher and engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member." (Initial Decision at 13) For the reasons set forth in the initial decision, the Commissioner concurs that dismissal is the appropriate penalty in this matter.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted as set forth herein. Respondent is hereby dismissed from his tenured position as a teacher in the State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City as of the date of this decision. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

[3] The Commissioner finds that, although the record does not confirm the length of time these discussions took place, it does support the conclusion that they were held in the beginning of class and that they continued periodically throughout the semester.

[4] Having so found essentially eviscerates the effect on the penalty imposed herein of Charge 9, although sustained, which states: "Mr. Komorowski has also produced a document showing how to purchase guns over the Internet. Mr. Komorowski's students have access to computers and the Internet. Mr. Komorowski produced the gun advertisement at P.S. 27 during the week of April 26, after spring break and after the gun killings at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado, on April 20, 1999, which made national news." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF WILDWOOD, CAPE MAY COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

CAPE-ATLANTIC LEAGUE AND THE NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,

RESPONDENTS.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school district appealed the decision of NJSIAA affirming the Cape-Atlantic League's (CAL) denial of petitioner's application to continue to play an independent schedule in football, which it had done for the past four years. Petitioner argues that its request must be granted in order to protect the health and safety of its students, as the schools in the CAL are much larger than those it played as an independent, and the risk of injury increases when playing physically and numerically larger teams.

Respondents, NJSIAA and CAL, argue that petitioner was permitted to utilize an independent schedule in order to build its program, with the understanding that it would ultimately resume playing a league schedule after it did so, which they argue has occurred. In this regard, they note petitioner's 6-4 record in the 1999 football season. Respondents posit that their determinations conform with their Bylaws and Constitutions and, because they are not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, NJSIAA's decision should be affirmed by the Commissioner.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of NJSIAA. The Commissioner noted that petitioner was afforded extensive due process, but had failed to demonstrate at any of the numerous levels of appeal that CAL's legitimate interest in having member schools compete within the league and not to permit independent schedules of indefinite duration was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or contrary to respondents' Constitutions or Bylaws. Rather, petitioner's arguments demonstrated only that its win-loss record could suffer if the decision on appeal is affirmed. Therefore, the Petition of Appeal was dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Wildwood Board of Education (petitioner) on April 24, 2000, seeking a reversal of the decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) Executive Committee, dated April 5, 2000, which affirmed the determinations of the Cape-Atlantic League (CAL) and the NJSIAA Special Committee for Leagues and Conferences (Special Committee) denying petitioner permission to implement an independent football schedule or, in the alternative, to leave the CAL immediately, rather than comply with the two-year waiting period required by the CAL's Constitution.[1] Procedural deficiencies in complying with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. had to be corrected by petitioner before the matter could move forward. This was accomplished on May 2, 2000.

[1] In its petition, Wildwood seeks only reversal of the determinations precluding it from playing an independent schedule in football. The request to withdraw immediately from the CAL was not pursued before the Commissioner.

On May 2, 2000, respondent NJSIAA filed its answer to the Petition of Appeal and the Statement of Items Comprising the Record pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.2 and, as a courtesy, a copy of the record itself.[2] Respondent CAL filed its Answer on May 8, 2000. On the same day, a request by petitioner to the Commissioner, dated May 5, 2000, that NJSIAA be ordered to prepare minutes of its Special Committee's "off the record" deliberations and to add those minutes to the record, was received.[3] On May 11, 2000, respondents were afforded an opportunity to reply to the request. NJSIAA did so by letter dated May 12, 2000, urging that the Commissioner deny the request, as it does not prepare minutes of such deliberations. NJSIAA further noted that the entire hearing of the Special Committee, including introductions, testimony, ruling and vote, was on the record. Moreover, NJSIAA argues, after the vote, the Special Committee's decision was memorialized in a written decision containing detailed findings of fact and conclusions. On May 17, 2000, the Commissioner denied petitioner's request.

On June 5, 2000, petitioner submitted its brief in support of its position. Reply briefs were filed by the CAL on June 16, 2000 and by NJSIAA on June 19, 2000; whereupon, the record in this matter was closed.

The findings of fact and conclusions determined by the NJSIAA Special Committee at its March 24, 2000 meeting, and adopted by the Executive Committee on April 5, 2000 are as follows:

> Wildwood High School, located in Cape May County, is a founding member of the Cape-Atlantic League. The Cape-Atlantic League consists of 23 schools in Cape May and Atlantic Counties.
> The Schools in the Cape-Atlantic League range in size from Group I (Wildwood High School, population 235) [4] and Parochial B (St. Joseph's High School, population 262), to Group III (Middle Township High School, population, 709).[5] The League is divided into a large school American Division and a small school National Division. Wildwood is the smallest school in the League.

[2] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.2(c) requires that petitioner obtain from NJSIAA a copy of the hearing transcript(s) of its proceedings and other documents identified as comprising the record on appeal which are to be affixed to petitioner's brief as an appendix.

[3] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.2(d) provides that any appeal from the NJSIAA shall be based exclusively on the record established in the internal proceedings before the NJSIAA, as specified in the Statement of Items Comprising the Record or as determined by the Commissioner in the event of a dispute. Supplementation of the record is not permitted except as directed by the Commissioner.

[4] NJSIAA classifies schools for competition purposes by enrollment, with Group I having the smallest enrollments and Group IV the largest.

From 1986 to 1996, Wildwood's record in football was 9-61. Due to the fact that Wildwood was not competitive within the League, League members voted in 1996 and again in 1998 to allow Wildwood to pursue an independent football schedule. Each vote allowed Wildwood to play as an independent for two years, and the League's permission had to be renewed again in 2000 or Wildwood could be required to play a regular League schedule.

Wildwood's football record improved during the years it competed in an independent schedule. In 1999, its football team posted a 6-4 record. Its opponents were mostly Division I schools, including Group I power Florence, but also included Princeton High School, a Group III school.

Wildwood's request to continue playing an independent football schedule came before a meeting of the League's athletic directors and principals on November 5, 1999. The approval required a two-thirds majority to pass, but did not receive a simple majority. Ten schools voted in favor of the school's request, 12 voted against it.

On December 1, 1999, the Cape-Atlantic League Executive Committee, a committee made up of representative superintendents, principals and athletic directors, met to consider Wildwood's appeal of the League's decision. The Executive Committee voted 8-2 to deny Wildwood's appeal. According to a letter prepared by the League Secretary, several factors were considered by the Executive Committee, including the following:

- Wildwood applied for, and was granted, an independent schedule for the last two cycles in order to rebuild the program.

- The football team had a winning season this year and a larger varsity squad than several other National Conference schools. The number of freshmen and sophomore athletes was taken into consideration. Additionally, the team had 1000 yard rushers and nearly qualified for the State play-offs.

- Wildwood presented plans for upgrading the training facility and the school has significantly upgraded the playing facility.

- The team has a stable coaching staff and Wildwood has taken measures to adequately compensate the coaches to maintain that stability.

- Past requests for an independent schedule were approved contingent upon a school developing a plan to improve and come back into the League.

- Despite numerous appeals and regardless of reason, the League has not granted a request to play an independent schedule to any other school, in any sport, for the past two years.

- The CAL Constitution and By-Laws provide an avenue of relief from a varsity schedule if a member school feels it cannot compete in a given sport.

[December 2, 1999 letter from Cape-Atlantic League Secretary Michael C. Adams to Wildwood Principal Walter Dull.]

On January 14, 2000, Wildwood appealed the Executive Committee decision back to the League. Again, Wildwood needed a two-thirds vote, but did not obtain a simple majority. This time 14 schools voted to uphold the Executive Committee decision, 8 voted against.

At the same January 14, 2000 meeting, after the League denied Wildwood's request for a third time, the school requested permission to leave the conference. The Cape-Atlantic League Constitution allows a school to leave the conference with two year's notice, or in the alternative to leave immediately with the unanimous approval of the League schools. Five Cape-Atlantic schools voted against allowing Wildwood to leave the League immediately, and therefore Wildwood did not obtain the necessary unanimity.

At the January 14, 2000 meeting, League officials noted that Wildwood had independently scheduled schools that were larger than many Cape-Atlantic schools; Wildwood had not invested in a weight room, which could help improve their football program; that the League would assist Wildwood in allowing the school to play a junior varsity-only schedule; and that the League would allow Wildwood to drop its football program entirely.

On November 9, 1999, four days after the Cape-Atlantic League turned down Wildwood's initial request to remain independent in football, the school applied for membership in the Tri-County Conference. The Tri-County Conference consists of 16 schools in Salem, Gloucester and Camden Counties.

On December 16, 1999, a subcommittee from Tri-County Conference visited Wildwood to inspect the school's athletic facilities. The subcommittee reported its findings to the Conference schools.

The Tri-County Conference still has not taken formal action on Wildwood's application for admission. On January 6, 2000, the Tri-County Conference athletic directors voted to hold the school's application until March 2, 2000. On that date, the application was tabled pending the results of NJSIAA review of this matter.

Cape-Atlantic League representatives noted that the League had recently denied one of its members, St. Augustine Prep, the right to participate in an independent schedule for basketball. The prep school wanted to make its own basketball schedule because of the strength of its program. League officials also noted that two schools, St. Augustine Prep and Middle Township, had made it clear to the League that if Wildwood were granted an independent schedule, they too would request an independent schedule for football, based on the perceived inadequacies of their football programs.

League officials also noted Pleasantville, another small Cape-Atlantic League school, had disbanded its football team and then rebuilt it from the ground up playing a junior varsity schedule.

Wildwood has been competitive in other sports. The school's girls basketball team won the state Group I championship this year, and last year school teams also had winning records in girls cross-country, boys basketball and boys golf.

The Cape-Atlantic League's actions were consistent with the League's constitutional process. The school's application was first heard by the League's athletic directors and principals, who voted 12-10 to deny the request (2/3 vote in favor was needed to pass); it was then heard by the Executive Committee of superintendents, principals and athletic directors, which voted 8-2 to deny the appeal; and was heard for a final time by principals and athletic directors at a League meeting, at which Wildwood's request was denied by vote of 14 opposing--8 in favor (2/3 majority in favor needed to pass).

The Constitution of the Cape-Atlantic League has been reviewed and approved by the NJSIAA, as have the constitutions of all leagues and conferences in the state.

The process before the Cape-Atlantic League was fair. The League gave Wildwood three opportunities to argue its case before League officials. Each time, the League turned down Wildwood's request.

CONCLUSIONS

1. As a member of the Cape-Atlantic League, Wildwood has agreed to comply with the Constitution and Bylaws of that league. The League provides a process for approving any school's independent sports schedule and a process for a school leaving the League. In both instances, the League applied an appropriate process when it reviewed and subsequently denied Wildwood's request to play an independent football schedule and request to leave the League immediately.

2. The NJSIAA will not overturn a validly determined decision of a league or conference unless that decision violates the mandate of the Commissioner of Education; unfairly deprives the school of membership in a league or conference; or violates the Constitution and Bylaws of the NJSIAA. The Cape-Atlantic League did none of these when it voted not to allow Wildwood to play an independent football schedule and not to leave the League immediately.

3. The Cape-Atlantic League has given Wildwood four reasonable options: continuing the school's football program within the small school division of the League; continuing with a junior varsity program; maintaining the school's status as a member of the League while dropping football; or leaving the League in two years.

4. The Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences voted 4-1 to deny Wildwood's appeal. The League's decision was the result of a valid constitutional process that Wildwood was bound to follow, and violated neither the Commissioner's mandate nor the NJSIAA Constitution and Bylaws. Wildwood is a member of the League. It has adopted the League's Constitution and Bylaws, and is bound by its agreement to comply with those rules. Further, Wildwood is not without options. If the school determines that it cannot compete in the League in football, it has the option of dropping the sport or competing at a less competitive junior varsity level. The League

> Constitution allows the school to leave in two years, if it so desires. (Exhibit 28 at 3-6)

PETITONER'S POSITION

Petitioner first argues that the determinations made by respondents constitute an arbitrary and capricious violation of Article II Section 5 of the Constitution of the Cape-Atlantic League, entitled Philosophy and Goals, which reads: "Section 5 To uphold the Constitution, By-Laws, Rules and Regulations of the [NJSIAA]." Petitioner also argues that the determinations are contrary to Article II Section 2 of the Constitution of the NJSIAA, which reads "Section 2 To equalize athletic opportunities by standardizing rules of eligibility for individuals and classifying for competitive purposes the institutions which are members of the Association." (NJSIAA Handbook, 1999-2000 at 20) Further, NJSIAA Bylaws, Article III Section 5 state:

> Secondary schools are grouped for competitive athletics according to enrollments. The main objective of this grouping procedure is the health and safety of the students as well as balance in numbers among all groups. Therefore, groupings will be established for all schools only on basis of their enrollments and may not be changed at the request of the school. Such requests tend to circumvent the purposes of grouping. (Id. at 32)

Petitioner avers that by forcing it to play football against much larger schools, respondents have placed the health and safety of Wildwood High School students at risk, thus violating the above-cited articles; i.e., Article III Section 5 of the NJSIAA Constitution expressly provides that the objective of grouping according to enrollments is to protect student health and safety. Thus, by definition, compelling petitioner to play against much larger schools in the CAL places its students at risk.

Petitioner urges, inter alia, at pages 18 to 22 of its brief, that the following be considered by the Commissioner:

1. Wildwood has only 235 students (107 males). The average population of the eight schools petitioner would play in the

CAL is 586, or 2.5 times its size. Seven of the eight schools are more than twice as large as Wildwood, and several are three times as large. Five of the eight schools are either Group III or about to become Group III. Thus, CAL's National Division fails to comply with NJSIAA's Article II Section 2 or Article III Section 5.

2. In order to field a team, petitioner must play freshmen, who are either 13 or 14 years of age, which thrusts them in varsity games against seniors who are 17 and 18; thus increasing the odds of injury. Further, because of the small male population at Wildwood High School, it cannot field a junior varsity or freshman team. Consequently, the freshmen who play varsity enter games against older and larger boys without the skills and experience necessary to protect them. If freshmen do not play, petitioner then has only 17 upperclassmen on the team, which would force them to play both offense and defense, thus increasing the possibility of exhaustion and injury.

3. It seeks an independent football schedule because football, unlike most interscholastic sports, is a contact sport wherein athletes of varying sizes compete against one another.

4. Compelling petitioner to compete in the CAL National Division does not provide equal athletic opportunity and is thus contrary to Article II Section 2 of NJSIAA's Constitution. Thirty-four losing seasons in a row, and a ten-year record of 2-33 in CAL, clearly connote an inability of petitioner to compete in CAL in football. Also, being outscored 1,057 to 210 (a ratio of 5:1) over a ten-year period in CAL indicates a noncompetitive situation. It does not constitute an equal athletic opportunity to be "slaughtered" by 40-50 points. For example, in 1994, petitioner lost 4 games to CAL schools by scores of 44-6, 28-0, 56-0 and 25-8. Each of the schools winning those games have grown larger, while Wildwood has grown smaller.

Petitioner next argues that respondents' refusal to allow an independent football schedule violates Article II Section 1 of their respective Constitutions, which espouse to foster and develop amateur athletics among member schools/secondary schools of the State. It is petitioner's position that applying such a standard to the four options afforded petitioner herein can only lead to the conclusion that respondents' determinations are arbitrary and capricious. More specifically, petitioner maintains that option 1 (continuing in the CAL's small school division) is unreasonable because the "small school division" consists of schools three times its size. (Petitioner's Brief at 25) The second option (continuing in the CAL as a junior varsity program) is, according to petitioner, problematic because it already attempted this option in 1987 and found it "an abject failure." (Ibid.) Moreover, petitioner argues, this option deprives its present students, particularly the seniors, of an opportunity to play varsity football; concomitantly denying them the chance to attract football scholarships because no college recruiters scout junior varsity games. Most significantly, petitioner argues that moving to junior varsity belies the declining population base at its high school, which makes it unlikely that doing so would encourage more athletes to play football. As such, option 2 will neither foster nor develop amateur athletics in football which will, accordingly, violate respondents' Constitutions.

Petitioner deems option 3 (maintaining the CAL membership but dropping football) to be "the most offensive" option offered by respondents, since it does not foster and develop amateur athletics, averring, inter alia, that "[i]f no other aspect of this case is arbitrary and capricious, this option most certainly is." (Petitioner's Brief at 27)

As to option 4 (leaving the League in two years), petitioner sets forth two problems, the first being that it has no place to go at the present time, for although it has made application to the Tri-County Conference, that conference has declined to act on the application. It asserts that, if its application is not accepted by Tri-County, Wildwood will find itself an independent in all sports, which is a "generally untenable position." (Id. at 28) Moreover, the option does not address the 2000 and 2001 seasons.

Given the above, petitioner urges reversal of respondents' determinations. It further argues that the standard of review set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4 requires that respondents' actions be overturned because there is no credible evidence in the record to support the position taken by respondents. As to this, petitioner avers that the minutes of the January 14, 2000 meeting of the CAL contain no findings of fact, nor does the League set forth any specific reason for the denial. Petitioner believes the true reason for the denial was that if Wildwood is allowed to play an independent schedule, then other schools may wish to do so, an argument which petitioner asserts does not constitute a valid reason to violate the health and safety requirements of respondents' Constitutions and Bylaws. In this regard, petitioner states:

> That argument belies the fact that there is no other Group I school in the [CAL]. Wildwood and only Wildwood has this problem. The real issue is that certain schools in the league (St. Augustine, Middle Township) have basketball programs which consistently win State Titles. Those schools have been seeking permission to upgrade their schedule so that they may play more competitive teams. Their desire to play an independent schedule has nothing to do with the health and safety of the students. (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's Brief at 31)

Petitioner further argues that the fact that Pleasantville reverted to a junior varsity program and then returned to the League does not constitute credible evidence supporting a determination that its application should be denied. Pleasantville has 655 students, and thus, a competitive population base; whereas petitioner has only 235 students. In support of this, petitioner cites to the comment of a NJSIAA Special Committee member who stated, "as long as they're a group with a hundred seven [males], they are never going to be competitive in their leagues. It's a numbers' game, with a hundred and seven kids playing Group IIs and Group IIIs, it's not going to happen." (Exhibit 27 at 64). It is petitioner's position that it has presented statistical and historical data which conclusively demonstrate that it cannot compete in CAL football and that the health and safety of its students will be jeopardized if it is required to do so, and it asserts that there is no evidence to the contrary presented by respondents, including the NJSIAA.

As to the NJSIAA, petitioner further avers, inter alia, that Dr. Killeen, Chair of the NJSIAA Special Committee, testified briefly before the Executive Committee and offered no facts, only conclusions, the most relevant one being that the CAL had not violated the NJSIAA Constitution and Bylaws. Petitioner believes the following statement by Dr. Killeen reflects his lack of enthusiasm for his position which reads:

> The Special Committee voted on this item, and the vote was four to one to deny Wildwood's appeal. That's basically the thinking of the committee on the complex issue, complex presentation of facts. Some issues are not easy to determine. I would categorize this as that way. (Exhibit 30 at 56-57)

Finally, petitioner concludes that, absent credible evidence to rebut its unrefuted statistical evidence, the Commissioner should overturn respondents' actions and permit it to play an independent football schedule.

RESPONDENT CAL'S POSITION

The CAL urges, inter alia, that petitioner was granted full due process by both the CAL and the NJSIAA, pointing out that Wildwood had three hearings before the CAL, one before the NJSIAA Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences and one before the NJSIAA's Executive Committee. The CAL further avers that, at each of these hearings, petitioner had a full and complete opportunity to present its arguments and they were reviewed by numerous individuals involved in the fields of education and athletics. At all five hearings it was determined that petitioner should not be permitted to play an independent football schedule or to withdraw immediately from the CAL.

The CAL also argues that the decisions it made, and those made by the NJSIAA, were based on sufficient credible evidence to support its decision in this matter. Moreover, the CAL urges that it has provided petitioner with four reasonable options as discussed above, and that all the rules of the CAL have been applied in a reasonable manner. Consequently, it asserts that the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, has no basis to overturn the decision.

RESPONDENT NJSIAA'S POSITION

The NJSIAA first argues that the hearings before the CAL and the NJSIAA provided petitioner an "extraordinary degree" of due process and that the decisions of those bodies were based on the record. The NJSIAA maintains that, pursuant to the League and Conference Position Statement (NJSIAA Handbook, 1999-2000 at 133-135), the role of the Executive Committee in reviewing a decision of a league or conference "will be limited to determine [sic] whether the actions of the conferences were arbitrary or capricious or in violation of the NJSIAA Constitution and Bylaws. The NJSIAA and its Executive Committee will not substitute its judgment concerning such issues for that of the conference." (Id. at 135) In the instant matter, the NJSIAA provided Wildwood with two hearings at which it was represented by counsel, had an opportunity to present witnesses, was able to cross-examine witnesses from the CAL and the Tri-County Conferences, was permitted to make opening and closing statements and could submit documentary evidence. Further, the proceedings were stenographically recorded and the Special Committee issued a comprehensive decision within two days. The same procedures were accorded before the NJSIAA Executive Committee, which voted overwhelmingly to adopt the Special Committee's report. As to this, the NJSIAA states:

> Both the Special and the Executive Committee were neutral fact finders. The Executive Committee was comprised of 34 separate individuals, each of whom represented a separate constituency. These constituencies included each of the counties in the state, parochial schools, the School Boards Association, the Principals and Supervisors Association, the Council of Catholic Diocesan Superintendents, the Scholastic Coaches Association, the Officials Associations, the Association of Independent Schools, and other groups intimately involved in education. See, NJSIAA Constitution, Article V, Sections 1 to 2d. All Executive > Committee members were well versed in the problems faced by school boards and school administrators in administering athletic programs. None had any special interest in Wildwood's case. The five Executive Committee members who did have a conflict of interest all abstained. (Ex. 30, p. 63). (NJSIAA's Reply Brief at 14)

According to the NJSIAA, at no time during the hearing process did Wildwood make a claim before it that the CAL violated its constitutional process, nor did anything other than provide Wildwood appropriate opportunities to be heard. Yet, at page 14 of its brief, petitioner insinuates that the CAL officials turned down petitioner's requests because they feared disruption of their own football schedules, a claim belied by the CAL's actions which would allow Wildwood to either drop football or play junior varsity, either of which would disrupt the CAL football schedules.

The NJSIAA further argues that its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record, reiterating that petitioner's evidence has now been reviewed five times (three hearings before the CAL and two before the NJSIAA), and each time were rejected. It is the NJSIAA's position that the record supports its determination for five reasons:

> First, CAL procedures allow a school to seek permission to play an independent schedule for two years at a time. The CAL followed those procedures with respect to Wildwood's request. The CAL granted Wildwood's request twice, but after due deliberation, decided not to grant it a third time. The decision was inherently discretionary, and was made after proper procedures were followed. Second, the CAL only granted Wildwood permission to play an independent football schedule on the condition that it use the opportunity to improve its program and that the school develop a plan to improve and come back into the League. It was never meant to be a permanent solution. Third, the objective evidence showed that Wildwood had improved its football program. The team had a winning record (6-4) in 1999, almost qualified for the state playoffs, and had a larger varsity squad than several other schools in the CAL National Conference. The school competes successfully in other sports, including girls basketball, which won a State Championship last year. Fourth, another school, Pleasantville, went through a similar rebuilding process and now has a successful football program that has been reintegrated into the CAL. Fifth, League administrators have a legitimate interest in > keeping the CAL vital, and are concerned about repeated requests by Wildwood and other schools for special exceptions to compete outside the League in specific sports. (Id. at 14-15)

The NJSIAA next argues that it applied its rules in a reasonable manner, averring, inter alia, that there was nothing arbitrary or capricious about the CAL decision, which was based on the CAL's desire to, as expeditiously as possible, carry out the policy expressed in 1996 to reintegrate Wildwood with the rest of the schools in the conference that have football programs. The NJSIAA further avers that the decision was a reflection of a legitimate policy determination to stem the tide of schools seeking independent schedules in certain sports. Moreover, the CAL determined that the Constitution and Bylaws to which all schools, including Wildwood, had committed themselves should be enforced – a special exception had been made for petitioner for four years, and it is now time for Wildwood to compete once more in the CAL, as it had agreed to do.

The NJSIAA asserts that the crux of the issue, and the flaw in petitioner's argument in this matter, is that Wildwood mistakenly believes that it has an absolute right to participate in interscholastic sports, even though petitioner acknowledges it cannot compete and does not want to compete against schools in its own league. As to this, the NJSIAA maintains that the Commissioner has long recognized that there is no right to participate in interscholastic sports and cites as support Bd. of Ed. of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 182, 188 (1992). NJSIAA's Reply Brief at 17. The NJSIAA further emphasizes that, despite petitioner's claim to the contrary, Wildwood is not being forced to play football by anyone other than the Board itself. Furthermore, it is the NJSIAA's contention that petitioner wants the NJSIAA and the Commissioner to absolve it of its responsibilities as a member of the CAL and to ignore NJSIAA's regulations, which state that:

> The Executive Committee wants to strongly emphasize that a school should not have the right to appeal its placement in a > division because the school believes that it should be given a "weaker" or "stronger" schedule. The ability of member schools to have a winning season, or to obtain state or national prominence in its particular sport, is simply not a concern of the Association. (NJSIAA Handbook, 1999-2000 at 134)

Lastly, the NJSIAA argues that, despite its admitted poor performance, Wildwood insists on fielding a football team.[6] Of this, the NJSIAA states:

> Despite its agreement to abide by [CAL] and NJSIAA rules, [petitioner] insists on setting its own football schedule, a schedule that will allow it to avoid schools it does not want to compete against. Fifty-two NJSIAA schools have chosen not to participate in football. Some of those schools have made that decision based on their size and inability to compete; some have made it based on the lack of interest among students; for others the decision has been the result of financial considerations. Not all CAL schools compete in football. (Ex. 27, p. 54). Yet despite its record, Wildwood stubbornly insists on continuing to compete in the sport. At the same time, it resists forming teams in other sports, such as soccer, which don't require the same number of players or amount of resources. Wildwood's excuse that soccer is a "suburban" sport and Wildwood is a "city" school rings hollow. (Ex. 27, p. 39-41). Wildwood admits that JV is not unsafe (Ex. 14, p. 4). If Wildwood were truly interested in the "safety" of its students forced to play the "behemoths from Buena" (Pb 21), it would drop the sport or play JV. (NJSIAA's Brief at 18)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association. The Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188 (1992). That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules absent a finding that NJSIAA applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. Nor may the Commissioner substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he were to decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Committees. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259. Further, the burden of proof rests with the person

[6] By way of a footnote on page 17 of its Reply Brief, NJSIAA states with respect to this issue, that on December 6, 1999, NJSIAA member schools approved an amendment to the Association's Bylaws which allows challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960).

The standard of the Commissioner's review in NJSIAA determinations has been explicitly delineated in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, a regulation recently adopted by the State Board, which reads:

> (a) In determining appeals from NJSIAA decisions, the Commissioner's scope of review shall be appellate in nature.
> 1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his or her judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.
> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner affirms the determination of the NJSIAA to uphold the CAL's denial of petitioner's request that it be allowed to continue the independent football schedule which it was granted by the CAL for the past four years and, in the alternative, to be allowed to leave the CAL immediately, rather than in two years as required by the CAL's Constitution. In so holding, the Commissioner initially notes his agreement with both respondents that petitioner was provided extensive due process in this matter, particularly since NJSIAA's Leagues/Conference Position Statement clearly stipulates that:

> The Association will continue to exercise its supervisory role to assure membership by applicant schools in appropriate conferences and leagues. However, unless it can be shown that there has been a violation of the order of the Commissioner that there be an opportunity for a full schedule of interscholastic sports, there will be no appeals from conference and league scheduling. --- small schools to enter into cooperative sports programs in football and indicates that two such programs have already been approved, i.e., Keyport-Henry Hudson and Palisades-Leonia.

The arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is narrow in its scope and consequently imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge actions of boards of education and the NJSIAA. The standard defined by the New Jersey Courts states:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. (citation omitted) Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citation omitted) Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. (citation omitted) (Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dept. of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974))

In applying the requisite standard of review to the instant matter, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he believed an erroneous conclusion had been reached by the NJSIAA, because the record establishes that respondents did not take willful or unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard to the circumstances. The record demonstrates the CAL granted petitioner's request for an independent football schedule for four years beginning in 1996 (two cycles of two years each), in order for it to build its football program in light of the dismal ten-year win-loss record it had compiled in competing in the CAL, a record which petitioner sets forth at length in its submissions. Thorough review of the record, however, convinces the Commissioner that the CAL was not arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in determining that Wildwood had improved its football program after four years of independent scheduling, which included competition against Group I, Group II and Group III schools, and having achieved a winning record for the

1999 season to the point that a return to the CAL was reasonable.[7] In so holding, the Commissioner concludes that the CAL has a legitimate interest in having its member schools compete within the league and not to allow indefinite independent schedules for particular sports for individual schools within the league.[8]

Consequently, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not met its burden in this matter, having failed to demonstrate that respondent's actions herein were violative of respondents' Constitution and Bylaws, or that the actions of the CAL and NJSIAA were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[9]

There are no data/information provided relative to student health and safety concerns raised by petitioner with respect to competing against large schools in the CAL that would support a determination that playing a league schedule will increase the risk of injury to petitioner's athletes beyond that which is inherent in all football games. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOPE, WARREN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Petitioners, parents of three children attending respondent Board of Education's school, challenged the determination of respondent that their children are not domiciled in the District, and thus are not entitled to a free public education in the District's school. Respondent filed a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligibility.

Prior to the hearing of the case, the ALJ denied petitioners' motion to add the Knowlton School District as a party. Petitioners had sought to add the district to establish that one of its employees told them to enroll their children in respondent's District, and to elicit testimony as to the district wherein petitioners' house is located. After petitioners presented their case at the hearing of this matter, respondent moved to dismiss the petition. The ALJ granted respondent's motion, concluding that the evidence presented compelled a determination that petitioners failed to demonstrate that their children are domiciled in respondent's District, and rejected their assertion that the equitable doctrines of estoppel and laches compel a decision in favor of petitioners. The ALJ also determined that respondent is entitled to tuition for the entire period petitioners' three children attended its school, rejecting petitioners' contentions that they did not intend to defraud respondent and that respondent had "slept on its rights" and thus, is not entitled to reimbursement of tuition. The ALJ concluded that the total amount of tuition owed is $135,662.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's determination that petitioners' children are not entitled to a free public education from respondent, agreeing that the evidence demonstrates that the children are not domiciled in respondent's District. The Commissioner also affirmed the ALJ's denial of petitioners' application to add the Knowlton School District as a party. Finally, the Commissioner modified the ALJ's determination as to the amount of tuition owed respondent by petitioners. The Commissioner concluded that equitable considerations preclude respondent from obtaining reimbursement of tuition for the period prior to April 20, 1999, when respondent notified petitioners that their children were not domiciled in the District. The Commissioner thus ordered that tuition be reimbursed for the period from April 20, 1999 through the 1999-2000 school year.

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

M.F. and P.J.F. (hereinafter sometimes "petitioners") filed petitions with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Hope (respondent) in regard to their children, K.F., J.F. and B.F. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter began with separate petitions filed by P.J.F. and M.F. P.J.F. filed his letter petition on April 26, 1999, and M.F.'s petition was received on May 20, 1999. Both petitions invoked the authority of the Commissioner of Education to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

On June 9, 1999, respondent filed an answer and a counter-petition for reimbursement of tuition. After petitioners filed a reply and an answer to the counter-petition, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 8, 1999, for determination as a contested case.

On August 16, 1999, petitioner filed a motion to bring the Knowlton Board of Education into the case as a third party. On September 14, 1999, respondent filed responsive papers in opposition to the motion and a cross-motion for summary decision. After the parties submitted additional papers, both motions were denied by Order dated November 16, 1999.

The hearing commenced on April 10, 2000, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. At the end of petitioner's case, respondent moved to dismiss the petition. For the reasons set forth below, respondent's motion was granted. On April 11, 2000, respondent presented evidence in regard to its counter-petition. The record closed on May 3, 2000, upon receipt of briefs in regard to the counter-petition for reimbursement of tuition.

ISSUES

As set forth in the prehearing order, the issues in this proceeding are as follows: (1) whether K.F., J.F. and B.F. are domiciled in Hope Township and therefore eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), (2) whether respondent is estopped from denying that K.F., J.F. and B.F. are domiciled in Hope Township, and (3) whether the doctrine of laches is applicable to this proceeding. Additionally, there is the question whether petitioners will be required to pay tuition reimbursement and the amount thereof.

MOTIONS TO DISMISS

At the conclusion of petitioners' case, respondent moved to dismiss. For this type of motion, all of petitioners' evidence must be accepted as true and petitioners must be given the benefit of all legitimate inferences which may be drawn therefrom. Bozza v. Vornado, Inc., 42 N.J. 355, 357 (1964). If under this view of the evidence the proofs would not sustain a judgment in favor of the petitioner, the motion should be granted. Id., at 357-358.

In this proceeding, the parents have the burden to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). In this case, the criterion for eligibility is that the child is domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). In a situation where a residence is located on a parcel which spans a municipal boundary, the location of the land on which the house rests controls the question of the district in which the child is domiciled. Laufer v. Scotch Plain-Fanwood Reg. Schools, 1970 S.L.D. 424, 427.

At the hearing, P.J.F. testified concerning the location of the house. The deed for the property to P.J.F. and M.F. states that the total area is 9.712 acres with 9.586 acres in Knowlton Township and 0.126 acres in Hope Township. A map attached to the deed shows that the property abuts Nightingale Road. Approximately half of the frontage is in Knowlton Township and the other half is in Hope Township. The township line angles to one side of the property creating a triangular area of 0.126 acres. The greatest distance of this area from the road is approximately 200 feet. An easement for a driveway to abutting property runs roughly through the center of this area. The house is situated approximately 500 feet from the road. In response to these circumstances, which clearly suggest that the house is located in Knowlton Township, P.J.F. stated that a surveyor told him that the township line may be off by as much as 200 feet. This led P.J.F. to state that he is not really sure in which municipality the house is located, and he acknowledged that he has no evidence that actually placed the structure in Hope Township.

In regard to other factors, P.J.F. and M.F., who still lives on the property with the three children, testified that they pay property taxes to Knowlton Township and that various permits for the construction of the house were received from Knowlton Township. P.J.F.'s two oldest children, who are M.F.'s stepchildren, attended North Warren Regional High School, which serves Knowlton Township and not Hope Township. On the other hand, personnel from Hope Township once responded to a fire on the property, and P.J.F. voted in Hope Township. M.F.'s mailing address is "Blairstown," because the area is served by a post office in that municipality.

In considering the motion to dismiss, the undersigned determined that the evidence presented by petitioners would not support a finding that the residence was actually located in Hope Township. The substance of petitioners' testimony is that they are not sure in which municipality the residence is located, and indeed, the only reasonable inference that could be drawn from the evidence is that the residence is located in Knowlton Township.

Petitioners contend that respondent should be estopped from claiming that the residence is not in Hope Township. In Carlsen v. Masters, Mates & Pilots Pension Plan Trust, 80 N.J. 334 (1979), the Court set forth the following definition of equitable estoppel:

> * * * effect of the voluntary conduct of a party whereby he is absolutely precluded, both at law and in equity, from asserting rights which might perhaps have otherwise existed * * * as against another person, who has in good faith relied upon such conduct, and has been led thereby to change his position for the worse * * *. [Id., at 339.]

The Court further stated:

> Conduct amounting to a misrepresentation or concealment of material facts, known to the party allegedly estopped and unknown to the party claiming estoppel, done with the intention or expectation that it will be acted upon by the other party and on which the other party does in fact rely in such a manner as to change his position for the worse gives rise to an equitable estoppel. [Ibid.]

The burden of proving a claim of equitable estoppel rests on the proponent thereof. Palatine I v. Planning Bd., 133 N.J. 546, 562 (1993).

M.F. testified that in or about May 1990, she attempted to enroll her daughter, K.F., in the Knowlton school system. However, a secretary told M.F. that she did not live in Knowlton and that K.F. should be enrolled in the Hope Township school system. When M.F. said that she paid taxes to Knowlton, the secretary said that part of the taxes was paid to Hope. When M.F. mentioned that her two stepchildren had gone to North Warren Regional High School, the secretary told M.F. that if she persisted in trying to enroll K.F. in the Knowlton school system, she would be charged tuition for the two older children. Having been rebuffed in her efforts to enroll K.F. in the Knowlton schools, M.F. proceeded to the Hope schools. There, she enrolled K.F. without any problem. However, M.F. acknowledged that she did not mention her effort to enroll K.F. in the Knowlton schools or that she paid taxes to Knowlton.

In regard to the statements of the secretary at the Knowlton schools, this situation cannot lead to an estoppel against respondent, because she is not a party to this proceeding or an agent of a party. With respect to the enrollment of K.F. in respondent's schools, there is no indication that respondent's representatives made any representations to M.F. In fact, it was M.F. who did not mention the fact that her stepchildren went to North Warren Regional High School, indicating that they were enrolled in school through Knowlton, that she had attempted to enroll K.F. in the Knowlton schools and that she paid property taxes to Knowlton. Thus, if anyone concealed information, it was M.F. Under the circumstances, the determination was made based upon petitioners' proofs that equitable estoppel could not be applied to respondent in this case.

"Laches" is "the neglect, for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time, under circumstances permitting diligence, to do what in law should have been done. More specifically, it is inexcusable delay in asserting a right ...." Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 145, 151 (1982). In applying laches, the important factors to consider are the length of the delay, the reason for the delay and any changing conditions of either or both parties during the delay." Id., at 152. It is assumed that a party to whom laches is imputed has knowledge of his rights and the opportunity to assert them in a proper forum. County of Morris v. Fauver, 153 N.J. 80, 105 (1998).

Here, respondent's representatives were certainly aware that M.F. enrolled K.F. in 1990, J.F. in 1992 and B.F. in 1996. Moreover, it is undisputed that respondent notified M.F. of its residency determination in regard to K.F., J.F. and B.F. in or about March 1999. However, petitioners offered no evidence as to the time frame in which respondent became aware that it had a claim against them. Moreover, M.F. acknowledged that she omitted important details when she enrolled her children in the Hope schools. Petitioners also contend that their children have made friends in the Hope schools and that it would be detrimental to them to change schools. However, this circumstance certainly could not justify a determination that K.F., J.F. and B.F. can continue to attend respondent's public schools free of charge indefinitely into the future. Considering all of the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the doctrine of laches should not be applied in this case.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that the petition in this matter challenging respondent's residency determination should be dismissed

COUNTER-PETITION

Respondent filed a counter-petition for tuition reimbursement for the periods of ineligible attendance. The applicable statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), which provides in pertinent part as follows:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district.

Respondent contends that the assessment of tuition is mandatory and that there is no applicable statute of limitations. Petitioners maintain that any liability should begin at the time when petitioners were given notice to remove their children from respondent's schools and that they had no intent to defraud respondent.

Respondent's argument is convincing that the use of the word "shall" in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) makes the assessment of tuition mandatory. In addition, the statute of limitations does not run against the State or any of its agencies or subdivisions, unless the Legislature has specifically so provided. Port Authority of N.Y. and N.J. v. Bosco, 193 N.J. Super. 696, 699 (App. Div. 1984); Hyland v. Kirkman, 157 N.J. Super. 565 (Ch. Div. 1978). A review of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 reveals no statute of limitations.

Petitioners maintain that tuition should not be assessed because they did not intend to defraud respondent. The difficulty with this argument is that an intent to defraud is not required for an assessment of tuition under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). In contrast, a person who has a fraudulent intent under N.J.S.A 18A:38-1(c) commits a disorderly persons offense. It follows that petitioners' argument is without merit.

Petitioners cite Farrell v. Votator Div. of Chemetron Corp., 62 N.J. 111 (1973) for the proposition that when a plaintiff knows or has reason to know that he has a cause of action against a defendant and voluntarily sleeps on his rights to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, considerations of justice and repose indicate that the action should be barred. The implication is that respondent should have acted sooner to make a residency determination. The difficulty with this argument is that it lacks factual support as there is no indication that respondent had any reason to believe that M.F.'s children did not reside within its borders prior to the time that it gave notice to petitioners.

Petitioners cite several cases in which the equities of a particular situation led to a determination not to assess tuition for the entire period of ineligible attendance. However, this case is distinguishable in that it is not established that respondent was aware of the ineligible attendance prior to giving notice, while M.F. knew that she paid taxes to Knowlton Township and that her older children went to a regional high school consistent with a domicile in Knowlton Township. Nonetheless, M.F. entered the three children in question in respondent's public schools rather than those of Knowlton Township. Thus, the equities of the situation do not favor M.F. Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that respondent's counterclaim for assessment of tuition for the entire period of ineligible attendance should be granted.

In support of the counterclaim, respondent submitted a calculation showing an amount of tuition for each year for each child. For K.F., the period of ineligible attendance ran from kindergarten during the 1990-1991 school year to ninth grade during the 1999-2000 school year. The total for the ten-year period is $60,690. For J.F., the period of ineligible attendance ran from kindergarten during the 1992-1993 school year to seventh grade during the 1999-2000 school year. The total for J.F. is $50,161. For B.F., the period of ineligible attendance ran from kindergarten during the 1996-1997 school year to third grade during the 1999-2000 school year. The total for B.F. is $24,811. For the three children, the total is $135,662. The tuition calculation is essentially unchallenged and is FOUND AS FACT. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners should be assessed tuition in the amount of $135,662.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The petition in this matter is dismissed.

2. Respondent's counter-petition for assessment of tuition in the amount of $135,662 is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

M.F. AND P.J.F., on behalf of minor children,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOPE, WARREN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering his decision.[1]

In their exceptions, petitioners request that the case be "reopened," and the Board of Education of Knowlton made a party, claiming judicial error by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) who denied a motion to amend their pleadings to include Knowlton as a party. Knowlton's participation is germane to the case, petitioners argue, since it was a Knowlton School District secretary who informed M.F. that her children belonged in the Hope School District, and also informed M.F. that she would be subject to tuition charges for her stepchildren (who had previously attended school in Knowlton) if she persisted in trying to enroll her children in the Knowlton School District. Petitioners further argue that Knowlton's participation is necessary to obtain information regarding the change of placement of a monument that possibly redistricted the Knowlton and Hope Townships. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1-2)

Petitioners also aver that their due process rights were violated because they were assessed tuition for the entire time all their children were enrolled in Hope Township's School,

despite the District's lack of notice for nine years that the children did not belong in the Hope School District. (Id. at 3) Alleging that there was no intent to defraud the School District, petitioners contend that in cases of disputed domicile, parents have been held liable for tuition only after they became aware that they were in the incorrect district. Petitioners cite in support thereof: Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Monmouth County, EDU 164-97 (October 23, 1997), adopted by the Commissioner of Education December 8, 1997 (Decision No. 633-97), aff'd State Board June 2, 1999; L.B. v. Board of Education of the Township of Teaneck, Bergen County, EDU 5472-97 (August 7, 1998), adopted by the Commissioner of Education September 24, 1998 (Decision No. 416-98), aff'd State Board January 6, 1999; and Board of Education of the Hunterdon Regional School District v. E. F. and G.F., EDU 6247-98 (December 21, 1999), adopted by the Commissioner of Education February 3, 2000 (Decision No. 49-00), aff'd State Board June 7, 2000. Petitioners submit that they should, at most, only be liable for tuition for the 1999-2000 school year. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 4)

Initially, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that inclusion of the Knowlton School District as a party is not necessary for a fair determination in this matter. Petitioners seek to include Knowlton because: 1) they allege that they relied on information provided to them by the secretary to the superintendent of the Knowlton Schools in enrolling their children in the Hope Township School;[2] and 2) petitioners allege that the townships may have been redistricted. The Commissioner notes that respondent does not dispute petitioners' assertion that a secretary in the Knowlton District advised M.F. that her children should be enrolled in the Hope Township school system.[3] Also, Richard J. Motyka, the tax assessor for both the Township of Hope and the Township of Knowlton, certified that any redistricting of the townships is reflected on the current tax maps. See October 4, 1999 Amended Certification of

[2] Petitioners did not seek, by subpoena or otherwise, to have the secretary testify on their behalf.
[3] Respondent, however, does challenge the secretary's authority to bind the District. (Respondent's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment at 5)

Richard Motyka at para. 1 and 12. According to the tax maps, less than two-tenths of one acre of petitioner's property is located in Hope Township, and the remaining 9.586 acres of petitioner's property and all improvements are located in Knowlton Township. (Id. at para. 5 and 6) Mr. Motyka also certified that, from 1992 to present, all property taxes on petitioners' property have been paid to Knowlton Township. (Id. at para. 8) Accordingly, as stated above, there is no dispute as to the content of the secretary's comments, and Mr. Motyka's certification answers the question of the effect of any redistricting. It is, therefore, not necessary to include Knowlton as a third party for resolution of the factual issues raised by petitioners.[4]

Upon his careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's conclusion that petitioners have failed to prove that they are domiciled in respondent's District, so as to permit their minor children to attend school free of charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Notwithstanding the finding that petitioners were not domiciled in respondent's District during the relevant period so as to entitle their children to attend school in that District free of charge, the record does not support a finding that petitioners understood prior to notification by the Board on April 20, 1999[5] that their children were not enrolled in the appropriate school district. Respondent does not allege, nor is there anything in the record to suggest, that petitioners failed to provide the information requested when enrolling their children in respondent's school or that they provided erroneous information to the District upon enrolling their children in respondent's school. It is undisputed that M.F. attempted to enroll her oldest [4] Petitioners sought no relief against Knowlton in their proposed Amended Petition. Rather, they sought only to establish the above factual assertions. Therefore, there is no need to determine whether Knowlton may be joined as a party for purposes of assessing liability against it.

[5] The Chief School Administrator for the Hope Township School District notified petitioners by letter of March 29, 1999 that there was a question as to whether petitioners were domiciled in Hope Township. The Board, subsequently, held a hearing on the issue of petitioners' residency at its regularly scheduled meeting on April 13, 1999. By letter of April 20, 1999, petitioners were notified of the Board's determination that petitioners and their children were residents of Knowlton, and thus not entitled to a free education in the Hope Township School. (Answer and Counter-Petition, Exhibit B) child, K.F., in the Knowlton School District, whereupon the secretary to the superintendent informed her that K.F. must be enrolled in respondent's District or M.F. would be subject to tuition charges.[6] While it may not have been prudent for M.F. to have relied on the information provided by a secretary in the Knowlton School District, M.F. reasonably assumed that the information was accurate.[7] The ALJ concluded that M.F. deliberately concealed information from respondent by failing to mention her effort to enroll K.F. in the Knowlton Schools, by failing to mention that her step-children had attended the regional high school consistent with domicile in Knowlton, and by failing to note that she paid taxes to Knowlton. The Commissioner disagrees. The record does not reveal any intent on the part of petitioners to withhold this information or that respondent ever requested such information.

While a claimant's perception of domicile cannot override legal and geographical realities, the Commissioner finds that it would be inequitable to assess tuition against petitioners prior to April 20, 1999 under the particular facts of this matter, where petitioners domicile is situated on land which overlaps municipal boundaries, where petitioners reasonably relied on respondent's acceptance of their children as students for the previous nine years, and where there is no evidence in the record indicating that petitioners knew they were not domiciled in respondent's district prior to notice from the District. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that fundamental fairness dictates that respondent be estopped from collecting tuition from petitioners for the period of ineligible attendance prior to April 20, 1999. See East Orange v. Bd. of Water Com'rs., etc., 41 N.J. 6, 19 (1963) ("equitable principles of estoppel may be applied against public bodies where the interests of 'justice, morality and common fairness' dictate that course."); State, Dept. of Envir. Protection v. Stavola, 103 N.J. 425, 436 n.2 (1986) ("Any administrative agency in determining how best to effectuate public policy is also limited by applying principles of fundamental fairness."); H.M. and L.M. v. Board of Education of the Township of Freehold, Monmouth County, decided by the State Board April 2, 1997; Akbar Zadran v. Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, Essex County, decided by the State Board of Education April 1, 1998; Board of Education of the Borough of Fort Lee v. Kintos, Docket #A-4944-93T5 (App. Div. October 13, 1995); and Lee, supra.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's conclusion that petitioners have failed to prove that they are domiciled in respondent's District, so as to permit their minor children to attend school free of charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 for the reasons expressed therein. As noted above, however, the Commissioner modifies the ALJ's decision with respect to reimbursement of tuition, and petitioners are hereby ordered to reimburse respondent for tuition costs for the period of their children's ineligible attendance following their notification by respondent on April 20, 1999. Therefore, for the period of ineligible attendance from April 21, 1999 until the end of the 1998-1999 school year, such tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the tuition rate of $7,000 per child, multiplied by the number of remaining days in the school year. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2). For the period of ineligible attendance for the 1999-2000 school year, petitioners shall be assessed tuition for K.F. in the amount of $5,700, J.F. in the amount of $5250 and B.F. in the amount of $5,250.[8]

[8] In support of its counterclaim, respondent submitted a tuition calculation for each year for each child. (Exhibit, R-3) Petitioners do not contest the tuition rates set forth therein.

The record of this matter, including the Initial Decision with attached Order by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and letters from the parties indicating resolution of this matter, has been reviewed.

The Commissioner initially notes that the terms of the executed settlement reached between the parties referenced by the ALJ are not appended to the Initial Decision nor are they included in the record. The Commissioner also observes that the Order included in the Initial Decision effectuates a term of the proposed settlement agreement prior to its approval by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Under the circumstances in this matter, the Board would have been in violation of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 had it effectuated the terms of the settlement prior to its approval by the Commissioner. The ALJ and the parties are, therefore, cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in controverted matters that have been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

In the absence of the specific terms of the parties' settlement agreement so as to permit his full review under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, the Commissioner finds it necessary to remand this matter to the OAL. Accordingly, the matter is hereby remanded for supplementation of the record and modification of the Initial Decision to include the executed Settlement Agreement between the parties or further proceedings as necessary, such that the record has sufficient information for the Commissioner to reach a final determination.

J.M., on behalf of minor children, M.C.C. AND M.C.C.,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, grandmother of students M.C.C. and M.C.C., challenged the Board's determination that they were not entitled to a free public education in the District in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner obtained custody of the children because she believed that it would satisfy the school residency requirements. The ALJ concluded that petitioner did not establish that she supported the children gratis. Moreover, the ALJ determined that the living arrangement and custody appeared to be temporary. The ALJ ordered that petitioner reimburse the Board tuition in the amount of $13,827.60.

The Commissioner reversed the decision of the ALJ. The Commissioner concluded that an analysis pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the "affidavit student" provision, was inappropriate once it was determined that J.M. had legal custody of M.C.C. and M.C.C. Consistent with decisional law, the Commissioner further held that the motives of petitioner in obtaining an order transferring custody to J.M. are not subject to inquiry, and, absent a showing of fraud or other exceptional circumstances, M.C.C. and M.C.C are domiciled in Hamilton and entitled to a free public education from the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) until such time as legal and physical custody no longer rests with J.M. Finally, the Commissioner determined that the Board is not entitled to reimbursement of tuition.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 118-00

AGENCY DKT. NO. 287-9/99

J.M., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN,
M.C.C. AND M.C.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF HAMILTON TOWNSHIP, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

J. M., petitioner, pro se

Dennis M. DeSantis, Esq., for respondent (Destribats, Campbell, DeSantis, Magee & O'Donnell, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 16, 2000 Decided: June 16, 2000

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN:

This matter commenced on September 27, 1999, when J.M., grandmother of minor children M.C.C. and M.C.C., (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal seeking an order from the Commissioner of Education requiring the Board of Education of Hamilton Township (hereinafter respondent) to permit M.C.C. and M.C.C. to attend the public schools in respondent's district free of charge. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on December 17, 1999, and on January 11, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

By letter dated March 24, 2000, the undersigned wrote to the parties as follows:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that petitioner is entitled to an expedited hearing in the above-captioned matter. Accordingly, I have scheduled this matter for hearing at 9 a.m. on April 11, 2000 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. At that time it will be Ms. M.'s burden to prove by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that M.C.C. and M.C.C. are entitled to attend the public schools of Hamilton Township free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The school board's witnesses will testify after those for Ms. M.

Thereafter by order issued April 3, 2000, the undersigned directed petitioner to provide fully responsive certified answers to interrogatories no later than April 6, 2000 and forwarded to petitioner a copy of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the relevant statutory provisions concerning who may attend school free of charge. The hearing was conducted as scheduled on April 11, 2000, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. Following the close of the hearing, by memorandum dated April 25, 2000 and received on April 27, 2000, petitioner forwarded a copy of a Consent Order concerning custody of the minor children signed by Jane Grall, J.S.C., on April 18, 2000. By letter dated June 8, 2000, the undersigned requested that counsel for respondent forward an official school calendar for the 1999-2000 school year. The calendar was provided under cover-letter dated June 13, 2000, which was received on June 16, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

Some of the facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and accordingly I FIND the following as uncontested facts.

In June 1999, petitioner, who is the maternal grandmother of minor children, M.C.C. and M.C.C., resided in a one-bedroom apartment at 202 E. Court, Hamilton Township. On August 13, 1999, petitioner completed a form "Affidavit-Host Family Domiciled in Hamilton Township" wherein she stated that T.C. (her daughter) and her children, M.C.C. and M.C.C., were domiciled in petitioner's home. In the blank on the form provided for indicating whether the arrangement was temporary or permanent, petitioner wrote the word "permanent." Petitioner's daughter T.C. completed an "Affidavit-Parents Residing with Host Family" on August 13, 1999, wherein T.C. reported her address as 202 E. Court. Thereafter by letter dated August 24, 1999, respondent wrote to petitioner as follows:

> After reviewing the paper work that was turned in, it is necessary to have a copy of your lease with Mrs. T. C.'s name on it.
> If the name is not on the lease, you will need a letter from the lease company stating that it is okay for Mrs. C. to live with you.
> If you have any questions, please contact me at 890-3101.

In fact T.C.'s name was not on the lease and T.C. was not residing with petitioner at 202 E. Court. Thereafter, petitioner filed an action in Superior Court to obtain custody of the two minor children M.C.C. and M.C.C. On September 24, 1999, Gerald J. Council, J.S.C., signed a Consent Order awarding temporary custody to petitioner "as agreed between the parties." T.C., petitioner's daughter, then completed a "Non-Resident Parent-Information Sheet" on a form provided by respondent. She signed the form on September 22, 1999, certifying that the information on the sheet was true. The sheet, which was provided to respondent on or about September 24, 1999, states that the court had awarded custody to petitioner. Following the printed question, "Do you contribute toward child support?" T.C. wrote "yes." Where the form continued, "If yes, how much yearly?" T.C. wrote "$4,800." The next question provides, "If not, please state the reason that you are not able to support or provide care for this student." The line for an answer following that question was left blank. A letter dated September 22, 1999, from the Rental Manager at petitioner's apartment complex, addressed "To Whom It May Concern," confirms that "Ms. M. has acquired custody of her two grandchildren M.C. Jr., age 9, and M.C., age 8," and states that the apartment complex will permit them all to reside in the one-bedroom unit at 202 E. Court until they can be transferred to a larger unit. (On November 15, 1999, they moved to 210 E. Court, a two-bedroom unit.)

Respondent denied the application for enrollment of the students. The denial letter addressed to petitioner, dated 9/24/99, states in pertinent part, "Mother cannot support the child in any way." The denial letter also provided instructions for filing an appeal with the Commissioner. Also on September 24, 1999, petitioner prepared the following appeal of respondent's determination:

> After numerous of attempts to resolve the above matter since 8-25-99 I had no choice but to file a complaint in the courts. Each time I called your office 609 890-3101 I was told; you left for the day > on vacation
> all booked up > out sick
> we'll call you back
>
> This continued until 9/21 when I went to Mercer Court, but was referred to Hamilton Twp. Clerk's Office on Greenwood Ave. for help.
>
> Ms. Eileen Gore assisted me by contacting Mr. Offredo immediately; and I spoke to him. Only then he offered to assist me but I was on lunch, and asked him to schedule me 9/22. He gave me 9 a.m. First, I had to pick up more forms to be completed by my daughter T.C. (NON RESIDENT PARENT and GUARDIAN AFFIDAVIT for myself.
>
> Question? Do you contribute towards child support yes
> If yes how much? $4800 (yearly)
>
> Immediately, Mr. Offredo terminated the hearing and said "You are denied) but you can file an appeal. However, the children will not be able to attend school until after you have received a letter of denial or acceptance from the Commissions Office.
> I asked how long will that take, he got up and walked out to make copies of the completed forms. Upon returning he provided no more information.

> On the same day (9-21) I called the Hamilton Twp. Court and spoke with Ms. Lynn Hoagland and she reassured me she'll research the problem and try to find out when the children can start to school. When I spoke again with her the same day she stated didn't you know you can do an appeal and send them to school? My answer had to be no because that's not what was told to me by A. Offredo.
> What & why I'm appeal?
>
> Because if you look on the form the question ask how much per year? I only got them after school closed on 6/21/99. My daughter and I had made a verbal agreement, but it has not been a year, nor has any money transpired. It was a simple error that was deliberately blown up to be more. I know without a doubt that the intent was deliberate to discourage me. You discriminated towards me as a legal guardian and it shall be determined what federal laws were broken.
> Mr. Offredo, willfully and intentionally withheld rules, regulations, and facts on how to file for enrollment of new students. He has offended me in the worst way; and by no means is this over.

The appeal was filed in the Commissioner's office on September 27, 1999 and on September 28, 1999, the students were admitted to school in respondent's district, pending the determination of the residency dispute pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

After the hearing took place in the within matter, Jane Grall, J.S.C., signed a Consent Order on April 18, 2000, which provided in pertinent part, as follows:

> It is hereby ORDERED that custody of the minor children, M.C., Jr. and M.C., shall be transferred to defendant, T.C., on June 30, 2000 at which time defendant shall have her own residence. If defendant does not have her own residence and proof thereof, the children shall remain with plaintiff, J.M., until defendant establishes her own residence.

This concludes the recitation of uncontested facts.

Petitioner testified that prior to June 21, 1999, her daughter T.C. and her daughter's children, M.C.C. and M.C.C., resided in Roselle, New Jersey and the children attended the Roselle public schools. She testified that because her daughter had decided to move to the Bronx and because petitioner did not want the children to live in the Bronx or to go to school there, there was an agreement that the children would live with petitioner in Hamilton Township. Petitioner testified that after the children came to live with her at the end of June 1999, she went to the Kuser School and spoke with the secretary there who asked her about the living arrangements. It was petitioner's testimony that at that time she was not sure what was going to happen, that she expected her daughter would be there some weekends, and the secretary had said she would send her papers in the mail. The Host Family form arrived in the mail with instructions to go to the central office to register the kids for school, petitioner testified. When she went on her lunch hour, she was told she needed an appointment, but one of the other parents gave her his slot and she was able to give her papers to Mr. Offredo, the Residency Officer. She testified that although she told Mr. Offredo at that time that T.C. was not going to be living with her, that T.C. would be taking an apartment in New York, she had nevertheless later received the August 24, 1999 letter (quoted hereinabove) requesting proof that T.C.'s name was on the lease. She said she then tried to get in touch with Mr. Offredo again by telephone, but that he did not return her phone calls. She insisted that she had told him that the plans had changed and that T.C. was going to take an apartment in the Bronx. Thereafter, she testified, at the suggestion of another residency officer, John E. Conner, she and her daughter and her former son-in-law went to the Mercer County Superior Court so that legal custody could be awarded to petitioner. After seeking the intervention of Eileen Gore, in the Hamilton Township Clerk's office, who called Mr. Offredo on petitioner's behalf, petitioner was finally able to get an appointment with Mr. Offredo, she indicated. On September 22, 1999, when she appeared for her appointment she was given more forms to fill out, she indicated, including the Non-Resident Parent Form. Later when Mr. Offredo reviewed the forms and noted that T.C. had indicated a $4800 annual contribution toward the support of the children, he had told her that enrollment would be denied. Petitioner said she explained that it was just a verbal agreement, that no money had yet transpired since the children had only been with her since the end of June. According to petitioner, Mr. Offredo then jerked the papers out of her hands and said that the children were denied and told her that a letter would be coming. She further testified that because the children were still out of school at this point, she then called the Hamilton Township Clerk's office again and was told how she could file an appeal with the Commissioner and that the children could then go to school.

On cross-examination petitioner acknowledged that she wanted the children to live with her for two reasons; she did not want them in New York City because of the crime rate there and because of the school system. She felt that by living with her the children would have a better environment and a better school system. Petitioner testified that she had convinced her daughter and her former son-in-law that having the children live with her would be a better way. She also acknowledged on cross-examination that her former son-in-law is paying child support for M.C.C. and M.C.C. She did not know how much he was ordered to provide, and she indicated that she had not received any of it. "I have to go back to court to get the support shifted to me," she said. Although her daughter did not give her any of the money, T.C. did buy the children school clothes, petitioner testified. When asked about future intentions for returning the custody of the children to her daughter, petitioner testified that it was not her intention to take the children away from their mother permanently, but that she was only helping out. "I have my own life and my own bills," she indicated. When questioned by the undersigned about the Court-Ordered Custody Agreement, petitioner acknowledged that the Custody Order was for six months and that she had a court date for April 18, 2000, where it could be extended for another six months.

T.C., petitioner's daughter, testified that the children had gone to live with her mother because her mother did not want them to move to the Bronx. Concerning the Non-Resident Parent Form, she testified that she and her mother had anticipated a certain amount that she would give to her mother to help out with the cost of raising the children; that was why she had put "$4800" on the form, she said, not because any money had actually changed hands. She acknowledged that her former husband has been under a child support court order since 1995, although she denied that he made any regular support payments. According to T.C. he was approximately $37,000 in arrears. She acknowledged that from time to time she does receive payments through the Probation Department when he goes on unemployment or when he gets a job where they catch up with him. The most recent checks she had received from the Probation Department were in February of 2000. The first check was $108.40, she said, and the other four or five were between $51 and $54 each. She expected to receive another one, perhaps on Thursday of the week of the hearing. Finally, she indicated that it was her intention on April 18, 2000, when they went back to the court concerning custody, to ask for custody of her children back since she was residing in Linden now and the Linden schools are okay. On cross-examination she indicated that she buys clothes for the children and that the checks she has received from her former husband have been spent entirely on the children. When she comes to visit at her mother's apartment on the weekends, she entertains them or takes them for haircuts, etc. Sometimes I might take them to Linden with me to my friend's house, she added. She testified that after she moved to New York in July 1999, she was working in Perth Amboy at a hair salon up until December 1999. She had not worked since then, except to do hair at home, but was anticipating starting a new job in May of 2000. Before she moved to the Bronx she was on disability and then unemployment, she testified.

Albert Offredo, a Residency Investigator for respondent, testified that petitioner had told him that her daughter would be moving in with her, that the forms which were provided to his office on or about August 24, 1999, confirmed that and accordingly, he had sent out the August 24 letter asking for proof that the daughter and the children were on the lease. After approximately two weeks went by he got a call from petitioner, he testified, wherein she advised that she would not be enrolling the children in school after all. On September 21, 1999, he received another call from petitioner wherein she said the circumstances had changed, and he had advised her that she would have to fill out another form or affidavit of guardianship. He indicated that although he had heard petitioner testify in the courtroom that she had had difficulty getting an appointment, he did not understand how that could be the case; "I never took a vacation day or a sick day since I started," he said. According to Mr. Offredo he had explained the law of guardianship to petitioner and her daughter and he had given them forms to fill out. When they returned the completed forms later in the day and he looked at them, he told them that the daughter could not be contributing to child support. At that point, he testified, petitioner became very upset and said she had been getting the run-around trying to get the children enrolled. Mr. Offredo said that he had tried to explain the appeal process to petitioner, but she left before he could complete the explanation because she was upset. The denial was based on parental support, he said. Finally, Mr. Offredo testified that the annual per pupil cost in Hamilton for 1999-2000 is $7,452. The per diem cost for each child is $41.40. The children started school on September 28, 1999 and currently continue in attendance. The official school calendar, C-1 in evidence, shows 167 school days between September 28, 1999 and June 14, 2000, the last day of school for students.

With respect to the disputed facts, I FIND that Mr. Offredo did tell petitioner on September 22, 1999, that there was an appeal process and that after the appeal was filed in the Commissioner's office, the children could attend school. Even petitioner's own appeal letter filed with the Commissioner on September 27, acknowledges it. Most of the other facts in the individuals' testimony are not really disputed, and accordingly I hereby incorporate them to the extent that they are relevant and material.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the statute relevant to a determination of this matter, provides in pertinent part, as follows:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be > accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child.

In the present matter, it is clear from the evidence provided that, notwithstanding the sworn statements in the August 13, 1999 affidavits referenced hereinabove at page 3, petitioner's daughter, T.C., never intended to reside in her mother's apartment at 202 E. Court and, in fact, she never did. At the time the children moved into 202 E. Court, it was their mother's intention to move to the Bronx, something which she promptly did. Accordingly, at no time relevant to these proceedings has T.C. been domiciled in Hamilton Township.

Domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, s/he intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), affirmed 58 N.J. 112 (1971). Accordingly, T.C.'s domicile was Roselle and then the Bronx. A child's domicile is the domicile of his parents, or if the parents are divorced, the domicile of the custodial parent with whom they live. See Roxbury Bd. of Ed. v. Milford Bd. of Ed., 283 N.J. Super. 505, 521-522 (App. Div. 1995). Accordingly, the children were not domiciled in Hamilton and were not entitled to attend respondent's schools free of charge pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

Petitioner certainly meets some of the qualifications set forth in paragraph b of the statute. She herself is certainly domiciled within the school district. Since September 24, 1999, petitioner has had legal custody of the children. Legal custody alone, however, is insufficient to establish eligibility under the statute. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Cranford v. A. McG. and L.M., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 74. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b provides that a child living with a person domiciled within the school district is entitled to a free education upon the filing by the child's parent that she "is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district." The paperwork filed by petitioner and her daughter does not establish that T.C. was not capable of supporting or providing care for the children. In fact the paperwork indicates that T.C. would be contributing $4800 toward the care of the children. The fact that the parent does not provide support is not the key determinate, but whether the parent could provide support. Clearly at the relevant time periods herein T.C. did have some financial resources. After she moved to the Bronx, she worked as a hairdresser at a salon until December 1999, and before that she collected disability benefits and unemployment benefits. She also worked at home as a hairdresser and received some child support payments from the children's father. She could have provided support and care for the children. The reason the children were not with her in the Bronx was not because of her inability to support or care for them, but rather because petitioner felt that it would be better for them to live with her in Hamilton Township. While petitioner's intentions in this regard are understandable and even laudable, they do not entitle the children to attend school in the district free of charge. Furthermore, the custody order entered was clearly temporary and the subsequent order anticipates that T.C. will resume custody of her children at the conclusion of the school year. This is not the type of situation envisioned by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. The facts in the within matter are somewhat similar to those in Board of Education of the Township of Cranford v. A.McG. and L.M., supra. In that case the Commissioner adopted the decision of the administrative law judge who concluded:

> I reject respondents' claim that the custody order issued to the grandmother gives the children the right to obtain a free public education in Cranford. Custody alone is not enough to establish eligibility under the statute. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) states that a child living with a person domiciled within the school district is entitled to a free education upon the filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a "sworn statement that he is not supporting the child," due to family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement must be substantiated by documentation pertaining only to the support or nonsupport of the child. Respondents failed to provide documentation or convincing testimony regarding their inability to support the children. Moreover, the evidence shows that the grandmother misconstrued her discussion with Board personnel; she obtained custody of the children because she believed it would satisfy school residency requirements. Id. at 77.

In the within matter I likewise CONCLUDE that petitioner obtained custody of the children because she believed it would satisfy the school residency requirements. I CONCLUDE that she has not established that she supports the children gratis; certainly non-cash contributions were made by T.C. and cash contributions, which were made by the children's father, were spent on the children as well. The living arrangement and the custody were only temporary, and it appears that they probably will not continue past the end of June 2000. For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner reimburse respondent in accordance with tuition rates calculated pursuant to the formula established by the New Jersey Department of Education and as set forth in the testimony of Albert Offredo and in exhibit R-8 in evidence and in exhibit C-1, in the amount of $13,827.60 [(167 x 41.40) x 2].

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

J.M., on behalf of minor children, M.C.C. AND M.C.C.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons set forth herein. The record clearly demonstrates that on September 24, 1999, J.M. was granted legal custody of M.C.C. and M.C.C. On April 18, 2000, the Court ordered transfer of custody of these children to T.C., their natural mother, as of June 30, 2000, contingent upon T.C. having her own residence. Further, the Court ordered that if T.C. did not have her own residence on that date, custody of the children was to remain with J.M. until such time as T.C. establishes her own residence. (Exhibit P-15) Based on these facts, the Commissioner finds and determines that M.C.C. and M.C.C. were entitled, during the period in dispute herein, to attend school in the Hamilton Township School District free of charge pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). As was determined by the Commissioner and affirmed by the State Board of Education in L.A. v. Board of Education of the Town of West Orange, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 266 (1996), aff'd by the State Board of Education 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554 (1997); and V.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Quinton, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 124, aff'd by the State Board of Education 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d 554 (1997), as of the date that a resident of a district takes legal control of a child, entitlement to attend school free of charge is no longer to be examined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the "affidavit student" provision.

Consequently, in the instant matter, once J.M. assumed legal and physical custody of M.C.C. and M.C.C., the only appropriate inquiry for the Board was whether J.M. and M.C.C. and M.C.C. were domiciled in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Inasmuch as the Board does not dispute that J.M. is domiciled in Hamilton, and the domicile of the child follows that of the parent or guardian having legal custody over him or her, Mansfield Twp. BOE v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 479-480 (Sup. Ct. 1925), it is hereby found and determined that M.C.C. and M.C.C. were entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), as of the date J.M. acquired legal custody of them. See also Y.L., on behalf of M.A. v. Board of Education of South Orange-Maplewood, Number 658-97, decided by the Commissioner of Education December 24, 1997. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that there is no claim of fraud on the part of petitioner. See, L.A., supra; V.H., supra; and Y.L., supra. Further, as was stated in L.A., and affirmed by the State Board, "the motives pertinent to the custody order are not determinative. The order must be accepted on its face." L.A., supra, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 269. See also Y.L., supra. Lastly, unlike the circumstances found in Cranford, supra, there is no claim that M.C.C. and M.C.C. were not residing with J.M.

Accordingly, having determined that M.C.C. and M.C.C were eligible, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), to attend school in the Hamilton Township School District during the 1999-2000 school year, the recommendation of the ALJ ordering tuition payment by petitioner is herein reversed. Further, it is determined that their eligibility for a free education in the Hamilton Township School District will continue until such time as J.M. no longer retains custody of M.C.C. and M.C.C. or there is a change of domicile affecting entitlement to a free education in Hamilton.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend removal of the above-named Board member from office for failure to attend the Board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission sent ample notice to the above-named Board member of his failure to attend such training sessions; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), on April 14, 2000 the Commission issued an Order to Show Cause why a penalty should not be imposed for such failure; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member submitted a response to the Commission indicating that his demanding work schedule which requires him to work seven days a week precluded his prior attendance, but that he planned to attend the October 24, 2000 session; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on May 23, 2000 to recommend that the above-named Board member be allowed to attend a June 2000 training session, if possible, and, if he failed to do so, that he be suspended until he attends a required training program; and

Whereas, the Commission further voted on May 23, 2000, that the above-named Board member be removed from office if he fails to so attend a required training program by the end of October 2000, and memorialized such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, on June 26, 2000, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner of Education a response to said resolution; and

Whereas, no response was forthcoming; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has confirmed that the above-named Board member did not attend a June training session; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of the matter and the decision of the Commission and concurs with and adopts as his own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member, having failed to attend a June training session, is suspended from office as of the date of this decision, pending his attendance at the October training session, but is hereby removed from said office, without further proceedings, should he fail to attend the October training session as scheduled.*

: DECISION

Petitioning parent sought reimbursement for tuition costs, setting forth numerous complaints and grievances against respondent school district in a letter to the Commissioner of Education. The letter was considered a petition of appeal, and the case was transmitted to the OAL for a hearing.

At the OAL, respondent moved to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Respondent also asserted several procedural deficiencies in the petition. The ALJ granted the motion to dismiss, holding that the petition did not meet the minimal standards regarding parties, allegations and relief; that all allegations concerning events prior to 90 days before November 1, 1999 were out-of-time; and that no allegations against P.C.'s teacher were properly before the Commissioner of Education.

Noting that he had construed this matter as a claim for reimbursement of the costs of providing a tutor for petitioner's daughter due to alleged failures on the part of the District, the Commissioner concluded petitioner failed to articulate and prove specific bases for her claim to be cognizable before him. Petition was dismissed.

Craig U. Dana, Esq., appearing for respondent
(Morris, Downing & Sherred, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 29, 2000 Decided: June 27, 2000

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On November 1, 1999, L.C. sent a seven page handwritten letter plus attachments concerning her daughter, P.C., to five entities including the Department of Education. The Commissioner of Education transmitted the letter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 11, 2000, for a hearing as a contested case.

On January 17, 2000, counsel for P.C.'s second grade teacher filed a Motion to Intervene, which is still pending. On April 13, 2000, counsel for the respondent Board of Education of the Township of Montague (District) and petitioner had a telephone conference with the undersigned. Petitioner tried to raise other complaints she had about the District but was informed that matters not raised in the November 1, 1999, letter were not included in this proceeding. Counsel for the District stated during the telephone conference that the District intended to move to dismiss. On May 17, 2000, the District filed a Motion to Dismiss. The record was held open for 10 days to allow the petitioner to answer. Petitioner faxed a letter on May 16, 2000, disagreeing with some factual allegations in the District's brief, which she received prior to the OAL, but did not file anything further expressing disagreement with the legal argument of the District.

In the November 1, 1999 letter (the November letter) petitioner stated many complaints about P.C.'s education in the District since September 1997, including complaints concerning conduct of P.C.'s classmates, failure to have P.C.'s eyes examined, unfair tests, a stolen winter coat, marking of homework answers, lack of workbook on science test, and methods of classroom instructions. The parent also disputed the teachers' recommendations at the end of kindergarten and first grade that P.C. be retained. Petitioner did not ask for any relief from the District or the Commissioner concerning these complaints.

In Fall 1999, petitioner had many complaints concerning P.C.'s second grade teacher. In the November letter petitioner stated that she wanted to bring tenure charges against that teacher. Because at an October 29, 1999 meeting, P.C.'s teachers stated that P.C. had a lot of learning difficulties and because the District had no after school program, L.C. also stated in the November letter that she had hired a tutor to start November 14, 1999, and intended to bill the District for the tutor. The letter does not request a hearing or any intervention by the Commissioner of Education.

To initiate a contested case before the Department of Education concerning a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner must file a petition of appeal and serve it in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to 1.5. The petition together with any supporting papers must be served on each respondent. The petitioner must then file proof of this service. In no case may a petitioner submit materials to the Commissioner which have not been served upon respondent. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13(a). The petitioner must file the petition no later than "the 90th day from the receipt of the notice of final order, ruling, or any other action by the District Board of Education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). The regulations require the format of the petition to include the name and address of each party respondent, a statement of the specific allegation and essential facts supporting them which give rise to a dispute under the school law, the relief the petitioner is seeking and a notarized statement of verification or certification in lieu of affidavit for each petitioner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(a). The petition must also cite, if known to the petitioner, the section of the school laws under which the controversy has arisen. Id.

To make allowance for the fact that some petitioners filing appeals would not be represented by counsel, the regulations provide that the petition submitted by a pro se petitioner that substantially conforms with the required format would be accepted even if not in the prescribed technical form. "However, where a petition does not meet minimal standards regarding parties, allegation, or relief sought, it may be returned to the petitioner without being filed." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(b). Any submission returned to the petitioner for this reason must be accompanied by a letter noting the date of the submissions receipt and identifying deficiencies deemed to constitute substantial noncompliance. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(b)1.

Having read the November letter several times I FIND that it does not meet minimal standards regarding parties, allegations, and relief sought and therefore should have been returned to the petitioner without being filed. First, it is not verified, which could be rectified. Moreover, it contained many allegations against individual teachers and students but the letter does not request any specific remedy against them. Additionally, it is very difficult to comprehend what relief, if any, is sought against the District. Moreover, the letter itself does not seemed to address the Commissioner or describe a dispute or controversy ripe for adjudication.

Importantly, the majority of incidents described in the letter took place when P.C. was in kindergarten and first grade, so even if they are deemed actions of the District they took place well outside of the 90 days for requesting relief from a final action of the District. Hence, I FIND that as the petitioner filed the petition on November 1, 1999, any action or event that she complained of that took place more than 90 days before, which would include everything that happened to P.C. in kindergarten and first grade, cannot be the subject of a petition because it would be out of time. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

The only clearly enunciated request for relief in the November letter was a request to bring tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher against P.C.'s second grade teacher but to bring such tenure charges a person must submit the charges in writing to the school Board, not the Commissioner of Education. "Any charge made against any employee of a Board of Education under tenure during good behavior and efficiency shall be filed with the Secretary of the Board in writing, and a written statement of evidence to support such charges shall be presented to the Board." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. In the event that the Board finds probable cause exists and that the charge is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall file such written charges to the Commissioner for a hearing. Id. The charges against P.C.'s second grade teacher as well as any allegations against any other substitute or former teachers, if not time barred, must follow this procedure. As I FIND that the Board has not certified any such tenure charges, I CONCLUDE that none of the allegations against P.C.'s teacher are properly before the Commissioner at this point.

The only remaining allegation was that the petitioner had hired a tutor to begin in the future and planned to submit the bill to the Board. The petition does not allege any final action of the Board of Education concerning this issue. Moreover, there is no allegation of what school law was being broken. Thus, as of the date of the November letter there was not controversy or dispute arising under the school laws. The reasoning of the petitioner for liability of the District for hiring a tutor was because the District does not have an after school program. However, petitioner made no legal connection between the two and I am unable to locate any school law which requires every District to have an after school program or which permits the private hiring of tutors in Districts without one. To the extent that petitioner is alleging a general negligence theory of liability such a cause of action is covered by the Tort Claim Act and belongs in the Superior Court. Myers v. Medford Lakes Bd. of Educ., 199 N.J. Super. 511 (1985). Thus, I FIND the November letter does not articulate or infer a controversy or dispute about a final action of the District arising under the school laws.

For the foregoing reason, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has thus far failed to state any claim in the November letter upon which relief can be granted.

ORDER

I ORDER that this case shall be DISMISSED for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTAGUE, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which the Commissioner construes as a claim by petitioner for reimbursement of costs associated with tutoring her daughter, P.C., due to alleged failures on the part of the District, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to articulate and prove specific bases for her claim cognizable before him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.[1]

[1] The Board asserts that petitioner "has consistently declined recommendations that P.C. be referred to the Child Study Team" and, "[b]ecause P.C. has not been classified as a handicapped student, she is entitled only to those school programs that are available to non-handicapped students." (Board's Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss at 5) The Commissioner notes, however, that a Board may take action pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7 when there is a disagreement with a parent about whether a student should be evaluated by the Child Study Team. Further, even where a Board concurs that a student is not eligible for special education, the Board may be obliged to provide support services pursuant to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, if the student is nonetheless determined to have a disability that substantially limits his/her learning.

Accordingly, for this reason, as well as those set forth by the ALJ, this matter is hereby dismissed.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: AUG 14 2000

[2]The Commissioner notes that, although petitioner's letter dated November 9, 1999 was not verified, she did submit a separate, notarized verification, also dated November 9, 1999. In light of her pro se status, these papers were deemed to satisfy applicable filing requirements. (See N.J.A.C. 6:11-1.15, now N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.)

[3] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

Record Closed: June 30, 2000 Decided: July 3, 2000

BEFORE DANIEL B. MC KEOWN, ALJ (t/a)

INTRODUCTION

P.C., the mother of M.C., a seventeen year-old senior at the Williamstown High School under the control of the Monroe Township Board of Education, had appealed a ten day out-of-school suspension of M.C. on charges. In addition, M.C. was prohibited from attending the senior class trip, the prom, and other events. Petitioner was granted emergency relief by the Commissioner of Education against the prohibition of M.C.'s participation on the class trip (See, P.C. v. Board of Education of the Township of Monroe, 2000 S.L.D. -, Decision on Motion, March 31, 2000), after which the Board allowed him participation in other events related to high school seniors. The matter was then returned to the Office of Administrative Law for a plenary hearing as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. In the meantime, the case was reassigned the undersigned administrative law judge.

Petitioner was advised by Board counsel on April 12, 2000 that M.C.'s disciplinary record would not be part of his permanent record and would be destroyed at the end of the 1999-2000 academic year and that he would be allowed to attend the senior prom. In return, petitioner stated she would then withdraw any remaining allegations against the Board regarding the charges initially lodged against her son. Petitioner filed her letter on June 29, 2000 withdrawing all remaining allegations against the Board of Education.

Based on petitioner's letter of withdrawal, it is hereby ORDERED that the matter of P.C., on behalf of M.C. v. Monroe Township Board of Education, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2187-00, Agency DKT. NO. 95-3/00 be considered WITHDRAWN WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged the District improperly withheld her salary increment for the 1997-98 school year based on evaluations of her teaching performance wherein she received unsatisfactory ratings.

The ALJ determined that the District had demonstrated that petitioner, among other things, utilized improper instructional techniques, did not maintain accurate and complete records and did not properly assess her students' needs or evaluate their progress. The ALJ determined that the withholding of petitioner's increment was appropriate and so concluded in her recommended decision.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City (District) to withhold her salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Initially this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1998. Count one of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Joanne Alessio. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. On October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Alessio case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98, on November 21 and 23, 1999. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the District submitted a detailed review of the testimony and proposed findings of fact, which I largely have adopted herein.

1. During the 1997-98 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach English as a Second Language to students at Dickinson High School.

2. English as a Second Language (ESL) is a course taught in English to students who come from other countries and whose primary language is something other than English.

3. Petitioner has been employed by the District for twenty-one years, starting as a math teacher and teaching ESL for fifteen years.

4. Petitioner holds master's degrees in urban education, social work and ESL.

5. Prior to her high school assignment in the 1997-98 school year, petitioner had not taught ESL on the high school level. Teaching high school ESL was different from teaching ESL on the elementary level with respect to the ages and numbers of the students, curriculum, textbooks and record keeping. However, on both the elementary level and the high school level, petitioner had roll books and grade books and had to prepare lesson plans.

6. The skills to be taught in high school ESL, although essentially the same as those taught on the elementary level, could be more advanced.

7. Petitioner claimed that she had no problems with teaching students on the high school level, and her problem in the high school was limited to record keeping.

8. Petitioner was absent from work for nineteen days from mid-September 1997, when she fell at work and hurt her ankle.

9. On October 23, 1997, petitioner's teaching performance was evaluated by Georgina Rey (Fauta) a vice principal at Dickinson High School.

10. Georgina Rey had been in the District's employ for twenty-two years. Her duties as vice principal were to supervise the faculty in the areas of mathematics and bilingual/ESL/world languages.

11. At the time of the evaluation, petitioner was teaching an ESL 3 class of sixteen students. Rey observed petitioner's second-period class, from 9:25 a.m. until 9:45 a.m. The period was normally 80 minutes, but since testing was going on that day, the class periods were shortened.

12. In her observation report (R-1), Rey gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating for assessing the needs and evaluating the progress of pupils. Petitioner's roll book (or daily class register) was incomplete, lacking student attendance, grades, absences and seating charts. The book had only check marks with no numerical value, so it was hard to tell how petitioner would assign a grade for the first marking period.

13. Although petitioner had been absent for nineteen days from September 20, petitioner had returned to work three days prior to the observation and had adequate time to record student data received from the substitute teachers.

14. Rey rated petitioner's performance as unsatisfactory in the area of organization and planning. Although there was an up-to-date written lesson plan, the objectives were vague, there were no references to the classroom activities, and homework assignments were not included in the lesson plan. The lesson in the book was not the lesson that was presented that day. The activity ended abruptly with no homework assignment and no closure.

15. Rey also rated petitioner as unsatisfactory in the area of instructional techniques. The petitioner gave no beginning direction to the students, walked around the room for several minutes, asked questions in random fashion and ended the class abruptly without giving any closure to the lesson.

16. Rey found that petitioner needed improvement in the area of affective domain, inasmuch as the poor lesson planning and poor assessment of the students' work on petitioner's part showed a lack of interest and respect for the students.

17. When petitioner was absent from work from mid-September, she received no feedback from the school. She never called the school herself during her absence to ask about her students.

18. When petitioner returned to work, she was given all student work ungraded and attendance data from the substitute teacher. When Mrs. Rey observed her class on October 23, 1997, she had checked the students' work but had not yet graded it; she had recorded all absences by that time. Although petitioner also claimed to have recorded all the data, she conceded that she made additions to her original register after Rey's visit. When asked to look at her original roll book (P-5) and identify the specific activity for which grades had been given, petitioner was unable to do so.

19. Rey held a post-observation conference with petitioner on October 27, 1997. Petitioner did not want to sit down to discuss Rey's observation report; she simply signed the document, writing on it that she did not agree with it, and threw the report on the desk.

20. Petitioner never asked Rey for assistance, but Rey asked the master teacher to help petitioner on an ongoing basis.

21. Petitioner's teaching performance was observed and formally evaluated a second time by Rey on February 11, 1998. Petitioner was teaching an ESL 3 class for an 80-minute period from 12:30 p.m. until 1:50 p.m. to nineteen students.

22. In her written observation report (R-3), Rey rated as unsatisfactory petitioner's performance in the area of assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils. Petitioner's record book was not legible and it did not coincide with the grades that petitioner reported on separate official term records. Petitioner also had only folders, not portfolios, for students where all papers were placed, and not all of the work was graded.

23. Rey also rated petitioner's performance as unsatisfactory in the area of organization and planning. The objective in the written plan was to use the simple present tense, which was too elementary for the ESL 3 level.

24. Rey found that petitioner needed improvement in the area of instructional techniques. There were no meaningful or constructive educational activities, merely ten minutes of questions and answers followed by having the students write in their workbooks for the remainder of the 80-minute period. Petitioner gave no initial directions to the students about the purpose of the lesson and provided no closure to the lesson.

25. Rey further found that petitioner needed improvement in the area of affective domain because there was no mutual respect in the way that petitioner handled the class. There were student behavioral problems during the class: students were getting up, leaving the room without permission, even sleeping, but petitioner did not exercise discipline over the students.

26. A post-observation conference was held on February 20, 1998, but petitioner simply signed her name to the report, writing on it that she did not agree with it, and then threw it on the desk.

27. Petitioner was also observed formally by two other administrators, who did not testify but whose written observation reports were admitted into evidence.

28. Beth Shachat, acting supervisor of ESL/bilingual education, observed petitioner's class on November 12, 1997. In her report (P-1), she noted that petitioner needed improvement in the area of organization and planning; specifically, she needed to plan additional activities for students and to give homework on a daily basis. The report also noted that petitioner needed improvement in the area of instructional techniques; specifically, she needed to model expected outcomes for the students before giving them assignments and to ask them thought-provoking questions.

29. Robert Donato, principal of Dickinson High School, observed and formally evaluated one of petitioner's classes on January 21, 1998. According to Donato's report (P-2), the lesson in petitioner's plan book for the day of the observation was never addressed by petitioner, who spent the class time on the previous day's lesson. He found that petitioner needed to improve organization and planning.

30. Petitioner's teaching performance was also observed and evaluated by Dr. Joseph Ramos, director of bilingual/ESL/world languages for the District.

31. Ramos had been employed by the District for twenty-four years and had previously held several supervisory positions. In his position as director, he was responsible for implementing the District's instructional programs in bilingual education, ESL and world languages. He evaluated the performance of teaching staff members upon request. Ramos had been asked by Mrs. Granick, head of the Human Services Department for the District, to conduct an evaluation of petitioner.

32. Ramos observed petitioner conducting an ESL 2 class on March 10, 1998, from 11:45 a.m. to 1:05 p.m., an 80-minute period. Ramos prepared a written report of his observation of petitioner's performance (R-4), assigning ratings on the five performance factors.

33. Ramos rated petitioner as needing improvement in demonstrating proficiency in her subject matter because she did not use any ESL techniques during the lesson and she did not appear to be adhering to the District's curriculum.

34. Petitioner employed no ESL instructional techniques during the class; she did not use visuals, real objects, choral and individual repetition (practicing language) or any other techniques to actively involve the students in listening and speaking. The students merely sat in class and wrote for over 60 minutes of the 80-minute period.

35. In terms of curriculum, Ramos observed that petitioner should have been focusing on grammatical structure around the time of his observation in March, but she was not teaching any grammar on the day of his observation nor, according to a lesson plan book, had she taught grammar on any of the preceding days.

36. Ramos gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating for assessing the needs and evaluating the progress of pupils. Petitioner stayed in the front of the class without circulating through the classroom. Petitioner interacted with only the few students who were in the front of the classroom and for only several minutes of the class period. Many students simply sat in class doing nothing and some students spoke among themselves in Spanish, indicating that they did not understand what they were supposed to do.

37. Petitioner's roll book at the time of the observation contained grades but gave no indication of the particular matter being rated, whether homework, tests or projects. Petitioner claimed to have portfolios, but had only folders which contained worksheets, dittos and other papers. There were no portfolios that had samples of a student's work and progress.

38. Ramos also gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating for organization and planning. Petitioner did not teach the lesson that was written in her lesson plan book. The written lesson plan was to show a movie and have the students discuss the characters. Petitioner said that neither a TV nor a VCR was available so she conducted a different lesson. Instead of the movie, petitioner had her students engage in writing and independent work for the bulk of the 80-minute class period.

39. Ramos rated petitioner's instructional techniques as unsatisfactory, as she employed no ESL techniques, having the students writing for most of the period, and put words on the blackboard that were totally meaningless. Numerous students chatted among themselves and Ramos heard some of them say in Spanish that they did not understand what they were supposed to do. Petitioner made no effort to actively engage all the students and gave them little opportunity to practice and use the English language. Instead, the students were asked to do busywork.

40. Ramos found that petitioner needed improvement in addressing the affective domain. Some students displayed behavioral problems, speaking to each other and not paying attention, but petitioner did not attempt to address those problems.

39. Dr. Ramos held a post-observation conference with petitioner. Petitioner refused to sit down, merely signed the evaluation, writing that she did not agree with it, and left.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Alessio's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Twp. Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Here the underlying facts were substantiated by the testimony of two qualified educational experts, as well as aspects of the reports of two other qualified educational experts. Petitioner, an experienced teacher with a master's degree in ESL, did not use ESL instructional techniques, did not maintain accurate, complete and up-to-date records for her students, did not properly assess her students' needs and evaluate their progress, and did not employ effective organizational planning for her lessons on the several occasions when her teaching was observed by Ms. Rey and Dr. Ramos. Petitioner also received less than satisfactory ratings for organization and planning and for instructional techniques when her performance was formally evaluated on other occasions during the 1997-98 school year by Ms. Shachat and by Principal Donato. In sum, petitioner's performance was less than satisfactory when evaluated in regard to the five performance factors utilized by the District to evaluate performance. Under the circumstances, petitioner has not succeeded in showing that the Board's decision to withhold her salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

It must be pointed out that petitioner asserts that there was a serious question as to the motives and credibility of at least one of the evaluators, Ms. Rey. Petitioner alleges that her veracity was questionable and her relationship with petitioner was strained. Petitioner also contends that the uncontradicted testimony was that the evaluations were not of sufficient duration, as required by the District's guidelines. Moreover, petitioner alleges that the criteria and requirements were not made clear to her or her evaluators. More particularly, petitioner argues that she was not properly trained in how to maintain her roll book and in what was required of her to teach high school level ESL classes. Any alleged deficiency in her teaching skills was the result of the District's failure to properly prepare her for her new assignment, together with the fact that she was injured and absent for nineteen days prior to the evaluations.

I have considered petitioner's arguments and conclude that the evidence simply does not substantiate her contentions. I cannot agree that the motives and credibility of Ms. Rey were insincere or that there was a personal rift casting a shadow over her credibility. Rather, I found Ms. Rey's testimony to be credible and worthy of belief. Additionally, in regard to petitioner's argument that the evaluations were not long enough, I FIND that there were a number of evaluations that supported the findings of fact here and were of sufficient duration for the evaluators to make an informed and reasonable decision. In addition, the evaluations were conducted over several months. Moreover, I cannot CONCLUDE that the teaching requirements of Ms. Alessio were not made clear to her and were not clear to her evaluators. Rather, petitioner had been advised of the necessary documentation that she had to keep and had even been assigned a master teacher to help her. She could have utilized the help of her evaluators, supervisors and a master teacher if she required training in how to maintain her roll book or in what was required of her to teach high school level ESL classes. The alleged deficiencies in her teaching skills were not the result of the District's failure to properly train or prepare her for her assignment. Moreover, her formal training and twenty-one years of service to the District, including a master's degree in ESL and teaching ESL for fifteen years, should have allowed her to properly prepare to teach on the high school level. Clearly, she should have possessed the requisite expertise to rectify the situation. As such, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's arguments are unsubstantiated by the evidence and testimony on the record. Petitioner has not proven that it was unreasonable for the administrators who observed and evaluated her teaching performance during the 1997-98 school year to conclude that her performance was less than satisfactory.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL on November 22 and 23, 1999, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision. As noted, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold her increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, based on the facts. Kopera, supra. Finding no cause to disturb the findings, credibility determinations and conclusions of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet her burden.

EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6266-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 249-7/00

M.C. & P.C. o/b/o B.G.,

Petitioners,

v.

BUENA REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,

Respondent.

Roberta Bonnette Cooper, Esq., for petitioners

Kimberly A. Baldwin, Esq. for respondent (Capizola, Fineman & Lapham, attorneys)

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ:

THE MOTION

Petitioners ask that the disciplinary directive that B.G. be enrolled in an alternative high school be reversed, and that B.G. be placed on home instruction and/or returned to attendance at Buena Regional High School.

Respondent Board of Education, Buena Regional School District, contests the motion.

Today's Order denies petitioners' motion for emergent relief.

ANALYSIS OF THE RECORD

Arguments of the Parties:

Petitioners maintain that the four-part test for emergent relief has been satisfied, for the following reasons:

1. B.G. would suffer irreparable harm because, while on home instruction, he has improved his grades and excelled in his subjects. In contrast, he would experience academic failure if sent to the alternative high school. Moreover, he will be deprived of playing on the freshman football team, which would disrupt any potential, long-range plans for sports participation.

2. The law is settled that B.G. has a legal right and entitlement to a public education.

3. A reasonable probability of ultimate success is bound up with preservation of the status quo, and for that reason, B.G. should not be permanently excluded from attendance at the regular high school from which he was expelled.

4. Finally, the relative hardship falls most heavily on B.G. He would pose no danger to students or staff if returned to the regular high school; he has demonstrated ability in home instruction; disruption of his progress would cause irreversible damage, and placement in an alternative school program would be devastating emotionally as well as scholastically.

For all these reasons, relief is sought.

The Board responds that it intends to prove that B.G. has a considerable and persistent history of misconduct involving insubordination, profanity, lateness, cutting class, absences and confrontational behavior with teaching staff. Included in this history will be proof of a statement by B.G. equating his circumstance with that of the Columbine massacre, which he accompanied with a threat of violence.

Against this background, the Board maintains, there is also a presumption of correctness to its action. Further, the standard for overturning it requires a showing of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action by the Board. Since there is nothing in petitioner's case which addresses the Board's conduct, petitioners should be denied relief, the Board argues.

Addressing the four-part test for emergent relief, the Board reasons:

1. No irreparable harm will follow because the alternative school does provide a public education, and there is no evidence proffered or in place which supports the probability of academic failure or emotional distress.

2. The legal right to public education is provided in the alternative school, paid for completely by the Board of Education. Petitioners offer only the argument of personal dissatisfaction, which would be insufficient cause for an injunction.

3. There is little likelihood that petitioners will prevail on the merits of this case, given the legal standard involved, and the lack of any argument by petitioner addressing the Board's action.

4. Finally, irreparable harm would obviously affect the school district, if B.G. were to be returned to class in Buena Regional High School. Petitioners' threats, his past history of intimidation of teachers, and his physical altercations with students escalate the risk of harm. In contrast, placement in a more structured environment in the alternative school would cause no harm to petitioner. Unsupported claims to the contrary are insufficient to overcome these facts.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I CONCLUDE that the four-part test of Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) has not been satisfied by petitioners. The Board's argument, if proven, will be sufficient to carry its claim that petitioner was properly expelled and appropriately relocated educationally. Further, applying to the facts presently offered the test for review by the Commissioner set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), it is unlikely that the standard of arbitrariness, capriciousness or unreasonableness will be demonstrated by petitioners.

It should be emphasized that failure to satisfy the test for emergent relief does not prevent petitioners from offering preponderating evidence at plenary hearing, notwithstanding.

ORDER

I, ORDER, therefore that petitioners' Motion for Emergent Relief, be, and hereby is, DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, the Initial Decision and the Order of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) hearing determination that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in *Crowe v. DECISION

Petitioning uncle challenged Board's residency determination.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner's nephew satisfied the statutory test for an "affidavit student" under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) to be entitled to a free public education in respondent's District. The ALJ determined that petitioner is domiciled in the District, is supporting his nephew gratis, that A.S.K.'s parents are unable to support him in this country due to family hardship and that A.S.K. is not residing with petitioner solely for purposes of receiving a free public education in respondent's District.

The Commissioner agreed that, under the facts of this case, R.C.P. is entitled to a free education in respondent's schools and adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ as his own.

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner R.C.P. appealed the determination of respondent Ramapo Indian Hills Regional High School District Board of Education (District) that he does not qualify as the guardian of A.S.K. and that A.S.K. does not meet the requirements for an "affidavit student."

On August 10, 1999, petitioner filed a petition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 concerning a residency dispute between petitioner and the District. On August 31, 1999, the District filed an answer denying the charges although not making any counter claim for tuition. On September 28, 1999, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case. Pending the hearing, the student was allowed to attend school. A.S.K. is currently attending school in the District free during the pendency of this matter.

On February 15, 2000, the District filed a Motion for Summary Decision and supporting papers thereto. On March 17, 2000, petitioner filed a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision. The District's response was filed on March 28, 2000. Hence, this decision addresses both motions for summary decision. It is the position of the District that for purposes of its motion is that petitioner does not meet the statutory standards set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:13A-1 taking as true the petition, the answers to interrogatories, and the affidavits submitted by petitioner. It is the position of the petitioner that, based upon the same documents, that petitioner meets the statutory standard both as a guardian and as an affidavit student case.

FACTS

The following facts are essentially undisputed and I FIND them to be FACTS in this case.

Petitioner R.C.P. and his wife own property and reside within the District.

On January 14, 1984, A.S.K. was born in Woodside, New York, and thus is an American citizen. In 1985 his parents moved back to their country of origin, Korea, and A.S.K. has lived in Korea until June 1999.

At the age of fifteen A.S.K. decided he wanted to live in the United States as an American citizen and to go to college and pursue a career and life in this country. His parents agreed with his decision that he should live here as an American citizen. The parents were unable to raise him as an American citizen in Korea because they could not provide the culturalization or English language opportunities there. Thus, to satisfy his desire his parents began looking for a suitable guardian. After numerous considerations, they requested A.S.K.'s maternal uncle, petitioner, to become A.S.K.'s guardian and provide for A.S.K. as his son. Among the reasons for this decision were that the parents knew that petitioner was a good parent to his own children, petitioner agreed to serve as guardian, petitioner has a son and daughter nearly the same age as A.S.K., which will help A.S.K. become culturalization and petitioner, and his family are Christian as are the parents of A.S.K. It was the intention of petitioner as well as the parents that A.S.K. would reside with petitioner in his home for an indefinite period of time.

The parents provided petitioner with a notarized legal guardianship authorization granting R.C.P. and his spouse the authority to assume legal guardianship of A.S.K because the parents felt incapable of providing for A.S.K.'s desire to live as an United States citizenship except by this arrangement. The parents felt it would be a great family hardship for the family to move back to the United States but it would also be a great hardship to deprive A.S.K. of the privilege of being raised in the United States as an American citizen.

On May 21, 1999, A.S.K.'s parents signed the grant of legal guardianship to R.C.P. effective June 3, 1999. On June 2, 1999, A.S.K. arrived at petitioner's home and has lived there ever since. In the first week of June, petitioner went to the guidance officer at the high school with A.S.K.'s guardianship papers and health records. On July 7, 1999, the District sent a letter informing petitioner that A.S.K. would be accepted solely as a tuition student at the cost of $8085 per year. After a call from petitioner, the District sent him a document describing the verification of eligibility for an affidavit student.

The petitioner also phoned the Bergen County Commissioner's office where someone suggested that he become a court certified legal guardian through the Bergen County Surrogate's Office. The parents subsequently signed the notarized guardianship agreement required by the Surrogate. The Surrogate also required that the school district verify that the child met the requirements for admittance into the school. The District refused to sign the document due to its position that the child did not meet the necessary requirements. The Surrogate's office would not issue guardianship papers to petitioner without that signed documentation from the school.

ISSUES

The issues before me are: (1) Whether the uncontested facts show that A.S.K. was domicile in the District and thus entitled to a free education; or (2) Whether the uncontested facts show that A.S.K. met the requirements of an affidavit student and thus was entitled to a free public education in the District.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Summary Decision must be granted if the pleadings and affidavits show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1-12.5; Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (1995). While viewing the evidentiary material presented in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, the court must determine whether there is sufficient evidence to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issues in favor of the moving party. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142. N.J. 520, 523, (1995). When a motion for Summary Decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail "must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determine in an evidentiary hearing." If the adverse party does not so respond, a Summary Decision, if appropriate, shall be entered. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Based upon my review of the record, I FIND that there are no material facts in dispute. Hence, I CONCLUDE that the matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

Public schooling must be provided to persons over the age of five and under the age of twenty who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). "The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving . . . ." In the Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991). Minors lack the capacity to chose their own domicile and thus their domicile is that of their parent or guardian. In the context of Title 18A, the Commissioner of Education has required that special factors must exist to warranty departure from the traditional rule that domicile is that of the natural father. C.N. v. South Orange Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 913, 916. (Domicile did not lie with the father because he lived in another state, had relinquished all control over the child, and was unable to provide for her). See also L.A. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Town of West Orange, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 266 (1997) (Power of attorney sufficient to establish child domiciled with relative).

Here the record showed that the parents of A.S.K. granted legal guardianship to petitioner and his spouse effective June 3, 1999, and that this guardianship still exist. The record also showed that the Surrogate was willing to accept these papers signed by the parents as official guardianship papers but would not issue guardianship papers because of the District's refusal to agree that petitioner and his wife qualified as the guardians under Title 18A. There is no dispute that petitioner has physical control of A.S.K. as his parents are in Korea and he is living with petitioner. The parent and petitioner have also stated under oath that in addition to assuming physical control he has assume financial responsibility for A.S.K.

The District refused to accept the guardianship claim of petitioner because it presumed that A.S.K. was residing with petitioner with the sole purpose of attending school within the District. However, under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) motivation for the guardianship is not an issue. The prohibition against a student coming into the District for the sole purpose of attending school within the District is relevant under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). The District does not attack the validity of the documents notarized in Korea whereby A.S.K.'s parents grant legal guardianship of A.S.K. to petitioner and his wife. Nor can the District legitimately point to petitioner not having been issued guardianship papers by the Surrogate when the District's failure to sign the required document, however well-intentioned, prevented the issuance.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that the uncontested facts show that petitioner is the legal guardian of A.S.K. As petitioner is domiciled in the District, A.S.K. has right to a free public education in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) petitioner must satisfy the following conditions in order to entitled A.S.K. a free education in the District:

> (1) Petitioner is domiciled in the District; (2) Petitioner is supporting A.S.K. gratis; (3) Petitioner will assume all personal responsibilities for A.S.K. relative to school requirements; (4) Petitioner intends to keep in support A.S.K. gratuitously for longer than the school year; (5) A.S.K.'s parents are incapable of supporting or providing care for A.S.K. due to a family or economic hardship; and (6) A.S.K.'s parents did not send him to reside with petitioner solely for receiving free education in the District. The parents of A.S.K. must also submit a sworn affidavit asserting the last two criteria have been satisfied.

The District's primary challenge under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) is that A.S.K.'s parents have not shown that they were incapable of supporting or providing care for A.S.K. due to a family or economic hardship. The District pointed out that the hardship must be of such a nature that the parent or guardian are not capable of supporting the child or providing care as a result of the hardship, citing J.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Ocean, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU), rev'd Comm'r of Educ. (March 25, 1996), rev'd St. Bd. of Educ. (Oct. 2, 1996), on remand, Comm'r of Educ. (Feb. 11, 1997). In that case the Commissioner found that family strife had a detrimental affect on the student suggesting that the "parents, sadly, are incapable of meeting his emotional, social, and developmental needs." Having determined by prior decision that these unique and compelling circumstances constitute family hardship, the Commissioner clarified on remand that for the above reasons J.B.'s parents were not presently capable of providing care for him due to such family hardship pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Id.

In the case at bar A.S.K.'s parents claimed that they were unable to raise A.S.K. in Korea and give him the privileges of an American citizenship because they could not provide an American culturalization or English language opportunities for him there. They felt they could not meet his desire to live as an American citizen, to obtain his college education in United States, and to pursue a career and life in this country. Petitioner stated in interrogatories that A.S.K. decided that he wanted to live in the United States to pursue his high school education here in order to learn English, learn the culture, and prepare for his college education and a career in this country.

The District argued that no family hardship was shown and that the family was capable of providing care and support for him. I FIND this situation to be otherwise. The family hardship here is that the parents are unable to provide A.S.K. the privileges of an American citizen including the intimate knowledge of American culture and heritage while they are in Korea. Moreover, the family is unable to move to this country to give him what they feel he needs to succeed here in the United States.

Petitioner stated that he never filed any affidavit until filing the petition under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) because the District's fax stated that this information must be provided if the person is "kept in the home of a person other than parent/guardian." (Petitioner's Exhibit E). However, he has since provided documentation and affidavits from both the mother and the petitioner as to the reasons, which were available to the school board since August 1999.

I FIND that the unique and compelling circumstances in this case rise to a level of family hardship that meets the standard of the statute. "To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize . . . and overlooks the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children . . . ." Gundersen v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Brigantine, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39, 42. In finding family hardship in a child's reaction to marital conflict, the Commissioner quoted his previous decision with approval.

> In interpreting a statute, the Commissioner must look to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter . . . . Moreover, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy . . . .
> The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 . . . were intended to ease the burden on local boards of education attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, specifically those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be, but is not, domiciled within the district, and those living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile . . . .
>
> The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme . . . .

R.H. v. Ocean Co. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 628, citing Gundersen, supra.

I FIND that the uncontradicted evidence demonstrates that petitioner has taken his nephew into his home to provide him an opportunity to live as an American citizen and to better understand the culture and the language as early as possible due to the fact that A.S.K.'s parents are unable to provide him with same. I also FIND that there is no evidence that this arrangement was entered into fraudulent solely for the purpose of obtaining a free public education in the District. Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) in that petitioner is domiciled within the District, petitioner is supporting A.S.K. gratis, the parents are incapable of supporting him in this country due to family hardship, and A.S.K. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Hence, I CONCLUDE that A.S.K. meets the requirement of an affidavit student under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and thus is entitled to a free public education in the District.

In his petition dated August 9, 1999, R.C.P. asked that his federal constitutional and statutory claims including damages and attorneys fees be preserved. In his brief petitioner requested a finding that certain District actions violated petitioner's constitutional procedural due process rights. The OAL may only consider constitutional issues when the expertise of the agency is necessary to decide the issue before it. Desilets v. Clearview Regional Board of Education, 137 N.J. 585 (1994). The OAL cannot award damages or attorneys fees for federal constitutional or statutory claims. J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. of South Orange, 381 N.J. Super. 512, 526 (App. Div. 1999). In Maisonet v. New Jersey Dep't of Human Servs., 140 N.J. 214, 226-27 (1995) the Supreme Court set up a procedure for determining constitutional issues that arise out of administrative agencies. Thus, I CONCLUDE that I must not determine the federal constitutional and statutory issues here.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's petition to allow A.S.K. to attend school in the District is hereby GRANTED. I ORDER that petitioner's claim for damages and attorneys fees for procedural violations of the federal constitution is DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE for any proceedings under Maisonet, supra or in any other appropriate jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were untimely filed. The Initial Decision was mailed to the parties on May 25, 2000, and exceptions were due on or before June 7, 2000, but were filed by the Board on June 13, 2000. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a). Accordingly, neither the exceptions nor the reply thereto is considered in the Commissioner's determination of this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that, under the particular circumstances of this case, R.C.P. is entitled to a free education in the Board's District and accordingly, adopts the Initial Decision of the ALJ as his own.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[1] With respect to the discussion at page five of the Initial Decision regarding the issuance of guardianship papers, the Commissioner notes that the guardianship of a minor is governed by N.J.S.A. 3B:12-12 to 23, which gives the surrogate of the county in which the minor resides the powers of the Superior Court in the appointment of guardians for minors, N.J.S.A. 3B:12-12, and allows for appointment of a guardian for a minor where a parent absents himself from the state, leaving a minor child under the age of 18 without sufficient provision for his maintenance and education. N.J.S.A. 3B:12-23.

The requirements for an application for guardianship of a minor are set forth in R. 4:81. The requirements include the minor's age and residence, the names and addresses of the minor's nearest of kin and of all persons who stand in loco parentis, as well as all persons with whom the minor resides. R. 4:81-1.1(a). An affidavit made by a person with personal knowledge stating the value of the minor's real and personal estate, and the amount of income from any real or personal estate belonging to the minor, must be provided. R. 4:81-1(b). In addition, a renunciation from any living parent of the minor, along with a request for issuance of letters of guardianship consistent with the application, must be provided. R. 4:81-2. There is no requirement in the New Jersey Court Rules or statutes for a verification from the school district in which the proposed guardian is domiciled in order to grant guardianship papers. Therefore, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the fact that petitioner was not provided guardianship papers for A.S.K. is not determinative of whether A.S.K. is entitled to a free education from respondent.

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. DECISION

Petitioning relative challenged the Board's determination that M.E. may not attend its schools. The Board counter-petitioned for tuition for the period of time M.E. attended its schools.

Petitioner failed to appear at the hearing of the matter. The ALJ determined that petitioner had, accordingly, failed to carry the burden of proof, that the petition should be dismissed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), and that the Board should be awarded $7,094.64 in tuition.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ, noting, however, that such dismissal was without prejudice to any entitlement M.E. may have to attend school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, if M.E. is adopted by petitioner.

Record Closed: July 7, 2000 Decided: July 7, 2000

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

T.M. (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (hereinafter "respondent") in regard to minor child, M.E. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition in this matter in the form of a letter dated October 1, 1999, was filed with the Commissioner of Education on October 5, 1999, invoking the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On November 3, 1999, respondent filed an answer which included a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 18, 1999, for determination as a contested case.

The matter was scheduled for a hearing on July 5, 2000, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. T.M. did not appear for the hearing, and no message was received in regard to the nonappearance. Respondent submitted proofs in regard to its counterclaim, and the record closed on July 7, 2000, after giving T.M. an additional day to submit an explanation in regard to the nonappearance.

ISSUES

The issues in this proceeding are whether M.E. is eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and, if not, whether respondent's counterclaim should be granted.

FACTS

The only witness in the proceeding was Josefa Lopez, who is employed by respondent as its registrar. Her testimony was fully credible and is accepted as true. Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND as follows. As the registrar, Ms. Lopez denied T.M.'s application to enroll M.E. in respondent's public schools, because T.M. failed to submit a sworn statement from M.E.'s parent or guardian establishing economic hardship. Thereafter, T.M. filed the petition with the Commissioner of Education, and as a result, M.E. was allowed to attend kindergarten in respondent's public schools during the pendency of this proceeding. M.E. attended respondent's public schools for a total of 164 days. At a rate of $43.26 per diem, the total tuition for this period of time is $7,094.64.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Attendance at public schools shall be free to any person who meets the requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Under certain circumstances, a child who is kept in the home of a person who is domiciled in a school district may attend the public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1. If the board of education denies admission to the child, the resident may contest that determination before the Commissioner of Education. Ibid. In the proceeding before the Commissioner of Education, the resident has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence to establish that the child meets the requirements for eligibility. Ibid. If the evidence does not support the claim, the resident shall be assessed tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Ibid.

Here, T.M. did not appear for the hearing and did not provide any explanation for the nonappearance. Under the circumstances, T.M. failed to carry the burden of proof that M.E. met the requirements for a free education. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition should be dismissed.

It follows from the dismissal of the petition that M.E. was ineligible for attendance at respondent's public schools during the period in question. Therefore, T.M. must be assessed tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. Based upon the findings above, I CONCLUDE that T.M. should be assessed tuition in the amount of $7,094.64 for the period of M.E.'s ineligible attendance.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The petition in this matter is dismissed.

2. The counterclaim for assessment of tuition in the amount of $7,094.64 is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, that petitioner has failed to meet the burden of proof in demonstrating M.E.'s entitlement to attend school in respondent's district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

However, the Commissioner also notes that, in her Petition of Appeal, petitioner claims that her adoption of M.E. was imminent as of October 1, 1999, and that, with the consent of M.E.'s parents, she had "launched the administrative and judicial process" in Ethiopia necessary to adopt M.E., and that the adoption was "awaiting final signature ." (Petition of Appeal at 2) The Commissioner, therefore, dismisses this matter without prejudice to any claim of entitlement by M.E. to attend the schools of the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). See L.A. v. Board of Education of the Town of West Orange, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 266 (1996), aff'd by the State Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554 (1997); and *V.H. v. Accordingly, the decision of the ALJ finding M.E. not entitled to attend school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and directing payment of tuition for the period of ineligible attendance, is affirmed, subject to the clarification set forth herein.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination to deny him a high school diploma because he was deemed academically ineligible to complete a required physics course due to excessive unexcused absences.

The ALJ found the Board's determination to be appropriate and in conformance with its policy regarding chronic illness that may cause chronic absences and/or lateness to school. The ALJ rejected petitioner's assertion that he had demonstrated a medical basis for his persistent and chronic absences.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. Petition was dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8412-99

AGENCY DKT. NO. 196-7/99

DAVID MICHAEL BUCKLEY,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

David Michael Buckley, petitioner, pro se

Jeffrey Belz, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 16, 2000 Decided: July 6, 2000

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

The petitioner, David Buckley, was denied a high school diploma because he was deemed academically ineligible to complete a required Physics course, due to excessive unexcused absences.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner appealed to the Department of Education and on October 4, 1999, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was heard on May 16, 2000, at the Office of Administrative Law, Quakerbridge Road, Hamilton, New Jersey.

DISCUSSION OF THE TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

The following is a factual summary of the testimony as presented. No analysis or conclusions are made at this point. Findings of fact and conclusions will be presented under the appropriate headings below.

The first witness to testify was David Buckley, the petitioner, who said that he was often late to his 1st period classes because of his asthma. He produced doctor's notes, which he said dealt with his absences from his 1st period class.

Buckley said that he seeks a high school diploma. He was offered the opportunity to obtain a GED, but declined. Although he said the possibility of his attending summer school was discussed, this is not an option because Physics is not offered as a summer course locally.

On cross, Buckley said he had taken Physics before as a Junior, but had not passed the course then, either.

The next witness to testify was Robert Carvale, Vice Principal of Ewing High School. Carvale said that, in May, suspicion began to arise that Buckley was abusing his medical note. He said that the amount of Buckley's absences would affect his ability to learn the course material.

In closing, respondent said that Buckley's attendance record represented an egregious example of absenteeism. Buckley said that he had earned 120 credits without Physics, and that by his calculation (confirmed by Carvale) his grade for Physics was a passing grade. It was stipulated that 67.6 was Buckley's grade for Physics, and that, without the absences, this would be a passing grade.

This concluded the presentation of testimony and evidence.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to observe and to judge the demeanor and credibility of all witnesses in their testimony, and upon review of all the evidence and exhibits submitted, and drawing reasonable inferences there from, I FIND the following as FACT by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

1. Ewing High School's Attendance Policy states that students are required to be in class 180 days during the school year. If the student has a chronic illness that may cause chronic absenteeism and/or lateness to school, it is mandatory that the student obtain a doctor's note annually stating what the chronic illness is and that chronic absenteeism or tardiness may occur this year due to the described chronic illness. Each student is permitted 10 absences per course without penalty. Over 10 absences will mean no credit for the course. Doctor visits count toward the 10 absences allowed in a class. Unusual circumstances may be appealed. Tardiness over 15 minutes late is considered an absence. Tardiness of less than 15 minutes is considered to be 1/3 of an absence.

2. In his Senior year, David Buckley's 1st period class was Physics, commencing at 7:15 a.m. and concluding at 8:35 a.m. The Physics class, which lasts 80 minutes, meets 90 times during the semester in question.

3. In his Senior year, David Buckley arrived for his Physics class between 7:15 and 7:30 and was thus tardy 7 times on February 11, February 26, March 2, March 17, March 23, April 7, and April 19. He arrived after 7:30 and thus was considered absent 23 times on February

2, February 3, February 5, February 9, February 17, February 22, February 23, February 24, February 25, March 1, March 3, March 4, March 5, March 8, March 10, March 16, March 18, March 26, April 16, April 21, April 23, April 29 and May 25. On 24 occasions (on February 1, February 8, February 12, March 9, March 24, April 5, April 6, April 9, April 12, April 13, April 14, April 15, April 20, April 22, April 26, April 27, April 28, April 30, May 3, May 6, May 7, May 10, May 12, and May 13), he arrived after the Physics class ended, i.e., on or after 8:35.

4. Buckley's grade for Physics for the year was 67.6. It was stipulated that, without the absences, this would be a passing grade.

DISCUSSION

The school's attendance policy provides that, if the student has a chronic illness that may cause chronic absenteeism and/or lateness to school, it is mandatory that the student obtain a doctor's note annually stating what the chronic illness is and that chronic absenteeism or tardiness may occur this year due to the described chronic illness.

The doctor's notes that petitioner produced do not explain or excuse Buckley's absences. The first doctor's note, P-2 at page 2, of May 13, 1999, states that his medical problems "may" account for his tardiness, and that his medical regimen was changed, ostensibly to correct the problem with his attendance record[1].

The second doctor's note (R-4) of June 14, 1999 states, in its entirety, "David Buckley was in to see me 9/18/98; 9/28/98; 10/19/98; 11/9/98; 1/13/99 and 1/26/99. Although his respiratory problems may cause occasional tardiness and absence, I was unaware of chronic persistent medical problems necessitating daily or weekly missed school hours. This does not preclude him from having them; I simply was not informed of them."

[1] The note of 5/13/99 states, in its entirety "David Buckley's attendance record was reviewed today by me. He has medical problems which may account for his tardiness; we have changed his medical regimen."

The petitioner emphasized the first part of the last sentence, that "this does not preclude him from having them (chronic persistent medical problems)." However, the doctor's statement is clear that he was not aware of any chronic or persistent medical problems that would necessitate missed school hours, on any more than an occasional basis.

These notes do not state that Buckley has a chronic illness, or that chronic absenteeism or tardiness may occur due to the described chronic illness.

Individually or together, these statements do not provide a medical basis to excuse such persistent and chronic tardiness or absence. (There were evidently other doctor's notes, dating back at least as far as 2/1/99 (see R-1), but no other doctor's notes were produced in evidence.)

Buckley far exceeded the 10 allowed absences per course per year. His absences are not the result of any "unusual circumstance," but instead were routine and habitual. He was barely present for Physics class, which no doubt accounts for his low grade. He was warned in writing at least twice that he was failing the course. (R-5 and R-6).

Buckley stated that he should be awarded his diploma because of minor technicalities not related to education. To do so would debase the value of a diploma.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that respondent's actions in withholding petitioner's diploma be AFFIRMED and that the appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." DECISION

Petitioning parents challenged the determination of the Board to cease providing their children transportation to the private schools they attend because the schools are located more than 20 miles from petitioners' residences. Petitioners agreed that the schools were more than 20 miles from their residences.

The ALJ concluded that, because the law is clear that transportation is to be provided only if a private school is located within 20 miles of a student's residence, the Board's determination to cease providing transportation was correct. The ALJ rejected petitioners' equitable arguments, which were based on the fact that transportation was provided in the past and that reasonable notice was not provided, because of the unambiguous statutory basis for the Board's determination.

The Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein and dismissed the Petitions of Appeal.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Estelle Manor Board of Education terminated bus service to the petitioners upon discovering that they resided more than 20 miles from the private schools in which their children were enrolled. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. The petitioners requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

FACTS

The petitioners do not dispute that they reside more than 20 miles from the private schools they attend. They rely upon equitable doctrines to assist them in regaining bus transportation. For instance, the school has provided transportation for them in the past; the school abruptly terminated service without reasonable notice.

Neither of these arguments avail the petitioners. The statute is clear. It provides, among other things, that pupils may be transported by bus to private schools "located within the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil . . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. The statute has been litigated extensively and does not violate equal protection. Reed By and Through Reed v. Attorney General, 195 N.J. Super. 172 (App. Div. 1984). West Morris Regional BOE v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464 (1971) cert. denied. 92 S. Ct. 450, 404 U.S. 986.

The School Business Administrator and Board Secretary correctly advised the petitioners that their only remedy lay with the Legislature.

I AFFIRM the action of the Estelle Manor Board of Education which terminated the bus transportation of G.D., B.D. and J.D.K., Jr.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged the District improperly withheld her salary increment for the 1998-99 school year based on evaluations of her teaching performance wherein she received unsatisfactory ratings.

The ALJ determined that the District had demonstrated that petitioner, among other things, utilized improper instructional techniques, did not properly assess her students' needs or evaluate their progress and failed to implement any of the suggestions given to her by her supervisors. The ALJ determined that the withholding of petitioner's increment was appropriate and so concluded in her recommended decision.

Record Closed: May 24, 2000 Decided: July 6, 2000

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City ("District") to withhold her salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1998. Count 20 of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Bertha Smallwood. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. On October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Docket No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Smallwood case, designated EDU 3810-99, on January 24, 2000. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the District submitted a detailed review of the testimony and proposed findings of fact, which I largely have adopted herein.

1. During the 1997-98 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach fifth grade at P.S. 14.

2. Petitioner has been employed by the Jersey City school system since February 1985. She started out as a pool sub and eventually became a permanent teacher in 1986. In 1990, she moved to School No. 14. She has a bachelor of science degree, a bachelor of arts degree, a Typing Certificate and an Early Child/Elementary Education Certificate. She is certified to teach preschool through eighth grade.

3. In the fall of 1997, petitioner was observed and evaluated by District math supervisor Naser Nesheiwat.

4. Nesheiwat has been employed by the District for approximately twenty-one years. He currently serves as the math supervisor, a position he has held for approximately eleven years. Prior to serving as the math supervisor, Nesheiwat served in the position of math teacher. As math supervisor, Nesheiwat is responsible for, among other duties, observing and evaluating teaching staff members.

5. On October 27, 1997, Nesheiwat observed Smallwood teach a 45-minute math lesson.

6. During his observation, petitioner's teaching performance was less than satisfactory in every performance category set forth in the evaluation form. Specifically, Nesheiwat gave petitioner performance ratings of "improvement needed" in demonstrates proficiency in subject matter, assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils, employs effective organization and planning, utilizes effective instructional techniques, and addresses affective domain.

7. Smallwood started the lesson approximately seventeen minutes late, wasting more than one-third of the entire lesson. During that time, students learned nothing, as petitioner failed to provide them with any instruction. The students were just walking around the classroom doing their own thing.

8. Once the lesson started, petitioner was unable to engage the students, as the classroom was in chaos. Sixteen of the twenty-two students present were not paying any attention to the lesson.

9. Petitioner could neither assess nor evaluate her students because of the complete lack of control and discipline in her class.

10. Petitioner failed to employ effective organization and planning. Instead of properly using models, manipulatives and word problems to help students understand the object of the lesson, she taught skills in isolation. Moreover, the objectives she planned were neither detailed nor student centered.

11. As for petitioner's instructional technique, petitioner failed to utilize any logical sequence in presenting her lesson.

12. Concerning the affective domain, petitioner completely failed to control her class. The students demonstrated no respect for petitioner, and her method of classroom control consisted of yelling and screaming at the students.

13. Petitioner's performance during the observation was unacceptable.

14. Nesheiwat reviewed the evaluation with petitioner and provided her with a comprehensive list of "suggestions for improvement."

15. Nesheiwat also made follow-up visits, approximately two weeks after the evaluation, to petitioner's classroom to assist her and observed that she was still not involving her students in the lessons.

16. Approximately two weeks after the evaluation, Nesheiwat provided petitioner with a stack of additional materials (manipulatives) to assist her in remedying her performance problems.

17. On January 7, 1998, petitioner was observed and evaluated a second time by Nesheiwat. Nesheiwat observed petitioner teach a 45-minute math lesson.

18. Petitioner's teaching performance deteriorated to unsatisfactory in every performance category. She failed to implement any of the suggestions given to her by Nesheiwat following the first evaluation and exhibited the same performance problems.

19. Petitioner started the lesson approximately fifteen minutes late, wasting one-third of the lesson time.

20. Petitioner failed to adequately assess the needs and evaluate the progress of her students since her classroom was in a state of total chaos. Some students were doing somersaults in the class while others were jumping on top of desks.

21. As for organization and planning, petitioner failed to plan her lesson according to the needs of the students, which resulted in the lack of student participation. She failed to properly maintain her students' portfolios, which contained uncorrected and unchecked papers.

22. Petitioner's instructional technique was also unsatisfactory, as she failed to engage the students in any activities to stimulate their interest. She taught skills in isolation. Fifteen of the twenty students present were not paying any attention to the lesson.

23. Concerning affective domain, petitioner again completely failed to control her class.

24. Petitioner's performance was unacceptable.

25. Following the second evaluation, Nesheiwat gave petitioner the same "suggestions for improvement" that he previously gave her, since she had failed to implement any of them.

26. When Nesheiwat attempted to review the suggestions with petitioner, she called him a liar and refused to sign them.

27. Petitioner was also observed and evaluated by Sandra Harrison, principal of P.S. 14, in the fall of 1997.

28. Harrison had been employed by the District for approximately twenty-seven years. She served as principal of P.S. 14 for eight years until July 1998. Prior to serving as principal, Harrison served as a guidance coordinator, guidance counselor, crisis intervention teacher and classroom teacher. As principal of P.S. 14, Harrison was responsible for, among other duties, observing and evaluating teachers.

29. On September 17, 1997, Harrison observed Smallwood teach a 45-minute language arts lesson.

30. Harrison gave petitioner a less than satisfactory performance rating in the category of organization and planning. Petitioner demonstrated poor classroom management, since students were allowed to behave poorly and were unable to focus on the lesson. She also failed to follow the standard lesson plan structure in planning her lesson.

31. On January 21, 1998, Harrison and Nesheiwat met with petitioner and gave her an improvement recommendation plan to assist her in remedying her performance deficiencies. Harrison also scheduled petitioner to observe a successful teacher in another school district in order to learn some strategies to promote effective classroom management.

32. Petitioner was observed and evaluated a second time by Harrison on February 12, 1998. Harrison observed petitioner teach a 45-minute math lesson.

33. Harrison found that petitioner's teaching performance had deteriorated to less than satisfactory in every performance category. Specifically, Harrison gave petitioner the following performance ratings: unsatisfactory in demonstrates proficiency in subject matter, unsatisfactory in assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils, unsatisfactory in employs effective organization and planning, unsatisfactory in utilizes effective instructional techniques, and improvement needed in addresses affective domain.

34. Concerning proficiency in subject matter, petitioner was unprepared to teach the lesson, skills were taught in isolation, students were not given enough time to respond to petitioner's questions and petitioner failed to respond to students' questions. Petitioner did not use proper English in presenting her lesson. She pronounced the word "quotient" as "quotent," asked the students "where should your 7 be at?" and stated "if we was going to take a divisor" (R-5).

35. Concerning the area of assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils, petitioner failed to take the time to make the proper assessment of pupil progress. She planned only a limited number of activities, which were insufficient to support the various learning styles of students. Students were not given clear instructions on how to use manipulatives.

36. Petitioner also failed to employ effective organization and planning, in that there was no logical sequence in the presentation of the lesson, which confused the students. Petitioner also failed to maintain proper control of the classroom. As a result, disruptions in the class, caused by poor student behavior, detracted from the instructional process.

37. Concerning her instructional technique, petitioner failed to communicate the objective of the lesson to the students, foster a discussion among the students and properly summarize the lesson to check for student comprehension.

38. Concerning affective domain, petitioner did not make behavior expectations clear to her students. The students basically did whatever they wanted to do, including walking around the classroom and talking without restriction.

39. Following the second evaluation, Harrison gave petitioner more "recommendations for improvement," due to the continuing performance problems she was experiencing.

40. In addition to the evaluations, Harrison and assistant principal John Smiga also sent petitioner numerous memos throughout the school year, concerning her chronic problem of lack of control of student behavior, as well as the deplorable physical condition of her classroom.

41. Petitioner did not take advantage of the assistance offered to her by Harrison. Harrison directed petitioner to visit and observe teachers. Petitioner failed to comply with this directive, claiming that she had no time to do it.

42. The students in petitioner's class had low test scores, which were directly related to the poor instruction she was providing. Her students were at least a grade behind.

43. Harrison gave petitioner an Instructional Annual Written Performance Report, which summarized petitioner's teaching performance for the entire school year. Ms. Harrison gave petitioner less than satisfactory ratings in each performance category set forth in the annual written performance report. Specifically, petitioner received unsatisfactory ratings in demonstrates proficiency in subject matter, assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils, employs effective organization and planning, utilizes effective instructional techniques and addresses affective domain; petitioner received improvement needed ratings in exhibits professional attitudes and manners, establishes rapport with pupils, staff and/or parents, and implements and enforces school rules, regulations and Board policy.

44. Due to petitioner's poor performance throughout the 1997-98 school year, Harrison recommended that petitioner's salary increment be withheld.

45. Based upon Harrison's recommendation, the District withheld petitioner's salary increment for the 1998-99 school year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Smallwood's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative, which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Petitioner admitted that she did have some performance problems during Nesheiwat's first evaluation. She admitted that there were student disruptions in her classroom during the school year and that no teaching could occur in the classroom with student disruptions. She agreed that there were times when her classroom was out of order and that there were papers on the floor and shelves and desks in disarray.

However, the sum and substance of petitioner's testimony was to the effect that her poor performance record was not her responsibility. Essentially, petitioner blamed others for her situation. She contended that Nesheiwat was a "liar" and that his second evaluation of her was a "bunch of lies." She claimed that Harrison retaliated against her due to a grievance that she filed and that Harrison and her colleagues were on a "witch-hunt" to get her. Pointing to the lack of discipline in the building, she blamed Harrison for the discipline problems with her students. She also blamed her own students, claiming that they were low achievers and belonged in special education classes. She blamed the scheduling of her classes as the reason for her lack of classroom control and the deplorable physical condition of her classroom on electricians. Petitioner also contended that the administration failed to properly advise her on how to prepare lesson plans or on the criteria and requirements she should utilize.

However, petitioner failed to provide any evidence to support these allegations. Specifically, she failed to present any evidence to support her conspiracy claim or that a grievance existed. And, in fact, Harrison testified that she had no knowledge of the existence of any such grievance. In sum, her arguments amounted to excuses, which were unsupported by any independent evidence and did not seem reasonable or credible. Petitioner's effort to blame her poor teaching performance either on those who conducted the evaluations or other factors was unsuccessful. Petitioner failed to prove that it was unreasonable for the administrators who observed and evaluated her teaching performance during the 1997-98 school year to conclude that her performance was less than satisfactory.

Of import, her assertions were contrary to the testimony and evidence adduced by respondent's witnesses. It is clear that petitioner was evaluated by two independent and experienced evaluators, who observed and evaluated petitioner's teaching performance on at least two occasions each. Their testimony, as substantiated by their reports and other evidence in the record, was clear, specific, credible and worthy of belief. It demonstrated that petitioner properly received unsatisfactory ratings in demonstrates proficiency in subject matter, assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils, employs effective organization and planning, utilizes effective instructional techniques and addresses affective domain. Clearly, the evidence supported the fact that petitioner's teaching performance was actually less than satisfactory in each performance category set forth in the evaluation form. In fact, it is observed that the testimony and evidence supports the fact that the administration attempted to advise petitioner of what was expected of her and make suggestions for improvement of her performance. Petitioner was unresponsive to Nesheiwat's attempts to help her. Further attempts to help her also proved to no avail. Despite the fact that Ms. Harrison scheduled petitioner to observe a successful teacher in another school district in order to learn some strategies for effective classroom management, petitioner failed to take advantage of this help. In sum, not only was petitioner properly evaluated, but the school clearly attempted to properly train, prepare and advise petitioner as to what was expected of her and help her accomplish these goals. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not proven that the Board's decision to withhold her salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the District's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on January 24, 2000, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision. As noted, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold her increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, based on the facts. Kopera, supra. Finding no cause to disturb the findings, credibility determinations and conclusions of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet her burden.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ROGER WOOD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent teacher for alleged improper touching of female students. Respondent's misconduct was also the subject of criminal complaints and an indictment. Respondent pled guilty to three counts of third-degree endangering the welfare of children, violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a). In his judgment of conviction, the Superior Court Judge ordered respondent to resign from his teaching position, to surrender any teaching certificate, never again to assume a teaching position, to serve four years of probation on each count concurrent, to undergo therapy, to be subject to community supervision for life, to have no contact with the victims and no unsupervised contact with females under 18 years of age. Moreover, respondent cannot seek employment where a female under the age of eighteen is employed.

Consistent with the Superior Court judgment, the Board's claims were granted by the ALJ and respondent was dismissed from his teaching position. The ALJ further determined that, given the stay and delay in disposition of this case at respondent's request, the Board was not responsible for payment of back pay and/or benefits to respondent.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own with modification. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's tenure charges of unbecoming conduct were sustained, justifying respondent's dismissal and that respondent had no entitlement to back pay or benefits. The Commissioner, however, declined to reach the ALJ's Initial Decision discussion with respect to whether a stay of tenure proceedings as a consequence of an ongoing related criminal "investigation" was possible, determining that resolution of that issue was not necessary to the adjudication of this matter.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 409-9/98

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD,

Petitioner,

v.

ROGER WOOD,

Respondent.

Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., for petitioner (Klausner, Hunter & Rosenberg, attorneys)

Nicholas Celso, Esq., & Joseph Morano, Esq., for respondent (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 7, 2000 Decided: July 11, 2000

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Board of Education of the Borough of South Plainfield (BOE) charges that Roger Wood, a tenured teacher in the BOE's school system, engaged in unbecoming conduct and that there is just cause for his dismissal. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

More particularly, the BOE alleges that respondent wrongfully and repeatedly touched his female students. Respondent's misconduct is also the subject of criminal complaints and an indictment. Respondent pled guilty to three counts of third-degree endangering the welfare of children, violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a), and the judgment of conviction shows the following: The Superior Court judge found that respondent was a sex offender and that his misconduct was characterized by a pattern of repetitive and compulsive behavior. Respondent must resign from his teaching position, surrender any teaching certificate and never again assume a teaching position. Respondent must undergo sex offender's specific therapy, submit to community supervision for life, avoid contact with the victims and avoid unsupervised contact with females under eighteen years of age.

Consistent with the Superior Court judgment, the BOE's claims are granted and the respondent is dismissed from his teaching position. Given the procedural history, etc., detailed below, the BOE is not responsible for payment of back pay, etc.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY
AND

On September 10, 1998, in the Department of Education, the following papers were filed: the BOE's sworn tenure charges, superintendent's sworn statement of evidence in support of tenure charges, certification of determination for filing of tenure charges, BOE's resolution of determination of probable cause to credit evidence, etc., and certification of service. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, -11; N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.2. On September 21, 1998, the respondent's answer and separate defenses were filed with the Department.

The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where on September 24, 1998, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On September 25, 1998, the case was assigned to me and I faxed to the attorneys a scheduling letter, citing the expedited schedule required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. as recently amended. The attorneys forwarded letters relative to the possibility of a criminal charge against respondent, and on October 7, 1998, I faxed a letter to them wherein I wrote that unless I received notice that a criminal charge had been filed, this litigation would go forward according to the expedited schedule. On October 13, 1998, the attorneys and I engaged in a telephone conference and respondent's attorney represented that the Middlesex County prosecutor had undertaken a criminal investigation and that he (respondent's attorney) might move for a stay of this case. I advised the attorneys to notify me if a criminal charge was filed, but, in the meanwhile, unless I received notice that a criminal charge had been filed, this litigation would go forward according to the expedited schedule.

In an October 14, 1998, letter to the attorneys, I wrote the following:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 [and N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 et seq.] address the situation where a related criminal charge has been filed against the teacher, but we do not have evidence of a filed criminal charge and we talked about the possibility of a stay in the absence of a criminal charge. I have done some preliminary research and I offer it to you, so that Mr. Klausner may make a practical decision relative to a motion for a stay.
>
> A stay is an extraordinary preliminary and provisional remedy which enjoins and delays award of the permanent remedy and it is granted only where the moving party demonstrates a clear right and demonstrates that, in its absence, grave injustice would occur. Housing Authority of Town of Morristown v. Little, 135 N.J. 274, 289 (1994); Chalom v. Benesh, 234 N.J. Super. 248, 254 (Law Div. 1989).
>
> In determining whether to grant a stay, a judge should consider the equities and necessity of the particular case and whether granting a stay would frustrate New Jersey public policy. American Home Products v. Adriatic Ins., 286 N.J. Super. 24, 38 (App. Div. 1995); National Freight, Inc. v. Ostroff, 133 N.J. Super. 554, 558 (Law Div. 1975). It has been held that a stay should not be granted "unless no hardship, prejudice or inconvenience would result to the one against whom the stay is sought." Insurance Co. of North America v. Allied Crude Vegetable Oil, 89 N.J. Super. 518, 541 (Ch. Div. 1965), citing Gosschalk v. Gosschalk, 28 N.J. 73 (1958).
> In a civil proceeding, a witness may assert the Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination and a witness who asserts a valid claim under that right may not be compelled to testify absent at least the protection of use immunity (which I have no authority to grant). Whippany Paper Board Co. v. Alfano, 176 N.J. Super. 363, 369 (App. Div. 1980), citing Maness v. Meyers, 419 U.S. 449, 95 S. Ct. 584, 42 L. Ed. 2d 574 (1975), and Mahne v. Mahne, 66 N.J. 53 (1974).

However, while a civil defendant has the absolute right against self-incrimination, he has no absolute right to a stay of the civil case to await indictment on the same subject matter or to await disposition of an indictment, because such a stay would delay justice that might be due to the civil claimant. National Freight, supra, 133 N.J. Super. at 558. Further, in the absence of a stay, in discovery and in a hearing, the civil defendant may assert his Fifth Amendment right or tell the truth and "the truth is always the truth, and telling the truth will not hurt anyone except insofar as he ought to be hurt." Shaw v. Riverdell Hospital, 150 N.J. Super. 585, 591 (Law Div. 1977), citing National Freight, supra, 133 N.J. Super. at 559, and In re Vince, 2 N.J. 443, 448 (1949), and citing DeVita v. Sills, 422 F.2d 1172 (3d Cir. 1970). In DeVita, there was a motion to stay a state judicial inquiry looking toward disbarment and removal from judicial office pending completion of a related criminal proceeding on the ground that the Fifth Amendment should be construed so that one is not faced with the difficult decision of either asserting the privilege against self-incrimination or testifying with limited immunity and it was held that there was no authority for so broad a reading of the Fifth Amendment and no constitutional right to stay the civil action to await the outcome of a related criminal case.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 [and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.] may be said to set forth the public policy that teacher tenure charges should be expeditiously decided and only when there is a related criminal charge filed is a tenure case excepted from the statute's expeditious schedule. I understand that Mr. Celso has notified the prosecutor of this case and that he (Mr. Celso) has no knowledge of criminal charges that have been filed.

Given the above and, especially, in the absence of evidence of a filed criminal charge, it appears that a motion for a stay may be unsuccessful and that the schedule previously set forth should continue. However, I leave it to Mr. Klausner to notify me of authority that would support a stay and to take such action as he sees fit. Finally, please notify me immediately if you learn of a criminal charge filed.

The attorneys exchanged several letters relative to respondent's raising the Fifth Amendment in objection to the BOE's discovery requests. In a November 30, 1998, letter to the attorneys, I wrote the following:

> In response to the BOE's discovery requests, if appropriate, Mr. Wood may assert his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. However, I ORDER that, by December 3, 1998, in writing served on the BOE's attorney, Mr. Wood identify the BOE's discovery requests to which he raises his Fifth Amendment right and that he serve answers to other discovery requests. If the BOE believes that the Fifth Amendment right is inappropriately raised, it may move for appropriate relief and, if the BOE sees fit, relative to those discovery requests to which Mr. Wood raises his Fifth Amendment right privilege, it may request inferences for findings of fact.

No record had been made here of a criminal charge filed against respondent and respondent made no motion here for a stay. However, in the Superior Court, Chancery Division, Middlesex County, respondent's attorney filed a Superior Court complaint, Wood v. South Plainfield BOE and Tassini, A.L.J., C-314-98, demanding restraint of the hearing of this case, etc. The BOE's attorney and a deputy attorney general representing me appeared in defense of the complaint, and on December 15, 1998, the Honorable Joseph C. Messina, J.S.C., entered an order denying the relief sought and dismissing the case. Respondent took no appeal from the order.

The BOE filed papers in support of a motion to compel respondent to answer discovery and for inferences adverse to respondent based on his refusal to answer discovery based upon his Fifth Amendment rights. In a December 28, 1998, letter, respondent's attorney wrote that, in view of the anticipated action by the prosecutor, respondent requested a stay and represented that the respondent was aware that (because a stay would delay disposition of this case), consistent with Ott v. Board of Education of Hamilton Township, 160 N.J. Super. 333, 342 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 78 N.J. 336 (1978), the BOE would not be required to pay respondent's salary (otherwise required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3) or benefits, subject to the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA) rights, during the period resulting from the stay.

In a December 28, 1998 letter to the attorneys, I wrote the following:

> (1) I take Mr. Klausner's letters as representations that Mr. Wood asserts his Fifth Amendment rights, in objection to discovery, and that, if he were called as a witness, he would assert his Fifth Amendment rights, in declining to testify. The prosecuting party must present a prima facie case to support its charges and the party in defense must assert his Fifth Amendment rights in declining to testify before an inference adverse to him may be taken. This has not yet occurred in this case. In any event, consistent with the Fifth Amendment and N.J.S.A. 2A:84A-31/N.J.R.E. 532, even in the absence of a filed criminal charge, given the severe penalty demanded by the BOE, I believe that Mr. Wood's assertion of his Fifth Amendment rights should not be taken as a basis for an inference adverse to him. State Dep't of Law & Public Safety v. Merlino, 216 N.J. Super. 579, 587 (App. Div. 1987), aff'd, 109 N.J. 134 (1988). Consequently, I DENY the BOE's motion.
> (2) In Mr. Klausner's December 24, 1998 letter, he writes that his associate has spoken to an assistant prosecutor who represented that an investigator is "out for surgery until the end of February" and that, "two or three weeks after the investigator's return," she expects to finish the investigation. On this basis, Mr. Klausner again requests that this administrative case be stayed. As I have previously written to you, as I read N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 [and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.], the filing of a related criminal charge would except this case from the expedited schedule, however, a mere investigation is not sufficient to except. As I have also previously written to you, if a criminal charge is filed, you should immediately notify me; however, having no notice of a filed charge, I have not stayed this case. As you know, in Wood v. South Plainfield BOE & Tassini, ALJ, Ch. Div. C:314-98, Mr. Wood demanded an order staying this administrative case and, on December 15, 1998, the Honorable Joseph C. Messina, J.S.C., agreeing with my reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 [and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.], dismissed the complaint. (Mr. Klausner has represented that there will be no appeal from the dismissal.) The BOE's attorney has previously represented that he has notified the prosecutor's office of this administrative case and, in Mr. Klausner's December 24, 1998 letter, he does not represent that a criminal charge has been filed against respondent. Consequently, I see no basis to except this case from the expedited schedule and I DENY the respondent's motion for a stay.

> Given the above, on the above date, you should be ready to begin the hearing and the BOE, as the prosecuting party, bears the burden of proof and will present its case first.

Relative to the BOE's outstanding discovery demands, on January 4, 1999, the attorneys and I engaged in a telephone conference. Respondent's attorney agreed to provide names of persons with knowledge of facts purportedly exculpating respondent and agreed to provide copies of letters and other writings in that regard. I determined that, since there was no related criminal charge filed against respondent, the hearing would begin as scheduled, i.e., on January 12, 1999. On January 11, 1999, I issued written orders denying the BOE's motion for an order requiring respondent to answer discovery as unnecessary, denying the BOE's motion for adverse inferences (for the reasons set forth in my December 28, 1998, letter described above) and denying the respondent's motion for a stay (for the reasons set forth in my December 28, 1998, letter described above).

On January 11, 1999, I received a copy of respondent's letter transmitting papers to the Commissioner of Education in support of a motion to stay the hearing and I adjourned the hearing to January 13, 1999, to allow the Commissioner an opportunity to act on the motion.

On January 12, 1999, the attorneys represented that criminal charges related to the tenure charges had been filed against respondent and respondent's attorney faxed to me copies of the following: State of New Jersey v. Wood (i.e., the respondent), County of Middlesex, South Plainfield Municipal Court, W-1999-000063-1E, Police Case No. 198-62, a complaint, wherein it was charged that between September and November 1996, respondent committed crimes relating to one child, and State of New Jersey v. Wood (i.e., the respondent), County of Middlesex, South Plainfield Municipal Court, W-1999-000063-122, Police Case No. 198-62, a complaint wherein it was charged that between September and November 1996, respondent committed crimes relating to another child. More particularly, in each complaint it was alleged that respondent did:

> within the jurisdiction of this court, commit the act of aggravated criminal sexual contact upon [the victim], age 13, by touching victim's intimate part, i.e., buttocks, and the defendant having > supervisory power over the victim which is in violation of N.J.S. 2C:14-3a. Acts occurred between 09011996 and 11051996.

> within the jurisdiction of this court, commit the act of endangering the welfare of a child to wit: a child less than 16 by engaging said child in sexual conduct which would debauch and impair the morals of the child in violation of N.J.S. 2C:24-4a. Acts occurred between 09011996 and 11051996.

In view of the related criminal charges filed against respondent, on January 12, 1999, I entered an order granting the respondent's motion for a stay of this administrative litigation and ordering that, given respondent's request for adjournment and motion for a stay, the BOE was not obligated to make payment of his salary and benefits, subject to his rights under the COBRA.

The above-described complaints were transmitted to the Middlesex County Prosecutor and, in State v. Roger Wood, indictment 99-06-00698, in the Superior Court, Law Division, Middlesex County, respondent was charged in several counts. Respondent pled guilty to three counts of violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a). The May 22, 2000, judgment of conviction entered by Honorable Barnett E. Hoffman, P.J.C.D., shows that respondent's conduct was characterized by a pattern of repetitive and compulsive behavior, and Judge Hoffman sentenced respondent to the following: Respondent is to serve four years of probation on each count, concurrent. Respondent is to undergo sex offender's specific therapy until medically discharged. Respondent is subject to community supervision for life. Respondent is to have no contact with the victims and no unsupervised contact with females under eighteen years of age. Respondent is to surrender all teaching certificates and never serve in a teaching position again. Respondent cannot seek employment where a female under the age of eighteen is employed.

On June 7, 2000, the attorneys and I conferred and I advised them that, in view of the judgment of conviction, etc., I would enter this order.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Legislature established tenure for teaching staff members to aid in establishment of a "thorough and efficient free public school system." N.J. Const. art. VIII, § IV, ¶ 1; N.J.S.A.

18A:10-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, a tenured teacher may be dismissed for unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Given the judgment of conviction of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a), respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school teacher and there is just cause for his dismissal. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Because the stay and delay in disposition of this case was at respondent's request, for the reason described above, he waived his claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 to receipt of his salary, etc., pending a decision on this case (subject to his rights under the COBRA). This is consistent with legislative intent in the recent amendments of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq., which restrict a board of education's obligation to continue to pay the salary of a teacher who has been suspended.

ORDERS

Respondent is dismissed as a public school teacher.

The BOE is not liable for backpay and/or benefits.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ROGER WOOD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, in light of respondent's guilty plea to three counts of violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4(a) and the resultant Judgment of Conviction entered by the Honorable Barnett E. Hoffman, PJCD, on May 22, 2000, the Board's tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against him have been sustained, justifying his dismissal. The Commissioner further agrees that because the delay in the disposition of this matter was at respondent's request, he has no entitlement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, to back pay or benefits from the Board. In so determining, however, the Commissioner declines to reach the ALJ's extensive Initial Decision discussion with respect to whether respondent could be granted a stay of tenure proceedings as a consequence of an ongoing related criminal "investigation," since he finds that resolution of this particular issue, under the circumstances existing here, is not necessary to the adjudication of the within matter.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed with the exception noted above.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: AUG 18 2000

[1] It is noted that, pursuant to the May 22, 2000 Judgment of Conviction, respondent was required to surrender all of his teaching certificates.

HEARING OF MARGARET SIDBERRY,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO,	:	DECISION
BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

Petitioning Board filed tenure charges against respondent school psychologist, alleging inefficiency and unbecoming conduct. The charges were based on respondent's repeated failure to complete and file psychological assessments in a timely manner.

After 15 days of hearing, the ALJ, based on the testimony and documentary evidence presented, concluded that the Board had sustained the charge of inefficiency and that dismissal was the appropriate penalty. The ALJ concluded that respondent repeatedly failed to conduct evaluations and submit psychological assessments in a timely manner, despite the extensive assistance provided by the Board to enable her to complete her work. The ALJ rejected respondent's proffered reasons for her untimely completion of her work, including various reductions in staff, serving on two Child Study teams and time spent training new staff. Finally, the ALJ did not address the charges of unbecoming conduct because of her conclusion that the sustained charge of inefficiency warranted dismissal of respondent from her position.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the Board had proven the charge of inefficiency. In considering the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner weighed respondent's years of service and the fact that her performance was adequate in certain areas. The Commissioner, however, concluded that respondent continued to perform in an inefficient manner despite extensive efforts on the part of the Board to assist her in improving her performance and completing her work. Thus, the Commissioner determined that there could be no reasonable expectation that respondent would be able to conform her performance to the level reasonably expected of child study team members and that termination was the appropriate penalty. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as that body deems appropriate.

BEFORE BARBARA A. HARNED ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, Burlington County (Board), filed tenure charges against respondent Margaret Sidberry. The charges are based upon inefficiency, pattern of conduct and unbecoming conduct. The Board seeks removal of Ms. Sidberry from her tenured position as a school psychologist. Respondent Sidberry denies the allegations of inefficiency, pattern of conduct and unbecoming conduct and seeks to have the tenure charges dismissed.

The Board filed Amended Tenure Charges against Ms. Sidberry with the Commissioner of Education on January 23, 1997. On February 18, 1997, Ms. Sidberry filed her Answer to the charges with the Commissioner. On February 25, 1997, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Department of Education for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N. J. S. A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and *N. J. S. A.*52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on May 7, 1997, and a Prehearing Order was entered on May 21, 1997. Following a dispute between the parties, an Order was entered on October 6, 1997, compelling the Board to provide certain discovery. The hearing in this matter commenced on October 14, 1997, and continued on October 15, 16, 17 and 20, 1997[1]; January 12, 13, 14, 15, 21, 1998; March 23, 24, 1998, June 4, 5, and June 10, 1998. Post hearing briefs were filed by the parties on March 19, 1999, at which time the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Unless otherwise noted, the following facts are undisputed and are adopted as FINDINGS OF FACT. Margaret Sidberry is a tenured employee of the Board and has been so employed since December 1983. She holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education, 1972, from Duquesne University; a Masters Degree in Education from the University of Pittsburgh in Special Education and Rehabilitation Counseling and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study, School Psychology Certificate from Duquesne University. Ms. Sidberry is a certified school psychologist in the State of New Jersey and since the inception of her employment with the Board has functioned as a psychologist on various Child Study Teams (J-3).

The terms and conditions of employment for a Child Study Team (CST) member, such as Ms. Sidberry, for the years 1993-1996 were the same as those of a teacher and are governed under the negotiated agreement between the Board and the Willingboro Education Association (Article I, Part A.1 and 3B) (J-3). Pertinent portions of the agreement are annexed as J-1, Articles I through XXVIII. For the purposes of this proceeding only, similar terms are contained in the 1996-1999 agreement which, at the time of hearing, had not yet been fully negotiated. Ms. Sidberry had been a ten-month employee prior to 1994. However, commencing in the summer of 1994, she became a twelve-month employee of the Board.

While the Amended Tenure Charges alleged unbecoming conduct and inefficiency starting as early as the 1992/1993 school year, on the first day of hearing, October 14, 1997, I limited the charges to the time period between the 1993/1994 school year and January of 1997, due to the Board's failure to respond to discovery requests seeking evidence to support the charges prior to that time.

A Child Study Team (CST) consists of three members: a psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher-consultant (LDTC) and a social worker. There are five CSTs in the Willingboro school district. Three CSTs are assigned to the elementary schools and out of district placements; one team is assigned to the junior high school and one team is assigned to the high school. The duties of a CST include the evaluation of students for possible classification as learning disabled; the development of Individual Education Programs (IEPs) for classified students; and the case management of students and their IEPs as they progress through school. Each CST member is responsible for conducting evaluations (either psychological, LDTC or social) in accordance with federal and state law for students who have been assigned to them. The psychological and LDTC evaluations consist of testing the student; observing the student in the classroom and writing a report. The social evaluation consists of interviewing the student's teacher, at least one of the parents; observing the student and writing a report. Once the three evaluations for a student are completed, the CST meets, reviews the reports and develops an IEP for the student if classification as learning disabled is deemed appropriate. The team then meets with the student's parents to discuss the IEP.

Once a student is classified and an IEP is developed, a CST member is assigned to "case manage" the student. Case management involves addressing the individualized problems of the student and making recommendations with regard to re-evaluation and changes in the IEP if necessary. CST members are also assigned special tasks from time to time by their supervisors and in addition provide input with respect to disciplinary hearings involving students whom they case manage. The typical weekly schedule for a CST member is testing one student per day for three days of the week; one day for case management duties and one day to meet with other CST members to review CST reports and develop IEPs (called pre-staffing or team days). While there were some slight differences in their testimony, CST members who testified, such as Marvin Schuck (LDTC), Jay Albert (psychologist), Noreen Donnelly (LDTC) and Tom Mole (social worker) agreed that the testing, evaluation and writing of a report for a student can almost always be accomplished in one day and I so FIND[2]. As discussed below, Ms. Sidberry contends that many factors arose over which she had no control which prevented her from accomplishing the testing, evaluation and report writing in one day for some students.

The Willingboro CSTs are assigned to the district's Department of Pupil-Personnel Services. Willingboro Pupil Personnel Services Procedures for Professional Staff are promulgated in a written document which became effective in September 1995 (P-1). In pertinent part, the Procedures provide that:

> Reports are to be submitted within seven (7) days of the scheduled evaluation date. If the student and/or parent does not keep the appointment, it is the team member's responsibility to reschedule. Child Study Team member should follow-up with phone calls 15 - 30 minutes after the scheduled arrival time. If no answer, an appointment date should be rescheduled within two days of the missed appointment. After the 2nd missed appointment, creative measures should be used to encourage participation; e. g., telephone interviews, home visits, interviewing selected staff, written contacts by the social workers, etc. (P-1, page 2).

Pursuant to the above procedure, if a student is absent on their appointed test day, the evaluator must find time within their existing schedule to test the student; if the evaluator is absent another day in the evaluator's schedule is arranged. Again, while there was some slight differences in their testimony, Ms. Sidberry's supervisor, Margaret Wolford, and CST members other than Ms. Sidberry, agreed and I FIND that the seven days ran from the date a student was actually evaluated; that is, if the student missed a scheduled evaluation date, the time did not start running until the CST member was able to reschedule and actually complete the evaluation. Based on the testimony of Doris Salagi, former IEP Facilitator, Kurt Jarvis, social worker and Ms. Wolford, I further FIND that the time period ended when the CST member handed in his or her report to either the IEP Facilitator or the Team Leader and that the report could be submitted in handwritten form. Time spent thereafter in typing up the report by the clerical staff did not count against the seven day time period. There was also some confusion among CST members as to whether the seven days referred to calendar days or work days. Based on the testimony of Ms. Wolford and that of Dorothy Landis, social worker, I FIND that the seven days refers to seven working days.

During the 1993/1994 school year, Ms. Sidberry was on the high school CST and was supervised until March 1994 by Penny Webb, then Acting Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services (J-3, paragraph 6). In her staff evaluation of Ms. Sidberry dated March 10, 1994, Ms. Webb was generally complimentary of Ms. Sidberry's performance (P-2). However, Ms. Webb noted that "[a]s the testing gets completed, you are requested to submit your reports in a timely manner. Please adhere to these timelines" (P-2). In the Recommended Areas of Improvement section of the evaluation, Ms. Webb noted that Ms. Sidberry should "[d]evelop time management skills to in[s]ure timely completion of reports while meeting the time demands of case management and student discipline issues" (P-2).

Commencing on March 28, 1994, Margaret Wolford, Director of Pupil Personnel Services, became Ms. Sidberry's supervisor. Based on her demeanor and the consistency of her testimony, I found Ms. Wolford to be a credible witness. I also found her testimony credible and convincing because she gave credit to Ms. Sidberry when credit was called for; going so far as to correct the Board's attorney a few times when her questions erroneously suggested that Sidberry had failed to do something. Accordingly, I adopt Ms. Wolford's following testimony as FINDINGS OF FACT.

Shortly after becoming Ms. Sidberry's supervisor, Ms. Wolford discovered that Sidberry had several overdue reports. By memo dated April 25, 1994, Ms. Wolford notified Ms. Sidberry that only two of five expected psychological reports had been received by the IEP Facilitator and that four cases, T. M., J. C., R. A. and J. S., "continue[d] to be in noncompliance as a result of the missing psychological component" (P-5). Wolford directed Sidberry that "[p]riority in testing and/or writing the reports for these cases is necessary" (P-5). On May 17 and May 26, 1994, Ms. Wolford asked Ms. Sidberry to see her to discuss why Sidberry submitted only one report during the week of May 9 to May 13 when two should have been submitted to the IEP Facilitator and none during the week of May 16 to May 20 when three should have been submitted to the IEP Facilitator (P-6, P-7).

Similarly, on June 3 and June 14, 1994, Ms. Wolford asked Ms. Sidberry to see her to discuss why Sidberry submitted no reports during the week of May 23 to May 27 when three should have been submitted and no reports during the week of June 6 to June 10 when one should have been submitted (P-9, P-10). In her June 3, 1994, memo, Ms. Wolford thanked Ms. Sidberry for the three reports she submitted as a result of an writing day given her on May 31, 1994 (P-9). Ms. Sidberry was not the only staff member who received memos such as P-6 through P-10).

A June 24, 1994, memo to Ms. Wolford from Doris Salagi, IEP Facilitator, advised Ms. Wolford of the status of scheduled evaluations for five CST team members (P-11). Dorothy Landis, social worker on the high school CST, had one outstanding evaluation; Noreen Donnelly, LDTC on the high school CST, had no outstanding evaluations; Michael Giacchino, LDTC on the junior high school CST had two outstanding evaluations; Henry Rowlette, social worker on the junior high school CST, had four outstanding evaluations and Margaret Sidberry had fifteen outstanding evaluations (P-11). During the 1993/1994 school year Ms. Sidberry served on two CST teams, due to a vacancy in the district's school psychologist positions. At the request of Ms. Wolford, Ms. Sidberry agreed to serve on the high school CST and on the junior high CST. Some of Sidberry's outstanding evaluations listed in Ms. Salagi's memo were from the junior high school (P-11). Ms. Wolford agreed that being on two teams is a reason to "cut some slack" for a team member and she did this by sending some cases to outside agencies for evaluation and by giving Ms. Sidberry extra writing days.

By memo dated June 27, 1994, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry to submit her outstanding reports to the IEP Facilitator by June 29, 1994 (P-12). By the time Ms. Wolford gave this memo to Ms. Sidberry, Sidberry had submitted three reports on June 29, 1994, leaving twelve outstanding reports as of that date (P-11, P-12, P-13). Not all these reports were overdue under the seven day rule because some of the students had not yet been tested but the ninety day federal requirement for completing the evaluations was running. On July 21, 1994, Ms. Sidberry had eight uncompleted reports and Ms. Wolford advised her that "[a] concrete plan to complete your cases is essential. Please submit such a plan by Tuesday, July 26, 1994" and offered Sidberry her assistance in developing this plan (P-13). Ms. Wolford placed a copy of her July 21, 1994, memo (P-13) to Ms. Sidberry in Sidberry's personnel file and viewed the memo as a disciplinary action. This was the only such disciplinary memo that Ms. Wolford sent to any of the thirteen CST members on staff at the time.

Wolford and Sidberry met on July 28, 1994, at which time Sidberry still had five outstanding reports. Of these five, two students had been tested by Ms. Sidberry but reports had not been submitted as of July 28, 1994, and three students had not been tested as of that date (P-14). Ms. Sidberry did not submit a plan to complete her cases as requested by Ms. Wolford on July 21, 1994 (P-14). Prior to the start of the 1994-1995 school year, Ms. Sidberry completed two of the outstanding reports on the students she had tested. The three students who had not been tested were sent to an outside agency for evaluation.

CST members are not scheduled to start testing students until two weeks after school starts in September. After approximately three weeks of testing at the start of the 1994/1995 school year, Ms. Wolford wrote a memo on October 11, 1994, to Ms. Sidberry in which Wolford advised Sidberry that since testing started on September 14, 1994, Sidberry had only submitted one report and that four September reports were overdue (P-15). These four students had been tested between September 21 and September 28, 1994, and reports had not yet been submitted by October 11, 1994 (P-15). Ms. Sidberry's incomplete reports caused delays in processing for three of the four students (P-15). Wolford advised Sidberry that she was "concerned that you are falling into the same pattern demonstrated last year with reference to delays in report writing. Your cooperation is needed to expedite team processes" (P-15).

By memo dated October 31, 1994, IEP Facilitator Doris Salagi provided Ms. Wolford with an update of scheduled evaluations for the high school CST through October 28, 1994 (P-16). Dorothy Landis, social worker, had no overdue reports (P-16). Noreen Donnelly, LDTC, may have had one overdue report (P-16). Ms. Sidberry had five overdue reports (V. F., F. G., E. R., M. S. and A. H.) (P-16).[3] Two of the overdue reports (V. F. and F. G.) were also listed as overdue on Ms. Wolford's October 11, 1994, memo (P-15). Two of the students Ms. Sidberry was scheduled to evaluate were sent to an outside agency because Ms. Sidberry was absent on the days she was scheduled to test them (R. E. and T. R.) (P-16). Wolford and Sidberry met on November 4, 1994, and Wolford agreed to give Sidberry two writing days on November 7 and 8, 1994, to complete her reports and directed her to submit all reports for logging no later than the morning of November 9, 1994 (P-17). Ms. Wolford could not recall whether Ms. Sidberry completed all the reports by November 9, 1994, but it is undisputed that these students were not subsequently included in any listing of Sidberry's overdue reports.

[3] There are nine students listed for Ms. Sidberry on P-16. Five were tested between September 27 and October 17, 1994 (V. F., F. G. ,E. R., M. S. and A. H.). Based on the 1994/1995 school calendar (R-27), these reports had not been submitted to Ms. Salagi within seven working days of testing.

By memo dated January 20, 1995, Ms. Wolford asked to meet with Ms. Sidberry to discuss overdue reports (P-18). Seven overdue reports were listed in the memo for students who had been tested by Ms. Sidberry between December 5, 1994 and January 10, 1995 (R. R., C. H., K. H., T. S., D. J., M. T., and K. S.) (P-18). Five of the cases were in a noncompliant status with federal requirements (R. R., C. H., K. H., D. J., and K. S.). Ms. Wolford acknowledged that it was not necessarily Ms. Sidberry's delay which caused the case to become noncompliant. In some cases students may have transferred into the school district in a noncompliant status. In other cases, factors other than the lateness of Ms. Sidberry's reports may have already made the case noncompliant. However, the fact that the cases were in a noncompliant status made timely submission of Ms. Sidberry's reports very important. As of January 20, 1995, Ms. Sidberry had submitted only one report since January 3, 1995 (P-18). On January 20, 1995, Wolford and Sidberry met and Ms. Sidberry told Ms. Wolford that she had a lot of interruptions when she was trying to write reports. Wolford advised Sidberry to leave her office and go to another location in the building where she could work (P-18). Sidberry declined to do so because she stated she needed the materials in her office in order to write her reports. No other CST member complained to Ms. Wolford that interruptions were preventing them from completing their reports.

Ms. Sidberry submitted the report for C. H. on January 26, 1995 (P-18). However, by January 31, 1995, she had not submitted the other six reports listed in Wolford's January 20, 1995 memo (P-19). Again, the testing dates for these six reports occurred between December 5, 1994 and January 10, 1995 (P-19). Four of the cases were in noncompliant status and the psychological report was the only assessment outstanding (P-19). Ms. Wolford directed Ms. Sidberry to devote two days during the coming week to completion of the four reports in the noncompliant cases and to submit those reports by February 3, 1995 (P-19). She further directed Ms. Sidberry that "[i]f you are having difficulty completing your work, please see me to discuss time management techniques. More effort needs to be spent on meeting report writing deadlines" (P-19). By February 22, 1995, Ms. Sidberry had not completed the reports for K. S. (noncompliant case) and M. T., whom had been tested on January 10 and 9, 1995 respectively (P-20, P-18). Accordingly, Ms. Wolford directed Ms. Salagi to put K. S. and M. T. on for staffing during the team meeting on February 23, 1995 and advised Ms. Sidberry that if her reports were not written, she would have to use "protocol" since the completion of these reports could not be delayed (P-20). Using "protocol" in general means using the raw data developed in testing the student. It is very rare to ask a CST member to use raw data during a team meeting.

On February 28, 1995, Ms. Wolford met with Ms. Sidberry to discuss her Tenure Evaluation that Ms. Wolford had prepared (P-21). Ms. Sidberry asked for additional time to review the evaluation and Ms. Wolford gave her a copy (P-21). The following day the two met again to discuss the contents of Ms. Sidberry's Individual Profession Improvement Plan (IPIP) (P-21). They discussed, inter alia, "the need to establish an open line of communication that could facilitate [Sidberry's] completion of written reports" and that Ms. Wolford wanted that comment to be included in Sidberry's IPIP(P-21). An IPIP is developed between a supervisor and an employee. During the meeting Ms. Sidberry asked for additional time to complete the IPIP. On March 2 and 3, 1995, Ms. Wolford spoke with Ms. Sidberry about her evaluation and IPIP and Ms. Sidberry indicted that she had not decided whether to sign the documents (P-21). Wolford tried to speak again with Sidberry on March 6 but Sidberry was on the phone (P-21). She left a message for Sidberry to call her but did not receive a call (P-21). Accordingly, on March 7, 1995, Ms. Wolford gave Sidberry her evaluation and IPIP, as prepared by Wolford, and advised her that unless Wolford heard from her that day, the documents would be submitted to Personnel without her signature (P-21). Ms. Sidberry told Wolford that she was writing a rebuttal which would be ready on March 8, 1995 (P-21). On March 8, Sidberry told Wolford that the rebuttal was not completed (P-21). Accordingly, on March 8, Wolford submitted the evaluation and IPIP to Personnel without Sidberry's signature (P-21).

In the evaluation Ms. Wolford prepared on Ms. Sidberry, she noted her appreciation of Sidberry's serving on the junior high CST which "has helped this team complete studies contained in their case log" (P-3). Wolford also indicated that she had recently discussed with Sidberry continuing to serve on the junior high team "in the absence of a full time psychologist" and that Sidberry "expressed [her] willingness to continue in this capacity" (P-3). Wolford evaluated Sidberry's written reports as containing all the components mandated by the Code and praised her writing as "demonstrat[ing] the same sensitivity and understanding of the student's difficulties as portrayed in [Sidberry's] routine interactions with them" (P-3). Ms. Wolford also praised other aspects of Ms. Sidberry's performance including her input during parent conferences, the close contact she maintained with special education teachers, students and case workers and the "important demands" placed on Sidberry by her serving as the case manager for most seniors in the high school (P-3). Ms. Wolford agreed that she had no problem with the quality of Ms. Sidberry's work. However, she included the following in Sidberry's evaluation:

> It is important that your reports be submitted in a timely fashion to insure compliance with state regulations. Your performance in this area is rated as unsatisfactory. Despite several conferences to remediate this area, the situation continues to persist. Additional writing days have been built into your schedule, time management skills have been discussed and support from the Behavior Management Assistant has been offered. You have not placed a priority on this aspect of your functioning; consequently, many cases have become noncompliant as a result. You must readjust your priorities to complete reports more quickly (P-3).

In Sidberry's IPIP, Wolford included as a recommended area of improvement Sidberry's establishing an open line of communication with her and suggested as a way of doing this that the two have "[c]onferences to discuss strategies for case completion" (P-3). The main time management tool that Wolford discussed with Sidberry was for Sidberry to block out a period of time to do reports and then not do anything but reports during that time.

By memo dated April 27, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry of three overdue reports for students L. S., J. J. and R. F. (P-22). These students had been tested between April 4 and April 11, 1995 (P-22). Wolford asked Sidberry to meet with her to discuss the reports but if a meeting could not be arranged due to Sidberry's schedule, she asked Sidberry to complete the "Anticipated Report" column on the memo for each student and return the memo to Wolford by April 28, 1995 (P-22). Sidberry neither scheduled a meeting nor returned the memo to Wolford. After receiving no response from Sidberry by May 2, 1995, Wolford wrote another memo to Sidberry, telling her that '[t]he matter of your overdue reports must be addressed" and asking her to meet with Wolford at 2:30 p. m. that day (P-23). At that meeting, Ms. Sidberry told Ms. Wolford that, on average, she spent two hours evaluating (i.e. testing) a student; forty-five minutes scoring the tests, fifteen minutes conferring with a parent and thirty minutes observing the student (P-24). In a memo dated May 3, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that

> [d]uring an average day, this would leave approximately two and one-quarter hours for writing the report. Some of this time may be consumed locating students; however, it would appear that time is available during the day to write reports. It is important that reports be completed in order that cases can be brought to conclusion. Your cooperation with the department's efforts to maintain compliance with state mandates is essential (P-24).

Ms. Wolford explained that a psychologist does not have any more difficulty locating students than does a social worker or an LDTC. In her May 3rd memo, Ms. Wolford further advised Ms. Sidberry that her schedule for the week of May 3, 1995 and the following week had been rearranged to provide her with an extra case management day during each week which "should provide you with the time requested to complete some outstanding items needing your attention" (P-24).

By memo dated May 30, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that the absence of her reports in four cases (R. B., W. F., D. L., and R. T.) was holding up the staffing of the cases and that the cases needed to be staffed with her handwritten protocols (P-25). Two of the students had not yet been tested by Ms. Sidberry (R. B. and D. L.) and she submitted her report on R. T. by the time Sidberry and Wolford discussed the May 30, 1995 memo (P-25).

The last scheduled date for evaluations during the 1994/1995 school year was June 2, 1995 (P-26). No new students were assigned for evaluations between June 5 and 20, 1995, and that time period was designated for team members to complete any outstanding items prior to the end of school (P-26). By memo dated June 19, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that she had six reports outstanding (D. L., I. B., R. B., W. Y. J. T. S. A., and R. B.) (P-26). Two of the outstanding reports, D. L. and R. B., had also been listed on Wolford's May 30, 1995 memo (compare P-25 and P-26). The students listed on P-26 had been scheduled for testing between May 10 and June 2, 1995 (P-26). One report, D. L., was submitted by the time Wolford gave the memo to Sidberry (P-26). Ms. Wolford directed Ms. Sidberry to complete the remaining five reports by the end of the work day on June 20, 1995 and advised her that her "cooperation in completing your normal workload cannot be overemphasized" (P-26). The list did not include one case that had originally been assigned to Sidberry and then reassigned to a colleague for completion (P-26).

As noted above, Ms. Sidberry was a twelve-month employee and thus she was scheduled to do evaluations during the summer of 1995. On July 19, 1995, Wolford and Sidberry met to discuss overdue reports (P-28). At that time, Ms. Sidberry had evaluated seven students between May 12 and June 29, 1995, for which she had not yet submitted reports (R. B., R. B., W. Y., J. T., S. A., K. E., and A. T.) (R-28). Five of these seven reports had also been listed on Wolford's May 20, 1995 memo (R. B., R. B., W. Y., J. T. and S. A.) (compare P-26 and P-28). Ms. Sidberry had also evaluated three students between July 11 and July 17, 1995 (B. S., B. C. and A.B.) (P-28). As Ms. Sidberry was scheduled to go on vacation starting July 26, Ms. Wolford directed her at a minimum to submit the reports on W. Y., K. E., B. S. and B. C. before that date since her reports were needed in order to reevaluate these students (P-28). Ms. Sidberry submitted one report on July 19 (R.B.); one report on July 21 (W. Y.) and one report on July 25 (K. E.). She also evaluated another student, A. H., on July 25, 1995 and submitted her report on that student that same day (P-28). On July 21, 1995, Ms. Wolford discovered another overdue report for C. F. who was scheduled for testing on May 24, 1995 (P-29). The psychological report was the only missing report for C. F. and Wolford directed Sidberry to also complete C. F.'s report before she went on vacation (P-29). Sidberry did not submit the C. F. report until August 22, 1995 (P-29).

By memo dated August 21, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that several cases were noncompliant and their psychological reports had not yet been submitted (S. A., B. C., C. F., H. H., M. R. and A. T.) (P-30). Two of these cases (S. A. and B. C.) had also been listed on Wolford's July 20 memo (compare P-28 and P-30). Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that the cases would be scheduled for staffing using her protocols and that she should submit her reports ASAP (P-30). Wolford further advised Sidberry that she had not received any reports from Sidberry during the preceding week, although Sidberry had told her on Thursday that two reports were almost finished (P-30). Sidberry was directed to give those two reports to Wolford when she arrived for work (P-30). On August 22, 1995, Ms. Sidberry submitted the report on C. F. (P-30). Wolford acknowledged that there may have been other staff members who had overdue reports at the time but that when she spoke with them they either had an explanation, such as the student was on vacation, or they submitted the report. While some of Sidberry's late reports had similar explanations, she was also late on reports where testing had already been done and she did not give the reports to Wolford when they met to discuss them as other staff members had done.

By August 25, 1995, Ms. Sidberry had not submitted reports on seven students who had been listed on previous overdue report memos to her (R. B., S. A. A. T., B. S., B. C., M. R. and H. H.) (P-31). In addition, Ms. Sidberry evaluated two other students on July 19 and August 17, 1995 (K. G. and A. H.) and had not submitted reports on them by August 25, 1995 (P-31). Ms. Wolford wrote a memo to Ms. Sidberry on August 25, which she copied to Sidberry's Personnel file, in which she advised Sidberry that "[c]ases are non-compliant due to your failure to submit reports in a timely manner. Other cases are delayed due to the excessive time required by you to complete reports" (P-31). Ms. Wolford concluded that:

> Your delay in submitting reports within 7 days of the evaluation date can no longer be tolerated. Reports for all cases listed in this memo are due no later than 3:30 p.m. on September 1, 1995. If you fail to complete and submit these reports, I will have no alternative but to recommend that disciplinary action be taken against you which could result in the withholding of your increment or a more severe consequence (P-31).

Ms. Sidberry did not submit five of the reports listed in Wolford's August 25 memo until September 18 and 21, 1995 (R. B., B. S., B. C., M. R. and H. H.) (P-31). During the 1995/1996 school year, the district had five staff psychologists and Ms. Sidberry no longer served on two CST teams. On September 11, 1995, Ms. Wolford wrote to Assistant Superintendent Joan McAndrew and advised her that Sidberry was given a September 1 deadline for submitting nine overdue reports and that by that date she had submitted only two reports (S. A. and A. T.) (P-32, P-31). Wolford further advised McAndrew that she had "had [Sidberry] prestaff cases with her protocols and even attend a parent conference to discuss her evaluation since the report was not completed" (P-32). Ms. Wolford asked McAndrew for guidance in handling the situation and on what action should be taken (P-32). As to the parent conference referred to in her memo, Ms. Wolford explained that the conference was not actually held because the parent did not appear.

Following her memo to Assistant Superintendent McAndrew, Wolford and McAndrew met. McAndrew directed Wolford to write to the Superintendent, Dr. Geraldyn Foster. On September 20, 1995, Ms. Wolford sent a memo to Dr. Foster regarding the failure of Ms. Sidberry to perform her duties as a school psychologist (P-33). Wolford advised Foster of the September 1, 1995, deadline she had given Sidberry to submit overdue reports and reported that as of September 20, the directive had not been fully met (P-33). She further advised Foster that despite "numerous memos, conferences and attempts to assist" Sidberry, her reports "continue to be submitted weeks after the student has been evaluated" (P-33). According to Wolford, Sidberry's overdue reports caused students to be denied their right to a free and appropriate education because the excessive time required to complete her reports "delays the placement of the students in an appropriate educational program" (P-33). Additionally, Wolford reported to Foster that "[c]ases have exceeded the ninety day time limit, thus placing the district in noncompliance;" that Sidberry "has been required to staff cases with her protocols when the report has not been written" and "to attend parent conferences to discuss her results since her written report was not available for the classification team" and that psychological evaluations were contracted out to an independent agency to expedite cases (P-33). Ms. Wolford acknowledged in her testimony that there was only one parent conference where Sidberry was directed to attend and that the conference was not actually held because the parent did not appear. Wolford concluded by asking Dr. Foster for direction "as to what actions can be taken to correct this untenable situation" (P-33).

On September 21, 1995, Ms. Sidberry finally responded in writing to Ms. Wolford's August 25, 1995 memo (P-34). Sidberry denied that she willfully neglected or was unwilling to complete her work and addressed the "obstacles" which impeded her performance which she indicated she had previously discussed with Wolford (P-34). These obstacles included: difficulty locating students; difficulty locating an adequate testing location; extended time needed to complete evaluations for some students with particular difficulties for which the one day to write and test theory did not allow sufficient time to complete an assessment that satisfied code requirements or professional standards; the scheduling policy which required staff to find the time to reschedule a missed appointment, which Sidberry described as "unreasonable" and additional unscheduled activities such as parent conferences, meeting with outside agencies and "other collaborative matters which occur on a scheduled test day" (P-34). Sidberry concluded that Wolford's demand that she complete outstanding reports by September 1, 1995 was unreasonable since Wolford "was well aware that [Sidberry was] scheduled to test another student or participate in parent conferences" on all five working days between August 25 and September 1, 1995 (P-34). Regarding the "obstacles" described by Sidberry, Wolford testified that all staff members worked under the same conditions and were held to the same standards as Sidberry and I credit her testimony in this regard.

On September 22, 1995, Assistant Superintendent McAndrew had a letter from her hand delivered to Ms. Sidberry (P-35). In her letter, McAndrew advised Sidberry that

> A serious situation regarding your level of performance has come to the attention of the Superintendent, Dr. Foster, and to me, the Assistant Superintendent. This matter is cause for grave concern. Therefore, I am directing you to report to my office for a discussion on this matter on Wednesday, September 27th at 2:00 p. m.
> Since this conference may have a negative impact on your employment, I recommend that you have representation, if that is your choice. Ms. Wolford, your supervisor will also be in attendance (P-35).

On September 26, 1995, Ms. Sidberry responded in writing to Ms. Wolford's September 20, 1995 memo to Dr. Foster (P-36, P-33). Ms. Sidberry advised Dr. Foster that Wolford's comments did not reflect a full and accurate status of her job performance and that she had "attempted to complete all of [her] professional responsibilities within a structure that allows for no flexibility and makes unreasonable demands" (P-36). Sidberry further advised Dr. Foster that some reports "have been delayed due to factors which have been discussed with Ms. Wolford" and that "[t]hese conditions continue to exist and are outside of my control" (P-36). Ms. Sidberry noted that during the greater part of 1994-1995, there were only three school psychologists rather than the five needed to fully staff the five CSTs and that, therefore, an "outside agency was used to complete cases that the available staff could not complete" (P-36). She concluded that as of September 26, 1995, she had not completed only one of the evaluations listed on Ms. Wolford's memos and that was "due to the unavailability of the student" (P-36).

The meeting between Assistant Superintendent McAndrew, Wolford and Sidberry was held on September 27, 1995. Noreen Donnelly, an LDTC who had worked with Sidberry and was a union representative, also attended the meeting. Discussed during the meeting was a list of six of Sidberry's cases requiring reports as of September 27, 1995 (A. H., J. L., G. W., D. S., S. R. and R. C.) (P-37). Four of the students were listed as having been evaluated between August 17 and September 12, 1995 (A. H., J. L, G. W. and D. S.) (P-37) and therefore their reports were overdue. Two of the students were listed as having been evaluated on September 26 and 27, 1995, (S. R. and R. C.) (P-37) and therefore their reports were not overdue. Ms. Wolford assumed the students had been tested on the scheduled dates because she had not been told differently.

During the meeting Ms. Sidberry stated that the report for A. H. had been submitted and must have been lost. She explained that J. L. withdrew from school and her name should be removed from the list. As for G. W., another student had been substituted for him on August 29, 1995, and Sidberry had submitted that report prior to September 27, 1995. Sidberry reported that she had completed the reports for D. S. and S. R. and was proofreading them. R. C. had not been tested on September 27 which Sidberry blamed on his poor attendance. Wolford subsequently confirmed that G. W. should be removed from the list because another student had been substituted for him and a report submitted on the substituted student; that J. L. did withdraw from the district on September 13, 1995, and that R. C. had not been evaluated due to his absences from school (P-38, P-41). Accordingly, only three reports were needed from Ms. Sidberry as of September 2, 1995; two of which were overdue (A. H. and D. S.) and one of which was not overdue as of that date (S. R.). Ms. Sidberry reported to Ms. McAndrew on October 5, 1995, that the only incomplete report was for R. C. due to his absences (P-39). However, as of October 17, 1996, reports for A. H., D. S. and S. R. had not yet been submitted, although Ms. Sidberry indicated to Wolford they had been written and typed but required proofreading (P-41).

During the September 27, 1995, meeting, McAndrew and Wolford presented Sidberry with a Professional Improvement Plan (PIP), effective September 28, 1995 and with a review date of November 22, 1995 (P-40, P-41). The expectation set forth in the plan was "[s]atisfactory level of performance in completing student evaluations and submitting written reports within seven (7) calendar days of the testing" (P-41). The plan for improvement was as follows:

1. An average of three evaluations per week will be scheduled.
2. Pupil observation should occur between 8:30 - 9:00 a. m.
3. Students will be evaluated in the 2nd floor office at Willingboro High School.

4. Testing should commence no later than 9:00 a.m. each day (approximate testing time two (2) hours).
5. The remainder of the day should be devoted to scoring and writing the report.
6. A calendar of time management shall be maintained on each testing day.
7. Continual communication shall be maintained with the Director of Pupil Personnel Services regarding difficulties encountered in completing evaluations/reports within the prescribed timelines.
8. A conference will be scheduled at 8:15 a. m. on case management days to remedy situations causing delays in the completion of scheduled deadlines.
9. All currently overdue reports are to be in the office of the Director of Pupil Personnel Services no later than 9:00 a. m. October 10, 1995 (P-42).

As noted above, Ms. Sidberry did not submit the reports for A. H., D. S. and S. R. by October 10, 1995, as required by the PIP. The PIP also set forth assistance which the administration would provide Ms. Sidberry (P-41). The assistance to be offered included: (1) provision of student schedules by the Director of Guidance at the beginning of each week; (2) a software program for WISC-R test would be purchased to assist Sidberry in analyzing test results; (3) attendance at a Time Management Workshop on September 28, 1995 was recommended or at another similar workshop to be held in the future (P-41). The PIP further stated that in the past Ms. Sidberry had been offered the assistance of the Behavior Management Aide to bring students to her testing site but that Ms. Sidberry had rejected this assistance (P-42). During the September 27, 1995, meeting the attendees went over the PIP item by item. They agreed that attendance at the Time Management Workshop on September 28 did not give Ms. Sidberry adequate notice and that it was too late for her to attend that Workshop but that Ms. Wolford would look for another workshop for her to attend. Ms. Sidberry objected to the PIP, stating that she had had no input on its development.

On October 23, 1995, Ms. Sidberry notified Ms. Wolford that the second floor office at the high school she was supposed to use for testing remained cluttered with items and it continued to be used as a work area by other staff members (P-43, R-29A, R-30B). Wolford relayed this information to McAndrew who wrote to the principal of the high school to "re-emphasize the urgency of cleaning out the office that has been assigned to Ms. Sidberry" and "[t]his office must be designated for the exclusive use of Ms. Sidberry" (P-44).

On October 25, 1995, the Willingboro Education Association (Association) filed a grievance with Ms. Wolford on behalf of Ms. Sidberry, alleging that Wolford had victimized Sidberry on numerous occasions by totally unnecessary job pressure and stress and had presented a one-sided, misleading, grossly inaccurate and damaging PIP for Sidberry (P-46). The grievance further complained that Sidberry had no input in the PIP and that the plan was unreasonable, unworkable and unrealistic (P-46). By memo dated November 8, 1995, Wolford denied the grievance, concluding that the actions taken by the administration did not violate either the collective bargaining agreement or N. J. A.C. 6:3-4.3(c), as alleged by the Association (P-48). By letter dated November 17, 1995, the Association filed the grievance with Dr. Foster for consideration at the Superintendent level (P-49). There is no written record of Dr. Foster's decision on the grievance. Ms. Wolford testified that at some point she was told the grievance would not be pursued and it never was taken to arbitration.

On November 3, 1995, Wolford provided McAndrew with an update on Sidberry, reporting that as of that date, Ms. Sidberry was "up-to-date and current with her reports" (P-47). Ms. Wolford also reported she had been unsuccessful in locating a time management workshop for Sidberry; that Sidberry felt the software program offered by the administration had no value because it did not take into account the unique strengths and weaknesses of students and that the office assigned to Sidberry was still piled with boxes and had not been cleared as requested by McAndrew (P-47). While Ms. Sidberry was current with her reports as of November 3, 1995, by November 21, 1995, Wolford reported that Sidberry had seven outstanding reports for students she had evaluated between October 16 and November 11, 1995 (S. H., H. G., M. J., S. J., M. W., T. M. and E. G.) (P-50). Ms. Sidberry submitted the report for S. H. on November 22, 1995 and stated that she was writing the report on H. G. and expected to submit it shortly (P-50).

On November 22, 1995, Assistant Superintendent McAndrew had a letter from her hand delivered to Ms. Sidberry (P-51). The letter advised Sidberry that a meeting would be held on November 30, 1995, to discuss with her the review of her performance called for in the September 28, 1995 PIP (P-51). Prior to the meeting, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry on November 27, 1995, that according to the CST log, Sidberry had nine overdue reports for students tested between October 17 and November 20 (H. G., M. J., S. J., M. W., T. M., E. G., M. H., C. J., L. M.) (P-52). Six of these reports had also been listed as overdue on Ms. Wolford's November 21 memo (H. G., M. J., S. J., M. W., T. M. and E. G.) (compare P-50 and P-52). Ms. Sidberry submitted the report for

H. G. on November 28 (P-52). One of the students, L. M., was listed as tested on November 20 and therefore her report was not actually due until November 28, 1995 (P-52, R-36). At this point, Ms. Wolford was having Sidberry submit her hand-written reports to her and Wolford then forwarded them to typing. Wolford had never done this before with a CST member.

By another memo also dated November 27, Ms. Wolford asked Ms. Sidberry to keep a record of her time schedule for the three testing days during the week of November 27, starting at 8:15 a. m. and concluding at 3:30 p. m., and to provide this information to Wolford by the end of the work day on November 29, 1995 (P-54). Ms. Wolford asked Ms. Sidberry to keep this record because Wolford was having difficulty understanding why Sidberry was not getting her reports in on time. Sidberry did attempt to record her time but the information she provided to Wolford was sketchy. It appeared to Wolford that Sidberry as doing case management activities on testing days. Wolford acknowledged that other team members may have done the same but that they were able to get their reports submitted on time. When Wolford discussed this issue with Ms. Sidberry, Sidberry replied that "if a parent calls, you have to talk with them."

On November 27, 1995, Ms. Wolford advised all the high school CST members that she had arranged with the Director of Guidance to provide the team members with the schedules of students to be tested during the week on Monday morning (P-53). To accomplish this, the team members had to provide their weekly testing schedule to Wolford's office by the end of the workday on Thursday. Wolford's office would then fax the schedule to the Guidance Director on Friday so that his office could compile the schedules (P-53). Ms. Wolford asked the team members to advise her immediately if the new procedure did not prove effective (P-53).

The meeting to discuss the September 28, 1995, PIP was held on November 30, 1995 (P-45). Present were McAndrew, Wolford, Sidberry and Noreen Donnelly. Wolford and McAndrew provided Sidberry with a written critique of her performance (P-45). Regarding the nine items contained in the plan for improvement, the critique for items 2, 4, 5, and 7 was that "[t]his item was a time management suggestion" (P-45). As to item 1, the critique indicated that "evaluations have been scheduled as required" (P-45). Regarding item 3, the critique recognized that the office for testing had not been provided to Ms. Sidberry "as expeditious[ly] . . . as first anticipated" and that the situation had recently been rectified (P-45). As to item 7, the critique indicated that the "level of communication between you and [Wolford] still has not reached a satisfactory level" and that there "has been minimal communication regarding difficulties that you may have had in completing reports according to the timelines" (P-45). Regarding item 8, the critique stated that "Ms. Wolford will be in communication with you regarding conferences to be held at 8:15 a. m. on case management days" (P-45). Finally, as to item 9, the critique indicated that "[t]his deadline was not kept. Reports were not completed until November 3, 1995 and this is not satisfactory" (P-45).

Regarding the three items contained in the PIP as assistance to be offered Sidberry, the critique recognized that student schedules had not been provided during the review period and would not start being provided until November 27, 1995 (P-45). The critique further indicated that administration had offered to purchase software but that Ms. Sidberry felt it would not be beneficial in resolving her difficulties (P-45). Finally, the critique recognized that the administration did not located a Time Management Program for Sidberry to attend and instead ordered an audio program titled "How to Manage Multi Projects, Meet Deadlines and Achieve Objectives" which it was substituting as assistance in lieu of a workshop (P-45). An addendum to the PIP states that Ms. Sidberry was directed to listen to the audio tapes; that a tape recorder would be provided to her and that she could listen to the tapes during her work day (P-45). The critique concluded that "[a]s a result of the delay in providing the administrative assistance as previously outlined, [administration] will extend the sixty (60) day period of improvement to January 25, 1996 (P-45).

On December 7, 1995, Wolford and Sidberry met (P-55). As of that date, Wolford's records indicated that Sidberry had eight overdue reports for students who had been tested between October 31 and November 27, 1995 (S. J., M. W., T. M., M. H., K. J., L. M., M. H. and T. O) (P-55). Six of these students had also been listed on Wolford's November 27 memo (S. J., M. W., T. M., M. H., K. J., and L. M.) (compare P-52 with P-55). For five of the students, Sidberry's report was the only report missing and needed to complete the assessment of the student (M. W., T. M., K. J., L. M. and T. O.) (P-55). Two of these reports had been finished but Sidberry did not want to turn them in until she developed a "Log Form," which she did and turned the reports in by the end of December 7, 1995 (P-55).

During the December 7 meeting, Sidberry and Wolford also discussed the "time management" calendars Sidberry kept pursuant to Wolford's November 27 memo (P-55). Ms. Wolford emphasized the need for Sidberry "to stay focused on testing, scoring and writing reports on days designated for testing" and that "to minimize disruptions," Wolford asked "Mrs. Singleton [the Supervisor of Personnel Services] not to interrupt [Sidberry] on testing days for conferences unless it was absolutely necessary" (P-55). Wolford also agreed not to meet with Sidberry at 8:15 a. m. on case management days because Sidberry told her she needed that time to meet with teachers (P-55). Instead their meetings would be scheduled later in the afternoon. Wolford asked Sidberry to continue keeping a record of her time on testing days (P-55).

December meetings subsequent to December 7, 1995, between Sidberry and Wolford were canceled or not scheduled due to snow days and the holidays (P-56, P-57). A meeting was scheduled for January 4, 1996, but Wolford had to cancel that meeting due to an unexpected event and the meeting was rescheduled for January 11, 1996 (P-58). As of January 3, 1996, Wolford's records indicated that Sidberry had nine overdue reports for students tested between October 31 and December 13, 1995 (S. J., M. W., T. M., M. H., K. J., M. H., T. O., R. H. and A. S.) (P-57). Seven of these students had been listed on either the November 27 or December 11, 1995 memos as overdue cases (S. J., M. W. T. M., M. H., K. J., M. H. and T. O.) (compare P-57 with P-52 and P-55).

Although the reason is unclear from the record, the meeting scheduled for January 11, 1996 between Wolford and Sidberry was also canceled and rescheduled for January 18, 1996 at 2 p.m. (P-59). Wolford asked Sidberry to bring her time management calendars for testing days and any reports she was in the process of writing to the meeting (P-59). After meeting with Ms. Sidberry on January 18, Wolford provided a written analysis of the matters discussed at the meeting to Sidberry (P-60). Wolford indicated that Sidberry continued to stress the difficulties she had in locating students but noted that Sidberry rejected the offer of an aide to locate the students and then mentioned that it was not a problem all the time (P-60). Wolford concluded that "the difficulty in finding a student is an exceptional, rather than a routine occurrence" (P-60). During her testimony, Ms. Wolford noted that the offer of an aide to locate students was not made to Ms. Donnelly who also had to test students at the high school because Donnelly was able to locate the students. As of the January 18, 1996, meeting, Sidberry had eight overdue reports for students who were tested between October 31, 1995 and December 13, 1995 (P-60). All had been previously listed as overdue on prior memos to Ms. Sidberry (P-60, P-57, P-52).

Sidberry and Wolford met again on January 25, 1996 to review the three testing days for the week of January 22, 1996 (P-61). Ms. Wolford noted that one scheduled student left the district and another was absent which should have given Ms. Sidberry two days of writing time (P-61). She also noted that Sidberry did waste time trying to locate the students on those two days and yet Sidberry continued to deny the value of using the offered aide to locate students for her (P-61). Ms. Wolford stated that she had instituted a new procedure for teachers to notify the team when students move from or withdraw from the district to eliminate one of the difficulties Sidberry faced that week (P-61). Sidberry submitted two reports and an update that week leaving six overdue reports for students who had been tested between November 6, 1995 and December 13, 1995 (P-61). All six had previously been listed as overdue in prior memos (P-61, P-57, P-52). Wolford directed Sidberry to "concentrate your activities on testing and writing reports on scheduled testing days" and if "I can assist you in any way, do not hesitate to contact me" (P-61).

On February 6, 1996, Ms. McAndrew wrote Ms. Sidberry that she and Ms. Wolford had been "engaged in a comprehensive review of [Sidberry's] performance" pursuant to the PIP whose review period had been extended until January 25, 1996, and that they "anticipate meeting with [Sidberry] in the near future to discuss our findings" (P-62). A meeting was held on February 15, 1996, at which were present Ms. Wolford and Ms. Sidberry and Jim McAndrew, President of the Association; Bunny Hewko, the Association's grievance officer; Norine Donnelly, LDTC and Association representative and Alma Singleton, Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services (P-63). Ms. Sidberry had previously submitted her goals as part of that year's evaluation process. Ms. Wolford expressed concern with the first goal - to continue to provide professional and ethical assessment of students - because there was no mention of completing the assessment within a reasonable time (P-63).

A review of outstanding reports was also conducted at the February 15 meeting and it was verified that as of February 15, 1996, Ms. Sidberry had ten outstanding reports for students who had been tested between November 15, 1995 and February 7, 1996 (P-63). Four of these reports had previously been listed as overdue while six reports appeared as overdue for the first time (P-63, P-61, P-57, P-52). Ms. Wolford agreed to give Ms. Sidberry an additional writing day during the week of February 25, 1996, to assist her in completing the reports (P-63). The expectations for an average work day were also discussed at the meeting and Ms. Wolford reported that it was agreed that on an average day, the expectation of completing a report within seven days of testing was realistic (P-63). On an "erratic" day, a term used by Ms. Hewko, it was agreed that the due date for a report would be extended for three days and that Ms. Sidberry would notify Wolford on any day that was considered to be "erratic" (P-63). By memo dated February 20, 1996, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that she had four overdue reports in cases that were noncompliant and that her report was the only one not completed in these four cases (P-64). All four cases had been previously listed in prior overdue report memos. In her February 20th memo, Wolford also noted that she had not received any reports from Sidberry during the prior week, despite the fact that there were three days in her schedule which should have given her time to write (P-64).

On February 23, 1996, Ms. Wolford completed Ms. Sidberry's Annual Performance Report and Evaluation for 1995/1996 (P-4). In the Ratings Section, Ms. Sidberry received a rating of 3 (at expected level) in nine of sixteen categories (P-4). She received a rating of 4 (superior) in one category (knowledgeable about appropriate outside referral services/sources) (P-4). However, Wolford gave Sidberry a rating of 2 (efforts need to be expanded) in four categories (administers individual tests and/or conducts effective interviews and interprets results for students, staff and parents; maintains a professional attitude in all professional relationships concerning district affairs, district regulations, district administration, as well as students and parents of the school community; schedules and conducts conferences and consults with students, guidance, teachers, administrators, nurses, parents and other appropriate personnel in a timely manner and maintains continual communication with the Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services and the Director of Pupil Personnel Services) (P-4). Two of these four ratings were based on comments having to do with Ms. Sidberry's failure to submit her reports in a timely manner (P-4, #2 and #9). One of the four ratings indicated that communications were improving with Ms. Wolford as a result of their regularly scheduled meetings (P-4, #14). The last rating in the "2" category had nothing to do with the timely submission of reports but rather on a comment indicating that Sidberry provided students and parents with "incorrect information regarding attendance requirements in June 1995 [which] caused the administration to become involved in due process proceedings on graduation day" (P-4, #6). [4] Finally, Ms. Sidberry received a rating of 1 (unsatisfactory) in one category (completes evaluations and reports as outlined in the Pupil Personnel Procedures and Federal/State Statutes, local policy and code (P-4, #3).[5]

In the Summary Comment portion of the evaluation, Ms. Wolford praised inter alia Ms. Sidberry's communication with students, parents and staff; her knowledge of the curriculum and graduation requirements and her development of realistic goals and objectives for students (P-4). However, Ms. Wolford stated that, despite her efforts to assist Sidberry, her > [f]ailure to submit reports in a timely manner has resulted in the delayed implementation of programs. Students have been denied access to appropriate educational programs and you have contributed to placing the district in jeopardy of noncompliant status. Efforts need to be concentrated on the completion of reports as prescribed in the Pupil Personnel Services Procedures. This lack of attention to your professional duties has led me to recommend that disciplinary action be taken against you which may result in the removal of your tenure rights (P-4).

While Ms. Sidberry signed the Summary Comment page, the PIP included as part of the evaluation and the Annual Performance Report, she indicated that she did not agree with any of these documents because they inaccurately reflected her performance and were misleading; they constituted unreasonable demands on her which violated the contractual terms of the work day; they did not reflect factors beyond her control which caused the delay of some reports and she had no input in the development of the PIP (P-4).

By memo dated February 26, 1996, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that her number of outstanding reports had increased to thirteen for students tested between November 15, 1995 and February 14, 1996 (P-66). Ten of these reports had previously been listed as overdue on prior memos and five of the cases were in noncompliant status (P-66). Ms. Wolford further advised Ms. Sidberry that she had not submitted her time management calendars for her testing days since February 7, 1996, and asked Sidberry to submit them to Wolford as soon as possible (P-66). As

[5] This evaluation form was apparently new for the 1995/1996 year and other staff members objected to signing the form since it was the subject of a grievance filed by the Association.

February 26, 1996, had been provided as a writing day for Ms. Sidberry pursuant to the February 15th meeting, Wolford advised Sidberry that she would like to meet with her at 3:00 p. m. that day to review Sidberry's 1995-1996 evaluation (P-66). On March 1, 1996, Ms. Wolford updated Ms. McAndrew on the status of Ms. Sidberry's outstanding reports (P-67). At the end of the day on February 26, 1996, Sidberry submitted four reports (P-67). As of March 1, 1996, she had ten overdue reports for students who had been tested between November 27, 1995 and February 14, 1996 (P-67).

On or about March 1, 1996, a meeting was held with Assistant Superintendent McAndrew, Wolford, Sidberry and Donnelly present. McAndrew gave Sidberry a ninety-day PIP to be implemented on March 1, 1996 and to conclude on May 29, 1996 (P-68, P-95). Sidberry refused to sign an acknowledgment of receipt of the PIP upon the advice of her Association representative (P-68). The March 1, 1996, PIP was very similar to the previous PIP with some clarifications such as Sidberry should submit her weekly Time Management Calendar to Wolford by the end of each week; she should initiate contact with Wolford when she experienced difficulties; conferences would be scheduled between Wolford and Sidberry on a bi-monthly basis during the afternoon hours and McAndrew would review status reports on all scheduled cases (P-95). In addition, the PIP contained a form captioned "Time Management Calendar," developed by Ms. McAndrew, for Ms. Sidberry to complete every week (P-95). The assistance to be offered by the administration during the ninety-day period between March 1 and May 29, 1996, was also slightly altered in that Wolford or McAndrew were to share with Sidberry a critique of her Time Management Calendars; Wolford would schedule bi-monthly meetings with Sidberry to assist her in meeting her responsibilities and Wolford would attempt to locate a Time Management Workshop for Sidberry to attend (P-95).

At the meeting, McAndrew also gave Sidberry a letter dated March 1, 1996, from the secretary to the Board serving Ms. Sidberry with certified tenure charges alleging inefficiency, pattern of conduct and unbecoming conduct, which charges were filed with the Board by the administration on February 28, 1996, along with a statement of evidence supporting the tenure charges (P-69). Ms. Wolford recommended to McAndrew that tenure charges be filed and McAndrew agreed. Ms. Wolford had never recommended tenure charges against any other CST member.

On March 18, 1996, Ms. Wolford approved the attendance of Ms. Sidberry, Norine Donnelly and Dorothy Landis at a Time Management Workshop to be held on May 8, 1996 (P-70). Sidberry, Donnelly and Landis comprised the high school CST at the time. Even though neither Donnelly nor Landis had time management problems, Wolford approved all three attending the Workshop since all they all made the request to attend. The three CST members attended the workshop on May 8, 1996.

In a memo dated March 19, 1996, Wolford acknowledged the receipt of four reports from Sidberry on March 14, 1996, and indicated that six reports were then overdue for students scheduled to be tested between November 27, 1995 and February 14, 1996 (P-71). By April 2, 1996, Ms. Sidberry had at least five overdue reports for students scheduled to be tested between February 2 and March 18, 1996 (P-72). It was unclear whether one student, A. H., had been tested yet (P-72). On April 2, Ms. Wolford also advised Ms. Sidberry that she had not submitted her Time Management Calendar for the week of March 25 by the end of the week as required by her PIP and that Ms. Wolford hoped that Ms. Sidberry had had sufficient time to review her Annual Performance Report with Ms. Hewko so that it could be submitted to the Personnel Office by the due date of April 4, 1996 (P-72). By memo dated April 4, 1996, Wolford advised Sidberry that she had not received her Time Management Calendars for the weeks of March 25 and April 1, 1996 and that reports for this two-week period were also due (P-73). Wolford acknowledged the receipt of three reports during the week of March 18, 1996, but noted that Sidberry had an additional day built into her schedule for report writing that week (P-73). Finally, Ms. Wolford noted that Ms. Sidberry had not yet responded to her Annual Performance Report and that, as previously indicated, if she did not hear from Sidberry by the end of the day on April 4, her APR would be submitted to Personnel without her signature (P-73).

In memos dated April 25, May 25 and May 28, 1996, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry of her overdue Time Management Calendars for several weeks and overdue psychological reports (P-74 through P-76). Although some reports were submitted by Sidberry during this period, as of May 28, 1996, she had eight overdue reports for students scheduled to be tested between February 7 and May 15, 1996 (P-76). Ms. Wolford granted Ms. Sidberry an additional writing day on May 28, 1996 and agreed to a an interim procedure whereby, for the next three weeks, Ms. Sidberry would report directly to the high school on testing days rather than having to sign in first at the administration building where the CST offices were located (P-76). No other team member asked for or received permission for this change in the sign in policy. On June 13, 1996, Wolford wrote to Sidberry regarding her failure to submit Time Management Calendars since May 28, 1996 (P-77). While on June 20, 1996, Ms. Sidberry had four overdue reports for students tested between February 13 and June 11, 1996 (P-78), by June 27, 1996 all of Sidberry's reports for the 1995-1996 school year had been completed (P-79).

Meanwhile, counsel for the Board and Ms. Sidberry had conducted settlement negotiations regarding the tenure charges which the Board had received on or about March 1, 1996 (P-80). By letter dated July 17, 1996, counsel for the Board wrote to Sidberry's counsel, indicating that the Board had agreed to defer review of the tenure charges upon the following conditions: (1) Sidberry accepted the withholding of her salary increment for the 1996-97 school year; to be reviewed at the end of the 1997-98 school year to determine if her performance warranted restoration of the increment; (2) Sidberry agreed to accept supplementation of the March 1, 1996, tenure charges to reflect documents relating to the matter from March 1 to September 1, 1996; (3) a ninety day period for review of Sidberry's performance from September 1 to November 30, 1996, after which the administration reserved the right to bring tenure charges before the Board if Sidberry's performance was less than satisfactory; (4) a revised PIP for Sidberry beginning September 1, 1996, which would include the following elements: (A) two-week advance scheduling of six students with all reports to be completed within twelve days; (B) advance notice of altered "bell schedules," i.e., changes in the regular school schedule, and permission for the CST to alter case management time and/or team days to compensate for an altered bell schedule; (C) preparation by the guidance clerk of student passes the night before for students to be tested the following day and placement of those passes in the teacher's mail box for distribution the following morning; (D) testing space to be arranged by September 1, 1996; (5) Sidberry waived all procedural claims against the Board from March 1, 1996 to present and (6) Sidberry would be given the opportunity to reply to the amended tenure charges and statement of evidence (P-80).

Counsel for Sidberry did not reply to Board Counsel's letter of July 17, 1996, until August 28, 1996, due to summer vacations and "etc." (P-82). In his reply, counsel indicated that (1) while Sidberry agreed to the withholding of her increment, this was not to be construed as an admission of any wrong doing; (2) Sidberry had no objection to supplementation of the record up to September 1, 1996, provided she was given copies of all documents; (3) the ninety-day PIP period from September 1 to November 30, 1996 was satisfactory; (4) Ms. Sidberry's input must be considered in the revised PIP plan as follows: (A) the twelve day period refers to twelve "school days;" (B) the "bell schedule" provisions were satisfactory although Ms. Sidberry was requesting an advance bell schedule for the entire 1996-1997 school year as soon as it became available; (C) the student passes provision was satisfactory; (D) the testing location provision was satisfactory although Ms. Sidberry was requesting notification as soon as possible of the location; (5) Ms. Sidberry agreed to waive procedural claims only between March 1 and July 15, 1996 and (6) the provision as to Ms. Sidberry's right to reply to amended tenure charges was satisfactory (P-82).

By memo dated August 21, 1996, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that two reports for students she tested on August 8 and 9, 1996, had not yet been submitted (P-81). On August 26, 1996, Wolford advised McAndrew that Sidberry had submitted reports for all evaluated students and that she "has shown improvement in her submission of reports in July and August" (P-83). By letter dated August 29, 1996, Amended Tenure Charges were filed with the Board against Ms. Sidberry and her counsel provided a response thereto on November 1, 1996.

The PIP referred to in counsels' letters above for the period September 3 to December 2, 1996, was given to Sidberry on September 5, 1996 (P-96). While similar in some respects to the earlier PIPs, this PIP had new provisions such as: (1) each group of six students will be assigned two weeks in advance; (2) a meeting would be held with the Vice Principal of the high school to ascertain in advance days when the bell schedule would be changed; (3) case management and/or team days would be changed to compensate for changes in the bell schedule; (4) a guidance clerk would place student passes in teachers' mailboxes the night before indicating where and when a student would be tested; (8) the weekly Time Management Calendar shall be completed by Sidberry and submitted the last day of each week to Wolford and (10) conferences between Sidberry and Wolford would be scheduled every three weeks, with Wolford communicating in writing the scheduled conferences and following-up with a synopsis of all conferences (P-96). The assistance to be provided to Sidberry was identical to the previous PIP (P-96).

The members of the high school CST on which Ms. Sidberry served changed at the start of the 1996/1997 school year. Ms. Donnelly asked for and was transferred to one of the elementary schools. Marvin Schuck replaced Ms. Donnelly as the LDTC on the high school team and served as Team Leader until October 1996. As a result of a reduction in force, Ms. Landis' position was eliminated and she was transferred to a counseling position at the high school. Due to the RIF, which reduced the social worker positions, two social workers each served on two CST teams during the 1996/1997 school year. The schedule for the social workers was modified such that they had three testing days and two team days with no days allocated to case management. The high school CST team initially shared social worker Nancy Bullett with one of the elementary schools until Thomas Mole, social worker, started with the district in October 1996. Mr. Mole was assigned to the high and junior high schools and had no case management duties, although he replaced Mr. Schuck as Team Leader. Ms. Wolford acknowledged that the reduction in social worker positions resulted in increased case management duties for Ms. Sidberry and Mr. Schuck. During this school year, their case management case load averaged 62 to 65 students. Over the years, the average case management load has varied from 55 to 79.

On September 30, 1996, Wolford provided a synopsis of a meeting she had with Sidberry on September 26, 1996 (P-84). Wolford indicated that Sidberry "appear[ed] to be on target with [her] testing of students on the two week schedule from September 16 to September 27" (P-84). As of September 30, Sidberry had submitted two of the five written reports for the two-week period and initially indicated to Wolford that the remaining three reports would be submitted by the end of the day on September 27, 1996 (P-84). The three reports were not submitted by September 27 and Sidberry informed Wolford this was because she had forgotten her folder which contained the reports (P-84). Wolford directed Sidberry to submit the three reports by the end of the day on September 30 (P-84). Finally, Wolford informed Sidberry that for the next two-week period only three testing days would be scheduled "due to the continued need for the team to review Director's Assignments and vacation days that you have scheduled" (P-84). Director's assignments generally consist of students who have recently transferred into the district.

On October 3, 1996, Wolford advised Sidberry that as of September 30, 1996, all reports required for the weeks of September 16 and 23, 1996 had been submitted but that Sidberry had not submitted her Time Management Calendar for the week of September 23 (P-85). Ms. Wolford further advised Ms. Sidberry that she, as well as other members of the CST, had the latitude within the two-week schedule to test students on whichever day was most convenient provided that she submitted all reports within the twelve-day time limit set forth in her PIP, which so far Sidberry had done (P-85). The twelve-day period for submitting all six reports for the students tested within a two-week period was specially designed for Ms. Sidberry; all other CST members had to conform to the seven day time limit from the day of testing of each student. Thus, while Ms. Sidberry may have had only a few days to complete a report on a student tested at the end of the two-week period, she would have had from seven to twelve days to submit the report on students tested at the beginning of the two-week period. This schedule had been suggested by Sidberry and her counsel at the settlement meeting in July 1996 and Wolford agreed to the revised schedule.

On October 18, 1996, Sidberry advised Wolford that she was overwhelmed by case management duties and asked for a day during the week of November 4, 1996 to "bring to closure some of these tasks" (P-86). Sidberry told Wolford that she had used her case management days to complete Director's assignments. While Ms. Sidberry had no greater case management responsibilities than Mr. Schuck who did not ask for any additional time, Ms. Wolford agreed to Sidberry's request.

By memo dated November 1, 1996, Ms. Wolford advised Ms. Sidberry that "[w]e both need to get back on track with the monitoring of your work schedule" (P-87). Wolford acknowledged that the high school team needed additional time for completing manifestation determinations for Board review of disciplinary proceedings and for completing IEPs for Director's Assignments and that therefore the number of students to be tested in the following two weeks would be reduced from six to four (P-87).

In her November 1, 1996 memo, Wolford listed four students who had been scheduled for testing by Sidberry between October 23 and October 30, 1996. Wolford acknowledged that the testing dates of these students were tentative because of the flexibility given to Sidberry to rearrange testing dates but testified that the students should nevertheless have been tested sometime during the two-week period ending October 30, 1996. One of the four students listed on the November 1 memo (K. P.) either moved out of district or was expelled and therefore no report was ever submitted or required on him. Reports on the remaining three students (D. D., O. D. and J. L.) were not submitted by Ms. Sidberry until December 5 and 12, 1996, even though Ms. Sidberry indicated on her Time Management Calendars that D. D. was tested on October 23, 1996 and J. L. was tested on October 29, 1996 (P-88). Testing of O. D. by Ms. Sidberry was not included on any of her Time Management Calendars for the period September 28 through November 29, 1996 (P-88).

The Time Management Calendars submitted by Ms. Sidberry for the period September 30 through November 29, 1996, simply listed students as scheduled for testing (P-88). She did not list the students she actually tested nor any reports she had written, although on a few occasions she indicated when a student was absent and when she could not complete testing due to scheduled in-service training (P-88). In a meeting with Ms. Wolford, Ms. Sidberry expressed familiar complaints of not being able to find students and not having enough writing time. During this time period, both Mr. Schuck and Mr. Mole submitted their written reports and neither indicated to Wolford that they had problems locating students. Between October 29 and December 4, 1996, Ms. Sidberry submitted no reports to the clerk for typing (P-91).

By memo dated December 6, 1996, Wolford advised Sidberry that she had five reports outstanding for students tested between October 24 and November 25, 1996 (P-91). In addition, Wolford noted that, while Sidberry submitted Time Management Calendars on December 4, 1996, she indicated that they were incorrect (P-91). Wolford reminded Sidberry that submission of the Time Management Calendars on a weekly basis was included in her September 3, 1996, PIP (P-91, P-96). Ms. Sidberry did not submit her weekly Time Management Calendar for the week of December 2, 1996, by December 6, 1996 as required by her PIP (P-92).

The review period for Ms. Sidberry's PIP having expired on December 2, 1996, the Board notified Sidberry on December 13, 1996, that it would be considering the Amended Tenure Charges dated August 29, 1996, and advised her that she had 15 days to respond to the Amended Charges. The Board further notified Sidberry that review of her performance by Wolford from August 30, 1996 to December 13, 1996 indicated that she had failed to correct the charge of inefficiency contained in the August 29, 1996 Amended Tenure Charges. On December 26, 1996, Sidberry filed a response with the Board to the Amended Tenure Charges. On January 22, 1997, the Board met and, by resolution, determined that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges and that such charges, if credited, were sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. Accordingly, the Board certified the tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education (J-3) and suspended Ms. Sidberry without pay pursuant to N. J. S.A. 18A:6-14.

While the Board was considering the tenure charges, on December 16, 1996, Wolford sent Sidberry a memo listing cases which had been assigned to Sidberry for evaluation and for which reports were outstanding (P-93). Wolford noted that the status of the evaluations was uncertain since Sidberry had failed to submit her Time Management Calendars (P-93). Included in this memo were four students who had been tested between November 18 and December 10, 1996, and for whom no reports had been submitted by Sidberry (P-93). Wolford again reminded Sidberry that her Time Management Calendars were to be submitted by the end of each week and that she had not submitted same for the weeks of December 2 and 9, 1996 (P-93).

On January 10, 1997, Wolford provided Sidberry with an update on cases assigned to Sidberry for evaluation (P-94). The list included eight students who had been scheduled for testing between November 26, 1996 and January 8, 1997 and two students whose testing needed to be rescheduled (P-94). Since Ms. Sidberry had not submitted her Time Management Calendars and did not contact Wolford regarding her December 16, 1996, memo, Wolford indicated she was uncertain regarding the status of evaluations in these cases (P-94). Wolford reiterated that Time Management Calendars were due by the end of each week and that Sidberry had not submitted any since December 2, 1996 (P-94). Because of the importance of reviewing the evaluation data, Wolford scheduled a meeting with Sidberry for the afternoon of January 10, 1997 (P-94).

During the January 10, 1997, meeting, Sidberry submitted eight reports to Wolford (P-97). Two reports on students assigned to Sidberry were then outstanding (P-97). However, one student was reported by Sidberry as being absent on both days scheduled for his testing and the other student was reported to have refused evaluation when he was brought to the testing site by his parent (P-97).

Ms. Wolford subsequently confirmed that one student had refused to be evaluated and that this was out of Ms. Sidberry's control (P-99). However, the other student was late, but not absent, on the second day scheduled for his testing and Wolford concluded that Sidberry should have been able to test him on the second day (P-99).

As a result of the Board certifying the tenure charges on January 22, 1997, and its suspension determination, Ms. Sidberry's last day at work was on January 23, 1997. Prior to leaving on January 23, Ms. Sidberry submitted four reports which brought her up to date on all evaluations (P-98).

LEGAL DISCUSSION

It is undisputed that the Board has the burden of proving the tenure charges against Sidberry by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See, In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N. J. 550, 560 (1982). Moreover, N. J. S.A 18A:6-10 provides that no tenured employee of a public school district shall be dismissed "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause." In proving charges of inefficiency, the Board has a "heavy responsibility" to demonstrate that it has "render[ed] positive assistance to the [tenured employee] in an effort to overcome h[er] inefficiencies." Rowley v. Bd. of Ed. of Manalapan-Englishtown, 205 N. J. Super. 65, 72 (App. Div. 1985). Education law requires that before charges of inefficiency may be certified against a tenured staff member, a period of at least ninety days must be provided to allow the staff member to correct the inefficiency. N. J. S.A. 18A:6-11.

Based on the foregoing FINDINGS OF FACT, I CONCLUDE that the Board has proven the charges of inefficiency against Ms. Sidberry by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Her repeated failure to submit evaluation reports in a timely manner clearly constitutes inefficiency sufficient to support her removal from her tenured position. Township of Teaneck, Bergen County v. Wilburn, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 48, 58, aff'd 92 N. J. A.. R. 2d (EDU) 328 (State Board), aff'd App. Div. Docket No. A-4663-91 (April 12, 1993) (failure to submit lesson plans sufficient to prove charges of inefficiency). Moreover, this was not an isolated event of failure to submit reports, but rather an on-going failure beginning in May, 1994 and continuing through December 1996. During this period, Ms. Sidberry was given numerous memos documenting her late reports and was provided three PIP periods in order to correct her deficiencies. In addition, Ms. Wolford and Ms. McAndrew provided Sidberry with assistance in the form of allowing her additional writing days; providing her with time management audio tapes and attendance at a workshop; offering her the assistance of an aide in locating students; altering the schedule for submission of her written reports; providing student schedules and providing a dedicated office for her to do student testing.

In reaching this conclusion, I have considered and rejected the testimony and arguments of Ms. Sidberry justifying her late reports. While I do not suggest that Ms. Sidberry lacked credibility as a witness, her explanations for her repeated failures to submit timely reports were simply not convincing to the undersigned. Ms. Sidberry clearly believed her explanations justified her untimely filing of reports; however, those explanations are lacking support in the record. For example, her contention that serving on two CST teams caused delays in report writing does not explain the delays in 1995/1996 and in 1996/1997 when Ms. Sidberry served on only the high school CST. The decrease in the number of social workers in 1996/1997 no doubt resulted in additional case management responsibilities for Ms. Sidberry but the same increase was felt by Mr. Schuck who did not have problems in submitting timely reports to the extent that Ms. Sidberry exhibited. Other vacancies cited by Ms. Sidberry occurred between September 1993 and May 1995 and also did not explain her failure to submit timely reports from May 1995 through December 1996.

Nor did I find Sidberry's testimony that she had to spend considerable time training new staff members convincing. While Donnelly testified that Sidberry spent considerable time training new staff, both Landis and Schuck denied this occurred and there is no documentation that Sidberry raised this training as a defense to her untimely submission of reports prior to the filing of tenure charges against her. Moreover, Ms. Sidberry did not present evidence that the conditions she worked under regarding the difficulty in locating students, the failure to provide student schedules or the bell schedule changes and the lack of assigned office space were any different than those faced by her colleagues who managed to submit timely reports in most instances and clearly in many more instances than Sidberry was able to accomplish.

While there is no doubt that other CST members on occasion submitted late reports, Sidberry failed to present any evidence to support a finding that any other staff member had even close to the number of late reports that were attributable to her. Analysis of report submissions by all three team members prepared by Ms. Sidberry shows that some of her reports were submitted before or not long after submission of the LDTC and social worker reports (R-23, R-26, R-30, R-42). However, those analyses do not include when the LDTC or social worker was assigned the cases and/or tested the students and therefore any conclusion on whether their reports were timely under the seven-day rule is impossible to reach. The absence of trained and capable clerical staff is simply irrelevant since Sidberry's compliance with deadlines was judged not by when her reports were typed but rather by when she submitted them to typing. Additional assignments cited by Sidberry, such as Director's Assignments and disciplinary remands from the Board, impacted not only Sidberry but other CST members as well.

Finally, I reject Ms. Sidberry's contention that the administration' s actions against her were motivated by anger resulting from an incident occurring in June 1995 during which Ms. Sidberry reportedly advised a parent or parents to file an appeal from the administration's decision that their children would not graduate due to noncompliance with the attendance policy. I do not doubt that Ms. McAndrew was angry about being late for graduation as a result of having to appear at the OAL for due process hearings nor that she mentioned the incident during a meeting at which Donnelly and Bullett were present and that Dr. Foster was also unhappy about being late for graduation and referred to the incident during a meeting attended by Joyce Payne, then Director of Education for the Board. However, I credit Ms. McAndrew's testimony that the June 1995 incident had no relation to her actions regarding Ms. Sidberry's late filing of reports. Moreover, the circumstances support the conclusion that there was no relationship between Ms. Sidberry's advice to the parents and the criticism of her late filing of reports. Firstly, criticism of Sidberry's untimely submission of reports began before June 1995. Secondly, the Board did not certify tenure charges against Sidberry until January 1997, eighteen months after the incident. Most importantly, Donnelly provided the advice to the parents along with Sidberry and, as with Sidberry, she was criticized in her annual evaluation for doing so. Yet is uncontroverted that no disciplinary action was taken against Donnelly and that she is still employed by the Board.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board has proven by a preponderance of the evidence the charges of inefficiency against Ms. Sidberry and that said charges justify her removal from her tenured position as a school psychologist. Because of this conclusion, I do not address the Board's additional charges of a pattern of conduct and conduct unbecoming.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the tenure charges against Margaret Sidberry are sustained and she is hereby removed from her tenured position with respondent Board.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF MARGARET SIDBERRY,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO,	:	DECISION
BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent first charges that the Initial Decision is deficient, requiring remand, because the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) based her factual findings solely on the testimony of one of the Board's witnesses, Margaret Wolford, and fails to make any mention of the detailed testimony proffered by respondent and other witnesses, specifically: Joyce Payne, Shirley Wright, Linda Taylor, Noreen Donnelly, Nancy Bullett, Kurt Jarvis, and Jay Albert. (Respondent's Exceptions at 3) Thus, respondent argues, because the ALJ failed to discuss the testimony of any of these other individuals, it cannot be ascertained which testimony the ALJ credited or discredited in reaching her ultimate conclusion. Respondent argues that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(d), parties and a reviewing body should be able to ascertain "the precise factual basis upon which a result has been reached [rather than being] forced to speculate as to the rational basis for conclusions reached." (citations omitted) (Id. at 4) Consequently, respondent advances, this matter must be remanded for more detailed findings which consider the testimony of "all of the witnesses." (Ibid.)

Respondent next contends that the ALJ failed to consider and weigh the aggravating and mitigating factors, as required by In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), in concluding that termination was the appropriate penalty in this matter. (Respondent's Exceptions at 5) She advances that "evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation" must be taken into consideration along with "any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of the proper administration of the school system. Id. at 422" (Ibid.) She contends "[t]here is no analysis [in the Initial Decision] as to how the ALJ reached the conclusion that the most severe penalty, revocation of tenure, with all its dire consequences, should be imposed." (Id. at 4) Again, respondent argues, should the Commissioner ultimately determine that the Board has sustained its charge of inefficiency, the absence of this required weighing analysis dictates that this matter be remanded to the OAL. (Id. at 7)

Notwithstanding respondent's recommendation of remand to OAL for penalty analysis, she cites extensively to the Initial Decision and specific hearing testimony, asserting that these establish that, in balancing the aggravating and mitigating factors in this matter, "this is not a case which should result in tenure revocation." (Respondent's Exceptions at 7) Respondent contends that, although the ALJ's decision referred to many of the mitigating factors highlighted in her exceptions, such as respondent's overall good record in other aspects of her job, along with staff cut backs and shortages, her increased case management duties, her extra assignments, scheduling difficulties, and the huge volume of students assigned to her for processing -- all of which interfered with her writing and submission of reports -- the ALJ failed to take any of these into consideration when recommending an appropriate penalty. Respondent further charges that the ALJ failed to consider that there was no showing that respondent's alleged failure to submit timely reports was deliberate, negatively impacted the District in any way, or served to cause any student to be denied an "appropriate" education. (Respondent's Exceptions at 20) Respondent argues that if all of these mitigating factors had been reviewed and considered as required by Fulcomer, supra, a proposed penalty short of termination could have been fashioned, such as a financial penalty or closer monitoring or mentoring. (Id. at 23) Respondent requests that the Initial Decision be rejected or, at the very least, remanded with direction that the ALJ perform the required Fulcomer penalty analysis.

In reply, the Board urges that the ALJ correctly found that it had sustained its burden of establishing the charges of inefficiency against respondent based upon her "failure to prepare and submit psychological assessment reports in a timely [manner] as required by Federal and State law," and that such failure justifies respondent's removal from her tenured position. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1) The Board posits that such a result is amply supported by evidence in the record, namely:

1. 53 memos from the Director of Pupil Personnel Services reminding her of overdue psychological reports.

2. Three annual evaluations (by two different evaluators) reprimanding her for overdue reports.

3. Increment withheld.

4. 300 days of professional improvement plans to guide her to improve the submission of her reports. (Ibid.)

The Board discounts respondent's assertion that the ALJ made insufficient factual findings based on the testimony of certain witnesses. In this regard, it submits that three of the witnesses identified, Joyce Payne, Linda Taylor and Shirley Wright, were merely character witnesses who had no knowledge and advanced no testimony as to whether respondent filed timely psychological reports. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2) Further, the Board claims, it is obvious that the ALJ's decision did consider the testimony of Child Study Team (CST) members Marvin Shuck, Jay Albert, Noreen Donnelly, Kurt Jarvis and Tom Mole, as well as 109 Board exhibits and 38 respondent exhibits. (Ibid.) Most importantly, the Board urges, it is fully evident that "the testimony of the primary witnesses, who had direct knowledge of the entire matter, [Respondent Margaret Wolford, and Assistant Superintendent Joan McAndrew] were thoroughly reviewed in the decision." (Ibid.) The Board argues that the ALJ's credibility assessments based on the proffered testimony of these witnesses are, likewise, obvious in her decision, wherein she held that:

> "Based on her demeanor and the consistency of her testimony I found Ms. Wolford to be a credible witness. I also found her testimony credible and convincing because she gave credit to Ms. Sidberry when credit was called for ." [citing the Initial Decision at 5]; "I credit Ms. McAndrew's testimony that the June 1995 incident has no relation to her actions regarding Ms. Sidberry's late filing of reports." [Citing the Initial Decision at 35] (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3)

As to the ALJ's evaluation of respondent's credibility, the Board states that the ALJ made the following observation:

> "I have considered and rejected the arguments of Ms. Sidberry justifying her late reports. While I do not suggest that Ms. Sidberry lacked credibility as a witnesses, her explanations for her repeated failures to submit timely reports were simply not convincing to the undersigned." [Citing the Initial Decision at 34] (Ibid.)

As such, the Board asserts that after 15 days of hearing already held in this matter, and given that the factual basis for the ALJ's conclusion is abundantly clear, respondent's advancement as to the necessity of remand for more detailed findings is preposterous. (Ibid.)

The Board next rejects respondent's claim that, in reaching her recommended penalty of termination, the ALJ failed to weigh the aggravating and mitigating factors pursuant to Fulcomer. It proffers that the ALJ dedicated more than 30 pages to reviewing the details in connection with respondent's late reports and carefully reviewed and analyzed the extensive exhibits surrounding the individual case assignments and report completion, along with the Professional Improvement Plans implemented to assist respondent. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3-4) The Board argues that the ALJ also fully reviewed and considered all of respondent's proffered reasons for the untimeliness of her reports, i.e., "[respondent's] lack of [a] place to test students, inability to locate students, unreasonable demands on her work day, changes in [students'] daily schedules, shortage of professional and clerical staff, claims of training new staff, and an allegation that the tenure charges were motivated by anger resulting from an incident concerning an OAL appeal of a graduation problem." (Id. at 4) Upon such examination, the Board proffers, the ALJ concluded that the conditions faced by respondent were identical to those faced by the other child study team members; all of whom were able to submit timely reports. Consequently, it argues, the ALJ did, in fact, consider "evidence as to 'provocation, extenuation or aggravation'" in reaching her recommended penalty. (Ibid.) The Board also discounts respondent's assertion that the District was not harmed by her routinely untimely reports

> [T]he administration of the school is seriously injured when special education reports are not submitted in a timely fashion. The Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) 20 U.S.C. Sec. 1400 et seq. requires that an Individual Education Program (IEP)

> must be implemented within 90 days after receipt of parental approval for evaluation and without it the child is denied a free and appropriate education that is guaranteed by the IDEA. (Ibid.)

It further points to the ALJ's initial decision observation stating that:

Likewise, the Board rejects respondent's claim that she should not be terminated because of an "overall good record," asserting that such is not the case. While she was proficient as a case manager, and her reports, when finally completed, were adequate, it advances, "CST members test and write reports three days, meet to develop IEP's one day and have one day for case management." As such, "[f]our-fifths of Margaret Sidberry's performance was very sub-standard." (emphasis in text) (Board's Reply Exceptions at 5)

The Board next reasons that, although it may be difficult to definitively ascertain whether or not respondent's failure to perform her duties was "deliberate  after 53 memos, three evaluations' notations, an increment withheld and four PIP's," it must be assumed that there was some "deliberate aspect" to her performance, particularly when considering that the other CST members were faced with the same "conditions" facing respondent and were able to submit timely reports. (Id. at 7)

Finally, the Board urges that respondent's suggestion of a lesser penalty, such as "closer monitoring or mentoring" would be of no avail here. It asserts:

> Progressive discipline principles were painstakingly followed in this case. [Respondent] was given every opportunity to correct her deficiencies and not be placed in jeopardy of losing her job. She was cautioned that if she failed to improve she would face tenure > charges. And, even after the tenure charges were filed and she was given an additional PIP, her performance did not improve. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 8-9)

As such, the Board urges that the Initial Decision be affirmed by the Commissioner and respondent be terminated from her position.

Upon his independent and comprehensive review of the record,[1] the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's findings and conclusion that the Board has sustained its charges of inefficiency against respondent, after providing her a period of remediation during which it accorded her reasonable support to assist her in overcoming such inefficiencies, which she was unwilling or unable to do and, consequently, the appropriate result is respondent's removal from her position.

In so determining, respondent's exceptions are deemed to be without merit. Initially, the Commissioner does not find the ALJ's lack of specific factual findings based on testimony offered by certain witnesses violative of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(d).[2] To the contrary, he determines that the ALJ's Initial Decision satisfies the necessary factual requirements of that statutory provision, presenting a detailed and accurate summary and analysis of all relevant,

[1]It is noted that the record includes transcripts of 10 of the 15 days of hearing conducted at the OAL in this matter, specifically, January 12, 13, 14, 15 and 21, 1998, March 23 and 24, 1998, June 4, 5, and 10, 1998. Respondent's exceptions state that official transcripts were not obtained for the testimony of Board witness Margaret Wolfold, and respondent offers to submit her "unofficial" transcription of hearing tapes of this testimony if the Commissioner so desires. (Respondent's Exceptions at 1) In that the Initial Decision contains extensive detail with respect to the testimony of this witness, the substance of which was not challenged by either party, the Commissioner finds the absence of these particular transcripts to have no prejudicial effect on his consideration of this matter.

[2]This provision, in pertinent part specifies:

> A final decision shall include findings of fact and conclusions of law, separately stated and shall be based only upon the evidence of record at the hearing, as such evidence may be established by rules of evidence and procedure promulgated by the director.
> Findings of fact, if set forth in statutory language, shall be accompanied by a concise and explicit statement of the underlying facts supporting the findings. The final decision may incorporate by reference any or all of the recommendations of the administrative law judge. ***

credible testimonial and documentary evidence adduced at hearing, which amply supports the ALJ's ultimate conclusion that the Board has proven an overall pattern of poor performance by respondent which warrants her dismissal.

Similarly, the Commissioner finds incongruous respondent's contention that remand of this matter for further factfinding with respect to a Fulcomer aggravating and mitigating factor analysis is warranted. Rather, he concurs with the Board that the ALJ not only considered all of respondent's "justifications" for her repeated failure to prepare and submit timely reports, but also presented a detailed analysis as to why she rejected each of these proffers. (See Initial Decision at 34-35), an analysis which the Commissioner finds amply supported by the record and with which he is in full accord.

Additionally, although the Commissioner cannot necessarily conclude that respondent's failure to complete her required psychological reports in a timely fashion was "deliberate," he nonetheless rejects as untenable her claim that there was no deleterious effect to either students or the District as a result of such failure. At a very minimum, the untimely preparation and submission of her reports delayed the initial or re-evaluative placement of students in appropriate educational programs and placed the District in unnecessary jeopardy of potential legal action for failure to comply with federal and statute statutes and regulations governing the rights of classified students.

Finally, in considering the ALJ's recommendation with regard to penalty, the Commissioner was mindful that it is by now well established that:

> Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Redcay v. State Bd. of Ed., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944)

Here, the ALJ specifically found:

> [T]his was not an isolated event of failure to submit reports, but rather an on-going failure beginning in May 1994 and continuing through December 1996. During this period, Ms. Sidberry was given numerous memos documenting her late reports and was provided three PIP periods in order to correct her deficiencies. In addition, Ms. Wolford and Ms. McAndrew provided Sidberry with assistance in the form of allowing her additional writing days; providing her with time management audio tapes and attendance at a workshop; offering her the assistance of an aide in locating students; altering the schedule for submission of her written reports; providing student schedules and providing a dedicated office for her to do student testing. (Initial Decision at 33-34)

The within record demonstrates that respondent was long aware of the District's concern with her performance as evidenced by its withholding of her increment, numerous memoranda, evaluations and a remediation period well in excess of that prescribed by law. Notwithstanding the District's significant efforts to provide support and assistance to encourage her improvement, whether due to unwillingness or inability, respondent clearly failed to reach an acceptable level of performance. Even duly weighing her years of service in the District and the fact that in certain areas her performance was adequate, or even commendable, respondent's failure to fulfill the responsibilities of her position, despite the provision of repeated assistance above and beyond that provided other CST members, evidences that there can be no reasonable expectation that respondent can conform her performance to the level reasonably expected of a CST member in the District in the foreseeable future. Consequently, she cannot be allowed to continue in her position.

Accordingly, respondent is terminated from her tenured school psychologist position in the Willingboro School District as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action against respondent's certificate as that body deems appropriate.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WOODBINE, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioner, certificated school nurse with 32 years of service to the District, alleged the Board improperly subjected her to a RIF while retaining less senior individuals to perform her duties. Petitioner contended she was given a choice between a low-paying part-time job without benefits and premature retirement with benefits. (Initially, the Board attempted to subcontract or privatize her school nursing services notwithstanding the fact that under the Education Laws, a duly certified school nurse must perform certain services.)

The ALJ concluded that the Board did violate petitioner's tenure and seniority rights when it failed to assign petitioner to teach its health curriculum when it reduced her school nurse assignment from full-time to part-time of 19-3/4 hours per week. The ALJ found that petitioner, who possessed an educational services certificate with its school nurse endorsement and an instructional certificate with its teacher of health education endorsement, was appropriately certificated to perform all the duties of a school nurse and to instruct pupils in health education. Moreover, the ALJ found that the Board, in its determination to impose a RIF to petitioner's nursing duties, failed to recognize her seniority with respect to her teaching of its health curriculum and assigned less senior teaching staff members to perform those duties. The ALJ ordered petitioner reinstated to her proper school nurse teaching position on a full-time basis and ordered the Board to provide petitioner with mitigated compensation, retroactive to September 1, 1998.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusion that respondent violated petitioner's tenure and seniority rights when it failed to assign her to teach the health classes in dispute herein and adopted the ALJ's order that petitioner be reinstated to her school nurse position on a full-time basis with mitigated compensation. The Commissioner determined that pursuant to Ellicott, petitioner was entitled to tenure protection in all assignments within her tenurable position of school nurse, the job description for which, in the instant matter, included health instruction both prior to and subsequent to the Board's RIF affecting petitioner's school nurse position. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, the school nurse endorsement authorizes service as a school nurse and teaching in health-related areas. Thus, during the time period at issue, petitioner's teaching of health was authorized by her school nurse endorsement. Because a school nurse is not required to possess both an instructional certificate with an authorization to teach health and an educational services certificate with a school nurse endorsement, petitioner's possession of such an instructional certificate was immaterial to determining the present matter. The Commissioner noted that petitioner taught health pursuant to her school nurse endorsement, not her instructional certificate; hence, petitioner's tenure and seniority rights accrued under a school nurse position, and not under the separately tenurable position of teacher. The Commissioner, however, upon examination of the record, observed that the school nurse job description as revised and approved by the Board revealed that the teaching of health was in fact not eliminated from the school nurse position. Thus, the Board's argument that it abolished petitioner's school nurse position, which included both school nurse and health teaching responsibilities, and created two separate and distinct positions, one for school nurse and one for teaching health, was not supported by the record. Therefore, under the facts herein, assigning the teaching of health to teaching staff members who possessed less seniority than petitioner was deemed to be violative of her tenure and seniority rights. Since an individual holding only a county substitute certificate was in a school nurse position for two years, the Commissioner directed the county superintendent to determine the District's compliance with the mandates of N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner alleges that the Board of Education of the Borough of Woodbine (Board) certificated school nurse was improperly subjected to a reduction in force (RIF) and that others who are less senior to petitioner are performing her duties.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing order was issued in this matter on January 26, 1999, with hearing dates established for May 20, 27 and 28, 1999. Subsequent discovery problems, a change in attorney for the Board and, the Board's attorney's illness and surgery delayed the matter. Petitioner now propounds her Motion for Summary Decision.

Petitioner's Position

Preliminary Statement

This case involves an attempt by the Board to perform nursing services "on the cheap." Intent upon eliminating the salary of school nurse Paula Harris – a career employee who faithfully served the district for 32 years – the Board acted in reckless disregard of the requirements of the Education Laws. At first, the Board acted to "subcontract" and "privatize" school nursing services, notwithstanding the fact that, under the Education Laws, a duly certified school nurse must perform certain services. Then, caught in this scam to circumvent the law, the Board engaged in a sham RIF, attempted to create a part-time 19-3/4 hour school nurse position while, at the same time, reassigning teaching functions formerly performed by Harris to less senior and non-tenured people in derogation of her tenure and seniority rights. The Board's refusal to honor Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights improperly forced her into the artificial choice between a low-paying part-time job without benefits and premature retirement with benefits. If this were not enough, the Board has since staffed the part-time school nurse position with a new hire that does not have a proper certification and has expanded the teaching responsibilities of less senior teachers. As of the 1999-2000 school year, the people who are teaching Health and performing the school nursing functions are actually working more duty hours per week than Ms. Harris was before the sham RIF.

Statement of Uncontested Facts

As of the 1997-98 school year, Paula Harris worked as a school nurse for the Board for 32 years. Exh. A, seniority list, Bates No. 100054[3] Harris Certif., ¶2.

At all times, she taught Health as part of her job duties. Harris Certif. ¶3.

She has held an Educational Services Certificate with a school nurse endorsement since September of 1971 and a Teaching Certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement since October of 1974. Harris' Educational Services and Teaching Certificates are attached to the Harris Certification as Exh. A.

Most recently, during the 1997-98 school year, she worked on a full-time basis and worked 29 hours of duty time per week. Harris Certif. ¶5.

At its May 11, 1998 meeting, the Board considered subcontracting all school nursing services. Exh. A., Board Minutes, Bates Nos. 100056-57. At the meeting, Ms. Harris appeared with her counsel and placed the Board on notice that the Board could not legally subcontract all school nursing services under the decisional law of the Commissioner of Education; in particular, under the decisions in Old Bridge Education Association v. Old Bridge Board of Education, CD-621-97; and Dover Education Association v. Board of Education of Town of Dover, CD-637-97.[4] Exh. A, Board secretary's unofficial handwritten minutes, Bates No. 100102; Board Minutes, Bates No. 100056. These documents demonstrate that the Board was specifically made aware of these cases and the illegality of its action to privatize all school nursing services before it acted.

[3] The Bates numbered documents included Exh. A to this brief are the Board's answers to interrogatories, the Board's supplements to its answers and true copies of the documents furnished by the Board as Exhibits to its answers to interrogatories and supplements. For the convenience of the Court, reference will be made by the nature of the document and bates number.

[4] These cases are discussed in detail in the Law and Argument section of this letter brief.

Nonetheless, the Board adopted a motion subcontracting all school nursing services. Exh. A., Board Minutes, Bates No. 100057.

At the Board's June 29, 1998 meeting, the Board admitted by conduct the illegality of its earlier action to privatize all school nursing functions. At the June meeting, the Board acted to create a 19-3/4 hour school nurse position which included the school nurse functions which the Board had previously acted to privatize. Exh. A., Board Minutes, Bates No. 100058; Job Description, Bates Nos. 100042-44.[5] The Board then offered the position to Ms. Harris by and through its labor consultant, William Yanonis, and its Superintendent, Roseann Cialella, at a meeting on June 29, 1998. Harris Certif., ¶6; Exh. A., Memorandum from Roseann Cialella to Paula Harris dated June 29, 1998, Bates Nos. 100061-62.

Under the terms of the collectively negotiated agreement between the Board and the Woodbine Education Association, Ms. Harris - as a "grandfathered" employee – was eligible for benefits so long as she worked a minimum of 20 hours per week. Harris Certif., ¶7; Exh. B thereto.

As a result, Harris accepted the position, subject to the Board's acknowledging her tenure and seniority rights to teach the Health courses. Harris Certif., ¶8 and Exh. C thereto. Ms. Harris' greatest concern was maintaining health benefits for her family. Id. For close to 15 years, Ms. Harris had been the sole source of health benefits for her family. Id.

The Board responded by memorandum. Exh. A. Memorandum from Roseann Cialella to Paula Harris dated July 10, 1998, Bates No. 100063. Significantly, in the memorandum, the Board made clear that the school nurse position would be a maximum of "19.5 hour [sic] a week"[4] and that additional hours would not be offered to Ms. Harris to conduct Health instruction. In short, the Board claimed that the Health instruction was included in the 19-3/4 hour position.

The memorandum failed and refused to acknowledge or even discuss Harris' bumping rights to teach the Health courses which were being taught by Kimbra Goodwin, a much less senior teacher who had worked for the district only seven years as of the end of the 1997-98 school year and who had taught Health on a very limited part-time basis for no more than two years as of that time. Id. Cf. Exh. A., Seniority List, Bates No. 10054 and Harris Certif., ¶10.

The Board's refusal to acknowledge Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights to teach the Health courses forced Ms. Harris to choose between a 19-3/4 hour part-time job without benefits and premature retirement at a date earlier than she had planned to retire. Harris Certif. ¶11. She was forced to retire to maintain health benefits for her family, including her son in college, who she continues to support on her pension. The pension provides her with a substantially reduced income. Id.

Significantly, the Board's discovery responses and supplemental discovery responses admit that during the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years, in addition to the 19-3/4 hours being worked by the part-time school nurse, other non-tenured or less senior people were, in fact, teaching additional hours of Health instruction.

Specifically, the Board's supplemental answer to interrogatory 16(b)(4) admits that Christine Neill, the part-time school nurse, has worked 19-3/4 hours per week from November 1998 to present. Exh. A., Supplemental Interrogatory Answer 16(b)(4), Bates No. 100175 and Nurse's history, Bates Nos. 100176-77.[5]

The Board also provided schedules for all people who taught Health classes. Exh. A. Health instructor schedules, Bates Nos. 100110-11; 100180-83. The schedules show that during the 1998-99 school year, the less-senior Ms. Goodwin taught 3 hours, 20 minutes of Health per week. Exh. A, Goodwin's Health instruction schedule, Bates Nos. 100110-11. The schedules also show that during the 1999-2000 school year, the less-senior Ms. Goodwin taught 150 minutes of Health, a Ms. Sharon Gunn taught 250 minutes of Health and a Mr. Stephen Hensil taught 150 minutes of Health. Exh. A, Health instruction schedules, Bates Nos. 100180-82. Ms. Gunn and Mr. Hensil also had less seniority than Ms. Harris as of the date of the claimed RIF. Exh. A., Seniority list, Bates No. 10054.

[5] The Board's discovery responses also reveal that the Board employed a cadre of nurses from September to early November of 1998 to fill the 19-3/4 hour per week part-time school nurse position. Exh. A., Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177. While not necessary to this motion, it appears that during substantial periods of time, the Board had only an LPN on site in violation of N.J.A.C. 13:37-6.2(c), which requires an RN to supervise an LPN at all times. Compare Exh. A., Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177 with Simsick LPN certificate, Bates No. 100067.

Even if in July of 1998 the Board mistakenly believed that a part-time nurse could perform the nursing services and the Health instruction within 19-3/4 hours per week, as of September of 1998- based upon the Board's own duty schedules – it was clear that all of the functions could not be performed within the 19-3/4 hours and were not, in fact, being performed within the part-time nurse's hours.

In September, with the assignment of 3 hour, 20 minutes of Health instruction to the less-senior Ms. Goodwin, in addition to the 19-3/4 hours being worked by part-time school nurse McNeill, Ms. Harris' seniority and recall rights were triggered and the Board should have provided her with an opportunity to perform the school nurse functions and the Health instruction that were being performed by less senior or non-tenured people. If all of the duty hours were aggregated together and if the Board had honored Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights, in 1998-99 school year, the Board would have offered her part-time employment with benefits for the 23 hours, 5 minutes of duty time and, in the 1999-2000 school year, the Board would have offered her full-time employment for the 28 hours, 55 minutes of duty time.[6]

Christine Neill was not certified as a school nurse. Instead, she holds only a county substitute teacher's certificate. Exh. A. Neill's certificate, Bates No. 100070.

The Board's payroll records and nurse's history reflect that at no time did Ms. Neill substitute for another person who was working in the position of school nurse. Exh. A., Payroll records, Bates No. 100073-88; Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177.

Law and Argument

Petitioner is Entitled to Summary Decision

II. The Legal Standard for Summary Decision

The case of Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1996) has clarified the legal standard for summary judgment and, hence, summary decision.

In Brill, the New Jersey Supreme Court adopted the federal standard for summary judgment. Brill requires the trial court to engage in evaluation, analysis and sifting of evidence as if the court had before it a motion for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b). Thus, under R. 4:46-2, summary judgment motions are to be decided by determining whether the competent evidence presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-movant, is still sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the disputed issue in favor of the moving party. The judge is not to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter, but to determine only whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 91 L.Ed. 2*d.* 202 (1986).

In deciding such motions, Brill requires that only those disputes go to trial which are "substantial" and not "imaginary" or "unreal." 142 N.J. at 529. In this connection, the court said that the "essence of the inquiry" is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury . . ." Id. at 533. "[W]here the party opposing summary judgment points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature,' the proper disposition is summary judgment." Id. at 529 (citations omitted). An award of summary judgment is appropriate when "the competent evidential materials presented . . . when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, [are not] sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute in favor of the non-moving party." Brill, 142 N.J. at 540.

III. Paula Harris is Entitled to Summary Decision

1. The Board's Action to Subcontract the Position of School Nurse Violated Statutory and Regulatory Law and the Decisional Law of the Commissioner of Education

There is no question that at its May 11, 1998 meeting, the Board acted to abolish the school nurse position and to privatize all of its function. The Board's minutes clearly reflect this action having been taken:

> Based upon the district's reorganization and a more efficient delivery of services being offered to our students, the President recommends that the Board approve the position of school nurse to be abolished and that same services be subcontracted to a private company. Motion by: L. Fisher, Second: D. Zweigenbaum. Ayes: Feliciano, Fisher, Forbes, Rodriguez, Youmans. Noes: Johnson. Abstain: Zweigenbaum (emphasis supplied).

On its face, the Board's action plainly violated the Education Laws and, in particular, the Commissioner of Education's decisions in Dover Education Association v. Board of Education of Town of Dover, CD-637-97, and Old Bridge Education Association v. Old Bridge Board of Education, CD-621-97. In Dover, the school board contracted out some nursing functions.

However, even after it privatized the services, the board still had two full-time school nurses on payroll. The Commissioner held that the board could fill in with non-certificated nurses so long as they did not perform the duties specifically reserved for certificated nurses. In the process, the Commissioner wrote:

> Initially, the Commissioner observes that the education laws clearly require each school district to employ at least one school nurse, who must be appropriately certified by the state board of examiners and who is considered a teaching staff member for purposes of salary, tenure and evaluation and to perform duties expressly reserved to school nurses. p. 9. (Emphasis supplied)

In short, Dover says that a local board of education has to have at least one school nurse as an employee. In Dover, after the privatization, the Board still had two school nurses on the payroll.

The Board's conduct in privatizing all nursing functions was also contrary to the Commissioner's decision in Old Bridge Education Association v. Old Bridge Board of Education, CD-621-97. In that case, the Commissioner ruled that:

> It is clear that under the Education Laws, each school district must employ at least one school nurse, who must be appropriately certified by the State Board of Examiners and is considered a teaching staff member for purposes of salary, tenure and evaluation. p. 13. (Emphasis supplied)

Old Bridge continues by specifically listing the school nursing services which the Board cannot privatize:

> It is clear that under the education laws, each school district must employ at least one school nurse, who must be appropriately certified by the State Board of Examiners and is considered a teaching staff member for purposes of salary, tenure and evaluation. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, 18A:26-2, 18A:1-1, 18A:28-5, 18A:29-4.2; N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, 6:3-4.1/3, 6:29-1.2(b)[FN1-A registered nurse may, upon receipt of a county substitute teacher certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5, substitute for a certified school nurse on a short-term basis within the express limitations prescribed by that rule. (footnote in the original)]. The duties expressly reserved to "school nurses" are recognized as "school nursing services" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1, and include > lecturing to teachers on recognition and prevention of communicable disease and other health concerns (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)li, 6:29-1.2(b)lii.), examining pupils for the presence of scoliosis (18A:40-4.3; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1i.), recommending exclusion from school due to illness or exposure to disease (18A:40-7/8; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1v.), reporting, receipt of reports and examinations in instances of suspected substance abuse (18A:40A-12, N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5), vision screenings, health appraisals and various consultative functions with respect to evaluation for and provision of special education services (N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.2 et. seq., 6:28-11.3 et. seq.), audiometric screening (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-4; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)iii., 6:29-5.1), maintaining awareness of safe procedures for handling of body fluids (N.J.A.C. 6:29-2.5), accessing employee health records when permitted by the employee (N.J.A.C. 6:29-7.4), serving as liaison to the local board of health on issues relating to pregnancy and prenatal health (N.J.A.C. 8:52-5.3), administration of Snellen vision screenings for special learner's permits for obtaining a driver's license (N.J.A.C. 13:21-7.1 et seq.), testing for tuberculosis infection (N.J.A.C. 6:29-2.3), and completion or approval, as designated thereon, of health forms required to be submitted to the State. Additionally, where so assigned, the school nurse will provide instruction to students within the limitations of the school nurse endorsement (N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2; N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, 6:29-4.2). [FN2- It is noted that non-certified nurses may serve as resource persons for family life programs pursuant to 6:29-4.2(h), but may not actually instruct pupils. (footnote in the original).

> As these services are both required by law and, apart from pupil instruction, specifically reserved to certificated school nurses, each board of education must employ a sufficient number of such nurses to ensure their adequate provision. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, 18A:40-3.1.[7]

Notwithstanding the express prohibition in Old Bridge and Dover, the Board nonetheless acted to privatize all school nursing services in the district. In the process, the Board plainly violated the Old Bridge and Dover decisions.

II. The Board's Refusal to Honor Ms. Harris' Tenure and Seniority Rights Improperly Forcing Her to Choose between a Low-Paying Paying Part-time Job without Benefits and Premature Retirement

[7] On July 1, 1999, the Legislature enacted P.L. 1999c. 153, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.2 et seq., codifying the rule of law articulated by the Commissioner in Old Bridge and Dover.

With Benefits

After the Board acted to privatize all school nursing function and had the illegality of this action brought to its attention, the Board belatedly recognized that it could not privatize all functions of the job. Yet, the administration was so intent upon performing school nursing services "on the cheap" that it set out to do so without regard for such statutory imperatives as Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights. At its June 29, 1998 meeting, the Board voted to create a 19-3/4 hour school nurse position. Given the 20 hour per week floor for benefits for "grandfathered" employees (Collectively negotiated agreement, Harris Certif., Exh. B), it is plain to see that the administration set the schedule for the part-time nurse position at 19-3/4 hours in an effort to avoid having to offer Ms. Harris a part-time position with benefits. However, the administration neglected to take into account the fact that for 32 years, Ms. Harris had taught the Health in the school district, that she had tenure and seniority rights in this area of instruction and that she had bumping rights to teach these hours of Health instruction.

As a result, when the Board offered her the 19-3/4 hour school nurse position, Ms. Harris asked the Board to recognize her bumping rights to teach the 11.2 hours of Health instruction which had been performed by her and the less-senior Ms. Goodwin during the 1997-98 school year. Harris Certif. Exh. C. The Board failed to do this, at first engaging in a sham RIF by claiming that the duties of Health instruction were included within the duties of the part-time school nurse. However, the fact that this was a sham RIF and the duties were actually to be performed by a less-senior person became clear as of the very first week of the 1998-99 school year. The Board's discovery responses plainly reveal that in addition to the 19-3/4 hours worked by the non-tenured school nurse, during the 1998-99 school year, the less-senior Ms. Goodwin taught an additional 3 hours, 20 minutes of Health instruction. Exh. A., Supplemental Interrogatory Answer 16(b)(4), Bates No. 100175; Nurse's history, Bates Nos. 100176-77. When these hours are added to the part-time school nurse's hours, it is clear that 23 hours, 5 minutes of duty hours could have been and should have been offered to Ms. Harris. The sham nature of the RIF became even more egregious during the 1999-2000 school year. For the 1999-2000 school year, when the 19-3/4 duty hours worked by the part-time school nurse are aggregated with the 9 hours, 10 minutes of Health instruction being conducted by less-senior teaching staff members, a full-time job with 28 hours, 55 minutes of duty time should have been made available to Ms. Harris.

When a board abolishes a full-time position, it is ordinarily obliged to aggregate the duties of remaining part-time positions in order to provide continuing full-time employment to the riffed tenured full-time teaching staff member, e.g., Brueck v. Fairview Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 283, 10 Jan 97, appeal dismissed, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 555, 7 May 97 (Full-time teachers who were riffed when physical education, health and music programs were assigned to departmentalized 7-8 classroom teachers were entitled to teach those subjects, plus subjects requiring no specific certification, over less senior secondary teachers); Kojak v. Mount Arlington Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 295 (Speech corrections riffed to part-time was entitled to the LDTC-C duties assigned to non-tenured person and for which the speech corrections qualified by an unused LDTC-C endorsement); McGlynn v. Sea Girt Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 438 (Social Studies teacher riffed to part-time was entitled to have the remaining social studies classes rescheduled to afternoon so that he could also teach the available morning kindergarten class); Laufenberg v. Ramapo Indian Hills Regional Board of Education, 91 S.L.D. 2447 (English teacher riffed to a supplemental teaching position was entitled to the full-time aggregate of part-time positions held by non-tenured teachers); Bartz v. Green Brook Board of Education, 86 S.L.D. 1486, aff'd 87 S.L.D. 2520 (Absent educational reasons for the replacement of two full-time home economics positions with two four-sevenths home economics positions, the board was ordered to reorganize the positions so that the more senior teacher could continue to enjoy the remaining full-time position); Valinski v. Garwood Board f Education, State Board of Education Dkt. No. 20-85, 8 Nov. 85 (unreported). (State Board invalidated the reduction of two physical education positions from full-time to four-fifths time, because one of the positions was held by a tenured teacher and the other was held by a non-tenured teacher, and the tenured teacher was entitled to continue in a full-time position); Lingelback v. Hopatcong Board of Education, 84 S.L.D. 1955; aff'd N.J. Super., App. Div., 85 S.L.D. 1953 (Board could not replace one full-time social worker with two part-time social workers, performing the same duties in less time and at considerably lower hourly rates); Miles v. Watchung Board of Education, 84 S.L.D. 1058 (Vocal music teacher, riffed from full-time to four-fifths time while a non-tenured music teacher was retained in a four-fifths position in another school, was entitled to work one day a week in the other school, reducing the non-tenured teacher to three-fifths in order to reconstitute the tenured teacher's full-time position).

The only exception to the legal requirement to aggregate duties is where the Board has set forth specific "educationally based reasons" for dividing the remaining work into part-time positions, Bartz, supra. In the present case, the Board failed to provide any educationally based reasons to justify dividing the remaining work into part-time positions. To the contrary, a close examination of the teaching schedules for the Health instruction classes for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years reveals that one person could have taught all the classes with absolutely no disruption to or revision of the schedule for Health instruction. For the 1998-99, the composite schedule for health instruction was as follows:

TIME	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY
8:55-9:45			Goodwin-5th
9:45-10:35		Goodwin-6th	Goodwin-7th
10:35-11:25
12:50-1:40	Nurse-Young	Nurse-Farnan	Nurse-Harris	Nurse-Casebeer	Nurse-Klemic

See Exh. A, Bates Nos. 100110-11.

For 1999-2000. the composite schedule for health insurance is as follows:

TIME	MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY
8:55-9:45				Goodwin-8	Hensil-6C
9:45-10:35			Hensil-5G	Hensil-5N
10:35-11:25	Goodwin-6J			Goodwin-7
1:15-2:05	Gunn-KH	Gunn-4H	Gunn-4Y	Gunn-1	Gunn-KF
2:05-2:55	Nurse-2 Rinck	Nurse-3 Barile	Nurse-3 Newman		Nurse-2 Hendes

See, Exh. A., Health instruction schedules, Bates Nos. 100180-183.

In conclusion, the Board failed to abide by its legal obligation to aggregate the remaining duties in order to provide continuing full-time employment to Ms. Harris in the 1998-99 or 1999-2000 school year or to provide her with part-time employment which exceeded the 20 hour benefit floor for "grandfathered" employees under the collectively negotiated agreement. Harris Certif. Exh. B. The Board's violation of Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights forced her into an artificial choice between a part-time job with benefits and retirement at an earlier date than she had planned so that she could maintain benefits for herself and her family. As a direct and proximate cause of the Board's violation of her tenure and seniority rights, Ms. Harris was forced to resign and retire to mitigate her damages.

Under the circumstances, this tribunal should craft a remedy to reverse the effect of the Board's illegal refusal to aggregate the job duties to which Ms. Harris had tenure and seniority rights; reinstating her with back pay, pension contributions and credit for the time she lost as a result of the Board's illegal actions and allowing her to take a portion of the back pay award to repay the pension benefits she has drawn and to reinstate her account. This is the only remedy that will make Ms. Harris whole.

3. The Board Has Violated and Continues to Violate the Education Regulations and the Decisional Law of the Commissioner of Education By Having Non-Qualified People Serve as Part-time School Nurse Using Substandard Certifications.

If the Board's efforts to privatize school nursing functions and to ignore Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights were not enough, the Board has since staffed the part-time school nurse position with a new hire who does not have a proper certification. Mrs. Neill, the part-time nurse, does not even have an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement. Instead, she has held the position for more than 20 days utilizing a county substitute teacher's certificate. Exh. A. Neill's certificate, Bates No. 100070. In further violation of the Education Regulations, the Board's payroll records and the Nurse's history demonstrate that she substitutes for no one. Exh. A. Payroll records, Bates Nos. 100074-88; Nurse's history, Bates Nos. 100176-77.

The Commissioner has recognized that this particular misuse of a county substitute certificate is a clear violation of the Education Regulations. Pennsville Education Association v. Pennsville Township Board of Education, CD-141-5/98 (9/9/99). In that case, the petitioner argued that the only proper use of a county substitute certificate is to substitute for a properly certificated employee in a position for no more than 20 days.[8] The Commissioner specifically adopted this legal contention, holding that "[p]ersons who hold substitute certificates are to be employed only in the manner prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5." (emphasis in the original).

In the present case, the net result of the Board's pattern of illegal conduct is that an inadequately qualified nurse is available in the school for only a part of each school day. Should a medical emergency arise, due to the Board's illegal actions, Paula Harris – a person who has the proper qualifications and who diligently served the district for 32 years – is not available to meet the needs of a student or staff member in crisis.

For the foregoing reasons, petitioner Paula Harris, requests that this tribunal issue an order:

a. finding and declaring that respondent's action to deprive petitioner of a full-time teaching position was in violation of her tenure and seniority rights;

b. directing respondent to recognize petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights by reinstating her to a full-time position as a school nurse;

c. directing respondent to provide petitioner with all salary, benefits and emoluments she is entitled to by law and under the negotiated agreement in force and effect in the Woodbine School District, retroactive to September 1, 1998;

d. attaching both pre- and post-judgment interest to any back pay award as permitted by law;

e. directing respondent to take all actions necessary to assure that petitioner receives proper pension credit retroactive to September 1, 1998, including but not limited to the making of retroactive pension contributions, and

f. granting such other relief as is deemed appropriate.

The Board's Position

Preliminary Statement

In contrast to the Preliminary Statement of the petitioner, this case involves an issue of reduction in force (RIF) and whether the respondent performed the RIF in accordance with the requirements. The intent of the Woodbine Board of Education (Board) was to cut back on the position of school nurse in accordance with the Educational Laws that govern such RIFs. It is true that the Board initially attempted to subcontract and/or privatize the school nursing services in an effort to save money, however, after investigation and research and prior to implementation regarding the reduction of the position for economic reasons, it was determined by the Board that the position could not legally be subcontracted and/or privatized. There was no attempt to circumvent the law, the Board was not aware of the prohibition regarding subcontracting and/or privatizing when it conducted its investigation. However, upon being apprised of the Educational Law the Board did not pursue this method of economic relief any further. Counsel elects to classify what happened to the petitioner subsequently as a sham RIF.

The Board upon consulting with labor consultant, William Yanonis of Casseta, Taylor and Weisman, determined that savings could be realized by the Board if a part-time, 19-3/4 hours per week school nurse position were to be created. The Board determined that in order to realize sorely needed savings in its operation, the aforesaid part-time position would be created and in so doing, the reduced position was first offered to the petitioner Paula Harris as set forth in petitioner's exhibits at Bates Nos. 100061 and 100062. The petitioner chose to retire as set forth in petitioner's exhibits at Bates Nos. 100035, 100036, 100037 and 100038.

At all times the tenure rights and seniority rights of the petitioner and her co-workers were considered when making the RIF. The thrust of the RIF by the Board at all times was to cause an economy to assist the Board in a more efficient delivery of educational services that would be offered to the students of the community they represented. The economic problems that were facing the Board had been initially identified in a meeting with the Mayor of Woodbine as set forth in petitioner's exhibits at Bates Nos. 100118, 100119, 100122, 100123, 100124 and 100125. The RIF was part of an ongoing effort of a school board that was experiencing State of New Jersey funding cuts as a small school system that has approximately 400 students. The position of school nurse as it was redefined by the Board was first offered to the petitioner, and it was the petitioner's duty to either accept or refuse the position. The petitioner chose to refuse the position as it was redefined with new part-time hours.

The position was filled with qualified personnel and the petitioner in her sole discretion, decided to retire. At all times that are relevant to the decision of the Board and the petitioner, the only certification that had ever been presented and was on file with the Board's administrative offices as that of school nurse as set forth in petitioner's exhibits at Bates No. 100022. The petitioner was employed by the Board in accordance with Board policy as set forth in the petitioner's exhibits at Bates Nos. 100040 and 100041.

The assertion of counsel for the petitioner is stated that people who have replaced the petitioner to teach Health and perform nursing functions are actually working more school hours. As a result, counsel for the petitioner has labeled this a "sham RIF." However, the costs of the benefits that are no longer afforded the new employees in the positions is not taken into account of petitioner's counsel's analysis nor was the amount that was the reduced amount that is being paid for the cut back position of school nurse. The Board was, and continues to be, in financial crisis and any sums that could be saved to maintain the efficient delivery of educational services to the students of the community they represented had to be considered.

Further, the petitioner in her certification presents, at Exhibit A., an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement dated September of 1971. In the same exhibit she further provides a Teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement dated October of 1974. The court should take special notice regarding this certificate of October of 1974. It is a duplicate and is signed by the Commissioner, who, at the time, was Leo Klagholtz. This certificate was never on file with the Board until after the RIF had taken place as set forth in Exhibit C of the petitioner's certification. As you can see, the first time that a Teaching Certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement dated October of 1974 was provided to the Board was under cover of June 30, 1998. It has been the respondent's position that the petitioner only taught health education under the Nurse's Certificate since it was not on file with the Board and not under the Certificate with the Teacher of Health Education endorsement. Accordingly, the petitioner did not have any seniority as a teacher as is alleged in the motion for summary decision which would afford her the rights claimed. This recites the issues of the matter before the court.

Statement of Uncontested Facts

Petitioner's counsel has taken the liberty to recite facts which are clearly disputed by the respondent. In order to address the items of petitioner regarding uncontested facts the respondent has address its response to correlate with each paragraph written by the petitioner in this section. Respondent sets forth its qualifications to the facts as recited on the brief of the petitioner as follows:

1. As of the 1997-98 school year, the petitioner, Paula Harris, worked as a school nurse under a school nurses certificate only for the 32 years that she was employed. The Exh. A seniority list at petitioner's Bates No. 100054 only lists seniority and not New Jersey Department of Education certificates on file with the Board.

2. The Board only agrees that the petitioner did teach health under a school nurse's certificate only as part of her job duties.

3. The only Educational Services certificate that was ever provided to the Board prior to the aforesaid Exhibit C transmittal by the petitioner of June 30, 1998, was that with a school nurse endorsement as provided at Bates No. 100022. The Teaching Certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement as set forth in Exhibit A came with the letter in Exhibit C and was a duplicate.

4. During the 1997-98 school year, petitioner worked on a full-time basis.

5. The actions that are set forth by petitioner's counsel regarding May 11, 1998 are correct, however, petitioner's counsel fails to recite that the subcontracting of all school services was never implemented.

6. The actions that are set forth by petitioner's counsel regarding May 11, 1998 are correct, however, petitioner's counsel fails to recite that it was not until June 30, 1998, that Exhibit C of Harris' certification was a Certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement provided to the Board.

7. Under the terms of the collectively negotiated agreement between the Board and the Woodbine Education Association, Ms. Harris – would not be a "grandfathered employee" since the position was reduced to 19-3/4 hours per week as set forth at petitioner's Bates No. 100061 and 100062.

8. Petitioner's concerns were that she did want to maintain health benefits, however, the Board had to focus on a more efficient delivery of educational services that would be offered to the students of the community they represented and continued on cost-saving measures as set forth in petitioner's Bates Nos. 100118 and 100119. The Board had no obligation to accept the conditions that the petitioner placed on petitioner's acceptance of 19-3/4 hours per week position when asked to recognized tenure and seniority rights when it did not have, nor was it ever aware of, the Certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement that was claimed by the petitioner after the fact.

9. The memo of July 10, 1998 that petitioner's counsel sets forth at Bates No. 100063 speaks for itself in that a school nurse position for 19-3/4 hours per week was created and does not need any interpretation.

10. The Board was under no obligation to discuss bumping rights with regard to the petitioner's teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement since it was not aware of nor was it on file with the Board at the time of the RIF. Board's position is that it did not have to review seniority relative to the petitioner as it pertained to a teaching position for health since the petitioner only taught health under a school nurse's certificate.

11. Petitioner exercised her right to retire.

12. The Board was under no obligation to discuss bumping rights with regard to the petitioner's teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement since it was not aware of nor was it on file with the Board at the time of the RIF. The Board's position is that it did not have to review seniority relative to the petitioner as it pertained to a teaching position for health since the petitioner only taught health under a school nurse's certificate.

13. Christine Neill was hired as a school nurse under certification as set forth in Bates No. 100070 and has worked as the part-time 19-3/4 hours per week, nurse since the commencement of the 1998-99 school year and has not received any benefits.

14. The positions of school nurse and the Teaching of Health were separated into two separate and distinct positions. The part-time school nurse was obligated to follow the job descriptions as set forth in Bates Nos. 100042, 100043, 100044 and 100061. The health instruction was primarily provided by other certified personnel. Health education does not have to be provided by a person that is holding a school nurse's certificate.

15. The positions of school nurse and the Teaching of Health were separated into two separate and distinct positions. The part-time school nurse was obligated to follow the job description as set forth in Bates Nos. 100042, 100043, 100044 and 100061. The health instruction was primarily provided by other certified personnel. Health education does not have to be provided by a person that is holding a school nurse's certificate.

16. The chart that is presented by counsel for the petitioner shows that the duties of the petitioner were clearly separated into two areas; School Nurse Duties and Health Instruction. By the Board separating the duties it was able to achieve further economy in a more efficient delivery of education services that would be offered to the students of the community they represented. Time was not the governing factor for the RIF; money was.

17. Christine L. Neill holds a County Substitute Certificate to act as a school nurse.

18. The initial employment of a school nurse was to Daniel Headley for the 1998-99 school year who was subsequently replaced by Christine Neill. Both meet the requirements to be employed by the Board as the school nurse. See Exhibit B.

Law and Arguments

Petitioner's Request for Summary Decision Should Be Dismissed and the Request for Summary Decision Should Be Granted

g. The Legal Standard for Summary Decision

The federal standard for summary judgment was adopted by the New Jersey Supreme Court in the case of Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1996). The Brill case requires the trial court to engage in the evaluation, analysis and sifting of evidence as if the court had before it a motion for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b). The legal standard for summary judgment and before this court summary decision follows under R. 4:46-2, summary judgment motions which are to be decided by determining whether competent evidence presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-movant, is still sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the disputed issue or issues. In deciding such issues or issues when such motions are brought, Brill requires that only those disputes go to trial which are "substantial" and not "imaginary" or "unreal."

B. The Board is entitled to Summary Decision and the request for Paula Harris for Summary Decision should be dismissed.

1. The Board's action to subcontract the position of school nurse to reduce costs was never implemented and was abandoned by the Board in favor of its right to reduce a full-time position to a part-time position of less than 20 hours per week.

Although the Board initially acted to abolish the full-time school nurse position by privatization and/or subcontracting, the Board did not carry out the plan after the appropriate research was performed. Unless the plan was carried out, there is no violation of law or the rights of the petitioner. Counsel for the petitioner recites the case of Dover Education Association v Board of Education of the Town of Dover, CD-637-97 as to the alleged violation. However, the argument that counsel makes fails since the Dover case the Board "went through and contracted out some nursing functions." In the case at hand, the petitioner is correct that the Commissioner observes that the education laws clearly requires each school district to employ at least one school nurse. However, nowhere in the law is it stated that the employment must be full-time versus part-time. The Commissioner also pointed out that the board could fill in with non-certified nurses so long as they did not perform the duties specifically reserved for certificated nurses. Again nothing is said regarding the fact that the certified nurse must be employed full-time.

Many school districts employ less than one school nurse for each school building and seek to have other personnel perform some of the functions of the school nurse in the school nurse's absence. While N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 requires every school district to "employ one or more school nurses," case law decided by the Commissioner has made it clear that the school nurse position need not be full-time, nor is it necessary to employ one school nurse for each school building.

Where the school nurse's position is less than full-time or where one school nurse is required to cover more than one school building, the school district is usually faced with the necessity of employing other personnel to perform many of the functions of the school nurse in the school nurse's absence. Some functions of the school nurse which may be assigned to other personnel were discussed by the Commissioner of Education in the case of Wyckoff Education Association v. Wyckoff Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 590, and also in the case of Bernards Township Education Association vs. Board of Education of Bernards Township, 1981 S.L.D. 1071, aff'd by the State Board, 1982 S.L.D. 1443 subsequently, aff'd by the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

Additionally, because the Board was faced with a financial crisis which required a RIF for reasons of economy, many Boards will often decide to reduce a full-time position workload to part-time. A Board will usually assume that such a determination on its part is, in effect, a "reduction in force" under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 which does not need to be negotiated with the teachers union.

Accordingly, the Board concludes and asserts to the court that it did not violate any case law or statute in the final analysis of the RIF of the position of school nurse from full-time to a part-time position. In the analysis on this issue the Board respectfully requests that the court rule that the claim summary decision that the Board acted properly with the RIF of the position of school nurse from full-time to a part-time position since it did not ever implement privatization and/or subcontracting of the school nurse position.

2. The Board did not have a duty to provide the petitioner regarding tenure and seniority rights since the petitioner only taught Health with the Board under an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement dated September of 1971.

The Board takes the position that petitioner never filed with the Board a Teaching Certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement until the transmittal from the petitioner dated June 30, 1998. Further, after an inquiry of the Cape May County Office of the Superintendent (CMCOS) it was determined that the same certificate was not on file with them. This fact is documented in the attached Exhibit A. This documentation that was recently provided by the CMCOS and submitted for review by the CMCOS, clearly demonstrates in the reports titled New Jersey Department of Education, Report of Certificated Staff for October 14, 1994, October 14, 1995, October 15, 1996 and October 15, 1997, Final Staff Listing that the petitioner did not have a teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement on file.

The Board, as required, would always honor tenure and seniority entitlement in accordance with appropriate provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A. However, it is the responsibility of the employees of the Board to keep the administration apprised of any new or additional endorsements to their Department of Education Certification or earned new additional certifications. This was not done in over 25 years. It is from this information that seniority and/or tenure lists are established on a year-to-year basis. The only position that the petitioner had documented seniority and/or tenure rights to were that of the school nurse. According to the records of the Board a teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement was never presented prior to the RIF and as a result the petitioner had no tenure and/or seniority rights as a teacher within the district. The Board only had an obligation to offer the part-time position for school nurse to the petitioner under the circumstances and the petitioner's assertion that the petitioner was entitled to bump into teaching position is simply not founded. Further, the intent of the RIF was to split the position into two separate segments, one of the school nurse and one to teach health. The petitioner cannot combine the positions presented because she believes she has an entitlement that was never documented within the Board or the CMCOS. Counsel for the petitioner is quick to cite Brueck v. Fairview Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 283, 10 January 1997, appeal dismissed, 97*N.J.A.R.* 2nd. (EDU) 555, 7 May 1997. However, a review of this matter shows that each person involved in the case held a teaching certificate and did have tenure and seniority rights which are not available to the petitioner. The same is true with the cite of Kojak v. Mount Arlington Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 295, which again deals with the rights of teachers that have teaching certificates. If a teaching certificate is not on file, it has no merit when calculating seniority and/or tenure.

The entitlement of tenure as claimed by the petitioner is effectively restricted by case law. In the case of DeCarlo v. South PlainfieldBoard of Education, 1988 S.L.D. 1796 it is stated that entitlement to tenure does not extend to certificates which a person has not served. Petitioner never served under any certificate under other than that of a school nurse. Similar restrictions were recited in the case of Kaprow v. Berkley Township Board of Education, 1989 S.L.D. 2885, aff'd State Board of Education 1991 S.L.D. 2561, aff'd N.J. Super., 76 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd 131 N.J. 572 (1993). Under the circumstances, the Board was permitted to RIF as aforesaid and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 et seq., since Boards may reduce staff for reasons of economy, reduction in pupils, change in administrative or supervisory or other good cause. The issue of seniority that is alleged by the petitioner is set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 which calls for a rating of academic or calendar years of employment, or fraction thereof, in district in specific categories. The only category that the petitioner accrued tenure and/or seniority was that of a school nurse.

In all the cases cited by petitioner, it is the assertion of the petitioner that the petitioner has rights under a teaching certificate and alleges that the Board may not have had "educationally based reasons" for dividing the position. It is the Board's contention that the position was not divided and the school nurse position was a RIF from a full-time position to be a part-time position, and that there were other teaching positions with the appropriate certifications available to create continuity of education with the use of existing staff. By doing this, the Board could provide a more efficient delivery of educational services that would be offered to the students of the community the Board represented.

Just because one person could have done both jobs does not preclude the Board from a RIF nor does it prevent the Board from separating the duties that were being performed to part-time school nurse and other staff members either full-time or part-time.

Based on the assertions and the interpretation of the case law regarding this issue the Board respectfully requests that this tribunal rule that the petitioner did not have tenure and/or seniority rights. The petitioner never provided the Board with a teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement that provided the petitioner with the rights that petitioner is alleging. Further it is requested that this tribunal rule in favor of the Board that it acted properly with the RIF of the position of school nurse from full-time to a part-time position, and not providing the petitioner with bumping rights which petitioner is seeking in the petitioner's request for a summary decision.

3. The Board at all times has used properly credentialed personnel in filling the part-time school nurse position.

Petitioner continues to allege that the personnel employed by the Board do not meet the qualification necessary to perform the duties of the position in which they have been placed. The Board asserts that all positions for the entire district are reviewed annually for compliance by the CMCOS. Since the RIF of the school nurse position from full-time to part-time as aforesaid in June of 1998 there has been one school year completed and a second year near completion, and the Board has not been cited for any impropriety. Further the Exhibits at B, C and D reflect the certification codes for the personnel who have held the position of school nurse for the Board. The codes that is listed in all instances is #3000 which is listed as the appropriate code in the legend provided for in Exhibit A.

Based on the assertions and the interpretation of the case law regarding this issue as set forth in prior arguments of law and the presentation of the position of the Board in this brief, the Board respectfully requests that the Court rule that the petitioner was entitled to the position of part-time nurse and solely declined to accept the position of part-time nurse at 19-3/4 hours per week. Further that the Board, when offering the position of school nurse as a RIF that it had no obligation to offer the petitioner a teaching position as a teacher of health and that the Board is entitled to have a part-time nurse provide the services of school nurse.

For the foregoing reasons, respondent, Board, requests that this tribunal issue an order:

a. Dismissing the Motion for Summary Decision of the petitioner;

b. Find and declare that the respondent was not obligated to provide a full-time teaching position to the petitioner;

c. Find and declare that the respondent was not obligated to review tenure and/or seniority of the petitioner under a Teaching certificate with Teacher of Health Education endorsement that was never on file with the Board and/or the CMCOS.

d. Find and declare that the petitioner only had rights of tenure and/or seniority under the Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement dated September of 1971.

f. Find and declare that the petitioner's election to retire was done as the petitioner's sole action and was not a result of the RIF implemented by the Board.

e. Granting such other relief as is deemed appropriate.

Petitioner's Reply to the Board's Position

Preliminary Statement

The Board makes a two-pronged attack upon Ms. Harris' legal position. First, the Board argues that it never implemented its decision to subcontract the position and, instead properly acted to reduce the position from full-time to part-time in a RIF. Second, the Board argues that it had no obligation to notify Ms. Harris regarding tenure and seniority rights because she had taught Health under an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement and, therefore, did not have tenure or seniority to teach these courses under her Instructional certificate with its teacher of Health Education endorsement. Although both of these arguments have an appeal on first blush, they are not supported by the factual record in this case, the tenure and seniority statutes, or the decisional law of the Commissioner.

This brief sets forth a detailed analysis of the facts of this case, the applicable law, and why the law requires that summary decision by entered in Ms. Harris' favor. Before addressing the Board's arguments on a detailed basis, it is important to stop and focus on the Educational Services certificate with the school nurse endorsement. The State Board's regulation clearly provide that this [school nurse] endorsement authorizes service as a school nurse . . . and teaching in areas related to health." N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7(a) (emphasis supplied). Given: (a) that the State Board has by regulation, determine that the school nurse endorsement is an appropriate endorsement for the teaching of health-related courses; (b) given that it is undisputed that Ms. Harris' held this endorsement at all times during her 32 years of service (which included her continuously teaching Health for the Board) – and given that, as of the date of the purported RIF, she was by far the most senior, tenured health instructor, by virtue of her continuous services in the position as the holder of two appropriate certificates, the Board plainly violated her tenure rights by failing to give her an opportunity to teach the health courses and instead retaining less senior teachers to teach health.

Supplemental Statement of Uncontested Facts

The Board has responded to Ms. Harris' Statement of Uncontested Facts with a number of "qualifications." Ms. Harris' Statement of Uncontested Facts sets forth a specific basis for each asserted fact in the Certification of Paula Harris dated February 7, 2000 (Harris Certification or Harris Certif.), the Board's certified answers to interrogatories and exhibits thereto and the pleadings. In contrast, an alarming number of the Board's factual contentions made in its "qualifications" are without record support.

Nonetheless, this brief will carefully review the facts as set forth in Ms. Harris' Initial Brief, the Board's "qualifications" to those facts, and Ms. Harris' response to the Board's qualifications:

1. Ms. Harris' initial brief says that as of the 1997-98 school year, Ms. Harris worked as a school nurse for the Board for 32 years, Initial Brief at 2 citing Exh. A thereto (seniority list, Bates No. 100054) Harris Certif.¶2. Without providing any record support, the Board's qualifications contend that Ms. Harris worked as a school nurse "under a school nurse's certificate only." Bb. at 3, ¶1[9] In contrast, the certification of Paula Harris dated May 12, 2000 (Harris' Second Certification or Harris Certif. II) clearly demonstrates that the Board notice that Ms. Harris had the Instructional Certificate with the Teacher of Health Education endorsement in 1974. Ms. Harris had been paid on a separate guide until that time. Harris Certif. II at ¶2. In a significant admission by conduct, in 1974, when Ms. Harris received her Instructional Certificate with its Teacher of Health Education endorsement, the Board placed her on the Teacher's guide of the contract at that time. Id. The only rational inference that can be drawn was that the Board receive a copy of the Instructional certificate in 1974 and moved her onto the Teacher's guide in reliance upon that certificate. The Board fails to present any credible or competent evidence that it did not receive a copy of the Instructional certificate in 1974.

2. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief notes that, at all times, she taught health as part of her job duties. Initial Brief at 2 citing Harris' Certif. ¶3. The Board's "qualifications" admit that Ms. Harris taught health. [10] However, without any evidentiary support, the Board maintains that she taught health "under a school nurse's certificate only." This contention is contrary to the facts set forth in Harris' Second Certification. It is also a distinction without any legal importance given that the Educational Services certificate with the school nurse endorsement is an appropriate endorsement for the teaching of health. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7(a).

[9] These cases are discussed in detail Ms. Harris's Initial Brief. Since, Ms. Harris' Initial Brief was filed, the State Board's Legal Committee has issued its report in Dover Education Association, supra. Underscoring the impropriety of subcontracting school nursing services as defined by statute. A true copy of the Legal Committee Report is attached as Exh. A.

[10] Compare the nursing functions restored by job description with nursing functions listed in Old Bridge. See, pages 7 and 8 below.

3. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief demonstrates that Ms. Harris has held an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement since September of 1971 and an Instructional certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement since October of 1974. Initial Brief at 2 citing Harris Certif., Exh. A. Without record support, the Board denies having received Ms. Harris' Instructional certificate with its Teacher of Health Education endorsement before the purported RIF. The Board's unsupported contention is directly contradicted by Harris' Second Certification, ¶2.

4. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that during the 1997-98 school year, she worked on a full-time basis and worked 29 hours of duty time per week. Initial Brief at 2 citing Harris Certif., ¶5. The Board does not contest these facts.

5. Ms. Harris Initial Brief says that at its May 11, 1998, the Board considered subcontracting all school nursing services. Initial Brief at 2 citing Exh. A thereto, Board Minutes, Bates Nos. 100056-57. At the meeting, Ms. Harris appeared with her counsel and placed the Board on notice that the Board could not legally subcontract all school nursing services under the decisions in Old Bridge Education Association v. Old Bridge Board of Education, CD-621-97, and Dover Education Association v. Board of Education of Town of Dover, CD-637-97.[11] Initial Brief at 2 citing Exh. A thereto, Board secretary's unofficial handwritten minutes, Bates No. 100102; Board Minutes, Bates No. 100056. These documents demonstrate that the Board was specifically made aware of these cases and the illegality of its action to privatize all school nursing services before it acted. Nonetheless, the Board adopted a motion subcontracting all school nursing services. Initial Brief at 2 citing Exh. A thereto, Board Minutes, Bates No. 100057. The Board admits that it took this action. Bb4, ¶5. However, the Board notes that it never implemented the action it took to subcontract the school nursing services. Id. The Board appears to contend that there was "no harm, no

[11] These cases are discussed in detail in Ms. Harris' Initial Brief. Since, Ms. Harris Initial Brief was filed, the State Board's Legal Committee has issued its report in Dover Education Association, supra., underscoring the impropriety of subcontracting school nursing services as defined by statute. A true copy of the Legal Committee Report is attached as Exhibit A.

foul" as a result of its initial action. However, even if not ultimately consummated, the passage of the motion to privatize was itself a violation of the Education Laws. The action is also relevant and probative because it shows that the Board was so intent upon eliminating Ms. Harris' position that it acted to adopt the motion in willful indifference of the requirements of the Education Laws. The Board's initial action sets the stage for the Board's efforts to subvert Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights in the sham RIF that followed.

6. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief reveals that at the Board's June 29, 1998 meeting, the Board admitted by conduct the illegality of its earlier action to privatize all school nursing functions. At the June meeting, the Board acted to create a 19-3/4 hour school nurse position which included the school nurse functions which the Board had previously acted to privatize. Initial Brief at 3 citing Exh. A thereto, Board Minutes, Bates No. 100058; Job Description, Bates Nos. 100042-44.[12] On June 29, 1998, late in the afternoon, and shortly before the Board's meeting that evening,[13] the Board offered the position to Ms. Harris by and through its labor consultant, William Yanonis, and its Superintendent, Roseann Cialella. Initial Brief at 3. The Board admits its actions on June 29, 1998. However, without any evidentiary support, the Board contends that it did not receive Ms. Harris' Instructional Certificate until June 30, 1998, after it acted on June 29, 1998. This is inconsistent with Harris' Second Certification which demonstrates that in 1974, in reliance upon the Board's receipt of Ms. Harris' Instructional Certificate, the Board placed her on the Teacher's guide. Harris Cert. II, ¶¶2-3. Even if the Board knew that she had the certification before it acted. In Harris' Second Certification, she explains that during the Harris-Yanonis-Cialella meeting, Cialella and Yanonis were told that Ms. Harris had both the Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement and an Instructional certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement. Harris Certif. II, ¶5. Although

[13] Ms. Harris' Initial Brief and the Board's brief incorrectly recite that the Cialella-Yanonis-Harris meeting took place after the Board meeting. Harris' Second Certification clarifies the sequence of these events. Harris' Certif. II at ¶¶4-7.

Cialella and Yanonis claimed not to know that Ms. Harris had the Instructional Certificate and Teacher of Health Education endorsement, Cialella acknowledged that Ms. Harris could teach Health under her school nurse endorsement anyway. Id. At the Harris-Yanonis-Cialella meeting, Ms. Harris told the Board's representatives that a less senior teacher, Kimbra Goodwin, had taught five 42 minute periods of Health during the 1997-98 school year and Ms. Harris asked Cialella and Yanonis whether the Board would acknowledge her seniority and tenure rights to teach all of the Health classes. Harris Certif. II, ¶5. Accordingly, before the June 29, 1998 meeting, the Board had notice that Ms. Harris had an Instructional Certificate and that she was claiming tenure and seniority rights to teach Health courses which were being taught by a less senior teaching staff member. Although Yanonis and Cialella told Ms. Harris that they would look into the matter, the Board never offered Ms. Harris the opportunity to teach the Health courses.

7. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that under the terms of the collectively negotiated agreement between the Board and the Woodbine Education Association, Ms. Harris as a "grandfathered" employee-was eligible for benefits so long as she worked a minimum of 20 hours per week. Initial Brief at 3 citing Harris Certification, ¶7; Exh. B thereto. The Board's qualifications claim that she would not be a grandfathered employee because the school nurse position offered to her was only 19-3/4 hours. Bb5, ¶7. However, the Board's contention completely disregards her bumping rights to teach the Health courses, given that she had both certificates at the time of the sham RIF and that both certificates were appropriate for the teaching of Health.

8. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief notes that she accepted the position, subject to the Board's acknowledging her tenure and seniority rights to teach the Health courses. Initial Brief at 3 citing Harris' Certification ¶8 and thereto. Ms. Harris greatest concern was maintaining health benefits for her family. Id. For close to 15 years, Ms. Harris had been the sole source of health benefits for her family. Id. The Board claims that it made the choice as a cost saving measure in a RIF and, without any evidentiary support, claims, that it had no obligation to offer Ms. Harris the opportunity to teach the Health courses because neither it nor the County Superintendent of Schools had any record that she had at the Instructional Certificate. The Board's factual contentions are undercut by the following: (a) under the State Board of Education's regulations. (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7), an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement is an appropriate certificate for the teaching of Health; (b) a fair inference may be drawn that the Board had the Instructional certificate ever since 1974 (the year that Ms. Harris received the certificate and the Board placed her on the Teachers' guide in reliance upon the certificate); (c) Ms. Harris specifically told the Board that she had the certificate before the purported RIF; and (d) contrary to the Board's contentions, a computerized abstract furnished by the County Superintendent to Ms. Harris on May 12, 1998, plainly shows that as of that date – which was after the Board's effort to privatize the position of May 11, 1998 but before the purported RIF – the County Superintendent did, in fact, have a record that Ms. Harris possessed an Instructional Certificate with a Teacher and Health Education endorsement. True copies of the letter and the abstract are attached to this brief as Exhibit B.

9. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that the Board responded by memorandum. Initial Brief at 3 citing Exh. A. thereto, Memorandum from Roseann Cialella to Paula Harris dated July 10, 1998. Bates No. 100063. Significantly, in the memorandum, the Board made clear that the school nurse position would be a maximum of "19.5 hour [sic] a week" and that additional hours would not be offered to Ms. Harris to conduct Health instruction. In short, the Board claimed that the Health instruction was included in the 19-3/4 hour position. The Board responds by stating that the memorandum speaks for itself. Bb4, ¶9.

10. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that the memorandum failed and refused to acknowledge or even discuss Ms. Harris' bumping rights to teach the Health courses which were being taught by Kimbra Goodwin, a much less senior teacher who had worked for the district only seven years as of the end of the 1997-98 school year and who had taught Health on a very limited part-time basis for no more than two years as of that time. Initial Brief at 3 citing Seniority List, Bates No. 100054 and Harris Certif. ¶10. The Board responds that it had no obligation to discuss bumping rights and, with no evidentiary support, contends that it was unaware that Ms. Harris had the Instructional Certificate at the time of the RIF. The Board further argues that it did not have to review Ms. Harris' seniority for a teaching position for Health because Ms. Harris only taught Health under her school nurse endorsement. Bb4, ¶10. The Board's contentions are unsupported by an evidentiary record and are undercut by the following: (a) under the State Board's regulations (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7), an Educational Services certification with a school nurse endorsement is an appropriate certification for the teaching of Health; (b) a fair inference may be drawn that the Board had the Instructional Certificate ever since 1974 (the year that Ms. Harris received the certificate and the Board placed her on the Teachers' guide in reliance upon the certificate); and (c) Ms. Harris specifically told the Board that she had the certificate before the purported RIF.

11. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief notes that the Board's refusal to acknowledged Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights to teach the Health courses forced Ms. Harris to choose between a 19-3/4 hour part-time job without benefits and premature retirement at a date earlier than she had planned to retire. Initial Brief at 4 citing Harris Certif., ¶11. She was forced to retire to maintain health benefits for her family, including her son in college, who she continues to support on her pension. The pension provides her with a substantially reduced income. Id. The Board responds by claiming Ms. Harris merely exercised her right to retire. Bb4, ¶11. However, Ms. Harris' correspondence to the Board makes clear that her choice to retire was coerced. Ms. Harris retired under protest and with full reservation of rights because, in failing to acknowledge her bumping rights, the Board improperly caused Ms. Harris to choose between a 19-3/4 hour position without benefits and premature retirement with benefits. Harris Certif., Exh. C.; Ms. Harris' Initial Brief, Exh. A. Bates No. 100033.

12. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief notes that the Board's discovery responses and supplemental discovery responses admit that during the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years, in addition to the 19-3/4 hours being worked by the part-time school nurse, other non- tenured or less senior people were, in fact, teaching additional hours of Health instruction. Initial Brief at 4. The Board responds that it was under no obligation to discuss bumping rights because Ms. Harris' instructional certificate was not on file at the time of the RIF, nor was it aware that she had the certificate. Bb4¶12. The Board's contentions are unsupported by an evidentiary record and are undercut by the following: (a) under the State Board's regulations (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7), an Educational Services certification with a school nurse endorsement is an appropriate certification for the teaching of Health; (b) a fair inference may be drawn that the Board had the instructional certificate since 1974 (the year that Ms. Harris received the certificate and the Board placed her on the Teachers' guide in reliance upon the certificate); and (c) Ms. Harris specifically told the Board that she had the instructional certificate before the purported RIF.

13. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief specifically cites to the Board's supplemental answer to interrogatory 16(b)(4) which admits that Christine Neill, the part-time school nurse, has worked 19-3/4 hours per week from November 1998 to present. Initial Brief at 4 citing Exh. A thereto, Supplemental Interrogatory Answer 16(b)(4), Bates No. 100175 and Nurse's history, Bates Nos. 100176-77.[14] The Board does not contest this contention though it notes that Neill has worked without benefits. Bb4-5, ¶13.

14. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief cites the Board's schedules for all people who taught Health classes. Initial Brief at 4 citing Exh. A. thereto, Health instructor schedules, Bates Nos. 10010-11; 100180-83. The schedules show that during the 1998-99 school year, the less-senior Ms. Goodwin taught 3 hours, 20 minutes of Health per week. Exh. A. Goodwin's Health instruction schedule, Bates Nos. 100110-11. The schedules also show that during the 1999-2000 school year, the less-senior Ms. Goodwin taught 150 minutes of Health, a Ms. Sharon Gunn taught 250 minutes of Health and a Mr. Stephen Hensil taught 150 minutes of Health. Exh. A., Health instruction schedules, [14] The Board's discovery responses also reveal that the Board employed a cadre of nurses from September to early November of 1998 to fill the 19-3/4 hour per week part-time school nurse position. Exh. A., Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177. While not necessary to this motion, it appears that during substantial periods of time, the Board had only an LPN site in violation of N.J.A.C. 13:37-6.2(c), which requires an RN to supervise an LPN at all times. Compare Exh. A., Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177 with Simsick L.P.N. certificate, Bates No. 100067.

Bates Nos. 100180-82. Ms. Gunn and Mr. Hensil also had less seniority than Ms. Harris as of the date of the claimed RIF. Exh. A, Seniority list, Bates No. 10054. The Board responds by contending - again without any evidentiary support - that the positions of school nurse and teaching [sic] of Health were separated into two distinct and separate positions. Bb5, ¶14. The Board notes that the Health instruction was conducted by other certificated personnel and that Health instruction does not have to be provided by a person with a school nurse endorsement. Id. However, the Board neglects to note that each of the people teaching Health were less senior than Ms. Harris and also implicitly concedes that Health instruction may be provided by a person with a school nurse endorsement. It is extremely significant that all functions previously performed by Ms. Harris are still being performed in the school district, although the teaching functions are being performed by other, less senior people. This serves as the factual basis for Ms. Harris' claim that the RIF was a sham RIF.

15. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief notes that, even if in July of 1998 the Board mistakenly believed that a part-time nurse could perform the nursing services and the Health instruction within 19-3/4 hours per week, as of September of 1998 – based upon the Board's own duty schedules – it was clear that all of the functions could not be performed within the 19-3/4 hours ands were not, in fact, being performed within the part-time nurse's hours. The Board responds by contending - yet again without any evidentiary support – that the positions of School Nurse and Teaching [sic] of Health were separated into two distinct and separate positions. Bb5, ¶14. The Board notes that the Health instruction was conducted by other certificated personnel and that Health instruction does not have to be provided by a person with a school nurse endorsement. Id. However, the Board neglects to note that each of the people teaching Health were less senior than Ms. Harris and also implicitly concedes that Health instruction may be provided by a person with a School Nurse endorsement.

16. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that in September, with the assignment of 3 hour, 20 minutes of Health instruction to the less-senior Ms. Goodwin, in addition to the 19-3/4 hours being worked by part-time School Nurse McNeill, Ms. Harris' seniority and recall rights were triggered and the Board should have provided her with an opportunity to perform the school nurse functions and the Health instruction that were being performed by less senior or non-tenured people. If all of the duty hours were aggregated together and if the Board had honored Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights, in 1998-99 school year, the Board would have offered her part-time employment with benefits for the 23 hours, 5 minutes of duty time and, in the 1999-2000 school year, the Board would have offered her full-time employment for the 28 hours, 55 minutes of duty time.[15] For the Court's convenience, this information has been reduced to a chart:

YEAR	School Nurse Duties	Health Instruction	Total Duty Hours
1997-98
Harris-Full Time	(Not broken down)	(Not broken down)	29 hours
1998-99
McNeill	19 hours, 45 minutes
Goodwin		3 hours, 20 minutes
Goodwin			23 hours, 5 minutes
1999-2000
McNeill	19 hours, 45 minutes
Goodwin		2 hours, 30 minutes
Hensil		2 hours, 30 minutes
Gunn		4 hours, 10 minutes

[15] This is substantially the same duty time than Ms. Harris worked per week during the 1997-98 school year. Harris Certification, ¶5.

28 hours, 55 minutes

The Board responds that the above chart shows that petitioner's duties were divided into two areas – nursing and Health instruction; the Board contends that "time was not the governing factor for the RIF; money was." Bb5, ¶16. However, the Board's position fails to explain why it failed and refused to honor Ms. Harris' bumping rights to the Health instruction functions; functions for which she was appropriately certificated. (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7), in which she was tenured and in which she had 32 years of seniority.

17. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that Christine Neill was not certified as a school nurse. Instead, she holds only a County Substitute Teacher's Certificate. Exh. A. Neill's certificate, Bates No. 100070. The Board contends that a County Substitute Certificate qualifies her to act as a school nurse. Bb5, ¶17. As will be discussed below, this position is directly contrary to the decisional law of the Commissioner.

18. Ms. Harris' Initial Brief says that the Board's payroll records and nurse's history reflect that at no time did Ms. Neill substitute for another person who was working in the position of school nurse. Exh. A. Payroll records, Bates Nos. 100073-88; Nurse's history, Bates No. 100177. The Board responds by claiming that a Daniel Headley and Christine Neill each served as school nurse and claims – again without any record support – that both "meet the requirements to be employed by the [Board] as the school nurse." Bb5, ¶18. Contrary to the Board's contentions, the Board has supplied only a registered nurse certification for Neill (Bb, Exh. C), no credentials whatsoever for Headley, and has failed to supply an Educational Services certificate with a School Nurse endorsement for either.

Under the circumstances, it is plain that the Board has failed to have a duly-qualified school nurse in place.

Law and Argument

II. The Board did not Properly Act to Reduce the Position from Full-Time to Part-Time in a RIF

The Board suggests that it merely engaged in an even-handed RIF in reducing the school nurse position from a full-time to part-time in a RIF. To the contrary, intent upon eliminating Ms. Harris from the Board's payroll, the Board acted in a reckless disregard of the requirements of the Education Laws. At first, the Board passed a motion to "subcontract" and "privatize" school nursing services, notwithstanding the fact that, under the Education Laws, certain services must be performed by a duly-certified school nurse. The Board had specific notice of the requirement of the Education Laws before it acted. Nonetheless, at its May 11, 1998 meeting, it adopted a motion to improperly subcontract school nursing services.

Upon reflection, the Board apparently reconsidered its initial action to subcontract and decided to reduce the functions of the school nurse position to part-time instead of eliminating the position all together. If the Board had actually eliminated the amount of Health instruction or if the Board had recognized Ms. Harris' bumping rights in the RIF and had given her the opportunity to teach Health, it could have lawfully reduced its payroll expenses by RIFing a less senior or non-tenured person.

Instead, the Board again acted in violation of the Education Laws; this time in violation of Ms. Harris' tenure and seniority rights and, in particular, her right to "bump" less senior people who have been assigned to teach Health instruction. There is no question that her educational services certification with its school nurse endorsement was an appropriate certification for the teaching of Health, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7. Given that Ms. Harris had taught Health for each of her 32 years in the district, it is plain that Ms. Harris had tenure and seniority to teach Health.

When the Board abolishes a full-time position, it is ordinarily obliged to aggregate the duties of remaining part-time positions in order to provide continuing full-time employment to the RIFed tenured full-time teaching staff member. E.g., Brueck v. Fairview Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 283, 10 Jan. 97, appeal dismissed, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 555, 7 May 97 (Full-time teachers who were RIFed when physical education, Health and music programs were assigned to departmentalized 7-8 classroom teachers were entitled to teach those subjects, plus subjects requiring no specific certification, over less senior secondary teachers); Kojak v. Mount Arlington Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 295 (Speech corrections RIFed to part-time was entitled to the LDT-C duties assigned to non-tenured person and for which the speech corrections qualified by an unused LDT-C endorsement); McGlynn v. Sea Girt Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 438 (Social studies teacher RIFed to part-time was entitled to have the remaining social studies classes rescheduled to afternoon so that he could also teach the available morning kindergarten classes); Laufenberg v. Ramapo Indian Hills Regional Board of Education, 91 S.L.D. 2447 (English teacher RIFed to a supplemental teaching position was entitled to the full-time aggregate of part-time positions held by non-tenured teachers); Bartz v. Green Brook Board of Education, 86 S.L.D. 1486, aff'd 87 S.L.D. 2520 (Absent educational reasons for the replacement of two full-time home economics positions with 2-4/7th home economics positions, the Board was ordered to reorganize the positions so that the more senior teacher could continue to enjoy the remaining full-time position); Valinski v. Garwood Board of Education, State Board, Dkt. No. 20-85, 8 Nov. 85 (unreported). (State Board invalidated the reduction of two physical education positions from full-time to four-fifths time, because one of the positions was held by a tenured teacher and the other was held by a non-tenured teacher, and the tenured teacher was entitled to continue in a full-time position); Lingelbach v. Hopatcong Board of Education, 84 S.L.D. 1955; aff'd. N.J. Super., App. Div. 85 S.L.D. 1953 (Board could not replace one full-time social worker with two part-time social workers, performing the same duties in less time and at considerably lower hourly rates); Miles v. Watchung Board of Education, 84 S.L.D. 1058 (Vocal music teacher, RIFed from a full-time to 4/5ths position in another school, was entitled to work one day a week in the other school, reducing the non-tenured teacher to 3/5ths in order to reconstitute the tenured teacher's full-time position).

The only exception to the legal requirement to aggregate duties is where the Board has set forth specific "educationally based reasons" for dividing the remaining work into part-time positions. Bartz, supra. In the present case, the Board failed to provide any educationally based reasons to justify dividing the remaining work into part-time positions. To the contrary, as set forth in Ms. Harris' Initial Brief, a close examination of the teaching schedules for the Health instruction classes for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years reveals that all of the work continued to be performed in the District and one person could have taught all of the classes with absolutely no disruption to or revision of the schedule for Health instruction.

The decisional law of the Commissioner says that in a RIF the local board need not consider every possible scheduling permutation in order to retain the most qualified, senior and tenured person. However, in the present case, the schedule plainly reflects that no such permutations were required. To the contrary, in the present case, the facts suggest that the Board set out with the goal of terminating Ms. Harris' employment and that it then tried to use every permutation possible to try to achieve that goal, irrespective of the fact that the Board could not legitimately privatize the position, that the Board could not legitimately retain less senior or non-tenured people to teach Health, or that the Board could not retain unqualified people to perform school nursing services as defined by statute.

II. Ms. Harris Plainly Had Seniority and Tenure in the Teaching Of the Health Courses

Paula Harris actually taught Health for 32 years in the Woodbine School District. Assuming for the sake of argument that Ms. Harris did not even have an Instructional certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement, under the State Board's regulations, a school nurse endorsement is an appropriate certificate to teach Health. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7. In addition, for 32 years, the Board recognized the appropriateness of the certificate by allowing her to continue to teach Health to generations of students.

Even if she only had tenure and seniority to the extent of the Educational Services certificate, given that the State Board has determined that the Educational Services certificate with the school nurse endorsement is an appropriate certificate for the instruction of Health, she plainly has seniority and bumping rights to teach all courses to which the certificate and endorsement qualify her to teach – namely, Health. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7. By failing to offer her the opportunity to teach Health, the Board violated her tenure and seniority rights.

While Ms. Harris does not believe any further inquiry is necessary for the Commissioner to grant her Motion for Summary Decision and deny the Board's cross-motion, Ms. Harris also notes that she is entitled to teach the Health courses by virtue of the fact that she has also held an Instructional certificate with a Teacher of Health Education endorsement since 1974 and has taught Health in the district continuously ever since that time. The Board argues that even though Ms. Harris had the Instructional certificate and taught Health continuously since 1974, she lacks tenure and seniority under this certificate because the Board did not know that she had the Instructional Certificate. This position finds no support under the facts of the case or the law.

First, on the facts as set forth in the Statement of Facts above, Harris' Second Certification clearly demonstrates that the Board had notice that Ms. Harris had the Instructional Certificate with the Teacher of Health Education endorsement in 1974. Ms. Harris had been paid on a separate guide until that time. Harris Certif. II at ¶2. In a significant admission by conduct, in 1974, when Ms. Harris received this teaching credential, the Board placed her on the Teache4r's guide at that time. Id. The only rational inference that can be drawn was that the Board received a copy of the Instructional Certificate in 1974 and moved her onto the Teacher's guide in reliance upon that Instructional Certificate. The Board fails to present any credible or competent evidence that it did not receive a copy of the Certificate in 1974. The Board, having paid her on a Teacher's guide for years in obvious reliance upon the Instructional Certificate, no rational finder of fact could determine that the Board never had notice that Ms. Harris held the Instructional Certificate. The Board's unsubstantiated contentions in this regard are further undercut by Exh. B to this Brief, which plainly reveals that the County Superintendent did, in fact, have a record that Ms. Harris held the Instructional Certificate as of the RIF.

Second, the law does not support the Board's position. Given that Ms. Harris continuously taught Health since 1971 and that she continuously taught Health since 1974 under both her Educational Services certificate with its school nurse endorsement and her Instructional Certificate with its Teacher of Health Education endorsement, she accrued seniority in Health Instruction simultaneously in both categories. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f). The Board's attempts to limit

Ms. Harris' seniority to one endorsement or the other is contrary to the plain language of this regulation.

In addition, given that she held both certificates at all relevant times, the Board's efforts to carefully parse out whether Ms. Harris functioned as a teacher of Health under a school nurse endorsement or as a teacher of Health under an Instructional Certificate exalts form over substance. She had the certificate. She did the work. She is entitled to recognition of her seniority in the position. The decisional law has long recognized that, in assessing tenure and seniority claims, it is the duties performed in the position, not the title which is "the crucial factor." E.g., Quinlan v. Bd. of Ed. of North Bergen Tp., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 50 (App. Div. 1962). See also, Christie v. East Orange Bd. of Ed. 1985 S.L.D. 299, 307 ("the duties performed, rather than the title of the position or the job description, are controlling; one must look to the substance rather than the form.")

III. The Board Has Plainly Failed to Use Properly Credentialed Personnel to Fill the Part-Time School Nurse Position

As set forth in Ms. Harris' Initial Brief, the Board has since staffed the part-time school nurse position with Cynthia Neill, a new hire who does not have a proper certification. Ms. Neill, the part-time nurse, does not even have an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement. Instead, she has held the position for more than 20 days utilizing a county substitute teacher's certificate. Initial Brief, Exh. A Neill's certificate, Bates No. 100070. In further violation of the Education Regulations, the Board's payroll records and the Nurse's history demonstrate that she substitutes for no one. Initial Brief, Exh. A. Payroll records, Bates Nos. 100074-88; Nurse's history, Bates Nos. 100176-77.

The Commissioner has recognized that this particular misuse of a county substitute certificate is a clear violation of the Education Regulations. Pennsville Education Association v. Pennsville Township Board of Education, CD-141-5/98 (9/9/99). In that case, the petitioner argued that the only proper use of a county substitute certificate is to substitute for a properly certificated employee in a position for no more than 20 days.[16] The Commissioner specifically adopted this legal contention, holding that "[p]ersons who hold substitute certificates are to be employed only in the manner prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5" (emphasis in the original).

For the foregoing reasons as well as the reasons set forth in petitioner Paula Harris' Initial Brief, petitioner Paula Harris, requests that this tribunal issue an order:

a. finding and declaring that respondent's action to deprive petitioner of a full-time teaching position was in violation of her tenure and seniority rights.

b. directing respondent to recognize petitioner's nurse and/or seniority rights by reinstating her to a full-time position as a school nurse;

c. directing respondent to provide petitioner with all salary, benefits and emoluments she is entitled to by law and under the negotiated agreement in force and effect in the Woodbine School District, retroactive to September 1, 1998;

d. attaching both pre-and post-judgment interest to any back pay award as permitted by law;

e. directing respondent to take all actions necessary to assure that petitioner receives proper pension credit retroactive to September 1, 1998, including but not limited to the making of retroactive pension contributions, and

f. granting such other relief as is deemed appropriate.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the legal standard for summary decision, pursuant to Brill, supra., has been met.

[16] This restriction is clearly set forth on the face of Ms. Neill's certificate. Exh. A, Neill Certificate, Bates No. 100070.

The primary issue for determination by this tribunal is whether or not the Board violated petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights when it acted to impose a RIF to her school nurse position and, thereafter, reduce the position from a full-time to a part-time position of 19-3/4 hours per week, sans any consideration of her prior teaching assignments.

The issue as to whether or not the Board acted to privatize and subcontract the school nurse position is of no moment to these proceedings and, therefore, will not be discussed nor decided here.

There is no question that a board of education may exercise the statutory provision to abolish a certificated position and impose a RIF of its teaching staff members for reasons of economy, among other reasons. N.J.S. A. 18A:28-9. The Board's action, however, must in good faith. Werlock v. Woodbridge Twp. Bd. of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 140 (App. Div. 1949); Camp v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Glen Rock, 1977 S.L.D. 706; Popovich v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Wharton, 1977 S.L.D. 440; Polaski v. Bd. of Ed. of the Burlington County Voc-Tech. H.S. 1977 S.L.D. 346. Nor is there any question or doubt that petitioner had acquired a tenure status with the Board.

In the instant matter, the Board was faced with a fiscal crisis and determined that a RIF of its school nursing services was the manner in which it could economize to resolve, in part, its financial problem. In so doing, the Board abolished petitioner's full-time position and replaced it with a part-time position. However, it ignored the fact that petitioner also taught its health program in its schools and replaced her in these teaching duties with teachers with less seniority than petitioner.

The Board avers that it was unaware that petitioner was in possession of an Educational Services certificate with a school nurse endorsement and a Teaching Certificate with a Teacher of Health endorsement. The Board asserts that petitioner never advised it of her Teacher of Health Teaching Certificate although it had assigned her to teach in the specific area. The Commissioner has held that the procuring of certification is the primary responsibility of the teaching staff member. Sydnor v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Englewood 1976 S.L.D. 113, 117. Moreover, the Commissioner also held in the same case that:

> It is also the responsibility of the Superintendent to insure that all teaching staff members are either certified or apply in a timely fashion for appropriate certificates. Id. at 117.

Petitioner has clearly demonstrated that she is appropriately certificated by the State Board of Examiners to perform all of the duties of a school nurse and to instruct pupils in health education. The Board, in its determination to impose a RIF to petitioner's nursing duties, failed to recognize petitioner's seniority with respect to her teaching of its health curriculum and assigned less senior teaching staff members to perform these duties. As the petitioner observes, when a board of education initiates a RIF, it is obliged to aggregate the duties of the part-time position in order to provide full-time employment to the teaching staff member subjected to the RIF. Brueck, supra., Kojak, supra., McGlynn, supra., Laufenberg, supra.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board did, in fact, violate petitioner's tenure and seniority rights when it failed to assign petitioner to teach its health curriculum when it reduced her school nurse assignment from full-time to part-time of 19-3/4 hours per week.

WOODBINE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION AND PAULA HARRIS,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WOODBINE, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record and factual circumstances presented in the instant matter, the Commissioner concurs with and adopts the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion, for the reasons set forth below, that respondent violated petitioner's tenure and seniority rights when it failed to assign her to teach the health classes in dispute herein.

As held by the State Board of Education in Elissa A. Kish v. Board of Education of the Borough of Elmwood Park, Bergen County, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 367:

> [T]enure is achieved within a "position," Howley v. Bd. of Ed. of Ewing Township, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, aff'd by the State Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 1554, and tenure protection as against nontenured individuals following a reduction in force extends only to assignments within that tenured position for which the individual is qualified by virtue of his or her certification. Kaprow v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley, decided by the State Board of Education, January 9, 1991, slip op. at 9, aff'd [255 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd, 131 N.J. 572, 583 (1993)]. See Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 110

> N.J. 512 (1988); Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 109 N.J. 514 [1987]; Herbert v. Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, decided by the State Board of education, August 1, 1990, aff'd, Docket #A – 318-90T1 (App. Div. 1991). Such protection does not extend to assignments within the purview of separately tenurable positions in which the staff member has not achieved tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. (emphasis in text)

As to the issue of positions involving educational services certificates, the State Board held in Ellicott v. Board of Education of the Township of Frankford, Sussex County, 1990 S.L.D. 1714, 1718, aff'd 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) that:

> With the exception of school nurse, assignments within the purview of the educational services certificate are not enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 as separately tenurable positions. Under regulations promulgated by the State Board, moreover, teaching staff members holding an educational services certificate are authorized and qualified for service in any assignment under that certificate for which they possess the appropriate endorsement. (citation omitted) Consequently, we conclude that, with the exception of school nurses, who are separately tenured by statute, staff members serving under educational services certificates achieve tenure in "educational services" and are entitled to tenure protection in all assignments within that tenurable position for which the endorsements on their certificates qualify them. (emphasis supplied)

See also Harriet Wallen v. Board of Education of the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District, Burlington County, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 301.

Applying the legal holdings set forth above to the facts of the instant matter, petitioner acquired tenure in the position of school nurse, having served for 32 years under her educational services certificate in the position of school nurse, a separate and distinct position from that of teacher. N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5. Consequently, she is entitled to tenure protection in all assignments within the position of school nurse for which the endorsement on her educational services certificate qualifies her.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, the school nurse endorsement authorizes service as a school nurse and teaching in health-related areas. Thus, during the time period at issue herein, petitioner's teaching of health was authorized by her school nurse endorsement. Because a school nurse is not required to possess both an instructional certificate with an authorization to teach health and an educational services certificate with a school nurse endorsement, petitioner's possession of such an instructional certificate is immaterial to determining the present matter. The facts of this case reveal that petitioner taught health pursuant to her school nurse endorsement, not her instructional certificate. Moreover, the circumstances herein are unlike those found in Dennery v. Bd. Of. Ed. of Passaic County Regional High School District, 131 N.J. 626 (1993), wherein it was determined that a board of education acted properly in requiring dual certification to qualify for a single educational position. No such requirement was imposed herein. Thus, as stated above, petitioner's tenure and seniority rights herein accrued under a school nurse position, and not that of the separately tenurable position of teacher.

It is the Board's contention that, upon abolishment of petitioner's school nurse position:

> The positions of School Nurse and the Teaching of Health were separated into two separate and distinct positions. The part-time school nurse was obligated to follow the job description as set forth in Bates Nos. 100042, 100043, 100044 and 100061. The health instruction was primarily provided by other certified personnel.[1] Health education does not have to be provided by a person that is holding a School Nurse certificate. (Respondent's Brief at 5)

See also Initial Decision at 21. However, upon examination of the record, the Commissioner observes that the school nurse job description, as revised and approved by the Woodbine Board on June 29, 1998 (Bates Nos. 100042-44, in particular 100043, paragraph 11) and the superintendent's June 29, 1998 memorandum to petitioner regarding the newly created school nurse position (Bates Nos. 10061-100062, in particular paragraph m), both reveal that the teaching of health was in fact not eliminated from the school nurse position.[2] Thus, the Board's argument that it abolished petitioner's school nurse position, which included both school nurse and health teaching responsibilities, and created two separate and distinct positions, one for school nurse and one for teaching health, is not supported by the record.

Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that, pursuant to Ellicott, supra, petitioner is entitled to tenure protection in all assignments within her tenurable position of school nurse, the endorsement and the job description for which, in the instant matter, included health instruction both prior and subsequent to the Board's RIF affecting petitioner's school nurse position. Therefore, under the facts of this matter, assigning the teaching of health to teaching staff members who possess less seniority is deemed to be violative of petitioner's tenure and seniority rights.

Further, the Commissioner is constrained to qualify the statement on page 46 of the Initial Decision in which the ALJ agrees with petitioner that "when a board of education initiates a RIF, it is obligated to aggregate the duties of the part-time position in order to provide full-time employment to the teaching staff member subjected to the RIF. Brueck, supra., Kojak, supra., McGlynn, supra., Laufenberg, supra." As to this, the Commissioner notes that each of the cases cited involved the rights of tenured staff to positions or assignments held by nontenured teaching staff members. The Commissioner also wishes to stress that where there does exist an obligation to aggregate assignments, such obligation is a general principle of law, not an absolute one. See, e.g., Taxman v. Piscataway Township Board of Education, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 189, a case involving a tenured teacher's claim to the assignments/classes of three part-time teachers. In Taxman, the Commissioner addressed the issue of a board's duty to attempt to aggregate assignments for a tenured staff member who is subject to a RIF, stating that:

[2] The June 29, 1998 school nurse job description, Bates No. 100043, paragraph 11, states that the school nurse "[t]eaches assigned health classes." The superintendent's June 29, 1998 letter to petitioner (Bates No. 100062, paragraph m), states that the school nurse will "additionally, when so assigned, provide instruction to students within the limitations of the school nurse endorsement."

> Likewise the Board knew or should have known that if it was shown that petitioner was qualified to teach the positions, she would be entitled to them unless the Board could demonstrate a compelling educational reason to defeat her tenure rights. See [Capodilupo, supra, Bednar, supra]. Moreover, while the law may still be "evolving" in the sense that there is no clear-cut formula to define when a tenured teacher's claim may be defeated because of the disruptive impact the accommodation of those rights may cause on the scheduling of courses or assignment of teachers to given classes, the law is not in the least new or unsettled that a tenured teacher has employment rights which must be given the utmost deference except when it can be demonstrated that the board would have to stand on its head to honor those rights. (citations omitted) (emphasis supplied) (Taxman at 195)

Finally, the Commissioner will address petitioner's allegations regarding a school nurse position being filled since 1998 with an individual who possesses only a county substitute certificate. Upon review of the record in the instant matter, the Commissioner agrees with petitioner's argument that Pennsville, supra, is applicable herein. In Pennsville, an individual with a county substitute certificate was employed by the board of education, ostensibly as a library aide, upon the retirement of its educational media specialist. However, the individual was found in fact not to be substituting for any teaching staff member. The Commissioner held that, "Contrary to the Board's urging, persons who hold substitute certificates are to be employed only in the manner prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5." (emphasis in text) Pennsville, supra, at 38. This admonition applies equally in instances such as herein, where a county substitute certificate is issued, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(h), to a holder of a valid New Jersey registered nurse license to substitute for a school nurse. As indicated in N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(c), county substitute certificates are intended only for persons temporarily performing the duties of a fully certificated and regularly employed teaching staff member. The county superintendent is, therefore, directed to determine whether or not all staff assigned to teach health since September 1998 in the Woodbine School District possessed appropriate instructional endorsements for teaching that subject.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's order that petitioner be reinstated to her school nurse position on a full-time basis and that she be provided all salary, emoluments and benefits to which she is entitled, less mitigation, to make her whole, including all proper pension credit, retroactive to September 1, 1998. The Commissioner also adopts the ALJ's denial of pre- and post-judgment interest, finding that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17, no basis has been established to warrant the former and a request for the latter is prematurely made. Finally, because of the concerns stated above with respect to the employment of an individual for two school years in a school nurse position who holds only a county certificate, the county superintendent is to determine forthwith if the District is complying with the mandates of N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LAWRENCE RANDOLPH,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:

For the Board, Mary E. Hennessy, Esq. (Murray, Murray & Corrigan)

Lawrence Randolph, Pro Se

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on July 19, 2000, through certification of tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, chronic and excessive absenteeism and excessive lateness and neglect of duties against a tenured custodian by the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on July 19, 2000, the certified copy having been signed for on July 22, 2000, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against him; and

Such notice clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will result in the charges being deemed admitted; and

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicate that respondent

1. On September 23, 1999 left the school during his lunch break and never returned. While on his lunch break, he attempted to purchase a controlled dangerous substance (heroin) and was arrested. He had previously failed a drug test administered by the Board and had been given an opportunity to rehabilitate himself and remain in his position.

2. During the 1999-2000 school year, during which respondent only worked from July 1, 1999 until September 24, 1999 (when he was suspended with pay), he was absent from work 24-1/2 days; during the 1998-99 school year he was absent a total of 43 days; during 1997-98 43 days; and during 1996-97 respondent used 19 sick days, of which 5 were unauthorized. Although counseled about his excessive absenteeism, both verbally and in writing, he failed to remedy the problem, which resulted in a significant negative impact on the delivery of custodial services to the Elizabeth schools; and

3. Respondent has been excessively late in arriving to begin performance of his duties, at least 6 times in 1998-99, 4 in 1997-98, 12 in 1996-97, and very often fails to call to inform his supervisor of his anticipated late arrivals, which are often in excess of one hour.

Having deemed such charges to be admitted by operation of rule, the Commissioner has determined, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, that respondent's actions constitute unbecoming conduct and chronic and excessive absenteeism warranting his dismissal from his tenured position; now, therefore

IT IS SO ORDERED this 30th day of August 2000 that Lawrence Randolph shall be dismissed from his tenured position as a custodian in the Board's employ as of the date of this order. *

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, a teaching staff member in respondent District and a law firm that represented the teacher in connection with civil and criminal matters arising from his employment as a teacher, sought reimbursement of legal fees for work performed in furtherance of his criminal defense.

The ALJ determined that, although another attorney primarily represented the teacher in the criminal proceedings, the petitioning firm "was of significant and critical assistance to" petitioning teacher's criminal defense, and that respondent therefore must reimburse the teacher for the fees for the criminal defense work performed by the firm. However, the ALJ determined that the requested fees should be reduced from $9,649.45 to $ 8,043.45 because a portion of the fees sought related to the civil defense work performed by the law firm, rather than the criminal defense work.

The Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ that the petitioning law firm significantly assisted Seabrook's criminal defense, which led to a successful resolution of the charges against him. Therefore, Seabrook is entitled, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, to reimbursement of the legal fees charged by the law firm from respondent. The Commissioner also agreed with the ALJ that the fees should be reduced because a portion of the funds sought were for the efforts expended in connection with the civil action, which are not compensable in this proceeding.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

Petitioner, a teacher employed by the Board of Education of the City of Trenton, seeks reimbursement for legal fees and disbursements totaling $9,649.45 from respondent pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*18A:16-6.1 in connection with his successful defense against criminal charges. Petitioner, through his attorney, Wills, O'Neill & Mellk, submitted a bill for legal services to respondent on March 26, 1998. By letter dated June 30, 1998, attorney for respondent notified petitioner's attorney that respondent denied the request for reimbursement. Petitioner then filed a petition on July 20, 1998. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 12, 1998, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) on August 27, 1998 and was scheduled for a hearing to be held on December 16, 1998. The hearing scheduled for December 16, 1998, was adjourned due to a scheduling conflict and was rescheduled for December 23, 1998. The hearing scheduled for December 23, 1998, was converted to a telephone status conference at the joint request of counsel due to witness unavailability. On that date, it was agreed that the matter would be rescheduled for June 23, 1999. In the meantime the parties agreed to submit affidavits and/or certifications and relevant documents to determine if the matter could be decided on the papers. After reviewing these submissions, the undersigned determined that an evidentiary hearing would be necessary. Accordingly, an Order Denying Summary Decision was entered on June 24, 1999.

The matter was rescheduled for hearing on December 20, 1999, and on that date a hearing was held and concluded. Through inadvertence, the record in this matter was not closed until June 2, 2000.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

1. Discussion of the Certifications submitted by the parties

This matter was previously the subject of a motion for summary decision. However, the affidavits and certifications submitted by the parties were found to be at odds in addressing relevant factual issues. Therefore, the motion for summary decision was denied and it was determined that it was necessary to take testimony and make factual determinations in order to decide: (1) whether the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm was retained by Mr. Seabrook to act as co-counsel for Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter; (2) whether the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm did, in fact, provide assistance to Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense counsel which led to the dismissal of the indictment against Mr. Seabrook, or whether it merely cooperated with the criminal defense attorney. In order to understand the substance of the testimony in this matter, a discussion of the certifications submitted by the parties is necessary.

In support of its contention that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement for legal fees of the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm, respondent submitted the affidavit of Katherine D. Hartman, Esq. (R-1). Ms. Hartman is an attorney at law of New Jersey and she specializes in criminal defense. She represented petitioner in connection with a criminal indictment which arose out of allegations by two minor students against Mr. Seabrook alleging second degree sexual assault and second degree endangering the welfare of a child (R-1, Exhibit A). As Mr. Seabrook's attorney, Ms. Hartman was successful in having the indictment dismissed based upon a ruling by Hon. Andrew J. Smithson, J.S.C. that one of the students was incompetent to testify (R-1, Exhibit B). The Mercer County prosecutor then moved to dismiss the indictment based upon the court's pretrial ruling that the child victim, P.F., was incompetent to testify and P.F.'s out of court statements were inadmissible. As a result, the quantity of the evidence was dramatically reduced and this adversely affected the quality of the evidence. Since the strength of the charges of assaulting another child was dependent on the strength of the P.F. case, it was requested that these additional charges also be dismissed. An Order dismissing the indictment was entered on December 14, 1997 (R-1).

Ms. Hartman indicated in her affidavit that she was the only attorney of record representing Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter and, to her knowledge was the only attorney notified by the court of status conferences and trial appearances in the criminal matter. At no time did any attorney from Wills, O'Neill and Mellk, appear at any criminal court proceeding as the attorney for Mr. Seabrook. At no time did any attorney for the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk advise her that Mr. Seabrook had retained their firm to assist her in his criminal defense.

Ms. Hartman indicated that Mr. Seabrook did advise her that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk was representing him in defense of a tenure charge that was pending before the Commissioner of Education. The tenure proceeding against Mr. Seabrook arose out of the same facts and circumstances upon which the criminal indictment was based.

Ms. Hartman indicated that during her representation of Mr. Seabrook she communicated with Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to discuss the status of their respective criminal and tenure charge matters and to share information.

Following the dismissal of the criminal charges against Mr. Seabrook, Ms. Hartman requested reimbursement of Mr. Seabrook's attorney fees and she was paid $14,112.52 for representing Mr. Seabrook. She was never under the impression that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk were co-counsel for Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter and she did not instruct or request anyone from Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to perform any work in preparation for Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense.

The Certification of G. Robert Wills, Esq. (P-1) identified the bill submitted to respondent on March 26, 1998 for services rendered to petitioner in this matter (P-1, Exhibit A). Mr. Wills indicated in his Certification that in the cover letter (P-1, Exhibit A) he explained that his firm assisted the law firm of Hartman, Nugent and Zamost in the pretrial preparation of the criminal case and handled some of the preliminary work on the civil suit contemplated by the children who were allegedly molested by Mr. Seabrook. In the letter submitting the bill to respondent, Mr. Wills indicated to Mr. Sumners that he did not believe there was any duplication of services with the Hartman firm.

Mr. Wills relied upon the documentation that was previously provided to respondent in discovery as demonstrating that his law firm cooperated extensively with the Hartman firm in preparing the criminal case for trial. Rather than making reference to each of these documents, Mr. Wills invited a review of the documentation (P-1, Exhibit C) in order to become aware of the nature of this cooperation.

The bill forwarded to respondent on March 26, 1998 (P-1, Exhibit A), indicates what the law firm did beginning on June 4, 1996, and concluding on December 22, 1997. He asserts that the bill is fairly detailed and he believes that a review of it will provide additional support for the contention that the law firm significantly assisted Ms. Hartman in the pretrial preparation of the criminal matter and that there was no unnecessary duplication of effort between his law firm and the Hartman firm.

Mr. Wills indicates that during the initial portion of the work of the law firm, Ms. Ratner performed most of the services on behalf of Mr. Seabrook, but in the spring of 1997, Ms. Ratner left the firm, following which he did the work. He also refers to a letter of April 2, 1997 (P-1, Exhibit D), sent to him by Ms. Hartman requesting reports of the law firm's investigation with respect to witnesses to be called. On April 7, 1997, he responded to Ms. Hartman's request and forwarded the reports that she wanted (P-1, Exhibit D).

Mr. Wills indicates that in all cases involving both criminal charges and tenure charges, the criminal charges must be resolved first because of fifth amendment issues. The fact that when the criminal charges are dismissed, a dismissal of the tenure charges often follows, has never caused his law firm not to be paid for work done on the criminal charges. He refers to another case involving Mr. Richard Cleghorn in which his firm also assisted Hartman, Nugent and Zamost and were paid for their participation in the matter by the Burlington County Board of Education.

Mr. Wills asserts in his Certification that a review of even a portion of the Hartman firm's correspondence to his firm reveals that the Hartman firm relied upon and appreciated the assistance of the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm. He refers to a letter from Ms. Hartman dated February 11, 1997 (P-1, Exhibit E), indicating that the trial had been scheduled and that it was her hope to use the information provided by his firm and gathered by their investigator, Kim Steiner-Out. Ms. Hartman also notified the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm that the matter had been scheduled for trial on July 28, 1997 and to mark their calendar accordingly (P-1, Exhibit F).

Mr. Wills indicates that the most recent entries on their bill for services clearly indicates that the law firm continued to provide assistance to the Hartman firm up until the pretrial dispositive motion before Judge Smithson, and he refers to entries beginning on December 5, 1997 through December 22, 1997, as describing the services rendered (P-1, Exhibit A).

The Certification of Kim Steiner-Out (P-2) indicates that she was retained by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk through the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) to conduct an investigation on behalf of Benjamin Seabrook. She performed that work from August 22, 1996 through December 1, 1997. Ms. Steiner-Out indicates that the position of respondent is totally inaccurate in that her work on behalf of Mr. Seabrook was exclusively devoted to the defense of his criminal charges and that she worked almost exclusively for the firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk, who then relayed the results of her investigation to the Hartman firm as part of their joint criminal defense of Ms. Seabrook. Ms. Steiner-Out indicates that she performed polygraph examinations of defendant Benjamin Seabrook for the exclusive purpose of assisting Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense. The entire focus of her work was relating to the criminal charges and not to the tenure charges and it is her belief that Ms. Ratner and Mr. Wills were focused exclusively on the criminal charges.

The Certification of Patricia L. Ratner, Esq. (P-3) indicates that from June 1996 into the Spring of 1997, she assisted in providing a criminal defense on behalf of Benjamin Seabrook who was the subject of an indictment. She specializes in criminal defense work and has represented NJEA members involving numerous criminal charges throughout New Jersey. Both Mr. Wills and she devoted themselves to the defense of criminal charges and they did very little, if any, work relating to tenure charges brought against NJEA members, including Mr. Seabrook. Rather, defense of tenure charges was normally performed by Arnold L. Mellk, Esq., almost always after the criminal charges had been resolved.

Ms. Ratner indicates that she submitted time slips encompassing her work in assisting the Hartman firm in providing Mr. Seabrook with the defense of the criminal charges in the form of conducting extensive pretrial investigation and preparation on his behalf. She reviewed the affidavit submitted by Katherine D. Hartman, Esq. and she emphatically disagrees in particular with paragraph 7 which alleges that at no time did any attorney from the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk advise her that Mr. Seabrook had retained their firm to assist her in his criminal defense; paragraph 12 wherein she insists that she was never under the impression that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk were co-counsel for Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter; and paragraph 13 to the effect that Ms. Hartman did not instruct or request anyone from Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to perform any work in preparation for Ms. Seabrook's criminal defense.

Ms. Ratner indicates that she coordinated the work of Kim Steiner-Out who was the only investigator in the case, and forwarded the results of this work to the Hartman firm, she oversaw the conducting of a polygraph examination of defendant Seabrook, she communicated with DYFS regarding its investigation of Mr. Seabrook, she relayed the information she obtained to the Hartman firm, and she oversaw the preliminary work done in defense of a possible civil action against Mr. Seabrook, which services are also compensable under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.

Finally, Ms. Ratner indicates that Mr. Seabrook was not only aware that the firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk was assisting in the defense of his criminal charges, but he specifically asked that the law firm provide such help. She indicates that to the best of her knowledge there was little, if any, duplication of the services rendered in his criminal defense.

The Certification of petitioner, Benjamin Seabrook indicates that while he was a teacher employed by the Trenton Board of Education he was charged in an indictment with various criminal charges relating to students of his at Stokes Elementary School. Under the auspices of his union, the NJEA, he was provided with the services of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to assist him in his defense in both the criminal and tenure charges. He refers to a legal services plan form which was to be attached, but there was no such attachment to his Certification. He asserts that the work relating to the criminal charge took precedence over anything to be done on the tenure charges.

Mr. Seabrook indicates that both Patricia L. Ratner, Esq., and G. Robert Wills, Esq., assisted him in the defense of the criminal charges beginning in June 1996 and concluding in December 1997, and they cooperated with the Hartman firm in this effort. There is no doubt in his mind that the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk assisted significantly in the preparation of his defense against the criminal charges. For example, they interviewed witnesses, oversaw the work of investigator Kim Steiner-Out, arranged and supervised his taking of two polygraph examinations that related only to the criminal charges, met with him numerous times on the criminal case, and kept him informed of progress with respect to the case.

2. Discussion of the testimony elicited at the hearing

Pursuant to the Order Denying Motion for Summary Decision, a hearing was held in order to make a record for the finding of disputed facts.

G. Robert Wills of the Wills, O'Neill & Mellk law firm, testified that he is an attorney at law of New Jersey and was admitted to the bar in 1971. In connection with the Benjamin Seabrook matter, Ms. Ratner who is a former assistant prosecutor, was the lead attorney in Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense. Mr. Wills indicated that under the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) Legal Service Plan, Arnold Mellk, Esq., who is his law partner, was assigned to assist Benjamin Seabrook in the criminal investigation. (Exhibit P-5, Exhibit A attached thereto). This was done on July 31, 1996. He personally assisted Ms. Ratner and they retained the assistance of Kim Steiner-Out as an investigator. Their law firm has used Ms. Steiner-Out as an investigator in approximately 10 to 20 cases.

Mr. Wills identified his letter of March 26, 1998, addressed to the Trenton Board of Education enclosing his law firm's bill for services rendered on behalf of Mr. Seabrook (P-1, Exhibit A). This bill includes investigator's fees of $1,863.68. Polygraph fees were paid directly by the NJEA, and this is only done in connection with a criminal matter. Mr. Wills indicated that he has never worked on a teacher tenure case in his life. In fact, he indicated that he is not sure whether he was aware of the tenure charges when he handled the criminal matter. He was not aware of Mr. Mellk representing Mr. Seabrook in the tenure case. However, Mr. Mellk was aware of the criminal proceeding. There was an authorization from the NJEA which provided for the law firm's retainer. Mr. Seabrook requested that the NJEA assist him and he understood that the Wills O'Neill and Mellk law firm was representing him in his criminal matter.

The indictment against Mr. Seabrook was dismissed in late 1997 or early 1998. The firm was then retained to defend Mr. Seabrook in civil claims. Mr. Wills became aware of Ms. Hartman's involvement in the criminal matter and the trial was to be conducted by the Hartman firm, but his firm was to handle certain aspects of the criminal case. For example, Ms. Hartman asked that Ms. Ratner subpoena certain witnesses, and she also obtained and delivered certain documents to Mr. Hartman. He referred to a letter from Francis J. Hartman Esq., dated October 10, 1996 (Exhibit P-1, letter number 7) in which Mr. Hartman discusses with Ms. Ratner a motion for consolidation of the indictment. He indicated that he does not know if any papers were filed by his law firm in connection with the criminal matter but he admitted that he did not make any appearance in the criminal proceeding. He testified that his law firm paid for the polygraphs and any transcripts. He is not sure if he sent a letter to the Board of Education with respect to the criminal matter.

Patricia R. Ratner, Esq., testified that she was employed by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk and that she represents teachers who have been accused of crimes. She indicated that she provided that representation on behalf of Mr. Seabrook in this matter. She testified that none of the bills submitted to respondent in this matter relate to the tenure charges. Mr. Seabrook did not want the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm to try his criminal case but he requested and she provided as much assistance as she could through the private investigator. Two polygraphs of Mr. Seabrook were authorized and she retained Kim Steiner-Out in order to investigate this matter. Ms. Ratner decided what people should be interviewed in connection with this investigation. It was she that stumbled upon a Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) witness, and she obtained a release of information with respect to this DYFS information and went to part of a Michaels hearing. She explained that a Michaels hearing is a criminal proceeding considering the competence of young witnesses to see if their testimony is tainted. All witness information was provided to Catherine D. Hartman, Esq. She disputes paragraph 13 of Ms. Hartman's certification of January 28, 1999 (R-1) in which Ms. Hartman indicates that she did not instruct or request anyone from Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to perform any work in preparation for Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense. She admitted that neither she nor the law firm appeared as counsel of record in the criminal matter, and she admitted that they were not co-counsel. However, it is absolutely impossible to say that she and the law firm were not involved in the criminal matter. The DYFS worker turned out to be a critical witness in Mr. Seabrook's successful criminal defense.

Ms. Ratner testified on cross-examination that she became involved in this matter in late Spring of 1996. This was in the pre-indictment phase. Mr. Seabrook was indicted a couple of months thereafter in August 1996. She was shown an NJEA claim form (R-3) which was used to apply for insurance coverage. She was assigned by the NJEA to handle a civil matter involving Mr. Seabrook as well. The only difference between this matter and the Richard Cleghorn matter involving the Burlington County Board of Education and the Hartman law firm was that in Cleghorn she was listed as counsel of record in the criminal matter because she made certain pretrial motions.

Kim Steiner-Out testified that she is a licensed private investigator and a certified polygraphist. She was an investigator for the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk firm and was a polygraphist in connection with Mr. Seabrook's criminal matter. She worked with Ms. Ratner and with Mr. Wills and located witnesses, interviewed witnesses and issued reports. These interviews were to determine what the witnesses would say in the criminal trial. She has worked with Wills, O'Neill and Mellk in criminal defense investigations in the past. She was not aware that there was a teacher tenure matter also pending.

Benjamin R. Seabrook testified that he was employed by the Trenton Board of Education as a music teacher. He had a relationship with Wills, O'Neill and Mellk and they assisted him in the defense of certain criminal charges brought against him. He was also represented by Ms. Hartman of another law firm. Ms. Steiner-Out is an investigator and he is aware that reports were provided by Ms. Steiner-Out to the Hartman firm. Any of his polygraph examinations were arranged by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk. There was never any question that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm was retained to assist him in his criminal defense.

Mr. Seabrook testified on cross-examination that he first contacted Wills, O'Neill and Mellk because his first attorney, Mike Barrett, Esq., was very busy. As a result he sought another attorney and he was recommended to Patty Ratner. He believes that he signed something to retain Wills, O'Neill and Mellk but is not sure what. He also went to the Hartman firm about the same time. He recalls vaguely letting Catherine Hartman know that he wanted Patty Ratner to work with her. He is sure that there was a letter that he wanted the two attorneys to work together. The tenure charges were also dismissed by way of a settlement and he returned to work in January 1998 after his indictment was dismissed in December 1997.

Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., testified that he is a partner in the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm and is a litigator with that firm. He testified that he generally does not do criminal defense work. He billed no time whatsoever on the criminal matter involving Mr. Seabrook. Tenure charges were filed against Mr. Seabrook in January 1997. No work on the tenure charges was done from June 1996 to January 1997. The NJEA provides legal services to its member and their law firm's real client is the NJEA. Mr. Seabrook is a member of the NJEA union and Mr.

Seabrook had to have made an application to the NJEA in order to have his law firm represent him. The investigation occurred just prior to the indictment.

On cross-examination, Mr. Mellk testified that he has seen the bill submitted to respondent previously. He admitted that at least two of the entries concern the civil action. He also indicated that the law firm is no longer representing Mr. Seabrook in the civil matter. He does not know if Mr. Seabrook is presently represented by an NJEA attorney.

Katherine Hartman Esq. testified that she is an attorney at law in the State of New Jersey and is with the firm of Hartman and Zamost, Chartered. Her specialty is criminal defense and labor law. She represented Benjamin Seabrook in a matter which arose out of his employment. He was indicted and she believes that she became involved with this case at the pre-indictment stage. She knows that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk also represented Benjamin Seabrook, but was her understanding that they represented him in his tenure matter and with respect to problems with his employment arising out of the tenure charge and indictment. She admitted that she was in touch with Patty Ratner and Bob Wills of the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk firm.

Ms. Hartman testified that the outcome of the criminal charges was that the indictment was dismissed. During the criminal proceedings she was the attorney of record and all court notices came to her. She appeared at the trial by herself. The Mellk office was very helpful because they had hired a private investigator. However, she had no co-counsel in the criminal matter and no one at Wills, O'Neill and Mellk ever told her that they considered themselves co-counsel. Wills, O'Neill and Mellk never consulted with her or instructed her concerning the law or strategy applicable to the criminal matter. There was a symbiotic relationship in that if either side acquired information they would share it with each other. Her law firm had a retainer agreement with Benjamin Seabrook and the Board of Education paid her attorney fees. She was paid $14,112.52 for handling the criminal defense.

Ms. Hartman subsequently became aware that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk had made a claim for payment in connection with the criminal defense. She never gave much thought to who was paying Wills, O'Neill and Mellk for their services. She spoke to Benjamin Seabrook about this case last week and he never indicated that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk was a criminal defense attorney on his behalf.

On cross-examination Ms. Hartman indicated that Mr. Seabrook had the right to seek other counsel to assist him (P-4, paragraph 5). She understood that Kim Steiner-Out was handling the civil matter. There were phone calls and correspondence back and forth between the Wills, O'Neil and Mellk law firm and her law firm.

On redirect-examination, Ms. Hartman indicated that she has been a criminal defense attorney for eight years and was not aware of any such arrangement as is being claimed by petitioner herein.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 provides for indemnity of employees upon a favorable final disposition of a criminal action. This statutory provision is as follows:

> Should any criminal action be instituted against any such person for any such act or omission and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse him for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 became effective January 11, 1968. The statement to the bill explained its purpose as follows:

> This bill also proposes legal help under limited circumstances in the event of a criminal action against an employee. The Board of Education will be required to reimburse the employee for defense costs and counsel fees, for the original hearing or trial, and for all appeals, provided the action is dismissed or results in a final disposition in favor of such employee. Employees who are found guilty would be responsible for paying their own expenses.

As the foregoing statement makes clear, the obvious purpose of the bill was to have the Board of Education pay for the legal expenses of the employee who has been successful in defending a criminal action, but let that employee be responsible for paying his or her own expenses when found guilty in a criminal proceeding. Compare this to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-155 providing similar rights to a police officer, who if a criminal proceeding is dismissed or determined in his favor, is to "be reimbursed for the expense of his defense." See Sekular v. Montgomery Township Bd. of Ed., Superior Court, Appellate Division, Dkt. No. A-000091-96 T1 (decided May 8, 1997) (unreported).

Attorney for respondent submitted a letter on respondent's behalf dated February 22, 1999 (R-2) in which he set forth the position of respondent in this matter. He indicated that respondent does not dispute the extensive work performed by the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk as identified in Mr. Wills' certification. He argues, however, that the fact that the work was performed does not justify an entitlement to have legal fees paid by the Board as the result of the dismissal of the criminal charges against petitioner. He asserts that tenure charges against petitioner were based upon the same facts and circumstances upon which the criminal indictment was based against petitioner. There is no dispute that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk were the only counsel of record for the administrative matter and they were apparently paid by Mr. Seabrook or his collective bargaining representative, NJEA. He asserts that any attorney providing legal services to a petitioner in the administrative matter would naturally have the need to work with and share information with the criminal defense attorney, relative to his administrative hearing defense. The information clearing him in one matter would further the goal to clear him of the tenure charges in the other matter. It is asserted that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm has not provided a copy of any retainer agreement between his firm and Mr. Seabrook demonstrating Mr. Seabrook's decision to retain his firm in the criminal matter. Additionally, there is no indication that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk were listed as attorneys of record in the criminal matter. Cooperation with the criminal defense attorney does not establish that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk represented petitioner in the criminal matter.

Attorney for respondent also argues that the claim by petitioner that the law firm is entitled to payment of counsel fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6, with respect to the civil suit brought against Mr. Seabrook is not an issue in this matter since the petition of appeal does not seek payment of fees for a civil defense. Finally, he asserts that there is no entitlement for payment of counsel fees in successful defenses of tenure charges.

The position of respondent at the hearing was that Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense attorney and the Board of Education were not aware of any relationship between Benjamin Seabrook and Wills, O'Neill and Mellk. He argued that the testimony of Katherine Hartman was more credible. There was no retainer or other evidence of retention of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk by Mr. Seabrook in connection with the criminal proceeding. On the other hand, there was a retainer agreement between Ms. Hartman and Benjamin Seabrook. He also argued that Ms. Ratner acknowledged some working connection with the civil suit and there are numerous references in the bill to the civil suit. He indicated that Mr. Seabrook did not truly know what was going on.

Attorney for petitioner argued that the reimbursement statute has never been used to prevent reimbursement for legal assistance in a criminal matter. He pointed out that Mr. Seabrook stated that he hired Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to represent him in connection with the criminal matter. He argued that the key is what is it that the client wishes or intends. No prior approval of a Board of Education is required for reimbursement. There was also no tenure case going on during this entire time. He argued that the services for the civil action were peripheral and that Mr. Seabrook and the union has the right to be reimbursed. There is nothing in the record which establishes that there was any duplication of services. He also indicated that there is nothing in the record to show that the services were not provided by the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm.

As I previously indicated, this matter was the subject of a motion for summary decision. As a result of my review of the affidavits and certifications submitted by the parties I found that because the affidavits and certifications addressing the relevant factual issues were at odds, it was necessary to take testimony and make factual and, if necessary, credibility determinations. Therefore, I denied the motion for summary decision on the basis that certain critical facts are in dispute. Thus, I felt that it was necessary to decide the following issues: (1) whether the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm was retained by Mr. Seabrook to act as co-counsel for Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter; (2) whether the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm did, in fact, provide assistance to Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense counsel which led to the dismissal of the indictment against Mr. Seabrook, or whether it merely cooperated with the criminal defense attorney. Mere cooperation does not establish that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk represented the petitioner in the criminal matter.

In this matter, I have the undisputed testimony of petitioner, Benjamin R. Seabrook that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm assisted him in the defense of the criminal charges brought against him and that he was also represented by another law firm. He indicated that there was never any question that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk was retained to assist him in his criminal defense. He believes he signed something to retain Wills, O'Neill and Mellk, but is not sure what.

I have also been provided with the Certification of Mr. Seabrook which indicates that under the auspices of his union, the NJEA, he was provided with the services of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to assist him in his defense in both the criminal and tenure charges. He refers to a legal services plan form and he asserts that the work relating to the criminal charge took precedence over anything to be done on the tenure charges. Mr. Seabrook also indicates that both Patricia L. Ratner, Esq., and G. Robert Wills, Esq., assisted him in the defense of the criminal charges beginning in June 1996 and concluding in December 1997, and they cooperated with the Hartman firm in this effort. There is no doubt in his mind that the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk assisted significantly in the preparation of his defense against the criminal charges. They interviewed witnesses, oversaw the work of investigator Kim Steiner-Out, arranged and supervised his taking of polygraph examinations that related only to the criminal charges, met with him numerous times concerning the criminal case, and kept him informed of progress with respect to the case.

Mr. Wills relied upon the documentation provided to respondent in discovery as demonstrating that his law firm cooperated extensively with the Hartman firm in preparing the criminal case for trial (P-1, Exhibit C). He testified that his firm was to handle certain aspects of the criminal case and that Ms. Ratner, and he performed this work.

Ms. Ratner testified that she was employed by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk in order to represent teachers who have been accused of crimes and that she provided that representation on behalf of Mr. Seabrook in this matter. She testified that none of the bills submitted to respondent in this matter relate to the tenure charges. Mr. Seabrook did not want the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm to try his criminal case but he requested that she provide as much assistance as she could through the private investigator, and she did so. It was Ms. Ratner who stumbled upon a DYFS witness and obtained a release of this DYFS information and went to part of a Michaels hearing. All witness information was provided to Katherine D. Hartman, Esq. She disputes Ms. Hartman's certification of January 28, 1999 (R-1) in which she indicates that she did not instruct or request anyone from Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to perform any work in preparation for Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense. She asserted that it is absolutely impossible to say that she and the law firm were not involved in the criminal matter. The DYFS worker turned out to be a critical witness in Mr. Seabrook's successful criminal defense.

Ms. Steiner-Out testified that she was an investigator for the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk firm and was a polygraphist in connection with Mr. Seabrook's criminal matter. She worked with Ms. Ratner and with Mr. Wills and located and interviewed witnesses and issued reports. These interviews were to determine what the witnesses would say in the criminal trial. She has worked with Wills, O'Neill and Mellk in criminal defense investigations in the past. She was not even aware that there was a teacher tenure matter also pending.

The only testimony disputing the foregoing was that of Katherine D. Hartman, Esq., the attorney of record in the criminal proceeding. Her testimony was to the effect that it was her understanding that Wills, O'Neal and Mellk represented Seabrook only in the tenure matter and with respect to problems with his employment arising out of the tenure charge and indictment. She further indicated that during the criminal proceedings she was the attorney of record and all court notices came to her and she appeared at the trial by herself. She had no co-counsel of record in the criminal matter and no one at the Wills law firm ever told her that they considered themselves co-counsel. They never consulted with her or instructed her concerning the criminal proceeding. She also indicated that Mr. Seabrook never told her that the Wills firm was a criminal defense attorney on his behalf. She admitted that she was in touch with the Wills law firm and that she never gave much thought to who was paying the Wills law firm.

However, the facts in this matter clearly show that the assistance of the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm and, in particular, the investigation directed by Ms. Ratner and undertaken by the private investigator retained by the Wills law firm was a significant and substantial reason for Mr. Seabrook's successfully defending the criminal case. The undisputed testimony of Patricia Ratner, Esq. was that Mr. Seabrook requested and she provided as much assistance as she could in the criminal matter through the private investigator. Ms. Ratner arranged polygraphs of Mr. Seabrook and it was she who stumbled upon a DYFS witness and obtained the release of information which was essential in the criminal defense. The DYFS worker found by the Wills law firm turned out to be a critical witness in Mr. Seabrook's successful criminal defense.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm was retained by Benjamin Seabrook to act as an attorney for Mr. Seabrook in the criminal matter. I FIND that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm did not merely cooperate with the criminal defense attorney, but was of significant and critical assistance to Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense counsel which led to the dismissal of the indictment against Mr. Seabrook. Based on these findings, I FIND that the Wills, O'Neill and Mellk law firm participated in Mr. Seabrook's criminal defense action and, therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Board of Education is responsible for reimbursing petitioner Benjamin Seabrook for the legal fees and disbursements incurred by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the law firm.

It is noted, and it was in fact admitted by Mr. Wills and Mr. Mellk that certain entries in the bill of March 27, 1998 relate to a pending civil proceeding. I FIND that the billing entries for the following dates relate to an anticipated civil suit: July 31, 1996, 0.50 hours and 1 hour (2 entries); August 1, 1996, 0.25 hours; August 2, 1996, 0.30 hours; August 7, 1996, 0.25 hours; August 16, 1996, 0.25 hours; August 23, 1996, 0.25 hours; September 6, 1996, 0.60 hours; October 30, 1996, 1.25 hours; February 4, 1997, 0.40 hours; and December 11, 1997, 1.50 hours; totaling 6.55 hours. Accordingly, I FIND that these entries and the billing for this time should be deducted from the total bill, and that the total bill should be reduced by $1,606.00 to $8,043.45.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the respondent Board of Education of the City of Trenton is responsible for reimbursing petitioner Benjamin Seabrook for the legal fees and disbursements incurred by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the law firm totaling $8043.45.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions, timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were duly considered by the Commissioner in making his determination herein.

Upon his independent consideration and review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings that Benjamin Seabrook retained the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk to assist in the defense of the criminal charges lodged against him, and that, in particular, the pre-trial investigative work undertaken by the firm "was of significant and critical assistance" to the successful defense of the criminal action. (Initial Decision at 17) Consequently, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, the Board is obligated to reimburse Mr. Seabrook for the legal fees and costs incurred by Wills, O'Neill and Mellk for work performed in connection with the defense of these charges. Finally, the Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ that Wills, O'Neill and Mellk's $9,649.45 invoice to the Board, dated March 27, 1998, for services rendered on behalf of Mr. Seabrook, must be reduced by $1,606, representing billing entries attributable to services rendered with respect to a pending civil action, since these charges are not recoverable in this proceeding.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein. The Board of Education of the City of Trenton is hereby directed to reimburse Petitioner Benjamin Seabrook $8,043.45, representing counsel fees and costs incurred by the law firm of Wills, O'Neill and Mellk for efforts it expended in defense of the favorably resolved criminal charges against him.

Record Closed: July 12, 2000 Decided: July 13, 2000

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case involves whether petitioners were "domiciled" in the district served by the respondent Bordentown Township Regional Board of Education (BOE), T.P.'s right to attend the BOE's high school and the BOE's claim for tuition for T.P.'s attendance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. As shown by the attached Stipulation of Settlement, the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the BOE held a hearing during which it considered whether petitioners were domiciled in the district; petitioners were afforded an opportunity to be heard, etc.; and the BOE determined that petitioners were not so domiciled. The BOE then notified petitioners of its determination and that it would exclude T.P. from its schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). By letter filed with the Department on December 5, 1999, petitioners appealed from the BOE's determination. By letter dated December 9, 1999, the Department, citing N.J.S.A.18A:38-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq., notified petitioners that their letter required a verification and proof of service to go forward as an appeal. On January 31, 2000, the petition, verification, etc., were filed with the Department. On February 8, 2000, the BOE's answer was filed with the Department of Education and the Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 2, 1999. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The case scheduled for a hearing beginning on May 2, 2000 in the OAL, Trenton and, on that day was subject to a settlement conference. On the record closed date, I received the attached Stipulation of Settlement.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND
CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This case involves complicated factual, legal and policy issues: Petitioner S.B. and her husband own a home in the school district served by the BOE. Petitioners resided there and T.P. was a student in the BOE's school system. However, S.B. alleges that, as a result of domestic violence perpetrated by her husband, she and T.P., a tenth grade student, were forced to flee from their home and temporarily reside with S.B.'s parents in a neighboring district, intending to return to the home, i.e., to the district. As noted above, the BOE disputed petitioners' domicile, etc.

The parties have settled this case, as shown by the attached Stipulation of Settlement.

The parties have voluntarily and intelligently entered into the settlement and thereby avoided potentially protracted and expensive litigation and the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law, meeting the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and I approve it.

ORDERS

I ORDER the parties to comply with the Stipulation of Settlement and ORDER this case transmitted back to the Department of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6455-00

M.D. AND E.D., PARENTS, ON BEHALF OF J. D., A MINOR CHILD,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BUENA, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

M. D., petitioner of J.D., petitioner, appearing pro se

Michael D. Capizola, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 28, 2000 Decided: August 28, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ

M.D., the parent and legal guardian of J.D., a minor child appeals from an action by the Board of Education of the Borough of Buena (Board) to exclude J.D. from all school extracurricular activities for the 2000-2001 school year. M.D. filed a Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) seeking emergent relief of his claims against the Board. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Oral argument on the Emergent Petition of Appeal and the Board's defenses was heard on August 28, 2000, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on August 28, 2000.

Petitioner brings this matter before the Commissioner and, thus, the OAL under the provisions for emergent relief found at N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. Oral argument was heard by the undersigned and finds relevant facts giving rise to the instant matter are not in dispute.

During the 1999-2000 school year J.D. was a 9th grade student at Buena Regional High School. In or about April 2000, J.D., along with three other students, constructed a web site on the internet in which they published threatening, profane and derogatory material concerning a high school mathematics teacher. A plenary hearing was held on May 4, 2000, before the Board and a court reporter. The transcript of the proceedings show that J.D. contributed a number of the line drawings which commented on daily happenings in the teacher's class. Many of the drawings were innocuous, however, several of the drawings contained obscene language and were derogatory to the teacher. One drawing depicted a student in the air conditioning ducts with a rifle. (R-1, p. 36). The web site was linked to another web site which contained very abusive language and interactive "games" which permitted visitors to the web site to shoot at or hit scanned photos of the teacher resulting in graphic injury to the teacher's photograph. J.D. admitted on the record before the Board that he made the line drawings of the teacher and classroom events and contributed to the web sites. He later pleaded guilty to a juvenile delinquency charge of harassment in municipal court.

The Board, after deliberation, adopted the resolution, which suspended J.D. for the remainder of the 1999-2000 school year and barred him from sports and extracurricular activities for the 2000-2001 school year. He was also required to sign an agreement governing his behavior before being readmitted.

The teacher depicted on the web site was so upset that she was unable to return to teaching for the balance of the school year. The student was given home instruction, which ended on or about August 1, 2000.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's Argument

Petitioner argues, among other things, that it is ridiculous to punish a child in the manner the Board has imposed upon J.D. Petitioner argues that any professional would deem the punishment of excluding J.D. from extracurricular activities to be counter productive. He asserts that the extracurricular programs keep children out of trouble.

Petitioner admits, however, that the testimony of J.D. and others at the Board's plenary hearing was true and accurate. He challenges the penalty of J.D.'s exclusion from participating in any school extracurricular activity for the whole of the 2000-2001 school year.

Petitioner argues that such an exclusion, including sports, will do irreparable harm for J.D.'s future education.

The Board's Argument

When an administrative agency, such as a local board of education, acts within its authority, its decision is "entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable." Thomas v. Board of Education of Morris Township, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294, (App. Div. 1960). Moreover, a reviewing Court or agency will not substitute its independent judgment for that of a Board, where the Board's findings are supported by substantial evidence, i.e., evidence which a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support the Board's conclusion. Quinlan v. Board of Education of North Bergen Township, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46

(App. Div. 1962). The Board's decision to suspend J.D. from the Buena Regional High School and bar him from extracurricular activities was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Accordingly, the Petition and Motion to Stay filed by petitioner should be dismissed. In the present matter, the Board made the decision to exclude J.D. from extracurricular activities after taking of testimony. The testimony included implied threats to the teachers, profanity and a general disregard for the rules and policies of the Buena Regional High School. Based upon the testimony of the graphic record, the Board was within its discretion to impose the penalty it did.

In F. McB. v. Board of Education of the Township of Washington, 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 298, the court upheld a local school board suspension of a student from school activities as a reasonable exercise of the Board's authority. The court held that, "The actions of the Board and its agents were reasonable in that the application of discipline in this matter was directly related to the good order and best interests of the school and school activities." Id. at 306. The Commissioner adopted the court's decision and stated that "The Board's application of discipline was rationally related to the good order and best interests of the school and to the particular conduct exhibited by [the suspended student]." Id. Furthermore, in Barna v. Irvington Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 345, the Commissioner held that, "It is axiomatic that when a local Board of Education acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and may not be disturbed absent a finding that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Id. at 347.

In the present case, petitioner has failed to allege that respondent's conduct was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. J.D. has failed to refute to any of the evidence which was placed before the Board and has not denied that J.D. engaged in all of the conduct which was testified to before the Board.

In order to prevail on an application for a preliminary injunction, an applicant must establish that: (1) he will suffer irreparable injury if the relief sought is denied; (2) his claim is based upon a settled legal right; (3) the material facts are substantially undisputed; and (4) the harm to him if the injunction is denied will be greater than the harm to the resisting party if the injunction is granted. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); Ispahani v. Allied Domecq Retail;

320 N.J. Super. 494 (App. Div. 1999). Petitioner has failed to meet the four prongs of Crowe and Ispahani and is therefore not entitled to injunctive relief in this matter.

As to the first of the four prong test, J.D. will not suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief if not granted. Petitioner cannot argue that J.D. will be denied a public education. J.D. will receive a public education by returning to school in September. Extracurricular activities are not a necessary part of the educational process.

As to the second prong of the test, petitioner cannot argue that the legal right underlying J.D.'s claim is settled because entitlement to a public education is settled as a matter of law. Again, respondent must clarify that J.D. will be receiving an education. J.D. is not being removed from school. J.D. merely appears to be dissatisfied with not being involved with the extracurricular activities and executing an agreement. This is not sufficient to meet the test for issuance of preliminary injunction.

For the third prong articulated in Crowe and Ispahani, petitioner must show a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. Petitioner has failed to argue that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. As articulated above, the decision of the Board cannot be disturbed unless it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. As the moving party, the burden is upon petitioner to show why the Board's actions should be disturbed. Petitioner has failed to even make such an argument. Accordingly, petitioner has failed to meet the third prong of Crowe and Ispahani.

Lastly, the Court must consider whether the harm to J.D. would be greater if the injunction is denied than the harm would be to the Buena Regional High School if the injunction were granted. A cursory review of the testimony presented before the Board proves that respondent may suffer greater harm if J.D. is returned to the Buena Regional High School without restriction. J.D. has harassed a teacher and has engaged in derogatory, threatening and abusive conduct with other students. All of these actions pose a great risk of harm to the Buena Regional High School staff and students should J.D. be permitted to return to the high school without restriction pending a decision by the Commissioner. To the contrary, there is no risk of harm to petitioner. There are no Certifications, Statement of Facts, Verifications or Affidavits to support the allegations. It must again be stressed that petitioner, as the moving parties, have the burden of proving to this Honorable Court why injunctive relief should be granted. Petitioner have failed to make the showing required under Crowe and Ispahani and, therefore, has failed to meet their burden.

Accordingly, for all of the reasons contained herein, it is respectfully requested that petitioner Petition and Motion for stay be denied and that this matter be dismissed.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDER

Having carefully reviewed and considered the entire record before me, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to carry his burden of proof that the Board's disciplinary action against J.D. will cause irreparable harm to J.D., Crowe, supra.; Ispahani, supra. Too the contrary, irreparable harm was visited upon the teacher who was the subject and target of J.D.'s drawings. As the Honorable Bruce Campbell, ALJ observed in the matter of F. McB., supra.:

> Pupils must submit to the authority of teaching staff members and must comply with the rules that have been established by law for the governance of their schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1. Each district board of education is empowered by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 to make, amend, and repeal rules for the management of the schools in the district. The same statute authorizes boards of education to perform all acts and to do all things, consistent with the law, necessary to proper conduct of the schools of the district. It is not possible to reduce to writing every possible situation that might subject a pupil to punishment. However, any act may subject a pupil to punishment where the act is detrimental to good order and to the best interest of the school or where it adversely affects school discipline. 79 C.J.S. Schools and School Districts §496 at 455. Id. at 306.

The acts by J.D. subject him to sever disciplinary penalties. In the instant matter, J.D.'s exclusion from extracurricular activities for one school year. J.D. must be accountable for his behavior and actions. The penalty imposed by the Board is, in the judgment of this tribunal, fair and just under the circumstances.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal for Emergent Relief is hereby DENIED and the Petition is DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioning teacher sought reinstatement of his salary increment for the 1998-1999 school year. The increment was withheld based on the "less than satisfactory performance" of petitioner.

After conducting a hearing, the ALJ determined that petitioner failed to properly assess the needs and evaluate the progress of his pupils, failed to exhibit effective instructional techniques expected of an experienced special education teacher and failed to employ effective organization and planning. Based on this determination, the ALJ concluded that the District properly acted within its discretionary authority in withholding petitioner's salary increment and recommended dismissal of the petition.

The Commissioner found no cause to disturb the findings of fact, credibility determinations and conclusions of the ALJ, and concurred with the ALJ's determination that petitioner failed to meet his burden. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City ("District") to withhold his salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Initially this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on August 31, 1998. Count 9 of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, John Elik. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. On October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Elik case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3819-99, on March 21, 2000. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Background Information

Most of the relevant background information is undisputed. John Elik has been a special education teacher in the Jersey City public schools for thirteen years. He has been a special education teacher at P.S. 15 for eight years. He holds art education and teacher of the handicapped certificates. During the 1997-98 school year he taught a self-contained special education class of students classified as neurologically impaired at P.S. 15. There were approximately ten, ten-year-old students in his class, who functioned between grades one and two. A teacher's aide was assigned to him.

During the 1997-98 school year, Elik was formally observed on at least four separate occasions. Roxanne M. Johnson, supervisor of special education, visited the classroom for 45 minutes on September 25, 1997. Annie Graham, principal, spent 45 minutes in Elik's classroom on October 3, 1997, and 50 minutes on November 5, 1997. In addition, evaluator Ronnie Bassman observed Elik's classroom for one hour on April 8, 1998. As a result of these observations, and other less formal contacts throughout the year, the District determined to withhold Elik's 1998-99 employment and adjustment increments for a "less than satisfactory performance." Although during at least one observation (October 3, 1997) by Annie Graham, she was critical of all of the performance factors, the majority of the observations remained dominantly critical of Elik's assessment of the needs of and evaluation of the progress of his pupils, as well as his lack of effective organization and planning. In addition, his ability to utilize effective instructional techniques was criticized by two separate administrators. These perceived deficiencies will be discussed under separate headings.

(1) Assesses Needs and Evaluates Progress of Pupils

Roxanne M. Johnson has been employed as a supervisor of special education since 1992-93. Previously, she was the school psychologist for the child study team. She has a doctorate in psychology from Rutgers University. On September 25, 1997, Dr. Johnson found petitioner to be in need of improvement in the area of assessing the needs and evaluating the progress of the pupils. Of import, she indicated that although his plan book was current, it did not indicate the homework for the date. Although the majority of the entries had a "SWAT" and method, there was no reference to the text to be used. She further indicated that a variety of thinking levels were not indicated, such as the levels in Bloom's Taxonomy. She further indicated that the lessons in the various content areas all followed a similar pattern and there was not much diversity in teaching styles. She therefore concluded that Elik was in need of improvement in this area. Dr. Johnson opined that the students' needs were not being met because petitioner was not using a variety of teaching strategies.

Annie Graham, who is currently the principal of P.S. 12 and was the principal of P.S. 15 during the 1997-98 school year, has been employed by the District for twenty-one years. She has served in various capacities with the District and is certified as a teacher of the handicapped. On October 3, 1997, she found Elik to be unsatisfactory in the area of assessing needs and evaluating progress of pupils. She indicated that this was basically due to poor planning. Since he did not properly plan out each activity for his students, he could not meet their individual needs. She opined that Elik should plan activities and sequential steps to assist the students. She believed that some of the discipline problems he had with his students were due in part to his poor planning. Since he did not monitor the students, he was not able to properly assess their strengths and weaknesses.

Ms. Graham conducted another evaluation on November 5, 1997, and concluded that the area of assessing students' needs and evaluating their progress still needed improvement. More time should have been spent on vocabulary words, and the homework assignment was missing. Although she opined that Elik could plan a lesson thoroughly, she believed that his problem was consistency. The activities should have been in the plans.

Although evaluator Ronnie Bassman did not testify at the hearing, her observation report of Mr. Elik's performance on April 8, 1998, indicated that he was still in need of improvement in the area of assessing needs and evaluating progress.

Elik, who testified on his own behalf, contended that he wrote the homework assignment in his plan book in the upper left-hand corner and utilized learning centers. He admitted that on certain days he forgot to list the homework. Elik indicated that he assessed the students' tests, watched the students go through the problems and kept informal assessments separately in packets at his desk.

I FIND that Elik failed to properly assess the needs and evaluate the progress of his pupils, essentially by failing to properly plan activities for his students that would meet their individual needs.

(2) Utilizes Effective Instructional Techniques

Dr. Johnson concluded that petitioner failed to utilize effective instructional techniques and was in need of improvement in that area. More particularly, on September 25, 1997, he did not utilize a variety of teaching techniques. His presentation was on a factual level and then the students had to give the information back to the teacher. Dr. Johnson wanted him to use other teaching strategies. Also, she wanted him to incorporate learning centers to enhance the educational experience of the students, which she contended he did not do. She opined that special education students do better with project-based tasks than with a traditional approach.

On redirect examination, Johnson referred to petitioner's failure to assess the needs and evaluate the progress of the students. She indicated that if petitioner had assessed the needs of each student there would have been a wider variety of instructional techniques employed.

Annie Graham agreed with this assessment when she observed petitioner on October 3, 1997. She indicated that his instructional technique needed improvement because basically petitioner failed to plan and prepare what he would teach. He "winged it," and should have established extra activities for the students. However, it is to be noted that following her next evaluation of petitioner, on November 5, 1997, she concluded that his utilization of effective instructional techniques was satisfactory. It was also satisfactory when he was evaluated by Ronnie Bassman on April 8, 1998.

Elik contended that the lessons he taught were consistent with his plan for the day. Noting the importance of planning, he indicated that throughout the year he added more and more detail to his plan book. Moreover, Elik indicated that he was not aware until the end of the year that his increment was in jeopardy. He contended that he was evaluated by a Mr. Smith after November 5 (after Christmas or early spring). Although it was a formal evaluation, he never received the results of it. He thought it was a good lesson. He could not recall being evaluated by Ms. Bassman. The District found no additional evaluations from a Mr. Smith.

I FIND, based on the evaluations of petitioner, that petitioner failed to exhibit effective instructional techniques expected from an experienced special education teacher. Due to his failure to plan, he did not utilize the requisite instructional techniques; he failed to utilize a sufficient variety of teaching techniques, including learning centers.

(3) Failure to Employ Effective Organization and Planning

Roxanne Johnson found the area of employing effecting organization and planning to be satisfactory when she observed Elik on September 25, 1997. However, Annie Graham found petitioner to be unsatisfactory in this area when she observed him on October 3, 1997, and in need of improvement in this area when she observed him on November 5, 1997. Further, Ronnie Bassman found petitioner to be in need of improvement in this area when she observed him on April 8, 1998.

Specifically, Annie Graham opined that Elik was clearly unsatisfactory in this area. Her basic objection to his teaching was that petitioner was not organized and did not properly plan. Thus, petitioner looked for things to do with his students and there was a lot of time "off task." She wanted petitioner to write detailed lesson plans and to prepare the materials in advance to avoid wasting time. Following her second observation, on November 5, 1997, she concluded that he continued to need improvement in this area. His plan book did not identify homework or specific details about the reading lessons. The lesson completed by Elik had not been recorded in his plan book as taught. Graham reiterated that Elik must write detailed plans. Due to his inconsistency in planning, he wasted a lot of time and, as a result, his ability to discipline suffered. Ronnie Bassman, who observed Elik on April 8, 1998, also concluded that Elik was in need of improvement in this area.

I FIND that Elik failed to employ effective organization and planning. He failed to write the requisite details in his plan book and thus could not effectively teach the students.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Elik's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative, which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of providing unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Petitioner argued that there was a serious question as to the motives and credibility of at least one of the evaluators, Ms. Graham. Petitioner contended that much of her testimony was questionable as to its veracity and that it was her unsupported subjective view that led to the denial of petitioner's increment. He claimed that the evaluators created their own standards. Petitioner further alleged that the criteria and requirements were not made clear to him and also were not clear to Ms. Graham. Graham critiqued him based not upon an objective district-wide criteria, but upon her own personal views of what an art teacher should do. Petitioner further claimed that he was not advised or properly trained on how to maintain plan books.

I have considered petitioner's arguments and CONCLUDE that the evidence simply does not substantiate his contentions. I cannot agree that Ms. Graham's motive was questionable and that her testimony was insincere. Rather, I FOUND Ms. Graham's testimony to be credible and worthy of belief. Moreover, I cannot conclude that the teaching requirements were not made clear to him and were not clear to his evaluators. Rather, petitioner was advised as to what was required of him. If he had any questions, he could have utilized the help of his evaluators or supervisors. The alleged deficiencies in his teaching skills were not the result of the District's failure to properly train or prepare him for his assignment. Moreover, his experience as a teacher should have allowed him to properly prepare to teach the class to which he was assigned. Clearly, he should have possessed the requisite expertise to rectify the situation.

Here the underlying facts were substantiated by the testimony of two qualified educational experts. Elik failed to meet District standards in at least three important measures of teaching performance: assessing needs and evaluating progress of pupils, employing effective organization and planning, and utilizing effective instructional techniques. Under the circumstances, petitioner has not succeeded in showing that the Board's decision to withhold his salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on March 21, 2000, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision. As noted therein, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. See, Kopera, supra. Finding no cause to disturb the findings of fact, credibility determinations and conclusions of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet his burden.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

HEARING OF ELAUGH BUTLER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning District filed tenure charges against respondent teaching staff member alleging conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, and sought termination of her employment. The charges were based on respondent's participation in a scheme to defraud the State Health Benefits Program. Prior to the hearing of this matter, respondent was convicted of crimes of the second and third degree which involved dishonesty. As part of her sentence, respondent's public employment with the State-operated School District of the City of Newark was forfeited.

Based on the forfeiture of respondent's public employment, the ALJ concluded that this matter was moot and entered an Initial Decision dismissing the case as moot.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that this matter was rendered moot when respondent's public employment was forfeited. Petition was dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ELAUGH BUTLER, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,

---

Philip E. Stern, Esq., for Petitioner School District (Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Dwayne D. Warren, Esq., for Respondent Butler (Warren & Tosi, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 7, 2000 Decided: July 14, 2000

BEFORE THOMAS R. VENA, ALJ:

Petitioner, State Operated School District of the of the City of Newark, brought tenure charges against Respondent, Elaugh Butler, alleging conduct unbecoming a teacher so as to require that her employment be terminated. The charges were predicated upon Respondent's intentional participation in a scheme to defraud the State Health Benefits Program (SHBP) by conspiring with Dr. Carl H. Lichtman (Lichtman) to submit claims for psychological services reportedly rendered. According to Petitioner, Respondent allegedly provided information required and utilized to submit fraudulent claims to the insurance carrier for payment for psychological services. Respondent, it is alleged, received a share of the fees collected.

The charges were promulgated and served on Respondent on October 30, 1996. Respondent was duly notified of her right to submit a statement of position and evidence within fifteen days. The charges were certified on June 20, 1997. An answer was filed on August 11, 1997 and the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 2, 1997. The matter was assigned to then Administrative Law Judge and now Superior Court Judge Sebastian Gaeta and scheduled for hearing in October 1997.

Respondent's pay was apparently either reinstated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 or about to be reinstated when the attorney for the Respondent requested an adjournment in order to at first deal with a scheduling conflict and subsequently requested that the matter be placed on the inactive list for six months pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.7. Due to the then unresolved criminal charges related to the proceedings, the requested stay was granted by Order of Judge Gaeta dated October 27, 1997. As a result of the request of her attorney, Respondent agreed to waive her right to be paid during the period that the matter was on the inactive list.

Following Judge Gaeta's ascension to the Superior Court bench, the within matter was reassigned to the undersigned on June 14, 1999. A pre-hearing conference took place on August 18, 1999 and a pre-hearing order was entered that date setting a December 1999 hearing date. Shortly before the scheduled hearing date, a request to adjourn those dates was made and granted due to the continuing pendency of the criminal proceedings. Hearing dates in May 2000 were scheduled.

On May 5, 2000, Respondent was convicted of crimes of the second and third degree which involved dishonesty. Those convictions occurring before the scheduled hearing date, but with sentencing scheduled subsequent to the May hearing dates, the parties once again requested an adjournment which was granted. A July 19, 2000 hearing date was scheduled.

On June 23, 2000, Respondent was sentenced by the Hon. Donald R. Venezia, J.S.C. As part of that sentence, Judge Venezia entered an Order dated June 23, 2000 forfeiting the employment of Respondent with the School District of the City of Newark. Under cover of letter dated July 5, 2000, the foregoing forfeiture Order was forwarded to the undersigned by the attorney for the Petitioner for appropriate action. No response has been received from the Respondent or her attorney.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, governing forfeiture of employment for public employees, states in pertinent part:

> A person holding any public office, position, or employment, elective or appointed, under the government of the State or any agency or any political subdivision thereof, who is convicted of an offense shall forfeit such office or position if:
>
> He is convicted under the laws of the State of an offense involving dishonesty or of a crime of the third degree or above . . .
> A court of this State shall enter an order of forfeiture . . . immediately upon of finding of guilt by the trier of fact or a plea of guilty entered in any court of this State . . . .

As directed by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2B(1), Judge Venezia entered the Order forfeiting Respondent's employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2a(1) and (2). That Order is binding upon this tribunal and can only be reversed via the order of the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, or thereafter the Supreme Court of New Jersey. In light of the determination of Judge Venezia, the continuation of this litigation can have no meaningful outcome and is therefore DISMISSED AS MOOT. Oxfeld v. Bd. of Ed., 68 N.J. 301 (1975).

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the within petition be DISMISSED AS MOOT in light of the Order of the Hon. Donald R. Venezia, J.S.C. for forfeiting the employment of the Respondent Elaugh Butler with the Respondent State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELRAN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

In consolidated matter, Petitioning Boards, West Windsor-Plainsboro and Nutley, sought to compel Respondent Board Delran to pay transportation costs for two children classified as autistic, K.H. and S.M., who were placed by the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) and the Division of Developmental Disabilities (DDD), respectively, in a group home in respondent's District. (DYFS was responsible for placing K.H. in a group home in 1987, but in 1990, DDD assumed responsibility for these students.)

The ALJ concluded that, under the general legislative and regulatory scheme for the payment of costs of education of special education pupils, it is the district where the child's legal guardian is domiciled/resides which is responsible for the cost of a free appropriate education, including related services, one of which is transportation. (Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979; N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26; N.J.S.A. 18A:7b-12) Furthermore, the ALJ noted that for special education students who are residing in the district in which they are domiciled, the costs of transportation are part of the educational services required to be funded by the local district which in turn receives State aid for such transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-25 and 18A:46-23. The ALJ noted that there was no logical explanation for placing the financial burden of transportation costs upon a district where a group home happens to be located, except to rely on the 1984 Attorney General's Opinion that advised the Commissioner of Education that the word "tuition" in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 did not include transportation costs. Petitions were dismissed and petitioners were directed to continue funding transportation costs for the students in question as long as such students remain domiciled in their districts and eligible for special education services.

Having considered the Initial Decision, the parties' arguments, and the legal opinions provided by the Attorney General's Office, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's conclusions of law. The Commissioner determined that N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, which authorizes group home placements by the State and delineates the obligations of school districts, was the statute central to the resolution of who is responsible for transportation costs for these students. Commissioner noted that the child's district of residence is responsible for paying tuition to the school where the child is placed. However, given the absence of any reference to transportation in the provisions of Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979, the Commissioner concluded that the term "tuition" does not encompass transportation. Further, the Commissioner found that the express language of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c, stating that children placed in group homes are to be accorded all of the "educational benefits" of the school district in which the group home sits, includes pupil transportation. The Commissioner also found that the school district where the group home is located is responsible for providing child study team services (paid for by the resident district) to children placed in group homes within its borders for reasons expressed in the 1984 Attorney General's Opinion. Therefore, the group home school district determines the child's educational program and placement, which, in turn, dictates the child's transportation needs and the district's transportation costs. The Commissioner granted petitioners' motions for summary judgment and directed that respondent reimburse petitioners for the cost of transportation for the students in question. Since K.H. aged out of West Windsor-Plainsboro, the Board sought reimbursement solely for past expenditures. Moreover, the Commissioner directed respondent to continue the funding of transportation costs for S.M., as long as the student remains in the group home and is eligible for special education services.

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

These matters commenced on October 7, 1998 and September 29, 1998, when the Board of Education of West Windsor-Plainsboro and the Board of Education of the Township of Nutley, respectively, each filed petitions of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking to compel the Board of Education of the Township of Delran (hereinafter respondent) to pay transportation costs of a child placed by a State agency in a group home in respondent's district. Answers on behalf of respondent were filed on November 5, 1998 and October 23, 1998. Thereafter, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, advised the parties that the issues appeared to be primarily questions of law and established briefing schedules for the parties. Following the receipt of written submissions from the parties, the Commissioner determined to transmit the matters to the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The West Windsor-Plainsboro file was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 24, 1999 and was assigned docket number EDU 665-99. The Township of Nutley file was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 16, 1999 and was assigned docket number EDU 3130-99. Thereafter the parties submitted written positions concerning consolidation of the two matters. On June 10, 1999, the undersigned issued a letter order consolidating the matters for disposition. A copy of that order is attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. Pursuant to the schedule established, the parties provided a number of other written submissions and documents relevant to cross-motions for summary decision. Oral argument on the cross-motions was conducted by telephone conference call on September 30, 1999, during which the undersigned requested additional information. Thereafter, the parties submitted several other letter memoranda and documents pursuant to said request. The final letter memorandum was received from counsel for West Windsor-Plainsboro on October 27, 1999, whereupon the record closed.

* Extensions of time for issuing the decision were requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of these matters are not in dispute, and accordingly I FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Prior to June 30, 1995, K.H. and S.M. were enrolled in the program at the Center for Autistic Children located in Willingboro and operated by the Department of Human Services, Office of Education. K.H.'s date of birth is December 7, 1977 and his parent and legal guardian Mr. J.H. resides at a Princeton address within the West Windsor-Plainsboro school district. S.M.'s date of birth is July 30, 1982, and his parent and legal guardian Ms. A.F. resides in Nutley, New Jersey. Both students are eligible for special education services; each is classified as "autistic." In preparation for the anticipated closing of the Center for Autistic Children, the Department of Human Services, Office of Education, wrote to the Director of Special Services in the Delran Township schools on November 4, 1994, as follows:

> On or about December 2, 1994 four pupils residing at Durand Academy Group Home in East Windsor will be relocating to Delran Township. Outlined for you below is a description of the plan for the provision of education services for these students.
> During the 1995-95 school year, the Office of Education will continue to fund the education tuition through June 30, 1995 for the four pupils residing at Durand Academy. As discussed, the Delran Township District, where the group home will shortly be located, is responsible for providing required child study team services for these pupils. The Office of Education will reimburse Delran Township for these services for the remainder of this school year. Delran Township will also be responsible for the provision of transportation services. Reimbursement for these services can be sought from transportation state aid.
> During your recent conversation with Ms. Coniglio of this office, it was also noted that we are currently seeking alternate educational placement for these pupils. We are willing to assist you in identifying appropriate program options apart from their current placement within a state facility, i.e., Burlington County Special Services School District. We would like to transfer these pupils to another program as soon as can be appropriately arranged, but no later than June 30, 1995.

> For the 1995-96 school year, the Office of Education will transfer to the Delran Township School District the funds generated by these pupils for education services. Beginning October 1995 and thereafter, the resident school districts should count each of these pupils on their ASSA count. The resident school districts should be contacted to establish future reimbursement mechanisms for these educational costs.
> Please apprise this office when a child study team casemanager from your district has been assigned to the Durand Academy pupils in order that we may transfer pupil records and establish an opportunity for our education staff to meet with Delran Township personnel. Debra Coniglio, who will be your primary contact person regarding this matter, can be reached at 609-588-3195. The information you requested regarding group homes is enclosed. Thank you for your attention and cooperation with this matter.

Although the students were relocated to Delran as indicated would happen in the November 1994 letter*, respondent did not become responsible for the provision of educational services to these students at the conclusion of the 1994-95 school year. Instead the parents of the students and school superintendents were advised by letter dated March 27, 1995 as follows:

> As you are aware, the Center for Autistic Children, located in Willingboro and operated by the Department of Human Services' Office of Education, will be closing as of June 30, 1995. My previous correspondence regarding this closure directed the school district to explore program options and determine an alternate program placement for each pupil. This will no longer be necessary. The Office of Education is actively identifying program options within public and private school settings for these pupils for the upcoming school year and will maintain responsibility for educational placement and funding.
> In order to assure the provision of an appropriate educational program for these pupils and provide ongoing technical assistance to the educational providers, while at the same time, not create an unexpected financial burden on resident school districts, the Office

* Although the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) was responsible for placing K.H. in a Teaching Family Home in 1987, the Division of Developmental Disabilities (DDD) assumed responsibility for these students in or about 1990 and the residential placements in Delran in 1994 were made and are funded by the DDD. DYFS is not now, and has never been, the legal guardian of either child.

> of Education will continue to administer programs to the pupils currently enrolled in the Center for Autistic Children.
> Each parent will receive notice of the change in program with the options considered and rationale for the placement decision. We will also apprise each school district of the placement decisions.
> Over the next few years we will work toward the transfer of responsibility for these pupils from the current state facility funding and oversight to that of the school districts. At that point in time the program options for children with autism will be well established and plans can be made to facilitate funding.

Thereafter the Office of Education arranged for K.H. to attend the Eden Institute located in Princeton, New Jersey, and for S.M. to attend the Search Day Program located in Ocean, New Jersey. The Office of Education continued to provide and fund child study team services and transportation through the end of the 1997-98 school year.

By letter dated June 15, 1998, the Department of Human Services, Office of Education, wrote to the West Windsor-Plainsboro school district as follows:

> I am writing to follow-up on my earlier correspondence regarding K.H. K. resides at the Durand Academy Fox Chase Group Home, 111 Fox Chase Driver, Delran, New Jersey and attends the Eden Institute in Princeton.
>
> Effective June 30, 1998, the Department of Human Services, Office of Education will cease responsibility for this pupil in accordance with the phase down process implemented with the closing of the Center for Autistic Children in June 1995. Therefore, effective July 1, 1998, the Delran School District, the district in which the group home is located, will provide child study services and transportation. The district where the parent resides, West Windsor-Plainsboro, will assume responsibility for the costs of child study team services and for the educational tuition expenses at the Eden Institute.
> The Office of Education will continue to provide for all services and costs associated with K.'s placement until June 30, 1998. My September 17, 1997 correspondence indicated that your district was entitled to count this student for state aid purposes.

> If my office can be of further assistance, please contact Dianne L. Cole, Manager, Northern Region Child Study Services. She may be reached at (609) 588-4638.

An identical letter, with the exception of the personally identifiable information, was sent to the Nutley school district concerning S.M. Respondent prepared and forwarded to each of the petitioners proposed contracts for the provision of child study team services and transportation. The proposed contracts provided for reimbursement to respondent by petitioners of all costs, including transportation. Each petitioner declined to sign the contract. On or about July 1, 1998, respondent, upon the advice of counsel, advised each of the petitioner's school districts that it would not pay for transportation costs for the students. This advice was subsequently confirmed in writing. Contrary to the instructions in the June 15, 1998 letters to the districts, each of the petitioners performed their own child study team services for the students in question, with each team continuing the educational placement which had been made by the Office of Education. Because respondent refused to fund transportation for the students to Eden and to Search, respectively, each of the petitioners arranged independent transportation contracts and paid for the costs.

Petitioner Nutley subsequently contacted the Office of Pupil Transportation of the New Jersey Department of Education for assistance in resolving the issue of financial responsibility for transportation in this matter. By letter dated August 4, 1998, the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools advised respondent as follows:

> It is the responsibility of the district board of education in which a group home is located to provide transportation services to the students living in that home at the district's expense. It has been brought to my attention that you are refusing to provide services to the students living in the Durand Academy Fox Chase Group Home located at 111 Fox Chase Driver based upon your board attorney's opinion that you are prohibited from providing these services under CEIFA. Please provide me with the citation on which this opinion is based.
> Thank you for your cooperation. Please call if you have any questions.

The basis for the advice rendered by the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools in this regard was an April 10, 1987 memorandum written by Jeffrey V. Osowski, Ph.D., Director of Special Education for the State of New Jersey, to all county supervisors of child study teams. That memorandum concerned "Placement of Pupils in Alternative Living Arrangements" and provided:

> The purpose of this memo is to summarize information regarding the educational and financial responsibilities for handicapped and non-handicapped pupils placed in group homes or foster care by a state agency or a local school district.
> I. Pupils Residing in Group Homes (includes teaching family homes, respite care and transitional living homes)
>
> The district in which the group home is located is responsible for:
>
> - provision of child study team services
> - all educational placements and tuition including but not limited to, special education in public and private school placements
> - transportation costs which are then submitted for state transportation aide.
>
> The resident district of parent or legal guardian is responsible for:
>
> - reimbursement to the district where the group home is located for all tuition costs for both regular and special education placements (Tuition costs shall include child study team services when applicable.)
> - reimbursement of private school tuition to the district where the group home is located (Reimbursement shall also include child study team services.)
> - resident district reports pupil on A.S.S.A.
>
> II. Pupils Placed in Foster Care (includes skill development homes and alternative care homes)
>
> The district in which the foster home is located is the legal residency of the pupil and is therefore responsible for all educational services and costs. This pertains to educational services for handicapped and non-handicapped pupils. Educational services include:

- tuition costs (public and private school placements)
- child study team services
- transportation

The district in which the foster home is located claims the pupil on the A.S.S.A. report and includes transportation costs in their request for state transportation aide.

Attached find the following documents which pertain to this topic:

(memo) Winkler/Richardson – March 17, 1980
(memo) Burke – January 23, 1981
(letter) Scott – September 3, 1981
(memo) Scott – March 22, 1982
(Attorney General Opinion (LaVecchia – March 13, 1984
(Informal Opinion) Ramey – September 17, 1984
(memo) Osowski – June 10, 1986

Of those memos, letters and documents listed at the conclusion of Dr. Osowski's memo, only the March 13, 1984 opinion letter directly addresses the issue of transportation costs in situations similar to the one herein. That 4-page opinion letter is attached hereto for easy reference.

Both petitioners have continued to provide and pay for transportation to and from the educational placements for the students who reside at the Durand Academy Fox Chase Group Home in Delran. Petitioner West Windsor-Plainsboro has received State transportation aid in this regard and petitioner Nutley has not yet requested State transportation aid for transportation of S.M., having been told by the New Jersey Department of Education that such State aid could be paid retroactively to either petitioner or respondent depending upon which district is determined to be responsible for transportation costs herein.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R.

4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter although it appeared originally that some facts might be in dispute, diligent efforts on behalf of all three parties have resulted in discovery of an accurate procedural history and have disclosed the source for the directives issued by the Department of Human Services, Office of Education, and confirmed by the county superintendent of schools in Burlington. Accordingly, there are no material facts in dispute and these matters are ripe for summary decision.

Initially, although respondent challenges the subject matter jurisdiction of the Commissioner to determine the issues presented in these matters, the jurisdictional issue must be resolved in petitioners' favor. In addressing the jurisdictional question in a somewhat similar context, the Appellate Division in Roxbury Bd. of Ed. v. Milford Bd. of Ed., 283 N.J. Super. 505, 521 (App. Div. 1995), the court explained:

> We do not disagree with the Commissioner's statement in his brief that he has both jurisdiction and the responsibility to determine which school district has the responsibility to bear the expense of the free, appropriate education granted for disabled children. However, it he wishes to obtain primary jurisdiction, some mechanism must be adopted to assure the parents of otherwise qualified children that both payment and services under the IDEA will continue uninterrupted where the only question is who is ultimately responsible for payment. We doubt that such a remedy can be implemented on a case-by-case basis, and, thus, a remand to the Commissioner would accomplish nothing with respect of the funding issue. Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 328-337, 478 *A.*2d 742 (1984).

Accordingly, although the Commissioner's jurisdiction to determine which school district has the responsibility to bear which expenses may not be exclusive, he most certainly has the authority to make such determinations.

I likewise reject respondent's other procedural argument, i.e. that the petitions herein should be dismissed as untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). That regulation provides:

Respondent asserts that the latest date from which the 90-day regulatory period of limitations should begin to run is July 1, 1998, the date on which both petitioners acknowledge they were verbally informed by respondent that it would not fund the costs of transportation. July 1, 1998 was also the date specified in the letters from the Department of Human Services, Office of Education, for respondent to assume responsibility for providing and funding transportation for the students. The Nutley petition was filed on September 29, 1998, the 90th day following respondent's unequivocal pronouncement, confirmed by its actions, that it would not pay. Respondent argues that the 90-day period should begin to run from the petitioner's receipt of respondent's June 22, 1998 letter enclosing the proposed contract which included a provision for payment by petitioners of transportation costs. Calculating the commencement of the regulatory period of limitations from the date of receipt of the proposed contract, however, would require petitioners to come to the conclusion, based upon the proposal, that respondent would not pay; however, another legitimate conclusion from the proposed contract might be that respondent was unaware of the directions of the Department of Human Services, Office of Education, or that respondent was merely attempting to negotiate with petitioners. By July 1, 1998, however, when respondent did not assume responsibility for transportation and announced that it would not, petitioners were on notice of all the facts necessary to file the within actions. Petitioner West Windsor-Plainsboro did not file its petition until October 7, 1998, at which time it was advised by the Commissioner's office that proof of service and notarized verification were required to be provided on or before October 19, 1998; those documents perfecting the appeal were not filed until October 20, 1998. Both dates are outside of the 90-day period of limitations. Since the Nutley petition was timely filed, however, and both petitions raise the same legal issues, issues concerning which many local boards of education may require guidance and clarification, I CONCLUDE that this case falls within the purview of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 authorizing the Commissioner to relax the rules in his discretion, "where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice."

With respect to the substantive issues in this matter, both the law and the equities weigh in favor of respondent. Examination of the legal requirements for funding the cost of public education must begin with the New Jersey Constitution, N.J. Const. (1947), Article VIII, § 4, par. 1, which provides:

> The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

Pursuant to this directive, the Legislature adopted N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 which places the primary burden for funding educational expenses upon the school district in which a person is domiciled. A child's domicile is the domicile of his parents/legal guardians or the domicile of the custodial parent with whom he or she lives. Roxbury Bd. of Ed. v. Milford Bd. of Ed., supra.

The Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. § 1400(c) also assures that all children with disabilities are to be afforded a free and appropriate public education. This has been held to mean personalized instruction and related services to permit the child to benefit educationally from the instruction. Hendrick Hudson District Board of Education v. Rowley, 458 U.S.. 176 (1982); Lascari v. Board of Educ., 116 N.J. 30 (1989). 20 U.S.C. § 1401(18) defines the term "free appropriate public education" to mean "special education and related services. . . ." The federal regulations define transportation as a related service, where that transportation is required to assist a child with a disability to benefit from education. 30 C.F.R. 300.16(b)(4).

"Transportation" includes:

(i) Travel to and from school and between schools;

(ii) Travel in and around school buildings; and

(iii) Specialized equipment (such as special or adapted buses, lifts, and ramps), if required to provide special transportation for a child with a disability.

Ibid. The IDEA, however, does not base its determination of a handicap child's rights on domicile; how the free appropriate public education funded is a matter of State law. The New Jersey Administrative Code, at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.9, also includes transportation within the parameters of "related services". N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.9(a)7 further provides that:

Transportation shall be provided in the following manner:

i. The district board of education shall provide transportation as required in the individualized education program or as prescribed by the school physician. Such services shall include special transportation equipment, transportation aides and special arrangements for other assistance to and from and in and around the school;

ii. When out-of-district placement for educational reasons is made by a district board of education, transportation shall be provided consistent with the school calendar of the receiving school. . . .

N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.9(a)7. "Thus it is clear that the law provides for transportation to a handicapped child as a related service." L.M. v. Atlantic City Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDS) 251, 253.

Another statutory provision that is relevant to this case is N.J.S.A. 18A:46-23, which encompasses the transportation of handicapped pupils as well as state aid for transportation costs. According to that section:

> The board of education shall furnish transportation to all children being sent by local boards of education to an approved 12-month program. . . during the entire time the child is attending the program.

Accordingly, for special education students who are residing in the district in which they are domiciled, the costs of transportation are part of the educational services required to be funded by the local district which in turn receives State aid for such transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-25 and 18A:46-23.

In 1979 the Legislature enacted "The State Facilities Education Act of 1979." Chapter 207 of the Session Laws of 1979 describes the enactment as "(a)n Act concerning State aid for the education of children in State facilities, assigning responsibility for such education, establishing criteria for determining the school district of residence for certain children, revising parts of the statutory law and repealing P. L. 1972, c. 187." The State Facilities Education Act of 1979, P. L. 1979, c. 207, amended the provisions of 18A:46-14 to include the following:

> Whenever any child shall be confined to a hospital, convalescent home, or other institution in New Jersey or in any other state in the United States and is enrolled in an education program approved under this article, or shall be placed in any other State facility as defined in section three of P. L. 1975, c. 212 (C. 18A:7A-3), the board of education of the district in which the child resides shall pay the tuition of said child.

"State facility" was defined by the Act as meaning:

> A State residential facility for the retarded; a day training center which is operated by or under contract with the State and in which all the children have been placed by the State; a State residential youth center; a State training school or correctional youth center; a State training school or correctional facility; a State child treatment center or psychiatric hospital.

With respect to children "eligible for day training,"* the Act amended N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1 to read as follows:

> It shall be the duty of the Department of Human Services to provide suitable facilities and programs for all the children who are classified as eligible for day training, and to provide transportation for all such children who attend day training centers.
> The school district of residence shall pay tuition for each child in a State facility classified as eligible for day training, but shall not pay the cost of transportation for any such child.

Obviously none of the foregoing three amended sections relate directly to the issue here in question since neither student is placed in a "State facility" and neither is classified as "eligible for day training." (In fact, that provision of the statutes was repealed by the Public Laws of 1992, effective July 1, 1993.) These provisions are quoted and are discussed hereinafter, however, because they are relied upon in the attached legal opinion providing administrative agency advice to the Department of Education. Chapter 207 of the laws of 1979 also amended N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, the following portions of which are relevant to a determination of the within matter:

> a. Whenever the circumstances of a child are such that his needs cannot be adequately met in his own home, the Division of Youth and Family Services may effect his placement in a foster home, with or without payment of board, in a group home, or in an appropriate institution if such care is deemed essential for him. The Division of Youth and Family Services shall make every reasonable effort to select a foster home, a group home or an institution of the same religious faith as the parent or parents of such child.

* For a discussion of education of children who were classified as "eligible for day training" see Levine v. Institutions and Agencies Dept. of N.J., 84 N.J. 234 (1980).

b. Whenever, the Division of Youth and Family Services shall place any child, as provided by this section, in any municipality and county of this State, the child shall be deemed a resident of such municipality and county for all purposes except school funding, and he shall be entitled to the use and benefit of all health, recreational, vocational and other facilities of such municipality and county in the same manner and extent as any other child living in such municipality and county. (emphasis added)

c. Whenever the Division of Youth and Family Services shall place any child, as provided by this section, in any school district, the child shall be entitled to the educational benefits of such district; provided, however, that the district of residence, as determined by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, shall be responsible for paying tuition for such child to the district in which he is placed.

Directly following the amendment of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979, was the following new section (N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12) which provides in pertinent part:

b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

If this cannot be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child resided prior to such admission or placement.

If neither can be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child has been placed or the district in which the State facility is located.

Also enacted the same day as Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979, were the following provisions in Chapter 208 of the Laws of 1979 which amended N.J.S.A. 30:4C-2 to read as follows:

> (a) The title "Division of Youth and Family Services" successor to the "Bureau of Children's Services" means the State agency for the care, custody, guardianship, maintenance and protection of children, as more specifically described by the provisions of this act, and succeeding the agency heretofore variously designated by the laws of this State as the State Board of Child Welfare or the State Board of Children's Guardians.

At the time these statutory provisions were enacted, the Division of Developmental Disabilities did not exist, not having been statutorily created until 1985, six years later. Accordingly, prior to 1985, the agency which would have been responsible for placing children such as those in the within case in group homes would have been the Division of Youth and Family Services. Notwithstanding the fact that N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 was not amended after 1985 to include placements made by the Division of Developmental Disabilities, I CONCLUDE that the entire statutory scheme set forth in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 is applicable to determinations for school funding purposes to children placed in group homes by the Division of Developmental Disabilities.

In the present matters, pursuant to Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979, each child shall be deemed a resident of Delran for "all purposes except school funding." In accordance with the Act "for school funding purposes" the "district of residence" shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his placement by a State agency. Clearly the districts of residence involved in the present matters are Nutley and West Windsor-Plainsboro. Although there is not one statutory or regulatory reference which would place upon Delran the financial burden for transportation of these children from their group home in Delran to their respective educational day placements, the Office of Education and the county superintendent of schools have directed Delran to assume this burden. I can think of no logical or reasonable explanation for placing such a financial burden upon a district where a group home happens to be located. Undoubtedly, if there were a group home or other facility that could properly care for the students in question located in their respective home districts, they would have been placed in such facilities rather than the one in Delran which is quite a distance from their homes. Furthermore, both Nutley and West Windsor were the districts who assumed responsibility for performing child study team services and selected the educational placements in question. Both educational placements are quite some distance from the location of the Delran group home, and accordingly, transportation costs on a daily basis are expensive. It seems inequitable to assess such costs to a district which played no part in incurring the expenses. The sole reason for assigning financial responsibility for transportation costs to Delran appears to be the 1984 legal opinion rendered by a deputy attorney general in response to an administrative agency request for advice.* The 1984 legal opinion advised the Commissioner of Education that the word "tuition" in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 did not include transportation costs based upon an analysis of that section of Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 which specified how funds received pursuant to the Act by the Department of Human Services or the Department of Corrections could be used. Because that section (N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4) permitted the funds to be used, inter alia, for child study team personnel, but omits any mention of "transportation," the legal opinion advised, "It is our opinion that the term tuition encompasses costs for child study team services but does not include transportation costs." The opinion recognized that N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4 did not apply to the costs of education of children in group homes, but concluded that it nevertheless provided "guidance" in interpreting the term "tuition." What the opinion failed to recognize, however, was that children in a "State facility" run by the Department of Human Services or the Department of Corrections were all, with the exception of those covered by the separate provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1, residents in the State facility where they received their education, and, of course, "transportation" would therefore not be an issue. Concerning those children who were "eligible for day training" and attended day training centers, the Legislature specifically shifted the costs of transportation from the district of residence to the State Department of Human Services. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1.

* This sort of legal advice is referred to at the Division of Law as an AAA. It differs from a formal attorney general's opinion which is published and available to the public. Such informal legal opinions are, in fact, protected by the attorney-client privilege, a privilege which the client, the Department of Education, obviously waived when it distributed the opinion to county child study team supervisors.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the more logical interpretation of legislative silence in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 regarding transportation costs is that there was no intention to shift financial responsibility for such costs away from the district of residence to the district where the group home happens to be located. In the one instance where the Legislature determined to shift the responsibility for transportation away from the district of residence, it specifically said so (18A:46-18.1). Under the general legislative and regulatory scheme for the payment of costs of education of special education pupils, it is the district where the child's legal guardian is domiciled/resides which is responsible for the cost of a free appropriate education, including related services, one of which is transportation. The statutory provisions also provide a mechanism for such districts to be reimbursed through State transportation aid. No statutory or regulatory provision has been cited which would authorize payment of transportation State aid to a district which is not the district of residence, but which merely houses the group home where the child has been placed by the Division of Developmental Disabilities. Presumably the State Board of Education could adopt a regulation assigning responsibility for such transportation costs to the district where the group home is located, but it has not done so. and such responsibility cannot be delegated by a memorandum from the Department of Education. See Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 328-337 (1984).

For all of the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that respondent is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law dismissing the within petitions of appeal. It is hereby ORDERED that the petitions of appeal are DISMISSED and petitioners are directed to continue funding transportation costs for the students in question as long as such students remain domiciled in their districts and eligible for special education services.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOE of Twp. of Nutley v. BOE of Twp. of Delran

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed your respective positions with respect to West Windsor-Plainsboro BOE's motion to consolidate. Since the only factual issue in the West Windsor case appears to relate to which agency placed the child, DDD or DYFS, I am confident that the issue can be resolved without a hearing. The remaining legal issues (although perhaps not counsel's arguments with respect thereto) are identical. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.3, I CONCLUDE that consolidation is appropriate to avoid duplication of judicial efforts and the possibility of inconsistent decisions. Accordingly, I hereby ORDER the above-captioned matters consolidated for disposition. I have scheduled a telephone conference call on June 30, 1999 at 4 p.m. so we may discuss a schedule for the filing of any additional motion papers.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

RE: M81-5044 - In accordance with L. 1978, c. 207, which school district is responsible for the costs of transportation and child study team services for a child placed in a group home, the district where the group home is located or the district where the parent or guardian resides?

Dear Dr. Weiss:

You have asked for advice as to which school district is responsible under L. 1978, c. 207 for the costs of transportation and child study team services for a child placed in a group home, the district in which the group home is located or the district in which the parent or guardian of the child resides. For the reasons which follow, you are advised that the district in which the group home is located is responsible for the costs of transportation and that the child's district of residence is responsible for the costs of the child study team services for children placed in a group home.

With passage of L. 1978, c. 207, the Legislature set forth the responsibilities imposed upon state and local educational agencies for the education of children in State facilities or children placed by State agencies. Among the children encompassed by L. 1978, c. 207 are children placed in group homes by the Division of Youth and Family Services, Department of Human Services (DYFS). L. 1978, c. 297, sec. 18(b) and (c) provide:

New Jersey Is An Equal Opportunity Employer

> Whenever the Division of Youth and Family Services shall place any child, as provided by this section, in any municipality and county of this State, the child shall be deemed a resident of such municipality and county for all purposes except school funding, and he shall be entitled to the use and benefit of all health, recreational, vocational and other facilities of such municipality and county in the same manner and extent as any other child living in such municipality and county.
> Whenever the Division of Youth and Family Services shall place any child, as provided by this section, in any school district, the child shall be entitled to the educational benefits of such district; provided, however, that the district of residence, as determined by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, shall be responsible for paying tuition for such child to the district in which he is placed [N.J.S.A 30:4C-26(b) and (c)].

Pursuant to this statute, a child placed in a group home by DYFS is entitled to receive the educational benefits of the district in which the group home is located. However, while the duty to provide educational benefits lies with the district in which the group home is located, certain financial responsibilities for the child's education remain with the child's district of residence. Specifically, the district of residence is responsible for paying tuition to the district in which the group home is located. N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(c). It is our opinion that the term tuition encompasses costs for child study team services but does not include transportation costs.

The term "tuition" is not expressly defined in L. 1978, c. 207 or elsewhere in Title 18A. However, a fair reading of L. 1978, c. 207 reveals that the term tuition is intended to include the costs generated by child study team services. L. 1978, c. 207, sec. 8 provides in pertinent part:

> Funds received pursuant to this act by the Department of Human Services or by the Department of Corrections shall be used only for the salaries of teachers, educational administrators at the program level, child study team personnel and paraprofessionals assigned to educational programs in State facilities, and for the costs of educational materials and supplies for these programs [N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4 (emphasis added)].

Although the funds referred to above in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4 encompass tuition paid to the Department of Human Services or Corrections via deductions in the state aid of the district of residence of individual pupils in State facilities, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-2, the working definition provides guidance for the instant inquiry. The term "tuition" is used to refer both to payments from districts of residence to the Departments of Human Services or Corrections, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-2, and to payments made from a district of residence to a district in which a group home is located, N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(c). Thus, it is reasonable to conclude that the Legislature's use of the term "tuition" to refer to both types of payments which a district of residence may be required to make reveals an intention that the same types of costs be included for each. Since it is plain that child study team services were intended to be a legitimate cost of tuition for pupils in State facilities run by the Departments of Human Services or Corrections, then such costs should be included in the cost of tuition for pupils placed in group homes by DYFS.

As for transportation costs, analysis of L. 1978, c. 207 reveals that transportation expenses are considered a separate expense from tuition. As a rule, the Legislature generally segregated transportation costs from tuition in allocating financial costs under L. 1978, c. 207. See L. 1978, c. 207, Sec. 16 (for children classified as eligible for day training, the district of residence shall pay tuition for each child in a State facility but shall not pay the cost of transportation; codified as N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1).

L. 1978, c. 207 is silent as to which district is responsible for transportation costs for children in group homes. The statute speaks only to responsibility for tuition, which does not encompass transportation costs. Because the statute only imposes responsibility for tuition upon the district of residence, transportation costs may not be rightfully charged to the district of residence. The obligation to provide transportation to pupils in a group home lies with the district in which the group home is located. This cost may not be charged to the child's district of residence and therefore must remain with the district in which the group home is located. It should be noted that the district providing pupil transportation is entitled to receive 90% reimbursement of pupil transportation costs in state aid. See N.J.S.A. 18A:58-7. Thus, absent clear legislative direction to the contrary, transportation costs remain the responsibility of the district providing the transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(b), that is the district in which the group home is located. For transportation costs to be imposed upon the district of residence, legislative change would be necessary.

In summary, you are advised that the costs of child study team services are to be considered part of tuition and are chargeable to the district of residence of children placed in group homes by DYFS. Transportation costs, on the other hand, are distinct from tuition costs. Since the Legislature requires the district in which a group home is located to provide transportation services to children placed in a group home within it geographic parameters but does not authorize the charging of this cost to the district of residence, transportation costs must remain the responsibility of the district in which the group home is located.

Very truly yours,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NUTLEY, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELRAN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4[1] and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[2]

[1] Petitioner Nutley timely requested and was granted a four-day extension for submission of its exceptions.
[2] Petitioner West Windsor-Plainsboro filed a response to respondent's reply on April 25, 2000. Since N.J.S.A. 1:1-18.4 does not provide for submission of a response to reply exceptions, West Windsor-Plainsboro's additional submission was not considered.

In its exceptions, Petitioner West Windsor-Plainsboro (WWP) urges the Commissioner to reject the analysis of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). WWP avers that the ALJ's conclusion that the term "tuition" in N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c includes transportation contradicts the plain language of the statute as previously interpreted by the Office of the New Jersey Attorney General[3] and enforced by both the Department of Education and the Department of Human Services. (WWP Exceptions at 10)

WWP further argues that the ALJ's opinion was based on an analysis of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1, despite the ALJ's acknowledgment that those statutes are not directly relevant. The ALJ's reasoning in support of her reading of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c, WWP concludes, appears to be that, since a district of residence generally must provide transportation for classified students, it can be inferred, based on the Legislature's silence in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 as to transportation costs, that the Legislature's intent was that the district of residence was to be responsible for such costs. WWP avers that this analysis is in error because, although it is true that the transportation of classified students would normally be provided by the district of residence, N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c transfers that responsibility to the district where the group home is located by providing that a child so placed shall be entitled to the educational benefits of such district. (Id. at 4-5)

WWP further contends that the prime indicator of legislative intent is the plain language of the statute, State v. Sutton, 132 N.J. 471, 479 (1993). Therefore, since the Legislature carefully distinguished between tuition which is to be paid by the district of residence and all other educational benefits in N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c, the reading of transportation costs into the obligation to pay tuition is tantamount to legislating by the ALJ. (Id. at 6)

[3] WWP notes that the March 13, 1984 Attorney General's Opinion was authored by then Deputy Attorney General LaVecchia, who is now Supreme Court Justice LaVecchia.

Citing State v. Wallach, 296 N.J. Super. 93, 98 (Law Div. 1996) and Peper v. Princeton University Board of Trustees, 77 N.J. 55 (1978), WWP maintains that the informal opinion of the Attorney General and the interpretation given a statute by the agency charged with its enforcement based on that opinion should be accorded deference. Further, it is argued that the ALJ's inference that the Attorney General's Opinion (Opinion) would have been given more deference if it was a formal opinion is flawed since the opinions relied upon in Wallach, supra, were informal. (Id. at 6-8)

In its exceptions, Petitioner Nutley (Nutley) agrees with WWP that although Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 may have been silent on the issue of who pays transportation costs of individuals placed in group homes, two separate administrative agencies and the Attorney General's Office were not silent, and the ALJ failed to appropriately defer to the Opinion and the subsequent agency decisions relying on that Opinion. (Petitioner Nutley's Exceptions at 5)

Nutley also argues that the ALJ's determination that the Legislature's silence in Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979 demonstrates that there was no intention to shift transportation costs from the district of residence is flawed, because it is clear from prior decisions on this issue that the Legislature left a vacuum which was subsequently filled by administrative interpretations of the Department of Education and the Department of Human Services. Nutley avers that there can be no shifting of costs that were never designated, and that it is appropriate to rely on the interpretation by the agencies responsible for providing for the delivery of services because those agencies are best able to apply the Legislature's intent to maximize services to children. (Id. at 9)

Nutley also maintains that the ALJ improperly relied upon an erroneous equitable determination in reaching her conclusion that it is responsible for transportation and, therefore, the ALJ's ultimate conclusion of law is flawed. Arguing that it was the Department of Human Services which made both the group home placement and the educational placement, and not petitioner as inferred by the ALJ, Nutley concludes that both Nutley and respondent are victims of circumstances created by the State. Contrary to the ALJ's finding, Nutley argues, since neither district played a role in incurring the expenses, neither district is more unfairly treated in being assessed those expenses. (Id. at 12, 13) Therefore, Nutley urges the Commissioner to reverse the ALJ, find respondent responsible for the transportation costs of the student in question, and order that respondent reimburse Nutley for the costs of transportation it has assumed since July 1, 1998.

In its reply exceptions, respondent argues with respect to WWP's exceptions that the Opinion of March 13, 1984 is no longer relevant to the question of which district has responsibility for the payment of transportation costs for the times at issue herein. Respondent notes that in her analysis, the Deputy Attorney General relied on N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1, which was repealed by P.L. 1992, c. 129, § 2, effective July 1, 1993, and thus has no relevance to this matter, which arose in 1998. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 2) Respondent further avers that when the Opinion was issued, the Deputy Attorney General could find no special authorization for a charge back of transportation costs to the school district of residence, and thus, she concluded that those costs must be born by the district in which the group home was located. Respondent argues that this is no longer an accurate conclusion based on current statutes and rules. (Id. at 3) Respondent claims that the relevant statutes and rules for determination of responsibility for transportation services are the following:

The board of education shall furnish transportation to all children found under this chapter to be handicapped who shall qualify therefor pursuant to law and it shall furnish the transportation for a lesser distance also to a handicapped child, if it finds upon the advice of the examiner, the handicap to be as to make transportation necessary or advisable.

Respondent further argues that the Commissioner should not focus exclusively upon N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c, and should consider principles of statutory construction in making his determination. Respondent avers that the entire statute, including N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(b), should be read in pari materia with other relevant statutes in determining responsibility for the transportation costs of these special education students. (Id. at 7-8) Respondent concludes that *N.J.S.A.*18A:7F-25 specifically provides for transportation costs for special education students who are resident in the district pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:46-23. (Id. at 10) Further, respondent submits that the transportation costs in dispute are included in tuition liability pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1 and N.J.A.C . 6:30-3.1(d)4.vii. (sic) "'[c]ontracted transportation...which are part of the instructional program' is expressly included in that sum, while in §5.i '[t}ransportation to and from school [] is paid by the resident district'." Respondent, therefore, concludes that these provisions clearly impose liability on WWP for the cost of transportation either as a component of tuition or as a stand alone cost. (Id. at 10)

Finally, with respect to WWP's exceptions, respondent avers that WWP's reliance on recent administrative decisions which determined that transportation costs to a county vocational school are the responsibility of the local school district is misplaced since respondent has no "sending" responsibility to the students at issue. (Id. at 10-12)

In its reply exceptions with respect to Nutley, respondent states that Nutley's exceptions essentially mirror WWP's exceptions, noting that Nutley's assertion that Nutley is no more responsible for the incursion of the transportation costs at issue than is respondent completely misses the issues involved herein. (Id. at 14)

In the course of the review of the above-titled matter, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, on behalf of the Commissioner, sought guidance from the Attorney General's Office as to the continued validity of the 1984 Opinion concerning school district liability for transportation for students in group homes. By letter of June 21, 2000, the Deputy Attorney General advised the Commissioner that the analysis and conclusions in the 1984 Opinion remain valid.

The parties were noticed of the above communication from the Attorney General's Office, and provided an opportunity to respond.

In its response, respondent argues, inter alia, that the Deputy Attorney General's reliance on N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 is misplaced and erroneous because that statute has no relevancy whatsoever to Division of Developmental Disabilities (DDD) group home placements. The express terms of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, respondent avers, are specifically applicable to placements made by DYFS, and by its plain language, cannot be expanded to include placements by State entities other than DYFS. (Respondent's Memorandum of Law, July 8, 2000 at 2) Respondent further argues that both "[t]he Attorney General and the ALJ erred in believing that an expansion of the coverage of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 to placements by the DDD was warranted." (emphasis added) (Id. at 3) Respondent submits that prior to 1985, the Division of Mental Retardation (DMR) was the agency having jurisdiction over those who are autistic, such as the children at issue herein. When DDD came into being in 1985, respondent states that the functions of DMR were transferred to the new entity. (Id. at 4) Respondent asserts that before and at the time of the creation of DDD in 1985, the State divided responsibility for certain populations between DYFS and DMR. With respect to the DMR/DDD population, respondent argues, N.J.S.A. 30:6D-3a(5) expressly defines those included in the service population as persons with "'severe disabilities attributable to'...'autism.'" (Id. at 6) Accordingly, respondents aver, separate statutory jurisdictions are established for DYFS (N.J.S.A. 30:4C) and DMR/DDD

(N.J.S.A. 30:6D), such that the distinct population for which DMR/DDD is responsible is not somehow transferred to DYFS by a group home setting. (Id. at 6-7)

Additionally, respondent repeats its arguments advanced below and in its exceptions to the Initial Decision, urging the Commissioner to adopt the conclusions of the ALJ, dismissing the Petitions of Appeal and determining that the contested transportation costs are the responsibility of petitioners.[4]

In their responses, Petitioners WWP and Nutley essentially reiterate arguments advanced in their exceptions, urging the Commissioner to accept the legal opinions provided by the Attorney General's Office, and to reject the ALJ's analysis which determined that petitioners are responsible for the transportation costs for the students at issue.[5]

Upon consideration of the Initial Decision, the arguments advanced by the parties, the March 13, 1984 Attorney General's Opinion and the June 20, 2000 advice from the Attorney General's Office, the Commissioner determines to reject the ALJ's conclusions of law for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner agrees that the statute central to the resolution of the question as to who is responsible for the cost of transportation services for students placed in group homes is N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, which authorizes group home placements by the State and delineates the obligations of school districts involved in such placements. Further, the statute explicitly states that, for all purposes except school funding, the placed child is to be deemed a resident of the municipality and county where the group home is situated and, as such, is entitled to the use of all health, recreational, vocational and other facilities of said municipality and county. Section "c" goes on to specify that the child is also entitled to the education benefits of that district with the exception that the child's "district of residence," as determined by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, shall be responsible for paying "tuition" to the district in which the child is placed.

[4] Although respondent objects to the Commissioner's consideration of the Deputy Attorney General's letter of June 20, 2000, arguing that it serves to supplant the Commissioner's authority to make a decision with respect to this matter, the Commissioner notes the appropriateness of his consideration of advice of counsel upon taking judicial notice of such advice.

[5] The parties were provided with an opportunity to concurrently submit a letter brief or memorandum of law in response to the communication by Deputy Attorney General Thomas Russo. To the extent that both WWP and Nutley included reply arguments to respondent's submission in their briefs, these arguments were not considered.

Although this statute specifically refers to placements made by DYFS, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that it should be construed as also covering placements made by DDD. Both DYFS and DDD are divisions within the Department of Human Services which have been entrusted by the Legislature with the responsibility of delivering services to children with disabilities which will enable them to lead as normal and productive lives, as possible. See N.J.S.A. 30:6D et seq. and N.J.S.A. 30:4C et seq. Although N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c makes no reference to placements by DDD, it is clear from the June 15, 1998 letter from Human Services Deputy Director, Debra Coniglio, informing Delran that "[b]oth the West Windsor School District for (K.H.) and the Nutley School District for (S.M.) have been reminded of their responsibility to assume educational expenses for their respective pupils, beginning July 1, 1998," that DHS, the Department overseeing these two divisions, has read N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c as applying to residential placements by DDD.

Additionally, except for the matter of tuition, N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 fixes liability for the cost and provision of all governmental services available to children placed in group homes. As stated above, the child's district of residence is responsible for paying tuition to the school where the child is placed. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b the "district of residence" is "the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency." In the pending matters, it is undisputed that the respective districts of residence, which are responsible for paying the cost of tuition, are, therefore, West Windsor-Plainsboro and Nutley.

Given the absence of any reference to transportation in the provisions of P.L. 1979, c. 207, the Commissioner concludes that the term "tuition" does not encompass transportation. At the time of the enactment of P.L. 1979, c. 207, the Legislature was aware of the matter of pupil transportation as evidenced by a separate provision dealing with "day training," in which it specifically allocated this cost to the State of New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-18.1 (repealed see now N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13). The existence of this provision shows that if it had desired to impose transportation costs upon the "district of residence," in the case of a group home placement, the Legislature could have easily drafted N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c in such a way that included this cost.[6]

The Commissioner further finds that the express language of N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c, stating that children placed in group homes are to be accorded all of the "educational benefits" of the school district in which the group home sits, includes pupil transportation. In this regard, the ALJ properly noted that a special education pupil may qualify for transportation as a "related service" within the meaning of the special education laws. It must be noted, however, that nothing in those laws alters the Commissioner's conclusion regarding cost allocation. Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.9 only references the "district board of education" as bearing these costs and there is no specific provision for group home placements, the regulation must, therefore, be viewed in light of, and subject to, the cost allocation set forth in N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26c.

The Commissioner also finds that the school district where the group home is located is responsible for providing child study team services (paid for by the resident district) to children placed in group homes within its borders for reasons expressed in the 1984 Opinion. Therefore, the current scheme provides that the group home school district will determine the child's educational program and placement, which, in turn, will dictate the child's transportation needs and the district's transportation costs. [7]

[6] To the extent that the parties seek further clarification of this statute, the Commissioner notes that the appropriate remedy is legislative.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner grants petitioners' motions for summary judgment and directs that respondent reimburse Petitioners WWP and Nutley for the cost of transportation for the students in question. Respondent is further directed to continue the funding of transportation costs for S.M., as long as the student remains in the group home and is eligible for special education services. [8]

T.C. – M., petitioner, pro se

Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., on behalf of the respondent (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the petition filed with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on August 30, 2000. The petitioner is appealing the determination of the respondent that she and her children are not domiciled in the South Plainfield School District. Also, the petitioner is asking for emergent relief to stay the proposed transfer of her children back to the Plainfield School District and asking that her children be allowed to attend school in the South Plainfield School District.

The matter was transmitted on August 30, 2000, to the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*52:14B-1 to –15 and *N.J.S.A.*52:14F-1 to –13, prior to the filing of any papers by the respondent, since the petitioner is requesting emergency relief. I received a written brief from the respondent on August 31, 2000.

The oral argument as to the motion for emergency relief took place on September 1, 2000.

This order deals only with the motion for emergency relief.

Emergency relief is an extraordinary remedy and the burden of proof is on the petitioner to show that (1) there is a threat of immediate and irreparable harm to the petitioner; (2) there is a probability that the petitioner will eventually succeed on the merits; (3) the legal rights are settled; and (4) that the inconvenience or loss to the Board will be nominal. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 *N.J.*126 (1982); New Jersey Bar Association v. Northern New Jersey Mortgage Associates, 22 N.J. 184 (1956); N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5.

Based on the petition and the oral arguments, I FIND that the facts pertinent to this motion are not in dispute.

Petitioner enrolled her children in the South Plainfield School District in November 1999, and sometime thereafter the respondent had reason to believe that the petitioner and her children still were domiciled in Plainfield. In March 2000, an investigation as to domicile was conducted by Kenneth Van Kleef, on behalf of the respondent. Mr. Van Kleef concluded that petitioner and her children were still domiciled in Plainfield. A hearing before the respondent was held on July 17, 2000.

At the hearing, the petitioner and her mother presented testimony and documentary evidence in support of petitioner's position that she and her children reside with her parents in South Plainfield. The respondent determined that the petitioner and her children are not domiciled in South Plainfield.

By letter dated July 18, 2000, the respondent notified the petitioner of its determination. The letter stated that the petitioner had 21 days to appeal the decision, and if she did not appeal within that time, her children would be removed from the South Plainfield School. Also in the letter, the petitioner was told that the appeal had to be filed with the Commissioner of Education and she was given the name and address of the person to whom she had to send the appeal. The petitioner did not file an appeal within 21 days.

By letter dated August 10, 2000, the respondent informed the petitioner that since she did not file an appeal, her children could not attend school in South Plainfield and the respondent would initiate the transfer of her children to the Plainfield School District.

On August 30, 2000, the petitioner filed this appeal with the Commissioner.

The petitioner argued that she and her children reside with her parents in South Plainfield as she represented at the respondent's hearing. The petitioner had contacted an attorney before the respondent's hearing but did not engage the attorney to appear at the respondent's hearing. After the respondent's decision, the petitioner again contracted this attorney and asked him to handle the appeal. There was a conversation regarding the attorney's fee and petitioner was concerned about her ability to pay the fee. The petitioner has filed for bankruptcy. After the appeal period lapsed, the petitioner and the attorney agreed that the petitioner could not afford to hire an attorney. The petitioner then spoke to Legal Aide and the Rutger's Clinic regarding representation, without success.

The petitioner is concerned about whether her children will be allowed to attend school in Plainfield and also about making arrangements to transport her children to the Plainfield Schools. The petitioner reiterated that she and her children live in South Plainfield.

Mr. Zitomer argued that the petitioner has not shown irreparable harm since her children are not being deprived of an education, and will be educated in the Plainfield School District during the pendency of the appeal. Since the petitioner's children formerly attended school in Plainfield, Mr. Zitomer argued that they are familiar with the facilities, staff and students.

Mr. Zitomer argued that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is not settled. He stated that by statute a student can only go to school in the district where he/she is domiciled, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

Mr. Zitomer argued that the petitioner has not demonstrated a substantial likelihood of success on the merits. The petitioner was notified of the respondent's determination and was notified of the time constraints for filing an appeal as well as the address where the appeal was to be filed. He argued that the petitioner has offered no persuasive argument as to why her appeal was not filed within the time limit. Mr. Zitomer argued that the evidence presented to the respondent at its hearing amply demonstrates that the petitioner and her children are living in Plainfield and that the petitioner has offered little, if any, new evidence to refute the respondent's determination as to domicile.

Lastly, Mr. Zitomer argued that the respondent would suffer a hardship if the petitioner's request is granted since the respondent would have to pay the cost of educating the children.

I am persuaded by Mr. Zitomer's arguments that the petitioner has failed to meet the standards for emergent relief. Therefore, I CONCLUDE and ORDER that the petitioner's motion for emergent relief be denied.

This order as to the motion for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISISONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorize to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without due delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or rejected this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergency relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Order, which included a summary of the evidence presented at the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 1, 2000, has been reviewed. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent contested the Board's policies and procedures that resulted in a delay in enrolling her children in the District's schools. Petitioner and her three children arrived from Haiti at the end of October 1998 and they appeared on November 3, 1998 at the Board's administrative offices; yet, the children were not enrolled until December 2, 1998. Enrollment had been delayed pending completion of forms and applications containing pre-enrollment requirements, including a Certificate of Inhabitancy (CI) to be completed and issued by a municipal zoning and housing official, which form petitioner charged was improper and illegal.

The ALJ concluded that the action of the Board's personnel was not unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious, even though registration was delayed for a number of days. The ALJ found that petitioner contributed to the delay by the language difficulties in this case and by not satisfactorily furnishing proof of residency in a timely fashion. The ALJ found that the children were enrolled the day that the completed proof of residency was submitted and one day after the Board was served with the petition. Petition was dismissed. The ALJ noted that the Board voluntarily agreed to remove the municipal CI from its school admission application packet. The ALJ ordered that said certificate be totally eliminated from the Board's application procedures.

Having reviewed the record, including the transcript of the OAL hearing, the Commissioner agreed with and adopted the ALJ's order that the CI be totally omitted from the Board's application procedures. The Commissioner, however, determined that while the ALJ was absolutely correct in determining that it was improper for the Board to require that a CI be completed as part of its registration process, the CI contributed more substantially to the delay in enrollment than conveyed by the ALJ or the Board. The issue of residing in a dwelling in violation of local housing ordinances is not an issue that a board of education may consider in determining enrollment eligibility. Moreover, the Commissioner found that it was not appropriate for enrollment to be delayed, even in part, on the basis of incomplete transcripts since student transcripts go to the issue of a student's educational placement, not to eligibility to enroll or be admitted to school. The Commissioner also found that incomplete immunization records may not interfere with the enrollment, notwithstanding that it may, by law, be a basis for delaying actual admission to school. (N.J.S.A. 26:1A-9, N.J.A.C. 8:57-4.1 et seq.) The Commissioner determined that the enrollment of the children occurred only due to the filing of a petition. The Commissioner determined that, in addition to the ALJ's order that the District discontinue inclusion of a CI in its registration packet, the District is ordered not to allow the absence or incompleteness of transcripts and immunization records to interfere with the enrollment of a new student. Commissioner directed the county superintendent to review the District's enrollment policies and procedures.

M.G.L. ON BEHALF OF HERSELF AND HER MINOR CHILDREN, B.S., D.J. AND V.J., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent

Ellen M. Boylan, Esq., for petitioner
(Education Law Center)

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: February 10, 2000 Decided: July 21, 2000

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner, M.G.L., on behalf of her three children, B.S., D.J. and V.J., contesting the respondent's (Board) policies and procedures that resulted in a delay in enrolling petitioner's children in the district's schools.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The verified petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education on December 2, 1998. An amended petition, to correct inaccuracies and to add an count, was filed on December 7, 1998. The respondent filed an answer on December 24, 1998.

On January 26, 1999 the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The hearing was originally scheduled for August 3, 1999. However, petitioner's attorney requested and was granted an adjournment, due to a planned vacation. The hearing was rescheduled and held on December 1, 1999 at the OAL in Newark, New Jersey. Two witnesses, the petitioner M.G.L. and her sister, M.C.L., testified for the petitioner; and one witness, Josefa Lopez, testified for the respondent. Documentary exhibits were marked in evidence by both parties, an itemized list of which is contained in the Appendix attached hereto. Posthearing briefs were filed by the parties; and the record was closed on February 10, 2000. Three Orders of Extension for the filing of this decision were entered.

ISSUES AND DEMANDS FOR RELIEF

This dispute arose because the Board did not enroll petitioner's children in its school immediately upon M.G.L.'s appearance on November 3, 1998 at the Board's Administrative offices, but delayed enrollment pending completion of forms and applications containing certain pre-enrollment requirements. (The family had arrived from Haiti three or four days earlier, at the end of October 1998.)

The amended petition stated that the registration packet for each child, given to M.G.L. on November 3, 1998, contained a variety of forms to be completed and returned at an appointment made to register the children on November 16, 1998. These forms included, among other things, a certificate of inhabitancy (C.I.) to be completed and issued by the municipal zoning and housing official and to be returned with the other documents. Petitioner charges that the completion and submission of this form as a prerequisite for enrollment of the children in school is improper and illegal.

In addition, petitioner charges that she never received a written notice from the Board denying school admission to the children; and that the Board never advised her of her right to appeal the denial of school admission to the Commissioner of Education.

The petitioner further charges that the foregoing actions by the Board violated the children's rights to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution; violated their right to procedural due process, as guaranteed by the United States Constitution, and violated the notice requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

The petitioner demands the following relief:

> a declaratory ruling that the Board's policy and practice of requiring the CI violates N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq;
>
> a declaratory ruling that the Board's policy and practice violates a student's fundamental right to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution;
>
> a declaratory ruling that the Board's policy and practice refusing to immediately process applications for school admission, and instead scheduling appointments to accept and process applications two weeks later, violates N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1;
> a declaratory ruling that the Board's failure to provide petitioner with written notice specifying the grounds for denying admission and failure to provide notice of the right to appeal a denial to the Commissioner of Education also violates petitioner's right to procedural due process under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. and the United States Constitution;

> a declaratory ruling noting and preserving petitioner's claim against the Board under 42 U.S.C. §1983, including claims for compensatory damages, punitive damages, attorneys fees and costs, against the municipality as well as against the Board.

Additionally, petitioner demands > a permanent injunction barring the Board from requiring an applicant for school admission to obtain a C.I.;

>
> a permanent injunction barring the Board from failing to immediately accept and process an application for school admission;
>
> a declaratory ruling that the three children meet the eligibility criteria of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1;
>
> an order requiring the Board to admit the three children to its schools;
> an order requiring the Board to assess the instruction and education denied the children during the period of unlawful exclusion from school, and to provide compensatory education for the period of exclusion.

In its answer, the Board generally denied the substantive allegations of the petition and left the petitioner to her proofs. Respondent also stated, as an affirmative defense, that the petitioner has failed to state cause of action upon which relief could be granted, and that the petitioner's children had been enrolled in the district's school.

TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

The petitioner, M.G.L., speaking in Haitian/Creole, testified (through an interpreter) that she arrived in the United States from Haiti, with her three children, ages 19, 14 and 12, on October 31, 1998. She went directly to her sister's apartment in West Orange, New Jersey, where she and the children took up residence together with her sister, her mother and her nephew. The petitioner said that she intends to remain living in that apartment, as her only residence.

The petitioner further testified that she had a group of documents that she had obtained from authorities in Haiti, consisting of grade reports, transfer forms and vaccination reports, Copies of these documents were marked in evidence as Exhibits P-1 through P-10. The Exhibits are mostly written and printed in the Haitian language.

Petitioner stated that she went to the Board offices on November 3, 1998 (three days after her arrival in the United States) to register the children in school. She brought the P-1 through P-10 documents with her, and her sister accompanied her in order to translate and assist.

M.G.L. testified that she spoke to a receptionist at the Board offices, who gave her packets of forms for each child, to be completed and returned. An appointment was made for the petitioner to return on November 16 (nine school days later) to meet with the Board secretary. According to the petitioner's testimony she was given a choice of November 16 or November 22, and she chose the 16th because it was closer in time. She said that no other dates were offered to her. M.G.L. took the packets and returned on November 16th.

M.C.L., the petitioner's sister, testified that she had lived in the West Orange apartment for 5 ½ years, and that she assisted M.G.L. in attempting to enroll her newly arrived children. M.C.L. speaks English and was able to translate for the petitioner during their contacts with the Board staff. This witness stated that she and her sister took the applications and the forms home on November 3, together with the documents they had brought with them. They did not leave any of the documents with the receptionist. M.C.L. testified that she was available to return before the 16th of the month, but that it was the first day offered. In her opinion, she could have completed the forms in a day or two. (She later testified that it took longer.)

Speaking about some of the forms in the packets, M.C.L. said that one of them was a Certificate of Residency to be completed by her landlord, and another was a Certificate of Inhabitancy (C.I.), which she brought to the Township offices on November 9 and again on November 11 to be signed by the Code Enforcement Officer. This form, the C.I., asked for a list of all the people who lived with her in the dwelling unit, and also those who were expected to be registered in school. M.G.L. stated that, after reviewing her answers on the forms, the code enforcement official did not approve the Certificate because too many people were living in the one dwelling unit. M.C.L. was told that one family would have to move. On November 12, someone came to the apartment and checked the rooms, the fire alarms, the utility systems and the space generally.

M.C.L. further testified that she returned to the housing department again on November 16th, after first going to the Board of Education, where it was noted that one signature was missing. The denial of the C.I. was affirmed by the code enforcement official, and M.C.L. was given the same advice as stated above.

M.C.L. stated that when she met with the woman who was responsible for registering the children in school, Ms. Lopez, she was told that the registrations would not be processed because the C.I. was not signed, and the packet of forms was otherwise not completed.

At that point, M.C.L. and her sister sought the assistance of counsel and returned again to the Board's offices, where, according to M.C.L., Ms. Lopez told her that Township of West Orange would not recognize their residence in the town without the Certificate of Inhabitancy being signed. M.C.L. said that counsel intervened immediately and obtained an Order from the Department of Education, whereupon the children were enrolled on December 2, 1998. They began attending classes on the following Monday, December 7, after receiving orientation before the weekend.

When cross-examined, M.C.L. admitted that it took her longer that two days to have all of the admission forms completed and signed. The Certificate of Inhabitancy was still not approved. She said that the landlord first signed the Certificate of Residency on November 13th, the work day that immediately preceded the appointment with the Registrar of the Board on November 16.

M.C.L. also acknowledged that no one at the Board of Education said that enrollment was denied, only that the applications for registration could not be processed without the signed Certificate of Inhabitancy.

When cross-examined further about the completion of the Certificate of Residency, Exhibit R-1, M.C.L. verified that the landlord signed it on November 13, 1998, and that she signed it as tenant on November 14th, as indicated by the notary's acknowledgement. The Certificate states that 7 family members reside in the apartment, three adults and four children.

Finally, when asked her opinion of when they thought the children should have been registered in the district, M.C.L. testified that the children should have been enrolled on November 16 or soon thereafter.

Josefa Lopez, Registrar of the West Orange Board of Education, testified about her involvement in this matter. She stated that the first time she met the petitioner and her sister was on November 16, 1998. She knew that the women had previously seen a receptionist, who gave them registration packets for each child.

Ms. Lopez testified that, when she reviewed the forms returned to her by the petitioner on November 16, she found several items to be incomplete, including the immunizations records and a missing transcript for the student to be registered in high school. In addition, most importantly, Ms. Lopez said that it was not clear to her that the petitioner and her children were living in West Orange. The Certificate of Residency form, Exhibit R-1, was incomplete on November 16, and she particularly noted that the names of the family members, required in the top half of the form, were not filled in, and the mother's (petitioner's) signature was also missing.

Ms. Lopez emphatically stated that the completed document was first brought to her by the petitioner and her sister on December 2, the same date on which she registered the children.

In addition, she said that the record release form, Exhibit R-4, was not given to her on November 16, but was also produced on December 2.

Ms. Lopez testified further that she told the petitioner and her sister, on November 16, that much of the required information was not complete; and that she particularly needed better proof that they resided in West Orange. Ms. Lopez insisted that she never said that enrollment was or would be denied, but did indicate to them that she would like to have the C.I. completed.

Referring to Exhibit R-5, a letter from the landlord dated November 10, 1998, she said that it was not given to her until December 2. She had received the petition filed by counsel on December 1, and she called the petitioner and/or her sister that day and asked them to come to her office the next day, December 2.

Ms. Lopez also indicated that no student has ever been denied enrollment in the District's schools because of an incomplete Certificate of Inhabitancy. She repeated this on cross-examination, when she unequivocally stated that the C.I. is not required in order to register a child. Explaining further, she said that, even though the C.I. is not a Board form, it is used to reinforce the question of residency.

Additionally, on cross-examination, Ms. Lopez stated that the situation in this case was somewhat unusual and confused, because the Certificate of Residency did not clearly indicate that the address in question was the residence of the new family. It was a rented apartment, but not by the petitioner, and the lease was in the aunt's name (petitioner's sister).

Ms. Lopez repeated and emphasized that the children's names were not filled into the residency form until December 2. She witnessed that addition, when the names were written onto the form in front of her. Furthermore, she testified that the petitioner's signature, seen on the right side of the form (last name first) was also inserted in front of her on December 2. All of this information, the children's names and the petitioner's signature, was inserted on that date. This was all inserted above the acknowledgement by the notary, which is dated November 14, 1998.

Ms. Lopez reiterated that basically, it was the proof of residency that she felt was not complete; and that she did not have sufficient proof that the family lived there, until the she received information that was furnished for the first time on December 2.

An extensive cross-examination of Ms. Lopez by counsel, in an attempt to obtain an admission that the Certificate of Inhabitancy was the only factor that caused the delay, was unsuccessful, as was the attempt to impeach Ms. Lopez' credibility.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having heard the testimony, observed the witnesses, reviewed the documentary exhibits and considered the argument of counsel, I FIND the following FACTS, by a preponderance of the believable evidence:

1. The petitioner arrived in the United States with her three children on October 31, 1998. She and the children moved into her sister's rented apartment. There, they joined the petitioner's mother, her sister and her sister's child.

2. Since the petitioner, M.G.L., spoke only Haitian/Creole, and she had little or no facility with the English language, her sister, M.C.L., translated, spoke for her and helped her with all of the transactions and informational needs involved in this matter.

3. Three days after arriving in the United States, the petitioner and her sister went to the Board offices for the purpose of enrolling petitioner's three children in the District's schools. They brought some documents with them, Exhibits P-1 through P-10, which consisted of grade reports, a transfer form and vaccination certificates, all from the Haitian schools or the American Embassy in Haiti. Some of these forms are written in petitioner's native language. The two women saw a receptionist, who gave them packets containing various forms, instructions and other items needed to provide the Board with registration information.

4. The forms and information to be provided at the time of registration included a new student registration form, a family information form, a home language survey form, a record release form, a certificate of residency form (in this case for a renter), a certificate of Inhabitancy form, a request for documentation showing proof of residency, a transfer card from previous schools, birth certificates, recent report cards, standardized test results and immunization record forms itemizing the various diseases for which immunization is required. See Exhibit R-2.

5. The receptionist made an appointment for the petitioner and her sister to return with the completed documentation on November 16, 1998, nine school days later. Two of these nine days, November 12 and 13, were N.J.E.A. Convention dates, and it is not known if the administrative staff was available on those days.

6. The petitioner did not leave the documentation she brought with her on November 3 with the receptionist. Instead, she retained them and brought them back on November 16.

7. One of the documents included in the packets given to the petitioner was a Certificate of Residency form, for a renter. Satisfactory completion of this document was required as proof that the petitioner and her children were bona fide residents of the municipality.

8. Another document to be completed by the petitioner was a Certificate of Inhabitancy form, (C.I.) a document to be completed by the petitioner (or by the petitioner's sister in this case), the Township Tax Assessor and the Township zoning and housing official. The directions on top of the form are as follows:

> This form must be completed before registering children for the West Orange Public Schools. Students may be allowed to enroll and attend school before the completion of the housing investigation and subsequent certification, provided they satisfactory meet all other requirements for school entry. Failure to comply with the housing investigation may result in school exclusion.

The instant petition was filed after the C.I. was not approved. The Township Housing Official, after considering of the number of inhabitants in the apartment, (three adults and four children) denied approval of the "inhabitancy," stating that the dwelling unit was occupied by too many people.

9. The petitioner claims that this action, the refusal of the Municipality to approve of the inhabitancy, was responsible for the Board's failure to register the children on November 16 or shortly thereafter.

10. The above assertion is not true. The Board never denied enrollment or registration of the children, and the registrar never said that enrollment would be denied without approval of the form (despite the sister's testimony to the contrary.) Instead, registration was delayed, pending satisfactory completion of other requirements. In particular, the Certificate of Residency was not satisfactorily completed on or after November 16, until December 2. The occupants' names were not filled in, and petitioner had not signed the form. One transcript was missing, and the immunization records were not complete.

11. Failure of the petitioner to satisfy the Municipality with regard to the C.I. was not the reason why the children were not registered on November 16 or within a few days thereafter. The names of the children and the petitioner's signature were not inserted onto the form until December 2, one day after the petition was served on the respondent. Furthermore, these names and the petitioner's signature were inserted into the form above the acknowledgment, which had been signed by the notary approximately two weeks earlier. The primary factor causing the delay in enrolling the children was the incomplete information required to be submitted as proof that their residence was in the Township of West Orange.

12. A separate letter verification of residence addressed to the Board by the landlord was not furnished to the Board until December 2, on which date satisfactory proof of residency was furnished for the first time, and on which date the children were registered. That was nine school days after November 16, when the registrar informed the petitioner that the returned information was not complete, primarily because satisfactory proof of residency was missing.

13. The registrar never denied enrollment for the children, even though she informed the petitioner that she would like to have the Certificate of Inhabitancy form completed. However, the failure to obtain approval on that form was not a cause for the delay.

14. The petitioner (through her sister) believes that registration should have been accomplished on November 16 or within a few days thereafter. Satisfactory proof of residence was not furnished until December 2, on which day the registration was accomplished. That was one day after service of the petition. However, no convincing evidence was adduced that the registration would not have taken place on December 2 in any event, even had the petition not been served on December 1.

DISCUSSION

> Public Schools shall be free to the following persons over 5 and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Section b. (1) of the above statute refers to a person who is kept in the home of another person who is domiciled within the school district and supported by such other person, as also being qualified to attend the District's schools, but only upon filing of a sworn statement that the guardian or custodian is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child. This must be accompanied by a copy of the lease, if the person is a tenant, or a sworn statement by a landlord acknowledging the tenancy.

This latter section does not strictly apply to the instant situation, because no evidence was adduced to indicate that the sister was supporting the children. However, it illustrates the kind of proofs to be furnished to a Board of Education that indicate bona fide residency on the part of those seeking admission to the schools. This section continues with a statement that, if in the judgment of the Board of Education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the Board may deny admission to the child. If that happens, then the resident may contest the Board's decision to the Commissioner within twenty-one days of the date of the denial, after which an expedited hearing on the validity of the claim will be ordered by the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1).

Of course, in the event of such a denial, the Board is obligated to notify the resident in writing of his or her right to contest the decision within twenty-one days. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.(1).

The petitioner claims violation of this statute by the Board, arguing that there was such a denial and no conforming notice was given. That did not happen. As indicated in the Findings of Fact, above, which were found by a preponderance of the credible evidence, there was no denial. Rather, registration and enrollment was delayed, primarily pending receipt of satisfactory proof of residency.

In such circumstances, it must be concluded that, in the absence of a denial, the statute was not violated. At most, the Board was dilatory, by not moving with greater dispatch. However, the period of delay, while perhaps excessive by five or six school days (after considering teacher's conference days and the Thanksgiving holiday), was contributed to by the petitioner and her sister, who did not furnish or offer to furnish the reasonably required proof of residency in a shorter period of time.

Any dilatoriness was remedied when the petitioner engaged counsel, who immediately filed a very extensive petition. In fact, the petition was not filed with the Commissioner of Education until December 2, 1998, the same day on which the Board registered the children. It is not known if petitioner's counsel first attempted to obtain satisfaction by calling a Board official or the Board's attorney, or by writing a letter that might have accomplished the petitioner's goal without the exacerbation that took place thereafter.

The petitioner, in her brief, correctly argues that any requirement that a Certificate of Inhabitancy be granted as a condition for admission to school, is improper. That argument is clearly valid, but such a scenario did not take place in this case. The Certificate of Inhabitancy was one of many items involved in the applications for admission, but it was not responsible for the delay in enrolling the children.

In fact, it was later stipulated by the respondent's attorney that the Board would totally discontinue the inclusion of the Certificate of Inhabitancy in its school registration packets. This advice was forwarded in response to earlier advice from this judge that such an approval is a clear function of the Municipality, apart from the question of whether or not children who establish residence should be admitted to the schools. Unfortunately, in response to the Board's agreement to discontinue its inclusion of the C.I., the petitioner (through counsel) sought to intensify and expand the scope of this dispute by filing a motion to further amend the complaint on several grounds and by demanding additional relief that, in this judge's opinion, was designed to further humble the Board. The motion to amend, opposed by the respondent, was denied because it was filed out of time; the hearing having been concluded and briefs having previously been filed.

The petitioner also alleges various violations of State regulations, statutes, and constitutional guarantees based on a claim that the Board required submission of complete immunization records prior to enrollment. N.J.A.C. 8:57-4.5(a) states that a child may be admitted to a school on a provisional basis if a physician or health department can document that at least one dose of each required age appropriate vaccine(s) or antigen(s) has been administered and that the pupil is in the process of receiving the remaining immunization(s).

In her testimony, Ms. Lopez did indicate that in her initial perusal of the documentation submitted on November 16, she found that the immunization record was incomplete. However, she did not state that enrollment was denied for this reason, only that it was a factor that she preferred to see completed. The immunization records, Exhibits P-6, P-7, P-8, P-9 and P-10, were completed by a panel physician, presumably in Haiti. Since the children and the records had come from a small foreign country, with some portions of the records written in another language, it is not unreasonable for the registration authorities to seek some verification from a local health authority. In any event, no evidence was elicited to explain or expand upon the immunization records contained in the above exhibits, to determine whether or not they were acceptably complete.

In her brief, petitioner argues that the Board used the lack of complete immunization records as a pretext to deny admission to the schools. Again, the Board did not deny admission, and the proofs do not justify this claim by the petitioner. The petitioner's pretext theory is not supported by the evidence.

A similar argument is submitted by petitioner with regard to possibly incomplete Haitian school records or transcripts. The same comments apply to this claim. Registration was not solely denied for this reason either. As with the proof of residency, the foregoing records and completed forms were not delivered to Ms Lopez until December 2, 1998. The children were enrolled at the same time.

The relief sought by petitioner (or perhaps more accurately, petitioner's attorney) encompasses a series of unusually broad universal remedies, most of them couched in terms of demands for declaratory rulings, as itemized earlier in this decision. The pronouncements she seeks extend far beyond the scope of the initial reason for this litigation; and certainly far beyond any remedy that was needed by the petitioner and her children. The seemingly ferocious quest for punitive measures against the board, particularly after the children were enrolled in the schools, (albeit delayed by several days) is seemingly designed to satisfy the broad ideological goals and desires of counsel, in a manner that lost any connection with the need to obtain enrollment of the children; which was accomplished on the day that the petition was filed.

The respondent's argument is correct, when the Board states that declaratory rulings should apply to the present existence of actual and bona fide controversies. As of December 2, 1998, the children were registered, and the controversy and issue that caused the petition to be filed had been resolved. Furthermore, the Commissioner does not order public declarations.

The only failing on the part of the respondent and/or its staff people was the delay in accomplishing the enrollments. That delay, after deducting school closing time to allow for the Thanksgiving holiday and teacher's conferences, totaled no more than five or six school days after November 16, and was contributed to by the petitioner herself, who did not provide complete or satisfactory proof of residence until December 2.

It is CONCLUDED as follows:

The respondent was dilatory, to some extent, when it delayed the processing of petitioner's applications for enrollment for a period of five or six more school days than was necessary. The delay, albeit excessive, was contributed to by the petitioner, who did not satisfactorily furnish proof of residency in a timely fashion. The fact that the petitioner had arrived from another country, with accompanying language difficulties, also contributed to the delay.

At no time did the Board deny admission or enrollment to the children, and registration was accomplished on December 2, 1998, on the same day that completed proof of residency was submitted together with other records, and one day after the Board was served with the petition. (The testimony of the Registrar, Ms. Lopez, is found to be more accurate and credible than that of petitioner and her sister.)

Incorporation of the Certificate of Inhabitancy in the application documents and instructing the petitioner to obtain its completion was inappropriate and should not have been any part of the registration process. It is not sanctioned by any known law or regulation. Nevertheless, the petitioner's inability to obtain compliance was not the cause of the delayed registration. Furthermore, respondent has furnished assurances that this item, which is solely within the province of the municipal housing officials, not the Board of Education, has been and will be removed as part of the enrollment application.

The authorities cited by both the parties, indicating that the standard of review concerning the policies and practices of the Board of Education is whether their decision was unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious, is correct. Kopera v. West Orange BOE 60 N.J. Super 283 (App. Div. 1960); Boyle v. Riti 175 N.J. Super 158 (App. Div. 1980); Thomas v. Morris Township BOE 89 N.J. Super 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Mountain Lakes BOE v. Maas 56 N.J. Super 245 (App. Div. 1959); Paddock v. Demarest BOE 1974 S.L.D. 435. After considering all the facts and circumstances, it must be CONCLUDED that the action of respondent's personnel was not unreasonable or arbitrary or capricious, even though registration was delayed for the number of days discussed herein.

The petitioner has not proved that the children were educationally deprived or harmed by this relatively short delay; hence a claim for compensatory education is not justified.

Even though an award of monetary damages is not cognizable in this forum, petitioner has failed to prove that any harm resulted which might entitle her to damages.

An award of attorneys fees is also not cognizable on account of petitioner's cause of action in this forum. See, Basley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 442, 443 (1990); State Dept. of Environ. Protec. v. Ventron Corp., 94 N.J. 473, 504 (1983).

The three children were admitted to the District's schools on December 2, 1998, one day after service of the petition, and on the same day that the petition was filed. The Board had never contested their eligibility. Therefore, the petitioner's demands pertaining to their eligibility and admission to school are moot. The controversy was successfully ended in favor of the petitioner on that day.

The reason for the petitioner's filing of the petition, to obtain registration of her children in the District's schools, was accomplished almost immediately after the petition was served on the respondent. In fact, the amended petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education five days after the children were registered. There was no viable or useful reason to expand the scope of the initial controversy beyond the need to obtain the relief sought for the petitioner's children. While not initially frivolous, because it's original purpose was valid, the continued litigation and it's subsequent attempts to magnify it into a broad, universal cause celebres might be so characterized.

ORDER

Although the respondent has voluntarily agreed to remove the municipal Certificate of Inhabitancy from its school admission application packet, it is nevertheless ORDERED that said certificate be totally eliminated from the Board's application procedures.

It is further ORDERED all other demands for relief by petitioner are DENIED and the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the West Orange Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions urge affirmance of only that part of the Initial Decision which orders the Board to eliminate the Certificate of Inhabitancy (CI) form from its application procedures and rejection of the remainder of the decision denying all other relief. Petitioner further requests reversal of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) January 24, 2000 Order denying her motion to amend the pleadings to conform to the evidence.

Petitioner first contends that the ALJ made numerous mistakes of fact which formed the basis of his legal rulings; i.e., that the CI, incomplete immunization and incomplete school transcripts did not form a basis for the Board's delay/denial of admission in enrolling petitioner's children, each point of which she avers is admitted by the Board's employee for registering students, Ms. Lopez, both in her testimony at hearing and in answer to interrogatories. Petitioner next addresses the ALJ's finding that registration was "delayed" due to petitioner's failure to produce a transcript for one child and complete immunization records for all children and to "satisfactorily" complete the Certificate of Residency-Renter form until December 2, 1998. (Initial Decision at 12 and 14) Petitioner reiterates her argument that the first two reasons for denying admission are plainly unlawful and urging that the record does not support a finding that failure to properly complete the Certificate of Residency form caused a delay in admission. As to this last point, petitioner states, inter alia, that:

> Ms. Lopez testified that she took the Certificate of Residency form from petitioner M.G.L. on November 16, 1998, retained it, and never returned it to M.G.L. to correct any deficiency, T127-17. Common sense dictates that Ms. Lopez would have returned the form to petitioner with instructions for proper completion if incompleteness had in fact been a reason for delaying admission.
> Further, the record established that M.G.L. was motivated to enroll her children in school, and there is no reason to doubt that she would have properly filled in the form had she been so instructed. M.G.L. kept her appointment with Ms. Lopez on November 16, went to the municipal housing official twice, and even consented to a housing inspection, in an attempt to get the CI. She returned to Ms. Lopez' office in late November after the initial denial on November 16, and after another rejection of the CI by the housing official, in a second attempt to gain admission. M.G.L. also went so far as to retain an attorney and file the petition. As the ALJ acknowledged, all that was required to satisfactorily complete the Certificate of Residency form was filling in the names of the inhabitants of the dwelling unit and M.G.L.'s signature, Initial Decision at p. 12, tasks which could have been accomplished at any time, and certainly on November 16, when petitioners first presented the form to Ms. Lopez. Finally, as discussed below[1], petitioners provided the Board with other proof of residency prior to December 2, 1998, and still were not admitted to the district. The record does not support a finding that M.G.L. was at fault for delaying admission. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3-4)

Petitioner next avers that the ALJ's conclusion on page 13 of the Initial Decision that no convincing evidence was adduced that the registration would not have taken place on December 2, 1998, even if the petition had not been served on December 1, is in direct contradiction to Ms. Lopez' testimony (Tr. at 90-92), which stated that she telephoned petitioner to schedule an appointment for her to register the children on December 2 in response to receipt of the petition. Petitioner also excepts to the ALJ's finding that there was a delay of only five or six school days in enrolling her children, averring that such a finding is unfounded, since she first applied for admission on November 3, and was not given an appointment to return until November 16, nine school days later, and the children were not admitted until December 2, an additional nine days later.

Petitioner further urges rejection of the ALJ's finding at page 15 of the Initial Decision that the Board stipulated it would "totally discontinue" use of the CI form in the registration packet and the finding at page 18 that the Board "had furnished assurance" that the CI "has been and will be removed as part of the enrollment application." As to this, she maintains that the record is devoid of any such stipulation or assurance by the Board; thus, the ALJ had no factual basis for making this finding.[2]

Petitioner also argues, inter alia, that the ALJ did not address her claim that her children were denied admission to school without due process, instead finding that the Board never denied admission and couching the Board's conduct as a "delay" in granting admission. As to this, petitioner maintains that regardless of whether the Board's conduct is characterized as a denial or a delay, the result was that petitioner's children were deprived of their constitutional and statutory right to a public education for an entire month, without ever receiving written notice explaining the basis for the Board's action or inaction. The final point of petitioner's of residence" on December 2, 1998, averring that this is incorrect because Ms. Lopez testified at hearing (Tr. at 137-138) and admitted in interrogatories that petitioner provided her with the letter sometime in late November. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4, 5)

[2] Petitioner conjectures that the ALJ's finding is referring to a letter sent by the Board's attorney to her attorney, after the close of the hearing, proposing to eliminate the CI from the application process in exchange for her dismissing with prejudice all other claims against the Board, a letter which petitioner maintains was provided to the ALJ in contravention of N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.10. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 6)

exceptions argues that her motion to amend the pleadings to conform to the evidence should have been granted.[3]

In response, the Board contends that petitioner's exceptions merely rehash arguments previously made to the ALJ which were comprehensively addressed and rejected in the Initial Decision. In support of this position, the Board relies on the arguments set forth in its post-hearing brief. The reply exceptions further aver, inter alia, that "[p]etitioner continues to fight a battle where none exists" and she fails to grasp elemental facts such as the fact that her children could not have been immediately enrolled on November 3, 1998, the date she picked up the registration packet, because "[a] registration process must be followed, and if petitioner fails to comply with that process, it is not the fault of respondent." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2, 3)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, including the transcript of the hearing before the OAL, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's order that the CI be totally omitted from the Board's application procedures. The Commissioner further finds, however, that the factual circumstances surrounding the issues in this matter are considerably more troubling than characterized by the Board in its reply exceptions and, in certain aspects, as addressed by the ALJ.

Initially, the Commissioner wishes to emphasize that the ALJ was absolutely correct in determining that it was improper for the Board to require that a CI be completed as part of its registration process, a factor which, in the Commissioner's judgment, contributed more substantially to the delay in the children's enrollment in this matter than conveyed by the [3] Following the hearing in this matter, petitioner filed a motion to amend the petition to conform to the evidence to add legal claims against the Board's policy and practice of denying admission based on incomplete immunizations and lack of school transcripts. The Board opposed the motion, arguing that petitioner had knowledge, through discovery, of the reasons why her children were not admitted to school until December 2, 1998, thus, her latest date of notice was April 7, 1999. Therefore, the Board argued, the motion to amend was untimely filed. On January 24, 2000, the ALJ issued a letter denying the motion because it was far out of time and he would not consider re-opening the hearing. The ALJ offered to keep the record open for petitioner to file responsive briefs which petitioner declined to do.

ALJ or the Board. Petitioner and M.C.L, the sister with whom petitioner and her children were residing, should never have been put in the position of having to make several visits to the West Orange Zoning and Housing Authority and be subject to a housing inspection as part of the registration process, factors which clearly contributed to the inability of petitioner to enroll her children in the District because of the Township's refusal to issue the CI. Nor, in the Commissioner's judgment, should there have been telephone conversations between the housing authority clerk and Ms. Lopez, the District's registrar, about the issue of the CI and the enrollment of petitioner's children. As determined by the Commissioner in Board of Education of the City of Orange, Essex County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, 1987 S.L.D. 2217 and Middle Township Board of Education v K.K. and P.K., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 461, residing in a dwelling in violation of local housing ordinances/conditions is not an issue/factor that a board of education may consider in determining enrollment eligibility.

As to other troublesome issues presented in this matter, the Commissioner finds that when petitioner came to the District office on November 3, 1998 to enroll her children, she should have been provided a date for review of the enrollment/registration material far sooner than November 16, 1998.[4] The Commissioner further finds that it was not appropriate for enrollment to be delayed in this matter, even in part, on the basis of incomplete transcripts. There is no provision in statute or code which requires a parent or guardian to provide a transcript prior to a child's enrollment in school. Student transcripts go to the issue of a student's educational placement, not to eligibility to enroll or be admitted to school.

As to the issue of incomplete immunization records delaying the enrollment of petitioner's children, the Commissioner finds that incomplete immunization records may not interfere with the enrollment of a child in a school district, notwithstanding that it may, by law, be a basis for delaying actual admission to school. (N.J.S.A. 26:1A-9, N.J.A.C. 8:57-4.1 et seq.) However, it must be emphasized that any decision as to whether or not immunization records are complete and what impact there may be on attendance at school once the student is enrolled, is an issue which is solely to be determined by a certificated school nurse or administrator, not by support staff.

[4] The Commissioner finds M.C.L.'s testimony entirely credible that two dates for review of registration material were provided to her and petitioner, November 16 and 22, 1998. (Tr. at 29)

The Commissioner, upon review of the full record in this matter, further finds that any delay on petitioner's part in accomplishing enrollment of her children in the District was not intentional. The Commissioner finds that the Certificate of Residency form (R-1) could in fact be confusing, since it does not allow for a situation where a parent, such as petitioner, and her children are residing with a person who is a resident of the District but is not a tenant on a rental/lease agreement. Circumstances were compounded by petitioner's having to run around trying to get a CI, a document which, as previously determined, should not have been required in the first place. Additionally, the record does not satisfactorily establish why the children were not enrolled in the District upon presentation of the landlord's letter of verification in late November. Further, the Commissioner finds that petitioner is correct in her contention that the record establishes that the enrollment of her children in the West Orange School District was only due to the filing of her Petition of Appeal and not due to any action on the part of the registrar or the Board finding petitioner's children eligible for enrollment or attendance in the District.[5]

Moreover, while it is true that the Board itself never denied enrollment of petitioner's children, the Commissioner finds that the enrollment of petitioner's children was thrust into a limbo where no singular piece of "incomplete" registration information was said to be preventing enrollment and where no actual denial of enrollment was issued by the Board or one of its administrators, but where no education was available to the children until petitioner learned through community, not school, sources of how to file an appeal with the Commissioner.

Given the above, the Commissioner determines that, in addition to the ALJ's order that the district discontinue inclusion of a CI in its registration packet, the District is ordered not to allow the absence or incompleteness of transcripts and immunization records to interfere with the enrollment of a new student.[6] The Commissioner further directs that the county superintendent review the District's policies and procedures for enrolling new students to assure that (1) residency forms are easily understood and appropriate to various living arrangements and the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; (2) parents are immediately informed of the administrator to contact if they experience delays or difficulties in enrollment; and (3) decisions on enrollment are expeditiously issued and due process/appeal rights are communicated to the parents immediately upon presenting a student/s for purposes of enrollment in the District. All other relief requested by the petitioner is herein denied, including the remedy sought with respect to her motion to amend the petition.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[7]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BUENA REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

J.B., Mother of C.B., petitioner, pro se

Kimberly A. Baldwin, Esq., for respondent (Capizola, Fineman and Lepham, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 1, 2000 Decided: September 1, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW , ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, J.B., seeks an Order by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to rescind the suspension of her son, C.B., from the school under the direction and control of the Buena Regional School District (Board). Petitioner also alleges and asserts that the Board failed to provide C.B. with home instruction as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A Prehearing Conference was held on July 27, 2000, at which, among other things, the issue to be determined by this tribunal were agreed upon and a plenary hearing was scheduled for September 29, 2000.

Subsequently, petitioner, J.B., petitioned the Commissioner for an Oral Argument for Emergent Relief, under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. As a consequence, oral argument was heard on September 1, 2000, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on September 1, 2000.

Prior to oral argument, the Board propounded a Motion for Summary Decision, pursuant to N.J.AC. 1:1-12.5, together with its statement of facts, legal arguments and exhibits. Petitioner did not respond to the Board's Motion, therefore, it was held in abeyance until the conclusion of the oral arguments.

The Factual Background of the instant matter, as set forth in the Board's brief, is as follows:

This matter involves the discipline imposed upon a Buena Regional High School student, C.B., following his involvement in the creation and design of a computer website. The website was dedicated to the hatred and scorn which four students felt towards a particular mathematics teacher, Patricia Arena. The website included derogatory and crude remarks about the teacher, as well as including interactive computer games and cartoons, which involved shooting at and maiming the teacher. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a complete printout of the contents of the computer website, which was submitted to the Board at the scheduled hearing.

This matter came before the Board after the officials at the high school learned of the website. The website listed the names of the students involved and their contribution to the website. C.B. has one of the largest roles in the creation and design of the website. Based upon the contents of the website, terroristic threat charges which were filed by the New Jersey State Police and are still pending.[1] In addition, the four students involved were brought before the Board for an expulsion hearing. There is no dispute that all four students were honors students with no prior disciplinary hearing at the high school.

The matter was referred to the Board for a full hearing. The high school administrators had submitted their recommendation for expulsion of C.B. and the other students involved. When the matter came before the Board, C.B. and his parents were represented by an attorney of their choosing, William Freihoffer, Esquire. The Board was present, as was the Solicitor and all witnesses, to begin the disciplinary hearing. Although the Board had received a preliminary recommendation from the high school administration, no decisions had been made and the hearing was about to proceed. After discussions with their attorney for more than one hour and with the Solicitor for the Board, C.B. and his parents decided to negotiate and accept a settlement rather than proceed with the hearing as scheduled. A Certified Court Reporter was present and a settlement was placed on the record. Attached hereto as Exhibit B is a complete copy of the transcript as it pertains to C.B. There were other students present at the same hearing. One student, through his counsel, accepted a settlement and the remaining student, who appeared pro se with his parents, elected to proceed with his hearing that same night. Because those students have not appealed the outcome of their matters, only the portion of the transcript pertaining to C.B. has been attached as Exhibit B.

As a review of the transcript shows, C.B. and his parents elected to enter into a consensual agreement rather than permit the Board to discipline C.B. after a full hearing. Although the hearing was about to commence, C.B. and his parents did not wish to proceed. Both the Solicitor and their own attorney asked C.B. and his parents on the record, whether they understood the Board's offer and accepted the same without proceeding to a full hearing. Both C.B. and his parents indicated that they wished to resolve the matter through an agreement rather than through a hearing. The agreement required that C.B. attend alternative school for one full year before re-admittance to Buena Regional High School. C.B. and his parents agreed.

[1] The Board stipulates that the charge of Terroristic Threats against C.B. was dismissed in Juvenile Court by the Honorable James L. Jackson, SCJ, on August 29, 2000. (P-4)

Following the Board hearing, the Board decided to withdraw the harsh punishment, which C.B. and his parents had agreed to and to issue a more lenient punishment on C.B. and the other students involved. The Board decided to permit C.B. to return to the high school after one semester, rather than after a full school year.[2] A Resolution was drafted and passed which memorialized the Board's more lenient discussion. See Exhibit C. It is from this Resolution which petitioner is now appealing. Petitioner has come before this Court seeking to have the Board's decision vacated and arguing that the disciplinary sentence imposed upon C.B. is unduly harsh. Petitioner has made this argument despite the fact that C.B. consented to a much more severe punishment on the record before the Board.

Petitioner's Argument

J.B. asserts that between April 13, 2000 and the end of the regular school year on June 16, 2000, the Board provided C.B. with only 17 hours of home instruction (P-1). As a consequence of this limited time for home instruction, C.B.'s grades suffered. (P-2)

Petitioner offered into evidence a psychiatric evaluation of C.B. administered by David Krefertz, D.O., in the Department of Psychiatry of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, School of Osteopathic Medicine. Therein, Dr. Krefetz observes and states:

Mental Status Examination:

> [C] is a 15 year old white male. He was well groomed. He was pleasant and cooperative throughout the interview. His speech was normal rate, rhythm and tone. His motor behavior was normal without any evidence of tics, dyskinesia or dysmorphic features. He described his mood as being "okay." He did admit to a period of sadness and anxiety after being arrested and states that has been resolving. He is goal directed. There is no evidence of any psychotic thought processes. There is no evidence of any hallucinations or delusions. There is no evidence of any suicidal ideas. There is no evidence of any aggressive ideas. He maintains > that the development of the website was a "joke." He states that since being arrested he does understand now why other people may be upset by the content. He feels that there may be some difficulties for him when he returns to the high school due to teachers knowing about the past incident. He has some concerns that the teachers have worn ribbons in supporting the geometry teacher but feels supported by other students who have worn ribbons in support of him. He self-esteem seems to be relatively intact. There is no marked themes of hopelessness. There are no themes of inappropriate guilt. His cognitive functions were grossly intact to age and grade level. He seems to have fair insight. His judgment at this time seems to be relatively intact. (P-3).

Dr. Krefetz made the following recommendations:

> 1. At this time I see no definitive need for any mental health intervention. [C] does seem to have some reactive anxiety and depression secondary to the events of the last six weeks which is resolving. It would be helpful for [C] and his parents to resolve all issues regarding disciplinary action by the school as soon as possible.
>
> 2. There is no psychiatric indication for any change of academic program.
> 3. [C] and his family should understand that they may have some difficulties when he does enter school again and the family should observe for any problems with maladjustment when he returns to school. (P-3)

The Board stipulated, on the hearing record, that there is no need for psychiatric treatment of C.B. at the present time.

Petitioner also offered into evidence, over the Board's objection, a letter of character references for C.B. by Mary F. Caprilotti. The letter was accepted into evidence by this tribunal and marked as Exhibit P-5.

Petitioner also offered into evidence a letter written by the Buena Borough Police Chief, Douglas E. Adams who advised that C.B. had completed his 100 hours of court ordered community service between July 17, 2000 and August 2, 2000. The Chief asserted that C.B.'s attendance was reliable, prompt and his performance was outstanding. (P-6).

Petitioner argues that the penalty imposed by the Board is too harsh and should be set aside. Petitioner contends that C.B. has suffered depression and his suffering is more than that shown by the teacher.

The Board objected to petitioner's representation arguing that the affected teacher now has a matter before the OAL, appealing the Board's decision not to award the teacher disability payments. In addition, the Board argues, the affected teacher also has a Workers' Compensation matter pending as a result of C.B.'s actions.

The Board's Argument

Point I

Petitioner is Estopped from Appealing the Discipline Imposed by the Board Since the Discipline Was an Agreement Voluntarily Entered into by Petitioners Following Lengthy Negotiations Between Their Counsel and The Board's Solicitor

The New Jersey Courts have long recognized the need to uphold and enforce settlement agreements between parties. Enforcing settlement agreements ensures that litigation has a beginning and an end. In the instant case, C.B. together with his parents waived their right to a full hearing before the Board. Although the Board was prepared to begin the hearing, after consultation with their attorney, William Freihoffer, Esquire and counsel for the Board, C.B. and his parents chose to enter into a disciplinary agreement removing C.B. from school for one full year. C.B. ultimately received a much more lenient discipline from the Board and must remain out of school for one marking period.

"The general rule is that unless an attorney is specifically authorized by the client to settle a case, the consent of the client is necessary." Amatuzzo v. Kazmiuk, 305 N.J. Super. 469 (App. Div. 1997). There is no doubt that C.B. and his parents participated in the decision to waive a hearing before the Board. (See Exhibit B, Transcript of Board hearing). This is not a matter where an attorney settled a case without his client's knowledge. Rather, this is a case where this child and his parents were fully aware of their rights and made a voluntary decision to waive their rights. The child and parents are actually in a better position than they would have been if the Board had moved to enforce the original agreement entered into by C.B. and his parents.

"[I]n private litigation, where the client by words or conduct communicated to the adverse attorney, engenders a reasonable belief that the attorney possesses authority to conclude a settlement, the settlement may be enforced." Id. at 475-76. C.B., his parents, and their attorney all clearly indicated their intention to settle this matter by agreement and that agreement must be upheld as a matter of law. To permit the petitioners to appeal simply because they have changed their minds about settlement undermines the entire settlement process.

Point II

The Decision of the Board Cannot be Considered to be Arbitrary, Capricious or Unreasonable Since This Case Does not Involve a Decision of the Board, but Rather Terms of a Settlement Agreement Negotiated and Entered Into by the Petitioners

When an administrative agency, such as a local board of education, acts within its authority, its decision is "entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such a decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable." Thomas v. Board of Morris Township, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Moreover, a reviewing court or agency will not substitute its independent judgment for that of a Board, where the Board's findings are supported by substantial evidence, i.e., evidence which a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support the Board's conclusion. Quinlan v. Board of Education of North BergenTownship, 73 N.J. Super., 40, 46 (App. Div. 1962).

The Board's agreement to permit C.B. to return to school in January 2001 was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. It was the result of significant settlement discussions and an unwillingness of C.B. and his parents to present their case to the Board. In fact, the Board's only decision was to lessen the severity of the punishment for which C.B. and his parents had negotiated and agreed on the record. The resolution passed by the Board memorialized the Board's decision to permit C.B. to return to school sooner that agreed by the parties. Certainly, the Board is permitted to exercise their discretion to reduce the punishment to which a student has agreed. In fact, the Board could have imposed the original punishment to which C.B. had agreed, but the Board instead chose to be more lenient. Accordingly, the petition filed by petitioners has no merit and should be dismissed.

In F.McB. v. Board of Education of the Township of Washington, 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 298, the court upheld a local school board suspension of a student from school activities as a reasonable exercise of the Board's authority. The court held that, "The actions of the Board and its agents were reasonable in that the application of discipline in this matter was directly related to the good order and best interests of the school and school activities." Id. at 306. The Commissioner adopted the court's decision and stated that "The Board's application of discipline was rationally related to the good order and best interests of the school and to the particular conduct exhibited by [the suspended student]." Id. Furthermore, in Barna v. Irvington Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 345, the Commissioner held that, "It is axiomatic that when a local Board acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and may not be disturbed absent a finding that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Id. at 347.

Point III

Respondent is Entitled to Summary Judgment Since There Are No Issues of Material Fact and the Facts Taken in the Light Most Favorable to Petitioner Require that Summary Judgment be Granted in Favor of the Board

According to Rule 4:46-2(c), summary judgment is only an appropriate remedy if the evidence shows that "there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." The Supreme Court of New Jersey recently considered the standard to be applied in determining summary judgment motions in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Under the standard recently adopted in Brill, the court must determine "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 317, 106 S. Ct. 2548 (1986)). The Supreme Court in Brill also stated the following:

> By its plain language, Rule 4:46-2 dictates that a court should deny a summary judgment motion only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a 'genuine issue to as to any material fact challenged.' That means a non-moving party cannot defeat a motion for summary judgment merely by pointing to any facts in dispute. Id.

The facts in this case are clear. Petitioners entered into an agreement with the Board rather than take their chances of permitting the Board to administer the appropriate discipline in this case. The transcript of the proceedings, attached as Exhibit B, proves that petitioners were willing participants in the settlement negotiations and waived their right to a hearing. Under any interpretations, the settlement and settlement terms are clear. Since there is no issue as to the parties' willingness to enter into a settlement agreement, and for all of the reasons stated above, there cannot be any dispute as to the material facts before this Honorable Court. Accordingly, respondent respectfully requests that this Honorable Court grant summary judgment in favor of the Board and dismiss the Petition filed by C.B. and his mother, J.B.

Having carefully reviewed and considered the entire record before me, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to carry her burden that emergent relief is warranted in the instant matter. In order for petitioner to prevail in her application for emergent relief, she must show that irreparable harm will be visited upon C.B. in addition to making a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. Petitioner shows neither of these elements. Crowe, supra. Rather, petitioner's own psychiatric evaluation of C.B. demonstrates that there is no indication of any serious psychiatric disorder or other psychiatric concerns. (P-3).

The harm C.B. and the other students has caused the teacher who was the victim of their acts is yet to be determined. Although C.B. may now regret his participation in the acts against his teacher, the fact remains that he must be accountable for his acts. C.B. must also understand that there are consequences for his actions and the Board's imposition of a one grading period suspension from its schools is, in the judgment of this tribunal, proper and appropriate. F. McB., supra.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that under the totality of the facts and circumstances of this matter, Summary Decision should be entered on behalf of the Board and the instant matter be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal for Emergent Relief is hereby DENIED. It is FURTHER ORDERED that SUMMARY DECISION is hereby ENTERED ON BEHALF OF THE BOARD and the herein Petition is DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, the Initial Decision and the Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief, as he concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's hearing determination that petitioner has not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE STERLING REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent brought several claims against respondent Board. Specifically, petitioner sought: removal from T.C.'s pupil records of an entry relating to a theft charge against T.C.; copies of records made and maintained pursuant to the Board's substance abuse prevention program; and, based on the board's expulsion of T.C., an order that the Board provide T.C. an education in an appropriate facility.

The ALJ determined that any entries in the Board's records relative to the theft charge had been removed; that the records of the substance abuse prevention program are confidential and may not be ordered released in this action; and that the Board complied with all laws governing the expulsion process with regard to T.C. and had directed petitioner to several alternative schools and offered to pay the tuition for the same. Based on these determinations, the ALJ recommended dismissal of the petition with prejudice.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition.

STERLING REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Record Closed: June 13, 2000 Decided: July 20, 2000

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners T.C. and his mother D.C. bring claims against the respondent, Sterling Regional High School Board of Education (BOE).

More particularly, petitioners (1) demand that the BOE remove from T.C.'s pupil record an entry relating to a theft charge; (2) demand that the BOE provide copies of records made and maintained pursuant to the BOE's substance abuse prevention program; and (3) claim that the BOE, having expelled T.C. for repeated misconduct, must provide to T.C. an education in a "proper . . . facility." See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 et seq.; see also P-1.

(1) The BOE points out that the subject entry has already been deleted from T.C.'s record and that petitioners have received copies of T.C.'s conformed pupil record. See P-21; N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 et seq. (2) The BOE points out that, although there was a substance abuse prevention program referral relative to T.C., petitioners acknowledge that no action was found necessary and, in any event, the program's records are confidential and not subject to disclosure by way of this case. (3) The BOE points out the following: Petitioners do not deny that T.C. engaged in the misconduct for which he was expelled. They do not allege that the BOE acted arbitrarily, etc., relative to the expulsion. They admit that the BOE has referred them to several alternative schools and that the BOE has offered to pay for the cost of T.C.'s education there. Given the above, the BOE submits that the petitioners' claims may not be granted and that the petition must be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 14, 2000, the petition and attached exhibits, "P-1" et seq., were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the petition, etc., to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where, on January 19, 2000, the petition was filed as a contested case and scheduled for a February 3, 2000, hearing. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On January 31, 2000, the BOE's answer was received in the OAL. Petitioners were deemed to be moving for emergent relief and, on February 3, 2000, the motion was heard in the OAL in Trenton (Hamilton Township); petitioner D.C. testified; and additional exhibits were marked. On February 4, 2000, I entered an order denying emergent relief and on February 15, 2000, the Commissioner entered a decision affirming my order. The parties communicated, but were unable to settle the case, and on June 13, 2000, a plenary hearing was held in the OAL.

FINDINGS OF FACT

T.C.'s date of birth is May 21, 1983. He resides with his parents in the borough of Magnolia, in the BOE's school district.

T.C., who has no siblings, has a history of misconduct (detailed below) for which he has been suspended from elementary school and from the BOE's high school. When asked what caused T.C.'s misconduct, D.C. testified that his grandmother's cancer and death in 1990 might have been a cause.

Relative to the 1997-98 school year, when T.C. was a high school freshman, the BOE's disciplinary records show the following (P-2):

For disruption in class on October 22, 1997, he received administrative detention (ADO) on October 28, 1997.

For disruptive behavior in the media center on November 3, 1997, he received internal detention on November 5, 6 and 10, 1997.

For cutting ADO on November 10, 1997, he received ADO on November 11 and 12, 1997, and school officials conferred with his parents on November 21, 1997.

For cutting teacher's detention on January 28, 1998, he received ADO on February 2, 1998.

For being unprepared for physical education (PE) class on February 26, 1998, he received ADO on March 3, 1998.

For being unprepared for PE class on March 4, 1998, school officials conferred with his parents.

Relative to the 1998-99 school year, when T.C. was a sophomore, the BOE's disciplinary records show the following (P-2):

For misbehaving in class and failure to appear for detention on October 19, 1998, he received ADO on October 22 and 24, 1998.

For cutting English class and PE on October 20, 1998, he received ADO on November 7 and 21, 1998.

For being late for PE class on October 27, 1998, he received ADO on October 29, 1998.

For use of inappropriate language and insubordination on October 28, 1998, he received ADO on November 3 and 4, 1998.

For failure to follow directions on October 28, 1998, he received a sixth-period suspension until a conference with his mother was held on October 30, 1998.

During his years in the BOE's high school, T.C.'s academic record has included many poor and failing grades. BOE-4.

During relevant times, consistent with law and its own policy, the BOE has had a federally funded substance abuse prevention program involving a Student Assistance Program's (SAP) Core Team. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10; 42 U.S.C.A. § 290ee-1 et seq.; 42 C.F.R. §§ 2.12(b)(3)(ii) and 2.12(b)(4). Consistent with the policy and program, when a student's actions indicate he might be at risk, the BOE's staff is to notify the Core Team and the Core Team submits to relevant staff a form for entry of relevant information. The program is dependent upon information that, without confidentiality, persons would be reluctant to provide, and without which the program would be unable to assist students and others in need. Therefore, BOE administrators instructed its staff that the forms and information-gathering process must be confidential. Also, the information may not serve as a basis for discipline. See P-33; P-33b; BOE-5.

In October 1998, T.C. made more visits to the boys' rest room than normal and, consistent with the program, the above-described referral forms were submitted to his teachers. Contrary to the above-described instructions, etc., one of T.C.'s teachers left the referral form on his desk where it could be seen by students, and another teacher advised T.C. of the process and he stated to T.C. that he did not appear to have a substance abuse problem. Naturally, this distressed T.C., who reported it to D.C. and D.C. demanded a copy of the referral form. In response, Lori Leonard, the Core Team's substance abuse coordinator, provided materials, including information on the program and a blank referral form. P-33b. Citing the need for confidentiality, Ms. Leonard declined to provide to petitioners any name or information relative to the action by the program. Superintendent Kasprack verbally reprimanded the two teachers who breached the program's confidentiality and he reiterated to the BOE's staff that the program activities were confidential.

In a letter dated February 4, 1999, D.C. requested that the school system transfer T.C. from one teacher's PE class to another and requested that the school system remove from T.C.'s records disciplinary actions relative to his use of restrooms. In this regard, petitioners submitted to the school system a note from the office of David W. Bradway, M.D., dated October 20, 1998, wherein it is written that T.C. suffered from digestive problems and that, when necessary, he should be excused to go to the rest room. P-6; P-3.

In a letter dated February 10, 1999, school superintendent Gary Kasprack wrote to D.C. that the BOE had transferred T.C. to the PE class requested; he transmitted to her a copy of T.C.'s disciplinary record; and he pointed out that the disciplinary record included no reference to use of the restroom. P-7. Superintendent Kasprack has also advised petitioners and they acknowledge that the Core Team found that no action was necessary relative to T.C.

By letter dated May 4, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack notified T.C.'s parents of the following: Because of T.C.'s "dangerous horseplay" in a locker room on April 29, 1999, "creating a confrontation during 1st period" on May 3, 1999, and abusive language, he had decided to place T.C. on "external suspension" for May 3, 4 and 5, 1999. The suspension would continue until a conference was held between the parents and the superintendent. They should telephone a given number to schedule the conference. Consistent with the BOE's policy and "Student/Parent Handbook," they had a right to an appeal the decision. P-8. By letter dated May 6, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack notified T.C.'s parents of the following: Confirming their conference, because of T.C.'s repeated disciplinary infractions during the 1998-99 school year, he was placed on homebound instruction pending a psychiatric evaluation. P-9.

D.C. appealed the decision to place T.C. on homebound instruction pending the psychiatric evaluation and requested an opportunity to appear before the BOE. P-10; P-13.

By letters dated May 14, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack confirmed that he had previously sent to D.C. copies of T.C.'s pupil records, disciplinary record, latest report card and permanent record card and he notified D.C. that the BOE would meet with her on May 20, 1999. He also notified petitioners of the following: Consistent with the BOE's policy, they had a right to appeal in writing within ten days and some of what they sought to appeal was out-of-time. On May 20, 1999, the BOE would hold a discipline and appeal hearing; during the hearing evidence and witnesses would be presented by the school system in support of the charges against T.C. Petitioners had a right to be present and the right to an attorney, to cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence. Homebound instruction would continue pending the outcome of the hearing, etc. Transmitted with the May 14, 1999, letters were copies of a notice of suspension and a letter detailing the charges, etc. P-12; P-12a.

In a letter dated May 19, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack wrote to D.C. as follows: As indicated in his May 14, 1999, letter, copies of T.C.'s complete pupil records had already been sent to her. Core Team records are not part of T.C.'s pupil records and, therefore, she could not examine those. It was T.C.'s disciplinary record, and not action by the Core Team, that caused the need for the psychiatric evaluation. The hearing scheduled for May 20, 1999, would go forward and she should attend and participate in it. P-14.

On May 20, 1999, the BOE held a disciplinary hearing relative to T.C. Petitioners appeared and asked about the Core Team records, but offered no defense to the charges. The BOE adopted a resolution relative to the matter. The BOE found T.C. guilty of repeated misconduct, i.e., (a) dangerous horseplay in the locker room, (b) creating a confrontation and (c) using abusive language. The BOE upheld the superintendent's decision to place T.C. on homebound instruction. The BOE required that T.C. undergo a psychiatric examination as a condition of readmission to the BOE's school system. D.C. represented that T.C. would enter the Camden County Technical School for the 1999-2000 school year and stated that she was not opposed to the psychiatric evaluation. BOE-1. On May 21, 1999, school officials forwarded to petitioners a copy of the written resolution. P-16; P-17.

T.C. enrolled in the Camden County Technical School for the 1999-2000 school year. However, after about two weeks, he dropped out and decided he wanted to return to the BOE's school system, conditioned on his psychiatric evaluation. P-18.

On October 18, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack met with petitioners, and in a letter dated October 19, 1999, he confirmed the subjects of the meeting. T.C. would continue in external suspension pending receipt of the psychiatric evaluation. T.C. had been admitted to school on the condition that he would behave well. However, during October 1999, T.C. engaged in numerous instances of misconduct including use of profanity, horseplay, refusal to cooperate, etc. P-20.

In a psychiatric evaluation dated October 19, 1999, James L. Hewitt, M.D., wrote the following: T.C. stated that, in a high school proficiency test, he performed in a way that would show how bad a grade he could get to see "how the school would react." He demonstrated anxiety and cognitive deficits in terms of awareness and social contexts, but no overt persistent disturbance, depression or suicidal thinking. He tended to blame others. Dr. Hewitt's impressions included adjustment disorder with possible future bipolar disorder, manic type. Dr. Hewitt found no grounds for classification or accommodation through Section 504, 29 U.S.C.A. 794. P-19.

On October 25, 1999, petitioners signed an agreement whereby T.C. agreed to behave consistent with rules of behavior and agreed that, in the event of misconduct, he was subject to expulsion. P-23. In a letter dated October 25, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack confirmed that, effective that day, T.C. was readmitted to the high school on the condition that he comply with those rules of behavior. P-22.

T.C. resumed his misconduct in the BOE's school system and, by letter dated November 22, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack notified petitioners of the following: T.C. was charged with use of profanity, repeated disruptions in and out of class, cutting class and leaving the school building without permission, all in violation of the above-described agreement and rules. He was placed on external suspension for November 22, 23, 24, 29 and 30, 1999. Petitioners had a right to appeal the discipline. Copies of records relative to the misconduct accompanied the letter. P-24.

By letters dated December 1, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack transmitted to petitioners copies of T.C.'s academic, discipline and attendance records. He also notified them that, on December 9, 1999, the BOE would hold a discipline and appeal hearing; during the hearing evidence and witnesses would be presented by the school system in support of the charges against T.C.; and petitioners had a right to be present and the right to an attorney, to cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence. P-25; P-26.

On December 9, 1999, the BOE held the disciplinary hearing. Testimony by BOE employees showed that, as charged, T.C. repeatedly addressed profanity towards them and that he engaged in other wrongful conduct in violation of the BOE's disciplinary code. The petitioners offered no defense to the charges and T.C. left the hearing stating, "This is all bullshit" and directing the middle-finger gesture of contempt towards the BOE. Thereafter, the BOE adopted resolutions wherein it recited that T.C. was proven guilty as charged. The BOE further permanently suspended T.C. The BOE also resolved that, if T.C. were accepted by an alternative high school, it would enroll him in that school in order to allow him to obtain credits sufficient to obtain his high school degree. However, if T.C.'s attendance in that school were below 85%, the BOE would not pay for his education in that school. P-28; P-30.

By letter dated December 23, 1999, the school system provided to D.C. the names, addresses, administrator names and telephone numbers of alternative schools in Camden, Gloucester and Burlington counties, so that she could contact them and make arrangements for T.C.'s application for enrollment. P-31.

D.C. testified that she telephoned the alternative schools. However, because the schools' students are troubled, with substance abuse or other problems, she did not wish T.C. to attend any of those schools. She testified that T.C. attends a school for training for work as an emergency medical technician and she expects him to complete that training in June 2000.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Pupil Records

There is no longer any dispute that the BOE removed from T.C.'s pupil record the entry relative to the theft charge. There is no claim that the BOE failed to properly make, maintain and provide copies of T.C.'s pupil records as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 et seq.

Given the above, as the BOE submits, the petitioners' claim in this regard may not be granted and must be dismissed.

Substance Abuse Prevention Program Records

There is also no dispute that, although there was a referral to the substance abuse prevention program, there was no finding that T.C. had a substance abuse problem and there was no further action in that regard.

Clearly, the above-described substance abuse prevention program is dependent upon information that, without confidentiality, persons would be reluctant to provide, and without such information the program would be unable to assist students and others in need. And under laws including acts creating programs for prevention of alcohol and substance abuse, records maintained as part of such a program are confidential. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 et seq.; 42 U.S.C.A. § 290ee-1 et seq.; 42 C.F.R. § 2.1 et seq.

T.C.'s teachers wrongfully breached the program's confidentiality. However, petitioners have cited no authority by which, in the OAL, an order may be issued requiring the BOE to further breach the confidentiality upon which the program depends by providing copies of the subject form, etc.

Patient records maintained by a program may be divulged with a patient's prior written consent or, whether or not the patient consents, upon a showing of good cause as authorized by an "appropriate order of a court of competent jurisdiction." 42 C.F.R. §§ 2.1(a), 2.1(b)(2)(C), 2.3, 2.23. However, the program did not identify T.C. as requiring services as a patient and, in any event, the OAL is an administrative forum and not a court of competent jurisdiction that could grant such relief. 42 C.F.R. § 2.61(a); see also N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2; N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1.

Given the above, as the BOE submits, the petitioners' claim in this regard also may not be granted and must be dismissed.

Discipline and the Alternative Schools

The State is required to provide a system of free public schools for the education of children between the ages of five and eighteen years and this is accomplished through local school districts operated by boards of education. N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1; N.J.S.A. 18A:8-1 et seq.

However, a student's right to a public education is conditioned on his good behavior. State v. Conk, 180 N.J. Super. 140, 145 (App. Div. 1981). A student who engages in, e.g., continued and willful disobedience, or who engages in open defiance of the authority of any teacher or person having authority over him, or who engages in the habitual use of profanity or obscene language, is liable to punishment, suspension or expulsion from school. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.

Where a school administrator has a reasonable basis for suspension of a student, he may temporarily suspend the student, pending and conditioned upon notice and a hearing before the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5. Consistent with the principles of due process and fundamental fairness, a student subject to suspension or expulsion has a right to notice of the charge on which the proposed suspension or expulsion is based; assistance of counsel; a hearing, during which the student may confront any witness against him or her; etc. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 to -5; Tibbs v. Franklin Bd. of Educ., 59 N.J. 506 (1971); R.R. v. Shore Reg'l High Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970).

Generally, public entities are presumed to act lawfully and in good faith; a reviewing court will not substitute its judgment for that of a public entity that has exercised its lawful discretion; and the party challenging a public entity's action must prove that the action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Bodies by Lembo, Inc., 286 N.J. Super. 298, 309 (App. Div. 1996); In re On-Line Games Contract, 279 N.J. Super. 566, 590 (App. Div. 1995); Colonnelli Bros., Inc. v. Ridgefield Park, 284 N.J. Super. 538, 541 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 143 N.J. 327 (1996); see also Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 269 (1958); Fitzpatrick v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 91 N.J. Super. 535, 539 (App. Div. 1966).

There is no evidence that the BOE acted arbitrarily, etc., relative to the expulsion of T.C. To the contrary, on the record here, it appears that the BOE complied with laws governing the expulsion process. Further, the BOE has directed T.C. to several alternative schools through which he can obtain credits to obtain his high school degree and the BOE has offered to pay for such educational services.

Given the above, as the BOE submits, the petitioners' claim in this regard also may not be granted and must be dismissed.

ORDERS

Consistent with the above, I DISMISS the petition and petitioners' claims WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

(Feintuch, Porwich and Feintuch, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 15, 2000 Decided:July 19, 2000

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 23,2000 for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Hearing dates were scheduled for August 1 and 2, 2000 but were adjourned because the parties had reached a settlement. A Stipulation of Settlement was signed by the parties and filed in this office on May 15, 2000. A copy is attached hereto.

In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842, the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> [T]he nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's findings that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest. See Cardonick at 850-51.

In this matter, the District filed charges against Bourelos, Social Studies teacher, charging him with chronic and excessive absenteeism. As a result of these charges, Bourelos was suspended without pay for 120 days, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-14. Prior to the tenure hearing, the parties engaged in settlement discussions and it was agreed that Bourelos would resign from his position, effective June 30, 2000. Further, that Bourelos would return to his position as of March 20, 2000. The District agreed to withdraw with prejudice the tenure charges of chronic and excessive absenteeism.

After a review of the entire record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest because it will save legal expenses as well as time. The charges herein do not involve any unbecoming conduct. I further FIND that Bourelos had full opportunity to consult with legal counsel prior to entering into the agreement. He is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action which he may deem appropriate. Further, Bourelos was informed by counsel that notwithstanding the parties agreement to settle this matter, the Commissioner may not approve the settlement agreement. Thus, any execution of the settlement prior to the approval by the Commissioner is done at the peril of the parties.

I CONCLUDE that the proposed settlement fully disposes of all issues and controversies. I further CONCLUDE that the terms of this settlement are in the public interest.

It is therefore ORDERED that upon approval by the Commissioner that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that the proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY AND THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school district challenged the determination of the Division of Finance that it was responsible for payment of tuition for the 1997-1998 school year for a student placed by DYFS. Petitioner alleged that a now repealed regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5), divested it of responsibility for payment of the student's tuition. The Commissioner remanded this matter to the OAL so that the parties would have an opportunity to present legal arguments with respect to the impact of the repeal on the Board's financial responsibility and the ALJ might have full opportunity to consider in the first instance the legal arguments of the parties as to the applicability to the regulation in dispute of the "time-of-decision" doctrine and the prospectivity rule, in light of the facts of this matter and the Commissioner's decision in Prospect Park.

The ALJ determined that the regulation, because it is no longer in effect, was inapplicable in this case and that, as the district of residence, petitioner is statutorily responsible for payment of tuition.

The Commissioner affirmed the conclusion of the ALJ. However, unlike the ALJ, the Commissioner concluded that petitioner is responsible for the student's educational costs under both the repealed regulation and the current regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.5(a)(4) and, therefore, he declined to undertake an analysis of the applicability of the "time of decision" rule and "prospectivity doctrine." The Commissioner interpreted N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5), the repealed regulation, as placing responsibility for payment of tuition on the local school district, and requiring participation in the placement decision, not as a condition precedent to invoking the tuition responsibility, but in order to ensure that the district addresses the student's IEP needs.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case concerns responsibility for the cost of education of M.M.C., a school-age child, during the 1997-98 school year.

In N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) the Legislature provides the criteria by which to determine the "district of residence" of school-age children and such a district is responsible for the cost of education of such children, including those classified and placed pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). 20 U.S.C.A. § 1401 et seq. During the 1997-98 school year, the Highlands Board of Education (BOE) was the "district of residence" of M.M.C., who is classified for special education services pursuant to the IDEA. During the 1997-98 school year, the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) placed M.M.C. in several institutions where he received educational services and the Department of Education's Division of Finance claims that the Highlands BOE is responsible for payment for such services. However, the Highlands BOE submits that N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4, now repealed, excepts it from responsibility.

The parties have cross-moved for summary decision and, for the reasons detailed below, I am denying the Highlands BOE's motion, granting the Division of Finance's motion and ordering the Highlands BOE to make payment for the subject services.

This case, previously docketed as EDU 425-99, is the subject of my November 3, 1999, initial decision (ID) and the "Procedural History" of the November 3, 1999, ID is adopted.

On December 23, 1999, the Commissioner of the Department of Education issued a decision adopting that part of the November 3, 1999, ID that concluded that the Highlands BOE was M.M.C.'s "district of residence" during the 1997-98 school year and remanding this case to allow the parties additional opportunity to address the effect of N.J.A.C. 6:28-4(b)(5)(ii), its repeal and the new regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. The Department then transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where, on February 14, 2000, it was filed as this contested case, bearing docket number EDU 677-00. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On March 27, 2000, the letter briefs of the Division of Finance and the Highlands BOE were filed. (In this remanded case, nothing was filed by the Middletown BOE.) On June 8, 2000, the motions were the subject of a telephone conference with the attorneys. On June 28 and July 3, 2000, the Highlands BOE filed a supplemental letter brief and affidavits which I have marked "P-1" and "P-2."

FINDINGS OF FACT

The "Findings of Fact" of the November 3, 1999, ID are adopted and supplemented as follows:

Barbara Resko, superintendent of the Highlands BOE and formerly director of special education for the Shrewsbury BOE's public school system, alleges the following: During the 1995-96 school year, M.M.C. resided in the borough of Shrewsbury and he was a student in the Shrewsbury BOE's public school system. In the Shrewsbury BOE's school system M.M.C. was classified for special education services, placed in a self-contained neurologically impaired class and made educational progress. After the 1995-96 school year, M.M.C. moved and resided in Middletown Township and, because of M.M.C.'s progress in the Shrewsbury BOE's school system, the Middletown BOE requested that M.M.C. continue in the Shrewsbury BOE's school system as a tuition student. However, the Shrewsbury BOE denied the request and, therefore, during the 1996-97 school year, M.M.C. was placed in a self-contained special education class in the Middletown BOE's public school system. P-1.

As written in the November 3, 1999, ID, in May 1997 a court order placed custody and care of M.M.C. with the DYFS and, beginning in May 1997, the DYFS placed M.M.C. in a series of foster homes and institutions. Responsibility for M.M.C.'s tuition during the 1997-98 school year is in issue here. See RNJ-L; RNJ-J; see also N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

Dr. Resko also alleges that M.M.C.'s history did not demonstrate the need for the residential placement in the institutions whose claims for payment are involved here. P-1. However, for the reasons detailed in the November 3, 1999, ID, M.M.C. had no residence available, e.g., from his parents, and Dr. Resko has identified no other appropriate residence for

M.M.C. Further, in January 1998, i.e., during the 1997-98 school year, the Division of Finance notified the Highlands BOE of the claim for payment for M.M.C.'s placement and the Highlands BOE filed no due process request or other challenge to such placement.

Kathleen C. Jannarone, secretary and business administrator of the Highlands BOE, alleges the following: When the Highlands BOE adopted its budget for the 1997-98 school year, it was unaware of its potential liability for M.M.C.'s educational costs. However, after notification of such potential liability, the Highlands BOE included moneys in its budget to defray such costs. P-2.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The "Conclusions of Law" of the November 3, 1999, ID are adopted and supplemented as set forth below.

In N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) the Legislature provides the criteria by which to determine the "district of residence" of school-age children and such a district is responsible for the cost of education of such children, including those classified and placed pursuant to the IDEA.

Regulations adopted May 15, 1989, and repealed effective July 6, 1998, governed special education, classification, placement, due process rights, etc. 21 N.J.R. 239. Among these, N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5) stated:

> Placement of a pupil with an educational disability in an approved residential private school by a public agency, other than the district board of education, shall be subject to the rules governing such agencies and to this chapter. The district board of education shall pay the nonresidential special education costs.
>
> i. When the pupil has been placed by a public agency empowered to make such placement, the placement shall meet the individualized education program requirements of the pupil.
>
> ii. The chief school administrator or his or her designee shall participate with the public agency in the placement decision if the > district board of education is to be responsible for the special education costs.

In Executive Order No. 22, issued August 5, 1994, the Governor ordered a comprehensive and thorough review of the Department of Education rules and regulations and "[a]ll regulations which are not necessary or which promote inefficiency or are overly prescriptive" were to be identified for further action. In Executive Order No. 27, on November 2, 1994, the Governor ordered all state agencies, when adopting, amending or readopting rules, to state whether federal standards were exceeded.

The Department of Education reviewed its rules and, in 1998, proposed repeal of special education rules including N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1 et seq. and promulgation of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq. In this regard, the Commissioner wrote that the review was intended to assure "a balance of flexibility and safeguards" and "to comply with the [IDEA]" and that the proposed rules were "needed to assure consistency in the delivery of special education programs and services." 30 N.J.R. 1219-20. In the rulemaking process, N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4 was not specifically identified; however, no similar rule was proposed. Effective July 6, 1998, i.e., after the 1997-98 school year, N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1 et seq. were repealed and replaced by N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq., which "supersede all rules in effect prior to July 6, 1998 pertaining to students with disabilities." N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1; see also 30 N.J.R. 1219. No rule similar to N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4 appears in the new rules, and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.5(b)(4) states:

> Placement of a student with a disability in an approved residential private school by a public agency, other than the district board of education, shall be subject to the rules governing such agencies and to this chapter. The district board of education shall pay the nonresidential special education costs. When the student has been placed by a public agency empowered to make such placement, the district board of education shall convene a meeting according to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(i)2 to revise the IEP as necessary.

In construing regulations, rules governing construction of statutes are applicable generally. Krupp v. Union County Reg. High Sch. Dist. # 1, 278 N.J. Super. 31, 38 (App. Div. 1994); Department of Health v. Tegnazian, 205 N.J. Super. 160, 175 (App. Div. 1985).

Exceptions to statutes should be strictly construed consistent with the manifest reason and intent of the statute. MSG Assoc. v. DEP, 278 N.J. Super. 108, 120 (App. Div. 1994), citing M. Alfieri Co., Inc. v. State of N.J. Dep't of Envtl. Protection and Energy, 269 N.J. Super. 545, 554 (App. Div.), certif. granted, 136 N.J. 30 (1994), and In re Stemark Assoc., 247 N.J. Super. 13, 18-19 (App. Div. 1991); see also Service Armament Co. v. Hyland, 70 N.J. 550, 558-59 (1976).

The Highlands BOE contends that, even if pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) it is the "district of residence," the repealed N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4 created an exception to the responsibility it would otherwise bear for the cost of M.M.C.'s education.

An administrative rule must be within the fair contemplation of the delegation of the enabling statute. New Jersey Guild of Hearing Aid Dispensers v. Long, 75 N.J. 544, 561-62 (1978). And N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 provides for no exception such as that created by N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5). However, presumedly the Commissioner of Education's broad power to equitably administer education laws allowed for promulgation of such a regulation. In Board of Education of the Borough of Prospect Park v. New Jersey Department of Education, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 134, remanded as EDU 1512-95, contrary to N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5), the DYFS failed to notify the district before placement and consistent with equitable principles, the Commissioner considered whether the circumstances justified the noncompliance and whether to waive compliance as a condition of responsibility for the district's bearing the cost of the child's education. The Commissioner found no circumstances justifying the noncompliance with N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5), then in effect, and declined to hold the district liable for the cost. However, N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5) has been repealed.

Where a statute is repealed and there is no savings clause or general statute limiting the effect of the repeal, it is as if the repealed statute had never existed, except as to matters and transactions passed and closed, and such a repeal takes away all remedies it gave and/or defeats all actions and proceedings pending under it at the time of its repeal. Parsippany Hills Assoc. v. Rent Leveling Bd., 194 N.J. Super. 34, 42-43 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 97 N.J. 643 (1984).

Here, the Highlands BOE was not afforded an opportunity to participate in the placement for the 1997-98 school year. On the other hand, by January 1998, i.e., during the 1997-98 school year, the Highlands BOE had notice of M.M.C.'s placement and it did not file a due process request or otherwise challenge the appropriateness of the placement. Further, the Highlands BOE has demonstrated no vested right obtained by way of N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4 that would require application of the repealed rule and thereby except it from its statutory responsibility as the "district of residence." N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. Finally, after notification of M.M.C.'s placement, the Highlands BOE included moneys in its budget for the costs of same. P-2.

Current law, presumedly expressing public policy, is generally applicable in lieu of repealed law. Riggs v. Long Beach Tp., 101 N.J. 515, 521 (1986), on remand, 212 N.J. Super. 69 (App. Div. 1986), rev'd, 109 N.J. 601 (1988).

N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5) involved the kind of "prescriptive" procedure that the Governor ordered identified for further action and such a repealed regulation should not except the Highlands BOE, the "district of residence," from its statutory responsibility for M.M.C.'s 1997-98 education costs. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b).

ORDER

The Highlands BOE's motion for summary decision dismissing the Division of Finance's claim for tuition is DENIED.

The Division of Finance's motion for summary decision granting its claim against the Highlands BOE for M.M.C.'s 1997-98 school year education costs is GRANTED.

The Highlands BOE is ORDERED to pay M.M.C.'s 1997-98 school year education costs.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY AND THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and Respondent, State of New Jersey, Department of Education's ("State") reply thereto were timely submitted and considered by the Commissioner.[1]

In its exceptions, the Board disputes the ALJ's finding at page 7 of the Initial Decision that "during the 1997-98 school year, the [Board] had notice of M.M.C.'s placement and did not file a due process request or otherwise challenge the appropriateness of the placement." (Initial Decision at 7) The Board contends that filing a due process petition, pursuant to regulation, would not have been the correct course of action; moreover, it did take appropriate action by immediately advising the State that it would not assume responsibility for

[1] By letter dated August 16, 2000, counsel for the State informed the ALJ that she had not yet received a copy of the Initial Decision, and that, upon receipt of same, an extension of time to submit exceptions and/or reply arguments would be required. Thereafter, counsel for the State was granted an extension of time to submit such arguments.

M.M.C. (Board's Exceptions at 2) Following a series of communications with the Department of Education, the Board filed a Petition of Appeal.

Instead, the Board argues, it was DYFS which failed to take the appropriate action, pursuant to its responsibility under the former regulations. Noting that the operative decisions herein were rendered well before July 1998, the date the new regulations went into effect, the Board reasons that the Initial Decision would force "the Highlands taxpayers [to] bear the consequences of a decision to amend a regulation which conferred an affirmative obligation on another arm of the State, an obligation which was ignored." (Id. at 3) Moreover, the Board asserts that the ALJ's strict reliance upon Parsippany Hills, supra, is wholly improper. Unlike the regulation herein, in Parsippany Hills, the disputed ordinance had expired and the Township did not enact a replacement.

Finally, the Board maintains its position that "[i]f the special education regulations were to be applied retroactively, across the board, school districts would be subject to countless claims of violations of special education requirements, merely because the requirements changed." (Id. at 4) "Surely", the Board reasons, "that would not be consistent with the State and federal mandate to protect the rights of disabled students." (Id. at 5) In this instance, the Board underscores that it was not notified of its responsibility for the educational costs of M.M.C. until January 1998, more than halfway through the 1997-98 school year. Therefore, even if the new regulations were to be applied herein, the Board questions how it could have met its obligation to conduct an IEP meeting under these circumstances, thereby concluding that it "was denied its right to participate in any meaningful decision-making regarding M.C.'s placement." (Id. at 7)

In reply, the State contends that the ALJ properly determined that the old rule, N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)(5), is not applicable herein, inasmuch as "petitioner has demonstrated no vested right obtained by way of N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4 that would require application of the repealed rule and thereby [except] it from statutory responsibility as the district of residence." (State's Reply at 2) Further, the State argues that, contrary to the Board's assertions, the ALJ's application of Parsippany Hills, supra, to the present matter is entirely proper, since prior case law has established "that the same rules which govern the construction and application of statutes and municipal ordinances also govern the construction and application of administrative regulations." (Id. at 3)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's conclusion, for the reasons set forth below, that petitioner, as the "district of residence" for M.M.C. for the 1997-98 school year, is responsible for the costs related thereto.

Subsequent to the Commissioner's remand of this matter, the parties were provided an opportunity to present legal arguments regarding the issue of the applicability of the "time of decision" doctrine and the prospectivity rule vis-à-vis the regulations in dispute, and in light of the facts in this matter. Having the advantage of such legal arguments, the ALJ's recommendation, as well as the parties' responses to the Initial Decision, and given the language of the regulation adopted in 1998 which removes any ambiguity regarding a local board's fiscal obligations in those cases where a student with a disability is placed in an approved residential private school by a public agency, the Commissioner now determines that, under either a prospectivity analysis[2] or a time-of-decision analysis,[3] the Board is responsible for the educational costs for M.M.C. for the 1997-98 school year. As such, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to determine which doctrine should be determinative herein.

As the Initial Decision indicates, the Department of Education conducted a review of special education regulations, which, while technically resulting in the repeal of "old" and adoption of "new" regulations in 1998 by the State Board of Education, essentially constituted a comprehensive revision to, and recodificaton of, the special education regulations. (See, State's Brief of March 17, 2000, Attachment, Memorandum to State Board of Education from Commissioner Klagholz, August 7, 1996) The newly codified rules, inter alia, clarified the responsibilities of district boards of education with respect to student placements. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.5 et seq. Specifically, although the former regulations clearly provided that, where a student with a disability was placed in an approved residential private school by a public agency, "[t]he district board of education shall pay the nonresidential special education costs," N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)5 (emphasis supplied), the pertinent rule went on to add:

> The chief school administrator or his or her designee shall participate with the public agency in the placement decision if the district board of education is to be responsible for the special education costs.
> N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)5ii

This language could reasonably be construed, and, indeed, was previously construed by the Commissioner, as placing a condition upon the local district's fiscal obligations, notwithstanding an otherwise unambiguous directive. The revised regulation, however, while likewise requiring that, where a student with a disability is placed in an approved residential private school by a public agency, "[t]he district board of education shall pay the nonresidential special education costs," N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.5(a)4 (emphasis supplied), replaces the prior language with the

[3] The time-of-decision doctrine would apply the more recently-adopted rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.5(a)4, to the instant directive: "the district board of education shall convene a meeting according to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(i)2 to revise the IEP as necessary."

Consequently, in light of the clarification provided by the amended rule, the Commissioner finds that N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)5ii should not be read to have established a condition precedent to a district's liability for education costs, but, rather, to have mandated that the chief school administrator, or designee, of the district participate in the placement decision for the purpose of addressing the student's individualized educational program planning needs. The Commissioner now so interprets N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)5ii, and, finds that, to the extent prior decisions construed the regulations differently, they do not control the outcome in this matter, or in future matters which may invoke N.J.A.C. 6:28-7.4(b)5ii.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons set forth above, that petitioner is liable for payment of M.M.C.'s educational costs for the 1997-98 school year.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning aunt and uncle challenged the Board's residency determination that their nephew, D.C., was not entitled to a free education in the District.

The ALJ determined that Petitioner S.C. and a friend who testified were credible witnesses. In light of the record and the testimony of the witnesses, the ALJ found that petitioners were domiciled within the District and were supporting their nephew gratis because D.C.'s parent was not capable of providing parental support due to substance abuse. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that D.C. was not residing with petitioners solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that petitioners were not liable for tuition to the District during the period that D.C. attended its schools. The ALJ dismissed the District's claim for payment of tuition.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioners demonstrated that D.C. was entitled to a free education in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:1b(1). The Commissioner ordered the Board to continue to admit D.C. into its public school system free of charge.

IN THE MATTER OF J.C AND S.C
ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD D.C., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE,
ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

J.C. and S.C., Petitioners Pro Se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 23, 2000 Decided: July 21, 2000

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In August 1999, Petitioners J.C. and S.C. applied to enroll their nephew, D.C. in the West Orange School District (District). The District denied D.C. free admission to its schools because the parent did not demonstrate a family or economic hardship, which would render the parent unable to care for the child. On October 5, 1999, respondent permitted D.C. to enroll in the District and seeks reimbursement of tuition costs. Petitioners appeal the residency determination of respondent with regard to D.C.

On November 18, 1999, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on May 5, 2000. The parties submitted post hearing briefs and the record closed on May 23, 2000.

ISSUE

Whether D.C. is eligible to attend the Township of West Orange School District free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

S.C. testified that he and his wife, J.C. have been married for two years and recently moved to West Orange. In July 1999, J.C. 's brother C. and his two children visited petitioners' home. Shortly thereafter, C. asked petitioners to take care of his son D.C. The other child was sent to live with a relative in Atlanta. C. went to the home of another relative in Orange, N.J. In August 1999, C agreed to give petitioners temporary guardianship and custody of D.C. R-2. Thereafter, petitioners applied to enroll D.C. in school. C provided an affidavit that he is the parent of D.C. and resides in Orange. (R-3). Further, the affidavit provides in part:

> The specific reason(s) I am not capable of supporting or providing care for him/her is/are:
> We have just move to Jersey and I am staying with my brother and there is not enuf [sic] room for us all so my sister willing to have my son stay with her until I fine [sic] a big enuf [sic] place.

Based on family discussions and his interaction with C., S.C. believes that C is a substance abuser. C. and his wife and their three children lived in Las Vegas for about thirty years. S.C. did not know the current status of C.'s marriage, but believes that the wife remained in Nevada and lived in a trailer park. The last contact from D.C.'s mother came in December 1999, through a mailed Christmas gift to D.C. The package was postmarked Henderson, Nevada. S.C. believed that C. last lived in Jersey City.

S.C. and J.C. have provided D.C. with financial and emotional support since he was left at their home. They are applying for legal custody and will support D.C. for however long the child needs a stable home and family. The testimony was credible.

Donald Stewart resides in Maplewood and operates a cleaning business. Stewart has known C.'s sister, J.C. for many years. In April 1999, C. was homeless and Stewart allowed him stay in his home for a brief period. C. worked for a few weeks. Stewart paid for C. to travel to California to apply for a driver's license. Thereafter, C. returned to New Jersey. Stewart testified that he knew that C. used drugs observed him "stoned". C. has moved from Stewart's home and his whereabouts are unknown.

Josefa Lopez is employed as the District Registrar. Based on the affidavit supplied by petitioners and C., the District determined that no hardship existed. Indeed, the documents merely state that D.C. lived with petitioners due to the overcrowded conditions in the home where his father stayed. Moreover, there was no mention that the father was unemployed or a substance abuser. Additionally, no information was provided on D.C.'s mother and there was no custody order. Therefore, the District permitted D.C. to enroll in the school system on October 5, 1999 and charged petitioners tuition at $44.03 per diem. The District seeks reimbursement of $5944.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The State of New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to . . . any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286.

The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A-38-1(b)1, reads, in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the District and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parents or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the District solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Therefore, the evidence must show that: (1) petitioners are domiciled within the District; (2) petitioners are supporting D.C. gratis; (3) D.C.'s parents are not capable of supporting or caring for him due to family or economic hardship; and (4) D.C. is not residing with petitioners solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Petitioners have the burden of proof to demonstrate economic hardship.

Respondent argues that the affidavit for non-resident pupil enrollment does not claim hardship. Rather, D.C.'s father claimed that his son's stay with petitioners would be temporary until he found a place to live. Thus, there is no proof that D.C.'s parents are unable to support him or provide for his care. Additionally, respondent urges this tribunal reject any references about C's "substance abuse and transient status" because petitioners have "not provided any evidence of the same." Respondent's Brief at 2.

Petitioners maintain that his natural parents abandoned D.C. D.C.'s mother has contacted her son once since July 1999. The family has no telephone number or address to contact her. Petitioners also maintain that D.C.'s father has a substance abuse problem and has refused treatment. Thus, he is unable to care for his child.

I agree with respondent that petitioners' documents are inconsistent with their testimony. Indeed, the affidavits do not claim financial hardship or family dysfunction from drug abuse. Nevertheless, some inconsistencies in a witness's testimony do not warrant an automatic discounting of that testimony as incredible. United Stations of N.J. v. Getty Oil Co., 102 N.J. Super. 459 (Ch. Div. 1968). The testimony must be such that the trier of fact can reasonably conclude that the witness is wholly unworthy of belief. Accordingly, the trier of fact must carefully weigh the evidence before rejecting testimony, even if not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to the circumstances.

In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Tp. v. Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). One factor to consider in determining which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, bias or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952).

Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Thus, a fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. united States, 412. U.S. 837, 93 S. Ct. 2357, 37 Ed. 2d 380 (1973). Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony, requiring an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo v. United states, 314 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958).

Petitioner avowed that his brother-in-law is a drug user. Stewart testified that he has observed C. under the influence of drugs. These are serious claims that, if spoken recklessly or falsely, can damage one's reputation. Petitioner did not tell the District that C. was a drug user and C.'s affidavit does not admit to drug use. However, petitioners have filed for legal custody of D.C. In their petition before the Superior Court of New Jersey petitioners state that C. is a substance abuser and lives on the street. Petitioner and his wife are expecting their first child. S.C. appeared mature and protective of his family. The witnesses' demeanors persuade me that they carefully and accurately described C.'s condition about drug use.

Based on the whole of the evidence, I FIND petitioner, S.C. and Stewart to be a credible witnesses and thus, I FIND their testimony believable. I FIND that petitioners are domiciled within the District and that they are supporting their nephew, D.C. gratis. I FIND that petitioners took the child into their home to live for an extended period of time because his father is on drugs and not able to care for him.

Hardship need not be based on financial status. . Family dysfunction covers a broad range of circumstances. For example, family discord might constitute hardship and entitle the child to a free education. R.H. v Ocean C. Bd. Of Education, 96 N.J.A.R. 2D (EDU) 628. Furthermore, New Jersey's Department of Human Services has recognized that a parent's alcohol and drug abuse might result in a functional incapacity to plan and secure a safe home for their dependent children. N.J.A.C. 10:90-6.1. Indeed, rearing children in an environment where parents use drugs are compelling circumstances that rise to the level of family hardship. Accordingly, I FIND that a parent who is on drugs and whose whereabouts is unknown cannot provide proper care for a child. I FIND that petitioners intend to provide D.C. with the safe, stable and secure home that his father is unable to give him due to his substance abuse.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that petitioners satisfied the residency requirements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1(b)1. I CONCLUDE that petitioners are domiciled within the District. I CONCLUDE that petitioners are supporting D.C. gratisi because his parent is not capable of providing parental support due to substance abuse. I CONCLUDE that D.C. is not residing with petitioners solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners are not liable for tuition to the District during the period that D.C. attends its schools.

ORDER

I ORDER that the petition filed by petitioners to permit D.C. to attend school in the District is GRANTED. I ORDER that the District's claim for payment of tuition is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10

Petitioning parents sought to compel the Board to award their daughter the most valuable player award for the women's cross-country track team for the 1995 and 1996 seasons. The case was dismissed by the ALJ because the petition was not filed within 90 days of accrual of the cause of action as required by regulation. After the Commissioner affirmed the dismissal, the State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner's decision and remanded the case for a hearing.

After remand to the OAL, the Board moved for summary decision and, after hearing oral argument, the ALJ granted summary decision to the Board. The ALJ determined that there was no issue of discrimination against J.L.M. as argued by petitioners; that the coach's determination to weigh factors other than performance in bestowing the MVP award was not unreasonable; and that his determination to give the award to team captains and graduating seniors was also not unreasonable. Finally, the ALJ concluded that the Board's determination to uphold the coach's grant of the awards was not unreasonable.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ for the reasons set forth in her decision and dismissed the petition.

Record Closed: June 13, 2000 Decided: July 26, 2000

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 1998, petitioners J.M. and D.M. filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking a ruling that the respondent, the Summit Board of Education (Summit), arbitrarily and capriciously failed to give their daughter, J.L.M., the award as most valuable player (MVP) on the women's cross-country track team for the 1995 and 1996 seasons. On May 11, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On April 14, 1999, Administrative Law Judge Sebastian Gaeta, Jr., granted summary decision dismissing the matter pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the ninety-day rule, for failure to request the appeal in a timely manner. The decision was affirmed by the Commissioner on June 1, 1999 (C# 174-99). On November 3, 1999, the State Board of Education reversed the decision and remanded the matter for a hearing on the merits (SB# 27-99).

The Commissioner transmitted the remanded matter to the Office of Administrative Law on December 1, 1999, where it was given its present docket number and assigned to the undersigned for plenary hearing.

J.L.M. graduated from Summit High School in June 1998 and is presently finishing her sophomore year at Villanova University. She was not named as the MVP on the girls' cross-country track team (Team) during the 1995 and 1996 seasons. She is now seeking to have these awards overturned and to receive an apology from Summit as a result of this proceeding.

Summit renewed a prior motion for summary decision on the merits. The parties argued the motion on the record on June 13, 2000, and the record closed.

THE ASSUMED FACTS

The following facts are either undisputed or taken in the light most favorable to petitioners, against whom the motion was made.

During the 1995 and 1996 seasons, J.L.M. was the recipient of the Coach's Award for the Team and she was the Team's MVP in her senior year of high school. There is no requirement that there be any MVP or Coach's Award or even that the school have a cross-country track team.

During the 1995 and 1996 years, members of the Team who were graduating seniors were chosen as the MVPs instead of J.L.M., who was the number one runner both years. The recipients did not have the best performance records on the Team. The 1995 MVP had the third best record. The 1996 MVPs were senior captains and were the fourth and fifth best runners. In years prior to 1995, the Team coach gave the MVP award to runners who were not seniors.

During the 1995 and 1996 seasons, the number one runners on the boys' cross-country track team, neither of whom were seniors, were chosen as MVPs. The boys' team has the same coach as the girls' team.

According to J.M., the only criteria that the coach should have been allowed to apply in choosing an MVP for the girls' team was the runner's standing with respect to the other members of the Team. He argued that other, intangible criteria such as effort, team spirit, sportsmanship, and good citizenship should have been relegated to selecting the recipient of the Coach's Award. J.M. expressed the attitude that petitioners considered these lesser attributes than standing, since he described the Coach's Award as a sop thrown to his daughter in the 1995 and 1996 seasons to placate her while lesser runners received the MVP award she coveted, and, in their opinion, merited.

There are no standards, written or otherwise, for an MVP award for any school team. This is left solely to the discretion of the coach of the particular team and, according to Summit, is based upon intangible factors as well as performance. There is no record as to what factors the Team's coach used to select the MVPs for the 1995 and 1996 seasons for either the boys' or girls' team. He did not disclose them during meetings held between the parents and Summit. He subsequently left his employment with Summit.

Petitioners' complaint first came to the attention of the District when they filed an Affirmative Action Grievance Report with the high school principal in March 1997, after J.L.M. did not receive the MVP award for the prior two seasons. No evidence was found at that time that there was any discriminatory conduct in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 involved.

As a result, Anthony Akey, the affirmative action officer and assistant principal, dismissed the complaint in his Affirmative Action Grievance Disposition Report of March 10, 1997. In his report Akey stated, and it is undisputed, that there is no authority to require schools to implement formal criteria, guidelines or procedures for the designation of MVPs. Further, there was no discriminatory conduct cognizable under law involved in J.L.M.'s grievance.

In addition, Akey found that J.L.M. (1) missed five meets in the 1996 season and (2) was not the number one runner "at important conference and state meets." Petitioners dispute the second statement, which will therefore not be considered, but nowhere in the record do they dispute the first. Akey found that running time and place on the Team were not the only factors taken into consideration. Others, such as effort, consistency and concern for the Team, were also applied.

As a result, Akey found that there were legitimate, non-discriminatory reasons why the coach gave the MVP award to others and dismissed J.L.M.'s grievance.

Petitioners appealed Akey's decision to a three-member Education Committee in the District. The committee met with Akey and the coach and affirmed the action taken. The Summit Board of Education affirmed the committee's decision by letter dated September 12, 1997, and petitioners appealed to the Commissioner.

J.M. stated that the only injury to his daughter as a result of not receiving the MVP award in her sophomore or junior year was that she was unhappy during her senior year, but apparently recovered after leaving high school.

THE POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Respondent argues that the coach's decision was within his sole discretion and, as long as that discretion was not exercised for impermissible, or irrational, reasons, it can not be challenged.

J.L.M.'s parents, J.M. and D.M., argue that discrimination against their daughter was the reason she was not designated the MVP during the two years in question.

At the hearing on the respondent's motion their discrimination claim was clarified for the record, and I FIND that this matter involves no issue of discrimination involving any protected class of persons as designated in the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -42, or in N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20. In addition, there is no allegation of disparate treatment of the girl's team with respect to opportunity, equipment, uniforms or quality of coaching.

J.M. specifically stated on the record that the only discrimination here is that he believes the coach applied different criteria in selecting the MVP for the girls' team than he used for the boys' team. Even if true, nothing defines this application of different standards as impermissible discrimination. If, in fact, the coach only gave the MVP award to the highest performer on the boys' team during the years in question, perhaps it was the boys' team that suffered when the coach failed to consider other valuable, intangible qualities. I FIND no reason to prefer one set of standards to the other to make the determination that invidious discrimination has occurred.

I FIND nothing unreasonable in the coach's decision to weigh other factors besides performance in choosing the recipient of the award. I FIND nothing unreasonable in his failure to give the same player the MVP award year after year. I FIND nothing unreasonable in the coach's decision to give the award to Team captains and graduating seniors, particularly since J.L.M. still had high school years ahead of her in which to be chosen MVP. Finally, I FIND nothing unreasonable in Summit's decision to uphold the coach's choice of MVPs for the Team's 1995 and 1996 seasons for the reasons expressed in Akey's decision.

Based upon the lack of any discriminatory conduct cognizable under the law, I CONCLUDE, for reasons discussed above, that Summit correctly dismissed petitioners' Affirmative Action Grievance as being without merit.

DISCUSSION OF LAW

Boards of education enjoy wide policy-making discretion and their decisions may not be disturbed unless arbitrary and capricious. Thomas v. Morris Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, the applicable standard of review in this case is whether the actions taken by the Board, in affirming the coach's decision, were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The petitioner has the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the action taken by the local board was improper, that is, "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motive." L.B. v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 110, 111. In Barna v. Irvington Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 345, 347, the Commissioner of Education stated, "It is axiomatic that when a local board of education acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and may not be disturbed absent a finding that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Consequently, if J.M. can not show that the actions taken by the Summit School District with respect to J.L.M.'s grievance were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable the Board's determination should not be disturbed.

The first question raised by this appeal is whether the Commissioner, or the undersigned, should substitute his or her judgment for that of the coach in establishing the criteria for choosing the MVP of either the boys' or girls' team. Petitioners then seek to have the Commissioner, and this forum, apply their own standards to determine that J.L.M. was actually entitled to the MVP awards for the two years in question. Following this, the Commissioner, and forum, are asked to determine that Summit acted unreasonably in affirming the coach's exercise of discretion. These determinations are prerequisite to the decision that J.L.M. is owed the awards and an apology by the District.

I CONCLUDE that the case law cited above makes it clear that, since all of these determinations by the coach and the District were reasonable and not an abuse of discretion, neither the Commissioner nor the undersigned may disturb them. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that J.M., D.M. and J.L.M. are entitled to no relief as a result of this appeal.

SUMMARY DECISION

The New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6) provide that a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). In considering respondent's motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether "the papers and discovery . . . together with the affidavits . . . show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1.1-12.5(b).

The Supreme Court of New Jersey held that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2,

> [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential > materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533; see also N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) (stating, "an adverse party [to a summary decision motion] in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding"). Therefore, through the application of summary judgment, a legal issue may be quickly and inexpensively disposed of where there is clearly no genuine issue of material fact necessitating disposition at a hearing. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540.

In the present case, Summit considered the coach's exercise of discretion and found it reasonable. There are no relevant material facts that could be developed at plenary hearing to show that Summit's view of the situation was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motive," since all facts have been assumed true as set forth by petitioners.

When the standards of Brill are applied in this case, it is clear, based upon the arguments and the affidavits and documents submitted by the parties, and resolving all disputes in favor of the petitioners, that there are no material facts in dispute that require a hearing in this forum. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to summary decision dismissing this appeal as a matter of law. As determined above, petitioners are entitled to no relief in this forum.

Finally, I FIND that there are no equitable reasons for granting J.L.M. the relief she seeks. She has already completed several years of college and I FIND the issues raised, being of no general significance, are moot. There was no irreparable harm. In fact, the only negative effect was that J.L.M. was unhappy during her senior year of high school because she did not get the MVP award for the prior two years.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that summary decision is hereby GRANTED to respondent and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioners' exceptions essentially reiterate and recast those arguments and documentary evidence presented to and considered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), briefly setting forth those aspects which they believe support their position that the decisions of the Board and each of its employees involved in this matter were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petitioners urge, inter alia, that:

> It is obvious that Mr. Aikey cannot defend his Disposition [Report] (document #2) and that Coach Keubler cannot explain why, as coach of both girls and boys cross country teams, he used different criteria for the boys and girls MVP selection, as well as why he broke the pattern of selecting the number one runner (who possess[ed] the intangibles) in 1995 and 1996), [J.M.]'s sophomore and junior years. How can this decision not be arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and discriminatory? (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3-4)

The Board's reply exceptions urge affirmance of the ALJ's recommended decision, averring, inter alia, that petitioners offer nothing new in their exceptions which would provide reason for rejection of the Initial Decision other than their continued belief that the decision of the Summit High School cross-country coach to give the MVP award to someone other than their daughter was wrong.

Upon review of the record, including the exceptions submitted by petitioners and the Boards reply thereto, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the findings of fact and conclusions of law reached by the ALJ. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher challenged the withholding of her increment for the 1999-2000 school year. The District filed a motion to dismiss the petition because it was filed outside the prescribed 90-day period. The matter was transmitted to the OAL with instructions to first determine the threshold issue of timeliness of the petition.

After the issue was fully briefed by the parties, the ALJ determined that the petition was filed out of time, and that petitioner's argument for relaxing the requirement was unpersuasive, since she had not demonstrated that she was unable to function because of stress.

The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that the petition was filed out of time and that the 90-day requirement should not be relaxed. The Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein and dismissed the petition.

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

Petitioner, a tenured school nurse employed by the respondent, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (District), challenged the withholding of an increment for the 1999-2000 school year. Petitioner received notice of the increment withholding on September 1, 1999. Petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner for a hearing to contest the withholding on December 8, 1999. On January 5, 2000, the District filed a motion before the Commissioner to have the petition dismissed as it was not filed within the prescribed 90-day time period. On February 9, 2000, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case requesting that the threshold issue of timeliness be resolved prior to any consideration of the matter on its merits.

On May 18, 1999, the undersigned held a telephone prehearing conference concerning the matter. The briefing schedule required petitioner to answer the January 5, 2000, motion by June 6, 2000 and, the District's reply to be filed by June 16, 2000. The matter had been fully briefed and the issue is now ready for disposition.

FACTS

The following facts are undisputed or uncontested and I FIND them to be FACTS in this case.

On August 30, 1999, petitioner, a tenured school nurse employed by respondent, began work for the 1999-2000 school year. As of that date, respondent had taken no action with respect to withholding petitioner's salary increment for that year. By letter dated August 31, 1999, Marion A. Bolden, State District Superintendent, informed petitioner of the District's determination to withhold her increment for the 1999-2000 school year. Petitioner received this letter on September 1, 1999.

Around the same time, petitioner's father, who had been diagnosed several years earlier with lung cancer, was hospitalized. He remained in the hospital until his death on October 8, 1999. Prior to petitioner's father's death she went to the hospital on a daily basis to support and assist in his care. Petitioner later arranged and attended her father's funeral, held on October 13, 1999. Petitioner returned to work on October 18, 1999. Subsequent to the funeral, petitioner had to put her father's affairs in order. Additionally, petitioner was left to care for her mother, who has Parkinson's disease. Because of these unfortunate stresses petitioner did not file the subject petition within 90 days of receipt of the notice of the District's decision.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

A petition to the Commissioner challenging a final order, ruling or other action by a Board of Education, which is the subject of the requested case hearing, must be filed no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of such order, ruling or action. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).[1] This 90-day period has been held to represent "a fair and reasonably necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 583 (1993). An annual salary increment has been held to be subject to the time bar provided in this regulation. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587, 594 (1984).

Even when the 90-day rule applies, the Commissioner may relax the rule when appropriate. The Commissioner has the discretion to dispense with any general rule of practice "where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result injustice." The 90-day time limitation has been relaxed to resolve a dispute or delay attributable to the Board of Education or to consider a substantial constitutional issue or a matter of significant public interest. Le Mee v. Bd. of Educ. of Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 668. No recorded cases have been located by the undersigned that show that the rule was relaxed due to personal circumstances of petitioner that occurred several weeks or months prior to the 90th day. The purpose of the 90th day is described in Kaprow:

> The 90-day limitation provides a measure of repose, an essential element in a proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between teachers and administration . . . . The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative > decision regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after 90 days. Moreover, because local school boards operate on a cash basis, claims must be filed promptly so that the local board can anticipate any back-pay requirements . . . . Id. at 582.

With this underlying rationale in mind it is necessary to consider the reasons for petitioner's failure to file in a timely manner. Petitioner was clearly under a great deal of personal stress, especially in September and early October. However, petitioner had almost two months after the death of her father during which time she could have timely filed the petition. The record indicates that she returned to work on October 18, 1999 and thus must have been able to function in the workplace. While petitioner had genuine personal problems, I FIND that there is no evidence that petitioner's circumstances rendered her unable to function. Thus, I FIND that holding her to the 90-day time period would not be inappropriate or an injustice. Based on the foregoing I CONCLUDE that the petition is time barred because it was filed after the 90th day of the notice of the withholding of the increment.

ORDER

I ORDER this petition to be DISMISSED as it is time barred because it was filed after the 90th day of the notice of the action.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, I fully concur with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the within petition is time-barred and that relaxation of the 90-day timeline set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) is not warranted under the circumstances of this case. Petitioner received notice of the District's determination to withhold her increment for the 1999-2000 school year on September 1, 1999. Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal to the Commissioner contesting the withholding on December 8, 1999. Although the record reflects that petitioner was under stress during September and early October 1999 due to the illness and death of her father, petitioner had almost two months after the death of her father during which she could have timely filed the petition. Petitioner returned to work on October 18, 1999, and the ALJ found no evidence that petitioner's circumstances rendered her unable to function at that time.

Accordingly, I do not find that the factual circumstances set forth by petitioner constitute grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule, and, therefore, concur with the ALJ that the petition is time-barred because it was filed after the 90th day of the notice of the withholding of petitioner's increment. No constitutional issues are involved in this matter nor does it present issues of significant public interest beyond the parties. On the contrary, I determine, as did the Commissioner in LeMee v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 673, that the greater public interest herein lies with the enforcement of the 90-day rule.

The Initial Decision of the ALJ is, therefore, adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: July 25, 2000 Decided: July 25, 2000

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner City of Camden Board of Education (BOE) brought charges against respondent Tri Ngo, a tenured teacher in the BOE's school system and, based on these charges, the BOE demanded that the respondent be dismissed from employment. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As shown by the attached Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, etc., the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 29, 1997, the BOE's tenure charges, etc., were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On August 29, 1997, the respondent's answer to the tenure charges was filed with the Department. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on October 8, 1997, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The hearing was held on September 28, October 5 & 6, November 17, and December 8, 1998 and February 3 & 4, March 3, April 13, May 10, 12, 13, 24, October 28, November 23,1999. Respondent's attorneys conscientiously represented their client, serving discovery demands; making motions for relief relative to discovery and other matters; and, during the hearing, raising numerous objections the BOE's motions for admission into evidence of its exhibits. Substantial time and effort was expended in argument, conferences and decisions on such motions and objections. The BOE moved for leave to appeal from interlocutory orders sustaining some of the objections and, in the Commissioner's November 12, 1998 letter, citing N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(b), he declined to review the motion. Discovery and scheduling difficulties continued thereafter and the hearing dates were unusually extended. After the last hearing date, the attorneys represented that they were engaged in realistic settlement negotiations and these too were unusually extended. The complete attached, executed Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, Including Withdrawal of Tenure Charges and Settlement Agreement Regarding Actions Pending before the Commissioner of Education were received on July 25, 2000.

AND
CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A review of the BOE's charges and evidence presented during the hearing and the respondent's positions are helpful in determining the reasonableness of the parties' settlement.

In 1984, the BOE hired respondent as one of three English/Asian bilingual teachers in its school system and, as written above, in 1997, the BOE filed these charges with the Department of Education. The BOE's charge "1." referred to City of Camden municipal court charges of cruelty to animals in violation of N.J.S.A. 4:22-17, -26 and the arrest of respondent relative to such charges and the BOE submitted that these circumstances constituted unbecoming conduct. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. However, as part of the municipal court plea agreement, the statutory cruelty to animals charges were dismissed and respondent pleaded guilty to violation of a City ordinance prohibiting housing certain types of animals in the City and BOE did not prove that wrongful conduct by the respondent, e.g., wrongful failure to appear in response to a summons, caused his arrest. The BOE's charge "2." alleges that filth, excrement, etc., were present in respondents' home where he tutored students. The BOE submitted that these circumstances endangered the students and constituted unbecoming conduct. However, the BOE has not identified or otherwise proven that any BOE student was present in respondent's home. The BOE's charge "3." alleges that, several times, respondent smoked on school premises and with students, constituting unbecoming conduct and relative to this charge, the BOE did present evidence in support of that charge. The BOE's charge "4." alleges that, several times, respondent left his students unattended and the BOE did present evidence in support of that charge. The BOE's charge "5." alleges that, in violation of BOE policy and contrary to respondent's superiors' directions, he failed and/or refused to sing in and sign out, failed to submit weekly lesson plans, left his students unsupervised, etc., constituting in subordination and the BOE did present evidence in support of that charge. The BOE's charge "6." alleges that, contrary to his superiors' directions, respondent was chronically and excessively late for his classes and the BOE did present some evidence in support of that charge. The BOE's charge "7." alleges that respondent engaged in a pattern of lateness, leaving his students unsupervised, etc., for which he received unsatisfactory evaluations and the BOE did present some evidence in support of that charge.

As written in the procedural history, the respondent's attorneys conscientiously represented their client. They submitted that the BOE cannot prove charges "1" and "2." Relative to the additional charges, they contended that the BOE had not sufficiently proven the alleged misconduct or that the misconduct proven could not require respondent's dismissal. Although respondent's attorneys had not presented his case in defense, they represented that they would prove that respondent made reasonable attempts to comply with his superiors' directions, etc. For example, they represented that it was to comply with school officials' requests to assist Asian students elsewhere that the respondent occasionally left his classroom. They represented also that, after conferences with his superiors, the respondent ended the misconduct alleged by the BOE.

Given the above, this case involves substantial questions of fact. As written in the settlement papers, the BOE represents that it cannot present certain essential witnesses and complete litigation of this case will require substantial expenditure of time and effort by all involved.

I have reviewed the settlement papers and I FIND and CONCLUDE that the parties have voluntarily entered into the settlement agreement, the settlement disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law and the settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that it should be approved as a reasonable and expeditious resolution of this case.

ORDER

I approve of the settlement, I ORDER the parties to comply with it and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 9601-97S
AGENCY REF. NO. 310-8/97

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("Board") and counsel for its tenured employee Tri Ngo ("Ngo") join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the Board be withdrawn and this matter dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of charges certified by the Board to the Commissioner of Education on July 15, 1997 against a tenured teaching staff member on grounds of forfeiture, unbecoming conduct and inefficiency. The tenure charges were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on October 8, 1997. A hearing concerning the Board's tenure charges commenced before the Honorable Judge John R. Tassini, ALJ on September 28, 1998, and continued on various dates through October 28, 1999. On December 13, 1999, counsel informed Judge Tassini that the parties had reached a tentative settlement agreement conditioned upon the drafting of mutually satisfactory settlement documents to be submitted for approval by the Commissioner of Education in accordance with which the tenure charges might be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settleme: Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that Mr. Ngo will be reinstated to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher at the salary step to which he would have been assigned had the tenure charges never been brought against him and no increments withheld, and that he shall resign or retire from all employment by the Board effective no later than July 1, 2001.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that Mr. Ngo is entitled to restoration of increments withheld from the date he was suspended without pay through the date of his reinstatement, including payment of that portion of his salary he would have received had salary increments never been withheld.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that conditioned upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against Mr. Ngo shall be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet his objections.

The parties have further agreed that neither the Board not its agents or employees will take any actions which could be adverse to Mr. Ngo's future employment interests elsewhere.

THE JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

Due to the death and disability of several key witnesses and the fact that the criminal charges were reduced to a guilty plea on a violation of an ordinance, the Board has reviewed the evidence and decided to withdraw the charges upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner of Education.

CONCLUSION

The Settlement Agreement was negotiated between counsel after certain facts became known during the course of the hearing. Counsel, as well as Mr. Ngo and the Board which unanimously approved it, are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner of Education, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and therefore upon such approval dismiss with prejudice the tenure charges and petition of appeal in this consolidated matter.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("Board") and its tenured employee Tri Ngo ("Ngo").

WHEREAS, Ngo has been continuously employed by the Board as a bilingual resource teacher since May 7, 1984; and

WHEREAS, on July 15, 1997 the Board certified tenure charges against Ngo to the Commissioner of Education under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, which charges were captioned:

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF TRI NGO, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.

OAL DKT NO. EDUTH 9610-97S
AGENCY REF. NO. 310-8/97

AND, WHEREAS Ngo filed an answer contesting the tenure charges, and

WHEREAS, the aforesaid tenure charges and petition of appeal were consolidated for hearing before the Honorable John R. Tassini, ALJ; and

WHEREAS, hearing of the consolidated proceeding began on September 28, 1998, and continued for twelve more days, and

WHEREAS, due to the death and disability of several key witnesses and the fact that the criminal charges were reduced to a guilty plea on a violation of an ordinance, the Board has reviewed the evidence and decided to withdraw the charges pending this settlement;

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The Board will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, ask the Commissioner to allow the tenure charges against Ngo to be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice;

2. Should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet his objections;

3. The Board shall reinstate Ngo to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher at the salary step to which he would have been assigned had the tenure charges never been brought against him and his increments never withheld;

4. The Board agrees that Ngo is entitled to restoration of any increments withheld from the date he was suspended without pay through the date of his reinstatement and shall pay that portion of his salary he would have received had no salary increment been withheld during said period;

5. Ngo agrees in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner of Education, he will resign or retire from all employment by the Board effective no later than July 1, 2001;

6. Neither the Board nor its agents or employees will take any action which would be adverse to Ngo's future employment elsewhere;

7. Ngo further agrees in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner of Education, he will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements by the Board through its attorney concerning the reasons it believes this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

8. Ngo and the Board understand and agree that as a contested case transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, all settlement documents shall become part of the public record in this matter, and, as such, shall be appended to the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge and Decision of the Commissioner of Education.

CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement Including Withdrawing of Tenure Charges, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

In light of the factual circumstances set forth in the record of this matter which preclude the Board from bearing its burden of proof, including but not limited to the death and disability of several key witnesses and the reduction of the criminal charges against respondent to a guilty plea on a violation of a municipal ordinance, the Commissioner determines that the settlement terms comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and are in the public interest. See In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846 decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a). The Commissioner, therefore, adopts the Initial Decision and Joint Request for Approval of Settlement Including Withdrawing of Tenure Charges as the final decision in this matter.*

* On page 1 of Exhibit A of the Joint Request, it is stated that "the aforesaid tenure charges and petition of appeal were consolidated for hearing" and that "hearing of the consolidated proceeding began on September 28, 1998." The Commissioner notes, however, that there appears to be no information in the record indicating that the within tenure matter was consolidated with any other controverted matter filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. or predecessor rules.

Accordingly, the matter is dismissed, subject to the parties' compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Petitioner, nontenured physical education teacher, challenged the nonrenewal of his contract for the 1999-2000 school year. The Board contended that petitioner failed to state a cause action upon which relief might be granted and that the petition was not timely filed.

The ALJ noted that the final action in a nonrenewal of contract case occurs when the teaching staff member receives a notice that his/her contract will not be renewed. The ALJ determined that petitioner was required to file within 90 days of the notice of nonrenewal (letter dated April 29, 1999 herein), not within 90 days of the exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms (September 20, 1999 in this instance). (Sorace; Riely; N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)) The ALJ concluded that the petition was time-barred and it was, therefore, not necessary to reach the question of relief.

The Commissioner agreed with and adopted the conclusion of the ALJ that this matter was time-barred. Moreover, the Commissioner did not find that the factual circumstances presented herein constituted grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: July 10, 2000 Decided: July 25, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Cordell Wise, petitioner, challenges nonrenewal of his contract of employment by the Trenton Board of Education, respondent. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. The respondent Board moved for summary judgment.

The petitioner, Cordell Wise, was employed for the 1998-99 school year as a physical education teacher by the Trenton Board of Education, respondent. He was assigned four days per week to the Rivera Elementary School and one day per week to the Grant School. At some time before April 26, 1999, the principal of the Rivera School informally told Wise that the principal would recommend to district administration that the Board not renew Wise's contract for the 1999-2000 school year. This appears to have happened. Before the event, however, Wise wrote a letter dated April 22, 1999 to the appropriate assistant superintendent in which he requested reasons the administration relied on when recommending that the Board not renew Wise's contract.

On April 26, 1999, the Board voted not to renew Wise's contract. A letter from the assistant superintendent to the petitioner states the reason for nonrenewal of the contract are "on file in the Division of Human Resources."

The petitioner states that, through counsel, he made several requests for a statement of reasons in writing. Wise also requested a meeting with the Board. On June 24, 1999, Wise's attorney received a letter from Assistant Superintendent Clarence L. Guthrie, Jr., giving reasons for the recommendation that Wise's contract not be renewed. After two further requests, he was afforded a closed session meeting with the Board on August 30, 1999. Two weeks passed and Wise heard nothing from the Board. His attorney wrote to the Board on September 13, 1999 requesting a response concerning the nonrenewal decision. On September 20, 1999, Wise's counsel received a letter from the Board's counsel stating, "Please be advised that on August 30, 1999, the Trenton Board of Education did not decide to renew the contract for Cordell Wise for the 1999-2000 school year."

Wise filed this petition with the Commissioner of Education on November 4, 1999. On November 12, the Board filed an answer. On November 30, 1999, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes requested a letter brief or memorandum of law addressing the Board's affirmative defense that the petition fails to state a cause of action upon which relief may be granted. Wise's attorney submitted a brief on December 20, 1999 and the Board's counsel filed a response on January 4, 2000. The Board addressed its defense of failure to state a cause cause of action upon which relief may be granted and its defense that the petition was not timely filed, both having been asserted in the Board's November 12, 1999 answer.

Because Wise had not been asked to address the timeliness issue, he now requested to do so. In the meantime, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law. Upon receiving the file, I wrote to counsel advising that the case had been assigned to me, that the file contained a letter from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes stating that the Board's affirmative defense would be threshold issues and that I would take a reply brief from each party on the timeliness issue because if the petition is not timely, the other points are moot.

The petitioner argues that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) applies and provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The Board argues that once Wise received the April 29, 1999 letter, he had 90 days in which to file a petition of appeal. The petitioner insists that because he has the right to request a statement of reasons and to request an informal appearance before the Board to try to convince the Board to offer reemployment, N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2, his 90 days does not begin to run until the Board notifies him of its final administration, in writing, within three days following the informal appearance. N.J.A.C. 6:4-4.2(c)(i). The petitioner cites Stockton v. Board of Education of City of Trenton, 210 N.J. Super. 150 (App. Div. 1986), in which the issue was when the petitioner appealed misplacement on the salary guide. Stockton, who was hired in March 1980, was placed at step 11 during his first year of employment with defendant. Pursuant to the negotiated bargaining agreement between the Board and the education association, Stockton should have been placed and paid at the same step level for the 1980-1981 school year; during the 1982-1983 school year, he was placed and paid at step 13. Stockton continued working for defendant with increases in his step level for each year, except for the 1983-1984 school year. At that point, Stockton was paid at a lower step level, and he complained to the personnel and business office.

His attorney also sent a letter to the New Jersey Education Association, with a copy of the letter to the Board.

In January 1984, Stockton sent a letter to the Board's assistant superintendent and business administrator regarding his salary, seeking the proper increase and back pay. Stockton received a letter from the assistant superintendent in February 1984, stating that Stockton's salary had been calculated properly. Stockton filed a petition with the Commissioner in April 1984.

The petition was transferred to the OAL, and an administrative law judge found that the petition was not timely filed and dismissed Stockton's petition. The Commissioner, however, found that Stockton's petition was timely filed, noting that the final order or decision from which he appealed was the February 1984 letter. The Commissioner set aside the ALJ's findings and remanded the matter to the OAL. On appeal, the State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner's rulings and reinstated the findings of the ALJ.

The Appellate Division reversed and remanded the matter to the Commissioner. Id. at 158. The court noted that a unilateral decision to correct a financial error made in September 1981 may have been a violation of the state law that deals with tenured teachers. Id. at 157. In addition, the court noted:

> Certainly receipt of a salary check for less of an increase than one anticipates cannot provide notice that a decision has been made to correct an error allegedly made three years before . . . More importantly, the reasoning of the ALJ and the majority of the State Board would open the floodgates to petitions to the commissioner before the dispute really evolved into a "controversy." . . . The issuance of a paycheck for the wrong amount is of course neither an order nor a ruling and must therefore fall within the category of "other action." We do not believe the incipient action of a school board employee to unilaterally attempt correction of a three year old error can be categorized as a "controversy or dispute" within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. Perhaps upon discussion after the parties "reason together," one of the parties may accede to the position of the other and a controversy or dispute may never arise. Id. at 157-158 (emphasis added).

I think Stockton is different from today's case. In Stockton, the "final action" did not occur when Stockton received the wrong amount in a paycheck, but when the parties could not agree on adjustment of Stockton's salary. By contrast, the final action in a nonrenewal of contract case occurs when the teaching staff member receives notice that his contract will not be renewed. In this case, that happened on or about April 25, 1999. This is analogous to Sorace v. Board of Education of Morris School District, OAL DKT. EDU 7427-90 (April 8, 1991), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (May 20, 1991), in which the petition of appeal was dismissed because Sorace did not file her petition within 90 days of receipt of an April 24, 1990 letter from the Board Secretary advising that her contract would not be renewed for the 1990-91 school year. She filed on August 22, 1990. The judge held, and the Commissioner agreed, that the statutory and regulatory scheme does not contemplate "speculation" concerning what the Board might do subsequent to issuing the nonrenewal notice. Opportunity to appear before the board of education is established to assist a petitioner in the prosecution and early resolution of a dispute and not intended to be a condition precedent to perfecting the right to administrative review.

The decision refers to Riely v. Hunterdon Central High Board of Education, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980), perhaps the leading case interpreting the 90-day rule. In Riely, the teacher waited until the resolution of arbitration before filing an appeal with the Commissioner of Education. As in today's case, the petitioner had a responsibility to file within 90 days of notice. As in Sorace, there could be no reliance on what might happen. The petitioner was required to file within 90 days of the notice of nonrenewal, not within 90 days of the exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms.

In light of the above, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Condell Wise did not timely file the present petition and the petition this is time barred.

It must be observed that the Trenton Board of Education was dilatory in providing Wise a statement of reasons for nonrenewal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 and Donaldson v. North Wildwood Board of Education, 65 N.J. 236 (1974). This does not cure the defects in Wise's petition. It is a matter of import, however, and all boards of education are reminded that the statute is a command, not a suggestion. Similarly, the Board is cautioned to observe, evaluate and meet with nontenured teachers in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.19.

It is not necessary to reach the question of whether there was relief the Commissioner of Education could afford in this case.

In accordance with the foregoing, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 160-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 337-11/99

CORDELL WISE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions aver that it is the Board's September 20, 1999 determination from which petitioner appeals, not the Board's April 29, 1999 letter, as determined by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), because September 20 is the date of the Board's final decision regarding the renewal of his employment. As to this, petitioner argues, inter alia, that the wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10(b) does not use the word "final" regarding the written notice from the chief school administrator;[1] thus, his petition was timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).[2] Petitioner further argues that the ALJ's interpretation of the statutes and regulations is incorrect, having failed to consider the doctrine of exhaustion and other policy issues.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 states, "On or before May 15 of each year, each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by a board of education since the preceding September 30 shall receive either a. A written offer of contract for employment from the board of education, or
b. A written notice from the chief school administrator that such employment will not be offered."

[2] It is noted for the record that at the time the petition was filed in this matter, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) controlled. That regulation has since been recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

Moreover, petitioner insists that even if, for the sake of argument, his petition is time-barred, relaxation of the rules is appropriate because, from the facts presented in this matter, it is evident that the Board did not abide by the timelines set forth in applicable statutes and regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2; N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the conclusion of the ALJ that this matter is time-barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision. As correctly determined by the ALJ, Stockton, supra, is not applicable to the instant matter. Rather, as determined in Riely, supra, and Sorace, supra, petitioner was required to file his petition within 90 days of the notice of his nonrenewal, not within 90 days of the exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms. See, also, Pacio v. Bd. of Ed. of Lakeland Regional High School District, 1989 S.L.D. 2060, wherein the Lakeland Board voted on April 19, 1988 not to renew a nontenured teacher's contract. Notice of the board's action was sent on May 2, 1998. As in the instant matter, the petitioner in Pacio, also sought to convince the board to reverse its nonrenewal decision, which resulted in a decision by the Lakeland Board on May 24, 1988 to affirm its prior decision. In the Pacio matter, the Commissioner determined that May 2, 1988 was the date of notice to petitioner which triggered the 90-day filing timeline "because this date represents when [the petitioner] unquestionably received a written notice from the Board of its 'final determination' not to renew her contract. Further, the Commissioner would clarify for the record that requests to a board [of education] for reconsideration of its final determination do not toll the running of the 90-day rule." (at 2069) This principle of law was also applied in LeMee v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 672, which states, "Initially, the Commissioner notes that Pacio, supra, is clearly dispositive of the threshold question herein, in that it stands unequivocally for the proposition that in nonrenewal disputes the 90-day period for appealing to the Commissioner is tolled from receipt of the nonrenewal notice, requests for reconsideration notwithstanding." See, also, Portee v. Newark Board of Education., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 381(1994).

Further, upon consideration of the parties' arguments regarding relaxation of the 90-day rule, the Commissioner concurs with the Board's position that there is nothing within this matter which justifies relaxation of the filing requirement set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). As stated in Portee, supra, the 90-day filing requirement has been strictly construed by the Commissioner, the State Board of Education and the Courts and, while the rule gives the Commissioner broad discretion, relaxation is reserved for limited situations wherein a compelling reason can be demonstrated for expanding the limitation period, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties. Upon review of the pleadings in this matter, the Commissioner does not find that the factual circumstances presented herein constitute such grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule. Pacio, supra; Sorace, supra; LeMee, supra.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision and herein, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

M.J., on behalf of minor grandson, :

PETITIONER, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

V. : DECISION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning grandparent challenged Board's residency determination that petitioner's grandson, P.J., was not entitled to a free public education within the District.

The ALJ found that P.J. was living permanently with petitioner and petitioner has provided support for P.J. since he was three months old. Petitioner met the burden of demonstrating an economic hardship on behalf of the mother that required P.J. to live with him. The ALJ concluded that petitioner sustained his burden of proof and that no tuition was owed to the District.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner ordered the Board to continue to admit P.J. into its public school system, free of charge, so long as there is no change in circumstances that would alter his entitlement.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11825-99

AGENCY DKT. NO. 303-10/99

M.J. ON BEHALF OF MINOR GRANDSON P.J.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Ralph Neibart, Esq., appearing for Petitioner

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., appearing for Respondent
(Christiano & Christiano, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 23, 2000 Decided: July 19, 2000

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner is challenging the determination of Respondent Board of Education (BOE) that his grandson is not a person who is kept in the home of another who is domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis, as if he were such other person's own child and, consequently is not entitled to a free public education within the District.

The District seeks reimbursement for cost of tuition during the pendency of this matter if P.J. is determined to be ineligible to attend West Orange public schools. The Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 for determination as a contested case on November 18, 1999.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1) Petitioner, M.J. is a person domiciled within the school district of West Orange. He has lived there as a homeowner since 1977.

2) P.J. is Petitioner's grandson; P.J.'s father is Petitioner's son.

3) Petitioner has supported P.J. since he was three months old.

4) P.J. arrived in the United States from Haiti in May, 1999. He resided with his mother and four siblings for approximately one month after his arrival; he began living with his grandfather in July, 1999, although his grandfather has supported him all the time he has been in the United States.

5) M.J. sought to enroll P.J. in the West Orange school district in September 1999; P.J.'s enrollment in the district was denied on the basis that there was no showing that P.J.'s mother was not capable of supporting P.J. on account of economic or family hardship.

6) P.J.'s mother and four siblings live in a one bedroom apartment in Brooklyn. His mother is a factory worker who is paid minimum wages and who earned just under $11,000 last year. She qualified for Earned Income Credit on her federal income tax in 1999.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Attendance in a public school shall be free to persons domiciled within the district or to persons over five and under 20 years of age who are kept in the home of another person, and are supported by such other person gratis. The other person shall file a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district, he is supporting the child gratis, he will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements, and he intends to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a&b. Thus, there are several bases on which this case may be determined: is P.J. a domiciliary of West Orange and/or have the statutory criteria of the "affidavit law" been satisfied?

M.J., P.J.'s paternal grandfather, testified that his grandson intends to stay with him permanently. P.J. testified that he has lived with his grandfather since July, 1999; he is involved in school activities, he has a room of his own and a place to study at his grandfather's. Moreover, M.J. has provided support for P.J. since he was three months old. P.J. does not see his father at all and his mother would visit him once a year in Haiti. P.J. has never resided with his mother and half-siblings.

There is no question that Petitioner, M.J., has filed the sworn statement required by statute. Moreover, his grandson will be living with him permanently and M.J. has supported P.J. since he was three months old.

In addition to the foregoing statutory requirements, however, the child's parent or guardian must also file, with the secretary of the BOE, a sworn statement that she is not capable of supporting or providing case for the child due to economic or family hardship and that the child is not residing in the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. Id.

In this case, it should be noted that the mother's sworn statement and supporting documentation was not provided until after this matter had been determined by the BOE. The information, however, does disclose that there are four other children, two older daughters who are attending or about to attend college in New York City, as well as two younger school age children. In addition to the basic facts set forth above, the testimony of M.J. and P.J. disclosed that the apartment in which the family resides in Brooklyn has one bedroom, one living room, a kitchen and a bathroom, the rent for which is $572 per month.

While he lived with his mother, P.J. slept on a couch in the living room, where his two older sisters also slept. The two young children, a boy and a girl six and 12 years of age, slept in the bedroom with the mother. P.J.'s 23 year old sister attends college and the 21 year old will begin college[1] in the fall. Both have part-time jobs and both contribute financially to the household.

Respondent asserts that this mother has not demonstrated the requisite family or economic hardship because the mother spends several hundred dollars once a year to visit family and friends in Haiti, she is able-bodied and able to support four other children. Moreover, Respondent contends that the fact that this family receives no public assistance is an indication that there is no economic hardship.[2]

Respondent fails to consider, however, that P.J. has never resided with his mother. It is clear from the testimony that his grandfather has always provided for him. The record is equally clear that P.J. only stayed with his mother and half-siblings for approximately one month after immigrating to the United States. He has resided with his grandfather ever since.

[1] Neither P.J. or M.J. knew what college either of the two young women attended. It should be noted that the extensive, comprehensive City University of New York (CUNY) provides post secondary education at minimal tuition cost to residents of New York City.

[2] It is worth noting that under New Jersey regulations, this family may be entitled to public assistance. N.J.A.C. 10:90 et seq.

The Commissioner has recognized that, in interpreting a statute, he must look at the fundamental purpose for which it was enacted. The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 were intended to facilitate the removal of illegally enrolled students, either those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be domiciled within the district but who is not or those living with a person other than a parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. J.B. o/b/o R.H. v. BOE of the Township of Ocean, Monmouth County, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 628 (citations omitted).

In the case at bar, it is clear that M.J. has been and is supporting P.J. completely; it is equally clear that, under present circumstances, P.J.'s mother does not have the wherewithal to support her child. The argument that because the family is not receiving public assistance, there is no economic hardship specious – there are many families who are not receiving public assistance who suffer financial hardship for various reasons. Moreover, there is nothing in the statute which requires a parent to extend already over extended resources to exacerbate a situation which, on its face, has the indicia of both family and economic hardship. This mother lives in Brooklyn and works in New Jersey; a van picks her up for work; she earns minimum wage. The two older children contribute to the household, notwithstanding the fact that they attend college. Respondent seeks to imply that the mother should do more. That is not what the statute intends or requires.

Petitioner has met the burden of demonstrating an economic hardship. If Respondent wished to go behind the proofs to demonstrate that the hardship was either illusory or self-serving, Respondent could have investigated the circumstances. It did not. Accordingly, I FIND that an economic hardship requiring P.J. to live with his grandfather does exist.

Moreover, P.J. testified that while he was staying with his mother, he slept on a couch in the living room, where his then 20 and 22 year old sisters also slept; at the time P.J. was 15 and a half. I FIND that the necessity of this kind of sleeping arrangement constitutes a family hardship deriving from the economic hardship.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that Petitioner has sustained the burden of proof in this matter. I further CONCLUDE that no tuition is owed to the district.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that P.J. be permitted to attend the appropriate facility within the West Orange school district; it is further ORDERED that no tuition be paid by M.J. to the district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged Board's residency determination that F.O., a 20-year-old with multiple handicaps, was not entitled to tuition payment by the District for his residential placement.

The ALJ concluded that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2 when it failed to provide C.M. with a hearing prior to determining that she and F.O. were no longer domiciled in the District. The ALJ ordered the Board permanently restrained from determining the issue of petitioner's domicility without following the orderly procedure required by the statute.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own insofar as it directs that the Board is restrained from determining the domicile issue until it properly takes action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2. Commissioner forwarded a copy of this decision to the Office of Special Education, since the residency matter before the Commissioner was decided as part of a consolidated matter involving related special education issues on which the ALJ's decision is final.

INTRODUCTION

C.M. (petitioner) is the mother and court-declared legal guardian of C.M. C.M. is 20 years old with multiple handicaps. The Edgewater Park Township Board of Education (Board) found C.M. to be in need of special education. It determined to place C.M. in the Bancroft School as a residential pupil. During February 2000, the Board determined through its superintendent of schools, that it would no longer pay F.O.'s tuition at Bancroft because C.M., it claimed, is no longer a resident of Edgewater Park Township. Petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 before the Commissioner of Education alleging the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A: 46-22 and N.J.A.C. 6A: 14-7.7. Petitioner also filed a request for a due process hearing under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), as amended, 20 U.S.C.A. 1401, et seq., and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1, et seq. because the dispute centers on a pupil classified as being in need of special education whose rights were allegedly being violated.

The Commissioner of Education transferred the former matter March 21, 2000 to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. This case is docketed as OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2189-00. The initial decision, which follows, is subject to review by the Commissioner. The latter case was transferred March 29, 2000 to the Office of Administrative Law for final determination by an administrative law judge. 20 U.S.C.A. 1415; 34 C.F.R. 300.500, et seq. This case is docketed as OAL DKT. NO. EDS 2321-00. The decision, which follows, is a final administrative decision.

The undersigned administrative law judge was assigned both cases on or about May 15, 2000 which were consolidated, without objection, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.1 for purposes of hearing. Petitioner moved for summary decision on May 30, 2000 with supporting memorandum, exhibits, and affidavit. The Board filed a letter memorandum in opposition to the motion. The Board was granted the opportunity to present the testimony of the superintendent of schools on July 6, 2000 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville in opposition to the motion. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is ready for determination.

FACTS

For purposes of the motion for summary decision and in the absence of a stipulation of fact, the facts are established by petitioner's affidavit and the superintendent's testimony. Additional facts are established by the exhibits referenced by the superintendent and as attached to the respective memoranda of the parties.

Petitioner's Affidavit

Petitioner's affidavit filed in support of her motion for summary decision reads as follows:

1. I am the mother of [F.O.]

2. For all times relevant herein, I have resided at [* * * Drive], Edgewater Park, New Jersey, 08010.

3. [F.O.] was born on December 29, 1979.

4. [F.O.] is multiply handicapped. He has mental retardation, an incurable eye disorder known as Stargardt's Disease, and a seizure disorder. I was appointed his guardian by the Superior Court of New Jersey, Burlington County, in January 1998.

5. [F.O.] has been determined to be in need of special education services by [the Board] for all times relevant herein.

6. [F.O.] attends the Bancroft School ("Bancroft") on a residential basis. Bancroft is located in Haddonfield, New Jersey. [F.O.] was placed at Bancroft by [the Board].

7. I received a letter dated February 14, 2000, from Walter J. Dold, Superintendent of Schools, stating that he had determined that [F.O.] was no longer eligible to receive a free appropriate education from Edgewater Park because I am no longer domiciled in Edgewater Park. Mr. Dold also had the District stop making tuition payments to Bancroft for January, February and March. Payments were later resumed.

8. On February 25, 2000, my attorney replied to Mr. Dold advising Mr. Dold that his action was illegal and that the District had failed to offer me the hearing mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A; 38-1 and to follow the special education procedures. The District did not respond to this letter and no hearing was ever offered to me. In fact, to the best of my knowledge, it was Mr. Dold and not Edgewater Park Board of Education who determined to terminate my son's placement because of residency.

9. The District has never provided notice of an intention to revise my son's Individualized Education program and in fact has not revised the IEP. The IEP still requires the District to provide residential placement at Bancroft.

> 10. I have read the letter brief, dated March 26, 2000, prepared by my attorney, and state that the facts contained therein are true.
> 11. In contesting my residency, the District failed to follow procedures and grant me the rights to which I am entitled.

There is no dispute between the parties that Edgewater Park Township has been the district responsible for F.O.'s education at Bancroft for the past two and one-half years.

Superintendent's Testimony and Referenced Exhibits

The superintendent testified that sometime in February 2000 he received a report that petitioner no longer lived at her stated Edgewater Park Township address. He telephoned petitioner at or about the same time he received the report, after February 11 but before February 14, and discussed the information he received with her. On February 14, 2000 the superintendent wrote petitioner the following letter:

> It has come to our attention that you are no longer residing at [* * * Drive] in Edgewater Park.
>
> We have sent Bancroft a letter informing them to contact you and obtain the current address where you are domiciled so that the proper district can be billed for [F.O.'s] residential placement.
>
> Edgewater Park will not be responsible for [F.O.'s] tuition until your residency can be verified.
>
> (Exhibit A, attached to Petitioner's memorandum).

The referenced letter the superintendent wrote the Bancroft School the same day reads as follows:

> It has come to my attention that [C.M.], guardian of [F.O.], a residential student in your facility, no longer resides at [* * * Drive], Edgewater Park, NJ. Until [C.M.] can prove residency in Edgewater Park, our district will no longer be responsible for [F.O.'s] tuition.

> Please check with [C.M.] to determine where she is presently domiciled so the appropriate district can be billed for [F.O.'s] residential placement. . . (Emphasis in original) (C-1, p.3).

Shortly after having sent Bancroft the letter advising of his determination, the superintendent received an invoice from Bancroft requesting payment of $6,707 for F.O.'s tuition and residential costs. The superintendent wrote another letter to Bancroft on February 23, 2000, which states as follows:

> Regarding your invoice #52053 - for [F.O.], please see a copy of my attached letter [I sent you on February 14, 2000].
> We still have received no proof of residency from [C.M.], [F.O.'s] legal guardian. Therefore, we continue to decline being the responsible district for payment of [F.O.'s] residential placement at Bancroft. . . (C-1, p.1).

The invoice Bancroft sent the Board for the tuition and residential placement costs was not paid. Despite the testimony of the superintendent that he received no reply from C.M. to his letter until the verified petition of appeal and the request for a due process hearing were filed with the Commissioner of Education on or about March 15, 2000, counsel for petitioner did write the superintendent on February 25, 2000 advising that "It is illegal [for] you to unilaterally terminate funding. I ask that you rescind your decision immediately." Counsel also advised that if he, the superintendent, believes his clients are not residents of Edgewater Park the procedures outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 must be followed before F.O.'s exclusion from Bancroft may occur. (Exhibit B, attached to Petitioner's memorandum).

The superintendent brought the entire matter to the attention of the Board for the first time on February 28, 2000 when he reported he needed to discuss with it a matter involving ". . . a costly residential placement. . ." and his discovery that the guardian was not living in Edgewater Park. (Exhibits C, D, attached to Board's memorandum) There is no evidence showing what action, if any, the Board took at its February 28 meeting. It is reasonable to infer, however, that the Board approved the actions the superintendent had taken because the verified petition of appeal and the request for a due process hearing contesting the superintendent's action were filed after that meeting, on or about March 15, 2000.

In addition, the evidence shows the superintendent reported to the Board at its next regular meeting held March 27 as follows:

> As per the Board's directive at our last meeting [February 28 ?], I notified D.O.'s mother that due to the fact they were not residing in Edgewater Park, the Edgewater Park Board of Education would no longer be responsible for tuition. As per the law it is the parent's obligation to file with the commissioner of education to prove residency and that has been done [by the filing of the verified petition of appeal]. There is a twenty-one day time frame for an administrative law judge to review the case and give a decision. (Exhibit F, attached to the Board's memorandum).

The Board then adopted a motion by which it determined to seek back tuition from C.M. for the time it says she did not live in Edgewater.

The record shows that on March 24, 2000 counsel for petitioner wrote Board counsel:

> I have been notified that the District stopped paying for the child's [F.O.] placement at Bancroft NeuroHealth, Inc., and he is now about to be discharged.
>
> Under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and under the stay-put provision of 20 U.S.C.A. §1415(e), your client must maintain the placement pending the outcome of a dispute.
>
> I ask that your client pay the arrearages to Bancroft immediately and abide by the law.
>
> . . .
> By copy of this letter I am advising [the New Jersey Department of Education] of this and asking that their agencies order compliance. (Exhibit E, attached to Petitioner's memorandum).

The Director of the New Jersey Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs, Barbara Gantwerk, advised the superintendent in writing on March 31, 2000:

> We have been requested by counsel for C.M. [petitioner] to ensure that Edgewater Park Board of Education will continue to pay for F.O.'s placement at Bancroft NeuroHelath, Inc. During the pendency of the hearing on this matter. You advised [my office] that the district is aware of its responsibility and continues to support F.O.'s placement, and that F.O. is in no danger of having his program terminated. Additionally, you assured [my office] that your board secretary would cut a check to Bancroft and that you would contact the school to confirm F.O.'s continuing placement. . . . I am obligated to remind you that any failure on the part of the district to fulfill its responsibilities in this matter may result in further action by the Department of Education. (C-2).

The superintendent testified the invoice received from Bancroft in late February, which he initially refused to pay, was paid after having received the letter from Ms. Gantwerk. F.O. remains at Bancroft and the Board continues to pay the associated costs of his placement. The record also shows the Board, through counsel, advised petitioner on June 6, 2000 that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, it intended to hold a hearing June 26, 2000 regarding the superintendent's claim she is a nonresident. The hearing was not held as scheduled due to the filing of the motion for summary decision and the limited hearing for the superintendent to give testimony of the events as they occurred between February and May 2000.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's Arguments

Petitioner argues there are no genuine issues of material fact in dispute and, as such, she is entitled to summary decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 as a matter of state and federal law. Petitioner claims the Board violated the mandatory procedure under state law at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 of affording her a hearing before determining she is not domiciled within its district and that it is, therefore, not responsible for the financial burden of his placement. Petitioner further argues the conduct of the superintendent reaching a unilateral determination that she is a non-resident without prior knowledge of the Board is contrary to the statutory mandate of his being required to secure Board approval before the removal of a child on residency grounds occurs.

Petitioner argues under federal law that the Board's action through the superintendent on February 14, 2000 notifying her and the Bancroft School it no longer intended to pay residential placement and tuition constitutes a change placement and in F.O.'s Individualized Education Plan (IEP) for which she received no prior notice, nor was she provided an opportunity to participate in any meetings leading to the change. These actions, petitioner says, are contrary to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 42 U.S.C.A. §1401, et seq. and state implementing regulations at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3 and 3.7.

Board's Arguments

The Board opposes summary decision on the grounds the material issue of fact, petitioner's residency, is not yet resolved. It argues petitioner failed to request it to afford her a hearing on the issue of residency and, it notes, petitioner has offered no proof of either her or F.O.'s residency in its district as she is required to provide at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.b(2). The Board notes that even the February 25, 2000 letter from petitioner's attorney fails to notify it of a failure to provide petitioner a hearing, and it also fails to request it to provide a hearing. Furthermore, the Board asserts once petitioner filed the Verified Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education it was preempted from conducting a hearing.

Finally, the Board contends F.O.'s residential placement at Bancroft School has not been interrupted and, in fact it argues, it immediately reinstated the payment of tuition when the petition of appeal was filed and upon the request of petitioner's attorney. Consequently, the Board maintains it did not violate the provisions of the IDEA.

Initially, it is noted the evidence shows the Board did not resume payments to the Bancroft School for F.O. until ordered to do so by the Office of Special Education Programs of the New Jersey Department of Education on March 31, 2000.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides in relevant part:

Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;

b. . . .

(2) If the superintendent. . . of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district. . . the superintendent. . . may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district. . . the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the parent may contest the board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. . .

The statute provides for an orderly procedure when the residency of one of its pupils, otherwise already enrolled in its schools and being provided a free, appropriate education by it, becomes an issue.

In this case, the Board has been responsible for F.O.'s education for the past two and one-half years. The Board's child study team recommended the placement of F.O. at the Bancroft School for an appropriate educational program under the IDEA. The Board and superintendent apparently were satisfied for the past two and one-half years that it was responsible for F.O.'s educational program under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 because there is no evidence in the record that during that time any question of petitioner's residency placement was raised.

When the superintendent unilaterally determined petitioner was not a resident of the district on or about February 14, 2000, he did so contrary to a plain reading of the statute. The superintendent did not 'apply' to the Board for the removal of F.O. Rather, the superintendent immediately notified petitioner and the Bancroft School of his determination that from that day forward the Board would not pay for F.O.'s placement at Bancroft. Nor did the superintendent advise petitioner she was entitled to a hearing before the Board prior to his determination being given effect. Indeed, on February 23, 2000 the superintendent refused to authorize the payment of Bancroft's invoice for service to F.O. based on his determination of the residency issue.

Despite the Board being advised on February 28, 2000 of the superintendent's actions in the matter, it took no action to notify petitioner she was entitled to a hearing before it. Rather, through a lack of action it continued the then existing status quo created by the superintendent which was that it was not responsible for the placement costs of F.O. at the Bancroft School. The record is absent of any 'order' from the Board to petitioner or to Bancroft that it determined to 'transfer or [remove F.O] from school.' as is required by the statute.

While the Board argues that it is petitioner's obligation to have requested a hearing before it on the superintendent's action, I do not read the statute in that manner. The statute is clear that before the Board may order the transfer or removal of a child from school, the parent or guardian is entitled to a hearing before it. It is the Board's obligation to provide a hearing for the parent or guardian before it reaches a decision to transfer or remove. But beyond that omission, there is no authority for a superintendent to unilaterally terminate funding of a special education pupil on residency grounds without first applying to the board for his/her removal from its enrollment. Had the Board provided petitioner a hearing, she may well have presented persuasive evidence of her district residency.

The Board's argument that F.O.'s program was not interrupted is without merit. When the superintendent sent petitioner and the Bancroft School notice that the Board was no longer responsible for F.O.'s placement costs, it constructively interrupted F.O.'s placement. Petitioner was put in the position of having to file legal action against the Board and the superintendent in order to vindicate her statutory right to a hearing before such an adverse decision was made against her interest and the interest of her son, F.O. That this is so is evidenced by the fact the Board learned of the superintendent's action on February 28 without it taking any corrective action to insure petitioner's rights were honored.

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"), 20 U.S.C. 1400-1485, requires that students with disabilities receive a free and appropriate public education, or specialized instruction and related services individually designed to provide educational benefit to the handicapped. Hendrick Hudson Central School District v. Rowley, 458 U.S. 176, 200 (1982). To this end, students in need of special education are to have an Individualized Education Program designed to meet their unique needs. 458 U.S. at 209. Once designed and implemented at a facility to provide the program, the IEP may not be changed without prior notification to the parent or guardian. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(i).

Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision under State Law

A party is entitled to summary decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 when the established facts show the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. In this case, the facts show the Board violated petitioner's rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 by failing to afford her a hearing prior to its determination her son, F.O., is not entitled to enrollment in its schools. The Edgewater Park Township Board of Education is permanently restrained from determining the issue of petitioner's domicility without following the orderly procedure required by the statute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision under Federal Law

The facts show the Board violated the provisions of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act by constructively causing a change in F.O.'s IEP without prior notification to petitioner and by constructively causing a change in placement without the prior consent of petitioner. The Edgewater Park Township Board of Education is permanently restrained from causing a change in F.O.'s IEP without prior notification to petitioner and from causing a change in his placement without the prior approval of petitioner.

This decision is final pursuant to 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(1)(A) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.510 (1999) and is appealable by filing a complaint and bringing a civil action either in the Superior Court of New Jersey or in a district court of the United States. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(2), 34 C.F.R. § 300.512 (1999). If either party feels that this decision is not being fully implemented, this concern should be communicated in writing to the Director, Office of Special Education Programs.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge ((ALJ) that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2 when it failed to provide C.M. with a hearing prior to determining that she and F.O. were no longer domiciled in the District.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted insofar as it directs that the Board is restrained from determining this domicile issue until it properly takes action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the Office of Special Education.

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Procedural History

This matter was initiated on July 31, 2000 by petitioner's motion for emergent relief, filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). In support of that motion, petitioner filed an affidavit of the child's mother P.H. and a legal brief with two attachments.[1] Respondent Bergenfield Board of Education filed its opposing papers on August 9, 2000. These papers included an affidavit of Superintendent of Schools Dr. John Galish with several attachments.[2] In addition, the Bergenfield Board of Education filed an affidavit of School Business Administrator/Board Secretary Thomas Egan, with an attached resolution from the Bergenfield Board of Education, adopted March 21, 2000. Bergenfield Board of Education also filed a legal brief. Thereafter, on August 11, 2000, the Deputy Attorney General filed a notice of cross-motion to dismiss the petition of appeal, together with a supporting letter brief. Finally, on August 18, 2000, petitioner filed a letter reply brief.

On August 18, 2000, the Office of Administrative Law held oral argument limited to petitioner's application for emergent relief. In its application, petitioner seeks an order directing respondents to assess M.C.'s alternative education needs and directing respondents to provide an alternative education program by the beginning of the 2000-2001 academic year. For the reasons which follow, most, but not all, of this relief will be granted.

[1] These attachments consist of: The Safe Schools Initiative published by the New Jersey Department of Education (July of 1994) and A Guide and Application for Operation and Approval of High School Alternative Education Programs published by the New Jersey Department of Education (November 1999).

[2] These attachments consist of: An excerpt from a student handbook; a copy of the Bergenfield Board of Education Policy No. 5114 entitled "Suspension and Expulsion;" photographs of various weapons; a hearing notice sent to the mother, dated February 8, 2000; a notice of adjourned hearing sent to the mother, dated March 2, 2000; a delinquency complaint filed in the Superior Court, Chancery Division, Family Part, Bergen County on January 28, 2000; and a letter of expulsion sent to the mother, dated March 22, 2000.

Findings of Fact

Based on the pleadings, the affidavits and the attached exhibits, the facts necessary for disposition of this motion are largely undisputed. For purposes of this preliminary proceeding, I FIND:

At the time of the incident, M.C. was a fifteen-year-old sophomore attending Bergenfield High School. On January 26, 2000, while on school property, M.C. slashed at another student with a box-cutter razor, causing a large gash in that student's coat. Questioned by school administrators shortly after the event, M.C. freely confessed that he had slashed the other child's coat. When asked to empty his pockets, he produced a small arsenal of weapons comprised of three razor-blade box cutters, one razor scraper and one Swiss army knife. He admitted using the longest razor-blade box cutter to slash the other student's clothes. Although the Law Center argues that he had no intent to cause bodily injury to the other student, it leaves out the essential detail that the other child happened to be wearing the coat at the time of the attack.

A Bergenfield police officer called to the scene verified the existence of the weapons in M.C.'s possession and charged him as a juvenile with aggravated assault in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1.b(2) and unlawful possession of weapons on school grounds in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:39-5e(2). According to the verified petition, M.C. pled guilty to two disorderly persons offenses resulting from the charges and was placed on probation.

Meanwhile, school officials commenced disciplinary action against M.C. State statutes authorize local school districts to suspend or expel students for certain acts of misbehavior, including "conduct of such character as to constitute a continuing danger to the physical well being of other pupils." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-29(c). In addition, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2 provides for immediate removal of any pupil who commits an assault with a weapon upon another student on school property, pending a hearing before the local board of education. Students removed under these conditions shall be placed in an alternative education program or, if such placement is unavailable, shall be provided home instruction. However, the last sentence of the statute provides that, "Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the expulsion of a pupil."

Board officials followed proper procedures for disciplining of students. Initially, school administrators suspended M.C. for ten school days, later extended for an additional four days until the next meeting of the Board. By notice dated February 8, 2000, the superintendent of schools notified petitioner's mother of the nature of the charge against her son, gave her access to written materials, offered the opportunity for a hearing before the Board, and set forth the possible penalties including expulsion. At the request of M.C.'s attorney, the hearing was postponed for one month. On March 13, 2000, the school sent a second notice advising the mother of the new hearing date. The Bergenfield Board of Education held a hearing on March 21, 2000. M.C. was represented by counsel at the hearing and afforded a full panoply of due-process rights, including the right to confront the witnesses against him, the right to cross-examine witnesses and the right to call witnesses in his defense.

As noted, M.C. essentially admitted the truth of the charges against him. Proofs show that M.C. has a record of prior school suspensions for offenses ranging from repeated tardiness to improper touching of a female student. After the hearing, the Board members deliberated in private and adopted a resolution expelling M.C. from the Bergenfield public school system. On the following day, the superintendent sent a confirming letter to M.C.'s parents advising them of the Board's decision.

Under applicable statutes, petitioner has the right to appeal the Board's decision to the Commissioner and ultimately to the State Board of Education. During the pendency of the disciplinary proceedings below, the District furnished M.C. with home instruction. Once the expulsion decision had been reached, however, the District discontinued all services and now takes the position that it is no longer responsible for delivery of his education.

Because home instruction terminated on March 22, 2000, M.C. was unable to complete his tenth-grade year. As a result, he did not earn credit for tenth grade and must repeat that year. On June 19, 2000, M.C. turned sixteen years old. In four years, he will be twenty years old and no longer eligible to attend high school. Unless emergent relief is granted, he will lose any chance of earning a high school diploma. Significantly, M.C. is not seeking to return to Bergenfield High School in September. Rather, he is simply requesting that respondents assess his needs and provide him with an alternative education program.

Conclusions of Law

While there remains, of course, the necessity to explore more fully the factual issues in this case, the purpose of interlocutory relief is to maintain the status quo pending the plenary hearing. Nat'l Starch & Chem Corp. v. Parker Chem Corp., 219 N.J. Super. 158, 163 (App. Div. 1987). N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(a) provides:

> Where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case, emergency relief pending a final decision on the whole contested case may be ordered upon application of a party.

Although there exists no express statutory authority for the Commissioner to grant emergency relief, courts have consistently recognized the broad implied powers of the Commissioner to ensure that the constitutional mandate of a thorough and efficient education is implemented. N.J. Const. Art. VII, §4 ¶1. In re Trenton Bd. of Educ., 186 N.J. 327 (1981); Jenkins v. Morris Twp. Sch. Dist., 58 N.J. 483 (1971). In addition, the Legislature has conferred upon the Commissioner general supervisory power over the public school system in this State. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-22 to –25.

The leading case in New Jersey outlining the factors to be considered is Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). There the New Jersey Supreme Court set forth a four-part test for determining whether to grant preliminary relief.

First, the moving party must demonstrate such relief is necessary to prevent irreparable injury.

Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by money damages. Petitioner has satisfied the requirement that he makes a showing of irreparable injury. If emergent relief is not granted, the continuity of his education will be interrupted and it may be that he will never have an opportunity to finish school. While there is some dispute as to whether he must graduate before his nineteenth or twentieth birthday, the fact remains that if his education is interrupted now it will be difficult for him to make up any lost time. Even if he is ultimately successful in this case, he will have lost an important part of his educational development which could affect his future livelihood and his ability for success in our society.

The next two factors may be grouped together for discussion.

Second, emergency relief shall be withheld when the legal right petitioner's claim is unsettled.

and

Third, the moving party must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.

Mere doubt as to the validity of the claim is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo. In other words, "the point of temporary relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition[.]" 90 N.J. at 134. At the outset, it must be emphasized that the Bergenfield Board of Education acted within its statutory powers and did not deprive petitioner of any due-process rights. Certainly, the act which M.C. committed in a school setting threatened the physical safety and welfare of other students in the building and the school clearly had an obligation to act immediately to remove him from the premises.

Review of the facts shows that the Board was scrupulous in affording petitioner the full procedural rights to which he was entitled. All of the procedural protections elaborated in such landmark cases as Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565 (1975), R.R. v. Bd. of Educ., 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970) and Tibbs v. Franklin Twp. Bd. of Educ., 114 N.J. Super. 287 (App. Div. 1970), aff'd 59 N.J. 506 (1971) were carefully followed. Petitioner was given notice of the charge against him and a full opportunity to be heard, granted the right to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses, and allowed to present evidence on own his behalf.

Similarly, petitioner has not made a showing of the substantial likelihood of success in his due-process and equal protection claims. As the Deputy Attorney General points out in his brief, there is nothing inherently unconstitutional about a legislative scheme which allows local school districts to handle disciplinary problems. An equal protection issue is not generated merely by an assertion that someone else was dealt with differently. Traprock Indus. Inc. v. Kohl, 63 N.J. 1, 5 (1973). The equal protection clause does not require that every person be dealt with identically. Reiser v. Pension Comm'n, 147 N.J. Super 168, 179-80 (Law Div. 1976). Equality in the constitutional sense does not mean mathematical exactitude. Camden Cty. v. Pennsauken Sewerage Auth., 15 N.J. 456, 471 (1954). Boards of education must be able to impose discipline without having to examine whether another school district would find good cause to impose the same discipline for similar conduct. A classification is not adopted simply because there exists a possibility that local boards may reach different conclusions when determining whether to suspend or expel the student. Given the severity and nature of the misconduct in this case, the Bergenfield Board did not overreach its legitimate authority when it expelled M.C. from the regular public school system. Nevertheless, that does not necessarily end Bergenfield's legal obligation.

Stripped of the Law Center's due process and equal protection rhetoric, the central issue of this case is a student's legal entitlement to education after he has been lawfully expelled from his local school district. Art. VIII, §4, ¶1 of the New Jersey State Constitution mandates that, "The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years. (Emphasis added)." There is nothing in this clear language which qualifies the constitutional right or restricts its benefits to students who behave properly. Recently, in State ex rel. G.S., 330 N.J. Super. 383 (Ch. Div.2000), the Chancery Division held that the State has a constitutional obligation to provide an education to a juvenile who has been adjudicated delinquent and placed on probation, even though his local school district had expelled him. 330 N.J. Super. at 393. In a well-reasoned opinion, the Superior Court judge noted that, "Obviously then, the Legislature recognizes that expulsion of an adjudicated juvenile by his local school board does not sound the death knell for his constitutional right to receive an alternative education in another setting[.]" 330 N.J. Super. at 394. Consequently, the Court ordered that the student be placed in a school instruction program "that is grade-level appropriate for him, including an in-school program, in-home instruction program or other alternative education facility or program." Ibid. The Court left open to be decided later by the Commissioner whether the cost of such further education was to be borne by the State of New Jersey or the local school district. Since M.C. has also been adjudicated to be a juvenile offender, it would seem that the language of this case applies squarely to him. Surely the logic of the case would apply with even greater force to students who have been expelled from their local school district without being adjudicated as delinquents.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized the efficacy of placing disruptive students in alternative educational settings. In Abbot v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 515 (1998) ("Abbot V"), the Court referred to research that "placing students in alternative education programs decreases disruption in the regular school and, for students in the programs, increases academic performance, fosters positive lifestyles and reduces aggressive behavior." Indeed, the Commissioner has encouraged removal of violent or disruptive students from the regular school environment and their placement in some alternative setting. Thus, in the Safe School Initiative published by the New Jersey State Department of Education in July 1994, the authors of the report noted;

> Alternative schools and programs provide removed students with an education outside the regular school or classroom site. Alternative education strategies can help to address the underlying social causes of students' violent or severely/chronically disruptive behavior. However, as proposed here, the primary purpose of the strategies is to meet students' educational needs in an alternative environment so that they can be removed from the regular environment more readily. [at 5]

In practice, it appears that school boards frequently provide alternative instruction voluntarily and, on occasion, that the Commissioner will require it. Illustratively, in Scher v. Bd. of Educ. of West Orange, 1968 S.L.D. 92, 97, the Commissioner observed:

> While [expulsion] may resolve an immediate problem for the school, it may likewise create a host of others involving not only the pupil but the community and society at large. The Commissioner suggests, therefore, that boards of education who are forced to take expulsion action cannot shrug off responsibility but should make every effort to see that the child comes under the aegis of another agency able to deal with the problem. The Commissioner urges boards of education, therefore, to recognize expulsion as a negative and defeatist kind of last-ditch expedient resorted to only after and based upon competent professional evaluation and recommendation.

In numerous cases, expelled students have been provided with alternative instruction. See, e.g., C.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Piscataway, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Edu.) 573 (Comm'r May 19, 1997) ("The Commissioner finds that the Board failed to consider, investigate and effectively utilize the local- and county-based alternative education program options which are available."); M.T.C. v. Bd. of Educ. of Lower Camden Cty. Reg. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 1976 S.L.D. 274 ("Expulsion" until the end of the school year modified by the Commissioner to allow for either in-school or home instruction); A.D. v. Bd. of Educ. of East Windsor Reg. Sch. Dist., 1974 S.L.D. 451, 456 (School board tempered petitioner's exclusion from the school's day program by allowing her to attend the evening program and reapply for admission to the day program); T.K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Millville, 1980 S.L.D. 188, 192 (School board expelled petitioner from regular high school program, but offered him the opportunity to enroll in an evening program); W.S. v. Bd. of Educ. of East Windsor Reg. Sch. Dist., 1973 S.L.D. 652, 656 (Commissioner upheld petitioner's expulsion for threatening the assistant principal, but added "[T]his board is urged to make every possible effort to effect placement for W.S. with another agency which may be able to assist him."); Wharton v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Bridgeton, 1972 S.L.D. 23, 27 (Commissioner upheld board's expulsion decision, but directed "that the Board provide an offer of alternative instruction, either an evening school or at home, for either a regular or an equivalency diploma."). Thus while the Commissioner has stopped short of mandating alternative instruction, he frequently has recognized its desirability for providing continuing educational services to students who have been removed from their home school for good cause.

Based on the clear language of the Chancery Division in the recent J.S. case and the long history of offering alternative education to expelled students, it is likely that petitioner will ultimately prevail on the merits of this case.

Fourth, there must be a balancing of the relative hardships in granting or denying relief.

If this were merely a clash between the right of society to protect the safety of students enrolled in public schools and the individual right of a student to receive his education, there can be no doubt that the interest of school safety would prevail. Any right to education is meaningless unless students feel safe in their schools. Effective learning cannot occur in an atmosphere of fear and intimidation.

Fortunately, those choices are not the only options available. Here there is already a program in place which will accomplish the dual governmental objectives of protecting other students from a violent student and, at the same time, allowing the expelled student to receive some educational benefit in an isolated setting. The only hardship to the Bergenfield Board of Education is whatever the cost may be to place M.C. in an alternative educational placement. Since Bergenfield is already under a constitutional mandate to educate its residents until the age of nineteen, this does not impose any extra burdens upon the local school district.

To the extent that there may be a remaining question as to whether the local school district or the State is responsible to fund the alternate educational program, that issue need not be resolved on an emergent basis. In New Jersey, the state has delegated primary responsibility for delivery of education to the local school district. Accordingly, Bergenfield must bear the initial expense, without prejudice to its right to seek reimbursement from the State at a later date.

Order

For the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that respondent Bergenfield Board of Education immediately assess M.C.'s alternative education needs.

It is further ORDERED that Bergenfield Board of Education identify an appropriate alternative education program for M.C.[3]

And it is also ORDERED that Bergenfield Board of Education place M.C. in an alternative education program no later than the first day of the 2000-2001 school year; provided, however, that in the event that such alternative educational placement is unavailable, Bergenfield Board of Education furnish home instruction to M.C. while continuing its best efforts to find a suitable alternative education placement.

I hereby FILE this oral initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended oral decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention:

[3] Contrary to Petitioner's request, such alternate program need not cover all core curriculum content standards. Instead, the content of the curriculum is best left to professional educators.

Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY, DAVID C. HESPE, COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AND NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The recommended Order issued by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in this emergent matter, together with an audio cassette tape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 18, 2000, has been reviewed. Petitioners and respondents were accorded until September 1, 2000 to file exceptions to the ALJ's recommended Order, and were given until September 5, 2000 to submit replies. All parties submitted timely exceptions and reply arguments.

Petitioners initially except to the ALJ's "conclusion that the Board was 'scrupulous in affording [M.C.] the full procedural rights to which he was entitled,'" and that "M.C. 'has not made a showing of the substantial likelihood of success in his due-process...claims.'" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2, citing Initial Decision at 6-7) Here, petitioners assert that they neither argued nor briefed in their motion for emergent relief the procedural due process issues identified by the ALJ.[1] Rather, petitioners alleged due process and fundamental fairness violations based, inter alia, on the Board's overbroad zero tolerance policy, its failure to provide written notification of its zero tolerance policy, and on its failure to provide written notification of the reasons for its expulsion decision and the time limit for appealing that decision. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

Petitioners additionally except to the ALJ's conclusion that M.C. has not shown that he is likely to succeed on the merits of his equal protection claim. In this connection, petitioners underscore that respondents have permitted the classification of students into two groups: those who receive alternative education after expulsion and those whose education is terminated by expulsion. Yet, as petitioners note, respondents have provided no justification for denying the fundamental right to public education to some children, while providing it to others who are similarly situated. (Id. at 3) In opposition, the Board contends that "[t]he mere fact that some boards of education offer alternative education programs and others do not does not result in an equal protection violation." (Board's Reply at 2) Accepting petitioners' argument, the Board reasons, would leave local boards without the ability to impose any degree of discipline if that imposition results in one student being treated differently from another. (Id.)

Petitioners next object to that portion of the ALJ's Order wherein he determines that an appropriate alternative education placement for M.C. need not cover all core curriculum content standards, essentially contending that the program must meet these standards if it is to be a meaningful one, consistent with M.C.'s right to a thorough and efficient education. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3-4) Lastly, to the extent the ALJ has ordered that Bergenfield is

[1] The ALJ's recommended Order indicates that notice was provided to petitioners of the charge against M.C., and that he was given a full opportunity to be heard, the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence on his own behalf. (Initial Decision at 6-7) responsible for M.C.'s alternative education program, petitioners contend that the ALJ erred in failing to address the State's obligations in this regard.

The Board excepts to the ALJ's conclusions of law, contending that petitioners have not satisfied the standard for granting emergent relief. That is, the Board avers that petitioners have not demonstrated that M.C. will suffer irreparable harm absent the grant of relief requested. Instead, the Board contends that M.C. has options for continuing his education in that he may enroll in a neighboring local public school district as an affidavit pupil under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), may seek enrollment in a neighboring school district, with or without tuition payment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3, and may be home schooled or enrolled in an adult high school program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:30-1.2. (Board's Exceptions at 2) Conversely, petitioners reject the notion that M.C. has viable options for continuing his education. That is, M.C. cannot enroll in a neighboring district as an affidavit pupil pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) since he could not meet the statutory requirement that he reside with a resident of the district for a purpose other than receiving an education in the district. (Petitioners' Reply at 2, footnote 2)

> Further [petitioners argue] based on P.H.'s sworn statement that she is "currently unemployed while undergoing treatment for cancer," that her family "is just scraping by financially on [her] husband's income," and that she and her husband cannot afford to pay tuition for M.C., it is clear that they cannot enroll M.C. in another school.  To suggest that P.H. could home school M.C. is also equally implausible, since home schooling a high school student requires a mastery of content in multiple areas that few parents can claim to possess at a level sufficient to provide high school level instruction. Finally, while adult high schools and GED programs may be alternative ways to obtain a high school diploma, there can be little doubt that a student whose secondary education is involuntarily terminated and who is compelled to take the GED instead is irreparably harmed." (Id. at 2-3, footnote 2)

As to the ALJ's conclusion that petitioners have demonstrated a probability of success on the merits of their claim to M.C.'s entitlement to alternative education after his expulsion, the Board argues that the ALJ's conclusion ignores prior decisions affirming that a pupil's constitutional right to attend public schools, free of charge, is not unbridled. Further, the Board contends that to the extent G.S., supra, can be relied upon as support for the ALJ's conclusion that M.C. is entitled to education in an alternative setting after his expulsion, that case placed such obligation on the State, not on the local board. (Board's Exceptions at 3) In this regard, the Board posits that neither State statute nor regulation mandates the provision of an alternative education program following a pupil's expulsion. To the contrary, referring to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2, a statute adopted in 1995 addressing the discipline of students who commit assaults with a weapon, the Board argues:

> The statute does not provide that there must be an alternative education program provided after the hearing. In fact, the statute specifically allows a board to expel a pupil. Had the Legislature wanted to require a local board of education to provide education following an expulsion, it would have so indicated.  The only enumerated right to an alternative educational program under the law is where the student is removed because of the assault and awaiting a hearing before the board of education. The right to an alternative education program does not also attach after the imposition of expulsion. If such were the intention of the Legislature, surely the last sentence of the statute would have been akin to the following: "Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the expulsion of a pupil, provided that an alternative educational program is made available to the expelled pupil." But, the statute does not say that. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 4)

The Board construes the ALJ's Order as erroneously placing a continued obligation to provide an alternative education program to an expelled student during the pendency of the student's appeal before the Commissioner, absent any statute or regulation requiring the same.

Finally, the Board argues that the ALJ improperly found that the balancing of hardships tips in petitioners' favor. In this analysis, the Board stresses its obligation to protect the safety of all its students, which obligation cannot be abridged in favor of educating one violent student. "Boards of education must not be stripped of their ability to maintain safety and order within the schools, and must be permitted to exercise their statutory right to expel a dangerous student." (Id. at 5) Petitioners, however, find the Board's argument to be "beside the point," since they are not seeking to undermine the right of all students to safety and order by having M.C. return to Bergenfield High School. Rather, they maintain that an alternative school environment is a suitable setting for violent or disruptive students. (Petitioners' Reply at 4)

The State respondents except to the ALJ's holding, although not reflected in his emergent Order, not to consider their Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal within the context of the emergent hearing. Additionally, the State objects to the ALJ's grant of partial emergent relief to petitioners, since they have not met the legal standard for such relief.

Upon careful and independent review of the parties' arguments pursuant to petitioners' application for emergent relief, the Commissioner determines to grant partial relief, as specified herein. Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, notwithstanding the variety of relief sought by petitioners in their Petition of Appeal, the issue most amenable to emergent remedy is petitioners' request to have M.C. placed in an alternative education program subsequent to his expulsion.[2] The standard for granting such emergent relief is established by Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

First, the Commissioner has considered the harm to petitioners and the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief. In so doing, he recognizes that boards of education, including those governing alternative schools, have an obligation to provide safe learning environments, and he notes, with great concern, that M.C. undisputedly assaulted another student using a box-cutter razor and, thereafter, was found to be in possession of "a small arsenal of weapons," including three razor-blade box cutters, one razor scraper and one Swiss Army knife. (Initial Decision at 3) However, the Commissioner is likewise cognizant that M.C.'s education, absent some grant of interim relief, will not continue during the pendency of proceedings on the merits and that such interruption could result in irreparable harm to M.C should petitioners ultimately prevail in their claims.

[2] In so finding, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's decision to defer a ruling on the State's Motion to Dismiss.

The Commissioner has also considered petitioners' likelihood of success on the merits of their claim together with their burden to demonstrate that the legal right underlying the claim is settled. Initially, the Commissioner finds that the right to a free public education in an alternative setting after a student's lawful expulsion from the regular education program cannot at this point be considered a matter of fully settled law. Notwithstanding that the present matter appears in some respects similar to G.S., supra, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2, which was inapplicable and therefore not considered in the G.S. decision, clearly directs a local board to seek an alternative placement when the student has, as M.C. did, committed an assault upon a teacher, administrator, board member, other employee of the board, or another student, with a weapon, on school property, on a school bus or at a school-sponsored function. However, the statute goes on to clarify that this obligation in no way prohibits expulsion:

> Any student that is removed from the regular education program pursuant to this section shall be placed in an alternative education program. If placement in an alternative education program is not available, the pupil shall be provided home instruction or other suitable facilities and programs until placement is available.  Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting expulsion of a pupil. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2. (emphasis supplied)

Nonetheless, for purposes of the instant application, the Commissioner concurs that the Court's holding in G.S., supra, as relied upon by petitioners, provides a sufficient basis for grant of some form of interim relief while the matter is more fully litigated.

The Commissioner does not, however, concur that the appropriate grant of interim relief is placement in an alternative educational setting. Rather, the Commissioner finds that, under the totality of circumstances in this matter, re-instituting home instruction to M.C., as had been provided prior to his expulsion, appropriately recognizes the weight of G.S., supra, for purposes of a temporary application and balances the interests of petitioners and the Board.

Accordingly, without reaching the ALJ's factfinding and conclusions on the merits, since definitive holdings in these regards more appropriately await plenary proceedings, the Commissioner concurs that relief is appropriate, but modifies the relief recommended by the ALJ and directs the Board to immediately place M.C. in a program of home instruction until this matter is fully litigated and decided. The matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioners' claims.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged the District improperly withheld his salary increment for the 1998-99 school year based on evaluations of his teaching performance wherein he received unsatisfactory ratings.

The ALJ determined that the District had demonstrated that petitioner, among other things, was deficient in assessing needs evaluating the progress of students, did not employ effective organization and planning and was in need of improvement in addressing affective domain. The ALJ determined that the withholding of petitioner's increment was appropriate and so concluded in her recommended decision.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City ("District") to withhold his salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1998. Count 12 of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Melvin Holston. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. Subsequently, on October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Holston case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3818-99, on March 6, 2000. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the State-Operated School District submitted a detailed review of the testimony and proposed findings of fact, which I largely have adopted herein.

1. Petitioner was assigned to teach art at two public schools in Jersey City during most of the 1997-98 school year. One of his assigned schools was Public School (P.S.) No. 15, where he taught art to various grades two days per week. In April 1998 his schedule was revised. He was assigned to teach art at a third school and assigned to P.S. 15 for only one day a week.

2. Holston is presently working at P.S. 23. He has a bachelor of arts degree in art education and is a professional artist. He has been working in the Jersey City School District for twenty-four years.

3. The petitioner's teaching performance at P.S. 15 was formally evaluated on two different occasions during the 1997-98 school year by Annie Graham, then principal of P.S. 15. Ms. Graham has been employed by the District for twenty-one years and is presently principal of P.S. 12. Ms. Graham found petitioner's performance to be less than satisfactory on both occasions.

4. The first formal observation by Principal Graham was conducted on January 16, 1998, from 9:50 a.m. to 10:40 a.m. when petitioner was teaching brush strokes and colors to seventh- or eighth-grade students.

5. After the observation, Ms. Graham prepared a written report on a standard form used by the District. The form lists five performance factors. 1 - demonstrates proficiency in subject matter; 2 - assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils; 3 - employs effective organization and planning; 4 - utilizes effective instructional techniques; and 5 - addresses affective domain.

6. Ms. Graham found petitioner to be unsatisfactory in the area of assessing needs and evaluating the progress of pupils, because of his lack of basic student records. Petitioner had a roll book, which had no recorded grades in it for any child in any of his twelve classes. Since petitioner had submitted grades to the students' homeroom teachers for the prior two marking periods, the basis for those grades is undocumented and unascertainable. Petitioner did not have seating charts or records of student attendance and did not take attendance during Ms. Graham's observation. He did not have a folder for each student, and the folders that he did have available contained papers without any organization.

7. Ms. Graham also found petitioner's performance to be unsatisfactory in the area of organization and planning. Proper planning requires the assessment of the needs of the students. Petitioner had made no notations at all regarding the progress of the students.

8. Ms. Graham gave petitioner a rating of "improvement needed" in the area of affective domain, because petitioner did not call the students by their names and did not seem to have made any connection with them.

9. Ms. Graham prepared a written report of her observation of January 16, 1998 (R-1) and reviewed the report in detail with petitioner at a conference on January 29, 1998. The written report specifically advised petitioner to "Create portfolios. Take attendance. Make attendance cards or note attendance in your roll book daily. All skills covered for the year are to be recorded in your roll book with a grade provided assessing students' progress."

10. Ms. Graham explained to petitioner how to set up a roll book and talked about using name tags for the students so that he could identify the students in his classes.

11. Ms. Graham had previously spoken to petitioner on several occasions, in his classroom and in her office, primarily about disciplinary concerns, but also about organization and management. Ms. Graham had also previously informed the teachers at staff meetings of what would be expected in formal evaluations, and had distributed a handbook containing that information.

12. Petitioner read Ms. Graham's report but refused to sign it.

13. Ms. Graham conducted a second formal observation of petitioner's classroom performance on March 13, 1998, from 12:31 p.m. until 1:15 p.m. Ms. Graham prepared a written report (R-3), in which she rated petitioner's performance as less than satisfactory on three performance factors.

14. Ms. Graham gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating in the area of assessing needs and evaluating the progress of students. She found that petitioner did not have a seating chart in his plan book, did not have any grades at all in his roll book and did not have folders for each student. Ms. Graham saw stacks and stacks of papers in the classroom. The papers were not separated by student and had no grades on either side. Petitioner did not take attendance nor was the students' attendance recorded in any book.

15. Petitioner had no writings from the students, even though writing had been stressed as a particular need at P.S. 15 because of the students' low writing test scores.

16. Ms. Graham rated petitioner's performance as needing improvement in the area of planning and organization. Petitioner had a plan book, but the plan book was undated, so it was difficult to determine whether the lesson being taught by petitioner was the lesson that had actually been planned for that day.

17. On the day of Ms. Graham's observation, the students were asked to create a futuristic design of a city. Petitioner's failure to give examples, such as by modeling a design or by having film strips, videos or slides with such examples, was not good planning. The failure to give models or examples of potential futuristic designs caused uncertainty for the students regarding what was expected of them.

18. Ms. Graham rated petitioner's performance as needing improvement in the area of affective domain, because petitioner had not properly prepared for the lesson and because he still could not identify the students in his class. He also did not keep his classroom neat and organized.

19. Ms. Graham held a post-observation conference with petitioner on March 26, 1998, and went through each indicator on the evaluation report. Petitioner refused to sign the report.

20. Ms. Graham did not conduct another observation.

21. Ms. Graham recommended the withholding of petitioner's increment and made the recommendation on a list that she submitted to the Department of Human Resources in March or April 1998.

22. Petitioner acknowledges that the class first observed by Ms. Graham was his problem class. He was so stressed out by the class that he threatened to resign. He subsequently was transferred and remained in P.S. 15 only on Fridays for his special education class.

23. Petitioner had some students with behavioral problems. Some students would not tell him their names. When Ms. Graham came in to do her observation, the class calmed down; it was rowdy again when she left.

24. After the first evaluation, petitioner gave written assignments to the students, which they refused to do. He wrote and called parents and gave students second chances, but they still refused to do the assignments.

25. Petitioner has never previously been denied an increment, nor was he ever advised by Ms. Graham that his increment was in jeopardy.

26. On March 10, 1998, petitioner was evaluated by Daniel R. Cupo, principal of P.S. 23, who gave him all satisfactory ratings (R-2). In an Instructional Annual Written Performance Report dated May 20, 1998, Mr. Cupo recommended that petitioner's increment be granted (R-5).

27. On June 15, 1998, Betty Crook, principal of P.S. 1, evaluated petitioner, with results similar to those of Mr. Cupo (R-6).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Holston's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Petitioner admitted that he was behind in grading his students when Ms. Graham formally observed his class on January 16, 1998, and that he failed to take attendance on March 13, 1998 (R-4). He also admitted that he failed to call the students by name during the class and that he was having a discipline problem in the class. However, the sum and substance of petitioner's testimony was to the effect that he was doing the best he could with a difficult situation. He contends that any alleged deficiency in his teaching skill was the result of an unruly and uncontrollable class. He contends that the District has penalized him for the incorrigible behavior of the students.

Petitioner further alleged that there was a serious question as to the motives and credibility of Ms. Graham, who had a personal predilection against him. Petitioner alleges that the criterion requirements were not clear to Ms. Graham and were not made clear to him. She negatively critiqued him, not based on objective District-wide criteria, but based on her own personal views of what an art teacher should do. If the District had requirements as to how roll books should be maintained, he was not made aware of them.

Petitioner asserts that the District failed to set forth the guidelines it uses to grant or deny increments. Without guidelines, neither a teacher nor the District nor the Commissioner can properly ascertain the reasons for an increment denial. More to the point, petitioner asserts that if a teacher receives good evaluations from at least two evaluators and in fact is recommended for an increment, his increment should not be denied based upon the opinion of a third evaluator.

Petitioner failed to provide evidence to support these allegations. Specifically, he failed to present any evidence to support his claim that Ms. Graham had a personal predilection against him. He failed to demonstrate that she negatively critiqued him based upon her own personal views of what an art teacher should do. In fact, her critique of him was substantially based upon effective District-wide requirements regarding taking attendance, maintaining grade books, maintaining student folders, requiring writings from the students, updating plan books, and providing models. In addition, petitioner failed to demonstrate that he was not properly advised of these requirements. In fact, it is clear that he was so advised by Ms. Graham prior to the observations and after each evaluation. Moreover, his argument that the problem was due to an unruly class also did not serve him well. Even if one could argue that the class first observed by Ms. Graham caused petitioner some difficulty, it is clear that Ms. Graham observed a different class when she conducted her second evaluation.

In sum, petitioner's effort to blame his failure to comply with the requirements of his job either on the principals who conducted the evaluations or other factors was unsuccessful. Petitioner failed to prove that it was unreasonable for Ms. Graham, who observed and evaluated his teaching performance twice, to conclude that his performance was less than satisfactory.

Of import, his assertions were contrary to the testimony and evidence adduced by respondent's witness. Petitioner was evaluated on two occasions by an independent and experienced evaluator. Ms. Graham's testimony, as substantiated by her reports, was clear, specific, credible and worthy of belief. It demonstrated that petitioner properly received unsatisfactory ratings in assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils and employs effective organization and planning, and was in need of improvement in addressing affective domain. Clearly, the evidence demonstrated that petitioner's teaching performance on the two occasions on which he was observed by Ms. Graham was actually less than satisfactory in the performance categories set forth above. Moreover, Ms. Graham attempted to advise petitioner of what was expected of him and make suggestions for his improvement. Petitioner failed to improve significantly by the second evaluation so that he could receive a satisfactory evaluation.

While it is true that petitioner was evaluated by other administrators at the two other schools in which he taught and his performance was found to be satisfactory by those administrators, this does not demonstrate that the Board's decision to withhold his salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Petitioner taught at three different schools. While his teaching at two of the schools may have been satisfactory, his performance at P.S. 15 was sufficiently unsatisfactory for the District to withhold his increment. His service is to the District and his performance must be evaluated District-wide. Simply because he received good evaluations from at least two evaluators does not mean that his increment cannot be denied if his service to one of the schools was unsatisfactory. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not proven that the Board's decision to withhold his salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the District's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on March 6, 2000, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision. As noted therein, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Kopera, supra. Notwithstanding petitioner's arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner finds no basis, either in the transcript or in the record as a whole, to challenge the credibility determinations of the Administrative Law Judge, who had the benefit of observing the witnesses firsthand, or to disturb her findings and conclusions. As such, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet his burden.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RIVERTON,

Respondent.

C.C., petitioner, pro se

Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., Esq., on behalf of the respondent (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A., attorneys)

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the petition filed with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on May 16, 2000. The petitioner alleged a number of inappropriate actions by employees of the Board, and also asked for emergent relief to stay the proposed detention of R.S., which C.C., his mother, alleges was improperly imposed.

The matter was transmitted on May 16, 2000, to the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13, prior to the filing of any papers by the respondent, since the petitioner was requesting emergency relief.

The oral argument as to the motion for emergency relief took place on June 1, 2000. After considering the arguments of the parties, I denied the request for emergency relief by order dated June 2, 2000. The hearing as to the petition is scheduled for September 18, 2000.

On April 25, 2000, I received a motion for partial summary decision from Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., Esq., on behalf of the respondent. By this motion, Mr. Cavallo stated that the petition contains allegations of inappropriate actions which occurred in May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000, and that these allegations should be dismissed as being filed out-of-time pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6:24-1.2. This statute provides that a party has 90 days from the date of notice of alleged inappropriate action to file a petition with the Commissioner (90-day rule).

The respondent argued that summary decision as to the May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000 alleged incidents is appropriate since there are no factual disputes as to the dates of the incidents and the date of the filing of the petition, and the respondent is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

Mr. Cavallo argued that the courts have upheld the reasonableness of the 90 day rule, have held that the 90 day rule is mandatory and that the 90 day period starts from the notice of the alleged adverse actions, Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). Mr. Cavallo recognized that in a few cases the 90-day rule was not applied and cited a court decision holding that such a relaxation of the rule only occurs "where there is some compelling reason for the same, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves" American Fed. of Teachers v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Berkeley Heights, 1998 W.L. 831336 (N.J. Amin.) (quoting Bogart v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, EDU 6245-82 (Jan. 26, 1983), aff'd by Comm. of Ed. (March 14, 1983).

Mr. Cavallo argued there are no such compelling reasons as to the May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000 alleged incidents, and that the parts of the petition that relate to these alleged incidents be dismissed.

C.C. argued that the allegations regarding the May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000 incidents should not be dismissed since these incidents show a pattern of inappropriate actions towards her son. C.C. did not give any reason as to why she did not ask for administrative hearings as to these incidents right after they occurred.

I am persuaded by Mr. Cavallo's arguments and I CONCLUDE that the 90 day rule clearly applies to the incidents which allegedly occurred on May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000. I will not accept any testimony as to what happened on those three dates nor will I make any determination as to whether the respondent's actions on those dates were appropriate and reasonable. Therefore, I ORDER that the parts of the petition that ask for relief as to the alleged incidents on May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000 be DISMISSED.

This order granting partial summary decision is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make the final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this order was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RIVERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION

The record and recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Granting Partial Summary Judgment to the Board have been reviewed.

The Commissioner finds that he cannot accept the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner's allegations concerning incidents in May 1998, December 1999 and January 2000 should be dismissed for petitioner's failure to file a petition on each of these incidents within 90 days from the date of notice of the Board's alleged inappropriate actions.

In this matter, petitioner seeks to challenge the Board's disciplinary action assigning her son after-school detention for allegedly copying another student's homework. Petitioner has refused to permit her son to serve the detention imposed, arguing that her son was not guilty of copying another student's homework and, therefore, the Board erred in imposing discipline upon him. Petitioner further argues that allegations regarding the 1998 incident (teacher allegedly yanked son by his arm), the 1999 incident (son allegedly sent home bleeding after he was injured at recess) and the 2000 incident (principal allegedly embarrassed son by talking about his grades in public) should not be dismissed since they show a pattern of inappropriate actions towards her son. (Initial Decision at 3) Petitioner also expresses concern for her son's safety and alleges that her son has experienced "pain and suffering (all at the hands of teachers and administrators)" and requests that the Board pay tuition and transportation costs for her son to transfer to Palmyra School District, a neighboring school district. (Petitioner's Answer to Motion for Summary Judgment at 1)

The Commissioner has considered the Board's arguments for dismissal of the 1998, 1999 and 2000 incidents for untimely filing, petitioner's argument that the incidents which occurred in the past show a pattern of inappropriate actions towards her son, and petitioner's expressed concern for her son's safety. In instances of this type where a parent seeks to show a pattern of inappropriate actions by a school district in an effort to illustrate that her son should be placed in a different school district, the Commissioner finds it unduly restrictive, under these circumstances, to limit those arguments to the incidents falling within 90 days prior to the filing of the petition. Further, the effect of the ALJ's interpretation could be to encourage unnecessary litigation if parents so barred from advancing arguments indicating a pattern of actions were restricted to incidents on which the parents had previously filed a timely petition.

Accordingly, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's conclusions and denies the Board's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment. Petitioner shall, therefore, be permitted to advance her arguments with respect to the 1998, 1999 and 2000 incidents for the purpose of establishing a pattern of alleged inappropriate actions towards her son by the Board. This matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claim consistent with the decision herein.

David W. Carroll, Esq., for respondent (Parker, McKay & Criscuolo, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 19, 2000 Decided: August 2, 2000

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

On September 21, 1999, the Commissioner of Education issued a decision rejecting a previous settlement agreement entered into in the within matter (OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6012-97) because of a provision in that agreement which provided:

> If the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund does not accept and implement this agreement, all provisions of this agreement shall be deemed null, void and of no effect, and . . . the Petition of Appeal, in its entirety, shall be deemed active . . . .

On November 16, 1999, the matter was retransmitted to the Office of Administrative Law to be held in abeyance pending review by the Division of Pensions and Benefits of the parties' proposal to credit petitioner with additional pension contributions.

By letter dated July 18, 2000, counsel for respondent advised the undersigned administrative law judge in pertinent part as follows:

> At long last I have received the necessary approval from the Division of Pensions. I enclose herewith a copy of a July 17, 2000 letter from Peter J. Gorman, Executive Assistant with the Division of Pensions confirming that the back wages award will be pension creditable. I am also enclosing an original of a revised Settlement Agreement.
>
> I believe that this now clears the way for the final entry of an Initial Decision on Remand approving the Settlement. The matter would then go back to the Commissioner for final approval.

The July 17, 2000 correspondence from the Division of Pensions referenced in counsel's letter to me and the revised settlement agreement and stipulation of settlement are attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The Division of Pensions has confirmed that upon receipt of normal pension contributions from petitioner, she will receive pension credit for an additional $30,000 in base salary for the period September 1, 1997 through June 30, 1999.

3. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: Patricia Swallow
TPAF # 341028

Dear Mr. Carroll:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your attached correspondence as well as to confirm our telephone conversations today concerning the wording within the attached proposed back wages award to Ms. Patricia Swallow.

Please be advised that I have reviewed the contents of the attached settlement agreement. Since the provisions therein indicate that Ms. Swallow is granted $30,000.00 in back wages for the period between September 1, 1997, and June 30, 1999, she could receive pension credit for such period upon the payment of the normal pension contributions. Such normal pension contributions will be calculated at the rate at 4.5% of the base salary being paid to Ms. Swallow at the time of her termination.

Such employee normal pension contributions should be deducted from Ms. Swallow's back wages and forwarded to the Division of Pensions and Benefits by reporting such award and employee pension contribution payments on the employer's report of contributions form. I would suggest that the employer include a copy of the attached agreement to that report. I am sending a copy of this letter and attachments to our Audit Section and requesting that, if I have stated any of the procedures mentioned above, they contact you or the employer to rectify my misstatements.

If I can assist you further, please contact me at (609) 292-0132 between 8:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. or by fax at (609) 393-4606.

Make it a good day for yourself.

Sincerely,

Peter J. Gorman

The parties to the within matter hereby agree to settle and resolve the claims which were asserted by petitioner in the Petition of Appeal with the above docket number, based upon the following terms:

1. The parties recognize that petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education which asserts that the termination of her employment at the end of the 1996-97 school year and retention and/or employment of other teaching staff members violated petitioner's tenure and seniority rights.

The parties also agree that any such claims are neither waived nor abandoned by this agreement, and this agreement shall only extinguish those claims which petitioner is aware of as of the date of signing this agreement.

4. The parties agree that this settlement agreement must be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and that if the Commissioner of Education rejects any provision of this settlement agreement, if respondent does not fully implement the terms of this agreement, or if the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund does not accept and implement this agreement, all provisions of this agreement shall be deemed null, void, and of no effect, and that the Petition of Appeal, in its entirety, shall be deemed active and shall be remanded to the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education for proceedings as a contested case, and that in such event, the parties shall retain all legal rights that they had prior to their entering into this agreement.

5. The parties recognize that during the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, petitioner was employed as a teaching staff member by the Lebanon Board of Education and had substantial earnings which mitigated her losses, and that such mitigation must be taken into account together with unemployment benefits received in determining the back pay and benefits that the petitioner shall receive. Accordingly, the parties agree that respondent shall pay to petitioner, as back pay, after consideration of mitigation, the sum of $30.000.00 covering the period of September 1, 1997 through June 30, 1999. The parties specifically agree and recognize that this payment constitutes back pay minus mitigation and is paid as full compensation after deduction for mitigation for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, which sum together with petitioner's other earnings and unemployment benefits, is substantially the amount petitioner would have earned if employed by the respondent for those school years.

6. The parties agree that the payment required by this agreement shall be made within 60 days of the Commissioner's approval of this settlement agreement.

7. The parties agree that petitioner shall receive pension credit for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years as if she had been employed on a full time basis by respondent. The parties recognize that petitioner has already received partial pension credit as a result of her employment with the Lebanon Board of Education. To provide the additional pension credit required by this agreement, respondent shall deduct from petitioner's back pay the additional employee's share of contributions on those portions of the full salaries that petitioner would have earned for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years if employed by respondent (which was not previously remitted to the Division of Pensions) and shall remit those contributions to the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund. Respondent shall also inform the Division of Pensions of the basis for the deductions, i.e., that said deductions are the additional deductions due based upon the salary petitioner would have earned as if employed full-time by respondent for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, but that pension contributions have already been paid on the portion of salaries for those years, so that the additional pension contributions should be taken only on the amount necessary to result in pension credit being provided for the salaries petitioner would have earned if employed full-time for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school year.

8. Respondent shall request that the Division of Pensions contribute the employer's share of petitioner's pension contributions for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, but if required by the Division of Pensions, respondent shall pay the employer's share of additional pension contributions for petitioner's pension credit for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years.

9. The parties agree that if the Division of Pensions refuses to grant or recognize the pension credit required by this agreement, this settlement shall be null and void, petitioner shall not be deemed to have waived, abandoned, or surrendered any tenure, seniority, or other re-employment rights, and petitioner's case shall be returned to active status for determination by the Office of Administrative Law.

10. This agreement constitutes the entire understanding of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified or otherwise changed except by an instrument in writing executed by the parties.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, prior to the District being taken over by the State, contracted with the Newark School District to provide various educational services to the District. After the State-operated School District was created, petitioners' services to the District were terminated. Petitioners filed a petition seeking payment in the amount of $4,445.37 for services rendered during the period from July 1 to July 12, 1995, 60 calendar days pay after July 12, 1995 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, and a $1,200 payment in the form of a salary adjustment or bonus payment, which payment had allegedly been previously authorized for certain senior staff employees of the School District.

The matter was transmitted to the OAL. After a hearing was conducted, the ALJ determined that petitioners were not entitled to 60 calendar days pay after July 12, 1995 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 because they were hired to provide consultant services and, thus, they did not fall within the purview of the statute. In addition, the ALJ concluded that petitioners had failed to provide testimony or documentary evidence to support their claim for a $1,200 payment in the form of a salary adjustment or bonus. Finally, the ALJ concluded that petitioners were entitled to a quantum meruit payment in the amount of $4,445.37 for work performed from July 1 to July 12, 1995.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

I am now on the record in this matter. It is my intention to today, July 24, 2000, issue an oral decision in the matter of Kittrels Educational Training Systems, Inc. and Kittrels, individually, v. the State Operated School District of the City of Newark. The OAL Docket Number is EDU 1083-98. I am rendering this oral decision today in order to comply with the requirements of the last Order of Extension which had been entered in this matter which Order extended the time for issuance of this initial decision until July 24, 2000. I was unable to coordinate an effort this morning to try to get both attorneys here so that the oral decision could be rendered in their presence. However, the rules pertaining to oral determinations found in N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2 no longer require that an oral decision be rendered in the presence of the parties unlike the earlier version of the rule which did. In that respect, I refer counsel to the Comment in LeFelt 37 New Jersey Practice, Section 258.

With respect to my determination in the case I have already identified the parties. The attorneys who had appeared were Robert T. Pickett, Esq., for petitioners, and Philip E. Stern, Esq. of the firm of Sills Cummis Zuckerman Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross, attorneys for the respondent. The following constitutes my oral decision.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education in January 1998 following the filing of a petition by Kittrels Educational Training Systems, Inc. hereinafter referred to as "KETS and Alonzo Kittrels, individually, alleging that since October 1987 KETS annually had entered into written agreements with the Newark Board of Education engaging it as a consultant to provide various educational services. The contract and agreement anticipated that in providing those services the individual petitioner, Alonzo Kittrels, exclusively would be doing the same. No other KETS employees were involved.

No successor written contract was entered into for the 1994-95 school year. However it was extended on a month-to-month basis as of July 1, 1994. I would direct counsel to Exhibits P-3 and P-7 with respect to that extension.

On July 12, 1995 the State took over operation of the Newark School District and forthwith advised Kittrels that his services no longer were needed. See Exhibit P-13. According to Kittrels, however, he, number 1, should have been paid in accordance with the contract, as extended from July 1 to July 12, 1995, in an amount he calculated to be

$4,445.37. Second, that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 he was entitled to sixty calendar days pay after July 12, 1995 and third, that he also was entitled to a $1200 payment in the form of what has been called either a bonus or a salary adjustment, which payment had been authorized for certain senior staff employees of the school district. In response to the petition setting forth those claims the State Operated School District filed an answer generally denying the allegations and setting out a variety of separate defenses. A prehearing conference was conducted by former Administrative Law Judge Mary Louise Lucchi-McCloud in September 1998 and her prehearing order set forth the following issue to be decided in the case. "At time contract was terminated did respondent owe petitioner for services?"

A plenary hearing was conducted before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge on July 21, 1999 and post hearing briefs thereafter were filed in accordance with an agreed scheduled, as extended. Unfortunately, I was required to take a lengthy leave because of illness of a family member thereby necessitating several time extensions for issuance of this decision. As indicated earlier, today is the last date of the last extension and I will therefore be rendering my decision today. Pursuant to the rules of the OAL a transcript will be prepared and provided to the agency and the parties within fifteen days of today's date.

With respect to the hearing held last July, testimony was received from two witnesses, both on behalf of the petitioners: Eugene C. Campbell, who was the Executive Superintendent of the Newark School District during the period in question here; namely, between 1987 and July 12, 1995, the date of the State takeover, and individual petitioner Alonzo Kittrels.

Campbell had been Executive Superintendent of the District for several years prior to the takeover. Indeed, he had been employed since 1984. In October 1987, by Board Resolution, KETS was engaged to provide consultant services. This agreement then, as I indicated earlier, annually was renewed according to Campbell, through the end of the 1993-94 school year. (Exhibit P-1). Since, during 1994, the School District was under monitoring by the State Department of Education, a renewal contract for 1994-95 was never formally approved by the State. (Exhibit P-3). However, in order to avoid confusion, Campbell, without State objection, rehired KETS and therefore Kittrels as KETS' employee, on a month-to-month basis for the 1994-95 school year. Campbell did this because the functions performed by Kittrels were critical. (Exhibit P-5.) In June 1995, Campbell issued a Notice of Continuing Employment for 1995-96 pertaining to senior staff and at will employees which he testified included Kittrels. (Exhibit P-7). Kittrels continued to perform services for the period July 1 through July 12, 1995 when the State formally took over the School District and Kittrels was discharged. Although Campbell could not recall specifically, he believed he may have spoken to senior administrators at the Department of Education to let them know that the KETS contract again had been continued on a month-to-month basis, similar to what occurred during the 1994-95 school year. Campbell also identified a voucher and invoice which had been submitted by KETS in October 1994 with respect to a $1200 bonus or payment adjustment which Kittrels claimed was due and owing to him but which was never paid. (Exhibit P-8). This extra payment was to be a "payment adjustment" designed to bring Kittrels' 1994-95 compensation in line with a Deputy Executive Superintendent's pay for that school year.

On cross-examination, Campbell indicated he was "almost sure" there was a Board Resolution passed in June 1995 approving the month-to-month engagement of Kittrels for the school year beginning July 1, 1995. Although the resolution could not be found, Campbell recalled that ordinarily this would have been the practice and he was sure that a resolution to that effect had been prepared by Board counsel. He also believed that whether or not the Board actually approved the month-to-month extension it was a binding act since, as Executive Superintendent, he had the statutory authority to take this action on his own as part of his administrative duties.

The second witness was individual petitioner Alonzo Kittrels. He had been employed as Executive Director of Human Resource Services in the Newark School District and from 1977-78 through 1980-81 was Executive Superintendent of Schools. In October 1987, KETS, a Corporation formed by Kittrels a few years earlier was retained as a consultant by the Board and its original contract (Exhibit P-1) was renewed annually through 1993-94, although the duties required of Kittrels were changed from time to time (Exhibit P-2). For tax reasons, KETS, rather than Kittrels, individually, was designated as official vendor of the services rendered but it was understood that Kittrels personally would be paid because it was he who was providing the exclusive services. A renewal contract for 1994-95 (Exhibit P-3) was never executed, he said, because the State Acting Audit General, who was in charge of the District's monitoring at that time, as well as the Commissioner, raised certain questions about it. Kittrels explained that for 1995-96 Campbell resolved the same issue by again suggesting a month-to-month extension of the contract. Kittrels understood this extension agreement was actually presented for Board approval at the end of June. Thus he worked on that basis until July 12, 1995 when, as indicated, he was discharged when the State takeover took place. A series of letters subsequently were exchanged between Kittrels and others concerning his status (Exhibits P-13 through P-18) which also touched upon Kittrels' claims to be paid the $1200 and his contention that the sixty calendar day salary was an entitlement which should be paid to him.

On cross-examination, Kittrels agreed that usually he worked only three days per week for the Newark School District and that he received no pension, sick time or vacation pay benefits. He also paid for his own medical coverage. Basically, his position was that he properly was engaged as a consultant through KETS, that he fully performed the services that were required of him and was entitled to be paid what was due and owing to him, namely sixty calendar days pay subsequent to July 12, 1995 per N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44A, the sum of $4,455.37 for the period July 1 to July 12, 1995 and the additional $1200 payment adjustment or bonus which had been approved for other employees of the District.

Following conclusion of the presentation of petitioner's case, the respondent determined not to offer any evidence on its own. Rather, it rested in reliance upon a Joint Stipulation of Facts which had been orally spread upon the record at the outset of the hearing and the testimony of Campbell and Kittrels, together with the documentary evidence submitted. A list of the documentary evidence will be attached to this initial decision.

Based upon my review and consideration of the Campbell and Kittrels testimony and the documentary evidence, and after reading and considering the contents of the posthearing briefs filed in the matter, I agree in large part with the position taken by the Board.

First, with respect to the major salary claim by Kittrels, namely his entitlement to 60 calendar days pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a), I agree with the Board. The applicable statute with respect to providing sixty days pay does not, in my judgment, apply to consulting contracts with corporations like KETS, or with independent contractors like Kittrels. Neither of them, corporately, or individually, can be considered "Executive Administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance", the category to whom the sixty days pay applies. Rather, persons and entities like petitioners are covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-42 which specifically mentions it is applicable to consultants and has no like 60 day payment provision as may be found in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44A. The decision In Massa v. Jersey City School District, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 52 (1991), aff'd. Commissioner of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 54, aff'd State Board 92 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 336 (1992), supports this conclusion. In that matter it was held that persons hired and dismissed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-42 , like Kittrels, do not enjoy the benefits of the sixty calendar day payment or of the sixty day notice provision which also may be found in Chapter 7A-44. Clearly, in my view, consultants like Kittrels fall within the category to which the benefit does not apply. As Massa, and another case, State Operated School District of the City of Jersey City have held, the 44(a) provision is intended to give procedural protections to regular tenured school employees. Corporate entities like KETS, consultants and other such ad hoc entities do not acquire tenure or seniority and therefore should not and do not fall within the penumbra of N.J.S.A. 18A:7-44(a). Thus, to the extent Kittrels claims entitlement to the sixty calendar days pay his contention is rejected.

Beyond that, of course, the contract between the parties identifies Kittrels specifically as an independent contractor, not as a school employee (Exh. P-1, para. C.) and categorically excluded him from the receipt of any benefits provided by the Board to its regular employees. Therefore, the plain language of both the statute and the contract excludes Kittrels from the sixty days' pay entitlement.

However, I must disagree with the Board's position that the 1995-96 month-to-month extension approved by Campbell is unenforceable because it is either ultra vires or exceeded the powers of the Board to enter into a contract for more than one fiscal year. Even though both arguments technically are correct, Kittrels is entitled on an equitable, quantum meruit basis to recover because he actually performed the services in good faith. While certainly there is case law to the effect that quantum meruit recovery against public entities is not usual, I believe given all the circumstances of this case, the public interest will not be contravened by this recovery. As noted, services were performed in good faith by Kittrels. Therefore, whether Campbell had the statutory authority to approve the extension itself, or whether the Board approved it, or whether since it extended beyond June 30, 1995 it was ultra vires the authority of Campbell or the Board, the fact is that the services were performed in good faith and I thus will sustain the quantum meruit claim for the amount involved which, as I indicated, is $4,455.37.

Finally, I agree with the Board that no $1200 bonus or payment adjustment is required here. First, as the Board accurately points out, there is no compelling proof that the Board approved the bonus or adjustment for Kittrels in the first place. A notation at the bottom of the purchase order could not clearly be identified by any witness and therefore cannot provide a basis for payment. Statements allegedly made by State officials to Kittrels indicating that he ought to be paid that amount are not evidential, especially without first-hand corroborative evidence sufficient to provide a residuum to overcome the clearly hearsay aspects of the testimony in this regard.

Accordingly, based upon the testimony and the documentary evidence in this case, I conclude that relief will be limited to recovery on a quantum meruit for the twelve days that Kittrels worked during July 1995, which has been calculated to be $4,455.37. However, payment to Kittrels of sixty calendar days pay based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 is rejected, as is the payment of $1200. Thus, the total award to Kittrels will be $4,455.37. Neither costs nor prejudgment interest are appropriate in this matter. See, Newark Board of Ed. V. Levitt, 197 N.J. Super. 239,244 (App. Div. 1984). Thus for these reasons, the petition of appeal will be dismissed, except for the quantum meruit payment and I so ORDER. The claims for sixty calendar days and the $1200 bonus, as indicated, are DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days of receipt and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the transcript of this recommended decision is mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

That concludes the rendering of my initial decision in this case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2. As noted a transcript will be issued and filed with the agency head and mailed to the parties within fifteen working days of today's date.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The District's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

The District excepts to that portion of the Initial Decision which allows petitioners' quantum meruit recovery of $4,445.37, arguing that: 1) quantum meruit should be awarded sparingly against public entities and should not be permitted where the contract was ultra vires or the work was performed without proper authorization; 2) Superintendent Campbell lacked the statutory authority to administratively extend contracts; and 3) even if the Board had approved the extension of the contract on a month-to-month basis, any extension which exceeded one year (beyond June 30, 1995) was ultra vires. (District's Exceptions at 3-8) The District, additionally, re-advances its contention that should quantum meruit recovery be permitted, the amount of such award should be reduced, arguing that "[q]uantum meruit must be awarded fairly and is only intended to compensate a party for the fair value of services actually rendered."

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The District's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

The District excepts to that portion of the Initial Decision which allows petitioners' quantum meruit recovery of $4,445.37, arguing that: 1) quantum meruit should be awarded sparingly against public entities and should not be permitted where the contract was ultra vires or the work was performed without proper authorization; 2) Superintendent Campbell lacked the statutory authority to administratively extend contracts; and 3) even if the Board had approved the extension of the contract on a month-to-month basis, any extension which exceeded one year (beyond June 30, 1995) was ultra vires. (District's Exceptions at 3-8) The District, additionally, re-advances its contention that should quantum meruit recovery be permitted, the amount of such award should be reduced, arguing that "[q]uantum meruit must be awarded fairly and is only intended to compensate a party for the fair value of services actually rendered."

[1] Petitioners did not file a reply to the District's exceptions.

(citation omitted) (District's Exceptions at 8) Here, it reasons, any such award is intended to compensate petitioners for services rendered during the period from July 1 through July 12, 1995. The District finds it significant that, because of the 4th of July holiday and weekends, petitioners were awarded $4,445.37 for what amounts to "seven days of work, or approximately $640 per day for consulting services in 1995," an astronomical figure constituting a "windfall," and contrary to the objective of quantum meruit. (emphasis in text) (Ibid.) As such, the District urges that any award be "limited to a reasonable daily figure, and only be awarded for the number of days actually worked." (District's Exceptions at 9)

Upon his careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on July 21, 1999, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioners possess no entitlement to 60 days pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) for the reasons clearly articulated on pages 6-7 of the Initial Decision. The Commissioner, likewise, agrees that petitioners have presented no documentary or testimonial evidence sufficient to support their claim to a $1,200 bonus or payment adjustment from the District.

Finally, in considering the recommended quantum meruit award of compensation for services rendered by petitioners during the July 1 – July 12, 1995 time period, the Commissioner, according due regard to the District's arguments, concurs with the ALJ that "given all the circumstances of this case, the public interest will not be contravened" by recovery in the designated amount. (Initial Decision at 7) In this respect, the Commissioner specifically notes that the ALJ had the opportunity to hear all testimony, observe all witnesses and evaluate all evidence, and that, while the District excepts to the ALJ's recommendations, it identifies no compelling basis on which to disturb the conclusions reached by the ALJ in light of the totality of applicable law and fact.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein. The District is hereby directed to compensate petitioners in the amount of $4,455.37, representing recovery, in quantum meruit, for the services rendered during the period at issue in July 1995. Petitioners' remaining claims in their Petition of Appeal are hereby dismissed.

HEARING OF JOSEPH GRACEFFO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent vice principal for allegedly violating State law and Board Policy 5131.6 on six occasions regarding handling of students who were suspected of being under the influence of alcohol or drugs. The Board averred that under the plain language of the statute and the District's drug policy, a teacher's referral of a student as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs obligated respondent to drug test the student; respondent had no discretion in deciding whether to test. Respondent contended each test must be supported by reasonable suspicion. The Board sought respondent's dismissal from employment.

In light of testimony from witnesses presented during 15 days of hearing, numerous exhibits and post-hearing briefs, the ALJ concluded that the Board established by a preponderance of evidence that respondent violated the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, and the Board's policy in charges 1 and 2, the N.L. incident, in charges 3 and 4, the A.F. incident and the J.B. incident, but not in charges 3 and 4, the "rage" incident and the D.M. incident. With respect to penalty, although the Board demonstrated that from 1995 to 1999, respondent failed to properly implement the policy and law with three students, the Board did not discipline him until the death of N.L. In addition, respondent had consistently positive performance evaluations. Thus, the ALJ determined that the Board failed to establish that respondent's conduct constituted a pattern of unbecoming conduct sufficient to warrant his dismissal from employment. The ALJ ordered that respondent suffer a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide and forfeit all salary and benefits that would otherwise have accrued during the first 120 days of his suspension.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determinations in charges 1, 2, 3, and 4, except for charges 3 and 4 in the "rage" incident, and modified the ALJ's analysis and conclusions in certain respects. The Commissioner rejected the ALJ's conclusions in the "rage" incident and, unlike the ALJ, found respondent guilty of the charges in that incident. The Commissioner determined that, notwithstanding any concern respondent may have had as to whether the referral of the "rage" student was reasonable, respondent's obligation under the law was to arrange for an immediate medical examination of the student upon the staff member's persistence in her belief that the student exhibited indicators of possible substance abuse. The Commissioner clarified that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, once a teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel has reported, based upon observation and articulation of specific indicators, that a student may be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, the principal or his designee must arrange for an immediate medical examination of that student. The Commissioner further stressed that drug testing is not a substitute for the required medical examination. Because there was clearly confusion in the District with respect to roles and responsibilities under the law and District policy, and because District policies were not entirely in conformance with statute and rule as interpreted by this decision, the Commissioner directed the Board to revise its policies and procedures, institute a continuing education program for staff in the identification of symptoms of substance abuse and the requirements imposed upon them by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, and submit its revisions and plans in this regard to the County Superintendent for review and approval.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 113-5/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOSEPH GRACEFFO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., and John R. Vreeland, Esq., for petitioner School District of Wayne, Passaic County (Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., for respondent Joseph Graceffo

Record Closed: May 3, 2000 Decided: June 19, 2000

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Board of Education of Wayne, Passaic County, (Board) certified tenure charges against respondent Joseph Graceffo, a vice principal in the Wayne School District (District). The Board contends that on six occasions Graceffo willfully violated state law and the Board's policy regarding drug testing students who were suspected of being under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. The Board submits that Graceffo's conduct was unprofessional and unbecoming and, therefore, warrants his dismissal from employment. Graceffo denies any charges of wrongdoing. If any of the charges is sustained, the Commissioner of Education must determine whether dismissal or some lesser penalty is warranted.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 1999, the Board served Joseph Graceffo with charges of conduct unbecoming an administrator. Graceffo has been employed in the District since 1966, and from August 1991 until August 1998 he was one of the two vice principals at Wayne Valley High School. In August 1998 Graceffo was transferred to Wayne Hills High School, where he served as one of the school's two vice principals until he was suspended in February 1999.

On May 14, 1999, the Board filed the tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education. Also, the Board served Graceffo with notice of its decision to certify the tenure charges to the Commissioner and to suspend respondent without pay effective May 14, 1999.

On June 8, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On June 22, 1999, a prehearing conference was held and hearings were held on October 4, 5, 21, 22 and 25, November 9, and December 7, 8 and 9, 1999, and January 11, 12 and 31, February 28 and 29, and March 2, 2000.

During the hearing, the Board raised two incidents, one occurring in 1991 and the other occurring in 1994, that were not contained in the statement of charges. On October 5, 1999, respondent moved to strike incidents occurring prior to 1995. Respondent contended that the Board's failure to provide notice of the specific incidents prior to the hearing denied him the opportunity to properly defend the allegations. The Board argued that the two incidents were sufficiently identified to enable respondent to understand the events to which it referred. I granted respondent's motion to strike the incidents that were not contained in the petition. The Board filed an interlocutory appeal before the Commissioner. On October 20, 1999, the Commissioner reversed the ruling and concluded that the Board adequately set forth the incidents in question to allow respondent to prepare a defense.

The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on May 3, 2000.

CHARGES

Charge No. 1: That during the 1998-1999 school year, Joseph Graceffo, a tenured administrator in the employ of the Wayne Township Board of Education, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 regarding the drug testing of a student suspected of drug use, and, as a result of said unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Charge No. 2: That during the 1998-1999 school year, Joseph Graceffo, a tenured administrator in the employ of the Wayne Township Board of Education, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with Board Policy No. 5131.6 regarding the drug testing of a student suspected of drug use, and, as a result of said unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Charge No. 3: That during the 1995-1996 and 1996-1997 school years, Joseph Graceffo, a tenured administrator in the employ of the Wayne Township Board of Education, exhibited a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 regarding the drug testing of students suspected of drug use, and, as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Charge No. 4: That during the 1995-1996 and 1996-1997 school years, Joseph Graceffo, a tenured administrator in the employ of the Wayne Township Board of Education, exhibited a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with Board Policy No. 5131.6 regarding the drug testing of students suspected of drug use, and, as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

ISSUE

Whether in each of the four tenure charges Graceffo failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Board Policy No. 5131.6 and, thus, exhibited unbecoming conduct? And, if so, what is the appropriate penalty?

Petitioner has the burden of proof to establish the claims by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982).

BACKGROUND

On April 1, 1987, the Board adopted Board Policy No. 5131.6, "Drugs, Alcohol and Tobacco" (policy). The policy was revised on December 15, 1988, October 19, 1989, August 23, 1990, August 22, 1991, November 21, 1991, August 20, 1992, July 15, 1993, January 18, 1996, and April 20, 1998. The current policy states in part:

> A. Procedure for identifying and assisting students who may be at risk of developing alcohol and/or drug dependencies excluding classes involving anabolic steroids
>
> 1. Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse and/or other educational or professional medical staff member that a pupil may have used, consumed and/or be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, that staff member shall report the matter as soon as possible to the building's professional medical staff member and principal or other administrator. . . . The pupil shall not be left alone. . . .
>
> 2a. In compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, the principal or, in his absence, his/her designee shall immediately notify the parent/guardian and the Superintendent and arrange for the pupil to immediately be medically examined by a doctor selected by the parent/guardian. . . .
>
> 2b. The principal or his/her designee shall explain to the student's parent/guardian the details of the examination process which will be used by the District if the student is not examined by the parent's/guardian's own doctor. . . .
> 2c. As soon as possible after a student is reported as possibly being under the influence, the principal or designee and the school nurse shall verbally explain to the student's parent/guardian what the symptoms were which led to the reporting. . . .

3. If the school authorities are unable to contact the parent/guardian and/or if the doctor selected is not immediately available, the school medical inspector or designee shall be immediately called upon to examine the pupil for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under the influence of alcohol or drugs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 . . . .

4. If such doctor, medical inspector or his/her designee is not immediately available or if the situation becomes life threatening, the pupil shall be immediately taken to the emergency room of the Wayne General Hospital or the nearest hospital, for examination and/or treatment . . . .

E. Pupils for Whom There is a Concern About Behavior Which May Indicate Alcohol or Drug Use/Abuse Though There is No Evidence of Violation of Law or School Regulations

A referral may be made by a member of the school staff, an administrator, a pupil, parent/guardian, or by the pupil himself/herself.

Statutory law regarding testing students suspected of drug use states, in part:

> Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel of any public school in this State that a pupil may be under the influence of substances as defined pursuant to section 2 of this act, . . . that teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel shall report the matter as soon as possible to the school nurse or medical inspector, as the case may be, or to a substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal or, in his absence, to his designee. The principal or his designee, shall immediately notify the parent or guardian and the superintendent of schools, if there be one, or the administrative principal and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor selected by the parent or guardian, or if that doctor is not immediately available, by the medical inspector, if he is available. If a doctor or medical inspector is not immediately available, the pupil shall be taken to the emergency room of the nearest hospital for examination accompanied by a member of the school staff designated by the principal and a parent or guardian of the pupil if available. The pupil shall be examined as soon as possible for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under such influence.
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12(a).]

The Board's Policy Regarding Drug Testing Students Suspected of Drug Use

Section (A) and Section (E) of the policy are relevant to this matter. Section (A), "Procedure for identifying and assisting students who may be at risk of developing alcohol and/or drug dependencies," is based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12.

Under Section (A)(1) of the policy, whenever a teaching staff member suspects that a student may have used, consumed and/or may be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, "that staff member shall report the matter as soon as possible to the building's professional medical staff member and principal or other administrator." P-23. In the District's two high schools, the vice principals are the administrators designated to receive and act upon referrals under Section (A) of the policy. Graceffo served in this capacity as vice principal of Wayne Hills High School.

Section (A)(2) of the policy mirrors the statutory language, as it requires the vice principal, upon receipt of a referral, to "immediately notify the parent/guardian and the Superintendent and arrange for the pupil to immediately be medically examined by a doctor selected by the parent/guardian" to confirm whether the pupil is under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. P-23. This section also describes the procedures to be followed in the event that the administrator cannot reach the parent or if the doctor selected by the parent is not available. In the event that a student is tested, the policy requires that the vice principal explain to the student's parents or guardians what symptoms led to the testing.

The second major component of the policy is Section (E), "Pupils For Whom There is Concern About Behavior Which May Indicate Alcohol or Drug Use/Abuse Though There is No Evidence of Violation of Law or School Regulation." P-23. A referral under this section does not necessarily result in the student being tested for drugs. Rather, a referral by a teaching staff member under this section triggers the involvement of a student assistance specialist, who determines whether it is necessary to involve one of the Core Teams.

There are four Core Teams in the District, one at each of the two high schools and two middle schools. Each Core Team is a cross section of the school's professional staff, including members of the child study team, the school nurse, guidance counselors and teachers. After receiving a referral under Section (E) of the policy, a Core Team member will raise the student's name at the next Core Team meeting. Those professionals who either have regular contact with the student or who have access to the student's records will determine whether the information reflects the profile of a student who may be involved with alcohol or other drugs. If so, the Core Team then considers what type of intervention might be most effective.

ALLEGATIONS OF MISCONDUCT

The four tenure charges are based on six incidents involving five students who were referred to Graceffo by a teacher or staff member who suspected that the student might be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. The students were an unidentified student who was being disciplined by Graceffo (1991), D.M. (1994), A.F. (1995), J.B. (1996), and N.L. (1999).

The Board presented thirteen witnesses and respondent presented eight witnesses. The witnesses testified to their understanding of the application of the law and the policy. Some witnesses agreed with Graceffo's implementation of the policy; others disagreed. I have considered each incident to determine whether Graceffo's conduct constituted unbecoming conduct, individually and collectively.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Charges 1 and 2

January 21, 1999, N.L. Incident

On the morning of January 21, 1999, Graceffo summoned an eleventh-grade student, N.L., to his office to discuss the student's excessive absenteeism. During the meeting, N.L. gave Graceffo a doctor's note indicating that his recent absence had been due to bronchitis. Graceffo advised N.L. to speak to his teacher about making up missed schoolwork and sent N.L. to his classes.

Later that day, Susan Ammerman, N.L.'s physical education instructor, approached N.L. to discuss his recent absence from her class. Ammerman testified that when she spoke with N.L., she detected an odor of marijuana and observed that his pupils were dilated. She then summoned the school nurse.

Deborah Cordo, R.N., a part-time nurse employed by the District, responded to Ammerman's call. Standing in the classroom doorway, Ammerman told Cardo that she wanted a student drug tested. Cardo could not recall whether Ammerman said the student smelled of marijuana or that his eyes were dilated. Cardo observed N.L. and smelled only cigarette tobacco on him. Cardo summoned Marilyn DeStefano, who was in the lunchroom.

Marilyn DeStefano, R.N., has been employed by the District since 1996 and was the school's full-time nurse. She went to Ammerman's classroom and was informed by Ammerman of her suspicions about N.L. Ammerman wanted N.L. drug tested. Graceffo was soon informed about the situation and had N.L. evaluated. DeStefano checked N.L.'s vital signs, e.g., blood pressure, temperature and pupils. DeStefano was suffering from a sinus infection and was unable to smell any particular odor on N.L.

Graceffo removed N.L. from the class and escorted him to the nurse's office, where DeStefano evaluated him. Thereafter, DeStefano reported her findings that "everything was normal." She also told Graceffo that she had a sinus infection and could not smell anything. Graceffo asked Cordo whether she smelled marijuana on N.L. Cordo responded, "No." Graceffo returned to his office with N.L. and phoned N.L.'s mother. He told her of the suspicions about N.L. and said that the suspicions had not been confirmed. Subsequently, Graceffo informed Ammerman that he was not going to test N.L. because he could not corroborate her suspicions. Ammerman testified that she asked Graceffo to test N.L. Graceffo testified that Ammerman never specifically requested that N.L. be tested.

On the following day, January 22, 1999, Robert Flower, chairperson for the Department of Art, Music and Physical Education, spoke to N.L. about his poor grades in physical education. During their discussion, Flower detected an odor of marijuana on N.L. Flower spoke with Ammerman, who told him that the prior day she suspected that N.L. was under the influence. Flower told Graceffo that he also suspected drug use by N.L. However, Flower never specifically requested that N.L. be tested. Graceffo informed Flower that he had spoken with N.L.'s mother. Flower assumed the matter was being taken care of by Graceffo.

Ammerman became very upset when she learned that Graceffo would not test N.L. On February 4, 1999, she attended the Core Team meeting and announced her resignation from the team in protest of Graceffo's refusal to test N.L. Upon learning of this situation, Vicki Musetti, the student assistance specialist, informed Eugene Sudol, the school principal, that Graceffo had failed to test N.L., despite Ammerman's suspicions and request.

On February 5, 1999, Sudol began an investigation of Graceffo's handling of the N.L. case. On February 6, 1999, N.L. died of a drug overdose. Graceffo was subsequently suspended following an administrative investigation.

Charges 3 and 4

1991 Incident

Musetti testified that in 1991 she witnessed a student run out of Graceffo's office in an agitated state and proceed to knock everything off the front office counter. Musetti told Graceffo that she believed this student might have been under the influence of drugs and that he should be tested.

Graceffo testified that he did not test the student for drugs because there was no reasonable suspicion to believe the student was under the influence. Moreover, Musetti did not know the facts of the situation because she had no prior involvement with this student.

Musetti concluded that Graceffo's failure to drug test the student constituted non-compliance with drug-testing policy and she reported the matter to the school principal, Russell DeVries. Neither Musetti nor Graceffo could remember the name of the student.

1994 D.M. Incident

Musetti testified that Graceffo also failed to act upon a referral in 1994. She claimed that on October 17, 1994, a teacher named Bob Bishop referred three students to be tested. Graceffo had two of the students tested and told Musetti that he didn't test the third student, D.M., because he had negative interactions with the mother of this student in the past and did not want another confrontation. Musetti testified that she informed Graceffo that the law required that this student be tested and he responded, "laws were meant to be broken." Graceffo vigorously denied saying "laws were meant to be broken." Musetti also testified that she also reported this incident to DeVries and raised the issue at a subsequent Core Team meeting.

1995 A.F. Incident

At approximately 9:00 a.m. on October 23, 1995, Linda Remolino, a guidance counselor at Wayne Hills High School and member of the Core Team, referred a student, A.F., to Graceffo to be drug tested. Remolino had referred A.F. for drug testing on two prior occasions. She had tested positive for drugs both times. Upon receiving this latest referral, Graceffo contacted A.F.'s mother at 11:00 a.m. and informed her that she needed to come to school so that A.F. could be tested. Ms. F. told Graceffo that she could not come to school until 2:00 p.m. the next day. Graceffo agreed that A.F. could be tested at that time.

At the Core Team meeting on October 24, 1995, the Team expressed concern that A.F. had not yet been tested. The Core Team drafted a formal complaint to Principal DeVries about Graceffo's failure to comply with the drug-testing policy with respect to A.F. Graceffo testified that he had A.F. tested as soon as possible and that the student was tested on the afternoon of October 24, 1995.

1996 J.B. Incident

Musetti testified that at the end of the school day on November 5, 1996, Fran Curasco, a teacher at Wayne Valley High School, referred one of her students, J.B., to Musetti to be tested for drugs. After J.B. left the building, Musetti referred the matter to Mary Jane Tierney, the vice principal responsible for testing J.B., and told her to contact the parents. Tierney told Musetti that she planned to be absent the next morning and asked Musetti to contact Graceffo. Musetti called Graceffo's office and told his secretary that Tierney had asked that Graceffo be told that J.B. needed to be tested first thing in the morning.

The following morning, Musetti contacted the school nurse and learned that Graceffo would not test J.B. Musetti then called Graceffo and requested that J.B. be tested. Musetti testified that Graceffo acknowledged his responsibility to test the student but claimed that he could not implement the drug test because he was the only administrator in the building. Thus, Graceffo informed Musetti that the test would have to wait until Tierney returned. Tierney returned at about noon that day and arranged for J.B. to be tested.

Musetti filed a complaint with the building principal, Robert Reis. She claimed that Graceffo's inaction with regard to the testing of J.B. posed a serious health risk and placed the entire school community in jeopardy. According to Musetti, Reis told her that he told Graceffo that he should have overseen the drug test of J.B.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Statutory Interpretation

The parties differ as to what triggers the statute and Board policy. The Board contends that once a student has been referred by a teaching staff member based on a suspicion that the student may be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, neither the vice principal nor the school nurse has any role in determining whether the student will be drug tested to confirm the presence of drugs. Thus, the policy is triggered whenever the teaching staff member reports a suspicion that the student is under the influence.

Graceffo argues that the drug policy is not triggered by the referral from a teacher/staff member who suspects that the student may be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. Rather, the decision to drug test a student is based on the totality of the circumstances and the standard of reasonable suspicion.

The court's discussion on statutory interpretation in County of Camden v. South Jersey Port Corp., 312 N.J. Super. 387, 396 (App. Div. 1998), provides guidance here:

> The clearest indication of an Act's meaning is its plain language. However, in times when the statute's plain language creates ambiguities, courts must interpret the statute in a manner consistent with the legislative intent. It is the general intent of the statute that controls the interpretation of its parts. 'Statutes are to be read sensibly rather than literally and the controlling legislative intent is to be presumed as consonant to reason and good discretion.'

Applying the court's enunciated principles in this matter requires that "the principal or his designee . . . shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor." *N.J.S.*A. 18A:40A-12. The pivotal question is whether the use of the word "shall" leaves any room for administrative discretion. In general, use of the word "shall" is construed to be mandatory and the word "may" to be permissive or directory. No Illegal Points, Citizens for Drivers' Rights, Inc. v. Florio, 264 N.J. Super. 318 (App. Div.

1993). In Murnick v. Asbury Park, 187 N.J. Super. 455, 460 (App. Div. 1982), the court stated that "[t]he word 'shall' connotes a mandatory legislative intent unless it is used merely to effectuate a provision relating to form and manner." "[S]uch a mandatory construction is warranted where the essential spirit, e.g., the underlying purpose, of the enactment is served." Devonshire Dev. Assoc. v. Hackensack, 184 N.J. Super. 371, 385 (N.J. Tax Ct. 1981). Nevertheless, the terms have been held to be interchangeable when necessary to implement legislative intent. Franklin Estates v. Edison, 142 N.J. Super. 179, 184 (App. Div. 1976). Use of the word "shall" has not been found to be conclusive, but rather is indicative of a presumption that can be overcome through interpretation of the legislation's purpose. Ibid.

The Legislature declared that a significant number of young people are involved in alcohol and other drugs. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-8. Thus, each local board of education must establish in the elementary and secondary schools a comprehensive substance abuse intervention, prevention and treatment referral program. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10. The purpose of the program shall be to "identify pupils who are substance abusers, assess the extent of these pupils' involvement with these substances and, where appropriate, refer pupils and their families to organizations . . . [for] professional treatment." Ibid. Here, the underlying purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 supports interpreting "shall" as a mandatory directive. Thus, administrators have no discretion to decide whether to test students "[w]henever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel . . . that a pupil may be under the influence of substances." N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12(a). The legislative intent behind the statute reflects a "zero-tolerance" attitude towards drug abuse and the statutory language leaves little room for interpretation. Moreover, there is nothing in the legislative history to indicate that the statutory provision was not intended to be mandatory. Accordingly, whenever a staff member reports a student whom she/he suspects might be under the influence of drugs, the administrator must implement the drug test.

However, the "courts should avoid interpreting a statute in a manner that leads to an absurd, anomalous, or unreasonable result. Statutory interpretations should turn on the breadth of legislative objectives and the common sense of the situation." County of Camden v. South Jersey Port Corp., supra, 312 N.J. Super. 387. Indeed, logic dictates that no test would be required if a teacher referred a student for testing without having observed significant symptoms of possible drug use. Thus, the mandatory testing requirement is triggered upon a referral from the teacher that is based upon reasonable suspicion.

Conduct Unbecoming

State law provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Thus, tenured employees are protected "in their employment when they are subjected to unfair or improper attacks or when they are unable to perform effectively because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Maratea, 1966 S.L.D. 77, 106. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing, are required under the law to protect tenured teachers from arbitrary dismissal for unfounded or flimsy reasons. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee that may help to explain the situation. In re Romanoli, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

"Unbecoming conduct" is broadly defined to include any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998), quoting In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (1960). Behavior that constitutes unbecoming conduct need not be "predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992), quoting Asbury Park v. Department of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955). In the context of a school tenure case, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974).

Tenure Charge No. 1

In the first tenure charge, the Board alleges that Graceffo exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct and violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 by not testing N.L. for drugs after his physical education teacher, Ammerman, referred him for a drug test. The Board's position is straightforward and relies on the plain language of the statute. Once Ammerman voiced her suspicions about N.L. to Graceffo the statute left him no choice but to test N.L. Petitioner's Brief at 63. Additionally, the Board contends that Graceffo's obligation to test N.L. was triggered when Flower told Graceffo of his suspicion of N.L.'s possible drug use. Id. at 64. The Board maintained that under the statute, the vice principal has no role in deciding whether to drug test a student who was referred as possibly being under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Id. at 67.

Respondent argues that he did not violate the drug-testing statute and contends that there must be reasonable suspicion to drug test a student. Graceffo maintains that this level of suspicion did not exist with respect to N.L. Respondent's Brief at 73. In particular, Graceffo claims that no one corroborated Ammerman's detection of a marijuana smell on N.L. Id. at 73. Furthermore, Graceffo maintained that he was not told that N.L.'s pupils were dilated. He would have tested N.L. if these symptoms were evident.

Further, respondent argues that nothing in the statute precludes an administrative investigation of a student suspected by a teacher of using drugs. Id. at 74. Indeed, Graceffo implies that such an investigation is required because significant symptoms must be uncovered and reasonable suspicion must exist before a student is tested for drugs. Id. at 74.

Although the parties dispute whether Ammerman told Graceffo or the school nurse that N.L.'s pupils were dilated, the evidence reveals that Ammerman articulated more than enough suspicion about N.L. based upon her detection of an odor of marijuana on him. Moreover, Graceffo's prior contact with N.L. should have put him on alert that there might be a concern with drug abuse. Indeed, in December 1998 Graceffo met with N.L. about his truancy over the past few months. Additionally, Graceffo spoke with N.L.'s parent about his cutting classes and possible discipline. The evidence also reveals that Ammerman was concerned about N.L.'s failing grades, failure to dress for gym class and his absences. The record discloses, however, that N.L. was never referred to the Core Team for intervention. Indeed, N.L. was not mentioned to the team until Ammerman threatened to resign because Graceffo did not implement the drug test. Ammerman and Flower smelled the distinct odor of marijuana on N.L. and suspected that he might be under the influence. Both informed Graceffo of their suspicions. Either communication to Graceffo was sufficient to trigger the mandatory-testing requirement of the statute.

Accordingly, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 by not testing N.L. after receiving referrals from Ammerman and Flower. I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo was guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct.

Tenure Charge No. 2

In the second tenure charge, the Board alleges that by not testing N.L. after receiving a referral from Ammerman, Graceffo exhibited unbecoming conduct by not complying with the Board's drug-testing policy. Since the language of the Board's policy mirrors that of the statute, the same analysis is applied in charge number 1 and need not be reiterated here. Indeed, both parties use the same arguments with respect to the first two tenure charges. Thus, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo also violated the Board's policy. Further, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo was guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct.

Tenure Charges No. 3 and No. 4[1]

In charges 3 and 4, the Board alleges that during the 1995-96 and 1996-97 school years, Graceffo exhibited a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's drug-testing policy. These charges concern four separate incidents that occurred between 1991 and 1996.[2] Each incident will be considered separately to determine whether Graceffo violated the statute and Board policy. Whether Graceffo exhibited a pattern of unbecoming conduct during all of these incidents will also be considered.

1991 Incident

The Board contends that Graceffo was guilty of unbecoming conduct when he refused to administer a drug test in 1991 to a student who left his office in a state of rage although Musetti requested that the student be tested. Petitioner's Brief at 75. The Board was unable to identify the student and referred to this incident as the "rage incident." The Board avers that under the plain language of the statute and the drug policy, Musetti's request constituted a referral. Therefore, Graceffo was obligated to test the student.

Respondent counters that each test must be supported by reasonable suspicion and that Musetti's request was not supported by reasonable suspicion because she had no prior contact with this student. Respondent's Brief at 79.

[1] The difference between these two charges is that Charge No. 3 addresses the statute and Charge No. 4 addresses the Board's drug-testing policy. Since the two provisions are identical, they will be considered simultaneously.

[2] Pursuant to the Commissioner's interlocutory order the statement of tenure charges that references the 1995-96 and 1996-97 school years was amended to include the 1991 incident and the 1994 incident.

I have considered the arguments of the parties. It is clear that Graceffo violated the statute and the Board's drug policy if the mandatory testing language of these provisions is given a rigid interpretation. A literal reading of the statute requires an administrator to automatically test every student referred by a teacher/staff member, regardless of the level of support for the referral. However, this is not a reasonable or sensible interpretation of the testing provisions. The Board's policy also requires that after a student is referred and drug tested, the vice principal must explain to the student's parents or guardians what symptoms led to the testing. This provision implicitly requires the vice principal to ensure that the reported symptoms warranted testing.

In this instance, Graceffo would have been obligated to tell the parent that the student was being tested for drugs because he was in a state of "rage." While a staff member, Musetti, stood outside Graceffo's office, she overheard the student and the vice principal having a loud discussion. As the student left Graceffo's office, Musetti observed that his face was "contorted" and "bright red." Then, he knocked everything off the counter and left the building. Based on these symptoms, Musetti suspected that the student's behavior might be drug related and requested that he be drug tested.

Russell DeVries, the high school principal at Wayne Valley from 1990 to 1996, testified to his understanding of the policy and described how it was applied at the school. Notwithstanding the express language of the policy, unless the teacher/staff member made the request, the administrator exercised his/her discretion in determining whether to drug test the student. Depending on the circumstances presented by the referring staff member, the teacher or the administrator and the school nurse could determine if a student should be drug tested. However, if a teacher specifically requested that a student be drug tested, the administrator was obligated to test the student, without question or discretion. DeVries did not recall receiving a complaint from Musetti about the "rage incident." Although he conceded under cross-examination that the administrator must test a student upon request, he believed that a situation like the "rage incident" did not call for a drug test by the vice principal.

Given a hypothetical situation with similar facts, DeVries candidly responded as follows:

> Q: Have you ever had a situation where a student who was in your . . . office for a disciplinary matter . . . then referred to you by someone for drug testing?
> A: No.
> Q: . . . And if that were to occur, and if the teacher came to you and said I want this student drug tested, you wouldn't have any choice but to drug test regardless of what took place in your office before?
> A: Well, it would depend on the circumstances there. I think that—
> Q: You just told me —
> A: Yes, I did . . . if I had a student in my office and I - - the student was there for a period of time and I was disciplining the student, and at some point when I decided that I would suspend him and I notified the student of that, or whatever the punishment would be, and I told him that and he got very upset and he walked, slammed outside the door, and a person was standing out there and because of that instant, say I want the student drug tested, I - - we'd have questions of that . . . I would - - discuss what went on in my office . . .
> And I think you're right, . . . would it would be a violation of the law if I didn't do that? Technically, yeah. Would it be right? . . . I don't think it would be right. I think it would be overkill in that . . .
> Q: But you acknowledge that it would be a violation of the law and the policy to refuse?
> A: A technical violation, that's right . . .
> Q: No question about it?
> A: There's no question about it being a technical violation of the law. The circumstances would be - - wouldn't think it would be very appropriate.

I am persuaded by the evidence that Graceffo was in a better position than Musetti, who had no prior contact with this student, to understand the reasons behind the student's "rage." Thus, in applying a sensible rather than a literal interpretation to the law and policy, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo's refusal to honor Musetti's request did not constitute a violation of the statute or the Board's policy. Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo is not guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct with respect to the 1991 incident.

1994 D.M. Incident

The Board contends that Graceffo's failure to drug test one of the three students referred to him for testing on October 17, 1994, constituted a willful violation of the statute and the policy. The Board relies exclusively on the testimony of Musetti, who claims that Graceffo did not test this student, D.M., because he feared a confrontation with the student's mother. At the hearing Musetti recalled for the first time that when Graceffo rejected her request to test the student he remarked, "laws were meant to be broken."

Graceffo did not recall an incident in 1994 involving D.M. and denies ever telling Musetti, "laws were meant to be broken." Respondent argues that the Board failed to meet its burden of proof. It presented no evidence by persons directly involved in the incident and no documents to support Musetti's allegation. Musetti claimed that she reported the incident to DeVries. DeVries denied having a conversation about D.M. Moreover, Musetti "didn't report it to Mr. Hall and Mr. Sudol when she met with them in February of 1999, didn't make reference to it in her statement which she signed in February of 1999, and which was made part of these tenure charges, and didn't remember it when she was deposed in September 1999." Respondent's Reply Brief at 25. Yet, at some point, she recalled the incident based on a note with the name of the referring teacher, the student, and the date. P-37. Respondent urges that the testimony be rejected because it is incredible, inconsistent with prior statements and "pure hearsay." Respondent's Reply Brief at 26. Respondent further argues that the absence of any documentation in any of Graceffo's performance evaluations casts doubt upon Musetti's credibility. Additionally, respondent challenges Musetti's credibility through inconsistencies between her testimony and the prior statements she made regarding Graceffo's repeated failure to properly enforce the drug policy.

Some inconsistencies in a witness's testimony do not warrant an automatic discounting of that testimony as incredible. United Stations of N.J. v. Getty Oil Co., 102 N.J. Super. 459 (Ch. Div. 1968). The testimony must be such that the trier of fact can reasonably conclude that the witness is wholly unworthy of belief. Accordingly, the trier of fact must carefully weigh the evidence before rejecting testimony, even if not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to the circumstances.

Proof of the allegation against Graceffo involving D.M. depends largely on the credibility of several witnesses and the believable evidence. Petitioner has the burden of proof to establish the charges against Graceffo. Moreover, the quantum of proof is by a fair preponderance of the evidence. In re Polk, supra, 90 N.J. at 560. Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Where the standard is reasonable probability, that is, preponderance of the evidence, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Tp. v. Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). One factor to consider in determining which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, bias or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

The record consists of testimony from twenty-one witnesses presented during fifteen hearing days, more than 100 exhibits and 200 pages of post-hearing briefs, and almost 3,000 pages of transcripts. Many of the witnesses were seasoned educators and their demeanor persuades me that they were committed to their profession and to the students whose safety and training were in their charge. However, they differed on opinion and understanding with regard to implementing the drug policy. For example, DeStefano, a Core Team member who received training on the drug policy testified that generally, the teacher or the vice principal referred the student to the nurse for an assessment. Sometimes, the student who was referred by the teacher, came to the health office unaccompanied. Moreover, many teachers were reluctant to specifically request that the student to be tested. Instead, they merely described the symptoms that lead them to suspect that the student was under the influence. During DeStefano's employment with the District, she has assessed about forty students who were suspected of being under the influence. A majority of the referrals were made after N.L.'s death.

Confusion among District employees about Board Policy No. 5331.6 is also evident in two memoranda circulated among building principals and vice principals. On October 14, 1997, Eileen Gangi, president of the Wayne Education Association, distributed a memorandum to principals and vice principals that explained the implementation of the Board's drug policy. P-14. On October 16, 1997, Gary Hall, the District's human resource specialist, circulated another memo which corrected some statements made by Gangi. P-15. Hall instructed the building principals and vice principals that "to the extent the two memoranda may differ, the contents of this memorandum should take precedence." Ibid.

In many instances the witnesses' objectivity was overshadowed by their strong feelings about Graceffo's implementation of the policy; some in support of Graceffo, others in opposition. Indeed, Dr. Raymond V. Kwak, superintendent of the Wayne School District, acknowledged that this proceeding "has split some of our staff . . . pitted administrator against teacher, teacher against teacher, union member against union member." DeVries believed that "Dr. Kwak hated Joe" and recalled a meeting in which Dr. Kwak addresses Graceffo in an abrasive manner.

Acrimony among these colleagues was visible at the hearing. For example, DeVries was a member of the Core Team and attended most of the meetings. He recalled the complaint from the Core Team about Graceffo's refusal to test A.F. P-25. DeVries testified that Musetti was the only member of the Core Team who complained about Graceffo. Thus, he believed that Musetti wrote the complaint and expressed her personal views. DeVries also believed that a complaint filed by Charles Tucker, president of the Wayne Education Association, was actually triggered by Musetti. Although he did not remember specific names, DeVries maintained that he had no discussions with Graceffo about the "rage" incident in 1991 or the D.M. incident in 1994. He recalled investigating all complaints against Graceffo made by Musetti. He was "satisfied" that the policy was not violated. Under cross-examination, DeVries acknowledged that on his own performance evaluation he received several "needs improvement" ratings in areas of supervision and implementing rules and procedures and school policy.

Charles Tucker has been employed by the District for thirty-six years and candidly testified about his experiences with Graceffo, Musetti and the policy. Tucker attended workshops on the policy and understood that the vice principal must test a student upon a referral by a staff member. Tucker believed that Musetti was committed to her position as the student assistant specialist. She performed her duties as if "it was the most important job in the building . . . she pursued it with vigor, effectiveness, concern . . . she had a passion for this work." Tucker received complaints from teachers and Musetti that Graceffo did not test students upon referral. During one discussion about the drug policy, Graceffo said that he believed he had leeway in determining to test a student, on a case-by-case basis. He also received a copy of the complaint from the Core Team but did not discuss it with Graceffo. Tucker did not recall receiving a complaint from Musetti involving an incident in 1991 or 1994. Tucker also worked with Graceffo and believed that he was a good vice principal who fairly administered student discipline. Tucker rated Graceffo in the top three vice principals among the six to eight administrators in the District.

Mary Jane Tierney has been employed by the District for thirty-three years and is currently the principal of an elementary school in the Wayne School District. Since 1993, Musetti complained that Graceffo was not implementing the drug policy "her way." Further, Musetti informed Tierney that she was keeping a file on Graceffo and that one day she would "get him." On rebuttal, petitioner revealed some personnel issues between Tierney and the Board. However, there is nothing in the record to suggest that Tierney might be biased or hold any grudges against Musetti. Tierney's testimony was credible.

DeStefano candidly testified about her observations at the Core Team meeting she attended on February 4, 1999. Ammerman was very upset and spent the entire period, forty-two minutes, talking about Graceffo's conduct and his refusal to test N.L. However, Ammerman never expressed that N.L. was "at risk". DeStefano described Ammerman's demeanor towards Graceffo as personal, negative and unprofessional. DeStefano also described Musetti's response to Ammerman's statements as "very vocal". Further, Musetti appeared "agitated" and began "pontificating" against Graceffo.

In the absence of documentation of the D.M. incident, the question of whether Graceffo failed to test D.M. and, thus, violated drug-testing procedures, is wholly dependent on the credibility of Musetti's testimony. In Johnson v. Barton, 251 F. Supp. 474, 476 (W.D. Va. 1966), the court stated that:

> [T]he term "burden of proof" refers to the "burden of persuasion" . . . . The burden of persuasion entails more than merely producing evidence which would tend to put the court's mind in a state of equilibrium with respect to whether a certain fact exists or not and if, at the close of the evidence, this is the situation, then the decision must go against the party who has the burden of persuasion on the particular issue in question.

To assess the credibility of the witness, I have considered the nature, character and scope of the testimony, the circumstances of the creation of the testimony, and its reliability. Musetti's presence at the hearing provided the safeguards of in-person testimony under oath, the opportunity for respondent to cross-examine the witness and the opportunity for the trier of fact to observe the witness's demeanor. Considering that six years have passed since the alleged D.M. incident, the testimony need not be flawless to be believable. However, Musetti's failure to document Graceffo's inaction may have diminished her ability to adequately recount what happened in October 1994. Indeed, she provided critical information to Hall regarding Graceffo's repeated failure to drug test students. However, D.M. was not mentioned until the hearing. "[T]estimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954).

The evidence presented by the parties on the alleged 1994 incident involving D.M. is in a state of equilibrium with respect to whether certain facts exist. Thus, the decision must go against the party who has the burden of persuasion on the issue in question. Johnson v. Barton, supra, 251 F. Supp. at 476.

Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that there is insufficient evidence that Graceffo neglected his drug-testing duties with respect to the 1994 D.M. incident.

1995 A.F. Incident

The Board contends that Graceffo violated the drug-testing procedures by drug testing A.F. on October 24, 1995, rather than on October 23, 1995, the day of the referral. The Board alleges that by waiting until the following day, Graceffo violated the immediacy requirement of the testing procedures. Petitioner's Brief at 80. The Board acknowledges that the term "immediate" is not defined in either the policy or the statute, but argues that it should be given its ordinary meaning of "without delay." Ibid. This interpretation is consistent with the school safety concerns evident in other provisions of the drug-testing policy. For example, the policy provides that a student suspected of using drugs must be removed from the school environment for a 24-hour medical dismissal. Ibid.

Respondent counters that he was not guilty of any misconduct during this incident because there is nothing in the statute concerning a timeline for when a drug test must take place. Respondent's Brief at 76. Further, respondent emphasizes that the Board exhibited no prior concern about this incident, implying that it was only raised now because of the death of N.L. in an unrelated incident. Id. at 77.

A statute is to be construed in its entirety "to clear up any obscurities and ambiguities in the law and to make the whole of the law and every part of it harmonious and effective." In re N., 96 N.J. Super. 415, 421-22 (App. Div. 1967), quoting McCaffrey, Statutory Construction, § 44, at 86 (1953). A sensible application of the law "is to be gathered from its object and the nature of the subject matter, the contextual setting, and the statutes in pari materia." Id. at 422, quoting State v. Brown, 22 N.J. 405, 415 (1956).

While carrying out the day-to-day duties of his position, a school administrator may find the need for accommodations. In the case of A.F., Graceffo waited until the following day in order to accommodate the student's mother. I am persuaded by the whole of the evidence that Graceffo exhibited poor judgment in waiting one day to test A.F. Although there is nothing in the statute or policy requiring that a student suspected of drug use be tested within a 24-hour period, the word "immediately" implies a same-day test. Indeed, DeVries acknowledged that delayed testing could result in negative test results or the student could "fall through the cracks." Here, the delay violated the essential spirit and underlying purpose of the policy and law.

Although Graceffo arranged for A.F. to be tested the next day, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Board Policy No. 5131.6. I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo was guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct.

1996 J.B. Incident

The Board alleges that Graceffo's failure to test J.B. on November 6, 1996, violated drug-testing procedures. As with the A.F. incident, the Board contends that any delay in testing a student suspected of drug use constitutes a violation. Petitioner's Brief at 82. The Board further contends that the five-hour delay in testing J.B. was aggravated by the fact that J.B. was a known drug abuser. Id. at 84. Although Graceffo was the sole administrator in the building on the morning of November 6, 1996, the Board argues that testing J.B. should have been his top priority. Id. at 82.

Respondent argues that as the only administrator in the building, Graceffo did what he was supposed to do. He remained visible and free to deal with emergencies or situations as they arose. Respondent's Brief at 75. Graceffo maintains that by having Tierney test J.B. as soon as she came in, he satisfied his responsibility. Ibid.

Similar to the A.F. incident, here there is no allegation that J.B. was not tested, only that the student was not tested soon enough. Unlike other provisions of the statute which requires "immediate" action, the statutory directive that the "student shall be examined as soon as possible" implies that extenuating circumstances may be taken into account. Here, the referring teacher waited until the end of the school day to report her suspicions about J.B. Although the Board noted that J.B. "had a history of drug abuse" no explanation is given for the delay in referring the student under the policy. Indeed, the law and policy require that "the teaching staff member . . . shall report the matter as soon as possible." Moreover, the policy requires that "the student shall not be left alone." After J.B. left the building, the parents were not contacted. Instead, "Musetti contacted Brabston and Graceffo's office to make arrangements to have J.B. chemically screened the following morning." Id. at 37.

All staff members who were involved in this incident, including the referring teacher, Musetti, Tierney and Graceffo, contributed to the delay in testing J.B. for drugs. However, Graceffo was the only administrator in the building when J.B. returned to school the next day. Although J.B. was under Tierney's charge and it may have been difficult for Graceffo to implement the drug test on J.B. any sooner than the time he was actually tested, it was not logistically impossible.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. I FIND and CONCLUDE that Graceffo was guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct.

CONCLUSIONS

I have considered all of the incidents included in the tenure charges. I CONCLUDE that the Board has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Graceffo violated the statute and Board Policy 5131.6 in charges 1 and 2, the N.L. incident.

I CONCLUDE that the Board has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Graceffo violated the statute and Board Policy 5131.6 in charges 3 and 4, the A.F. incident and the J.B. incident. I CONCLUDE that the Board has not established by a preponderance of the evidence that Graceffo violated the statute and Board Policy 5131.6 in charges 3 and 4, the 1991 "rage incident" and the 1994 D.M. incident.

While the combined weight of all the incidents referenced in tenure charges 3 and 4 reflects poorly on Graceffo's application of the drug-testing policy, the evidence does not amount to a pattern of unbecoming conduct. Graceffo served as vice principal at Wayne Valley High School from 1991 to 1998, and at Wayne Hills High School from 1998 to 1999. The evidence shows that from 1994 to 1999, Wayne Valley High School conducted approximately 189 drug tests on students. R-19. During the same period, Wayne Hills High School conducted about 184 drug tests. Ibid. The Board has demonstrated that from 1995 to 1999, Graceffo failed to properly implement the policy and the law with three students. Even assuming, arguendo, that Graceffo is guilty of the 1991 and 1994 incidents, the Board did not take disciplinary action against Graceffo for any of these incidents until the death of N.L. On the other hand, Graceffo has consistently received positive performance evaluations during the period of the charges. These factors weigh against finding a pattern of unbecoming conduct. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the Board failed to establish that Graceffo's conduct constituted a postion of unbecoming conduct.

PENALTY

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, a person under tenure in the public school system may be dismissed or reduced in compensation for unbecoming conduct. Factors to be considered in assessing an appropriate penalty include the nature and gravity of the offense, any extenuating or aggravating circumstances, and maintaining discipline and proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 420-22 (App. Div. 1967). The Board contends that Graceffo's conduct warrants dismissal from the Wayne School District. Dismissal is invariably the penalty for egregious acts of unbecoming conduct by educators. See, e.g., Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Brady, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 410 (special education teacher's conduct, which included tolerance of and participation in gross sexual dialogue in classroom, constituted unbecoming conduct and warranted dismissal); In re Cooke, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 220 (series of incidents of sexual contact and improper touching of junior high school students constituted unbecoming conduct and warranted dismissal of seventeen-year veteran teacher); In re Smith, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 729 (1993), adopted, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 317 (dismissal of teacher was warranted for unbecoming conduct that involved physical and mental abuse of children).

Lesser penalties are imposed, however, where the unbecoming conduct is mitigated by other circumstances. In Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School v. Smith, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 903, for example, the Commissioner adopted the decision of the administrative law judge (ALJ) that a teacher's inappropriate physical contact with students warranted a pay reduction, not termination, when such inappropriate action was provoked by the students and not intended to harm them.

In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445, the Commissioner similarly adopted the decision of the ALJ, who concluded that dismissal was too harsh a penalty for a teacher who was found to have inappropriately used corporal punishment. The ALJ reasoned that the teacher had already paid a "very heavy penalty" as a consequence of the charges, including the loss of 120 days' salary as well as professional and personal embarrassment. 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 452.

The decision not to dismiss the teacher in this case did not condone any of the acts in the case but "[r]ather recognize[d] 25 years of unblemished service." Ibid.

In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Motley, EDU 7421-97, Initial Decision (May 5, 1999), modified, Comm'r (Aug. 4, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html, a teacher found guilty of unbecoming conduct, including belittling a new teacher in front of her students, and neglect of duty, also received a penalty short of dismissal. The original penalty imposed by the ALJ included the withholding of 120 days' salary and the permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide. The Commissioner increased the penalty by imposing forfeiture of an additional two months' salary.

In Woodbridge Township School District v. Rumage, 1 N.J.A.R. 381 (1980), a guidance counselor with a distinguished career and an unblemished record, who pled guilty to conspiracy and bookmaking charges and served a three-month prison sentence, was penalized by a reduction in salary and the forfeiture of two months' salary.

The facts of the present case are analogous to those cases where a lesser penalty than dismissal was imposed. Graceffo is an experienced administrator who exhibited poor judgment by not promptly testing A.F. and J.B. and by not testing N.L. after receiving a referral from Ammerman and Flower. Except for the pending charges, Graceffo's record is unblemished. He has served the District for thirty-four (34) years in many positions including teacher, director and coordinator of several departments and vice principal. He has also been active in school and community activities. These mitigating factors outweigh Graceffo's failure to implement the drug policy referenced in the charges.

I have considered the Board's argument that any penalty short of dismissal will be futile, because if Graceffo is allowed to return to the District he will continue to live by his purported philosophy of "laws were meant to be broken." Petitioner's Brief at 100. The argument is unpersuasive. I have observed Graceffo's demeanor and the demeanor of all the witnesses who appeared at the hearing. I am persuaded that Graceffo is remorseful over the death of the student who attended his school and that he has learned a lesson from all the embarrassment and humiliation that he has suffered from having to endure this protracted ordeal. Moreover, Graceffo's employment record does not square with the image of a reckless lawbreaker that is portrayed by the Board.

I CONCLUDE that a reduction in salary along with a suspension is an appropriate penalty. Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that a one-step reduction in compensation and a 120-day suspension is an appropriate penalty.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Graceffo suffer a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide.

It is further ORDERED that Graceffo forfeit all salary and all benefits that would otherwise have accrued during the first 120 days of his suspension.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5619-99
AGENCY DKT NO. 113-5/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JOSEPH GRACEFFO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions, respondent's exceptions, and the replies[1] thereto, were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

BOARD'S EXCEPTIONS

In its exceptions, the Board objects to the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) with respect to the 1991 and 1994 incidents and to the ALJ's recommended penalty. The Board argues that the ALJ's conclusion with respect to the 1991 incident is contrary to her finding that an administrator's duties are mandatory upon receipt of a referral by a teaching staff member who reports that a student may be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. The Board submits that the ALJ, therefore, erred when she determined that respondent did not violate Board policy or State law by refusing to test the "rage" student in 1991, and that, respondent's conduct in that incident did not amount to unbecoming conduct. (Board's Exceptions at 9, 11)

[1] Although the record in this matter closed on May 3, 2000 and the Initial Decision was issued on June 19, 2000, respondent's Reply Exceptions included a June 22, 2000 article from the Bergen Record and references in the brief thereto. The Bergen Record article was not presented at the hearing and not previously made a part of the record. Therefore, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), the article and incorporated references thereto were not considered by the Commissioner.

With respect to the 1994 incident, the Board avers that the ALJ's determination concluding that there was insufficient evidence that respondent neglected his drug-testing duties because: (1) the Board relied exclusively on the testimony of Victoria Musetti, the District's Student Assistance Specialist, and did not present any evidence from anyone else directly involved, and (2) Musetti had not mentioned the incident until the time of the hearing, are not sufficient bases for the ALJ's assessment that the Board did not meet its burden of proof. (Id. at 13-14) While acknowledging that Musetti's conversations with teacher Bob Bishop and school principal DeVries are hearsay, the Board argues that hearsay evidence is admissible provided it is supported by other competent evidence, which the Board avers is present in Musetti's conversations with respondent, which are not hearsay. See N.J.R.E. 803(b)(1). (Id. at 15) Additionally, the Board proffers that, even if all the testimony in the 1994 incident was based upon pure hearsay, it would still constitute credible evidence for the purpose of demonstrating a pattern of unbecoming conduct. (Id. at 16) With respect to the ALJ's second concern, the Board disputes that Musetti did not mention the 1994 incident until the hearing, submitting that the incident was mentioned by Musetti during the Board's initial investigation, was one of the bases for its decision to certify tenure charges, is described in Musetti's written statement, and the incident is contained in the tenure charges and was the subject of the interlocutory appeal before the Commissioner. (Id. at 17)

Further, the Board advances the argument that the ALJ erred when she found that respondent's multiple violations, in 1995, 1996 and twice in 1999, did not constitute a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct. (Id. at 19) Although the four incidents in 1995, 1996 and 1999 were the only charges the Board was able to document by the time it certified tenure charges, the Board contends that the testimony at hearing indicates that there were additional incidents which the Board asks the Commissioner to consider as additional evidence that respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct from 1991 through 1999. (Id. at 20-22)

With regard to penalty, the Board urges the Commissioner to reject the ALJ's conclusion that respondent's conduct was just "poor judgment," which, in light of his unblemished record, warrants a lesser penalty than dismissal. Rather, the Board posits that the Commissioner should take into account the seriousness of respondent's conduct and the consequences of that conduct, and conclude that dismissal is the appropriate penalty. (Id. at 29-30) The Board further argues that, despite in-service training, respondent has shown a propensity for continually exercising discretion as to whether to chemically screen students referred to him for suspected drug and alcohol use in contravention of State law and Board policy and, thus, is likely to continue such conduct, putting the school community at risk, if he is permitted to continue in his position. (Id. at 33-35)

RESPONDENT'S EXCEPTIONS

In his exceptions, respondent argues that he has maintained from the outset that:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12  must be read in conjunction with the companion statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11, and the corresponding administrative code section, N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3, all of which our (sic) grounded on the concept of "reasonable suspicion". That this is the standard on which all drug tests are to be based, including those sanctioned by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11 expressly states that "significant symptoms["] must be present to trigger the examination and treatment provisions in the statute, only underscores that the role of the principal or the designee is not as a passive bystander as the Board would have it, but as an active participant to ensure, as the Court said with regard to the 1991 incident, that the symptoms reported are sufficient to warrant testing and in addition, to ensure that the obligations of the Board are followed and the rights of the student are protected. (emphasis in text) (Respondent's Exceptions at 2-3)

With respect to the 1999 N.L. incident, respondent submits that the referring teacher did not request that he chemically screen N.L., so that the procedure in place was to evaluate the student to corroborate the smell of marijuana to satisfy whether there was reasonable suspicion to test the student. Respondent submits that the Court's application of the statute in N.L. is inconsistent with the reasonable suspicion provision, arguing that the ALJ's finding in the N.L. incident can only be justified by the interpretation that a test must occur "automatically" upon a teacher's referral, thus rendering the role of a principal or designee to that of a passive bystander who cannot investigate or corroborate what occurred. (Id. at 4-5)

Additionally, respondent asserts that the ALJ erred in concluding that because respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 that he had exhibited conduct unbecoming. Respondent avers that a violation of statute in and of itself does not constitute conduct unbecoming. To conclude that respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming, respondent argues, there must be a finding that respondent deliberately disregarded the law and his obligations under the law, which did not occur in this instance, wherein the ALJ found respondent to have exhibited "poor judgment" in three incidents in the course of 34 years as an educator. There is nothing in case law, respondent maintains, that suggests that conduct unbecoming can be based on mere negligence, particularly in a situation such as herein where respondent's own immediate supervisors did not fault him for the actions he took. (Id. at 6) Respondent raises the question, that if other seasoned educators agreed with respondent's actions and if there was confusion as to when and how the policy and statute were to be triggered, as is evidenced in the testimony, then how can respondent's "poor judgment" somehow be raised to the level of conduct unbecoming. (Id. at 7)

Respondent asserts that Nurses Nancy Przetak and Marilyn DeStefano, Vice Principal Bob Santangelo, Core Team Members Susan Ammerman and Linda Remolino, and Principals Robert Reis and Russell DeVries testified that their understanding of the District's implementation of the Board's Policy 5131.6 and the statute was consistent with respondent's understanding; that is, if a teacher in the District requests a drug test, then the student is tested.

However, if a teacher reports that a students smells of alcohol or marijuana, without a request to test, the practice up to January 1999, was to leave it up to the nurse and administrator to determine whether a smell exists and whether anything further is required. (Id. at 10-11) In support of his contention that this was the practice, respondent points to a November 6, 1996 memo from Vicky Musetti and the Core Team to all staff which states "we would like to remind you that you must be clear in your request that a student is to be tested ... it would be better to state your concern and be clear that you are requesting the drug policy be invoked." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 16) Although the ALJ determined that "communication to Mr. Graceffo was sufficient to trigger the mandatory testing requirement of the statute," respondent submits that the current principal of Wayne Valley High School, Mr. Reis, testified that if he receives a report that a student may smell of marijuana, "you can certainly make a call for a test, but everything that I have been taught, previously policies, state assessment for Core Teams, everything I have been taught says that I have to have some suspicion, something stronger than just a smell. So, I would go after that. I would bring people in. I would have them look at the kid, talk to the kid. I would be smelling that kid like crazy. I would have the nurse take a look at his vitals. I don't know whether I would necessarily test." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 25) Respondent avers that he, therefore, acted consistent with the District's practice since the referring teacher in the 1999 N.L. incident, Ms. Ammerman, only informed him that N.L. smelled of marijuana; she did not request a test. (Id. at 15)

Respondent also disputes the Board's claim that he was provided training with regard to the Board's Drug and Alcohol Policy or the State statute, stating that there was no organized training provided, a fact confirmed by fellow Vice Principal Santangelo, who testified that there was no training for administrators at Wayne Hills High School, and Nurse Przetak, who testified that the policy was only touched upon the day before school started. (Id. at 12)

At page 28 of the Initial Decision, the ALJ states that the evidence shows that from 1994 to 1999 Wayne Valley High School conducted approximately 189 drug tests, and that during the same period Wayne Hills High School conducted 184 tests. Respondent submits that these statistics were taken from an early report before the figures were revised and are, therefore, incorrect. Since the rigorousness of the enforcement of the school's Drug and Alcohol Policy at the school where respondent was assigned has some relevance, respondent maintains that it is important to correct the statistics embodied in the Initial Decision. According to the revised statistics presented to the Court in Exhibit R30, respondent maintains, from 1994 to 1999 Wayne Valley High School, where respondent was assigned, had an overall total of 193 drug and alcohol tests administered as compared to a total of 88 tests, 26 of which were administered after the N.L. incident, during the same period at Wayne Hills High School.[2] The number of tests administered at Wayne Valley High School, therefore, far exceeds those administered at the District's other high school. This, respondent argues, demonstrates that the administration at Wayne Valley High School, of which respondent was a part, was not lax in implementing the Board's Drug and Alcohol Policy. (Id. at 12-14)

With respect to the January 21, 1999 N.L. incident, respondent posits that he did what any other administrator in the District would have done at the time under similar circumstances. When Ms. Ammerman indicated to him that she smelled marijuana, he took N.L. to the nurse to be evaluated. Absent a request from the teacher to test, and absent a confirmation of smell by respondent, or Nurses DeStefano or Cordo, and Ms. DeStefano's statement that she found everything to be normal, respondent followed the practice in the District not to test. (Id. at 16-17) He did, however, call the parents to advise them of the situation. Further, although Ms. Ammerman apparently mentioned a request to test to the two nurses, both Ms. DeStefano

[2] Respondent provides a breakdown of the drug and alcohol screening tests performed at Wayne Valley High School as 137 tests performed in school and 56 tests administered privately. Wayne Hills High School reportedly had 83 tests performed in school and 5 tests conducted privately.

and Ms. Cordo testified that they did not tell respondent that Ms. Ammerman had requested a drug test. (Id. at 17) Respondent also disputes the ALJ's statement in the Initial Decision that Ms. Ammerman "testified that she asked Mr. Graceffo to test N.L." Respondent argues that Ms. Ammerman actually testified that she reported to respondent as follows, "to the best of my knowledge, that I smelled marijuana and I have a good nose." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 18) Further, although Ms. Ammerman testified that she had reported that N.L.'s pupils were dilated to Ms. Cordo, Ms. DeStefano, Mr. Graceffo, Mr. Flower, Chairperson for the Department of Art, Music and Physical Education, and Mr. Modica, respondent maintains that not one of the individuals to whom Ms. Ammerman allegedly reported the symptoms of dilated pupils recalled her making such a statement, and Ms. Ammerman acknowledged that she did not tell the Core Team that N.L.'s pupils were dilated when she met with them on February 4, 1999. (Id. at 18-20)

Respondent excepts to the ALJ's statement that Mr. Flower told respondent that he too "suspected drug use by N.L.," and that Mr. Flower suspected that N.L. "might be under the influence." Respondent submits that Mr. Flower testified that he had told respondent that he smelled an odor on N.L. that he suspected might be of marijuana and that Ms. Ammerman had asked him to come over and let him know. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 20-22) Respondent also states he thought Mr. Flower was referring to Ms. Ammerman's incident the previous day when Mr. Flower told him that he thought he smelled marijuana on N.L. Respondent contends that his response to Mr. Flower, that he had taken care of the matter the previous day and had spoken to N.L.'s mother, substantiates that he thought they were talking about events of the previous day. (Id. at 43)

Respondent contends that the motivation of the Board and Ms. Musetti is about whom to blame for N.L.'s overdose on February 6, 1999. (Id. at 31) In support of this contention, respondent points to the testimony of the former principal of Wayne Valley High School, Mr. DeVries, who stated that he believed the superintendent hated respondent, and to Ms. Tierney's testimony that Ms. Musetti told her that she was "keeping a file on Graceffo and that one day she would get him." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 30-31) Respondent submits that Ms. Musetti's testimony was a work in progress with respect to the 1994 D.M. matter as her testimony had no resemblance to her prior statement. Respondent also faults the Board in this regard for choosing to rely solely on Ms. Musetti's testimony in the D.M. incident, rather than utilizing Mr. Bishop to testify, when it readily had him available and he was allegedly the individual directly involved in the incident. (Id. at 31)

In the 1996 J.B. incident, respondent points out that because he did not act to test J.B. between 7:30 a.m. and noon the same day, November 6, 1996, the ALJ found that respondent exhibited conduct that was unprofessional and unbecoming. (Id. at 33) Respondent counters that the evidence shows that, as his principal testified, the real concern here had to do with what occurred on November 5, 1996, before respondent was brought into the picture. (Id. at 36) According to Ms. Musetti, J.B. had twice tested positive for drugs. Yet, despite this knowledge, following an observation on November 5 by referring teacher, Ms. Curasco, that J.B. may have been under the influence, Ms. Musetti, and perhaps Vice Principal Tierney, as well, allowed J.B. to go home unattended and unsupervised, contrary to policy, without informing his parents. (Id. at 33) Respondent, therefore, finds no logic to the ALJ's conclusion that respondent's conduct on November 6 was unbecoming and unprofessional in view of the silence regarding the other participants' conduct of the matter the previous day. (Id. at 36)

In light of the fact that no one was found at fault in allowing J.B. to go home unsupervised and without parental notification, respondent disputes the ALJ's conclusion that his conduct was unprofessional and unbecoming by his handling of a similar incident in 1995. In the 1995 A.F. incident, respondent notified A.F.'s mother of the referral, and kept A.F. in his office for the remainder of the day since the student's mother was unable to come to the school until the next day to sign the paperwork for A.F. to be tested. (Id. at 37-38) Respondent argues that neither the statute nor the policy requires that the examination take place within 24 hours, rather both state that the examination shall take place "as soon as possible." (Id. at 44)

Respondent further argues that his understanding of the policy and the statute is that: 1) if a teacher requests a test, then the student must be tested; 2) a teacher must provide him with symptoms because he needs to explain to the parent and to the student why the drug policy has been invoked; and 3) that a drug test must be based on reasonable suspicion--discernable factors observed by the person making the referral and requesting the test. (Id. at 38)

Citing Hedges v. Musco, 33 Fed. Supp. 2nd 369, 378 (1999 U.S.D.C.N.J.) and N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11, respondent maintains that students are to be referred to treatment only when they show significant symptoms of the use of drugs or alcohol. Respondent posits that the ALJ seems to say that the principal or principal designee may not try to discern whether the symptoms observed warrant testing, which is opposite to her findings with regard to the 1991 incident. (Id. at 39, 40) Arguing that the Board's position that the mere smell of marijuana, even if uncorroborated and without a request to test, must be tested, is not the understanding of the administrators charged with implementation of the policy. Respondent claims that both Mr. Reis and Mr. DeVries testified that they would investigate, and the other vice principal, Mr. Santangelo, testified that in investigating an incident with another student a week prior to the N.L. incident:

> We concluded there was no reason to test. There was no smell. There was no behavior which indicated any kind of use. All the vitals checked out. So when the mother came in, I informed her there was no need for the test and we didn't test. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 42, citing Tr. 2/29/00 at 13)

Respondent also avers that Mr. Santangelo did not test another student who was referred to him by the principal who thought he smelled marijuana around the student. (Id. at 42)

BOARD'S REPLY EXCEPTIONS

In its reply exceptions, the Board counters, inter alia, that respondent was well aware of his legal obligations in administering the Drug and Alcohol Policy under the statutes and school policy. Alleging that respondent was aware of his obligations, but chose to exercise discretion on referrals, the Board cites failed attempts by Ms. Musetti and Mr. Tucker, former President of the Wayne Education Association, to persuade respondent that he did not have discretion on the issue of testing students referred for suspected drug use. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3, 4) Citing to testimony provided by the Board's witnesses on how the drug testing provisions are triggered in the District, the Board further submits that respondent's claim that there was a practice in the District which was different from the letter of the policy and statute has no merit. (Id. at 5) As to respondent's claim that he was not properly in-serviced, the Board underscores that respondent admitted attending a three-day Core Team training workshop. The Board points out that the trainer, Mary Donovan, testified that she clearly instructs attendees in her workshops that there is no discretion once a student has been referred. The Board contends that respondent also attended an in-service on this issue for teachers. (Id. at 9)

The Board stresses that the ALJ found Ms. Ammerman's testimony credible; and, thus, her testimony should be credited both with regard to her statement that she told respondent N.L.'s eyes were dilated, and that she specifically requested a test. (Id. at 14-16) The Board argues that even assuming, arguendo, that Ms. Ammerman did not mention dilated eyes to respondent or request a test to him in the N.L. matter, it was clear that she was making a referral. The drug test should, therefore, have been automatic as neither the statute nor the policy provides for administrator's discretion once a referral has been made. (Id. at 12, 13) Further, even if one assumes that respondent truly believed that Ms. Ammerman's suspicion had to be corroborated as respondent has argued, the Board submits that Ms. Ammerman's suspicion was, in fact, corroborated by Mr. Flower's referral, especially if respondent really believed Mr. Flower was talking about the same day as respondent claims. (Id. at 18)

Additionally, the Board asks the Commissioner to discount the testimony of respondent's witnesses, Mr. Reis, Mr. DeVries and Ms. Przetak. The Board claims that: 1) respondent and Mr. Reis are close friends and his testimony is inconsistent with his deposition; 2) Mr. DeVries' testimony is vague, he was unable to recall anything relevant to the matter, and Mr. DeVries was discredited because he had been cited in his own evaluations for failing to enforce the smoking provisions of the same policy; and 3) Ms. Przetak vacations with respondent and his family. (Id. at 23, 24) Despite these affiliations with respondent, the Board asserts that all three testified that respondent had violated statute and policy by not testing the "rage" student in 1991. (Id. at 24) Further, the Board contends that respondent misrepresented his fellow Vice Principal Mr. Santagelo's testimony, as Mr. Santangelo testified that there is no discretion under the policy and that neither policy nor statute requires a specific request for a test. (Id.) Further, the Board explains, when faced with a similar issue, that is, a report based upon nothing more than the odor of marijuana, Santangelo contacted the student's parent and arranged for the student to be immediately tested. (Id. at 26)

The Board objects to respondent's criticism of the handling of the J.B. incident by Ms. Musettti and Ms. Tierney. The Board asserts that nothing could have been done by either Ms. Musetti nor Ms. Tierney before J.B. left the building because Ms. Curasco did not invoke the policy until school had been dismissed and the student had left. Ms. Tierney could have called J.B.'s parents, but it was not within Ms. Musetti's authority to make the notification call. The Board further claims that it has never taken the position that respondent was the only one at fault in this incident, and had the Board uncovered evidence that these individuals unknowingly neglected their obligations, and that they had done so on other occasions repeatedly, tenure charges would have been proffered against them, as well. (Id. at 32) The Board criticizes respondent, however, for exercising absolutely no supervision over J.B. once Ms. Tierney requested that he test the student, whom the Board characterizes as a known drug user. The Board takes issue with the fact that respondent did have responsibility for J.B. for five hours without testing, even though J.B. had a voluntary urine screening form on file and could have been tested without the delay of obtaining parental consent. (Id. at 34)

With respect to the A.F. incident, the Board proffers that even if respondent kept A.F. in his office while awaiting the drug test, A.F. was a known drug user and the delay in testing could have put her at medical risk, or at least affected the accuracy of the test. (Id. at 34-36)

The Board repeats its arguments that an administrator has no discretion once a teaching member makes a referral and asserts that the discretion as to whether significant symptoms exist rests with the referring staff member. (Id. at 40)

Finally, the Board argues that respondent's conduct was deliberate and directly reflects on his fitness to serve as an administrator. The Board asserts that as early as 1991, Ms. Musetti informed respondent that he had an obligation to immediately drug test students referred to him and that this obligation was reinforced by complaints by Musetti and the Core Team in 1994 (D.M.), 1995 (A.F.) and 1996 (J.B.). The Board also submits respondent was approached by Mr. Tierney in 1993, Mr. DeVries in 1995, Mr. Reis in 1996 and Mr. Tucker in 1997, all of whom instructed him that he had no discretion on the issue of drug testing. (Id. at 43)

RESPONDENT'S REPLY EXCEPTIONS

In his reply exceptions, respondent repeats his arguments that a principal or his designee has the responsibility to investigate a referral by making an assessment, together with the nurse, in order to satisfy whether there are "significant symptoms" as specified in

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11 and "reasonable grounds" required by N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3 for drug testing, which respondent contends, is a search. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 2-5) Respondent submits that in 1986 at hearings before the Senate Education Committee, Philip Brown, then statewide coordinator for drug and alcohol education, stated that the Department of Education was "putting forth guidelines...which will give some specific parameters, in the kinds of things you are asking for, for school districts to use." However, no guidelines were issued. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 3-4)

In regard to the Board's contention that every student referred must result in a drug test, respondent points out that:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12  does not talk about drug testing. It speaks to the need of having the student examined by a physician. The statute states in relevant part that the principal or his designee "shall immediately notify the parent or guardian and the superintendent of schools, if there be one, or the administrative principal and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor..." While the Board seeks to apply a literal interpretation to the rest of the statute, it has a more flexible view of the statute's "examination by a doctor" requirement. Under the Board's interpretation having a drug test conducted by a lab satisfies the examination by a doctor requirement. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 2-3)

With regard to the 1991 "rage" incident, respondent asserts that the ALJ correctly determined that respondent was in a better position to assess whether the "rage" was drug related because he had met with the student and there may have been a logical explanation for the student's anger. (Id. at 4) Respondent avers that the Board's view that whether there is reasonable suspicion for the drug test of a student should be made by the referring teacher, not by the administrator, is neither sensible nor reasonable, as concluded by the ALJ, given the facts in the 1991 incident. In the Board's view, respondent argues, Ms. Musetti's referral based solely on her observation of an angry student leaving respondent's office, the student in the 1991 incident should have been tested, notwithstanding the fact that respondent was the one with the student, knew why he was angry, and knew what had transpired in his office. (Id. at 6)

Further, respondent objects to the Board's contention that alleged undocumented and unsubstantiated incidents related by some of the witnesses and not certified in the tenure charges should have been considered by the ALJ to establish a pattern of behavior. Respondent asserts that this is contrary to due process and fair play and to the process established in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. (Id. at 11)

With respect to the 1995 A.F. incident, respondent submits that he notified A.F.'s mother immediately upon her referral, but A.F.'s mother said she couldn't come in to pick her daughter up or sign any forms that day; she would take care of it the next day. A.F. spent the balance of the day in respondent's office. The following day, A.F. did not come into school until the afternoon when she came in with her mother. (Id. at 13) Respondent further avers that all the witnesses had testified that no student had been referred to the medical inspector. "This was not the way it was done in Wayne." (Id. at 14) Respondent notes that the policy in effect at that time was silent as to a situation where the parent is contacted but is unable to come into school that day. Therefore, respondent contends that he cannot be held to have violated the policy since it did not cover the facts of this particular incident. (Id. at 14) Respondent also takes exception that A.F. was a known drug user since her records were not introduced and the only context for classifying her as such were comments made by Ms. Remolino. (Id. at 15) Respondent also notes that neither his supervisor nor the Board faulted him at the time for his handling of the A.F. matter. (Id. at 16)

With respect to the 1996 J.B. incident, respondent repeats the arguments advanced in his exceptions. He also points out that his supervisor at the time was concerned with the fact that Ms. Musetti and the other people involved failed to notify J.B.'s parents to alert them as to what had occurred, but did not have any concern regarding respondent's actions in the matter. In retrospect, respondent suggests, the Board now maintains that his conduct was so egregious and so violative of the law as to require a finding that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct and dismissal from its employ. (Id. at 18)

Citing extensively to the transcripts, respondent repeats the argument advanced in his exceptions and briefs that other professional staff members would have made a similar decision regarding the testing of N.L. given a similar situation.

Respondent disputes the Board's contention that he was told over and over by a number of staff members that he did not have discretion under the policy and statute. Respondent states that the only complaints he ever received were from Ms. Musetti. (Id. at 25) In rebuttal to the Board's arguments, respondent points to Mr. DeVries' testimony that respondent's actions complied with the policy, and Mr. Reis' testimony in regard to the 1996 J.B. incident in which he stated that "I did not have a concern for what he did." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 24 citing Tr. 1/31/00 at 96) Further, respondent asserts that Mr. DeVries denied having received any complaints from Mr. Tucker or Ms. Remolino, or anyone else except Ms. Musetti. (Id. at 25 citing Tr. 1/11/00 at 82)

Respondent also disputes the Board's information concerning his training in the requirements of the policy and statute. Respondent denies attending in-service training on the Drug and Alcohol Policy, admits that he attended a workshop pertaining to Core Team training in 1992, but denies that the training was conducted by Ms. Donovan. Respondent notes that his training occurred two or three years before Ms. Donovan began training, since Ms. Donovan testified that she had only been training for five or six years. (Id. at 25)

1972 S.L.D. 302; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Eileen Johnston, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 439 (1995), respondent submits that in cases which resulted in a finding of conduct unbecoming, the conduct spoke of deliberate misconduct. (Id. at 26-28) Respondent proffers that:

> No cases have been found in which the Commissioner has determined that a teaching staff member has exhibited conduct unbecoming based on an alleged violation of statute or rule or policy, where the violation alleged is by no means certain or clear on its face, and where the evidence does not support a deliberate violation. (Id. at 28)

Finally, respondent urges the Commissioner to consider his glowing evaluations and his many years of unblemished service in education. Respondent points to the fact that both Ms. Ammerman and Ms. Remolino, who were witnesses for the Board, as well as virtually all the staff of Wayne Hills High School, signed a petition supporting him in this matter (Id. at 30-31) Respondent also points out that Mr. Tucker, a Board witness, testified that respondent was a very good vice principal, that his former principal, Mr. Reis, testified that respondent was the best vice principal he had ever worked with, and that another former principal, Mr. DeVries, wrote in his final evaluation that respondent was ready to serve as a high school principal. (Id. at 31, 32)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon an exhaustive review of the record, including transcripts of the 15 days of hearings, evidentiary documents and arguments advanced by the parties, the Commissioner determines to modify the conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons that follow.

At the very outset, the Commissioner stresses that the operative statute herein, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, is part of a larger enactment intended to establish a comprehensive public school program for prevention of substance abuse and provision of assistance to students affected by it. Within this context, it is clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 is intended to provide a "safety net" for students through its requirement that the school system identify and obtain assistance for any student who may be under the influence of drugs, alcohol or other substances of abuse. By its own terms, the statute plainly envisions that not every student so identified will necessarily be found to be under the influence in fact, but the framework it establishes errs on the side of protecting the health and well-being of students by ensuring that no student falls through the cracks and that assistance is provided where needed, whether sought by the student or not.

The framework established by the Legislature for this purpose assigns clear and distinct roles to various staff members. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 initially requires "any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel" to whom it appears that a student may be under the influence of drugs or alcohol to "report the matter as soon as possible" to the school nurse, medical inspector or substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal or designee. Thereupon, the principal shall immediately notify the chief school administrator and the parent or guardian, and shall arrange for immediate medical examination of the pupil by the doctor selected by the parent/guardian, or if unavailable, the medical inspector, or if unavailable, the emergency room of the nearest hospital.

Nowhere in the statute is the principal or designee given the authority to substitute his/her judgment for that of the referring staff member, once a staff member advises the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the observations, symptoms and indicators underlying this conclusion. As stated by the ALJ, "[t]he legislative intent behind the statute reflects a "zero-tolerance" attitude towards drug abuse and the statutory language leaves little room for interpretation." (Initial Decision at 13) There is nothing in the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, nor in its legislative history, to indicate that the statutory provision requiring an immediate medical examination was not intended to be mandatory upon a staff report of a student who appeared, based on specific observed indicators, to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.[3] The relevant portion of the statute reads as follows:

> Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse, or other educational personnel of any public school in this State that a pupil may be under the influence of substances as defined pursuant to section 2 [18A:40A-9] of this act, other than anabolic steroids, that teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel shall report the matter as soon as possible to the school nurse or medical inspector, as the case may be, or to a substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal or, in his absence, to his designee. The principal or his designee, shall immediately notify the parent or guardian and the superintendent of schools, if there be one, or the administrative principal and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor selected by the parent or guardian, or if that doctor is not immediately available, by the medical inspector, if he is available. If a doctor or medical inspector is not immediately available, the pupil shall be taken to the emergency room of the nearest hospital for examination accompanied by a member of the school staff designated by the principal and a parent or guardian of the pupil if available. (emphasis added) (N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12)

Within this framework, the mandatory medical examination is, therefore, triggered upon referral from the teaching staff member based upon the staff member's observation of specific indicators and determination based upon them that the student appears to be under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. There is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 suggesting, much less authorizing, once a report has been made, that the designated administrator may first seek to validate the referring staff member's observations or judge the reasonableness of his or her conclusions before taking the actions required by statute. Instead, the administrator must act once the student has been reported, i.e., once a staff member advises the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the basis for this conclusion so that the administrator may convey the necessary information to parents and medical providers when they are contacted as required by law.[4] Neither is there anything suggesting that the staff member must specifically request that the student be chemically screened or otherwise examined before the required medical examination is arranged. Additionally, while a nurse may examine the student and the principal may ask the referring staff member to more fully describe the observations leading to his or her report, it is the referral itself that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5, unequivocally requires the principal or his designee to arrange for an immediate medical examination of the student.

[3] N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5 (adopted, 1987; amended, 1989; effective, July 1, 1990) mirrors the statutory language. The Commissioner notes that the State Board of Education is currently considering recodification of this provision without change under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-4.3.

Since a mandatory medical examination is triggered upon report by a staff member to whom it appears that a student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs, it is essential that a district board provide the training necessary to enable appropriate district employees to be aware of, and equipped to fulfill, their responsibilities under the statute. In this regard, the district board is responsible for the training of all teaching staff members, school nurses and all other educational personnel so that they are thoroughly familiar with the symptoms and indicators of substance abuse. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-15(b). Such training is vital, so that symptoms of substance abuse can be readily identified, especially by those staff members most likely to be in the position to observe students directly. In this context, it must be emphasized that a staff member need not be certain that a student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs, but need only have made a reasonable judgment, based upon symptoms and indicators he or she has observed in the student and articulated to the designated administrator, that the student appears to be under such influence. Any staff member who refers a student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 in good faith, provided that the skill and care given is that ordinarily required and exercised by other such staff members, is held harmless for that action. See N.J.S.A 18A:40A-13 and N.J.S.A 18A:40A-14.

[4] The Commissioner notes that Board policy expands on the statutory directive for notification by also requiring the principal to "verbally explain to the student's parent/guardian what the symptoms were that led to the reporting." (Policy 5131.6)

Review of the Board's Drugs, Alcohol and Tobacco Policy 5131.6 reveals that the policy largely reflects, or is consistent with, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, except that the policy provides for the medical inspector to appoint a designee. The Board's current policy in pertinent part reads as follows:

> "If the school authorities are unable to contact the parent/guardian and/or if the doctor selected is not immediately available, the school medical inspector or designee[5] shall be immediately called upon to examine the pupil for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under the influence of alcohol or drugs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12.

A medical inspector is a physician licensed to practice medicine and surgery within the State who serves under contract with the Board. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1. Although it would be permissible to interpret the Board's policy to permit the medical inspector to designate another physician so licensed to serve in his stead if he were not available, he may not designate any person not so licensed, including the school nurse. However, the testimony of all witnesses, currently or previously under the Board's employ, suggests that the medical inspector is never a part of the process in this District. The Board has apparently interpreted "or designee" to permit examination by the school nurse, followed by in-house collection of a sample of the student's urine that is evaluated by an outside laboratory, as satisfaction of the requirement that a pupil be examined by "the school medical inspector or his designee." (Tr. 10/4/99 at 50, 55; Tr. 12/7/99 at 25, 38, 129-131; Tr. 12/9/99 at 103 and Tr. 1/31/00 at 28) As stated above, the school nurse is not authorized to conduct the medical examination required by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 to determine whether a student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs.[6] The Commissioner reiterates that under the mandated reporting, notification and examination procedures in [5] Although the Board's Policy 5131.6 has undergone several revisions, this provision has remained the same throughout the policy revisions provided in the record.

[6] As the testimony of one of the District's school nurses suggests, when a student is reported as being under the influence of alcohol or drugs, the function of the school nurse is to make a clinical assessment of the student's vital signs to determine whether the student requires immediate intervention pending further medical assessment. (Tr. 10/25/99 at 77-99)

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, schools must arrange an immediate medical examination for students reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs in school or at school-sponsored events. A physician selected by the parent or guardian, the school's medical inspector or the emergency room of the nearest hospital must conduct the examination and diagnose whether or not the student is under such influence. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5 are silent on the issue of student drug screening. Clearly, there is no basis in law for substituting such screening for the required medical examination of students who are reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcoholic beverages or other drugs. The Commissioner thus concludes that the Board's interpretation of its obligations under the law is erroneous and is not in compliance with the relevant statute, regulation or its own policy.[7]

Tenure Charges No. 1 and No. 2[8]

The ALJ concluded that respondent exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by his violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's Drug, Alcohol and Tobacco Policy 5131.6 when he decided not to "test" N.L. upon receiving reports from Ms. Ammerman and Mr. Flower that N.L. appeared to be under the influence of marijuana.

The Commissioner's review of the evidence supports the ALJ's conclusion that both Ms. Ammerman and Mr. Flower communicated to respondent that they detected an odor of marijuana on N.L. Further, when respondent informed Ms. Ammerman that N.L. was not going to be tested, Ms. Ammerman restated her belief that N.L. smelled of marijuana. Although the parties dispute whether Ms. Ammerman said "reeked of marijuana" or "smelled of marijuana," whether Ms. Ammerman told respondent N.L.'s pupils were dilated, and whether a drug test was specifically requested, it is undisputed that Ms. Ammerman and Mr. Flower articulated their belief that N.L. "smelled of marijuana" to respondent, thus invoking N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6. The Commissioner rejects respondent's argument that he has the discretion to confirm teachers' judgments that a student appears to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6 squarely place the responsibility of making final judgment on the medical community.

[7] The Commissioner notes that there is no testimony to confirm compliance with the provision that the Superintendent of Schools must be notified whenever a student is referred as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.

[8] Tenure Charge No. 1 addresses violation of the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, and Tenure Charge No. 2 addresses the Board's Drug, Alcohol and Tobacco Policy 5131.6. Since the policy essentially reflects the language of the statute, these charges are being considered simultaneously.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds respondent guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for his failure to arrange for the immediate medical examination of N.L. pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6.

Tenure Charges No. 3 and No. 4[9]

The Board originally filed tenure charges alleging that during the 1995-96 and 1996-97 school years, respondent exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by failing to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6. These charges were amended by the Commissioner's interlocutory order to include a 1991 incident and a 1994 incident. These charges, therefore, concern four separate incidents that occurred between 1991 and 1996, each of which will be considered separately.

1991 incident

Finding that respondent was in a better position than the Student Assistant Specialist, Ms. Musetti, who had no prior contact with the student, to understand the reasons behind the student's rage, the ALJ concluded that respondent's refusal to honor Ms. Musetti's request that the student be "tested" represented a "sensible rather than a literal" interpretation of the law and did not constitute a violation of statute or Board policy. The ALJ, therefore, concluded that respondent was not guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct in the 1991 incident.

[9] Tenure Charge No. 3 addresses violation of the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, and Tenure Charge No. 4 addresses the Board's Drug, Alcohol and Tobacco Policy 5131.6. Since the policy essentially reflects the language of the statute, these charges are being considered simultaneously.

The Commissioner finds he cannot accept the ALJ's conclusion. As previously indicated, once a staff member has reported that a student appears to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, the principal or his designee shall arrange for an immediate medical examination for that student; the statute does not provide respondent discretion to substitute his/her judgment for that of the staff member. This incident, however, presents the unusual circumstance where a report was made by a teaching staff member, Ms. Musetti, who requested that the student be "tested" immediately after observing, and based solely upon, the same behavior also witnessed directly by respondent. Not inappropriately under the circumstances, respondent explained to Ms. Musetti that he believed the student was angry because respondent had just disciplined him, not because he was under the influence of drugs. Ms. Musetti, however, who is a trained and certified substance [awareness] coordinator serving in the position of Student Assistance Specialist (Tr. 12/7/99 at 5), persisted in her belief that the student exhibited indications of possible substance abuse. (Tr. 12/7/99 at 42-44) Once this occurred, respondent then had an obligation to arrange for the immediate medical examination required by law. Notwithstanding any concern respondent may have had as to whether Ms. Musetti's request that the student be "tested" might be unreasonable because she had no prior contact with the student, respondent's obligation to arrange for an immediate medical examination was mandatory under the statute and Board Policy.

Accordingly, the Commissioner must conclude that respondent is guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for his failure to arrange for the immediate medical examination of the "rage" student in the 1991 incident pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6.

1994 D.M. incident

The ALJ determined that there was insufficient evidence to conclude that respondent neglected his duties with respect to "drug testing" in the 1994 D.M. incident.

The Commissioner is unpersuaded by the Board's arguments that Ms. Musetti's testimony should be ascribed greater deference than it was accorded by the ALJ. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that the Board has not proved by a preponderence of credible evidence that respondent neglected his duties under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6 for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision.

1995 A.F. incident

Finding that respondent waited until the next day to "test" a student referred to him under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6, the ALJ determined respondent guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for the A.F. incident.

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6 require an immediate medical examination for a student reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and states that the student is to be taken to the nearest hospital emergency room if the parent's physician or the school's medical inspector is not available. In the A.F. incident, respondent deferred the "test" until the next day to accommodate A.F.'s parent. Clearly, respondent did not immediately respond to this incident as contemplated in the statute.[10]

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds respondent guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for his failure to arrange for the immediate medical examination of A.F. in the 1994 incident pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6.

1996 J.B. incident

The ALJ found that all staff members, including the referring teacher, Ms. Curasco, and Ms. Musetti, Ms.Tierney and respondent, contributed to the delay in "testing" J.B., but concluded that it was not logistically impossible for respondent to implement the "drug test" sooner than the time he was actually tested. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that respondent

[10] Ms. Musetti, the Student Assistant Specialist, testified in regard to the delay in "testing," and was echoed by other staff members, that a primary concern was compromising the drug test by such delay.

violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6, and thus respondent was guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for the J.B. incident.

The record shows that no one involved with the J.B. incident proceeded as if J.B. needed an immediate medical examination. However, that does not excuse respondent's lack of prompt action once responsibility of J.B. was delegated to him. Even under the established practices of the District, respondent did not act appropriately. Respondent did not verify whether J.B. was in school on November 6, 1996, nor did he take J.B. to the nurse to assess whether J.B. was in a medical crisis, and respondent did nothing to assure that J.B. was not left alone while awaiting testing. Most importantly, respondent did not immediately arrange for J.B. to be medically examined as contemplated in the statute and specified in the Board's policy.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds respondent guilty of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct for his failure to arrange for the immediate medical examination of J.B. in the 1996 incident pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Policy 5131.6.

Penalty

In considering the penalty to be assessed respondent for his acts of unbecoming and unprofessional conduct noted above, the Commissioner has considered the nature and gravity of the offenses, the extenuating and aggravating circumstances and the necessity of maintaining discipline and proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 420-22 (App. Div. 1967).

Respondent is an experienced administrator who has served the District for 34 years. During this time, respondent has received positive evaluations and his record is unblemished, except for the charges herein. The Commissioner takes specific notice of the fact that, prior to N.L.'s death in 1999, no action, i.e., no mention in evaluations, no letter of reprimand, increment withholding, etc., was taken to discipline respondent for what the Board now finds was respondent's egregious failure to properly "test" students in 1991, 1994, 1995, 1996. Further, it is noted that virtually all of those who testified in this matter, including most of the Board's witnesses, testified that respondent performed his job well and that they respected him. Two of the Board's witnesses, Ms. Ammerman and Ms. Remolino, as well as a significant number of other staff members, signed a petition in support of respondent. (Exhibit R29) Mr. Tucker, former president of the Wayne Education Association (WEA) and a Board witness, stated that he would rank respondent in the top three of all the vice principals he worked with during his 36 years in education. (Tr. 12/9/99 at 23-24) Further, respondent's former principals, Mr. Reis and Mr. DeVries, the vice principal with whom he served at the time of the J.B. incident, Ms. Tierney,[11] and Mr. Modica, WEA's grievance chairperson, testified on his behalf.

The Commissioner also cannot ignore that the Board has not properly implemented N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's Policy 5131.6. As noted above, notwithstanding the requirement in statute and Board policy that a student reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs must be immediately examined by a physician, the Board has established a practice in the District which ignores that mandate and substitutes drug screening in its stead. Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the Board took no disciplinary action against any other staff members who failed to properly implement the statute and policy. The Commissioner finds that the Board's statement, that tenure charges were not filed against other staff members who similarly violated statute and policy because those individuals did not exhibit a pattern of non-compliance, sends a mixed message to District staff. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 32) The Board not only did not take action with regard to tenure charges against any other staff members, but also took no other disciplinary measures to impress upon staff members violating the law, and upon District employees in general, the seriousness of non-compliance. Moreover, the record suggests that the Board's in-service training for staff members and administrators with respect to the statute and the Board's Policy on the treatment of students who are reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs is woefully inadequate. Although the District's Core Team members apparently receive three days of training each year, there appears to be no organized training mechanism for other staff and administrators. Testimony by teaching staff, nurses and administrators in the District underscores the fact that, despite what appears to be a clear policy, there is considerable confusion in the District about its implementation. The Board argues that any penalty short of dismissal will be futile, because if respondent is allowed to return to the District, he will continue in his belief that he has the authority to exercise discretion as to whether to "chemically screen" students. The Commissioner finds this argument spurious in light of the Board's own erroneous assumptions with respect to implementation of statute and policy, and he concurs with the ALJ that the results of these proceedings should disabuse respondent of any belief that administrators have the discretion not to refer for medical examination any student reported as appearing to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

[11] The Commissioner notes Ms. Tierney's testimony that she received a Rice notification that her performance would be discussed by the Board at about the time of her agreement to testify on behalf of respondent. (Tr. 1/12/00 at 48) Board Member Howard Weinburg testified that the Board sent Ms. Tierney the Rice notification because it wanted to discuss some parental complaints the Board had received as to Ms. Tierney's actions in her school relative to her performance. (Tr. 3/2/00 at 58) Mr. Weinburg also testified that as far as he was aware Ms. Tierney was performing satisfactorily in December 1999 at the time of the parental calls to the Board, and he also stated that the Rice notice and Ms. Tierney's testimony in this case were not connected in any way. (Tr. 3/2/00 at 61, 65)

Respondent argues that he should not be held accountable for his actions because he did not willfully violate N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's Policy 5131.6. The Commissioner notes that respondent is an experienced administrator who is responsible for keeping himself fully informed of the laws and policies that he must administer as a vice principal. By respondent's own admission, he was fully aware that Ms. Musetti, the Student Assistant Specialist and a member of the Core Team, strongly disagreed that the principal or his designee had discretion as to whether to "test" a student referred to him as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Nothing precluded respondent from seeking clarification once this view was presented to him. As the ALJ observed, although respondent's employment record does not show respondent to be the reckless lawbreaker portrayed by the Board (Initial Decision at 31), there is evidence that respondent made conscious decisions which he knew, or should have known, contravened statute and the Board's policy.

Upon thoughtful consideration, the Commissioner finds it necessary to balance the totality of the record herein with the need to impress most emphatically upon respondent the seriousness of his conduct. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, in view of the mitigating circumstances in this matter, the extreme penalty of loss of tenured employment is not warranted. However, the Commissioner also concurs that respondent's failure to arrange for an immediate medical examination for students reported to him by staff members as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs is a serious infraction deserving a significant penalty, regardless of mitigating circumstances.

Accordingly, under all the circumstances of this matter, the Commissioner determines to adopt the ALJ's recommendation that the appropriate penalty to be levied on respondent is a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide and forfeiture of all salary and benefits that would otherwise have accrued during the first 120 days of his suspension.

In adopting the ALJ's recommended penalty and conclusions as modified above, however, the Commissioner once again stresses that a drug test does not equate to a medical examination within the requirements of the statute as the Initial Decision suggests. Further, the statute's requirement for an immediate medical examination of a student who is reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs dictates that such examination must be conducted by a physician, not by any other person or means. Finally, the issues raised in this matter underscore the need for district boards of education to have clear policies in place, and to ensure that teaching staff members, school nurses and other educational personnel are well instructed with respect to their responsibilities under the statute and identification of symptoms and behavioral patterns indicative of substance abuse.[12] The Commissioner, therefore, directs the Board to undertake such revisions of its policies and procedures as are necessary to reflect the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and implementing rule consistent with the decision herein, to institute a program of continuing education so that staff members will be able to fulfill their obligations under the law, and to submit such required revisions and plans to the County Superintendent for review and approval.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[13]

Date of Mailing: SEP 22 2000

[12] It is imperative that such training include instruction in the identification of specific observable indicators of substance abuse so that staff members are able to recognize and appropriately report students exhibiting these, in contrast to expressing general concerns about a student's health or behavior.

[13] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
UNION COUNTY BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UNION COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT AND NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board challenged the legality of a magnet school operated by the Union County Vocational-Technical School District (UCVT), contending that the programs of the magnet school are outside the scope of vocational education as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. and violative of federal law. The Board sought an order restraining the UCVT from accepting students residing within its district and from collecting tuition for such students enrolled in the magnet school. The Board contended that it is not liable for tuition because, as contemplated by N.J.A.C. 6:43-11, it offers a program at least comparable to that offered by the magnet school.

The ALJ granted partial summary decision to the UCVT. The ALJ concluded that 1) the Board was time-barred from attempting to avoid its obligation to pay tuition and transportation costs for resident students who attended UCVT's magnet school during 1997-98; 2) operation of a magnet school does not violate state constitutional and statutory law or the Perkins Act; and 3) that the matter (Count IV of the Amended Petition) should be referred to the Department to verify that the courses offered at the magnet school have received the required state approval and are not duplicative of the existing programs offered at the local level. (Ramapo-Indian Hills)

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own with modification. The Commissioner found that Count IV of the Amended Petition was properly dismissed on summary basis since the Board failed to set forth any specific allegations, and facts supporting them, which would constitute a basis for its position that it offers a comparable or superior vocational educational program nor did it allege that its program, to the extent that one exists, had been approved by the Department. The Commissioner summarily dismissed the Petition of Appeal and directed the Board to remit tuition costs to the UCVT for its resident students attending the Magnet High School for the 1997-98 school year and, thereafter, for any similarly situated students for whom tuition has not been paid.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a challenge by a local school district to the legality of a magnet school operated by a county vocational school district. Petitioner seeks an order restraining the county vocational school from accepting students residing within petitioner's district and from collecting tuition for such students enrolled in the magnet school. In amended pleadings, the petitioner also seeks to have the state agency rescind all approvals given to the magnet school and to halt the flow of federal and state funds for use by that school.

Basically, petitioner alleges that the establishment of a magnet school exceeds the statutory authority of a county vocational school under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 to –37, that operation of a magnet school contravenes the provisions of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational & Applied Technology Act ("Perkins Act"), 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 2301 to 2471, and that payment of tuition by the local school district constitutes a gift of public funds for a private purpose. Alternatively, if the legality of the magnet school is upheld, petitioner contends that it is not liable for tuition because, as contemplated by N.J.A.C. 6:43-11, it offers a program at least comparable to that offered by the magnet school. Prior to hearing, the state agency moved to dismiss the petition for untimeliness and lack of standing and the county vocational school moved for summary decision on the underlying merits.

Procedural History

Petitioner Board of Education of Scotch Plains-Fanwood ("Scotch Plains-Fanwood") filed its original petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on March 2, 1998 and its amended petition on April 6, 1998. Each respondent filed a timely answer to the petition and amended petition. Subsequently, on July 27, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing.

Meanwhile, on May 5, 1998, respondent New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") filed a notice of motion, together with supporting brief, to dismiss the petition as against all parties for untimeliness and as against the Department alone for lack of standing. Scotch Plains-Fanwood filed opposing papers on June 5, 1998 and the Department filed a reply on June 19, 1999.

Additionally, on May 21, 1999, respondent Board of Education of the Union County Vocational-Technical School District ("Union County Vo-Tech") filed a notice of motion for summary decision, together with supporting brief. Respondent Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders ("Freeholders") joined in that motion and the Department took no position. Scotch Plains-Fanwood filed opposing papers on June 18, 1999.

Both motions were argued before the OAL on June 21, 1999.[1] Prior to issuance of the initial decision, the State Board of Education ruled that it is improper to take official notice of the Department's Directory of Verified Occupational Educational Programs ("Directory") without notifying the parties and affording them an opportunity for objection.[2] K.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of Rancocas Valley Reg. High Sch. Dist., EDU 6974-97 Initial Decision (Nov. 12, 1997), adopted (Comm'r Dec. 29, 1997), remanded (St. Bd. March 20, 2000) (slip op. at 5) http://www.state/nj.us.njded/legal/index.html> Consequently, the OAL notified the parties of its intention to take official notice of the [1] Two other motions were argued and decided on that same date. By order entered on July 8, 1999, the OAL granted the Freeholders' motion to dismiss the petition against them on the ground that they were merely a source of funding and that the Department of Education has statutory responsibility for control and supervision of county vocational schools. By order entered on July 9, 1999, the OAL denied the Department's discovery motion because Scotch Plains-Fanwood had furnished missing answers to the Department's interrogatories.

Directory and afforded them an opportunity for comment. By letter dated June 21, 2000, Scotch Plains-Fanwood objected on the ground that the Directory should not be deemed conclusive evidence of statutory compliance and that the existing record fails to disclose how a program in included in the Directory.

Factual Findings

Since none of the parties filed affidavits or certifications in connection with these motions, the relevant facts must be derived solely from the pleadings, admissions during oral argument, and official notice of information contained in the Department's public records.[3] For purposes of the summary decision motion, I FIND the following facts:

Scotch Plains-Fanwood is a regional K-to-12 school district charged with the education of all pupils living within the geographic boundaries of the Township of Scotch Plains and the Borough of Fanwood. It operates five elementary schools, two middle schools and a high school. At the high-school level, it provides "a comprehensive program of instruction in all curricular areas." Although Scotch Plains-Fanwood does not have a school devoted primarily to vocational studies, it offers several vocational courses as part of its comprehensive curriculum. According to the Department's Directory, rows 1540 to 1542, Scotch Plains-Fanwood offers three approved vocational programs, designated by Classification of Instructional Program or CIP code numbers.[4]

Union County Vo-Tech is a county vocational school organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-11 et seq. The Commissioner, with the advice and consent of the State Board, must approve courses of study to be pursued in every county vocational school.[5] Compared to Scotch Plains-Fanwood, Union County Vo-Tech offers a much broader variety of vocational programs. The Directory, rows 1520, 1523 to 1529, 1531 to 1532, 1535 and 1536, identifies twelve approved programs available at Union County Vo-Tech.[6] Only one of the programs at Union County Vo-Tech, i.e., Computer Applications (CIP No.521201), coincides with what is available Scotch Plains-Fanwood.

[3] Rule 201 of the New Jersey Rules of Evidence authorizes a court to take judicial notice of "specific facts and propositions of generalized knowledge which are capable of immediate determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned." This rule is incorporated in the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules applicable to administrative proceedings. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.2(a).

Among its facilities, Union County Vo-Tech operates a school known as the Magnet High School of Science, Mathematics and Technology. Apparently Union County Vo-Tech has distributed promotional material referring to its magnet school as designed "for students interested in pursuing a four-year baccalaureate degree after graduation from high school."[7]

In general, Scotch Plains-Fanwood pays tuition and transportation costs for students residing in its district who are enrolled at Union County Vo-Tech. During the 1997-98 academic years, six students residing in Scotch Plains or Fanwood were attending Union County Vo-Tech's magnet school. Annual tuition for the magnet school was $6,000 per student or a total of $36,000 for all six students. Commencing in October 1997, Scotch Plains-Fanwood withheld payment of tuition and transportation costs for students attending the magnet school, although it continues paying tuition and transportation costs for students from its district enrolled at other Union County Vo-Tech facilities.

[7] At oral argument, counsel for Scotch Plains-Fanwood represented that an announcement to that effect had been published in a local newspaper. Counsel for Union County Vo-Tech did not dispute that characterization.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the existing record, I CONCLUDE that operation of a magnet school does not violate state constitutional and statutory law or the Perkins Act, but that the matter should be referred to the Department to verify that the courses offered at the Magnet High School of Science, Mathematics and Technology have received the required state approval and are not duplicative of the offerings at Scotch Plains-Fanwood.

Taking the issues in reverse order, this decision will deal first with Union County Vo-Tech's motion for summary decision. Summary decision is the administrative counterpart to summary judgment in the judicial arena. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a) authorizes entry of summary decision "if the papers and discovery, which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Traditionally, the standard applicable to a summary judgment motion was that the absence of undisputed material facts must appear "palpably." All inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant in favor of the opponent of the motion. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954). In Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142, N.J. 520, 541 (1995), the Supreme Court relaxed the standards in an effort to encourage granting of summary judgment motions in appropriate cases. While cautioning that a judge should not weigh the truth of the evidence or resolve factual disputes at this early stage of the proceedings, the Court clarified that "when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' [citation omitted], the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment." Brill, at 540.

Many of the issues raised by Scotch Plains-Fanwood are purely questions of law that have been previously considered by the Commissioner. Recently, in Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Reg. Sch. Dist v. Bd. of Educ. of Bergen Cty. Vo-Tech., Initial Decision EDU 3130-00 (May 22, 2000), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html modified (Comm'r July 10, 2000), http://state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html a regional school district mounted a comparable attack against paying for attendance of resident students at magnet schools operated by a county vocational school district. Rejecting the argument that operation of a magnet school exceeds the statutory authority for operation of a county vocational school, the Commissioner espoused the view that vocational education may properly prepare students for continuing education at an advanced level. Similarly, the Commissioner determined that the types of programs offered at a magnet school are fully compatible with the purposes of the Perkins Act, which envisions "concentrating resources on improving educational programs leading to academic and occupational skill competences needed to work in a technologically advanced society." (slip op. at 19.) The reasoning in Ramapo-Indian Hills applies with equal force to the present situation and requires partial summary decision in Union Vo-Tech's favor dismissing petitioner's claims that its programs are beyond the scope of its statutory authorization or contrary to federal law.

Although not directly involved in Ramapo-Indian Hills, the question of whether a magnet school violates the constitutional prohibition against a gift of public funds for a private purpose may also be disposed of summarily. Art. 8, §3, ¶3 of the New Jersey Constitution forbids the appropriation of public money "to or for the use of any society, association or corporation whatsoever." That constitutional provision is designed to insure that public money is used for public purposes. Mt. Laurel Tp. v. Public Advocate of N.J., 88 N.J. 522, 534 (1980). What constitutes a public purpose is broadly construed to encompass any activity "which serves as a benefit to the community as a whole, and which, at the same time is directly related to the functions of government." In re Charter Sch. Application of Englewood on Palisades Charter Sch, 320 N.J. Super. 174, 228 (App. Div. 1999), modified on other grounds, __ N.J. __ (2000). Provision of public education is clearly a legitimate function of state government and county vocational schools are public bodies created to promote that purpose. The choice to include vocational schools among the array of public entities providing educational services to pupils is one appropriately left to the Legislature. In re Charter Sch. Application, __ N.J. at __.

Unlike Ramapo-Indian Hills, where both parties filed extensive documentation in support of their factual positions, the record in this case is relatively uninformative. Specifically, the record lacks any explanation of the approval process, any identification of the particular courses of study that form the foundation for Union Vo-Tech's magnet high school, and any analysis of the apparent overlap between the approved course offered by both districts. Given the state of the proofs, it is premature to resolve the remaining issue of whether Scotch Plains-Fanwood offers a "comparable program" within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:43-11. Rather than litigate this issue in a vacuum, the preferred course of action is to return the matter for further administrative review by the governmental agency that possesses the "staff, resources and expertise to understand and solve these specialized problems." In re Amendment of N.J.A.C. 8:31B-3.31, 119 N.J. 531, 543-44 (1990). For the reasons mentioned in Ramapo-Indian Hills, slip op. at 10, such review should be conducted administratively by Department experts without the trappings of a full administrative hearing.

In light of return of this case to the Department for further review, it is unnecessary to reach the additional grounds for dismissal urged by the Attorney General's Office. Nonetheless, the concerns voiced by the Deputy deserve respectful attention. First, the Deputy argues that the suit is time-barred by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3(c), which mandates that appeals to the Commissioner must be filed no later than ninety days "from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action" by a board of education. Since Scotch Plains-Fanwood knew about the planned enrollment of its students in Union Vo-Tech's magnet school in September 1997 and waited nearly six months before instituting its appeal in March 1998, the Department contends that petitioner is out of time to challenge the requirement that it pay their tuition.

Imposition of a ninety-day limitation period has been approved by our highest court as a reasonable procedural requirement designed to achieve finality in educational matters. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 583 (1993). Generally, the ninety-day rule is strictly enforced. Balwierczak v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Berkeley Heights, EDU 11247-97 (Comm'r Dec. 8, 1999), aff'd (St. Bd. May 3, 2000). http://state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html Due to reliance by six students, their parents, and the vocational school district on the apparent acquiescence by Scotch Plains-Fanwood, it is too late to disturb placement arrangements made for the 1997-98 academic year. It does not follow, however, that Scotch Plains-Fanwood is permanently precluded from challenging the enrollment of future students, who have not yet finalized their academic plans.[8] At most, the affirmative defense interposed by the Department might postpone, but not avoid, addressing the underlying question. For the sake of uniformity, educational continuity and predictability, it is best to resolve the substantive issues once and for all.

Lastly, the Deputy maintains that Scotch Plains-Fanwood has no standing to bring this litigation because "it has no direct stake in the outcome." Litigation is confined to those situations where the litigant's concern with the subject matter evidences sufficient stake and real adverseness, giving due weight to the interests of individual justice and to the public interest. Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Reality Equities Corp of N.J., 58 N.J. 99 (1971). If students residing in petitioner's district are allowed to attend the magnet school, Scotch Plains-Fanwood will be required to foot the bill and will have fewer funds available to educate children who stay in the district. Moreover, the Commissioner has emphasized the importance of "the State's legitimate interest in avoiding duplication of programs and costs." Ramapo-Indian Hills (slip op. at 18). Therefore, petitioner has sufficient economic interest to bring the current challenge.

In sum, Scotch Plains-Fanwood is time-barred from attempting to avoid its obligation to pay tuition and transportation costs for resident students who attended Union Vo-Tech's magnet school during 1997-98. Its various claims that Union Vo-Tech exceeded its statutory authority, violated the Perkins Act, and violated the constitutional prohibition against use of public funds for a private purpose are dismissed as a matter of law. However, the matter will be returned to the Department for administrative review to assure that programs offered by the magnet school are approved and do not duplicate existing programs offered at the local level. The OAL does not retain jurisdiction.

Order

It is ORDERED that partial summary decision is granted in favor of Union Vo-Tech dismissing Counts I, II, III, V, and VI of the petition.

It is further ORDERED that partial summary decision is granted in favor of the Department dismissing petitioner's claims insofar as they relate to tuition and related costs incurred by the six resident students who attended Union Vo-Tech's magnet school during the 1997-98 academic year. Scotch Plains-Fanwood will make full payment to Union Vo-Tech within forty-five days.

And it is further ORDERED that this matter be returned to the Department for administrative review of the allegations set forth in Count IV of the petition that approved programs offered by Union Vo-Tech are comparable to those offered by the local district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SCOTCH PLAINS-FANWOOD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
UNION COUNTY BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UNION COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT AND NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed exceptions, as did respondents Union County Vocational Technical School District (UCVT) and the Department of Education, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, petitioner contends that: 1) this matter is not appropriate for summary decision, in that "there is an abundance of factual issues" which have not been brought to the record, particularly with respect to a comparability analysis. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1); 2) the Initial Decision is inconsistent with the State Board's remand in the matter entitled K.B. v. Board of Education of the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District, Burlington County, State Board Decision, March 1, 2000; 3) the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erroneously dismissed petitioner's contention that the UCVT is not a vocational school within the statutory definition of same; 4) the ALJ failed to consider §2471 of the Perkins Act when he found that the programs offered by the UCVT Magnet School of Science, Mathematics and Technology (hereafter, "Magnet School") are compatible with the purposes of that Act; and 5) the ALJ improperly found that the Magnet School does not violate the Constitutional Prohibition against a gift of public funds for a private purpose. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3-7)

The UCVT takes exception to that portion of the Initial Decision wherein the ALJ returns this matter to the Department of Education "for further administrative review" relative to the "comparable program" issue. (UCVT's Exceptions at 1) This referral, the UCVT contends, "usurps the very function of the Administrative Law Judge as the trier of fact and law in this matter." (Ibid.) The UCVT reasons that if the ALJ could not make his comparability determination on the record before him, additional submissions could have been provided or a full evidentiary hearing conducted. (Id. at 2)

Similarly, the Department of Education excepts "to the portion of the Administrative Law Judge's recommendation  that [this matter] be returned to the Department for administrative review of the allegations set forth in Count IV of the petition that approved programs offered by the Union County Vocational-Technical School  are comparable to those offered by the Scotch Plains-Fanwood school district." (Department of Education's Exceptions at 1) Here, the Department submits that it need not conduct the reviewed ordered by the ALJ since the very purpose of the Directory, supra, is to identify the various approved programs, thereby rendering unnecessary a course-by-course comparison. Moreover, the Department continues, the burden of proof was on petitioner to submit documentation in opposition to the motion for summary decision; however, it elected not to provide any such evidence in support of its position that it offers comparable courses.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision, with modification as set forth herein. Initially, the Commissioner underscores that the Department of Education does not approve or regulate the format of vocational and technical education programs. As such, vocational and technical education programs may be offered through a magnet school format, a career academy format or through a traditional program format. (Board of Education of the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District, Bergen County v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical School District, Commissioner Decision July 10, 2000, slip. op. at 4, footnote 5) Yet, "every magnet school and career academy must be based on an approved vocational program." (emphasis in text) (Id., slip op. at 5, citing to the testimony of Dr. Thomas A. Henry, Director of the Office of School–to-Career and College Initiatives at the New Jersey State Department of Education) Thus, although the format of the program herein may be different from that at issue in Ramapo, petitioner alleges no facts which, if true, would establish that the Magnet School is not a "vocational education program" in accordance with the State and Federal statutes and definitions, as per the analysis in Ramapo. [1] (Id., slip. op. at 6-8) Moreover, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that petitioner's claim that the Magnet School violates the constitutional prohibition against a gift of public funds for a private purpose may be summarily dismissed.

Finally, the Commissioner finds that Count IV of the Amended Petition is properly dismissed on summary basis. Petitioner apparently seeks to invoke N.J.A.C. 6:43-

[1] Although petitioner points to a definition of "vocational education" found in §2471 of the Perkins Act which, it asserts, was not considered in Ramapo, supra, the Commissioner finds that the definition cited by petitioner at that section is not substantially different from that found at §2302, as cited in Ramapo. That is, §2302 defines "vocational and technical education" as educational activities that: "(A) offer a sequence of courses that provides individuals with the academic and technical knowledge and skills the individuals need to prepare for further education and for careers (other than careers requiring a baccalaureate, master's, or doctoral degree) in current or emerging employment sectors; and (B) include competency-based applied learning that contributes to the academic knowledge, higher-order reasoning and problem-solving skills, work attitudes, general employability skills, technical skills, and occupation-specific skills, of an individual." Ramapo, supra, slip. op. at 11. Whereas, petitioner asserts that §2471 defines "vocational education" as "organized educational programs offering a sequence of courses which are directly related to the preparation of individuals in paid or unpaid employment in current or emerging occupations requiring other than a baccalaureate or advanced degree. Such programs shall include competency-based applied learning which contributes to an individual's academic knowledge, higher-order reasoning and problem-solving skills, work attitudes, general employability skills, and other occupational-specific skills necessary for economic independence as a productive and contributing member of society...." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 6)

3.11(a) to prevent its students from attending the Magnet High School; in so doing, it claims that it offers a comparable or superior program to that offered by the Magnet School (Amended Petition of Appeal at 8). Yet, in support of this claim, petitioner avers, in pertinent part, that:

> 3. The Union County Magnet School has a staff of seven teachers, and certainly, the limited number of teachers on the faculty  will not provide the professionally enriched, day-to-day diversity of experiences that the staff of the Scotch Plains-Fanwoood High School can offer.
> 4. The Union County Magnet School offers no facilities for the fine and practical arts, nor is there a media or an all purpose gymnasium.
> 5. The Union County Magnet School does not offer a world language program with the depth and breadth of the program as delivered in the school district of the Petitioner.
> 6. The curriculum of the Union County Magnet School offers no courses in art, music, business or practical arts.
> 7. The health and physical education program of the Union County Magnet School is offered through a fitness facility and is not [as] comprehensive in scope as [that] provided by the Petitioner.
> 8. The Union County Magnet School does not have a fully completed curriculum in the Core Curriculum Content Areas, unlike the curriculum developed by the Petitioner in its high school.
> 9. The Union County Magnet School does not offer interscholastic athletic or co-curriculum programs ***.
> 10. The academic and co-curricular programs at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, including mathematics and science education, are superior in depth and breadth to what is offered at the Union County Magnet School. (Id. at 8-9)

Thus, petitioner fails to set forth any specific allegations, and facts supporting them, which would constitute a basis for its position that it offers a comparable or superior vocational educational program. Nor does petitioner allege that its vocational education program, to the extent one exists, has been approved by the Department of Education. See D.F. on Behalf of Minor Child, E.F. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle Park, Commissioner Decision, July 9, 1999.

Moreover, in response to the UCVT School District's Motion for Summary Decision, petitioner fails to bring to the record any documentation in opposition to the UCVT

School District's claim that N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11(a) should not control the outcome in this matter. To the contrary, in its response to the motion, petitioner simply contends that "if the education provided by the Union County Magnet School is a 'Vocational Education', then the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School also provides the same 'Vocational Education'." (Petitioner's Response to Motion to Dismiss, June 17, 1999, at 4)[2]

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that the within Petition of Appeal may be summarily dismissed.[3] Petitioner is directed to remit tuition costs to the respondent UCVT for its resident students attending the Magnet High School for the 1997-98 school year and, thereafter, for any similarly situated students for whom tuition has not been paid.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT ON REMAND
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11161-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 142-5/98

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF COREY YOUNGER, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY

Charlotte Kitler, for petitioner, Jersey City School District

Philip Feintuch, Esq., for respondent
(Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 1, 2000 Decided: August 3, 2000

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On May 14, 1998, the Jersey City School District (District), Hudson County certified charges of unbecoming conduct against the respondent, Corey Younger (Younger). Younger is a tenured teacher employed by the District. On May 4, 1998, the District filed the written charges with the Commissioner of Education. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 25, 1998 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 52:14F-1 to 13. After three days of hearings, the parties agreed to settle the matter. After the receipt of the settlement agreement an Initial Decision Settlement was issued on July 20, 1999. (I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Corey Younger, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5698-98).

On September 7, 1999, the Commissioner of Education issued a Decision wherein he disapproved the settlement, finding that the Initial Decision did not sufficiently explain how the settlement met the standards of Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842. Thus, the matter was remanded to the OAL on October 6, 1999 for disposition pursuant to the Cardonick standards.

On March 7, 2000, a conference was held and the parties agree to submit a revised Stipulation of Settlement consistent with the terms in the Commissioner's decision.

The settlement agreement was filed on August 1, 2000 and which is attached hereto.

In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842, the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> [T]he nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's findings that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest. See Cardonick at 850-51.

In this matter, the District filed charges alleging that Younger, a Health and Physical Education teacher engaged in unbecoming conduct. Specifically, the charges alleged that while on a field trip Younger had allowed another adult, unaffiliated with the District, to engage in sexually suggestive conduct towards one of Younger's students. Further, it was alleged that during this same trip, Younger put his tongue in a student's ear and made suggestive remarks to her.

During the hearing, the District was unable to locate a key witness to corroborate the alleged touching by Younger. However, it was able to present sufficient evidence that an another adult was present on the trip and had indeed engaged in sexually suggestive conduct towards a student. While this conduct was totally inappropriate, it did not rise to conduct that would have involved criminal charges or that would inflict any permanent or emotional harm on the student. Younger's conduct, here, was passive because he failed to avert the circumstances in the first place and failed to intervene by not ejecting his guest.

It was further established at the hearing that Younger did not have any prior disciplinary history. Given the absence of a prior disciplinary history, the likelihood of a dismissal and or revocation of his teacher's license was remote. Rather, it appeared that a period of suspension might have been sustainable.

Thus, given the District's difficulties with its proofs and the probable outcome of this matter, it was concluded that the acceptance of Younger's resignation was in the public interest.

Consequently, Younger was carefully examined by his attorney wherein he was advised that the settlement agreement was subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education. Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 .S.L.D. 842. Further, that the Commissioner could refer this matter to the State Board of examiners for further action. Thereafter, Younger acknowledged that he fully understood the charges and the consequences of this settlement.

After a review of the entire record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest because it will save legal expenses as well as time expended looking for witnesses. I further FIND that Younger had full opportunity to consult with legal counsel prior to entering into the agreement. He is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action which he may deem appropriate. Further, Younger was informed by counsel that notwithstanding the parties agreement to settle this matter, the Commissioner may not approve the settlement agreement. Thus, any execution of the settlement prior to the approval by the Commissioner is done at the peril of the parties.

I CONCLUDE that the proposed settlement fully disposes of all issues and controversies. I further CONCLUDE that the terms of this settlement are in the public interest.

It is therefore ORDERED that upon approval by the Commissioner that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that the proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY
	OAL Dkt. No. EDUTH 11161-99
COREY YOUNGER	Agency Ref. No. 142-5/98
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, Corey Younger has been employed as a full-time teacher of health and physical education with the Jersey City School District since September 16, 1991; and

WHEREAS, the District filed charges with the Commissioner of Education on May 18, 1998, to terminate the employment of Mr. Younger for unbecoming conduct; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to resolve the matter without further litigation and without any payment of monies by the District to Mr. Younger other than salary as required by statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, during the pendency of these proceedings through June 20, 1999; and

WHEREAS, the public interest would best be served by resolving the present controversy because of certain difficulties in proving the charges and sustaining the penalty of termination, in that: (a) it has been extremely difficult to locate a witness who was a senior at the time of the alleged incidents in April 1998 and has since graduated, thereby making it unlikely that the District could prove the allegation in paragraph 11 of the tenure charges that Mr. Younger beckoned the particular student to come to his table at a restaurant, put his tongue in her ear and made suggestive remarks to her; (b) the remaining allegations may be found to establish only passive conduct on the part of Mr. Younger, such as, a failure to stop the actions of another adult; and (c) there is no record of any discipline of any nature in Mr. Younger's history of employment with the District prior to the filing of the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, Corey Younger testified under oath before the Administrative Law Judge on June 16, 1999, that he clearly understood the terms of the settlement agreement, that he entered into the settlement agreement voluntarily, that he was advised and understood that the Commissioner of Education had to approve the settlement agreement and that he was also advised and understood that the Commissioner could refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his teaching certificate;

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties have agreed to the following terms of settlement:

1. The respondent Corey Younger resigns from employment with the Jersey City School District, effective June 30, 1999.

2. The petitioner Jersey City School District agrees to accept Mr. Younger's resignation, and agrees to withdraw the tenure charges bearing the OAL Docket Number EDUTH-05698-98 and the Agency Reference Number 142-5/98.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DR. CHARLES KASKA,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the proposed agreement as presently written, in that it fails to comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters. In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, decided by the Commissioner of Education April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983. Specifically, neither the agreement nor the underlying record indicates respondent's understanding of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for its consideration of possible action against respondent's certificate. While the Commissioner does not take issue with the parties' settlement terms, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with established standards for setting aside of tenure matters.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision recommending acceptance of the settlement agreement is reversed and this matter remanded to the OAL for revision of such agreement consistent with the requirements set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FAIR LAWN, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, the parent of a child who attended a magnet school operated by the Bergen County Technical School District, challenged the determination of the student's local district not to allow the student to apply for or receive scholarships donated to the district and administered by Fair Lawn High School.

After the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, the parties moved for summary decision. The ALJ granted summary decision in favor of the district, concluding that: 1) the case is moot because petitioner's child graduated from high school and is attending Rice University on full scholarship; 2) petitioner has no standing to prosecute the matter because petitioner's son cannot be affected by the decision in any way; and 3) the Board's policy regarding the administration of scholarships is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's grant of summary decision and dismissed the petition, concluding that, even assuming arguendo that petitioner has standing and that the case is not moot, the policy of the Board restricting the grant of scholarship funds it administers to students attending Fair Lawn High School is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

FAIR LAWN BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Record Closed: June 5, 2000 Decided: August 8 , 2000

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACTS

During the 1994-95 school year, petitioner's (S.G.) son (R.G.) applied to and was accepted by the Academy for the Advancement of Science and Technology (AAST). AAST is a magnet school run by the Bergen County Technical School District. The Fair Lawn School District paid for R.G.'s tuition, and transportation in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1.

During the 1998-99 school year, S.G. asked for scholarship applications from the Fair Lawn High School guidance office. Ms. Genny Kruiningen, the guidance office secretary responsible for the administration of scholarship applications, told S.G. that R.G. did not qualify to participate in the awards for scholarships donated to the District and administered by Fair

Lawn High School (FLHS) because nominations for scholarships were made by guidance counselors and faculty at FLHS.[i]

On April 14, 1999, S.G. wrote to the Fair Lawn Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Robert Byrne, asking for an explanation of scholarship eligibility. On May 10, 1999, Dr. Byrne responded explaining that scholarship funds are received and administered through the District's student accounts and have always been applied, as with all student funds, for the benefit of pupils enrolled in the Fair Lawn Public School District.

Respondent's decision regarding the distribution of scholarship monies was based on Board Policy #3280, Community Gifts and Student Group Purchases. The policy states, "all items of property...donated or purchased shall, upon receipt, belong to and be the property of the Fair Lawn Board of Education...", and that "upon receipt of an item of property thus donated or purchased, the Superintendent of Schools shall assign it for use..." The Fair Lawn Board of Education takes the position that it has the authority to determine, pursuant to Board Policy #3280,[ii] where donated scholarship monies are directed.

On May 17, 1999, a petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education requesting that R.G., and others similarly situated, be permitted to apply for Fair Lawn scholarships during the next available scholarship period. Petitioner requested that an additional member be added to the scholarship selection committee and also asked to have the FLHS guidance office mail the same scholarship information provided to FLHS to students attending school outside of the District.

On February 13, 2000, petitioner moved for summary decision and respondent, on February 25, 2000 cross-moved.

Presently, R.G. is a freshman on full scholarship at Rice University in Houston, Texas. R.G. received a National Merit Scholarship from AAST and an award from the Bergen Record.

---

[i] Ms. Genny Kruiningen did explain to S.G. that R.G. was eligible for scholarships determined by application to individual outside organizations, and that these applications were available to R.G. at the FLHS guidance office. Also, the FLHS principal told S.G. that she should ask the guidance officer at AAST about scholarships designated for AAST students. R.G. did apply for AAST scholarships, ultimately qualifying for and receiving awards in the amount of $690.

[ii] Board Policy #3280 has been in existence for over 30 years.

DISCUSSION

Summary Decision Standard

The New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 et seq.) provide that a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). In considering the parties' motion for summary decision, a determination whether "the papers and discovery...together with the affidavits...show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). This language is substantially similar to the standard for summary judgment found at R. 4:46-2(c);[iii] therefore, this standard may be relevant to resolving motions for summary decision.[iv]

In this regard, the New Jersey Supreme Court has stated, "[S]ince there are pronounced similarities in the exercise of judicial and quasi-judicial powers . . . court fashioned doctrines for the handling of litigation do in fact have some genuine utility and relevance in administrative proceedings." City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 29 (1980). Additionally, the Court has recognized that the OAL performs many "quasi-judicial" or "adjudicative" functions and that in doing so, "[j]udicial rules of procedure and practice are transferable to administrative agencies when these are conducive to ensuring fairness, independence, integrity, and efficiency in administrative adjudications." Matter of Tenure Hearing of Onorevole, 103 N.J. 548, 554-55 (1986).

Recently, the Supreme Court of New Jersey held that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2,

> . . . [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the

[iii] In pertinent part, R. 4:46-2(c) provides:

> The judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law. [R. 4:46-2(c)]

[iv] See 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 194, at 90 (Patricia Prunty, Anthony Miragliotta and Steven L. Lefelt) (1997 Pocket Part), where the authors stated:

> Since the UAPR on summary decision, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, closely tracks the court rules, it is anticipated that this standard will be applied by ALJ's in deciding summary decision motions.

> alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.[Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995)]

The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law". Id. at 533. See also N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). "[A]n adverse party [to a summary decision motion] in order to prevail must, by responding affidavit, set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding."

Ripeness

Under the authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner of Education is vested with the jurisdiction to "hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws..." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Implicit in this jurisdiction is the notion that a controversy or dispute must be viable or ripe before it may be heard by the Commissioner. See Bott, et. al. v. Middletown Twp. Bd. of Educ, OAL DKT. EDU 4124-81 (Oct 30, 1981), adopted Comm. Ed. (Dec. 21, 1981) (where ALJ held that matter was not ripe for adjudication when petitioners had not yet been harmed or could "predetermine" exact nature of harm flowing from board's action.) In Bott, the ALJ based this holding on the proposition that "[a] mere assertation of future harm renders the claim premature." Bott, at p.3. See also Brodie v. Saddle Brook Twp Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 694, 700, where a challenge to the Saddle Brook Township Board's decision to close a school was dismissed as not ripe since the Department of Education had not yet given final approval.

In the instant case, there is a "controversy or dispute" that is ripe for determination due to the denial of petitioner's participation in the FLHS scholarship process. However, because petitioner's case has been rendered moot, discussed infra, and there are no factual issues for dispute, summary decision for respondent's will be granted.

Arbitrary and Capricious

In general, a board of education's actions "are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. . . . Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. Montgomery Twp., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 670, 676 (citing Schnick v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. North BeR.G.en Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46(App. Div. 1962)).

The "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" standard of review imposes a heavy burden on challengers of board actions. This standard has been defined by the New Jersey courts as follows:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. . . . Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is no room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached . . . Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgement for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling.
> [Piccoli v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, OAL DKT. EDU 1839-98 (January 22, 1999) (citing, Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dept. of Envir. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).]

. . . "absent a clear showing of abuse of discretion," the Commissioner will not "substitute his own judgment for that of the Board of Education." Massaro v. Bd. of Educ of the Borough of BeR.G.enfield, 1965 S.L.D. 84, 85. In Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), the Appellate Division stated, "the well established rule that action of the local board [of education] which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently without rational basis or induced by improper motives." See also G.M. v. Roselle Park Borough Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 107, 109 (where the Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ when in a challenge to board action, the ALJ stated, "it is the management prerogative of boards of education that will not be usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taken in bad faith without a rational basis.")

As long as the record reflects a rational basis for the action, as well as an absence of bad faith, a board's action shall be upheld. See e.g. Red Bank Teachers Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of Red Bank, OAL DKT. EDU 5328-80 (April 30, 1981) adopted Comm.Ed. (June 15, 1981) (where the ALJ upheld a board's approval of a new "Mastery Learning" curriculum as a "valid exercise of managerial prerogative" that was rationally determined.); G.M., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d

(EDU) 107 (where the ALJ found the board's decision to change geographic boundaries for kindergarten pupil placement, with a goal of evenly distributing the pupils at different schools within the district, to be a reasonable exercise of authority).

Here, petitioner claims respondent's policy is discriminatory, yet all students are subject to the same policy which has been consistently applied to all out of district students over the years.[v] For over 30 years, the Board, in an effort to streamline the process of administering scholarships, has followed Board Policy #3280 in limiting scholarship donations to FLHS students only.

Petitioner relies upon G.W.S., on behalf of A.F.S. v. William Petrino, OAL DKT. EDU 9797-99 (November 29, 1999) in support of her argument. In G.W.S., A.F.S. was a minor attending a magnet vocational high school and was denied participation on the swimming team at her local district high school. The Commissioner of Education ruled that students who resided in Rahway and attended the Union County Vocational School or Magnet School were to be permitted to participate in sports and extracurricular activities at Rahway High School. However, petitioner oversimplifies the significance of G.W.S. Originally, students who resided in Rahway and attended the Union County Vocational School or its magnet school had been allowed to participate in sports or extracurricular activities at Rahway High School. The Board subsequently changed this practice, but only as to 9th grade students who attended the magnet school. The Board permitted 10th, 11th and 12th grade magnet school students to continue to participate in those activities, as well as all students who attended the Vocational School on a shared-time basis. The Rahway Board did not offer any reason for excluding the 9th grade magnet school students. The Commissioner held that on its face the exclusion appeared to be discriminatory, because no rational explanation could be offered for its creation. The Commissioner even listed some factors such as scheduling constraints, transportation costs, or logistical difficulties that the Board could have considered, but did not. Id. at 9. Yet, the Commissioner also stressed that a board is not required to take unreasonable or extraordinary steps to accommodate the participation of a county vocational school's students in the extracurricular activities at the local board's high school. Id. at 9, n.2.

[v] The Bergen County Vocational School has been in existence for nine years.

In the case sub judice, there is a sound, rational basis for the Board policy which has been applied to all Fair Lawn residents who attend high schools outside of the district. The scholarship awards at FLHS are made by the nominations of counselors and faculty who have personal knowledge of the nominees. The Awards Committee depends upon the fact that the nominations are based upon personal knowledge of the students, and utilizes this knowledge in making its final determinations. Such information could only be obtained from the nominees by the FLHS guidance counselors and faculty who work closely with these students on a day-to-day basis. If the FLHS Guidance Office and Awards Committee were required to obtain student records, details on personal characteristics and conduct of students, and any other personal information from high schools outside of the district, the process by which the awards were made would become burdensome. Nomination forms are distributed to and completed by guidance counselors and faculty based upon the eligibility requirements of each individual scholarship. The Guidance Office provides the Awards Committee with student records and pertinent data. If students from other schools were allowed to participate, all of this information would have to be requested and received, along with extensive follow-up. Additionally, data would have to be processed, as well as verified, in a way so as to allow comparison and authenticity of ranking, grades, and similar achievements between students at different schools with different grading systems. Opening the scholarship process to students outside of FLHS would create an additional administrative burden. The process is already an intricate and time-consuming task. Thus, the Fair Lawn District has demonstrated a rational basis for limiting scholarship monies to FLHS students only.

Petitioner requests that her son be permitted to apply for scholarships with the 2000-2001 pool of applicants. Notwithstanding that this issue is moot since R.G. is presently a college sophomore, see infra, this request would disrupt the nomination and awards process by taking away an award opportunity from an otherwise deserving candidate.

Petitioner also requests that an additional member be added to the scholarship selection committee to ensure no prejudice against non-FLHS students in the selection process. Not only does this request unfairly presume that the nomination process is prejudicial, it also infringes upon the Board's managerial prerogative to select the participants for its committees.

Finally, petitioner requests that the guidance office mail the same scholarship information provided to FLHS students to students outside of the District. Again, this requirement would also provide an unnecessary burden upon the FLHS administration.

Mootness

"An action is considered 'moot' when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues have become academic. A case is moot when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy." Victoria v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Woodbridge, 1982 S.L.D. 1. "[F]or reasons of judicial economy and restraint," courts will not usually hear moot cases. Anderson v. Sills, N.J. Super. 432, 437-38 (Ch. Div. 1976) (courts will not decide cases where the issue is hypothetical, where judgment cannot grant effective relief, or where parties lack concrete adversity of interests).

Likewise, the Commissioner does not consider moot issues. J.B. and P.B. v. Bd of Educ of Asbury Park, OAL DKT. EDU 7940-87 (Oct. 12, 1988), adopted Comm. Ed. (Nov. 23, 1988). See, Feldman v. Bd. of Educ. Of Lindwood, OAL DKT. EDU 1665-94 (Oct. 14, 1994), adopted Comm. Ed., where the petitioners argued that their child was deprived of the opportunity to participate in a gifted and talented program as required by N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(4), because the school district did not have an honors program for first graders. After petitioners transferred their child to a private school, the ALJ held:

> . . . the removal of A.F. from the policies and dictates of the Linwood school system destroys the concrete, immediate adversity necessary to sustain a justiciable controversy. Accordingly, I FIND that the removal of A.F. from the Linwood school system renders the matter moot and as a result, petitioner's complaint is herein dismissed.
> [Id. at 5. See also Hulej v. Keyport High School, et. al., OAL DKT EDU 0893-79 (Mar. 25, 1980), aff'd Comm. Ed. (May 12, 1980)(where petition challenging school's behavior code was dismissed for mootness when it was revealed that petitioner had removed child from school).]

In Spivak v. Bd. of Educ. of the Westwood Regional High School District, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 270, petitioners contended their daughter was improperly denied admission to respondent's sixth grade honors program. More specifically, petitioners alleged that their daughter was a "gifted and talented" child for whom special programs must be provided consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(4). However, petitioners removed their child from the school district prior to bringing their claim. The ALJ in Spivak, finding that petitioners lacked the adversity of interest necessary to sustain a justiciable controversy after the enrollment of their daughter into another school district, relied upon prior similar administrative decisions in reaching a decision:

> In Pinkham v. Bd. of the Borough of South River, 74 S.L.D. 1103, the petitioner failed a physical education course and consequently did not graduate. Petitioner sought relief seeking a diploma, alleging a school requirement that female, but not male, physical education students take written exams constituted sex discrimination. This issue was held moot because the petitioner attended summer school and received her diploma. See Polskin v. North Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 1968 S.L.D. 217, (mooted because of changed circumstances, where the conclusion of the tennis season mooted a student's challenge of his exclusion from the team); Oxfeld v. N.J. State Bd. of Ed., 68 N.J. 301 (1975) (mooted by the New Jersey Supreme Court because the students had already graduated and were not subject to the regulation). In Prout v. Erickson, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6980-80 (March 4, 1981), (the petitioner demanded that the alleged harassment of her children while in school be stopped. The matter was held moot because her children were no longer enrolled in the school.) In Hulej v. Keyport High School, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 0893-79 (March 25, 1980), a (petition challenging respondent's "student behavior code" was dismissed for mootness when it was revealed at the hearing that petitioner removed her son from the public high school). [Spivak v. Bd. of Educ. of the Westwood Regional High School District, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d at 272.]

In the present matter, the relief requested is no longer available because petitioner's son has graduated from high school and attends Rice University on a full scholarship.

Standing

Standing is a jurisdictional concept that means a particular litigant has a sufficient interest in the subject matter of the litigation that a genuine clash between opposing viewpoints will be presented. Kenwood v. Montclair Board of Education, OAL DKT. EDU 8858-81, p. 2 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r (June 14, 1992), aff'd, St. Bd. (September 8, 1982). Generally, two prerequisites must be present to establish standing: First, petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings; and, second, his or her position must be truly adverse to the opposing party. Home Builders League of So. Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 132 (1979). The first requirement has often been described in terms of "substantial likelihood of harm" to the complainant if the requested relief is not granted. In a case of great public interest, "any slight additional private interest" will be sufficient to afford standing. Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1980). However, some courts still continue to look for some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights. D.K. v. Clifton Board of Education, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 71, 73. Therefore, in spite of petitioner's attempt to seek relief for other students who attend high school outside of the District, petitioner must also continue to demonstrate a detrimental impact on her own son.

In Lobis v. Bd. of Ed of Maple Shade, OAL DKT EDU 3630-79 (June 11, 1980), adopted, Comm'r (August 11, 1980), aff'd St. Bd. (November 5, 1980), petitioner filed a petition alleging, inter alia, that respondent was not providing equal educational opportunities under the Public School Education Act of 1975. At the prehearing conference it came to light that petitioner no longer resided in the Township of Maple Shade and that his son attended school in another school district. Id. at 2. The ALJ held that the petitioner did not meet the definition of "interested person" as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 "since he has not shown a direct and substantial interest in the subject matter nor has he shown that his right or status will be affected by a determination in the matter." Id. at 3 See also D.K. v. Bd. of Ed. Of Clifton, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 71 (parent had no standing to appeal the school discipline of someone else's child); Delaney v. Bd of Ed of Woodbridge, OAL DKT. EDU 382-78 (December 12, 1979) adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 1980) (suit by resident and taxpayer challenging board's appointments was rejected since the petitioner was neither a candidate for appointment nor a representative of the candidates); Riccardelli v. Bd. of Ed. of Newark, OAL DKT. EDU 1904-79 (September 26, 1979), adopted, Comm'r (November 16, 1979) (taxpayer and resident of the school district does not have standing to challenge the legality of a decision by the board to transfer personnel).

In the present matter, the determination of the issues presented will not affect the petitioner in any way. He is now a sophomore in college and no longer eligible to participate in the FLHS scholarship process. Furthermore, notwithstanding the failure to have shown evidence that other students have suffered an adverse impact from Board policy, petitioner does not have standing to voice the complaints of other students.

CONCLUSION

Respondent's policy regarding the administration of scholarships is not arbitrary, unreasonable, or capricious. Even if petitioner was able to prove otherwise the matter is moot and the petitioner lacks standing. Since there are no genuine issues of material fact in dispute, respondent is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Accordingly, respondent's motion for summary decision is granted, and petitioner's motion for summary decision is denied. Petitioner's case is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FAIR LAWN, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In her exceptions, petitioner disagrees with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion: 1) that the Board's denial of eligibility for magnet school students' participation in scholarship programs which it administers is not arbitrary and capricious; 2) that the within matter is moot; and 3) that petitioner lacks standing to pursue this case. In so doing, petitioner essentially recasts and reiterates her arguments advanced below.

In reply, the Board recapitulates its position on each of these issues plead before the ALJ and urges that the Initial Decision be affirmed without modification.

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision since, even assuming, arguendo, that petitioner has standing and that this matter is not moot, he agrees with the ALJ that the Board's restriction of its scholarship funds to students attending Fair Lawn High School is not arbitrary, capricious or unlawful for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision.

Accordingly, the recommended Initial Decision is affirmed. Summary decision is hereby granted to the Board[1] and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

State-Operated School District for the City of Newark,

Respondent.

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("Newark" or "District") and Manibhai Patel ("Petitioner" or "Patel") agree to the following terms in full resolution of this matter:

On or about August 9, 1999, Petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal ("Verified Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the DOE's determinations with respect to Petitioner's requests for supplemental funding for the 1999-2000 school year under the Abbott v. Burke decisions and DOE regulations. The Verified Petition was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law.

2. The parties subsequently entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest.

the DOE agreed that the Petitioner needed $2,058,000 in additional funds for the 1999-2000 school year.

4. The DOE's determinations with respect to Petitioner's supplemental funding for the 1999-2000 school year were memorialized in a letter dated September 22, 1999, from Assistant Commissioners Mike Azzara and Barbara Anderson, to Dr. Antonio Lewis, Interim Superintendent of Schools, Asbury Park Board of Education.

5. On May 19, 2000, the DOE awarded certain supplemental funding to Petitioner for the 2000-2001 school year. 6. The FY 2001 Appropriations Act, A 1001 and S 2001, P.L. 2000, c. 52, includes an appropriation to the Asbury Park School District in the amount of $2,058,000 in State supplemental aid for the 1999-2000 school year.

7. On or about July 14, 2000, the $2,058,000 in supplemental funding for the 1999-2000 school year was transmitted to the Petitioner in accordance with the DOE's representations in the September 22, 1999, letter.

8. The Petitioner agrees to dismissal with prejudice of the Verified Petition of Appeal by the Office pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

9. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner asserted tenure and seniority entitlement to a supervisory position and sought reinstatement to tenured vice principal position with back pay. The District contended that although petitioner was tenured as a teacher, she was not tenured as a vice principal or supervisor. The District challenged petitioner's assertion that under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, a central office employee hired in a position subsequent to a reorganization immediately acquires tenure in that position regardless of whether he or she served in that position previously.

The ALJ concluded that while petitioner would not be entitled to tenure as a vice principal under the transfer provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, these provisions were superseded by the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 which states that individuals hired after the State takeover will be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. As such, petitioner was hired with tenure when she was appointed to the position of vice principal after the State takeover. Thus, petitioner could only be removed from this position or reduced in compensation pursuant to the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. The ALJ determined that these provisions were not followed when petitioner was demoted from vice principal and, as a result, petitioner's tenure rights were violated. The ALJ ordered reinstatement of petitioner to the position of vice principal and awarded her back pay to cover the difference in petitioner's salary as vice principal and what she received as a classroom teacher since the date of her demotion.

The Commissioner rejected the ALJ's recommended decision and remedy in this matter. The Commissioner found that this matter presented for the first time the circumstance wherein a central office administrative/supervisory employee, whose position was abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, was not, upon reorganization, either terminated or returned to an "other than central office" position to which he or she was entitled by virtue of tenure and/or seniority rights, but rather, was placed in a school-based administrative position in which the individual had not previously attained tenure. The Commissioner determined that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 solely address central office administrative and supervisory positions and the reorganization of the central office and do not apply to the hiring of staff to the non-central office administrative or supervisory positions. The Commissioner found that petitioner herein, whose central office supervisory position was abolished, was not hired by the State superintendent, upon reorganization of the State-operated District, to fill a central office administrative or supervisory position. Thus, the Commissioner determined that the disputed wording of the statute herein did not, as concluded by the ALJ, bestow tenure on petitioner upon her hiring to fill the school-based position of vice principal, a position in which she never served and in which she never acquired tenure by operation of either N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or 6. The Commissioner noted that a vice principal position is, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, separately tenurable from that of supervisor; it requires an endorsement different from that of supervisor; and it constitutes a school-based rather than a central office position. Petition was dismissed.

Kelly A. Guariglia, Esq., for respondent
(Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 6, 2000 Decided: August 16, 2000

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

BACKGROUND

Nancy J. DiComo, an employee of the Newark Board of Education alleges she is entitled to be a tenured vice principal, the State Operated School District of Newark contends that though she is tenured as a teacher, she is not tenured as a vice principal or supervisor. All necessary facts for a summary decision were stipulated.

JOINT STIPULATION OF FACTS

1. Nancy J. DiComo (hereinafter DiComo) was hired as an elementary school teacher in the Newark School District (hereinafter District) in September 1964.

2. DiComo possesses the following endorsements Elementary (Teacher of Reading), Principal, Principal/Supervisor, Reading Specialist, and Learning Disability Teacher Consultant. She has a B.A. from Caldwell College, an M.A. from Newark State (now Kean University) in Reading and an M.A. from Montclair State University in Learning Disabilities.

3. From 1964 through June 1972, DiComo taught elementary school.

4. From 1972 through June 1979, DiComo was a Remedial Reading Resource Teacher.

5. For the school years 1980 to 1982, DiComo was the Central Office Supervisor of Reading. At that time, she no longer was school-based, but worked out of central administration at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey.

6. For the school years 1982-84, DiComo worked in the Central Office, but her title was changed to Supervisory Monitor.

7. For the school years 1984 to 1996, DiComo worked in the Central Office. Her title was Central Office Supervisor of Special Projects with K-12 responsibility.

8. For DiComo's first 15 years in the district, she was building based. For the next 17 years, she was assigned to the central office. There are no unsatisfactory evaluations of Ms. DiComo's performance from her initial employment until the State takeover.

9. When the State took over the Newark School district, a re-organization occurred. DiComo was appointed Vice Principal at Dr. William Horton School, where she worked from September 1996 until May 1997, at which time she was requested to fill in for a Vice Principal at Rafael Hernandez Elementary School.

10. For the months of May and June 1997, DiComo served as Vice-Principal under Michael Schiavo as Acting Principal.

11. In September 1997, DiComo remained at Rafael Hernandez School as Vice Principal. Her new Principal was Mrs. Vivette Peacock.

12. On February 20, 1998, DiComo received formal written notification that she was appointed as Vice Principal of Rafael Hernandez School.

13. On April 27, 1998, DiComo received a "Mid-Year Review."

14. By letter dated May 11, 1998, DiComo was advised that she would not be renewed as Vice Principal for the 1998-99 school year.

15. By letter dated June 4, 1998, DiComo was advised by the State District Superintendent, Beverly L. Hall, that as a "tenured supervisor, you will return to a supervisor position."

16. By letter dated July 8, 1998, the State District Assistant Superintendent, Randall N. Kanter, asserted that as a result of the abolishment of the supervisor's position due to the district reorganization, DiComo had tenure rights to a teacher's position. The letter specifically stated that it was to serve as a correction to the June 4, 1998 letter of Dr. Hall.

17. Both DiComo and her attorney wrote the Assistant Superintendent protesting her reassignment. Mr. Kanter forwarded a response to Mr. Oxfeld on or about July 28, 1998.

18. The instant Petition of Appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education on or about November 18, 1998.

19. For the 1998-99 school year DiComo was assigned as an elementary school teacher at the Luiz Munoz Marin Middle School.

20. Exhibit A attached hereto contains all documents referenced in the joint stipulation of facts.
21. Exhibit B attached hereto contains documents which the Board of Education contends are relevant and which DiComo acknowledges are authentic.
22. Exhibit C attached hereto contains documents which DiComo contends are relevant and which the Board of Education acknowledges are authentic.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND DISPUTED FACTS

On November 18, 1998, a petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education. The seventh paragraph of this petition alleged that individuals with less seniority than petitioner had been hired as Supervisors or other equivalent positions. The tenth paragraph alleged that by employing someone other than petitioner as a Supervisor after September 1, 1998, the Board of Education violated school laws.

This petition asked the Commissioner of Education to enter an order directing that petitioner be reinstated to her position as a Supervisor in the Newark School District with full back pay.

On December 9, 1998, the State-Operated School District of Newark filed an answer to the petition. The District denied the allegations and requested that the petition be dismissed. Four defenses were asserted: 1) the Petition is barred by the Statute of Limitations, 2) the Petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, 3) petitioner was appropriately assigned in accordance with her tenure and seniority rights and 4) all actions taken by respondent were based upon legitimate educational reasons.

On December 30, 1998, this matter was transmitted to the OAL as a contested case. Stipulated facts were subsequently filed, followed by motions for summary decision by both sides.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Standard for Summary Decision

> When considering a motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether pleadings, the answers to interrogatories, and affidavits demonstrate that no genuine issue of material fact exists, and that the moving party is entitled to > an order as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b); *R.*4:46-2. "It is the movant's burden to exclude reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact." Judson Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

In order for the non-movant to prevail, a responding affidavit must be offered setting forth specific facts which indicate that there is a genuine issue that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Should the non-moving party fail to respond, however, an absence of material factual dispute may be presumed and the movant will prevail if the law supports the movant's position. 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 194 at 202 (Lefelt) (1988). The relevant inquiry regarding a motion for summary decision is "whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

Tenure Law

Tenure of educational personnel is authorized by the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to 18. It is a status in a particular position created by statute, not the agreement of the parties, Zimmerman v. Board of Education, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), cert. denied 371 U.S. 956 (1963), and serves to provide a measure of security to teachers and other school employees who faithfully serve for the requisite period. Barnes v. Bd. of Ed. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964), certif. denied, 43 N.J. 450 (1964). A regularly employed educator in a public school must normally hold "...a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction or educational guidance of ...pupils in such public schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. He or she may hold any or all of three possible certificates: instructional, administrative and educational services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. There can be "special endorsements" under each of these certificates, which identify subjects or assignments. Ibid. There are four separate endorsements under an administrative certificate: 1) school administrator; 2) principal; 3) supervisor and 4) school business administrator. N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3.

Tenure is not transferable across separately tenurable administrative positions. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 states in relevant part:

> For purposes of this chapter, tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position. Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position and nothing herein shall limit or restrict tenure rights which were or may be acquired pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 in a position which the individual actually served.[N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5].

It has been uniformly recognized by both the State Board of Education and the Commissioner that the positions specifically enumerated under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are separately tenurable and not transferable across certificates. Nelson v. Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358, 365 (1997). See also, Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ., 255 N.J. Super. 76, 92 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd. 131 N.J. 572 (1993) (agreeing that "Assistant Superintendent" is separately tenurable). The Nelson Court reiterated the State Board's responsibility for and weighty authority over tenure matters because of the complexity and specialized nature of the subject of teacher tenure. Nelson, supra, 148 N.J. at 364.

Not only is tenure not transferable between certificates, it is also not transferable between endorsements for separately tenurable positions within a single certificate. Id. at 367-68. An administrative certificate can have any of four separate endorsements and there are nine different positions available under the four separate endorsements: principal, assistant principal, vice principal, supervisor of instruction, superintendent, assistant superintendent, finance manager, director and superintendent of curriculum. N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3. If tenure were transferable, a tenured finance manager, regardless of experience, would be transferable to a position of principal. Each of these positions, however, requires actual experience in the position before tenure can be achieved in the position. Thus, tenure accrues only as a result of actual work experience in the positions specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, including all positions which require appropriate certificates and endorsements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 addresses the accrual of tenure when a teaching staff member is transferred or promoted to another position. Under this statute, a tenured teacher staff member who is transferred earns tenure in the new position on expiration of a period of employment for either two consecutive calendar years or two academic years in the new position, along with employment at the beginning of the next calendar or academic year. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.

Effect of State-Takeover of Public Schools on Tenure Rights

Tenure law is subject to statutorily imposed limitations and restrictions. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 requires the abolishment of all positions of central administrative and supervisory staff upon the reorganization of a state-operated school district and its provisions expressly supercede all other laws. For the purposes of the present case, the relevant part of this statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c), which provides that:

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of central administrative and supervisory staff, instructional and non-instructional, other than those positions abolished pursuant to subsection a. of this section, shall be abolished upon the reorganization of the State-Operated school district's staff. The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff. These individuals shall be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. If they did not have tenure in their prior position, they may obtain tenure pursuant to the provisions of *N.J.S.*18A:28-6. Individuals hired as State assistant superintendents shall not be hired with tenure and shall not acquire tenure. Employees or officers not hired for the reorganized staff shall be given 60 days' notice of termination or 60 days pays. The notice of payment shall be in lieu of any other claim or recourse against employing board or the school district based on law or contract. Notwithstanding this limitation, nothing herein shall preclude an individual from asserting upon separation from service any legal contractual right to health care coverage, annuities, accrued vacation days, accrued sick leave, insurance and approved tuition costs. Any employee whose position is abolished by the operation of this subsection shall be entitled to assert a claim to any position or to placement upon a preferred eligibility list for any position to which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. No employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished herein. [N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c)].

Respondent's Arguments in Support of Motion for Summary Decision[i]

In arguing in support of its motion for summary decision, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("respondent") does not define the applicable standard for such a motion. Respondent asserts that there are no factual issues in the dispute here and that Nancy DiComo ("petitioner") is not entitled to a supervisory position within the District.

[i] Rb refers to respondent's brief

Respondent first analyzes the impact of the reorganization of a state-operated school district on the tenure rights of teachers. Citing Van Dyke v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 43, respondent states that the only "bumping rights" retained by central office supervisors whose positions were abolished after a state takeover related to non-supervisory positions to which their tenure or seniority entitled them. (Rb4). Respondent further argues that both the public interest and sound pedagogy must also be considered in determining whether tenure achieved through service in one supervisory position entitles an employee to tenure in another supervisory position. (Rb5).

In applying the tenure laws to the present case, respondent argues that petitioner, who achieved tenure in the Central Office position of Supervisor, was transferred in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 upon the reorganization of the District. Respondent contends that petitioner does not retain any claim to tenure or seniority in her abolished positions nor does she hold a preferment to other supervisory positions in the District. (Rb5). Respondent asserts that petitioner's claim for a supervisory position within the District must fail because she only held tenure in a teaching position within the District and "was thus entitled to placement as a teacher within the District." (Rb5).

Petitioner's Arguments in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision[ii]

Petitioner after reviewing the impact of the state takeover statute on the tenure rights of teachers, concedes that her 1996 transfer from central administration to the position of vice principal was done in conformity with the State takeover statute.

Petitioner argues, however, that the following three sentences of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) are controlling with regard to her tenure claim:

> The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individuals and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff. These individuals shall be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. If they did not have tenure in their prior position, they may obtain tenure pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. [Pb4].

[ii] Pb refers to petitioner's brief

According to petitioner's interpretation of this language, if she had tenure in a prior position, then she was entitled to tenure when she was transferred to the position of vice principal. Petitioner points out that she had acquired tenure in her position of Central Office Supervisor/ Special Projects at the time of her appointment to the position of vice-principal. Petitioner's thus concludes that, "With her hire into the position of Vice Principal, since the statute specifically states that individuals such as Ms. DiComo shall be hired with tenure, she was, by operation of law, a tenured Vice Principal". (Pb6).

Petitioner also argues that the May 11, 1998 letter advising her that she would not be renewed as a vice principal was ultra vires because, as a tenured employee, petitioner could only be removed from her tenured position as a vice principal pursuant to the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. (Pb7). Petitioner notes that none of the requirements of the Tenure Hearing Law have been met, such as a due process hearing, a statement of charges and a determination made by the Commissioner of Education that just cause existed to remove her from her position. (Pb7).

In arguing for her restoration to the position of vice principal, petitioner notes that Yvette Peacock, the principal who recommended that she not be renewed to the position of vice principal, was herself not renewed, and for the third time in as many districts was found to be unsatisfactory as a principal. (Pb8). This was, however, not a stipulated fact.

Petitioner seeks to be returned to her position as a tenured vice principal, along with all back pay retroactive to September 1, 1998, i.e. the difference in salary between her vice principal salary and what she actually received as a classroom teacher since the date of her demotion. (Pb9).

Respondent's Reply Brief[iii]

As a preliminary point in its reply brief, respondent points out that in her original petition, petitioner limited herself to requesting an order reinstating her to a position of supervisor. In her brief,

[iii] Rrb refers to respondent's reply brief

however, petitioner now argues that she was entitled to a vice principal's position within the District. Respondent argues that she is entitled to neither position.

Respondent challenges petitioner's assertion that under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, a central office employee hired in a position subsequent to a reorganization immediately acquires tenure in that position regardless of whether he or she served in that position previously. (Rrb2-3). Respondent argues that such an interpretation directly contradicts the established law of tenure accrual. Rather, respondent contends, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 must be read in pari materia with the tenure statutes, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 6, both of which assert that tenure is acquired in a statutorily enumerated position only if an employee has served the requisite period of time in that position. (Rrb3).

Respondent also quotes the New Jersey Supreme Court in Nelson v. Board of Education of the Township of Oldbridge, 148 N.J. 358 (1997), in which the Court asserted that it would reflect educationally unsound policy to permit the award of a position to a tenured staff member with no service in that position. (Rrb3). Respondent points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 addresses transfer in tenure cases and states that "a tenured teaching staff member who is transferred earns tenure in the new position on expiration of a period of employment for either two consecutive calendar years or two academic years in the new position, along with employment at the beginning of the next calendar or academic year". (Rrb4, quoting N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5).

Respondent further argues that petitioner's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 is inappropriate because it yields a meaning contrary to legislative intent. Under respondent's reading of the statute, even a tenured employee must serve in a new tenurable position for the statutorily mandated period of time prior to accrual of tenure in the individual's new position. (Rrb4). Since petitioner did not meet the requisite service as vice principal, respondent argues she is not tenured in that position.

Finally, respondent describes the second part of petitioner's brief, in which she discusses the unsatisfactory performance of petitioner's principal along with a series of other complaints not included in the original petition, as being "irrelevant to the Court's determination of the Motions for Summary Judgment". (Rrb5).

Petitioner's Reply Brief[iv]

Petitioner argues that the cases cited by respondent do not actually support its argument. First, petitioner points out that while respondent relies on the decision in Van Dyke v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 43, the substantive issue in that case, according to petitioner, was whether employees retained any tenure rights in positions abolished pursuant to a state takeover. (Prb2). Petitioner concedes that she had no tenured rights to her central office administration position but argues that her case is distinguishable from Van Dyke because she was appointed to the position of vice principal after the reorganization and thus acquired tenure rights in that position.[v] (Prb2).

Petitioner also challenges respondent's reliance on Nelson v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358 (1997). This case was litigated by petitioner's law firm and petitioner maintains that a full review of the decision reveals that the school takeover statute is not implicated anywhere in that decision. (Prb3).

Petitioner concedes once again that she retained no tenure rights relating to her central office position. She maintains, however, that once the School District, in the exercise of its discretion, appointed petitioner to the position of vice principal, she acquired tenure in that position from the first day she worked there under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44. (Prb4). As a result, according to petitioner, she did not have to obtain tenure through the route of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

[iv] Prb refers to petitioner's reply brief

[v] Respondent also relies on the decision in Leong, et. al v. State Operated School District of the City of Newark, EDU 10921-96, Initial Decision, (April 27, 1999) adopted, Comm'r. (June 14, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html. Petitioner asserts that as the decision in this case was premised on the Van Dyke decision, petitioner's reliance on the case is similarly misplaced. (Prb3-4).

Analysis:

The issue in the present case appears to be one of first impression. Respondent argues that the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education have twice previously interpreted and applied N.J.S.A 18A:7A-44(c) in contexts identical to that of petitioner's but a review of those cases reveals that both are distinguishable.

The first case cited by respondent is Van Dyke v. State-Operated School District of the City of New Jersey, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 43. The petitioners in Van Dyke held supervisory positions with the Jersey City School District which were abolished under a reorganization of the District's central administrative and supervisory staff, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c). The petitioners filed an appeal when they were transferred to their prior tenured positions instead of being offered supervisory positions. In deciding this appeal, ALJ Ospenson interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) to mean that the petitioners were not entitled to claim "tenure or seniority rights (1) to their former abolished supervisory positions or (2) to preferment in supervisory positions not abolished or (3) in supervisory positions to which present incumbents have been rehired by the district superintendent under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c)." Id. at 45. The Commissioner of Education adopted the ALJ's decision, reiterating the finding that the petitioners retained no tenure or seniority rights to a supervisor position. Id. at 46.

Transferability of tenure between positions was thus the issue in Van Dyke. A similar issue was involved in Leong, et. al v. State Operated School District of the City of Newark, EDU 10921-96, Initial Decision, (April 27, 1999) adopted, Comm'r. (June 14, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Here, the petitioners were central office supervisors whose positions were abolished after a State takeover of the Newark School District. The petitioners argued that while displaced central administrative and supervisory personnel had no rights to their former supervisory positions they did have rights to other supervisory positions in the district. ALJ Reiner rejected the petitioners' claim and reiterated the same principles espoused in Van Dyke, that when a central office supervisory position is abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, all tenure and seniority rights to and originating from that position are also abolished.

In the present case, by contrast, petitioner is not relying on the tenure she had in the supervisory position that was abolished. Instead, petitioner argues that under the plain meaning of the statute, she is entitled to tenure in the position of vice principal because she was appointed to the position after the state takeover of the district.

The facts of the case and the relevant statutory language support this proposition. The stipulations of facts indicate that petitioner had tenure in her prior supervisory position. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 required the abolition of this position upon the takeover of the district by the State. The stipulations of facts also indicate that petitioner was appointed to the position of vice principal after the state takeover. While petitioner would not be entitled to tenure as a vice principal under the transfer provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, these provisions are superceded by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A:44(c). This set of facts appears to fit squarely within that component of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) which states that individuals hired after the state takeover will be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. Respondent's argument that the transfer provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 are controlling here is without merit as N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) expressly states that those provisions only apply if the individual did not have been tenure in his or her prior position. In the present case, respondent had tenure in her prior supervisory position.

When statutory language is "plain, unambiguous and uncontrolled by other parts of the act or other acts upon the same subject," the statute should be construed and applied as enacted. In re Jamesburg High Schl. Closing, 83 N.J. 540, 547-48 (1980). The plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) governs this case and, as a result, petitioner appears to be entitled to tenure as a vice principal.

Respondent implies that because petitioner did not argue that she was entitled to the position of vice principal in her original petition, she is barred from raising the issue now. While it might have been preferable for petitioner to formally amend her pleadings to include a claim of entitlement to the position of vice principal, there is no such requirement under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules. In administrative law, generally, pleadings may be freely amended since detailed pleading, sometimes necessary in courts, is not usually required in contested cases. 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 134 at 157 (Lefelt 1988).

Under the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c), petitioner appears to be entitled to tenure as a vice principal.

Remedies

As a tenured employee, petitioner could have only been removed from her position pursuant to the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. This law provides that any board of education wishing to dismiss or reduce in compensation a tenured employee must file written charges with the secretary of the board and a sworn statement of evidence supporting the tenure charges must be presented to the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. If the Board decides that certification of a tenure charge to the Commissioner is warranted, the board may suspend the teacher with or without pay. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. The Commissioner would then receive the charges to determine if they are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. The Commissioner will then dismiss the charges or conduct a hearing after his examination of the charges. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

As none of these procedures were followed, petitioner's rights as a tenured educator were violated. The proper remedy for such a violation is reinstatement to the proper position and the awarding of back pay. See Sparacio v. New Jersey Department of Corrections, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 364, 366 (ordering the restoration of a tenured educator to his former position as an Assistant Supervisor of Education together with back pay upon a finding that his seniority rights had been violated). In the present case, the back pay due amounts to the difference in petitioner's salary as vice principal and what she received as a classroom teacher since the date of her demotion.

CONCLUSION

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, petitioner was hired with tenure when she was appointed to the position of vice principal after the state takeover. As a tenured educator, petitioner could only be removed from this position or reduced in compensation pursuant to the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. These provisions were not followed when petitioner was demoted from vice principal to teacher. As a result, petitioner's tenure rights were violated. The proper remedy for this violation is the reinstatement of petitioner to the position of vice principal and the awarding of back pay to cover the difference in petitioner's salary as vice principal and what she received as a classroom teacher since the date of her demotion. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." NANCY J. DI COMO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's (District) exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Initially, the District's exceptions reiterate petitioner's employment history, noting that for employment years 16-36, she served as a central office staff administrator, and that her tenure as a central office Supervisor of Special Projects K-12 is not at issue in this matter. The exceptions next address the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 and the legal conclusions reached by the ALJ with respect to this statute under the facts of this matter. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 reads in pertinent part:

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of the central administrative and supervisory staff, instructional and noninstructional, other than those positions abolished pursuant to subsection a. of this section [the positions of the district's chief school administrator and those executive administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance, and personnel] shall be abolished upon the reorganization of the State-operated school district's staff. The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so > abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff. These individuals shall be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. If they did not have tenure in their prior position, they may obtain tenure pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:28-6.Any employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall be entitled to assert a claim to any position or to placement upon a preferred eligibility list for any position to which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. No employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished herein.

The District avers that, in accordance with the above statutory provisions, petitioner's tenure in her central administrative supervisory position was abolished and she retained no tenure or seniority rights to any administrative/supervisory positions. See Van Dyke, supra, in which it was determined that former district supervisors whose positions were abolished under reorganization did not retain a right to tenure and seniority in supervisory positions, and that their bumping rights extended only to non-supervisory positions to which they were entitled based upon their tenure and seniority.[1]

It is the District's contention that when the State took over the District and petitioner was appointed to a building position as vice principal, no tenure rights accrued to that position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 because the statute requires an employment period of more than two academic years and the beginning of the next succeeding academic year -- a period of service petitioner did not attain. As such, the District argues that petitioner is wrong in her legal argument with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, i.e., "that if she 'had tenure in a prior position, she was transferred to the position of vice-principal with tenure.'" (District's Exceptions at 4, quoting Petitioner's Post-hearing Brief) As to this claim, the District emphasizes that it was asserted for the first time by petitioner in her brief submitted to the OAL dated January 5, 2000, and the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erroneously accepted it when determining that petitioner achieved tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 on her first day of employment as a vice principal. With respect to this, the District argues:

[1] As indicated at page 10 of the Initial Decision, petitioner argues that her claim is distinguishable from those in Van Dyke because she was appointed to the position of vice principal after reorganization and thus acquired tenure rights in that position.

> The State of New Jersey Department of Education presently recognizes four (4) separate endorsements for holders of administrative certificates. These distinctions are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3, which establish separate credentials for school administrator, principal, supervisor and school business administrator. As such, distinctions between school building administrators and central staff administrators are established. While Petitioner held the credentials for service as both central administration staff and as a school based principal or vice-principal, she never served in any school based category. To grant Petitioner automatic tenure on the first day of appointment contravenes other provisions of law which require her to serve the required two years and a day in that position.  The "Take Over" statute expressly requires tenure provisions to be governed by those provisions set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or 6, which make a distinction between tenure within the District, and tenure within a job title. Indeed, the statute itself [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5] expressly established that "tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position." Consequently, while Petitioner may hold tenure within the District as an appropriately credentialed instructional employee, she failed to hold tenure within the vice principal position to which she was transferred, and indeed, had never served a day in any school based administrative assignment. (District's Exceptions at 6-7)

The District also argues that the legislative history of the takeover statutes demonstrates that the Legislature intended central administrative staff not rehired in the central office to return to those former school based positions to which they have existing tenure and seniority rights, and that res judicata requires a determination that petitioner was not entitled to school-based administrative/supervisory position when her central administrative position was abolished. As to this, the District contends that the ALJ's determination of automatic tenure as a vice principal runs counter to long-standing tenure laws within the State of New Jersey which establish that, for any and all transfer positions, employees must serve the requisite statutory period under the new endorsement before tenure in that position can accrue and that tenure as a vice principal may not be achieved without actual service as a vice principal for the statutory time period. Thus, the District avers, "petitioner cannot attain through Reorganization of a district taken over by the State more than she could attain through any tenure statute." (Id. at 13) As to the res judicata argument, the District avers that petitioner's situation is not unique and is similar to the petitioners in Leong, supra, wherein it was determined that when a central office supervisory position is abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, all tenure and seniority rights to, and originating from, that position are abolished and petitioners retained only tenure and seniority rights which were attained in connection with their former central office supervisory positions.[2] More specifically, the District argues with respect to this point that:

> Having the same fact pattern, and having determined that Petitioner did not statutorily earn tenure as a vice-principal, the holding must be identical. Petitioner is not entitled to enhanced tenure protections. Petitioner was properly bumped to her tenured teaching position. Although the ALJ incorrectly applied the statutory formula for the calculation of tenure in an administrative position, his opinion is not based upon whether Petitioner had tenure rights that were transferable by endorsement, by "tacking" or any other legally recognized method, but rather that Petitioner earned tenure as a school based vice principal after one day of service. Clearly this determination exceeds any protection afforded by the legislature.
> The ALJ erred in his determination that Nelson v. Old Bridge, supra, is not applicable in the case at bar. [Initial Decision] at 10. While the parties acknowledge that Nelson established that tenure accrued only as a result of actual work experience in separately tenurable positions specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, [2] At page 14 of its Exceptions, the District maintains, inter alia, that what distinguishes petitioner from those in Leong, supra, is the fact that Di Como was offered a school-based vice principal position within the District, which was not based upon tenure and seniority rights; thus, petitioner's bumping rights were only implicated when she was not renewed in the vice principal position.

> the ALJ ignores the fact that Petitioner failed to earn tenure in a separately tenurable vice principal position, and could not "tack" experience from her prior position. Petitioner['s] allegation that "she acquired tenure in that position from the first day she worked as (a vice-principal) under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 has no legal or factual merit. Moreover, petitioner offered no factual or legal substantiation for her claim of exemption under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Moreover, the ALJ specifically referenced that Petitioner "conceded once again that she retained no tenure rights relating to her central office position." [Initial Decision] at 10. Prior case law demands that the ALJ's decision be overturned and that the Commissioner recognize that Petitioner's tenure and seniority rights were properly applied by the District. (Id. at 16-17)

Upon review of the record and the Initial Decision, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's legal conclusions and recommended remedy in this matter for the reasons set forth below. Initially, the Commissioner would point out that the ALJ is correct when he states at page 11 of the Initial Decision that this matter appears to be a case of first impression. Contrary to the District's assertion that petitioner's situation is not "unique" and that it is similar to the petitioners in Leong, supra, this matter does present for the first time in a contested case the circumstance wherein a central office administrative/supervisory employee, whose position was abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, was not, upon reorganization, either terminated or returned to an "other than central office" position to which he or she was entitled by virtue of tenure and/or seniority rights, but rather, is placed in a school-based administrative position in which the individual has not previously attained tenure. Hence, this particular circumstance is a critical factor which distinguishes the instant matter substantively from prior matters cited by the District.

Having thoroughly considered the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 in dispute herein, the Commissioner does not agree with the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner attained automatic tenure as vice principal when, upon reorganization of the State-operated District's central office, she was hired in that position in the Dr. William Horton School.

In the Commissioner's judgment, the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 solely address central office administrative and supervisory positions and the reorganization of the central office: Section a. deals with the abolishment of the chief school administrative position and executive administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance and personnel, each of which is a central office position; Section b. mandates that the State district superintendent prepare, within one year of takeover, a reorganization of the district's central office administrative and supervisory positions; and Section c. deals with the abolishment of all central office administrative and supervisory positions other than those set forth in Section a., which, unlike Section a., authorizes the State district superintendent to hire an individual who held an abolished position to fill an administrative/supervisory position in the reorganized central office, if so determined by the State district superintendent upon evaluation of the individual and staffing needs. Further, the Commissioner concludes that Section c., the specific portion of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 under dispute herein, refers solely to the hiring of such individuals to fill central office administrative/supervisory staff in the newly reorganized central office and does not apply to the hiring of such staff to non-central office administrative or supervisory positions.

In the instant matter, petitioner, whose central office supervisory position was abolished, was not hired by the State superintendent, upon reorganization of the State-operated District, to fill a central office administrative or supervisory position. Consequently, the Commissioner determines that the disputed wording of the statute herein did not, as concluded by the ALJ, bestow tenure on petitioner upon her hiring to fill the school-based position of vice principal, a position in which she never served and in which she never acquired tenure by operation of either N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or 6. In so holding, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the District that a vice principal position is, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, separately tenurable from that of supervisor; it requires an endorsement different from that of supervisor; and it constitutes a school-based rather than a central office position. Under applicable statutes and decisional law, tenure accruing to a vice principal position cannot be achieved without actual service in the position for the requisite statutory length of time. Nelson, supra. Further, as argued by the District, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner cannot attain, through the reorganization of a state-operated district, tenure status in a school-based administrative position.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is rejected and petitioner's motion for summary judgment denied and for reasons expressed herein, the petition is hereby dismissed.

1. This Agreement is being entered into between the Elizabeth Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") and Eileen Rucki (hereinafter "Rucki") to resolve all the litigation pending between them before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 25-1/97 and OAL Docket No. EDUO 3170-97, as well as any litigation that could have been brought. The parties express their intent to enter into this Agreement to amicably resolve all disputes between them and to avoid the cost and time of continued litigation on the matters between them.

2. The Board agrees to place six (6) sick days in the sick bank of Eileen Rucki upon the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. The Board agrees to settle this matter in the best interests of the district. 3. Neither party makes any admissions in the settlement of this case.

4. Rucki acknowledges that this Agreement is in settlement of disputed issues of fact and law, that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with her legal counsel prior to entering into it and that she has availed herself of this right, that she has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that she is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

5. In consideration of this Agreement, Rucki irrevocably and unconditionally releases the Board and any employee and/or official of the Board, from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, causes of action, rights, costs, losses, debts and expenses of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Rucki, her heirs, executors, administrators, successor and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have (either directly, indirectly, derivatively or in any other representative capacity) by reason of any matter, fact or cause whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this Agreement, including without limitation, all claims arising under this Agreement and any past Agreement entered into between Rucki and the Board. This Agreement does not impact a presently pending workers' compensation act between the parties.

6. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement among the parties hereto. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements and understandings concerning the subject matter hereof, and it may not be changed orally but may be changed only in a writing signed by all parties. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF MANUEL SANTIAGO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Respondent, a tenured custodian, was arrested for possession of marijuana, cocaine and drug paraphernalia. After his arrest, respondent completed a PTI program, and the criminal charges against him were dismissed. The petitioning Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent based on the arrest.

At the OAL hearing, respondent argued that the illegal drugs in his possession belonged to his son, and that he accepted responsibility for them to protect his son. As such, respondent contended that the tenure charges should be dismissed, or, at a minimum, the penalty of dismissal should be reduced. Petitioner argued that respondent's arrest was not an isolated incident, since he and his family had been the subjects of a police investigation for distributing narcotics as indicated in the testimony of petitioner's witnesses. Petitioner asserted that, even though respondent completed a PTI program, his conduct warranted his dismissal. The ALJ agreed with petitioner, and concluded that respondent's possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia, as well as the testimony regarding respondent's involvement in distribution of controlled dangerous substances, constituted unbecoming conduct warranting dismissal of respondent from his tenured position.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons stated therein. The Commissioner agreed that, although custodians are not held to the same standard as tenured teaching staff members, respondent's possession of controlled dangerous substances and drug paraphernalia warranted his dismissal.

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

FACTS & PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 16, 1997, Manuel Santiago, was arrested for possession of marijuana and cocaine. Petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (hereinafter Board), brought charges of conduct unbecoming a public school employee pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 against Santiago, respondent, a tenured custodian. Respondent has been employed by the City of Elizabeth since September 1, 1980, initially as a custodian than as a head custodian. He had a flawless disciplinary record until the unbecoming conduct charges.

On May 16, 1997, Santiago was at Freitas Bar in Elizabeth, New Jersey. While he was inside the bar, his son, James Santiago, who has a history of drug abuse, was allegedly across the street using drugs. James Santiago allegedly saw someone put a small package in a crack in a window and he took the package and discovered that it contained marijuana and cocaine. When James saw a police van park behind his father's jeep outside Freitas Bar, he ran into the bar. He entered the bar and walked over to his father and asked him to hold the package he had just found. James then ran to the back of the bar and hid in a closet.

A few minutes later, Police Detectives, Kevin McDonough and John Maloney, who allegedly received information that respondent was distributing narcotics at Freitas, entered the bar after seeing respondent's jeep parked outside. The detectives asked respondent to step outside. Once they were outside, respondent consented to being searched. The police found two clear, knotted plastic bags containing cocaine in respondent's right front pants pocket. Four zip-loc bags containing marijuana were recovered from the top left pocket of respondent's jacket. The police also found $933.00 in cash and a cocktail napkin that contained writing of apparent drug sales in respondent's left front pants pocket. During the search respondent stated "what I have on me is for personal use." After searching respondent, the police requested and received consent to search his home. They found a bag of marijuana seeds in respondent's bedroom, ammunition in another bedroom, and $1000 hidden in a stereo speaker. Respondent was charged with N.J.A.C. 2C:35-10A(4) (possession of cocaine), 2C:35-B5 (possession of cocaine with the intent to distribute) and 2C:35-7 (possession of cocaine within 100 feet of a school).

Respondent entered a Pre-Trial Intervention Program (hereinafter "PTI"). He completed the program and on October 28, 1998 the criminal charges were dismissed. Based upon Santiago's arrest, the Board instituted charges on February 5, 1998, for conduct unbecoming a public school employee. On September 30, 1999, respondent filed a post hearing brief in support of his position that the Board failed to prove the tenure charges or in the alternative, if it is determined that the respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct, the penalty of removal is inappropriate.

The respondent contends that the drugs found on him were not his and he was only holding the unidentified package until his son returned. Respondent also argues that he accepted responsibility for the drugs that were found on his person in an effort to protect his son. Additionally, respondent asserts that the money and ammunition found in his home belonged to his stepson. Finally, the $933.00 in cash found on respondent was contended to be from two paychecks he had just cashed. Respondent maintains that his flawless employment history in the district must be balanced with the facts presented.

On October 1, 1999, the Board filed a post hearing brief in support of the tenure charges instituted against respondent. The Board submits that the incident was not isolated and, according to Detective Kevin McDonough of the Elizabeth Police Department, Narcotics Unit, respondent and several of his family members had been the subject of a narcotics investigation. It is alleged that an undercover informant would be sent to respondent's house with cash to purchase drugs, and the informant had purchased drugs from respondent.

When respondent was searched, the cocaine and marijuana were found in two separate pockets. Thus, even if respondent was holding one package for his son, the other package containing narcotics is quite incriminating. Although respondent has an unblemished disciplinary record, this incident of drug possession is serious enough to warrant dismissal. The Board maintains that despite respondent's successful completion of the PTI program, his involvement with drugs is sufficiently flagrant to warrant dismissal from his position as head custodian. A custodian's conduct of knowingly possessing drugs, within 1000 feet of a school, and the fact that he is the subject of a drug trafficking investigation demonstrates that he is unfit to hold his position as a custodian.

DISCUSSION

Tenure Charges

New Jersey's Supreme Court illustrated the importance of the tenure statutes stating, "tenure is an item that intimately and directly affects the work and welfare of public employees." Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 (1985). "In the context of the public school teacher tenure statute, tenure 'prevents school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power . . . in contract negotiations.' It protects employees from dismissal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118 (citing Spiewack v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). The Court further acknowledged: "once the status of tenure is earned, it provides a measure of job security to those who continue to perform their jobs properly." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 is part of a statutory scheme providing tenure to certain enumerated employees of local boards of education. A public school custodian holds his employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and "shall not be dismissed, suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense." N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. In order to impose a dismissal, suspension or reduction in compensation, the school district must proceed in the manner described in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, -29. The burden is on the board that certified the charges to prove them by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In Re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982).

Unbecoming conduct

Although unbecoming conduct is not specifically defined in the statute or regulations, in Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), it was established that the touchstone of the charge is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. See also, In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 28-29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974). Beyond the field of education, conduct unbecoming a public employee has been defined as an "elastic standard that incorporates any conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the bureau ... [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). When such conduct creates a hostile and potentially dangerous environment, it also constitutes just cause for major discipline under the civil service laws. Perry v. Mercer County Department of Public Safety, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (CSV) 834, 837. A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific rule or regulation, but rather may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. Emmons, supra, 63 N.J. Super. at 140; Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967). Conduct unbecoming is a type of disciplinary charge that is determined on a case-by-case basis and can embrace a wide range of conduct.

In the case of charges of unbecoming conduct against tenured teachers a court must consider "the gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuating, or aggravation," and "any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App.Div.1967). It is however, important to recognize that "unfitness to remain a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant." Id. at 421 (citations omitted). Although, the specific tenure statute governing the circumstances in Fulcomer, supra, does not regulate tenured custodians, the tenure statutes all basically function analogously. The noteworthy distinction amongst the tenure statutes is that they apply to different types of employees. Thus, cases discussing conduct unbecoming a tenured teacher may provide valuable insight into a similar type of tenure charge instituted against a school custodian.

It is important to recognize that this is not a forfeiture case because there was no conviction.[i[1]] The PTI program is designed to divert certain individuals from the ordinary course of prosecution into programs that provide rehabilitative services and supervisory treatment. Lindes v. Sutter, 621 F.Supp. 1197, 1201 (D.C. N.J. 1985); N.J.S.A. 2C:43-12(a)(1)-(5). In Thomas v. N.J. Institute of Technology, 178 N.J.Super. 60 (Law Div. 1981), the Superior Court held that "acceptance in PTI, even where the program is successfully completed, cannot be regarded as the equivalent of a judgment of acquittal or an otherwise favorable termination of the criminal proceeding." Id. at 62. Thus, though respondent's completion of the PTI program prevents a forfeiture analysis, his acceptance into the PTI program does not bar his dismissal based upon conduct unbecoming a public school janitor pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. See, Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of National Park, Gloucester County v. Wolfe, 1980 S.L.D. 721, aff'd, St. Bd. of Ed., 1980 S.L.D. 728, aff'd, App. Div. 1981 S.L.D. 1537 (upholding dismissal despite completion of PTI program). The fact that respondent entered into the PTI program will have no bearing on the tenure charges or the imposition of an appropriate penalty.

In Morton v. Board of Education of the City of Camden, Camden County, EDU 253-97 and EDU 956-97 (consolidated), Initial Decision, (June 11, 1999), adopted Commissioner, (July i[1] Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, a person forfeits his public position if:

(1) He is convicted under the laws of this State of an offense involving dishonesty or of a crime of the third degree or above or under the laws of another state or of the United States of an offense or a crime which, if committed in this State, would be such an offense or crime;
(2) He is convicted of an offense involving or touching such office, position or employment; or
(3) The Constitution or a statute other than the code so provides. [N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2.]

The protections contained in the tenure laws are not applicable where a school employee has forfeited his position by virtue of N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. Arocha and Gonzalez v. Bd. of Educ. of the Hudson County Area Vocational Technical Schools District, 1985 S.L.D. 1, 7-8 (citations omitted). Thus, if respondent was convicted of possession, or entered a guilty plea, he may have forfeited 30, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/>, the ALJ determined that possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. "That the possession of the controlled dangerous substance or paraphernalia occurred off school premises has no bearing on the determination that the possession, in and of itself, constitutes unbecoming conduct." Ibid. Similarly, the ALJ indicated "[n]or does the fact that Mr. Morton received a conditional discharge and eventual dismissal of the ... drug possession charge preclude a finding of unbecoming conduct as to that incident." Ibid. (citing Willingboro Board of Education v. Lott, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 516, aff'd State Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of McIntyre, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 718, aff'd, App. Div. No. A-5942-94 (July 10, 1996); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jeffrey Wolfe, School District of the Township of Randolph, 1980 S.L.D. 721, aff'd App. Div. 1981 S.L.D. 1537. 1539).

In Edison Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Passero, 1983 S.L.D. 1, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination that the dismissal of a school janitor based on his arrest for two counts of possession of controlled dangerous substances was too harsh. In that case, the janitor was arrested for possession of hashish and methamphetamines while performing his duties as a janitor at the Edison High School. Id. at 5. Although the janitor was charged with possession of controlled dangerous substances he was not convicted because he entered a conditional discharge program, which is essentially the equivalent of the PTI program in this case. Id. at 6. The ALJ held that regardless of the result in criminal court, it was clear that such conduct rises to the level of conduct unbecoming a public school janitor. Id. at 7-8. However, the ALJ concluded that that suspension was the appropriate penalty because the janitor contributed to the support of his ill mother, he had not been involved in any prior drug related incidents, and he was not charged with the more serious offense of intent to distribute. Edison, supra, 1983 S.L.D. at 8. The ALJ also took into consideration the fact that the janitor worked on the night shift where he had little or no contact with the school children. Ibid. In the instant case, it is clear that the criminal charges resulting from the May 16, 1997 incident constitute unbecoming conduct, but it is necessary to evaluate the nature of the penalty to be imposed.

his public employment under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. However, his criminal charges were diverted by his entry into the PTI program, which obviates a finding of either guilt or innocence for purposes of the forfeiture statute.

Edison, supra, was the only case discussing the penalty for a custodian charged with unbecoming conduct based on an arrest for possession of controlled dangerous substances. However, there is case law that discusses the appropriate penalty in similar circumstances concerning tenured teachers. Although, custodians are not held to the same standards as teachers, those cases can provide guidelines to the appropriate penalty. A review of the case law indicates that the issue of what is the appropriate discipline is somewhat fact specific. Ultimately, a determination of fitness for a particular position in the school system requires a balancing of interests. In re Tenure Hearing of McIntyre, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d. 718, 725, aff'd, App. Div. No. A-5942-94 (July 10, 1996). "Where unfitness for a position in a school system is evidenced by a single incident of misconduct ... that instance must be 'sufficiently flagrant'." Ibid. In Willingboro Bd. of Educ. v. Lott, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 516, the tenured teacher was dismissed based on unbecoming conduct stemming from an arrest for growing 68 marijuana plants in her backyard. Although the ALJ recognized that "the drug involved is not one of the so-called 'hard' drugs and that the respondent had an exemplary record" he found that termination was the appropriate penalty. The ALJ distinguished that case from Valenti v. Sch. Dist. of the Twp. of Monroe, OAL DKT. EDU 4926-89, adopted Commissioner of Ed. (March 6, 1990), where the penalty was 180-day forfeiture and no increment. In Monroe, supra, the teacher was arrested for one hand-rolled joint of marijuana and an additional 2.5 grams of marijuana. The ALJ in Willingboro, supra, focused on the significant difference in the amount of marijuana in the teacher's possession.

In In re Tenure Hearing of McIntyre, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d. 718, aff'd, App. Div. No. A-5942-94 (July 10, 1996), the ALJ determined that the appropriate penalty for the tenured teacher, who was arrested for possession of marijuana and operating a motor vehicle while in the possession of marijuana, was a 120-day suspension. It was the ALJ's opinion that the one act of unbecoming conduct did not compel termination based upon the teacher's contributions to the school and favorable evaluations. Id. at 722. However, the Commissioner modified the penalty to include termination. Id. at 726. The Commissioner determined that "possession of a controlled dangerous substance by an educator, absent mitigating circumstances, . . . is sufficiently flagrant conduct to warrant dismissal," even if it reflects only one instance of misconduct. Id. at 726. Teachers serve as role models, "'a heavy duty [which] requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment.'" McIntyre, supra, 96

*N.J.A.R.*2d at 726 (quoting In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacques L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321).

With respect to the role custodians play in the school system, the ALJ in Sch. Dist. of Garfield v. Olek, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 319, stated:

> Although other school employees are not necessarily required to meet the same standard of conduct as teachers, we find that all employees in the public school system who are charged with the care of students or have significant contact with students serve as adult role models and contribute to the student's education through what students see, hear, experience and learn about them. We conclude that, given this state's commitment to solving the widespread drug problems in the schools, each employee who is charged with the care of students or has significant student contact is under a duty to conduct himself in a manner that in no way condones or encourages the use of drugs. [Id. at 321 (citing Arocha and Gonzalez v. Bd. of Educ. of the Hudson County Area Vocational Technical Schools District, Hudson County, 1985 S.L.D. 1, 8.]

Similarly, the ALJ in Sch. Dist. of the City of Bridgeton v. McMahan, 84 S.L.D. 1, stated:

> The janitor in a public school plays an important role in the educational program in addition to maintaining the schoolhouse in a safe, clean, and efficient manner. He must come into regular contact with members of the school staff, and he is expected to comport himself in a manner which will reflect dependability and inspire confidence. [Id. at 14 (citations omitted).]

Although custodians may not be held to as high a standard as teachers, they still work within the confines of the school community and thus they must be held to a standard that reflects such.

Santiago's testimony was not convincing. His contention that the drugs found on his person were his son's is unbelievable. The quantity, though not sufficient to establish distribution, is much more than the single bag supposedly picked up at a window slot. Just as disturbing is the allegation that Santiago was involved in distribution. Though this allegation is made by an unidentified informer, it is in fact corroborated as to reliability by Detective McDonough. These factors, plus the unquestionable conduct of Santiago that amounted to unbecoming conduct, leads me to conclude that the imposed penalty of termination is appropriate.

ORDERED

It is ORDERED that Daniel Santiago is hereby terminated from his position of custodian in the Elizabeth School system.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MANUEL SANTIAGO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and Initial Decision[1] issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. To the extent that these submissions merely reiterate those arguments advanced before and considered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), they are only briefly summarized herein.

Initially, respondent's exceptions maintain that the Initial Decision improperly relied on a hearsay claim that he was involved in the distribution of drugs, averring that the ALJ places great weight on this speculative assertion which has no legitimate evidence in support thereof. He urges, inter alia, that the Board presented, and the Initial Decision accepts as true, unsworn statements of an unidentified, paid informant who has a criminal record and who was not presented as a witness. Respondent further avers that the testimony of Detective McDonough, a witness presented by the Board, should never have played a role in the decision making in this matter. Of this, respondent states:

> The Board's police witness was clear that he did not observe any of the activities he was discussing. The witness actually presented had no knowledge of who was present or what actually occurred. The testimony was pure, unadulterated hearsay and should never have played a role in the decision-making in this case. The mere > fact that the phantom informant may have been reliable in unrelated matters simply does not justify reliance on such allegations in the present matter. (Respondent's Exceptions at 2)

[1] It is noted for the record that the Initial Decision has both an inaccurate caption and Agency Docket Number which have been corrected herein.

Respondent further avers that the Initial Decision improperly determined that the tenure charges were proven and offers in support of this exception the legal arguments set forth in his post-hearing brief. Lastly, respondent maintains that the Initial Decision improperly recommended the sanction of dismissal, in part because it was based upon the hearsay testimony referenced above, and because it is an unduly harsh sanction in light of the circumstances in this matter. In support of his position, respondent sets forth a series of school law decisions in which the Commissioner or State Board examined the totality of the circumstances and determined that termination was not the appropriate sanction, but instead, levied various forms of financial penalties, which he argues should occur in the instant matter. With respect to this, respondent argues, inter alia, that:

> The initial decision does not contain any analysis regarding the possibility of imposing another sanction. Instead it relies on a series of illusory, conclusory factors. (Initial Decision at page 8.) There is no explanation for the determination that the "quantity" of drugs "is much more than the single bag supposedly picked up at a window slot." The evidence made reference to a package given to Santiago by his son. (Initial Decision, page 2.) Thus, the conclusion regarding a "single bag" is plainly wrong. Similarly, there is nothing to support the references to the quantity of drugs. The allegation regarding distribution is equally inappropriate for use as a factor towards termination. In short the factors presented are unsupportable and without proper explanation. (Id. at 8)

The Board's reply exceptions aver that the ALJ properly examined all the evidence at the hearing, including respondent's admissions, the testimony of McDonough and the direct evidence found on Santiago's person. The Board points to the fact that the ALJ specifically found that respondent's testimony was unbelievable and that McDonough's was reliable. Moreover, the Board avers that the recommended decision does not rely solely on hearsay testimony or upon the statements of an unidentified informer, maintaining that all these factors, when weighed together, support the charge of unbecoming conduct.

Additionally, the Board argues that, even assuming arguendo the Initial Decision did rely upon some hearsay evidence, hearsay testimony is admissible in an administrative hearing and "'shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability.' N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a)." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 3) However, as recognized by the Board, such hearsay testimony may not serve as the sole basis for the ultimate finding of fact pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b), the residuum rule, which requires that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." As to this, the Board avers that, in the instant matter, the introduction of hearsay evidence was proper, and any reliance upon it was appropriate, as there were other credible facts upon which the ALJ could base his determination.

Moreover, the Board argues, protection of the identity of a confidential informant has been upheld in New Jersey both in the criminal context and the administrative setting, citing in support thereof State v. Oliver, 50 N.J. 39 (1967); State v. Williams, 239 N.J. Super. 620 (App. Div. 1990); and Jersey City Police Department v. Harrison, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (CSV) 269 (1995). With respect to this, the Board avers that:

> The instant case is almost identical to Harrison. Santiago admittedly had drugs on his possession, had unexplained money on his possession, had a cocktail napkin in his pocket with evidence of drug sales and was where the informant said he would be. Thus, the introduction of the hearsay evidence was proper. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 5)

Consequently, the Board argues, the hearsay evidence merely supported the other direct evidence of drug possession. Furthermore, it is the Board's position that:

> Contrary to the position asserted by Respondent, the initial decision did not rely on any hearsay evidence. A review of the decision clearly illustrates that the initial decision determined that the possession of drug paraphernalia alone was what led to the determination that there was unbecoming conduct. The decision > clearly references the fact that Santiago had on his person drugs, and that at the very least, either the drugs in his front pants pocket or that found in his jacket pocket were his. See p. 3 of initial decision. Thus, any argument that the judge improperly relied upon the hearsay evidence that Santiago was selling drugs is incorrect.

> Thus, the decision by the ALJ was entirely proper, as it was within his discretion to allow [that] hearsay evidence be admitted. Although there was no reliance on this evidence, even had there been some, the residuum rule makes the reliance proper. (Id. at 6)

The Board next argues that the Initial Decision properly determined that respondent's behavior was sufficient to prove the tenure charges, averring, inter alia, that his knowing possession of drugs constitutes a single act sufficient to warrant discharge, independent of respondent's participation in PTI and in light of the standard to which public school employees are held. In support thereof, the Board cites, among other cases, Wolfe, supra; Olek, supra; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Theresa Luccarelli, Board of Education of the Borough of Brielle, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 537 (1997).

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter,[2] the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, both as to the sufficiency of the charges against respondent and the appropriateness of the recommended penalty of termination. Initially, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ gave appropriate weight to the testimony and proper consideration of the residuum rule and hearsay testimony in this matter. Further, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's conclusion at page 8 of the Initial Decision that, although custodians may not be held to the same high standards as teachers, they still work within the confines of the school community and must be held to a standard that reflects the same, particularly in light of the State's commitment to combating the widespread drug problems in the schools. In so determining, the Commissioner finds that the State Board of Education's holding in [2] The Commissioner notes that transcripts of the hearing are not included as part of the record in this matter.

Alfredo Arocha and Lazaro Gonzalez v. Bd. of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational Technical Schools Board, (April 3, 1985), a case involving two custodians convicted of drug-related offenses, bears repeating herein. It reads:

> Although other school employees are not necessarily required to meet the same standard of conduct as teachers, we find that all employees in the public school system who are charged with care of students or have significant contact with students serve as adult role models and contribute to the student[s'] education through what students see, hear, experience and learn about them. We conclude that, given this state's commitment to solving the widespread drug problem in the schools, each employee who is charged with the care of students or has significant student contact is under a duty to conduct himself in a manner that in no way encourages or condones the use of drugs.  (Slip Op. at 6-7)

As to penalty, the Commissioner agrees with Board that this single incident of drug possession, under the factual circumstances presented herein, and in light of the ALJ's credibility determinations, is sufficient to warrant respondent's removal as a janitor with the City of Elizabeth Board of Education.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision of this matter. Respondent is hereby dismissed, as of the date of this decision, from his tenured custodian position in the employ of the City of Elizabeth Board of Education.

HEARING OF MANUEL SANTIAGO,	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 2, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus (Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Murray, Murray & Corrigan (David F. Corrigan, Esq., of Counsel)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education to dismiss the respondent from his tenured custodial position for unbecoming conduct is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. Given the gravity of the charges against the respondent–possession of marijuana and cocaine with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school–we agree with the Commissioner that dismissal is the appropriate penalty. We reiterate, in addition, that although the position of school custodian does not carry with it responsibility for the care, supervision or instruction of students, such position does provide an individual with significant access to children.

Dr. Orlando Edreira abstained.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case in January 2000 as the result of a request by petitioner, C.H., on behalf of her son, R.M., for emergent relief respecting a challenge to the Board's decision in October 1999 to expel her son based upon a Zero Tolerance hearing. The emergent hearing scheduled before Administrative Law Judge Margaret M. Hayden was adjourned and the file then was filed transferred to the undersigned who rescheduled the matter for June 15, 2000. That date, too, had to be adjourned and it was agreed that the Board would conduct a hearing on June 26, 2000 in order to determine whether the matter could be resolved in an amicable fashion.

Thereafter, a Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal was prepared and submitted to the undersigned. That document makes reference to the fact that the Board had readmitted R.M. into the Mount Olive School District and had approved his attendance at a private school, effective in September 2000 subject to conditions agreeable to petitioner. Thus, the parties agreed to waive and release any and all claims against each other and to dismiss the instant matter.

I have reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal which is attached hereto and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, who sought certification through the Alternate Route Program, challenged the determination of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners denying her application for a standard instructional certificate with teacher of elementary school and teacher of psychology endorsements, and the denial of her application for an educational services certificate with student personnel services and substance awareness endorsements. Petitioner appealed to the State Board of Education, which remanded the case to the Commissioner to decide in the first instance.

The Commissioner transmitted the case to the OAL for hearing, where petitioner withdrew her challenge to the denial of an endorsement to the educational services certificate as a substance awareness coordinator. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's participation in an after-school program in the Spotswood School District did not satisfy the intensive teacher training experience required by Department of Education regulations for certification through the Alternate Route Program. The ALJ determined, inter alia, that the after-school program did not require that she be responsible for provision of instruction in a board-approved curriculum, did not require that her ability to instruct students be assessed, was not a full-time position, included no intensive supervision of petitioner, and that there was no "team" in place to mentor, instruct and evaluate petitioner. As such, the ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of proof that she was entitled to the certificates/endorsements which she sought and the State Board of Examiners' determination must be upheld.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons stated therein. Petition was dismissed.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS,

Respondent.

Kathleen A. Naprstek, Esq., for petitioner (Zazzalli, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Arlene Goldfus Lutz, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 26, 2000 Decided: August 17, 2000

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter involves the appeal of Linda J. Avellino (hereinafter petitioner) from the November 5, 1998 determination of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (hereinafter respondent) denying her request for issuance of a standard Instructional Certificate with endorsements of Teacher of Elementary School and Teacher of Psychology and a standard Educational Services Certificate with endorsements of Substance Awareness Coordinator and Student Personnel Services. The November 30, 1998 written decision advising appellant of the determination provided as follows:

> At its meeting of November 5, 1998, the State Board of Examiners unanimously voted to deny Linda Avellino's request for issuance of standard Teacher of Elementary School, Teacher of Psychology, Student Personnel Services and Substance Awareness Coordinator certification.
>
> In the matter of standard Teacher of Elementary School certification, the Board found that the professional education component of the Provisional Teacher Program/Alternate Route was incomplete because Ms. Avellino did not complete the educational component of the program in an appropriate educational setting. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.3, provisional teachers must complete a State-approved district training program which includes the eventual assumption of full responsibility for a classroom under the supervision of a state-approved support team. Ms. Avellino was employed in an after-school-child-care program as a supervisor and not as a teacher. Thus, the professional education component is also incomplete for a standard Teacher of Psychology certificate.
>
> In the matter of standard Student Personnel Services certification, the Board found that Ms. Avellino lacked eligibility for a standard New Jersey teaching certificate, a requirement for the Student Personnel Services certificate, and also did not meet the requirement for successful completion of one (1) year of full-time teaching experience.
>
> In the matter of standard Substance Awareness Coordinator certification, the Board found that Ms. Avellino lacked the required areas of study as outlined in N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.5.2 and the six (6) month state-approved Substance Awareness Coordinator residency under provisional certification.
> Appeal of this decision may be made to the State Board of Education pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28.

The appeal was initially processed by the State Board of Education, as the written determination from the Board of Examiners indicated would be appropriate. The parties filed legal memoranda for consideration by the State Board Legal Committee. On May 5, 1999, the State Board of Education issued a decision, indicating that jurisdiction to review the determination of the State Board of Examiners in the first instance lies with the Commissioner of Education rather than with the State Board and transferring the appeal to the Commissioner for a determination in conformity with the standards established in In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590 (1958). The State Board decision further provided:

> In doing so, we note that one of the pivotal issues involved in the underlying appeal is whether the district training program in which Ms. Avellino was employed by the Spotswood School District during the 1995-96 school year was in conformity with the requirements of the regulations governing provisional teachers. We stress that this question relates to the factual basis of the Board of Examiners' determination and that, although a full evidentiary hearing may not be required; Ms. Avellino must be afforded an adequate opportunity to present evidence material to resolving the issue. See Griskey, supra.
>
> Finally, we direct the State Board of Examiners to revise its decision letters to insure that individuals who are denied the issuance of certification are properly notified that such decisions may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education. Cf. J.A. v. Board of Education for the District of South Orange and Maplewood, Docket #A-1615-97T2 (App. Div. 1999) (approved for publication), slip op. at 15-16.

On June 15, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on October 29, 1999, at which time the following were identified as issues for determination at hearing:

1. Is petitioner eligible for a standard instructional certificate with either or both of the following endorsements: Elementary Education, Psychology?

2. Is petitioner eligible for a standard educational services certificate with either or both of the following endorsements: Substance Awareness Coordinator, Student Personnel Services?

At the hearing in the within matter petitioner withdrew her appeal with respect to the endorsement Substance Awareness Coordinator.

The hearing commenced as scheduled on February 29, 2000 and concluded on May 5, 2000. Following the close of the hearing, the record remained open for the receipt of post-hearing written submissions. A letter brief on behalf of respondent was filed on May 26, 2000. Petitioner's post-hearing brief was received on May 30, 2000. Replies on behalf of both parties were filed on June 26, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In addition to the foregoing some of the relevant facts in this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Prior to the commencement of testimony the parties entered into the following stipulations:

1. Petitioner Linda J. Avellino holds a B.A. degree issued by the College of Staten Island in June of 1992 and a Master of Science in Education degree issued by St. John's University in January of 1994. A copy of her college transcript, dated 5/6/93, from the College of Staten Island is attached as Exhibit J-1 and a copy of her college transcript, dated 6/4/93, issued by St. John's University is attached as Exhibit J-2.

2. On or about May 20, 1993, petitioner applied to the New Jersey Department of Education for Alternate Route certification through the Provisional Teacher Program. A copy of her application, covering letter and NTE test scores are attached as Exhibit J-3.

3. In June of 1993 the New Jersey State Board of Examiners issued petitioner certificates of eligibility for provisional certification as an elementary school teacher and teacher of psychology. A copy of those certificates and covering correspondence from the Office of Teacher Certification is attached as Exhibit J-4.

4. Petitioner thereafter obtained a substitute teacher's certificate in January 1994, which permitted her to serve as a substitute teacher in Middlesex County until July 1, 1997. A copy of that certificate is attached as Exhibit J-5.

5. By correspondence dated May 25, 1994 from the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials, petitioner was advised of the requirements for her to obtain a standard student personnel services endorsement. A copy of that correspondence is attached as Exhibit J-6.

6. By correspondence dated August 18, 1994, the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials updated its evaluation dated May 25, 1994, which had been sent to petitioner. A copy of that correspondence is attached as Exhibit J-7.

7. In August 1994 the New Jersey State Board of Examiners issued petitioner a certificate of eligibility for provisional certification as a substance awareness coordinator. A copy of that certificate and covering correspondence from the Office of Teacher Certification, along with a re-evaluation dated November 23, 1994, is attached as Exhibit J-8.

8. In September 1994 petitioner was issued a provisional certificate by the New York State Department of Education to serve as a school counselor. She received her permanent New York certification as a counselor in February 1998. A copy of those certifications is attached as Exhibit J-9.

9. By correspondence dated October 10, 1995 from the Office of Teacher Certification, petitioner was sent an information statement and various documentation required for the issuance of a provisional certificate in connection with the State's Provisional Teacher Program. A copy of that correspondence is attached as Exhibit J-10.

10. A Statement of Assurance to Teach, dated January 23, 1996, was submitted to the State Board of Examiners on petitioner's behalf by Dr. Ronald Chiste, Superintendent of Schools for the Spotswood School District, which indicated that petitioner had been hired for an elementary teaching position under the Provisional Teacher Program beginning September 1, 1995. A copy of that document is attached as Exhibit J-11.

11. A Training Support and Evaluation Contract was also submitted which identified Dr. Chiste as the support teacher and William Skowronski, school principal, and Dr. Chiste as the support team. A copy of that document is attached as Exhibit J-12.

12. Dr. Chiste conducted evaluations on 1/96, 4/1/96 and 4/30/96. Copies are attached hereto as Exhibits J-13, J-14 and J-15.

13. Petitioner completed all the necessary coursework for her permanent certification through the Regional Training Center in East Brunswick, NJ. A copy of the Regional Training Center Reports for Phases I, II, and III, a letter from Tony Evangelisto, Ed. D. and a Certificate of Completion are attached as Exhibit J-16.

14. In or about April 1996, petitioner submitted a written application for certification, requesting permanent certificates in the following 4 areas: elementary teacher, teacher of psychology, student personnel services and substance awareness coordinator. A copy of that application is attached as Exhibit J-17.

15. By correspondence dated May 8, 1997 from the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials, petitioner was advised of the requirements for her to obtain a standard student personnel services endorsement, and was also issued an emergency student personnel services certificate with an expiration date of 7/97. A copy of that correspondence and the emergency certificate are attached as Exhibit J-18.

16. By correspondence dated June 19, 1997, the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials, revised its correspondence to petitioner dated May 8, 1997, and also issued her another emergency student personnel services certificate with an expiration date of 7/98. A copy of that correspondence and emergency certificate are attached as Exhibit J-19.

In addition to the foregoing, some of the facts relevant to a determination in this matter are not in dispute and accordingly, I FIND the following as uncontested facts.

In March or April 1995, when petitioner was registering her child as a kindergarten student in the Spotswood public school system, she had a conversation with Ronald L. Chiste, Ed. D., Superintendent of Schools, wherein she inquired about the existence of an after school program. After being informed that there was no such program in the Spotswood district, petitioner volunteered to look into the possibility of creating such a program. She presented her proposed program to the Board of Education who approved it prior to the commencement of the 1995-96 school year. The program, entitled "CARES" (Children's After-School Recreation Enrichment Services) was conducted in two school buildings, Shoenly, for children in kindergarten and first grade, and Applebee, for children in grades two through six. The program at Shoenly was available for students commencing at 2:30 p.m. when they were released from school until approximately 6 p.m. and at Applebee from 2:15 p.m. until 6 p.m., although most students were picked up by their parents between 4:45 and 5:30 p.m. Enrollment in the program started with 21 children and increased to 87 by December 1995. Students were not screened for placement in the CARES Program and there was no Board-approved curriculum for the program. Petitioner was not required to prepare lesson plans. She was not formally observed as part of the district's teacher evaluation program. There was no required assessment of the student's performance or progress in the program. The students did not receive grades or report cards related to the CARES Program. Petitioner entered into a contract with the District to serve as the Director of the program; she was paid for 19.75 hours per week. She hired the staff for the program, some of whom were required by respondent to be certified teachers. Petitioner functioned as Director of the program from September 5, 1995 through June 1, 1996, when her employment with the District terminated as the result of some dispute concerning administration of the program.

On or about September 18, 1995, a member of the staff at the Provisional Teacher Program in the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials at the State Department of Education completed a form indicating that a telephone call had been received from Joan Polon at the Spotswood Board of Education indicating that petitioner, a holder of a certificate of eligibility for elementary education, had commenced employment with the District on September 1, 1995. The nature of the employment was described on the form with a checkmark on the line indicating "Full-time." On or about January 23, 1996, Dr. Chiste signed a Statement of Assurance of Position to Teach, indicating that petitioner had been assured of a position to teach that required an elementary endorsement and that the position was effective under the Provisional Teacher Program on September 1, 1995. That form bears the following paragraph:

> This signed statement should be sent to the Office of Personnel Preparation and Recruitment, CN 500, Trenton, NJ 08625 by the > chief school administrator when the candidate has been offered an appointment to teach and participate in the Provisional Teacher Program. No provisional certificate may be issued until this form and the Training and Supervision Contract have been received. A contract between a teacher unlicensed in New Jersey and a board of education is invalid. Only an original, signed statement of assurance will be accepted indicating the teaching field required for the teaching assignment (e.g., English, Mathematics, Biological Science, Elementary).

Dr. Chiste also completed and forwarded the required "Training Support and Evaluation Contract for Holders of Certificates of Eligibility" wherein he agreed on behalf of the school district to provide petitioner with support during her first 20 days of employment and to form a support team composed of school principal William Skowronski and listing himself, Ronald L. Chiste, Ed. D., as the experienced teacher. Concerning this contract, on May 21, 1996 the Director of the Office of Professional Development at the Department of Education wrote to Dr. Chiste, as follows:

> It was brought to my attention that a Training Support and Evaluation Contract for Linda Avellino, an alternate route provisional teacher in your district, was submitted by your office. The document indicated that you were the designated mentor for both the first 20 days of Ms. Avellino's employment as well as for the remaining 30 weeks of her participation in the Provisional Teacher Program.
>
> The use of a superintendent of schools as the "experienced" teacher serving as the mentor raises several concerns. According to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.4(d), a mentor teacher does not participate in any way in decisions which might bear on employment or certification of the first year provisional teacher. Moreover, the relationship between the new teacher and mentor is "formative in nature and considered a matter of professional privilege." While it would certainly appear that you are making a good faith attempt to assure that new employees receive necessary coaching and guidance by personally providing such input, the regulations and spirit of this program clearly separates the requirement of peer mentoring from that of evaluation and supervision.
>
> I am returning the contract and ask that it be revised to satisfy the requirement, which mandates the separation of supervisor and mentor responsibilities. I appreciate your support for the program and new teachers. Should you have any questions or concerns, do not hesitate to contact me or Judy Cifone, coordinator of the Provisional Teacher Program.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

The contract was not revised thereafter, however, and Dr. Chiste's name remained as petitioner's mentor.

On or about February 2, 1996, Dr. Chiste completed the evaluation form, which is required for the Provisional Teacher Program at the conclusion of the first ten-week period (following the initial 20 days of employment). He evaluated petitioner as satisfactory or outstanding in all areas specified for evaluation (curriculum, instruction and assessment; student learning and development; and classroom and school). On or about April 8, 1996, he completed the required 20-week evaluation where he likewise rated petitioner outstanding or satisfactory. In the commendation section he wrote, "This has been a most successful experience for Lynn and one that was equally rewarding for the students she helped." In the final summative evaluation, which the form indicates is "required after 30 weeks of full-time teaching," Dr. Chiste recommended that petitioner be approved for a standard instructional certificate. This form he completed on or about April 30, 1996. In or about April 1996 petitioner completed the 200 hours of classroom instruction, which is required for alternate route candidates. These classes were conducted at the Regional Training Center in East Brunswick during evening hours and at Trenton State College on Saturdays. On April 9, 1996, petitioner forwarded to the Provisional Teacher Program her certified check in the amount of $900 to cover the costs of the Alternate Route Instruction and also forwarded at that time her completed application for certification. In that application she described the following work experience: 9/5/95 to present, Spotswood Public Schools, "Elementary Basic Skills, K-6"; substitute teacher from 9/94 to 6/95, Woodbridge Township/East Brunswick Township/Spotswood; Director of Guidance Services/Psychology teacher, 1/1/94 to 6/30/94, Academy of the Sacred Heart. Also in April 1996, petitioner successfully completed the required physiology and hygiene examination and, but for the issues which gave rise to the within matter, upon successful completion of that examination on April 26, 1996, and upon payment of a required $20 fee, she would have been eligible for issuance of a provisional certificate.

Thereafter petitioner was hired by the Bound Brook school district as a high school guidance counselor commencing in September 1996. Bound Brook applied on petitioner's behalf for an Emergency Student Personnel Services Endorsement for the 1996-97 school year. The emergency certificate was issued; the evaluation of petitioner's credentials by the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials at that time indicated that in order to obtain standard certification for Student Personnel Services, petitioner needed, inter alia, a standard New Jersey teacher's certificate, proof of one year of successful teaching experience to be submitted in the form of an original letter from the superintendent or principal of the school specifying whether the employment was full-time or part-time. Perhaps it was in relation to this last requirement that Dr. Chiste wrote to Ann Rossi, in the New Jersey Department of Education, Middlesex County office on September 16, 1996, as follows:

> This is to inform you that Ms. Lin Avellino was employed by the Spotswood Public School System in our after-school child-care program (Children's Academic Recreation Enrichment Services) through the Alternate Route Program from September 5, 1995, through June 1, 1996.

Emergency certification was again requested and granted for the 1997-98 school year by the Bound Brook Board of Education. No emergency certificate was requested or granted for the 1998-99 school year, and effective September 26, 1998, the Bound Brook board removed petitioner from her position as high school guidance counselor. She continued in that position, however, on a per diem basis, until November 11, 1998. Petitioner has filed a separate appeal with the Commissioner of Education concerning the actions of the Bound Brook Board of Education, and that matter is currently scheduled for a hearing in September 2000.

Petitioner testified on her own behalf and indicated that Dr. Chiste had suggested to her the possibility of utilizing her work in the CARES Program to obtain standard certification pursuant to the Alternate Route Provisional Teacher Program. She testified that she had never made any attempt to obtain assurance from the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials that this after-school program would qualify as a full-time teaching position. "I relied on Dr.

Chiste providing me with this opportunity as someone who had alternative route teachers who knew what would be acceptable to the State and what would not be," she testified. She had reviewed the requirements for Alternative Route certification in a pamphlet or brochure which she had obtained from the State and felt that what she was doing met the requirement of contractual teaching. She acknowledged that she was aware that her prior teaching experience could not be utilized to fulfill the provisional teaching program requirements and that her teaching experience was required to be a full-time contractual experience. Concerning her typical day between the hours of 2 and 6, petitioner testified:

> I would arrive at one or the other school, sometimes at the behest of one of the teachers to start the program day with her or sometimes because we had something scheduled with kids at one particular building or another. So my day was flexible in terms of where I started depending on what we had scheduled for that day in what building.
>
> And the kids would come in from their classroom, and we would take attendance and make sure all were accounted for. Kids would sit down and have a snack; there would be a brief time where they could sort of socialize with each other; and then they were broken up into groups, whatever groups were the groups of that day. It may have been that we started rotation of part of the kids as a homework group and part of the kids in the computer club and part of the kids – there were a variety of things that they could have been rotated through.
>
> Every kid was part of every group every day. Depending on when they arrived and when they left. That's where we would begin their rotations. So they could be part of anything that we were doing through the course of the time that they were there. The kids who stayed the longest, and sometimes it was 6:15 or 6:30 before parents came to collect kids, those kids did some of the activities and rotation twice.
>
> We had all kinds of stuff; Legos and a lot of arts and crafts stuff. We did a lot of art projects, projects for the school. We did bulletin boards for the school and things like that. So there were heavy-duty art projects. Some of them were more involved than others. Most of it was themed around whatever instruction – for instance, in February, celebrating Mardi Gras, understanding the history of that. The kids made Mardi Gras masks, and that was part of what we did, you know, as a themed instruction for that time.

> Things that we did related to that. So if we were reading stories, we were reading Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn and things about the Mississippi and the Delta, and it allowed us to bring in a lot of other things into the instruction. We had a lot of freedom to choose where we wanted to take the kids and what we wanted to expose them to, but it gave us enough latitude that we could do themed instruction and talk about music and art and history and poetry and the natural world and all kinds of things.
> There were two teachers with these – with the younger elementary school kids, and they had an aide, who was a student from the high school who was employed in the program. At Applebee, it was one teacher and me, an adult aide, and two high school students who served as aides, as well as volunteers from the high school who came down to do music and band programs and chorus programs with the kids. So there were – the kids were put into groups, you know, and rotated through them for a variety – you know, lots of activities.

Concerning her responsibilities as Director of the program outside the hours the children were present she testified:

> My day started with sending my own children off to school at eight o'clock. And whatever business needed to be done – because I was using my own telephone, my own fax machine, and my computer at home to generate whatever reports, documents, or whatever was necessary. Certainly, I couldn't do the banking at any other time other than in the morning because at noon, I had to be in the buildings preparing materials for whatever lessons or plans we had with the children, and I was allowed to use the Board photocopy machine to do that.
> So my prep time really was between 12 and before I got to the program at two. Any other administrative functions were performed before noon or after six. That included, you know, snack stuff and ordering materials or purchasing materials for the use of the children in the program. I couldn't do that while I was in the program. It had to be done outside those hours.

Petitioner testified that she could not remember exactly what time she was required to arrive at the Regional Training Center in East Brunswick on the evenings she was required to attend classes. She said that the instructor was flexible and would allow participants who arrived late to make up time. She acknowledged that sometimes she might have left the CARES program a few minutes early to get to class.

Dr. Chiste testified on behalf of respondent. It was his testimony that petitioner had approached him about the possibility of utilizing her experience in the CARES Program to obtain certification through the Alternate Route. He testified that she had called him in that regard around the end of July 1995 and had asked if she were to function as one of the instructors in the after-school program they had been discussing, whether she could use the experience to satisfy the requirements of the Provisional Teacher Program. According to Dr. Chiste, he response was, "If the State is willing to go along with that, yeah, I could support that." He indicated that he assumed petitioner had gotten the State's approval and it was his recollection that petitioner had initiated and had provided all of the paperwork to enroll in the program, although he acknowledged his signature on the documents previously discussed. He had listed himself as petitioner's mentor because petitioner was not working in the daytime part of the school program and his own schedule was the only one which would match with petitioner's hours. This was not a conventional program, he testified; there was no correlation between regular elementary school teachers on staff and the CARES program. He indicated that when he completed the evaluation forms, which were marked into evidence, he evaluated petitioner as the Director of the program and as a teacher in combination. The experience he had described as being very successful was the program, he said, which had turned out to be better than the district had anticipated. The evaluation forms had been completed by him as cumulative evaluations based upon between 10 and 20 walk-through visits to the program; he did not go to the program and stay for any length of time for the purpose of evaluating petitioner's performance. He also testified that he had provided petitioner with no instructional assistance; on a couple of occasions he had provided constructive criticism concerning administrative aspects of the program. William Skowronski, the principal at Applebee, was present in the building everyday until at least 4 p.m. and would have had ample opportunity to observe the program as well, he testified. When he was asked whether petitioner was engaged in a full-time teaching assignment, he responded that the Board was very specific that it be less than half. He noted that although the Board had required those who were employed in the program as teachers to be certified, that requirement had not been imposed for the Director of the program. On several occasions during his testimony he repeated that if the State saw this as a viable way of earning standard certification, he was willing to comply with petitioner's request. When asked by the undersigned to compare what petitioner did with the responsibilities of an elementary teacher in a basic skills class, he responded that there was no correlation. He indicated that CARES was a day-care child-care program established primarily for the convenience of parents. A basic skills program has a formally established curriculum, he indicated, and enrollment is based upon evaluating each child's degree of deficiency.

Elizabeth Haywood, who is employed by the State Department, Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials, testified that her office had sent out a package of information to the school district concerning petitioner after receiving a telephone call in September 1995. She indicated that it took an unusually long time for the district to return the contract (J-12 in evidence). It arrived in her office in March 1, 1996, she testified. After reviewing the contract, they had advised Dr. Chiste both by telephone and in writing that the administrative code did not allow him as an evaluator to be petitioner's mentor. Nevertheless in April 1996, they had received the contract back, unaltered, together with the two completed formative evaluation forms, she testified. When her office reviewed Dr. Chiste's September 1996 letter, indicating the petitioner had been employed in an after-school program, Margaret Smith, in the licensing arm of the office, called the district to inquire further. Handwritten notes made by Ms. Smith in petitioner's file indicate that on October 25, 1996, June or Joan Polen, contact person in Spotswood, indicated that petitioner was no longer employed by the district and that she had been a supervisor in an after-school program, not a full-time teacher. Ms. Haywood noted that in reviewing petitioner's file in preparation for testifying at the hearing, she had noted that petitioner had obtained emergency certificates on a number of occasions to function as a guidance counselor. She volunteered that if what petitioner really wanted to do was be a guidance counselor and not a classroom teacher, that it was still necessary for petitioner to complete a full year of full-time classroom teaching, but that if her district were willing, she could work half-time as a guidance counselor under the Emergency Certificate and half-time as a classroom teacher under the Provisional Program for a period of two years to satisfy the one-year of full-time teaching requirement. She noted that petitioner holds a standard Student Personnel Services Certificate in the State of New York, but the State of New York does not have as a requirement a year of full-time teaching, she said.

Judith Cifone, the employee in the State Department of Education who oversees the training portion of the Provisional Teacher Program, testified that Alternative Route candidates must complete 34 weeks of teaching with support, supervision and evaluation and 200 hours of formal instruction completed in the evenings and on Saturdays. Traditional Route teachers, who have experienced student teaching as part of their training, are required to complete 30 weeks of teaching with support supervision and evaluation. Concerning the 200 hours of formal instruction for the Alternative Route, Ms. Cifone testified that classes at Regional Training Centers are four hours in the evenings, commencing at 4 or 4:30 or 5 p.m. and concluding around 8:30 or 9 p.m. Saturday sessions are also conducted in addition to the evening programs. She testified that the reason for the inception of the Alternative Route Program was not to address necessarily teacher shortages, but was to increase the quality of the pool of candidates so that districts could chose from alternate or traditional route teachers. The 34 weeks of full-time teaching can be accomplished on a part-time basis; for instance, if a teacher were contracted for half-time teaching, it would take 68 weeks to complete the program, she testified. The program's contract is with the school district who employs the teacher rather than with the teacher directly, she indicated, and implementing the program is basically the responsibility of the school district. In general, the State Department does not go out to evaluate programs in individual districts, but rather relies upon paperwork to assure that districts are following the requirements of the regulations. Although the teaching experience to satisfy the Provisional Teacher Program does not need to be in a regular classroom, it does have to be a tenure-eligible position, which requires certification and a specific endorsement, she testified. The program does not necessarily require the teacher to be employed in a self-contained class, with a specific number of students; a basic skills program could indeed fulfill the requirements, she testified. Teachers in the Provisional Program may not satisfy the program requirements by volunteering their time; there must be a contract of employment between the teacher and the board, she said. The number of hours required to constitute a full-time position is left up to the district; however, in general a full-time load is somewhere between 35 and 40 hours per week. Under the program a principal or other evaluator can never serve the functions of mentor. The mentor's function is to provide a confidential relationship with instructional support, she testified. Sometimes there is more than one mentor teacher and sometimes the district hires retired teachers to perform the function, particularly within the first 20 days when constant presence and support is required. She did note that if an alternate route candidate has some prior teaching experience, for instance in a private school, that the mentor's constant presence during the first 20 days might not be required.

Both Ms. Cifone and Ms. Haywood were candid, sincere and credible witnesses. Furthermore, the substance of their testimony is not really disputed. Accordingly, I FIND the facts in their testimony described above as additional relevant facts in this matter. The major areas of dispute between the testimony of petitioner and Dr. Chiste relate to who initiated the suggestion that petitioner's CARES experience might be used to obtain standard certification. In this regard I find Dr. Chiste's testimony more credible than petitioner's. Testimony to be believable must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness but must be such that the common experience of mankind can approve as probable under the circumstances. Spagnuolo v. Bonnett, 16 N.J. 546, 554-555 (1954). The documentary evidence reveals that petitioner was aware of the Alternate Route certification program as early as May of 1993 when she wrote to the Office of Teacher Certification and Academic Credentials (J-3 in evidence). She needed no additional inducement to set up and run the after-school program; by her own testimony, it had been her idea and she had volunteered immediately when Dr. Chiste had advised her that the district did not have one. It is more reasonable to conclude that petitioner had initiated the conversations about using her experience in the CARES program to satisfy the provisional teacher program requirements, and Dr. Chiste's testimony concerning his response, "If the State is willing to go along with that, yeah, I could support that," has the ring of truth. His testimony that petitioner provided him with the paperwork is also supported by exhibit J-10, a form letter written to petitioner on October 10, 1995 by the Provisional Teacher Program indicating the enclosure of the Statement of Assurance to Teach and the Training and Supervision Contract to be completed and submitted by the school district and noting that "materials requested are due within 60 days." Concerning the facts in dispute I FIND the facts set forth in Dr. Chiste's testimony described above as additional facts in this matter. Concerning petitioner's activities both during program hours and before I FIND as additional facts the description in petitioner's testimony as set forth above.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The requirements for State-approved District Training Programs for Alternative Route Certification candidates are set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.2(f) as follows:

> (f) Each State-approved district training program shall provide essential knowledge and skills to provisional teachers through the following phases of training:
>
> 1. A full-time seminar/practicum of no less than 20 days duration which takes place prior to the time at which the provisional teacher takes full responsibility for a classroom. This seminar/practicum shall provide formal instruction in the essential areas for professional study listed in (g) below. It should introduce basic teaching skills through supervised teaching experiences with students. The seminar and practicum components of the experience shall be integrated and shall include an orientation to the policies, organization and curriculum of the employing district. This requirement shall not apply to provisional teachers who are holders of Certificates of Eligibility with Advanced Standing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.1(c).
>
> 2. A period of intensive on-the-job supervision beginning the first day on which the provisional teacher assumes full responsibility for a classroom and continuing for a period of at least 10 weeks. During this time, the provisional teacher shall be visited and critiqued no less than one time every two weeks by members of a Professional Support Team (see (i) below) and shall be observed and formally evaluated at the end of 10 weeks by the appropriately certified members of the team. At the end of the 10-week period, the provisional teacher shall receive a formal written progress report from the chairperson of the Support Team.
> 3. An additional period of continued supervision and evaluation of no less than 20 weeks duration. During this period, the provisional teacher shall be visited and critiqued at least four times and shall be observed formally and evaluated at least twice. No more than two months shall pass without a formal observation. Opportunities shall be provided for the provisional teacher to observe the teaching of experienced colleagues.

Subsection (i) of the same regulation requires that training and supervision of provisional teachers in State-approved Alternative Programs be provided by a Professional Support Team comprised of the school principal, an experienced mentor teacher, a college faculty member and a curriculum supervisor. The principal is to serve as chairperson of the team. Under N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.4, evaluation of provisional teachers is required to be shared by at least two but no more than three members of the support team and with respect to mentor teachers, that regulation provides at subsection (d):

> (d) Mentor teachers shall not participate in any way in decisions which might have a bearing on the employment or certification of provisional teachers. They shall not assess or evaluate the performance of provisional teachers unless they are appropriately certified administrators. Interactions between provisional teachers and experienced mentor teachers are formative in nature and considered a matter of professional privilege. Mentor teachers shall not be compelled to offer testimony on the performance of provisional teachers.

The burden of establishing that she is entitled to issuance of the certifications/endorsements which she seeks is upon petitioner by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590 (1958). Although the State Board of Examiners is the body statutorily empowered to issue appropriate certificates (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38), the Commissioner's function on review is to make an independent determination concerning whether petitioner has met her burden under the rules and whether certification is proper. Id. at 605-607.

Applying the foregoing regulations to the undisputed facts and those I have found to be the facts in the within matter, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's experience in the CARES Program did not provide her with the intensive teacher training program contemplated by the regulations. Petitioner was not responsible for providing instruction in any board-approved curriculum, nor was she responsible for any assessment of the success of her instruction. There was no 20-day period of intense supervision with formal instruction at the commencement of the program. It further appears that there was no "team;" no evidence was offered concerning what Mr. Skowronski did, if anything, and he certainly did not function as chairperson or formal evaluator as required. Dr. Chiste who was not even eligible to fulfill the role of mentor under the rules testified that he provided no instructional supervision to petitioner, and he did not perform any formal evaluation as required by the regulations. He testified that he completed the evaluation forms based upon his cumulative assessment from brief visits just walking through the program for a few minutes each time on somewhere between 10 and 20 occasions. The constructive criticism he did provide to petitioner related to her administrative duties, he testified. Petitioner's brief notes that N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.1 states "the period of time in each day required for a full-time employment shall be the number of hours prescribed by the district board of education, but shall not be less than four clock hours" and she argues substantial compliance with the "full-time" teaching requirement. Her contract with the board, however, provided for 19.75 hours per week, which is not quite four hours per day, and there was no testimony or evidence concerning the number of hours prescribed by the district board of education as constituting "full-time employment." Undoubtedly petitioner devoted far more than 19.75 hours per week to her duties, but the State requirement is for full-time contractual employment and "full-time" must be defined by the contract. Furthermore, it appears from the evidence that petitioner may not even have been physically present for the entire program on days when she was required to attend classes in East Brunswick. Exhibit C-1 in evidence indicates that there were 27 days between September 9, 1995 and April 27, 1996 when she was supposed to report to the Regional Training Center at 5 p.m.

There is further evidence in the record that petitioner and the district both knew that the after-school program was not the type of position the Board of Examiners would approve for satisfying the Provisional Teacher requirements in the Alternate Route Program. When petitioner completed her application for certification in April 1996, she described her experience with the Spotswood Board of Education commencing in September 1995, as a "Elementary basic skills" teacher. She also used this description during her testimony; however, Dr. Chiste's testimony in this regard, that petitioner's duties were in no way comparable to the duties of a basic skills teacher, was most persuasive. Although he acknowledged signing the Assurance of Position to Teach indicating that petitioner had been hired for a position requiring an elementary education endorsement, the undisputed facts reveal that in fact no certificate was required for petitioner's position as the Director of the program. Clearly petitioner did do some teaching in the general sense of the word while she was running the after-school program. That experience, however, did not make her a teaching staff member anymore than the instructional assistance provided by a teacher's aide makes him or her a teaching staff member. The petitioner in the within matter did have other teaching experience in a private school, the Academy of the Sacred Heart, and substitute teaching experience, and at the hearing in the within matter she appeared to be intelligent, articulate and knowledgeable; in all likelihood, she is a very good teacher. That, however, is not the focus of the provisional teacher regulations. All new teachers, not just Alternative Route teachers, must comply with the supervised teacher in training program described by the regulations. To permit individuals on an ad hoc basis to substitute different kinds of teaching experiences from those described in the regulations would create an enormous burden for the State Board of Examiners by requiring individual assessments of sufficient training. The kind of exercise undertaken at the hearing in the within matter to describe a particular program/experience is simply not a reasonable alternative to requiring that all individual experiences and all local board programs comply with the rules.

Petitioner is presumed to know the law and is charged with knowledge of the provisions of the regulations whether she had any such actual knowledge or not. Matter of Kovalsky, 195 N.J. Super. 91, 98 (App. Div. 1984). She initiated her participation in the program and ultimately it was her responsibility to ensure that her experience, which was obviously and unarguably unconventional, would satisfy the regulatory requirements. The After-School Enrichment Program created and run by petitioner, to all appearances and assessments a wonderful program, did not constitute substantial compliance with the intensive teacher training program contemplated by the regulations, and accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to sustain her burden of proof by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that she is entitled to the certificates/endorsements which see seeks. As noted by Ms. Haywood during her testimony, petitioner may still complete an approved provisional teacher program; she may wish to explore Ms. Haywood's suggestion for achieving the required one-year of teaching experience with her current employer.

For all of the foregoing reasons the determination of the State Board of Examiners denying petitioner's applications for certification is hereby AFFIRMED and the within matter is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the State Board of Examiners' reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record in this matter,[2] the Commissioner concurs with, and adopts as his own, the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge for the reasons well-stated in her Initial Decision.

[1] Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate her arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge below. As it is determined that the Initial Decision fully addressed all of the relevant proffered arguments, further explication herein is unnecessary.

[2] It is noted that the record includes a transcript of only one of the hearing days, February 29, 2000.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ISSUANCE :

OF A TEACHING CERTIFICATE TO : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

LINDA J. AVELLINO. : DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 2, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak
(Kathleen A. Naprstek, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Thomas Russo, Deputy Attorney General
(John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education sustaining the determination by the State Board of Examiners to deny the issuance of a standard certificate to the petitioner is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we stress that the alternate route program was intended to be "stringent." In the Matter of the Final Grant of a Charter for the Englewood on the Palisades Charter School, decided by the State Board of Education, December 1, 1999, slip op. at 7, appeal pending (App. Div.) Like the Commissioner, we agree with the Administrative Law Judge that the after-school enrichment program run by the petitioner did not constitute substantial compliance with the intensive provisional teacher training program contemplated by the regulations for alternative route candidates.

COUNTY.	:

For Petitioner, Philip Stern, Esq., of Counsel (Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross)

For Respondent, Hardge Davis, Jr., Esq.

BACKGROUND

The record of this matter, advisement of respondent's failure to appear at hearing on August 1, 2000 and a copy of notification sent to respondent by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) providing her ten days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, which were transmitted to the Commissioner by the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, were received by the Commissioner on August 17, 2000.

This matter was opened on December 11, 1996 through petitioner State-operated District's (SOD) filing of tenure charges with the Commissioner against respondent, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq. Respondent was charged with unbecoming conduct due to her participation in a fraudulent health insurance scheme by submitting false claims for psychological services. On February 4, 1997, prior to the submission of an Answer to the tenure charges, respondent's attorney, who at that time was Eugene Liss, Esq., notified the Commissioner that respondent was requesting that the matter be held in abeyance until disposition of the criminal charges against her. The request was granted on February 6, 1997. On August 28, 1998, respondent requested that the matter move forward; whereupon, she was directed to file an Answer to the charges. An Answer was filed on September 28, 1998; whereupon, the matter was transmitted to the OAL.

On February 23, 1999, a substitution of attorney form was submitted to the OAL entering Hardge Davis, Esq., as respondent's attorney. The hearing dates were set for January 6 and 7, 2000; however, respondent requested an adjournment because her criminal matter was to go forward the next month. On January 5, 2000, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted the request based on two factors – respondent's attorney had been suspended from practice until February 2000 and respondent's trial was set for February 24, 2000. Further, the ALJ set March 20, 2000 for hearing of the tenure charges.

By letter on March 16, 2000, counsel for the SOD requested that the matter not go forward on March 20, 2000 because respondent had pled guilty at trial and, as part of the plea agreement, she had forfeited her position in the District. Sentencing was scheduled for April 7, 2000. The ALJ denied the request and, on March 17, 2000, respondent was notified by the ALJ's secretary that the hearing would be held as scheduled. Respondent was also contacted by counsel for the SOD on the Friday evening prior to the hearing and was told by respondent that she would be out of town. (See ALJ's letter to respondent dated March 20, 2000.)

On March 20, 2000, respondent failed to appear at the hearing. As a result, the ALJ sent Ms. Woolard and the SOD's counsel on that same day a letter which reads in pertinent part:

> Under the circumstances, I do not feel comfortable entering a default judgment against Ms. Woolard. Consequently, I have carried the tenure hearing to August 1, 2000. It is mandatory that Ms. Woolard be present on that date. If Ms. Woolard wishes to be represented by counsel and Mr. Davis will still be suspended, she must make immediate arrangements for another attorney to represent her. Otherwise, she must represent herself. (ALJ's March 20, 2000 Letter at 2)

Upon receipt of the ALJ's notice of return of the matter to the Commissioner for failure to appear at the August 1, 2000 hearing, respondent's counsel sent to the OAL and the Commissioner, a letter informing them that he did not receive notice of the August 1, 2000 hearing date and that the last time he had contact with respondent was when she was putting the matter in abeyance and had not heard from her since then. On August 17, 2000, respondent wrote to her attorney indicating to him, inter alia, that she had been unable to reach him and that she thought that the tenure matter had been resolved since she took a plea in criminal court in April, rather than risk going to trial. She also states that she would like the tenure matter disposed of as soon as possible.

COMMISSIONER'S DECISION

Given respondent's failure to appear at the hearing scheduled on August 1, 2000, notwithstanding the ALJ's directive to her on March 20, 2000 that it was mandatory for her to be at the hearing, with or without counsel, and given that it is uncontested that respondent's plea in the criminal matter against her includes forfeiture of her position as teacher in the Newark School District, the Commissioner determines that respondent's actions in this matter shall be deemed tantamount to admission of the charges against her. Upon review of the severity of the charges, respondent's guilty plea in criminal court, and the absence of a claim by respondent that the matter was wrongfully returned to the Commissioner by the OAL, the Commissioner finds and determines that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct as charged by the SOD and she, shall, therefore, be dismissed from her teaching position in the District.

Accordingly, this matter shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SYNOPSIS

The Bayonne Board of Education challenged the method of State Aid distribution for the 1993-94 through 1995-1996 school years. During those years, the Legislature, with some small adjustments, froze State Aid at the amount distributed for the 1992-1993 school year. Petitioner challenged the state's determination to distribute State Aid to districts in the amount they had received in the 1992-1993 school year, rather than adjusting the amount each district would receive based on enrollment changes that had occurred in the districts. The same amount of State school aid, with adjustments as specified by the Legislature, was received by every school district regardless of enrollment changes since 1991. Petitioner argued that districts such as it, which experienced increases in enrollment, were improperly denied State Aid, while districts with declining enrollment received a windfall at the expense of districts such as Bayonne. As such, petitioner argued that the State's method for distributing State Aid was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

In light of the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ found that the Department legitimately felt it had no discretion as to the manner in which the funds were to be distributed. The amount of State Aid was plainly established by the Legislature. The ALJ determined that the Board failed to show that respondent's interpretation of the laws was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or otherwise so improper as to warrant setting aside its determination. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own.

Record Closed: August 11, 2000 Decided: August 11, 2000

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

It is my intention this date (August 11, 2000) to deliver an oral decision in order to comply with the requirements of the last Order of Extension, dated June 26, 2000, which extended the time for the issuance of the initial decision. Several previous extensions had been granted in connection with this matter as a result of a family medical situation. The rules pertaining to the delivery of oral determinations may be found in N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2. As a result of an amendment, no longer is it required that the decision be rendered in the presence of the parties. The earlier version of the rule did have that requirement. In that respect see Comment, LeFelt, 37 New Jersey Practice, Section 258. The attorneys who had appeared in this matter were, on behalf of the Bayonne Board of Education, James L. Plosia, Jr., Esq. of Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, Liberty Corner, New Jersey, and for the State, John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General.

This case is on remand following the March 4, 1998 decision of the State Board of Education which directed that a plenary hearing be conducted in order to provide an opportunity for the parties to establish a factual record to assist in a determination of whether the petitioner, Board of Education of Bayonne, (hereinafter referred to as "Bayonne": (a) had the requisite standing to pose a State equal protection challenge to the method of distribution of both foundation and categorical aid under the Quality Education Act (QEA) of 1990, as amended; and, (b) If Bayonne has such standing, either on its own or on behalf of its students, or both; whether it has demonstrated that a State equal protection violation has occurred in connection with distribution of that aid.. The essential argument made by Bayonne with regard to that second issue is that the method of distribution chosen by respondents is based upon outdated, not current enrollment data, thereby depriving Bayonne of additional aid due to the fact that over a period of years its enrollment in the school district increased while its State aid did not. The remand from the State Board of Education also made reference to the fact that the parties may be raising not only State but Federal constitutional claims as well. However, the parties agree, as do I, that there are no Federal constitutional issues involved.

I first will make some historical findings of fact, essentially in the nature of a relation of the procedural history of the case. In its post-hearing brief the State set forth proposed findings which summarized this history. I will now read them, with certain modifications that I have made, as follows.

1. On May 1, 1994, the Bayonne Board of Education filed a petition of appeal against the respondents including the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education, alleging that the QEA of 1990, N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-1 et seq. was unconstitutional as applied to Bayonne because it did not adequately increase foundation aid and aid for categorical programs commensurate with Bayonne's increased pupil population.

2. The petition alleged violations of both the "thorough and efficient" and "equal protection" provisions of the New Jersey Constitution, as well as arbitrary and capricious actions by the Commissioner. By way of relief, Bayonne asked that the QEA be declared unconstitutional and that the district be reimbursed for aid for 1992-93 and 1993-94 based on actual enrollments from the previous October. Bayonne also asked that all future aid be distributed based upon more current enrollment figures.

3. The funding mechanisms put in issue by Bayonne annually were amended as follows. For 1993-94, the Public School Reform Act of 1992, L. 1993, c. 7, amended the manner in which State aid was to be distributed pursuant to the QEA. In 1994-95, L. 1994, c. 67 amended the distribution method. In 1995-96, L. 1995, c. 164, implemented an amendment with respect to distribution and it is those statutes which also are at issue in this case.

4. The petition filed by Bayonne originally challenged the distribution of State Aid pursuant to the QEA and other applicable funding formulas for the 1992-93, 1993-1994 and 1994-95 school years. However, in petitioner's opening argument counsel stated that aid distribution for 1992-93 was no longer in issue and its challenge to that school year was withdrawn. The 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years remained in issue and counsel also asserted that 1995-96 was subject to challenge as well. Parenthetically, that is a subject which I will discuss further in this decision. Also at this point I would note that when I first took over the case from Judge Springer, sometime during 1997, in addition to Bayonne, the Board of Education of Hackensack was a petitioner as well. Not long thereafter an amicable resolution was reached with Hackensack and that school district no longer is a party to these proceedings.

5. Although petitioner never sought formally to amend its petition after it was filed, and I never granted a motion to amend or signed any order to that effect, relief for the 1995-96 school year also is sought by Bayonne. I determined despite the State's objection to consider Bayonne's claim with respect to that school year.

6. On November 30, 1994, respondents moved to dismiss based upon the doctrines of justiciability and the alleged failure by Bayonne to state a claim upon which relief could be granted.

7. Previously, on May 28, 1996, Administrative Law Judge Ken Springer had issued a decision which found the matters were not moot since petitioner was not challenging the QEA, as such, but actually was challenging the Public School Reform Act of 1993, which had provided a one year statutory formula establishing aid distribution for 1993-94, and the Appropriations Act language under which aid was distributed for 1994-95.

8. In his initial decision Judge Springer dismissed Count 1 of the petition because it failed to state a claim under the "thorough and efficient" clause, particularly in light of the fact that Bayonne took the position that its students were receiving an excellent education. He also dismissed Count 3, a claim of arbitrary action, since it was covered by Count 2.

9. Judge Springer did not dismiss Count 2, the state equal protection claim concluding that a factual record ought to be developed in order to determine if the State's decision not to provide increases in foundation aid based on increased student population or to increase categoricall aid was irrational. On appeal from Judge Springer's determination the Commissioner upheld the dismissals of Counts 1 and 3, but reversed Judge Springer's determination and dismissed Count 2 as well. On appeal to the State Board of Education, the Commissioner's decision was reversed as to the dismissal of Count 2 and the case was retransmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for the purpose of a hearing regarding the equal protection claim reinstated by the State Board.

10. The State thereafter again moved for summary decision arguing that the matter now was moot as a result of the passage of the Comprehensive Educational Financing Act, L. 1996, c. 138, which hereinafter I will refer to as the "CEIFA." The State also moved for summary decision based upon a contention that Bayonne, per se, lacked the capacity to raise equal protection claims. By that time I had been assigned to the case (following Judge Springer's recusal on his own motion) and I denied the State's motion.

11. Respondent then filed an interlocutory appeal to the Commissioner who, in a decision dated September 2, 1997, reversed my initial determination and again dismissed the entire petition, finding that Bayonne lacked standing to assert the equal protection claim pursued in Count 2 of the petition. However, on March 4, 1998, the State Board of Education again reversed the Commissioner and, as I have noted, remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing to determine the efficacy of Bayonne's equal protection claim. The State Board also indicated that the issue of standing should be addressed. Accordingly, plenary hearings were held before me on June 3 and June 4, 1999.

12. In both 1991-92 and 1992-93, state aid for school districts was distributed pursuant to the QEA. From that time until the passage of CEIFA in 1996, school aid was not distributed pursuant to any permanent statutory scheme. Rather, it was distributed through annual funding legislative provisions. In 1993-94, funding was distributed pursuant to the Public School Reform Act of 1993. (Ex. R-1.)

13. The Public School Reform Act provided that each school district would be entitled to at- risk, special education, bilingual, transition and county vocational aid in the same amount the district had received for the 1992-93 school year. (Ex. R-1.) With respect to transportation aid, each district was entitled to the same amount it had received in 1992-93, as well as its proportionate share of a $4 million statewide increase in that category.

14. Foundation aid also was to be based on a multiple of the 1992-93 entitlement. Every non-special needs district was entitle to receive 1.04% of their 1992-93 entitlement and special needs districts were entitled to their 1992-93 entitlement, plus a proportionate share of a $115 million increase. (Ex. R-1.)

15. After 1993-94, school funding was distributed pursuant to annual Appropriations Acts. See, L. 1994, c. 67; and L. 1995, c. 164.

16. For 1994-95, districts were entitled to receive the same amount of foundation aid and categorical aid that it received the previous school year. Additional foundation aid was distributed, as noted, with regard to special needs districts on a proportionate basis. Districts that received transition aid in 1993-94 were entitled to two-thirds of that amount in 1994-95. (Ex. R-6.)

17. For 1995-96, districts were entitled to the same amount of at-risk, bilingual and county vocational aid received in 1994-95. Foundation aid entitlements also were to be the same as the previous school year, except that districts with increased enrollment shared $47 million in proportion to their enrollment increases, to a maximum of 7.5%. Special needs districts received additional foundation aid distributed, in part, on a proportional basis and, in part, targeted to the lowest special needs district. Special education aid was increased by $19 million and distributed pursuant to enrollment increases. Transition aid was reduced by one-third over the district's transition aid entitlement for the 1994-95 school year. (Ex. R-9.)

18. For 1993-94, Bayonne was awarded approximately $9.5 million in foundation aid and a total of approximately $15.8 million in State Aid pursuant to the applicable legislation. (Exh. R-4.) After deductions to the amount awarded, Bayonne ultimately received $14.8 million in State Aid payments in 1993-94. (Ex. R-5.)

19. For 1994-95, Bayonne was awarded $8.12 million in foundation aid after adjustments and offsets. (Ex. R-7.) Bayonne also was awarded $15.148 million, approximately, in State Aid. After deductions to the amount awarded, Bayonne received State Aid payments in 1994-95 of approximately $14.11 million. (Ex. R-8.)

20. For 1995-96, Bayonne was awarded $9.626 million in foundation aid, and a total of $16.334 million in State Aid. (Exh. R-10.) Again, after deductions to the amount awarded, Bayonne ultimately received $15.554 million in State Aid in 1995-96. (Ex. R-11.)

21. With respect to student enrollment, Bayonne reported that for 1992-93 it had 7,012.5 students. For 1993-94, it reported enrollment of 7,033 students. For 1994-95, it reported enrollment of 7,661.5 students. (Exs. R-12,R-13 and R-14.)

22. For the 1993-94 school year, State-wide student enrollment was 1,161,260.5 students. For 1994-95, State-wide student enrollment was 1,181,406 students. For the

1995-96 school year, the State-wide student enrollment increased to 1,202,527 students. (Exs. R-15, R-16 and R-17.)

That completes my historical findings of fact, together with a review of the essentially stipulated statistical data offered at the hearing through the respondent's exhibits. I will now discuss the two issues in the case.

The first issue is whether Bayonne has demonstrated it has the requisite standing even to pursue this action which has now been reduced to Count 2 of its petition. The respondent maintains Bayonne does not have such standing since a school district is a State instrumentality, a "creature of the State", and therefore not a "person" able to mount a challenge on constitutional grounds to a State statute. Although no cases involving boards of education were cited by the respondents for this proposition many, many cases involving municipalities were cited in the post-hearing brief. By analogy, school districts and municipalities, according to the State, are to be treated the same. See, e.g., Borough of Glassboro v. Byrne, 141 N.J. Super 19 (App. Div. 1976), Certif. den., 71 N.J. 518 (1976).

In my view, further extended discussion of the standing issue simply is not needed. First, as Bayonne aptly observes, the State Equal Protection argument essentially is that the flaw it challenges is not in the in the legislation per se, but in the administrative agency's interpretation of it and the decision by the Department, which Bayonne claims was discretionary, to use outdated rather than current enrollment data.

I agree with Bayonne with respect to this first point regarding the standing issue. Second, I also agree with Bayonne that the petition, on its face, can be read to pursue claims on behalf of its students in that the crux of the complaint is that the reduction in State Aid funding impacted, obviously, on the offerings that can be made to students. Bayonne, I believe, easily could have added individual students as named petitioners to overcome the technical standing argument, and as I have indicated in the past, its decision not to do so is not fatal given the particular context of this case. Third, the State offered nothing new with respect to this issue in its post-hearing brief sufficient for me to reject my own letter decision of August 5, 1997 wherein I upheld Bayonne's standing to bring the action. Although the State Board remand mentioned the standing issue, it did not reverse my determination. Fourth, even if a school district's standing independently to mount a State Constitutional challenge of the sort involved in this case is questionable, there are exceptions as cited by the State itself. See, City of New York v. State of New York, 86 N.Y.S. 2d 553,556 (1995). At page 556 of that decision certain exceptions to the rejection of standing of a creature of the legislature, such as a municipality or school district, were addressed. One is where the legislature, or an administrative agency's interpretation of legislation, adversely affects the instrumentality's proprietary interest in a specific fund. Bayonne points out that this is precisely what the instant case involves; namely, the amount of State Aid and foundation and categorical aid it will receive from a finite pot of money. I agree.

Accordingly, for these reasons I am determining that Bayonne has standing. I should also observe that the argument offered by Bayonne that the State should be equitably estopped from pursuing the standing issue is rejected. The right of the State to pursue the issue, even though I am rejecting it, was preserved, I believe, by the March 1998 decision of the State Board of Education. The State's argument in its brief that the passage of the CEIFA mooted Bayonne's decision is also rejected.

I turn now to the major issue in the case which, of course, is the question of whether, as Bayonne claims, the State, through the Department of Education, deprived it of equal protection by basing foundation and categorical aid for the school years 1993-94 through 1995-96 upon other than readily available more current enrollment figures and by using instead, what Bayonne describes as outdated or "old" enrollment data which failed to take into account, in Bayonne's case, enrollment increases during the particular school years in question. In other words, by freezing foundation and categorical aid to 1991-92, and not using updated enrollment figures for the October of the previous school year, Bayonne had the same amount of money but more students to educate, whereas districts which "lost" enrollment also had the same amount of money but now had less students to educate. For example, Bayonne as of October 1992 had 328 more "net" students than a year earlier. Thus, it claims it should have received additional foundation aid of $1,178 per additional student, or a total of more than $386,000. Worse, says Bayonne, over the full three years involved here, the failure to update enrollment figures, which easily could have been achieved, ended up costing Bayonne over $2 million. Then, to compound this error, by not using the more current and available enrollment data, those districts which lost students from school year to school year, but received aid based upon the older data, actually were benefiting at the expense of districts like Bayonne. Testimony pertinent to this issue was offered by the petitioner and by the State at the hearing. The testimony offered by Bayonne came from Clifford Doll, Bayonne's School Business Administrator for over nineteen years. His testimony actually was fairly synopsized by petitioner in the post-hearing brief and I will relate it here with modifications.

Doll testified that prior to 1993-94, the methodology by which the Department of Education distributed State school aid was based upon enrollment figures from the previous October. For example, school aid for 1992-93 was based upon October 1991 enrollment figures. However, according to Doll, the methodology changed for 1993-94, 1994-95 and 1995-96. During those three school years no recognition of enrollment changes from October 1991 was implemented and under the State's method of interpreting the school aid appropriation legislation, the same amount of State school aid, with whatever adjustments were provided by the legislature was received by every school district regardless of actual enrollment changes since 1991.

Doll testified that with respect to the 328 net additional students enrolled in October 1992 over October 1991, most were transfer students from other school districts, be they public or from New Jersey private schools. Although he did not have a precise breakdown he estimated that at least 95% came from within New Jersey and many of those from public schools in Jersey City. In October 1993, Bayonne calculated it now had 650 more net students since 1991 and if more current enrollment figures had been used to calculate State school aid, as Bayonne insists it should have, it would have received approximately $765,000 more in foundation aid for that school year. Then, in October 1994, according to Doll, Bayonne had 829 net more students than 1991 and by multiplying that number by $1178, the amount of aid Bayonne should have received was an additional $976,562. Thus, by adding the figures together, it was estimated by Doll that about $2.128,640 had been "lost".

Doll went on to note that this total did not include any calculation of increased entitlement to categorical aid for these so-called "new" students. Categorical aid relates to special education, at-risk and bilingual students. At least some of these, according to Doll, would have qualified for one or more types of categorical aid, which again Bayonne did not receive in the full amount due to the State's method of distribution. Doll felt that the State could have held each district "harmless" and still equitably considered enrollment changes simply by continuing to use a one year "lag" as it had done in the past. As he put it, "the money would have followed the students." Insofar as there were increases in newly enrolled students and the State was being told to hold at a steady level, he suggested the State could have factored out these new enrollees while still recognizing enrollment increases based upon interdistrict transfers. Alternatively, he opined, the State could have included newly enrolled students and reduced each district's aid proportionately based upon the availability of funds which he claimed is precisely what is done with "debt service" aid. As it was, however, districts from which students transferred (Jersey City, for example), continued to receive state school aid calculated on 1991 enrollment even though many had left the district. Districts like Bayonne, which were educating more students each year, were not receiving additional aid for them.

Doll also opined on whether respondent's recognition of interdistrict transfers in its state school aid distribution for the years in question would have resulted in more or less school aid being distributed. He observed that dependent upon whether the students transferring were, as an aggregate, going from districts receiving more state aid per pupil to those receiving less aid, or vice versa, the amount of state aid per pupil "gained" or "lost" would also have been relevant. Insofar as Bayonne was concerned, given the influx of students from its neighbor, Jersey City, the result, he said, would have been a savings to the state because per pupil foundation aid provided to Bayonne is actually thousands of dollars less than that provided by Jersey City. He also pointed out that if respondents had required it, Bayonne and all other school districts could have provided enrollment information reflecting from where interdistrict transfer students came, so that distinctions between students from out-of-state, from private schools within the state and from other New Jersey public schools could have been made. Indeed, given the transfer trend from urban to suburban, respondents may have been distributing much too much money in state school aid for the years in question because the state continued to provide per pupil foundation aid to places like Jersey City. Had "the money follow the student" concept been followed, since the "moving" students disproportionately transferred to districts which received less per pupil foundation aid , the savings to the Department could, he claimed, have been in the millions of dollars.

Thus, in Bayonne alone, if 600 children, net, came to that school district by October 1994, from Jersey City, assuming per pupil foundation aid received by Jersey City in 1991 was $5000, the per student aid difference with respect to what Bayonne's per pupil foundation aid was would have saved over $2 million. Thus, he speculated that respondent's attempt to comply with the "hold harmless" provisions of the law actually may have cost the state millions of dollars in state school aid.

One witness testified for the State – Melvin Wyns, Director of the Office of School Finance in the Department of Education. His role with respect to the subject of state school aid was to apply the school aid formula and convey the information about state school aid to each individual school district.

In defense of the state's method of distribution of school aid for the three school years in question, he pointed to the specific language of the legislative enactments to demonstrate that the Department "had no choice" but to distribute state school aid exactly as it did. For example, the "Public School Reform Act of 1992" which set forth school aid amounts for 1993-94, provided that districts were to receive foundation aid "in an amount equal to the product of the foundation aid which the district received in the 1992-93 school year multiplied by 1.04". (Ex. R-1.) He interpreted that language to mean that each district's foundation aid amount for 1992-93 was to be increased by 4%, regardless of any changes in actual enrollment due to transfers. Thus, Bayonne, as with all other school districts, received precisely the amount of foundation aid plus 4% as it had received during the prior school year. That was legislatively mandated and left no discretion in Wyns' opinion.

Exhibit R-6 sets forth legislative language which governed the state's calculation of state school aid for 1994-95. On page "D-6" the language concerning foundation aid provided that " . . . the foundation aid entitlement for each school district shall be the same as the entitlement amount for the district in 1993-94. Similar provisions for transition, special education, at-risk and bilingual aid are set forth in the same document as is transportation aid. Wyns testified that respondents logically interpreted this provision in accordance with its language. In other words, keep aid the same as that received the prior year. The legislative language for 1995-96 was the same as the prior year and respondents interpreted it in the same fashion. (Ex. R-9.) Therefore, according to Wyns, the Department really had no discretion in the method of state school aid distribution for the school years in questions. He did acknowledge that in the process of legislative development from Governor's budget message to legislative enactment – the Department played an important role in aiding the Governor and her staff in developing state school aid recommendations, and he agreed that the Governor's recommendations for foundation aid were not altered in any of the three years in question by the legislature. Further efforts to inquire into the policy decision-making in that respect was objected to, and I sustained many of the objections based upon the speculative nature of the cross-examination with respect to what "may have" or "should have" happened had the Department done or not done certain things in the budget development process.

Wyns insisted that the Department distributed foundation and categorical aid in the only possible way it could because the statutory language was clear. Also, when discussing debt service, he conceded that the Department based its aid distribution on current debt owed rather than on debt owed the prior year. However, he pointed out that this, too, specifically was required by the statutory language.

Finally, Wyns conceded that insofar as property values remained relatively stable in the early and mid-1990's, it is unlikely that had the state used current enrollment figures and recalculated foundation aid entitlement using those figures, Bayonne would have received less aid that it did actually receive. He also conceded that if the Department had been "directed" to do so, it could have distributed foundation aid for the three year period at issue according to more current enrollment figures. However, he again pointed that no direction to do so was given either legislatively or by the executive branch.

Having reviewed the testimony of Doll and Wyns, and having considered the documentary evidence offered in the case, despite the sympathetic nature of Bayonne's argument in regard to the state school aid issue, I have concluded that it has failed to offer sufficient proof to establish: (1) that the challenged funding formulas created any improper classifications among school districts; (2) or that the legislature had any improper purpose in adopting the legislation; or (3) that the formulas had a disparate impact on Bayonne. In short, I do not find that Bayonne was "harmed" legally in any way by the statutes or by the administration of the formulas by the Department. Thus, having heard the evidence, I conclude that Bayonne's petition must be rejected. Indeed, it is clear to me that while the formulas may not have been perfect, and certainly could have been improved upon with respect to further benefiting a district like Bayonne the statutory scheme and its implementation represent a rational method of advancing a legitimate governmental purpose and is not marked by arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious action.

My own review of the formulas reveal they are facially neutral and result in no meaningful differential treatment among the State's "non-Abbott" school districts. The statutes refer consistently to "each school district" and do not qualify or classify them at all. In short, all of the non-Abbott districts like Bayonne are treated exactly the same. It is well established that, "even if a statute has a disparate impact on a class of individuals, an equal protection challenge based upon the New Jersey Constitution will succeed only where the legislature intended to discriminate unlawfully against the class." See, Rutgers Council of AAUP v. Rutgers, 298 N.J. Super. 442, 452 (App. Div. 1997), Certif. den., 153 N.J. 48 (1998); see, also, Greenberg v. Kimmelman, 99 N.J. 552 (1985). In this case, Bayonne simply did not prove the existence of any invidious purpose on the part of the legislature in enacting the funding formulas at issue, nor is any such purpose evident from the language of the statutes, or from the legislative history of the statute. The funding formulas, as I have indicated, do not violate any equal protection provisions of the New Jersey Constitution. I should note here as well that although Bayonne, both in its brief and elsewhere, points out it is not challenging any statutory provisions, only the agency's implementation of the law, I believe its petition did raise a challenge to the statute and, in any event, in order to complete the record I believe it is appropriate for me to deal with the facial constitutional challenge given the language of the State Board remand decision.

Nor in my judgment did Bayonne establish that its students were treated any differently under the funding formulas from other similarly situated districts or students in those districts. Although Doll testified that enrollment increased during the years in question, while state funding remained relatively constant, there was no hard evidence to show that any district was unfairly advantaged under the funding formulas. Wyns, on the other hand, presented evidence which demonstrated that public school enrollment actually increased state-wide during the school year in questions and, most importantly, all districts were treated equally under the distribution scheme. Certainly, then, Bayonne was not harmed in terms of State Constitution equal protection analysis.

Moreover, no testimony or evidence was presented to demonstrate that any student in Bayonne was treated differently than a student in any other district. The argument was simply one of hypothesis – less money and more students equals disparate treatment. Bayonne failed to prove either that the funding formulas established classes among the non-added districts or their students, or that the funding formulas had a disparate impact on different types of school districts or students and/or that the legislature had enacted them with an invidious purpose. In this state, an equal protection claim brought under the New Jersey Constitution is judged by a balancing test. In other words, whether there is an appropriate governmental interest suitably furthered by the differing treatment. In this respect I refer to the decision In the Matter of the Grant of the Charter School Application of Englewood, 320 N.J. Super. 174, 237 (App. Div. 1999). In that case, at page 237, the Appellate Division noted that the three pertinent factors in striking the balance are: (a) the nature of the affected right; (b) the extent to which the government restriction intrudes upon it; and (c) the public need for the restriction. New Jersey courts examine statutes closely to determine whether there is any suspect classification involved; that is, a class which is "saddled with such disabilities or subjected to such a history of purposeful unequal treatment or relegated to such a position of political powerlessness as to command extraordinary protection from the majoritarian political process." See, Barone v. Department of Human Services, 107 N.J. 355,365 (1987). Given those standards and definition, a school district like Bayonne which simply experiences an increase in student enrollment does not fall within a "suspect" class. Nor are students in the district a "suspect class". Indeed, even assuming the formulas create classifications for school districts based upon changing enrollments, in other words, a "difference", those are not a classification which merits any heightened attention from the courts.

Furthermore, although New Jersey long has adhered to the maxim that the more personal the right the greater the public need must be to justify governmental interference with the exercise of that right, See, George Harms Construction Co., Inc. v. N.J. Turnpike Authority, 137 N.J. 8,29 (1994), the mere right to receive public funds has never been considered personal in nature. Thus, in the Barone case, supra, the New Jersey Supreme Court upheld a statute that created classifications in the distribution of public assistance, noting as follows:

> It is the Legislature that has the duty to allocate the resources of the State. As long as the classification chosen by the Legislature rationally advances a legitimate governmental objective, it need not be the wisest, the fairest, or the one we would chose, it is not for the courts to determine if there is a better way to allocate resources. . . .
> Barone v. Department of Human Services, supra, 107 N.J. at 370.

Here it is clear that Bayonne's understandable interest in obtaining more aid from the state does not rise to the level of a "fundamental right." As long as the formulas rationally advance a legitimate governmental objective which I found that they do, there is no violation of state equal protection. Rather, the formulas advance the state's objective in maintaining an amount of state aid fairly to provide districts with an opportunity to offer a thorough and efficient education to their students, especially in light of the fact that the challenged formulas were adopted during what may be called a transition to new permanent funding formulas.

Nor, in my judgment, did Bayonne offer evidence concerning the second prong of the equal protection balancing test. That is, the extent to which the governmental restriction may intrude upon the affected right. Although Doll testified the school district received essentially the same amount of state funding each year, even though its enrollment increased, he did not testify nor did anyone else testify as to how, specifically, that situation impacted the district or its students adversely. He did not describe, for example, any particular harm to any student or students, or upon faculty or administration as a result of the funding formulas. Nor did Doll testify concerning the total school budget for the years in question and whether or not its revenue needs otherwise were satisfied by increases either in federal funding or in local tax levies. Bayonne does not dispute that during the school years in question it continued to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education. Thus, it is clear that neither the school district, nor its students, nor its faculty, nor its administration, nor any other party in interest, suffered any cognizable injury as a result of the distribution schemes. Rather, the funding formulas rationally advanced a legitimate governmental purpose by providing for distribution of school aid during a dynamic period of budgetary constraints and statutory changes. Also, it was a period during which court monitoring of state efforts in this regard was particularly heightened. For a variety of reasons, the legislature determined for the 1993-94, 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years that it was necessary to freeze, essentially, the amount of aid distributed to certain public school districts that were described as non-Abbott districts. Since school enrollment increased state-wide, during the same period, the legislature could not very well tie state funding directly to state student enrollment without experiencing a substantial like increase in funding. The solution to this dilemma was to implement interim funding formulas which, while advancing the purpose of providing adequate funds to the public schools (perhaps not as much as they wanted); nevertheless, at the same time responsibly managed available resources. As the court noted in Barone, the legislature may allocate resources as it sees fit and so long as that reasonably advances, as here, a legitimate governmental objective, it passes constitutional muster, whether or not it is the "wisest", "fairest" or "best" plan possible.

I also FIND contrary to Bayonne's arguments, that the Department legitimately felt it had no discretion as to the manner in which the funds were to be distributed. Wyn's description of what the statute requires was clear in that regard. The mandatory nature of the funding distribution formulas may be found, for example, in Section 2 of the PSRA. The amount was plainly established by the legislature, no more and no less. Bayonne's attempt to accord great weight to the phrase "as defined" in the QEA is unavailing. That provision, as noted by the state respondents, refers only to the definition of foundation aid and not to the determination or calculation of that aid. In other words, reference is made to the QEA to explain what sort of funds fall under the term "foundation aid", but does not supply any different formula for calculating the amount of that aid.

Wyns, of course, testified at some length concerning his and the Department's interpretation of the interim funding formulas. He has over thirty years' experience in state school finance and personally was responsible for administering the funding statutes during the years in question. Based upon his experience, which I find to be substantial, he credibly testified that the Department felt it had no discretion in the awarding of aid during the school years in question but was required to distribute it according to the explicit formulas as read by the Department. It is well settled that substantial deference should be given to the interpretation an agency gives to a statute that it is charged with implementing. In light of Wyn's many years experience in the area of school finance, his and the Department's interpretation of the provisions of the interim funding formulas are to be accorded such deference. In short, Bayonne simply has failed to show that respondent's interpretation of the laws was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or otherwise so improper as to warrant my setting aside those determinations and embarking upon the question of remedy. There is no liability, and therefore no reason to proceed any further.

Accordingly, for the reason set forth above, I CONCLUDE as follows:

1. Bayonne has the requisite standing to pursue its claims in this case and has done so on its own behalf and on behalf of its students.

2. Neither the statutes under which Bayonne received state school aid during 1993-94 through 1995-96, nor the method implemented by the Department of Education to distribute the same, violated any equal protection provision of the New Jersey Constitution.

3. There are no federal constitutional issues of concern with regard to this case.

4. Bayonne failed to demonstrate that the aforesaid state school aid distribution was the product of any invidious motive on the part of the legislature or the Department, or that any legally cognizable harm was suffered by Bayonne or its students by virtue of any action, or inaction, by the respondents.

Therefore, I hereby ORDER that the petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher alleged the District's decision to withhold her increment for the 1998-99 school year was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

In light of the testimony and evidence presented, the ALJ concluded that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold petitioner's increment should not be overturned. The ALJ determined that petitioner failed to prove that it was unreasonable for the administrators who observed and evaluated her teaching performance during the 1997-98 school year to conclude that her performance was less than satisfactory. Thus, the ALJ concluded that petitioner did not sustain her burden of establishing that the Board's decision to withhold her increment was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City (District) to withhold her salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Initially this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1998. Count 25 of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Vera Jackson. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. On October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Jackson case, designated EDU 3804-99, on December 9, 1999, and February 8, 2000. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the District submitted a detailed review of the testimony and proposed findings of fact, which I largely have adopted herein.

1. Petitioner, Vera Jackson, was a first-grade teacher at Public School No. 15 during the 1997-98 school year.

2. Petitioner has been employed more than twenty-five years with the District. She has a master's degree in urban education and has earned more than thirty-two credits beyond the master's in general education courses. She taught basic skills for fifteen years in a small setting with only a few students.

3. Petitioner's teaching performance was formally evaluated on two separate occasions by two different administrators during the first half of the 1997-98 year. Petitioner was absent from work from January 1998 through the remainder of the school year on medical leave.

4. Annie Graham, then principal of P.S. No. 15, formally observed and evaluated petitioner on September 29, 1997, from 1:10 p.m. until 2:00 p.m. Petitioner was scheduled to teach a math lesson on counting with pennies.

5. Graham had been employed by the District for twenty-one years and is presently principal of P.S. 12. She previously served as an elementary school teacher, a basic skills teacher and an assistant principal. As principal of the school, her duties entailed observing and evaluating teaching staff members. At the beginning of the school year, Graham informed all teachers at the school that they would be monitored; she reviewed the matters that the evaluators would be looking for.

6. Petitioner's performance was evaluated in relation to five performance factors which are listed on the observation report (R-1). The factors are: (1) demonstrates proficiency in subject matter; (2) assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils; (3) employs effective organization and planning; (4) utilizes effective instructional techniques; and (5) addresses affective domain.

7. Graham rated the teaching performance of petitioner, on September 29, 1997, as less than satisfactory on all five factors.

8. Graham rated petitioner as needing improvement in demonstrating proficiency in subject matter. She was not proficient or organized. She did not have the materials ready for the lesson and wasted valuable instructional time while she gathered materials and distributed them to the students. Petitioner had the students sit in their seats while she went to her purse to gather pennies. Petitioner then asked a student to count the pennies. Nothing more was done with the pennies for the remainder of the lesson and there was no purpose for this activity.

9. Petitioner received a "needs improvement" rating in assesses needs and evaluates progress of the pupils because petitioner showed no indication of having assessed the needs and progress of students before or during the lesson observed by Ms. Graham on September 29, 1997. Petitioner gave all of the students the same activity for counting pennies. Although some of the students finished the activity quickly, no other activity was assigned to them by petitioner. Petitioner did not have folders available for the students, advising Ms. Graham that the folders were at home. Petitioner also had not updated her roll book.

10. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating for organization and planning. Petitioner had not planned to have the chips (manipulatives) ready. The materials were not prepared and at least twenty minutes were wasted when petitioner took the time to walk around to each student and hand out chips.

11. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating in instructional techniques. Petitioner did not introduce or model the lesson to get the students involved, but left them sitting at their seats waiting for direction while she went to her purse to get coins. Petitioner did not tell the students what the objective was. Some of the students did not understand what they were supposed to do with the chips and began playing with them.

12. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating in affective domain. Petitioner had trouble handling and relating to the students. Although rules were posted in petitioner's classroom, petitioner did not implement them in terms of consequences or incentives or to get the students to be quiet. Petitioner did not show respect for the students; petitioner spoke to the students in a demeaning and negative fashion, making comments such as "you're giving me a headache."

13. Graham held a post-observation conference with petitioner on October 6, 1997, during which Graham gave petitioner a copy of the observation report (R-1) and reviewed each phase of the evaluation. Petitioner refused to read the evaluation, so Ms. Graham went over it in detail. Petitioner asked no questions during the conference.

14. Petitioner had taught sixth grade during the 1996-97 school year. Petitioner came to Ms. Graham and asked to teach the first grade, indicating that her forte and expertise were in the primary grades. Graham was able to meet petitioner's request and assigned her to the first grade in September for the 1997-98 school year.

15. Assistance had been offered to petitioner to help her with her performance, including the assignment of supervisory staff to help her. In addition, there was a staff development workshop held at the beginning of September, where portfolios, cooperative learning and other instructional strategies and the evaluation process were discussed. Petitioner's attendance during that school year hindered any assistance she could receive.

16. After the formal observation of September 29, 1997, Graham conducted informal observations of petitioner's class and continued to find petitioner having difficulties with the way she spoke to students and addressed discipline concerns.

17. Petitioner's class was observed on November 6, 1997, by Dawn Reynolds, assistant principal of P.S. 15 since 1993. Reynolds has served approximately twenty-three years with the District, as an elementary school teacher, a Title I teacher of basic skills, head teacher with the adult learning center and assistant principal.

18. Reynolds arrived at petitioner's classroom at 11:45 a.m. for a scheduled language arts lesson, but no one was there. Reynolds waited at the classroom for approximately ten minutes until she heard voices, went around the corner and found petitioner speaking to a colleague. Thereafter, petitioner brought her students to the classroom, allowed the students to sharpen their pencils and go to the restroom before she began the lesson at 12:20 p.m., approximately thirty-five minutes later than scheduled. Reynolds remained in petitioner's class until 12:45 p.m.

19. On her formal observation report, Reynolds rated petitioner as in need of improvement in demonstrating proficiency in subject matter. The activities were not presented in a manner that the students could understand, and the lesson kept changing from one activity to another, in no sequential manner and with no continuity in the instruction. Petitioner did not give a clear introduction and did not take any steps to find out what skills the students already had. Also, petitioner did not teach basic skills enrichment as had been noted in her plan book. Petitioner did not give any student individual attention.

20. Reynolds rated petitioner as needing improvement in the area of assessing student needs and evaluating their progress. Petitioner could not assess whether the students were learning because many of the students were disengaged and not participating in the lesson. Also, petitioner jumped from one activity to the other. No objectives were written on the board to prepare the students and to focus their attention on what they were going to learn. Petitioner gave no individual assistance to any student. Further, petitioner's grading system was not consistent. Petitioner's roll book showed more grades in one subject than in another. There was no assessment instrument in place.

21. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating in employs effective organization and planning. Petitioner's lesson did not begin on time, had no beginning, no middle, no end. There was so much switching back and forth from one activity to the next that the students became disengaged. Petitioner did not call on any students to see if they understood the lesson. Petitioner continually reprimanded the students to get them back to the lesson, but to no avail. Petitioner wasted time in the distribution of materials and did not teach basic skills enrichment, which was on her schedule.

22. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating in instructional techniques. Petitioner started two activities and did not complete either one. She did not address the individual needs of the students; she gave no individual assistance nor did she group the students according to their levels. The students had difficulty understanding what they were supposed to do with the "bug wheel," and petitioner failed to motivate the students to keep them on task.

23. Petitioner received an "unsatisfactory" rating in the area of affective domain because of the negative fashion in which she addressed the students. Petitioner's only discipline plan for enforcing the class rules was negative; she kept reprimanding the students, making statements such as, "you won't see the outside until June."

24. Due to petitioner's less than satisfactory performance rating during the 1997-98 school year, Annie Graham recommend that petitioner's salary increment be withheld.

25. Based upon Graham's recommendation, the District withheld petitioner's salary increment for the 1998-99 school year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Jackson's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative, which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Petitioner asserts that her increment denial was arbitrary, unreasonable and motivated by improper motives. Petitioner asserts that there was a serious question as to the motives and credibility of her evaluators, Ms. Graham and Ms. Reynolds, who had a personal predilection against her. Petitioner contends that she taught her class in a sufficient manner considering that she learned of her new assignment only a few days before the first evaluation and received no specific training or guidance in her new assignment. According to petitioner, the District "simply threw her into the class and hoped for the best" and has "penalized her for its unreasonable staffing demand." Petitioner further argues that the criteria requirements were not clear to the evaluators and were not made clear to her. Further, petitioner contends that she was critiqued not based on objective District-wide criteria, but by the evaluators' own personal views of what a teacher should do. Petitioner further asserts that the District failed to set forth the guidelines the District uses to grant or deny increments.

I have considered petitioner's arguments and conclude that the evidence simply does not substantiate her contentions. Specifically, she failed to present any evidence to support her claim that the motives and credibility of the evaluators were insincere or that one or both of the evaluators had a personal predilection against her. Moreover, although petitioner now objects to the fact that she was assigned to teach the first grade at the beginning of the school year, it is clear that Ms. Graham was attempting to accommodate Ms. Jackson's request to teach the first grade rather than the sixth grade, which she taught the previous year. The District did not throw her into a new class and hope for the best, but actually accommodated her own request. Moreover, petitioner did not ask for specific training or guidance relative to her new assignment, and in fact refused to read the evaluation that Ms. Graham went over with her anyway. Further, assistance had been offered to petitioner to help her with her performance, including the assignment of supervisory staff, as well as a staff development workshop held in the beginning of September. Apparently, petitioner did not seek to correct her deficient performance. Moreover, it is obvious that petitioner's twenty-five years with the District, along with a master's degree in urban education and thirty-two credits beyond the master's in general education courses, should have prepared her to teach the first grade. Clearly, she should have possessed the requisite expertise to rectify the situation.

Further, petitioner's contention that she was not critiqued based upon objective District-wide criteria, but based on the evaluators' own personal views of what a teacher should do, is simply not borne out by the evidence. There are District-wide requirements which were understood and utilized by the evaluators, who sought to make them clear to Jackson.

In sum, petitioner's arguments amounted to excuses, which were unsupported by any independent evidence and were not reasonable or credible. Petitioner's effort to blame her poor teaching performance either on those who conducted the evaluations or other factors was unsuccessful. Petitioner failed to prove that it was unreasonable for the administrators who observed and evaluated her teaching performance during the 1997-98 school year to conclude that her performance was less than satisfactory.

Of import, petitioner's assertions were contrary to the testimony and evidence adduced by respondent's witnesses. Petitioner was evaluated by two independent and experienced evaluators who observed and evaluated petitioner's teaching performance on at least one occasion each. Their testimony, as substantiated by their reports, was clear, specific, credible and worthy of belief. It demonstrated that petitioner properly received unsatisfactory ratings and needed improvement in demonstrating proficiency in subject matter, assessing needs and evaluating the progress of the pupils, employing effective organization and planning, utilizing effective instructional techniques and addressing affective domain. Clearly, the evidence demonstrated that petitioner's teaching performance on the occasions on which she was observed was actually less than satisfactory in each performance category set forth in the evaluation form. Although one of the evaluations occurred at the end of September, the other evaluation occurred on November 6, 1997. Neither evaluation occurred on the first or second day of school. Moreover, Ms. Graham attempted to advise petitioner of what was expected of her and make suggestions for her improvement. In sum, petitioner was advised as to what was expected of her and was properly evaluated. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not proven that the Board's decision to withhold her salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his independent and careful review of the record, which included transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL[1], the Commissioner determines to affirm the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) recommended decision as he concurs with the ALJ that the District's action of withholding petitioner's 1998-99 increment was a valid exercise of that body's discretionary authority. In this regard, it must be reemphasized that the decision of the District is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be overturned unless petitioner makes an affirmative showing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that such action was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Here, the Commissioner concludes that the record amply establishes that the District's action in withholding petitioner's increment was based on validly perceived deficiencies in her performance during the 1997-98 school year and, as such, petitioner has failed to sustain her burden.

[1] Hearing dates were December 9, 1999 and February 3, 2000.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons well-stated therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF ZENA MITCHELL, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.

(Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein and Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 18, 2000 Decided: August 29, 2000

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (School District) filed charges with the Commissioner of Education against Zena Mitchell (respondent),whom it employees as a tenured teacher. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on April 28, 1998, for determination as a contested case.

This matter was consolidated with Zena Mitchell v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10967-97, Agency Dkt. No. 424-10/97, which involved a withholding of respondent's increment for the 1997-98 school year based upon the same concerns as the tenure charges. After the School District restored the increment, respondent withdrew her petition.

Prior to hearing, the parties submitted a Settlement Agreement which resolves the dispute with respect to the tenure charges and also a civil action commenced by respondent in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Essex County. The Settlement Agreement provides for the withdrawal of the tenure charges in this matter. The parties also submitted a Stipulation, which sets forth the reasons for the withdrawal of the tenure charges. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, Mitchell filed a petition with the Commissioner challenging the School District's action to withhold her salary increment for the 1997-1998 school year;

JUL 13 10 09 AM

3a

WHEREAS, the School District filed an answer denying the allegations in the petition, and this action was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law and assigned OAL Docket No. EDU 10967-97, Agency Ref. No. 424-10/97 ("Increment Withholding Action"); and the Tenure Charges and the Increment Withholding Action have been consolidated by the Office of Administrative Law;

WHEREAS, in June of 2000 the School District voluntarily restored Mitchell's 1997-1998 salary increment and Mitchell voluntarily withdrew her appeal; and

WHEREAS, Mitchell and the School District desire to reach an amicable settlement of the Civil Action, the Tenure Charges and the Increment Withholding Action;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises set forth below, the parties agree as follows:

1. Withdrawal of Tenure Charges and Dismissal of Increment Withholding Action. The School District agrees to withdraw the Tenure Charges, subject to approval of this settlement by the Commissioner. Both parties agree to take any and all steps necessary to obtain such approval, including, but not limited to submitting to the Commissioner a joint request for approval and the Stipulation attached hereto as Exhibit "A" in support of such request.

2. Dismissal of Civil Action. Promptly upon receipt of the Commissioner's decision approving this settlement, Mitchell shall take any and all steps necessary for the Civil Action to be dismissed with prejudice.

3. Resignation and General Release.

A. Mitchell shall submit a letter of resignation/retirement voluntarily terminating her employment with the District, effective on the date Mitchell receives approval and confirmation from the Division of Pensions and Benefits that her service credits have been purchased. This letter shall be held in escrow by Cherie L. Maxwell, counsel for the District and shall be provided to Ms. Maxwell upon her receipt of the Commissioner's decision approving this settlement. Once Ms. Maxwell receives written confirmation from Mitchell's attorney, Claudine M. Liss, Esq., that the service credits have been purchased and approved. The letter may be released to the District effective that date.

B. Mitchell shall execute and deliver to the School District a General Release in the form attached hereto as Exhibit "B" (General Release). This General Release shall be held in escrow by Cherie L. Maxwell, counsel for the District and shall be provided to Ms. Maxwell upon receipt of the Commissioner's decision approving the settlement. Once Ms. Maxwell receives written confirmation from Mitchell's attorney, Claudine M. Liss, Esq., that the service credits have been purchased and approved, the General Release may be provided to the District.

4. Settlement Payments. Upon receipt of Mitchell's resignation/retirement letter and the General Release, both of which shall be held in escrow by Cherie L. Maxwell, counsel for the District, until Mitchell and her counsel receive conformation that the pension service credits have been paid to and confirmed by the Division of Pension and Benefits, the retirement shall become effective at that time, the School District shall provide Ms. Mitchell with the following settlement payments:

A. It shall pay Mitchell One Hundred Thousand ($100,000.00) Dollars in a lump sum and shall report such payment to the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") as "other income" and not as "wages"; and Mitchell agrees to indemnify and hold the School District harmless against any and all liability which may arise out of its failure to withhold taxes or meet any employer obligation relating to the payment of wages, including but not limited to any liability for interest or penalties imposed by the IRS or any other authority.

B. It shall continue to pay Mitchell's salary and make all applicable pension contributions on her behalf until Mitchell has purchased her pension service credits and received confirmation from the Division of Pension and Benefits.

C. It shall pay Mitchell an amount equivalent to all salary which was not paid to her during the period of her suspension without pay (March 15 to September 15, 1998) minus all applicable withholdings and deductions; and it shall make pension contributions on her behalf to the Teachers Pension Annuity Fund equivalent to the contributions which would have been made during said period but for the suspension without pay; and

D. Upon election by Mitchell to continue health insurance coverage after retirement/resignation, pursuant to the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act ("COBRA"), the School District shall pay all applicable premiums on Mitchell's behalf for continuation coverage under the School District's group health insurance plan, at the level of coverage in effect the date of retirement/resignation and in accordance with the same terms which would apply if Mitchell were a current employee of the School District for 18 months after the effective date of her resignation (the "COBRA Period") provided, however, that all benefits shall cease on any date earlier than that set forth herein on which Mitchell becomes covered under another group health insurance plan that does not contain an exclusion for pre-existing conditions. Mitchell agrees to notify the School District of the date on which such other coverage will be in the event that such date is during the COBRA period.

5. Expungement of Record. Upon receipt of Mitchell's letter of resignation, the School District shall remove any reference to the 1997-1998 increment withholding or the Tenure Charges from Mitchell's personnel file.

6. Reference. The School District's response to any request for a reference with respect to Mitchell shall be limited to the dates of her employment and her salary upon termination.

7. Compromise. The parties agree and acknowledge that this Agreement is the result of a compromise and is not to be construed as an admission of liability, wrongdoing or responsibility on the part of the School District or its predecessor, any successors, assigns, agents, officers, employees, agents or contractors. The School District expressly denies any such liability, wrongdoing or responsibility and intends by this Agreement merely to avoid further litigation.

8. Binding Effect. The parties agree to be bound by this Agreement without limitation, restriction or reservation. Anyone who succeeds to the rights and responsibilities of the parties, such as heirs, assigns, transferees, successors, the executor of Mitchell's estate or any other party who succeeds to the interests of either party is also bound.

9. Confidentiality of Agreement. Except as provided herein, the terms of this Agreement shall remain confidential and shall not be directly or indirectly disseminated in any manner whatsoever to any person or entity not a party to this Agreement, except: i) as mutually agreed upon in writing by the parties to this Agreement; ii) pursuant to a valid order of a court or a lawfully issued and enforceable subpoena; or iii) as required by law or regulation. Mitchell may disclose the terms of this Agreement to her attorneys, accountants and/or financial advisors, and the School District may disclose the terms of this Agreement to its attorneys and auditors and any officer or employee of the School District or the New Jersey Department of Education with a legitimate need for such information, provided that prior to any such disclosure, the individual receiving the information shall be advised that the information must be treated confidentially. If either party receives a request or subpoena seeking production or disclosure of the terms of this Agreement, she or it shall give prompt written notice to the other party of the request or subpoena in order to allow the other party an opportunity to resist the request or subpoena.

10. Breach. In the event that either party breaches any of its or her duties or promises under this Agreement or the General Release, the aggrieved party shall have the right to all remedies permissible under law, including, but not limited, damages, legal and equitable relief and any other relief which a court may order.

11. Enforceability. If a court of competent jurisdiction decides that any provision of this Agreement is not enforceable in the manner set forth in this Agreement, the parties agree that it is their intention that such provision should be enforceable to the maximum extent possible under applicable law and that such provision shall be reformed to make it enforceable in accordance with the intent of the parties. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid or unenforceable, such invalidation or uneforceability shall not affect the validity or enforceablity of any other provision of this Agreement.

12. No Assignment. Neither this Agreement nor any rights hereunder may be assigned by Mitchell, except by will or by operation of the laws of intestate succession.

13. Entire Agreement. This Agreement and the General Release are the entire agreement between Mitchell and the School District and supersedes any existing oral or written agreements with respect to Mitchell's employment with the School District; except for the collective bargaining agreement between the Newark Public Schools and the Newark Teacher's Union, Local 481 AFL-CIO ("Collective Bargaining Agreement"). No representations regarding the School District's relationship with Mitchell or any obligations to Mitchell have been made or survive except as set forth herein or in the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

14. Amendment. This Agreement cannot be amended, supplemented or modified and no provision may be waived, except by a written instrument executed by the party against whom enforcement of any such amendment, supplement, modification or waiver is sought.

15. New Jersey Law. This Agreement and the General Release shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey without regard to its conflicts of laws principles.

16. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed by the parties hereto in separate counterparts, each of which so executed and delivered shall be an original.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the School District, by its duly authorized representative, and Zena Mitchell have executed this Agreement as of the dates below.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 64-3/98

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ZENA MITCHELL,	:
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and the Stipulation[1] and Settlement Agreement have been reviewed. Initially, the Commissioner notes that once tenure charges are certified to him, such charges may be withdrawn or settled only with his approval. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a), any proposed withdrawal or settlement, whether submitted to the Commissioner or to the Administrative Law Judge, must address the standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled, In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. Upon careful and independent review of the full record of this matter and the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement, since he cannot be satisfied that it meets the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters.

Here, respondent, a tenured teacher, is charged with unbecoming conduct by virtue of her alleged engagement in repeated, inappropriate and unjustified physical contact with students under her care; her failure to attend required training relating to effective student techniques or crisis intervention; and her failure to properly supervise her students. (Stipulation at 1) The District now affirms that:

> [it] does not believe that it can sustain its burden of proof in this tenure proceeding. The settlement of this matter under the proposed terms could save the District and the public substantial legal fees which would be necessary to proceed with this matter and would protect the District from the possibility of a substantial jury verdict, including punitive damage. (Stipulation at 6)

Thus, the Agreement provides, in part, that respondent shall dismiss her civil claim against the District and submit a letter of resignation on the date she receives "approval and confirmation from the Division of Pension and Benefits that her service credits have been purchased." (Id. at 5) The District has agreed, inter alia, to withdraw its charges against respondent; reimburse her for salary and pension contributions lost while she was suspended without pay from March 15, 1998 until September 15, 1998; continue to pay her salary and make applicable salary contributions on her behalf until she receives approval and confirmation from the Division of Pension and Benefits that her service credits have been purchased; pay respondent a lump sum of $100,000 to be applied to the purchase of such service credits; pay applicable health insurance premiums, if respondent so elects, for 18 months after the effective date of her resignation and retirement; remove any reference to her 1997-98 increment withholding or tenure charges from her file; and respond to any request for a reference for respondent by providing only the dates of her employment and her salary upon termination of employment. (Id. at 5, 6)

It is clear that where charges are made against any tenured employee of a district, the Commissioner anticipates that the charges are fully investigated and evaluated, vis-a-vis the evidence thereto, prior to the district bringing the weight of the legal process down on the teaching staff member:

> Certification of tenure charges by a [district] is predicated on the [district's] belief that the charges  and the evidence in support of the charges would be sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant a dismissal or reduction in salary. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.
> On the basis that the [district] believes the teacher is unfit, it makes the commitment to expend its monetary resources, provide [District] personnel, and hire legal counsel to obtain relief; i.e., dismissal or reduction in salary. Where the facts of a case are clear, using the settlement process to achieve either of the statutorily prescribed results is prudent. Where the facts are not clear, or in dispute, a settlement for less than dismissal may be justified, bearing in mind that settlement may be inappropriate in certain matters. Where it is in the public interest to fully determine the issues, a plenary hearing is required. (emphasis added) (Cardonick at 850)

Notwithstanding the parties' bare assertion that this settlement protects the public's interest, the Commissioner disagrees. In tenure matters such as this, where a teaching staff member loses tenure and/or is dismissed for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming or other just cause, the case is forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for a determination as to possible revocation or suspension of the teaching staff member's certificate.[2] Upon such referral, the State Board of Examiners "shall determine by public vote whether or not the offense [as] proven is of such a nature as to warrant revocation or suspension consideration, or dismissal of the case." (emphasis added) (N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6) Therefore, even if the agreement had properly acknowledged respondent's awareness of the Commissioner's duty to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, absent any factual findings on the record with respect to the specific allegations, and noting that respondent continues to dispute the most serious allegations, the Commissioner cannot find that the public good shall be served. The Commissioner underscores that:

[2] The Commissioner notes that there is no indication in the proposed agreement that the within teaching staff member was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations for possible revocation of certificate.

> the mere fact that one of the terms of a proposed settlement  calls for the teaching staff member's resignation does not in and of itself assure [the Commissioner] that the Cardonick standards have been met because concern for the public interest extends beyond the boundaries of the particular district certifying the tenure charges. (In Re Robert Barnes Driscoll, Board of Education of Cape May County Vocational-Technical School District, Cape May County, November 10, 1999, Slip Opinion at 5)

Furthermore, the Commissioner observes that respondent's resignation from the District is essentially contingent upon action to be taken by the Department of Treasury, Division of Pensions and Benefits. (Settlement Agreement at 3) Recognizing that any settlement agreement effectuated by parties to a dispute must be fully dispositive of all issues in controversy so that the agreement may, upon the Commissioner's approval, be deemed a final decision, N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, the Commissioner cannot approve a settlement where a material term, such as respondent's resignation, is dependent upon the satisfaction of conditions by another agency, and where the parties make no provision for that condition's nonoccurrence. In this connection, the Commissioner further notes that the proposed agreement provides no explanation of how the $100,000 lump sum payment to respondent for the purchase of her service credits is consonant with the public's interest, or more specifically, how this particular sum was calculated.

Next, with respect to the term wherein the District agrees to respond to any request for a reference for respondent with only the dates of her employment and her salary upon termination of employment (Settlement Agreement at 5), the Commissioner cautions that although the District is not specifically required to state publicly the reasons for separation, it must make such information available upon request, pursuant to Executive Order No. 11 (1974). This Order states, in pertinent part, that the following information be public:

> a. An individual's name, title, position, salary, payroll record, length of service in the instrumentality of government and in the government, date of separation from government service and the reason therefor; and the amount and type of pension he is receiving;

b. Data contained in information which disclose conformity with specific experiential, educational or medical qualifications required for government employment or for receipt of a public pension, but in no event shall detailed medical or psychological information be released.  (emphasis added)

The Commissioner cannot sanction terms in a settlement that would infringe in any way on the right of the District to be fully forthcoming in responding to any inquiries that might arise concerning respondent's employment with the District. See, e.g., John Salsberg v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, Morris County, decided by the Commissioner May 11, 1989.

Finally, with respect to the parties' confidentiality clause in term nine of the proposed agreement (Settlement Agreement at 6), the Commissioner stresses that although the parties may agree between themselves to keep the specific terms of a settlement agreement confidential, they cannot seek to bind the Commissioner or, for that matter, any other individual to such confidentiality provision. The Commissioner's decision in this matter is a public record.

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein. The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement documents consistent with this decision, which revisions shall specify that respondent will not oppose proceedings before the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6. However, if the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a hearing on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ZENA MITCHELL,	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 16, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Claudene M. Liss, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Cross Appellant, Sills, Cummis, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter involves a proposed settlement of both tenure charges that had been certified against Zena Mitchell (hereinafter "respondent") by the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (hereinafter "District") and a civil action that had been commenced by respondent in Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Essex County. The tenure charges alleged that respondent had engaged in repeated inappropriate and unjustified physical contact with students, that she had failed to attend required training related to effective student techniques or crisis intervention, and that she had failed to properly supervise her students. The civil suit was filed after the Commissioner rendered a decision in another matter arising from the District's action in withholding respondent's increment for 1995-96. In that decision, the Commissioner adopted the findings of the Administrative Law Judge and concluded that the District had acted in bad faith to withhold respondent's increment for 1995-96 in retaliation for the discrimination claims she had filed against it.[1] Similarly, in her civil action, respondent alleges that the District retaliated against her for a complaint she had filed under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. In the civil suit, respondent claims that such retaliation was in violation of the Conscientious Employee Protection Act ("CEPA"), and she is seeking relief, including punitive damages, under that Act.

The settlement was proposed by the parties after the tenure charges against respondent had been transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"). The proposed settlement was reviewed by the ALJ pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Finding that the parties had voluntarily agreed to the settlement and that the settlement both disposed of all issues in controversy and was consistent with law, the ALJ concluded that the settlement met the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and should be approved.

The Commissioner rejected the ALJ's recommendation, stating that he was compelled to do so because he was not satisfied that the settlement met the standards set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner of Education, April 7, 1982, aff'd by the State Board of Education, April 6,1983. The Commissioner remanded the matter to OAL for revision of the settlement. In doing so, the Commissioner specifically required that the agreement be revised to provide that "respondent will not oppose proceedings before the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 8 (emphasis in the original).

[1] See Zena Mitchell v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 30, 1997. We note that by interlocutory decision of March 12, 1999 in the tenure matter, the Administrative Law Judge issued an order taking official notice of the Initial Decision in the increment matter and directing that the doctrine of collateral estoppel apply to the factual findings and conclusions set forth in that decision.

The Commissioner also construed the settlement as making respondent's resignation contingent on action by the Department of Treasury, Division of Pensions and Benefits, and rejected the settlement on the grounds that he could not approve a settlement where a material term was dependent on the actions of another agency. He further indicated that the District's agreement to respond to requests for references with only the dates of respondent's employment and her salary might infringe on its obligation to disclose upon request the reason for her separation from employment as required by Executive Order No. 11 (1974). Finally, the Commissioner expressed concern with the parties' confidentiality clause, stressing that they could not bind anyone other than the parties by such provision.

Respondent appealed to the State Board of Education, seeking approval of the proposed settlement. Respondent contends that the Commissioner could not require her to waive her right to oppose proceedings before the Board of Examiners as a condition of settling her tenure matter.

The District cross-appealed, also seeking approval of the settlement. Like respondent, the District argues that the Commissioner could not properly require respondent to agree not to oppose proceedings before the Board of Examiners. In addition, the District contends that the Commissioner misconstrued the settlement and that it does in fact meet the Cardonick standards. In this respect, the District argues that, contrary to the Commissioner's interpretation, the terms of the agreement do not require the Division of Pensions to take any action in order for the agreement between the District and respondent to be effectuated. Rather, the agreement requires that respondent use the lump sum payment of $100,000 from the District to purchase service credit and to confirm that she has complied with this term by providing the notice of purchase that she will receive from the Division of Pensions. The District also points out that the agreement limits its response to inquiries concerning respondent except as required by law or regulation so that it does permit the District to comply with Executive Order No. 11.

The District further maintains that the proposed settlement is in the public interest. It stresses that the tenure charges would be difficult to prosecute because of the finding made by the ALJ and adopted by the Commissioner in deciding respondent's challenge to the District's action in withholding her increment for 1995-96, i.e., that the District acted in bad faith and in retaliation against respondent for filing discrimination claims. This finding, argues the District, would also affect the District's ability to defend itself in the civil action that respondent initiated under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act. By disposing of both the tenure charges and the civil action and by providing for a lump sum payment of $100,000, the proposed settlement allows the District to avoid the potential costs that would attend litigating these matters, as well as the risk that respondent would be awarded punitive damages in the civil action. This outcome, asserts the District, is in the public good.

We agree with the parties that the proposed agreement meets the standards established in Cardonick, supra. As we stressed in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lenore M. Allen, decided by the State Board of Education, November 1, 2000, Cardonick requires that a proposed tenure settlement be accompanied by supporting documentation as to the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent by the district board and teacher to the agreement, and the ALJ's findings that the agreement is consistent with the public interest and was entered into by the teacher with a full understanding of his or her rights, including the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certification. It does not, however, require that a respondent relinquish the right to defend herself before that board. Moreover, as we indicated in Lenore Allen, principles of due process would not permit either the Commissioner or the State Board to condition approval of a proposed tenure settlement on such an agreement. Lenore Allen, supra, slip op. at 4.

Moreover, as expressed by the State Board of Education:

> ...dismissal from a tenured position and revocation of certification serve different purposes and...the responsibilities of the Commissioner under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 are distinct from those of the Board of Examiners under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38. E.g., In the Matter of the Revocation of the Teaching Certificates of John Ahern, rev'd and remanded by the State Board of Education, August 5, 1987 (subsequent history omitted).
>
> N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38 confers original jurisdiction on the State Board of Examiners to act under rules prescribed by the State Board of Education to revoke the certificates that it issues. Consequently, it is the determination by the State Board of Examiners that may preclude a teacher who has been dismissed from tenured employment from future employment in any school district in New Jersey. Accordingly, the pertinent regulations set forth procedures under which cases involving offenses of such nature as to warrant suspension or revocation of certification may be decided by the State Board of Examiners following an appropriate hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6. Those procedures include transmittal to the Office of Administrative Law, thereby enabling the State Board of Examiners to resolve cases involving disputes as to the material facts. Id. Such disputes may involve, where appropriate, facts relating to the conduct underlying the tenure charges. Id. Given the statutory authority possessed by the State Board of Examiners and the regulations we have adopted to > implement that authority, we are confident that upon referral of this matter to the State Board of Examiners, that board will insure that the interests of the public are protected.

Lenore Allen, supra, slip op. at 5-6.

Hence, all that was required of the parties in this case with respect to referral to the State Board of Examiners was the inclusion in the proposed settlement of an acknowledgement by respondent that one of the implications of the settlement is referral to the Board of Examiners and that, consequently, there is the potential for that board to initiate proceedings to revoke or suspend her certification. Although not included in the proposed settlement executed by respondent and the State District Superintendent on June 9, 2000, such acknowledgement is set forth in the Stipulation of Agreement executed by the attorneys for the parties on June 26, 2000. In that the final version of the agreement, by which respondent is bound, includes the required acknowledgement, this requirement of Cardonick is satisfied.

Upon review of its terms, we find that the final version of the agreement also conforms to the requirements of Cardonick in all other respects. As more clearly set forth in the Stipulation of Agreement than in the earlier version, the agreement is not dependant on any action by the Division of Pensions. Rather, as the District points out, the notice of purchase that will be generated once respondent purchases her service credit will serve only to evidence that respondent has complied with the agreement by using the $100,000 payment to purchase such credit. Similarly, we find no reason to be concerned about the fact that the agreement requires confidentiality by the parties or would limit the District's response to inquiries about respondent's employment. Again, as the District argues, the confidentiality agreement binds no one except the parties and the settlement expressly allows the District to comply with Executive Order No. 11.

Finally, we agree with the District that under the circumstances set forth in the Stipulation of Agreement, this settlement is in the public interest. In this respect, we concur that given the finding arrived at in the administrative proceedings related to the withholding of respondent's increment for 1995-96, the District's ability to prosecute the tenure charges would be limited. For the same reason, it would find it difficult to defend itself in the civil action, and we stress that the combined cost of litigating the tenure charges and defending the civil suit would be considerable. The availability of punitive damages in the civil action increases the District's potential liability so that, on balance, agreement to the $100,000 payment is not unreasonable.

Therefore, for the reasons expressed herein, the State Board of Education reverses the Commissioner's decision and approves the settlement proposed by the parties as embodied in the Stipulation executed by the attorneys for the parties in this matter.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school nurse alleged the District wrongfully deducted time from her sick leave bank in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

The ALJ dismissed the petition on a summary basis, finding that petitioner filed her claim with the Commissioner after her Worker's Compensation claim had already been settled under Section 20.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the within petition was properly dismissed since petitioner knowingly relinquished any claim that she may have had pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she accepted her Section 20 settlement before the Division of Workers' Compensation.

Record Closed: June 26, 2000 Decided: August 30, 2000

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Lucy Sheridan (petitioner) filed with the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, a petition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 seeking an Order directing the Paterson School District (respondent) to pay the "difference between her full salary which she received pursuant to worker's compensation together with having 55 sick leave days restored to her sick leave bank."

Respondent filed an answer raising the defenses of estoppel and res judicata as well as the bar of the Worker's Compensation Act. Respondent also contends that when Sheridan appeared before the Worker's Compensation Court she acknowledged that by accepting the sum of $10,000 that all claims arising out of the incident of January 14, 1991 would be waived.

On January 14, 1991, petitioner, a school nurse, alleged that she was verbally abused by a student. Subsequently, she had a disagreement with the school principal concerning the proposed resolution. The principal telephoned petitioner and allegedly screamed at her "to leave his school." Petitioner thought she would have had his support.

On August 26, 1991, petitioner filed an Employee's Claim Petition with the Division of Worker's Compensation contending that as a result of the above incident, she sustained injury to her nervous system among other complications. On November 22, 1991, respondent filed an answer.

On March 10, March 31, and November 17, 1997, testimony was taken from the petitioner in the Workers' Compensation Court.

Sheridan testified that on January 14, 1991, while employed by the respondent as a nurse at school #4, a student came into her office with a bandage on his arm. She refused to treat the student at this time because she had other children in her office. She told the student to return in two hours. Shortly thereafter, the student returned and told her that the principal said she should "take care of this." Thereafter, Sheridan and the student went to the principal's office. She told the principal that the student was becoming verbally abusive. According to Sheridan, the principal said, "Well if you're not gonna take care of him, send him over to School 28 and let the nurse there take care of him." She refused to send the student over to school #28. Sheridan refused to change the student's dressing after her lunch.

Sheridan also testified that she was upset because the principal did not return the student to class. When she returned to her office, the principal called her and screamed at her to "get out of my school." Petitioner subsequently claims to have experienced chest pain and palpitations. She contacted her supervisor and requested a transfer to another school, which took place the following day. Petitioner did not seek medical treatment during the week following the incident.

After being transferred, petitioner worked for approximately two and a half months. She was out of work from April 1991 to September 3, 1991. In September 1991, she returned to work.

Petitioner alleged that the January 14, 1991 incident[i] with the school principal was so traumatic that she became depressed and could no longer handle her responsibilities as she was previously capable of doing. Sheridan first sought medical treatment on January 21, 1991. The doctor prescribed Xanax. In February of 1991, petitioner saw another doctor. Her medication was changed from Xanax to Ludiomil.

Petitioner claims to have had a second "incident" with a different principal at school #29. She had called a student's doctor to verify medication the student was taking. The student's parent became upset and met with the principal and petitioner. Sheridan claimed the principal let "her [the parent] sit there and abuse me."

Following her transfer to school #29 in September 1991, petitioner had not lost any time from work due to conditions allegedly related to the January 14, 1991 incident. Yet, petitioner saw Dr. Kuvin on four occasions in 1993. Dr. Kuvin prescribed what petitioner remembers as an "anti-depressant", although she states she never took.[ii]

During the workers compensation case, after two days of petitioner's testimony, the parties agreed to a $10,000 settlement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20.[iii] The settlement was approved by Judge Mohr. When petitioner was asked if she voluntarily entered into the settlement and whether she wished the court to approve, she responded:

[i] The entire incident from beginning to end lasted approximately 30 to 35 minutes.

[ii] Petitioner has not taken any medication since July of 1991.

[iii] N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 states:

> In case of a dispute over or failure to agree upon a claim for compensation between employer and employee, or the dependents of the employee, either party may submit the claim, both as to the questions of fact, the nature and effect of the injuries, and the amount of compensation thereof....After a petition for compensation or dependency claims has been filed, seeking compensation by reason of accident, injury or occupational disease of any employee, and when the petitioner is represented by an attorney of the State of New Jersey, and when it shall appear that the issue or issues involve the question of jurisdiction, liability, causal relationship or dependency of the petitioner under this chapter, and the petitioner and the respondent are desirous of entering into a lump-sum settlement of the controversy, a judge of compensation may with the consent of the parties, after considering the testimony of the petitioner and other witnesses, together with any stipulation of the parties, and after such judge of compensation has determined that such settlement is fair and just under all the circumstances, enter "an order approving settlement". Such settlement, when so approved, notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, shall have the force and effect of a dismissal of the claim petition and shall be final and conclusive upon the employee and the employee's dependents, and shall be a complete surrender of any right to compensation or other benefits arising out of such claim under the statute...

> I've discussed everything. I'm just, like, a little unhappy at the whole situation, like it was my fault that it went on so long and I went to school a happy camper that day, and my sick days would have been $10,000. I've already paid over $4,000 of my own money. What I'm hoping is by ending this, that I'm gonna start healing and it's gonna be over with. [Emphasis added.]

Sheridan was told by Judge Mohr that in lieu of accepting the settlement she had the right to continue with the hearing. Petitioner responded:

> I did - I was told that, but it sounded very negative. It would have been dismissed and this--and at 63, I've been going on for so long with this I just want it over. [Emphasis added.]

In approving the settlement, the court stated:

> Having heard the trial thus far, I'm satisfied that there are issues as to causal relation which would make this settlement appropriate.
> I'm also satisfied having observed and listened to the petitioner and questioned the petitioner myself this morning, that she clearly understands the nature of these proceedings, and that by accepting this settlement, not only is she waiving her right to continue with trial, but also her matter will be dismissed with prejudice. I'm satisfied she entered into this settlement voluntarily.

An Order was entered approving the settlement of $10,000. The Order itself specifically states that it is "pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 which has the effect of a dismissal with prejudice, being final as to all rights and benefits of the petitioner and the petitioner's dependents and is a complete and absolute surrender of all their rights arising out of this/these claim(s)." Petitioner subsequently filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 on February 13, 1998 after her request for payment of salary and sick days lost was denied.

DISCUSSION

New Jersey courts have expressed a strong public policy supporting the enforcement of settlement agreements. In Dept of Public Advocate v. New Jersey Bd. of Public Utilities, 206 N.J. Super. 523, 528 (App. Div. 1985), the Appellate Division stated that "courts will strain to give effect to the terms of a settlement wherever possible":

> In our view the beginning point of this analysis is the strong public policy in this state in favor of settlements. Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118, 125 (App. Div. 1983), certif. den., 94 N.J. 600 (1983). The point of this policy is not the salutary effect of settlements on our overtaxed judicial and administrative calendars (although this is an undeniable benefit) but the notion that the parties to a dispute are in the best position to determine how to resolve a contested matter in a way which is > least disadvantageous to everyone. In recognition of this principle, courts will strain to give effect to the terms of a settlement wherever possible. It follows that any action which would have the effect of vitiating the provisions of a particular settlement agreement and the concomitant effect of undermining public confidence in the settlement process in general, should not be countenanced.

Accord, Jannarone v. W.T. Co., 65 N.J.Super. 472, 476 (App.Div.), certif.den., 35 N.J. 61 (1961), following, Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 25 N.J. 17, 35 (1957)([t]he settlement of litigation ranks high in our public policy.).

A settlement agreement is enforceable like any other contract in the absence of "fraud or other compelling circumstances." Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J.Super. 118, 124-125 (App. Div.1983) certif. den., 94 N.J. 600 (1983)(citing Honeywell v. Bubb, 130 N.J.Super. 130, 136 (App.Div. 1974)):

> An agreement to settle a lawsuit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into and which a court, absent a demonstration of "fraud or compelling circumstances", should honor and enforce as it does other contracts . . . .

Sheridan filed an Employee's Claim Petition with the Division of Workers' Compensation because of the alleged incident of January 14, 1991. After the $10,000 settlement and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 (Section 20), petitioner filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking reimbursement of 55 sick leave days. This was pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. However, it is clear from petitioners testimony as previously quoted that the $10,000 settlement figure represented the amount she believed to be the sum total of her sick days used.

Additionally, petitioner's annual salary was $35,000. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, which sets forth the method for calculating an employee's per day salary for sick leave under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, states, "a day's salary is defined as 1/200 of the annual salary." Therefore, petitioner's one day salary is $175.00. Since petitioner alleges that she is entitled to 55 sick days, her impression of the value of those sick days would be approximately $10,000 (55 days * $175 = $9,625).

The Order itself states that it is "pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 which has the effect of a dismissal with prejudice, being final as to all rights and benefits of the petitioner...and is a complete and absolute surrender of all their rights arising out of this/these claim(s)." It is apparent from petitioner's testimony that the amount of the Section 20 Settlement was considered by her to be compensation for the sick leave days for which she believed she had been charged. Petitioner can file another petition in a different forum asserting a claim which had previously been settled.

This result is consistent with the holding by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Coleman v. Fiore Bros. Inc., 113 N.J. 594 (1989). In Coleman, plaintiffs, represented by the Passaic Legal Aid Society, brought suit against under the Consumer Fraud Act, N.J.S.A. 56:8-1, et. seq. The parties reached a settlement, and plaintiffs sought to recover counsel fees. The Court denied plaintiff relief and stated:

> . . . there had been no attempt to expressly reserve the issue: the agreement recited "[A]ll claims for damages – actual, punitive and statutory of the Complaint and Counterclaim are hereby settled. ... In addition, the filed stipulation of dismissal of the case contains no reference to any exclusion of the fees sought in the original complaint. We are satisfied that it would be counter to the fair expectations of counsel in the conduct of this case to have surmised that the public policy of New Jersey forbade such a settlement and dismissal of the action for statutory fees. [Id. at 62.]

The conclusion reached in Coleman is also consistent with the holding of the State Board of Education in Marino v. Willingboro Twp. Bd. of Education, OAL DKT. EDU 8580-98, State Board (March 1, 2000). In Marino, petitioner had filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking sick leave benefits from the respondent under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Petitioner's appeal was stayed while remedies under the Workers' Compensation Act were pursued. Petitioner's later settled under Section 20. What is significant in Marino, is the fact that respondent knew at the time of the Section 20 settlement that petitioner still had pending his appeal under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 before the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner in Marino clearly indicated that he was not waiving any entitlement to sick leave benefits he may have under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 by settling his workers' compensation claim. In the case sub judice, petitioner filed her claim with the Commissioner of Education after her workers' compensation claim had already been settled, a settlement which was "final as to all rights and benefits of the petitioner and the petitioner's dependents and is a complete and absolute surrender of all their rights arising out of this/these claim(s)."

At no time during the workers' compensation hearing, or at the time of the Section 20 settlement, did petitioner indicate that she was not waiving any entitlement she may have to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In fact, she indicated that the amount of her settlement was compensation for the sick leave days for which she believed she had been charged[iv]. In Marino, the State Board explicitly stated that "the parties to a workers' compensation case are free to agree in settling such a claim that the claimant is thereby waiving his statutory rights to benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1." Marino, supra, OAL DKT. EDU 8580-98, State Board (March 1, 2000) at 6. Clearly, the Section 20 settlement entered into by the parties herein on November 17, 1997 evidenced an unambiguous waiver of any rights petitioner may have had under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. When the court advised petitioner that in lieu of accepting the settlement she had the right to continue with the trial, petitioner, responded:

> I did-I was told that, but it sounded very negative. It would have been dismissed and this--and at 63, I've been going on for so long with this I just want it over. [Emphasis added.]

The court, in approving the settlement, stated:

> Having heard the trial thus far, I'm satisfied that there are issues as to causal relation which would make this settlement appropriate.
>
> I'm also satisfied having observed and listened to the petitioner and questioned the petitioner myself this morning, that she clearly understands the nature of these proceedings, and that by accepting this settlement, not only is she waiving her right to continue with trial, but also her matter will be dismissed with prejudice. I'm satisfied she entered into this settlement voluntarily.

In fact, the terms of the Settlement Order could not be more clear. The Order specifically states:

> ...pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 which has the effect of a dismissal with prejudice, being final as to all rights and benefits of the petitioner and the petitioner's dependents and is a complete and absolute surrender of all their rights arising out of this/these claim(s)." Emphasis added.]

In the case at hand, petitioner's position is more akin to the defendant in Coleman, where the parties made no attempt to expressly reserve the issue, rather than the factual scenario in Marino where the parties did expressly reserve the issue. Unlike in Marino, where the petitioner stated that he was not waiving any entitlement he might have to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, petitioner has made no such reservations expressly agreeing instead, to waive "all their rights arising out of this/these claim(s)" under the Section 20 Settlement. In Marino and Coleman, the State Board and the court were simply enforcing the terms of the settlement entered into between the parties. Courts are not free to make a better contract for a party than that which he had voluntarily entered into or to alter it for his benefit to the detriment of the other party.

[iv] Petitioner's testimony:

> I've discussed everything. I'm just, like, a little unhappy at the whole situation, like it was my fault that it went on so long and I went to school a happy camper that day, and my sick days would have been $10,000. I've already paid over $4,000 of my own money. What I'm hoping is by ending this, that I'm gonna start healing and it's gonna be over with. [Emphasis added.]

aff'd in part, rev'd in part, Onderdonk v. Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey, Inc., 171 N.J. Super. 529 (App. Div. 1979), 85 N.J. 171 (1981).

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the within appeal is properly dismissed on a summary basis, since petitioner knowingly relinquished any claim she may have had pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she accepted her "Section 20" settlement before the Division of Workers' Compensation. As the ALJ noted, "it is clear from petitioner's testimony [before the Division of Workers' Compensation] that the $10,000 settlement figure represented the amount she believed to be the sum total of her sick days used." (Initial Decision at 5)[1]

[1] To the extent this matter might be considered untimely, the Commissioner notes that the District failed to raise this claim, and the parties did not specifically brief this issue. Under the circumstances, the Commissioner reaches the merits of this matter.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Michael Berkley agrees that if the Court were to find that the facts set forth in support of charges 1 through 7 by the Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton were true they would support the imposition of some form of disciplinary action although he disputes that removal from his employment with the District would be the appropriate sanction.

3. Rationale for Settlement.

a. Board's Position. Michael Berkley has been an employee of the District since July 1, 1985. As a custodian he holds tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. The District has installed a system of security cameras through out various schools in the District. The security cameras are designed to provide protection to the employees of the District and to prevent theft of public property. Under the rules and regulations covering employee conduct within the District, all security cameras are to be kept operational. In December of 1998, Michael Berkley was employed by the District as a custodian in the Helen Fort Middle School. At approximately 4:30 on December 7, 1998 while allegedly working as a custodian in the school, he entered the green hallway at the school, proceeded to the "team" room, came out of the "team" at 4:31 holding a soda. For a while he watched another employee working at the end of the hallway. At approximately 4:32 he proceeded toward a security camera with a soda bottle and a newspaper in his hand where he stood against a wall or in a corner watching the custodian working in the hallway for about 41/2 minutes until the worker entered a classroom. At 4:36 p.m. he put a newspaper over the camera lens to block all further recording in that area. At approximately 6:02 p.m. the night supervisor discovered that the camera was covered and removed the paper. Michael Berkley, on inquiry, stated that: "while he did cover the camera with a piece of paper while in the green hallway, he did not do any of the other things he was being accused of." The Board further states that on Thursday, June 17, 1999 at approximately 5:00 p.m. Michael Berkley, while on duty as a custodian in the employ of the District at the Helen Fort Middle School, confronted George Rounsaville, another employee of the District, in a threatening and belligerent manner seeking to provoke a fight or other physical altercation by addressing the other employee with: "does he want a piece of him?" Upon being asked about the incident by his supervisor, Michael Berkley denied that the incident had occurred. Investigation by his supervisor indicated that he had lied about the altercation. Last, the district argues on June 17th at approximately 3:19 in the afternoon, Michael Berkley entered the faculty room of the Helen Fort Middle School. Upon entry and while no one else present, Michael Berkley proceeded to "trash" the room by throwing a platter of broccoli and bagels all over the floor. His actions were captured on a video tape maintained by the security camera operating in the room.

b. Michael Berkley's Position. Michael Berkley denies that on December 7, 1998 he covered over a security camera with a newspaper. He also denies that he did anything untold while it was covered. He adamantly denies the altercation with George Rounsaville. Any statements back and forth were not confrontational nor abusive. Last, Michael Berkley states that while he dropped a plate of vegetables and bagels on June 17th in the teachers' room, they were not thrown around the room as alleged. He had left the room to get material to clean it up and was confronted with the problem before he had a chance to clean it up.

c. Public Benefit of Settlement. The Board is aware of the public's interest in the proper handling of tenure charges to insure that unqualified persons do not continue to be employed when diligence at this stage might prevent difficulties in the future. However, based on its review of the total circumstances which includes an evaluation of the time and expense in maintaining the tenure charge, the lack of clarity in the tapes, the lack of direct witnesses to events other than to the confrontation, the uncorroborated testimony of the witness to the confrontation, the uncertainty of the ultimate result which might be obtained, and the lack of any allegation that Michael Berkley presents any threat to the children of New Jersey, the parties believe that it is in the best interests of the District, Michael Berkley, and the public to resolve this matter by settlement.

d. The parties agree that Michael Berkley shall be offered coverage under COBRA, 29 U.S.C. 1161 et seq. and 42 U.S.C. 300bb-1 et seq, for the period of his suspension without pay.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, unsuccessful bidder for a busing contract, claimed it was the lowest bidder and contended the District's awarding of the contract to Wolfington was illegal and in contravention of the Public Schools Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to –49.2.

The ALJ found that the District inadvertently may have violated *N.J.S.A.*18A:18A-15(d), which prohibits a district from requiring "brand name" materials, although the statute allows a school district to require "brand name or equivalent" materials, or to specify patented or copyrighted materials if there is a special need for those materials. The ALJ determined that the District did not allow for an equivalent to the DT 466 engine in its notice to bidders and its bid summary sheet, and its technical specifications did not refer to the DT 466 engine at all. The ALJ further determined that the District was not unreasonable in preferring the DT 466 engine to the CAT 3126B engine, which petitioner claims is an equivalent engine, because the DT 466 engine has greater utility. The ALJ concluded that the District should reject all of the original bids, correct errors and inconsistencies, clarify its specifications and re-bid the contract.

The Commissioner found that the central issue in the ALJ's determination as to whether the contract should be re-bid was his finding that petitioner's CAT 3126B engine was not equivalent to the DT 466 engine which the District preferred. Finding that the parties did not have the opportunity to brief or introduce technical evidence on the issue of whether the two engines were equivalent, the Commissioner's decision re-affirmed the ALJ's Order restraining the District from taking action to award the Bid for School Buses until a plenary hearing is held to resolve the issues as to the award of the contract and remanded the matter for further proceedings as necessary so that the question of equivalency can be determined based upon a complete record.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

H.A. DeHart & Sons ("petitioner") began this action by applying to the Commission of Education for emergency relief, viz., to enjoin respondent Salem County Special Services School District ("the District") "from pursuing any further action in awarding or executing a contract for school buses until a resolution can be reached with regard to [a] disputed bid award" of April 26, 2000.

On May 12, 2000 the matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. The hearing was held on May 25, 2000. On May 30 I issued a decision and letter order granting petitioner's application. I followed this with a formal Order dated June 7, 2000 temporarily restraining respondents school district and Wolfington Body Company ("Wolfington") from taking any further action on the award of the school bus contract on April 26, 2000, until after a plenary hearing.

Hearings were scheduled for June and August but they had to be rescheduled because of the unavailability of counsel. By letter dated July 13, 2000, I advised counsel that, because of substantial inconsistency between the "notice of bidders" and the actual specifications, I was inclined to the view that the best and fairest course of action would be to set aside the award of the school bus contract to Wolfington and to order that the contract be rebid. I asked counsel to advise me of their positions by letter memoranda.

The last memorandum was filed on August 17, 2000, on which date the record closed.

The essential facts in this case are relatively simple and undisputed, having been established by certifications of knowledgeable officials and other persons and by the submission of copies of relevant documents. The facts are as follows.

FACTS

In March 2000, the District invited bids for the purchase of seven school buses. According to its notice to bidders, the District wanted buses with "DT 466 Diesel Automatic 190 Horse Power 6 Cylinder" engines. The District expressly reserved the right to reject any or all bids and to accept any bid that was in the best interest of the participating school districts.

According to the District's instructions to bidders, each bidder was required to identify any feature on the buses that did not meet the technical specifications. These required that the engines of the buses had to come equipped with the following features:

> Minimum 190 horsepower diesel with plug - in block heater. Throttle lock with RPM gauge. Engine plug-in shall be mounted right-side, below the mirrors, by the entrance door.

Notably, the specifications did not require a DT 466 engine, although the accompanying bid summary sheet did specify the DT 466 engine.[1] The petitioner, H.A. DeHart & Son, submitted a bid of $349,923 for seven buses with CAT 3126B engines. Apparently, the principal difference between these two types of engines is that a DT 466 contains a "wet sleeve" design feature, whereas the CAT 3126B contains a "parent bore" feature.

Four bidders submitted bids. Petitioner's bid was the lowest. The second-lowest bidder, Wolfington, submitted a bid of $353,582 for seven buses with DT 466 engines. During a meeting on April 26, 2000, the District voted to approve Wolfington's bid. The minutes of the meeting do not indicate why the District voted in favor of the second-lowest bidder. Subsequently, petitioner filed a petition for emergent relief, claiming the District had violated the Public Schools Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to -49.2. Specifically, petitioner alleged that it was the lowest responsible bidder and, further, that the specification of a DT 466 engine violated N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-15(d), which prohibits the specification of a particular "brand name" without permitting its equivalent.

[1] A six-cylinder engine was also specified in the notice to bidders and bid summary sheet, but not in the technical specifications.

In a letter order dated May 30, 2000, I granted petitioner emergent relief, enjoining the District from executing the contract with Wolfington. I found the issue of whether the "wet sleeve" DT 466 engine was superior to the "parent bore" CAT 3126B engine should be resolved after plenary hearing.

The DT 466 engine is manufactured by Navistar International Transportation Corporation. The CAT 3126B engine is manufactured by the Caterpillar Corporation. The DT 466 engine is equipped with a "wet sleeve" design feature. The CAT 3126B engine is equipped with a "parent bore" design feature. The District has submitted the affidavit of William A. Pushkar, a sales consultant for Freedom International Trucks of NJ, Inc., explaining the wet sleeve design feature in the DT 466 engine:

> This [wet sleeve] design allows coolant to flow around inserts, which are known as "sleeves." The circulating coolant more efficiently cools the cylinders. In addition, the sleeves are designed for easy in-chassis removal and replacement during engine overhaul. This design adds to the life of the engine since it effectively combats heat, the enemy of any mechanical device.

Mr. Pushkar's affidavit also explains the parent bore design feature in the CAT 3126B engine:

> The parent bore engine consists of a cylinder block which has a hole drilled in the parent block to fit a cylinder to a specified tolerance level. This construction is the simplest and least expensive to design and build. It does not, however, offer the same protection as a wet-sleeve engine.

The District has also submitted the affidavit of Todd Boston, a mechanic for the Pittsgrove Township Board of Education, who further describes the differences between the wet sleeve design and parent bore design:

> 4. The CAT 3126B is a parent bore engine. This means that the engine is bored from a solid block. As a consequence, cylinder walls cannot be removed. If the engine "wears out" or needs repair, a parent bore engine must be removed from the chassis. This involves extra work, time and expense.

5. The DT466E is a wet-sleeve engine. As such, the cylinder sleeves are easily removed when repairs are needed or when replacement is required. It is much easier and less costly and time consuming to work on a wet-sleeve engine. Since the sleeves are easily replaced, a wet-sleeve engine is more durable and has a longer useful life for the school district.

6. There are other differences between these two engines. The DT466E is built with six (6) head bolts per cylinder bore, while the CAT 3126B is built with only four (4) head bolts per cylinder bore. The maintenance specifications for the DT 466E require lubrication and changes of oil and filters every 12,000 miles. The specifications for the CAT 3126B require this service every 6,000 miles. The DT 466E engine also is equipped with valve rotators and a thermostatic oil temperature control valve. Neither of these items is included with the CAT 3126B engine.

According to the affidavit of Henry Bermann, business administrator, the District requested DT 466 engines because of its wet sleeve design feature, which he claims makes the engines "easier and less costly to maintain and repair". Mr. Bermann claims that his office recommended against the CAT 3126B engine because of its allegedly inferior parent bore design.[2]

According to petitioner, the CAT 3126 engine is the most widely used bus engine among New Jersey school districts, meeting or exceeding the District's technical specifications, and is the equivalent of (if not superior to) the DT 466 engine. Petitioner has submitted the affidavit of Harry Bartling, an employee of H.A. DeHart & Sons, who states that a CAT 3126 engine "is not more costly to maintain" than the DT 466 engine. Further, there is no dispute that the CAT 3126 engine meets the District's other technical specifications (i.e., "190 horsepower diesel", "throttle lock with RPM gauge", etc.).

[2] There is no dispute that a DT466 engine is more expensive than a CAT 3126B engine, as illustrated by the bid package of the Sheppard Bus Co., which offered to credit the District $980 per bus if it accepted a "parent-bore type engine" instead of a DT 466 engine.

ISSUE AND ANALYSIS

A school board has the statutory right to reject all bids. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. A school board's decision to reject solicited bids and to rebid a project is entitled to a presumption of correctness. Durling Farms, Inc., v. Bd. of Educ. of the Tp. of Montville, 1975 S.L.D. 733, 736. The decision will stand in the absence of a statutory violation or an impropriety such as bad faith or collusion. Ibid.

In Durling Farms, supra, the school board solicited bids from milk suppliers. According to one part of the school board's specifications, bidders were required to post a check for five percent of the total amount of the bid. According to another part of the same specifications, bidders were required to post a check for five percent or five hundred dollars, whichever was less. Due to the discrepancy in its specifications, the school board rejected all of the bids and rebid the project. The lowest bidder appealed, arguing the school board's actions in rejecting the bids and rebidding the project were improperly motivated. The Commissioner found no evidence of impropriety, however, and upheld the school board's decision.

In the present matter, the District inadvertently may have violated the Public Schools Contract Law by specifying a DT 466 engine, which is manufactured only by Navistar International Transportation Corporation. As petitioner asserts, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-15(d) prohibits a school District from requiring "brand name" materials, although the statute allows a school District to require "brand name or equivalent" materials, or to specify patented or copyrighted materials if there is a special need for those materials. There is no dispute that "DT 466" is a proprietary designation, i.e., a brand name manufactured exclusively by Navistar International. The District did not allow for an equivalent to the DT 466 engine in its notice to bidders and its bid summary sheet, and its technical specifications do not refer to the DT 466 engine at all.

Under these circumstances, a rejection of the original bids and a rebidding of the contract is both necessary and proper. See Williams Mobile Offices v. Bd. of Educ. of Logan, O.A.L. Dkt. No. EDU 4007-90 (rebidding of project was necessary due to unclear specifications). In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-15(d), the District may rebid the contract and specify either a

"DT 466 engine or equivalent" or (if the wet sleeve design is patented) authorize by resolution the purchase of a wet sleeve engine as a "special need" that is "directly related" to the performance of the buses.[3]

Although the District erred by specifying what amounts to a brand name without expressly allowing its equivalent in its notice to bidders and bid summary sheet, and further erred by failing to refer to a "DT 466 engine or equivalent" or a "wet sleeve design engine" in its technical specifications, there is no evidence of bad faith, collusion or improper motivation on its part. It is thus not precluded from rejecting all original bids and rebidding the project.

Petitioner argues that the CAT 3126B engine is the functional equivalent of the DT 466 engine, thereby obviating the need to rebid the project. However, it is not unreasonable for the District to believe that the wet sleeve design feature in the DT 466 has greater utility than the parent bore feature in the CAT 3126B. According to Mr. Pushkar's affidavit, a wet sleeve engine is more durable, retains a higher residual value, and allows for more efficient circulation around the cylinders, adding to the life of the engine. According to Mr. Boston's affidavit, a DT 466 wet sleeve engine requires lubrication and changes of oil and filters every 12,000 miles, whereas a CAT 3126B parent bore engine requires this service twice as often, every 6,000 miles. I note also that the bid of Sheppard Co., offered a credit of $980 per bus if the District would accept parent bore engines in lieu of DT 466 engines.

Petitioner further asserts that the CAT 3126B parent bore engine is the most widely used bus engine among New Jersey school districts and is the equivalent of (if not superior to) the DT 466 wet sleeve engine. However, petitioner submits no specific evidence to substantiate these claims. On the contrary, at this posture of the case all indications are that the District is exercising sound business judgment in its preference for a wet sleeve engine. See Serenity Contracting Group, Inc., v. Borough of Fort Lee, 306 N.J. Super. 151, 156-57 (App. Div. 1997) (rejection of bid for non-material defect must reflect sound business judgment).

[3] Apparently, the District has since rebid the contract, specifying a wet sleeve engine in its technical specifications.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE that the District should reject all of the original bids, correct the errors and inconsistencies noted above, clarify its specifications, and rebid the contract. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

H.A. DeHART AND SON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SALEM COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT, WOLFINGTON BODY COMPANY AND SHEPPARD BUS SERVICE, INC.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred when he, sua sponte, issued a decision in this matter. Citing the ALJ's letter of July 13, 2000, petitioner notes that the letter gave no indication that a dispositive ruling or motion was being considered or that the ALJ was contemplating issuance of a decision based on the existing record. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Petitioner argues that it was prevented from presenting evidence due to this procedural error, and that the ALJ erroneously relied on the conflicting affidavits of experts which were submitted in the previous emergent injunctive relief proceedings when rendering his decision. (Id. at 3)

[1] Respondents did not file reply exceptions.

Petitioner further asserts that the sole issue in this matter is whether it met the Board's specifications in its bid. Claiming that it met all specifications and was the lowest bidder, petitioner maintains that it is entitled to the bid award pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A:37. (Ibid.)

Finally, petitioner contends that the only purpose served by re-bidding would be to exclude all types of buses except that manufactured by International Harvester; thus excluding petitioner from bidding in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-15. Petitioner avers that, since its bus is widely used throughout the state, and its bid met the Board's published specifications, the Commissioner should reverse the recommended decision of the ALJ and award the bid to petitioner. (Id. at 3-4)

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Initial Decision and petitioner's exceptions, the Commissioner has determined to remand this matter for further proceedings consistent with his decision herein.

The Commissioner agrees that the Board erred by specifying a DT 466 engine -- what amounts to a brand name -- without expressly providing for an equivalent in its notice to bidders and bid summary sheet. The Board also created confusion when it failed to indicate the requirement of a DT 466 engine or equivalent or wet sleeve design engine in its technical specifications. (Initial Decision at 7) Since the bid specification does not reference the DT 466 engine, there is no disagreement that petitioner's bid met the bid specifications for engines, which stipulates:

> ENGINE: Minimum 190 horsepower diesel with plug-in block heater. Throttle lock with RPM gauge. Engine plug-in shall be mounted right-side, below the mirrors, by the entrance door. (Bid Specifications at 10)

Although the notice to bidders and bid summary sheet specify a DT 466 engine and the bid specifications do not, petitioner claims that under either scenario, its bid meets the criteria, since its CAT 3126B is an equivalent engine. The question of whether petitioner should be awarded the bid at issue, or whether the buses should be re-bid, therefore, turns on whether the CAT 3126B engine is equivalent to the DT 466 engine.

Central to the ALJ's conclusion that the appropriate remedy in this matter is to order the contract at issue to be re-bid, is his determination that the CAT 3126B, or parent bore, engine utilized by petitioner is not the functional equivalent of the DT 466, or wet sleeve, engine required by the Board in its notice to bidders and in the bid summary. Citing the advantages of the wet sleeve engine enumerated by respondent's experts, the ALJ finds that it is not unreasonable for the Board to believe that the wet sleeve engine has greater utility than the parent bore engine. (Initial Decision at 7) The ALJ, therefore, concludes that the Board is exercising sound business judgment by its preference for a wet sleeve engine. (Id. at 7) In making this assessment, however, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ relies solely on expert submissions provided by the parties in emergent relief proceedings.[2]

Further, the ALJ opines that petitioner did not submit specific evidence to substantiate its claims that the CAT 3126B parent bore engine is the most widely used engine by New Jersey school districts and that it is equivalent to the DT 466 wet sleeve engine. (Id. at 7) The Commissioner finds that, without specific evidence from either party beyond that attached to the parties' briefs in the emergent relief proceedings,[3] there is insufficient information in the

[2] The ALJ's Letter Order granting the Application for Emergent Relief found that petitioner met the standards set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), stating that "petitioner's argument indicates a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits". (Letter Order at 3) record to make a determination as to whether the CAT 3126B parent bore engine and the DT 466 wet sleeve engine are equivalent.

[3] There was no plenary hearing in this matter nor briefing on the issue of whether the parent bore engine is equivalent to the wet sleeve engine. Therefore, the ALJ relied on expert opinions submitted in support of a prior motion in rendering his decision sua sponte.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the Board apparently re-bid its bus contract specifying a wet sleeve engine in its technical specifications, prior to the issuance of the Initial Decision in this matter,[4] thereby arguably rendering this matter moot and giving rise to a new cause of action. However, the Commissioner finds that it is not in the interest of justice or judicial economy to require petitioner to re-file or amend its petition. The question of whether the parent bore and wet sleeve engine designs are equivalent, which is central to petitioner's claim to the bid award at issue herein, is equally at issue in the Board's re-bidding of its bus contract. Further, it cannot be ignored that the ALJ made findings and prepared an analysis without providing the parties an opportunity to brief or introduce technical evidence central to the resolution of this matter.

Accordingly, with respect to both the original Bid for School Buses and the subsequent re-bid, the Commissioner re-affirms the ALJ's Order restraining the Salem County Special Services School Board of Education from taking any further action pursuant to any award of the Bid for School Buses, until there can be a plenary hearing conducted to resolve the issues as to the award of the contract to Wolfington Body Company, and remands this matter

[4] By letter of June 28, 2000, petitioner informed the ALJ that the Board had re-bid the contract for the buses at issue shortly after the May 30, 2000 grant of the temporary restraining order. According to petitioner, the Board modified its bid specification in the re-bid to require a wet sleeve engine.

for further proceedings as necessary to permit the parties an opportunity to provide a complete record for the resolution of the question of equivalency.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION AND MICHAEL AZZARA, ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER,	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 1, 2000

For the Appellants Hanns and Gertrudis Heiliger, Denbeaux & Denbeaux (Marcia W. Denbeaux, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondents New Jersey Department of Education and Michael Azzara, Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

For the Intervenors/Respondents Russell and Kathleen Pepe, Harwood Lloyd, LLC (David Repetto, Esq., of Counsel)

In February 2000, Assistant Commissioner Michael Azzara notified the Northern Highlands Regional High School District that its request to the Department of Education for review of its proposal to install lighting at the school's athletic field had been denied, concluding that such proposal did not fall under the purview of an "educational adequacy" review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1 et seq. The Regional Board thereupon filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging that determination. The Commissioner subsequently transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law.

In an oral decision rendered on October 6, 2000, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") denied the requests by Russell and Kathleen Pepe and Hanns and Gertrudis Heiliger, whose homes abut the athletic field, to intervene in the matter. Both the Pepes and the Heiligers requested interlocutory review of the ALJ's determination by the Commissioner.

In a letter decision dated November 1, 2000, the Commissioner granted the Pepes' request to intervene, but denied the Heiligers' request.

On December 4, 2000, the Heiligers filed the instant motion with the State Board of Education for leave to appeal an interlocutory decision of the Commissioner, challenging the Commissioner's determination to deny their request to intervene. Since their motion was filed beyond the five-day filing period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.3, the Heiligers requested that their motion be considered nunc pro tunc.

On December 14, 2000, the Northern Highlands Regional Board filed a "cross-motion" for leave to appeal the Commissioner's interlocutory decision. Such motion challenged that portion of the Commissioner's decision granting the Pepes' request to intervene. By letter dated December 15, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office advised the counsel for the Regional Board that "the regulations governing appeals do not provide for a motion for leave to file a cross-appeal from an interlocutory determination. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.3. Under the regulations, the State Board will be considering whether to grant your request for leave to appeal the Commissioner's interlocutory ruling nunc pro tunc."

After a careful review of the parties' submissions, we deny the instant motions.

N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.3 requires that a "[m]otion for leave to appeal an interlocutory order, decision or action shall be made by filing a motion for leave to appeal to the State Board of Education within five days after the action or service of the interlocutory decision or order." In this case, the Heiligers' motion was filed on December 4, 2000, more than a month after the Commissioner's interlocutory decision was issued and mailed. The Regional Board's motion was filed ten days later on December 14.

Although the regulations permit relaxation of the rules governing appeals, N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.19, we find that the parties have failed to provide sufficient cause in this case for relaxation. In a brief filed in support of the Heiligers' motion, their counsel contends that she had "erroneously regarded the [Commissioner's] order as final rather than interlocutory and filed a notice of appeal within the time for appeal." In a certification filed in support of her request to file the motion nunc pro tunc, counsel for the Heiligers avers that she had "not discovered a reference to support the five (5) day appeal deadline."

As previously indicated, N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.3, which is contained in the regulations governing appeals to the State Board, is clear in providing a five-day filing deadline for a motion for leave to appeal an interlocutory decision. In addition, during the proceedings below, the Heiligers were expressly put on notice of the interlocutory nature of their challenge. On October 16, 2000, the counsel for the Heiligers was informed by the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that the Heiligers' letter to the Commissioner challenging the ALJ's October 6, 2000 oral ruling was "being construed as a request for interlocutory review." And, indeed, the Commissioner expressly indicated in his decision of November 1, 2000 that he had reviewed the submissions in connection with the Heiligers' request for interlocutory review of the ALJ's determination.

We stress, in addition, that the issue currently before the Commissioner is limited to whether the Regional Board's request for review of its lighting proposal involved "educational adequacy" issues so as to require review by the Department of Education. As pointed out by the Commissioner: "It should be clearly understood that this proceeding will not result in a determination as to whether the Board's application, if reviewable, is to be granted; rather, should the Board prevail at any level of inquiry outlined herein, the relief accorded would be an order directing the Department to review its application." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 2 (emphasis in original). Thus, the Heiligers' interest at this juncture of the proceedings is tenuous at best.

The Regional Board, which opposes the Heiligers' motion as untimely, has provided no basis for allowing its late filing other than to indicate that its motion had been "made necessary" by the Heiligers' motion. Under the circumstances, we can also find no justification for relaxing the rules so as to permit the Regional Board's motion.[1]

[1] We agree in addition with the Pepes, who, in their brief in opposition to the Northern Highlands Regional Board's motion, dispute the Regional Board's characterization of its submission as a "cross-motion." The Regional Board's motion challenges the Commissioner's determination to grant the Pepes' request to intervene, while the Heiligers' motion challenged the Commissioner's determination to deny their request, an issue entirely distinct and unrelated to the ruling challenged by the Regional Board. Thus, even if cross-motions were authorized by the rules, the Regional Board's motion could not properly be characterized as such.

Consequently, we deny the instant motions for leave to appeal the Commissioner's interlocutory decision of November 1, 2000.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF HACKETTSTOWN, WARREN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matter, petitioning tenured secretary challenged the reduction in her salary for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. After fixing petitioner's salary by Board resolution in accordance with the negotiated salary guide, the Board adopted a resolution abolishing petitioner's position and transferring her to a lower paying secretarial position. Petitioner challenged the reduction in salary, arguing that she is entitled to the higher salary fixed by the Board regardless of whether she was transferred to another secretarial position. The Board argues that tenure laws permit a reduction in salary when an employee is transferred as a result of a reduction in force.

The ALJ agreed with petitioner and concluded that petitioner acquired a vested right in the higher salary once the Board established the salary. The ALJ concluded that the Board's subsequent transfer of petitioner to another secretarial position did not divest her of the right to the higher salary because petitioner remained in the same tenurable position (school secretary) after the transfer.

The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ and affirmed the Initial Decision for the reasons set forth therein, emphasizing that the Board could not reduce petitioner's salary in either year at issue absent meeting the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, which had not occurred in this case.

Statement of the Case

These are consolidated appeals by a school secretary from the reduction of her salary for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years. Petitioner Donna Custode ("Custode") had been employed by respondent Hackettstown Board of Education ("Board") as an executive secretary to a department head. Prior to commencement of the 1998-99 school year, the Board adopted a resolution fixing her salary in accordance with its negotiated salary guide. On June 10, 1998, the Board abolished the position of Director of Special Services and transferred Custode to a lower-paying secretarial position. Basically, Custode contends that the transaction constitutes a transfer from one secretarial position to another and that the Board violated her tenure rights by reducing her salary. The Board maintains that the higher-paying position was no longer needed and, thus, that its action falls under a recognized exception to the tenure law for "a demotion as the result of a reduction in force."

Procedural History

On August 26, 1998, Custode filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") challenging her reduction in salary for the 1998-99 school year. The Board filed its answer on October 23, 1998. Subsequently, on October 29, 1998, the Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for determination as a contested case. Both parties agreed that the material facts are not in dispute and that the case could be decided on cross-motions for summary decision. The Board filed its motion for summary decision, together with supporting certification and brief, on June 1, 1999. Custode filed her motion for summary decision, together with supporting certification and brief, on July 9, 1999. Thereafter, the Board filed a reply on July 27, 1999. The OAL conducted oral argument by telephone on August 30, 1999.

Meanwhile, on July 26, 1999, Custode filed a second verified petition with the Commissioner concerning the freezing of her salary for the 1999-2000 fiscal year. The Board filed its answer on August 26, 1999. The Commissioner referred this second matter to the OAL on August 31, 1999. Since both cases raise identical factual patterns and legal issues, the parties consented to be bound by the outcome of the pending motion. By order entered on June 9, 2000, the two cases were consolidated for disposition on the papers.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are undisputed. From the parties' pleadings and certifications, I FIND:

Donna Custode had been employed as a twelve-month secretary by the Hackettstown Board of Education for fifteen years and had acquired tenure in that position. During the 1997-98 fiscal year, she served in the title of "Secretary to the Director of Special Services." Her annual salary for that year was $31,753.

Under the agreement between the Board and petitioner's collective negotiating representative, the salary guide recognized two separate secretarial pay scales, one for certain higher-level secretaries, including Custode's title, and another for general secretaries. At a board meeting on May 13, 1998, the Board adopted a generic resolution approving the 1998-99 salaries for all professional and non-professional staff. In anticipation that Custode would continue in the title of Secretary to the Director of Special Services, Hackettstown authorized movement of Custode to the next step (Step 14) of the higher-level guide for the 1998-99 school year at an annual salary of $33,500. Shortly thereafter, on May 15, 1998, Custode signed a letter of intent prepared by her employer, which acknowledged her acceptance of employment on the terms offered for the upcoming school year.

One month later, on June 10, 1998, the Board resolved to "eliminate the position of Secretary to the Director of Special Services for the 1998-99 school year" and to "appoint Donna Custode to the 12-month position of General Secretary." Custode does not challenge the Board's assertion that her former title was abolished in good faith "due to budgetary constraints." In the same resolution, the Board declared that "her salary be fixed at $31,753 so as not to constitute a reduction of current 1997-1998 salary." If Custode's salary had been set at the corresponding step of the general secretary's salary scale (Step 14), her salary would have been only $30,385. In effect, the Board retained her at last year's step (Step 13) on the higher scale, rather than move her up to next step (Step 14) or place her on the lower scale. Later, school officials informed her that her salary "would remain at $31,753.00 until the salaries of the other [general] secretaries caught up with [her] salary."

Consistent with that approach, the Board continued paying Custode at the annual salary of $31,753 for the 1999-2000 school year. Again, Custode contends that she is entitled to at least $33,500, the amount that the Board had originally approved for the 1998-99 school year.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board violated Custode's tenure rights when it reduced her compensation for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(c) provides that any person who has acquired tenure in any secretarial or clerical office, position or employment under the board of education of a school district "shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title." [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to –29]. A long line of school law decisions has interpreted similar reduction-in-compensation language as prohibiting a local board from rescinding a resolution approving a tenured employee's salary in a given year, "unless the board successfully brings tenure charges or the employee is laid off or demoted as a result of a reduction in force." (Emphasis added). Fedor v. Elmwood Park Bd. of Educ., 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDFU) 96, 98 (Comm'r Sept. 26, 1996).[1] School officials do not suggest that the reduction in Custode's salary was intended as punishment for neglect, misbehavior or other wrongful act. Instead, they argue that the salary loss was the consequence of a demotion to a lower-paying position as the result of a reduction in force. That argument raises the question of whether Custode was really "demoted" to a new position or whether she was merely reassigned to another title within the same tenured position.

A staff member's tenure rights in the wake of a reduction in force must be gauged by evaluating "whether the individual has acquired tenure in the specific position." Nelson v. Board. of Educ., 148 N.J. 358, 365-366 (1997). For professional educators licensed by the state, "the scope of the tenured position is initially limited by the 'certificate' the teaching staff member must hold to satisfy the prerequisite of qualifications for his or her employment." Ellicott v. Board. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348 (App. Div. 1991). Secretaries, however, are separately tenurable under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and are not required to hold any educational certificate. Custode, urges, therefore, that she obtained tenure "as a secretary" and that "there are no separate categories of tenure for secretaries."

Support for Custode's analysis comes from Bassett v. Board of Educ., 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1988), where a tenured teacher was offered a lower-paying hourly position after her full-time position had been eliminated by reason of a reduction in force. Agreeing with the State Board that she had not been transferred "from one tenurable position to another," but rather "reassigned within the same tenurable position," the Appellate Division held that she was entitled to statutory protection against reduction in her compensation. Bassett, at 142. Notwithstanding the fact that the collective negotiation contract contained lower pay schedules for hourly-rate and part-time teachers, the Court ruled that the statutory mandate must prevail over inconsistent contractual provisions.

[1]It is noteworthy that this interpretation is grounded on related statutory provisions, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 to –14, which apply to certified "teaching staff members", and, thus, would not necessarily extend to noncertified secretaries or clerical personnel. However, Custode does not seriously argue that the Board lacks authority to effectuate a reduction in force of employees whose services are no longer necessary. Accordingly, for purposes of this decision, it is assumed that the legal authority to lay off or demote unneeded staff falls within a school board's inherent managerial prerogative. See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.

School law decisions apply the same logic to cases involving non-teaching staff members who gain tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. Illustratively, in Casey v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 585, (Comm'r Oct. 5, 1995), the Commissioner decided that an employee switched from library clerk to office clerk "achieved tenure as a clerical employee" and, consequently, that his rate of compensation could not be reduced without a tenure hearing. Numerous administrative rulings have repeated that, as long as the newly-assigned position falls within the same tenure category, salary cannot be reduced but must be maintained at the same level until it matches or exceeds the salary guide for the new position. See, e.g., Laufenberg v. Ramapo-Indian Hills Bd. of Educ., 1991 S.L.D. 2447 (Comm'r Dec. 12, 1991) (transfer of teacher within the scope of the same instructional certificate is not a different position allowing reduction in salary). See generally, Schalago-Schirm v. Kearny Bd. of Educ., EDU 1449-97 Initial Decision (June 25, 1998) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html adopted (Comm'r Aug. 6, 1998) aff'd (St. Bd. Dec. 2, 1998) http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html (school board violated teachers' tenure rights when it acted to recoup amounts paid in excess of newly-created step on salary guide); Cohen v. Borough of South River Bd. of Educ., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 242 (Comm'r Jan. 28, 1994) (school board prohibited from placing teacher at a step on the new guide which would effectively reduce her salary from its previous level.)

Cases relied on by the Board for a contrary result are factually distinguishable and turn on different legal considerations. In Gerity v. Woodbridge Twp. Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R.2d 522 (Comm'r Sept. 12, 1995), an employee holding a nontenurable supervisory position reverted to his tenured janitorial position and his salary was correspondingly reduced. Even under those circumstances, the Commissioner prohibited the district from reducing his salary until commencement of the school year following the demotion. Likewise, in Schwartzkoff v. City of Camden Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 130 (Comm'r Feb. 4, 1985), the Commissioner approved a reduction in salary for a supervisory employee who "bumped into a lower position" of school psychologist.

Vanderbeck v. Borough of Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 1976 S.L.D. 970 (Comm'r Dec. 2, 1976) involved a board secretary whose salary was cut in half when his working hours were reduced from full-time to half-time. Hence, the loss did not represent a reduction in rate of pay, but simply a proportionate adjustment of full-time salary to reflect a shorter workweek. Kigerl v. Borough of South Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 1981 S.L.D. 895 (Comm'r Aug. 18, 1981), aff'd 1981 S.L.D. 896 (St. Bd. Dec. 2, 1981), does not address an involuntary transfer, but rather a situation in which a clerical employee rejected higher-paying assignments and chose to accept a lower-paying position.

Finally, the Board argues that salary entitlement attaches only after a tenured employee has begun work under the higher salary. But in Fodor, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) at 98, the Commissioner protected a teacher's vested interest as soon as the board adopted a resolution setting the higher salary, regardless of whether the teacher had yet worked under the new salary guide. Accord, Docherty v. Borough of West Paterson Bd. of Educ., 1967 S.L.D. 297 (Comm'r Oct. 23, 1967).

In sum, the record demonstrates Custode moved from one secretarial assignment to another. While she appears to have worked for a higher-ranking school administrator in her first assignment, the Board makes no claim that the services she performed were substantially different, that her administrative responsibilities were any greater or that her working hours were significantly longer. Therefore, her tenure rights as a secretary preclude the Board from reducing her previously established salary level.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board's action of June 10, 1998 reducing Custode's salary to $31,753 is null and void.

And it is further ORDERED that the Board reinstate Custode's salary of $33,500 for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years and pay her the difference of $1,747 per year or a total of $3,494 within thirty days of the date of the final administrative decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's action on June 10, 1998 reducing petitioner's salary was without effect because petitioner, a tenured secretary, had acquired a vested right in the salary which the Board established for her on May 13, 1998 when it approved her movement to the 14th step on the "higher level" salary guide for the 1998-99 school year. (Initial Decision at 3) Thereafter, inasmuch as petitioner remained in the same tenurable position after the reduction in force, the Board was not permitted to reduce her compensation, absent meeting the requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Board is directed to compensate petitioner, within 60 days of the date of this decision, with back pay and related emoluments for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years, as set forth in the Initial Decision.

On June 20, 2000, the record and a notice of withdrawal of the Motion for Emergent Relief in this matter were transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2.

Prior to his review of the notice of withdrawal, the Commissioner received a letter from petitioner on July 3, 2000, seeking to vacate the above-mentioned withdrawal of her Motion for Emergent Relief. Accordingly, on July 24, 2000, the Commissioner determined to remand this matter to OAL for findings on the effect of petitioner's letter of July 3, 2000, and for further proceedings, as needed.

On August 10, 2000, however, prior to transmitting the matter to OAL on remand, the Commissioner received a letter from petitioner that appeared to be a withdrawal of both her motion for emergent relief and her appeal of the underlying issues in this matter. Therefore, on August 16, 2000, the Commissioner notified petitioner of the receipt of her apparent withdrawal of the entire matter and advised her to contact the Commissioner within 10 days if it was not her intent to withdraw her motion for emergent relief and her appeal of the underlying issues. Petitioner did not respond.

Accordingly, the Commissioner approved petitioner's August 10, 2000 letter as a withdrawal of the entire matter. Consequently, the matter is no longer deemed to be a contested matter before the Commissioner and is, therefore, dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF WILLIAM ARERA,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF GARFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION
_____:

For the Board, Toni Belford Damiano, Esq.

William Arera, Pro Se

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on September 7, 2000, through certification of tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against a tenured custodian by the Board of Education of the City of Garfield; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent via both certified and regular mail on September 14, 2000 -- the certified copy having been signed for on September 18, 2000 -- to file an Answer to the tenure charges against him; and

Such notice clearly having informed respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner" and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will result in the charges being deemed admitted; and

On September 18, 2000, respondent notified the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that he would not file an Answer to the Board's charges; and

In that respondent has chosen not to oppose the charges filed against him, each count of such charges is deemed admitted; and

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges against respondent by the Board, and the statement of evidence in support of those charges, indicates that:

1. On March 2, 2000, respondent reported to his custodian position noticeably uncoordinated, agitated, disheveled, having slurred speech, with blood on his shirt front and sleeve and smelling of alcohol, for which he was suspended by the Board, with pay, until further notice.

2. Respondent notified the Board of his intent to enter an alcohol abuse program and he was subsequently allowed to return to his duties on May 1, 2000, with the understanding that he submit to random alcohol tests as frequently as daily, if necessary.

3. On June 16, 2000, respondent was reported to be intoxicated on the job, with such condition being confirmed by a blood alcohol test performed at a local laboratory.

Having deemed such charges to be admitted by operation of rule, the Commissioner has determined, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, that respondent's actions constitute unbecoming conduct and other just cause warranting his dismissal from his tenured position; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED THIS 11-03-00 day of October that William Arera shall be dismissed from his tenured position as a custodian in the Board's employ as of the date of this order.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged Board's determination removing her children from the District's schools for nonresidency.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner abandoned her petition by failure to appear to prosecute her action. Nevertheless, the ALJ requested respondent to present evidence sufficient to establish a prima facie case on the issue sub judice. The ALJ found that, based upon certifications presented, the Board's determination that petitioner and her children were not domiciled within the District and were not entitled to a free education in the District for the period in question (commencing in the 1999-2000 school year) was to be upheld. The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay tuition for the children for the year 1999-2000, together with pro-rated tuition for the year 2000-2001 until the students were actually removed from the school.

Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision and ordered petitioner to pay tuition for the period of ineligible school attendance.

Record Closed: September 13, 2000 Decided: September 15, 2000

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner, E.K,. from a residency determination arrived at by the Point Pleasant Borough Board of Education (Point Pleasant) removing petitioner's children K.K. Jr., and M.K. from the Point Pleasant Borough Schools. The basis of the determination by Point Pleasant seeking such removal, and the attendant tuition costs incurred, is its assertion that neither child is domiciled in the district as is mandated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. A board hearing was conducted on November 17, 1999 concerning the residency and domicile of the children at issue and, on January 13, 2000, based upon the evidence presented, and further certifications, the Board determined that the petitioner and children did not reside in and were not domiciled in the Borough of Point Pleasant. By letter of January 17, 1999 (apparently the letter is incorrectly dated the previous year) counsel for Point Pleasant advised the petitioner's then counsel of the determination. Counsel also advised that, pursuant to statute, the children may not be removed from the school during the twenty-one day period within which the parents may appeal the decision to the Commissioner of the Department of Education.

Thereafter, on January 17, 2000, Thomas J. Mallon, Esq., then counsel on behalf of the petitioner, submitted a written request to the Commissioner of Education appealing the determination of respondent. That request ultimately resulted in a decision by the Commissioner of Education to transmit, on March 21, 2000, the appeal to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15. The matter was originally scheduled to be heard before another administrative law judge in December 2000 and, at the written request of counsel for Point Pleasant, the matter was expedited and rescheduled to be heard before me on August 23 and August 24, 2000 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey. On or about the day prior to the hearing my office received a telephone request for an adjournment by the petitioner arguing lack of transportation and the unavailability of a neighbor to testify. By letter of the same date counsel for the Board vigorously opposed the adjournment request. For reasons stated I denied such request, as well as advising the petitioner to this effect.

Thereafter, on the following day August 23, 2000, the respondent appeared with its witnesses prepared to address the substance of aspects of this appeal. The petitioner neither appeared nor communicated with this office in any other fashion nor did any representative of hers appear at that time. Since that date my office has received no further communication from petitioner.

On September 13, 2000 my office received moving papers, submitted by the Point Pleasant Borough Board of Education, seeking a determination that the petitioner's children are not domiciliaries of respondent's school district and seeking further an order directing that tuition for the two children at issue be paid for their unlawful attendance.

In support of its motion the Board submits the certifications of Daniel S. Popovitch, Esq., Janet Baumeister, Attendance Officer, employed by respondent; and Edward Leibfried, Principal of the Ocean Road School in respondent district where the student M.K. was presently in attendance and where the student K.K., Jr., had previously been in attendance. These documents have been moved in evidence as Exhibits R-1, 2 and 3, respectively as an incident to the motion at issue.

It should, at the outset, be noted that the burden in this matter would rest with the petitioner E.K. to establish, by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence, that the determination of respondent, challenging the residency of her children and the calculation of tuition due, is inaccurate. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. As I have previously noted it is clear that by the failure and inaction of petitioner to pursue her appellate rights in this matter any challenge to the determination of the Board has been and, I CONCLUDE, is abandoned by her failure to appear to prosecute her action. Nevertheless, and in the interest of justice, I have requested that the respondent, the party upon whom the burden does not rest, to present evidence sufficient to establish a prima facie case on the issue sub judice.

In reviewing the various documents submitted it is clear, and I am convinced and so FIND, that based upon the certifications, the Board's determination that the petitioner and her children are not domiciled within the Point Pleasant Borough School District and are therefore not entitled to a free education in the district, at least for the period at issue which would commence in the 1999-2000 school year, be and is hereby upheld. Further it is ORDERED that as a consequence of the termination of non-residency it is ORDERED that E.K. pay tuition in the amount of $7,521 for K.K., who attends Memorial Middle School, and $7,174 for M.K., who attends Ocean Roads School, for the school year 1999-2000, which represents the rate fixed for tuition students in the District of Point Pleasant, together with pro-rated tuition for the year 2000-2001 until the students are actually removed from the school.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially reiterate information contained in her Petition of Appeal and its accompanying documents. Additionally, petitioner submits a copy of a New Jersey driver's license, which bears her name and the 506 Hardenbergh Avenue, Point Pleasant address, and a copy of a property tax bill and water bill for that address which bears her name jointly with her husband and mother-in-law. Petitioner also submitted a copy of an unsigned letter from Thomas and Jean Marie Harris dated November 17, 1999 to petitioner's former attorney which reads in pertinent part:

> [Petitioner's sons] have been friends with our two sons for the past five years that we have been residents of 511 Hardenbergh Avenue, Point Pleasant. It has been our understanding that the boys have departed from 506 Hardenbergh Avenue when looking for a playmate and have returned to the same location when their playtime was completed.
>
> On several occasions over the past five years, our two sons have gone to 506 Hardenbergh Avenue, Point Pleasant, also looking for > a playmate. Upon ringing the bell, they have been greeted by either [the sons], their mother, [petitioner], and on some occasions their grandmother.

>
> We are aware that [the parents] are separated at this time and sometimes "Grandma" baby-sits so that [petitioner] can go to work. The friendship between our two sons and [petitioner's] two sons remains the same.

Upon a thorough review of the record, including the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) which determine that petitioner's children do not meet the eligibility requirements for attending school free of charge in respondent's District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.[1]

Upon examination of petitioner's submissions to the record, and even granting petitioner every inference in her favor, the arguments she sets forth and documentation she submits do not overcome the weight of the evidence presented by the Board through the surveillance reports and certification of Janet Baumeister, its Attendance Officer which provide documentation that petitioner's children are not domiciled in Point Pleasant Borough.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the recommended order of the ALJ directing petitioner to pay tuition to the Point Pleasant Borough Board of Education in the amounts set forth in the Initial Decision for the period of ineligible school attendance by her sons during the 1999-2000 and the 2000-2001 school years.

[1] The Commissioner notes that there is nothing in the record of this matter indicating that an extraordinary circumstance prevented petitioner from attending the hearing, which was scheduled by the ALJ two months in advance; nor does petitioner make a claim of extraordinary circumstance for nonattendance at the hearing in her exceptions. Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, under the particular circumstances of this matter, it was appropriate to request that the Board make a prima facie case in support of its position.

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. DECISION

Petitioning parents appealed the expulsion of their son, A.G., alleging inappropriate procedures prior to expulsion and denial of due process. The Board expelled him following two findings that he was under the influence of marijuana.

The ALJ found that based upon the circumstances of this case, the school's decision to require that A.G. be tested was fully supported by a reasonable suspicion that he was under the influence of drugs. The ALJ found that common sense and legal precedent supported the decision to follow the mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and have A.G. examined. Moreover, the ALJ determined that although the hearing process was flawed to some extent, it was apparent that the flaws did not cause the Board to act arbitrarily. The ALJ noted that the Board only acted to expel A.G. after he received fair warning via the suspension following the first positive test that he had to refrain from marijuana use and that he would be subject to random testing; yet, when he underwent the random test, he was again shown to be under the influence of marijuana. The ALJ determined that the Board did not act arbitrarily given the strong State policy against drugs in school and its Substance Abuse Policy No. 5530. Petition was dismissed. A.G. was expelled from the school system.

The Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part the Initial Decision of the ALJ. Citing In re Graceffo, the Commissioner determined that A.G. was properly referred for a medical examination by a staff member who observed symptoms of drug use and advised the designated administrator (assistant principal) of such. (The principal or designee may not substitute his judgment for that of the referring staff member.) However, the Commissioner finds that the Board's decision to expel A.G. was not compelled by its policy; yet the Board turned to this ultimate sanction without considering all pertinent factors, including other options such as alternative education programs. The Commissioner directed the Board to readmit A.G. to its District and to determine, consistent with his decision, whether expulsion is the appropriate result under all the circumstances of A.G.'s case. The Commissioner did not retain jurisdiction.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 06743-00S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 316-7/00

M.G. & M.G., O/BO A.G., Petitioners,
v.
WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Christopher M. Manganello, Esq., for petitioners

Joseph Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart and Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 13, 2000 Decided: September 19, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

M.G. and M.G. ("petitioners"), the parents of A.G. ("A."), a minor, filed a petition seeking to overturn the decision of the Washington Township Board of Education ("Board") that their son be expelled from the respondent's school district. A. was fifteen years old at the time the decision was made in April 2000 and turned sixteen in August 2000.

The Board expelled A. following two drug tests that showed that he was under the influence of marijuana. The parents initially filed their petition with the Division of Special Education and an emergent relief application was heard at the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on August 9, 2000, which was denied by order dated August 10, 2000. M.G. & M.G. o/b/o A.G., a Minor v. Washington Township Board of Education, OAL DKT. EDS 04952-00S. At the plenary hearing held on September 7, 8 and 13, 2000, the sole issue regarding application of rights under the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA") was dismissed and the remaining non-special education issues were bifurcated under the present docket number in order to permit the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") to review the initial decision of the administrative law judge ("ALJ") pursuant to the Commissioner's authority under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10. A separate Final Decision regarding the IDEA claim is issued concurrently with this Initial Decision under docket number EDS 04952-00S.

ISSUES

Boards of education enjoy wide policy-making discretion and their decisions may not be disturbed unless arbitrary and capricious. Thomas v. Morris Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Here, the petitioners contend that the Board's decision to expel their son was arbitrary and capricious. Specifically, they assert that on December 21, 1999, the date on which A. was first tested, the school officials who ordered A. to undergo testing did not possess reasonable grounds for suspecting that A. was under the influence of drugs. They further assert that the school authorities had no consent from them for the testing of their son. In addition, they challenge the proceedings held below before the Board, objecting to limitations imposed on their ability to present proofs at the hearing. They do not challenge the accuracy of the tests performed on the blood sample drawn on December 21 or on the random sample collected on February 22, 2000. Finally, they raise issues regarding the Board's compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10, which requires that the Board develop a "clear written policy statement which outlines the district's program to combat substance abuse and which provides for the identification, evaluation, referral for treatment and discipline of pupils who are substance abusers." The statute requires that "[C]opies of the policy statement shall be distributed to pupils and their parents at the beginning of the school year."

Applicable Statute and Policy

Before considering the specific facts of this case, it is helpful to examine the statute that provides for "examination" of those students suspected of being under the influence of alcohol or a controlled dangerous substance ("CDS"). N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 provides > a. Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel of any public school in this State that a pupil may be under the influence of substances as defined pursuant to section 2 of this act, other than anabolic steroids, that teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel shall report the matter as soon as possible to the school nurse or medical inspector, as the case may be, or to a substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal or, in his absence, to his designee. The principal or his designee, shall immediately notify the parent or guardian and the superintendent of schools, if there be one, or the administrative principal and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor selected by the parent or guardian, or if that doctor is not immediately available, by the medical inspector, if he is available. . . . The pupil shall be examined as soon as possible for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under such influence. A written report of that examination shall be furnished within 24 hours by the examining physician to the parent or guardian of the pupil and to the superintendent of schools or administrative principal. . . .

The Washington Township School District has adopted a "Substance Abuse" policy, identified as R5530. This policy, denoted as a "Regulation" for the District, is twenty-one pages in length and in general provides that "[w]henever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel that a pupil may be under the influence of . . . drugs, they shall report the matter as soon as possible to a school nurse or medical inspector. . . ." The regulation requires that a suspected student is to be removed to a "protective environment for observation and care by the school nurse . . . until his or her parent or guardian can be contacted." The "principal shall request the assistance of the school nurse . . . in assessing the physical state of the pupil." The parents "shall be immediately notified of the incident and shall be provided a description of the situation" and "shall be requested to come to the school immediately. Parents will be informed of their responsibility in situations involving a policy violation." The regulation requires that "[T]he principal or his/her designee shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil, which will include a urine/drug analysis within two hours." The alternative choices of testing by the school's contracted "medical assessment provider," the school physician or the parent's selected physician are offered. In the instance of a refusal or failure of a parent to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18:40A-12, such failure "shall be deemed a violation of the compulsory education . . . and/or child neglect . . . laws." (Statutory citations omitted). "If the student refuses to take a urine/drug analysis or if there is evidence of tampering . . . , the case will be handled as if the student tested positive for substance abuse."

Compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10

Initially, petitioners argue that the Board failed to comply with the requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10 to provide to them a copy of the Board's policy statement. The evidence provided by the Board includes a signed certification that Mrs. G. "read the discipline policy of your child's school." The Board's full policy statement, R-4, 21 pages in length, was admittedly not sent home to the parents of students. However, R-5, a document entitled "Washington Township High School Student Code of Conduct" was sent home. This document describes the infraction of being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance, including marijuana, and describes in some detail the disciplinary results of a first offense and of a second offense, specifically that for a second offense an external suspension will be placed in effect pending a Board expulsion hearing. The Code of Conduct also details the full panoply of conditions of a student's return to school after a first offense, the random testing applicable to such a student, the counseling required and the risk of expulsion if further violations occur. This document, while not the entire Board policy, is a detailed notice to parents and students of the principal aspects of the discipline, evaluation and treatment policy. As the evidence is sufficient to establish that the parent received the Code of Conduct, there is no violation of the statutory provision.

Consent

In the present case the parents argue that they did not give their consent to the school authorities before their son was subjected to the December 21 blood test and that the test therefore cannot be used against him. The Board's primary witness, Jeffrey Spector, who at the time was the 9th grade assistant principal at the District's High School, testified that in the course of a telephone conversation with Mrs. G. held while A. was in the office on December 21, he advised her that her son was suspected of being under the influence and he told her of the options for testing. He testified that she told him to go ahead and have A. tested at Kennedy Hospital (the usual testing facility used by the Board). She testified that Spector never told her that she had the option to refuse to have A. tested. Additional evidence was presented on the question of whether permission to test was denied and whether the option to refuse was mentioned. However, an examination of the statute indicates that the Legislature determined that where the student in question appeared to be under the influence the student "shall be examined."

N.J.S.A. 18A:40-12 allows alternatives for the administration of the examination itself, such that the parents are offered the opportunity to have their own choice of the examining physician, if their choice is readily available. However, nowhere does the language of the statute state that a parent has the right to refuse to have the student tested. The Board's own policy, which arises from the authority of this statute, does not state that the parent can refuse, although since it provides notice as to the consequence of such refusal by either the parent(s) or the student, it recognizes that such might occur. It does not state that an option to refuse and face the consequences is an option to be offered to the parents when they are notified of the suspicion that their child is under the influence. The Legislature apparently deemed the need to identify and then appropriately deal with students under the influence in the school milieu as of such vital importance that the examination of a student so identified was made mandatory. While the district might well decide that it would not test over the objection of a parent, and might choose, as this district chose, to consider any such refusal as a positive, there is no statutory right to refuse, and no constitutional right of refusal has been identified either. In the school context, the United States Supreme Court has recognized that there must be a balancing of individual rights with the "substantial interest of teachers and administrators in maintaining discipline in the classroom and on school grounds." New Jersey v. T.L.O., 469 U.S. 325, 339, 105 S.Ct. 733, 83 *L.Ed*2d 720(1985). The legislative command to examine an identified student does not except from its reach those students whose parent or guardian decide that they do not want their child tested. Therefore, while the Board insists it had consent and the parents deny that they gave it, there is no legal authority that demands that the Board obtain consent and no grounds for ignoring the results of the examination simply because the parents did not consent to it. Determination of the factual dispute is therefore unnecessary.[1]

[1] This statute is unlike N.J.S.A. 39:4-50.4a. In the statute providing for the testing of suspected drunk drivers, the Legislature specifically addressed the situation of refusal, providing that a municipal court "shall revoke" the right of a person to operate a motor vehicle who, after being arrested for a violation of N.J.S.A. 39:4-50, refuses to submit to a chemical test. The Legislature did not see fit to provide any statement regarding the issue of refusal in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. Its language is mandatory in nature, and there being no constitutional right to refuse, there is no basis for finding any need for the Board's representatives to offer such an option to the parents of a student reasonably suspected of being under the influence. Again, there is certainly no mandate for the use of any force or coercion to effectuate the examination, and if a "refusal" does occur, the policy sets out consequences.

Reasonable Suspicion

The statute provides that a teaching staff member shall report the matter when he or she identifies a student who "appears" to be under the influence of drugs. An examination following upon identification of such a student constitutes a search of the student, and may, indeed generally will and here did, involve urine screening. The United States Supreme Court has acknowledged that the protection against unreasonable searches and seizures guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment extends through the Fourteenth Amendment to searches conducted by and at the behest of state officers and more particularly to those involving students. T.L.O., supra., at 469 U.S. 325, 334 (1985). However, the United States Supreme Court has stated that the > legality of a search of a student should depend simply on the reasonableness, under all the circumstances, of the search . . . one must consider "whether the . . . action was justified in its inception," Terry v. Ohio, 392 U.S. [1,] 20 [(1968)]; second, one must determine whether the search as actually conducted "was reasonably related in scope to the circumstances which justified the interference in the first place," ibid.

> [Id. At 341-42 (footnotes omitted).]

As the Supreme Court has noted, the determination of "reasonableness" can be elusive. The definition of what constitutes "reasonable suspicion" involves a concept the precise definition of which the Court has labeled as "not possible." It is instead a "commonsense, nontechnical conception [ ]that deal [s] with the factual and practical considerations of everyday life on which reasonable and prudent men, not legal technicians, act." Ornelas v. United States, 517 U.S. 690, 695 (1996).

In this case, the local board was presented with a packet of documents for its consideration in the expulsion hearing. In that packet was a narrative that stated that on December 21, 1999, an unnamed teacher reported to Mr. Jeff Spector, the 9th grade assistant principal, that the teacher believed that A. was under the influence of drugs because A. was glassy eyed, sleepy and complained of nausea. The teacher was not called to testify before the Board and her name (she has been identified in this proceeding as Ms. Pasquarel, although she was not presented as a witness here either) was withheld from counsel for the G. family. Mr.

Spector testified below as to his observations, and has done so here as well. In addition, the school nurse and another assistant principal have testified here.

Mr. Spector testified here that after Ms. Pasquarel sent A. to the school office he observed A., and saw that A. had a disheveled appearance, with his shirt hanging out of his pants, lacked energy, but exhibited mood swings, sometimes being loud and at other times quiet, was crying and glassy eyed from the crying, seemed to lean back and lack stability. He did not appear to be or complain of being nauseous. The school nurse, Ms. Michalene Lubeski, testified that she was present in the office as well and observed that A., who was a regular visitor to her office and with whom she was quiet familiar, appeared disheveled, with his shirt hanging out of his pants, an appearance not usual for him, as in her experience he was "always neat." He was alert, but was hysterical, yelling, sobbing uncontrollably, running his hands through his hair and his eyes were red. Upon examination, she found his blood pressure extremely high and his pulse extremely rapid. He was "highly emotional," and "overly sensitive." Mr. Hoopes, another assistant principal present, observed A. to be crying, disheveled, very upset, with eyes that were "a little glassy" and bloodshot. Hoopes recalled some outbursts on A.'s part as well.

According to the Board's witnesses, in the course of A.'s stay in the office before his being transported by school bus to the emergency room at Kennedy Hospital, he made significant statements. Mr. Spector testified that Ms. Lubeski asked A. if he would test positive and he replied that he would, for marijuana, which he had used within the last week. Ms. Lubeski testified that the boy was sobbing and asking why "everyone was always picking on me." He then told her that he had "smoked a joint" and that his father was "going to kill him" when he found out about the drug use. She observed that he "was scared." He added that he was "going to test positive." She related to him that for the test to be positive it would have to register over 50 nanograms, and that the use would have to have been shortly before the test or a "lot of use." He was highly emotional, wondering aloud what his dad would do and insisting that he was going to test positive. Mr. Hoopes recalled that when A. was asked, he said that he had smoked recently, that he would get into "deep trouble" at home, that he would "get killed."

In his own testimony in this hearing, A. testified that he was asked in the office whether he had smoked or had been in contact with persons who did so. He related to the adults that he "had been around" smokers at a party, that the marijuana "might be in his system." He then testified that he was not asked if he had smoked, but later testified that he was "not sure" if Spector had asked him in the office if he smoked. He did recall saying that he had smoked, and did not recall saying anything about smoking while being transported to the hospital for testing, although Mr. Spector testified that while they were on the bus they discussed the test and results to be garnered there from and A. said that "he'd be positive for marijuana." In fact, as A. admitted in his testimony, since June 1999 he was a frequent smoker of marijuana (one to three times a day, with some periods when he did not smoke for days or up to a week) and had smoked two days before the December 21 incident.

In assessing the evidence as to reasonable suspicion, it seems clear that if the situation is viewed concerning the circumstances presented to the three adults in the office, reasonable suspicion certainly existed. Even apart from the purported admissions and the acknowledged statements by A. in the office, he was exhibiting to these three school authorities mood swings, outbursts, hysterical crying, great emotionalism, glassy eyes, high blood pressure and pulse, and an appearance that was different from the neat image he normally exhibited. These factors by themselves could readily have raised reasonable suspicion that he was under the influence. I am convinced beyond any reasonable question that Spector, Hoopes and Lubeski each candidly and honestly identified the observations that they made that day, and while there are some differences between them in the exact observations related, there is absolutely no basis for discrediting the fundamental honesty and accuracy of their testimony. Particularly significant is the nurse's testimony. She testified that she did not diagnose, but merely observed and gathered her observations, and that she was particularly alarmed by the blood pressure and pulse readings. Of course, when coupled with admissions of smoking that I FIND A. made, the totality of the circumstances constituted a clear case of reasonable suspicion. Even without the statements, there was enough to permit the child's examination in accordance with the statute.

The topic of reasonable suspicion must, however, also consider the involvement of the previously unidentified teacher, Ms. Pasquarel. As noted, she did not testify at the Board's hearing and the Board did not choose to call her at the administrative hearing either. The Board was aware of her reported observations of A. only through the reference in the narrative of the incident provided in the packet of material made available to the Board and whatever testimonial references may have been made at that hearing by Mr. Spector or others. In the OAL, counsel for petitioners never sought to compel discovery of the teacher's name, yet protests that the Board did not call her as a witness. Petitioners' counsel argues that the reported observations of the teacher were insufficient to provide reasonable suspicion and therefore all that followed, including whatever observations Spector, Lubeski and Hoopes noted, as well as any comments or admissions by A., cannot support the search that occurred.

According to the hearsay evidence presented below and here, Ms. Pasquarel observed that A. was sleeping in class, was glassy eyed and complaining of nausea. Obviously, more than one explanation might account for these circumstances. The teacher herself did not have the authority to order that A. submit to drug screening. Nevertheless, confronted with a student acting as if he was being affected by something out of the ordinary and that might be symptomatic of someone being affected by the use of drugs, she sent the student to the office in accordance with R5530. There, the student was assessed by assistant principals Spector and Hoopes and by school nurse Lubeski. Spector, authorized to act on the district's behalf in these situations, took into account the observations he and his associates made and determined that there was reasonable suspicion and notified Mrs. G., as per the policy. These included important observations about blood pressure and pulse, as well as observations of a student clearly reacting to and perhaps from the influence of some powerful influence. As the discovery of this new evidence occurred, above and beyond the teacher's identified signs, the level of search justified escalated. Hedges v. Musco, 204 F. 3d 109, (3rd Cir. 2000), citing Recent Case, 111 Harv. L. Rev. 1341, 1345-46 (1997).

Based upon the totality of the circumstances with which Mr. Spector was confronted, including the admissions of smoking that I FIND that A. made in the office, Spector's decision to require that A. be tested was fully supported by a reasonable suspicion that A. was under the influence of drugs. Common sense and legal precedent supported his decision to follow the mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and have A. examined.

Deficiencies in the Hearing Below

As noted the petitioners argue that the hearing below was deficient. This allegation arises from two circumstances, the aforementioned withholding of the name of the teacher who first sent A. to the office under suspicion of being under the influence, and the refusal of the Board, on the advice of its counsel, to allow the petitioners' attorney to cross-examine Mr. Spector regarding the conversation he had with the petitioners and Mr. G.'s brother, B., at their request, a conversation that was secretly tape-recorded by B.G. As for the identification of Ms. Pasquarel, the Board received hearsay information as to her observations and corroborating evidence going to the issue of reasonable suspicion that was legally adequate to allow it to determine that such suspicion was indeed reasonable and adequate to mandate examination of the student. In addition, Board counsel was not legally required to call her: he was free to chose how to try his case, so long as he in fact presented facts sufficient to support the case he sought to prove. Finally, there is no evidence that counsel for the petitioners ever attempted to seek any remedy to force disclosure of the name, such as by a petition to the Commissioner or other such appropriate avenue. In summary, there is nothing about this issue that makes the Board's action arbitrary and capricious.

As for the denial of cross-examination, the tape reveals that at one point in a lengthy discussion regarding the possible options and avenues for the petitioners to consider in light of A.'s potential expulsion, including proceeding with the Board hearing or foregoing that hearing, and the possibility of enrolling A. in a private school, an alternative high school, or in another district's high school, Mr. Spector, who was aware that the G. s had some thought about A. attending Deptford High School, in the school district in which Mr. G.'s parents lived, said that while, in his opinion an attorney well-versed in education law could make very valid arguments to the Board against an expulsion, if, however, A. felt that he could not succeed in Washington Township, that the best option might then be for him to go to Deptford, which he said was a district better equipped to educate A. given his particular circumstances. Spector said that that choice was "the least evasive" and that "realistically he would be living home and I would never say that I said that." He then goes on to discuss the after-school hours situation and the fact that there would be supervision, a good thing in his mind. The petitioners argue that the comment by Spector that he would deny that he said that A. would be living at home, which suggested to them that he was suggesting or perhaps acquiescing in the family's consideration of a scheme that would constitute a fraud on the Deptford Board of Education and possibly involve a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, was evidence that could have helped to impeach Spector's credibility in regards to his testimony going to the consent and perhaps to the reasonable suspicion issues. The denial of the right to cross-examine Spector on this relevant evidence concerning his truthfulness was so egregious that it means that the Board consideration of the matter was arbitrary and capricious and must be overturned.

I have listened carefully to the entire recording of the meeting between Spector and the three G. s. It is fair to say that Mr. Spector, who clearly was concerned about the student's plight and the difficulties it presented to the family, and whom the parents had asked for a meeting, may have stepped into areas that were not necessarily the best for him to be discussing. On the tape he states very clearly that in that meeting he did not function as a spokesperson for the Board, or an agent of the Board (at least that was the position he expressed, legal considerations that might actually apply notwithstanding), but any fair reading of the entire tape, and the comment he made upon which counsel and the parents have seized, makes it abundantly clear that that comment in no reasonable manner compromises the integrity and credibility of Spector's testimony on the other matters. While there might be other reasons to doubt him, as consent is not an issue here and the totality of the evidence regarding reasonable suspicion, including the admissions made by A., is such that the existence of reasonable suspicion is clearly established, the error that I agree was made by Board counsel in restricting the cross-examination of the witness on a matter arguably relevant to credibility is nothing more than harmless error. This is so despite the extremely high place of cross-examination in the pantheon of rights fundamental to a fair hearing process. Although the hearing process was flawed to some extent, when the totality of the circumstances is viewed fairly, it is apparent that the flaws below did not cause the Board to act arbitrarily.

Expulsion of a student is an extreme remedy and visits a most unfortunate penalty upon the student, and indeed, on his family. In the case of this student, the Board only acted to expel him after he received fair warning via the suspension following the first positive test that he had to refrain from marijuana use and that he would be subject to random testing. When he underwent that random test, he was again shown to be under the influence of marijuana. Given the strong State policy against drugs in school, the corrosive effects of drug use on students and on the school system, and the Board's own concern to rid its schools to the extent possible of drugs and, where persistent, those who use drugs, and given that in this case the initial testing was preceded by reasonable suspicion of such use, the Board cannot be said to have acted arbitrarily. Its decision, though a difficult one, must be upheld. The challenge to the expulsion is therefore DISMISSED and A. therefore is expelled from the Washington Township school system.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

M.G. AND M.G., on behalf of minor child, A.G.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exception arguments maintain that: (1) the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in ruling that the Board did not need to obtain parental consent "prior to performing A.G.'s first drug test" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1, 2); (2) the ALJ improperly concluded that the Board did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in finding that "there was reasonable suspicion for A.G.'s first drug test" (Id. at 5); (3) the ALJ erred in ruling that the Board did not contravene N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10; and (4) their due process rights were violated by the Board's failure to offer a transcript of the hearing conducted at the local level.

In reply, the Board asserts that: (1) with respect to the factual issue of whether M.G. gave her consent to have A.G. examined, petitioners "have no business mentioning unsupported testimony from a record they chose not to submit," (Board's Reply at 1, 2); (2) the ALJ "accurately interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:40-12 as not requiring a school district to present a parent with a choice of electing not to have a student tested who has met the reasonable suspicion standard in the opinion of a staff member" (Id. at 4); (3) there was no need to present the referring teacher as a witness at the Board hearing (Id.); (4) the ALJ's discussion at page four of the Initial Decision with respect to the alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10 should be affirmed; and (5) petitioners' due process argument lacks merit, since they never raised in their pleadings the issue of the absence of a record of the Board's proceedings and they are wrong in alleging that there was an unfair shifting of burdens. (Id. at 5)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm in part and reverse in part the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth below.

This matter concerns a district's dual responsibility to arrange for the immediate medical examination of a pupil when a staff member suspects that he is under the influence of alcohol or other drugs at school or a school-sponsored function, and, where that suspicion is substantiated, to ensure that he receives appropriate follow-up services.

As the ALJ properly noted, the relevant statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, as set forth in the Initial Decision, does not require that a parent's, or guardian's, consent be obtained before a pupil receives a medical examination for the purpose of diagnosing whether he is under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.[1] Instead, the statute provides a parent/guardian, upon notification, with the option of choosing that the examination be performed > by a doctor selected by the parent or guardian, or if that doctor is not immediately available, by the medical inspector,[2] if he is available. If a doctor or medical inspector is not immediately available, the pupil shall be taken to the emergency room of the nearest hospital for examination accompanied by a member of the school staff designated by the principal and a parent or guardian of the pupil, if available. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12.

[1] In so finding, the Commissioner concurs that it is unnecessary to determine the factual dispute underlying this issue.

[2] A medical inspector is a physician licensed to practice medicine and surgery within the State who serves under contract with the Board. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1.

Further, it is the staff member's report of suspicion, based on articulated observations of specific indicators of alcohol or other drug use, which compels that a principal, or his designee, arrange for an immediate medical examination. As the Commissioner has recently instructed:

> N.J.S.A.* 18A:40A-12, is part of a larger enactment intended to establish a comprehensive public school program for prevention of substance abuse and provision of assistance to students affected by it. Within this context, it is clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 is intended to provide a "safety net" for students through its requirement that the school system identify and obtain assistance for any student who may be under the influence of drugs, alcohol or other substances of abuse. By its own terms, the statute plainly envisions that not every student so identified will necessarily be found to be under the influence in fact, but the framework it establishes errs on the side of protecting the health and well-being of students by ensuring that no student falls through the cracks and that assistance is provided where needed, whether sought by the student or not.
>
> The framework established by the Legislature for this purpose assigns clear and distinct roles to various staff members. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 initially requires "any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel" to whom it appears that a student may be under the influence of drugs or alcohol to "report the matter as soon as possible" to the school nurse, medical inspector or substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal or designee. Thereupon, the principal shall immediately notify the chief school administrator and the parent or guardian, and shall arrange for immediate medical examination of the pupil by the doctor selected by the parent/guardian, or if unavailable, the medical inspector, or if unavailable, the emergency room of the nearest hospital.
> Nowhere in the statute is the principal or designee given the authority to substitute his/her judgment for that of the referring staff member, once a staff member advises the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the observations, symptoms and indicators underlying this conclusion.  There is nothing in the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, nor in its legislative history, to indicate that the statutory provision requiring an immediate medical examination was not intended to be mandatory upon a staff report of a student who appeared, based on specific observed indicators, to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.[3] ***

[3] N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5 (adopted, 1987; amended, 1989; effective, July 1, 1990) mirrors the statutory language. The Commissioner notes that the State Board of Education is currently considering recodification of this provision without change under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-4.3.

> Within this framework, the mandatory medical examination is, therefore, triggered upon referral from the teaching staff member based upon the staff member's observation of specific indicators and determination based upon them that the student appears to be under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. There is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 suggesting, much less authorizing, once a report has been made, that the designated administrator may first seek to validate the referring staff member's observations or judge the reasonableness of his or her conclusions before taking the actions required by statute. Instead, the administrator must act once the student has been reported, i.e., once a staff member advises the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the basis for this conclusion so that the administrator may convey the necessary information to parents and medical providers when they are contacted as required by law.  Additionally, while a nurse may examine the student and the principal may ask the referring staff member to more fully describe the observations leading to his or her report, it is the referral itself that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5, unequivocally requires the principal or his designee to arrange for an immediate medical examination of the student. (emphasis in text) (In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Joseph Graceffo, School District of the Township of Wayne, Passaic County, Commissioner Decision, September 21, 2000, Slip Op. at 54-57)[3]

Here, according to the record, "[t]he teacher cited sleeping in class, glassy eyes, and complaints of nausea as reasons for [A.G.'s] referral to the Assistant Principal." (Exhibit R-3, Expulsion Packet, Narrative of Incident) As stated above, once a staff member advises the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the observations, symptoms and indicators underlying this conclusion, the principal or designee may not substitute his judgment for that of the referring staff member. Graceffo, supra, at 55. Therefore, although the observations of the vice principal and the school nurse may have served to reinforce the referring teacher's suspicion in this instance, these observations are essentially irrelevant to the question of whether the referral itself was proper, since neither staff member is legally permitted to thwart the required medical examination. The Commissioner, therefore, determines that A.G. was properly referred for a medical examination on December 21, 1999.[4] Furthermore, even assuming, arguendo, that a medical examination conducted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 would constitute a search of a student so as to subject it to the standards set forth in New Jersey v. T.L.O., supra, contrary to petitioners' urging, there can be no doubt on this record that the "search" was "justified in its inception" (Initial Decision at 6 citing to New Jersey v. T.L.O., supra at 341-42) based upon the referring teacher's articulation of symptoms undisputedly exhibited by A.G. on December 21, 1999 which may reasonably be associated with substance use.

Once A.G. was determined by a physician to be under the influence of marijuana on December 21, 1999, the law required that his attendance at school could not resume until he submitted to the principal a written report, prepared by a personal physician, the medical inspector or the physician who examined him pursuant to the provisions of the enabling statute, that he was physically and mentally able to return to school. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. Although it is not clear from the record that petitioners, in fact, presented the District with such a report,[5] or that the District adhered to its adopted procedures which conditioned a student's return to school

[3] The Commissioner notes that his decision in the matter entitled In re Graceffo, supra, was issued on September 21, 2000 and the ALJ did not, therefore, have the benefit of reviewing it prior to issuing his initial decision in the instant matter.

[4] To the extent the Board's policy references "urine analysis," or "drug testing," the Board is cautioned, as noted in Graceffo, supra, that "a drug test does not equate to a medical examination within the requirements of the statute." (emphasis in text) (In re Graceffo, supra, Slip Op. at 66)

[5] Exhibit P-3 in evidence appears to be a handwritten note of petitioners' conversation with Mr. Spector on December 21, 1999. The note details that A.G. would receive a five-day out of school suspension, followed by a five-day in-school suspension. It further reads, "Return to school Jan.14th  Must have parent conference, referral to conselor (sic) (private too?) letter from Dr./or Hosp. to 'clear' for drugs. No charges but police write up. [Two] random drug tests (same as athletic students) when back in school. Mr. Spector—Bound to policy – no grey areas."

under these circumstances,[6] A.G. nevertheless returned to school on January 6, 2000, following a five-day out of school suspension, to serve his five-day internal suspension.

The Commissioner notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 requires that, upon such student's return to school, a substance awareness coordinator (SAC) or other appropriately trained teaching staff member shall interview the student for the purpose of determining the extent of his involvement with substances and his possible need for treatment. After such investigation, if it is determined that his involvement with substances represents a danger to the student's health and well-being, the SAC or other appropriately trained staff member is obligated to refer the student to an appropriate treatment program. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. Here, the record reflects that:

> [A.] returned for his internal suspension on January 6, 2000 where [Assistant Principal] Mr. Spector held a return conference with [A.] and his mother. Student Assistant Coordinator, Marjorie Chassels, was also in attendance. Mr. Spector presented Mrs. [G.] with the policy and procedures for a positive drug screen. Included in his presentation was the parents (sic) and students (sic) responsibility to: a) adhere to the treatment recommended by the testing center and b) agree to undergo two random drug screens during the next three months. As well, Mrs. [G.] was informed that a subsequent positive test or not adhering to the recommended treatment would result in a possible expulsion from school. Mr. Spector had Mrs. [G.] signed (sic) attachment H of policy 5530 acknowledging such.
>
> At the meeting January 6, Mrs. Chassels informed Mrs. [G.] that [A.] was recommended to undergo three days a week of intensive drug therapy.
>
> Student Assistant Coordinator, Rick Fanslau, met with [A.] each of the five days he was an (sic) internal suspension.

---

[6] An attachment to the Board's policy entitled "Procedures for Mandated Alcohol/Drug Evaluation" (Exhibit R-4, Substance Abuse Policy No. 5530, Attachment C at 12) sets forth the parties' responsibilities in the event a student receives "a positive urine screening." Specifically, the student is not permitted to return to school until: the parents/guardians have submitted the physician's certification, noted supra; an evaluation is completed "by the contracted service provider to determine the extent of the student's involvement with alcohol/drugs and possible need for treatment"; the parents/guardians have agreed to participate in a preventive/intervention drug counseling program; and the student and parents/guardians have agreed to the student's participation in two random drug screenings. (Id.)

> On February 22, 2000, Assistant Principals Scott Hoopes and Jeff Spector took seven 9th and 10th grade students for random drug screens. This was per district policy for students who had previously tested positive for a controlled dangerous substance. This was the first of [A.]'s two random screens. ***
>
> The test result was positive for the same substance as the previous screen.
>
> Mr. Spector inquired of both Mr. and Mrs. [G.] and the Behavioral Health Center as to whether or not [A.] had been undergoing the prescribed intensive therapy. Both Mr. and Mrs. [G.] confirmed that [A.] had not undergone one day of substance abuse counseling from the date of his first positive test to the date of the second positive test. The Behavioral Health Center acknowledged that [A.] was not receiving counseling at their facility. In the best interest of [A.], Mr. Spector urged Mr. [G.] to enroll [A.] in counseling as quickly as possible.
>
> On February 23, 2000, one day after the second positive screen, Mr. [G.] informed Mr. Spector that [A.] was enrolled in counseling at the Behavioral Health Center. On February 29, 2000, Don Keller from the health center confirmed [A.] had begun counseling.
> (Exhibit R-3, Expulsion Packet, Narrative of Incident)

The Board's policy provides that if a pupil is found to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs for a second time during his enrollment in Washington Township High School, then such pupil will be excluded from school pending a Board of Education expulsion hearing.[7] (Exhibit R-4, Substance Abuse Policy No. 5530 at 5) In this instance, the District's "Expulsion Packet" was apparently submitted to the Board on March 2, 2000, approximately one week after A.G.'s second positive finding of marijuana, and the Board conducted its expulsion hearing on April 17, 2000, evidently without further documentation as to A.G.'s progress, if any, in treatment. A.G. was placed on home instruction until his sixteenth birthday, when the Board

[7] In this regard, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ properly rejected petitioners' claim that the Board failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-10, which requires the Board to provide, to pupils and parents, copies of its policy statement concerning the identification, evaluation, referral to treatment and discipline of pupils who are substance abusers. (Initial Decision at 4) terminated educational services to him.[8] (Petition of Appeal at 7, paragraph 31) The Board's Expulsion Packet details A.G's academic, disciplinary and attendance record. The Commissioner therein notes, inter alia, that A.G. was, in the 1999-2000 school year, a ninth grader with a disciplinary record which included one incident of cutting class on December 14, 1999, approximately one week before his medical examination, and one incident of cutting a teacher's detention on December 21, 1999, the same date as the medical examination.[9]

As to the actual expulsion hearing, petitioners claim deficiencies in the hearing which, they assert, compromised their due process rights. Here, the Commissioner first concurs with the ALJ that the Board's counsel was not obligated to call Ms. Pasquarel, the referring teacher, as a witness at the expulsion hearing. However, the Commissioner nonetheless finds that the Board's decision to conceal the identity of this teacher from petitioners, without explanation, is troubling, particularly, in light of the severe and permanent sanction which ultimately arose from her referral, albeit a proper one. Again, the Commissioner underscores that it was Ms. Pasquarel's belief that A.G. was under the influence of a substance, together with her identification of specific symptoms or indicators of alcohol or other drug use, which were to "trigger" the ensuing medical examination. For this reason, petitioners' attempt to impeach the testimony of Mr. Spector at the Board's expulsion hearing conducted on April 16, 2000 by cross-examining him on the issues raised in the tape produced by petitioners can be to no avail,[10] where petitioners do not refute the observations made by Ms. Pasquarel, notwithstanding that they challenge the conclusion which she drew from her observations, alleging that "A.G. was sleepy, nauseous, and had glassy eyes on or about December 21, 1999 because he had been up late the night before ." (Petition of Appeal at 6, paragraph 23)

[8] The record indicates that A.G.'s sixteenth birthday was August 15, 2000.

[9] Exhibit R-3 also includes A.G.'s disciplinary record from the eighth grade, which included one incident of refusing to come to school (March 3, 1999), one "misuse of pass" on March 8, 1999 and one incident where he was in possession of a knife, on May 3, 1999, for which he received five days of internal suspension. (Exhibit R-3)

Additionally, although petitioners claim that their failure to receive an "intelligible recording of the Board hearing" denied them due process "insofar as [they were] placed in the untenable situation during the plenary hearing of having the burden shifted to them in a proceeding where there was no means for effective cross-examination during the plenary hearing of respondent's witnesse[s] who were called during the Board hearing" (Petitioners' Exceptions at 7), it is noted that petitioners, who point to no authority which would compel the Board to provide them with such transcripts, at all times bore the burden of proof in their action before the Commissioner, irrespective of the Board's alleged improprieties.

Notwithstanding the above, however, the Commissioner notes that the record demonstrates that the Board, in applying its policy to A.G., perfunctorily turned to "the ultimate sanction of expulsion from the district" C.S. v. Township of Piscataway, 97 N.J.A.R. 573, aff'd State Board April 1, 1998, slip op. at 5, although its policy, as noted supra, did not require expulsion for a second offense of this kind, despite its mandate to conduct an expulsion hearing.[11] That hearing was petitioners' chance to make a case for A.G.'s continued enrollment in the district, while also allowing the Board the opportunity to fully consider A.G.'s circumstances and other options short of the ultimate sanction of expulsion. The Commissioner is particularly concerned that, notwithstanding the fundamental nature of an expulsion hearing, not only were petitioners dissuaded from attending the hearing and arguing on A.G.'s behalf, but there are also indications in the record that the Board may have deliberately failed to consider the viability of options other than expulsion, such as alternative educational programs, that might be suitable for him. (See Exhibit P-1, tape recording of Assistant Principal Spector's comments to [10] The Commissioner notes that he, too, reviewed the tape produced by petitioners of their conversation with Mr. Spector on March 6, 2000 wherein they discussed various options for A.G. prior to the expulsion hearing.

[11] A memorandum dated March 1, 2000 from the Executive Vice Principal to Dr. Robert Kern, Superintendent, affirms, "Per Board of Education policy, on a second offense for testing positive, I am recommending that this student be expelled from Washington Township High School, pending Board of Education approval. If approved, my recommendation for [A.]'s educational program is that home instruction be provided until June 30, 2000 with

A.G.'s parents, prior to the expulsion hearing, in response to their inquiries about what would happen at the hearing and various educational options for their son, including alternative programs.[12]) Thus, while the Commissioner is fully cognizant of his limited standard of review, Thomas, supra, Kopera, supra, he finds that, under these circumstances, the Board's decision to expel A.G. may not have been the result of sufficiently full deliberation, so as to warrant the extreme result of terminating his entitlement to a free public education in the district.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is affirmed in part, and reversed in part, for the reasons expressed herein. The Board is directed to readmit A.G. to its District and to determine, after considering pertinent factors, including available alternative educational options, whether expulsion is the appropriate result under all the circumstances of A.G.'s case.

The Commissioner does not retain jurisdiction.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[13]

expulsion becoming effective after his 16th birthday. Additionally, [A.] will not participate in any school activities for the remainder of the school year." (Exhibit R-3) [12] In this regard, the Commissioner notes that alternative education programs "are specifically designed to serve the dual purposes of removing the disruptive student from the regular education program, thus, permitting the district to maintain an educational climate that is both safe and conducive to learning, and assisting the alternative education student to continue [his] educational program in a public school setting, satisfy credit-year curriculum requirements and develop more responsible patterns of behavior." *C.S. v. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

Record Closed: August 18, 2000 Decided: September 21, 2000

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on May 3, 1999, when the Board of Education of Bordentown Regional School District (hereinafter petitioner) filed tenure charges against tenured teacher Patricia Finn (hereinafter respondent) alleging incapacity and other just cause. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on May 20, 1999 and on May 21, 1999, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The case was assigned OAL Docket No. EDU 4205-99, and on February 10, 2000, the undersigned issued an initial decision on a motion for summary decision concluding that the charges labeled A-1, 2, 3, 4 and B-1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, were actually charges of inefficiency, therefore requiring the provision of the 90-day remediation period mandated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and accordingly, dismissing those charges without prejudice. The initial decision further directed that the charges labeled B-6 and B-7, essentially charges alleging conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, be administratively returned to the Commissioner of Education for a determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, whether the charges, if true, were sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. On March 10, 2000, the Commissioner of Education adopted the initial decision in part, but declined to rule upon some of the issues discussed, finding them unnecessary for a resolution of the instant matter. The Commissioner further ordered that the remaining charges, B-6 and B-7, were sufficient standing alone, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary and remanded those charges to the Office of Administrative Law for determination. Accordingly, the only issues remaining for determination are as follows: "B-6, Repeatedly leaving classroom unattended, thereby denying students of direct instruction and supervision; and B-7, Permitting an Instructional Aid to deliver instruction directly to pupils without supervision in violation of New Jersey Administrative Code." A telephone conference call took place between counsel and the undersigned on April 6, 2000, following which hearing dates were scheduled for June 9 and June 16, 2000. Prior to the scheduled hearing dates, the parties advised that the remaining tenure charges had been amicably resolved between the parties. On July 5, 2000, the parties appeared and placed the settlement agreement upon the record, subject to approval of the Bordentown Regional Board of Education and subject to submission of a signed stipulation of settlement. The signed stipulation of settlement, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length, was received on August 18, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I CONCLUDE that in view of all of the circumstances, it would not be improper for the Commissioner of Education to approve this settlement as an appropriate voluntary resolution of this matter entirely consistent with law and the philosophy expressed in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, EDU 7093-81, 7094-81 and 100-82, decided April 6, 1983, by the State Board of Education. The parties have set forth in their written settlement agreement all of the circumstances which have caused petitioner to conclude that a hearing on the merits in this matter would probably not serve the public interest. As noted in the initial decision issued by the undersigned on February 10, 2000, and in the final decision, issued by the Commissioner on March 10, 2000, over her 28 years of teaching, petitioner received generally favorable performance evaluations and even during a more recent limited period of time wherein she received some negative evaluations, other evaluations continued to praise her efforts, excellence, enthusiasm and dedication to helping students. The two remaining charges, although not de minimis, even if proven, would probably warrant some sanction less than removal. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5 requires petitioner to notify the State Board of Examiners of the circumstances concluding the within matter. That regulation provides:

> In cases in which teaching staff members accused of misdemeanors, crimes or conduct unbecoming which might warrant revocation or suspension, resign or retire from their positions, either before tenure proceedings have been brought or prior to the conclusion of such proceedings, it shall be the responsibility of the chief school administrator of that district to notify the State Board of Examiners of the alleged conduct pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)2. Should the Board of Examiners issue an Order to Show Cause, it shall be the responsibility of the district which reported the conduct to cooperate with the Board of Examiners in ascertaining and presenting the facts underlying such allegations.

Whether to initiate action against petitioner's teaching certificate is, of course, within the discretion of the Board of Examiners, but considering the facts set forth in the previous initial decision and those described in the stipulation attached hereto, it is unlikely that the Board of Examiners would consider such action necessary or appropriate. Under all of the circumstances, the proposed settlement agreement appears to be an appropriate resolution of this matter.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST PATRICIA FINN BY THE BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	: BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW : : : : OAL DOCKET NO.: EDUTH 004205-99S : : STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, the Bordentown Regional School District and Patricia Finn, having reached an agreement to resolve the matter amicably, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms as their settlement agreement.

1. The parties state and agree that their agreement to this agreement is contingent upon the approval by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education of all the terms of this agreement, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Administrative Law Judge or the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for hearings in relation to tenure charges numbers 6 and 7, but that nothing in this paragraph or agreement shall, in such event, preclude the parties to agreeing to a new, revised or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement shall be subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and of the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the terms and condition of this agreement, the petitioner shall withdraw tenure charges numbers 6 and 7. In addition, the petitioner has determined not to appeal and will not appeal the Commissioner's decision dismissing tenure charges 1 through 5.

3. Rationale for Settlement.

A. On or about April 30, 1999, petitioner filed tenure charges against the respondent. The Commissioner dismissed charges 1 through 5 on the grounds that such charges, even if true, would constitute inefficiency, not incapacity or incompetency, and because petitioner did not file such charges in accord with the procedures governing inefficiency charges. Petitioner has not appealed that decision and will not appeal that decision.

B. Tenure charge 6 alleges that respondent permitted her aides to give direct instruction to pupils in violation of New Jersey law. In the course of investigation, discovery, and preparation for hearing, information was provided to petitioner by respondent and by aides who worked with respondent which has demonstrated to petitioner's satisfaction that there is substantial doubt whether the allegation of tenure charge 6 is in fact true, and warranting the conclusion that it is unlikely that petitioner could sustain its burden of proof with respect to tenure charge number 6.

C. Tenure charge number 7 alleges that respondent left her class unattended on various dates and for various lengths of time. In the course of investigation, discovery, and hearing preparation, respondent has provided information regarding the circumstances of the alleged incidents to petitioner. As a result of the information provided and of petitioner's investigation, it is apparent that respondent has proffered reasons which may constitute substantial justification for her actions, or which constitute significant mitigating circumstances, thereby resulting in significant doubt whether petitioner could sustain its burden of proof on this charge, and whether, considering all of the circumstances of the case and the likely penalty which would be imposed if charge number 7 is proven, further prosecution of this charge is warranted.

D. Respondent, Patricia Finn, does not concede and has not conceded the validity of tenure charges 6 and 7. Nevertheless, respondent understands that given the nature of the litigation process, there is at least some risk that adverse findings could be made against her and she does not want to take that risk.

E. Both parties agree that the most substantial charges pursued by petitioner, and the basic reason that the charges were filed, relate to the allegations in tenure charges 1 through 5, which have been dismissed by the Commissioner.

F. Petitioner is aware of the public's interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges to assure that unqualified persons do not teach in the schools of New Jersey. However, upon its review of all of the circumstances, which include its evaluation of the time and expense in pursuing tenure charges, the uncertainty of the ultimate result which might be obtained, both in terms of sustaining the charges and any penalty which might be imposed, the lack of any allegation that respondent presents any threat to pupils, respondent's long service to the district and in many respects favorable record, the dismissal of tenure charges numbers1 through 5, and the matters recited in paragraphs A through E above, petitioner believes, and respondent concurs, that it is in the best interest of all parties and the public to resolve this matter by this settlement.

4. By settling this matter, respondent acknowledges that she is waiving her right to a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which she could obtain an adjudication of the merits of tenure charges numbers 6 and 7, and of the penalty, if any, if either of the charges was sustained. Respondent further acknowledges that she understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and is fully satisfied with the legal representation that she received in this matter.

5. The parties agree that respondent shall be reinstated and returned to active service with respondent as a teacher of the handicapped, effective September 1, 2000, and shall be assigned to the Peter Muschal School.

6. The parties agree that respondent's employment and adjustment increment for the 2000-01 school year has been and shall be withheld, on the basis and for the sole reason that respondent did not render any teaching service to petitioner for the 1999-00 school year. The parties also agree that if this settlement is rejected, petitioner may file an appeal of the increment(s) withholding, and that any such appeal shall be deemed timely filed.

7. The parties further agree and reiterate that tenure charges numbers 6 and 7 shall be dismissed with prejudice, but that petitioner may place a written reprimand in respondent's personnel folder, in which event, respondent shall be afforded the opportunity to respond in writing to that reprimand, and such response shall also be placed in petitioner's personnel folder.

8. The parties agree that no further disciplinary action shall be taken against respondent as a result of the subject matter included in tenure charges numbers 6 and 7, and that if petitioner files any future disciplinary charges against respondent, included but not limited to reprimands, increment withholdings, tenure charges, or any other charges whatsoever, that the allegations of tenure charges 6 and 7, and the reprimand and the circumstances related thereto shall not be used as reflecting on respondent's employment record in any respect.

9. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a copy of a letter sent to respondent by petitioner, dated June 28, 2000, which was placed in respondent's personnel file. The parties agree that that letter shall be removed from respondent's personnel file.

10. Petitioner will place a letter of reprimand in respondent's personnel file addressing the concerns raised by petitioner in tenure charges numbers 6 and 7, provided that respondent shall have the right to place a letter or other document in her personnel file in response or opposition to such letter of reprimand.

11. Petitioner shall place a letter in respondent's personnel file which states that respondent's increment was withheld for the reasons set forth in paragraph 6 of this agreement, provided that neither that letter nor the letters referred to in paragraphs 9 or 10 of this agreement shall be used against respondent adversely, for any purpose or reason whatsoever, and that this prohibition should apply to all uses, purposes, tribunals, and forums.

Dear Ms. Finn:

At its meeting on June 27, 2000, the Bordentown Regional Board of Education voted to withhold your salary increment for the 2000-01 school year. Your placement for 2000-01 will be at Peter Muschal School. It must be noted that there are a number of concerns about your classroom performance. Ms. Kate Napolitano-Burke, Peter Muschal building principal, and Ms. Louise Sullivan, Director of Special Services, will meet with you either in the late summer or at the beginning of the school year. At that time specific procedures will be outlined that must be followed. These procedures will include but not be limited to:

1. Appropriate form and reporting of lesson plans.
2. Appropriate record keeping for students.
3. Specifics on the requirements to follow each and every IEP.
4. School procedures including a review of your classroom responsibilities, use of instructional aide, communications with parents, and paper work requirements.

Failure to adhere to policies, procedures, and direction will result in disciplinary action.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the determination of the Board to charge her accumulated sick leave when she was absent from work because of what petitioner termed a work-related occurrence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Respondent denied that petitioner's absence was work-related.

At the OAL, respondent moved for summary decision based on the fact that petitioner failed to file a Workers' Compensation claim, arguing that such failure mandated dismissal of her petition. The ALJ concluded that the Division of Workers' Compensation is the proper forum to determine whether a work-related accident is the cause of an injury, except in limited circumstances, such as when Workers' Compensation lacks jurisdiction over a case. Because petitioner failed to file such a claim and the case did not fit within the limited exceptions to the requirement to seek a determination by Workers' Compensation, the ALJ dismissed the petition for lack of jurisdiction.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ, holding that, because the petition sought a determination whether petitioner's injury arose out of and in the course of her employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, she was required to file a Workers' Compensation claim, and that she did not fall within the limited exceptions to filing with Worker' Compensation.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10756-98

AGENCY DKT. NO. 494-11/98

SANDRA SCHMIDTKE,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF

THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE,

MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Wayne J. Oppito, Esq., for petitioner

Andrew A. Valeriani, Jr., Esq., (Michals, Wahl, Silver & Leitner, attorneys) and Elizabeth Farley Murphy, Esq. (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys), for the respondent

Record Closed: August 9, 2000 Decided: September 25, 2000

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the assertion of the petitioner, Sandra Schmidtke, that the respondent, the Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County, charged absent days to either her annual or accumulative sick leave which violated N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2.1 since her absences resulted from a work-related occurrence. The petitioner requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on December 15, 1998, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to-13.

The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference on March 3, 1999. At that time, the parties jointly requested that the matter be placed on the inactive list for a period of six months pending a determination in the workers' compensation case.

After considering the representations made by the parties, I determined that just cause existed for placing this matter on the inactive list, and I issued an order of inactivity on March 5, 1999. After the lapse of the period of inactivity, I had several telephone conferences with the parties. The respondent filed a motion for summary decision and argues that the matter should be dismissed since the petitioner has not filed a workers' compensation case regarding the incident in issue. The respondent argued that the petitioner is not entitled to paid sick leave pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 unless there is a finding of a compensable injury pursuant to the workers' compensation act.

For purposes of this motion, I FIND that the relevant facts are:

(1) The petitioner was out of work from April 22, 1998 to August 12, 1998, and alleges that she got sick after a student placed a drug into her coffee mug.

(2) The respondent reported the petitioner's absences to its workers' compensation insurance carrier and she was not allowed to return to work until "cleared" by the carrier's doctor.

(3) The respondent used the petitioner's personal sick days for the period she was out of work.

(4) The petitioner did not file a workers' compensation claim regarding the incident in issue.

The petitioner opposes the motion and argues that there are disputed facts relevant to the petitioner's allegation of her eligibility for sick time pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, and that summary decision is not appropriate. I disagree and I CONCLUDE that there are no factual disputes as to the threshold issue raised by the respondent as the basis for its motion to dismiss, namely, whether the matter should be dismissed since a workers' compensation claim was not filed.

The pertinent statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, provides:

> a. Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.

The respondent argues that the case law clearly establishes that the proper forum for the resolution of whether a work-related accident is the cause of an injury is the Division of Workers' Compensation and not the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner), and cited the decisions in Kristiansen v. Morgan, 153 N.J. 298 (1998), Fogash v. Lower Camden County School, 208 N.J. Super. 461 (App. Div. 1985). Since the decision of the State Board of Education in Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134, cases involving benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 have to be filed within the 90-day period as required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), but are placed on the inactive list until there is a workers' compensation determination. Since a workers' compensation claim was not filed in the matter, the respondent argues that the matter should be dismissed.

The petitioner argues that the petitioner is entitled to pursue her benefits pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:30-2.1 even though she did not pursue a workers' compensation claim and cited the decisions in Russo v. Burlington Twp. Bd. of Ed. (Commission decision September 29, 1997), Marino v. Willingboro Bd. of Ed. (State Bd. decision March 1, 2000), Hern v. Bd. of Ed. Of the City of Union City, DKT. No. A-339-91T3 (App. Div. October 23, 1992). The petitioner argues that at least part of her absence was due to the delay in getting the approval to return to work from the doctor for the workers' compensation carrier.

In reply, the respondent argues that in the Russo and Marino cases, the petitioner had filed workers' compensation claims and that this is a critical factual distinction since a workers' compensation case was not filed in this matter.

Having reviewed the arguments of the parties, I agree with respondent's argument.

In the Russo case, the workers' compensation case was dismissed for lack of prosecution. Thereafter, the board filed a motion to dismiss the education case regarding Russo's claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In dismissing the matter, the administrative law judge stated:

> Both the statutory provisions and the decision in Verneret envision that a petitioner seeking an award pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 will in fact present a Workers' Compensation claim and prosecute same. Petitioner cannot be awarded any damages under 18A30-2.1 until the compensation claim has been determined because under the statute the Board is entitled to a reduction for the Workers' Compensation award made for temporary disability and because under Verneret the question of whether the injury arose out of and in the course of his employment is to be determined by a proceeding in the Division of Workers' Compensation. As petitioner has voluntarily chosen not to pursue his Workers' Compensation claim, his claim under the school law sick leave statute will be dismissed with prejudice.
> [OAL DKT. No. 6470-96, initial decision, dated August 8, 1997, p.3]

On September 29, 1997, the Commissioner concurred and dismissed the appeal. In a footnote to his decision, the Commissioner clarified the above cited portion of the initial decision and stated that:

> Awards under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 are not necessarily conditioned upon presentation of a Workers' Compensation claim, as, for example, when the duration of the absence is insufficiently long to be eligible for such presentation. See Steven B. Hern v. Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner May 8, 1991, aff'd State Board of Education August 7, 1991, rev'd and remanded Appellate Division, A-339-91T3, October 23, 1992, remanded State Board of Education March 3, 1993.

In the Hern case, the Appellate Division noted that if Hern had filed a workers' compensation claim it would have been dismissed for failure to satisfy the seven-day waiting period required by the Workers' Compensation Act. The Appellate Division stated that it could "perceive no valid reason to require petitioner to engage in a futile gesture or to manufacture an unfounded workers' compensation claim," Hern, supra, slip op. at 4. In such circumstance, the Appellate Division concluded that the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to decide the teacher's request for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, including a determination as to whether the claim arose out of and in the course of his employment.

In the Marino case, the State Board of Education held that a settlement in Marino's workers' compensation case did not preclude Marino from pursuing his claim for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The State Board of Education stated:

> It is true, as pointed out by the Assistant Commissioner, that a determination with regard to whether an injury arose "out of and in the course of" employment within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is controlled by the standards established under the Workers' Compensation Act. It is also true that in those instances in which entitlement to relief under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is dependent upon whether the injury arose out of and in the course of employment within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 34:15-7 of the Workers' Compensation Act, the Commissioner should refrain from exercising his jurisdiction pending a determination of that issue by the Division of Workers' Compensation. Verneret, supra. However, the Commissioner does not lack the jurisdiction to make > such a determination himself. Indeed, the Appellate Division has held that, under appropriate circumstances, the Commissioner has "original exclusive jurisdiction" to decide a claim for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 despite the need to determine in the first instance whether the claim arose out of and in the course of the staff member's employment. Hern v. Board of Education of the City of Union City, Docket #A-339-91T3 (App. Div. 1992).

> [State Board of Education decision, p. 4-5]

It is clear from these decisions that the proper forum for the resolution of whether a work-related accident is the cause of an injury is the Division of Workers' Compensation except for limited cases such as when the Division of Workers' Compensation has no jurisdiction or when there is a settlement of the workers' compensation case. In this matter, the petitioner's case was placed on the inactive list in order to give the petitioner the time to pursue a workers' compensation claim and the petitioner elected not to file such a claim.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE and ORDER that the motion for summary decision be GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10756-98
AGENCY DKT. NO. 494-11/98

SANDRA SCHMIDTKE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions aver that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in finding that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, to hear the instant matter. Initially, she restates her argument that the matter should not have been considered by way of a Motion for Summary Decision because a dispute of material fact exists which defeats the summary decision motion; i.e., the Board's Answer to the Petition of Appeal alleges it lacked sufficient information regarding the events set forth in the petition. As such, petitioner contends that she should be allowed to go forward at plenary hearing to demonstrate that she wished to return to work prior to the superintendent's telephone call on August 12, 1998, and reiterates that the reason for not returning to work sooner was a result of her case "falling through the cracks" with the Board's insurance carrier. Of this, petitioner states:

> Petitioner should be allowed to go forward at a hearing to demonstrate that she should not be charged for sick leave days since it was respondent who reported the matter to the insurance carrier, it was the insurance carrier who assigned the case manager and it was the case manager who did not notify petitioner that she was "cleared" to work, despite her repeated efforts. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

Next, petitioner reiterates her position that Russo, supra; Marino, supra; and Hern, supra, establish that the awarding of days pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is not necessarily contingent upon a determination of a Workers' Compensation judge, and urges that the present matter is one of the situations noted in Russo and Marino which is not conditioned upon the presentation of a Workers' Compensation claim; namely, that if the insurance carrier is at fault for her being on sick leave longer than necessary, then she should be permitted to make her claim for the return of sick days pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In closing, petitioner "requests that the Commissioner reject the Initial Decision and remand the matter to the Administrative Law Judge for a plenary hearing as to whether or not petitioner is entitled to a return of her sick days pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1." (emphasis supplied) (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4)

The Board's reply exceptions aver that the entire thrust of petitioner's claim is whether or not an accident/incident occurred arising out of and in the course of her employment which bespeaks a Workers' Compensation claim; consequently, exclusive jurisdiction is vested with the Division of Workers' Compensation (DWC) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-49, not the Commissioner. Further, the Board urges rejection of petitioner's reliance on the dicta set forth in Russo, supra, Slip Opinion at 6, footnote, which states that "awards under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 are not necessarily conditioned upon presentation of a Workers' Compensation claim, as, for example, when the duration of an absence is insufficiently long to be eligible for such presentation. [citing Hern, supra]." The Board argues that the language in Hern, which petitioner quotes, relates to circumstances wherein a person does not satisfy the seven-day waiting period required by Workers' Compensation statute. The Board likewise urges rejection of petitioner's assertion that the Appellate Division in Hern concluded the Commissioner has original and primary jurisdiction to decide sick leave issues pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

The Board argues that, while there is no dispute that the Commissioner has jurisdiction under this statute, the Workers' Compensation statute, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., pursuant to the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Kristiansen, supra, vests exclusive jurisdiction to determine work-related injuries in the Workers' Compensation court.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner fully agrees with the ALJ's legal conclusions that there are no factual disputes as to the threshold issue raised by respondent, i.e., whether the matter should be dismissed, regardless of any claim by petitioner with respect to the role of the insurance carrier in determining the length of her absence, since a Workers' Compensation claim was not filed. Both the petition and exceptions request a determination of whether petitioner's injury arose out of and in the course of her employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, which is within the authority of Workers' Compensation. Further, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ's legal analysis of the Russo, Hern, and Marino matters as set forth in the Initial Decision and the conclusion that "the proper forum for the resolution of whether a work-related accident is the cause of an injury is the Division of Workers' Compensation except for limited cases such as when the Division of Workers' Compensation has no jurisdiction or when there is a settlement of the workers' compensation case." (emphasis supplied) (Initial Decision at 6). The legal principle set forth in Russo, which was relied upon by the ALJ in this matter, bears repeating herein. Not only is the principle applicable to the instant matter, but the factual circumstances in both cases are similar in that the petitioners in each case voluntarily chose not to pursue a claim for work-related injury with the DWC.[1] In Russo, supra, the ALJ held that:

> Both the statutory provisions and the decision in Verneret envision that a petitioner seeking an award pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 will in fact present a Workers' Compensation claim and prosecute

[1] The petitioner in Russo filed a claim but subsequently failed to prosecute it, while, in the instant matter, petitioner simply chose not to file a claim with DWC, notwithstanding that the matter, upon transmittal to the OAL, was put on the inactive list until such claim was determined by DWC.

> same. Petitioner cannot be awarded any damages under 18A:30-2.1 until the compensation claim has been determined because under the statute the Board is entitled to a reduction for the Workers' Compensation award made for temporary disability and because under Vernet [sic] the question of whether the injury arose out of and in the course of his employment is to be determined by a proceeding in the Division of Workers' Compensation. As petitioner has voluntarily chosen not to pursue his Workers' Compensation claim, his claim under the school law sick leave statute will be dismissed with prejudice. (Russo Initial Decision at 3)

Notwithstanding petitioner's arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner finds and determines that the instant matter does not present circumstances, such as were found in the Hern and Marino cases, which would create an exception to the legal requirement that the Commissioner refrain from exercising jurisdiction in matters alleging entitlement/damages under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 due to an injury/illness arising out of and in the course of employment until the DWC makes a determination of a work-related injury/illness pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-1.1 et seq. See Verneret, supra, and Rotella-Suarez v. Bd. of Ed. of the Town of West New York, decided by the State Board December 3, 1997.

Accordingly, for the reasons well-stated in the Initial Decision, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent sought to compel the Board to provide transportation to his son, B.A. The Board denied responsibility to transport B.A.

At the OAL, the parties stipulated that B.A., a seventh grade student, lives on a heavily traveled state highway with no pedestrian walkway or sidewalk and that for him to walk home he would have to walk with traffic which would be a violation of existing law. The ALJ concluded that, because B.A. lives more than two miles from the school as measured by a route other than State Highway 46, he is entitled to transportation from respondent Board.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ that B.A. is entitled to transportation from the Board under the factual circumstances presented in this matter.

BEFORE THOMAS R. VENA, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, G.A. o/b/o his son B.A., filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on or about February 2, 2000 wherein he seeks an Order directing the Respondent Ridgefield Board of Education (Board) to provide public transportation to and from Memorial High School in Ridgefield, or in the alternative, reimburse Petitioner for expenses associated with said transportation pursuant to its obligation to provide free transportation to students "who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Subsequently, on March 22, 2000 the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case.

At a prehearing conference on June 7, 2000 the parties agreed to file a joint stipulation of facts and agreed that those facts would constitute all facts "material" to this dispute. That joint stipulation of facts was filed on July 7, 2000.

By notice dated August 24, 2000, Petitioner filed a Motion for Summary Decision pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. An amendment to the motion was thereafter filed on September 7, 2000. No opposition has been received and the matter is now ripe for summary decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

All of the facts needed for summary disposition of this matter are stipulated. I, therefore, FIND:

1. Petitioner, B.A. has just completed the seventh grade and is currently enrolled at Memorial High School, located in the Borough of Ridgefield, County of Bergen, State of New Jersey.

2. B.A. presently resides with his father, G.A., at the Turnpike Motel (Motel) located on U.S. Route 46 West, in the Borough of Ridgefield, New Jersey. The Motel is located on U.S. Route 46, which is a four to six lane highway with two to three lanes in each direction separated by a median barrier.

3. The Motel has no other ingress or egress apart from the highway known as U.S. Route 46. There are no sidewalks on Route 46 adjacent to the Motel. There is no way in or out of the Motel without traveling onto Route 46. There exists no pedestrian sidewalk or footpath along Route 46 at the point where Route 46 intersects with Petitioner's residence. There is a narrow walkway as one approaches Broad Avenue.

4. U.S. Route 46 is a heavily traveled New Jersey State Highway.

5. In order for Petitioner to walk to school, he would have to walk against traffic onto Route 46. However, in order for Petitioner to walk home from school he would have to walk with the traffic which would be a violation of existing law.

6. As such, U.S. Route 46 cannot be measured with respect to remoteness from school because Petitioner would violate existing law by walking with traffic on his way home from school.

7. Petitioner's father, G.A., drives Petitioner to school when class is in session. The driving distance between Petitioner's residence and Memorial High School is greater than two miles.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the only safe and legal manner of transportation to and from B.A.'s public school is via vehicle transport. Since the shortest route measured by vehicle transport exceeds two miles, Petitioner is eligible for transportation under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

New Jersey Law requires local boards to provide transportation for children living "remote" from their schools. Remote is defined as "beyond two miles for elementary pupils (grades kindergarten through eight)." N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3. Measurement is required to be made "by the shortest route along public roadways or walkways from the entrance of the pupil's residence nearest such public roadway or public walkway to the nearest public entrance of the assigned school." N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(b). Since the parties have stipulated that there is no safe and legal way for B.A. to be transported via "public walkways" then the measurement is required to be made via "public roadways." In that the parties have stipulated that transportation via public roadway exceeds two miles then transportation or the cost thereof must be provided by the Respondent Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

The logic here is inescapable. It is uncontestable that the two miles cannot be measured "as the crow flies" since, quite obviously, children do not fly. It is, therefore, equally uncontestable that the route cannot be measured in a manner that would be unsafe and/or contrary to motor vehicle laws. In a decision dubbed "thoughtful and well reasoned" by the Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division, ALJ Ken R. Springer said with reference to transportation eligibility route measurements:

> The regulations themselves do not expressly specify that the route must be drawn in compliance with applicable motor vehicle laws. But that meaning is inherent in the nature of a law-abiding society. . . . "To decide differently is tantamount to requiring the child to violate the law when returning home from school." (citation omitted.)
>
>
> Teaching elementary school children to obey traffic rules is an educational as well as a safety aspect. More importantly, it serves to protect them from avoidable risks on the way to school. But also, it conveys an important civics lesson on waiting one's turn, respecting the rights of others and cooperating with social norms for the betterment of all. . . . Literature published by the National Association of Elementary School Principals urging parents to "teach your child . . . to use crosswalks when crossing streets" and also "to use designated sidewalks when walking to or from school or the school bus stop." It is difficult to imagine telling a young child to stay always on the sidewalk, except when going to or coming from school.
>
>
> . . . School routes are not some theoretical abstraction, but must be capable of being walked by real children.
> Nichols v. Wayne Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 701, 703, affirmed 94 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 277, affirmed 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 157 (App. Div. 1994).

As did Judge Springer in the Nichols case, it is important to emphasize the narrowness of the holding to the facts to this particular case. Neither he then nor I suggest that local school districts have an obligation to enforce traffic laws or to provide sidewalks, overpasses, etc. to meet the requirements of safe travel. Districts also have no affirmative duty to seek the safest route. Nevertheless, if the only safe and legal means of transportation when measured from door to door exceeds two miles, children are entitled to transportation under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

ORDER

For the reasons aforesaid, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent District either provide public transportation to and from Memorial High School for the Petitioner or, in the alternative, reimburse the Petitioner for the expenses associated with the transportation to and from school for the Petitioner.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Twenty-one petitioning teachers alleged that the District's withholding of their increments for the 1997-98 school year was violative of education law. Fifteen petitioners withdrew their appeals; six petitioners remained.

The ALJ concluded that the District had reasonable basis to withhold their increments based on less than satisfactory performances and that petitioners failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the District's action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own, noting that it is well-established that the scope of the Commissioner's review in increment withholding matters was not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation, but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions. (Kopera) With this applicable legal standard in mind, the Commissioner's review persuaded him that the record here amply established that the District's action in withholding the increment of each of the petitioners was based on validly perceived deficiencies in his or her performance during the 1996-97 school year. Petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 3, 1997, twenty-one (21) teachers employed by the State Operated School District of Jersey City, Hudson County (District) appealed the decision of the State District Superintendent to withhold their salary increment for the 1997-98 school year. On October 21, 1997, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A.

52:14B-1 to - 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Subsequently, fifteen (15) petitioners withdrew their appeals. The remaining six petitioners are Juanita Brown, Hortense DuBose, Alfred Morgan, Deborah Robinson, Margaret Frederick and William Warren.

Hearings were held on February 22, 23, 25, 26, April 8, 1999 and March 15, 2000. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties filed post hearing briefs and the record closed on August 9, 2000.

ISSUE

Petitioners' employment and salary increments were withheld for less than satisfactory performance ratings during the 1996-97 school year. Thus, the issue is whether petitioners are entitled to salary increments for the 1997-98 school year. The scope of review on appeal is limited to whether there exists a reasonable basis for the District's decisions.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on a review of the relevant evidence I FIND the following as FACT:

The District uses the "Jersey City Public Schools Instructional Observation Report" to rate the performance of staff. The evaluation covers five performance areas:

1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
3. Employs effective organization and planning.
4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
5. Addresses affective domain.

There are four ratings for each performance area:

O - Outstanding
S - Satisfactory

I.N. - Needs Improvement
U - Unsatisfactory
N/A - Not Applicable

Juanita Brown

Juanita Brown, a teacher of the handicapped, was hired in 1973. She was assigned to Snyder High School to teach special education to students with disabilities.

On February 21, 1997, Vice-Principal James Burke observed Brown's "Study Skills" class. Burke acknowledged that Brown demonstrated knowledge of the subject matter. However, she did not demonstrate proper preparation for planning and instruction. For example, the objective of the lesson or "SWAT" (student will be able to) was not written on the black board. Further, all the students were working at the same level without regard to their individual needs. Additionally, Brown's lesson plan was not available until the end of the day and her roll book was incomplete as showed no measurement of the student's performance.

Due to his observations Burke rated Brown's performance as follows:

U 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
U 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
I.N. 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
I.N. 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-1]

On April 11, 1997, W. Ronzitti evaluated Brown's Health/Life Science class and rated her "Satisfactory" in all categories.

On June 2, 1997, Burke again evaluated Brown's performance. Burke noted his prior evaluation in February and the evaluation conducted by Dr. Ronzitti. (R-4). Burke rated Brown as follows:

U	1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
U	2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U	3. Employs effective organization and planning.
U	4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
U	5. Addresses affective domain.
IN	6. Exhibits professional attitudes and manner.
S	7. Establishes rapport with pupils, staff and/or parents.
IN	8. Implements and enforces school rules, regulations and Board policy.

[R-4]

On June 16, 1997, Brown received notice from the State District Superintendent that her salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-5)

Hortense DuBose

Hortense DuBose has been employed by the District for thirty-four (34) years and was assigned to teach second grade at P.S. 39. On December 3, 1996, Patricia Bryant, Supervisor of Language Arts, evaluated Dubose's teaching performance in Integrated Studies (Health and Language Arts). Twenty-five (25) students were in the second grade class. Bryant believed that DuBose had not demonstrated proficiency in teaching. For example, the students' progress could not be assessed because their assignments were performed on undated ditto worksheets.

Bryant rated DuBose as follows:

I.N.	1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
I.N.	2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
I.N.	3. Employs effective organization and planning.

I.N. 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
I.N. 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-7]

During the school year, Marie Morrissey, Principal of P.S. 38, made several informal observations of DuBose's classes. On April 4, 1997, Morrissey conducted a second formal observation and rated DuBose as follows:

I.N. 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
U 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
I.N. 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
U 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-8]

Based on the observations, Morrissey prepared an annual performance report, identified several areas for improvement in performance, and recommended that DuBose's increment be withheld. (R-9).

On June 16, 1997, DuBose received notice from the State District Superintendent that her salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-10)

Alfred Morgan

Alfred Morgan was assigned to teach physical education at three schools in the District: P.S. 25, P.S. 39 and P.S. 23. On December 17, 1996, Anne Butler, Principal of P.S. 25, evaluated Morgan and rated his performance as follows:

S 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
S 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U 3. Employs effective organization and planning.

S 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-11]

On April 9, 1997, Butler met with Morgan. She gave him advice on preparing lesson plans adequately. Also, she reminded him that he had been warned previously to improve his performance in this category. Butler testified that Morgan's performance on December 17, 1996 showed no improvement in this area from the prior year. Consequently, on June 3, 1997, she recommended that he not receive a salary increment for the school year 1997-98. (R-12). Butler acknowledged that she was unaware that on March 13, 1997, Dorian Skeete, Principal of P.S. 39, had evaluated Morgan and rated him "Satisfactory" in all areas. (R-13). Butler maintained, however, that she would have made the same recommendation to withhold Morgan's salary increment, notwithstanding the evaluation by Skeete.

On June 16, 1997, Morgan received notice from the State District Superintendent that his salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-15)

Deborah Robinson

Deborah Robinson was assigned to teach fifth grade at P.S. 34 for school year 1996-97. On December 19, 1996, Principal Delores Foster evaluated Robinson's performance and rated her "Satisfactory" in all areas. (R-16). On January 22, 1997, Naser Neshiewat, Supervisor of Mathematics, evaluated Robinson and rated her performance as follows:

I.N. 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
I.N. 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
I.N. 3. Employs effective organization and planning.

I.N. 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-17]

At a post-observation conference held on January 28, 1997, Neshiewat and Robinson discussed her evaluation and the areas where she needed to improve her performance. In April 1997, Neshiewat returned to Robinson's class for an informal observation and found no significant improvement in her performance.

On May 27, 1997, Noemi Velasquez, Supervisor of Language Arts, conducted a formal observation of Robinson's Language Arts class. Velasquez rated her performance as follows:

S 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
U 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
I.N. 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
S 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain

[R-18]

On June 4, 1997, Velasquez and Robinson discussed the evaluation at a post-observation conference.

On June 1, 1997, Principal Delores Foster recommended that Robinson's salary increment be withheld. (R-20). On June 16, 1997, Robinson received notice from the State District Superintendent that her salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-21).

Margaret Frederick

Margaret Frederick was assigned to teach sixth grade mathematics at P.S. 39 in school year 1996-97. Ester Lawz, Supervisor of Mathematics, conducted informal observations of Frederick's class on September 26, October 3, and October 8, 1996. On February 19, 1997, Lawz evaluated a geometry class. From 8:45 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., Frederick taught an opening exercise. Lawz believed that the exercise should have taken ten minutes to complete, not forty-five minutes. Lawz also testified that the students were inattentive and roaming around the room. Furthermore, during the lesson two students began to fight. A teacher from another class entered the room to separate the students. Lawz rated Frederick's performance as follows:

I.N.	1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
U	2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U	3. Employs effective organization and planning.
U	4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
U	5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-22]

On March 4, 1997, Lawz and Frederick discussed the evaluation at a post-observation conference. Thereafter, Lawz made an informal evaluation of Frederick's class and observed no change in her performance.

On June 1, 1997, the Principal of P.S. 34 recommended that Frederick's salary increment be withheld. (R-24). On June 16, 1997, Frederick's received notice from the State District Superintendent that her salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-23).

William Warren

William Warren taught business and economics at Snyder High School for school year 1996-97. On February 27, 1997, Connie Piatkowski, Supervisor of Business Education, evaluated Warren teaching a business law class on contracts. Piatkowski believed that the lesson was fragmented and lacked continuity. She opined and that the students lost interest in the lecture. Piatkowski rated Warren's performance as follows:

S 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
NI 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
NI 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
NI 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain
[R-26]

On December 16, 1996, Henry Perasky, Vice-Principal at Snyder High, observed Warren teaching an economics class. Prior to the meeting, Perasky gave Warren a checklist of the items that would be included in the evaluation, e.g., lesson plans, folders, grades. Perasky observed the students taking a quiz on the gross national product. Perasky believed that Warren instruction did not challenge the students' academic abilities as the questions were very simple. Perasky rated Warren's performance as follows:

S 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
S 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
S 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain.

[R-25]

In his report, Perasky noted that Warren's plan book did not have a lesson plan for December 16, and that the roll book recorded only student attendance. Warren did not record student grades for tests and class participation. Further, on occasion, Warren permitted the students to leave their seats before the completion of the class period and stand by the door, waiting for the bell to ring. Perasky spoke to Warren about early dismissal. On June 2, 1996, Perasky rated Warren as follows:

S 1. Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter.
NI 2. Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils.
U 3. Employs effective organization and planning.
NI 4. Utilizes effective instructional techniques.
S 5. Addresses affective domain.
S 6. Exhibits professional attitudes and manner.
S 7. Establishes rapport with pupils, staff and/or parents.
U 8. implements and enforces school rules, regulations and Board policy.

[R-27]

Further, Perasky recommended that Warren's salary increment be withheld. Ibid. On June 16, 1997, Warren received notice from the State District Superintendent that his salary increment would be withheld for school year 1997-98 due to less than satisfactory performance. (R-23).

Argument of the Parties

Petitioners contend that in each case (1) the withholding of their increment was arbitrary, (2) the evaluations punish the teacher rather than provide direction and instruction to improve performance, (3) there were no standards as when the increment would be denied, (4) the teachers were not given advance notice that their increments were in jeopardy, and (5) Judy Granik, Executive Assistant/Human Resources did not have the authority to deny teachers' increments.

Respondent counters that in each of the appeals, an administrative and/or supervisory staff conducted a formal observation and applied the standard form prescribed by the District to measure the teacher's performance. Thereafter, the performance was rated according to five criteria. Based on the assessments, it was reasonable and not arbitrary to for the evaluators to conclude that the teacher's performance was less than satisfactory. Therefore, it was reasonable and not arbitrary for the State District Superintendent to withhold their increments for substandard performance for the 1996-97 school year.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a teacher's salary increment may be withheld for inefficiency or other good cause. Conversely, the approval of a salary increment is "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). Indeed, the purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is "to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance." Bernards Twp. Bd. of Ed. v. Bernards Twp. Ed. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979). Consequently, an annual increment is not a statutory right; it is a reward for good performance and the acknowledgment that the teacher's overall performance has met the high standards of performance required by the District. North Plainfield Ed. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J. 587, 594 (1984)

The Legislature has vested local boards and state district superintendents with the power to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed satisfactorily during the previous year. Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., supra, 127 N.J. at 526. Indeed, a decision to withhold an increment is a matter of management prerogative. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., supra, 96 N.J. 587; Bernard Twp. Bd. of Educ., v. Bernard Twp. Educ. Ass'n, supra, 79 N.J. 311. Accordingly, the Commission is prohibited from substituting his judgment for that of the board or state district superintendent.

The scope of review on appeal is limited to whether there exists a reasonable basis for the District's decision. The exercise of discretionary powers may not be upset unless it is patently arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, the Commissioner must determine: "(1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they were experts." Id. at 296-97. The burden proof proving that the increment withholding was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera at 297.

Therefore, I have considered the claim of each petitioner, the underlying facts, and the arguments of the parties. Each claim challenged the District's procedure in conducting the evaluation of the teacher's performance. I agree with petitioners' assertion that each evaluator "was not necessarily looking for the same things in the teacher's performance." Indeed, some subjectivity is contained in an evaluator's judgment. Therefore, in each appeal I have carefully considered the teacher's overall performance for the 1996-97 school year, the remarks of each evaluator and reviewed the instructional reports within the context of five performance areas: (1) Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter; (2) Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils; (3) Employs effective organization and planning; (4) Utilizes effective instructional techniques; and (5) Addresses affective domain. In all cases the evaluators made formal observation and in some incidence they also conducted informal observations. Thereafter, the teacher was rated on his or her cumulative performances.

The method of evaluating teachers was reasonable because it allowed the evaluator to consider the cumulative assessment of teacher, and not rely merely one day's performance. The District recognized that although a teacher may perform well on one day, that performance is not reflective of his/her overall ability. Conversely, a teacher's poor performance on one day does not necessarily reflect his teaching ability. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the evaluation procedure was consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3.

Juanita Brown

Brown was evaluated twice during the school year. Vice-Principal Burke credibly testified that on February 21, 1996 he evaluated her performance and found that she was unprepared to provide meaning instruction. He observed poor records of the students' attendance, grades and their progress. The lesson plan presented was not reflected in her plan book. Brown's instructional techniques did not address the individual needs and abilities of the students. Moreover, the evidence reflects a discrepancy in Brown's roll book concerning student attendance on February 17, 1997, a legal holiday. (R-6, R-6A, P-3). The notations appearing on the page at the time of the observation were "whited-out" on the date of the hearing. The book had been altered. Ibid. Neither party presented Mr. Ronzitti, who rated Brown "Satisfactory" in all areas.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold Juanita Brown's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year.

I further CONCLUDE that Juanita Brown has failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

Hortense DuBose

Petitioner argues that she was evaluated on December 5, 1996 and April 4, 1997. Thereafter, on May 20, 1997, "she learned for the first time that her increment was not being recommended." Petitioner's Brief at 2.

The District contends that during the 1996-97 school year, DuBose did not demonstrate proficiency in teaching. During formal and informal evaluations, she and her students were observed seated at their desks with no "active instruction." Respondent's Brief at 19. Further, DuBose did not properly assess the needs of her students. For example, there were no planned activities for students who completed their work early or portfolio's showing the student's progress. Marie Morrissey, employed by the District for thirty-four (34) years, has experience as a teacher, reading specialist, assistant principal and the current Principal of P.S. 38. Morrissey credibly testified that DuBose's plan book did not always reflect the class lesson. Based on her observation, Morrissey opined that DuBose failed to deliver meaningful instruction to her students.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold Hortense DuBose's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year..

I further CONCLUDE that Hortense DuBose has failed to meet her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

Alfred Morgan

Morgan was assigned to three schools in the District. He was evaluated on December 17, 1996 by Anne Butler and March 13, 1997 by Dorian Skeete. Petitioner contends that Butler was "unperturbed" by the "Satisfactory" ratings given by Skeet. Petitioner's Brief at 6. Thus, Butler's recommendation to withhold his salary increment was arbitrary. Ibid.

The evidence reveals that on December 16, 1996, Butler reviewed Morgan's plan book and found it deficient. Further, in the prior school year, Morgan's lesson plans needed improvement. They discussed the problems and some solutions such as his attendance at the Teacher's Academy during the summer. Butler observed no improvement in Morgan's lesson plan. The District argues that proper lesson plans are critically important for teaching because they identify the goals and objectives of what is to be learned. Morgan "had been warned of the need to improve his planning." Respondent's Brief at 25. Consequently, Morgan's "failure to work towards improvement" does not "warrant the reward of an increment." Ibid.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold Alfred Morgan's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year.

I further CONCLUDE that Alfred Morgan has failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

Deborah Robinson

Robinson received all "Satisfactory" ratings by Principal Doris Foster. In a second evaluation by Naser Neshiewat, the Supervisor of Mathematics, she received four "Needs Improvement" and one "Satisfactory". I reject petitioners' arguments there is no standard to evaluate a teacher's performance and that "this school district is engaged in sophistry and the consequence of its sophistry is to use the evaluation process to punish teacher,...[not] to help the teachers of the district improve their delivery of education." Petitioner's Brief at 6.

Neshiewat, employed by the District for twenty (20) years, earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Engineering and a Master of Art Degree in Math and Computer Science. He found Robinson's fifth grade class disorganized and the pupils inattentive. He also believed that Robinson needed to be more knowledgeable in the subject matter and use techniques that that would better assist and encourage the students. For example, math is a subject requiring critical thinking. Robinson should use teaching aids such as calculators and cooperative learning rather than isolated learning.

Robinson has been employed in the District for nineteen (19) years. She was recently assigned to teach fifth grade. She testified that there was a discipline problem in the classroom and that the older students lacked basic skills. She was not expecting Neshiewat to observe her performance on December 16, 1996.

Moreover, the students' records could not properly evaluate their needs or progress. For example, the student portfolios contained only math papers shows test scores. And, there were no student papers for Language Arts. Further, Noemi Velasquez credibly testified that the room lacked wall decorations and there was no display of the students' work. Additionally, credible evidence revealed that at a workshop in September 1997, Velasquez distributed a wall decoration of the "apple core" Thus, the "apple core" project was not on the walls of Robinson's classroom in May 1997, as she claimed. I am persuaded by the preponderance of the credible evidence that Robinson's overall performance for school year 1996-97 was less than satisfactory.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold Deborah Robinson's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year.

I further CONCLUDE that Deborah Robinson has failed to meet her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

Margaret Fredrick

Fredrick has been employed with the District since 1963 and taught Home Economics. For school year 1996-97 she was assigned to teach six-grade mathematics. Frederick believed that the District did not provide her with adequate time to prepare to teach a new subject matter. Indeed, she was given the assignment two days before school began. She maintained that her requests for assistance from the Principal and other staff members went unanswered. Moreover, her request to attend a conference at Rutgers University was denied. Petitioner opined that she did not have the experience her evaluators desired. Thus, the evaluation process was not used "as a device for improvement of instruction, but as a device to punish its staff." Petitioner's Brief at 7. On the other hand, Frederick acknowledged that she was certified to teach all subjects from Kindergarten through eighth grade, but had not taught math. Further, Frederick conceded that she was not aware that teachers had to maintain portfolios on students. She testified that she felt isolated and helpless.

The District presented credible evidence that Frederick's overall performance was deficient. She was twice evaluated in school year 1996-97. She did not maintain student portfolios or student journals. Thus, she could not assess the students' progress. Additionally, she was unable to control the students' behavior and attempted to continue the class lesson when two students began to fight.

Respondent contends that although Frederick had not previously taught math, " she did not even try to help herself, genuinely ask for assistance or heed the suggestions given to her." Respondent's Brief at 43.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold Margaret Frederick's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year.

I further CONCLUDE that Margaret Frederick has failed to meet her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

William Warren

Petitioner maintained that he was "not aware of what the standard was for the granting or denial of an increment." Petitioner's Brief at 7.

The evidence reveals that on December 16, 1996, Vice-Principal Henry Perasky observed Warren teaching an economics class. Moreover, prior to the meeting, Perasky gave Warren a checklist of the items that would be included in the evaluation. Thereafter, on December 23, 1995, Perasky met with Warren and they discussed the written report, R-25.

On February 27, 1997, Connie Piatkowski, Supervisor of Business Education, held a second observation. Warren was teaching a class on contracts. Thereafter, on March 18, 1997, Piatkowski reviewed her report with Warren at post-observation conference.

Respondent presented credible evidence that the evaluators met with Warren and discussed what areas he needed to improve. Notwithstanding the advice, Warren failed to keep adequate records of pupil progress and attendance and did not improve in those areas.

Based on a careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis to withhold William Warren's salary increment for less than satisfactory performance in the 1996-97 school year.

I further CONCLUDE that William Warren has failed to meet her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

GERALD BATTLE ET AL.	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which it is noted did not include transcripts of the hearings below,[1] the Commissioner determines to affirm the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) recommended decision as he finds that the District's action in withholding the 1997-98 increments of each of the within petitioners was a valid exercise of its discretionary authority. In so determining, the Commissioner was mindful, as was aptly recognized by the ALJ, that it is well-established that the scope of the Commissioner's review in increment withholding matters is not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation, but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions. (Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)) As such, there are only two

[1] It is further noted that the record transmitted to the Commissioner did not include petitioners' exhibits, listed in the Initial Decision as P-1 through P-6 and P-8 through P-17. OAL's attempts to locate these exhibits was unsuccessful. However, even according these particular exhibits every inference and weight for the propositions for which they were introduced, the Commissioner is persuaded, from his comprehensive review herein, that no alteration of his determinations to be made when reviewing the District's decision to withhold the increment of each of these teaching staff members, i.e., 1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluations claimed, and 2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did based upon those facts. Moreover, it is likewise well-established that the burden of proving unreasonableness lies with the petitioners. (Kopera at 296-297)

With this applicable legal standard in mind, the Commissioner's review persuades him that the record here amply establishes that the District's action in withholding the increment of each of the within petitioners was based on validly perceived deficiencies in his or her performance during the 1996-97 school year. Consequently, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that these petitioners have failed to sustain their burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, or an abuse of its discretion.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons well-stated therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

ultimate determination in this matter would result from review of the actual exhibits. The record also contained one additional exhibit which was not listed in the ALJ's Initial Decision, i.e., R-6A – Original Roll Book.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning resident and taxpayer contended that the Board's bidding specifications for roof replacement for its schools were unduly restrictive in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq., the Public School Contracts Law. Petitioner further alleged that the Board violated N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.7 by not having its plans for construction drawn to scale and approved by the local code official or the School Facility Planning Service. Petitioner withdrew from proceedings.

Since petitioner failed to produce competent evidence, testimonial or documentary, to support his allegations, the ALJ determined that petitioner did not demonstrate by a residuum of legally competent evidence that the Board advertised for bids without having specifications; that the Board violated some specific statute in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 et seq., or any other state law it is bound to uphold by having "not to scale" drawings in its specifications; and, that the Board prepared specifications which inhibited free and open competitive bidding. The ALJ dismissed the petition and the amended petition.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own, noting that it is well settled that boards of education in New Jersey have broad discretion with regard to the operation and management of a local district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. The amended petition was dismissed. However, because of the nature of the allegations raised, the Commissioner forwarded a copy of this decision to the Department's Office of Compliance Investigation for review and such action, if any, as it deems necessary.

BEFORE DANIEL B. MC KEOWN, ALJ (t/a)

INTRODUCTION

Douglas E. Wicks, (petitioner), is a resident of Bernards Township who represents himself in this action filed against the Bernards Township Board of Education (Board). Petitioner's complaints center on roofing projects and related work with which the Board is presently engaged. Because of the unusual position taken by petitioner when he determined he submitted sufficient proofs that he would no longer participate or even be present when and if the Board put on its case, it is necessary to recite the procedural history of the matter before addressing the merits and the Board's motion to dismiss.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 6, 2000 petitioner filed a "Request for Declaratory Judgment" before the Commissioner of Education in which he alleges, among other charges, that the Board caused specifications to be prepared for roof replacement and related work for three of its schoolhouses which prohibited free, open and full market competition among potential bidders contrary to the Public School Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A: 18A-1, et seq. The Commissioner notified petitioner by letter dated March 8, 2000 that his request for declaratory judgment was rejected, but that the would proceed as a petition of appeal and that the Board should file an answer to the petition. The Board filed its answer to the petition on April 13, 2000 by which it neither admits nor denies the allegations but leaves petitioner to his proofs. In the meantime, on April 10, 2000 petitioner filed an "addition to motion of appeal" before the Commissioner In this document which is considered an amended petition of appeal, petitioner alleges the Board advertised for bids before its plans for the project were prepared. The Board filed its answer to the amended petition on April 17, 2000 in which it neither admits nor denies the allegations, but leaves petitioner to his proofs. [1]

On May 10, 2000 the Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. On May 26, 2000 the undersigned was assigned as an administrative law judge, temporarily assigned, to conduct proceedings as necessary in the matter. A telephone conference call was conducted June 22, 2000 during which discovery matters were addressed and the matter then proceeded to hearing on July 14, 2000 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville. At the conclusion of testimony on July 14, petitioner was granted a continuance

[1] The record discloses petitioner filed letters on April 5, April 14, May 9, May 18, and June 6, 2000 protesting the lack of discovery received from the Board. Whatever absence of discovery was then occurring was eventually corrected.

he testified he is not knowledgeable about legal requirements for public school roofing specifications or the award of bids. He did explain that in his view it is important to have schematic drawings of projects to be completed under public works be drawn to scale and did not meet the New Jersey Uniform Construction Code by which state projects are advertised for bid. In this case, Mr. Das testified that the letters "NTS" in the box, "Scale", accompanying the drawings in the Board' specifications mean that such drawings are 'not to scale.'

Actions taken by boards of education carry the presumption of correctness. One who challenges an action taken by a board of education carries the burden of persuasion to demonstrate by a preponderance of competent, credible evidence that the complained of action is arbitrary, capricious, or unlawful.

Having considered the testimonial evidence offered by petitioner, I find no basis in the separate or collective testimony of the three individuals to support petitioner's claim that the Board's specifications impaired free and open competitive bidding on the roofing work. Petitioner chose not to call a contractor to testify who may have felt that the specifications impaired free and open competition. Petitioner did testify to explain how he arrived at his conclusion based on the foregoing evidence. The documents petitioner relies upon include newspaper clippings he attached to his letters, his reference to a recent report from the state commission of investigation on fraud in public school roofing repairs; allegations of sweetheart deals and unscrupulous actors without supporting evidence; and, his admonition that he has presented enough evidence to warrant the Commissioner of Education to pick up the investigation into this Board of Education where he, petitioner, left off.

Petitioner seeks to support his allegation that the Board solicited bids for the project before the specifications were prepared by two claims: one, he attached to his amended petition a copy of an advertisement which appeared in the Bernardsville News regarding the solicitation of bids. Underneath the name of the Board Secretary who ostensibly was delegated by the Board to run the advertisement is a legend which petitioner asserts is the date of 2-10-00. However, upon close inspection of that legend, it appears to read 2-10-TI. Petitioner offered no evidence to show his view of that legend is intended to be read as he says it should.

But, even if his reading is correct and the advertisement ran February 10, 2000, petitioner says the specifications were not prepared until February 15, 2000. I have searched the specifications (C-1) in vain for any mention of a date when they were approved by the Board. Consequently, on the basis of the record developed by petitioner in support of his case, I find no evidence to support the allegation that the Board ran an advertisement for bids prior to having the specifications for the project prepared. But even if the date February 15, 2000 does appear somewhere on the specifications, the date by itself without more proves nothing. In short, petitioner failed to establish the truth of the allegation he makes.

BOARD'S MOTION TO DISMISS

The Board seeks dismissal of the petition of appeal and the amended petition on the grounds petitioner failed to carry his burden of persuasion through competent, credible evidence to show it acted improperly, unlawfully, or abused its discretion regarding the roofing project and related work. Absent a residuum of legally competent evidence upon which a finding of wrongdoing may be entered against it, the Board seeks dismissal of petitioner's complaints against it, with prejudice. Petitioner opposes the motion on the grounds he has provided sufficient evidence to show the specifications must be redrawn to conform to what he says are their improper provisions. He says he demonstrated that the Board advertised for bids before it had the specifications; he says he demonstrated the drawings in the specifications are not drawn to scale as he says is required in the New Jersey Building Code at N.J.A.C. 5:23-2.15; and, that the Board's specifications inhibited free and open competitive bidding.

Petitioner did not demonstrate by a residuum of legally competent evidence that the Board advertised for bids without having specifications; petitioner did not demonstrate by a residuum of legally competent evidence that the Board violated some specific statute in N.J.S.A.

18A: 1-1, et seq., or any other state law it is bound to uphold by having 'not to scale' drawings in its specifications; and, petitioner did not demonstrate by a residuum of legally competent evidence that the Board prepared specifications which inhibited free and open competitive bidding. In large measure, petitioner relies upon hearsay evidence of newspaper clippings, reports emanating from the state investigation of school roofing contracts, and his own unsubstantiated allegations of wrongdoing.

Therefore, in the absence of legally competent evidence offered by petitioner to support his claims of wrongdoing against the Board and because he failed to carry his burden of proof to show the truth of the allegations he makes, the Board's motion to dismiss must be and is granted. The petition of appeal and the amended petition of appeal is and are dismissed.

A final word. Petitioner demands the Commissioner of Education pick up the investigation into the Board of Education which he says he started. That is not the function of the Commissioner when he is called upon in his quasi-judicial capacity under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to hear and determine controversies and disputes which arise under school law. His function is to be the arbiter of contested cases based solely on the proofs presented by the parties and made part of the record. Petitioner called upon the Commissioner of Education in his quasi-judicial capacity when he filed the petition of appeal against the Board and essentially requested a hearing to entertain the proofs petitioner says he had.

CONCLUSION

The Petition of Appeal, and the Amended Petition of Appeal is and are hereby DISMISSED, WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DOUGLAS E. WICKS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BERNARDS TOWNSHIP, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In his exception arguments, petitioner disputes the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) statement that petitioner's burden herein is to demonstrate by a preponderance of competent, credible evidence that the actions taken by the Board are arbitrary, capricious or unlawful. Instead, petitioner contends that he need only demonstrate the "possibility of fraud, favoritism or corruption," which standard he argues was satisfied by the testimony of his witnesses. (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Petitioner also objects to the ALJ's summary of the testimony provided by Mr. Dass, a Licensed New Jersey Professional Engineer, maintaining such testimony properly established that scaled drawings are required for roofing projects. (Id. at 4) Finally, petitioner refutes the ALJ's finding that his discovery problems were eventually corrected, (Initial Decision at 2, footnote 1) averring that there are still "public documents" which he has been denied for use as evidence. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4)

In reply, the Board argues that "[p]etitioner continues to insist that pure supposition and baseless allegations can form the basis of overturning an award under the Public Bidding Laws" (Board's Reply at 2), and urges affirmance of the Initial Decision which was, in all respects, correct.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the factual findings and conclusions of the ALJ. As the ALJ properly noted, it is well settled that boards of education in New Jersey have broad discretion with regard to the operation and management of a local district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. When a local school board acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966). Further, contrary to petitioner's urging, it is his burden to so demonstrate by a preponderance of credible evidence, since "[in] the absence of any administrative rule or regulation to the contrary, the traditional preponderance of the evidence standard applies to administrative agency matters." SSI Medical Serv. v. State Dept. of Human Serv., 146 N.J. 614, 622 (1996). See, also, In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 561(1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962).

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner must find on the record before him that petitioner has not demonstrated by a preponderance of the competent, credible evidence that the Board's specifications inhibited free and open competitive bidding in violation of state school bidding laws, that the Board improperly advertised for bids without specifications, or that the Board violated state education law or regulation with "not to scale" drawings in its specifications. (Initial Decision at 8, 9) To the extent petitioner challenges the facts determined by the ALJ based on the testimony of the witnesses and the weight he ascribed to such testimony, the Commissioner notes that the record before him does not include transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL in this matter. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). In the absence of transcripts from the hearing, due regard should be given to the person who heard the live testimony and assessed the witnesses' behavior at the hearing. Close v. Kordulak Bros., 44 N.J. 589, 599 (1965).

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's characterization of the Commissioner's role when called upon to adjudicate school law disputes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. However, in the instant matter, although petitioner fails to meet his burden of proof in this forum, the Commissioner nonetheless concludes, based upon the nature of petitioner's allegations, that further review by the Department's Office of Compliance Investigation is appropriate.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ, dismissing the Amended Petition of Appeal, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the Office of Compliance Investigation for review and such action, if any, as that office may deem necessary.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF ANTONIO CIRILLO, :

MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BERGEN COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

This matter arose from a complaint alleging that respondent Board President violated the School Ethics Act (Act) when he failed to disclose that his wife worked part time for a company that had a contract with the Board and additionally failed to disclose that she also worked for an insurance company.

The Commission found probable cause that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 when he omitted facts on his 1999 personal/relative and financial disclosure statements thereby filing a false statement. Finding that misrepresenting or omitting material information from one's disclosure statement was a serious offense, and considering that the amount of the contract in question was very small, the Commission found that a penalty of censure was sufficient to ensure that respondent understood that his omissions were improper and to ensure that they would not occur again. Moreover, the Commission directed respondent to amend his 1999 return in accordance with the Commission's findings, and transmitted the recommendation of censure to the Commissioner for action.

Initially, the Commissioner emphasized that the determination of the Commission as to violation of the Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of violation by the Commission. Upon independent review of the record, the Commissioner found that, in recommending the penalty of censure, the Commission was in the optimum position to determine whether respondent inadvertently or knowingly violated the Act, and to weigh the effects of any mitigating circumstances. Thus, the Commissioner did not disturb the recommended penalty of the Commission. The Commissioner ordered respondent censored as a school official found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26(a)(1).

Moonachie Board of Education,	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The above matter arises from a complaint filed against Moonachie Board member, Antonio Cirillo for violating the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. Although the complaint was filed against two respondents, Mr. Cirillo and another Board member, James Campbell, the Commission rendered separate decisions since the cases did not present the same facts or issues.[1] At its meeting of July 25, 2000, the Commission found probable cause that Mr. Cirillo submitted false information on his personal/relative and financial disclosure statements in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute and invited Mr. Cirillo to file a written statement on whether his conduct violated the Act. The Commission now finds Mr. Cirillo in violation of the Act and recommends a penalty of censure.

The Commission initially scheduled this matter for discussion at its March 28, 2000 meeting. After two adjournments for cause, the Commission notified the parties that it would discuss this matter at its May 23, 2000 meeting. The complainant and the respondents were invited to attend. The respondents appeared at the meeting with counsel, Thomas Murphy, Esquire. The complainant appeared pro se. The Commission requested additional information that was reviewed at the Commission's June and July meetings.

At its meeting on July 25, 2000, the School Ethics Commission found no probable cause and dismissed the allegations in the complaint against Mr. Cirillo. However, during the course of the investigation, the Commission found discrepancies in Mr. Cirillo's filing of disclosure statements. Specifically, in response to question number "three" of the personal/relative disclosure statement, Mr. Cirillo did not set forth that his wife received compensation from a business that was a party to a contract with the Board, i.e., Cirillo Electric, Inc. Also, on question number "one" on the financial disclosure statement, he did not set forth that his wife received income in excess of $2,000.00 from Cirillo Electric. The Commission therefore found probable cause to find that Antonio Cirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-

[1] The decision pertaining to Mr. Campbell is contained in School Ethics Commission Decision Docket No. C26-99B dated September 27, 2000.

26(a)(1) of the School Ethics Act when he omitted material facts on his 1999 personal/relative and financial disclosure statements.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute as to the aforementioned conduct and therefore, provided Mr. Cirillo with an opportunity to file a written statement as to whether that conduct constituted a violation of the Act. Respondent submitted a timely statement. At its September 27, 2000 meeting, the Commission found Mr. Cirillo in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the Act and recommended the penalty of censure.

FACTS

The Commission finds the following facts to be undisputed.

At all times relative to this matter, Antonio Cirillo was President of the Moonachie Board of Education.

Antonio Cirillo signed his 1999 personal/relative disclosure statement on April 26, 2000. Question number "three" on the form asks, in pertinent part:

> Do you or does any relative receive compensation from or have any interest in any business which is a party to a contract with the school district in which you hold office or are employed? ... If so, list the name of the each business and if applicable, school district.

The form then leaves spaces for the school official to list the name of the person(s) who receives such compensation, his or her relationship to him or her, the name of the business and the school district. Mr. Cirillo left these spaces blank. In contrast, when Mr. Cirillo filed his 1998 personal/relative disclosure statement, he responded "N/A" for "not applicable" in the space provided.

Mr. Cirillo's 1999 financial disclosure statement was also signed on April 26, 2000. Question number "one" of that form asks the school official to list the name and address of each source of income in excess of $2,000, earned or unearned, received by him or her or a member of his or her immediate family. Mr. Cirillo listed only his own source of income ("SSI") and did not list any source of income for his wife. Documents obtained during the course of the Commission's investigation showed that Mr. Cirillo's wife made over $2,000.00 from Cirillo Electric in 1999. She also made over $2,000.00 from her employment with an insurance company. On the 1998 form, Mr. Cirillo also listed only his own income.

On March 26, 1998, Cirillo Electric bid on a contract with the Moonachie School District to perform electrical work to the media center in the Robert L. Craig School. Since the Commission requested, but did not receive, board minutes showing the Board's approval of a contract with Cirillo Electric, the Commission must infer that such minutes do not exist. Instead, the Commission received minutes of the September 8, 1998 meeting showing that the Board approved a payment to Cirillo Electric in the amount of $7,200.00, the amount of the company's bid. Mr. Cirillo abstained from that vote.

Cirillo Electric also performed work for the Board in 1999 installing an outlet for a television monitor in an office for $120.00.

ANALYSIS

As set forth above, the Commission found probable cause that Mr. Cirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26(a)(1) of the School Ethics Act when he omitted facts on his 1999 personal/relative and financial disclosure statements. The Commission specifically found that, on question number "three" of the personal/relative disclosure statement, Mr. Cirillo did not set forth that his wife received compensation from a business that was a party to a contract with the District. Also, in response to question number "one" on the financial disclosure statement, he did not set forth that his wife received income in excess of $2,000.00 from Cirillo Electric.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) provides, in pertinent part:

> On a form to be prescribed by the commission and filed annually with the Commission, each school official shall state:
> (3) whether the school official or a relative is employed by, receives compensation from, or has an interest in any business which is a party to a contract with the school district with which the school official holds office or employment...

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c) provides, in pertinent part:

> A school official who fails to file a statement or who files a statement containing information which the school official knows to be false shall be subject to reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal pursuant to the procedures established in [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29.]

In response to the Commission's finding of probable cause, Mr. Cirillo argues that the charges on which the Commission found probable cause should be dismissed for several reasons. First, he argues that the charges are procedurally defective. He states that the Commission found no probable cause and dismissed the allegations in the complaint. Therefore, he argues, under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, there would have to be a new complaint signed under oath setting forth the aforementioned conduct. He argues that, since the entire Commission has decided to bring the charges regarding the disclosure statements, they must all recuse themselves from further consideration of the violations.

The Commission finds this argument to be unpersuasive. The Commission has the right to determine probable cause based upon a potential violation that comes to light in the course of its investigation of a complaint. When members of the public file complaints without counsel, the complaints are not always drafted precisely. The Commission considers the aforementioned conduct to be an extension of the complaint. This type of extension is especially permissible, where, as here, the information upon which the probable cause finding is based is contained in disclosure statements, which, by law, must be filed with the Commission. Mr. Cirillo's statements came to light during the course of the investigation of the complaint. They are not completely new allegations, but allegations that arose from the charges in the initial complaint. Given the Commission's statutory duty to oversee the filing of statements and the fact that the statements speak for themselves, there is no need to have one Commission member file a complaint who would then have to recuse him or herself from hearing the case.

Mr. Cirillo next argues that his failure to note that his wife received compensation from a business that is a party to a contract with the Board was not intentional. He notes that his wife was only a part-time employee with Cirillo Electric and the only contract that Cirillo Electric had with the Board in 1999 was for the installation of an outlet for a TV monitor for $120.00. The written submission provides, "Given the status of Respondent's wife as a part-time secretarial worker and, more importantly, the insignificance of the invoice terms of both dollars and services performed by Cirillo Electric, Inc. in 1999, there can be, it is respectfully submitted, no possible finding of probable cause as to a knowing violation of the Act in this regard." The Commission disagrees.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c) prohibits a school official from filing a statement containing information that he knows to be false. Mr. Cirillo does not deny knowing that his wife worked for Cirillo Electric, but denies knowing that Cirillo Electric had a contract with the Board in 1999 until the Commission requested further information in connection with the complaint. The Commission rejects this argument. This is not the first contract that Cirillo Electric performed for the Board. Cirillo Electric had a contract for $7,200.00 with the Board in 1998. At that time, it appears that Mr. Cirillo's wife was not working for Cirillo Electric. For that time period, Mr. Cirillo answered the question regarding whether his spouse received compensation from any business that was a party to a contract with the Board, he wrote, "N/A" for "not applicable." If Mr. Cirillo believed that Cirillo Electric did not have a contract with the Board in 1999, the Commission believes that he would have again answered, "N/A." Instead, he left it blank. The Commission also notes that he signed the 1999 disclosure statement in April 2000, after the complaint had been filed on December 20, 1999 alleging that the Board had a contract with a company owned by Mr. Cirillo's brother. In Mr. Cirillo's answer, he responded that he did not work for Cirillo Electric. He never said that Cirillo Electric did not have a contract with the Board. For these reasons, the Commission believes that Mr. Cirillo filed a statement that he knew to be false in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c).

Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a) provides:

> In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.

Given the Legislature's purpose for enacting the School Ethics Act set forth above, the Commission does not believe that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c) should be read strictly. It should not preclude finding a violation in situations where the school official should know, and there is ample evidence that he did know, that the information provided was false. As the Commission stated in its probable cause finding, omitting material information required under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 defeats the purpose of the disclosure forms, which is to allow the public access to information to ensure that school officials do not violate the public trust. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22. Mr. Cirillo had a duty to disclose that his wife received compensation from a business that was a party to a contract with the Board. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Cirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 by omitting material information from his personal/relative disclosure statement.

With respect to the probable cause finding under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, which requires the disclosure of all sources of income of the school official and members of his immediate family, Mr. Cirillo argues that the omission was inadvertent and caused by the part-time nature of the employment and the small amount of business Cirillo Electric did with the Board in 1999.. A spouse is an immediate family member pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23. Mr. Cirillo was required by the Act to list all such sources of income for himself and members of his immediate family over $2,000.00. He does not deny that he should have listed his wife's source of income, but denies that he had any intent to falsify the statement.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires the disclosure of any source of income for a school official and his immediate family members in an amount greater than $2,000.00. The question of whether employment is full-time or part-time does not affect a school official's duty to disclose the source. The amount of the corporation's contract with the Board is also not relevant to the question posed by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26. The source of income refers to any source, not merely to sources that have a contract with the Board. Mr. Cirillo's statement showing only his own source of income represented to the Commission and the public that his wife had no source of income. This is a material misrepresentation. Given that the statement was signed while the complaint was pending alleging unethical conduct due to Cirillo Electric's contract with the Board, the Commission does not believe that the omission was inadvertent. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Cirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 by misstating information on his financial disclosure statement.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the School Ethics Commission finds that Antonio Cirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and 26(a)(1) of the Act when he omitted material information on his 1999 disclosure statements and thereby filed a false statement.

In determining the penalty to recommend, the Commission considered several factors. The Commission finds that misrepresenting or omitting material information from one's disclosure statement is a serious offense. However, the Commission also considered that, with respect to the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, the amount of the contract with Cirillo Electric was very small as compared to the year before. While the amount of the contract does not excuse Mr. Cirillo's failure to disclose that his spouse worked for the company, the Commission believes that it mitigates the penalty. Therefore, the Commission finds that a penalty of censure is sufficient to ensure that Mr. Cirillo understands that his omissions were improper and to ensure that they will not occur again. Furthermore, Mr. Cirillo has represented that he will amend his 1999 return in accordance with the Commission's findings. If he has not yet had the opportunity to do so, the Commission is hereby directing him to do so.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF ANTONIO CIRILLO,	:
MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BERGEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission), including the recommended penalty of censure, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Antonio Cirillo, President of the Moonachie Board of Education, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26(a)(1) of the School Ethics Act when he failed to disclose that his wife worked as a part-time secretary for a company that had a contract with the Board for the installation of an outlet for a TV monitor for $120[1] and additionally failed to disclose that his wife also worked for an insurance company.[2] Therefore, respondent was found to have filed a false statement by the omission of material information on his 1999 disclosure statement.

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was accorded thirteen days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. Respondent's comments were filed in accordance with such timeline.

[1] Cirillo Electric, which is owned by respondent's brother, received $7,200 from the Board for work performed in 1998; however, respondent's wife was apparently not working for Cirillo Electric at that time.

[2] The Commission's investigation revealed that respondent's wife received over $2,000 in compensation from Cirillo Electric and over $2,000 in compensation from an insurance firm in 1999. Respondent did not list any source of income for his wife on his 1999 disclosure statement.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the recommended penalty.

In his comments, respondent urges the Commissioner to impose the lesser sanction of reprimand, arguing that failure to disclose his wife's sources of income was "an isolated incident in an otherwise selfless period of uncompensated service" to the Board from 1997 to the present. (Respondent's Comments at 2) Respondent also points out that he cooperated fully with the Commission's investigation by providing extensive responsive pleadings, affidavits, exhibits, and all other materials requested by the Commission. (Ibid.)

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commission's decision in this matter, respondent's comments on penalty and the penalties assessed for similar violations of the School Ethics Act, the Commissioner determines to adopt the Commission's recommendation to impose the penalty of censure on respondent.

The Commissioner agrees that respondent's misrepresentation or omission of material information from his disclosure statement is a serious offense. The Commissioner also acknowledges that the penalty must be sufficient to impress upon respondent the gravity of his offense to ensure that it will not reoccur. A review of the penalties assessed against other board members for similar instances of violations of the School Ethics Act, including violations which touch on the employment of family members, reveals that the penalties assessed have generally been less severe than censure. In contrast to those matters, however, where the Commission found board members' violations were inadvertent or otherwise explained, the Commission in this instance found that Mr. Cirillo knowingly filed a false statement. See, for example, In the Matter of Michael J. DeBartolo, settlement approved by the Commissioner February 7, 1995, the board member received a reprimand for inadvertently failing to list certain rental property as an additional source of income on his 1993 financial disclosure statement; In the Matter of Wayne Wurtz, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 843 (1996), an inexperienced board member was reprimanded for inadvertently voting to approve a list of teacher aides which included his spouse; *In the Matter of Frank Montagna, 96 N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 1039 (1996), the board member was reprimanded for inadvertently voting on a list of game personnel which included his spouse; In the Matter of Matilda Touw, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 343 (1997), a board member, who believed that it was permissible to do so because her son was a grown man, was reprimanded for voting on her son's reappointment as Assistant Head Custodian; and In the Matter of Katherine Mallette, decided by the Commissioner February 9, 1999, the board member was reprimanded for participating in discussions concerning the Board's purchase of property when one of the parcels was owned by her brother-in-law, receiving the lesser penalty because she was found to have exerted no influence on the Board's purchase.

The Commissioner further notes that, in recommending the penalty of censure, the Commission was in the optimum position to determine whether respondent inadvertently or knowingly violated the School Ethics Act, and to weigh the effects of any mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Antonio Cirillo be censored as a school official found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)(3) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26(a)(1) of the School Ethics Act, under the circumstances set forth by the Commission.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF SHEREE BAKER, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY

Sheree Baker, pro se

Philip E. Stern, Esq., appearing for Respondent
(Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 22, 2000 Decided: October 3, 2000

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board charged a tenured teacher with conduct unbecoming a public school teacher for her participation in conduct intended to defraud the State Health Benefit Program (SHBP). This case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 10, 1997, along with other cases dealing with similar charges.

A prehearing order was issued on June 10, 1997. On September 2, 1997, an order was entered suspending salary payment of this Respondent Sheree Baker from September 1997 until the plenary hearing on the merits of the charges in the matter. Subsequently, the matter was placed on the inactive list in the OAL pending the outcome of related criminal matters which were under investigation by the Attorney General's office.

The matter continued on the inactive list until December 1999, when it was removed from the inactive list and scheduled for hearing. Subsequently, counsel for the District requested adjournments of the hearings scheduled in order to permit Ms. Baker the opportunity to resolve the outstanding criminal matters against her. According to documents I have before me, Ms. Baker pled guilty to charges of conspiracy in the second degree and charges of theft by deception in the third degree both premised on her participation in a scheme to defraud the SHBP.

FINDINGS OF FACT

This matter had been scheduled for peremptory hearing on Monday, August 21, 2000. Ms. Baker contacted the undersigned to indicate that she would be unavailable; moreover, she had resigned from the Newark Public School prior to receiving the notice of the hearing date. Ms. Baker asked if a letter of withdrawal of the appeal of the tenure charges would be acceptable. Ms. Baker was advised that her appearance would be necessary and the matter would be rescheduled for Tuesday, August 22, 2000, 9:30 a.m. at OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey for her convenience, since she was unable to attend the August 21 hearing.

On August 22 Ms. Baker failed to appear, although counsel for the District was present and prepared to proceed.

Based on the fact that Ms. Baker had notice of the rescheduled hearing at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, August 22, as well as the fact that the record was not opened in this matter until 10:15 a.m. and the letter dated August 17 which Ms. Baker faxed to the undersigned indicating that she wished to withdraw the charges, I FIND that Ms. Baker was aware of the scheduled hearing. Moreover, Ms. Baker did not object to the rescheduled date.

Although Ms. Baker indicated that she wished to withdraw as a party to the tenure charges, that application must be made by the District which initiated the charges. In this case, however, there is a final resolution of the matter in that Ms. Baker failed to appear. Accordingly, I deemed the charges contained in the petition submitted by the District to be uncontested. Moreover, there is a judgment of conviction before me in which indicates that Ms. Baker pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the second degree and theft by deception in the third degree.

The record, however, reflects that Respondent has resigned her tenured position with the District. (See Respondent's letter of August 17, 2000 to the undersigned). Accordingly, there is no basis in which this matter can move forward. Based on the resignation, as well as Respondent's intention to withdraw, I CONCLUDE that the matter is no longer a contested case before the Commission. In the Matter of the Tenure Charges of Paula Yancy-Dykes, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1745-97, Agency Dkt. No. 586-12/96.

ORDER

It is, therefore, hereby ORDERED that this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED as moot.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF PATRICIA HAINES,	:
HADDONFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Commission recommended reprimand of respondent Board member for participating in a vote on a Board resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds with Commerce Bank designated as the paying agent when she was a vice president of Commerce National Insurance Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of Commerce Bank/North. The Commission found that this vote presented an indirect financial involvement that created the appearance that respondent could not be objective.

The Commissioner determined to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand was the appropriate penalty in this matter, in view of the Commission's determination that a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a Complaint alleging that Haddonfield Board of Education (Board) Member Patricia Haines violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. when she voted on a Board resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds with Commerce Bank designated as the paying agent and when, as Board President, she named herself as a member of the Board's Finance Committee. Ms. Haines is a Vice-President of Commerce National Insurance Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of Commerce Bank/North. At its meeting of July 25, 2000, the School Ethics Commission found probable cause to credit the allegations that Ms. Haines violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she participated in the vote on a Board resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds with Commerce Bank designated as the paying agent. The Commission did not find probable cause that the above conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) or that Ms. Haines' act of naming herself as a member of the Board's Finance Committee when she served as Board President violated the Act. It therefore dismissed those allegations.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute. Therefore, the Commission decided to review this matter on the basis of written submissions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.12. If the Respondent disagreed with the Commission's recitation of the facts and the determination that the material facts were not in dispute, she was provided the opportunity to set forth the facts with which she disagreed. Respondent submitted a timely written statement agreeing with the stated facts, but arguing that the Commission did not give sufficient weight to them. Respondent also submitted the 1999 Annual Report of Commerce Bancorp to assist the Commission in understanding the relationship between Commerce National Insurance Services and Commerce Bank, N.A.

At its September 27, 2000 meeting, the Commission found that Ms. Haines violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act and recommended a penalty of reprimand.

FACTS

The Commission found the following facts to be undisputed. Patricia Haines is a member of the Haddonfield Board of Education. She is employed as a Vice President of Commerce National Insurance Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of Commerce Bank/North. Prior to December of 1997, Ms. Haines worked for an independent benefit consulting firm that specialized in the design, administration, funding and communication of employee benefits. In December 1997, the firm was acquired by Commerce Bancorp and merged into the existing Commerce National Insurance Services, Inc. division. Ms. Haines' functional title is Director of Consulting Services. She is a salaried employee who has no responsibility to procure new business.

Respondent requested that the Commission add to the facts set forth in the probable cause determination that Commerce Bank/North and Commerce Bank, N.A. are both direct subsidiaries of Commerce Bancorp, the parent company. The two banking entities have different boards of directors and executive officers. In addition, Commerce National Insurance Services has its own executive officers that are separate from those of Commerce Bank, N.A.

At the January 27, 2000 Board meeting, Patricia Haines voted in favor of a resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds with Commerce Bank, N.A. designated as the paying agent. The minutes of the January 27, 2000 public meeting show that Board member Mr. Katz moved Business and Finance resolutions "A" through "I" and Ms. Hennessy seconded the motion. The minutes also reflect that Board member Ms. Schultz raised questions regarding several of the resolution items. One of those items was Resolution "I," which was the resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds. The minutes state:

> Ms. Schultz also asked if the reason Commerce Bank was designated as the Paying Agent in the Resolution Authorizing the Issuance and Sale of the new bonds was because Commerce Bank currently holds the 1996 Temporary Notes?

Business Administrator/Board Secretary Bryan McGair answered, "that is correct that Commerce holds the Temporary Notes, but according to Bond Counsel, Philip Norcross, they were put out for competitive quotes and Commerce's rate was low." The minutes indicate, and Ms. Haines' answer to the Complaint confirms, that a roll call vote followed the discussion of Business and Finance items. The motion to approve all the resolutions passed by a unanimous vote.

At the next Board meeting on February 10, 2000, Mr. McGair recommended that the Board amend the approved bond resolution to change the paying agent from Commerce Bank to Summit Bank. Ms. Haines voted in favor of the amendment. The reason given for the change was that Mr. Norcross had not received competitive quotes from other financial institutions. When competitive quotes were received, Summit Bank was more competitive than Commerce Bank.

At the May 4, 2000 organization meeting of the Board, Ms. Haines was elected President. When the Board was asked to approve the depositories for school funds, Ms. Haines abstained on the vote since Commerce Bank is the Board's main depository holding all payroll and benefits monies. Ms. Haines also recused herself from voting on the appointment of Philip Norcross as bond counsel. Philip Norcross is brother to George Norcross, III, who is President and Chief Executive Officer of Commerce National Insurance Services, Ms. Haines' employer.

The Commission found probable cause that the above conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

Ms. Haines makes several arguments in opposition to the Commission's finding of probable cause. She first argues that the relationship between Commerce National Insurance Services and Commerce Bank, N.A. is so miniscule that her vote to have Commerce Bank serve as paying agent does not constitute a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

The Commission understands that Commerce National Insurance Services is only a subsidiary of a sister corporation to Commerce Bank, N.A. and therefore there is no parent/subsidiary relationship between Commerce National Insurance Services and Commerce Bank, N.A., which received the contract. Rather, there is more of a diagonal line linking the two. Nonetheless, the Commission believes that such a relationship is the type of indirect financial involvement that the Legislature contemplated in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). The Act does not require a direct involvement. The Act requires only a showing of an indirect involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair a school official's objectivity or independence of judgment. In addition, the Legislature's purpose, set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a), makes it clear that the Legislature wanted the Commission to consider whether the conduct that took place violated the public trust or created an impression that the public trust was being violated. What "might reasonably be expected" is determined by what the reasonable member of the public would believe would impair a school official's independence of judgment. Where, as here, a board member's employer shares a parent company with the corporation that seeks to contract with the board, there exists a relationship that indirectly affects the board member. The Commission thus concludes that it creates an indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair the board member's objectivity. Therefore, by voting for the resolution in question, Ms. Haines acted in her official capacity in a matter in which she had an indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair her objectivity or independence of judgment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Ms. Haines next argues that Commerce Bank, N.A., had been selected as the Board's primary depository prior to Mrs. Haines becoming a member of the Board. She also states that, prior to her membership on the Board, Commerce Bank, N.A., was the holder of the Board's temporary notes, which were to be permanently financed by the issuance of its general obligation school bonds pursuant to the January resolution. Thus, she states, the involvement of Commerce Bank, N.A., had nothing to do with her. She also argues that no member of the Board or in the public commented that her vote on the resolution in question was somehow improper.

The Commission did not find probable cause that Respondent used her official position to secure an unwarranted privilege or advantage for the bank as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). Rather, the Commission concluded that the vote in question was one from which she should have abstained because she had an indirect financial involvement. The Commission therefore finds that Respondent's point may mitigate the penalty, but is not persuasive on the question of whether she had an indirect financial involvement with Commerce Bank, N.A. that might reasonably be expected to impair her objectivity. The Commission similarly concludes that the fact that no one, including the Complainant, who was in the audience during the meeting, warned Respondent or stated after the fact, that her vote was improper, is a point to be considered in determining sanction, rather than whether a violation occurred.

CONCLUSION

For all the foregoing reasons, the Commission concludes that Respondent Patricia Haines violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act when she voted in favor of Commerce Bank being the paying agent for the bond issue on January 27, 2000.

Regarding the penalty, the Commission considered that the vote did not result in monetary gain to Mrs. Haines, but rather presented an indirect financial involvement that created the appearance that Ms. Haines could not be objective. The Commission also considered the arguments in her written statement: 1) that the nature of her work did not touch upon Commerce Bank, N.A. and the relationship of Commerce Bank to Commerce National Insurance Services was tenuous; 2) that Commerce Bank, N.A. had been the primary depository for Board funds prior to Ms. Haines becoming a board member; and 3) that no one, including the Complainant, ever said that her vote was in violation of the Act prior to the Complaint being filed. Based on the foregoing, the Commission concludes that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty to recommend to the Commissioner of Education.

This decision of the School Ethics Commission, shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF PATRICIA HAINES,	:
HADDONFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") have been reviewed. Comments were filed by respondent which reference her arguments and positions set forth in the letter brief she submitted on September 12, 2000 to the Commission and which comment on why she believes the Commission inappropriately found a violation of the law occurred or, in the alternative, why the reprimand recommended by the Commission should be rejected as unwarranted. Complainant submitted a reply to respondent's comments.

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the recommended penalty and its implementation.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision, wherein it was found that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) on January 27, 2000 when she participated in a vote on a Board resolution authorizing the issuance and sale of new bonds with Commerce Bank designated as the paying agent because this vote presented an indirect financial involvement that created the appearance that respondent could not be objective. In so ruling, the Commissioner notes that the Commission considered and addressed the aggravating and mitigating factors raised by the parties in reaching its penalty determination and, having done so, imposed upon respondent the lowest penalty prescribed by statute. Additionally, the Commission was in the optimum position to make such determinations because it had the opportunity to fully investigate the facts presented. Therefore, its recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed absent a compelling basis to do so.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Patricia Haines be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act .*

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: October 6, 2000 Decided: October 11, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on September 6, 1996, by Arlene Miller ("petitioner") requesting reinstatement of her position as a school psychologist with the Board of Education of New Hanover Township, Burlington County, ("respondent board"), and compelling respondent board to terminate arrangements with child study team services from private contractors or vendors. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on December 6, 1996, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Settlement Agreement and Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in this administrative forum and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ARLENE MILLER, Petitioner, v BOARD OF EDUCATION OF NEW HANOVER TOWNSHIP IN BURLINGTON COUNTY, LISA Mulligan, and THERAPEUTIC OUTREACH COMPANY OR CORPORATION, Respondent.	: BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW : : OAL DOCKET NO.: EDUOT 10766-96S : : : : : : : SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT : :

The parties to the within matter hereby agree to settle and resolve the claims asserted by petitioner in the Petition of Appeal with the above docket number based upon the following terms:

1. The parties recognize that petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education which asserts that the termination of her employment at the end of the 1995-96 school year, and the retention, employment, or use of other persons or employees or of respondent Lisa Mulligan and/or of Therapeutic Outreach Corporation to provide child study team services violated her tenure, seniority, and other legal rights.

2. The parties recognize that this agreement resolves petitioner's claim for a remedy for the alleged violation of her rights for the 1996-97school year, and that the acceptance and implementation of all of the terms of this agreement shall result in the resolution of petitioner's claims that respondent violated petitioner's tenure, seniority, or other legal rights for the 1996-97 school year.

3. The parties recognize that the implementation and validity of this agreement is contingent upon the approval of this agreement in its entirety by the Commissioner of Education, and upon the effectuation of all of its terms, and that if the Commissioner of Education rejects this agreement or any term thereof, the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case for further proceedings.

4. The parties recognize that petitioner has alleged that respondent acted unlawfully and violated her legal rights when it contracted with a private vendor for the provision of child study team services for the 1996-97 school year. The parties further recognize that respondent asserts that it relied upon a waiver granted by the Commissioner of Education, that petitioner appealed the validity of said waiver to the State Board of Education, and that by decision dated May 3, 2000, the State Board held that the Commissioner of Education lacked the authority to grant such a waiver, that such waiver was invalid, and that the services previously provided by petitioner could not be provided by subcontract with a private party or vendor.

5. As a result, the parties recognize that but for respondent board's contracting to provide such salary with Lisa Mulligan and/or Therapeutic Outreach Company or Corporation, petitioner would have been retained in her employment as a school psychologist by respondent for the 1996-97 school year.

6. The parties recognize that for said school year, if petitioner was retained by respondent, petitioner would have earned approximately $10,000.00 in salary from respondent.

7. Petitioner has provided respondent with tax returns covering the 1996-97 school year, together with pay records from her other employer, the Florence Township Board of Education, and the parties have reached agreement as to petitioner's mitigation efforts and the amount due petitioner as backpay for the 1996-97 school year.

8. Consequently, respondent agrees to pay petitioner the amount of $10,000.00 as constituting her backpay entitlement after consideration of mitigation evidence, and that from that $10,000.00 payment, respondent shall take all usual and customary deductions for taxes, Social Security, and pension, and shall remit the employee's share of pension contributions to the Division of Pensions and/or Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund to cover the 1996-97 school year.

9. The parties agree that the payments required by this agreement shall be made within 30 days of the Commissioner of Education's approval of this agreement.

10. The parties agree that the sum to be paid petitioner for the 1996-97 school year constitutes backpay for the salary that petitioner would have received if employed by respondent for said school year, and that it covers the period of July 1, 1996 through June 30, 1997.

11(A). The parties agree that petitioner shall receive pension credit for the 1996-97 school year as if employed on a one-fifth (1/5) basis by respondent. The parties recognize that petitioner has already received partial pension credit as a result of employment with the Florence Township Board of Education (which employment petitioner also held before the termination of her employment by respondent), and that to provide the additional pension credit required by this agreement, respondent shall deduct from petitioner's backpay and transmit to the Division of Pensions the employee's share of pension contributions from her backpay payment as if petitioner had been employed by respondent on a one-fifth (1/5) basis, and shall remit those contributions to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund.

11(B).Respondent shall inform the Division of Pensions of the basis for the deductions, that said deductions constitute additional deductions based on the salary petitioner would have earned if employed by respondent for the 1996-97 school year on the same basis as in prior school years, shall request that the Division of Pensions contribute the employer's share of pension contributions for said school year, but if required by the Division of Pensions, shall pay the employer's share of additional contributions for petitioner's pension credit for the 1996-97 school year.

12. The parties agree that if the Division of Pensions refuses to grant the pension credit required by this agreement, this settlement shall be null and void, that petitioner shall not be deemed to have waived, abandoned, or surrendered any tenure, seniority, or other legal rights against respondent, and that petitioner's case shall be returned to active status for determination by the Office of Administrative Law without the waiver or loss of either parties' legal rights or defenses.

13. Petitioner agrees that because respondent contracted with the Burlington County Educational Services Unit for child study team services for the school years following the 1996-97 school year, petitioner has asserted no claim to backpay or other benefits against respondent for any years subsequent to the 1996-97 school year, but that petitioner reserves and does not waive her claims against the Burlington County Educational Services Unit which are presently pending before the State Board of Education in the case of Arlene Miller v. Burlington County Educational Services Unit, Agency Docket No.: 9-99.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEW HANOVER, BURLINGTON COUNTY, LISA MULLIGAN AND THERAPEUTIC OUTREACH COMPANY OR CORPORATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Stipulation of Settlement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner is compelled to remand the settlement agreement to the OAL because the agreement is expressly contingent upon the Division of Pensions and Benefits' recognition of additional pension credit to be attributed to petitioner for the 1996-97 school year. The agreement provides that:

> The parties agree that if the Division of Pensions refuses to grant the pension credit required by this agreement, this settlement shall be null and void, that petitioner shall not be deemed to have waived, abandoned, or surrendered any tenure, seniority, or other legal rights against respondent, and that petitioner's case shall be returned to active status for determination by the Office of Administrative Law without the waiver or loss of either parties' legal rights or defenses. (Settlement Agreement and Stipulation of Settlement at paragraph 12, page 5)

The Commissioner recognizes that any settlement agreement effectuated by the parties to a dispute shall, upon his approval, be deemed a final decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d). Therefore, although he does not find objectionable the terms of the agreement which are within his jurisdiction, the Commissioner cannot sanction a settlement which is clearly contingent upon the satisfaction of conditions by another agency, namely the Department of Treasury, Division of Pensions and Benefits, and which further provides that if such conditions are not met, the agreement shall be deemed null and void, thereby reactivating the within matter.

Accordingly, the settlement in this matter is rejected. The Commissioner directs that this matter be remanded to the OAL and held in abeyance, pending review by the Division of Pensions and Benefits of the parties' proposal to credit petitioner with additional pension contributions. If the parties obtain the necessary endorsement from the Division of Pensions and Benefits, the within agreement may be modified to so reflect that approval, and may be resubmitted to the Commissioner for review. If, however, the parties cannot obtain from the Division of Pension and Benefits the cooperation they seek, and they are unable to agree on revised settlement terms, this matter shall proceed to a determination on petitioner's claims.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SHORE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF RED BANK REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, :

RESPONDENTS. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents and guardians appealed respondent local Boards' refusal to pay tuition and transportation costs for their children to attend the visual/performing arts program operated by Red Bank Regional High School District. Respondent Boards denied responsibility for the payments; Red Bank Regional cross-claimed against each local Board seeking payment for tuition and transportation costs, asserting that it was an approved vocational school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 et seq.; that petitioners' children are entitled to enroll in Red Bank pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11(a); and that it was entitled to receive payment from the respondent Boards pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7.

The ALJ concluded that any special status that Red Bank Regional enjoyed under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 because of its Area Vocational Technical School and Local Area Vocational School District designations terminated with the repeal of N.J.A.C. 6:46-2 in 1991. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 is to permit districts voluntarily to enter into sending-receiving type relationships and only where they have done so does it impose upon the sending district a responsibility to pay tuition. The ALJ determined that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 make clear that the ultimate discretion concerning whether a student will attend a program in another district at public expense lies with the local board. The ALJ dismissed the petitions and cross-claims.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Record Closed: July 17, 2000

Decided: October 16, 2000*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

These matters commenced when each petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order requiring the local board of education to pay tuition and transportation costs for petitioner to attend the visual/performing arts program operated by Red Bank Regional High School District. Each respondent board filed an answer denying responsibility for tuition and transportation, and the Board of Education of Red Bank Regional High School District filed a cross-claim against each local board seeking payment for tuition and transportation costs. The local boards filed answers to the cross-claims, and between June 29, 1999 and December 21, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted each of the matters to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. A motion to consolidate the first five cases transmitted was denied by letter order dated September 10, 1999. Thereafter prehearing conferences were conducted in each of the cases. The following were the issues identified for determination at hearing in EDU 4737-99:

---

* An extension of time for issuing the decision in this matter was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10c.

1. Is petitioner entitled to enroll in the Red Bank Regional (RBR) Dance Program, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11(a)?

2. If the answer to the previous question is yes, is RBR entitled to receive payment from Long Branch (LB) Board of Education for petitioner's tuition, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 or otherwise?

3. Is petitioner entitled to have transportation costs associated with the attendance at RBR paid for by LB?

4. Is the RBR an approved performing arts vocational program or an approved vocational school, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 through 54-7?

5. Does the fact that Long Branch is an Abbott v. Burke district have any impact on the resolution of the foregoing issues?

The issues identified in the other five cases were identical to the foregoing issues with the following exceptions. The issue articulated as issue number five (5) above was unique to EDU 4737-99 and EDU 6125-99; the particular program identified in issue number one (1) for EDU 6019-99 was commercial art, for EDU 6125-99 was drama, for 6126-99 was drama, for 8009-99 was vocal music, and for EDU 10943-99 was vocal music. In addition, the prehearing order in EDU 6019-99 added the following two issues, "Is the commercial art program at RBR part of the RBR visual/performing arts program approved by the Department of Education? and Do either petitioners or RBR have an obligation to first seek enrollment for the student in the Monmouth County Vocational Technical School District program before applying for enrollment in the RBR program." The prehearing order in EDU 8009-99, added the following issue, "Is a shared time program for petitioner between RBR and RFH a feasible and appropriate remedy?"

Hearing dates were scheduled in each case; however, prior to commencement of any hearing respondent cross-claimant Red Bank Regional High School District filed motions for summary decision. In each instance the motions were supported by petitioners and were opposed by the local boards which in each case, with the exceptions of EDU 6125-99 and EDU 8009-99, filed cross-motions for summary decision. Oral argument on the motions was conducted in EDU 4737-99 on February 3, 2000. Thereafter, oral argument was also conducted in EDU 6019-99 (February 15, 2000) and jointly in EDU 6126-99 and 10943-99, on April 10, 2000. No oral argument was conducted in EDU 6125-99 or EDU 8009-99.

On March 3, 2000, Deputy Attorney General Michael C. Walters filed a motion to quash a subpoena served by Shore Regional High School Board of Education in EDU 6126-99, which sought disclosure of a June 1994 Attorney General's opinion letter rendered to the Department of Education in the course of an attorney-client relationship. In response, the undersigned requested that Mr. Walters consult with Commissioner Hespe to determine whether, under the circumstances in the within matter where it appeared that the opinion bore directly on the issues in the within cases, he would consider waiving his attorney-client privilege and producing the opinion letter. By letter dated March 27, 2000, Mr. Walters forwarded a copy of the June 9, 1994 letter opinion written by DAG David Earle Powers and advised that Commissioner Hespe had agreed to waive his attorney-client privilege with respect to the requested opinion.

Because copies of several letters forwarded by several parties, all dated February 18, 2000, written by Thomas A. Henry, Ed. D., Director of Office of School-to-Career and College Initiatives, appeared to create certain factual issues requiring resolution, on April 11, 2000, the undersigned wrote to the parties advising of the intention to take limited testimony from Dr. Henry regarding those issues. DAG Walters advised that he would forward Dr. Henry's certification in lieu of testimony. Thereafter, he forwarded Dr. Henry's May 18, 2000 certification, and upon request from the undersigned, a supplemental certification was submitted, dated June 9, 2000. By letter dated June 13, 2000 the undersigned wrote to the parties as follows:

> I have reviewed Dr. Henry's June 9, 2000 Supplemental Certification and attached documents. I have decided to adjourn the June 20, 2000 hearing date pending receipt of whatever comments or additional documentation each of you wishes to supply. Please file by July 10, 2000 whatever responding material you wish to have considered and forward a copy to each person on the attached service list. After I review your responses I may or may not reschedule a day for Dr. Henry's testimony.
>
> I am also considering the possibility of consolidating all of the cases for a decision on the motions; at the time I decided the original motion to consolidate, I contemplated a decision after a hearing. As the cases have developed, the motions, with minor exceptions, are remarkably similar and one decision might still accomplish some judicial and administrative economy for OAL and the Commissioner's office. Please let me know if you object to consolidation for a decision on the motions. (If hearing days subsequently become necessary, the cases could then be severed.)

Additional written submissions from each of the parties concerning Dr. Henry's certifications were received thereafter. The last submission was received on July 17, 2000, whereupon the record closed. On August 9, 2000, the undersigned issued an order consolidating these cases for a determination on the motions.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are not in dispute and accordingly, I FIND them as uncontested facts.

Any vocational and technical education program of less than college grade is required to be conducted within the framework of a State Plan for Vocational Education approved by the State Board of Education and accepted by the United States Department of Education. See N.J.A.C. 6:43-2.1. The current Plan for Vocational and Technical Education (FY2000-2004) confirms that all vocational educational programs and/or courses must be reviewed and approved by the Department of Education as prescribed in N.J.A.C. 6:43-8 and continues, "Thus, the use of the Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) coding system by local districts continues to be required. This system allows the local district boards of education to identify individual programs offered at each institution and allows the State to report them in the New Jersey Directory of Verified Occupational Programs." The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) was originally developed by the United States Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics. Once a program application has been approved, the program is assigned a CIP code number. This number defines the specific nature of the program and serves to distinguish programs within the vocational discipline/field. The approved program is then listed in the New Jersey Directory of Verified Occupational Programs. Listing the program in the Directory reflects the program's status as an approved program. The New Jersey Directory of Verified Occupational Programs (revised for 1995) lists Red Bank Regional as approved, inter alia, in the program area "Trade and Industrial" for the program name "Visual & Performing Arts, CIP code 50.0101. The current CIP contains the following entry concerning that number:

> 50. VISUAL AND PERFORMING ARTS. A summary of groups of instructional programs that describe the creation and interpretation of works and performances that use auditory, kinesthetic, and visual phenomena to express ideas and emotions in various forms, subject to aesthetic criteria.
> 50.01 Visual and Performing Arts. (See 50.0101).
> 50.0101 Visual and Performing Arts. An instructional program that generally describes an undifferentiated program in the visual and performing arts, and that may prepare individuals in any of the visual artistic media or performing disciplines.

With respect to delivery of vocational technical programs, the current Plan for Vocational and Technical Education states the following:

> New Jersey provides secondary vocational and technical education programs mainly via two delivery systems, the comprehensive high > schools and the county vocational-technical schools.* On a more limited basis, special services school districts also deliver vocational and technical education. The postsecondary vocational-technical system is delivered by the state's 19 county/community colleges and 21 county vocational schools. The total number of approved occupational programs offered to secondary, postsecondary, and special needs students is 1,584. Twenty-six approved occupational programs are offered at five different special services school districts throughout the state.

The plan defines comprehensive high schools as schools from grades 9 through 12 that provide all academic subject material required for a high school diploma; support services to all students, including special populations; and vocational (occupational) programs in selected areas. According to the current plan there are 227 comprehensive school districts which offer approximately 877 vocational/occupational programs throughout the State.

Prior to December 1981, the New Jersey Administrative Code contained rules adopted by the State Board of Education pursuant to which a local educational agency could obtain approval for establishing and operating an Area Vocational Technical Education School. N.J.A.C. 6:46-1.1 then provided:

> "Area vocational technical education school" means any public school or public institution which falls in any one of the following categories:
>
> 1. A specialized high school used exclusively or principally for the provision of vocational education to persons who are available for study in preparation for entering the labor market; or
>
> 2. The department of a high school exclusively or principally used for providing vocational education in no less than five different occupational fields to persons who are available for study in preparation for entering the labor market; or

---

* Dr. Henry's certification describes a three-tiered delivering system: 1) comprehensive high schools, including charter schools; 2) vocational high schools; and 3) county vocational schools. For the reasons articulated hereinafter, however, this is not a material fact precluding summary decision.

3. A technical or vocational school used exclusively or principally for the provision of vocational education to persons who have completed or left high school and who are available for study in preparation for entering the labor market; or

4. The department or division of a junior college or community college or university which provides vocational education in no less than five different occupational fields, under the supervision of the State Board, leading to immediate employment but not leading to a baccalaureate degree.

5. An "area vocational education school" shall be available to all residents of the State or an area of the State designated and approved by the State Board.

At its meeting of July 11, 1979, the New Jersey State Board of Education adopted a resolution approving the applications of Matawan Regional and Red Bank Regional school districts to be designated as area vocational technical schools. The application which was submitted by Red Bank to the State Board has not been provided as part of the record herein, and apparently it cannot be located. However, part of the application submitted and approved was the following Statement of Agreement signed in September 1978 by Milton G. Hughes, then Monmouth County's Superintendent of Schools, Edward F. Davey, County Vocational Director, and the superintendents of the two districts:

> Representatives of the Monmouth County Office of the New Jersey Department of Education, the Monmouth County Vocation-Technical School System, the Red Bank Regional High School System and the Matawan Regional School System have discussed the delivery of vocational-technical education on the secondary and post-secondary level. As a result of various discussions, the above-mentioned districts agree on the following points:
>
> - Programs and services offered by the two local schools will be coordinated with the County System.
>
> - Programs and services offered by the County system will be supported by the two local schools.

- Matawan will continue to send students to the Vocational building adjacent to its high school.

- Red Bank will identify interested students and/or students in need who would attend the above building on a shared-time basis, thereby increasing its participation in the County System.

- Red Bank and Matawan will exchange students, based upon need and/or interest in those areas where such programs are not already available to them. At present, vocational program offerings new to Red Bank and now available at Matawan are Cosmetology and Health. The one program new to Matawan at Red Bank is Child Care. At present, all other programs are available at either school.

- Students will not be solicited from other school districts if the same program is available at a County Vocational building, unless it is filled. If this situation should occur, then a percentage of slots for out-of-district students will be held open.

- The two local districts will participate actively in a shared-time program with the County System in those areas where local programs are not available and/or where local programs are filled.

- The two local districts agree to cooperate with and support the expansion of the County Vocational System.

The explicit purpose of this statement is to ensure Federal, State, County and Local officials that this application for AVTS status by Matawan and Red Bank will in no way diminish participation in and support of the County System. In fact, participation will increase based upon an increased transportation network and resulting shared-time possibilities for Red Bank. A commitment to a comprehensive high school with vocational program offerings has already been made by Matawan and Red Bank. These programs would merely continue under AVTS designation; however, they would now be available to students at both schools.

In December 1981, the State Board of Education amended the rules concerning local vocational education. The summary published with the proposed changes in the New Jersey Register of October 8, 1981, provided as follows:

Summary

The purposes of the amendments are to update and clarify the general requirements for designation as a local area vocational school district. These changes are required by an Attorney General's opinion which advised the Department of Education to promulgate appropriate rules to establish requirements and criteria for the designation of a local area vocational school district eligible for categorical aid in a manner reasonably related to and consistent with the purposes of the Public School Education Act of 1975 (N.J.S.A. 18A:7A- et seq.).

Social Impact

Increased benefits for New Jersey pupils in schools designated as local area vocational schools include: (1) pupils would be given greater career options; (2) additional educational strategies could be utilized within a broad occupational area; (3) essential personnel and services would be provided; and (4) the needs of the handicapped and limited-English proficient persons would be addressed more effectively. Employers would directly benefit from improved vocational education programs by being able to secure more suitable employees.

Economic Impact

The proposed amendments will provide appropriate allocation of categorical aid for approved local vocational education authorized under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 et seq. These rules were recast to give clear guidance to local school districts concerning criteria for designation by the State Board of Education of a local area vocational school district, in order that certain schools might qualify for such categorical aid.

School districts presently receiving aid because of area vocational school status will have to requalify for such aid in the future under the amended rules. The changes proposed would permit a more clearly defined and equitable disbursement of categorical aid. The provision of suitably trained employees for business and industry will have a positive impact on New Jersey's economy.

The 1981 amendments eliminated the phrase "area vocational technical education school" and instead replaced the term with "local area vocational school district" defined as a school district which has been so designated by the State Board of Education and which has at least one school which offers approved local vocational education. Red Bank Regional applied for local area vocational school district (LAVSD) status and received State Board approval in January 1983.

The following historical summary of Red Bank Regional's commitment to vocational education appeared in a document dated May 5, 1982, entitled, "Pre-qualification Assessment for Designation as a Local Area Vocational School District to be Eligible for Categorical Vocational Aid under the Public School Education Act of 1975:"

> The Red Bank Regional High School District was created in November of 1969. Prior to that time the students of Little Silver and Shrewsbury attended the old Red Bank High School as tuition students. Red Bank High School was a comprehensive high school and had vocational education programs in place prior to regionalization and prior to the development of the new regional facility.
>
> As the plans for the new facility were being formulated a meeting was held with the Superintendent of the Monmouth County Vocational School District (Mr. Donald Hoagland) to discuss the possible location of a county vocational building on the new site. Since it was communicated that it would not be possible to have a county facility (other schools were on a priority waiting list) the Red Bank Regional High School Board of Education pursued other options.
>
> In July of 1971 an application for designation as an Area Vocational School was prepared. This was considerably before the formulation of Chapter 212 and categorical vocational funding. Unfortunately, the application was discouraged by a State Department of Education staff member before it reached the State Board of Education.
>
> The Red Bank Regional Board then decided to become a comprehensive high school and made a major commitment to the development of vocational education in a comprehensive high school setting. Local funds were used (Bond issue December 16, 1971) to construct a 250,000 sq. ft. facility. A layout of the facility is attached. The vocational areas are highlighted in yellow.
>
> The facility opened in September, 1975 and was designated an area vocational school by the State Board of Education on July 11, 1979.

> The facility is viewed by many as a model and visitors from all areas of the state, who are designing programs of facilities, are routinely hosted on tours during the school day. Students in the program have distinguished themselves and their school by winning state sponsored contests in areas including but not limited to, VICA, Plymouth Trouble-shooting, DECA and FHA/HERO.
>
> Student placement in jobs after graduation has also been very favorable. Many graduates are now in responsible positions in the community and some serve on our advisory committees.

In May 1985 the Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education, issued an official policy, circulated to county vocational schools and local area vocational school districts with respect to the funding of sub-baccalaureate programs in the performing arts. That official policy provided as follows:

> Performing Arts, as an occupational or vocational education program, is recognized at the national level and is listed in the federal Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP CODES). Performing arts programs are currently being offered at the Mercer County Vocational School, the Somerset County Vocational School and the Red Bank Regional Local Area Vocational School District (LAVSD). In these three schools, the local boards of education have determined that there is a need and a desire to offer a performing arts program. Based on local board action, the program has been added to the curriculum of each of the schools and subsequently has been recognized as an official course offering by the State Board of Education. Since Red Bank Regional is a LAVSD, and since Title 18A Chapter 212, Laws of 1975, now N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 et seq. authorizes categorical aid for vocational programs in LAVSDs, Red Bank Regional may receive state categorical aid for the performing arts program in the same way it receives state categorical aid for all of its other vocational programs. Similarly, performing arts programs in schools other than LAVSDs may generate equalization aid.
>
> The issue, here, is whether or not performing arts programs meet the criteria for the funding of programs with federal dollars under the provisions of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act (P.L. 98-534). Federal support for vocational education programs is, and has been, extremely limited. It is estimated that the federal share represents approximately 5 percent of the total expenditure for vocational education programs in New Jersey. Because of the > limited investment of federal funds, criteria for the expenditure of those funds have been developed to ensure the use of the funds in a manner which maximizes cost-benefit.

>
> Under the Carl D. Perkins Act, federal funds are specifically targeted for unserved and underserved populations and the improvement and modernization of occupational programs which are supported by up-to-date demand (job availability) data. Therefore, it is quite possible that a vocational education program which has been approved by a local board of education, and subsequently by the State Board of Education as a course offering could be considered ineligible to receive program funds under the federal legislation. At present, while performing arts programs in New Jersey are approved as vocational education programs (including approval as a source of categorical or equalization aid), they are not approved for funding with federal or state program dollars because they fail to meet the job availability provisions of the Carl D. Perkins Act.
>
> In New Jersey, there has been insufficient documentation that there is an occupational demand for individuals trained in the performing arts at the sub-baccalaureate degree level. Labor market data in the area frequently includes occupational titles which go beyond the performing arts, per se. For instance, receptionists, writers, programmers, laborers, sales representatives, business managers and carpenters are employed by the performing arts industry. Educational programs for these titles are conducted under separate and distinct CIP Codes.
>
> In consideration of all of the above, it is the continuing policy of the Division of Vocational Education, New Jersey Department of Education, that performing arts programs may be approved for categorical and equalization aid purposes, but will not be supported by either federal or state vocational education program funds.

On July 18, 1985, Red Bank Regional sent the following letter to all chief school administrators in Monmouth County:

> Recently, the New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education issued a major policy statement concerning performing arts programs as vocational education in the State of New Jersey. A copy of that policy statement is attached for your review. Since the Red Bank Regional High School is a designated > Local Area Vocational School District, and since our performing arts program has been approved as a vocational program, the policy has particular application to our program.

>
> In essence, parents and students may now select performing arts much the same as they select the Marine Academy of Science Technology and other County Vocational School programs. In addition, it assures funding in the form of categorical aid to districts who send tuition students to the performing arts program. Categorical Aid is triggered by completing the "Application for State School Aid" form ASSA-1 usually submitted September 30.
>
> A number of prospective performing arts students did audition and were accepted for the 1985-86 school year and are awaiting final decisions by their local boards of education.
>
> Please be advised that the following courses are approved:
>
> Television Production > Drama
> Dance
> Creative Writing
>
> So that we can finalize our sections and schedules for September, we would appreciate your review of the attached policy and the assurance of state categorical aid for performing arts students. It is my understanding that a copy of the attached policy statement will be included as an informational item in the County Superintendent's agenda for September 1985.
>
> Thank you for your continued support of public education in our county.

Red Bank Regional's action in this regard provoked a response from Walter J. McCarroll, the Assistant Commissioner of Education in charge of County and Regional Services, and Gordon Ascher, Assistant Commissioner for the Division of Vocational Education, which provided in pertinent part:

> The second paragraph of the July 18 letter states ". . . parents and students may now select performing arts much the same as they select the Marine Academy of Science Technology and other county vocational school programs." If by that you meant to infer any parent or student in any school district in Monmouth County has this option, then this statement is in error. The potential statewide attendance area for MAST was specifically delineated by special legislation. (N.J.S.A. 18A:54c-6). Similarly, the countywide attendance area for county vocational schools is set by statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:54-11 et seq.). There is no statute nor regulation which authorizes an AVTS/LAVSD to similarly expand its attendance area. It is, therefore, the position of this office that Red Bank Regional High School may solicit and accept students from only those districts denominated on its application to become an AVTS/LAVSD as approved by the State Board.
>
> The final paragraph of the first page of your letter of July 18, states ". . . the following courses are approved: television production, drama, dance, creative writing." Any inference that television production has been approved for ninth grade students is incorrect. Incoming ninth grade students in the performing arts program may not enroll in television production.

The resolution adopted by the Red Bank Regional High School Board of Education and submitted to the State Board of Education seeking continued designation as an LAVSD in March of 1987 indicated that the district would continue its sending/receiving relationship with Matawan Regional and would accept, as spaces permitted, students from other public and non-public schools so long as acceptances did not conflict with the County Vocational School and would continue to honor the September 25, 1978 agreement with Monmouth County Vocational School and the Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools. The resolution adopted by the State Board of Education, dated July 1, 1987 approved the Red Bank Regional High School district as a local area vocational school district for another five-year period. Prior to the expiration of that five-year period, however, on August 5, 1991, the State Board deleted all reference in the administrative code to "local area vocational school districts." The August 5, 1991 New Jersey Register (23 N.J.R. 2332) published the following comment from Robert M. Nogueira, Principal of the Red Bank Regional High School District, together with the State Board's response, as follows:

COMMENT: The commenter requested that the local area vocational school district (LAVSD) designation process be continued even though comprehensive high schools, under the Quality Education Act (P.L. 1990, c.52), will no longer receive State categorical aid for vocational education programs.

RESPONSE: The Department declines to continue the LAVSD designation process given the current State budget situation and staff reductions. The Department cannot afford the staff time needed to review courses of study, applications, prepare evaluations and other paperwork involved in redesignation of the 18 LAVSDs. If funding is not the issue, there is no reason why the comprehensive high schools cannot continue to offer vocational education programs to meet the needs of pupils in their districts.

In a letter dated October 4, 1990, Bruce M. Quinn, County School Business Administrator for Monmouth County, had advised the Belmar School district concerning the effect of the Quality Education Act of 1990 on local area vocational school districts as follows:

> You have requested a letter from this office relative to the current legal standing of a Local-Area Vocational School District since the adoption of the Quality Education Act of 1990.
>
> Please be advised that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 thru 7, was unchanged by this act. The State still recognizes the designation of a Local-Area Vocational School District as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:46. The only change regarding LAVSDs has to do with categorical funding and the definition of resident pupils.
>
> Therefore, the Belmar Board of Education will be able to continue to establish a sending/receiving relationship with the Red Bank Regional High School District Board of Education under 18A:54-7 for the 1991-92 school year for the purposes of vocational education.
> I hope this information meets your requirement. If I can be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

On February 4, 1991, Edwina Lee, Director of Governmental Relations for the New Jersey School Boards Association, wrote to Red Bank Regional in regard to a concern that elimination of all references to LAVSD in the administrative code would somehow affect the continuation of such programs. Ms. Lee advised that in her capacity she had sought a response to this concern from Dr. Sandra Streeter, Executive Assistant to the Assistant Commissioner of the Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education. Ms. Lee's letter further advised:

> Dr. Streeter assured us that, in no way, does the elimination of references to LAVSDs from administrative code render such programs non-existent or illegitimate. This specific issue was discussed previously with the individual members of the State Board of Education. They were informed that LAVSD programs would continue to function as they have in the past, and would be dealt with in the same manner as all other comprehensive high schools, in accordance with those relevant provisions in administrative code.

Another letter from Bruce M. Quinn, this one dated July 20, 1992 and addressed to the Superintendent of the Avon School District, provided:

> You have requested a letter from this office relative to the current legal standing of sending-receiving relationships with the Red Bank Regional High School District Board of Education as a vocational program provider.
>
> Please be advised that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 through 7, was unchanged by this act. The state still recognizes the vocational programs offered by the Red Bank Regional High School District Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11. However, you should be aware that the area of mandatory and permissible enrollment is soon to be the subject of an attorney general's written legal opinion. This may change the present practice on this subject.
>
> In the meantime, within the present rules, the Avon Board of Education would be able to establish a sending/receiving relationship with the Red Bank Regional High School District

> Board of Education under 18A:54-7 for the 1992-93 school year for the purposes of vocational education.
> I hope this information meets your requirement. If I can be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

The Attorney General's written legal opinion, presumably the one referenced in the July 1992 letter from Mr. Quinn, was issued on June 9, 1994. The opinion began, "You have asked for our opinion whether the Red Bank Regional High School District (Red Bank) may accept students from other districts and whether the district of residence must pay the tuition for students attending the Performing Arts Program at Red Bank." The opinion concluded that Red Bank could accept non-resident students for its performing arts, but that the district of residence would not be required to pay the student's tuition unless it chose to approve the placement.

The several letters, all dated February 18, 2000, written by Thomas A. Henry, Ed.D., on Department of Education stationery referenced hereinabove at page 5 advised the recipients that Red Bank does not have approval to offer either a vocal music program or a photography program and continued in pertinent part as follows:

> As a comprehensive high school offering approved vocational programs, the Red Bank District may accept students from outside its sending district. However, the home district has no responsibility to pay for the tuition and transportation for those students. Only students attending county vocational schools or approved vocational schools in comprehensive high school districts are eligible to have their tuition and transportation costs paid by the home district (N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-70 (sic 18A:54-7)). Unfortunately, the Red Bank District does not meet either of these eligibility criteria.

As part of its review of Red Bank Regional's local area vocational school district materials for 1985-86, the Division of Vocational Education had approved the following courses: Drama I, Drama II, Dance I, Dance II, and Creative Writing I and Creative Writing II and had so advised the district by letter dated May 23, 1985. Not contained in this record is any proof of specific approval of commercial art courses or vocal music courses. In a letter dated December 30, 1996, addressed to the Honorable Bruce R. Campbell, ALJ, Michael Maddaluna, County Superintendent of Schools for Monmouth County, advised Judge Campbell that from 1982 to 1991 he was employed as the Monmouth County Educational Specialist for Vocational Education and that in that capacity he had worked closely with Red Bank Regional High School district as they applied for and received approval from the New Jersey Department of Education for their entire vocational educational program. He therefore advised Judge Campbell that the vocational courses offered by Red Bank were approved courses.

Red Bank Regional's curriculum guide currently lists the following courses under the performing arts program: Commercial art I, II, III, and IV; Drama I, II, III, and IV; Stagecraft I, II, III and IV; Dance I, II, III and IV; Creative Writing I, II, III and IV; Vocal Music I, II, III, and IV; Piano I, II, III and IV; and Commercial Photography I, II, III and IV. Each of the students in the within consolidated cases applied to the Visual Performing Arts Program. Each auditioned and was accepted into the program for enrollment in the course sequence identified hereinabove at page 4 for each case. None of the respondent districts in the within matter operate performing arts programs in the corresponding disciplines approved by the Department as vocational programs. Acceptance letters from RBR advised the parents of each student that acceptance was contingent upon local board of education approval. When each local board of education advised each petitioner that it would not pay tuition or transportation to the performing arts program, the within matters followed. Each of the students has enrolled pursuant to a contract signed by the parents to pay RBR $8,600 for a full year's tuition. The parents seek reimbursement from their local boards.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (Citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, the material facts recited hereinabove, as opposed to the conclusions to be drawn from them, are not in dispute, and accordingly, these matters are ripe for summary decision.

The starting point for any analysis concerning who is required to pay the cost of a student's education in New Jersey is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. That statute, entitled "Attendance at school free of charge," provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
>
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other persons gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitoulsy for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease; and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district.
>
> d. Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section;
>
> e. Any person for whom the Division of Youth and Family Services in the Department of Human Services is acting as guardian and who is placed in the district by said bureau;
> f. Any person whose parent or guardian moves from one school district to another school district as a result of being homeless and whose district of residence is determined pursuant to section 19 of P.L. 1979, c.207 (C. 18A:7B-12).

The statutory scheme provides discretion to local boards of education to admit to their schools students who are not domiciled within the school district "with or without payment of tuition as the board may prescribe." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3. Because the students in the within matter are not domiciled within the Red Bank Regional district and because Red Bank Regional has admitted them to the Red Bank Regional High School conditioned upon payment of tuition, petitioners seek to place responsibility for payment of the tuition upon the local districts in which each is domiciled. Whether the local districts can be required to pay the students' tuition to attend the visual/performing arts program is exactly the question which was addressed by Deputy Attorney General David Powers in the written legal advice rendered to the Commissioner of Education in 1994 and referenced hereinabove at pages 5 and 19. In critiquing DAG Powers' opinion, the petitioners note the omission of any reference to N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11. That regulation, entitled, "Access to vocational instruction offered" was adopted by the State Board of Education, effective September 1990 and provides:

> (a) Pupils shall be permitted to enroll in programs of vocational instruction offered by district boards of education other than their resident district so long as the resident district board of education does not offer a comparable type of program and space is available for additional enrollees in the programs offered by the receiving district board of education.
>
> (b) To the extent that space is available, each type of program of vocational instruction offered by the State Board shall be made available to all pupils residing in the State, and each program of instruction offered by a district board of education shall be made available to all pupils residing in the district or community served by the district board of education offering such instruction.
> (c) Pupils shall be admitted for enrollment in classes and provided instruction on the basis of their potential for achieving the occupational or other objectives of such instruction.

Petitioners and Red Bank Regional acknowledge that the regulation makes no specific provision concerning payment of tuition either by the districts where the students are domiciled or by the students themselves, but suggest that when read in conjunction with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 to 54-7, the regulation compels the conclusion that the students have a right to enroll at Red Bank Regional and have the right to have their tuition paid by their local districts. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and 54-6 provide that a board of education of any school district or regional school district may establish and maintain vocational schools, subject to approval of location, management and courses of study by the Department of Education. Red Bank Regional asserts that its 1979 approval as an AVTS and its 1983 and 1987 approvals as an LAVSD were made pursuant to the provisions of 18A:54-6 and therefore qualify it as a regional vocational school. With respect to such schools N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 provides:

> All such boards of education shall receive pupils from other districts so far as their facilities will permit and shall be entitled to collect and receive from any sending district for the tuition of such pupils a sum not exceeding the actual cost per pupil, as determined according to rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the state board.

Red Bank asserts that its special status under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 continues because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-4 requires specific notice of discontinuance, something which Red Bank asserts it never received. Dr. Henry apparently agrees with Red Bank Regional's interpretation of the language in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7, but denies that Red Bank's AVTS or LAVSD status was approved pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 or that those approvals have any current meaning since they were related only to the provision of categorical aid which was abolished in 1990.

From a historical perspective it certainly appears that the Department of Education regarded AVTS and LAVSD status as approvals, at least in part, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6. That statute was listed specifically as authority for the 1981 regulatory amendments changing the term Area Vocational Technical Education School to Local Area Vocational School District (See New Jersey Register, October 8, 1981, 13 N.J.R. 635), and Bruce Quinn's 1990 and 1992 letters specifically refer to those statutory provisions in connection with Red Bank's LAVSD status. Since 1991, however, there have been no rules or regulations specifying any procedure for designation as a local area vocational technical school, and the Department of Education's response in the August 5, 1991 New Jersey Register to Red Bank Regional's request that the LAVSD designation process be continued, quoted hereinabove at page 17, provided clear notice to Red Bank that thereinafter its vocational programs could continue to operate, but in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as approved vocational education programs offered in any comprehensive high school. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that any special status Red Bank Regional enjoyed under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 because of its AVTS and LAVSD designations terminated with the repeal of N.J.A.C. 6:46-2 in 1991. The foregoing conclusion notwithstanding, for the following reasons, I disagree with Dr. Henry's conclusion that the language in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 would require payment by the local districts to Red Bank Regional, in any event.

In 1967 the Legislature revised and reenacted the education laws as Title 18A. The provisions which they enacted as 18A:54-7, quoted hereinabove, have remained the same since their original effective date. With respect to costs for pupils attending county vocational schools, the 1967 legislation provided two separate statutory provisions depending upon the location of the district of residence. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-15 provided:

> Tuition rates; maximum cost per pupil. In the event of such establishment of any vocational school in such second-class county, the board of chosen freeholders of the county in which said school shall be established shall be entitled to collect and receive from the sending districts in which the pupils attending the vocational school reside, for the tuition of such pupils, a sum not exceeding the actual cost per pupil as determined according to rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the state board. Such tuition shall be established in advance of the school year by the board of chosen freeholders, and shall be at the same rate per pupil to each sending district, and shall be paid quarterly by the board of education of each sending district.

N.J.S.A. 18A:54-23 provided in pertinent part:

> Receiving pupils from other districts. The boards of education of schools established under the provisions of section 18A:54-12 in any county of the third class with a population not less than 60,000 nor more than 100,000, according to the 1960 federal census, and the boards of education of schools established under the provisions of section 18A:54-13, shall receive pupils from districts without the county so far as their facilities will permit, provided a rate of tuition not exceeding the cost of such education as prescribed by rule of the commissioner, approved by the state board, is paid by the sending districts.

Chapter 467 of the Laws of 1981 revised the language with respect to certain counties of the second class by adding 18A:54-11.14, which provided as follows:

County vocational school districts.

1. The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county of the second class having a population of not less than 410,000 nor more than 470,000 according to the latest federal decennial census in which there is a county vocational school district referred to in section 18A:54-11.1 shall send to any of the schools of such county vocational school district all pupils residing in such school district or regional school district who have applied for admission to and have been accepted by any of the schools of such county vocational school district and each such board of education shall pay tuition for said pupils to such county vocational school district pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:54-23. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

The language in 18A:54-23, which provided "shall receive pupils from districts without the county so far as their facilities will permit, provided a rate of tuition not exceeding the cost of such education as prescribed by rule of the Commissioner, approved by the State Board, is paid by the sending districts" remained the same. Finally, Chapter 52 of the Laws of 1990, known as the "Quality Education Act of 1990," repealed the language of 18A:54-11.4, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-15 and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-23 and replaced it with the following current provision relating to enrollment of pupils in county vocational schools:

Enrollment of pupils in county vocational schools, funding.

71.a. The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of > this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

From the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that when the Legislature intended to impose upon a local board of education a mandatory burden to pay tuition for a student to attend a vocational school program it did so with very specific language, i.e., "The board of education. . . shall send. . ." and "The board of education shall pay tuition..." In 1981 when it added the mandatory tuition provisions of 18A:54-11.4, it did not amend N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7, nor did it do so in 1990 when it amended the provisions with respect to county vocational schools. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the intent of 18A:54-7 is to permit districts voluntarily to enter into sending-receiving type relationships and only where they have done so does it impose upon the sending district a responsibility to pay tuition. This interpretation is consistent with historical treatment of the statutory provision by school districts and by the Department of Education. The July 18, 1985 letter which the Red Bank district sent out, in fact, recognizes the discretion of local boards where it says: "A number of prospective performing art students did audition and were accepted for the 1985-86 school year and are awaiting final decisions by their local boards of education." The 1990 and 1992 letters from Bruce Quinn also implicitly recognize the voluntary nature of the relationship pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 in that they advised the local boards that they could continue to enter into agreements with Red Bank Regional for the education of their students in the visual and performing arts program. The advice rendered by the Director of Governmental Relations for the New Jersey School Boards Association in 1991 also implies a voluntary relationship under the statutory provisions where it says "LAVSD programs would continue to function as they have in the past, and would be dealt with in the same manner as all other comprehensive high schools, in accordance with those relevant provisions in the administrative code." The 1994 opinion letter written by DAG Powers discusses the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7, but makes no mention of any intent to impose a mandatory sending/receiving relationship with consequent mandatory financial burden. Even the acceptance letters sent to the students in the within cases recognized that the local boards had the discretion to approve the placements and thereby assume responsibility for tuition payments.

The Commissioner's decision in Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park v. Board of Education of Red Bank Regional High School District, et al., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6082-96; Agency Dkt. No. 146-4/96, cited by Red Bank and by petitioners, does not compel a different conclusion. In that case the Commissioner's decision, which was affirmed by the State Board of Education and the Appellate Division, concluded that a number of respondent school districts were authorized under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5, c and 7, to send students who had been assigned to Asbury Park High School, but desired such vocational or performing arts education, to the Red Bank Regional High School because comparable programs were not available at Asbury Park High School. Nothing in those opinions would compel the conclusion that had the "sending districts" not wished to send students to the Red Bank Regional High School program, they could have been required to do so. Although the administrative law judge's opinion, which was adopted by the Commissioner, spoke in terms of parental choice, in fact, the basis for the decision was N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, which provides:

> Attendance at special high school courses of study in another district
> Any board of education not furnishing instruction in a particular high school course of study, which any pupil resident in the district and who has completed the elementary course of study provided therein may desire to pursue, may, in its discretion, pay the tuition of such pupil for instruction in such course of study in a high school of another district.

The provisions of that statute make clear that the ultimate discretion concerning whether a student will attend a program in another district at public expense lies with the local board. Although neither the Commissioner's decision, adopting the administrative law judge's decision, nor the State Board decision in the Asbury Park case specifically discussed the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11(a), quoted hereinabove, that regulation was cited in the Appellate Division opinion affirming the State Board's decision. When read in the context of the statutory provisions concerning vocational education, the most reasonable interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11(a), and one consistent with historical perspective, is as a companion to the statutory provisions at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, i.e., that a local board of education may determine to allow a student to attend a vocational program offered by another district, and it may pay the tuition for the pupil so long as the local board of education does not furnish a comparable type of program. N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11 may not be read to create a right for students to have their tuition paid by a local district where there is no clear language indicating a State Board intent to do so. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11 are relevant only in situations where a local board of education has determined to pay tuition for a student to another district, clearly not the situation in the within cases, and therefore the "comparability" of the programs need not be addressed.*

Given the foregoing conclusions, it is also unnecessary to address the additional issues which were set forth in the prehearing orders in EDU 4737-99, 6019-99, 6125-99 and 8009-99. If the Commissioner should determine that legal authority exists to compel the local districts to pay tuition to the Red Bank Regional Performing Arts program, these matters can be remanded for determination of the other issues.

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the petitions of appeal and the cross-claims of Red Bank Regional High School district are hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE and these proceedings are concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

* Since vocational programs are required to be approved by the Department of Education and once approved are listed in the New Jersey Directory of Verified Occupational Programs, and since none of the districts herein have any approved vocational programs in the visual or performing arts or any of the course sequences listed, if I were to address this issue I would conclude that no hearing is required to determine that none of the local districts offers a comparable type of program.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS, :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SHORE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF RED BANK REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY, :

RESPONDENTS. :

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, exceptions were submitted by respondent Board of Education of Red Bank Regional High School District (hereinafter, "Red Bank Regional") and on behalf of Petitioners D.M. (EDU 4737-99), E.M.W. and L.F.W. (EDU 6125-99), and S.C.S. and K.L.R. (EDU 6019-99), identified hereinafter as "petitioners."

In its exceptions, Red Bank Regional sets forth a number of facts which were not included in the summary provided by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and argues, inter alia, that it never received actual notice of discontinuance as "a vocational school" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-4. (Red Bank Regional's Exceptions at 4) Relying on Dr. Nogueira's certification that the District never received such written notice, Red Bank Regional reasons that the issue of "actual notice of discontinuance," therefore, remains in dispute.

Further, for the reasons set forth in its submissions before the ALJ, Red Bank Regional maintains that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 is applicable herein, and requires that the local districts pay tuition for their students' attendance in its vocational programs. In this regard, Red Bank Regional avers:

> The absence of litigation by a parent challenging the refusal of a local district to pay tuition up until now should have no bearing in the correct interpretation of this section of the law. Red Bank Regional has run a successful vocational program in the visual performing arts based in large measure upon the willingness of local school districts to fund their resident student's education at Red Bank Regional.  The administrative law judge's inference that because primarily Red Bank Regional looked to local districts to voluntarily agree to make payment somehow should be construed as [a] benchmark for what the legislature intended the language contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 to mean is specious. (Id. at 6)

Red Bank Regional further contends that N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11 must be read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7, thereby compelling it to accept qualified nonresident students whose tuition and transportation costs would be borne by their local districts. (Id.)

Finally, even assuming N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 controls in this matter, Red Bank Regional asserts that "a local district acts arbitrarily and capriciously in denying a qualified resident female student the tuition and transportation costs necessary to permit such student the opportunity to attend an approved vocational education not offered by the local school district.  Local districts cannot arbitrarily and capriciously refuse to provide the funds necessary to allow female students the opportunity to attend approved vocational education programs." (Id. at 7)

Petitioners join in selected exceptions submitted by Red Bank Regional, and add that the interpretation and legal weight accorded to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 by the ALJ is erroneous, in that it deprives them of their right to the review of local district discretionary decisions and "vitiates a singular element of a plan for the delivery of vocational education services that is more consistent with the language of the statutes and the code promulgated by the State Board of Education" in favor of "unfettered and unregulated local discretion." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3, 5) Petitioners reason that "N.J.S.A. 18A:54-2 through 54-7, read in conjunction with N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11, have a certain plain English meaning that the [Initial Decision] simply ignores ." (Id. at 6) Moreover, petitioners argue that the Initial Decision "obliterates" the notice requirement found in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-4 "by positing an implied administrative repeal of it ." (Id. at 7) Petitioners dispute the conclusions drawn by the ALJ from the legislative history of the vocational education enactments and maintain that N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11 is written as a student entitlement, rather than a provision applicable only to voluntary placements by resident school districts. (Id. at 8) For these reasons, petitioners urge the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision, acknowledge their entitlements, and remand this matter for further proceedings.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the oral arguments heard at the OAL on February 3, 2000, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Initial Decision. Additionally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that "any special status Red Bank Regional enjoyed under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-7 because of its [Area Voocational Technical School] AVTS and [Local Area Vocational School District] LAVSD designations terminated with the repeal of N.J.A.C. 6:46-2 in 1991," (emphasis added) (Initial Decision at 24) and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, therefore, controls the outcome in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner finds nothing in the record to substantiate Red Bank Regional's claim that the respondent districts abused their discretionary authority by arbitrarily and capriciously refusing to pay tuition and transportation costs for their students to attend Red Bank Regional's vocational programs.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Petitions of Appeal and cross-claims of Red Bank Regional High School District are dismissed.

K.E. AND C.E., on behalf of minor children, J.E. AND M.E.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NEW MILFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The audiocassette tape of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 1, 2000,[1] and the recommended Interlocutory Order on Application for Emergent Relief of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions, petitioners' reply exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed and were duly considered by the Commissioner in rendering his determination herein.

In this matter, petitioners have requested emergent relief staying the disciplinary actions imposed on them for violating respondent's policy and regulations when they failed to report an act of vandalism to the school which they observed in progress, and for their conduct in the ensuing police investigation thereof.

Respondent's exceptions solely address the issue of the grant of petitioners' request to restrain the imposition of further discipline on J.E. and M.E. by requiring them to perform community service. Respondent contests the ALJ's reasoning that, since community service was not expressly provided for in respondent's disciplinary policy, respondent's action in this regard was ultra vires. Thus, in respondent's view, the ALJ erred in his grant of a stay of the community service component of the discipline imposed, because a stay may not be issued absent a finding that petitioners' legal right is well-settled or a finding of irreparable harm. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). (Respondent's Exceptions at 2) Respondent asserts that petitioners do not have an established legal right to relief from the community service requirement because its policy and regulations provide for discipline, such as community service, and that it has the discretion to impose such discipline independent of the express terms of its policy. (Id. at 3)

[1] The audiocasette tape of the OAL hearing was delivered to the Commissioner on November 27, 2000.

Respondent points to its Regulation No. 5600, which provides that "[t]he following disciplinary measures may be applied as appropriate to the pupil's violation of the rules," and permits respondent to require the pupil to "make restitution, in cost or labor, for any loss he or she has caused," as authorizing respondent to impose community service as a disciplinary measure. (emphasis in text) (Ibid.)

Citing Rizzo v. Baton, Union City, Super. Ct., Chanc. Div., January 8, 1999, Docket No. UNN-C-122-98, respondent further argues that community service as a form of discipline is consistent with the legislative intent regarding the discretion afforded boards of education to address student misconduct. (Id. at 4) Additionally, respondent maintains that boards of education have broad discretion to manage their schools through disciplinary action they deem appropriate, so that even if a community service requirement were not provided for in its policy or regulations, in the interest of fairness, it could deviate from policy or regulation with respect to student discipline. See Matawan Reg. Teachers' Ass'n v. Matawan-Aberdeen Reg. H.S. Dist. Bd. of Ed., 87 S.L.D. 1826 (July 13, 1987), aff'd S.L.D. 1834 (Comm. Ed., August 12, 1987) and K.O.H. v. Edison Twp. Bd. of Ed., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 275, 276

(Comm. Ed. June 14, 1995), aff'd 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445 (St. Bd. February 7, 1996, citing Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565 (1975)). Respondent contends that the imposition of community service in this matter was in the interest of fairness, because had it been deprived of the opportunity to impose community service, it might have felt compelled to impose a longer suspension. (Id. at 5-6)

Finally, respondent argues that there is no evidence that community service will cause the students irreparable harm and there was no finding of irreparable harm by the ALJ. Accordingly, respondent concludes, the record reflects a lack of the requisite factors to support a stay of the community service discipline imposed on petitioners. (Id. at 7)

Citing E.R. v. Board of Educ. of the Lower Camden County Reg. H.S. Dist., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6661-98, 1998 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 548 (October 15, 1998) at *5 (Board must follow its stated policy of imposing punishment on the basis of individual circumstances) and Weidemann v. State University of New York College at Cortland, 188 A.D.2d 974, 592 *N.Y.S.*2d (App. Div. 1992) in their reply, petitioners advance the argument that respondent may not impose community service because respondent's regulations do not provide for community service as a disciplinary measure. (Petitioners' Reply Exceptions at 2) Petitioners also assert that due process requires that only punishments expressly identified can be imposed, citing:

> In re De Marco, 83 N.J. 25, 36 (1980) ("[n]o one shall be punished for a crime unless both the crime and its punishment are clearly set forth in positive law."); criminal prosecutions, State v. Valentin, 105 N.J. 14, 18 (1987) ("if arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented, laws must provide explicit standards for those who apply them." citing De Marco); and juvenile proceedings, State v. J.L.A. 262 N.J. Super. 78, 91 (App. Div. 1993) rev'd in part 136 N.J. 370 (1994) ("[n]o one shall be punished for a crime unless both the crime and its punishment are clearly set forth in positive law." citing De Marco) (footnote omitted) (Id. at 3)

Petitioners point out that respondent's Regulation No. 5600 does not provide for community service, but rather provides for eight disciplinary measures ranging from admonishment to expulsion, and that nowhere in the regulations is it indicated that respondent may impose other, unexpressed disciplinary measures. Likewise, petitioners submit, the four remedial measures listed, i.e., (1) restitution and restoration, (2) counseling, (3) parent conferences, and (4) alternate educational programs, do not include community service. Petitioners also take issue with respondent's interpretation that the word "labor," as used to describe restitution, is an express indication that community service, as a type of "labor," provides authority for the imposition of community service. Petitioners argue that restoration is the act of restoring to its former condition. J.E. and M.E., however, cannot perform "labor" to restore the damaged property, in this instance petitioners submit, because the defaced property has already been restored to its former condition by school personnel. Petitioners further argue that it is unclear what loss petitioners have caused respondent by failing to report the conduct they witnessed. (Id. at 4-5)

Additionally, petitioners assert that respondent's argument, citing Matawan, supra, that it could impose community service as a disciplinary measure in the interest of fairness is misplaced, because all the fact finders in Matawan agreed that "strict adherence to the policy in light of the particular factual circumstances 'would compel an unfair result.'" (Id. at 6) In this instance, petitioners proffer, respondent had at its disposal several disciplinary measures from which to choose to discipline J.E. and M.E. (Id. at 7)

Finally, petitioners argue that respondent did not specify exactly what community service activities it would require, and that the imposition of a disciplinary requirement that J.E.

and M.E. must perform community service could cause irreparable harm because in a small community, such as this, community service could further stigmatize the students. (Id. at 8)

In its reply exceptions, respondent asserts, inter alia, that petitioners' use of citations to out-of-state cases have no precedential value in these proceedings. Further, respondent points out that Weidemann, supra, does not contain language to support the theory that a public agency has no discretion to impose a disciplinary measure that is not expressly delineated as an option in its policies or regulations, as petitioners suggest. Respondent also proffers that the authorities cited in petitioners' exceptions with respect to irreparable harm do not support the propositions for which they are presented. Therefore, in the absence of legal authority to support petitioners' position, respondent concludes, petitioners are not entitled to emergent relief from the community service aspect of the imposed discipline. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 1-3)

Initially, the Commissioner emphasizes that review of a motion for emergent relief occurs under the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe at 132-34.

Upon a thorough review, the Commissioner has determined to affirm the ALJ's Order denying petitioners' application to stay J.E. and M.E.'s suspensions for the time period from October 3, 2000 through November 10, 2000. The ALJ determined that petitioners failed to demonstrate that they would suffer irreparable harm if the four remaining school days of their suspensions were carried out.[2] The Commissioner agrees. Further, petitioners' application to resume school attendance on November 13, 2000 without having to submit the psychiatric evaluations required by respondent is granted. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds no probative evidence from which it could be inferred that the students are a danger to themselves or others.

With respect to the requirement that petitioners perform community service, however, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's determination granting emergent relief. While "community service" may not be listed as a specific penalty within the scope of the district's discipline policy, it is clear from the audiotape of the hearing, and from petitioners' exceptions at 5-6, that the type of "community service" envisioned as the penalty for petitioners' infraction (tasks such as scrubbing defaced desks, cleaning the school grounds, or collecting leaves, all at the now-restored building where the defacement at issue herein occurred) might very reasonably be viewed as falling within the ambit of the policy's "restitution and restoration" provision. Thus, the Commissioner cannot conclude, based upon the hyper-technical reading of the Board's policy proposed by petitioners, that petitioners have demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits of their claim that the Board's actions were ultra vires, so as to warrant extraordinary restraint.

Accordingly, in all respects except its recommendation to stay petitioners' performance of community service, the recommended Order of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. With regard to community service, the Order granting emergent relief is set aside, and petitioners are directed to perform such service as is assigned by the Board;

[2] The parties stipulated that J.E. and M.E. were receiving two hours of home instruction per school day during the suspensions. The record reflects that November 7, 9 and 10 were school holidays.

provided, however, that such service is of the extent and nature indicated on the record before the ALJ. The matter on its merits shall continue at the OAL for hearing on an expedited basis.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST JAMES WIDMANN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY	: BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY : AGENCY DOCKET NO. 293-9/99 : OAL DOCKET NO. EDUTH 08696-99S : SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement is made between the Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton ("Board"), and Respondent, James Widmann.

WHEREAS, the Board filed tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 293-9/99, OAL Docket No. EDUTH 08696-999S; and

WHEREAS, the charges allege that on April 24, 1997, Respondent was arrested by the City of Trenton Police Department based upon an investigation from which it was alleged that he stole and/or unlawfully possessed stolen Trenton School District tools, equipment, and machines from the Trenton Central High School Vocational Department and used them for his personal use in Widmann's Garage, a body shop which he owned and operated; and

WHEREAS, as a result of budgetary constraints, Respondent's position as a Vocational Teacher-Auto Mechanics was abolished and he was terminated from employment from the Trenton Board of Education effective June 30, 1997; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 5, 1997, Respondent was admitted into the Pre-Tr Intervention Program as a result of the charges of official misconduct, N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2(a), and theft by unlawful taking, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a); and

WHEREAS, on March 11, 1998, the charges of official misconduct and theft by unlawful taking against Respondent were dismissed as a result of his completion of the Pre-Trial Intervention Program; and

WHEREAS, on September 21, 1999, the Board certified tenure charges arising out of aforesaid allegations of official misconduct and theft; and determined that since Respondent has been terminated due to the abolishment of his position, there was no need to suspend him with or without pay based upon the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, Respondent has not been returned to employment with the Trenton Board of Education or received any salary from the Board since the abolishment of his positi termination effective June 30, 1997; and

WHEREAS, in his answer to the tenure charges, Respondent filed a counterclaim alleging that subsequent to the abolishment of his position, the Board should have recalled him to employment because it had recalled other Vocational Education teachers in the School District who were terminated due to the same reduction in force that abolished/terminated Respondent's position and had less seniority rights and should not have been recalled instead of Respondent; and

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge there is substantial evidence which is relevant to warrant this settlement agreement, in particular that:

1. Either party may be successful in pursuing their particular claims -- the Board in sustaining tenure charges and Respondent in sustaining his counterclaim that he is entitled to salary for employment for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school year due to the failure to recognize his tenure/seniority rights by recalling him to employment;

2. Respondent has never been disciplined during his employment with the Board since it commenced October 19, 1987;

3. Respondent understands that the Commissioner of Education has a duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure decisions to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of his teaching certificate;

4. The expeditious resolution of this matter will save both parties the cost and uncertainty of continued litigation.

THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, the parties agree that the matter should be resolved based upon the following terms:

1. Petitioner agrees to dismiss the tenure charges against the Respondent;

2. Respondent shall be paid $10,000 in lost wages subject to the appropriate employment employee deduction, thereby waiving his right to any salary covering his counterclaim that he should have been returned to employment for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years, as well as accumulated leave days;

3. Respondent agrees to submit a letter of resignation effective August 31, 2000.

4. The parties agree and covenant that neither party, nor any person, organization, or other entity on their behalfs will file any charge, claim, lawsuit against either party based upon the fact that the Board filed tenure charges or that Respondent defended against those charges.

5. The parties recognize that each of them had input into drafting this Agreement and agree that if there should arise a dispute as to its terms, this Agreement shall not be construed against either party based upon the identity of its drafter(s).

6. The parties understand that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of Administrative Law Judge Steven C. Reback and the Commissioner of Education, and if such approval is denied, the terms and contents of this Agreement shall not be admissible in any legal or administrative proceedings of any nature, and will be without prejudice to their positions in such proceedings, and that in such event, the parties may again attempt to settle the matter i manner which is satisfactory to the Commissioner of Education.

7. Respondent requests that the tenure hearing be held in abeyance in order to obtain approval of this Settlement Agreement by Administrative Law Judge Steven C. Reback and the Commissioner of Education, and he agrees that in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, he is not entitled to salary payments during the pendency of obtaining approval of this Agreement by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education, and if the Administrative Law Judge and/or Commissioner of Education reject this Agreement, he is not entitled to salary payments from the date of this Agreement until the time it takes for the Commissioner to render a decision on the merits of the tenure charges and the counterclaim regarding his employment rights and back pay.

8. The parties warrant that this Agreement is entered into voluntarily, without any duress, or without any other promises or agreement not expressed herein, and with the understanding that neither party is compelled to do so, and that by entering into this Agreement each party waives their right to a hearing and disposition on the merits of the charges.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher alleged the District's decision to withhold his salary increment for the 1998-99 school year was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

In light of the testimony of witnesses, evaluations submitted and the record of the matter, the ALJ concluded that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold petitioner's salary increment for unsatisfactory performance should not be overturned. The ALJ concluded that petitioner did not prove that the withholding was improper. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City ("District") to withhold his salary increment for the 1998-99 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

Procedural History

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1998. Count 19 of the multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, David Schlesinger. On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. On October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98. A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing. A hearing was held in the Schlesinger case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3811-99, on April 10 and 11, 2000. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

Findings of Fact

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the District submitted a detailed review of the testimony and proposed findings of fact, which I largely have adopted herein.

1. Petitioner has taught in the Jersey City School District for thirty-one years. Petitioner has a master's degree in supervision and administration, secondary.

2. During the 1997-98 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach first grade at Public School No. 15 in Jersey City. Prior to that, petitioner had taught all grades except grades one and two.

3. Petitioner was given a choice of teaching grade one or grade seven math for the 1997-98 school year and chose to teach grade one. Petitioner was assigned to teach grade one when he returned to teaching at the beginning of the 1997-98 school year, after being on a medical leave of absence for the prior school year. He did not receive in-service training for this assignment prior to assuming it.

4. Petitioner's teaching performance at P.S. 15 was formally evaluated on two different occasions during the 1997-98 school year by Annie Graham, then principal of P.S. 15. Ms. Graham found petitioner's performance to be less than satisfactory on both occasions.

5. Ms. Graham has been employed by the District for twenty-one years and is presently principal of P.S. 12.

6. Ms. Graham held a staff meeting in September 1997, before school opened for the students, where she distributed a handbook and went over the rules and procedures. Ms. Graham also spoke to petitioner informally when she walked though the school about what she expected from a teacher.

7. On September 30, 1997, Ms. Graham observed petitioner's class from 9:05 a.m. until 10:00 a.m. When Ms. Graham entered the classroom, petitioner was reprimanding the students about germ prevention. Petitioner proceeded to have the students write down the date and then copy three sentences which she had written on the board. The writing activity lasted for most of the hour, except for about ten minutes, which petitioner spent discussing the "n" and "y" sounds and animal sounds with the students.

8. Petitioner's performance was evaluated in relation to five performance factors, which are listed on the observation report. The factors are: (1) Demonstrates proficiency in the subject matter; (2) Assesses needs and evaluates progress of the pupils; (3) Employs effective organization and planning; (4) Utilizes effective instructional techniques; and (5) Addresses affective domain. Ms. Graham rated the petitioner's teaching performance on September 30, 1997, as less than satisfactory in all five factors.

9. Ms. Graham found that petitioner needed to improve his proficiency in the subject matter because he was not following his written lesson plan. Petitioner's plan indicated that he would be teaching vocabulary by use of sentence strips, but he did not do that. Instead, he had the students engaged in writing the date and then writing three sentences for a long period of time. The students wrote the date as "9/30/97" rather than properly writing it out as September 30, 1997. (The date "9/30/97" was written on the board.) The month should be written out for primary grade students because they need to learn how to spell the word for penmanship and writing skills. The students copied three sentences that petitioner had written on the board onto pieces of paper. This was a "Do Now" activity that should have taken no more than fifteen minutes, yet the students spent more than an hour on it.

10. Petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory in the area of assessing pupil needs and evaluating their progress during the lesson observed by Ms. Graham on September 30, 1997. Petitioner gave all the students the same writing activity. Some of the students finished their writing before the rest of the students, but petitioner did not give these students any follow-up activities, and the students began to engage in off-task behavior. The students in petitioner's class were not all on the same level, yet they had not been grouped. Petitioner had no grades in his roll book for any students. He had some papers in the students' folders, but these papers related to the daily activities and most of these papers were not graded.

11. Ms. Graham gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating for organization and planning. Petitioner was not following his written lesson plan. Although what was written in his plan book looked good, on this occasion he deviated from his plan and had the students engage in a lengthy writing activity. Further, he had no activities in his plan book for science or social studies.

12. Ms. Graham rated petitioner's instructional techniques as unsatisfactory during the class she observed on September 30, 1997. Petitioner not only deviated from his written lesson plan and never taught the vocabulary and sentence strips in his plan book, but also spent an hour on a writing activity that should have taken fifteen minutes. Although the students in the class were on different levels, petitioner had not grouped them, but had them all engage in the same activity.

13. Ms. Graham found that petitioner needed improvement in the area of affective domain because his interactions with his pupils were not conducive to learning. He even had masking tape around his desk, identifying his space. Petitioner had experienced discipline problems with the students and was wasting instructional time trying to discipline them. A main cause of the problem was petitioner's lack of organization. He was not following his plan and schedule, he had not tested and grouped students according to their varying levels, and he was not giving challenging work to the brighter students in his class.

14. Graham held a post-observation conference with petitioner on October 7, 1997, during which she reviewed her written evaluation report. She and petitioner talked about keeping roll books and plans up to date, about assessing students to identify their needs and grouping them and about the time it should take for various activities. Petitioner said that she was asking too much of him, to have grades recorded in his roll book and to keep his lesson plans up to date.

15. Ms. Graham conducted a second formal evaluation on November 19, 1997, from 9:45 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. Petitioner began with the story of the day, conducted a discussion, and then had the students write about the topic of being thankful. Petitioner had written on the board, "I'm thankful to God for . . . ."

16. Ms. Graham found that petitioner still needed improvement in the area of assessing the needs and evaluating the progress of his pupils. There were very few papers in the students' folders in the subjects of mathematics and reading. Folders should have had materials on all subjects because those papers would be used to assess the students and to plan lessons for them. Petitioner had administered very few tests to the students and had not given any major tests in reading or math.

17. Ms. Graham also found that petitioner needed improvement in organization and planning. He had not included his quiz on consonants in his lesson plan and had not written any objective for his lesson on the board so that his students would know what was to be taught.

18. Ms. Graham rated petitioner as needing improvement in the area of instructional techniques. Petitioner had the students spend over an hour discussing and writing about being thankful, an activity that should have taken no more than fifteen to twenty minutes. His quiz on consonants was good, yet he spent only ten minutes on it. Petitioner should not have referred to God in any part of his lesson, yet he had expressly written "thankful to God" on the board.

19. Ms. Graham conducted a post-observation conference with petitioner on December 1, 1997. She told petitioner that it was not appropriate to emphasize God in his teaching. They discussed the need to follow a schedule and the written lesson plans, the proper pacing of activities, and the ways that activities could be broken up and timed.

20. Ms. Graham also visited petitioner's classroom a number of times on an informal basis. Petitioner was having problems with his students' behavior and his approach to his students. He had placed masking tape around his desk and on the floor, to mark off his space and to keep the students away from his desk. Ms. Graham heard petitioner yelling at his students when she visited the petitioner's class informally, and even heard his yelling and screaming when she was in the area surrounding his classroom, in other teachers' rooms.

21. Dawn Reynolds has served as assistant principal of P.S. 15 since February 1993. She served approximately twenty-three years with the District, as a teacher of basic skills, an elementary school teacher, head teacher with the Adult Learning Center and assistant principal.

22. Ms. Reynolds conducted a formal observation and evaluation of petitioner on February 3, 1998, from 1:00 p.m. until 2:15 p.m.

23. Ms. Reynolds observed approximately twenty-one or twenty-two students in the class. Petitioner introduced a math lesson on subtraction and then proceeded to ask questions. Students in the front of the classroom were calling out answers, but other students were not participating and were off task, getting up to sharpen pencils, going into their desks and talking with one another. At the same time that the question-and-answer activity was being conducted by petitioner, a teacher assistant was in the room, checking homework, correcting papers and talking to the students. Ms. Reynolds found the activities of the teacher assistant added to the confusion by distracting the students, when not all of the students were being drawn into the lesson by petitioner.

24. On her formal observation report, Ms. Reynolds noted that petitioner's performance in the area of assessing student needs and evaluating their progress was less than satisfactory and needed improvement. Petitioner was teaching a subtraction lesson to a small segment of students who were in the front of his class by asking them questions and allowing the students to call out answers. There was no structure to the activity, and it was difficult to tell whether any student had mastered the concept. Aside from this questioning, there was no other form of student assessment. Petitioner had work folders for students, but there was very little student work in them to show the progress of the students in the subject areas. Petitioner had no folders for any student for the required Basic Skills/Enrichment.

25. Ms. Reynolds gave petitioner an unsatisfactory rating for organization and planning. An objective was on the board, but the objective was from the previous day's lesson and not for the current math lesson. Petitioner was trying to teach the whole group and did not involve his teacher assistant in the lesson. Petitioner gave no direction at all to the teacher assistant. Instead, the assistant walked around aimlessly for a while and then started to correct homework while petitioner was teaching.

26. Ms. Reynolds determined that petitioner needed to improve his instructional techniques. Petitioner could have used his teacher assistant for small group instruction, but he did not involve his assistant. It was difficult to tell if the students who participated in the lesson truly understood it. Only six to eight students in the class were totally engaged in the lesson; the rest of the students were off task and received no value from the lesson.

27. Ms. Reynolds found that petitioner needed improvement in the area of affective domain because he had not met the needs of all the students by drawing all of them into the lesson and he had not properly addressed class rules. Written class rules were posted in the classroom but no consequences for breaking the rules were posted. Further, during Ms.

Reynolds' visit on February 3, 1998, petitioner took a math book away from one student for allegedly copying from another student, and thus made it difficult for the student to participate in the lesson.

28. Ms. Reynolds held a post-observation conference with petitioner on February 17, 1998, where she reviewed her observation report. Petitioner was not in agreement with the evaluation and refused to sign the report.

29. Ms. Graham recommended the withholding of petitioner's increment because of the problems with his performance. He had not kept his plan book up to date, he did not follow his written lessons and schedule, and did not treat his students with respect.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Schlesinger's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative, which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 50 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

Petitioner alleged that there was a serious question as to the motives and credibility of Ms. Graham, who had a personal predilection against him. Petitioner contends that any alleged deficiency in his teaching skill was the result of having students who were not on the same level and/or behaviorally challenged. He contends that the District has penalized him for the incorrigible behavior of the students and failed to properly prepare him to teach the first grade. Petitioner argues that the criteria and requirements were not made clear to him, nor were they clear to his only negative evaluator, Ms. Graham. He contends that Ms. Graham critiqued him not based upon objective district-wide criteria, but according to her own personal views of what a teacher should do. He further alleges that if the District had a fashion in which it wished roll books or plan books to be maintained, he should have been trained in that method. He further alleges that the District failed to establish the guidelines it uses to grant or deny increments. He argues that he should have been able to place on the record all the positive things he has done while a teacher in the District.

I have considered petitioner's arguments and conclude that the evidence simply does not substantiate his contentions. I cannot agree that the motives and credibility of Ms. Graham were insincere or that she had a personal predilection against him. Rather, I found Ms. Graham's testimony to be credible and worthy of belief. Additionally, I must point out that petitioner was also observed by Dawn Reynolds, whose testimony was in concert with Ms. Graham's and was also credible and worthy of belief. In sum, there were three evaluations that supported the findings of fact here and they were of sufficient duration for the evaluators to make informed and reasonable decisions. Moreover, petitioner failed to demonstrate that the evaluators negatively critiqued him based upon their own personal views of what a first-grade teacher should do. In fact, the evaluations were based on effective district-wide requirements and petitioner failed to demonstrate that he was not properly advised of these requirements. He was so advised by Ms. Reynolds and also by Ms. Graham on two occasions. He was advised prior to the observations and after each evaluation. Petitioner's argument that the problems he encountered were the result of having students who were not on the same level and/or behaviorally challenged did not serve him well. There is no evidence to support this conclusion and it is clear that the discipline problems he experienced with his students were essentially of his own making. Moreover, for petitioner to argue that he was not properly prepared to teach the first grade is of no help. Not only did he request to teach the first grade, but having been a teacher for thirty years he should have possessed the requisite expertise to prepare to teach the first grade.

In sum, petitioner's effort to blame his failure to comply with the requirements of his job either on the evaluators who conducted the evaluations or other factors was unsuccessful. Petitioner failed to prove that it was unreasonable for Ms. Graham and Ms. Reynolds, who observed and evaluated his teaching performance a total of three times, to conclude that his performance was less than satisfactory.

Of import, his assertions were contrary to the testimony and evidence adduced by respondent's witnesses. Petitioner was evaluated on two occasions by Ms. Graham. Ms. Graham's testimony, as substantiated by her reports, was clear, specific, credible and worthy of belief. It demonstrated that petitioner properly received unsatisfactory ratings in assessing needs and evaluating progress of pupils, employing effective organization and planning and utilizing effective instructional techniques, and that he needed improvement in demonstrating proficiency in subject matter and addressing affective domain on the first observation. He continued to need improvement in assessing needs and evaluating progress of pupils, employing effective organization and planning and utilizing effective instructional techniques when evaluated on the second occasion. Clearly, the evidence demonstrated that petitioner's teaching performance on the two occasions on which he was observed by Ms. Graham was less than satisfactory, as set forth above. Moreover, Ms. Graham attempted to advise petitioner of what was expected of him and make suggestions for his improvement. Petitioner failed to improve significantly, so that when he was evaluated by Dawn Reynolds some months later he continued to need improvement in assessing needs and evaluating progress of pupils, utilizing effective instructional techniques and addressing affective domain and was still unsatisfactory in employing effective organization and planning. The evaluation of Dawn Reynolds, as substantiated by her report, proved that petitioner continued to have the same problems that he had demonstrated when first observed by Ms. Graham in September.

Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not proven that the Board's decision to withhold his salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Order

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is denied and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on April 10 and April 11, 2000, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision. As noted therein, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. See Kopera, supra. Finding no cause to disturb the findings of fact, credibility determinations and conclusions of the ALJ, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet his burden.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties in the above-captioned matter hereby agree to settle same upon the following terms and conditions:

1. For the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years, respondent Board of Education will continue to maintain petitioner at a salary level $3,154.00 below the maximum MA+30 step of the applicable teachers salary guide as negotiated between the Board and the Fair Lawn Education Association for each school year. The sum of $3,154 equals the amount of petitioner's salary increment withheld by the respondent for the 1993-94 school year.

2. If petitioner receives satisfactory or better annual performance evaluations from his supervisor(s) for the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years, then respondent shall restore petitioner to the full maximum MA+30 step of the then applicable teachers' salary guide on a prospective basis only, effective with the commencement of the 2002-2003 school year.

3. If petitioner does not receive satisfactory or better annual performance evaluations for both the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years, then respondent will continue to maintain petitioner's salary at an amount $3,154.00 below the maximum MA+30 guide step until such time as petitioner has received two consecutive annual performance evaluations assessing his overall teaching performance as satisfactory or better, at which time petitioner will be prospectively restored to the full guide salary as set forth hereinabove.

4. Nothing herein shall be construed to limit respondent's right to withhold petitioner's salary and/or employment increments, if any, in future school years for any legitimate reason.

5. Petitioner, for and in consideration of the undertakings of the Board set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Board and its officers, members (in their official and individual capacities), employees and agents, its and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which he ever had or now has, or which his heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reasons of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of his employment with Respondent to the date of these presents, and particularly, but without limitation of the foregoing general items, any claims arising from or relating in any way to his employment relationship and/or affiliation with Respondent, including but not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted under any and all federal, state or local laws and any common law claims now or hereafter recognized, and any and all claims arising out of his employment with Respondent, with the following exceptions: claims arising under the Worker's Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et seq. and pension claims arising out of any §403(b) or other pension, retirement or annuity plan. Petitioner represents that as of the date of the execution of this Stipulation there are no such claims pending or presently contemplated.

6. The Board, for and in consideration of the undertakings of Petitioner set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge Petitioner and his heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which it ever had or now has, or which its officers, members, employees and/or agents, its and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of his employment with the Board to the date of these presents, and particularly, but without limitation of the foregoing general terms, any claims arising from or relating in any way to his employment relationship and/or affiliation with the Board, including but not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted under any and all federal, state or local laws and any common law claims now or hereafter recognized, and any and all claims arising out of his employment in the Fair Lawn School District up to the present time

7. The Parties agree that this document constitutes their full understanding. It is agreed that there are no other understandings or agreements (either written or oral) which would have any impact upon the present action. By signing this Stipulation, each signatory represents that she or he is a Party or has been duly authorized by a Party to sign on that Party's behalf.

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6843-00

(On Remand EDU 10864-99)

AGENCY DKT. NO. 331-11/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. ROBERT H. MANN, ASBURY PARK SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY

Kathleen Smallwood-Johnson, Esq., for petitioner

James E. Collins, Esq., for respondent (Cerrato, Dawes, Collins, Saker & Brown, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 13, 2000 Decided: October 18, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Asbury Park Board of Education sought to remove Dr. Robert H. Mann, serving under contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 as superintendent of schools, prior to the end of the contract period. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and answered by the respondent.

The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case on December 10, 1999, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

After a motion to dismiss three of the counts in the petition of appeal was denied and after four days of hearing and one day of settlement conferences, the parties reached an amicable resolution of the matter. On May 18, 2000, the terms of the settlement were read into the record. After being placed under oath, the respondent stated he fully understood and consented to all of the terms and conditions of the settlement. The Board's counsel represented that the Board had authorized her to enter into the settlement on its behalf and that the Board would meet that night to ratify the agreement.

On May 22, 2000, I received a certified copy of the Board's resolution of May 18, 2000 approving the settlement and typed and handwritten copies of the agreement. The latter had been signed in my presence, on May 18, 2000.

The agreement was reviewed, approved and forwarded to the Commissioner of Education, who remanded on July 7, 2000. I received the file on September 22, 2000. I held a meeting with counsel and they undertook to reform the agreement in accordance with the order of July 7 and the principles laid down in In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842.

Aware that the Commissioner will carefully examine the factual circumstances surrounding each proposed settlement, the parties meticulously recite the operative circumstances, including that Asbury Park is a designated "Abbott" district, Dr. Mann's background and experience, the nature of the tenure charges and that there was reasonable cause to bring the tenure charges, but at the same time proving the tenure charges by a preponderance of the evidence was highly unlikely. The parties recognize that it would be in the best interests of all involved, including the pupils and citizens of Asbury Park to sever the employment relationship. From the record educed and the parties' recitation, I am convinced that Dr. Mann could not effectively perform his duties in the atmosphere that surely would prevail were he to return to the superintendency. This, combined with the fact that none of the charges involve moral turpitude, leads me to conclude that this agreement should be submitted to the Commissioner of Education with the recommendation that it be approved. The parties cognize that the agreement cannot be effectuated prior to the Commissioner's approval.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

2. The testimony and evidence exhibits indicated that facts set forth in the tenure charges could not be provable.

3. All parties thereafter agreed that even though the charges could not be provable and the fact that the Respondent was a competent and capable Superintendent, it would be in the best interest of the students and citizens of Asbury Park as well as the Superintendent to allow the said Superintendent to resign from his position in consideration of the Asbury Park Board of Education making the payment of certain monies subsequent to the approval of the Court and Commissioner of Education and as set forth in detail hereinbelow.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. ROBERT H. MANN, ASBURY PARK SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON REMAND

The record of this remanded matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a Stipulation of Settlement and Agreement have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review of the terms of the settlement, together with the full record of this matter, the Commissioner is, once again, compelled to reject the agreement as it is currently structured, since it does not comport with the standards established by the State Board of Education for settlement of tenure matters. In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a). Specifically, although the Commissioner has no basis on which to reject the substantive terms of the Agreement, there is no indication, notwithstanding his prior direction, that respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate. Such referral, the Commissioner notes, is not limited to instances where charges "involve moral turpitude" (Initial Decision at 2), but, rather, whenever a contested case before the Commissioner of Education results "in loss of tenure or dismissal of a teacher or teaching staff member for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher or other just cause ." N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

Moreover, in reviewing the within agreement, the Commissioner is compelled to remind this and other boards that, although a superintendent and local board may, at any time, mutually agree to terminate an employment contract entered into pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, Harrington v. Board of Education of the Township of Clinton, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 535, 541 (1995), a board's decision to certify tenure charges to the Commissioner not only results in the dedication of significant administrative resources required to adjudicate such a matter, but necessarily brings any and all agreements originating therefrom within the scrutiny of the Commissioner in accordance with his exclusive jurisdiction to determine what constitutes grounds for a tenure dismissal, and whether tenure settlements are in the public's interest. (Cardonick at 849) Thus, where a board elects to certify tenure charges to the Commissioner, the Commissioner anticipates that such charges are fully investigated and evaluated, vis-a-vis the evidence thereto, prior to a board bringing the weight of the legal process down on the teaching staff member, since the "[c]ertification of tenure charges by a board of education is predicated on the board's belief that the charges  and the evidence in support of the charges would be sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant a dismissal or reduction in salary. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11." (Cardonick at 850) In the instant matter, notwithstanding that the Board saw fit to bring tenure charges against respondent seeking his removal, and to certify these charges to the Commissioner, based, inter alia, on numerous instances of his failing to perform duties, it now affirms that respondent "was a competent and capable Superintendent." (Stipulation of Settlement at 3)

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected and the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement or expansion of the record to indicate respondent's understanding that this matter must be referred to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on December 30, 1999. A hearing was scheduled for July 25, 26 and August 7, 2000. Prior to the scheduled hearing, counsel advised the undersigned that a settlement had

WHEREAS Julie Greller (hereinafter "Petitioner") sued the Northern Valley Regional High School District Board of Education ("Respondent") in an action before the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, Agency Docket Number 338-11/99, Office of Administrative Law Docket Number 12131-99N (the "Action"), and

WHEREAS Petitioner and Respondent seek to settle all disputes between them, and

WHEREAS, Respondent believes that it acted lawfully and properly in all respects, but wishes to avoid the legal fees and expenses that necessarily will result from further litigating this action. and

WHEREAS, Respondent expressly denies each and every allegation contained in the Action and further expressly denies that it has any liability for the claims alleged therein; and

WHEREAS, Respondent expressly denies any wrongdoing whatsoever including any conduct with respect to Petitioner and any violation of any statute, ordinance or law; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner and Respondent desire to reach an amicable and final resolution of all claims of Petitioner against Respondent, its officers, agents, representatives and employees, divisions, affiliated entities and its present and former officers, agents, representatives, employees and the agents, successors, assigns, trustees, heirs, administrators, executors, representatives and principals thereof (hereinafter referred to as "Releasees");

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the obligations set forth in this Negotiated Settlement Agreement and General Release (hereinafter the "Agreement and Release"), and in full settlement of all claims, Petitioner and Respondent agree as follows:

1. Without admitting any liability or wrongdoing whatsoever, Respondent agrees to pay Petitioner the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000.00) (hereinafter "The Sum") in the following manner: by check for $20,000.00 payable to "Julie Greller." This sum shall not be subject to any withholdings; petitioner shall be provided a 1099 Form by Respondent covering said amount.

2. Respondent further agrees to provide Petitioner with a letter of recommendation to be used to secure future employment. Respondent agrees that in responding to employment inquiries, it will limit its response to a discussion of Petitioner's performance of her job duties or to those topics discussed in the letter of recommendation.

3. Petitioner agrees and does indemnify and hold Respondent and Releasees harmless from and against any and all tax liabilities, interest and penalties that may be assessed or applicable deductions on the monies paid pursuant to the Agreement and Release referred to in Paragraph 1 or satisfying any liens or judgments against Petitioner.

4. In exchange for the promises made by Respondent and outlined in Paragraphs 1 and 2 above, Petitioner further agrees as follows:

a. Petitioner shall dismiss with prejudice the Action. Petitioner hereby warrants, represents and certifies she has not filed or instituted (and no person or agency has filed or instituted on his behalf) any other complaints, petitions, suits, actions, charges, claims and/or proceedings against Respondent and Releasees (as defined herein) in any forum, which are currently active, other than the Action; and

b. Petitioner shall withdraw her demand for arbitration through the Northern Valley Education Association with respect to her employment and the termination of said employment.

c. Petitioner releases and forever discharges Respondent and Releasees from all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, reckonings, bonds, bills, specialities, covenants, contracts, bonuses, controversies, agreements, promises, claims, charges, and complaints and demands whatsoever, whether in law or equity, which against the Respondent and Releasees, Petitioner and Petitioner's heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, may now have or hereafter can have, shall have, may have or may have had for, upon or by reason of any cause of thing whatsoever and shall not institute or be represented or participate in, nor submit or file, or permit to be submitted or filed on their behalf against Respondent and Releasees, any complaint, petition, suit, action, charge, claim or proceeding with any administrative agency, or court or other forum, under any federal, state or local laws or regulations, any claim arising under the Americans with Disabilities Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA"), Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, the Civil Rights Acts of 1866, 1871 and 1991, including Section 1981 of the Civil Rights Act, the Family Medical Leave Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act, the New Jersey State Labor Laws, the New Jersey Wage-Hour and Wage-Payment laws, the New Jersey Education statutes and regulations, and/or any other federal, state or local human rights, civil rights, wage-hour, pension or labor law, rule, statue, regulations, constitution or ordinance and/or public policy, contract or tort law, or any claim of retaliation under such laws, or any claim of breach of any contract (whether express, oral, written or implied from any source), or any claim of intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, tortious interference with contractual relations, wrongful or abusive discharge, assault, battery, defamation, prima facie tort, fraud, negligence, loss of consortium, or any action similar thereto against Respondent and Releasees, including any claim for attorneys' fees, based upon any conduct from the beginning of the world up to and including the date of this General Release, provided, however, that Petitioner does not release any claim of breach of the terms of the Agreement and Release between Petitioner and Respondent and Releasees. Thus, for the purpose of implementing a full and complete release and discharge of Respondent and Releasees, Petitioner expressly acknowledges that the Agreement and Release is intended to include in its effect, without limitation, all claims which Petitioner does not know or suspect to exist in Petitioner's favor at the time of execution hereof, and that the Agreement and Release contemplates the extinguishment of any such claim or claims; and

d. In the event that, for any reason, any complaint, petition, suit, action, charge, claim or proceeding covered by Paragraph 3c is pending or is instituted on her behalf, Petitioner shall immediately seek and obtain dismissal with prejudice of said complaint, petition, suit, action, charge, claim or proceeding. e. Petitioner acknowledges and agrees that in the event any charge, complaint, petition, action or proceeding was or is filed on behalf of Petitioner in any agency, court or other forum against Respondent and Releasees based on any conduct from the beginning of the world up to and including the date of the Agreement and Release, other than the instant action, Petitioner will not accept any award, recovery, settlement or relief therefrom; and

f. Petitioner shall comply with all other obligations provided for by the Agreement and Release.

5. Petitioner and Respondent agree that they will not at any time disparage each other or impugn the other party's reputation.

6. Petitioner shall not in any manner disclose, discuss, make any statements with regard to, or publicize (1) the fact that she pursued legal claims; (2) the fact that she retained an attorney to pursue such claims; and (3) the fact of or the terms of the Agreement and Release or other allegations of the Action or Counterclaims to any third party or the public at large, including, but not limited to any present or former employee(s) of Respondent and Releasees, except to state as follows: "the matter has been resolved to the satisfaction of the parties." As an exception to this provision, it is understood that Petitioner may provide information concerning this Agreement and Release or the allegations of the Action to her counsel; tax advisors or preparers, financial advisors (any) and as required by legal process such as subpoena; and Respondent and Releasees may disclose information to its/their officers, directors, auditors and governing authorities for approval purposes and otherwise only on a need to know basis, or where it/they are otherwise legally obligated to do so. Additionally, if Petitioner is either required by law, legal process or subpoena to provide information related to the above-captioned matter or this Agreement and Release, she shall immediately notify counsel for Respondent by hand delivering or faxing notification or such legal process or subpoena to Cherie L. Maxwell of Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross, and shall do so before responding to said legal process or subpoena in order to give Respondent and Releasees adequate opportunity to assert any interests it/they might have with respect to any production in response to said subpoena. Petitioner understands and agrees that should she violate the confidentiality agreement set out above, Respondent and Releasees shall be entitled to pursue any remedies for such violation, and any monetary relief shall not release Petitioner of any of her other obligations under this Agreement and Release; moreover, neither Respondent and Releasees' violation of this paragraph, nor Petitioner's pursuit of any remedies for such violation shall release Respondent and Releasees of any of its/their other obligations under this Agreement and Release.

7. Neither Petitioner's breach of any of the Paragraphs of the Agreement and Release nor Respondent's and/or Releasees' pursuit of the remedies of such breach shall release Petitioner from any of her other obligations under the Agreement and Release.

8. Upon receipt of the Agreement and Release executed by Petitioner, and the Stipulation and Order of Dismissal with Prejudice (attached hereto as Exhibit "A") executed by Petitioner and Respondent, by and through their attorneys, Respondent shall deliver the check with the sum referred to above as well as a finalized letter of recommendation provided that approval of this Agreement and Release is obtained from the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education as set forth in paragraph 14 of this Agreement and Release.

9. The parties further agree that the Agreement and Release will be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey and the parties will submit to the jurisdiction of the state and or federal courts or administrative agencies located within the State of New Jersey for the resolution of any dispute which may arise hereunder.

10. The parties further agree that if any of the provisions, terms, clauses, waivers and releases of claims and rights contained in the Agreement and Release are declared illegal, unenforceable, or ineffective in a legal forum of competent jurisdiction, such provisions, terms, clauses, waivers and releases of claims and rights shall be modified, if possible, in order to achieve, to the extent possible, the intentions of the parties, and, if necessary, such provisions, terms, clauses, waivers and releases of claims and rights shall be deemed severable, such that all other provisions, terms, clauses, waivers and releases of claims and rights contained in the Agreement and Release shall remain valid and binding upon all parties, provided, however, that notwithstanding any other provision of the Agreement and Release, if any portion of the waiver or release of claims and rights is held to be unenforceable, Respondent and Releasees, at their option, may seek modification or severance of such portion or consider the Agreement and Release null and void.

11. The Agreement and Release sets forth the entire agreement between the parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings between them, if any, pertaining to the subject matter thereof.

12. The parties further agree that the Agreement and Release may not be altered, amended, modified, superseded, canceled or terminated except by an express written agreement duly executed by all the parties or their attorneys on their behalf, which agreement makes specific reference to the Agreement and Release.

13. Petitioner by signing the Agreement and Release acknowledges that she has had a full and fair opportunity to review, consider and negotiate the terms of the Agreement and Release, that she has been advised to seek and has sought the advice of an attorney in connection with her decision whether to accept the benefits that have been offered to her under the Agreement and Release, and has reviewed the Agreement and Release, and that she has signed the Agreement and Release freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or undue influence and with full and free understanding of its terms.

14. The effectiveness of this Agreement is contingent upon approval by the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education.

15. Petitioner has 21 days to review this Agreement from the time of receipt and has reviewed it with an attorney of her choice. Petitioner has 7 days after she signs this Agreement to revoke it by notifying Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq., Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross, P.A. in writing. This Agreement is not effective or enforceable until that 7-day revocation period has expired.

To signify their agreement to the terms of the Agreement and Release, the parties have executed the Agreement and Release on the date notarized below their signatures, which appear below.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning grandparent challenged the Board's residency determination that her granddaughter was not entitled to a free public education in the District.

The ALJ dismissed the petition because of failure to prosecute by petitioner. The ALJ ordered petitioner to reimburse the Board a total of $7,264.95 for payment of the period of ineligible attendance in the District.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner directed petitioner to remit to the Board the sum of $7,264.95.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 306-10/99

M.L., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, S.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE,

Respondent.

M.L., on behalf of minor child, S.C., petitioner, pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 28, 2000 Decided: October 19, 2000

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 13, 1999, M.L. (petitioner) filed a letter petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) contesting a decision by the Township of West Orange Board of Education (respondent) that S.C. was not entitled to a free public education in West Orange.[1] On or about October 25, 1999, respondent filed an answer with the DOE, incorporating a claim for tuition reimbursement. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 18, 1999 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

[1] The pertinent transmittal sheet inaccurately references the minor child as M.L.

By letter dated January 14, 2000, this judge advised petitioner and counsel for respondent that a hearing was scheduled for September 28, 2000 and requested that the parties advise, as soon as possible, if they were not available for that date. No communications were received from petitioner regarding that letter, specifically, and no communications were ever received from petitioner, generally.

The OAL subsequently sent a Notice of Plenary Hearing (Notice), dated February 3, 2000, to the parties, advising that a hearing in the matter had been scheduled for 9:00 a.m. on September 28, 2000. The Notice stated, in part: "if you do not attend the hearing, the judge may dismiss your case or order that the action requested by the other party be granted." (Exh. C-2.)

Neither petitioner nor a representative on her behalf appeared at the hearing, and no communications were received by this judge from petitioner, nor on her behalf, regarding her non-appearance at the hearing. Petitioner was therefore deemed to have abandoned her case, N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), and her petition should be dismissed, N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14. At respondent's request, an ex parte hearing was conducted regarding its requested relief. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c). The record was closed on September 28, 2000. In light of petitioner's abandonment of her case, the only question presented is whether respondent's requested relief should be granted.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be facts.

L.C. and M.L. are S.C.'s mother and grandmother, respectively. L.C. has two children in addition to S.C. As of September 1999, M.L. resided in West Orange, New Jersey, and L.C., in East Orange, New Jersey.

On September 22, 1999, M.L. executed an Affidavit for Non-Resident Pupil Enrollment in support of an application to enroll S.C. in the public schools of West Orange pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The affidavit stated, in part, that S.C., who was then seven years old, was residing with M.L., that M.L. would assume all personal obligations for S.C. relative to school requirements, and that S.C. was residing with M.L. because:

> Parent unable to care for her financially. Providing Mother has (2) other children to care for.
> [Exh. R-1 at 1.]

On September 22, 1999, L.C. executed an Affidavit of Parent, stating, in part, that she was not capable of supporting or providing care for S.C. because:

> No financial assistance a [sic] present time.
>
> [Exh. R-2 at 1.]

At the time, L.C.'s two other children resided with her and attended school in East Orange.

Sometime in September 1999, M.L. went to respondent's offices to enroll S.C. as a student in respondent's district. Respondent denied enrollment on the basis that petitioner did not present an economic family hardship. Petitioner appealed that determination to the DOE, and, as a result, S.C. was enrolled in respondent's district, pending resolution of the appeal. S.C. attended the Hazel Avenue School, a public elementary school in West Orange, from October 16, 1999, through the balance of the 1999-2000 school year, until June 21, 2000, a total of 165 school days.

S.C. is not enrolled in respondent's schools for the 2000-2001 school year. Transfer papers effectuating a transfer of S.C. to the East Orange school district were processed.

The total fee charged by respondent for out-of-district elementary students for the 1999-2000 school year was $7,925, which amount was based upon respondent's per elementary pupil spending. The applicable per diem rate was $44.03. Based on that rate, M.L. is liable to respondent for a total of $7,264.95 for the period from October 16, 1999, through June 21, 2000.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Pertinent statutory provisions address residence requirements relative to attendance at local district schools.

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including to individuals who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

Local school districts must also provide a free education to any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the district and supported by such other person gratis, as if he/she were such other person's own child, upon the filing by that person with the board of education of a sworn statement. Such statement shall, if so required by the board, state that he/she is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements. The sworn statement must also state that he/she intends to keep and support the child gratuitously through the school term. A copy of certain documents regarding residency shall also be filed. The parent/guardian shall file with the board of education a sworn statement that he/she is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child because of a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely to receive a free public education therein. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation supporting the validity of the sworn statements. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

If in a board's judgment the evidence does not support the validity of a resident's claim, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest such a decision to the Commissioner and shall be entitled to a hearing on the validity of the claim. The resident shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the statutory criteria. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of such proceedings. If the child in question is then currently enrolled in the district, he/she shall not be removed during the period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the resident's claim, the Commissioner shall assess tuition for the student, prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the district. Ibid.

In light of petitioner's failure to prosecute her case, I am persuaded that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the cost of the education provided to S.C. pursuant to the applicable statutory provision. In response to queries from this judge, respondent's counsel advised that respondent usually expects payment of such funds in one payment but will consider other alternatives if requested by the individual in question. In the absence of evidence regarding payment periods, I am persuaded that 60 days is a reasonable deadline for the payment of the amount in question.

CONCLUSIONS

It is hereby CONCLUDED that the petition filed by M.L. with the DOE on October 13, 1999 should be dismissed because of a failure to prosecute by petitioner; that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from M.L. in the amount of $7,264.95 for the cost of providing a public education to S.C. at the Hazel Avenue School for the period from October 16, 1999, through June 21, 2000; and that such amount should be paid to respondent within 60 days from the effective date of this decision.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that the petition filed by M.L. with the DOE on October 13, 1999 be and is hereby DISMISSED and that petitioner reimburse respondent a total of $7,264.95 within 60 days of the effective date of this decision, unless an alternative payment schedule is agreed to by the parties.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

This matter originated in a State Board appeal of two letter decisions of the Commissioner which dismissed a two-count petition by a tenured speech correctionist who challenged the Board's action reducing her full-time position to part-time, twenty hours per week.

Citing N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 28-9, the ALJ determined that the Board engaged in an illegal RIF by reducing petitioner's position from a full-time position to a part-time position without reducing the amount of work she was required to do. Because of this illegal RIF, the ALJ granted petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment and ordered the Board to award petitioner back pay and other emoluments related to her position.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ and granted summary decision to petitioner insofar as she alleged violation of her tenure and seniority rights. The Commissioner directed respondent to pay petitioner all salary and emoluments owing and due her for the 1996-97 school year.

[1] By letter of August 28, 2000, which was received by my office on August 31, 2000, Deputy Attorney General Jack S. Senechal advised me on behalf of the Commissioner of Education that "the Commissioner takes no position with regard to [issue] on motion". He then goes on to note, however, that insofar as the petitioner raises the question of whether the equivalency and waiver were properly granted the Commission reserves the right to brief this issue as necessary.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This motion was brought on behalf of the petitioner, Linda Peters, seeking summary decision and a declaration that the respondent Board's actions in reducing her position from a full-time to a part-time one violated her tenure rights. As a consequence she also seeks back pay, pension credit and all other emoluments of her position to which she would have otherwise been entitled for the period September 1, 1996 through June 30, 1997. For the following reasons the motion be and is hereby GRANTED.

This question arises out of a dispute between the Board of Education of the Pinelands Regional School District [Pinelands] and one of its middle/high schoolteachers, Linda Peters [Peters]. While the Commissioner of Education [Commissioner] was named as a party in Peters' Petition of Appeal, the Commissioner takes no position with regard to the question presented above. See Letter from Jack S. Senechal, D.A.G., to the Honorable Steven C. Reback, A.L.J., dated Aug. 28, 2000, at 1. The following facts are adopted exclusively from Peters' Brief in Support of Summary Judgment.

Peters, who holds an educational services certificate with a speech language correctionist endorsement, has been employed by Pinelands since September of 1986 and is a tenured teacher. During the 1995-96 school year, Peters worked thirty-six hours and fifteen minutes a week, and her job duties included, but were not limited to: (1) scheduling and implementing speech/language therapy sessions for classified students; (2) evaluating and re-evaluating those students to determine both their eligibility to receive speech/language therapy and whether each student's Individual Education Plan [IEP] was adequate as per State and Federal law; (3) classroom observations and screenings of students as per State mandate; (4) formulating students' speech IEPs; (5) drafting evaluation reports; (6) attending annual IEP meetings to determine students' current educational programs and address their program needs for the following school year; and (7) attending transitional conferences with each of Pinelands four kindergarten through sixth grade sending districts to formulate IEPs for incoming seventh graders.

On or about February 1, 1996, Pinelands applied to the Commissioner for a waiver that would allow it to deviate from the special education program criteria established in N.J.A.C. 6:28-4.3(a)(1),[2] which required that speech language services be provided either individually or in groups of not more than three students. The Commissioner granted this waiver, and it authorized Pinelands to increase the size of speech language services groups to no more than five students, but neither the Commissioner's waiver nor Pinelands' waiver request made reference to a reduction in Peters' employment.

Based on this waiver, Pinelands reduced Peters' position for the 1996-97 school year to twenty hours per week, with a commensurate reduction in her annual salary. There was, however, no comparable reduction in Peters' assigned caseload and job responsibilities for the 1996-97 school year. Peters expressed her concern about the significant time reduction in which she would have to complete her job, and she suggested to Pinelands that it should notify the parents of special education students about how the waiver would impact the students' IEPs. Pinelands responded that Peters should revise the IEPs to reflect whether the student would receive individual or group instruction, rather than the size of each group.

Peters filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner in July of 1996, alleging that Pinelands had inappropriately used the special education waiver to effectuate an improper reduction in force [RIF] in violation of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. In that petition, Peters seeks reinstatement to a full-time position with all back pay and other emoluments of that position. Peters also alleges that the Commissioner did not grant Pinelands' waiver for the purposes authorized by N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1,[3] and she seeks an order declaring the waiver null and void.

[2] Now codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1(h)(1).

[3] Now codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.1 to –1.5, eff. June 8, 2000. While Peters bring forth this argument in support of her overall position, it need not be addressed for several reasons. First, a disposition of this case can be effectuated without discussing whether or not Pinelands illegally used the waiver. As discussed infra, the penultimate issue is whether Peters was the subject of an illegal RIF when her position was reduced from full-time to part-time status, and the use of the waiver is in no way determinative of that outcome. Second, the Commissioner has stated that "insofar as [Peters] raises the question of whether the . . . . waiver was properly granted, the Commissioner reserves the right to brief the issue if necessary." Letter from Jack S. Senechal, D.A.G., to the Honorable Steven C. Reback, A.L.J., supra, at 1. If this case can be determined without discussing the waiver, there will be no need for the Commissioner to brief this issue. Third, the waiver expired at the end of the 1996-1997 school year, so the issue is most probably moot. Finally, the waiver provision is a regulation that affects the rights of not only the litigants, but also the authority of the Commissioner and the State Board of Education as well. Thus, the matter is adequately

In September of 1996, Peters began the 1996-97 school year working twenty hours a week, in four day a week increments. While her work hours and salary were half as much as they were during the 1995-96 school year, neither her student caseload nor her job responsibilities decreased, and she met with more students during each class period than she had the previous school year. One month into the school year, Pinelands adjusted Peters' work hours from twenty to twenty-three hours a week with an accompanying salary modification in an attempt to address lunch, travel, and other time issues. Peters contends that this adjustment was insufficient to enable her to perform all of her job responsibilities in a complete and proper manner.

On or about December 5, 1996, a request was accepted by the Office of Special Education of the New Jersey Department of Education [OSE] to conduct an investigation into whether the Commissioner's waiver was being utilized to alter the speech services required by students' IEPs, and if so, was that permissible under the law. The OSE investigation, issued on March 18, 1997, revealed that two students were not receiving instruction in accordance with their IEPs, which specified that they receive their instruction in smaller groups than their current instruction groups. The OSE investigation also revealed that the change to student services had not been made by the IEP team, but was instead a unilateral decision made by either Pinelands' director of special services or the speech-language therapist. Because of these violations, OSE ordered Pinelands to develop a Corrective Action Plan to immediately correct the problem with the two affected students and ensure that parents were notified of any other proposed IEP changes by Pinelands.

In response to the report, Peters' workweek increased on April 24, 1997 from twenty-three to thirty-two hours until June 30, 1997, with a corresponding increase in her salary. Even so, her workload did not change throughout the entire 1996-97 school year. In April of 1997, Pinelands informed Peters that she would be reappointed to her full-time position for the 1997-98 school year, where she has been employed ever since. The Commissioner's waiver expired at the end of the 1996-97 school year.

resolved under the statutes and regulations governing tenure without even reaching the issue of the validity of the waiver.

The submissions of the motion sub judice was completed on October 11, 2000 when my office received Ms. Naprstek's response to the August 3, 2000 letter submitted by Mr. Carr.

LITIGANTS' ARGUMENTS:

Peters' argues that Pinelands violated her tenure rights by conducting an illegal RIF during the 1996-97 school year. She seeks an award of back pay, pension credit, and all other such emoluments of her position to which she was entitled for the period of September 1, 1996 through June 30, 1997. Moreover, Peters argues that summary decision is proper in this case because the parties do not disagree about any salient, material facts.

Peters' argues that because she is tenured, her position is covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which protects tenured staff from dismissal or a reduction in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming or other just cause. Peters also argues that this statute protects teachers when school districts abolish teaching positions for reasons of economy under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. Peters alleges that while Pinelands could have either abolished her position and reassigned her duties among remaining staff, provided that the remaining staff is properly certified, or reduced her full-time position to part-time, which would be an abolishment of a full-time position and the creation of a part-time one pursuant to a RIF, what Pinelands actually did was reduce the amount of time she was allowed to work without reducing the amount of work that she was required to do.

Peters acknowledges that Pinelands believed its actions were legally permissible in light of the Commissioner's waiver. Peters argues, however, that Pinelands misused the waiver, and when that misuse was discovered and corrected, she received an additional nine hours a week to complete her tasks. Pinelands also failed to reduce her duties to correspond with the reduction in her workweek. Peters argues that this action alone evidences the fact that the duties she was carrying out during the 1996-97 school year required much more time than Pinelands allotted.

While Pinelands admits that Peters' hours and compensation were reduced, it opposes Peters' motion for summary decision. First, Pinelands argues that the Commissioner's waiver was intended to provide local school districts with immediate relief from the rules and regulations promulgated by the State Board of Education. The Commissioner granted this waiver to no less than eight school districts pursuant to the authority invested in the Commissioner under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. Pinelands explains that it requested the waiver in an attempt to provide economic relief within the district, which allowed it to increase the number of students per class and reduced the need for full time instruction from Peters.

Second, Pinelands argues that Peters took it upon herself as a child study team participant to unilaterally impose her own recommendations in developing IEPs to meet the needs of individual students. As a result of this, Pinelands argues that Peters created more work for herself than Pinelands had assigned, which was contrary to the decision by the Commissioner granting the waiver for the purpose of economically relieving Pinelands. Because of this, Pinelands argues that Peters comes before the OAL with unclean hands because she hindered its legal rights and established her own cause of action. In response, Peters contends that in her position she was required, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7, to evaluate students and make recommendations as to their speech language needs, although she has no unilateral authority to make any decisions. Because of this State mandate, Peters argues that Pinelands cannot support its claim that she comes before the OAL with unclean hands.

When deciding a motion for summary decision, the following regulation applies:

> At any time after a case is determined to be contested, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues therein. . . . The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery, . . . together with [any] affidavits, . . . show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. . . .
> [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a), (b).]

Under this regulation, which is akin to the judiciary's motion for summary judgment, see R. 4:46-1, "the determination [of] whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires . . . a consideration of whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In making this determination, the analysis is "'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a [fact finder] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533-34. Summary decision is also proper when the opposing party "points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature.'" Id. at 529.

As a preliminary matter, Pinelands' argues that summary decision is not proper at this time because the issue of whether Peters hindered its legal rights and established her own cause of action remains in dispute. Because Pinelands offers no specific facts to support its claim that Peters implemented her own recommendations unilaterally, it has not demonstrated that the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement on the issue. As the Supreme Court in Brill explained, merely providing a blanket statement that a fact is disputed is not enough for a party to avoid summary decision on this issue.

Moreover, Peters was required by State regulation to complete the very tasks that Pinelands claims she used to establish her own cause of action. The regulation that Peters relies on is a multi-faceted, highly detailed scheme that mandates both how a student's IEP is to be created, the staff required to be on the IEP team, and what the IEP team must consider when creating an IEP. See N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7. Peters is a member of the IEP team when a student has speech language needs. When developing an IEP, the regulation states that the IEP team "shall" consider a myriad of factors including: The strengths of the student and the concerns of the parents; the results of an initial or most recent student evaluation; positive behavioral interventions to suppress behavior impeding a student's education; the student's language needs; the needs of a blind or visually impaired student; the student's communication needs; the needs of a deaf or hearing impaired student; whether the student requires additional technology devices to help further their education; and the student's need for technical consultation from State agencies providing transitional services. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7(c)1-9; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7(e) (requiring that a student's IEP for speech language services shall consider the factors set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7(c), as well as the factors set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7(d)).

It is undisputed that Peters worked with the same amount of students during the 1996-1997 school year, and that she worked to satisfy the regulatory requirements outlined above. Peters is also under a mandate to be involved in the annual IEP evaluation of students in pre-school and elementary school, and she fulfilled this task as well. See N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7(h) (mandating that pre and elementary school IEP review "shall include input from the staff of the secondary school). Thus, the regulation supports Peters' position that she was required to do the very tasks that Pinelands has characterized as extra work. That conclusion, coupled with the fact that Peters could not complete her work within the time given by Pinelands, which Pinelands recognized when it increased the amount of time in which she could work in the middle of the school year, is overwhelming evidence that that Peters was at the very least doing the same amount of work as a part-time teacher that she had done while working full-time. Thus, Peters has demonstrated that the evidence is so one-sided that she must prevail as a matter of law.

The only question that remains in this case is whether Peters is the victim of an illegal RIF, and if so, is she eligible for back pay and other emoluments related to her position. In determining this, an analysis of two competing statutory provisions is required; the tenure protections afforded school employees and the RIF interest of school districts. Di Maggio v. Board of Educ. of Trenton, EDU 6389-97, Initial Decision (May 24, 1999), rev'd, Comm'r (July 8, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

The relevant tenure statute mandates that:

> [t]he services of all teaching staff members employed in [a variety of positions including] such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, [with certain exceptions], shall be under Tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause . . . after employment in such district or by such board for [a statutorily prescribed period].
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.]

See also Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 67 (1982) (holding that both remedial and supplemental instructors can acquire tenure). As for the school district's RIF interest, State statute mandates that:

> [n]othing in this title or any other law relating to Tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

While it is "simply impossible to reconcile all of the many inconsistent decisions" interpreting these two statutes, the conflict that is created can seriously impact issues such as the length of the work year and salary entitlements of school employees. See Di Maggio v. Board of Educ. of Trenton, EDU 6389-97, Comm'r (July 8, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. For example, if an employee can prove that he/she was the victim of an illegal RIF, that employee may be eligible for: (1) an increase in his/her current salary; (2) an entitlement to back pay based on the amount of money he/she should have been paid as a full-time employee minus what he/she was actually paid as a part-time employee; and (3) post-judgment interest as an equitable matter. See Bassett v. Board of Educ. of Oakland, 223 N.J.Super. 136, 142-44 (App. Div. 1988); see also Popovich v. Wharton Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 737, 745 (holding that a district, which engaged in an illegal RIF of a senior music teacher when it reduced her employment from full to part-time status while retaining a junior music teacher at full-time status, was required to pay the senior music teacher her salary and other emoluments equal to the difference of pay she actually received versus what she would have been provided).

In determining whether a RIF violates an instructor's tenure rights, the New Jersey Supreme Court has "recognized that a local board of education has the authority to reduce its teaching force as long as that reduction is genuinely 'for reasons of economy.'" Impey v. Board of Educ. of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388, 399 (1995). "Whether those services are eliminated, reduced or modified, however, may be a relevant factor in determining whether abolition of a position genuinely advances the goals of economy and efficiency and was undertaken in good faith." Id. at 399-40. Substance, rather than the form of a change in employment, is the controlling factor in making this determination, and if a position is replaced with an identical position but a different title, that action does not constitute a valid RIF. See Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ, 5 N.J.Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); see also Bassett, supra, 223 N.J.Super. at 143 (explaining that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, because of its remedial purpose and beneficent ends, must be liberally construed").

In the present case, Pinelands tried to effectuate a RIF in which Peters' full-time position was reduced to a part-time position. A District may reduce an instructor's position to part-time status "only if it seeks also to diminish the substantive duties" of that instructor. Cochran v. Watchung Hills Reg'l Bd. of Educ., 4 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 163, 175, 177 (1983), adopted, State Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1878, 1880; see also Wexler v. Hawthorne Bd. of Educ., 1976 S.L.D. 309, 313 (holding that a RIF of a French teacher to part-time status was proper due to the fact that enrollment in the district's French program had declined to the point where it was no longer economically feasible to maintain a full-time French position). Districts may not, however, engage in a "sham RIF" by abolishing an instructor's full-time position and then offering that employee a part-time position that requires the employee to work the same or more hours. See Markowski v. Board of Educ. of Cape May County, Special Serv. Dist., EDU 00309-99, Initial Decision (Feb. 4, 2000), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (explaining that a district "may not legitimately require an employee to work for the same or more duty periods which it previously recognized to be a full-time load for less pay simply by calling the full-time employment "part time"); see also Diglio v. Board of Educ. of the River Dell Reg'l Sch. Dist., 1980 S.L.D. 547, 551-52 (holding that a teacher who, after working in a district full-time for several years and who then was reassigned to part-time status, was subjected to an illegal RIF because he worked the same amount of duty periods as a part-time teacher that he had when he was a full-time teacher).

Clearly, Pinelands has violated Peters' tenure rights by engaging in a "sham RIF." While Pinelands did in fact reduce the amount of hours that Peters was to complete her work, it made no move to reduce her workload. Pinelands used the Commissioner's waiver to enlarge the size of speech language therapy classes from two or three students to five students in an attempt to reduce the amount of classes that Peters would teach each day, but it did not reduce the actual amount of students that Peters taught. This fact is penultimate because Peters is mandated by State regulation to complete a complex series of evaluations for each student she is working with, not for each class she teaches. The form of the change in Peters' working condition may have been a reduction in hours, but the substance of the change is that Pinelands is asking Peters to do the same amount of work as a part-time employee that she did as a full-time employee. Just as the districts in Markowski and Diglio engaged in illegal RIF's when they required teachers reduced to part-time status to work the same amount of duty periods as they had when they were full-time employees, Pinelands has engaged in an illegal RIF because it required Peters to do the same amount of work that she had done as a full-time employee, but only paid her as a part-time employee.

Pinelands' economic justification is lacking as well. While there may be an issue as to whether Pinelands correctly used the Commissioner's class size waiver properly, the disposition of that issue does not affect the outcome of the present case. Even if that wavier is valid, Pinelands must still demonstrate that Peters' RIF genuinely advances the goals of economy and efficiency and was undertaken in good faith. Instead, Pinelands argues that because it was suffering from economic hardships, the Commissioner's waiver gave it carte blanche to violate Peters' tenure rights as it saw fit. That argument should not be adopted because it is inconsistent with the tenure protections afforded to employees under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the appropriate reasons for initiating a RIF under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, case law, and administrative decisions.

CONCLUSION

While it would have been proper for Pinelands to either reduce Peters' position from full-time to part-time based on a corresponding reduction of students requiring speech therapy, Pinelands engaged in an illegal RIF by reducing her position from full-time to part-time without reducing the amount of work she was required to do. Because of this illegal RIF, Peter's motion for summary judgment should be granted, and she should be awarded back pay and other emoluments related to her position.

Accordingly it is ORDERED that the petitioner's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED. It is therefore further ORDERED that respondent, Board of Education of the Pinelands Regional School District is ORDERED to award petitioner back pay, pension credit and all other emoluments of her position to which she would otherwise have been entitled had she been employed full-time for the period September 1, 1996 through and inclusive of June 30, 1997.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's action to eliminate her nontenured position as Chief of Center for Safety and Security.

The ALJ found that the Board was in a financial crisis in the 1997-98 school year and opted for a reduction in force. Thus, the ALJ determined that the Board's action to terminate petitioner's employment was not arbitrary and unreasonable and did not violate the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that the Board properly terminated petitioner's employment by the terms and conditions of the contract entered into by the parties. Petitioner had 30 days notice, ample time to exhaust her vacation days before the effective date of her termination. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own with modification. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner failed to show by a preponderance of credible evidence that the Board's action to abolish her position was arbitrary and capricious, that there was discriminatory activity and that the Board failed to provide 30 days notice. The Commissioner, however, noted that by acknowledging that it awarded vacation days to petitioner as a 12-month employee, the Board conceded that it provided benefits to petitioner which were not specified in her contractual agreement. The Commissioner directed the Board to compensate petitioner for any unused vacation, sick or personal days, if so provided for in the policy or agreement applied to her.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appeals from a determination by the Board of Education of Atlantic City (Board), specific members of the Board and the Board's High School Principal, to cause her non-tenured position as Chief for the Center for Safety and Security to be eliminated.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15; N.J.S.A. 52;14F-1 to -13, and under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and 18A:6-19 to-25. The hearing was held on May 10, 13, 1999, September 7, 1999, and May 1, 2000. The parties requested, and were granted leave to submit post-hearing briefs and memoranda. The hearing record closed on August 14, 2000. Extensions to render this initial decision were approved.

ISSUES

The issues to be determined by this administrative tribunal, as agreed upon by the parties, are these:

1. Whether the Board's action to terminate petitioner's employment position was arbitrary and capricious?

2. Whether, subsequent to her termination, the Board properly compensated petitioner for her vacation time and compensatory time to which she is entitled?

3. Whether the Board's decision to eliminate petitioner's employment position was discriminatory and in violation of her New Jersey law Against Discrimination (LAD)?

4. Whether the Board retaliated against petitioner for her association with the Board's former Superintendent of Schools, in violation of petitioner's constitutional right of freedom of association?

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties stipulated to the following facts, which were spread on the hearing record, as follows:

Petitioner, Hiwatha Green, and respondent Atlantic City Public Schools, et al., stipulate to the following facts in the above matter as undisputed:

1. The petitioner, Hiwatha Green-Janvier, was hired by the respondent, Atlantic City Public Schools, on October 27, 1997, in the position of Chief of the Center for Safety and Security.

2. Petitioner Green-Janvier was in charge of all district security staff, including staff assigned at the Atlantic City High School ("ACHS").

3. Petitioner Green-Janvier's annual salary was $63,000 for the 1997-98 school year.

4. On or about May 21, 1998, the Board approved a final budget that funded the petitioner's salary and benefits. The respondent's budget was approved by the County Superintendent.

5. Petitioner Green-Janvier received an employment contract for the 1998-99 school year. The petitioner signed the contract on May 15, 1998, and returned it to the District's Human Resources Office.

6. At the Board meeting on June 23, 1998, Acting Superintendent Campbell recommended that the Board not layoff the petitioner because her position was necessary for district security operations.

7. At the Board meeting on June 23, 1998, Acting Superintendent Campbell spoke in public. Ms. Campbell stated to the Board that there were two positions she was not recommending be cut, Chief of Security and the Organizational Specialist.

Delois Campbell stated:

> The Chief of Security, that is the position that I'm recommending we keep. This particular person plans, coordinates, monitors and supervise(sic) the security operation, she provides training for the security guards. She schedules regular meetings with safety and personnel. She works with community based agencies to deal with safety related issues. She works and coordinates the entire safety security staff that we have here in Atlantic City.

8. Respondent Kelly made a motion, and seconded by Board member Gallagher, to adopt a Resolution No. 98 6B 57, to abolish several positions, including petitioner Green. The resolution was approved by a seven to three margin.

9. Petitioner Green received a letter notifying her of the layoff, as a "reduction in force," on or about June 24, 1998, terminating her employment with 30 days notice.

10. On April 21, 1998, the voters defeated the school budget. On May 19, 1998, the Board voted to approve the cuts to the budget approved by City Council, and to submit it to the County Superintendent.

The parties subsequently stipulated to the following:

11. Petitioner started work for the district in October 1997. As a 12-month employee, the petitioner was entitled to the accrual of vacation time at 1.6 per month (from November 1997 to June 1998) or 13.33 vacation days for the 1997-98 school year.

12. The respondent did not pay petitioner for her accumulated vacation days.

I hereby adopt, by reference, the above-stipulated facts as FINDINGS OF FACT.

SUMMARY OF THE RELEVANT TESTIMONY

Petitioner testified on her own behalf asserting, among other things, that she was employed by the former Superintendent of Schools, H. Benjamin Williams, with whom she had worked when Dr. Williams was employed by the Board of Education of the City of Paterson, Passaic County, as its Assistant Superintendent of Schools.

Petitioner's employment experience prior to her employment with the Board included, among other things, United States Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service; United States Department of Justice, Community Relations Service; City of Flint Michigan, Human Relations Commission and the Paterson Board of Education.

Petitioner does not possess any formal higher education degrees. However, she had attended Tennessee State University, Fisk University, The New School of Social Research and Wayne State University.

Petitioner described her duties and responsibilities in the position of Chief of the Center for Safety and Security with the Board which included, among other things, the training of security officers; plan, deploy and monitor the security officers; keep accurate time of work and attendance of the security officers and, supervise the 30 security officers at the Board's Albany

School (the former high school which was converted to a middle school) and the Atlantic City High School. There were no security officers assigned to the Board's elementary schools.

Petitioner testified that for the 1997-98 school year, she was assigned as a Control Office Administrator and reported directly to the Superintendent of Schools. She asserted that she was in daily contact with the Superintendent, Dr. Williams. Petitioner also worked with Assistant Superintendent Melvin Clarke.

Petitioner asserted that she visited the high school at least every other day. Petitioner testified that there was a conflict between petitioner and the high school principal, William Steele, with regard to the security of the Atlantic City High School. Petitioner characterized the conflict as a "very bad relationship." Petitioner asserted she could not work with Mr. Steele because he was an "obstructionist." There was acrimonious correspondence between Mr. Steele and petitioner concerning her position as Chief of Security and Mr. Steele's asserted position as the high school principal. Mr. Steele advised petitioner that she had "no right to set up a work schedule for an activity in this building or an activity scheduled for this building without running it pass (sic) me or one of my administrators." (P-13) In this instance, petitioner had assigned a member of the high school staff to set up for a school district-wide workshop and for the staff member to begin arrangements for the high school graduation without first consulting Mr. Steele.

Petitioner testified, among other things, that Mr. Steele, addressed the Board at a public meeting where the Board's 1998-99 annual school budget was under consideration and made negative comments about petitioner. The Board was considering proposals to be placed on the budget cap waiver and Mr. Steele asserted he was disappointed that The Board did not place petitioner's position on cap waiver. Petitioner asserted that Mr. Steele became angry and threw a chair and walked out of the Board meeting. Petitioner stated that Mr. Steele's conduct was intimidating.

Petitioner testified that following the Board's election held in April 1998, Mr. Steele is purported to have said that he, Steele, supported the new Board's position that the three people the Superintendent brought with him to the school district should be removed. Petitioner was one of the three people to which Mr. Steele is purported to have mentioned or removed.

Petitioner asserted that Mr. Steele is a very tall African-American with a deep voice. He intimidated petitioner and always talked down to her. She contended that Mr. Steele did not act like a professional.

On cross-examination, petitioner admitted that Mr. Steele was not a member of the Board and was not petitioner's employer. Nor did Mr. Steele evaluate petitioner's performance. Petitioner also admitted that Mr. Steele spoke at the public Board meeting as an individual and stated his opinion concerning petitioner's position in public.

Petitioner testified extensively concerning the difficulties with the student body at the Albany Avenue School and the security personnel. She also testified about her role in developing training programs for the security officers and the use and misuse by the security officers.

Subsequent to the 1998 Board election and a change in the composition of the Board membership, the Board took action to certify tenure charges against Superintendent Williams with the Commissioner. The Board then removed Dr. Williams from his position, pending the outcome of the tenure charges.

Following the action by the Board to bring tenure charges against Superintendent Williams, the Board advised petitioner by way of letter dated June 19, 1998, that it intended to discuss personnel/staffing matters in closed session on June 23, 1998, which might adversely affect the terms, conditions, and termination of her employment, commonly referred to as a "Rice" letter[1].

[1] Rice and Union County Regional High School Teachers Association v. Union County Regional Board of Education, 155 N.J Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977).

Petitioner challenges her termination asserting that the Board's reasons for her termination, i.e., for reasons of economy, are false. Petitioner concedes that the Board was in financial difficulty prior to her employment. However, at the time of her termination her position was in the Board's budget for the 1998-99 school year and the Board had unexpended funds in its current expense account which was ample to pay her salary.

In addition to petitioner's claim for reinstatement, petitioner asserts that she is entitled to $13,000 for vacation days, sick days, compensatory days, and personal days for which the Board did not pay her upon her termination.

Assistant Superintendent Clarke testified, at length, on petitioner's behalf. He was aware of the contract into which petitioner entered with the Board, effective September 2, 1997. Clarke asserted that petitioner did not begin her employment on September 2, 1997, but rather, sometime later. He also asserted that petitioner's position as Chief of Security was non-tenured.

Assistant Superintendent Clarke testified as to his understanding of the reappointment or non-reappointment of non-tenured personnel and asserted that the Board must give the non-tenured employee notice of his/her non-reappointment prior to April of each year. Clarke stated that he had no information in April or May 1997 that petitioner would not be re-appointed for the 1998-99 school year. He asserted that no Board members had contacted him to advise that petitioner would not be reemployed.

Assistant Superintendent Clarke testified that subsequent to May 1998, the Board took official action on June 3, 1998 to place Superintendent Williams on leave, pending the hearing of tenure charges before the Commissioner. Clarke was not advised that the Board would take such action.

At this time, Clarke asserted, there were a lot of rumors about a "hit list" and that petitioner was one of several employees who would not be reemployed for the 1998-99 school year. He asserted that petitioner's position was in the Board's budget. He had several meetings with petitioner concerning her position. Some of these meetings involved High School Principal

Steele, with whom, petitioner reported to Clarke, she had difficulties. Clarke asserted that most of the difficulties between petitioner and Steele involved overtime of security officers and security officers issuing student identification cards (I.D.). Clarke asserted there was constant tension between petitioner and Steele.

Assistant Superintendent Clarke admitted that he wrote the "Rice" letter to petitioner, dated June 19, 1998. At that time, Clarke was aware of the possibility of the elimination of petitioner's position, among others. He asserted that the Superintendent had not indicated to Clarke that petitioner's position would be eliminated.

Subsequent to Superintendent Williams having been placed on leave, Delois Campbell was appointed Acting Superintendent by the Board. Clarke testified that Ms. Campbell argued before the Board not to eliminate petitioner's position. Clarke asserted that Board member James Herzog had prepared a resolution for the Board's approval to eliminate the positions of several positions, of which petitioner's position was one. The resolution did not specifically name individuals who held the positions to be eliminated.

Assistant Superintendent Clarke opined that the position of Chief of Security was necessary for the 1998-99 school year. He also opined that petitioner was entitled to pro rata pay for vacation days she did not take during the 1997-98 school year as a 12-month employee. Clarke admitted, however, the amount of vacation time to which he alleged she was entitled was not in the employment contract petitioner entered into with the Board.

On cross-examination, Clarke testified, among other things, that Superintendent Williams did show Clarke the alleged "hit list" of employees to be eliminated by the newly-elected Board. Clarke admitted, moreover, he never saw the "hit list" prepared by any Board member.

Herbert Benjamin Williams, former Superintendent of Schools, testified via telephone concerning his appointment of petitioner as Chief of Security, and her duties and responsibilities in the position. He stated that after petitioner began her duties in or about October 1997, she concentrated her efforts at the Albany Avenue School, the former Atlantic City High School.

Williams and the Board decided to open the Albany Avenue School for pupils in grades six, seven and eight, due to overcrowded conditions in its other schools. Williams admitted that there were severe behavioral problems with the pupils which caused petitioner to devote a great deal of time with security at the school.

Mr. Williams asserted that during the 1997-78 school budget discussions, there were some Board members interested in eliminating its security system with consideration for privatization. Williams asserted that the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools would not support a change in the Board's budget to eliminate security for the schools. Williams advised the Board of the County Superintendent's position.

Mr. Williams testified that no Board member advised him of its intention to eliminate the position of Chief of Security. He asserted that it was not until after he was placed on administrative leave that he learned of the Board's action to eliminate petitioner's position.

Mr. Williams asserted that after the school election in April 1998, with the change of Board membership and leadership, he learned that there was a "hit list" to eliminate employment positions. He asserted that Board member Daniel Gallagher recommended methods by which the Board could save money in the 1998-99 school budget. Mr. Gallagher put together a list of positions to be reduced, however, this was not a recommendation of the Board's Finance Committee. During those discussions, the Board directed Williams to reduce the budget by $500,000. The positions to be eliminated by the Board included positions and individuals brought into the school district by Williams.

Mr. Williams admitted that there were no specifics concerning petitioner's contractual benefits. He asserted, however, that petitioner was entitled to the same benefits as other employees with regard to sick days, vacation days, and health benefits. He asserted that petitioner's position was similar to the Board's Director of Transportation.

Martin Ney, Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools, was called upon by petitioner to testify. Superintendent Ney testified that prior to the 1997-98 school year, the Atlantic City Public Schools were classified at Level II by the Department of Education (DOE) and was under the strict scrutiny of a monitor assigned by the Commissioner who were paid a per diem rate by the Board. James Fiebig was the Level II Monitor who monitored the Board's deficiencies in pupil achievement, attendance, drop out standards, all of which did not meet the DOE's minimum standards for grades four, eight and eleven. Mr. Fiebig reviewed the Board's monetary decisions and pupil achievement, among other things. Mr. Ney testified that the Board's schools were in the some position as the schools in Paterson, Jersey City, and Newark with respect to Level II monitoring.

During the 1997-98 school year, Mr. Ney asserted he visited the Board's schools on a weekly basis. He met and discussed with petitioner her duties and responsibilities with the security of the schools. The major concerns centered on the chaotic conditions at the Albany Avenue School after it was opened by the Board in September 1997. Mr. Ney asserted that it was petitioner's goal to stabilize security at the Albany School, however, it did not happen.

County Superintendent Ney testified that the Board's 1998-99 school budget was presented to him for his review. He did not recall whether the budget called for the security position to be placed on a separate ballot. However, he asserted that security was a very important item and he would not approve a separate ballot.

During the 1997-98 school year, Superintendent Ney was concerned when petitioner took the school's security personnel out of uniform. He disagreed with petitioner's approach and believed that uniforms were important in the Albany Avenue School setting.

County Superintendent Ney testified that he was not familiar with the specifics of the Board's budget. He asserted, moreover, that the provision of security for its schools is a judgment call by the Board. He asserted, further, that he was not aware that Acting Superintendent Campbell recommended that petitioner be retained and not removed from her position. Mr. Ney asserted that the fact remained that petitioner's position was abolished by the Board and Ney believed the decision to abolish the position was the result of budget problems. He asserted that the Board had not consulted with him concerning the abolition of petitioner's position. However, subsequent to the abolition of petitioner's position, County Superintendent Ney was satisfied that the Board had reasonable grounds for the abolition of the position after he had the opportunity to question both staff development and security personnel.

Elisha Thompkins, the Board's Business Manager, was called to testify on petitioner's behalf. Mr. Thompkins testified that he worked with Superintendent Williams on the Board's 1998-99 annual budget prior to the Board having placed Williams on administrative leave. Mr. Thompkins asserted that he relied upon the DOE to allow the Board to use bonding funds to balance the Board's current expense budget. He advised the Board that it would end the budget year with a balance of $65,000. The $65,000 balance was based upon the conclusion that the Board was permitted to move funds out of its capital fund into its general fund.

There was much testimony concerning the Board enacting an Academic Achievement Academy (Academy) as proposed by Board member James Herzog at the same Board meeting where it took action to abolish petitioner's position. It is not disputed that money to fund the Academy was not in the 1998-99 annual budget. Mr. Thompson testified that the Board spent $22,000 on the Academy during the 1998-99 budget year.

Marvin F. Hill, former member and former president of the Board, testified on behalf of petitioner and asserted, among other things, that he was not aware that petitioner's position was to be abolished. Nor was he aware that the action was on the Board's agenda for its meeting held on June 23, 1998. He asserted that the abolition of petitioner's position was an act by the Board and not recommended by the Superintendent. He opined that petitioner's position was necessary.

Mr. Hill asserted that it was his opinion that the Board had a "hit list" of people to be terminated. Those on the "hit list" were people brought into the school district by Superintendent Williams. He asserted that there were approximately ten names on the "hit list." Mr. Hill admitted that he had not seen the alleged "hit list."

Mr. Hill testified that the motion by Mr. Herzog to create and fund the Academy was not discussed by the full Board prior to its adoption and approval. He asserted that the costs to fund the Academy would come out of the Board's general fund. He stated that petitioner's salary was included in the general fund and those funds could have been used to pay for the Academy.

Mr. Hill testified that he was not comfortable with the 1998-99 budget as it was presented. He asserted that the 1998-99 budget was insufficient and not properly funded. The Board was told that it would end the budget year with a deficit. Therefore, the Board proposed a special election for a supplemental tax levy for $6,000,000. He stated that it was believed the $6,000,000 would cover the projected deficit. The supplemental tax levy failed at the polls. Subsequently, the Board transferred bond money to its general fund to cover the deficit.

Mr. Jeffree Fauntleroy, a former member of the Board, also testified on behalf of petitioner who asserted that he was an Atlantic City police officer and discussed security in the schools with petitioner. He asserted that he was familiar with school security with respect to guns and drugs in the schools. He also discussed with petitioner her plans to organize and train the school security officers. He stated that he did not recall seeing a security plan proposed by petitioner. He stated that the Board had discussed the proposition that the schools security could be performed in a better way.

Mr. Fauntleroy discussed with petitioner the lack of organization with the school security program. He arranged a meeting and advised petitioner that free training was available and all petitioner had to do was to set a date and schedule the training program for the security officers. Petitioner cancelled the training program. However, she did not advise Fauntleroy of her cancellation. Mr. Fauntelroy did not know the reason petitioner cancelled the arranged training program for the security officers.

Mr. Fauntleroy testified that the Board's 1998-99 budget was not sufficient to fund all of the Board's programs even after the Atlantic City Council had approved the budget. He asserted that there were certain items in the 1998-99 budget that needed to be addressed further. He opined that there were items in the budget the Board could do without. He was not satisfied that the picture of the budget surplus as set forth by the school's administrator was accurate. He contended that there was no line-by-line analysis, therefore, it was uncertain where the money was to come from to balance the budget.

Theresa Kelly, a present member of the Board, testified on behalf of the Board asserting, among other things, that during the 1997-98 school year she was a member of the Board's Finance Committee and its Curriculum Committee. Ms. Kelly recalled petitioner's employment and her duties as Chief of Security. She also stated that the opening of the Albany Avenue School it was an educational and financial disaster.

Ms. Kelly testified that the Board, acting as a committee of the whole, approved the 1998-99 school budget and submitted it to the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools for his approval. Ms. Kelly asserted that she was uncertain of the line items in the current expenses. She was also uncertain that there were sufficient funds set aside for emergencies. She stated that the 1998-99 budget failed at the polls. However, the Atlantic City Council restored the defeated budget and some items of the budget cap waiver, which was also defeated by the voters. She was not satisfied that the restored budget would carry through the entire budget year.

Ms. Kelly testified, among other things, that she proposed the RIF of petitioner's position and other positions as well. The Board's Finance Committee understood the need of the RIF's for reasons of economy. Therefore, she moved before the Board the RIF's. She asserted that her only reason for the RIF's were for reasons of economy. She testified that after the Board's action on June 23, 1998, to abolish petitioner's position, the Board took further reductions in force and kept a tight reign on the budget expenditures. She asserted that even in June 1998, the Board did not believe it had a secure budget to carry it through the 1998-99 school year.

Ms. Kelly testified that funding for the Academy was not included in the 1998-99 budget. She was under the impression that the Academy was to be funded by existing Board personnel who would perform the duties for the Gifted and Talented students. She was not advised that the Academy would be a major cost to the Board.

Daniel Gallagher, a member of the Board beginning in April 1998, testified on behalf of the Board. During 1998-99, he was a member of the Board's Finance Committee (Goods and Services Committee) and found serious shortfalls with the 1998-99 budget, even after its approval by the Atlantic City Council. He never met petitioner, however, he knew of her position with the Board. He supported the resolution to abolish petitioner's position as one of several positions recommend for RIF.

On cross-examination, Mr. Gallagher testified, among other things, that in May 1998, Superintendent Williams recommended several ways in which the Board could save money for the 1998-99 budget. Reference was made to the Board minutes of its special session held on May 13, 1998 (P-34), to discuss the 1998-99 budget. Mr. Gallagher asserted that the special session of the Board was called for two reasons; i.e., to make reductions in the proposed defeated budget to present to the Atlantic City Council in order to save the CAP question and, to attempt to increase the Buildings and Grounds Account. Monitor Fiebig was present at the meeting and advised the Board not to bring personalities into the discussion when considering a reduction in force, but, rather, the positions and functions of the job performed.

Mr. Gallagher asserted that the Goods and Services Committee did, in fact, consider the positions for elimination in its deliberations. Superintendent Williams did not recommend the abolition of petitioner's position. The Committee received several accounts which it found to be under funded. It was for reasons of economy that it eliminated the positions, including petitioner's position.

Alma Dobson, a member of the Board until May 2, 2000, testified in rebuttal for petitioner asserting, among other things, that she attended the regular meeting of the Board on June 23, 1998, at which Acting Superintendent Campbell did not recommend the abolition of petitioner's position. Ms. Dobson asserted she did not vote to abolish petitioner's position on June 23, 1998, because Ms. Dobson understood there was money in the Board's budget to fund petitioner's position.

Ms. Dobson stated that prior to its action to abolish petitioner's position, the Board was quite concerned as to whether or not there would be sufficient funds available to carry it through the school year. She was present at the Board meeting when the Board placed Superintendent Williams on administrative leave. She believed that Superintendent Williams, who relied upon advice of the Board's Business Manager concerning the Board's finances, stated that the Board was "alright" for the rest of the year.

Ms. Dobson testified concerning the Board's budget deficit, the Commissioner's action to allow the Board to transfer funds from its bonds to current expenses, the voters rejection of the proposed 1998-99 school budget, the restoration of the rejected budget by Atlantic City Council, the sale of the Albany Avenue School to the City of Atlantic City for an amount in excess of one million dollars and, the resulting surplus funds, among other things.

Ms. Dobon admitted that the Commissioner's approval of the transfer of four million dollars from the Board's capital expenses to its current expenses provided the Board with the operating money it needed to finish the fiscal year in the black. She admitted that at the end of the 1997-98 budget year, the Board was in deficit and without the four million dollars, the Board would have remained in deficit.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's Position:

POINT I

THE BOARD'S ACTION TO ELIMINATE THE CHIEF OF SECURITY WAS ARBITRARY AND MOTIVATED BY BAD FAITH

Count One of the Petition alleges that the petitioner's termination was arbitrary and capricious. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 grants boards of education the authority to abolish positions of employment for reasons of economy. In exercising its discretion to abolish positions for economic good cause, a board is not legally bound to follow a superintendent's recommendation, provided the board is acting reasonably in good faith. Stahnten v. Board of Education of Township of Hillside, 1987 S.L.D. 1096, 1099 (Comm'r. Decision 1987) aff'd 987 S.L.D. 1104 (State Board 1987). It is well established that actions of a board of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness, as well as a presumption that such actions will be upheld by the Commissioner of Education, absent a showing of bad faith, illegal motive or a lack of rational basis. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. 288 (1960). The petitioner acknowledges that she has the burden of proof, based upon a preponderance of evidence standard, on all her claims.

The respondents contend that the Board action on June 23, 1998 to abolish the petitioner's position, as well as others, was done to prevent a budget deficit for the 1998-99 school year. The petitioner asserts that the respondents' actions, under the circumstances of this case, were arbitrary and should be set aside.

Was there a rational basis for the Board to abolish the petitioner's position? Absolutely not. The petitioner produced substantial evidence that the Board's action was improper. There are several compelling reasons for this conclusion. First, the petitioner was evaluated satisfactory by Superintendent Williams and recommended to continue in her position for 1998-99 (P-5). She signed her contract and returned it to the personnel office (P-2). On May 3, 1998, the Board considered a staff reduction as proposed by the respondent Gallagher and the Goods and Services Committee. The Superintendent disagreed, and the Board voted to adopt the cuts suggested by the City Council (P-34)[2]. Therefore, the budget became final.

By statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, school districts may non-renew an employee by written notice before May 15th of the year. In this case, the respondent Board renewed petitioner's contract.

> Second, "[a]t the Board meeting on June 23, 1998, Acting Superintendent Campbell did not recommended (sic) that the Board abolish the Petitioner's position because her position was necessary." (Stipulation¶6-7).

[2] There is no question that if the Board voted to eliminate the Chief of Security position at the May 13, 1998 meeting it had solid grounds to act under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Several witnesses testified in support of Ms. Green's case. Testimony by Board member Ms. Alma Dobson showed that Board members complained about security throughout the year and expressed the need for more security officers. Ms. Dobson voted no to the termination of Ms. Green because she thought the chief of security position was necessary and the position was funded in the budget (see P-8 and P-23). Similarly, Assistant Superintendent Melvin A. Clarke testified that Ms. Green was continued for the 1998-99 school year by recommendation by the Superintendent. No one in administration nor board member advised Mr. Clarke that Green would not be continued. Therefore, Mr. Clarke prepared and sent Ms. Green a contract for the 1998-99 school year (P-3).

Superintendent Williams testified about Ms. Green's evaluation of May 11, 1998 (P-5) and described her performance as "commendable." Dr. Williams emphatically stated that Ms. Green's position stayed in the budget despite discussions about its elimination during budget deliberations.

Third, on June 3, 1998, Superintendent Williams affirmed the District's budget was "all right" for the coming year. Dr. Williams relied upon the Business Manager as a source of his knowledge. Ms. Dobson testified that the Board's audit report for 1998-99 (P-36) showed budget surplus. As indicated in the respondent's Audit Report (P-36), the Board ended the 1998-99 year with a final balance of $6,629,014 and $269,203 for the 1997-98 year (P-36, p. 40). In fact, for 1998-99, the Board had $1,091,590 in excess surplus and $1,875,931 in undesignated funds.

In addition, the Board's subsequent decision to create and fund an academic academy, unbudgeted, at a cost of approximately $35,000 squarely contradicts its position that it had an uncertain budget situation (P-33). The decision to terminate the petitioner was clearly arbitrary and capricious.

POINT II

THE DISTRICT FAILED TO PAY PETITIONER HER SALARY AND BENEFITS SHE WAS ENTITLED

Count Two of the Petitioner alleges that the petitioner received less than 30 days notice of termination contrary to her contract. Assuming for the sake of argument that the petitioner fails to prove any other claim in the petition, she maintains that the respondent owes her pay for the full 30-day period. Basic contract law applies to this matter.

As a 12-month employee, the petitioner was entitled to a salary of $63,000 and benefits inclusive of sick, vacation, personal days and compensatory time. Superintendent Williams testified that the district should have treated Ms. Green just like any other administrator when it came to benefits.

The petitioner's contract requires 30 days notice in writing of a party's election to terminate the contract (P-2 and P-3). The petitioner's termination letter, dated June 24, 1998, states that it "serves as the required thirty-day notice..." (P-7). The petitioner testified without contradiction that she received her letter on June 29, 1998. This would entitle the petitioner to be compensated up to July 29, 1998 for a complete 30 days. Therefore, the petitioner contends she is owed compensation for at least 13 more work days, July 10 through July 29, 1998.

The petitioner will stipulate that the respondent paid her salary up to July 9, 1998. The period from July 10 to July 29 contains 13 work days. The petitioner believes she is owed for 13 days @ $262.50 per day or $3,412.50 in gross salary.

Ms. Green had accumulated 13.33 vacation days which she was entitled to compensation at the time of her termination (Supplemental Stipulation of Facts, ¶1 and 2). The respondent did not pay Ms. Green for her vacation days at her per diem rate of pay of $262.50 [$63,000/240 days=$262.50 per diem rate], or a gross amount of $3,499.12.

The petitioner was also entitled to three personal days which she was not paid for, and 12 sick days. In addition, Ms. Green was entitled to payment for 72 compensatory hours of work (80-8 hours) (P-4). This translates into nine days pay at her rate of salary. The petitioner asks that the court award her payment for 13.33 vacation days, 3 personal days, 12 sick days, and 72 compensatory hours or nine days. Overall, Ms. Green claims she is entitled to payment for 50.33 days totaling $13,211.62.

POINT III

PETITIONER'S REMOVAL WAS A VIOLATION OF HER CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS OF ASSOCIATION AND DISCRIMINATORY

Count Three of the petition alleges two claims, that is a violation of petitioner's Free Speech rights for her association with Superintendent Williams, and her termination violated the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination under N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq. Assuming that the court finds that the petitioner's removal was in bad faith, then the next step would be an analysis of the applicable claims here.

On June 23, 1998, the petitioner was confronted with a fait accompli. Mr. Gallagher and Ms. Kelly had already decided to vote to terminate. The petitioner's termination was predicated upon her exercise of constitutional protected freedom of association.

A school district cannot terminate an employee for exercising his/her First Amendment free speech rights. Parente v. Metuchen Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 352 (Comm'r March 17, 1994). In order to maintain a claim for termination based upon constitutional rights, the petitioner must prove that her discharge was predicated at least in part on her exercise of First Amendment rights. Endress v. Brookdale Community College, 144 N.J. Super. 126 (App. Div 1976).

Pickering v. Board of Education, 391 U.S. 563 (1968) held that statements by public officials on matters of public concern must be accorded First Amendment protection despite the fact that the statements are directed at their nominal superiors, citing Garrison v. Louisiana, 379 U.S. 64 (1964). In Wood v. Georgia, supra, the Supreme Court further said:

> The burden is upon the governing body to show that there is a compelling public interest which warrants the restriction of First Amendment rights. In the absence of such a showing, these rights are not subject to impairment or destruction. Thomas v. Collins, 323 U.S. 516, 65 S.Ct. 315 80 L. Ed. 430 (1945); Bates v. City of Little Rock, 361 U.S. 516 (1960); NAACP v. Button, 371 U.S. 415 83 S.Ct. 328, 9 L. Ed. 2d 405 (1963); Gibson v. Florida Legislative Investigation Committee, 372 U.S. 539, 83 S.Ct. 880, 9 L Ed. 2d 929 (1963); DeStefano v. Wilson, supra, at p. 599. ...

In addition to the protection of rights contained in the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution provides the protection of civil and personal rights.

Article I, paragraph 18, of the New Jersey Constitution provides:

> The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives to petition for redress of grievances.

The plaintiff's employment positions were a protectable property right under the New Jersey Constitution. Article 1, paragraph 5, of the New Jersey Constitution provides:

> No person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil or military right, nor be discriminated against in the exercise of any civil or military right...

Article 1, paragraph 6, of the New Jersey Constitution provides in part:

> Every person may freely speak, write and publish its sentiments on all subject, being responsible for the abuse of that right.

In Slohoda v. United Parcel, 193 N.J. Super. 586 (App. Div. 1985), the Court held that if the employee's discharge is based in significant part from discriminatory reasons, the discharge must be invalidated. See also, Arverd v. Bushburg Brothers, 137 N.J. Super. 537 (App. Div.

1975). In the second Slohoda case, 207 N.J. Super. 145 (App. Div. 1986), the Appellate Division said:

> It is sufficient, if taken with other possible meritorious reasons, the discriminatory purpose was a determinative factor.

The petitioner's employment status as a non-tenure employee does not defeat her claim of a constitutional violation. Mt. Healthy City Board of Ed. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274 (1977). As previously stated, the petitioner was targeted on a "hit list." There is a strong causal connection between the suspension of Superintendent Williams, June 3rd, and the petitioner's removal on June 23rd, or less than 21 days apart. There is no issue about the need for the petitioner's position. She performed her job well and was exceptionally qualified.

In addition, the petitioner claims she was the victim of gender discrimination by Steele in violation of New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("LAD"), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq. Paragraph 22 of the Petition states:

> [Steele] engaged in a pattern of gender discrimination against petitioner...Respondent Steele harassed petitioner and threatened to her (sic) removed.

The petitioner asserts that the evidence supports a finding of sex discrimination in this case. Green is a female and Steele is a male. Ms. Green testified extensively about a strained working relationship with Steele. The harassment began when the Board voted to reorganize the security operations and place Green in charge of security and security officers district-wide. Mr. Steele became angry and resented her (P-16). Mr. Steele was uncooperative and an obstacle to Ms. Green's attempts to her job. In a May 28, 1998 memo, Mr. Steele berated Ms. Green for assigning a security officer, Mr. Reginald Jackson, the job to set up a workshop (P-13). Mr. Steele also spoke publicly that Ms. Green's position should be eliminated. Mr. Steele refused to allow Mr. Jackson to perform assigned job duties. Ms. Steele stated emphatically, that Elwood Roberts was lead security in charge at the high school, not Mr. Jackson (P-13).

On June 12, 1998, Mr. Steele called Ms. Green and made threatening and derogatory statements. Ms. Green alleges that Mr. Steele made statements such as:

1. "He advised me I was not responsible for security at his school and I had better act like a visitor when I enter his building if I entered. He alleged I had gone around him to get what I needed with security but "it will never happen again", he said in a very rude, angry and confident manner."

2. "Finally he informed me that he had to go because Bert Lopez was in his office and they were having a meeting." (P-12)

Mr. Steele, with full bravado, disrespected Ms. Green and the authority vest in her as Chief of Security. The respondent Board did not present Mr. Steele to refute the petitioner's allegations. The Board's failure to call Mr. Steele, and respondent Mr. Steele's failure to testify to refute petitioner's allegations regarding his conduct, should support negative inferences that his testimony would be unfavorable to the Board. Millison v. E.I. duPont de Nemours, 226 N.J. Super. 5721 (App. Div. 1998) aff'd 115 N.J. 252 (1989).

Ms. Green believes that the respondent Steele resented her because of her sex. Steele resented the fact that a female supervised security officers in his "building." Steele began a public campaign to remove the petitioner.

For the foregoing reasons, the petitioner Hiwatha Green asks that this tribunal find that the termination action of the respondent Board was precipitous, arbitrary and in bad faith. Also, they ask that the court find the actions of respondent a violation of her constitutional rights and discriminatory. We request the aware of back pay and benefit.

The Board's Position:

POINT I

THE BOARD DID NOT ACT ARBITRARILY WHEN IT MOVED TO ELIMINATE THE PETITIONER'S POSITION BY WAY OF A REDUCTION IN FORCE

It is well established that in certain situations a board of education has broad authority to effectuate a reduction in force. N.J.S.A. 18A;28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of services shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

In the instant action, the petitioner's position was abolished by the Board for reasons of economy given the financial crisis of the district. The foregoing status gives the Board broad latitude because it does not require that the Board's action come at the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools. Therefore, the statements of the Acting Superintendent Campbell are not relevant in this matter because the Board's action did not require the recommendation of the Superintendent. Reduction in force decisions made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 are entirely within the authority of the local Board. In re Maywood Bd. of Ed., 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div.), cert. denied 81 N.J. 292 91979). Moreover, where the RIF is done for reasons of economy, such a determination is entirely within the authority of the Board. Klinger v. Cranbury Tp. Bd. of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982); cert.. den. 93 N.J. 277 (1983).

The majority of the Board deemed it necessary to abolish certain positions in order to restore the budget to a secure level given the events of the preceding school year and the fact that although the budget had been restored, there were several line items which were inadequately funded. These line items included the Buildings and Grounds Account. This account funds repairs of buildings. It is well known that the Atlantic City School District has some of the oldest facilities in the State.

The petitioner argues that the action of the Board was improper because her supervisor, Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, had given her a satisfactory evaluation. It is conceded that the petitioner's evaluations were satisfactory, however, it has been established through testimony in this matter that the action by the Board has no basis in job performance. The actions taken by the Board were solely for reasons of economy.

In addition, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 does not factor into this matter either. Although the petitioner was not "non-renewed" before May 15th of the relevant year, the Board was not precluded from taking action to eliminate her position for reasons of economy at a later date.

The petitioner also argues that the creation of an academic academy contradicts the Board's position that there was an uncertain budget situation. However, there was testimony from several witnesses that the concerns of the Board were in the classroom. Mr. Hill, who testified on the petitioner's behalf, indicated that the academic academy was ultimately referred to the Curriculum and Instruction Committee, which he chaired and was recommended to the full Board for approval. Other Board members testified that it was their belief that the academic academy could be implemented without hiring new teachers and incurring significant costs.

The weight of the credible evidence reveals that there was a financial crisis in the Atlantic City School District at the end of the 1997-98 school year. There remained uncertainty with respect to the budget, even after the budget was approved by City Council. Several board members, some of whom testified on behalf of the petitioner testified that there was several uncertaint with respect to the budget going into the 1998-99 school year. It is clear that the action taken against the petitioner was based on reasons of economy and not based on performance or any other undue motive.

POINT II

THE PETITIONER WAS PROPERLY COMPENSATED

The Board took an action to abolish the petitioner's position on June 23, 1998. On June 24, 1998, correspondence was addressed to the petitioner notifying her of the Board's action and giving her notice that her termination would take effect on July 22, 1999. The petitioner presents no basis for the position that the date of termination is to be determined from the date of receipt of the notice of termination. The respondent asserts that the employee is informed of the Board's action and the notice gives the employee 30 days from the date of the Board action.

The petitioner was paid her full compensation for the term of her employment. The petitioner was paid $2,423.07, gross pay, on July 1, 1998, check no. 3723, this represents her bi-weekly pay. She was paid $1,776.92 on July 15, 1998, check no. 4030, which carried her through to her termination date.

POINT III

THE DISTRICT'S ACTION AGAINST THE PETITIONER WAS NOT DISCRIMINATORY

The action against the petitioner was done solely for reasons of economy. The record is replete with testimony as to the financial difficulty of the district during the 1997-98 school year. It is not disputed that the state of the budget for the 1998-99 school year was uncertain, as several budget line items were under-funded. Moreover, it is clear that the action against the petitioner was not based on her performance. The petitioner was in a newly-created position within the school district. Prior to the 1997-98 school year, supervisors and other district administrators had carried out the function. Given the financial constraints, it was the feeling of a majority of the Board members that the petitioner's position was not essential and that the functions could be performed by other staff.

There is no factual basis in the record for the conclusion that the Board took action to abolish the petitioner because she was associated with the former Superintendent.

In Slohoda v. United Parcel, 207 N.J. Super. 145 (App. Div. 1986), cited by the petitioner to establish a state claim under the Law Against Discrimination, the Court established that: the prescribed methodology requires that plaintiff first carry the burden of demonstrating a prima facie case. If this is done, the burden then shifts to the employer "to articulate some legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason" for terminating plaintiff's employment. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S.Ct. 1817, 36 L.Ed. 2*d.* The petitioner has presented nothing more than conjecture and rumor that she was the target of an alleged "hit list." The court took specific notice of the fact that the petitioner never presented the alleged "hit list" in court. This is pure speculation and rumor. Some witnesses even testified that the only information they have regarding the "hit list" was rumor.

The weight of the credible evidence and testimony reveals that the action taken against the petitioner was based solely upon reasons of economy. Moreover, the petitioner's position was not the only position affected. Several personnel actions were taken in anticipation of a questionable budget year.

The petitioner's problems with Mr. Steele are irrelevant for two reasons, the first being that Mr. Steele had no impact on the decision of the Board. Mr. Steele is not a member of the Board and does not vote. The second is that the action taken against the petitioner has nothing to do with any statements she made concerning her employment, her decisions made in her position or any statements she made concerning her job functions or decisions.

For the foregoing reasons, the respondent Atlantic City Board of Education, et als. respectfully requests that the court find that the Board action abolishing the petitioner's position was a reduction in force for reasons of economy and was not arbitrary or in bad faith. Moreover, the respondents ask that the court dismiss all counts of the petitioner's appeal.

CONCLUSIONS

The herein record clearly demonstrates that the Board was faced with a variety of difficulties during the 1997-98 school year. It was under close scrutiny by the DOE as a consequence of its having been classified for Level II monitoring. The Board experienced deficit spending, contrary to law. It also, contrary to prior approval of the Commissioner, expended funds to open and operate the former high school, known as the Albany Avenue School, as a middle school. Both parties concede that the Albany Avenue School was an educational failure and a financial disaster. It was under such circumstances that petitioner was employed as the school district's Chief of Security by the then Superintendent of Schools, H. Benjamin Williams.

Petitioner alleges that the Board's action to abolish her position, thus terminating her employment, was arbitrary and capricious. The Board denies the allegation.

The definition of "arbitrary and capricious," as found in Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, is as follows:

> Arbitrary and capricious. Characterization of a decision or action taken by an administrative agency or inferior court meaning willful and unreasonable action without consideration or in disregard of facts or without determining principle (citation omitted). Id. at 96.

The facts in this matter demonstrates that the Board was in a financial crisis and deliberated with options to resolve the matter. One avenue for the Board to pursue was the option of a reduction in force. Petitioner was one of other employees considered for a RIF under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The Board exercised its option pursuant to the statute, and caused petitioner's position to be abolished and petitioner to be reduced in force.

Petitioner has failed to show, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's action was arbitrary or capricious. Its action to abolish petitioner's position was not unreasonable nor without consideration of its obligation to maintain its schools within the constraint of its budget. The Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools was satisfied that the Board's action wre appropriate. Petitioner cannot show that the Board's action on June 23, 1998, to abolish her employment position were for reasons other than for economy. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the Board's action to abolish her position was arbitrary and/or capricious. Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965) aff'd 46 N.J. (1966).

With respect to petitioner's compensation claim, she asserts that basic contract law applies to this matter. A review of the contracts which petitioner entered into with the Board for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years sets forth petitioner's annual salary of $63,000, effective September 2, 1997 to June 30, 1998, with an adjustment for the 1998-99 school year pending the results of collective negotiations. The contract also provides that either party may, at any time, terminate the contract upon 30 days notice, in writing. The Board exercised its rights, under the contract, and gave petitioner 30 days notice of termination of her employment through the abolition of her position and the termination of her employment.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Board properly terminated petitioner's employment by the terms and conditions of the contract entered into by the parties. Petitioner's argument that she did not receive the Board's notice of termination until July 29, 1998 and, therefore, she is entitled to compensation to that date is without merit. The herein record clearly demonstrates that petitioner was given notice of the Board's proposed action on or about June 19, 1998, with the opportunity for petitioner to participate in the public discussion. Thus, petitioner was put on notice that the Board intended to ". . . discuss personnel/staffing matters which may adversely affect your terms, conditions and termination of employment" (P-6).

Petitioner had ample time to exhaust her vacation days between the time the Board took its action to abolish her position on June 23, 1998, and the effective date of her termination on July 24, 1998.

Unless specified by the collective agreement between the Board and its negotiating units, which may or may not have an effect on petitioner's employment, this tribunal is not aware of any requirement for the Board to compensate petitioner for unused sick day and/or personal days. In the event such provisions are incorporated in a collective agreement, the Board would then be obligated to adhere to the terms and conditions of such an agreement. Petitioner produced no such document.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim of a violation of the New Jersey LAD by the Board is without merit. There is absolutely no evidence that the Board engaged in any discriminatory activity when it voted to abolish petitioner's employment position of Chief of Security. To the contrary, this tribunal, having evaluated the evidence, found and concluded that the Board's action was due to economic factors and the record supports such a conclusion. Petitioner has failed to establish a prima facie case to support her claim. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that this claim should be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein petition of appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED for the reason expressed above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

HIWATHA GREEN-JANVIER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY, BERT LOPEZ, PRESIDENT, JAMES HERZOG, DANIEL GALLAGHER AND WILLIAM STEELE, PRINCIPAL, individually and jointly,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

In her exceptions, petitioner essentially restates her position that respondent's action to terminate her employment for reasons of economy was unreasonable and in bad faith because the District's budget crisis ended with the closing of the Albany Avenue School. Pointing out that the District completed the year with a surplus, that the acting superintendent recommended against abolishment of petitioner's position and that petitioner's position remained in respondent's budget following cuts made by the City Council after the budget defeat, petitioner urges reversal of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that respondent's action was not arbitrary or capricious. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-3) Petitioner also objects to the ALJ's determination that she was not entitled to compensation for unused vacation, sick and compensatory days, stating that "[t]he ALJ's decision that petitioner should have taken the vacation days before her last day of work is just wrong." (Id. at 3)

Upon a thorough review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the decision of the ALJ with modification, as noted below. Initially, the Commissioner concurs that the record supports respondent's contention that the District was in a financial crisis and that its action to pursue a reduction in force was for reasons of economy. The Commissioner, therefore, determines, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ, that petitioner has failed to show by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent's action to abolish her position was arbitrary or capricious. The Commissioner also agrees that there is absolutely no evidence that respondent engaged in discriminatory activity when it voted to abolish petitioner's position, and that petitioner has failed to establish a prima facie case to support her claim of a violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. Finally, the Commissioner finds that respondent properly exercised its rights, under the terms of the contract, in providing petitioner 30 days notice that her position had been abolished and her employment terminated.

With respect to petitioner's compensation claim, however, the Commissioner modifies the determination of the ALJ. The Commissioner notes that petitioner's contracts are silent as to any employment benefits she is to receive in addition to her annual salary. The supplemental stipulation entered into by the parties, however, states that:

> 1. Petitioner started work for the District in October 1997. As a twelve month employee, the petitioner was entitled to the accrual of vacation time at 1.6 per month (from November 1997 to June 1998) or 13.33 vacation days for the 1997-98 school year.
> 2. The respondent did not pay petitioner for her accumulated vacation days. (emphasis added) (Supplemental Stipulation)

By acknowledging that it awarded vacation days to petitioner as a twelve-month employee, respondent has conceded that it provided benefits to petitioner which were not specified in her contractual agreement, as both petitioner and the head of personnel testified at hearing. Although the record does not contain a copy of the policy or collective agreement which respondent applied in awarding petitioner 13.33 vacation days per year, respondent is obligated to adhere to the terms and conditions of the same policy or collective agreement it applied in awarding the vacation days with respect to compensation, if any, to petitioner for any unused vacation days. In the event that petitioner was also awarded sick or personal days under the twelve-month employee provision, petitioner is also entitled to compensation for any unused sick or personal days, if so provided for in the policy or agreement applied to her.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, as modified above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

HEARING OF GREGORY J. BREWER, :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent science teacher for allegedly engaging in a continuing pattern of sexual harassment directed at A.F., a 19-year-old female special education student.

Having found respondent not credible, the ALJ concluded that respondent's conduct, which included asking A.F. for her phone and beeper number, asking A.F. out on dates to the movies, and looking at her in a sexual manner, was unacceptable and that the only appropriate penalty was removal from position. The ALJ ordered respondent dismissed from his teaching position. Since the time period of suspension without pay is limited to a total of 120 calendar days, the ALJ ordered that respondent be given back pay for the period of October 16 through December 15, 1998. Subsequent to the issuance of the Initial Decision, respondent filed a Motion to Re-Open the Hearing with the Commissioner, alleging that the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to his credibility were erroneous and supported by no competent proof in the record. He requested that the hearing be reopened to allow the introduction of additional evidence in this regard.

After conducting an independent review of the record, including a thorough scrutiny of the transcripts of the hearing at OAL, the Commissioner determined that, since the resolution of this matter depends on the credibility of the witnesses, and having found that the ALJ's stated determinations with regard to respondent's credibility were based in large part on facts not supported by evidence in the record, interests of fairness dictate that respondent be provided with an opportunity for entry into the record of further testimony and evidence as will permit the critical determinations relating to credibility to be based on a full and fair record. Thus, the Commissioner granted respondent's Motion to Re-Open and remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings. The Commissioner adopted that portion of the Initial Decision which found the Board owed respondent salary payment for the period between October 16 and December 15, 1998.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On May 1, 1998, the petitioner, School District of the Borough of Roselle, (Board or District) suspended the respondent, Gregory J. Brewer, a Science teacher from his teaching duties. On May 22, 1998, tenure charges were certified by the Board and thereafter filed with the Commissioner of Education on June 18, 1998. The tenure charges allege that the respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct in that he sexually harassed a 19-year-old female student during class. The respondent filed an answer to the charges on June 29, 1998.

On July 23, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

After a prehearing conference, the matter was scheduled for hearing. Hearing dates were adjourned several times at the request of the Board. On July 28 and October 12, 1999, plenary hearings were conducted. On October 20, 1999, the respondent moved for summary judgment on Board's failure to return him to the payroll on the 121st day of his suspension. A decision on the motion was held in abeyance until the issuance of the instant decision.

The Board requested an additional date to present rebuttal testimony. Thus, the record remained open. Subsequently, that request was withdrawn. Written submissions were filed on March 27, and April 4, 2000. Transcripts were received on May 1, 2000, at which time the record was closed.

The time for the issuance of the Initial Decision was twice extended by Order of the Commissioner until September 13, 2000.

TESTIMONY

Joseph Pisauro, was the Vice Principal at Abraham Clark High School in 1998,. He was required to assist the Principal of the High School. On the morning of April 30, a 19 year old female student, A.F., came to his office and told him that she was having problems with the respondent. She related that the respondent was asking for her phone and beeper numbers. Further, that he was asking her to go out with him. She reported feeling pressured because the respondent told her "you're a senior . . . you need me." Pisauro immediately left his office to speak with the principal.

Pisauro admitted that student phone numbers are logged on a computer that is accessible to the teachers. He further admitted that in the initial interview with him, A.F. did not talk about the teacher touching her blouse. However, the conversation was abrupted terminated when he realized that the matter was beyond the scope of his responsibilities.

Kenneth L. Holmes, Principal of Abraham Clark High School, confirmed that on the morning of April 30, 1998, Pisauro came to him and related that A.F. had complained about a teacher. He investigated the matter by interviewing A.F. A.F. essentially related that the respondent had asked for her phone numbers; had pulled a string on her blouse; and had said "senior, senior you need me." A.F. further related that although she did the same work as her friends, her grades were lower. She believed that she was failing the respondent's class because she would not date him.

After his interview with A.F., Holmes interviewed two other students, C.R. and K.Fr. (hereinafter K.) The students were interviewed individually and they did not know of his interview of A.F. Holmes was familiar with the three students as he was previously their teacher.

P-1 is a memoralization of his interviews with the students. R-1 is an affidavit submitted by Holmes in support of the Board's tenure charges. Holmes called A.F.'s mother about the situation. The mother replied that she had been advised of same by her daughter on April 29th.

Under cross-examination, Holmes admitted that he was present when the police questioned three other students about this incident. These students were not the same students that he interviewed. He did not take notes during the police interviews.

On May 1, 1998, he interviewed the respondent. His notes were given to the Superintendent of schools who suspended the respondent that same day. He did not make a recommendation in his report.

Holmes admits that he believed that the string on A.F.'s dress, if pulled, would expose her. He did not know that the string was merely decorative.

After the respondent was suspended, he found a stack of test papers "a foot high" in the respondent's locker, which essentially verified his students complaints that he failed to give them their test papers back. Moreover, the respondent's filing cabinet was filled with papers from "months ago" that were not graded. He did not look at the respondent's grade book, believing that any grade could have been recently recorded. Conversely, he opined that the test papers would prove whether the respondent was marking A.F.'s test scores differently from the other student. However, the respondent was unable produce A.F.'s test papers. Subsequently, un-graded test papers and homework assignments were found in a garbage bag. The records were in such disarray that some students had to be retested.

A.F. testified that from 1993 to 1998 she was a special education student in Abraham Clark High School. The respondent was her biology teacher. She had biology everyday. On April 30, 1998, she reported to the school administrators that she was having a problem with the respondent. The problem was that her two study mates (K. and C.) were passing and she was failing, notwithstanding that she did the same amount of work as they did. She related that the respondent had asked to take her to the movies and asked for her phone number.

The biology class was for 10th graders and she was a senior (12th grade). However, she needed the extra credit to graduate. A fact that the respondent knew. During the last week in September, (the first marking period), the respondent asked her for her phone and beeper numbers. He also asked her to go to the movies with him. She rejected him both times. On October 20, 1997, the respondent asked her what she "was going to be for Halloween." It was customary for seniors to dress up for Halloween. She told him that she was going to be a doctor. The respondent responded that, "ooh, could you be my doctor." During the first half of the school year, the respondent would repeatedly tell her that she had a nice body. During the second marking period, the respondent asked her out to the movies on two occasions. He continued to ask her for her telephone number.

A.F. admitted wearing both tight clothes and very loose clothes. The respondent would compliment her on her attire. On April 29, 1998, she was wearing a pair of tight blue plaid bell-bottom pants and a long white tank shirt underneath a sheer blouse. While in the classroom, the respondent "grabbed her thigh, trying to pull on her pants". Subsequently, A.F. explained that the respondent attempted to pull her pants, however her pants were so tight that he made contact with her thigh. Thereafter, he pulled the string on the back of her shirt. The string loosened and when she attempted to retie it, the respondent told her "that's okay, I'll tie it up for you." She proceeded to retie the strings and walked away from him. This incident, as well as the request for her phone number, took place during class time in the presence of others. She noted that her class seat was located "all the way in the back of the classroom." She sat next to C. and K. The class has twelve tables and three rows.

K. saw the respondent touch her thigh and told him "you better stop." A.F. also told him to stop, which he did. The respondent proceeded to his desk. Subsequently, he returned to her desk and loosened the string on her blouse. The strings were attached to each side of the blouse at the waistline and tied at the back. The strings hung down outside a hole in the chair.

On another occasion, respondent placed his knee in the opening and touched her back. A.F. further testified that the respondent would wink and stare at her during the 97-98 school year. He would look at her from head to toe in a sexual way. The respondent also asked her if she liked to walk on the beach. On several occasions, the respondent would sit at his desk and say, "senior, senior, you need me." She understood this to mean that if she didn't do her work she would not graduate. She was also fearful because she had refused to date him. She noted that her study partners K and C. would get a 75 and 70, respectively on their test, however she would receive a grade of 65.

A.F. was aware that was another senior in the classroom. However, the respondent's comments, senior, senior were in the singular sense.

She reported the respondent's conduct because she was afraid of failing. Further, she was concerned about her reputation, as she feared that the respondent would discuss her with other teachers.

Under cross-examination, A.F. conceded that her home number is on file with the school. She was aware that beepers were not allowed in school, however she denied ever having one confiscated from her.

A.F. acknowledged that in order to graduate, she had to pass the respondent's class. In the first marking period, she received a grade of 70; a 65 for the second and third marking periods. Thus, in April 1998 she was failing. Grades for the class consisted of test, dittos, notebooks, homework and lab reports. She admits not turning in one of the lab reports during the first marking period and that she received a 79 on a test during the first marking period. During the second marking period she recalls receiving test grades of 75 and 74. She completed all homework assignments but admits that she did not turn her lab notebook in as required. She admits that this omission would cause her grade to be lower. However, she opined that it shouldn't have caused her grade to fall to 65.

A.F. further admitted "cutting" biology class on two or three occasions. She further admits that she had excused absences from school. She acknowledged that the written statement of her interview with Holmes does not refer to the respondent's alleged touching of her thigh; his looking at her in a sexual manner; his putting his knee to her back; or reference any talk about the beach. She further admitted that she did not tell her parents about the incidents until April 30th.

She was not aware of any warning notices being sent to her home. She was also unaware of the number of missed assignments. However, she denied failing to turn in 13 of 28 homework assignments. She denied getting two zeros and a 10 for three of the five grades given during the third marking period.

She admits telling the police that she did not know her test grades because she had not received them from the respondent. She denied that this was an inconsistency, because she believed that these grades were for tests taken in the first marking period. It was after the first marking period that the respondent failed to return test papers.

A.F. acknowledged that her statement to the police reflects that she denied that the respondent touched her body or treated her any different from the other students. (P-2).

Under redirect, A.F. clarified that she told the police that the respondent had grabbed her thigh. (P-2) Any denial that the respondent had touched her body was directed at an intimate touching, such as, touching her breasts. In that same interview, she related that she had told the principal about "what was going on" in an effort to get her grade changed because she didn't deserve those grades since she had done the same work as C. and K. Yet, she was failing and they were passing.

A.F. admits that while she told K. and C. that the respondent had asked her for a date, their individual statements given to the police do not confirm that they heard him do so. Further, their statements do not support her police statement that they had witnessed him touching her thigh.

K., a student in the respondent's biology class testified that A.F. called her at home and told her that the respondent had asked her out on a date to the movies. A.F. was "scared" because she needed to graduate and feared failing the class but felt she had to do something about it.

She saw the respondent winking at A.F. She also saw the respondent "press" his knee in A.F.'s back. A.F. told him to stop. On this occasion, she also observed the respondent pull strings on A.F.'s blouse and offered to retie them. Further, it was obvious from the way that the respondent looked at A.F. that he wanted to be with her.

On another occasion, she and A.F. were having a discussion about birthdays when the respondent interjected and asked A.F. when she was going to be an adult. A.F. responded that she would be 19 in February. The respondent then said, "you're an adult". During a conversation with A.F., the respondent approached them and said

"maybe me and you should be on the phone." K. also overheard the respondent tell A.F. that she had gained weight and wanted to know what she was eating.

Under cross-examination, K. admitted that A.F. told her that she was going to report the respondent. However, A.F. never told her that she would give her name to Holmes. Nor did A.F. request that she "back her up." K. acknowledged that she did not hear the respondent ask A.F. for her phone number. However, she was there when he pressed his knee into A.F.'s back and heard her ask him "what are you doing."

K. acknowledged telling Holmes that she got better grades than A.F. even though she believed that the two of them do the same work. K. admitted that the three of them were "talkative" in the classroom. Thus, the respondent had on one occasion removed her from her regularly assigned seat.

K. said she was generally a good student. During the first marking period, she completed all of her homework assignments whereas A.F. did not. She recalled that A.F. did complete her homework by the "late date". She believed that A.F. did her lab work but could not recall if she turned in a lab notebook. She recalled that A.F. did not have many absences from school.

Gregory John Brewer, respondent herein, testified that A.F. was a student in his general biology class. The class consisted of seventeen students, nine were ESL students, and one was a senior, (A.F.); the remainder were 9th and 10th graders. Grades were given on a numerical basis from 0 to 100. He kept grade and attendance books.

Two days prior to his May 1st suspension, he met with Principal Holmes who related A.F.'s complaint. After the meeting, he made a copy of his grade book for the biology class. He also copied the attendance records of A.F., C. and K. (R-4). As of that date, A.F. was absent some thirty-two (32) days; K was absent for nineteen (19) days; and C for twenty days (20).

In the first marking period, he assigned twenty-four homework assignments and A.F. completed four. K completed all assignments and C failed to turn in fourteen assignments, five of which were excused. There were four tests given in the first marketing period and A.F. received grades of 78, 77, 80 and 75. She received a 70 on her lab notebook. He noted that 60 is the lowest score that the school district allows.

During the second marking period, there were twenty-two homework assignments. A.F. completed nineteen assignments, thus three were missing. She completed all labs. There were also six tests during that marking period. She received a 75 on her class notebook. During the second marking period, there were two examinations, a mid term and a final. A.F. received a 39. on the final which constituted one fifth of her overall grade. A minimum grade of 50 is allowed on mid terms and finals. A.F. received an overall grade of 75 on her report card.

During the third marking period, A.F. completed fifteen of twenty homework assignments. There were five "labs" for which she received two zeros; a 10; and two 70's. There were six tests and she was given a 68, 74, 70, 60, 48 and a 52. She did not turn in her notebook and thus she received a zero. Her overall grade was a 65. Lab was usually twice a week and the students worked in groups of two and three. Students were required to turn in lab reports.

A.F. was talkative in class. She would play around, sleep and wouldn't follow directions. C. and K. also talked but would do their work. Therefore, they passed. He constantly warned her that she needed the class to graduate and explained to her why she was failing. She had no response.

The respondent denied asking A.F. for dates and for her telephone number. He denied commenting or touching A.F.'s body. He denied looking at her in a sexually suggestive manner. Nor did he pull the strings on her shirt. He did admit that he would give A.F. compliments on her clothing. He admits that A.F. jokingly asked him to take her to the movies or to the mall. He further emphasized that a student's home telephone number is a part of a teacher's records.

The respondent admitted telling Holmes that A.F.'s brother had given him her beeper number. (R-5). A.F.'s brother was a former student. Although, he had graduated, the respondent saw the brother in the school. The brother related that his parent's were concerned about A.F.'s grades. The brother gave him "his" beeper number to call if he had problems with A.F.

With respect to his past disciplinary record, the respondent admitted that on May 8, 1996 he cursed at a student. (P-3). He was under a great deal of personal stress because his wife had miscarried that same morning. He denied calling a student a "fag". (P-11). He admitted however that he accidentally hit a student. (P-5, P-6, P-7). He does not recall P-8. Respondent assert that he was never denied a salary increment.

Under cross examination, the respondent conceded that A.F.'s report card shows her attendance records during the 1997-98 school year. (P-9). It reveals that she was absent two (2) times during the first marking period; five (5) times during the second marking period, two (2) times during the third marking period; and eleven (11) times during the fourth marking period. Thus, A.F. had a total of 20 absences for four marking periods. However, respondent emphasized that P-9 does not show any "cuts" or school suspensions. He did not maintain any records on how many times A.F. "cut" his class. He does not recalls the weighing system he used to calculate class grades. He did recall however that tests, notebooks, homework and lab work were accorded different weights.

Respondent confirmed that K. was an above average student in his class. She did her work promptly and was generally well behaved. Further, she was respectful and truthful to her teachers.

C. was an average – to below average student. She had problems with talking and paying attention. Generally, she was truthful and respectful. He did not refer any requests for discipline to the principal's office for K. or C. He could not recall if he did so for A.F.

With respect to his statement, his answers reflect what he remembered at the time. (R-5) He did not have his grade book with him when he gave the statement. He had given the grade book to Holmes.

He concludes that K. lied in her testimony herein. He did not touch A.F. or look at her in any sexually suggestive manner.

D. W., a junior at High School, testified in support of the respondent. She was in the respondent's biology class and was acquainted with A.F. A.F. was talkative and did not do much work. She did not participate in class and was often late and or absent. A.F., K. and C., were often reprimanded by the respondent.

She never saw the respondent flirting or touching A.F. Indeed, he treated A.F. the same as all other students. While D.W. believed that A.F. did not do well in class, she did not actually see her test papers.

F.O.A.W., brother of D.W., testified that he observed A.F. "talking, eating, playing around and not working." A.F. would bring her lunch to class or would leave and go to the lunchroom and return with her lunch. The respondent told her not to bring food to class. However, A.F. ignored him.

A.F. would wait until the last minute to do her class work. Further, she did not take notes in class and would wait until the last moment.

The respondent treated everyone the same. He did not observe any flirting or touching between A.F. and the respondent. He recalled hearing A.F. ask the respondent if he would take her to the beach. The respondent told her no. He doesn't know whether the conversation was serious or in jest.

Under cross-examination, the witness admitted that he did not take any notes in class. He concludes that A.F. did not do her work because he did see her hand in any assignments.

M.S., also a student in the respondent's biology class testified that A.F. came to class late, talked in class and did not do her class work. A.F. did not participate in class. The respondent would tell A.F., C. and K. to do their work but they would not listen. The respondent treated A.F. as he did all students. He did not observe him flirting with A.F. M. S. admitted that he sat in front of A.F., K. and C. Thus, he could not see them unless he turned his chair around. However, he was able to hear them.

ARGUMENT

The Board maintains that respondent engaged in a continuing pattern of sexual harassment directed at a special education student. The testimony of A.F. was credible and was substantially corroborated by the testimony of K. Thus, terminating respondent is more than justifiable and proven by a preponderance of the evidence, whether one looks at each instance individually, or collectively. The unrelenting advances made by respondent directed at a female special education student are of such a nature that the only appropriate penalty is removal from his position under N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.4.

The respondent contends that he did not engage in any inappropriate conduct with respect to A.F. Respondent argues that A.F. was not a credible witness because there were many inconsistencies between her testimony at the hearing, the statement she gave to Holmes and the statement she gave to the police. Likewise, respondent asserts that K. was not a credible witness.

Further, the respondent maintains that Holmes interviewed students besides the three girls that gave statements, and although he took notes of those interviews they were destroyed or well not in his possession. There were approximately 15 students in the class aside from the three who gave statements, however, Holmes never spoke to any of the other students. Thus, the respondent contends that an unfavorable inference should be drawn against the Board.

Finally, the respondent argues that the Board failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that he engaged in unbecoming conduct based on the lack of credible testimony from A.F. and K. A.F.'s poor performance in the class and her fear that she would not pass, and the inadequate investigation conducted by Holmes. Therefore, respondent maintains that the charges should be dismissed.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

The New Jersey Supreme Court illustrated the importance of the tenure statutes stating, "tenure is an item that intimately and directly affects the work and welfare of public employees." Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 (1985). "In the context of the public school teacher tenure statute, tenure 'prevents school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power . . . in contract negotiations.' It protects employees from dismissal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118 (citing Spiewack v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). The Court further acknowledged: "once the status of tenure is earned, it provides a measure of job security to those who continue to perform their jobs properly." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118.

A tenured teacher may be dismissed for "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause," only after a hearing in compliance with the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to –30.1. The burden is on the board that certified the charges to prove them by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In Re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982).

In the instant matter, the Board seeks to dismiss the respondent, thereby revoking his tenure on charges of conduct unbecoming. Although unbecoming conduct is not specifically defined in the statute or regulations, in Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), it was established that the touchstone of the charge is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. See also, In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 28-29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974). Beyond the field of education, conduct unbecoming a public employee has been defined as an "elastic standard that incorporates any conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the bureau ... [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). When such conduct creates a hostile and potentially dangerous environment, it also constitutes just cause for major discipline under the civil service laws. Perry v. Mercer County Department of Public Safety, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (CSV) 834, 837. A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific rule or regulation, but rather may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. Emmons, supra, 63 N.J. Super. at 140; Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

Conduct unbecoming is a type of disciplinary charge that is determined on a case-by-case basis and can embrace a wide range of conduct. The use of physical force by a teacher to maintain discipline was held to be unbecoming conduct. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). A teacher with an uncontrollable temper who verbally and physically abused students was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct. Matter of Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737, 741 (App. Div. 1988). Ultimately, consideration must be given to "the gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation, or aggravation," and "any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. at 422. It is, however, important to recognize that "unfitness to remain a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant." Id. at 421 (citations omitted).

Teachers are held to a high standard of conduct because of the influence they exercise over the students of the State. In In re Tenure Hearing of Bradley, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d. (EDE) 13, it was held that "[a] teacher should possess personal qualities valued by our society because a teacher helps to shape the attitudes of young minds toward that society." Id. at 15. It necessarily follows that their duties require "a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment" because teachers have been entrusted with the care and custody of children. In re Tenure Hearing of Lucarelli, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 537, 541 (citations omitted).

Thus, in In re Tenure Hearing of Hovington, EDU 4318-95S & 225-96S (consolidated), Final Decision, (August 5, 1997), adopted, State Board, (January 21, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/, a physical education teacher and coach of the women's track team was dismissed from his tenured position for engaging in an inappropriate relationship with a student and for inappropriately touching another student. The Commissioner found that the teacher's behavior constituted unbecoming conduct based on the finding that he had sexual contact with a student on a repetitive basis. Ibid. The sexual contact therein involved kissing a student on the lips. Ibid. In re Tenure Hearing of McClelland, No. A-152-83T2 (App. Div. Jul. 20, 1984), a tenured teacher was charged with conduct unbecoming based upon, "his habitual flagrant conduct in touching, caressing and hugging minor female students in his charge." Id. at 2. The teacher argued that dismissal was too severe a penalty considering his outstanding reputation. In reversing the penalty imposed by the ALJ, the Commissioner found that dismissal was warranted because his "proclivities ... far exceed the bounds of good judgment and restraint." Id. at 3. The Appellate Division described the Commissioner's penalty as harsh but nevertheless affirmed the decision on the grounds that it cannot be said "that it lacks substantial support by credible evidence in the record." Id. at 6.

The disposition of sexual misconduct allegations often depend on an assessment of credibility. In In re Tenure Hearing of Ciufi, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d. (EDU) 980, a student alleged that a tenured assistant principal had kissed her and placed her hand on his penis while she was in his office. Based on the circumstances of the case, the ALJ was forced to put great weight on the credibility of the witnesses because the assistant principal and the student were alone in the office. The student was found to be credible while the assistant principal was deemed an incredulous witness in that he was "fidgeting, perspiring and being evasive in his answers." Ibid. Id. at 898. In re Tenure Hearing of Mantone, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d. (EDU) 322, 323 a teacher was dismissed for writing love letters to two female students. The letters stated, that the student had "a beautiful body", that he found her to be "very attractive" and he "wondered what it would be like to be with her". Id. at 323-24. The Commissioner sustained the tenure charges found that dismissal was appropriate. Id. at 326. There, it was held that:

> Conduct condemned as sexual harassment in the workplace will not be tolerated in a school setting, where adolescents are entitled to greater protection. Although many of the reported tenure cases involve fondling or other examples of actual physical contact, that aspect is not an indispensable element of an "unbecoming conduct" charge. It is enough that ... [the teacher] misused his authority and destroyed the mutual respect necessary for a successful teacher-pupil relationship.... [The teacher's] behavior will not be excused merely because his two intended victims had the good sense to reject his improper advances.
> [Mantone, supra, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 324(citations omitted).]

I FIND credible the testimony of A.F. that the respondent asked her for her phone and beeper number; asked on her dates to the movies; looked at her in a sexual manner; compliments her on her appearance; and untied her blouse. These actions and the respondent's superior position constitute sexual harassment.

I FIND the testimony of K to be credible. I am persuaded that A.F. told her two friends that the respondent was attempting to date her. Contrary to the respondent's assertion, I FIND the minor discrepancies in the testimonies of K and A.F. support that their actions were not contrived.

I do not FIND credible the testimony of the respondent that A.F.'s brother came to school and gave him his beeper number. It is noted here that the respondent told Holmes that A.F.'s brother gave him her beeper number.

Further, I FIND incredulous the respondent's testimony that he copied the three students grades from his grade book. The grades submitted into evidence in this proceeding is not a copy taken from a grade book. Rather, it is a document construed by the respondent. Further, his grade book cannot be found. I reject the respondent's testimony that the grade book was given to Holmes. Moreover, as Holmes testified test papers would have proved one way or the other whether the respondent was grading A.F. differently from the other students. However, this could not have been done since the respondent had not properly maintained the class records. Indeed, many test papers were found ungraded in a garbage bag and in a file cabinet. Respondent did not file any disciplinary complaints or cut slips with the principle on the three students. Thus, his testimony cannot be corrobated. Such conduct by itself is a manifestation of incompentency and inefficiency.

The precedents controlling this matter are clear. Conduct, as exhibited by the respondent is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. I CONCLUDE that the respondent's removal from his position is the only appropriate remedy.

The next issue for resolution is whether the respondent was entitled to be returned to the payroll on the 121st day of suspension notwithstanding that he is compensated on a 10-month pay schedule.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 an employee of a board of education who is suspended from his employment may be suspended with or without pay at the discretion of the board. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 sets forth specific procedures for suspending tenure employees after the certification of tenure charges. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 provides, in full:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the Commissioner of Education is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made. Should the charge be dismissed, the person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of such suspension. Should the charge be dismissed and the suspension be continued during an appeal there from, then the full pay or salary of such person shall continue until the determination of the appeal. However, the board of education shall deduct from said full pay or salary any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension. Should the charge be sustained on the original hearing or an appeal there from, and should such person appeal from the same, then the suspension may be continued unless and until such determination is reversed, in which event he shall be reinstated immediately with full pay as of the time of such suspension.

Thus, the Legislature has mandated the full payment of salary to a charged tenured employee on the 121st day subsequent to the certification of charges where there has been no determination by the Commissioner. The court in In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13 (App. Div. 1974), cert. denied 65 N.J. 292 (1974), articulated the purpose of the statute:

> It seems clear that in enacting it the Legislature must have had in mind the economic hardship endured by teachers and other board of education employees suspended without pay pending the outcome of charges filed against them and certified for hearing to the Commissioner of Education. We are certain, moreover, of the Legislature's awareness that in many instances, because of the volume of matters awaiting hearing, a prompt disposition of charges is not feasible. Thus, the obvious intent and purpose of the amendment was to alleviate the financial plight of those affected by providing for the payment of their full salary (less sums received from other employment during suspension) from the 121st day following the certification of charges until the determination thereof by the Commissioner, or in the case of an appeal by a board from a decision adverse to it, until the determination of the appeal.
> [Grossman, supra, 127 N.J. Super. at 35-36]

The determination that must be made, in order to toll the payment of salary during a suspension, is the Commissioner's decision on the merits of the case and not the initial decision. Caporaso v. Bd. of Educ. of Belleville, 1987 S.L.D. 1005, 1020, 1021. The case law also indicates that the Commissioner's decision need not be the absolute final decision but must be a decision on the merits. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Anthony Grandrino, No. A-3190-81 (App. Div. Mar. 18, 1983).

There are no exceptions to the statute's requirement that payment to the suspended person of his or her full salary resumes on the 121st day following certification of charges and until the Commissioner renders a decision. See, Bd. of Educ. of Asbury Park v. Martin, 1985 S.L.D. 1958 (unreported App. Div. Decision). Nor does a provision exist for repayment to the school district upon a determination adverse to the affected person. Barshatky v.

Freehold Reg. High Schl. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 71, 73. However, "the provision for reinstatement of salary after 120 days excludes in the time computation all delays" caused by the charged employee. Ott v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamilton Twp., 160 N.J. Super. 333, 342 (App. Div. 1978), certif. denied 78 N.J. 336 (1978); Priceton Reg. Schl. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Campbell, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 196, 224. Additionally, the salary owed by a board of education will be set off by pay or salary earned by the suspended person from substitute employment assumed during suspension. School Dist. of Willingboro et al. v. Gilbert, 3 N.J.A.R. 206, 208, 209 (1982).

In the instant case, it is not disputed that the mandate concerning the payment of salary on the 121st day applies to respondent. There is, however, a dispute pertaining to whether the summer months count toward the calculation of 120 days in circumstances where the tenured employee is compensated on a 10-month pay schedule.

The Commissioner has held that the time period of suspension without pay is limited to a total of 120 calendar days, including weekends, vacations, holidays, summer vacations, and any other day falling within a period of 120 days from the commencement of the suspension. In re Tenure Hearing of Walter Kizer, 1974 S.L.D. 501; In re Tenure Hearing of Anthony Polito, 1974 S.L.D. 662; In re Tenure Hearing of Matilda Grabert, 1977 S.L.D. 163. In support of the assertion that the summer months are included within the 120 days, in Kizer, supra, the Commissioner pointed out that, "the Legislature did not say 'school calendar days' as it certainly could have done." Kizer, supra, 1974 S.L.D. at 504. The tenured employee in Kizer, supra was under a 10-month teaching contract. Ibid. Therefore, the summer months were incorrectly excluded from the computation of the 120 days, thus respondent should have been restored to his salary on October 16, 1998, rather than December 15, 1998. Thus, I FIND that the respondent is entitled to back pay for the period between October 16 and December 15, 1998.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that the mitigating factors do not support the respondent's continued employment with the Roselle public schools. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the appropriate penalty is removal from his tenured teaching position.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Gregory J. Brewer be removed from his teaching position with the School District of the Borough of Roselle, Union County and that all of his tenure rights be extinguished.

It is further ORDERED that the respondent be given back pay for a period of October 16 through December 15, 1998.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF GREGORY J. BREWER, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF ROSELLE, UNION COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

On October 3, 2000, one day after filing his exceptions, respondent filed a Motion to Re-Open the Hearing After the Initial Decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.5, wherein he maintains that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Initial Decision findings and conclusions with respect to his credibility were clearly erroneous and were supported by no competent proof, so that he seeks to have the hearing in this tenure matter reopened to allow additional evidence to be introduced. The Board submitted reply exceptions and a response to the motion on a timely basis. In that resolution of respondent's motion could impact upon the Commissioner's assessment of the Initial Decision, the within decision will commence with such determination.

In his exceptions and his motion[1] respondent argues that this entire tenure case

[1] It is noted that the parties' motion papers only briefly highlight arguments advanced in detail in their exception submissions. To allow a full understanding of their respective positions on this one particular issue, the documents have been synthesized to present the full argumentation advanced with regard to this issue.

turns on the credibility of the Board's witnesses as opposed to that of respondent and his witnesses. He vehemently challenges certain of the ALJ's findings and conclusions which he contends were based on nonexistent or incompetent evidence, or on misstatements of testimony, and which entailed a shifting of the burden of proof to respondent, leading the ALJ to make erroneous determinations with respect to respondent's credibility. Respondent urges that in light of the ALJ's clear and prejudicial error, failure to reopen the proceedings would result in a miscarriage of justice.

Specifically, the ALJ's Initial Decision made the following limited findings with regard to respondent's credibility:

> I do not FIND credible the testimony of the respondent that A.F.'s brother came to school and gave him his beeper number. It is noted here that the respondent told Holmes that A.F.'s brother gave him her beeper number.
>
> Further, I FIND incredulous the respondent's testimony that he copied the three students grades from his grade book. The grades submitted into evidence in this proceeding is not a copy taken from a grade book. Rather, it is a document construed by the respondent. Further, his grade book cannot be found. I reject the respondent's testimony that the grade book was given to Holmes. Moreover, as Holmes testified test papers would have proved one way or the other whether the respondent was grading A.F. differently from the other students. However, this could not have been done since the respondent had not properly maintained the class records. Indeed, many test papers were found ungraded in a garbage bag and in a file cabinet. Respondent did not file any disciplinary complaints or cut slips with the principle [sic] on the three students. Thus, his testimony cannot be corrobated [sic]. Such conduct by itself is a manifestation of incompetency and inefficiency. (Initial Decision at 18)

Respondent contends that, for the following reasons, each of these findings upon which the ALJ relied to find his testimony incredible is incorrect:

1. Respondent states that he testified that A.F.'s brother, Ge.F., concerned that his sister was not in class, asked him where she was, stating that his parents were worried about her grades. Respondent cites specific hearing testimony to establish that he asked Ge.F. for his beeper number, not A.F.'s beeper number. He opines that the Board could have challenged this sworn testimony by calling A.F.'s brother as a witness, which it chose not to do. Consequently, respondent's testimony with regard to his conversation with Ge.F. is unrebutted and, therefore, the credibility findings of the ALJ in this instance "were based on incompetent hearsay evidence." (Respondent's Exceptions at 20-21)
2. In determining that respondent's testimony that he hand copied information regarding absences, homework assignments, laboratory assignments, test results and grades for A.F. and her two friends (Exhibit R-4) from his grade book was incredulous, the ALJ ignored A.F.'s report card which was introduced into evidence by the Board as Exhibit P-9. This Board exhibit, respondent contends, is essentially a "mirror image" of respondent's Exhibit R-4. Therefore, he queries, if he didn't copy this information from his grade book, what could he possibly have used to formulate Exhibit R-4. Consequently, he advances, "the grades which were contained in R-4 were precisely what respondent testified under oath they were and not a document 'construed by the respondent' as found by the ALJ." (Respondent's Exceptions at 2-4)

Additionally, with regard to this ALJ finding, Certification of respondent's counsel in support of his Motion to Re-Open the Hearing states that at one of their conferences respondent had showed him photostatic copies of certain pages of his grade book, which he said he had utilized to compile Exhibit R-4. Counsel claims that because the exhibit adequately represented the grades, test scores, homework, lab grades and notebook, he did not retain the photostatic copies. Inasmuch as Board counsel had sent a letter to the ALJ on October 22, 1999 wherein he was seeking an additional hearing date to present certain additional witnesses to refute certain portions of respondent's testimony in an attempt to impugn his credibility, counsel here avers that he planned to introduce the photostatic grade sheets at that time, as well as examine Mr. Holmes and call the President of the Roselle Education Association as a witness in rebuttal to anticipated testimony of the Board's additional witnesses. He further states that rather than proceed in accordance with his letter, Board counsel chose to rest without calling any rebuttal witnesses. (Motion to Re-Open the Hearing, Certification of Harold N. Springstead, dated September 29, 2000)

3. The ALJ's statement rejecting what she asserts was respondent's testimony that his grade book was given to Holmes is baseless as is her intimation that it is somehow repondent's fault that his grade book cannot be found. He again cites hearing transcripts for the proposition that he testified that the day he left he turned in the attendance and grade book, pointing out that such testimony never asserted that these records were turned over to Holmes. (Respondent's Exceptions at 4) Moreover, respondent asserts, the Board advanced no testimony or evidence that the grade book could not be found; that anyone in the District looked for his grade book or attendance records; or that anyone sent respondent a letter seeking them. Respondent advances that instead of placing the onus on the him for his nonproduction of records that his uncontroverted testimony stated he did not possess, the ALJ should have drawn an adverse inference against the Board for its failure to produce these records. (Id. at 5)

4. Respondent charges that the ALJ placed the burden of proof on him to come up with test papers, which testimony indicates were customarily graded and returned to students, to prove that he wasn't grading A.F. differently from other students, undoubtedly an impossible burden. (Id. at 5-6)

5. Contrary to the ALJ's finding, the record of this matter contains no proof that respondent did not properly maintain class records. Once again, he avers, the ALJ "shifted the burden of proof to the respondent to show that the papers which the Board never produced were somehow not related to the grades." (Id. at 9) Here, respondent avers, the Board failed to introduce any testimony as to the nature of the stacks of papers found, never produced any of these documents, nor did it present any foundation to support its assertion that many tests were left ungraded. It stands to reason, he argues, that if A.F.'s name appeared on any test or homework assignment, the Board could have introduced it as proof that respondent was treating this student differently. It is evident, respondent charges, the ALJ shifted the burden to him to produce records which he did not have and used his failure to do so to discredit his credibility.

6. Contrary to the ALJ's finding, Exhibit R-4 (respondent's summary from his grade book) indicates that he filed cut slips for A.F.'s nonattendance in his class. He cites to hearing testimony to explain that, notwithstanding that A.F.'s report card only showed 20 absences from school for the year, this number "doesn't include in-school suspension, ISS; out of school suspension; or cuts." (citations omitted)

(Respondent's Exceptions at 9) As such, it was the Board's burden, as the keeper of these records, to discredit respondent's Exhibit R-4, which they failed to do.

7. For some unknown reason, respondent charges, the ALJ found that because he had a one-foot-thick pile of papers, which allegedly were student papers or records, his conduct evidenced incompetency and inefficiency. Respondent avers that "[t]his gratuitous afterthought was neither alleged or proven and is not substantiated by the record presented." (Respondent's Exceptions at 10) Here, he asserts, the Board found papers which they never claimed supported their allegation that he gave A.F. undeserved grades because she refused to date him. Although these supposedly "important" papers were in the Board's possession, they never found it necessary to analyze, copy or produce them. Consequently, respondent posits, it would appear that the Board, rather than respondent, was inefficient and incompetent. More importantly, respondent submits, it is obvious that in this instance "[t]he ALJ relied upon the non production of evidence to discredit respondent's testimony. The pile of unidentified and undisclosed papers was transformed into ungraded tests which, in turn, [were] transformed into tests that A.F. never got back, which then became evidence supporting A.F., and Holmes' testimony and findings of respondent's manifestation of incompetency and inefficiency (Dec. pg. 18)." (emphasis in text) (Respondent's Exceptions at 11) This line of reasoning in the ALJ's findings of fact, respondent contends, is totally based on incompetent evidence. (Ibid.)

In conclusion, respondent avows that all of the erroneous and unsupported findings made by the ALJ which led her to disparage respondent's credibility require the reopening of the record of this matter for further testimony and evidence. Respondent urges that, inasmuch as the entire case here turns on the issue of credibility, the Commissioner exercise his discretion to reopen the hearing, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.5(b), in the interest of justice.

In reply, the Board argues that respondent's arguments here "are an attempt at misdirection from the real and critical issues of Respondent's inappropriate behavior with a student." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 7) Whether respondent copied student grades from his grade book; whether his grade book was turned in to the District; whether the District produces student records in its possession; whether or not respondent maintained proper class records; whether respondent filed "cut slips"; or whether or not respondent was incompetent or inefficient are tangential in this matter, dealing only with the "maintaining of records." It asserts that the Board's tenure charges and heart of the case here is inappropriate sexual misconduct directed at a special education student. (Id. at 6) The Board charges that "respondent attempts to use peripheral record keeping issues which have nothing to do with the allegations of sexual misconduct by the Respondent to somehow attack the credibility of the student who[m] the sexual misconduct was directed at, and the student witnesses who supported many of the allegations made against the Respondent." (Board's Opposition to Respondent's Motion to Re-open at 3) Specifically, it posits:

> Whether or not the Respondent had the grade book, or copied information from the grade book,[w]hether the Principal did see or did not see the grade book is of no moment. This does not change the credible facts placed before Judge Irene Jones that Respondent asked A.F. to go on dates to the movies and it does not change the testimony that he commented to the student that she had a beautiful body, and it does not change the testimony concerning the way this teacher looked at the student. Whether or not the grade book was turned in by the Respondent to the school district has no impact on testimony that this teacher made very personal and inappropriate overtures to a special education student who was under his control. Whether or not turning a grade book into[sic] a school district is unrelated to the credibility of witnesses who stated that this teacher touched or grabbed the thigh of A.F.

> and pulled on her blouse and removing a string which was part of the garment causing it to open. This conduct is unrelated to any inappropriate actions by the Respondent. We would point out that whether A.F. was a good or bad student and whether or not A.F. had good or bad grades or even whether or not A.F. was a major disciplinary problem, the conduct of this teacher concerning the allegations of sexual misconduct are the controlling issues. No student, whether or not exceptional in school or an educational disappointment, should be subject to the behavior of this teacher as testified in detail below. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 7-8)

Finally, the Board urges that respondent's motion be denied as an application to reopen is extraordinary relief and should not be granted except, possibly, in cases "where new witnesses came forward, which would strike at the heart of the sexual misconduct allegations ." Such is not the case here. Rather, it proffers, "the information which Respondent seeks to have introduced was available to him at the time he testified." (Board's Opposition to Respondent's Motion to Re-open at 3-4) He did not have to wait for the Board to call rebuttal witnesses to himself offer additional testimony or witnesses on these record-keeping issues which, it maintains, whether accurate or inaccurate, have no bearing on whether he committed acts of sexual misconduct against a special education student. (Id.) Furthermore, it argues, in making her credibility determinations the ALJ "had the ability to listen to the testimony and observe the method and manner of Mr. Brewer's appearance and testimony before her. She simply did not believe that Mr. Brewer was a credible witness. This determination should be given weight since court was present throughout the proceedings." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 9)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which includes transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL,[2] along with the parties' Initial Decision exception arguments and motion submissions, the Commissioner determines that interests of fairness dictate that respondent's Motion to Re-open the Hearing be granted and this matter be remanded to the OAL for further proceedings. In so concluding, the Commissioner finds that it is beyond dispute that paramount to the ultimate resolution of this case is the credibility of the witnesses. Although cognizant of the principles of law dealing with reviewing credibility determinations and duly recognizing the due weight which must be accorded the ALJ in this regard since, in addition to receiving testimony and evidence, she also had the opportunity to observe the witnesses and their demeanor, (See Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185 (App. Div. 1976); Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2 (App. Div. 2000), slip op. at 14.) the Commissioner's independent review of the record, including a thorough scrutiny of the transcripts, compels him to agree with respondent that the within ALJ's stated determinations with regard to respondent's credibility were based, in large part, on facts not supported by evidence in the record.

The Commissioner is also obliged to remain mindful that in this, as in all tenure matters, his ultimate decision could have a profound effect on respondent and his family, his professional career, and his reputation in the community. Given the gravity of the allegations, i.e., sexual misconduct directed at a special education student, and the significance of the stakes at issue here, the Commissioner concludes that it is essential that respondent be provided with an opportunity for entry into the record of such further testimony and evidence as will permit the critical determinations relating to credibility to be based on a full and fair record.

The Commissioner does, however, adopt that portion of the ALJ's recommended decision which concludes that respondent is entitled to back pay for the period October 16, 1998 to December 15, 1998 for the reasons aptly stated on pages 19-21 of her decision.

Accordingly, respondent's Motion to Re-Open the Hearing After the Initial Decision is hereby granted. The Initial Decision of the ALJ with respect to the tenure charges is set aside and this matter shall be remanded to the OAL for further proceedings in conformance with the instant decision. The Board is hereby directed to pay respondent salary for the period between October 16, 1998 and December 15, 1998.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, sister of M.S., challenged the Board's residency determination that M.S. was not eligible for a free public education in West Orange. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of ineligible attendance.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that M.S. was eligible for a free public education in the District. Petitioner did not prove that M.S.'s parents in Haiti were not capable of supporting or providing care for her due to a family or economic hardship. (N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1) Petition was dismissed. The ALJ concluded that petitioner should be assessed the tuition due the Board.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own and ordered petitioner assessed tuition in the amount of $5,473.20.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11823-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 279-9/99

M.S. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

M.S., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 12, 2000 Decided: October 26, 2000

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

M.S. (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (hereinafter "respondent") in regard to her sister, M.S. Respondent seeks tuition reimbursement for an alleged period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition on September 15, 1999, invoking the authority of the Commissioner of Education to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on October 7, 1999, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 18, 1999, for determination as a contested case. The hearing was conducted on September 11, 2000, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

ISSUES

The issue in this proceeding in whether M.S. meets the requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) to attend respondent's public schools free of charge during the period from September 22, 1999, to March 24, 2000. Respondent denied eligibility during this period of time based upon the view that petitioner did not establish through an affidavit from M.S.'s parents that they were not capable of supporting or providing care for M.S. due to a family or economic hardship. Thus, the specific issue in this case in whether M.S.'s parents were not capable of supporting or providing care for M.S. due to a family or economic hardship.

FACTS

There is no real dispute as to the underlying facts in this matter, and I FIND as follows. M.S. was born in Brooklyn, New York, on November 23, 1987, and she is a U.S. citizen. Shortly thereafter, M.S. was taken to Haiti, where she lived with her parents. Her father is E.S., and her mother is M.M.J.S. E.S. is also the father of petitioner in this matter, and M.S. is the younger half sister of petitioner.

E.S. was a captain in the army in Haiti. E.S., M.M.J.S. and their three daughters, including M.S., lived in a three-bedroom house in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. M.S. was sent to an international school, where the students were taught in both English and French. E.S. paid tuition to send M.S. to this private school. The other two daughters, who are now eight and eighteen years of age, attended public school in Haiti. M.M.J.S. is a homemaker and is not employed. In the home, the family has a telephone, a television, a small stove and indoor plumbing. E.S. has a car, but it is not running. E.S. is in his sixties and is in good health. M.M.J.S. is considerably younger and is also in good health.

After E.S. retired from the military, he was supposed to receive a pension. However, he does not always receive the payment promptly. Petitioner has sent E.S. money from time to time.

In 1995, petitioner went to Haiti for a vacation. During that visit, E.S. asked petitioner for help with M.S. After petitioner returned from the visit, E.S. telephoned petitioner and asked her to take M.S. Petitioner agreed to take M.S., who arrived in June 1996 by plane from Haiti.

At the time, petitioner was living in Irvington, New Jersey, with her three children. M.S. was accepted into the Irvington public schools as an affidavit student.

In 1999, petitioner moved to West Orange and enrolled her three children in the public schools there. The registrar asked petitioner to complete an affidavit with respect to M.S. and to provide an affidavit from her parents. At the time, M.S. was eleven years old, and petitioner was seeking to enroll her in the sixth grade.

Petitioner provided her affidavit which is dated September 1, 1999. As set forth in the affidavit, M.S. lives at 10 N.K. Place in West Orange, petitioner is supporting M.S. gratis, petitioner will assume all personal obligations for M.S., and petitioner intends to keep and support M.S. indefinitely.

Petitioner also presented an affidavit from E.S. Petitioner completed the affidavit because E.S. speaks French, and E.S. signed it. The affidavit states that E.S. is not capable of supporting or providing care for M.S. Specifically, the economy in Haiti is very bad, and E.S. is unemployed. Life in the United States would be better for M.S. Further, the American schools in Haiti are costly with the result that E.S. cannot pay for M.S.'s education. M.S. will remain with petitioner for a longer period of time than the school term.

Respondent denied petitioner's application to enroll M.S. in its public schools because the affidavit did not establish that there was a family or economic hardship. After petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education, M.S. was admitted to respondent's public schools. On March 24, 2000, the Superior Court of New Jersey entered an order granting custody of M.S. to petitioner. Respondent is not contesting M.S.'s eligibility from that date forward. M.S. entered the seventh grade in respondent's public schools in September 2000.

The period from September 22, 1999, to March 24, 2000 includes 120 school days. At a per diem rate of $45.61, the total tuition for the disputed period is $5,473.20.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Attendance at public schools shall be free to any person who meets age requirements, is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, and satisfies other specific requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). One of the other specific requirements is that the child's parent or guardian is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship. Ibid.

Here, both of M.S.'s parents are in good health. While E.S. has reduced income as a result of his retirement, the family continues to live in a three-bedroom home. One specific concern mentioned by E.S. in his affidavit is that he can no longer afford to send N.S. to a private school where she would be educated in French and English. While it is understandable that E.S. would want M.S. educated in English considering all of the circumstances, an inability to afford a private school does not constitute the type of a hardship contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to prove by a preponderance of the believable evidence that M.S. met the requirements to be eligible for a free education in respondent's public schools during the period from September 22, 1999, to March 24, 2000.

In regard to respondent's request for tuition reimbursement, the applicable statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), which provides in pertinent part as follows:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district.

Here, the tuition for the period of ineligible attendance is $5,473.20. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner should be assessed tuition in the amount of $5,473.20.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The petition in this matter be dismissed.

2. Respondent's request for assessment of tuition in the amount of $5,473.20 for the period of ineligible attendance is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

In her exceptions, petitioner disputes the finding by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that M.S.'s parents are capable of supporting and providing care for her. Petitioner asserts that it was unfair of the ALJ to base his decision regarding economic hardship on what M.S.'s father owns, because the fact that M.S.'s father owns a house does not mean that he does not have an economic problem. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2-3) Petitioner avers that the three-bedroom house her parents own is about 14-15 years old, and although it does have indoor plumbing, there is no water coming through the pipes. Petitioner also states that her father's car has been parked for years due to engine failure and that his television set is a 13" black and white one. (Id. at 2) Further, petitioner contends that if she had known that she would be responsible for tuition while awaiting the court's decision, she would not have sent M.S. to school because "I knew I would not be able to pay this kind of money." (Id. at 3)

[1] Respondent did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision nor reply to petitioner's exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the decision of the ALJ. Notwithstanding petitioner's assertions that M.S.'s parents have economic problems, as noted by the ALJ, M.S.'s parents are both in good health, are living on a retirement income and own their own home. Additionally, the father of M.S. states in his affidavit that his reason for sending his daughter to be educated in the United States is because he can no longer afford to send his daughter to a private school in Haiti. The Commissioner agrees that, while it is understandable that a private school education where M.S. would receive instruction in both French and English might be preferable to M.S.'s parents, an inability to afford a private school does not constitute the type of hardship contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1.

With respect to petitioner's contention that she was not aware that she could be assessed tuition, the Commissioner notes that the affidavit for nonresident pupils she signed, and the acknowledgement letters that were sent to her from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes refer her to the applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Commissioner also observes that respondent's Answer, which was served on petitioner on October 5, 1999, requests that the Commissioner assess petitioner and/or M.S.'s parents a tuition charge for each day of M.S.'s ineligible attendance. While it is unfortunate that petitioner apparently did not fully realize her potential financial obligation under the statute, petitioner's submission of the required parental affidavit for nonresident students and her own account of conversations with District staff demonstrate that she understood that M.S.'s parents in Haiti must show that they were unable to support or provide for M.S.'s care if she were to attend school free of charge as an affidavit student in respondent's District.[2] The Commissioner, therefore, is compelled to accept the ALJ's recommendation assessing tuition for the period of M.S.'s ineligible attendance.

[2]Petitioner obtained an Order granting custody of her sister to her on March 24, 2000.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision in this matter concluding that petitioner has failed to prove by a preponderence of credible evidence that M.S. met the requirements for a free education in respondent's schools from September 22, 1999 to March 24, 2000 for the reasons expressed therein. Petitioner is, therefore, assessed tuition in the amount of $5,473.20.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ROBERT DUFFIELD,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STOW CREEK TOWNSHIP SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT, CUMBERLAND COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and insubordinate conduct against respondent teacher for allegedly engaging in sexual relations with an 8th grade student. Respondent pled guilty to the charge of aggravated sexual assault, which resulted in a sentence of six years in New Jersey State Prison.

In view of respondent's conviction for the extremely serious charge of aggravated sexual assault involving a minor student, the ALJ found that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and that misconduct required that he be stripped of his tenure and removed from his teaching position. Summary decision was granted to the Board.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ. Respondent was dismissed from his teaching position and the matter was referred to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

Respondent.

Steven R. Cohen, Esq., for respondent (Selikoff & Cohen attorneys)

Record Closed: September 26, 2000 Decided: November 3, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

The Board of Education of Stow Creek Township ("Board") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") seeking to remove the tenure of Robert Duffield, a teacher employed by the Board, The petition was filed on February 26, 1999. It alleged that Mr. Duffield had engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and insubordinate conduct. More specifically, the Statement of Evidence alleged that he had sexual relations with an 8th grade student who was a student in his class, K.N. In addition to the tenure charges, criminal charges were filed against Mr. Duffield, who was indicted by the Salem County Grand Jury for a violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:14-2A, aggravated sexual assault, and N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4a, endangering the welfare of a child to whom he had a legal duty. After the tenure charges were transferred to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –21 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, the case was held in abeyance pending the resolution of the criminal charges. These were resolved by a guilty plea to the charge of aggravated sexual assault on January 28, 2000, which resulted in a sentence imposed on August 25, 2000 of six years in New Jersey State Prison.[i] Following the sentencing, petitioner has filed a motion for summary decision seeking removal of Duffield's tenure. Counsel for Mr. Duffield has advised that he will not be filing any opposition to the motion.

It is beyond question that in view of Mr. Duffield's conviction of the extremely serious charge of aggravated sexual assault involving a minor student, his tenure must be removed. The conviction removes any question as to the validity of the charge that he engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher. Summary decision is fully warranted at this time, as counsel for the respondent has, in essence, conceded.

FINDING AND ORDER

I FIND that Mr. Duffield engaged in conduct unbecoming a school teacher and that the nature and quality of such misconduct inexorably requires that he be stripped of tenure protection and removed from his position. It is HEREBY ORDERED that the motion for summary decision is GRANTED and Mr. Duffield's tenure protection is revoked. In addition, the Commissioner no doubt will require that the matter be reviewed by the State Board of Examiners.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF BARBARA HORNER, ATLANTIC COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT,

John R. Armstrong, Esq., for petitioner (Cooper, Perskie, April, Niedleman, Waggenheim & Levinson, attorneys)

Michael C. Damm, Esq., for respondent (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 1, 2000 Decided: November 8, 2000

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Board of Education of the Atlantic County Special Services School District (BOE) brought charges against respondent Barbara Horner, a tenured teacher in the BOE's school system. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As shown by the attached Joint Request for Approval of Settlement and Settlement Agreement, the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 20, 1999, the BOE's statement of charges, statement of evidence, etc., were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On January 3, 2000, the respondent's answer to the tenure charges and separate defenses, etc., were filed with the Department. The Department determined that the matter was a contested case and transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on January 11, 2000, it was filed. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On January 18, 2000, the case was assigned to me and I forwarded a scheduling letter to the attorneys. In view of criminal charges filed against respondent, she moved for a stay and, on February 1, 2000, I forwarded a letter order, granting the stay with conditions, including respondent's waiver of her claim for salary, etc., during the period of the stay. On March 22, 2000, I received from the BOE statements of evidence that had not been transmitted by the Department of Education. The charges were remanded to the Absecon City Municipal Court and they were downgraded to charges of violation of Absecon municipal ordinance §230, Loitering, to which in municipal court respondent pleaded guilty. The parties' attorneys then settled the case as shown by the attached, executed Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, Including Withdrawal of Tenure Charges and Settlement Agreement Regarding Actions Pending before the Commissioner of Education, which were received on November 1, 2000.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND
CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This case involves substantial questions of fact and complete litigation would require substantial expenditure of time and effort by all involved and would require testimony by children.

I have reviewed the settlement papers and I FIND and CONCLUDE that the parties have voluntarily entered into the settlement agreement, the settlement disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law and the settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that it should be approved as a reasonable and expeditious resolution of this case.

ORDER

I approve of the settlement, I ORDER the parties to comply with it and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AGENCY REF. NO. 383-12/99

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Atlantic County Special Services School District Board of Education ("Board") and counsel for its tenured employee Respondent Barbara Horner ("Horner") join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a) recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the Board be withdrawn and this matter be dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of tenure charges certified by the Board to the Commissioner of Education on December 20, 1999, against Respondent Horner, a tenured special education teacher for the multiply-handicapped, alleging that she engaged in certain acts of misconduct in the course of her employment as alleged therein. Ms. Horner filed an Answer to those charges on January 3, 2000, denying those allegations. Accompanying the filing of her Answer, by way of correspondence dated December 30, 1999, Respondent's counsel advised the Department of Education that there were two citizen criminal complaints relating to the tenure charges which had been filed against Respondent, and which were pending.

The tenure charges were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on January 7, 2000. or about January 18, 2000, the tenure matter was assigned to the Honorable John R. Tassini, A.L.J. who on February 1, 2000, after being apprized of the pendency of certain citizen criminal complaints related to such tenure charges, entered an order staying the tenure case pending the outcome of those complaints against Ms. Horner pursuant to U.S.C.A. Const. Amend 5, Ott v. Bd. of Ed. Hamilton Tp., 160 N.J. Super. 333, 342 (App. Div. 1978).

Those criminal complaints were considered by the Atlantic County prosecutor's office which after review, by correspondence dated June 28, 2000, reduced and downgraded the allegations to disorderly persons charges under N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1A(1) and referred the matters to the Absecon City Municipal Court for disposition. Those disorderly person complaints were then further downgraded a then resolved through Respondent Horner's entry of a plea of guilty to violation of Absecon Municipal Ordinance, Section 230, entitled Loitering.

The parties have now reached a settlement expressly conditioned upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education, for the tenure charges to be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that Ms. Horner, who has advised that she has no further interest in remaining employed with the Board will resign from her position effective on the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education, but no earlier than December 1, 2000.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement (Exhibit A), that Ms. Horner will not be entitled to any further wage, salary, or any other form of remuneration and benefits in connection with her employment other than what has already been paid or provided to her by the Board, (with the exception of those benefits available to any separated employee including pension and COBRA entitlements). This waiver includes reimbursement of legal fees and costs in connection with the tenure matter as well as with respect to the citizen complaints brought in the Absecon City Municipal Court.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement (Exhibit A) that conditioned upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against Ms. Horner shall be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement (Exhibit A) without modification, the parties have agreed to make eve reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet any objections thereto.

Unless mandated by law or otherwise requested by Respondent Horner or any one acting on her behalf, the Board shall take no further adverse action in connection with Respondent Horner's prior employment by the Board.

JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

The Board originally instituted tenure charges against Ms. Horner based upon initial information received from others concerning her actions. The Board through counsel having now had an opportunity to further investigate and assess the allegations, confer with witnesses and obtain input from the parents who filed the citizen complaints which have now been resolved as set forth ante at pg 2, ¶3, and in consideration for the mutual promis contained in Exhibit A, it is in the interest of the parties that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner. In this regard, Respondent Horner has indicated that she no longer desires to continue her employment with the Board, while also continuing to assert that her conduct, as referenced in the tenure charges, was in accordance with school law and that her conduct, within the context of what she believes to be a good employment history with the Board, does not substantiate such charges. The Board, while continuing to maintain that its tenure charges are meritorious, also recognizes that Respondent Horner's resignation and dismissal of its tenure charges, serves the interests of the Board through Respondent Horner's voluntary separation from the Board, and further avoids the commitment of Board resources otherwi necessary to accomplish that separation through a contested tenure proceeding.

CONCLUSION

The parties have been fully informed of their respective rights in connection with these proceedings, including those standards for approval of the Settlement Agreement by the Commissioner. The parties are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement (Exhibit A) and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a), recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner of Education, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and thereafter upon such approval dismiss with prejudice the tenure charges.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board contested the Department's determination that student S.R., who was living in a Correction Center, was a resident of the District and that the Board was responsible for the costs of her education. The Department contended that the Board was properly assigned responsibility for S.R. because S.R.'s parent or guardian resided in the District on January 15, 1997, the date of S.R.'s placement in the Center. The Board sought restoration of $12, 281 in State aid. The 1998-99 school year was the period in question.

The ALJ ordered the amount of $12, 281 be restored to the State aid received by the Board, concluding that without more evidence, the Department could not show that S.R.'s parent or guardian was a resident in the District on January 15, 1997.

The Commissioner set aside the Initial Decision. Noting that the Board carried the burden in this matter, the Commissioner found that he was unable to rule in the absence of an analysis conducted under the proper burden of proof. Matter was remanded for further proceedings.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10117-98

AGENCY DKT. NO. 417-9/98

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BOROUGH OF SOUTH RIVER,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,

Respondent.

Robert A. Blanda, Esq., for petitioner

Arlene Goldfus Lutz, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 18, 2000 Decided: November 1, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioner Board of Education disputes the Department's determination that S.R. is or was resident in the district and that the Board is responsible for the costs of her education. The Board seeks restoration of $12,281 in State aid.

The Department of Education argues that the Board properly was assigned responsibility for the pupil because the pupil's parent resided in South River on January 15, 1997, the date of the pupil's placement.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Following a limited hearing, the matter was extensively briefed. This judge took the matter under advisement and closed the record on September 18, 2000.

BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

The parties stipulate that M.R. is the natural mother of S.R. S.R. was placed on or about January 15, 1997 at the Edna Mahon Correction Center. The 1998-1999 school year is the only period in question in this case.

Testimony

Judith A. Marino, Director of Student Personnel Services for the South River Board of Education testified. She has been in position for more than 11 years. When this matter arose, the superintendent gave it to her to investigate. She reviewed the facility's report dated November 19, 1997. It noted a discrepancy in the Board's State aid application. There was a statement that S.R.'s parent or parents lived in South River on October 15, 1997. S.R. was unknown to the district.

The witness did a records check. No person with S.R.'s name was ever enrolled in the South River public schools. The witness went to the listed address. It was a two-family home. She received no response. She had sent a letter previously and received no response and could not make a telephone call because no telephone was listed at that address. Neighbors had never heard of M.R. A next-door neighbor said he had "been here a while" and that no person with the last name R. ever lived next door.

The witness then tried to get information from the Mahon Center. She called the Division of Youth and Family Services to see if a Division worker could recall anything about S.R. The Division was unable to provide information because of confidentiality rules.

Marino then checked with the Monroe School District Director of Pupil Personnel. The director advised Marino that S.R. had been placed with a family in Monroe, that M.R. kept in touch and that M.R. lived at a certain address in New Brunswick. The Mahon Center also told Marino that M.R. lived in New Brunswick.

On February 3, 1999, Marino spoke with M.R. M.R. said her daughter was still at the Mahon facility. M.R. said that she had moved to her present quarters in New Brunswick in or about August 1997.

One month later, the superintendent of the building in New Brunswick advised Marino that M.R. had moved out and he had no idea where M.R. had gone. Marino called the Mahon facility again. She received no help; staff explained that the material was confidential.

In June, Marino again contacted the superintendent of the building in New Brunswick and again contacted the Edna Mahon Correction Facility. She tried to reconstruct what had occurred. She placed a telephone call to the tax office in South River. From that office she learned that the property where M.R. allegedly resided was owned by a Mr. and Mrs. C. They had taken possession on January 8, 1996.

Marino sent several letters to Mr. and Mrs. C. She asked them to certify that M.R. had lived at the South River address. Exhibit P-1 is a letter from Marino to C. dated June 24, 1999. At the bottom of the page Marino provided a space that said, "This is to certify that [M.R.] resided at [ ] Street, South River, NJ, between the following dates." C. signed the letter, but crossed out the word resided and gave no beginning date or ending date.

Marino tried unsuccessfully to press C. for further information. The superintendent and the Board attorney wanted to know if M.R. had ever lived there. Marino again wrote to inquire and received no response although she tried still another time to make contact.

Marino was able to contact the New Brunswick Director of Pupil Personnel, Craig Yetman. She spoke to Yetman on March 3, 2000. Other [R.] children resided at the New Brunswick address. However, Yetman could not give dates. Marino believed she could not establish M.R. ever resided in South River.

The Department called Anthony J. Sarlo. He is director of education at New Jersey State Prison and has held that position since January 2000. Previously, he was Coordinator of Child Study Curriculum in the Office of Educational Services, Department of Correction. He has dealt with several district of residence cases.

It was his function to coordinate the October 15 count, referred to as the facilities report, in 1997. He collected all data and submitted it to the Department of Education. If a question or challenge arose, he would act as liaison between the facility and the Department of Education and try to work out any problem.

Each October 15, all inmates under the age of 21 years who do not have high school diplomas are counted and the data sent to the Department of Education. The Department assigns responsibility for these children's tuition to local districts of residence.

In the second phase, Sarlo receives a list of objections. Typically, the Division of Finance in the Department of Education would ask for more data. He would send to a particular institution for a response or clarification. In some cases, the student/inmate would be interviewed. Sarlo would also refer to intake records and court records. When he had the necessary information from the various institutions, he would forward it to the Department of Education. He has made changes to the October 15 count in the past.

Sarlo knows this case and was involved in it following a request for information from the Department of Education. He identified Exhibit R-1, a New Admissions Interview form concerning S.R. completed on January 13, 1997. This form showed S.R.'s address before incarceration as a post office box in Jamesburg. Jamesburg rejected any attempts to place S.R.'s domicile in Jamesburg.

Sarlo then sent an inquiry to the Mahon facility. He received a memorandum (R-2) from the Mahon facility Supervisor of Education dated February 17, 1998. The subject is address verification. The memorandum reads:

> [R., S.]: [R.M.] was [S.'s] foster parent. The incident that has [S.] at EMCFW occurred at the [M.] residence. It is unknown to us whether this incident affected the guardianship of [S.]. [S.R.'s] biological mother's name is [M.R.], ___, South River, N.J.
>
> Information provided by: inmate interview, P.S.I. and the Monroe Twp. IEP.

IEP refers to Individualized Education Program. This is a program required under federal law. The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 1401 through 1484a and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1 through -46, for every child identified as qualified for special education services.

The witness identified Exhibit R-3, a 17-page IEP for S.R. developed by the Monroe Township public schools. It reflects testing done in April and May 1990. It gives S.R.'s home address as being in Jamesburg. On page 7, under the heading Family Composition, is the following paragraph:

> [S.] was placed with the [Ms.] (by DYFS) for several months last year. She returned home to live with her mother in South River last year. As [S.] disliked her new school, her mother made a "personal arrangement" with Mrs. [M.] to have [S.] stay with her to finish her schooling. She returns home for holidays, some weekends and summer vacations.

Sarlo stated that, in response to the request for more information, he reviewed the presentencing report and reinterviewed S.R. in February 1998. The witness did not know if the Mahon facility had tried to contact S.R.'s mother while doing its investigation, but he believes it would be the normal practice to do so.

Sarlo relied on what S.R. told him. In addition to what S.R. said, Sarlo has the IEP, the memorandum of February 17, 1998 and the intake form.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

The Board argues that the controlling statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) which provides:

> For school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education shall determine district of residence as follows:
>
> b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, private schools or out-of-state facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

In this matter, the parties stipulated the operable date is October 15, 1997 with regard to the first criterion under the statute. If the address of the parent is not known at that time, then the second criterion is used which is the address of the parent as of the placement on January 15, 1997.

When the South River Board of Education was notified by the Division of Finance that there would be a reduction in aid, the Board did make an investigation and filed an action concerning the aid reduction.

Dr. Marino did make inquiries to determine the residence of the parent. She spoke by telephone twice with M.R. in February and March 1998. M.R. indicated she had been a resident of the City of New Brunswick since August 1997. When Dr. Marino made further inquiry, she sent both P-1 and P-2 to the owner/landlord, C., who indicated that M.R. did not reside at that address. C. had owned the property since at least 1996 and stated that M.R. had never resided there. Consistent with this, the manager of the New Brunswick property said that M.R. was a resident at that location.

Finally, Dr. Marino asked both school districts about records of the children of M.R. P-3 was introduced into evidence regarding the information received about S.R.'s IEP.

The Division of Finance witness testified as to the documents placed in evidence. The Pre-Sentence Interview (PSI) is dated January 13, 1997.

The Board further argues that the Division is relying completely on interviews made with the incarcerated child and nothing more. Ultimately, this tribunal must determine whether that reliance is reasonable.

The Board states it has done all that could be reasonably expected of it by making a serious inquiry at the time notified of its liability. The Board also argues that the State's reliance on State-Operated School District of the City of Newark v. New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Finance, EDU 1370-98, Final Decision (Mar. 22, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, is misplaced. The facts in that decision are distinguishable from today's case. In Newark, a social worker reviewed the entire DYFS file concerning the residence of a student in question and did submit that information on the form that is required by N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3. The administrative law judge determined that the social worker provided credible testimony based upon the detailed review of the matter. The Commissioner, in his decision, concluded as did the administrative law judge. He found it noteworthy that the school district produced no documentary or testimonial evidence in support of its claim that the child's parents were not resident in Newark.

The Board asserts that the criteria used in the Newark decision dealt with whether or not the district could prove that the Division of Finance action was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The respondent did not provide any evidence to disprove Dr. Marino's testimony. Dr. Marino's inquiry was more than sufficient. It was complete and done in detail.

The Division of Finance objects to the receipt into evidence of Exhibits P-1 and P-3 because they were not provided in discovery. Because the Division lacked the information provided in the documents, it did not conduct an investigation of the facts contained. Nor was it able to cross-examine the Board's witness in regard to the information.

In Newark, above, the Commissioner agreed with the administrative law judge that the issue in a district of residency case is whether the district can show that the Department's determination regarding the district of residence is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. In this matter, the judge must determine whether the Board proved that it was unreasonable for the Division to make its determination based on the information provided by the Office of Education in the Department of Correction. A presumption of reasonableness attaches to an agency decision. The burden of proof lies with the Board.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-12 and the companion regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3, assign the financial responsibility for a child who has been placed in a residential state facility by state agencies. The district of residence of the parent as of the last school day prior to October 16 is responsible for the child for that school year. If, however, that cannot be determined, the district in which the parent is residing at the time of the initial placement is the district responsible for the cost of the pupil's education.

In this case, the Division was unable to determine the residency of the parent on October 15, 1997. Therefore, it made its determination in accord with the second criterion of the test: where the parent resided at the time of the pupil's initial placement at the Edna Mahon Correction facility. The pupil was placed on January 15, 1997. Therefore, the critical date is January 15, 1997 and the critical question is where the parent lived on that day.

The information provided by the correction facility shows that the mother resided in South River as of the time of the initial placement. The Board tried to show where the mother resided on October 15, 1997. However, the Division's decision was based on the second criterion. As Mr. Sarlo testified, the information assigning responsibility to South River as of January 15, the date of the pupil's placement was based on a previous IEP that identified the name of the parent and her residency. The determination was also based on the prison interview and information from the sentencing investigation. The Board did not provide evidence to show the mother did not reside in South River on January 15, 1997. Further, the Board has not proved it was improper for the Division to rely on the information provided by the Department of Correction.

Finally, it was not improper for the Division to rely on the information provided to it in regard to the parent's residency from the Department Correction. The Board's case, however, is based entirely on hearsay, which may not be used to overturn an agency or department decision. Testimony regarding conversations with neighbors or with the mother is hearsay. The Division had no opportunity to cross-examine, to test probative value or otherwise impeach the testimony. Without a residuum of credible evidence, the Board's case must fail. The information provided by the district alleging that the mother resided in New Brunswick in October 1997 cannot be used to make a determination that New Brunswick is responsible for the pupil's education. There is only hearsay evidence regarding the parent's residency in New Brunswick. The Division cannot assign responsibility for the pupil on that basis. If, as the Board argues, the parent resided in New Brunswick, more is required to hold New Brunswick financially responsible for the pupil's education than the uncorroborated hearsay attempts to ascribe the mother's residency to New Brunswick.

As the Division of Finance correctly observes, the critical date for the purposes of this case is not October 15, 1997, but January 15, 1997. I FIND the testimony of Dr. Marino to be credible and consistent with experience in matters of this type. However, the fact that South River was unable to produce any records of this pupil when it examined 1997 does not prove that the pupil was never resident in the district, or at least not resident on the critical date. I FIND that the presence of an IEP is inconclusive. It does show S.R.'s school history to include brief attendance in South River. Assuming, arguendo, that S.R. was attending South River schools from sometime in the first quarter until sometime in the second quarter of her seventh grade year, it is possible that her parent or guardian was resident for some time in 1997. The problem lies in the fact that there is no independent corroboration of this. Thus, it is an unsupported bit of hearsay. The efforts of Dr. Marino seem to cut against a finding that M.R. was a South River resident at any pertinent time.

I CONCLUDE that, without more, the Division of Finance cannot show that S.R.'s parent or guardian was resident in South River on January 15, 1997. The Division did the best it could with what it had. What it had was insufficient to withstand this challenge. The burden of proof for establishing claims before the Office of Administrative Law is a fair preponderance of the evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c). The South River Board of Education has carried that burden. It cannot be said that it is more likely than not that S.R. or the parent or guardian of S.R. was domiciled in South River in 1997.

I further CONCLUDE that this matter is not apposite to State-Operated School District of the City of Newark v. New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Finance, EDU 1370-98, Final Decision (Mar. 22, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. The judge in that matter concluded the petitioning board had not proved that the Division had been unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious in its reliance on DYFS records. The records in that case were significantly more complete than the sketchy documents here. Because it has not been shown by competent evidence that S.R. or the parent or guardian of S.R. was resident in South River at the appropriate times in 1997, it is ORDERED that the amount of $12,281 be and is hereby restored to the State aid received by the South River Board of Education from the State of New Jersey.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH RIVER, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), in that the Initial Decision was mailed to the parties on November 6, 2000 and the exceptions were filed on November 21, 2000, outside the 13-day period prescribed by regulation.[1] Accordingly, the exceptions were not considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner is compelled to set aside the Initial Decision. Although the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) acknowledges that the petitioning Board carries the burden of proving that respondent's determination that S.R. was a resident of South River on January 15, 1997 was improper, he nevertheless states, "without more, the Division of Finance cannot show that S.R.'s parent or guardian was resident in South River on January 15, 1997" (emphasis added) (Initial Decision at 9, 10), thereby indicating that he looked to respondent to demonstrate that its determination was correct. However, as the Commissioner recently underscored:

> [I]t is well-established that when a board is contesting a district of residence determination made by Finance based upon the information provided it by the Department of Human Services, the board bears the burden of proving that such determination was in error. See Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City v. New Jersey Department of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 545; Board of Education of the City of Wildwood v. New Jersey State Department of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 273, Reversed on other grounds State Board of Education June 7, 2000; State-operated School District of the City of Newark v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Division of Finance, Commissioner Decision, July 3, 2000, Slip Opinion at 8-9)

In the absence of analysis under the proper burden of proof, the Commissioner is reluctant to make a final ruling in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is set aside and the matter is remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for analysis and such further proceedings as may be necessary to decide this matter under the proper burden of proof.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF CECELIA JAMES, :

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT :

OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX :

COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The District certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent teacher for her alleged participation in a scheme to defraud the State Health Benefits Program.

The ALJ concluded that the District proved by a preponderance of competent evidence that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school teacher. The District found that respondent's testimony was not credible concerning her knowledge and understanding of the insurance scheme and that participation in the scheme resulted in the theft of and improper payment of public monies. The ALJ noted that the issue of termination was moot because respondent forfeited her position. Citing In re Tordo, In re Sammons and In re Henderek, the ALJ concluded that due to the seriousness of the charges and the breach of public trust, respondent was unfit to remain a teacher and that the determination to suspend respondent was appropriate. The ALJ ordered no reimbursement of pay for the period of suspension.

Having reviewed the record and the transcript of the hearing conducted at OAL, the Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

Record Closed: October 2, 2000 Decided: November 8, 2000

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, (the District) filed charges alleging conduct unbecoming a public school teacher, against Respondent, Cecelia James, on November 18, 1996; the Certificate of Determination, the Statement of Charges, Statement of Evidence and Appendix of Exhibits and supporting documentation were filed with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes and served on Respondent on or about June 24, 1997.

An answer to the charges was filed with the Department of Education on August 8, 1997. Thereafter, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 21, 1997, as a contested case.

This case was assigned to Administrative Law Judge MaryLouise Lucchi-McCloud for hearing. The hearing took place on March 24, 25, and 26, 1998. The parties sought leave to submit written closing statements and briefs. A briefing schedule was set and the record closed on thereafter on November 28, 1998. Judge Lucchi- McCloud requested and received a number of extensions of the deadline for issuing her initial decision; on September 15, 1999, the parties were notified that Judge Lucchi-McCloud had retired on disability and the Chief Judge reassigned the matter to the undersigned.

The District charges that Ms. James, an elementary teacher at Morton Street Elementary School, is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher to require that her employment be terminated. According to the District, Ms. James knowingly and intentionally participated in conduct intended to defraud State Health Benefits Program (SHBP) when she provided personal information to Carl Lichtman, a psychologist, which enabled him to submit false claims for treatment on her behalf. In exchange for the information, Ms. James accepted a portion of the payment received by Lichtman as payment on the false claims.

Ms. James pled guilty to criminal charges associated with this matter in January 2000; as part of her plea agreement, Ms. James agreed to forfeit her position with the Newark Public Schools. The District requested that I take notice of the forfeiture, which would render the charges moot, insofar as the termination of Petitioner's employment was concerned. Respondent asserted that she was entitled to a decision in this matter, since four months pay was at issue.[1] Respondent asserted that she was appealing the judgment of conviction; moreover, the matter had been heard two years previously and, pursuant to the rules of this forum, the decision should have been issued prior to the entry of the guilty plea.

The parties were asked to submit briefs on the question of whether this Court should place this matter on the inactive list pending the disposition of Respondent's appeal.[2] Petitioner's brief was received on October 2, 2000; Respondent failed to submit a brief.

I have reviewed Petitioner's submission on the issue and I have considered the assertion that Respondent's plea precludes her from re-litigating the issue of her participation in a scheme to defraud the SHBP as well as the assertion that, because forfeiture is automatic, the charges have been rendered moot. I note for the record that the matter has not been re-litigated; this administrative record had been created well before Respondent was indicted. The record was available for use in the criminal action. The fact that Ms. James entered a plea does not change the record in this forum.

Because the hearing in this matter occurred before there was an indictment, but through no fault of Respondent a decision has not yet been issued, and because Respondent has requested that the matter be resolved, I am issuing an initial decision based on my review of the transcript and evidence presented at the hearing. I do take official notice of Petitioner's guilty plea, her agreement to forfeit her position as a teacher in the Newark Public Schools, her appeal and her application for disability retirement. I also note that Petitioner has not requested a stay of the penalty pending the outcome of the appeal.

[1] The four months of pay at issue are those during which Respondent was suspended as a result of issuing these charges.

[2] The parties were asked to brief the question of whether the time for issuing an initial decision should be extended pending the outcome of the appeal. In view of the length of time it takes to process an appeal, this is tantamount to placing the matter on the inactive list. (See letter from the Public Defender, submitted by Respondent, dated April 11, 2000.

Accordingly, although I must determine whether Petitioner did engage in conduct unbecoming a teacher so as to require that her employment be terminated, the sole reason for the resolution, in light of the forfeiture, is to determine whether she is entitled to back pay for the period of her suspension.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based my review of the transcript and documentary evidence submitted at the time of hearing, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Respondent was a teacher certified to teach in the public schools of New Jersey; she was employed by the State Operated School District of the City of Newark in October 1996, when the District filed tenure charges against her.

2. Respondent was suspended in October 1996 pending the determination of the charges which are the subject of this action.

3. Another disciplinary action, based on charges of excessive absenteeism, inefficiency and insubordination was the subject of a settlement agreement which was rejected by the Commissioner, was remanded for hearing, and was assigned to another judge. (T-3)[3]

4. Respondent provided her name, address and her social security number to Lichtman, who was a psychologist licensed to practice in the State of New Jersey.

[3] Throughout, T-1 refers to transcript of March 24, 1998; T-2 refers to transcript of March 25, 1998; T-3 refers to transcript of March 27, 1998.

5. Lichtman admitted to involvement in a scheme to defraud insurance carriers, including SHBP by submitting false claims for psychological services purportedly rendered to insured and/or their dependents.

6. Respondent was one of the insureds for whom Lichtman submitted false claims for services rendered.

7. No psychological services were ever rendered to Respondent by Lichtman.

8. Respondent spoke to Lichtman, or someone purporting to be Lichtman on only one occasion at which time she gave him her personal information.

9. Lichtman received checks directly from the insurance carrier for the claims he submitted; upon receipt, he deposited the carrier's checks and issued his own personal checks to the insured.

10. Respondent received two checks totaling $2350 from Lichtman. The moneys received represented 25 percent of $13,400, the total amount collected by Lichtman from SHBP for services he represented he performed for Respondent.

11. The checks issued by Lichtman to Respondent was negotiated.

12. Upon receipt of the checks from Lichtman, Respondent tried unsuccessfully to communicate with him.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The issues to be determined in this matter are whether Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and, if so, whether such conduct warrants termination.

Petitioner bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of competent, credible evidence that Respondent should no longer be allowed to teach.

At the outset, it is necessary to note that there are several serious weaknesses in the testimony of Respondent's witness, Lichtman. He was testifying as a result of a provision in his plea agreement; he could only testify as to the general procedures he followed in gathering information, filing claims, and issuing finders' fees and kickbacks. He had no specific recollection of conversations of dealings with Respondent. Consequently, his testimony, standing alone, cannot be dispositive of the ultimate issue in this matter.

From the factual findings set forth above, it is clear that Respondent contacted Lichtman, spoke with him or someone purporting to be him; she never met him in person, presumably until after the scheme was uncovered. It is equally clear that she provided personal information to the person to whom she spoke, despite never having met him or having had services performed for her; in addition, she admitted receiving two checks from him for substantial amounts of money, despite neither receiving services or performing services for him;[4] moreover, she admitted that she received checks from him, deposited them and spend the money.

Respondent testified that she believed that she was participating in some sort of "insurance procedure;" however, she was unable to explain what she meant by that term. She also testified that she believed that she was participating in some sort of group study; then, she testified that she did not know whether she was participating or not. In addition, although she admitted receiving, depositing and spending checks sent to her by Lichtman, she was never successful in contacting him for further information about just what her involvement in the study was to be.

[4] Respondent testified that she could not recognize the endorsements on the back of the checks which had been drawn by Lichtman to her because they were copies; she did, however, admit that she received checks from him and that she deposited them in her account and spent them.

The record clearly reflects that Ms. James did provide certain personal information to someone purporting to be Lichtman over the telephone, even though she had never met him. She also acknowledged receiving, depositing and spending money sent to her by Lichtman even though she was not sure whether she was participating in a group study or an "insurance procedure." Finally, she acknowledged that she never received any service from Lichtman nor did she provided any service, such as participation in a study, in return for the money she received.

There is no indication in the record that Ms. James did anything more than call Lichtman, albeit unsuccessfully, to find out why she had been sent the checks. The amount of money involved is substantial; the effort Petitioner made to determine why she was receiving it was minimal; moreover, she took the substantial amount of money sent to her, deposited it and spent it, although she was not sure why she was receiving it. I FIND that Respondent's testimony as to her understanding of the "study" she assumed she was participating in lacks plausibility.

Based on Respondent's conflicting testimony that at one point that she believed she was participating in a study and at another that she believed she provided information for an insurance procedure," I FIND that Respondent's testimony lacks credibility. Because of the lack of credibility and plausibility of Respondent's testimony as a whole, her failure to make a meaningful effort to determine why she was receiving substantial amounts of money from Lichtman, as well as the fact that she provided personal information over the telephone to a person who she had not met and, thereafter, deposited checks and spent money she received from someone from whom she did not receive services, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner has sustained the burden of proving that it is more likely than not that Respondent had knowledged and understanding of Lichtman's scheme. I also CONCLUDE that the participation in such a scheme and the payment of money under the circumstances described herein resulted in the theft of and improper payment of public moneys. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner has proven by a preponderance of competent evidence, that Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school teacher.

Although I am aware that the issue of termination is, at this time,[5] moot because Respondent has forfeited her position, I do note that Petitioner did seek termination. In cases where termination is the penalty, the seriousness of the charges which have been sustained is the ultimate factor to be weighed. The Commissioner of Education has commented on the seriousness of charges which arise from a teacher's breach of public trust:

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such position, they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully violates the . . . public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal . . . .

I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99. See, also, I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Jacques, L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321; and I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Henderek, School District of the Township of East Brunswick, Middlesex County, 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 268 at 275.

A single incident may be sufficiently egregious in nature to warrant termination. In this case, the breach of trust is such an incident; the fact that the breach of trust is predicated on the theft of public money further enhances the egregious nature of the incident. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Respondent was unfit to remain a teacher. I further CONCLUDE that the determination to suspend Respondent was appropriate and should be affirmed.

[5] "[A]t this time" refers to the time at which this decision is issued.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER the determination to suspend Respondent be and hereby is AFFIRMED. I further ORDER that there be no reimbursement of pay for the period of suspension.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CECELIA JAMES,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL on March 24, 25 and 27, 1998, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge. Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision, the District's charge is sustained and respondent, therefore, is not entitled to reimbursement of pay. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
JAMES R. DURR, MEMBER, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHESTERFIELD, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Martin Cohen, alleged that respondent, a Chesterfield Board member, was not a resident of the District. Petitioner, who was divorcing his spouse, while acknowledging that he sometimes was away from the home, provided documentation listing the Chesterfield property as his residence.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 states that membership in a local board of education terminates immediately when a board of education member ceases to be a bona fide resident of the district. The ALJ found no proof that respondent was no longer residing in Chesterfield. The ALJ found that respondent testified credibly and presented documentation such as bills, tax records, etc., that listed Chesterfield as his address. The ALJ denied petitioner's request for a declaration that respondent was not a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township.

The Commissioner reversed the determination of the ALJ and remanded the matter to the OAL for further findings of fact and credibility determinations. The Commissioner noted that the ALJ incorrectly listed two witnesses for petitioner as respondent's witnesses and, because the ALJ made no credibility determinations or factual findings with regard to the testimony of these witnesses, the matter must be remanded for further proceedings.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4104-00

AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A

MARTIN COHEN,

Petitioner,

v.

JAMES R. DURR, MEMBER BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHESTERFIELD, BURLINGTON COUNTY

Respondent.

Peter Emmons, Esq., for petitioner (Gibbs & Gregory, attorneys)

James R. Durr, petitioner, pro se

Record closed: September 22, 2000 Decided: November 6, 2000

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, Martin Cohen, asserts that James R. Durr, a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Chesterfield, Burlington County, is not a resident of the District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner appealed to the State Department of Education and on May 18, 2000, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was heard on September 22, 2000, at the Office of Administrative Law, Quakerbridge Road, Hamilton, New Jersey.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to observe and to judge the demeanor and credibility of all witnesses in their testimony, and upon review of all the evidence and exhibits submitted, and drawing reasonable inferences therefrom, I FIND the following as FACT by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

James Durr is a member of the Chesterfield Township Board of Education. He and his wife are in the process of obtaining a divorce. The family home is at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield.

The basis of Cohen's petition is a statement in documents from the divorce action in which Durr's residence is given as 66 Bunting Bridge Road, New Hanover Township. However, Durr said that his previous attorney for the divorce action listed the Bunting Road address in error, because Durr did not want correspondence relating to the divorce to be delivered to his home.

Durr's present attorney for the divorce action, Henry Tutek, filed an amendment to the documents correcting Durr's address to 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield, claiming that the other address (Bunting Bridge Road) was stated in error.

Durr presented at the hearing copies of bills for 1999 property taxes for James Durr Wholesale Florist, Inc. at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield. Durr's Driver's License, utility bills and tax forms list 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield as his address. His magazines come to this address.

Durr, his wife and daughter testified credibly that going through a divorce is sometimes difficult, and it is better for Durr sometimes to be out of the home, but that the divorce is not yet final and no distribution of assets have yet been made.

DISCUSSION

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18:12-3, states that membership in a local board of education terminates immediately whenever that member ceases to be a bona fide resident of the district.

> N.J.S.A.* 18A:12-3 Cessation of membership
> Whenever a member of a local or regional board of education shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district, or of any constituent district of a consolidated or regional district which he represents, or shall become mayor or a member of the governing body of a municipality, his membership in the board shall immediately cease; and, any member who fails to attend three consecutive meetings of the board without good cause may be removed by it. Whenever a member of a county special service school district or a member of a county vocational school district shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district, or shall hold office as a member of the governing body of a county, his membership on the board shall immediately cease.

The question then becomes, did Durr cease being a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township? To answer this, one must look to the concept of residence. There is no precise legal definition of "bona fide resident." It is largely a matter of interpretation from all the circumstances, including the intention of the person involved.

Here, Durr's bills, taxes, magazine subscriptions and driver's license all list 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield as his address. Durr testified credibly that sometimes he does not stay at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield overnight. but this is because of the unsettled situation caused by the divorce. No evidence was presented that James Durr has or is about to change his residence to another address.

I FIND no proof that James Durr is no longer residing at 279 Sykesville Road, Chesterfield.

Therefore, the petition to declare that James Durr is not a bona fide resident of Chesterfield Township is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MARTIN COHEN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
JAMES R. DURR, MEMBER, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHESTERFIELD, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

In his exceptions, petitioner argues, inter alia, that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) incorrectly lists Elizabeth Durr and Casey Durr as witnesses for respondent, and that the ALJ's mistaken belief that these witnesses were testifying on behalf of respondent directly influenced her conclusions. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) Petitioner also asserts that these two witnesses never made the statements attributed to them by the ALJ, and that, given the witnesses' actual testimony, it is virtually impossible to believe that the ALJ understood their testimony to be in support of respondent. (Id. at 2)

Initially, the Commissioner notes that Elizabeth Durr and Casey Durr are listed in the Initial Decision as witnesses for respondent as asserted by petitioner. In the absence of credibility determinations by the ALJ, however, the Commissioner is unable to determine what effect, if any, the ALJ's mistaken belief that these witnesses were testifying on behalf of respondent had on her conclusions, and what reasoning she utilized in assigning weight to that testimony. [2]

Moreover, the Commissioner notes that, according to the Initial Decision, the sole basis of petitioner's claim that respondent is not a resident of the school district on which he serves as a board member is that respondent listed an out-of-district address in his divorce papers. In the event that petitioner presented other evidence in support of his claim, including testimony offered at hearing, it is imperative for purposes of the Commissioner's review that the ALJ acknowledge any relevant evidence with an explication as to why such evidence was accepted or rejected.

In that the ALJ rendered neither sufficient factual findings nor credibility assessments to permit the Commissioner to fairly resolve whether petitioner has met his burden, the Commissioner is compelled to remand this matter to the OAL for a complete recitation of testimony and findings of fact.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further findings and credibility determinations to address the concerns expressed herein.
