The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Archway Programs, Inc. (hereinafter "Archway") and the New Jersey Department of Education (hereinafter "Department") jointly sought extensions of time

Initial Decision As such, these will be presented only to the extent necessary to convey the essence of their positions on the controverted issues.

Archway's Exceptions and Department's Reply

1) The ALJ incorrectly refused to dismiss the Department's 1997-98 and 1998-99 fiscal year audits on the basis of equitable estoppel. Archway argues that the 1994-95 audit took more than three years to complete; during this period the auditors refused to disclose to Archway any of the miscalculations it had discovered despite numerous requests; as a consequence Archway was prevented from making any counteractive changes for these subsequent two audit years. "Fairness and justice estop the DOE from pursuing the disallowances for the 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 fiscal years, which were fully correctible but for the DOE's delay and silence on the 1994-1995 audit." (Archway's Exceptions at 1-17, quote at 12)

In reply, the Department points out that this identical argument was previously raised by way of two motions to dismiss below and denied both times by the ALJ. (Interlocutory Order dated September 21, 2006 and Letter Order dated November 21, 2006) The Department avers that no new evidence which might operate to change the outcome of these previous motions has been presented here. As pointed out by the ALJ below – it argues – in order to prevail on a motion to dismiss based on equitable estoppel "Archway had to establish that the Department made a voluntary and intentional misrepresentation through its conduct, and that Archway reasonably relied upon that misrepresentation." It charges that Archway has not satisfied this burden. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 2)

2) In light of the Department's clear admission that its 1994-95 audit was improperly calculated, recognizing that rolling calculations will have a carryover effect from year to year, and based on the fact that the Department has failed to present its own revised monetary responsibility by allowing the Commissioner to make the final decision as to the calculations of all of the disallowances is wholly arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable as it gives the Department another bite at the apple through a new round of audits. Moreover, in light of the fact that Archway is entitled to challenge the Department's new numbers, the ALJ's bifurcation of this matter only serves to unnecessarily prolong the litigation of this already extenuated case as the parties are placed right back where they started. (Archway' Exceptions at 22-24)

Responding, the Department presents the following argument:

> [At] this stage in the proceedings, the purpose of this exercise is to determine whether the Department properly applied the governing tuition regulations in determining which costs Archway could include in its tuition rates for the years in dispute. In this respect the sweeping "winner-take-all" approach that Archway advocates is defective. It ignores the fact that the specific refund amount is a secondary and mathematical result, that will be dictated by the law and the facts adduced during the hearing. The ALJ's role in these proceedings was to determine whether the overcharges that the Department identified in its audits were proper, and not, as Archway contends, perform mathematical computations. Archway's depiction of this proceeding as a contest in which one set of calculations must prevail over another simply distorts the purpose of these proceedings. As stated, the propriety of the Department's audits is a determination that turns o[n] issue[s] of law and facts. Thus, the ALJ's finding that her role was limited to that of rendering recommendations in resolving disputed issues of law and facts was proper, and should be upheld. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 9-10)

4) The ALJ's rulings in favor of the Department should be rejected because all of these are conclusory and unsupported by sufficient factual findings or legal analysis. (Archway's Exceptions at 24-27)

The Department submits that any brevity which might be found in the ALJ's analysis and findings in these categories is wholly attributable not to her failure to consider the evidence before her, but, rather, to Archway's failure to present evidence sufficient to satisfy its burden of proof. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 10)

conclusory and not supported by the record. It argues that its expert's report concluded – based on discussions with Archway and a review of documents concerning the nature and purpose of the expenditures – that the Department's disallowances in these areas should be reduced to $34,000. (Archway's Exceptions at 33-35)

In retort, the Department advances that any perceived brevity of the ALJ's analysis of the Schedule C expenses was occasioned by Archway's failure to advance any legally competent evidence at hearing in support of its assertions that such expenses were allowable pursuant to the requirements of the applicable regulations. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 12-15)

7) The ALJ erred in not accepting Archway's expert's calculation of $406,000 for fringe benefit costs – which are a function of allowable salaries – based on the Department's stipulation that certain teachers salaries were improperly disallowed in Schedules F (1994-95) and K (1995-99). Absent a revised set of calculations from the Department, it argues, the only ones in the record are those of Archway's expert and these should have been accepted by the ALJ. (Archway's Exceptions at 35-36)

Responding, the Department concedes that the amount of money disallowed in this category will need to be recalculated. Logic dictates, it avers, that such calculation be made in the Commissioner's decision subsequent to resolution of the myriad of methodology issues. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 15-17)

8) Finally, merely recasting and reiterating arguments advanced below, Archway objects to the ALJ's summary affirmance of the disallowances in the Organizational Overhead category. (Archway's Exceptions at 36-40)

In reply, the Department again emphasizes that Archway has failed to meet its burden of proof in connection with its claims regarding these charges; rather, it offers no more than Search Day as providing a blanket allowance of salaries in cases where the Petitioning PS[H] alleges a certification delay is inappropriate, and must be rejected." (Department's Exceptions at 2-7)

Responding, Archway contends that the ALJ's allowance of these individuals' salaries – pursuant to the equitable doctrine of substantial compliance and under the circumstances existing here – was entirely appropriate. Citing Bernstein, supra. it avers that this doctrine is applicable where there is "(1) a lack of prejudice to the defending party; (2) a series of steps were taken to comply with the regulation; (3) general compliance with the purpose of the statute or regulation exists; (4) reasonable notice of petitioner's claim; and (5) a reasonable expectation why there was not a strict compliance with the statute." Bernstein at 76-77. (Archway Reply Exceptions at 6) Archway contends that it "presented comprehensive, uncontradicted testimony and documentary evidence that the individuals disallowed in the 'delay' category: (1) submitted timely, complete applications for certification or renewal prior to the start of their employment; (2) that these individuals ultimately received the proper certification or renewal after lengthy processing delays, sometimes several months long, by DOE; (3) that but for DOE's processing delays, these individuals would have received their certifications on time and their salaries would have been allowable; (4) that Archway was forced to allow these individuals to teach while their certifications were pending approval in order to comply with the students' IEPs; and (5) that the sending school districts suffered no prejudice, because the students received the education for which they were paying tuition." (Id. at 11) As a consequence, Archway posits, the ALJ's conclusion that it substantially complied with certification requirements and, therefore, the salaries in this category are allowable costs, is entirely appropriate.

explains that the two individuals whose salaries are at issue here are based at Archway's main campus in Atco, Camden County, but oversaw maintenance and program services duties throughout Archway's multi-county operation. In both cases, Archway's allocation to the PSH program for the services of these individuals was less than the Department approved maximums for their positions. However, > because Archway had facilities located in both Camden and Gloucester Counties, and because the employees identified in these schedules had responsibilities in both, [the Department's auditor] decided that their maximum salaries should be prorated between the counties, rather than based on the approved maximum salary for Camden County. The regulations, however, neither require such a proration nor provide a method for doing so. See N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)7; N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(L).

> ...[The auditor], by his own admission, made one up. Simply stated, [the auditor's] methodology took the approved maximum salaries for Camden and Gloucester Counties, reduced them by the percentage of Archway's revenue attributable to both counties, and added the result to come up with his new maximum salary that was less than half of the DOE-approved maximum salary for either county.
> (Ibid.) (citations to Exhibits and transcripts omitted)

To the extent the Department attempts to provide some justification for the use of this unauthorized allocation methodology by virtue of the second sentence of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4(a)(7), which provides that "[p]art-time or split time positions shall be prorated," Archway claims that it clearly misreads this provision:

> By its terms, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(7) refers not to a proration based on geography, but a proration based on an employee's status. It requires that the salaries of employees who work less than full-time for a PSH program (part-time), or whose duties include both PSH and non-PSH activities (split-time) be prorated based on the amount of time they spend working for the PSH program. Once that allocation is performed, the amount to be charged to the PSH program gets compared to the approved maximum for their positions. If the amount charged exceeds the approved maximum, the excess is a non-allowable cost. (Archway's Reply Exceptions at 14-15) issuing mid-year bonuses upon confirmation of the existence of surplus income," leading to an unfair result for sending districts and their taxpayers. (Department's Exceptions at 1-14, citations at 11 and 13, respectively)

Responding, Archway maintains the ALJ's reversal of the Department's disallowance of a salary increase paid to its employees in fiscal year 1999-2000 was entirely proper. This raise, it proffers, was a budgeted item – payable out of designated rather than surplus revenues – and, therefore, not prohibited by the applicable governing regulations. Additionally, since it was not a pretext intended to exhaust surplus funds, the case law and regulations governing merit-based and contingent pay increases were not applicable. Archway charges that the "DOE disallowed the pay increase, not because of how it was paid, but because of when it was paid." Archway proposes the delay in payment of these moneys to its employees was solely attributable to the fact that at the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year it was facing severe financial and operational uncertainties. The board delayed payment of the increases until mid-year when it became clear that it had generated sufficient revenue to support the cost. Citing to the testimony of the Department's witness, Mr. Verner, Archway points out that had it acted in a fiscally imprudent manner and paid the salary increase at the beginning of the year, the increase would not have been denied. (Archway's Reply Exceptions at 15-30, quote at 16)

The Commissioner has conducted an independent and exhaustive review of the voluminous record in this matter, including transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL,[2] bearing in mind that the burden of proof rests exclusively with the petitioner – Archway – which must establish, by the preponderance of the relevant, credible evidence, that the determinations

[2] Hearing dates were July 14, August 1, August 4, August 7, August 11, August 14, September 6, October 18, November 3 and November 13, 2006.

Upon consideration of the last remaining interim order, the Commissioner determines to adopt the ALJ's May 2, 2007 Order Granting Partial Summary Decision to Archway on the issue of the salary increase it gave to staff during the 1999-2000 school year (Initial Decision, Attachment IV) for the reasons presented in her decision, which the Commissioner finds well-grounded in the record. Most notably: 1) the 3% salary increase for all staff members was included in Archway's 1999-2000 school year budget, which was adopted May 25, 1999; 2) as Archway's income is largely based on tuition receipts, in light of fiscal problems and adverse publicity as a consequence of the actions of its former CEO, Archway maintains it was uncertain whether there might be a drastic reduction in enrollment – thereby preventing it from generating enough tuition revenue to support payment of the increases – and, therefore, it determined to delay the increases until it could be assured of its financial situation; 3) the Department's Supervising Auditor testified that Archway's intent as to the salary increases would not have been an issue had it begun paying the increase at the beginning of the school year; 4) the facts of this matter are clearly distinguishable from the Commissioner's decisions in Y.A.L.E. School, Inc. and Search Day I, supra, as the increases were not bonuses but, rather, were paid to all staff members and these individuals were not required to do anything to get them; and they were not paid from surplus but, rather, from revenue which was anticipated provided that there was no substantial reduction in the number of students sent to Archway's PSH program.

Turning now to the ALJ's determinations on the various disputed non-allowable costs at issue for the five audit years under consideration here – again remaining fully aware of the applicable burden of proof in this matter and exercising the requisite deference to the ALJ's credibility assessments and resultant fact finding – the Commissioner finds as follows:

School Year, of the total salaries of $192,859 remaining in dispute, $51,812 should not have been disallowed.

Schedule C – Non Salary Expenses Charged to PSH Schools (Initial Decision at 81-83) For the reasons presented by the ALJ in her decision, the Commissioner agrees that Archway has not met its burden of proof with regard to the items covered in this schedule and, therefore, the Department's disallowances totaling $289,634 must be sustained.

Schedules D,E,F,G,H for the 1994-95 audit and Schedule D for the other audits – Maintenance/Transportation/Depreciation (Initial Decision at 83-86) It is noted that the parties are in agreement that the Department's auditor applied improper calculation methodologies in computing allowable/non-allowable costs on this schedule, and that these must be recalculated – along with the dependent rolling calculations which have a carry over effect from year to year – using the now agreed upon methodology. Although the Commissioner concurs that the ALJ properly rejected utilizing the calculations submitted by Archway's expert in this regard, she specifically disagrees with the ALJ's determination that the Commissioner's final decision here is the appropriate vehicle for the calculation of these and other necessary recalculations necessitated in this matter, along with the presentation of the specific amounts of money that Archway is required to return to its sending districts. Rather, the Commissioner finds that – given the nature of Archway's petitions of appeal in this matter, and the dictates of the Administrative Procedure Act which require that a recommended decision shall be filed "in such form that it may be adopted as the decision in the case" (N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)) – the decision of the OAL in this regard should result in recommendations which resolve the entire contested case, i.e., the adjudication of the involved rights, entitlements and obligations of Archway. Furthermore, the Commissioner finds and concludes that the ultimate equitable resolution of this matter and the interests of the parties and

In summary, with respect to each of the Schedules at issue for the included audit years, the Commissioner adopts the findings and conclusions of the ALJ reflecting the following:

Schedule A (Teacher Salaries)

1994-95 The amount of disallowances remaining in dispute, $123,352, is reduced to $29,136.

1995-96 The amount of disallowances remaining in dispute, $388,494, is reduced to $319, 370.

1996-97 The amount of disallowances remaining in dispute, $211,416, is reduced to $145,965.

1997-98 The amount of disallowances remaining in dispute, $305,501, is reduced to $262,084.

1998-99 The amount of disallowances remaining in dispute, $192,859, is reduced to $141,047.

Schedule B
(Non-Teacher Salary Disallowance)

1994-95 Non-disputed disallowances are $386,436.

1995-96 Non-disputed disallowances are $261,191

1996-97 Non-disputed disallowances are $176,479.

1997-98 Non-disputed disallowances are $ 3,923.

1998-99 Non-disputed disallowances are $ 34,058.

Schedule C (including C1 and C2 for the 1994-95 audit)
(Non-Salary Expenses Charged to PSH Schools)

1994-95 Department's disallowances of $110,812 are affirmed.

1995-96 Department's disallowances of $ 67,264 are affirmed.

1996-97 Department's disallowances of $ 81,809 are affirmed.

1997-97 Department's disallowances of $ 10,425 are affirmed.

1998-99 Department's disallowances of $ 19,324 are affirmed.

Schedules M,O,P,Q,and R for 1994-95 audits and Schedules G,H,I,J for the other audits
(Organizational Overhead)

The Department's disallowances with respect to these schedules, in the amount of $2.1 million, are affirmed.

Schedule T for the 1994-95 audit and Schedule L for the other audits
(Working Capital)

Amounts to be calculated at the OAL on remand.

Schedule N for the 1994-95 audit and Schedule S for the other audits
(Tuition Waivers)

Non-disputed disallowances totaling $87,076.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, with the exception of its conclusion that the Commissioner should calculate – without benefit of OAL recommendations after the parties have been heard – all schedules based on the determinations herein and establish a recommended final amount that Archway is obligated to return to its sending districts. Consequently, this matter is remanded to the OAL for such further proceedings as are necessary to allow the ALJ to conclude these consolidated cases by making the requisite calculations and recommended determination of monies due and owing.

Record Closed: September 1, 2010 Decided: September 8, 2010

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 25, 2010, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures, and as placed on the record on August 18, 2010.

2. The settlement is in compliance with the standards set forth in In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 (1990):

3. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESOLUTION OF
THE ATLANTIC COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION

WHEREAS, the Atlantic County Special Services School District ("ACSSSD") Board of Education has filed tenure charges against professional teaching staff member Christopher Daggett ("Daggett") for misuse of school computers and related misconduct; and

WHEREAS, the matter has been assigned for trial before Administrative Law Judge W. Todd Miller; and

WHEREAS, there are extensive documents, proofs and trial days possible which could result in significant expense for both sides; and

WHEREAS, Respondent Daggett has filed an answering statement with the New Jersey Department of Education in which he admits the underlying facts giving rise to the charges; and

WHEREAS, the parties have conferred with each other and with Judge Miller;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, as follows:

The ACSSSD Board of Education hereby determines that it is in its best interests and the best interests of the public to agree to the settlement agreement attached hereto which includes the resignation of Daggett from the employment of the ACSSSD and resolves the tenure charge;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that among the reasons the Board of Education determines that this is in its best interest are as follows:

1. Even though Daggett has filed an answering statement admitting the underlying facts giving rise to the charges, the punishment to be imposed, if any, remains contested and it is anticipated that trial in this matter may take several days.
2. The anticipated trial would result in substantial financial expense to the Board of Education both with respect to attorney's fees and loss of staff time.
3. The Board of Education will remain at risk should a trial occur since there is no guarantee of a favorable outcome.
4. But for the agreement between the parties, the Board of Education would have to continue paying Daggett's salary under the tenure hearing law possibly for an extended period of time.
5. It is clearly a business decision to come to the agreement between the Board of Education and Daggett as it will clearly save the Board of Education money and the agreement will provide to the Board of Education the desired result of having Daggett resign from the ACSSSD and not seek re-employment therein.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that Louis J. Greco, Esquire, Solicitor to the Board of Education, is hereby authorized to execute this agreement in behalf of the Board.

The foregoing resolution was moved by Judith Gallagher; and seconded by Sarah Beth Johnson.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 55-3/10

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN LEWKOWICZ, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

Upon review of the record of this matter, the "Settlement Agreement" (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, the Commissioner is constrained to remand the settlement.

The parties have, in paragraphs 3 and 8 of the Agreement, set forth terms and duties over which the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction. More specifically, performance of the terms in those paragraphs turn on the determinations of other government entities – such as the Division of Pensions – which determinations have apparently not yet been made. While the balance of the Agreement's provisions appear to be consonant with the standards set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, the terms of the entire agreement appear to be interdependent, and there is no language in the agreement directing that the acceptable provisions survive the elimination of those that are invalid.

Accordingly, the matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the agreement or a hearing on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03656-10

AGENCY REF. NO. 55-3/10

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN LEWKOWICZ, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.

Kenyatta K. Stewart, Esq., for petitioner (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Richard J. Simon, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 7, 2010 Decided: September 14, 2010

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALAJ:

On March 23, 2010 the School District of the Township of Irvington ("the District") certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming against the respondent, John Lewkowicz, a tenured teacher employed by the District. Lewkowicz filed an answer denying the charges on March 30, 2010. Having deemed the charges sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, the New Jersey Department of Education transmitted the charges to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on April 16, 2010.

On the date that the hearing was to commence, August 3, 2010, the parties engaged in settlement discussions and reached an agreement which was memorialized into a settlement document on September 7, 2010. The Assistant Superintendent of the District and the attorney for the district approved the settlement terms.

Based upon a review of the attached settlement agreement, I FIND as follows:

1. The nature of the charges has been documented by the submission of the Statement of Charges and Certificate of Determination to the Commissioner of Education.

2. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, Mr. Lewkowicz will retire from his position of employment effective on the day that the settlement is approved by the Commissioner of Education.

3. Mindful that the Irvington School District is an Abbott District with stringent budget limitations, it is the best interests of the parties and the public to resolve this matter without risking an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly litigation. The settlement is financially prudent. The petitioner will be paid only for his accumulated 79 sick days. In addition, his health benefits will continue for a period of nine (9) months following the approval of the settlement by the Commissioner.

4. The proposed settlement agreement is with the consent of all parties.

5. By the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, Mr. Lewkowicz has entered into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights.

6. Furthermore, the agreement stipulates that Mr. Lewkowicz fully acknowledges that he understands that additional proceedings may occur before the State Board of Examiners.

7. The agreement does not contain any provisions which restrict public access under the Open Public Records Act.

I therefore CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and that approval of this settlement is in the public interest.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

In consideration of the mutual covenants and promises provided herein, by and between the Irvington Board of Education (hereafter "Petitioner") whose address is 1 University Place, Irvington, New Jersey 07111 and ~~Joseph~~ John JL Lewkowicz (hereafter " Respondent"), whose address is 377 Oak Street, Perth Amboy, 08861, the parties hereby state and agree as follows:

WHEREFORE Petitioner and Respondent agree that the nature of the charges stemming from the matter discussed in further detail herein deal with allegations of providing a learner's permit to an individual who was not an Irvington High School student; and

WHEREFORE Respondent has been employed by the Petitioner in the Irvington School District for a period of approximately twenty two (22) years; and

WHEREFORE Petitioner is a Abbott School District that is currently facing economic hardship and due to reasons of economy and efficiency and the inherent difficulties in proving the charges as stated in the pleadings submitted to the Court, and Respondent, opposing the charges and facing the risk of losing his State issued teaching certification, have determined that resolution of the allegations and claims made herein are in the best interest; and

WHEREFORE Petitioner and Respondent hereby agree and voluntarily give their consent to the settlement in the within matter as set forth herein; and

WHEREFORE Respondent has entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of his rights; and

WHEREFORE Respondent is aware that the Commissioner of Education may forward the pleading and other related documents in this matter to the State Board of Examiners for a determination on Respondent's teaching certification; and

WHEREFORE this Agreement is consistent with public policy, and

WHEREFORE Petitioner and Respondent have had adequate time to consult with their respective legal counsel in this matter and are fully satisfied with the legal representation provided; and

WHEREFORE Petitioner and Respondent have fully discussed and resolved all outstanding issues and have no further questions for the Court; and

NOW THEREFORE The parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Petitioner shall dismiss all tenure charges against Respondent with prejudice.

2. Respondent shall file for disability pension within 30 days following approval of the Settlement Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. Health benefits shall continue to be provided by Petitioner to Respondent for a period of nine (9) months following the date of approval of the Settlement Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. Should the Respondent be approved for disability pension within said nine months his health insurance benefits shall terminate on the date that his disability pension commences. The Petitioner shall take no action to impede or disrupt Respondent's application process for disability pension and cooperation with Respondent upon request.

3. Respondent shall proceed with his workers' compensation claim against Petitioner until his application for disability pension is approved. Petitioner shall take no action to impede or delay Respondent's workers' compensation claim. Immediately upon approval of Respondent's disability pension said workers' compensation matters shall be dismissed with prejudice.

4. Respondent shall waive any and all back pay from March 15, 2010, the date of the suspension without pay by Petitioner.

5. Respondent shall waive any and all pay raises that have been allocated by Petitioner since March 15, 2010.

6. Respondent shall waive any and all lawsuits/ litigation in law or equity against Petitioner.

7. Petitioner shall pay the Respondent within 30 days, 75 sick days at $150.00 per day for total of $11,250.00 in lump sum payment.

8. The parties hereto agree that Respondent will retire due to his claim of psychiatric disability from Petitioner upon approval of the within Settlement Agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

9. Neither party to this Settlement Agreement shall hinder or interfere with the other party's ability to comply with the terms and conditions set forth herein.

SIGNATURES The parties hereto by signing this Agreement acknowledge their rights and obligations pursuant to the terms and conditions set forth herein. The representative on behalf of Petitioner signs this document with full authority to bind the Petitioner hereto.

GARDEN STATE SCHOOL BUS CONTRACTORS ASSOCIATION AND JAVIER FERNANDEZ,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE PASSAIC COUNTY EDUCATION SERVICES COMMISSION AND K & M TRANSPORTATION, INC. AND BONDEX INSURANCE COMPANY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Garden State School Bus Contractors Association (GSSBCA) and Javier Fernandez, a citizen and taxpayer, filed the within petition seeking to set aside the allegedly unlawful contracts awarded by respondent Passaic County Educational Services Commission (PCESC) to respondent K&M Transportation (K&M), claiming that such unlawful contracts have harmed the taxpayers of Passaic County, the safety of their children, and the legitimacy of the bid process. This action arises out of bids that K&M submitted on several PCESC bus routes; K&M was declared lowest bidder on eight routes, but disclosed immediately after the bid opening that it only had the capacity to operate two routes; PCESC cautioned K&M not to repeat this improper action, but nonetheless tendered contracts on two of the eight routes on which K&M had bid. PCESC filed a motion for summary disposition of this matter, contending that petitioners lacked standing to bring the action.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: as a threshold matter, petitioner Fernandez had standing to bring the within action as a taxpayer of Passaic County, but GSSBCA did not have standing as the facts of the case support neither a finding that its members were directly harmed by the bid awards nor a finding of fraud or systemic bidding irregularities that would harm the GSSBCA in the future; PCESC deviated from proper bidding procedure, creating the appearance of impropriety, and such actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; however, petitioners' demand that the contracts with K&M be set aside is moot because the contract was fully performed by June 30, 2010. Accordingly, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

Upon full review and consideration of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings, granted PCESC's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 315-11/09

GARDEN STATE SCHOOL BUS CONTRACTORS ASSOCIATION AND JAVIER FERNANDEZ,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE PASSAIC COUNTY EDUCATION SERVICES COMMISSION AND K & M TRANSPORTATION, INC. AND BONDEX INSURANCE COMPANY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioners Garden State School Bus Contractors Association (the Association) and taxpayer Javier Fernandez (Fernandez) instituted this controversy, alleging that the action of the respondent Board of Directors of the Passaic County Education Services Commission (PCESC) in awarding two bus routes to respondent K&M Transportation (K&M) was ultra vires. More specifically, K&M had bid on several routes, had been declared lowest bidder on eight routes, but – immediately after the bid opening – disclosed that it only had the capacity to operate two routes. PCESC cautioned K&M that its actions were improper and could not be repeated, but tendered contracts on two – as opposed to eight – routes.

The facts are amply set forth in the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The relief demanded in the amended petition was: the setting aside of the two contracts awarded to K&M; the f orfeiture of K&M's bid guarantees, i.e. bond contracts with respondent Bondex Insurance Company, and/or reimbursement by PCESC to "the taxpayers" of the differential between K&M's bid and the second lowest responsible bids for the six routes which K&M won but did not perform.[1]

As a threshold matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) discussed the jurisdictional issue of standing. He determined that Fernandez did have standing as a Passaic County taxpayer. For the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner agrees with this determination.

On the other hand, the ALJ concluded that the Association did not have standing to challenge the awarding of the two contracts to K&M. While a supplemental affidavit submitted by association member Al Van Riper certified that approximately eight association members submitted bids for various routes in PCESC's bid offering, there is no evidence that they submitted bids for the eight routes that K&M won, let alone that they were the next responsible bidders on those eight routes. Absent such proofs, no concrete stake in this controversy has been shown by the association, and it fails to meet the definition of an interested party set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2: "a person who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy before the Commissioner." Here, the Association's interests are no greater than those of the general public.

In addition, the Commissioner notes that the undisputed facts of this matter do not support the existence of an ongoing pattern of improper bid practices. While the PCESC departed from regulations by improperly allowing K&M to perform only two of the eight contracts that it won, and by failing to demand the bid guarantee for the remaining six contracts, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the facts of this case do not support a finding of fraud or systemic bidding irregularities that will unquestionably harm the Association in the future.

[1] The Commissioner has reviewed the record below, the Initial Decision and the parties' exceptions.

Thus, the Commissioner is not persuaded that the serious issues of public administration and statutory interpretation present in O'Shea v. New Jersey School Construction Corp., 388 N.J. Super. 312 (App. Div. 2006) and the other cases cited by petitioner – which issues justified standing for the complaining associations in those cases – are at issue in the present controversy.

In summary, the interests that were implicated by PCESC's actions were not those of the petitioning association but rather those of the taxpayers[2] – which are represented by petitioner Fernandez. The Commissioner consequently concurs with the ALJ's determination that the Association lacks standing in this case.

There is no question, however, that PCESC's post bid-opening, ex parte discussion with K&M – as well as its failure to reject K&M as a bidder and to demand the forfeit of the bid guarantee – were deviations from proper bidding procedure. At the very least those actions created the appearance of impropriety, regardless of the financial and practical considerations that may have led to them. Such actions were inconsistent with the legislative intent underlying the public bidding laws. See, e.g. Terminal Construction Corp. v. Atlantic City Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 409-10 (1975) (Bidding statutes are for the benefit of the taxpayers and are construed as nearly as possible with sole reference to the public good. Their objects are to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption; their aim is to secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition). The Commissioner therefore concurs with the ALJ's determination that PCESC's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. PCESC is cautioned not to repeat such conduct.

What remains for the Commissioner's consideration are the demands for relief in the petition. While the Commissioner has found arbitrariness in PCESC's actions, she is mindful that the contracts in question have now been fully performed. As the ALJ found, this renders moot petitioners' demand that the contracts with K&M be set aside. See, e.g., Plumsted Township Bus Drivers Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Plumsted, Ocean County, 1988 S.L.D. 1850. In that case a board of education failed to formally approve an invitation to bid and related specifications, and failed to honor various procedural bidding requirements. As with the present controversy, by the time the litigation had taken its course the contract had been fully performed. The Commissioner consequently found that > [w]hile the Board is to be admonished for its failure to comply with the strictures of the school bidding laws, a declaratory judgment or order finding that such violations did occur would still provide no relief available to the Commissioner to grant at this time since the contract in question has expired during the course of this litigation.

> Id. at 1852.

The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that no basis exists to grant the alternate form of relief set forth in the petition, i.e., an order directing PCESC, as bond obligee, to demand from Bondex Insurance Company the disbursal of funds guaranteed by the bond K&M purchased for its bid. N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.4(e)(2) instructs that such a "bid bond . . . shall be forfeited upon refusal of the successful bidder to execute a contract . . . ." The facts of the instant controversy indicate that K&M did not refuse any contracts. Rather, PCESC decided against tendering the six contracts that K&M won but indicated it could not perform. The Commissioner will not order PCESC to demand performance of a bond where no performance is due.

The amended petition also articulates as alternative relief reimbursement by K&M and PCESC to "the taxpayers of Passaic County" of the differential between K&M's bid and the second lowest responsible bids for the six routes which K&M won but did not perform. As there are no facts in the record 1) identifying such a differential, 2) indicating whether funds are available for such "reimbursement," or 3) proving that such funds could be delivered to the taxpayers of the member districts without cost and at a net savings, the Commissioner cannot grant the requested relief.

Accordingly, PCESC's motion for summary disposition is granted, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Record Closed: May 12, 2010 Decided: June 17, 2010

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

BACKGROUND

On or about July 27, 2009, Passaic County Educational Services Commission (PCESC) advertised for public bids for the 2009-2010 Student Transportation Services for special education school children. The bid specifications contained a provision captioned "Bid Guarantee," which required each bidder to provide security, which could take on a number of forms, including a bid bond. The Bid Specifications further provided that the bid guarantee "shall be forfeited upon refusal of a bidder to execute a contract." PCESC sought bids for up to 65 separate and distinct transportation routes. Furthermore, the Bid Specifications set forth that the "contractor shall provide and maintain an adequate number of school buses, including spares, to safely transport any and all students assigned to the routes contained in this bid and to ensure uninterrupted service in the event of mechanical breakdown."

K&M Transportation, Inc. (K&M) submitted bids on twenty-nine (29) different transportation routes. As part of its bid package, K&M provided a bid bond from Bondex Insurance Company (Bondex). The bid bond identified K&M as the Principal, PCESC as the Obligee and Bondex as the Surety, in an amount that was not to exceed five percent (5%) of K&M's bid.

The bid opening was held on August 5, 2009, and K&M was deemed the lowest responsible bidder on eight (8) routes with its bid having been rejected on the remaining routes. However, K&M advised PCESC that it only had sufficient vehicles to accept two contracts. The PCESC made a determination that it was "in the best interest of the Commission" to award two (2) routes to K&M, namely routes 3025 and 3026. Subsequently, PCESC awarded K&M a contract for these routes and K&M executed that contract. The difference between K&M's bids on the other six routes for which it was the lowest bidder and the bids of the next lowest bidders is about $30,886.20.[1]

[1] This is the result of petitioners' calculations. In its answers to petitioners' interrogatories, PCESC states that this information will be supplied. (Fisher Cert., Exh. J, no. 33).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

PCESC's challenge to petitioners' standing

This matter involves a motion by PCESC to dismiss the complaint by Garden State School Bus Contractors Association (GSSBCA) and Javier Fernandez (collectively "petitioners") for lack of standing. PCESC contends that GSSBCA has asserted no claim that any of the companies that bid on the bus routes in question are members of GSSBCA. PCESC adds that the petition merely names one individual, Javier Fernandez, as a taxpayer; however, even as a taxpayer, Fernandez has no standing to assert claims against respondent PCESC. PCESC asserts that petitioners lack standing to challenge an award of a contract claiming that the bid specifications were illegally drafted or inappropriate after the bids have been awarded. PCESC claims that GSSBCA has no specific interest that will be directly affected by this case.

"Standing" refers to the petitioner's ability or entitlement to maintain an action before a court or administrative agency. Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 47 (App. Div. 2001), certif. den. 171 N.J. 442 (2002). To possess standing, a party "must present a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation, a real adverseness with respect to the subject matter, and a substantial likelihood that the party will suffer harm in the event of an unfavorable decision." In re Camden County, 170 N.J. 439, 449 (2002). New Jersey courts have adopted a generous approach toward recognition of standing in order that aggrieved parties will not be denied easy access to the legal system. See Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971). S. Lefelt, Administrative Law & Practice, 37 N.J. Practice Series § 7.4 (2d ed. 2000).

Taxpayer Standing

It is well-settled that citizens and taxpayers have standing to enforce competitive bidding statutes. Waszen v. Atlantic City, 1 N.J. 272, 276 (1949) ("a citizen and taxpayer . . . as such . . . may attack the award [of a public contract] and also raise the question of the illegality of the specifications."); Camden Plaza Parking v. City of Camden, 16 N.J. 150, 158 (1954); James Petrozello Co., Inc. v. Chatham Twp., 75 N.J. Super. 173, 179 (App. Div. 1962); J. Turco Paving Contractor, Inc. v. City Council of Orange, 89 N.J. Super. 93 (App. Div. 1965). See Loigman v. Twp. Comm. of Middletown, 297 N.J. Super. 287, 295-96 (App. Div. 1997) ("Other situations where taxpayers may challenge governmental action involve claims of illegal bidding procedures.").

The purpose of competitive bidding statutes "is to secure competition and to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption," Trap Rock Indus., Inc. v. Kohl, 59 N.J. 471, 479 (1971) (quoting Hillside Twp, Union County v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317, 322 (1957), and "to secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition," Terminal Constr. Corp. v. Atlantic County Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 410 (1975). "Statutes directed toward these ends are for the benefit of the taxpayers and not the bidders; they should be construed with sole reference to the public good . . . . It, of course, serves the public interest to permit suits to enforce the policy of these statutes. To that end, a taxpayer may sue." Trap Rock, supra, 59 N.J. at 479.

Thus, case law has consistently held that taxpayers have standing to attack the award of a public contract and also raise the question of the illegality of the bid specifications. It is undisputed that petitioner Javier Fernandez is a resident and taxpayer of Passaic County. Therefore, petitioner Fernandez has standing to bring this action to enforce the competitive bidding statutes and to set aside the alleged unlawful award of these public contracts.

Associational Standing

Petitioner GSSBCA is a non-profit association of school bus contractors. Amended Verified Petition, ¶8. "Many of GSSBCA's members have offices and/or depots located within the boundaries of Passaic County, New Jersey. In addition, there are at least five members of the GSSBCA with offices or depots in Passaic County that regularly submit bids to the PCESC for student transportation services." Certification of Al Van Riper, ¶4-5 (April 20, 2010). GSSBCA contends that it has standing to bring this action to enforce the competitive bidding statutes and to set aside the alleged unlawful award of these public contracts.

New Jersey "statutes and appellate decisions give wide recognition to suits by associations." Crescent Park, supra, 58 N.J. at 106. Nonetheless, there are accepted limits as to who may seek to vindicate rights belonging to others. Courts will not render advisory opinions or function in the abstract or entertain proceedings by parties "who are mere intermeddlers" or are "merely interlopers or strangers to the dispute." Crescent Park, supra, 58 N.J. at 107. Despite a broad standing policy, our courts require some real and direct interest be present before granting third party standing to seek judicial review of agency action. Camden County, supra, 170 N.J. at 447. Generally, two prerequisites must exist to establish standing: First, petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings; and, second, his position must be truly adverse to the opposing party. Home Builders League of So. Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 132 (1979). Sometimes the first requirement is described in terms of the "substantial likelihood of harm" to the complainant if the requested relief is not granted. Home Builders, supra, 81 N.J. at 134. Where a case is of great public interest, however, "any slight additional private interest" will be sufficient to afford standing. Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1980). But courts still continue to look for some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights.

Similar restrictions are imposed on those who would initiate administrative proceedings before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner). While N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 confers upon the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws," the Commissioner adopted regulations clarifying exactly who may be considered interested persons for the purpose of such hearings. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 defines "interested person(s)" as someone "who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy before the Commissioner." Such language is consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act, which limits the definition of a contested case to proceedings where the "legal rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties are required by constitutional right or by statute to be determined." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b).

Here, GSSBCA reliance on O'Shea v. N.J. Sch. Constr. Corp., 388 N.J. Super. 312 (App. Div. 2006), to support its contention that it has standing, is misplaced. In O'Shea the court held that an association of New Jersey-based mechanical contracting firms and its executive director had representational standing to challenge a bidding practice of the Schools Construction Corporation (SCC). The plaintiff association sought mandamus-type relief to compel the SCC to end its practice of permitting general contractors to substitute major trade subcontractors for those the general contractor named in its bidding documents. In the present matter, petitioners are not challenging a specific PCESC bidding practice or policy; rather, they are challenging the legality of the award of a public contract for transportation services.

GSSBCA has made no assertion that it represents taxpaying businesses in Passaic County or that any of its constituent members have an individual interest in the award of the transportation contracts at issue. In short, GSSBCA has no real stake in the outcome of these proceedings and has not demonstrated a substantial likelihood of its constituencies suffering genuine harm. Thus, GSSBCA lacks standing.

Bondex's challenge to petitioners' standing

Bondex also moves to dismiss petitioners' complaint for lack of standing because pursuant to the terms of the Bid Bond issued by Bondex, the only beneficiary or "Obligee" was PCESC. Thus, Bondex asserts that petitioners are not beneficiaries of the Bid Bond and, therefore, cannot maintain a claim against Bondex.

Petitioners aver that they are not asserting direct claims against Bondex, nor are they seeking to have K&M's bond paid to them. Rather, petitioners seek an order either directing PCESC to call for the forfeiture of K&M's bond, or directing Bondex to turn the bond directly over to the County. Petitioners state that they named Bondex as a party so that it cannot later complain that it did not have an opportunity to participate and/or be heard.

It should be noted that the education statute, Title 18A, specifically N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, grants the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under school law or under the rules of the State Board of Education or the Commissioner of Education. Accordingly, the Commissioner and, therefore, the OAL have jurisdiction over school transportation contract disputes which fall under Chapter 39 of the education statute. This jurisdiction over school bus contracts was affirmed by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Rankin v. Bd. of Educ. of Egg Harbor Twp., 134 N.J.L. 342 (Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd 135 N.J.L. 299 (E. & A. 1947). Therefore, the Commissioner of Education has the jurisdiction to hear the present dispute concerning the awarding of school bus transportation contracts.

However, purely contractual disputes do not fall under the school laws. See Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ. v. Fair Lawn Plaza Taxi, Inc., 55 N.J. Super. 357 (App. Div. 1959) (where the Superior Court has jurisdiction to hear breach-of-contract cases involving the transportation of pupils where money damages are sought). A surety agreement is an indemnification contract, which in the public bidding context insures the agency and the bidder. Only those parties insured under the contract have enforceable rights under the surety agreement. Therefore, since the relief sought in this proceeding can be likened to money damages, the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction to award such relief by compelling Bondex to pay to PCESC the bid guarantee posted by K&M in the event that K&M refused to enter into a contract and, consequently, PCESC failed to call for the forfeiture of the bid guarantee. See Hudson County Transport, Inc. v. State-Operated Sch. District of Jersey City, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 635, 636.

Thus, petitioners do not have standing to petition for the requested relief regarding K&M's bid guarantee, which was issued by Bondex.

CONCLUSION

The New Jersey Supreme Court recognizes a taxpayer's right to sue to enforce competitive bidding statutes. However, GSSBCA has no standing as an association to litigate on behalf of its constituencies, since it has no real stake in the outcome of these proceedings and has not demonstrated a substantial likelihood of its constituencies suffering genuine harm. Thus, petitioner taxpayer have standing to bring the present claim. Likewise, petitioners lack standing to petition the Commissioner for the relief requested seeking an order either directing PCESC to call for the forfeiture of K&M's bond, or directing Bondex to turn the bond directly over to the County.

SUMMARY DECISION STANDARD

Petitioners filed a cross-motion for summary decision (in response to respondents' motions to dismiss) claiming that the transportation contracts awarded to K & M Transportation, Inc. (K&M) are unlawful and must be set aside as a matter of law because K & M bid on more bus routes than it has buses to cover.

The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of R. 4:46-2 of the New Jersey Court Rules. See also Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the motion for summary decision may be granted ". . . if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The opposing party must submit responding affidavits showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of material fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, and that the moving party is not entitled to summary decision as a matter of law. Failure to do so, entitles the moving party to summary judgment. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. 520. Moreover, even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, the courts must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one-sided that [moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998). The New Jersey Supreme Court's standard for summary judgment is thus designed to "liberalize the standards so as to permit summary judgment in a larger number of cases" due to the perception that we live in "a time of great increase in litigation and one in which many meritless cases are filed." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 539.

The facts in this matter are undisputed. Since no genuine issue exists as to any material fact this matter is ripe for summary decision.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

The purpose of competitive bidding for local public contracts is not protection of individual interests of bidders, but rather advancement of the public interest in securing the most economical result by inviting competition in which all bidders are placed on equal footing. See Twp. of River Vale v. R.J. Longo Construction Co., 127 N.J. Super. 207 (Law Div. 1974). Courts have consistently held that the purpose of the competitive bidding process is to secure the most economical result in the expenditure of public moneys by promoting uninhibited competition and guarding against "favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption" and "to secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition." Terminal Construction Corp. v. Atlantic City Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 410 (1975).

> To achieve these purposes all bidding practices which are capable of being used to further corrupt ends or which are likely to affect adversely the bidding process are prohibited, and all awards made or contracts entered into where any such practice may have played a part, will be set aside. This is so even though it is evident that in fact there was no corruption or any actual adverse effect upon the bidding process. As Justice Francis observed in Township of Hillside v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317, 326 (1957), "In this field it is better to leave the door tightly closed than to permit it to be ajar, thus necessitating forevermore in such cases speculation as to whether or not it was purposely left that way."

However, as important as competition in public bidding may be, competition is not an end in itself. Other factors – experience, responsibility, honesty and skill – are all important to assure that public work is properly performed in the public interest. Consequently, there is no absolute mandate that "an agency must, in every action it takes, promote competition at the expense of all other concerns." George Harms Construction Co. v. N.J. Turnpike Auth., 137 N.J. 8, 44 (1994) (Handler, J., concurring). If soundness, efficiency, and integrity can otherwise be assured, "[t]he ability to perform the work required is of the very essence of any contract for public work," Bil Jim Construction. v. Manchester Twp. Bd. of Educ., 236 N.J. Super. 603, 605 (App. Div.1989).

These goals are also intended to be achieved through the Public School Contracts Law (PSCL), which is applicable in the present matter. Tec Elec., Inc. v. Franklin Lakes Bd. of Educ., 284 N.J. Super. 480, 488 (Law Div. 1995) (citing F.S.D. Industries, Inc. v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Paterson, 166 N.J. Super. 330, 334 (App. Div. 1979)). Under the PSCL, the contract must be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37. The "lowest responsible bidder" is the one whose response to a request for bids offers the lowest price and is responsive and who is responsible. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-2(t). "Responsible" means able to complete the contract in accordance with its requirements, including but not limited to requirements pertaining to experience, moral integrity, operating capacity, financial capacity, credit, and workforce, equipments, and facilities available. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-2(x). "Responsive" means conforming in all material respects to the terms and conditions, specifications, legal requirements and other provisions of the request. N.J.S.A.18A:18A-2(y). "Quite plainly, ability to perform is of the very essence of any contract for public work." Donald F. Begraft, Inc. v. Franklin Bd. of Educ., 133 N.J. Super. 415, 417 (App. Div. 1975).

Likewise, the statutory provisions entitled "Transportation to and from Schools" (hereinafter "Transportation Act"), N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to -25, govern the procedures concerning the bidding process and the awarding of transportation services contracts in relation to public schools. The Department of Education (DOE) has promulgated regulations concerning pupil transportation contracts under the authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-21 and -24. These regulations are found at N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.1 to -9.16. Similar to other bidding statutes, it is the object of the Transportation Act to "prevent fraud, favoritism and extravagance, to safeguard the taxpayers and protect the lowest responsible bidder." N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3.

The courts in this State have recognized a municipal body's discretionary authority in dealing with contract bid irregularities. George Harms Constr. Co. v. Bor. of Lincoln Pk., 161 N.J.Super. 367, 379 (Law Div. 1978). "[A] municipal body has a greater function in dealing with irregularities in such matters than merely exercising a ministerial and perfunctory role. It has inherent discretionary power, and what is more, a duty to secure, through competitive bidding, the lowest responsible offer, and to effectuate that accomplishment it may waive minor irregularities." Univ. Bus Co. v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Paterson, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 553, 554-55[2] (citation omitted).

DISCUSSION

Respondent PCESC advertised for bids on 65 separate and distinct transportation routes, and reserved the right to reject any and all bids. K&M submitted bids on twenty-nine (29) different transportation routes. K&M was deemed the lowest responsible bidder on eight (8) routes with its bid having been rejected on the remaining routes. However, K&M advised PCESC that it only had sufficient vehicles to accept two contracts. PCESC made a determination that it was "in the best interest of the Commission" to award two (2) routes to K&M, namely routes 3025 and 3026. Subsequently, PCESC awarded K&M a contract for these routes and K&M executed that contract.

[2] A supplemental decision to this case is available at 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 223, where the State Board of Education dismissed petitioner's appeal for failure to file said appeal within the statutory time limit.

The specifications provide that "[t]he contractor shall provide and maintain an adequate number of school buses, including spares, to safely transport any and all students assigned to the routes contained in this bid and to assure uninterrupted service in the event of mechanical breakdown." Cert. of Charles M. Fisher, [3] dated April 20, 2010, Exh. A[4] at 2. Petitioner places its reliance on this language in the Bid Specifications to assert that K&M was not a responsible bidder since it did not have sufficient equipment and/or personnel to perform on the 29 transportation routes upon which it bid. The Bid Specifications did not require any bidder to confirm at the time of bidding that they had the "equipment and personnel" needed to perform on all routes on which they submitted a bid; it only required that all bidders maintain an adequate number of school buses to safely transport students on routes which they would be assigned should their bid be accepted and a contract awarded. Moreover, a bidder is not required to possess all required equipment and/or personnel at the time of submitting its bid; rather, should the bid be accepted and a contract awarded, it is the bidder's responsibility to obtain the required equipment. See Hudson County Transport v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Jersey City, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 635 (where ALJ Klinger concluded that the requirement of specific type of buses does not discourage competitive bidding although most vendors do not have this equipment, because a bidder willing to obtain the equipment will presumably plan for it and account for the cost in the bid submitted and bidders with no interest in obtaining the required equipment need not bid). Competitive public bidding fosters competition among bidders. The more companies that can bid on a project, the greater the likelihood that the public entity will receive the lowest possible contract price from responsible bidders. Skakel v. Twp. of North Bergen, 37 N.J. 369, 378 (1962). Thus, bidding procedures cannot be prohibitively restrictive to prevent smaller companies from competitively bidding for public contracts. Therefore, K&M's action of bidding for 29 routes with the knowledge that it could not perform on all 29 routes because it only had two buses and two drivers is not improper under the competitive bidding framework.

[3] Hereinafter, Fisher Cert.
[4] Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of PCESC's Bid Specifications for Student Transportation Services for the 2009-2010 school year.

Under the present circumstances, K&M was deemed the lowest responsible bidder[5] on eight routes with its bid having been rejected on the remaining routes. After the bids were opened, and it was determined that K&M was the lowest responsible bidder on eight routes, PCESC contacted K&M at which time PCESC was informed that K&M lacked the ability to provide service on all eight of the routes it was awarded. Here, K&M did not obtain the required equipment; instead K&M advised PCESC that it only had sufficient vehicles to accept two contracts.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.10(a), PCESC was required to award transportation contracts to the "lowest responsible bidder." PCESC has discretion in determining whether a bidder is responsible. To determine that a bidder is not responsible, a public entity must find that the bidder is so lacking in experience, financial ability, equipment and facilities to justify that he or she would be unable to carry out the contract, if awarded. N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.10(e). After PCESC was informed that K&M only had two vehicles, it was clear that K&M was no longer a responsible bidder as it did not have sufficient financial and material resources (buses) at its disposal to enable it to perform fully the transportation services required of it under its accepted bid, eight routes. However, PCESC made the determination that it was "in the best interest of the Commission" to award two routes to K&M.

The Bid Specifications did not limit PCESC's discretion to award contracts to various bidders for different transportation routes. PCESC argues that it was within its discretion to modify the number of bus routes it would award K&M. PCESC argues that support for its ability to contract for these routes can be found in N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.3(d)(3), which mandates that bid specifications reflect a board of education's reservation of right to change any route or trip arrangement. This rule is inapposite to the present circumstances. Here, K&M made a representation in its bid of the accepted eight routes that it was unable to fulfill. Upon learning of this, PCESC did not modify the bus route or any specifics of the bid; instead, it chose to tender a contract on a portion of K&M's accepted bid (two routes) and not tender a contract on the remaining six accepted bids.

[5] Fishert Cert., Exh. J at 6 (PCESC Answers to Interrogatories, No. 14)

Once PCESC discovered K&M did not have sufficient financial and material resources (buses) to fully perform the transportation services required of it under its accepted bid, eight routes, K&M could no longer be considered a responsible bidder. It follows that its bid should have then been disqualified. As noted above, the bidding process does not prevent bidding on more routes than a bidder has equipment for at the time of bidding. However, a bidder runs the risk of obligating itself to more bus routes than it can handle. Had PCESC tendered a contract to K&M for all eight routes of its accepted bid, the integrity of the bidding procedures would have been protected through the available remedy of the surety in the event K&M failed to execute the contracts. See N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4. However, PCESC failed to offer K&M a contract for the six remaining routes, thus, technically K&M never refused to execute a contract, which is a necessary prerequisite to forfeit the bid guarantee. Ibid. Is that within the agency's discretion?

A contractual obligation arises upon the acceptance of a bid. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Fair Lawn v. Fair Lawn Plaza Taxi, Inc., 55 N.J. Super. 357, 361 (App. Div. 1959). It should be noted that an obligation on the part of the winning bidder to transport the pupils did not thereby arise. The contractual obligation upon acceptance of a bid is separate and apart from the performance contract to provide transportation services that would have existed had the written contract, to which the invitation to bid referred, been executed by PCESC and K&M. The contractual obligation, which did come into existence by virtue of PCESC's acceptance of K&M's bid, submitted in response to PCESC's invitation, obligated K&M to enter into the school transportation contract with PCESC once awarded.

In Fair Lawn, the court found that > the invitation [to bid], the bid of defendant in response thereto, and the award constituted far more than "preliminary steps" in the creation of a performance contract. They, of themselves, created a contract, separate and distinct from the contemplated performance contract. The obligation created was described in Lupfer & Remick v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Atlantic County, 87 N.J. Eq. 491, 497

> (Ch. 1917), as a vested right of contract, supported by an adequate consideration, therein described as "the privilege of bidding and the legal assurance to the successful bidder of an award as against all competitors."
> [Id. at 361-62 (emphasis in original).]

However, the key distinction here is that PCESC did not actually "award" the contract for six of eight routes of K&M's accepted bid. When dealing with transportation contracts for public school students, even though a contractor's submission is a single bid proposal, in actuality it is a package of separate bids for individual bus routes. It is clear from case law that it is common practice in the bidding process for transportation services for a school district, or, in this instance, an educational services commission, to pronounce a bidder as the lowest responsible bidder on certain routes within its bid and reject others. However, there is no reportable case law that has considered whether after bids for certain routes have been accepted, it is within the agency's discretion to then reject a portion of the accepted bids upon after-acquired knowledge concerning the bidder and award contracts for the remaining portion.

PCESC's determination that K&M was the lowest responsible bidder on eight routes, followed by PCESC's failure to tender a contract on all eight of K&M's accepted bids may taint the bidding process. To allow such a contract to stand would allow a bidder, after the bids were accepted to clarify its bid or withdraw a portion of its bid while still reaping the benefit of an awarded contract despite its lack of sufficient equipment or personnel to perform on all accepted bids. Such bidding practice does not promote competition on an equal footing and does not guard against favoritism, Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 322. Even though it is evident that in fact there was no corruption or any actual adverse effect upon the bidding process, aside from PCESC's failure to collect the bid guarantee, all awards made or contracts entered into where any such practice may have played a part, will be set aside. Terminal, supra, 67 N.J. at 410; see Hillside, supra, 25 N.J. at 326. Thus, under this strict standard, K&M's contract must be set aside.

However, there certainly is some discretion built into the competitive bidding process when dealing with education agencies, however, the level of discretion allowed is the central focus here. It is a well established rule that discretionary decisions of an educational agency will only be vacated where it acts in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner against the protections afforded by the public bidding laws. Perhaps what PCESC did was in fact in the best interest of its constituents. Conceivably, PCESC was simply exercising its discretion because in their view manipulation or corruptive dealing was not taking place here and it felt that offering K&M the two contracts was best for the taxpayers and best for the budget. Exercising its discretion may not have been contrary to the various public bidding laws. However, based on the standard articulated in Univ. Bus Co., supra, is PCESC's action of waiving performance on six additional bus routes a waiver of a minor irregularity?

It should be noted that the term of the contract runs from September 1 through June 30. The academic year is nearly complete and K&M continues to provide the transportation services under the terms of its contract with PCESC. To call for the contract to be re-bid at this late juncture may be contrary to the public interest. Even though the bidding process may have been tainted, the public still received the benefit of receiving the most economical result in the expenditure of public moneys, despite PCESC's failure to take the necessary actions for forfeiture of the bid guarantee.

Whether PCESC has discretion to award the contract once a bidder is deemed the lowest responsible bidder.

The statutory provisions entitled "Transportation to and from Schools" (hereinafter "Transportation Act"), N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to -25, requires public advertisement for bids and awards of a contract to the lowest responsible bidder. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-3.[6] See N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.10(a). In the present matter it is undisputed

[6] N.J.S.A. 18A:39-3(a) provides, in its entirety:

> No contract for the transportation of pupils to and from school shall be made, when the amount to be paid during the school year for such transportation shall exceed $ 7,500.00 or the amount determined pursuant to subsection b. of this section, and have the approval of the executive county superintendent of schools, unless the board of that PCESC determined K&M to be the lowest responsible bidder on eight routes. Cert. of Charles M. Fisher,[7] dated April 20, 2010, Exh. J[8] at No. 14. After the bids were opened, and it was determined that K&M was the lowest responsible bidder, K&M was contacted, at which time K&M informed Sonia Figueroa (Ms. Figueroa), PCESC transportation supervisor, that it only had two vehicles available for two routes on the bid. At this point no written contract had been tendered to K&M, thus, the issue presented is whether PCESC still had discretion regarding whether to award the contract to K&M even after it deemed K&M to be the lowest responsible bidder.

The courts in this State have recognized a municipal body's discretionary authority in dealing with public contracts. "The courts should not substitute its judgment for that of a governing body and should not attempt to exercise supervision over a municipal discretionary authority absent a showing of arbitrariness." Ace-Manzo, Inc. v. Twp. of Neptune, 258 N.J. Super. 129 (Law Div. 1992); George Harms Constr. Co. v. Bor. of Lincoln Pk., 161 N.J.Super. 367, 379 (Law Div. 1978). "[A] municipal body has a greater function in dealing with irregularities in such matters than merely exercising a ministerial and perfunctory role. It has inherent discretionary power, and what is more, a duty to secure, through competitive bidding, the lowest responsible offer, and to effectuate that accomplishment it may waive minor irregularities." Univ. Bus Co. v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Paterson, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 553, 554-55[9] (citation omitted).

A contractual obligation upon the bidder to enter into a contract comes into existence upon the acceptance of a bus company's bid. Bd. of Educ. v. Fair Lawn Plaza Taxi, Inc., 55 N.J. Super. 357, 361 (App. Div. 1959). This obligation is separate and apart from the performance obligation, which only arises after the contract has > [a] competitive bid submitted under statutory privilege and regulation is in the nature of an option to the municipality, based upon a valuable consideration, to which the principles of law governing options, generally, are applicable. The consideration passing is the privilege of bidding and the legal assurance to the successful bidder of an award as against all competitors. Such an option pending action consistent with its terms . . . is a vested right of contract, of which the municipality cannot be deprived, except, perhaps, by its consent . . .

> [Id. at 497-98 (emphasis added).]

Therefore, by virtue of PCESC's acceptance of K&M's bid, a contractual obligation came into existence, which obligated K&M to enter into the school transportation contract with PCESC. However, PCESC still retained the discretion to release K&M from its contractual obligation. Normally, this scenario is most often carried out where a successful bidder moves to withdraw its bid. See e.g. Intertech Assoc., Inc. v. City of

[9] A supplemental decision to this case is available at 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 223, where the State Board of Education dismissed petitioner's appeal for failure to file said appeal within the statutory time limit.

Thus, PCESC's decision to release K&M from the additional six contracts after discovering K&M only had vehicles available for two routes on the bid was within its discretion. Nevertheless, PCESC does not have unfettered discretion. A school board's discretionary decision should only be reversed if the record reveals that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Plumstead Twp. Bus Drivers Ass'n v. Plumstead Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 1833, 1842, adopted Comm'r 1988 S.L.D. 1850.

In Katinsky v. Pennsauken Twp. Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 1, the school board contacted the successful bidder, after awarding the bidder the contract, to determine the type of computer it anticipated supplying. ALJ Duncan concluded that, despite the incidental conversation between the board and the successful bidder, there was nothing improper in the bid award and that no information supplied during the [10] While unilateral mistake of a fact unknown to the other party is not ordinarily grounds for avoidance of a contract, rescission in the context of public bids on the basis of unilateral mistake made in good faith has been afforded under certain circumstances. Cataldo Constr. Co. v. County of Essex, 110 N.J.Super. 414, (Ch. Div. 1970); Conduit & Foundation, supra. See also Terminal Constr. Corp. v. Atlantic Cty. Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 407-08 (1975). "To qualify for the equitable relief sought, the party must show special circumstances justifying a departure from the generally controlling principle that parties are bound by the contracts they make for themselves." Cataldo Constr. Co., supra, 110 N.J.Super. at 418. These special circumstances have been described as: (1) the mistake must be of so great a consequence that to enforce the contract as actually made would be unconscionable; (2) the matter as to which the mistake was made must relate to the material feature of the contract; (3) the mistake must have occurred notwithstanding the exercise of reasonable care by the party making the mistake, and (4) the requested rescission cannot cause serious prejudice to the other party, except for loss of bargain. Conduit & Foundation, supra, 2 N.J.Super. at 440.

[11] In Conduit & Foundation, supra, a successful bidder was granted rescission for unilateral mistake where an error caused the bid to be entered at $ 143,171 instead of $ 193,421. The next highest bid was $ 205,395. The error occurred as a result of the mistaken omission of a $ 50,250 item on the final estimate. Explanation for the error was that the two people who prepared the bid were tired, having worked on it for two days, and that each one thought the other had included the item in the final computations. Finding, nonetheless, a reasonable degree of care was exercised, notice of the mistake and attempt to withdraw the bid occurred before award, the mistake was material and rescission could be effectuated without serious prejudice to the governmental body, the court concluded the bidder could avoid his error by way of rescission.

conversation altered or supplemented the specifications or induced the Board to award the contract to other than the lowest bidder. However, ALJ Duncan did point out that, "Such conversations should be discouraged as contrary to the paramount aims of the bidding statutes that all bidders bid upon the same thing and that the public know clearly what the bidder must give and the Board must receive for a consideration plainly stated." Katinsky, supra, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) at 3.

Likewise, in the present matter, Ms. Figueroa had a private, undisclosed conversation with K&M, after PCESC found K&M to be the lowest responsible bidder. At that time K&M informed Ms. Figueroa that it could only accept and execute contracts on two of the routes. In that conversation, Ms. Figueroa cautioned K&M "that because this was respondent's [K&M] first experience in the bid process, they [PCESC] would not hold it [K&M] responsible for the bids it could not perform, and that this was a warning not to do it again." Fisher Cert., Exh. E[12] at No. 29. PCESC then awarded K&M two bus route contracts, which K&M executed. Ibid. Contrary to Katinsky, supra, information supplied during the conversation between PCESC and K&M induced PCESC to award six bus route contracts to other than the lowest bidder. It is undisputed that the six routes, for which K&M was deemed the lowest responsible bidder, were awarded to the next lowest bidder.

This private undisclosed conversation is repugnant to the public bidding laws. It creates the appearance of impropriety and is capable of becoming a vehicle for corruption or favoritism, or likely to affect the amount of any bid or to influence any potential bidder to refrain from bidding. See Terminal Construction Corp. v. Atlantic City Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 410 (1975) ("all bidding practices which are capable of being used to further corrupt ends or which are likely to affect adversely the bidding process are prohibited, and all awards made or contracts entered into where any such practice may have played a part, will be set aside. This is so even though it is evident that in fact there was no corruption or any actual adverse effect upon the bidding process." (emphasis added)). In this matter, no other bidder was given the opportunity to converse with Ms. Figueroa post bid and explain its bid. Releasing a successful bidder from its contractual obligation where the successful bidder made no application to withdraw its bid and there was no mistake by the successful bidder cannot be condoned. Thus, PCESC's decision to release K&M was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" and in violation of the public bidding laws.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4, a bid bond "shall be forfeited" upon the refusal of a bidder to execute a contract. Ibid. (emphasis added). N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4 reads in its entirety:

> Each transportation bid shall be accompanied by information required on a standard form of questionnaire approved by the state board and by a cashier's or certified check for 5% of the annual amount of the contract, which deposit shall be forfeited upon the refusal of a bidder to execute a contract; otherwise, checks shall be returned when the contract is executed and a bond filed.
> [Ibid. (emphasis added).]

Likewise, N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.4(e) provides:

> Bidders shall submit a guarantee payable to the district board of education to ensure that, if a contract is awarded, the successful bidder shall enter into that contract and furnish a performance surety bond.
> 1. The guarantee to be submitted shall be a certified check, cashier's check or bid bond as required by the district board of education. No other form of guarantee is authorized.

Ordinarily, the statutory use of the word 'shall' is mandatory or imperative while use of the word 'may' is permissive or directory. Harvey v. Essex County Bd. of Chosen Freeholders, 30 N.J. 381, 391-92 (1959); Tenafly v. Centex Homes Corp., 139 N.J.

Super. 490, 499 (Law Div. 1976); Society for Animal Rights, Inc. v. Mahwah, 138 N.J. Super. 322, 339 (Law Div. 1975). "Absent a clear indication of legislative intent in the purpose and context of the statute compelling a contrary understanding, the courts will so construe these terms." Knox v. Krause, 152 N.J. Super. 278, 282 (Law Div. 1977) (citing Harvey, supra; Tenafly, supra; Society for Animal Rights, supra.)

The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4 is clear; there is no indication in the statutory scheme or case law that would indicate a contrary legislative purpose. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4 is mandatory and imperative in its direction that the bid bond "shall be forfeited" upon the refusal of a bidder to execute a contract.

However, both N.J.S.A. 18A:39-4 and N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.4(e) provide that the triggering event for a claim on the bid bond is the refusal of a successful bidder to execute a contract. "The provision . . . relating to the deposit . . . is in the nature of a penalty, to be construed strictly and to be interpreted as working a forfeiture only if the contract was lawfully awarded and wrongfully declined." Lupfer, supra, 87 N.J. Eq. at 493 (emphasis added). Here, there was no refusal to execute a contract. K&M was tendered only two contracts, which K&M executed and, thus far, has fully performed. Therefore, the triggering event for a claim on the bond is not present and the bid bond cannot be forfeited.

Whether the remedy of voiding the contract is appropriate at this juncture?

The other remedy the petitioner is seeking is an order declaring the contract with K&M to be null and void. This is virtually moot by the fact that the contract in question will expire during the Commissioner's review. See Plumstead Bus Drivers, supra, 1988 S.L.D. 1833, 1834, 1852, where like the instant matter the contract was to expire during the Commissioner's review of the initial decision. In concurring with the ALJ that the matter was moot, the Commissioner stated, "while the Board is to be admonished for its failure to comply with the strictures of the school bidding laws, a declaratory judgment or order finding that such violations did occur would still provide no relief available to the Commissioner to grant at this time since the contract in question has expired during the course of this litigation." Id. at 1852.

CONCLUSION

The matter is appropriate for summary decision as there are no genuine issues as to any material facts. Although this matter is appropriate for summary decision, the matter is moot because there are no available remedies. The contract will be fully performed by June 30, 2010.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the petition of PCESC and Javier Fernandez is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WESTFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

This is a remand of a matter in which forty-seven parents challenged the Board's revised attendance zone and transportation policies, contending that the adoption of the revised policies was arbitrary and capricious, and in violation of applicable law. The matter was remanded to adjudicate the issue of whether the procedures for adoption of the revised policies violated the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to 21 (OPMA). Additionally, on remand petitioners contend that respondent failed to comply with its own bylaws with respect to the adoption of attendance zone and transportation policies, as well as with the Commissioner's final decision in the original proceeding, which ordered the Board to revise these policies to bring them into compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.2.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: respondent Board provided adequate notice of its meetings where consideration was given to Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones; meetings were open to the public, with opportunity for public comment; accordingly, there was no violation of the OPMA; the Board did not comply with the adoption schedule outlined in its bylaws in the original adoption of policies 8600 and 8110, which were therefore invalidated; Policy 8600 Transportation was revised at the direction of the Commissioner's December 2009 decision and properly adopted pursuant to the bylaws; however, Policy 8110 Attendance Zones – although reviewed as per the Commissioner's previous decision – was never validly adopted by the Board. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that respondent adopt a version of Policy 8110 in accordance with its bylaws and other applicable law within 60 days of the final decision in this matter.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner adopted the recommended decision of the OAL for the reasons stated therein, directed the Board to adopt a version of its Policy 8110 pursuant to the ALJ's order, and dismissed the petition.

RESPONDENT.	:

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law on January 4, 2010 – consistent with the Commissioner's December 30, 2009 decision – for expansion of the record and the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) recommendation as to one remaining issue, i.e., whether petitioners have established their Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) charge against respondents and, if so, the possible implication(s), if any, such a violation might have on the underlying case.[1] The record on remand and the resultant Initial Decision of the OAL have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the ALJ's decision.

Upon due consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons clearly stated in his decision.

[1] On remand, petitioners submitted to the ALJ additional factual assertions contending that the Board failed to comply with its bylaws with respect to the February 2009 adoption of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones, and a charge that the Board had failed to comply with the Commissioner's December 30, 2009 decision directive to revise these two policies.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is directed to adopt a version of its Policy 8110 Attendance Zones in accordance with its bylaws and other applicable law within 60-days of the date of this decision. The instant petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

AGENCY DKT. NO. 101-5/09
(Remand of OAL Dkt. No. EDU 07387-09)

L.S., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, E.S., ET AL.,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WESTFIELD, UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

James T. Seery, pro se

Michelle M. Schott, Esq., for respondent
(Methfessel & Werbel, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 21, 2010 Decided: September 21, 2010

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This is a remand of a matter in which forty-seven parents ("petitioners") challenge revised attendance zone and transportation policies of the Westfield Board of Education ("respondent"), alleging that they are arbitrary and capricious and in violation of existing laws. The purpose of the remand is to adjudicate the issue whether the procedures for adoption of the revised policies violated the Open Public Meetings Act ("OPMA"). N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21. In addition, petitioners maintain that respondent failed to comply with its own bylaws with respect to the adoption of attendance zone and transportation policies. Petitioners also contend that respondent failed to comply with the Decision from the original proceeding. Both parties now move for summary decision.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

An Initial Decision was issued in this matter on November 18, 2009, deciding all issues with respect to the parties' cross-motions for summary decision with the exception of the question concerning the OPMA. Due to the sparseness of the presentations related to the OPMA, a determination could not be made with respect to this issue.

A Final Decision was issued on December 30, 2009, adopting the Initial Decision. The matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law solely for the adjudication of the one remaining OPMA issue.

The remand was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 4, 2010, for determination as a contested case. Petitioners filed a motion for summary decision on April 12, 2010. Respondent submitted its motion for summary decision on April 29, 2010, and a supplemental filing on May 7, 2010. Petitioners submitted a reply on May 18, 2010.

MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY DECISION

A. Legal Standard

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, these circumstances should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

B. Issues

The main issue in this proceeding on remand is whether respondent's Policy 8110 Attendance Zones and Policy 8600 Transportation are void due to failure to comply with provisions of the OPMA. A second issue is whether respondent has complied with its bylaws in regard to the adoption of Policy 8110 Attendance Zones and Policy 8600 Transportation. The third issue is whether respondent has failed to comply with a direction in the Decision from the original proceeding ordering respondent to revise its Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones.

C. Facts

In support of its motion for summary decision, respondent submitted a statement of facts which focuses on the issue of compliance with the OPMA. Petitioners have not directly challenged respondent's statement of facts.

In their motion for summary decision, petitioners incorporated by reference their previous filings in this matter. Petitioners also submitted additional factual assertions to the effect that respondent failed to comply with its bylaws in regard to the February 2009 adoption of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones.

The facts as set forth in respondent's statement are material and unchallenged. Based thereon, I FIND as follows:

1. Portions of public meetings on October 7, 2008; November 8, 2008; December 16, 2008; January 13, 2009; January 21, 2009; February 3, 2009; and February 24, 2009; addressed the issues of projected enrollment beginning with the 2009-2010 school year, new state regulations for an intermediate school enrollment plan, and guidelines for making attendance zone recommendations and plans for redistricting.

2. On January 21, 2009, the school superintendent and other district administrators attended a parent meeting at Washington School, where redistricting options were presented, explained and discussed.

3. The proposed redistricting policies were presented at respondent's meeting on February 3, 2009, accompanied by a power point presentation.

4. On February 23, 2009, the written report of the Long Range Planning Committee was posted on respondent's website.

5. Due to the large number of individuals (estimated at 100 persons) who wanted to speak at the meeting on February 24, 2009, respondent instituted a policy of limiting individual speaking time to two minutes.

6. That limitation was largely ignored, and the meeting lasted into the early morning hours.

7. The meetings on February 3, 2009, and February 24, 2009, were each between four and five hours in length, and most of those meetings were devoted to hearing the concerns of members of the public and answering their questions related to the policies in question in this matter.

8. The Decision dated December 30, 2009, contains the following language:

> The Board is hereby directed – no later than 60 days from the date of this decision – to revise its Policy #8600 (Transportation) and Policy #8110 (Attendance Zones) to reflect that the provision of transportation will be made to RIS and to provide such transportation to this school for all students who attend RIS, or are eligible to do so, and reside beyond two miles therefrom.

9. As adopted on February 24, 2009, Policy 8600 Transportation contained the following language:

> The Board shall provide transportation to the extent required by law for high school students living beyond two and one-half miles from school and for intermediate and elementary school students living beyond two miles from school. For students who qualify for bussing at the intermediate level, transportation will only be provided to Edison School.

10. Respondent revised its Policy 8600 Transportation in February 2010. The only substantial change to Policy 8600 Transportation was a revision to the above-quoted language to state as follows:

> The Board shall provide transportation for high school students living beyond two and one-half miles from school and for intermediate and elementary school students living beyond two miles from the school they attend or are eligible to attend.

11. Policy 8100 Attendance Zones contains the following language: "Transportation will be provided in accordance with Policy 8600 (Transportation)."

12. Respondent reviewed Policy 8110 Attendance Zones in January and February 2010 but did not make any changes.

The following is a summary of petitioners' factual assertions. In its original filing, petitioners maintained in regard to the OPMA that respondent did not provide adequate notice and opportunity for the public to comment. Further, respondent provided false and misleading information to the public through its responses to citizens' requests pursuant to the Open Public Records Act ("OPRA"). N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 to -13. Additionally, respondent provided false and misleading information on more than one occasion in written presentations to the public regarding the number of students projected to attend Roosevelt Intermediate School ("RIS") and Edison Intermediate School ("EIS") over the course of the next five years.

Additionally, petitioners contend that respondent's Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies requires respondent to follow certain procedures in regard to proposals for new or revised policies. Specifically, the final vote on adoption shall be taken four or more weeks after the regular or special meeting at which a policy proposal is first placed on the agenda. According to petitioners, the first reading of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones was on February 3, 2009, and respondent's approval came on February 24, 2009. Thus, respondent approved the revision twenty-one days after the first reading, and therefore, respondent violated its bylaws in regard to Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. Finally, petitioners maintain that respondent failed to provide a timely response to an OPRA request for a copy of Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies.

In response, respondent cites a portion of Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies which requires that the process of adoption of policies shall extend over two or more regular or special meetings. Respondent maintains that it complied with this requirement. Further, respondent maintains that it has followed a practice of approving proposed policies over the course of two or more regularly scheduled meetings regardless of whether four weeks separated the two meetings. In support of this contention, respondent presented a list of sixty-five policies showing the dates of first reading and approvals. According to respondent, the notion of voting for approval four or more weeks later reflected a bygone practice of having one meeting per month. But as petitioners point out, the approvals of only three of the sixty-five policies came less than twenty-eight days after the first reading, and of the three, two were the policies in this case. Finally, respondent provided annual notice of all of its meetings for 2009.

As discussed below, some of petitioners' factual assertions are not material in relation to the issues to be considered in this proceeding. Nonetheless, based upon petitioners' factual assertions and respondent's responses thereto, I FIND as follows:

13. Respondent provided annual notice of all of its meetings for 2009.

14. Respondent's meetings concerning Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones were open to the public.

15. Respondent's Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies requires respondent to follow certain procedures in regard to proposals for new or revised bylaws or policies.

16. One requirement is that the final vote on adoption shall be taken four or more weeks after the regular or special meeting at which a policy proposal is first placed on the agenda.

17. Another requirement is that the process for adoption of policies shall extend over two or more regular or special meetings.

18. The first reading of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones was on February 3, 2009.

19. Respondent's approval of these policies came on February 24, 2009.

20. Respondent did not have a practice of disregarding the four-week requirement.

21. The first reading of a revised version of Policy 8600 Transportation took place on January 26, 2010.

22. Respondent adopted the revised version of Policy 8600 Transportation on February 23, 2010.

23. Policy 8110 Attendance Zones was reviewed on January 26, 2010, and again on February 23, 2010.

D. Law and Analysis

The Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Additionally, the Commissioner of Education has incidental jurisdiction to decide questions concerning the OPMA which arise in the context of a school law case. Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Ed., 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979).

1. OPMA

The OPMA secures the right of members of the public to be present at meetings of public bodies and to witness in full detail all phases of the deliberation, policy formulation and decision making of public bodies. N.J.S.A. 10:4-7. In furtherance of this policy, no public body subject to certain exceptions shall hold a meeting, unless adequate notice thereof has been provided to the public. N.J.S.A. 10:4-9. "Adequate notice" means written advance notice of at least forty-eight hours, giving the time, date, location and, to the extent known, the agenda for the meeting. N.J.S.A. 10:4-8(d). At least once every year, a public body must provide notice of its schedule of regular meetings during the succeeding year. N.J.S.A. 10:4-18. Compliance with N.J.S.A. 10:4-18 satisfies the notice requirement of N.J.S.A. 10:4-8(d); there is no need for a separate notice as to the agenda. Witt v. Gloucester County Bd. of Chosen Freeholders, 94 N.J. 422, 432-33 (1983).

Subject to exceptions, all meetings of public bodies shall be open to the public at all times. N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(a). A board of education must set aside a portion of every meeting, the length thereof to be determined by the board of education, for public comment on any school district issue that may be of concern to the public. Ibid. Any action taken by a public body at a meeting which does not conform with the provisions of the OPMA shall be voidable in an appropriate proceeding. N.J.S.A. 10:4-15(a). A public body may take corrective or remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting held in conformity with the OPMA and other applicable law regarding any action which may otherwise be voidable. Ibid.

Petitioners' contention that the adoption of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones violated provisions of the OPMA is based in large measure on petitioners' view that respondent provided false and misleading information in response to requests made pursuant to the OPRA. There are three responses to petitioners' contention. First, respondent acknowledged that certain papers provided in response to OPRA requests contained inaccurate information, but since they were public records, they were provided in response to the requests. Second, it must be borne in mind that this assertion came from petitioners' original filing. Petitioners are in substance arguing the merits of their contention with respect to attendance zones. The alleged falseness was really the product of a different analysis of the data. This issue was previously resolved in this proceeding and may not be argued at this point. The same may be said for petitioners' argument that respondent provided false and misleading information on more than one occasion in written presentations to the public regarding the number of students projected to attend RIS and EIS over the course of the next five years. Finally, to the extent that petitioners believe that they did not receive appropriate responses to their OPRA requests, their remedy was to seek relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 47:1A-6, which is subject to a forty-five day statute of limitations. Mason v. City of Hoboken, 196 N.J. 51, 70 (2008).

Petitioners' assertion that respondent did not provide adequate notice or opportunity to comment does not have any basis other than petitioners' claim that respondent provided false and misleading information. Respondent provided adequate notice through the annual schedule of meetings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-18. Further, respondent's meetings were open to the public, and respondent gave members of the public the opportunity to comment on the proposed policies on February 3, 2009, and February 24, 2009. As permitted by N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(a), respondent set a time limit for public comments. Nonetheless, the time limit was generally ignored, and the meetings continued for four or five hours with one running until after midnight. Under the circumstances, petitioners have not demonstrated a violation of the OPMA based upon the contentions in their original filing.

Petitioners also maintain that the failure to comply with Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies violates the OPMA, but they offer no real argument in support of this proposition. The OPMA does not require a waiting period of four weeks between the time that a policy proposal is first placed on the agenda and the final vote on adoption. More generally, the OPMA does not require compliance with an entity's bylaws. It follows that petitioners' argument is without merit.

Respondent provided adequate notice of its meetings where consideration was given to Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. The meetings were open to the public, and members thereof were given an opportunity to offer comments and did so. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that there were no violations of the OPMA in regard to the adoption of respondent's Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. Therefore, these policies are not void due to failure to comply with provisions of the OPMA.

2. Compliance with Bylaws

Petitioners contend that Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones are void because respondent failed to comply with its bylaws in regard to the adoption thereof. As noted above, Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies requires that the final vote on adoption shall be taken four or more weeks after the regular or special meeting at which a policy proposal is first placed on the agenda. Here, the final vote on adoption was taken on February 24, 2009, which was twenty-one days or three weeks, after the policy proposal was first placed on the agenda on February 3, 2009. Respondent's claim that it routinely disregards this requirement is not supported by its data which shows that respondent failed to comply with respect to only three out of sixty-five policy proposals. And two of the three were the policies in this proceeding. Moreover, respondent offered no legitimate reason for disregarding the four-week requirement. It follows that respondent failed to comply with its Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies when it adopted Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones.

The next question concerns the consequences when a board of education fails to comply with its bylaws. Respondent relies on cases which hold that where a board of education acts in a manner inconsistent with its own procedural rules, the action remains valid so long as the measure does not violate a procedure required by statute. Blessing v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Palisades Park, 1974 S.L.D. 1133; Polonsky v. Red Bank Bd. of Educ., 1967 S.L.D. 93; Silverstris v. Bayonne Bd. of Educ., 1959-1960 S.L.D. 184. But more recently it has been held that bylaws designed to give notice to the public before official action is taken have binding effect and that action taken in disregard thereof must be set aside. Matawan Regional Teachers Ass'n v. Matawan-Aberdeen Reg. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 223 N.J. Super. 504, 509-10 (App. Div. 1988).

Here, the bylaw in question requires that the final vote on adoption shall be taken four or more weeks after the regular or special meeting at which a policy proposal is first placed on the agenda. The apparent purpose of this bylaw is to give the public notice before official action is taken and to allow time for careful deliberation. Respondent's claim that the twenty-eight day requirement is generally disregarded because meetings are now scheduled more frequently than once a month is not supported by data provided by respondent. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the original adoption of Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zone must be invalidated for failure to comply with Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies.

3. Compliance with Decision

The next issue is whether respondent has complied with a direction in the Decision from the original proceeding ordering respondent to revise its Policy 8600 Transportation and Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. The pertinent language states as follows: "The Board is hereby directed – no later than 60 days from the date of this decision – to revise its Policy #8600 (Transportation) and Policy #8110 (Attendance Zones) to reflect that the provision of transportation will be made to RIS and to provide such transportation to this school for all students who attend RIS, or are eligible to do so, and reside beyond two miles therefrom." Petitioners contend that respondent failed to revise Policy 8110 Attendance Zones.

The language which created the violations of school busing laws including N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.2 was actually in Policy 8600 Transportation, which was incorporated by reference into Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. Aside from the language incorporated by reference, there was no violation of the school busing laws in Policy 8110 Attendance Zones.

Respondent has now revised Policy 8600 Transportation such that there is no violation of the school busing laws. Accordingly, no violation of the school busing laws is incorporated by reference into Policy 8110 Attendance Zones. Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent has fully complied with the above-quoted direction in the Decision from the original proceeding in this matter.

4. Relief

With respect to the relief, Policy 8600 Transportation was revised in accordance with the direction in the Decision in the original proceeding. The first reading of the revised version was on January 26, 2010, and the vote on approval occurred on February 23, 2010. These dates indicate compliance with Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies. Under the circumstances, respondent's failure in February 2009 to comply with the requirement in Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies to take the vote on adoption four or more weeks after the meeting at which the policy proposal was first placed on the agenda has been corrected and is now mooted. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that no relief is warranted with respect to Policy 8600 Transportation.

The situation with respect to Policy 8110 Attendance Zones is somewhat different. Like Policy 8600 Transportation, respondent did not comply with the requirement under Policy 0131 Bylaws and Policies to take the vote on adoption of Policy 8110 Attendance Zones four or more weeks after the meeting at which this policy was first placed on the agenda. The difference is that respondent did not adopt a new version of Policy 8110 Attendance Zones in 2010. Instead, respondent reviewed this policy on January 26, 2010, and again on February 23, 2010. Since respondent has not validly adopted Policy 8110 Attendance Zones, I CONCLUDE that action must be taken to do so promptly to correct this situation. In order to avoid disruption, respondent will have sixty days from the Final Decision in this matter to adopt Policy 8110 Attendance Zones in accordance with its bylaws.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Petitioners' motion for summary decision in regard to the OPMA is denied.

2. Respondent's motion for summary decision in regard to the OPMA is granted.

3. Petitioners' motion for summary decision in regard to the alleged failure to comply with the Decision from the original proceeding is denied.

4. Respondent shall within sixty (60) days of the final decision in this matter adopt a version of its Policy 8110 Attendance Zones in accordance with its bylaws and other applicable law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioner – a school psychologist employed by respondent Board for 10 years – appealed the district's withholding of her salary increment for the 2009-2010 school year, contending that the Board failed to notify her in writing of the decision to withhold her increment as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. Petitioner argues that for this reason, the withholding should be nullified. The Board asserted that petitioner did receive a letter, dated April 28, 2009, advising her of the Board's intent to withhold petitioner's entire increment for the 2009-2010 school year.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's critical responsibility as case manager and psychologist was to ensure timely completion of IEPs, and the ultimate responsibility for timely completion lay with the petitioner; the concerns of respondent Board regarding petitioner's failure to produce fully completed IEPs in a timely manner justified the withholding of her salary increment; and petitioner's salary withholding should not be nullified on the basis of a procedural failure to satisfy the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, as the de novo hearing held in the OAL cured any procedural deficiencies that may have been brought about by the Board's alleged failure to provide the required ten day notice. The ALJ concluded that petitioner had not met her burden to prove that the withholding of her salary increment was arbitrary or capricious, and accordingly dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner fully concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ in this matter, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision. The petition was dismissed.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner. The Trenton City Board of Education (Board) did not file exceptions.

The petitioner takes exception to the Administrative law Judge's (ALJ) finding that the Board's decision to withhold her increment for the 2009-2010 school year was reasonable despite the Board's failure to comply with the notice requirements contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. The petitioner argues that the Board did not provide her with notice of the increment withholding and the reasons therefore within ten days of the Board's decision, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. Petitioner argues that because of the procedural violations, the Commissioner should vacate the withholding and restore her increment.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the Board's decision to withhold the petitioner's increment was reasonable based upon her failure to timely produce fully completed individual education plans. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ – for the reasons fully detailed on pages 13-14 of his decision – that that the salary withholding should not be nullified on the basis that the Board did not satisfy the procedural requirements outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. It was abundantly clear from the record that the petitioner was fully aware of the reason why her increment was withheld. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

Dana M. Lane, Esq., for respondent (Hill Wallack, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 17, 2010 Decided: September 24, 2010

BEFORE EDWARD J. DELANOY, JR., ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Margaret Sidberry, appeals from the denial of a salary increment for the 2009-2010 school year based upon her alleged unsatisfactory performance as a school psychologist at Trenton Central High School (TCHS), a public school within the school district of the City of Trenton (respondent).

On or about July 20, 2009, petitioner filed a notice of appeal with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. On September 14, 2009, this matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Thereafter, a hearing was held on April 15, 2010. The parties requested permission to file written closing arguments, which were received on or before June 1, 2010. In her written closing summation, petitioner argued that the procedural requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 were not followed by respondent. Specifically, petitioner argued that respondent did not notify petitioner in writing of their decision to withhold her increment, and the reasons therefore, within ten days of the date of the action taken by respondent to withhold said increment. The petitioner testified that she never received any document notifying her of the withholding of the increment, or the reasons therefore. Thus, notwithstanding the substantive questions raised, petitioner urged that she should be made whole based upon this procedural violation. In its rebuttal, respondent produced a letter ("Letter") sent to petitioner from Patricia L. Lucas, then Interim Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources, dated April 28, 2009, advising petitioner of the Board's intention to withhold petitioner's entire increment for the 2009-2010 school year. Respondent alleged that this Letter was sent to petitioner by certified and regular mail on April 29, 2009, and that the Letter was confirmed as received by the United States Post Office, therefore proving that the respondent Trenton Board of Education ("Board") had fulfilled all of its legal obligations under the aforementioned statute. Petitioner denied receiving the Letter. On June 8, 2010, in a telephone conference with the parties, the record was reopened, and a hearing scheduled for July 14, 2010, for the purpose of taking testimony regarding the issue of receipt of the Letter by petitioner. At the request of the parties, the hearing was adjourned until August 17, 2010. On that date, additional testimony was taken, and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following matters are not in dispute, and I therefore FIND them as FACT herein:

Petitioner was employed in September 2000, and was subsequently tenured, as a school psychologist with the Trenton Board of Education ("Board"). During the 2007-2008 school year, she was a member and case manager of Child Study Team Four at TCHS. In June 2008, she learned she would be transferred from TCHS to the elementary school within the district. Petitioner was contacted by her supervisor, Andrew Morgan, the Director of Special Education and Related Services, to discuss the status of several individual education plans (IEP's) which Morgan believed to be incomplete or missing. Petitioner was responsible to oversee and complete these IEP's, and as part of her job requirements, to comply with applicable federal and state laws and regulations for special education. (R-6). As a result of the failure to resolve the issues, petitioner was invited before the Board to discuss her job performance, and the potential withholding of a salary increment. Petitioner's salary increment was withheld for the 2009-2010 school year.

Witnesses for Petitioner Sidberry

Margaret Sidberry

Margaret Sidberry has been a psychologist for approximately ten years, spending all of those years employed by respondent. She received a telephone call from Andrew Morgan in August 2008, advising her that seventy-seven of the IEP's for which she was responsible, were incomplete. An IEP is a lengthy document containing facts about a child's history, and what services the district must provide. These are prepared by the case manager after consultation with the child study team. The information in the IEP comes from a review of the file history, the child's teachers, and the annual meeting with the child and their parents. The petitioner would put the information for the IEP together, and usually give it to her secretary to type. After typing, the IEP would be returned to petitioner, who would copy it and put it in the student's file. This would complete her job with regard to the IEP.

Morgan requested that the petitioner bring the IEP's to a meeting with him. Petitioner attended the meeting, bringing with her the class list and her 2007-2008 IEP information, to prove the proper completion of the IEP's. The list contained information concerning IEP's which were not compliant, but they were not students under the responsibility of petitioner. The list also contained the names of ninth graders who were not students under the responsibility of petitioner during the prior year. In addition, some IEP's on the list were completed but not typed, and others were not yet due because they had not yet reached their anniversary. Petitioner testified that IEP's are reviewed annually, and that not all IEP's are revised in June of the school year. Petitioner denied that she was directed by Morgan to turn in the IEP's by June 30, 2008.

The meeting with Morgan was in late August 2008, and petitioner was preparing to leave TCHS. As such, the IEP's when completed, would be put into the child's file, and distributed by another child study team member to the appropriate teacher. Morgan was satisfied with petitioner's explanation, and agreed that the IEP's were written and developed, and that the only issue was regarding the typing of the IEP's, which would be completed shortly thereafter. The reason some IEP's were not typed was because petitioner did not want to give them to the secretary while the secretary was out of the office. Instead, petitioner would keep the IEP's on her desk, and then give the typing to the secretary when she returned from vacation. Petitioner stated that while she did not always have the luxury of a secretary, a secretary was not mandatory, or required to complete the IEP's. However, during the 2007-2008 school year, it was the responsibility of the secretary to type the IEP's.

Petitioner had no further contact with Morgan until she received an official reprimand in a letter from him dated October 3, 2008. (R-1). Petitioner disagreed with the contents of said letter, but complied with the deadline therein. The IEP's were completed, however some were not typed, and others were uncorrected. She was not directed, nor responsible, to ensure delivery of the IEP's to the teachers for the new school year. The new psychologist arriving at TCHS to take her position would be responsible for delivering the IEP's. Petitioner's responsibility, upon her transfer, was to distribute the IEP's for her new students.

On or about October 7, 2008, petitioner received another letter from Morgan. (R-2). Upon reviewing the list of missing IEP's, petitioner realized that these were not current IEP's relating to her new assignment, but rather were names and IEP's with whom she had dealt in her prior assignment at TCHS. Those children and IEP's were no longer her responsibility.

Or about October 24, 2008, petitioner received a third letter from Morgan, who was concerned about violations of the New Jersey Administrative Code. (R-3.) Those IEP's referenced therein were also related to her prior team four assignment at TCHS.

On or about October 31, 2008, petitioner received another letter from Morgan. (R-4). Once again, those IEP's referenced therein were related to her prior team four assignment at TCHS. All of the IEP's for students under the responsibility of petitioner were in compliance. Those IEP's not in compliance were not her students during the previous year.

Petitioner met with Morgan on four or five occasions between August and December 2008. At the last meeting in December, Morgan told her that all the IEP's were completed, copied and available to the team for distribution. Petitioner assumed that all issues were resolved.

Petitioner met again with Morgan in March 2009, entering into an improvement plan on March 24, 2009. (P-4). Subsequently, in April 2009, she received a "Rice" notice, delivered to her not in the mail, but by a security guard, advising her that she could appear at the April 27, 2009, meeting of the Board to discuss the withholding of her increment for the 2009-2010 year. (P-1, R-5). On April 27, 2009, she addressed a letter to the Board detailing why her increment should not be withheld. (P-2). Although she appeared at the Board meeting, she was never notified by the Board of the withholding of her increment, or the reasons for it. She never received the letter which the Board alleges it sent to her advising of the action that it took (R-7), until her attorney sent it to her. Petitioner opens all mail that comes to her residence, and the only other resident is legally blind. She subsequently received two contracts from the Board, neither of which indicated the increment was being withheld. In July 2009, petitioner finally became aware of the withheld increment. Petitioner was familiar with her job description (R-6) and the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:14.

Susan Karolkiewicz

Susan Karolkiewicz is employed by the Trenton Education Association as a full-time grievance chairperson. She met with petitioner and Morgan in December 2008, and again in March 2009. The subject of those meetings was case management and the status of IEP's developed by petitioner during her prior year at TCHS. The issues of secretary unavailability and IEP distribution were also discussed.

Karolkiewicz was concerned about the timing of the March 24, 2009, corrective action plan, and the April 7, 2009, notice of increment withholding. An employee should be given a ninety-day period to take corrective action, and that was not given to petitioner. As a result, Karolkiewicz prepared a level two grievance based on the procedural incorrectness of failing to provide formal observation or evaluation prior to acting on the corrective action plan.

Witnesses for Respondent Trenton Board of Education

Andrew J. Morgan

Andrew Morgan is currently employed at Morgan Associates as an interim principal. For thirteen months, beginning in June 2008, he worked for respondent as Director of Special Education and Related Services. His responsibility was to ensure that each student receive a fair and appropriate public education. He has served thirty-nine years in the field of special education and is familiar with New Jersey code and Federal law provisions. At the conclusion of this thirteen month employment, his contract was not renewed by respondent.

Petitioner, as a case manager and member of the child study team, was responsible for complying with N.J.A.C. 6A:14. She was charged with completing IEP's in June, and implementing them in September. In the IEP, it is critical that the goals and objectives be stated. These goals and objectives are determined by the case manager and the teachers. Each IEP must be in place, and in the teacher's possession, on the first day of the school year. The principle and the child study team receive a copy of the IEP. Morgan would also receive copies of the IEP's, and if any problems existed, a meeting would be scheduled with the case manager.

During July 2008, Morgan met with assistant superintendent David Weathington, to prepare for the new school year and to ensure delivery of IEP's by August 15. Morgan began his duties by attempting to gather information on deficient IEP's. He requested that the secretaries prepare lists of outstanding IEP's. A review of petitioner's work revealed eighty-seven missing IEP's. Petitioner, a ten and a half month employee, was on vacation at the time, and so they could not meet until August 27, 2008. At this meeting, Morgan and petitioner reviewed a checklist concerning the IEP's. There were many issues of noncompliance, including the absence of goals and objectives, scheduling issues, and missing general and special education teacher signatures. Petitioner produced approximately thirty IEP's at that time. Petitioner was asked to review her files for the previous four years, as IEP's were missing, or had other issues. At a meeting subsequent to the August 27 meeting, petitioner raised the issue that some of the missing IEP's were not her files. She also argued that some of the missing IEP's were for students who had graduated, moved or left the district. When Morgan investigated these claims, he estimated that these claims could account for approximately ten of the 87 missing IEP's. Some of the missing files requested by Morgan were either never found, or were lost.

Morgan explained that upon a transfer of a child study team member, that member must ensure that previous files are complete and compliant, and ready to transfer to the new team member. In the event this was not done, the new team member had the right to refuse to inherit insufficient prior files.

There were significant substantive problems with the student files under the responsibility of petitioner. These deficiencies were not clerical in nature, and the provision of a secretary to a child study team was a courtesy that was not mandated under the law. Handwritten IEP's were acceptable.

In September 2008, Morgan met informally with petitioner to discuss the completion of her work and job transfer issues. In October 2008, Morgan requested a meeting with petitioner and her union representative, to discuss bringing petitioner's work into compliance. At the meeting, petitioner was explained the ramifications of federal law, and N.J.A.C. 6A:14, and that the district could be in jeopardy for the failure to comply with those authorities. Morgan also discussed the goals, objectives and signatures in the IEP, and the issue of having the IEP's typed. Although the TCHS child study team secretary would type the IEP's as part of their regular duties, they were not part of the legal process, and the preparation of the IEP's was ultimately the petitioner's responsibility. Petitioner was informed that the secretary was for support only and that the case manager must confirm the completion of the IEP.

On October 3, 2008, Morgan forwarded an official reprimand letter to petitioner. (R-1). On October 7, 2008, he forwarded a second letter to petitioner. (R-2). This was required because the original IEP was required to be in the file for the 2007-2008 school year, under state and Federal law. On October 24, 2008, another letter was forwarded regarding missing files and IEP's for 2008. (R-3). A fourth letter was forwarded on October 31, 2008, because of the continued existence of missing documents. (R-4).

Morgan was directed to look back four years for deficiencies in petitioner's work product. He discovered problems in her work during this time period, but he did not raise the issues because old IEP's cannot be recreated or corrected. Morgan agreed that with the exception of complying with IEP requirements, petitioner's work was otherwise excellent. However, because of the seriousness of the noncompliance issues, it was Morgan's intent to proceed with tenure charges. He was talked out of proceeding with tenure charges by assistant superintendent David Weathington. Instead, the decision was made to withhold petitioner's increment. (R-5). In addition, an improvement plan for petitioner was put in place. The improvement plan was not related to the withheld increment, and Morgan testified that he was entitled to withhold the increment even without the improvement plan in place.

David Weathington

David Weathington is the Assistant Superintendent for Special Services for respondent. He has also been the Director of Special Education. He currently oversees special education, and has supervised petitioner in the past. He also supervised Morgan during the 2008-2009 school year.

During the 2006-2007 school year, respondent had IEP noncompliance issues, and was ordered to comply. The Department of Education investigated respondent during the 2008-2009 year, and part of that investigation involved IEP's prepared by the petitioner. Respondent had issues concerning notices in the IEP's, completion of the IEP's, and the quality of the IEP's. Weathington wanted to open the 2008-2009 school year without any problems. As a result, Weathington issued a directive that all IEP's had to be completed by June 30, 2008. This would allow for implementation on September 2008 for the following school year.

Weathington spoke to Morgan frequently regarding petitioner. Weathington advised Morgan to provide petitioner with notice of her deficiencies. After seeing a lack of improvement, Weathington felt that petitioner's salary increment should be withheld.

Petitioner also worked in Delaware Valley as an out-of-district placement. There were also issues of non-compliant IEP's raised in Delaware Valley concerning petitioner's work there for the years 2006-2007 and 2007-2008. Her work in Delaware Valley for 2008-2009 was satisfactory. Weathington spoke to petitioner during the 2008-2009 school year regarding her performance. The notice to petitioner of April 28, 2009 was based upon the concurrent recommendation of Morgan and Weathington. (R-7.)

Kathleen Smallwood Johnson

Ms. Johnson has been employed by the Board since October 2007. In July 2009, she became the Board's Executive Director for Human Resources. She is responsible to notify employees of actions taken against them by the Board. The Board takes this action by sending a Letter with a tracking number for purposes of confirming the mailing. She was aware of the action taken against petitioner by the Board.

While not its author, Johnson was familiar with the Letter forwarded by the Board to petitioner with regard to petitioner's salary increment dated April 28, 2009. (R-7.) The author of the Letter, Patricia L. Lucas, was Johnson's predecessor. The Letter was forwarded by certified and regular mail, and the mailing information was located on the top of the Letter. On many occasions, the green card signed by the recipient is not received back by the Board. Nevertheless, the Board was able to confirm from the United States Postal Service that the Letter was delivered on May 1, 2009, in Burlington, New Jersey. (R-8.) The Postal Service confirmation did not indicate who received the Letter. While Johnson did not have specific personal knowledge with regard to the Letter, she did know that proof of delivery, in the form of the green card, was not available. Johnson acknowledged that the Letter did not contain a statement of reasons for the withholding of petitioner's salary increment.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

Petitioner was familiar with her job description and the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:14. During the school year 2007-2008, and in years prior thereto, petitioner had noncompliance issues with her required IEP's. These noncompliance issues were a partial reason for the investigation of the school district by the Department of Education. As a result, Weathington issued a directive requiring that all IEP's be completed by June 30, 2008, for September implementation.

At approximately the same time, the district hired Andrew Morgan to attempt to resolve the IEP situation. Also at that same time, petitioner was given notice that she would be transferred from TCHS to the elementary school. Morgan began his duties by attempting to gather information on deficient IEP's. He requested the secretaries to prepare lists of outstanding IEP's. A review of petitioner's work revealed eighty-seven missing IEP's. Petitioner and Morgan met on August 27, 2008. They reviewed a checklist concerning the IEP's. There were many issues of noncompliance, including the absence of goals and objectives, scheduling issues, and missing general and special education teacher signatures. Petitioner produced approximately thirty IEP's at that time. Petitioner was asked to review her files for the previous four years, as IEP's were missing, or had other issues. Petitioner subsequently raised the issue that some of the missing IEP's were not her files. She also argued that some of the missing IEP's were for students who had graduated, moved or left the district. When Morgan investigated these claims, he estimated that these claims could account for approximately ten of the eighty-seven missing IEP's. Some of the missing files requested by Morgan were either never found, or were lost.

In September 2008, Morgan met informally with petitioner to discuss the completion of her work and the job transfer issues. In October 2008, Morgan requested a meeting with petitioner and her union representative, to discuss bringing petitioner's work into compliance. At the meeting, petitioner was explained the ramifications of federal law, and N.J.A.C. 6A:14, and she was advised that the district could be in jeopardy for noncompliance thereof. Morgan also discussed the goals, objectives and signatures in the IEP, and the issue of having the IEP's typed. Although the TCHS child study team secretary would type the IEP's as part of their regular duties, they were not part of the legal process, and the preparation of the IEP's was ultimately the petitioner's responsibility. Petitioner was informed that the secretary was for support only, and that the case manager must confirm the completion of the IEP.

On October 3, 2008, Morgan forwarded an official reprimand letter to petitioner. On October 7, 2008, he forwarded a second letter to petitioner. This was required because the original IEP was required to be in the file for the '07-'08 school year, under state and Federal law. On October 24, 2008, another letter was forwarded regarding missing files and IEP's for 2008. A fourth letter was forwarded on October 31, 2008, because of the continued existence of missing documents.

With the exception of complying with IEP requirements, petitioner's work was otherwise excellent. Nevertheless, because of the problems with the IEP's, the decision was made to withhold petitioner's increment. In addition, an improvement plan for petitioner was put in place. However, that improvement plan was not related to the withheld increment.

In April 2009, petitioner received a "Rice" notice, delivered to her by a security guard, advising her that she could appear at the April 27, 2009, meeting of the Board to discuss the withholding of her increment for the 2009-2010 work year. On April 27, 2009, she addressed a letter to the Board advising why her increment should not be withheld. After petitioner appeared at the Board meeting, the Letter was subsequently forwarded by the Board advising petitioner of the withholding of her increment. The Letter did not recite the reasons for the withholding. Petitioner never received the letter until her attorney sent it to her. She subsequently received two contracts from the Board, neither of which indicated the increment was being withheld. In July 2009, she was finally made aware of the withheld increment.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The issue to be determined is whether the respondent's withholding of petitioner's incremental salary increase based upon her performance for the school year 2008-2009 was arbitrary or capricious.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, which provides for the withholding of a teacher's salary increment, states as follows:

> Any board of education may withhold for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefore, to the member concerned. The member may appeal from such action to the commissioner under rules prescribed by him. The commissioner shall consider such appeal and shall either affirm the actions of the board of education or direct that the increment or increments be paid. The commissioner may designate an assistant commissioner of education to act for him in his place and with his powers on such appeals. It shall not be mandatory upon the board of education to pay any such denied increment in any future year as an adjustment increment.

Petitioner argues in her closing memorandum that respondent failed to send a written notification explaining the reasons for the salary withholding to petitioner or anyone on her behalf. Petitioner submits that under the dictates of the aforementioned statute, it is not necessary to get to the substantive question of increment withholding. She alleges that the statute sets forth very specific procedural requirements for any board of education to follow in properly withholding increments, and respondent failed to follow same. According to petitioner, because she never received any notification, respondent failed to satisfy the statutory requirements, and the withholding should be nullified and petitioner made whole. I disagree.

Respondent provided, along with their rebuttal to petitioner's summation, the letter from Patricia L. Lucas, Board Interim Assistant Superintendent, to Margaret C. Sidberry, dated April 28, 2009, advising petitioner of the Board's intention to withhold petitioner's entire increment for the 2009-2010 school year. The Letter was marked as being sent by certified and regular mail, and was confirmed by the United States Postal Service as having been delivered. While I made no factual finding that the Letter was delivered to petitioner, on its face, this Letter is evidence that the required notice was given by the Board, and that is all that the statute mandates. Proof of service is not required. In addition, the failure by the Board to recite its reasons for withholding petitioner's increment in the Letter is not sufficient to invalidate the Board's action. Petitioner was aware of the reasons, eloquently stated her defenses thereto in her letter to the Board dated April 27, 2009, and she attended the Board meeting wherein her case was discussed.

In addition, while the statute does require notification from a board of education of the reasons for its action within ten days of its action, the statute does not set forth the consequences for the failure of the board of education to provide such notice. There is no provision set forth therein to allow for the withholding of the increment to be nullified in the event of a failure to provide notice.

While petitioner alleges she did not get formal notification of the action of the Board within ten days, petitioner was eventually made aware that her salary from the 2008-2009 school year to the 2009-2010 school year remained the same. In addition, petitioner received two contracts for the 2009-2010 school year in July 2009, wherein no notice of the withheld increment was included, but no increment was provided either. Petitioner agreed that she became aware of the withheld increment in July 2009. Petitioner then timely filed for a hearing, and a hearing de novo was held. Petitioner was not penalized as a result of the Board's alleged failure to send the ten day notification, nor did she suffer any adverse consequences therefrom. The de novo hearing held by this tribunal cured any procedural deficiencies that may have been brought about by the Board's alleged failure to provide the required ten day notice. As a result of all of the above, I CONCLUDE that the salary withholding should not be nullified on the basis of a procedural failure to satisfy the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

I must next consider the substantive arguments for and against the withholding of the increment. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 vests in local boards the authority to withhold increments of a teacher's salary when that teacher has not performed satisfactorily during the previous school year. Probst v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield, 127 N.J. 518 (1992).

In a matter such as this, the petitioner has the burden of showing that the denial of the salary increment was arbitrary or capricious. Kopera v. Board of Education of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The decision to withhold an increment "does not require a showing of shortcomings sufficient to justify dismissal under the Tenure Act." Kopera, 1960-61 S.L.D. at 62. The only question for the Commissioner is whether the district "had a reasonable basis for its factual conclusion." Kopera, supra, at 295. Indeed, it has been observed that:

> [A school district has no duty] to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that the allegations against petitioner are true. To do so would convert an increment withholding action into a tenure case and accordingly shift the burden of proof to the board. Such is not the purpose of an appeal to the Commissioner under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

A determination must be made as to (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind their expertise. Kopera, supra, at 296-297.

A decision to withhold a salary increment "is therefore a matter of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the legislature to the board." Reilly, supra, citing Board of Education of the Township of Bernards, Somerset County v. Bernards Township Education Association, 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979). See also Probst, supra, at p. 527; Ridgefield Park Education Association v. Ridgefield Park Board of Education, 78 N.J. 144 (1978) State v. State Supervisory Employees Association, 78 N.J. 54 (1978); Clifton Teachers Association, Inc. v. Clifton Board of Education, 136 N.J. Super. 336 (App. Div. 1975).

Based upon the facts adduced herein, I CONCLUDE that the respondent appropriately withheld petitioner's salary increment for the school year 2009-2010. The written job description for a school psychologist provides, as Performance Responsibilities, the following:

> In order to fulfill his/her professional responsibilities, the school psychologist shall:
> 6. Participate in the development of an individualized education program for students eligible for special education programs and related services consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7.
>
> 7. Serve as case manager for students eligible for special education programs and related services by:
>
> - Coordinating the development, monitoring and evaluation of the effectiveness of the IEP;
> - Facilitating communication between home and school;
> - Coordinating and facilitating transition planning and services for students with disabilities beginning at age 14.
> 11. Follow and adhere to federal, state, and District requirements on referral, identification, evaluation, eligibility determination, IEP development, and placement as set forth by N.J.A.C. 6A:14 and the District Administrative Manual on Standard Operating Procedures for Special Education.

> 15. Complete and submit in a timely fashion student record information as requested for local, state, and federal reports.

In addition, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7 provides that:

> 1. At the beginning of each school year, the District board of education shall have in effect an IEP for every student who is receiving special education and related services from the District;
>
> 2. Every Student's IEP shall be accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related services provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation;
> 4. The District board of education shall ensure that there is no delay in implementing a student's IEP . . .;

Petitioner's critical responsibility as case manager and psychologist was to ensure the timely completion of IEP's. According to the applicable regulations, IEP's for the upcoming school year should have been in effect at the beginning of the school year. This was necessary to insure their timely implementation by the commencement of the new school year. Many of the IEP's for which petitioner was responsible required some correction in the fall of 2008. Petitioner should have ensured their timely completion before she left for her summer vacation. If a secretarial shortage caused her an inability to complete the IEP's, they should have been completed by petitioner by hand. It is improper to blame a secretarial shortage, or to say that the IEP's were complete, but for the typing. The ultimate responsibility to complete the IEP's in a timely fashion belonged to petitioner, not a secretary. The use of a secretary was a privilege, not a right. Petitioner actually tacitly agreed to that principle when she testified that she "usually" gave the IEP's to her secretary for typing. She must accept personal responsibility for her failure to have the IEP's completed as directed, and as communicated to her. Petitioner's claim that the IEP's were complete but for the typing, is disingenuous at best, and fails to persuade that the burden of proof has been met herein by petitioner.

Petitioner's claim that as she was assigned to a new child study team, and that her responsibilities were to her new students, must also fail. While petitioner certainly had an obligation to perform her duties as related to her new students, she also had an obligation to complete her duties for her old students, prior to moving on. As a professional, petitioner was required to leave her successor with completed files and completed IEP's, even if this required spending additional hours over and above her contracted responsibilities. Her job was not complete until the completed IEP's were in the students' files.

In addition to the above, there were discussions with petitioner on improving her deficient areas. Tenure charges were contemplated. Petitioner's history of IEP compliance issues was consistent over prior years. Petitioner had received correspondence from Morgan regarding her work product. Efforts had been previously made to assist petitioner.

It is the burden of petitioner to prove by a preponderance of the credible and competent evidence that respondent was arbitrary or capricious in withholding her salary increment. Kopera, supra. The concerns of respondent regarding petitioner's failure to produce fully completed IEP's in a timely manner justified the withholding of her salary increment. A salary increment is not a guaranteed right. A salary increase is a reward for expected service. The Board was entitled under the law to withhold Sidberry's increment for good cause. Failure to comply with the aforementioned legal requirements constitutes good cause. The Board made the decision to withhold the salary increment of petitioner based upon the recommendation of its highly qualified professionals. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden of proving that the withholding of her salary increment was arbitrary or capricious.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petition filed by petitioner be and is hereby DISMISSED, and that the action of respondent in denying the increment is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the determination of the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Funding (the Department) that Piscataway is the district with fiscal responsibility for educational services related to B.S. – a student who has been placed in a residential facility by the Department of Children and Families – for the 2007-2008 school year, pursuant to the State Facilities Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 et seq. Petitioning Board contends that B.S.'s mother relocated to Dunellen on November 19, 2007, and accordingly his educational costs became the responsibility of the Dunellen Board of Education. Cross motions for summary decision were filed by the parties.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no genuine issues of material fact and the matter is ripe for summary decision; when children are placed residentially by the Department of Children and Families, local school districts remain financially responsible for their educational services; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2, the present district of residence of a child in a residential facility means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16; B.S. was placed residentially on September 27, 2007, his mother resided in Piscataway on that date, and did not relocate to Dunellen until November 19, 2007. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the Department's determination that Piscataway was financially responsible for B.S. during the entire 2007-2008 school year was correct and consistent with the applicable law and regulations, and dismissed the petition.

Upon full and careful consideration, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determinations, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly stated therein.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of petitioner and replies thereto of respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Dunellen – filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.[1]

Petitioner's exceptions mirror the argument presented to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) below in its July 28, 2010 letter brief. As it is determined that this argument was fully considered and addressed in the ALJ's decision, it will not be revisited here.

Upon her considered review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Department correctly determined that Piscataway was B.S.'s district of residence for the 2007-08

Record Closed: August 19, 2010 Decided: October 4, 2010

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

B.S. is a student who has been placed in a residential facility by the Department of Children and Families. Petitioner, the Piscataway Board of Education (Piscataway), challenges the determination of the New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of School Funding, (the Department) that Piscataway is the district with fiscal responsibility for B.S.'s educational services during the 2007–2008 school year pursuant to the State Facilities Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1, et seq. Piscataway contends that on November 19, 2007, B.S.'s mother relocated to Dunellen, New Jersey, and that accordingly, as of that date, his educational costs became the responsibility of the Dunellen Board of Education (Dunellen).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Piscataway filed its appeal before the Commissioner of Education on March 5, 2010. The Department filed an answer on March 16, 2010. Dunellen filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on April 19, 2010. Cross-motions for summary decision were filed by the Department on July 6, 2010, and by Piscataway on July 29, 2010. Replies were filed on August 19, 2010, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The relevant facts are not in dispute, and I FIND:

1. On September 27, 2007, B.S. resided with his mother, A.J., at 61 R.[1] Drive, in Piscataway, New Jersey.

2. On September 27, 2007, B.S. was placed by the Department of Children and Families at Woods Services, located in Langhorne, Pennsylvania.

[1] The street addresses have been abbreviated to protect the student's privacy.

3. B.S. was included in Piscataway's October 2007 Application for State School Aid (ASSA) Report, and Piscataway received State aid based on the information contained in this report pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33.

4. On November 19, 2007, A.J. relocated to 203 P. Street, Dunellen, New Jersey.

5. Dunellen did not include B.S. in its October 2007 ASSA Report.

6. A.J. did not notify Piscataway of her change in domicile until November 2008, at which time she withdrew B.S. from the Piscataway schools.

7. On November 20, 2009, the Department issued a determination that Piscataway was the district responsible for the educational costs associated with B.S.'s residential placement during the 2007–2008 school year.

8. The Department further determined that Dunellen was the district responsible for the educational costs associated with B.S.'s residential placement during the 2008–2009 and 2009–2010 school years.

9. On December 21, 2009, Piscataway filed a letter with the Department contesting the residency determination issued on November 20, 2009.

10. On February 19, 2010, after reviewing its earlier determination, the Department again determined that Piscataway was the district financially responsible for B.S.'s educational services during the 2007–2008 school year. In her letter, the director of the Department's Office of School Funding, Yut'se Thomas, stated that "[t]he determinations made by our office are for an entire academic year. If the child's parent or guardian moved to another school district during that year, then the district originally made responsible for the child's educational costs must work with the new district to have the child registered in the new district. Otherwise the original determination remains in effect for the entire academic year."

11. Via affidavit submitted in support of the Department's motion for summary decision, Thomas again confirmed the Department's practice, stating that the Department "makes only one district of residency determination based on one point in time that remains in effect for the entire academic year."

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Piscataway and the Department seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party . . . offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'Fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (quoting Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "'judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.'" Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214.[2]

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. There are no material disputed facts that require a plenary hearing, and the Department and Dunellen are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

When children are placed residentially by agencies such as the Department of Children and Families, local school districts remain financially responsible for their educational services. The State Facilities Education Act of 1979, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-2(a), provides as follows:

> For each State-placed child who is resident in a district and in a State facility on the last school day prior to October 16 of the prebudget year, . . . the Commissioner of Education shall deduct from the State aid payable to that district an amount equal to the approved per pupil cost established pursuant to the provisions of section 24 of P.L.1996, c.138 (C.18A:7F-24) . . . .

The phrase "resident in a district" is defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) as follows:

> The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

Regulations promulgated by the Commissioner further clarify which district retains fiscal responsibility for children such as B.S. These regulations recognize that a parent's residence may change, and, accordingly, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2 provides as follows:

[2] Dunellen has filed a motion to dismiss pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. It correctly asserts that it is within the Commissioner's authority to treat a motion to dismiss as encompassing not only the claim that the petition on its face fails to set forth a basis for relief but also that the petitioner has failed to provide factual support for the allegations in the petition. Sloan v. Klagholtz, 342 N.J. Super. 385, 394 (App. Div. 2001). Accordingly, it is appropriate to determine the issues raised by the motions filed by the parties under the standard established by N.J.A.C. 1.1-12.5.

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
> > 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-45 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.
> > 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, approved private school for students with disabilities or out-of-State facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's most recent placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility as set forth in (a)1 above.

The regulatory reference to the "last school day prior to October 16" is purposeful. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33, local school districts are required annually, "on or before October 20," to "file with the commissioner a report . . . containing all data necessary to effectuate the aid provisions of P.L.2007, c.260 (C. 18A:7F-43 et al.), which shall include . . . the number of pupils enrolled by grade . . . on the last school day prior to October 16." State aid is based, in part, on student enrollment figures. Hence, the regulations that implement the State Facilities Education Act seek to correlate the "district of residence" assignment of financial responsibility with an accurate determination of where a student is included, each academic year, for State-aid reporting purposes.

The Department's determination regarding "district of residency" is entitled to a presumption of correctness. Bd. of Educ. of S. River v. Dep't of Educ., EDU 10117-98, Initial Decision (November 1, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. It is well established that when a local school board contests a district-of-residence determination made by the Department, the local board bears the burden of proving that the determination was in error. Bd. of Educ. of Bradley Beach v. Dep't of Educ., EDU 4975-99, Comm'r (July 3, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

I CONCLUDE that Piscataway has not met its burden of proving erroneous agency action. The Department's determination that Piscataway was financially responsible for B.S. during the 2007–2008 year was correct and consistent with the applicable law and regulations. It is uncontroverted that on September 27, 2007, the date on which B.S. was placed residentially, his mother resided in Piscataway. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2, Piscataway was responsible for B.S.'s educational costs because Piscataway was the district where his mother resided "as of the date of [his] most recent placement by the State agency." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(2). It is further uncontroverted that A.J. did not leave Piscataway until November 19, 2007, a date subsequent to October 15, and subsequent to the submission of Piscataway's ASSA Report that year. Accordingly, Piscataway was responsible for B.S.'s educational costs during the entire 2007–2008 year, but likewise included him on its roster for State-aid purposes. The Department correctly ended Piscataway's responsibility for B.S. after the 2007–2008 school year, and assigned responsibility to Dunellen. As of October 15, 2008, A.J. resided in Dunellen, which thus was "the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(1).

Piscataway unsuccessfully argues that its responsibility for B.S. should have shifted mid-year, on the actual date of his mother's relocation to Dunellen. It argues that a determination regarding which district is responsible for B.S. must start with the concept that children are entitled to a free public education in the school district in which they are domiciled. Their domicile follows that of their parents, and educational responsibility shifts to a new district immediately upon a change in the residence of the parents. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; Roxbury Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. W. Milford Bd. of Educ., 283 N.J. Super. 505, 522 (App. Div. 1995).[3] But this argument ignores that fact that assigning educational responsibility based on domicile is itself a creature of statute and regulation.

[3] Dunellen correctly urges that the State Facilities Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1, was not addressed by the Roxbury court.

While N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 governs the education of typical children, a separate statutory enactment, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 et seq., specifically governs the education of children who have been placed residentially by State agencies. The State Facilities Education Act, and the regulations that interpret it, make it clear that for this latter group of children, a determination of residence is made only once annually. Piscataway's argument that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2 does not mandate a once-annual residency determination is unpersuasive. These enactments clearly and unequivocally set a point of time, the date of placement, as determinative for the initial residency determination, and go on to provide that the parent's domicile as of the last school day prior to October 16 will be determinative "[i]n subsequent school years." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(2).

Piscataway's view that its responsibility for B.S. should end on the day his mother actually moved is likewise inconsistent with the statutory scheme for awarding State aid, which is based on a once-annual report of student enrollment data. No other approach would be practical or workable, as, indeed, in every district there are children who leave and those who enter during a given school year. As it must, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33 fixes a point in time upon which to assess enrollments, and that point in time is the last school day prior to October 16. Consistent with that approach, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2 fixes the same point in time, the last school day prior to October 16, for making a residency determination from which a grant of State aid will flow.

Piscataway asserts that the Department's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33 is misplaced. It urges that when a typical child moves, there also is an unfair allocation of State aid, because educational responsibility changes, but the annual State aid allocation for that child does not. This argument has some surface appeal. But the disparity in approach for residentially placed students is grounded in the realization that educational costs at residential schools are often extraordinary and unanticipated, whereas the ebb and flow of typical children is part of the fabric of running a school. Furthermore, and importantly, typical children actually attend district schools, and share the resources, staff and supplies of their school, all of which is supported, in part, by State aid. Conversely, residentially placed students do not actually attend the school, nor does the district directly fund their education. Rather, their educations are funded by a deduction in State aid, a deduction that is specific to that student.

Piscataway urges that it had no notice of A.J.'s relocation until November 2008. Piscataway cites to Thomas' statement in her February 19, 2010, letter that where a child's family relocates, "the district originally made responsible for the child's educational costs must work with the new district to have the child registered in the new district." Piscataway argues that it was unable to avail itself of this opportunity due to its lack of knowledge that A.J. had moved to Dunellen. Thomas was perhaps alluding to informal efforts to reallocate financial responsibilities for a child placed by a State agency. The likelihood that those efforts would have amicably resulted in a different cost allocation is highly speculative at best. Moreover, this comment by Thomas must be read in its entire context, and, indeed, she is unequivocal that determinations made by her office "are for an entire academic year."

In summary, I CONCLUDE that the Department properly allocated educational responsibility for B.S. to Piscataway for the entirety of the 2007–2008 school year.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the appeal filed by Piscataway be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AGENCY DKT NO. 363-10/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LOUIS MELILLO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the respective exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by respondent and the Board of Education (Board), and the respondent's reply.

This case involves tenure charges brought by the Board against the respondent Louis Melillo, a tenured custodian in the Elizabeth City School District. The Board charged the respondent with six counts of unbecoming conduct in which it alleged that the respondent made sexual advances, sexual remarks and inappropriate sexual contact with students during the summer program. The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") dismissed charges four, five and six following the presentation of the Board's case. In her Initial Decision the ALJ found that the Board did not prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually explicit remarks and behaving in an inappropriate manner with the summer student maintenance workers, and therefore dismissed charges one, two and three.

The Board submitted exceptions to support the contention that the ALJ erroneously found that the Board did not prove charges one, two and three against the respondent. Initially, the Board contends that there were glaring procedural errors made by the ALJ that warrant either the reversal of the ALJ's recommendation or in the alternative a remand to the OAL for a fair, unbiased and impartial hearing. For example, the Board contends that: the ALJ failed to issue an order on the Board's Motion for Ameliorative Intervention; the ALJ failed to provide a ruling on the admissibility of three of respondent's exhibits; and that the ALJ read the deposition transcript of Jay Mills, a witness for respondent who ultimately testified at the hearing.

The Board also provided numerous examples in which it takes exception to the ALJ's summary of witness testimony. The Board maintains that the testimony of the Board witnesses was generally consistent concerning the pivotal conduct demonstrated by the respondent. Given the history of the case, which included a criminal trial, and a division of Youth and Family Services' investigation, coupled with the fact that 5 years had passed from the time of the incidents till the tenure hearing, and the age of the students at the time of the incidents, the Board suggests that it is not surprising that not all of the statements are entirely consistent with regard to date, time and precise description. The Board also asserts in its exceptions that the respondent's witnesses were not credible.[1]

In his exceptions, the respondent urges the adoption of the Initial Decision, asserting that the Board failed to sustain its burden of proving that the respondent behaved in a manner demonstrating conduct unbecoming a custodian. Respondent also takes exception to the ALJ's failure to address the remedy issues raised by the Respondent in his post-hearing submission. The respondent's exceptions substantially reiterate the substance of his post-hearing

[1] The Board also requests that the Commissioner overturn the ALJ's February 9, 2009 Order awarding sanctions in the amount of $4,725.00 against the Board. The Board originally filed a request for Interlocutory Review with the Director of the OAL seeking to have the order of sanctions overturned. It should be noted that in the February 23, 2009 Order denying the Board's request for Interlocutory Review, ALJ Laura Sanders, Director of the OAL, stated "[t]he parties may seek review of this issue at the conclusion of the hearing by filing exceptions pertaining to this matter with me as Director of the Office of Administrative Law." The Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to assess or deny sanctions.

submission where he details with great particularity his entitlements relating to his required back pay, salary increments and accrued benefits.

In reply to the Board's exceptions, the respondent contends that the procedural arguments made by the Board in its exceptions do not serve as a legitimate legal basis to reverse the ALJ's recommended dismissal of the tenure charges. The respondent points out that many of the procedural arguments made by the Board are not properly before the Commissioner or were generally incorrect. In reply, the respondent also provides a counter to the Board's exceptions, and again advances his position detailed in its post-hearing submission urging the adoption of the Initial Decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the entire record in this matter, which included the transcripts of the hearing dates conducted at the OAL between June 21, 2007 and March 11, 2010, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board has not established that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner finds the Board's exceptions unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments and objections previously raised before the ALJ and taken into account by her in weighing the testimony and evidence in concluding that the record did not support the Board's charges. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

In this case, all of the facts related to the alleged unbecoming conduct were in dispute; as such, witness testimony and ultimate credibility is the only means available to make a determination as to the veracity of the charges. Based on her overall assessment of the minor alleged victim witnesses, the ALJ found that the minors "were less-than truthful and were motivated by their own self-interest and immaturity." Notwithstanding the Board's contentions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's recitations of testimony or her determinations of witness credibility.

The Commissioner also finds that the current record does not allow the Commissioner to make the requisite factual determinations with respect to the appropriate back pay and benefits to be afforded to the respondent in light of the Board's failure to prove the tenure charges. Despite the fact that the respondent raised the issues regarding his entitlement to full back pay and emoluments in his post-hearing submissions, and the Board addressed same in its post hearing brief, the ALJ left the resolution of these issues unaddressed.

The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as to the ALJ's finding that the Board did not prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a custodian. Accordingly, the tenure charges are hereby dismissed. This matter, however, is remanded to the OAL for such proceedings as are necessary to fully resolve the parties' disputes concerning back pay and emoluments.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11502-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 363-10/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF LOUIS MELILLO, CITY OF ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION, UNION CITY.

Karen A. Murray, Esq., Labor Counsel, City of Elizabeth Board of Education, for petitioner

Sheldon H. Pincus, Esq., (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys) for respondent Louis Melillo

Record Closed: August 17, 2010 Decided: September 20, 2010

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On September 15, 2004, tenure charges of conduct unbecoming of a public employee were filed against the respondent Louis Melillo. Respondent is employed by the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (petitioner) as a tenured school custodian. Petitioner alleges that respondent made sexual advances, sexual remarks and inappropriate sexual contact with minors employed by the petitioner in a Summer Program.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 14, 2004, petitioner determined by a majority of its full membership that there was probable cause of the charges, sufficient as to warrant a dismissal of respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. On November 4, 2004, the Director of Controversies and Disputes determined that the charges were sufficient, and if true would warrant respondent's dismissal. The matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 for a hearing. The matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law on November 19, 2004.

On or about December 3, 2004, the Union County Grand Jury returned a four-count indictment against respondent, charging him with two counts of aggravated criminal-sexual contact and two counts of endangering the welfare of minor(s). On or about August 3, 2005, respondent filed a motion to stay the hearings on the tenure charges, including discovery, until disposition of the criminal charges. A stay was granted for a period of six months or until further Order.

On September 28, 2005, a trial without jury took place in Superior Court, Union County wherein all of the counts of the indictment against the respondent were dismissed. The respondent was acquitted. On January 20, 2006, an Order of Expungement for all information relating to the criminal charges in the indictment was signed. On February 1, 2006, the matter resumed proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law.

The Department of Children and Families (DCF), Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU), via the Office of the Attorney General filed a petition stating forth the same or similar charges as in the tenure case pending at the Offices of Administrative Law (OAL). The matter bears OAL docket number HSV 013150-2007. On or about February 13, 2007, the Attorney General of New Jersey moved to consolidate the DCF's action with the tenure action pending at the OAL. On May 8, 2007, an Order consolidating the two cases was signed. An Amended Order issued on June 7, 2007, further ordered that the DCF case had predominant interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.5. On June 7, 2007, in a letter DCF advised this Court that it had modified its finding of substantiated abuse against the respondent to "not substantiated." As a result of such a modification respondent's name was removed from DCF's Central Registry and is not listed as a perpetrator of abuse with respect to the incidents surrounding the tenure charges. The DCF case against the respondent was withdrawn by DCF. The case then proceeded at the OAL on the tenure charges.

In the interim, numerous motions were filed by counsel for both parties pertaining to discovery; all of those matters were resolved either by court order, mutual consent of the parties or directives from this Court. The matter proceeded to plenary hearings.

On March 17, 2009, after petitioner rested, respondent moved to dismiss all of the charges filed against respondent. Upon conclusion of the oral arguments put forth by both attorneys Charges Four, Five, and Six were dismissed.

Hearings were held on various dates from February 1, 2006, until March 11, 2010. On March 18, 2010, in a conference call dates for the filing of post-hearing briefs were set. The record closed on August 17, 2010.

ISSUES

1. Charge One, is respondent guilty of conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually-explicit remarks and engaging in inappropriate contact with a minor-female employee E.W. by:

a) informing E.W. that he had "something else that was big"

b) grasping his genitals in the presence of E.W.

c) by telling E.W. stories about strippers

d) inquiring as to why there was writing on E.W.'s buttocks

e) lifting up his shirt in the presence of E.W. such conduct causing E.W. to become upset and creating a hostile environment for her.

2. Charge Two, is respondent guilty of conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually-explicit remarks and engaging in inappropriate contact with a minor-female employee (S.R.) by:

a) inquiring of S.R. as to why there was writing on her buttocks

b) bumping into S.R. from behind

c) lifting his shirt in front of S.R.

d) discussing strip clubs in front of S.R.

e) stating in front of S.R. that he "had something else that was big"

f) staring at S.R.'s buttocks such conduct causing S.R. to become upset and creating a hostile environment for her.

3. Charge Three, is respondent guilty of conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually-explicit remarks to a minor-male employee, T.M. by:

a) informing T.M. that his niece was a Go Go dancer and that he should come to his house to see her dance

b) telling T.M. he would bring him condoms

c) stating in T.M.'s presence that he "had something else that was big" such conduct causing T.M. to become upset and creating a hostile environment for him.

SUMMARY OF THE TESTIMONY

Dennis J. Kelly

Dennis J. Kelly is employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education and has been working for the Board for twenty-three years. He started as a security guard, then became a supervisor of custodians, and at the time of his testimony he was a coordinator of custodians. As coordinator of custodians he oversees 275 custodians in all Board of Education buildings. In 2003-2004 there were about forty school buildings within Elizabeth; each building had a head custodian.

Kelly stated that Melillo was the head custodian for School 17, also known as Roosevelt Middle School, covering grades 6, 7 and 8. He has known Melillo for about twelve years. School 17 had five custodians, one head custodian (Melillo) and one fireman. All custodians wear a uniform consisting of a tan shirt and brown pants. In the summer because of the heat—due to most schools not being air conditioned—the custodians wear T-shirts. School 17 is not air conditioned. The head custodian's office at School 17 is located on the first floor. The office has a desk, chairs, and a bulletin board. According to Kelly, that particular office has two doors, one door is the main entrance and another door that opens out into the boiler room.

Kelly said that in the summer of 2004 there was a work program whereby students would perform light custodian work in the school buildings. The program began just after the Fourth of July and ended sometime in mid to late August. The students were selected through an application process. The students were paid $4.75 to $5.00 per hour. The students worked Monday through Thursday. The students ranged from fourteen to eighteen years of age. The students were supervised by the head school custodians.

Kelly further stated that each individual head custodian had to approve the students' attendance at the job and supervise the students' work.

Kelly testified that two girls and two parents came to his office and complained about Melillo. He said the girls were summer-work students. He said the girls relayed to him that Melillo rubbed up against them, was rubbing his crotch in front of them, offered to take them to a Go Go bar and that he would bring them condoms. He said that the girls also told him Melillo had a Playboy magazine and pornographic materials.[1]

Kelly testified that S.R. told him that when she was at the slop sink Melillo came from behind her and rubbed up against her.

Kelly said he reported what the students and parents told him to the District's business administrator, who told him to call the Division of Youth and Family Services and the police.

Kelly also said he called Melillo and told him what was being said by the student workers. He said he told Melillo to report to the warehouse.

Kelly further testified that the next day the parents returned to his office with written statements from S.R. and E.W. He also received statements from custodians Sandra Llerena and Maria Esteves. He said he also received a statement from one of the boys that was working with the girls.[2]

Under cross-examination Kelly testified that the summer students' attendance was kept on time cards. Each student/worker was responsible for completing his/her particular time card on a daily basis. He said it was Melillo's duty to sign off on the students' time cards. Melillo had to verify that each student was present and worked the time that he or she put on the time cards.

Kelly said that prior to the students and parents complaining to him about Melillo, he had received one or two calls from Melillo telling him about problems he (Melillo) was experiencing with student workers coming in late and not working the time they were supposed to. Kelly testified that he told Melillo to mark on the students' time cards the actual time they worked.

[1] The girls were later identified as S.R. and E.W.
[2] T.M. is the boy that was later identified.

Kelly further testified that time cards are first approved by the head custodian; then his secretary totals up the hours; she then gives him the cards. He then takes the cards, reviews the hours worked and sends his final approval to the Board's payroll department for payment.

Kelly testified that he had no recollection as to when the students said Melillo touched or rubbed up against them. Kelley was not sure if the students told him when Melillo did the acts they were complaining about. Kelly had no recollection of telling the police when the incidents occurred.

Kelly stated that the students told him that they had confided in Sandra Llerena.

Kelly was shown the time cards for the student workers. (Exhibits R-29 through R-33.) Kelly noted that the time card for male-student T.M. was altered or corrected either with White Out or over-writing for work days of July 9 and 13 2004, as well as the total hours worked. (Exhibit R-30.) Kelly testified that he did not know why the time cards had such markings and that he received the time cards in that condition. He said time cards are completed by the individual worker and approved by the head custodian. He does not make any entries or corrections.

Kelly was shown the time card for G.W. Kelly testified that the corrections or alterations for the entries dated July 7, 9, 12, and 13, along with a correction on the total hours worked were there when he received the card.[3] (Exhibit R-31.)

Kelly was shown time card for M.D. Kelly testified that the corrections or alterations for entries dated July 6, 7, 8, and 13, along with a White Out on the total hours worked were not done by him or anyone in his office.[4] (Exhibit R-32.)

Kelly was shown the time card for E.W. Kelly testified that the corrections or alterations for entries dated July 6, 7, 8, 12, were not done by him or anyone in his office. (Exhibit R-33.)

[3] G.W. is one of the male-student workers.
[4] M.D. is one of the male-student workers.

Kelly testified that at the time he initialed the time cards he did not note nor did he look for anything peculiar with respect to the students or Melillo. He said at the time he simply approved the cards and sent them on to payroll.

Kelly said that the school principal told him that the security guard overheard the students say they were going to get Melillo. (Exhibit R-44, p. 3.)

Sandra Llerena

Sandra Llerena is employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education and has been since 1998. She is a custodian. She was a custodian in School 17 the summer of 2004. Her custodian duties were performed on the first floor and her summer hours were from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 pm. She reported to work every day at the head custodian's office that was located at the back of the first floor. Her head custodian and supervisor was Melillo.

Llerena testified that every day all custodians go to the head custodian's office to get their assignments for the day. She said all custodians are in and out of that office every day, all day. She said that it is at that office where they get supplies, have their breaks and eat lunch. They also go to that office at the end of the day to check out and turn in their keys.

She said the summer of 2004 was the first summer she worked at School 17. She stated that summer she worked with students S.R., E.W., and T.M., two girls and one boy. She said she worked Monday through Friday but the students only worked until Thursday. She said the students left at 2:00 p.m. She said in-total she worked with the students three days.

Llerena stated that during the summer of 2004 when she took her vacation and returned to work on July 13, the students were working there. She said the first day she returned three boys and two girls were in the office. She said all custodians wear a uniform and that they have a regular school-year uniform and a summer uniform. She said student workers did not wear uniforms.

Llerena testified that Melillo was her supervisor. She did not have a good relationship with him. She said Melillo always complained about something she did. Melillo was always unhappy with her work. She said she complained about Melillo to her co-workers. Llerena said that Melillo always had her move the heavy garbage bags even though the men were there and available. She said Melillo grabbed her wrist showing her where he wanted her to clean.

Llerena said that Melillo would always touch his private parts. He would have his shirt open touching his abdominal area; he would put his feet up on the desk. She said she saw this every day - all of the time. She stated that the other custodians would be present and commented on Melillo's actions. She stated sometimes students were present also.

Llerena testified that on the day she returned from vacation, July 13, S.R. and E.W. came to her and told her about Melillo. She said that S.R. told her that she did not like the way Melillo looked at her. S.R. also told her that one day she wore a pair of jeans that had writing on the butt and a sweater and that Melillo told her to take her sweater off. Llerena said S.R. told her she was not comfortable being alone with Melillo.

Llerena stated that E.W. told her Melillo rubbed himself against her and that he came from behind her. Llerena said E.W. said the incident occurred when she (E.W.) was trying to open a door and Melillo was very close to her. Llerena said E.W. told her this on the second day of her return from vacation.

Llerena further testified that T.M. told her Melillo offered him condoms and a porn magazine. And, that Melillo offered to take him to see a stripper. She said T.M. told her these things also on her second day of her return from vacation. Llerena said E.W. and S.R. were present when T.M. told her.

Llerena said that co-custodian Maria Esteves, student-workers T.M. and E.W. were also present when S.R. relayed the information to her. Llerena said she told the kids to tell their parents.

Llerena said she spoke to the other custodians about what was happening to the student workers.

Llerena said she saw porn magazines in Melillo's office after the incidents.

Llerena said S.R. or E.W. told her they saw Melillo touching himself.

Llerena testified that she, Maria Esteves, another custodian named Eddie and three students looked for pornographic magazines in Melillo's office but they did not find any. She said Eddie looked in the dumpster outside and he found the magazines in there. She said Eddie put the magazines back in Melillo's desk drawer. She said it was after they put the magazine in Melillo's drawer that Kelly came in to the office.

Llerena further stated that the day they found the magazines was Melillo's last day.

Under cross-examination Llerena admitted that she prepared a statement or a letter that is marked Exhibit # 47. Llerena stated that she wrote that letter for Kelly after he (Kelly) received the complaints from the student workers and their parents.

Llerena testified that Melillo always took issue with the quality of her work as a custodian and her absences. She said that she knew that Melillo had reported these things to Kelly.

Llerena stated that Kelly spoke to her about her work and Melillo's complaints about her. (Exhibit R-24.)

Llerena admitted that she filed a criminal-sexual-contact complaint against a co-worker. She also filed a complaint with the Elizabeth Board of Education against the same co-worker alleging sexual harassment. She dropped both complaints.

Llerena stated she never went off the school premises for lunch with the students. She said she did not remember going to lunch at Burger King with S.R. or E.W.

Llerena said she saw Melillo rubbing his penis. She said she would see Melillo do this all of the time. She testified that on occasion she saw Melillo rub himself when the students were in the office, he did this when all were gathered in the office getting their assignments. Llerena could not define who all were.

Llerena said T.M. told her Melillo showed him a pornographic magazine. And, that T.M. told her he saw a pornographic magazine in Melillo's desk drawer.

Llerena testified under cross-examination that she saw Eddie take a magazine from Melillo's desk drawer and put it in the dumpster, which is why Eddie knew where the magazine was. She stated she saw Eddie put the magazine back in Melillo's drawer.

Llerena reported that she worked with the students for a total of three days.

Llerena said Melillo always made her uncomfortable so she tried to avoid going into his office. She said every time she went into his office Melillo would have his feet on his desk and was rubbing himself. She said she never said anything to him; they did not communicate other than her receiving her assignments. She never complained about this to her union representative, principal, or anyone of authority. She said she discussed it with other male and female custodians.

During re-cross examination she testified that she did not see any pornographic magazines in the drawer nor did she go and look for magazines. She said she first saw the magazines when Mr. Kelly had the magazines that Eddie gave to him.

Maria Esteves

Maria Esteves is employed as a school custodian with the Elizabeth Board of Education. At the time of her testimony she had been with the Board nine years, six of those years were spent at School # 17. Her normal assignment during the school year was to maintain the second floor but in the summer she worked all over and where assigned. Her summer hours were 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. - lunch was from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. She worked the entire month of July in 2004.

Esteves said she worked with students S.R., T.M., M.D., E.W., and G.W.

Esteves stated that the routine in the morning was that upon arrival they would all go to Melillo's office to get their assignments for the day. She testified that she was uncomfortable with Melillo because he would always "adjust himself," so she avoided him. She said he would do it frequently. She never said anything to Melillo nor did she file a complaint with anyone. She said she never discussed the topic with Llerena.

Esteves testified that she asked E.W. why she wore such a heavy sweater and E.W. said because she was uncomfortable around Melillo.

Esteves stated that the other male custodians told her about porn magazines but she never saw them.

Esteves said she was allowed to leave the building for lunch and she usually went to her husband's auto body shop in Elizabeth. She never saw the students at lunch and she never ate with them.

Exhibit R-46 was shown to Esteves and she acknowledged writing it. In the statement, written on July 20, 2004, Esteves writes that lately Melillo frequently adjusts himself and she finds it uncomfortable. The statement also reports the conversation she had with one of the girls regarding her wearing a heavy sweater. (See R-46.)

Under cross-examination Esteves stated that she thought these particular students were trouble; they would run up and down the hallways; they were all over the place.

Esteves said she never saw these students after 2:00 p.m. She testified that she kept her distance.

She said she never heard Melillo ask S.R. to take her sweater off.

She said Melillo was always very respectful to her.

Under cross-examination she stated that in the beginning she felt uncomfortable when Melillo adjusted himself but after awhile noticing that Melillo did it in front and around everyone, she let it go. She said she figured it was not directed at her.

Esteves further testified that she did not see Melillo pulling, rubbing, or stroking his penis. She never discussed Melillo doing such things with Llerena.

Charles Smith

Charles Smith is employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education as the Affirmative Action and Recruitment Officer. He has been with the Board for two years at the time of his testimony. He reports to the assistant superintendant of Human Resources. One of his job duties is to investigate complaints of sexual harassment and discrimination.

Smith stated that on July 26, 2004, he received a packet of information regarding Melillo. He said he was given police reports and several written statements from students and their parents. He said prior to receipt of the package he had no knowledge of Melillo or the alleged incidents. He also had no prior dealings with these particular students or their parents.

Smith said when he began investigating the matter Kelly gave him pornographic magazines. Smith identified exhibit marked P-21 as the magazines he received from Kelly.

Under cross-examination Smith stated he could not remember when Kelly gave him the magazines.

Y.R.

Y.R. is the mother of S.R. and T.M. She stated that in the summer of 2004 S.R. and T.M. worked for the Elizabeth Board of Education at School # 17. She said the school is within walking distance of their home. This was the first summer they worked for the Board.

Y.R. testified that S.R. called her at work one day just before lunch. She said S.R. told her it was important and that she was to meet her at Kelly's office at the warehouse building.

Y.R. said she met M.W., the mother of E.W. and G.W. and the other kids at Kelly's office. She said she heard the girls tell Kelly that Melillo would touch himself and they described the slop-sink incident. She said they met with Kelly a "good while." She was shown R-51, which is a typed statement of S.R. She said S.R. wrote it out long hand and she typed it for her. She later took the statement to Kelly.

Y.R. said R-49 is her handwritten statement on behalf of T.M. because his handwriting is illegible.

Under cross-examination Y.R. said that until she received the call from S.R. she had never heard anything about Melillo or what was happening at School #17. S.R. never told her Melillo was bothering her. She said she heard the group talking about what happened just before going in to see Kelly.

Y.R. testified that S.R. told her the incident at the slop sink happened twice and that is what she testified to at the criminal trial. She said she later said S.R. told her it happened only once.

M.W.

M.W. is the mother of E.W. and G.W. M.W. was employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education as a multi-purpose aide for thirteen years. At the time of her testimony she had been terminated because her position was no longer available. M.W. stated that she did not know Melillo prior to the events of July 2004.

M.W. stated that G.W. had worked the student-custodian summer program before but it was E.W.'s first time. M.W. stated that she was not working that summer so most of the time E.W. and G. W. came home for lunch and she was there.

M.W. testified that E.W. called her one afternoon and told her that she did not like her boss, that he does perverted things like making her clean up under him and that he grabs himself. M.W. said she told her daughter to leave the job immediately. She said E.W. and S.R. came home. She said E.W. was upset and said how Melillo grabbed her around the waist. M.W. said S.R. asked to use her phone to call her mother. M.W. stated that she then called the Elizabeth Board of Education. They then walked to Kelly's office.

M.W. said the boys were still at work and did not go to Kelly's office.

M.W. said that E.W. came home early one time and that was a couple of days before she received the phone call. She said that day E.W. came home between 1:00 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. M.W. said E.W. was angry but she did not say why she was so angry.

M.W. said that E.W. told her that Melillo talked about his nieces being Go Go dancers and that he had condoms in his drawer and he took them out and showed them to her. M.W. said E.W. told her how Melillo would lean back on his chair and put his feet up on the desk and read pornographic magazines. M.W. said that E.W. complained how when she was cleaning Melillo's office he would grab himself in his private area. M.W. stated that E.W. told her how Melillo touched her when she was on the stairs.

Under cross-examination, M.W. stated that T.M. told her the day after they met with Kelly that he was going to bust Melillo.

M.W. said that S.R. told her Melillo had condoms in his drawer and that she saw Melillo had pornographic books.

The Testimony of the Summer Student Workers

S.R.

S.R. at the time of her testimony was a senior at in high school in Elizabeth, New Jersey. She said she had an after-school job. She lived with her mother and siblings in Elizabeth. She had just graduated eighth grade when she worked as a summer-student custodian at School 17. She worked with T.M., her brother, M.D., and E.W., and G.W., who are also siblings. She said she was the youngest grade wise. S.R. said her work hours were 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., with a half-hour for lunch. She worked Monday through Thursday. Her job duties were to help clean the school.

S.R. said that when she first arrived at the school she would report to Melillo at his office along with the other employees. She received her assignments from Melillo every day. She testified that there was a sign-in sheet in a binder where she would sign in and out. She said most often she would go home for lunch. She said she did not know Melillo prior to working at School 17. She knew E.W., but only to say hello or good-bye. They became friends after working together at the school.

S.R. said the adult custodians were Eddie, Juan, Maria and Sandy. Jay Mills was the security guard in the building and he was there too. S.R. stated that Maria was there the first week they worked but that Sandy was not.

S.R. testified that Melillo talked to the boys about condoms. She said Melillo told her his nieces were strippers and that he was up all night with his strippers. She said that during those conversations G.W., T.M., M.D., E.W., and she were present. She testified that Melillo offered to pay the boys $100 to see his nieces strip.

S.R. related that one time E.W. was looking at a calendar on the wall in the back of Melillo's desk chair and Melillo rolled the chair back bumping into E.W. She said E.W. said "your back is big" and that Melillo responded, "I have something else that is big."

S.R. stated that she noticed Melillo looking at her butt. She said at the time she was wearing jeans with writing on it. She said she wore a sweater over her butt and that Melillo asked her why. She said she told him so he could not look at her butt.

S.R. testified that another time she wore her hair in a fan and that Melillo asked to see her hair with his hands. She said she told him you see with your eyes not your hands.

S.R. testified that she made it her business not to be alone in the room with Melillo because he would do things. She said that Melillo would grab his crotch while sitting at the desk with his feet up. She also said that she made it her business not to look at Melillo. She said no one else was present in the office when he did this other than herself and E.W. S.R. said she told T.M., M.D., and G.W., the boys. She also said that she told Maria everything that was going on there.

S.R. testified that once when she was at the second-floor slop-sink closet filling a bucket with water and as she was backing out Melillo came up behind her and he rubbed up against her. She said he told her to "chill" and he smiled. She said she left and told her brother, T.M. She said she also told everybody what happened because she was shocked. She further testified that she told her mother after telling Sandy.

S.R. said Melillo never showed her any pornographic magazines nor did he discuss such things with her.

S.R. said Melillo showed her his chest. She said this occurred when she and E.W. were cleaning together and Melillo came to check on them. She said at that time Melillo did a stretch and a yawn and he put his right hand on his chest and lifted his shirt up to his face so she saw his hairy chest.

S.R further testified that Melillo sent her home early because the boys were fooling around and he could not find them. She said she got docked pay because of it.[5]

S.R. testified that she, E.W., T.M., M.D., and Sandra Llerena went into a classroom, used the phone, and called her mother and told her what was going on with Melillo. She stated that then they all met her mother and E.W.'s mother and they went to Kelly's office.

S.R. was shown Exhibit R-51, which is her statement advising Kelly of the incidents.

Under cross-examination S.R. testified that she went to Burger King one day for lunch and that was the day she got docked in pay.

S.R. again testified that G.W., T.M., E.W., M.D., and Sandra Llerena were in a classroom together when she called her mother. She said she lied to Melillo saying she had to use the bathroom and instead called her mother. S.R. said the day she called her mother was the day she was sent home early. She also said the day she called her mother was not the day she went to Burger King nor was it the day she was sent home. S.R. said the day she went to Burger King was the day she was told to leave early because Melillo could not find the boys.

[5] The boys are the male-student maintenance workers, T.M., M.D. and G.W.

When S.R. was shown R-51, she stated that she did not write down everything that happened and that she had forgotten some things. S.R. acknowledged that in her initial statement she did not mention anything about Melillo touching himself.

S.R. was cross-examined on her testimony at the Melillo's criminal trial. S.R. stated at the criminal trial that she had a fan in her hand and that Melillo questioned her about the fan in her hand not that she had her hair in a fan. S.R. said that it bothered her that Melillo said something about her hair.

S.R. testified that the day she was sent home early was the day Melillo stretched and lifted his shirt. She said she was mad that day because she was losing money,

S.R. stated that she was never alone with Melillo and that the only time she was alone with him was when the hair-fan incident. She said E.W. was with her most of the time. She said the boys were never in the office when she saw Melillo.

S.R. also stated during her cross-examination that sometimes when she and E.W. had to go to Melillo's office they went with someone else, most of the time it was M.D.

S.R. testified that she would go to Melillo's office a couple of times a day and she would see him playing with himself. She said she saw Melillo touching himself the first week she started to work there.

When S.R. was asked why she did not tell her mother about Melillo from the beginning: she answered that it "all added up."

S.R. testified that the incident when Melillo backed up into E.W. happened as E.W. was standing in the back of his chair and he said "I have something else that is big." She said when this occurred T.M. and M.D. were also in the room.

S.R. said that the slop-sink incident most likely happened the first week because she did not work that much the second week. She also stated that the slop-sink incident happened after the "something big" incident and comment. S.R. was shown P-22, which indicates that the slop-sink incident happened on July 7, 2004.

S.R. was shown P-56, which is E.W.'s statement. P-56 notes that the "something big" comment occurred on July 9, 2004, which was a Friday. S.R. was then shown the transcript of her mother's testimony at the criminal trial wherein her mother testified that S.R. told her the slop-sink incident happened twice.

S.R. said she and E.W. always wore a long T-shirt or sweater to cover their butts.

S.R. said she never saw Melillo touch E.W. at the slop sink.

T.M.

T.M. testified that he graduated from Elizabeth High School in 2005. He is currently incarcerated at the A.C. Wagner Youth Correctional Facility serving a ten-year sentence for robbery.

T.M. stated that during the summer of 2004 he was a junior in high school. He worked at School 17 with S.R., his sister, E.W., M.D., and G.W. They all worked preparing the building for school: painting and mopping. He said he reported to Melillo. He said he did not know Melillo before. He said he lived one block away from the school and walked home for lunch.

T.M. did not remember if Melillo was Caucasian or African American. He did remember that Melillo was big, muscular, and bald.[6]

T.M. testified that Melillo talked to him about condoms.

T.M. said Melillo asked him why he was late one morning and from there the conversation turned into Melillo's nieces being strippers at a strip club. T.M. said Melillo asked him if he had a girlfriend; if he has had sex; and if he used condoms. T.M. said he heard Melillo ask S.R. if she had a boyfriend. T.M. stated that he heard E.W. ask Melillo why he was so big and muscular and Melillo responded with that is not the only thing he has big.

T.M. said S.R. told him about when Melillo backed up and bumped into her. T.M. said he told Melillo to stop talking to his sister like that.

T.M. said it was Sandra Llerena who told E.W. to tell her mother about Melillo's remarks.

T.M. said he saw Melillo touch himself in the crotch area with his feet on the desk. He said Melillo's hand was over his clothing.

T.M. testified that he never complained to anyone. He told E.W. and then he told his mother.

T.M. said he saw a pornographic magazine in the bottom drawer in Melillo's desk. He was in the cabinet because his time cards were kept there. T.M. said Eddie, another janitor, was there with him and Eddie also saw the magazine.

T.M. said that on the same day he and the others met with Mr. Kelly he went back to the school to get the magazine and it was gone. T.M. stated that he left early that day.

T.M. said he gave a statement to Kelly marked R-49. He acknowledged that this statement was in his mother's handwriting but that they were his statements.

T.M. does not remember if he testified in the criminal case against Melillo.

Under cross-examination T.M. testified that his work hours were 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. He acknowledged that Exhibit R-30 was his time card. T.M. said he went to Burger King for lunch two times while working at School 17 and he went with the other kids E.W., M.D., S.R., and G.W. He said he was generally assigned to work with the other boys and other male janitors. He was never assigned to work with the girls.

T.M. did not recall leaving work early or at 2:30 p.m. on July 13, 2004. He does not recall ever being sent home early because Melillo said he was doing something he should not have been doing. The only time T.M. recalls being sent home early was when Melillo said there was no more work to do.

T.M. said he opened Melillo's cabinet or desk drawer to take the "Hustler" magazine out. He stated that Melillo never took the magazine out to show him. T.M. testified that he took the magazine from Melillo's desk to look at it.

T.M. said that his sister (S.R.) told him about Melillo backing his chair into her; he said he never saw it happen. He said he never saw Melillo get physical with E.W.

E.W.

E.W. was nineteen years old at the time she testified. She is a freshman at Morgan State University. E.W. lives with her mother, M.W., in Elizabeth. Her brother is G.W. E.W. stated that in the summer of 2004 she worked in a janitorial program cleaning school buildings for the Elizabeth Board of Education. She was assigned to work at School 17. E.W. said she had attended that school; it was her middle school. She said that while a student there she never saw Melillo.

She said S.R., G.W., her brother, M.D. and T.M. all worked with her. The other adult custodians that she worked with were Juan "Ramirez" or "Rodriguez," Sandra and another lady whose name she did not recall. She said Melillo was the boss. She said when reported to work in the morning she did so at Melillo's office. In Melillo's office she would sign in on her time card. She said Melillo's office was on the first floor.

E.W. said she worked with S.R. She said she worked two-full weeks at School 17 before being transferred to School 22. She said she was moved to School 22 because of the incidents with Melillo.

E.W. said that one time Melillo asked her to clean under his desk.

E.W. said that Melillo was sitting in his swivel chair at his desk as she cleaned his office. She said while she was cleaning Melillo was moving his hands up and down near his groin area. She said when she finished cleaning she left. E.W. could not remember when that happened.

E.W. said that one time she asked Melillo when was pay day. Melillo handed her a calendar and then he pulled it back in a playful manner. She said she told Melillo he had a big back and that Melillo responded "that is not all I have big."

E.W. said she never saw Melillo touch S.R.

E.W. testified that at another time she was taking a screwdriver to T.M. and as she was going up the stairs Melillo was coming down the stairs along her path. Melillo then moved his arm so she could pass. E.W. testified that she did not remember if Melillo's arm touched any part of her body.

E.W. further stated that she told her mother about the incident on the stairs but she could not remember when. She said she told S.R. and Maria Esteves. She said Maria told her to do nothing. She stated that she told Sandra Llerena and Sandra told her that something similar had happened to her and she should tell her mother.

E.W. stated that Melillo never said anything to her about her body.

E.W. testified that she called her mother from one of the phones in a classroom. She said her mother told her to leave the job. She said she went home and when she got home she went to Kelly's office.

E.W. did not recall an incident at the slop sink.

E.W. stated that she was busy all of the time. She was never sent home because there was no work. She never heard of anyone being sent home because there was no work.

E.W. testified that she and the other students were all in the room when they saw Melillo write on their time cards the time they worked. She said no one complained about the hours marked.

E.W. stated that sometimes they went home for lunch and only once they went to Burger King. She said G.W. came to work after lunch because he was going to summer school.

E.W. recalled that she got sent home early on July 12, 2004. She was sent home at 2:00 p.m. because the boys were playing or touching stuff that they had no business touching or playing with. She stated that the boys were in the girls' locker room. She said she was sent home because the boys got in trouble.

E.W. testified that on July 13, she and the other students sat outside and had a discussion because they were sent home early on the 12. E.W. stated that they talked about putting a tape recorder in a McDonald's bag and record Melillo. She stated that the five of them met and discussed Melillo and how unhappy they were with him. It was T.M. who came up with the idea of recording Melillo. E.W. stated that it was T.M.'s idea to set Melillo up. E.W. said that T.M. came in with the recorder but he did not turn it on because he got scared. She stated that T.M. brought the recorder in on the 14 of July. She said this was a couple of days before she told her mother about Melillo.

E.W. testified that Sandra Llerena never had lunch with them. She stated that she went to lunch with all of the other students so Llerena never ate with the other students.

E.W. testified that in the two weeks that she worked there Melillo never touched her in a manner that she found offensive. E.W. stated that she was inaccurate when she spoke to Detective Ray of the Elizabeth Police. E.W. stated that she never saw Melillo lift his shirt or any part of his clothing nor did he ever remove any clothing. E.W. said that the only time she saw Melillo touch himself was when she was alone in his office cleaning and no one else was there. E.W. said she never saw Melillo rub or touch himself in front of S.R.

E.W. said she told her mother about Melillo because Sandra Llerena told her to.

E.W testified that Sandra Llerena was not in the class room when she called her mother. E.W. does not remember if S.R. was with her when she called her mother.

Jose Chua, M.D.

Dr. Chua at the time of his testimony was Melillo's treating physician. Dr. Chua maintains a private practice in the City of Elizabeth. He stated that he has been Melillo's treating physician since 1990.

Dr. Chua testified that in June of 2004 Melillo reported to him that he had a rash. Dr. Chua stated that he referred Melillo to Dr. Margulan for the rashes. Dr. Chua stated that he observed Melillo to have a rash in the arm-pit and groin areas. Dr. Chua stated that the rash was aggravated by heat and sweat. He said he saw Melillo for this rash in August of 2001 as well as in January 1994 and October 2004. The last time he saw Melillo for this rash was on June 16, 2005.

Dr. Chua said that it is common for this type of rash to include an irresistible itch and that he said "you scratch almost involuntarily."

Jay Mills

Jay Mills is a resident of Elizabeth and an employee of the Elizabeth Board of Education as a school security guard. At the time, Mills testified he had been on the job for fifteen years. He had been stationed at School 17 for the last ten years. His duties included keeping the peace and order in the school and directing the internal and external traffic of the school. His summer work hours were 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Mills said he knew Melillo as a co-worker as head custodian of the school. He said he did not socialize with Melillo outside of work. He stated he never found Melillo to be discourteous and/or not nice.

Mills testified that he was aware of the 2004 school summer-help program whereby students were hired to help clean the school. Mills recalled E.W., T.M., G.W., M.D., and S.R. as students that worked at School 17 the summer of 2004. He stated he was not involved with the students or their work assignments.

Mills stated that the kids were discipline problems. T.M. and S.R. were students that had attended School 17. Mills said that T.M. would swear and he had heard T.M. swear in front of the principal and his mother. He knew that T.M.'s mother was Y.R. He said he had seen Y.R. numerous times at the school.

Mills testified that he would often go to the Dunkin Donuts about a block from School 17 to eat lunch. He said he saw E.W., S.R., T.M., M.D., and G.W. at this Dunkin Donuts many times. He said on one particular occasion he heard the five students talking. He testified that he heard one say "let's get even" with Melillo. He said he heard one of them say "let's say he touched us/me" or something like that. Mills testified that he heard talk about the girls using their pussy.

Mills said he was inside Dunkin Donuts at a table and the students were at a table next to him. He said that when he returned to school he told School Principal Nadine Yanger what he heard. He stated that he did not discuss it with Melillo.

Mills stated that at times these students could be very disrespectful. Mills said they had the attitude that they were never wrong. He reiterated that S.R.'s mother was always at school. He said M.W. worked with his sister.

Mills was shown Exhibit R-62. Mills said he did not write that statement that it was not his handwriting. He did not identify the signature as his. He said a Mr. Glassman wrote it and then showed him a portion of it. Mills said he never read it completely. Mills said he recalls meeting Charles Smith and signing a statement marked Exhibit R-63.

Mills stated that he did not have many dealings with Melillo.

Mills said that he recalled Sandra Llerena, a custodian. He said he never heard Llerena complain about Melillo.

Mills opined that Melillo took pride in his work and was professional at all times.

Under cross-examination Mills stated that he was unsure what kid said what during the conversation he overheard at Dunkin Donuts. He did remember hearing that one of the boys said "you are a girl say he [Melillo] felt you up." Mills said the kids used words like "mint" and "wax" as to what they were going to do to Melillo. Mills said he referred to the kids as the "wolf pack" because they all hung out together. He said he heard on August 12 through the grapevine that Melillo was suspended.

Louis Melillo

Louis Melillo testified on his own behalf. Melillo is employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education as a head custodian at School 17. He said he started with the Board in November 1994 as a substitute custodian he worked his way up through the custodian ladder until being made a head custodian. Dennis Kelly was his supervisor.

Melillo stated that in July 2004 there were eight custodians in School 17. He said during the regular-school year the custodians had a different schedule from the summer schedule. He set up each custodian's summer schedule and would tell them when to come and go. In the summer all custodians ate lunch at the same time—12:00 p.m. to 12:30 pm.

Melillo stated the in July 2004 School 17 had the summer-work program and summer school in session at the same time. He said summer school was from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. He said the work program started after July 4. He said that year five students were assigned to him. Those students were E.W., M.D., S.R., G.W., and T.M.

Melillo testified that he met all five students and he explained their duties and the work area. He said he told them they would be lifting and moving furniture, stripping floors, clean outside grounds, weeding, and unpacking deliveries. Melillo testified that the first day it went well, the second day he said they started fooling around. He said all five of them did. Melillo stated that the first few days all five worked together; after that he put the girls with female custodians and the boys with the male custodians. He said he left it to the permanent custodial staff to tell the students what to do. He said he did not know any of the students. He said they told him they lived across the street from the school in a complex.

Melillo said that Principal Nadine Yanger told him that these students were former students at School 17 and that they were all discipline problems. Melillo said that Yanger told him to be careful.

Melillo said he reviewed with each student the procedure for signing in and out and he showed them the book in his office. He said he told them they had to sign out for lunch and in when they returned. He said the book was in his office to the left of his desk on top of an end table. He said time cards were also used. He said he would complete the time cards for each student. He confirmed that both a book and time cards were used. The kids kept their own time cards. The students' work hours were 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Melillo said the kids told him they were to work five days a week but he later found out they were to work four days a week. He said the kids started to work on Tuesday, July 6 because the Fourth of July fell on Sunday and the holiday was observed Monday July 5. Melillo said that first week they worked on Friday. He said the following week, the week of July 12, he learned students were not to work Fridays. He said Kelly told him to leave the students' time cards for July 9.

Melillo was shown R-29, S.R.'s time card. He testified that the dates on the card were written by him, and all of the writing was his. He said the total hours worked for the week, circled, was not his. The hours on this card were totaled and circled by Dennis Kelly.

Melillo testified that he told Kelly he had problems with the kids. He said he told Kelly they were not working and they were going through teachers' desks. Melillo said he told Kelly this on Monday July 12, which was the second week the kids were working. Melillo said that was also when Kelly told him the kids were not to work Fridays. Melillo said the only kid that did not give him problems was G.W. G.W. was attending summer school and he reported to work at 1:00 p.m. and worked until 4:00 p.m.

Melillo said he sent all of the kids home on Tuesday, July 13 because they were not cooperating and not doing as they were told. They were running all around the building. He said he sent them all home except G.W. Melillo stated G.W. was where he was told to be and doing what he was told to do. He said he docked the students and called Kelly and told him what he did.

Melillo testified that he learned he was suspended on July 15 when he received a call from Kelly. He said he met with Kelly and Kelly told him of the allegations against him.

Melillo said that he never told E.W. he had something big. As to the incident with him allegedly backing into E.W., Melillo testified on that day E.W. wanted to know when was pay day and he moved his chair because she was behind him looking at the calendar. Melillo denied making any comments about her butt. Melillo denied ever grabbing his groin area in front of E.W. Melillo denied talking about strippers. Melillo said that his nieces attended School 17, but he never told E.W. about them.

Melillo stated that he may have lifted his shirt to wipe the sweat off his face.

Melillo testified that he recalled bumping into S.R. while going into a slop sink carrying a bucket and that S.R. was also carrying a bucket and she was backing out as he was walking in. Melillo said the two collided. Melillo said they collided but it was sideways, she was turning as he was going in.

Melillo also said that T.M. never told him to stop "playing" with his sister.

Melillo testified that he always had problems with Sandra Llerena's work product. He said Llerena's work was inadequate. Melillo admitted to writing R-23, R-24, and R-25, which were all complaints he reported about Llerena.

Melillo further testified that in the summer they clean using ladders and he gave Llerena tall bookcases to clean. Melillo said Llerena was using a chair to reach the top of a shelf instead of a ladder. He saw her and he assisted her by holding her hand as she came down to give her some support.

Melillo said he suffers from Hodgkins Lymphoma so he sweats a lot and gets heat rashes, especially in the summer.

Under cross-examination Melillo testified that Principal Yanger told him about the kids, telling him to be careful because "these kids were rough." Melillo said she told him one morning in the first week. He said Yanger told him all five of them had attended School 17 but he did not remember any of them.

Melillo stated that on the third day of the kids working the problems started. He said they would not do as they were told, he caught them watching TV in the classrooms instead of cleaning them. Melillo said on Friday July 9 he caught them going through teachers' desks and again watching TV. Melillo said because summer school was going on as well that the kids would interrupt the teachers and students in the classroom. Melillo testified that the mornings would start out ok but by mid-morning and into the afternoon the trouble started. Melillo said at times he had to go looking for one or the other. He testified that he called Kelly and told him. He said Kelly told him he would be by on Monday the 12 of July to clear up with the kids what they were to do.

Melillo stated that he had no problems with Maria Esteves. He said he did not know why she said he made her feel uncomfortable. He said he never had an incident with Esteves. Melillo stated that he did not complain about any other custodian because they were all doing their work.

Melillo testified that the principal, Ms. Yanger, complained about Llerena's job performance and he complained to Kelly. Melillo said after he received the complaint about Llerena he called a meeting among Llerena, Yanger, Kelly and himself. Melillo said after that meeting Kelly asked him to give Llerena one more chance, that is, giving her an opportunity to improve. Melillo said he gave Llerena that chance. Melillo said Yanger wanted Llerena transferred. Llerena was never transferred. Melillo thinks Llerena is vindictive because he wrote her up.

With respect to the time cards, Melillo stated he used White Out on the time cards. He said he whited-out the time cards when he realized that the kids had not worked the hours they said they did. And, that he had sent them home early.

Melillo said Kelly called him twice on July 15, the first call was about 9:00 a.m. and Kelly wanted to know how things were going with the kids. The second call was after lunch and that is when Kelly told him about the allegations.

Melillo said the kids and his staff could go in and out of his office anytime during the day.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

Melillo contends that the charges against him should be dismissed because they are a product of a scheme or plan fabricated by the students to get him fired because they were caught derelict in their work duties, were sent home for not doing their work and their pay was reduced. Melillo contended throughout the hearings that the kids were determined to get him in trouble. Hence according to Melillo, none of the acts in the charges are true and they did not happen as alleged.

The petitioner, the Elizabeth Board of Education, asserts that Melillo should be dismissed from his position as head custodian in its school system because of his unbecoming conduct.

In the present case the facts are all contested. And, where the facts are contested, the trier of fact must assess and weigh the credibility of the witnesses for purposes of making factual findings. Credibility is the value that a finder of fact gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Credible testimony has been defined as testimony which must proceed from the mouth of a credible witness and must be such as our common experience, knowledge and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Tayler, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). A fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837 (1973). Credibility does not depend on the number of witnesses and the fact finder is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514 (1950).

The burden of proof is on the Elizabeth Board of Education. The Board must prove its case by a preponderance of the credible evidence, which is the standard in administrative proceedings. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Precisely what is needed to satisfy this standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Credible testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but must be credible in itself, as well. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954).

There is no mechanical formula for determining the truth, to the extent it can be discerned, and many factors may be considered and weighed. These include the demeanor of the witnesses and the manner of testifying. Corroboration, knowledge, and common experience also play a role in assessing credibility. Dawson v. R.W. Vogel, CRT 4501-00, Initial Decision (Oct. 23, 2001), adopted as modified, Dir., Div. of Civil Rights (Aug. 28, 2002), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

It is well established that in administrative hearings hearsay evidence is admissible. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. However, at the conclusion of the analysis, for a court to sustain an administrative decision that affects a substantial right of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it. Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972); see also In re Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div.); Hemsey v. Bd. of Tr., Police and Firemen's Retirement Sys., 393 N.J. Super. 524 (App. Div. 2007). Hearsay evidence is accorded whatever weight the administrative law judge deems appropriate. The nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, in general, its reliability must all be considered. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a).

Based on my common sense, intuition and experience, and overall assessment of the minor victim witnesses, it is my opinion that these minors were less-than truthful and were motivated by their own self-interest and immaturity. The clearest example of this is the minors' admission that they wanted to set Melillo up because they did not like the way he treated them. T.M., S.R., and E.W. admitted that they wanted to tape Melillo; set out to do so by hiding a tape recorder in a McDonald's bag; and then placed it in Melillo's office. T.M. also admitting that Melillo never showed him any pornographic magazines but that he went into Melillo's drawer to get such magazines. Why else would the kids do this but to set Melillo up and get him into trouble.

On the other hand, there is one statement that all of the witnesses say and they appear to be in agreement on, and that is that Melillo either touched or rubbed himself quite often in the presence of others. This testimony is further buttressed by Melillo's doctor, Dr. Chua.

Having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony, review the documentary evidence and observe the witnesses I FIND the following:

Charge One

Melillo is not guilty of saying to E.W. that he "had something else that was big." E.W.'s testimony along with the documentary evidence as shown in Exhibits R-41, R-50, R-56, and her testimony at the criminal trial are inconsistent. S.R., who testified that she was in Melillo's office when this comment was allegedly made to E.W., gave a different description of the incident and who said what.

Melillo is not guilty of grasping his genitals in the presence of E.W. Grasping is defined as "to make the motion of seizing or to seize eagerly, to clasp or embrace as with fingers or arms."[7] The hearing produced no evidence that Melillo was grasping his genitals as the word "grasping" is defined.

Melillo is not guilty of telling E.W. stories about strippers. I FIND E.W.'s statements at the hearing, her prior-written statements and her testimony at the criminal trial are all inconsistent with respect to Melillo's discussion of strippers with her. Her statements are not corroborated by any of the other students as what was said, when and where.

Melillo did not inquire of E.W. as to why there was writing on her buttocks. The hearing record is devoid of any evidence with respect to this allegation and E.W.

Melillo is not guilty of lifting his shirt up in the presence of E.W. E.W. testified that she never saw Melillo raise his shirt or any part of his clothing exposing his chest.

[7] Definition obtained from Webster's 9th Collegiate Dictionary.

Charge Two

Melillo did inquire of S.R. as to why there was writing on her buttocks. However, Melillo should not be penalized for such an inquiry because S.R. acknowledged that when Melillo made the inquiry she was wearing jeans with writing on the buttocks.

Melillo is guilty of bumping into S.R. from behind. However, because S.R.'s testimony at this hearing, her prior-written statements and her testimony at the criminal trial are inconsistent as to whether or not Melillo's body came into physical contact with her; and S.R. describing the incident as an accident. I FIND that the incident did not cause a hostile environment nor do I characterize it as unbecoming conduct.

Melillo is not guilty of grasping his genitals in the presence of S.R. for the reasons previously stated herein.

Melillo is guilty of lifting his shirt in front of S.R. Both S.R. and Melillo admitted that there was a shirt-lifting incident. However, I FIND the shirt-lifting occurred as testified to by S.R. and Melillo when he stretched. This incident was perhaps ill-mannered but not sufficient as to require his dismissal.

Melillo is not guilty of discussing strip clubs in front of S.R. S.R's testimony is too inconsistent to be credible.

Melillo is not guilty of stating in S.R.'s presence that he "had something else that was big." S.R.'s testimony is too inconsistent to be credible.

Melillo is not guilty of staring at S.R.'s buttocks. The record at the hearing is void of any evidence showing that Melillo stared at S.R.'s buttocks.

Charge Three

Melillo is not guilty of telling T.M. that his niece was a go-go dancer and that he should come to his house to see her dance.

Melillo is not guilty of telling T.M. he would bring him condoms.

Melillo is not guilty of saying in the presence of T.M. that he "had something else that was big."

I FIND T.M. incredible. T.M. was asked on direct examination if he could describe Melillo. T.M. described Melillo as a "big guy, built, bald head, muscular." He was then asked if Melillo was Caucasian or African American. T.M. answered, "I don't know, I'm not-I don't know."[8] How can I believe any of T.M.'s recollections of the incidents that allegedly occurred if he cannot remember if Melillo, his boss, is Caucasian or African American? It is quite evident that Melillo is Caucasian.

T.M.'s testimony does not hang together with that of his sister S.R., nor with that of E.W. I FIND T.M.'s testimony unreliable.

Having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony, review the documentary evidence and observe the minor victim witnesses, I FIND them not to be persuasive they were inconsistent and not credible. All of the victim-witnesses' various written statements to the Elizabeth Board of Education internal investigations, the Division of Youth and Family Services, and the Elizabeth Police Department varied from each other and varied from their testimony before this tribunal.

Melillo is accused of conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually explicit remarks and engaging in inappropriate contact with minor female and male employees. I DO NOT FIND such conduct or remarks to be sexually explicit. Sexually explicit conduct is defined in 18 U.S.C.A. § 2256 as actual or simulated:

> a) sexual intercourse, including genital-genital, oral-genital, anal-genital, or oral whether between persons of the same or opposite sex;
> b) bestiality,

[8] (See tr., direct examination of T.M., p. 38 ll. 20 through 25, p. 39 ll. 1 and 2 (January 16, 2009).)

c) masturbation,

d) sadistic or masochistic abuse (for the purpose of sexual stimulation),

e) or lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area of any person.

None of the witnesses testified to any of the above acts.

Based upon a careful review of the record, I FIND insufficient credible and legally competent evidence to support a conclusion that Melillo behaved in an unbecoming manner sufficient so as to warrant his dismissal from the Elizabeth Board of Education.

I CONCLUDE that the Elizabeth Board of Education did not sustain it is burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Melillo behaved in conduct unbecoming a custodian making sexually explicit remarks, and engaged in inappropriate conduct with student-summer-maintenance workers in July of 2004.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the charges of conduct unbecoming a custodian by making sexually explicit remarks and engaging in inappropriate conduct by Louis Melillo against E.W., S.R., and T.M. are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MILLBURN ESSEX COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the decision of respondent Board to expel their son in the aftermath of a January 9, 2009 incident at the high school in which a fellow student was allegedly assaulted by O.G. and members of his family. The attack included strikes inflicted upon the student with a baseball bat. Petitioners sought reversal of the expulsion decision, reinstatement of O.G. as a student at Millburn High School, and reimbursement for costs of litigation and attorney fees. The Board sought dismissal of the petition in its entirety.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony of O.G. was not credible as it differed dramatically from all of the other numerous accounts of the incident, which was consistently described by witnesses as a vicious attack upon a fellow student by O.G. and members of his family, using a baseball bat; the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in finding that O.G. was involved in the altercation, and that he was subject to discipline; O.G. was provided with the requisite due process before the Board imposed discipline stemming from the incident; the action of the Board in imposing an expulsion, however, was contrary to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1) which requires a long-term suspension and a second subsequent infraction warranting suspension or expulsion before educational services may be discontinued. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that O.G. must be permitted to return to school and his record amended to reflect a long-term suspension, and ordered the Board to permit O.G. to return to Millburn High School.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings, and adopted the Initial Decision with the following modification. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5 and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(c) provide the Board the authority, at the completion of a long term suspension, to either reinstate the student or to continue the suspension. Based on the nature and severity of the circumstances surrounding the attack in this case, the Commissioner found that the Board shall determine whether O.G.'s suspension should continue or whether he should return to the general education program, and – if the suspension is determined to continue – to identify and effectuate O.G.'s placement in an appropriate alternative education program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.

D.L.G. and B.B.-G., on behalf of minor child, O.G.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MILLBURN ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioners and the Millburn Township Board of Education ("Board"). This case involves a student, O.G., who was expelled by the Board based upon an incident on school grounds wherein O.G. and his older brother attacked another student in an altercation which involved the use of a baseball bat. O.G.'s father was also on the scene and involved in the altercation. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in finding that O.G. was involved in the altercation, and that he should be subject to discipline. The ALJ, however, found that the Board could not expel O.G. as a result of the incident because O.G. has never served a long-term suspension based on a prior incident as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1).

The Board takes exception to the ALJ's determination that O.G. could not be expelled for his conduct during the altercation. In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ misapplied the Commissioner's interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1) in M.R. v. Board of Trustees of the Hoboken Charter School, Commissioner Decision No. 89-10, decided March 22, 2010. The Board contends that since O.G. was suspended for longer than ten days prior to the Board's decision to expel him, the Board complied with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions. The Board maintains that the plain meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1) should be applied, arguing that there is nothing in the regulation that requires a student, prior to being expelled, to have first served a long-term suspension for an earlier infraction.

The petitioners take exception to the ALJ's finding that the Board did not in an act arbitrary and capricious manner, or in violation of O.G.'s due process rights. In their exceptions, the petitioners argue that O.G. and his counsel were deprived of a sufficient opportunity to prepare for and participate in the hearing before the Board. The petitioners contend that the Board violated O.G.'s due process rights by denying his counsel's request for an adjournment of the hearing to allow counsel additional time to prepare, and because at the time O.G. would not testify because of a pending criminal investigation.

Upon a comprehensive review of the entire record in this matter, which included the transcripts of the hearings conducted at the OAL on April 21, June 7 and June 17, 2010, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that O.G. was provided with the requisite due process before the Board determined to impose discipline stemming from the altercation. The Commissioner also finds that the Board was not authorized to expel O.G. because he has never served a long-term suspension for a prior incident. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1). There is no question that O.G.'s conduct was sufficiently serious to warrant suspension or expulsion, but it is undisputed that O.G. has never served a long term suspension for any other incident.

The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that the Board's argument related to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1) is unpersuasive. O.G.'s suspension for more than ten days for this incident prior to the action by the Board to expel him simply does not equate to the serving of a prior long-term suspension. In M.R., supra, the Commissioner found that, under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, expulsion – i.e., discontinuance of educational services – can only take place after a student has "engaged a second time in conduct warranting possible suspension or expulsion, after having first served a duly imposed long-term suspension for an earlier infraction."[1]

Although expulsion was not the appropriate discipline in the absence of the required suspension for a prior incident, the regulations provide the Board with the authority, at the completion of a long-term suspension, to either reinstate the student or to continue the suspension. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5; N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(c). Based on the nature and severity of the circumstances surrounding the attack in this case, the Commissioner finds that the Board shall determine whether O.G.'s suspension should continue or whether O.G. should return to the general education program. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(c), this determination must be made based on the following criteria:

> i. The nature and severity of the offense;
> ii. The district board of education removal decision;
> iii. The results of any relevant testing, assessments or evaluations of the student; and > iv. The recommendation of the chief school administrator, principal or director of the alternate education program or home or other in-school or out-of-school instruction program in which the student has been placed. [N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(c)1.i.-iv.]

Therefore, at the next scheduled Board meeting the Board is directed to evaluate the factors enumerated in N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(c)1.i.-iv, and determine whether O.G. should return to the general education program or whether O.G.'s long-term suspension should continue.[2] If it is determined that O.G's long-term suspension should be continued, the Board must identify and effectuate O.G.'s placement in an appropriate alternative education program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9. The Board is also reminded that it must also continue to follow the applicable regulatory provisions concerning the process for determining whether the suspension should continue and/or when O.G should return to the general education program, i.e., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(d)-(f).

[1] See also N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)5.iv., which requires written notification to the parents of a suspended student that further engagement by the student in conduct warranting expulsion shall amount to a knowing and voluntary waiver of the student's right to a free public education.

D.L.G. AND B.B-G. ON BEHALF OF O.G., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MILLBURN, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Harry Jay Levin, Esq., for petitioners (Levin Cyphers, attorneys)

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners are the parents of O.G., a student at Millburn High School. They are challenging the decision of the Millburn Board of Education (the Board) to expel him in the aftermath of a January 9, 2009, incident at the high school in which a fellow high school student was allegedly assaulted by O.G. and members of his family.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners filed their appeal before the Commissioner of Education on May 29, 2009. The Board filed an answer and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 18, 2009.

At the time of the filing of their petition, petitioners were represented by Darren Del Sardo, Esq. The case was initially scheduled for hearing on August 31, 2009, and October 6, 2009. The parties appeared and engaged in promising and extensive, but ultimately unsuccessful, settlement discussions. I indicated that I expected to proceed with formal testimony on the next scheduled date, November 18, 2009. However, Mr. Del Sardo appeared that day, and sought leave to withdraw as counsel. After a lengthy discussion, on the record, I granted his application. Mr. Del Sardo represented that he could not reach an accord with O.G.'s parents on trial strategy or other matters essential to an appropriate presentation of his case on O.G.'s behalf. It appeared to me that the attorney-client relationship was irreparably damaged, and that Mr. Del Sardo would have been unable to properly represent O.G.'s interests.[1]

The hearing was scheduled to continue on December 7, 2009, however I advised petitioners that I would entertain an adjournment request made by newly retained counsel. I heard nothing further, and on December 7, 2009, two attorneys, Gerald Graves, Esq., and Maury Winkler, Esq., appeared on petitioners' behalf and asked for an adjournment. I scheduled new dates which were convenient for the schedules of all counsel. Ten days prior to the next hearing date, January 22, 2010, Mr. Graves and Mr. Winkler advised me that they were withdrawing from the case. Petitioners appeared unrepresented on January 22, 2010, and sought a further adjournment, representing to me that they were encountering difficulty retaining a new attorney. With much hesitation, but in the interest of ensuring that petitioners were given every opportunity to adequately present their case, I rescheduled the hearing for March 11, 2010.

[1] This conclusion is in no way intended to be construed as a comment on Mr. Del Sardo's professionalism or competency.

Petitioners' present counsel, Mr. Levin, appeared, but again sought an adjournment, having been retained only days earlier. After a lengthy discussion, I granted his request.

On March 18, 2010, petitioners filed a motion seeking to vacate O.G.'s expulsion, citing alleged procedural errors in the hearing process before the Board. Opposition to the motion was filed on April 9, 2010. I advised counsel on April 21, 2010, that I would reserve decision on petitioners' motion until the conclusion of the hearing. Hearings were conducted on April 21, 2010, June 7, 2010, and June 17, 2010. On May 27, 2010, the Board filed a motion to quash a subpoena issued by petitioners for the testimony of Board member Samuel Levy. I granted the Board's motion via letter order dated June 7, 2010.

Post-hearing submissions were filed on August 6, 2010. While in the process of reviewing the parties' submissions, I became aware of the recent Commissioner's decision in M.R. v. Board of Trustees of the Hoboken Charter School, EDU 09662-09, Final Decision (March 22, 2010) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. I conferred with counsel and held the record open to permit them an opportunity to address this holding and its relevancy to the present matter. Supplemental briefs were timely filed by both counsel, and the record closed on September 1, 2010.

Stipulated Facts

The parties stipulated to the following facts, and I FIND:

1. O.G. was a full-time student attending Millburn High School during the 2008–2009 school year.

2. O.G. was suspended from Millburn High School for a period of nine days beginning January 12, 2009, pending a Board of Education hearing.

3. A letter dated January 13, 2009, was sent from Richard L. Brodow, superintendent of schools, to D.L.G., father of O.G., advising that his recommendation to the Board of Education was that O.G. be expelled from Millburn High School, or, in the alternative, that O.G. be placed on a one-year suspension.

4. At a special meeting held on February 11, 2009, a hearing was conducted regarding the expulsion of O.G. from the Millburn Township School District.

5. A decision of the Millburn Township Board of Education in the disciplinary hearing of O.G. was issued on March 4, 2009, upholding the superintendent's recommendation and expelling O.G. from the Millburn Township School District.

The Procedural History Before the Board

The following facts are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

A board-level hearing was initially scheduled for January 21, 2009, but was adjourned at the request of O.G.'s parents to allow them sufficient time to secure counsel. The hearing was rescheduled for February 2, 2009, but on January 30, 2009, the family requested another adjournment. Apparently, they had retained an attorney who realized that he had a conflict of interest and withdrew his representation. Their request again was granted, and the hearing was rescheduled for February 11, 2009, at which time O.G. and his parents appeared, represented by Darren Del Sardo, Esq., who indicated that he had been retained only the week before.

Del Sardo advised that criminal charges were pending against O.G., arising out of the same incident. O.G. intended to assert his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination and thus would be unable to testify that night. Accordingly, Del Sardo urged that the hearing again be adjourned at least until he had received discovery from the prosecutor. The Board attorney recommended that no adjournment be granted, citing the thirty-day requirement for the scheduling of a hearing found at N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7, and the fact that the hearing had already been twice adjourned.

The president of the Board, Samuel Levy, presided over the proceeding that evening. After some colloquy with Del Sardo regarding whether the matter could be adjourned in light of the regulatory thirty-day requirement, and whether Del Sardo was obligated to seek a formal stay of the board-level hearing, Levy asked Del Sardo the following question:

> Would [O.G.] and his family be willing to waive any civil lawsuit against the district or the Board of Education in concert with this request?

Del Sardo requested an opportunity to confer with his clients, which was granted. After a brief recess he advised the Board that a postponement of the hearing was "certainly not enough to waive any civil suit that may be brought against the Board of Education or the district." (J-3 at 15–16.) Del Sardo did not express any concern that Levy's comment was somehow inappropriate, rather, he clearly viewed it as a settlement overture, because he continued by stating, "I would be happy to talk about some resolution with your attorney that may encompass that, but that one component would not be enough to get this family to waive a potential civil suit." (J-3 at 26.) Levy reacted to Del Sardo's reply by stating "fair enough," and indicating that the Board did not wish to discuss settlement further that evening.

The adjournment request was denied, and the hearing proceeded. Although neither O.G. nor any member of his family testified, three witnesses were called by O.G., and Del Sardo cross-examined the seven witnesses presented by administration. The parties agreed to waive the five-day limit for the issuance of a decision to afford them an opportunity to continue to explore settlement. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3. Those efforts proved unsuccessful. A resolution formalizing its decision was passed by the Board on March 9, 2009. (R-5.) O.G. was placed on homebound instruction pending an appeal before the Commissioner of Education. He has remained on homebound instruction to date.

The Record Below

The parties stipulated to the admissibility of several joint exhibits, including the transcript of the proceedings before the Board. (J-3.) I FIND that the Board had the following facts before it when it rendered its decision:

A.S., then a student at Millburn High School, testified that as he exited school on January 9, 2009, he observed O.G. and his brother, L.G., cursing and pointing "into [J.F.'s] face." J.F. was a friend, so A.S. asked O.G. and L.G. to leave J.F. alone. According to A.S., L.G. stated, "I'll shoot you in the face," and O.G. added, "yeah, let's shoot him." The parties exchanged angry words. O.G. and L.G. returned to their car and retrieved a baseball bat. A.S. responded to them, "are you serious, you're going to hit me with a baseball bat, like really?" The record is unclear which brother replied, but according to A.S. one stated, "you are going to meet the other end of this bat." (J-3 at 19.)

A.S. related that L.G. hit him in the leg with the bat, and O.G. grabbed him from behind when he tried to wrestle the bat away from L.G. A.S. was able to throw O.G. on the ground, and A.S. began to hit him, but he soon felt O.G.'s father, D.L.G., holding him down and pushing him onto the sidewalk. A.S. testified that he never saw O.G. actually wielding the bat, but through much of the attack could not see who was hitting him because of his position on the ground. Someone hit A.S. in the head with the bat. A.S. sustained cuts on both legs, a bump on his face, and a bruise where he had been struck initially by the bat. He was transported to the hospital by ambulance. A.S. suffered from headaches for several days in the aftermath of the incident, and limped for about a week.

J.F. corroborated that O.G. and L.G. confronted him that day as he exited school, and that A.S. came to his defense. He likewise confirmed that O.G. stated that he was going to get a gun, and that he and his brother went to their car and returned to the scene with a baseball bat. J.F. witnessed "a swing to [A.S.]'s legs." J.F. observed A.S. surrounded by the members of the G. family, unable to get up. J.F. ran back into the school for help.

Peter Costanzo was parked that afternoon outside the school, waiting to pick up his son. Costanzo observed what appeared to be a contentious exchange between three boys. Two walked away toward the parking lot, and it appeared uncontroverted that these two young men were O.G. and L.G. Several seconds later he heard a commotion, and "saw someone being pummeled with a baseball bat." (J-3 at 61.) He described the victim as being down on the ground. Costanzo ran toward the altercation, and repeated "give me the bat." He was convinced that someone would be seriously injured. Costanzo described the assault as follows:

> It was so quick and so instantaneous and so violent and ferocious that I can't say I did see anything. All I know is I went into the altercation and pulled the bat away. . . I didn't see the swinging of the bat by any one person. I saw the victim being pummeled and I saw the bat being swung.

Costanzo informed the Board that he wrestled the bat away from O.G. and L.G. When asked if both O.G. and L.G. were holding the bat, Costanzo replied that, "[i]t was clear to me they were acting in concert." (J-3 at 66.)

J.S. exited the school that day with A.S. and observed J.F. talking with O.G. and L.G. J.S. confirmed that it was not a friendly conversation, and that A.S. interceded in J.F.'s defense. Tensions escalated and O.G. stated that he was going to "shoot" A.S. O.G. and L.G. ran to their car and retrieved a baseball bat. J.S. testified that he observed the following:

> A. [L.G.] told [O.G.] to hold [A.S.]. So he took his shoulders and [L.G.] hit [A.S.] in the leg with the bat.
> Q. So [O.G.] was holding [A.S.]'s shoulders?
>
> A. Yes, while [L.G.] came around the back and hit him with the bat. Then a fight broke out. As soon as the fight broke out, Mr. [G.] came from his car and held [A.S.] and punched him with his two sons. All three of them were completely assaulting him, and nothing could be done.

> Nothing could be done because it was three people beating up one person.
> [J-3 at 74.]

On cross-examination, J.S. remained adamant that he observed O.G. hold A.S. at his brother's direction, and that he did so prior to A.S. being struck with the bat by L.G. Counsel for O.G. pointed out that a statement completed by A.S. after the incident recounted that O.G. held him down after the bat was wielded by L.G. J.S. replied, "I was looking at what was going on and [A.] was experiencing it. I had a better perspective to see it." (J-3 at 88.) J.S. testified that he observed O.G. punch A.S. "numerous times." (J-3 at 85.) While he was certain that A.S. was struck by the bat repeatedly, J.S. could not tell who was wielding the bat once the fight broke out. He admitted that the incident happened very quickly, and that he was unclear about some details, including whether D.L.G. struck A.S. or merely held him while his sons hit him.

Two additional student witnesses did not recall the events in a manner that was entirely consistent with J.S.'s testimony. M.P. observed O.G. and L.G. confront A.S. verbally, and she heard L.G. state that he was going to get a gun and shoot A.S. L.G. went to his car, retrieved a bat and struck A.S. with it. She did not observe A.S. being held by O.G. She did observe what she described as a rumble involving all three boys, and stated that D.L.G. "jumped in." O.G. was throwing numerous punches, and both O.G. and L.G. struck A.S. while D.L.G. held him down. M.P. claimed to have witnessed the entire incident, but only saw A.S. being struck one time with the bat. M.P. testified that she did not see O.G. wielding the bat.

The incident was also witnessed by A.C., who had exited the building once the altercation was already underway. She observed D.L.G. holding A.S. down, and O.G. punching him in the head numerous times. She likewise did not observe the bat being used as a weapon, or O.G. holding A.S. so that his brother could strike him with the bat.

The testimony reflected that the events that afternoon happened quickly, were unprecedented at Millburn High School, and were shocking to the witnesses. With four individuals scuffling and fighting, the witnesses plainly had difficulty ascertaining certain details of what occurred. But the significant facts were clearly presented to the Board. On the afternoon of January 9, 2009, as school was being dismissed at Millburn High School, words were exchanged between A.S., O.G. and O.G.'s older brother, L.G.[2] O.G. and L.G. walked away, retrieved a baseball bat from their car, and L.G. struck A.S. with the bat. A fight ensued, with O.G. and L.G. actively participating. It is not clear if O.G. wielded the bat, but it is clear that A.S. was struck by it several times. It is quite clear that O.G. attacked A.S. in concert with his brother, and threw punches. A.S. was on the ground, and although he may have tried to throw some punches himself, he was clearly outmatched. The odds became even more uneven when, moments later, O.G.'s father, D.L.G., joined in the fracas. Ultimately, an adult bystander, Peter Costanzo, wrestled the bat away from O.G. and L.G. and together with other bystanders assisted in breaking up the altercation. A.S. was taken into the school, and the police and paramedics were summoned. The paramedics were sufficiently concerned about the injuries sustained by A.S. that they transported him to the hospital via ambulance.[3]

None of the remaining witnesses who appeared at the board-level hearing were present when the January 9, 2009, incident took place. Michele Pitts is the vice principal at Millburn High School. On January 9, 2009, she was in her office when J.F. ran in to inform her that A.S. was "being beaten up." (J-3 at 105.) Pitts ran outside, and alerted her secretary to contact the police. By the time she arrived at the scene, A.S. was being carried into the building. She saw "a lot of blood" and the students present informed her that the G. family had beaten up a student. She approached the G. family car as it started to move. She motioned to it to stop, but it did not. Pitts was grazed by the car. Apparently, however, the G. family did not leave school property, as they were still in the lot forty-five minutes later when the paramedics had readied A.S. for transport.

Pitts described a horrifying scenario. Paramedics had to cut off A.S.'s jeans to address his injuries. She recalled that "there were a lot of upset hysterical kids crying and screaming, saying you had to see it, it was awful." (J-3 at 107.) Pitts witnessed the [3] One witness stated that O.G. struck another adult bystander who tried to intervene, a Mr. Miller. No other witness corroborated this, and Mr. Miller did not testify.

G. family observing the events, and she related to the Board that she saw D.L.G. laughing as A.S. was transported by the paramedics. At one point, L.G. began to yell at the students gathered around, "so everybody got excited all over again." (J-3 at 108.)

Pitts informed the Board why she supported the decision to expel O.G.:

> The event was so outrageously violent, and in my experience in this school and every other school, I have never witnessed anything like there [sic]. . . . In fact, for the last month we've done nothing but try to do damage control. We're getting reports from the guidance counselors that students who weren't even there but heard of it, especially ninth graders, have been traumatized and are seeking counseling.

Pitts felt that the school community needed to heal, as there was much upset and fear. She distinguished the incident from a fight between two students, and characterized it as an assault because O.G. was assisted by two adult family members. Although she admitted that, in her experience, no prior fight between students had led to a recommendation for long-term suspension or expulsion, in her mind this was different. In compelling testimony she stated:

> I think one of the saddest things I've heard out of all of this that keeps coming back to me is that the students all said that they felt relieved when Mr. [G.] got out of the vehicle because they thought Mr. [G.] was going up to stop this attack, and Mr. [G.] proceeded to grab [A.] from behind so that his two sons could continue to hit him. I had a lot of trouble wrapping my head around that, and about 40, 50 students made that comment to me. I didn't see it, but it was reported by the students. So they felt, oh, good, aid is on the way, a parent is here to help.

Cross-examination by counsel for O.G. attempted to highlight the discrepancies in the varying recollections of the events, but more importantly, elicited testimony regarding an atmosphere of harassment and discrimination at Millburn High School. Counsel questioned Pitts at some length regarding altercations the prior day, January 8, 2009, between O.G. and several other students. Dr. Pitts had interceded and mediated the dispute between O.G. and his fellow students.

This continued to be the thrust of O.G.'s presentation when he offered his first witness, D.M., also a student at the high school, and a friend and fellow member of the African-American Club. D.M. was not present on January 9, 2009. While he stated that he heard that students had "ganged up" on O.G. that day, he admitted that he had received this information from students who, like him, had not actually witnessed the events that afternoon. D.M. did return to the school when he learned of the incident, arriving when the police were already on the scene. He testified that people were screaming at him, "you're dead, your friend and his brother are fucking psycho, we're going to kill you guys, you guys are fucking wiggers and wangsters." (J-3 at 149.)

D.M. stated that racial slurs are common at the high school and that O.G. is often called "nigger" by his classmates. D.M. described the events of January 8, 2009. When D.M. arrived at his eighth-period class O.G. informed him that he had been verbally assaulted by other students. D.M. testified that he then heard J.F., A.S. and R.C. referring to O.G. as "nigger pussy," and A.S. telling him "he was going to kick his black ass." D.M. testified that he found this quite upsetting, and that this incident was part of a pattern of harassment against O.G. When the exchange became heated, a teacher broke it up. D.M. testified that he informed a member of administration, Dr. Keenan, about the incident. D.M. stated that he had never spoken to A.S. before, and that he was not one of the students who typically harassed O.G.

Earlier in the day, according to D.M., O.G. had been harassed by two other students, R.M. and B.C., who pushed him violently in the hallway. O.G. and D.M. confronted the two other students, and a physical altercation ensued. The matter was brought to Pitts' attention, who interviewed the students involved but imposed no discipline. Pitts informed the Board that she had found the evidence to be contradictory. She stated that there was a dispute regarding whether the word "nigger" was used, although the students admitted to using the word "pussy." A teacher who interceded advised Pitts that he heard no racial epithets. As a result of the January 8, 2009, incidents, O.G. did not feel up to going to wrestling practice, and Pitts assisted him by helping locate the coach so that he could be informed about O.G.'s absence, and be excused.

Michael Artigliere is O.G.'s wrestling coach and attested to O.G.'s character. He described O.G. as an "upstanding citizen on the wrestling team," who is always courteous and polite. (J-3 at page 151.) Artigliere testified that there was a wrestling practice scheduled for January 9, 2009. He received a phone call that day from D.L.G. who inquired when Artigliere would be at the high school. While D.L.G. did not directly state that he wished to speak with Artigliere, he gave Artigliere the impression that he wished to do so. When Artigliere arrived at the high school, he looked for D.L.G. but could not find him. This testimony was offered to explain D.L.G.'s presence at the school that afternoon.

The final witness called by O.G. was William Miron, principal of Millburn High School. Miron testified that he was aware of one prior incident involving a physical altercation between O.G. and another student. That incident resulted in a suspension for the other student and detentions for O.G., because, according to Miron, although O.G. did not strike the other student it clearly was not an assault or a one-sided altercation. Generally, Miron described O.G. as polite and respectful. Miron informed the Board that he was aware of the incident on January 8, 2009, aware of O.G.'s contention that he was bullied by other students, and that this bullying included racial slurs and epithets. Miron urged that Pitts, who has a background in guidance, was working to mediate the dispute between O.G. and the other students. But, in troubling testimony, Miron stated:

> The day before, Mr. Keenan, the other Vice-President [sic], had a conversation with [O.] sometime after the conflict resolution meeting and appealed to [O.] that if there are problems, please report it to us, let the administration know about things so we can take care of it. His response on that was, and I don't have an exact quote, but his response was something to the effect of Mr. Keenan I understand what you're saying about reporting it to you; however, that's not > what my father wants me to do or expects me to do. That's a very big concern for us at this stage.

> [J-3 at 165–66.]

Questioning from counsel for O.G. implied that Miron sought to punish O.G. for his father's actions. But Miron stated that what truly worried him was that O.G. would continue not to follow the administration's directives. Rather, he would continue to be incited to violence by his father.

Miron testified at length regarding the effect this incident had on the Millburn High School community. A.S. had never been previously linked to difficulties with O.G. and his family, and it was perceived that the only mistake he made that January day was interfering in the altercation between O.G., L.G. and J.F. As a result, other students were frightened, because the attack felt random, and left them feeling that "anything is possible." That day, Miron noted, "[i]t was almost like watching a television show or a news broadcast of Columbine where you had kids that were truly in tears. They were just in shock of what was going on." (J-3 at 168.)

The Testimony at the OAL Hearing

At the hearing at the OAL, O.G. testified on his own behalf, and called Dr. Pitts, Dr. Brodow and Dr. Miron as witnesses. O.G.'s testimony offered insight into what the Board might have heard had it granted his adjournment request, and O.G. had chosen to testify. Having had the opportunity to hear O.G.'s version of the events, I FIND, as the Board did, that O.G. and L.G. instigated a physical altercation, and assaulted A.S. with a baseball bat and their fists. D.L.G. did nothing to stop the altercation, and, in fact, participated in the assault.

O.G. spoke at some length about the atmosphere of harassment and discrimination at Millburn High School, and this testimony was quite similar in tenor and scope to the testimony provided by his friend at the board-level hearing. O.G. stressed that the problem was not remedied by Pitts' mediation and that, indeed, threatening and harassing conduct by the other students involved in the January 8, 2009, incidents was ongoing, with seniors giving him "mean stares" the next day.[4]

O.G. called his father from school on January 9, 2009, to advise that other students continued to harass him, and O.G. testified that D.L.G. indicated that he would be at the school that afternoon anyway, as he intended to meet with the wrestling coach. O.G. informed his father that he had heard that the other students "were going to bring weapons to try to jump [him] after school." O.G. spoke with his brother during the same telephone conversation, and L.G. indicated that he intended to come to school as well that afternoon, to watch O.G. wrestle.

O.G. explained why a baseball bat was in the family car in January, when it was not baseball season. According to O.G., the bat was part of a sports-memorabilia collection that he intended to display at the high school. He brought in various pieces of memorabilia to share with me at the hearing, including a contract from the Negro Leagues, photographs of Muhammad Ali, and a boxing glove signed by Ali. The baseball bat was not owned by a famous athlete, and in that respect it differed from the rest of the items collected by O.G. The bat had been used by O.G. when he played little league, an activity in which he was no longer engaged. But O.G. was sentimental about his involvement in little league baseball, and testified that before he lost interest in the sport he was quite talented at it, and thus wanted to include his own bat in the sports-memorabilia display.

The most critical testimony offered at the hearing before me was O.G.'s description of the events of January 9, 2009. His version was strikingly at odds with that of the witnesses at the Board hearing. O.G. testified that he exited the school, dropped his bag off in the family car, and proceeded to return to the building with his brother, who intended to watch him wrestle. He stated that J.F. attempted to incite a confrontation by insulting L.G. L.G. replied that he just wanted to watch O.G. wrestle, and according to O.G., they attempted to walk quickly into the building and avoid an altercation. But A.S., who was also at the scene, had seven friends blocking their path. A.S. then called L.G. over to the side to talk. According to O.G., the group of students blocking the door had now grown to ten students. A.S. began to threaten L.G., stating, "I'll knock your fucking head off." The conversation became increasingly heated and A.S. began to use racial slurs. Other students, including J.S., joined in the tirade, barraging O.G. and L.G. with obscenities and racial epithets.

[4] O.G. reiterated that the atmosphere of harassment existed even in the prior school year, and he related the incident in the locker room that resulted in a physical altercation. The other student was suspended as a result, and O.G. was given detention. This history had been shared with the Board at its hearing.

O.G. related that L.G. said, "I am getting out of here," and he tried to extricate himself from the situation by running back to the car. O.G. followed, but ten to twelve students were chasing them. When they got into the car, their father advised that he did not want to be trapped there, and directed that O.G. obtain the assistance of the traffic officer by running into the side door of the building. O.G. attempted to do so together with L.G., but he could not enter the building. He testified as follows:

> They were all screaming, "we're going to get you, nigger," they were all screaming, and also remember at this point it was dismissal time, so in front of us there were the 10 students, but to the other side of us there were about 100 students that had been dismissed from school and you have to understand that they were all—they were all just trying to make a ring screaming at us so that we had the mob and the dismissal kids screaming at us at well.

O.G. testified that the crowd pushed him back, so that he could not enter the building, and that it was only then that he noticed that L.G. had the bat in his hand. According to O.G., L.G. yelled at the crowd to "get back," but at that point A.S. lunged at L.G. and punched him. L.G. struck him with the bat in reaction, and A.S. grabbed him around the waist and "[took] him down." According to O.G. the mob then attacked him and his brother. O.G. testified that A.S. punched him three times in the head, and hit L.G. in the face with the bat.

O.G. testified that his father appeared about thirty seconds later, and a student punched his father in the face. He stated that he and his brother were being attacked by twelve students, and "[L.] was getting stomped." The crowd began to attack his father as well. A grown man interceded, Mr. Miller. When Miller grabbed his father,

O.G. punched him. The brawl dispersed, and A.S. was pulled into the school building by friends. O.G. and his family attempted to go to the hospital because L.G. thought he had broken his hand. But school personnel were banging on the car as they attempted to leave. According to O.G., the students in the crowd continued to yell epithets at him, and the administration did nothing to stop them.

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as probable under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). In making a credibility determination, it is appropriate to consider contradictory testimony, or testimony impeaching the witness's truth and veracity. After carefully considering the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony and observe the demeanor of the witness, I did not deem O.G.'s testimony to be credible.

His version of the events did not differ in nuanced ways from that of the other witnesses. Rather, his version was dramatically different, and described an incomprehensibly frightening scene with crowds of students threatening and assaulting him and his family. He does not describe events that took place quietly or privately, and yet not a single person stepped up at the Board hearing to relate a version of the events even remotely consistent with O.G.'s description. Nor is O.G.'s version of the events consistent with the injuries sustained by A.S., who clearly suffered the brunt of the attack and required a trip to the hospital. Although O.G. stated that he and his brother were attacked, and L.G. was struck in the face by the bat, there was no evidence of injuries sustained by either O.G. or L.G. that would be consistent with an attack by an angry mob.

Other aspects of O.G.'s story likewise do not "hang together." I am surprised that a treasured baseball bat, one that O.G. testified was part of a memorabilia collection that included gloves signed by a boxing icon such as Muhammad Ali, would be used as a weapon when doing so obviously could have damaged it. There was no wrestling meet that afternoon, and friends and family do not typically attend practices. This combined with O.G.'s admission that he told his father that other students were threatening his physical safety leads to the conclusion that L.G. and D.L.G. were not at the school that afternoon to watch wrestling or confer with the wrestling coach. The Board would assert that they were there to incite violence. There is insufficient evidence to prove that their violence was premeditated, but at a minimum, I FIND that they were at the school to offer protection to O.G., and that their desire to protect him went terribly wrong.

Richard Brodow, then the superintendent of schools, testified before me regarding his rationale for expulsion. While he indicated that his letter to O.G.'s parents stated that he recommended either expulsion or a long-term suspension, expulsion was the penalty he had always felt was appropriate under the circumstances. (J-2.) Brodow did not witness the incident, but he corroborated Pitts' observation that L.G. was at the scene afterward, screaming and cursing at the bystanders. He stated that his recommendation was based on the fact that a bat was used as a weapon, and the absence of any proof that O.G. himself held the bat was of no consequence to him, as it was clear that O.G. participated in the assault. Brodow expressed extreme concern that O.G. has refused to accept any responsibility for the events of January 9, 2009.

Dr. Pitts testified regarding her investigation of the events of the prior day, January 8, 2009. Her testimony was consistent with that offered at the board-level hearing. She reiterated her support for the expulsion recommendation, stating that the incident created a "toxic" school environment from which the school community was just starting to heal. Dr. Miron likewise reiterated his testimony at the board-level hearing.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Local boards of education are charged with protecting the health and welfare of the students entrusted to their care, and with ensuring that a thorough and efficient education is provided every day to every student in an environment that is safe, orderly and free from disruption. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 establishes the authority of local boards to impose discipline, and provides that "[a]ny pupil who is guilty of continued and willful disobedience, or of open defiance of the authority of any teacher or person having authority over him, . . . shall be liable to punishment and to suspension or expulsion from school."

Disciplined students retain extensive due-process rights. Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725 (1975); N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.4; N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3. Where a long-term suspension or an expulsion is recommended by the administration, the student is entitled to a board-level hearing, and the ultimate determination whether to impose the recommended discipline rests in the discretion of the board. An appeal of the board's decision may be made to the Commissioner of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.4(c).

It is well established that the Commissioner will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966). The Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Accordingly, the petitioners carry a weighty burden. They must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it. T.B.M. v. Moorestown, supra, EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

I CONCLUDE that petitioners have not met their burden of proving arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action by the Board. At the hearing conducted on February 11, 2009, the Board heard highly disturbing testimony regarding an assault that sent one student to the hospital, and where a baseball bat was wielded as a deadly weapon. The attack was described by an adult witness as "violent and ferocious," and happened so quickly and was so shocking to bystanders that it is unsurprising that the various witnesses who testified at the board-level hearing offered descriptions of the events that differed as to some small details. But the several students and the adult witness who described the events that afternoon consistently described the most salient detail, that is, that O.G. and the members of his family viciously attacked a fellow Millburn High School student using a baseball bat. O.G. urges that he did not wield the bat, assist his brother in striking A.S. with it, or, indeed, ever hold the bat in his hands. While there was testimony that the bat was wrestled away from both O.G. and L.G., O.G.'s defense, even if true, is unavailing. The witnesses to the assault all testified that O.G. fully participated in the attack on A.S. Not a single witness, other than O.G., asserted that A.S. provoked his attackers.[5]

The determination of the Board to impose an expulsion was reasonable under the facts it heard that evening. The Board made its decision based on the needs of its unique school community. An assault of this nature and gravity was unprecedented in Millburn. This was clear from the reaction of the student community, which by several accounts was distraught in a manner reminiscent of Columbine. Days were devoted to counseling. The school environment was described by one administrator as "toxic." It took some time to regain the ability to turn the attention of the administration full time once again to its primary task, educating the student body.

Nor do I concur with petitioners that the hearing conducted on February 11, 2009, was procedurally flawed. The hearing required by law is described at N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3, and must include the opportunity for the student to confront and cross-examine witnesses and "present his or her own defense and produce oral testimony or [5] Were it clear that O.G. wielded the bat, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.2 would have provided additional authority for the Board's action here. The record reflects that O.G. and L.G. attempted to cause bodily injury to A.S., per N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, and that the bat was being used as a "bludgeon," per N.J.S.A. 2C:39-1(r).

written supporting affidavits," N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)(10)(ii). The transcript of the record below confirms that O.G. appeared that evening represented by counsel, who presented witnesses on his behalf and cross-examined the witnesses who testified on behalf of the administration.

O.G.'s argument that his procedural rights were violated because the adjournment was denied is without merit. While a defendant in a civil matter has the absolute right against self-incrimination, he has no absolute right to a stay of a civil matter pending the outcome of criminal proceedings against him. National Freight, Inc. v. Ostroff, 133 N.J. Super. 554 (Law Div. 1975); Bd. of Educ. of S. Plainfield v. Wood, EDU 8447-98, Initial Decision (July 11, 2000), aff'd, Comm'r (August 18, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. There is no constitutional barrier that precludes requiring O.G. to choose whether to testify in the administrative proceeding or invoke the Fifth Amendment, even though providing testimony may have aided the ongoing criminal investigation. State v. Kobrin Sec., 221 N.J. Super. 169, 174 (App. Div. 1987), rev'd on other grounds, 111 N.J. 307 (1988). The Board below sat as a quasi-judicial body, and had the discretion to grant or deny the request before it. The Board was required to consider the equities, and balance the nature and substantiality of the injustices claimed on either side. Ibid. A stay should not be granted "unless no hardship, prejudice or inconvenience would result to the one against whom the stay is sought." Insurance Co. of N. Am. v. Allied Crude Vegetable Oil, 89 N.J. Super. 518, 541 (Ch. Div. 1965).

The record before me offers no evidence that the Board improperly exercised its discretion when it insisted that the hearing move forward on February 11, 2009, and I CONCLUDE that its refusal to grant an adjournment did not deny due process to O.G. The hearing had been twice adjourned before, witnesses were present and were prepared to testify, counsel had been retained by the Board and was present, and the members of the Board had gathered together that evening. As school district administrators compellingly testified, the district ached for closure to an incident that had taken the attention of the school community away from its essential mission, and had caused Millburn High School students to fear coming to school.

Consistent with the notion that disciplinary matters are best resolved expeditiously, the regulation requiring that a hearing be conducted within thirty days speaks in the imperative, and states that "[a] formal hearing . . . shall . . . [t]ake place no later than 30 calendar days following the day the student is suspended." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)(10)(iii) (emphasis supplied). Conversely, denying an adjournment caused no harm to O.G., for indeed, it has been held that a civil defendant may assert his Fifth Amendment right or tell the truth, and "'[t]he truth is always the truth, and telling the truth will not hurt anyone except in so far as he ought to be hurt.'" National Freight, supra, 133 N.J. Super. at 559 (quoting In re Vince, 2 N.J. 443, 457 (1949)). The equities thus weighed heavily in favor of moving forward that evening.

I reserved on a motion filed by O.G. seeking to rescind his expulsion because the Board failed to grant the requested adjournment. I advised counsel that I felt the testimony at hearing might inform my ultimate decision on the issues raised by the motion. It did so. At the hearing before me, O.G. offered a version of the events that lacked credibility, and in no way caused me to question the reasonableness of the Board's decision below. His description of the racially charged atmosphere at Millburn High School was most concerning, but was a part of the record before the Board through the testimony of his friend, D.M. O.G.'s concerns were being investigated by the administration and those efforts should be ongoing. However, no words or epithets could possibly justify the violence that took place that January afternoon, nor did the Board abuse its discretion by determining that discipline was appropriate under the circumstances, even in the face of O.G.'s complaints about his treatment at the high school. There are appropriate ways to address O.G.'s very serious and disheartening allegations, but a baseball bat is not among them.

Petitioners urge that the Board president acted improperly in attempting to condition the adjournment that evening on a waiver of a subsequent civil suit. I might not have approached the adjournment request in quite the same way, but again, I may not substitute my judgment for his. His comment did not render the ultimate decision by the Board arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Board president was clearly attempting to engage in settlement discussions, and counsel for petitioners made it plain by returning with a counteroffer that he took the president's comments in just that way.

However, the actions of the Board in imposing an expulsion ran afoul of the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1), as interpreted by the recent decision in M.R. v. Board of Trustees of the Hoboken Charter School, supra, EDU 09662-09, Final Decision (March 22, 2010) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. For this reason, I CONCLUDE that O.G. must be permitted to return to school. The regulation states that "[a] district board of education may expel, that is discontinue the educational services or discontinue payment of educational services for, a general education student . . . only after the district . . . has provided . . . [t]he procedural due process rights set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3 and 7.4, subsequent to a long-term suspension." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a)(1). In Hoboken, the Commissioner determined that the regulation requires that an expulsion can take place only after a student has "engaged a second time in conduct warranting possible suspension or expulsion, after having first served a duly imposed long-term suspension for an earlier infraction." Hoboken, supra, EDU 09662-09, Final Decision (March 22, 2010) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (emphasis supplied).

As in Hoboken, O.G. does not have a prior disciplinary record that includes a long-term suspension for an earlier offense. The Board argues, unpersuasively, that Hoboken is distinguishable on its facts. It notes that O.G. had been suspended for more than ten days prior to the action to expel him. He thus had served a prior "long-term suspension" as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5, whereas the student in Hoboken was initially suspended for only ten days. The Board urges that it has provided homebound instruction for O.G. and that such instruction commenced within five days, as required where a long-term suspension is imposed. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3.

These factual differences notwithstanding, it remains uncontroverted that there was no earlier infraction for which O.G. served a long-term suspension as required by the Hoboken ruling. The Board correctly argues that the relevant Administrative Code provision nowhere explicitly states that expulsion can be considered only for a second serious infraction. But the Commissioner clearly has interpreted his regulation to so require. An agency's interpretation of its own rule is owed considerable deference since the agency that drafted and promulgated the rule should best know its meaning. Passaic Educ. Ass'n v. Passaic City Bd. of Educ., EDU 12133-99, Initial Decision (May 27, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (citing In re Revision in Rates Filed by Plainfield-Union Water Co., 57 N.J. Super. 158 (App. Div. 1959)). It is the intent with which the rule or regulation was adopted that is controlling, and the Commissioner has spoken as to that intent. Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 626, 637 (1993).

Accordingly, in light of my determination that the actions of the Board were otherwise reasonable, I CONCLUDE that O.G.'s student record should be amended to reflect a long-term suspension. I further CONCLUDE that he should be permitted to return to Millburn High School.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the Board is ORDERED to amend O.G.'s student records to reflect a long-term suspension. The Board is further ORDERED to permit him to return to Millburn High School.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JAY BERMAN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY.	:
RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
AND	:	DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JAY BERMAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, violation of policy and procedure, insubordination, gross negligence and other just cause for dismissal against tenured principal Jay Berman, and also withheld his salary increment for the 2009-2010 school year based on the conduct alleged in the tenure charges. The bulk of the charges against Berman stem from an unauthorized grade changing practice that was implemented by one of the guidance counselors at Fort Lee High School. Respondent denied the charges as alleged.

The ALJ found that: there is no evidence that Berman had any knowledge of the illegal grade changing practice in the guidance department of the high school, as the supervisor of guidance had authority over the guidance counselors, and did not report to the principal; the petitioning Board bears the burden of proving the tenure charges brought against respondent by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence; and because the tenure charges were not proven, the Board's action in withholding Berman's increment was arbitrary and capricious. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that all tenure charges brought against respondent be dismissed, and that Berman be paid all back pay and benefits due to him.

Upon a comprehensive and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board had not established that the respondent is guilty of the tenure charges, but found that the ALJ erroneously determined that the Board's failure to prove the tenure charges likewise meant that its decision to withhold the respondent's increment was arbitrary and capricious. The Commissioner found that the decision to withhold an increment does not require a showing sufficient to justify suspension or the revocation of a teacher's tenure, and – once the Board discovered the grade changing scandal – it was reasonable to withhold respondent's increment. Accordingly, the Commissioner dismissed the tenure charges, but affirmed the withholding of respondent's increment.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY.	:
RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
AND	:	DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JAY BERMAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Board and the respondent's reply exceptions.

The petitioning school district brought charges against tenured principal Jay Berman alleging unbecoming conduct, violation of policy and procedure, insubordination, gross negligence and other just cause for dismissal under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. The Board included various conduct violations in the tenure charges, but the bulk of the charges stem from an unauthorized grade changing practice that was implemented by one of the High School guidance counselors. The Board also withheld respondent's increment for the 2009-2010 school year based upon the conduct alleged in the tenure charges, and the respondent's appeal of such was consolidated with the tenure case. In her Initial Decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board did not prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and therefore dismissed the tenure charges. The ALJ also found that since the Board did not prove the tenure charges, the withholding of the respondent's increment was arbitrary and capricious.

The Board submitted exceptions to support the contention that the ALJ erroneously found that the Board did not prove the tenure charges against the respondent. The Board contends that a building principal has a supervisory responsibility over all aspects of the High School from administration to instruction to maintenance, and as such respondent was ultimately responsible for the grade changing that was occurring in the guidance department. The Board alleges that respondent was disassociated from the guidance department, so much so that the criminal activity was taking place for years without his knowledge. In its exceptions, the Board argues that without any evidence in the record, the ALJ wrongfully created excuses for the respondent's failure to supervise the guidance department, and the ALJ gave undue credence to respondent's testimony with respect to his involvement with the guidance department notwithstanding the fact that it conflicted with other testimony. The Board also contends that the ALJ erred by not finding that respondent's lack of activity with the guidance department was gross negligence.

In addition to the grade changing scandal, the Board argues there were several other deficiencies that the Board uncovered with respect to the respondent's failure to adequately supervise the High School. For example, graded courses and special education courses were not properly counted towards GPA's; the respondent failed to oversee and ensure the safety of the student records and his signature stamp; and the respondent improperly authorized the removal of four students from 11th to 10th grade in order to avoid having to take the High School Proficiency Assessment exam. The Board argues that it was the respondent's modus operandi to claim he was relying on subordinates to complete certain tasks but he never instituted any safeguards or confirmed that protocols were being followed. As a result, the Board argues that it proved there was just cause for respondent's dismissal.

With respect to the increment withholding, the Board argues that the ALJ erred in simply overturning the increment withholding because she determined that the Board had not met the standard required to prove tenure charges. The Board stresses that the standard for tenure charges is a preponderance of the evidence, which is a far higher standard than that which must be applied for an increment withholding. The Board contends that it was the respondent's burden to disprove the facts that led to the decision to withhold his increment, and that the ALJ's misapplication of the increment withholding standard was legal error. Finally, the Board maintains that ample testimony was presented at the hearing that indicated the respondent's repeated failure to comply with the standard for principals as required by the District, and it was reasonable to hold the respondent accountable for the wrongdoing and criminal malfeasance occurring at the High School.

In reply to the Board's exceptions, the respondent urges the adoption of the Initial Decision asserting that the ALJ's factual and legal determinations should be left undisturbed. The respondent argues that since the increment withholding was based on the same set of facts as the tenure charges, once it was determined that the tenure charges were not proven, the increment withholding was unreasonable. The respondent notes that the increment withholding action was taken by the Board before the tenure charges were instituted and it was predicated exclusively on the grade changing scandal, and not the other alleged conduct that was included by the Board in the tenure charges. In support of his argument that the increment withholding was arbitrary and capricious, the respondent emphasizes the ALJ's finding that there was not a shred of evidence presented to support that respondent had changed grades or had been aware it was happening.

Upon a comprehensive review of the entire record in this matter, which included the transcripts of the hearing dates conducted at the OAL between March 8 and May 13, 2010, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons discussed on pages 24-39 of the Initial Decision – that the Board has not established that respondent is guilty of the tenure charges. The Commissioner finds the Board's exceptions unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments and objections previously raised before the ALJ and taken into account by her in weighing the testimony and evidence in concluding that the record did not support the Board's charges. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. Insofar as her opinion on this issue is a credibility determination, the Commissioner may not disturb it unless a review of the record discloses that it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10C; D.L. and Z.Y., on behalf of minor children, T.L. and K.L. v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, 366 N.J. Super. 269, 273 (App. Div. 2004).

Although there were other conduct violations that the Board alleged in the tenure charges, the bulk of the charges stemmed from the grade changing scandal that had been happening in the guidance department for at least six years.[1] The Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's finding that there was no evidence that the respondent was aware of the grade changing that had been occurring in the guidance department or in any way condoned such conduct. The Board maintains that even if the respondent was not aware of the doctoring of transcripts and report cards, as the building principal he should have discovered the wrongdoings. Based on the evidence presented, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that it remains unclear as to what authority the respondent had over the guidance department, and that was a factor in determining whether respondent should have been more cognizant of the activities in the guidance office. There was a Director of the Guidance Department who was responsible for the day-to-day operations of the department; performed all of the staff evaluations; and was the direct supervisor of the guidance counselor who was responsible for doctoring the student transcripts and report cards. Further, the respondent did not formally supervise the Director of the Guidance Department, who instead reported directly to the Assistant Superintendent.[2] As a result, the notion that the respondent should have known what was transpiring within the guidance office does not rise to gross negligence or unbecoming conduct so as to justify the suspension of the respondent or the revocation of his tenure in the absence of any proof that he was involved in the misconduct.

With respect to the withholding of the respondent's increment, the Commissioner finds that the Board's decision to withhold the increment was reasonable based upon the Board's overall disapproval of respondent's level of oversight as a high school principal, and the unacceptable conduct that was occurring in the guidance department. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, a local board of education may withhold an employee's salary increment for inefficiency or other good cause. Probst v. Board of Educ. of the Borough of Haddonfield, 127 N.J. 518 (1992). The recommendation and decision to withhold an employee's increment is "a matter of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the legislature to the board." Bernards Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Twp. Educ. Ass'n., 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979). A board's exercise of its discretionary powers "may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. Board of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960) (citations omitted).

In evaluating whether the increment withholding is reasonable, the issues to be determined are: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind their expertise. Kopera, supra, at 296-297. Further, when a school employee challenges a salary increment withholding, he bears the burden of proof of demonstrating that the decision was unreasonable, arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera, supra, at 297.

The ALJ erroneously determined that the Board's failure to prove the tenure charges likewise meant that its decision to withhold the respondent's increment was arbitrary and capricious. The ALJ's analysis ignored the critical distinction between the respective burdens of proof. The decision to withhold an increment does not require a showing sufficient to justify suspension or the revocation of a teacher's tenure. "To do so would convert an increment withholding action into a tenure case, and accordingly shift the burden of proof to the board. Such is not the purpose of an appeal to the Commissioner under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14." Reilly v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 1830, 1843 (citations omitted).

The underlying facts related to the grade changing scandal are undisputed. While the respondent was the principal of the High School, illegal activity was occurring in the guidance department for several years which included unauthorized grade changes on student transcripts and report cards that were submitted to colleges. Therefore, the remaining question is whether the Board's decision to withhold the respondent's increment was reasonable based on what was happening in the guidance office. Unlike with the tenure charges, the Board did not have the burden of proving the increment withholding was reasonable, but rather it was the respondent's burden of proving that the Board's action was unreasonable.

Once the Board discovered the grade changing scandal, the Commissioner finds that it was reasonable for the Board to withhold the respondent's increment. Although it is not expected that the respondent review each and every transcript that is sent to the colleges, there is a level of accountability that must attach to the fact that it was respondent's signature stamp that was used to certify the transcripts. Moreover this was not an isolated incident in which the guidance counselor altered one transcript; this was a pattern of conduct that was on-going for approximately six years. The building principal has the overall responsibility of ensuring that the high school is running properly, and that the Board policies and procedures are being satisfactorily implemented. As discussed supra, there was no evidence that the respondent was aware of or condoned this behavior, or that he was in fact the direct supervisor of the wayward guidance counselor, but that does not mean the respondent should be totally absolved of any responsibility whatsoever. It was reasonable for the Board to assess a degree of accountability to the respondent in the form of an increment withholding, which is not a matter of right but rather "a reward for meritorious service to the school district." North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587, 593-594 (1984).

The Initial Decision is modified in that the Board's decision to withhold respondent's increment is affirmed. The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as to the ALJ's finding that the Board did not prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Accordingly, the tenure charges are hereby dismissed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 271-10/09

JAY BERMAN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOROUGH OF FORT LEE BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JAY BERMAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 13559-09
AGENCY DKT. NO. 321-11/09

CONSOLIDATED

Matthew J. Giacobbe, Esq., and Yaacov Brisman, Esq., for Borough of Fort Lee Board of Education (Scarinci & Hollenbeck, attorneys)

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., for Jay Berman

Record Closed: July 7, 2010 Decided: August 16, 2010

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

On October 1, 2009, Jay Berman filed a Petition of Appeal of the Fort Lee Board of Education's determination to withhold his adjustment increment for the 2009–2010 school year. On October 16, 2009, the Fort Lee School District filed its Answer. The Department of Education forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on November 13, 2009, under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 13226-09.

On October 14, 2009, the superintendent of the Fort Lee Board of Education filed Tenure Charges against Mr. Berman with the Board. On November 2, 2009, Mr. Berman filed a Statement of Position in opposition to the Tenure Charges. On November 12, 2009, the Fort Lee Board of Education filed a Statement of Charges under the Tenured Employees Hearing Act with the Department of Education. The statement alleged conduct unbecoming and misbehavior; violation of policy and procedure; gross negligence; insubordination; and other just cause.[1] Mr. Berman filed his answer on November 18, 2009, denying all charges. On November 12, 2009, the Department of Education certified the tenure charges, and the matter was forwarded to the OAL, where it was filed on November 30, 2009, under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 13559-09.

A prehearing conference was held on December 11, 2009, and an Order was issued on December 16, 2009, encompassing both matters. Discovery was to be completed by February 1, 2010. A settlement conference was held on February 8, 2010, but the matter failed to resolve. The case was scheduled for a hearing on March 8, 9, 10, and 11, 2010. The March 10 date was adjourned at Mr. Berman's lawyer's

[1] Along with the charges relating to the changing of grades and deciles, the District charged that the maintenance of student records did not comply with "agreed upon procedures" and/or policy; certain courses were "purposefully omitted from the student's GPA calculation"; Mr. Berman purposefully excluded the grades received in special education classes from the GPAs of students in special education programs; this impaired the opportunities of the most vulnerable students and infringed upon their rights; he forwarded transcripts containing erroneous GPAs to colleges, thus violating Board policy; attendance records for the week of June 16–20 were "misrepresented," Mr. Berman permitted the staff to "stamp his signature on transcripts, thereby granting his approval or permission to forward altered transcripts containing false GPAs"; Mr. Berman "failed to adequately maintain student records" as required by his "employment contract, board policy, and the law"; Mr. Berman approved having four students moved from eleventh grade to tenth grade in violation of their rights; Mr. Berman had not required certain staff members to leave during fire drills as required by State law; and his conduct and actions with regard to the management of the high school were grossly negligent and "an abdication of responsibility."

request due to a funeral obligation. The matter was continued on March 16, and April 5, 6, 8, 29, and 30, 2010, and concluded on May 13, 2010. Simultaneous summation briefs were scheduled to be submitted on June 21, and reply briefs on July 1, 2010. However, the parties requested an extension of time until June 30 for the summation briefs and agreed to waive any reply briefs. Prior to the June 30 date the parties again asked for an extension, which was granted until July 6, 2010.

ISSUES

1. Do the allegations set forth in the tenure charges rise to the level of conduct unbecoming and misbehavior; violation of policy and procedure; gross negligence; insubordination; and other just cause? If the charges do rise to that level, what relief is the Board entitled to receive?

2. Is Mr. Berman entitled to his increment for the 2009–2010 school year?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Jay Berman first became employed by the Fort Lee school system in December 2001 as principal of Fort Lee High School. Prior to that date he had been the principal of John Dewey High School in Brooklyn, New York, from 1994 to 2001. Before that time he was an assistant principal at Midwood High School in Brooklyn for eight years, and a teacher of biology from 1968. During the period of time that he was principal of Fort Lee High School, he served under six different superintendents of schools.

Dr. Raymond Bandlow and Dr. Frank Romano were appointed as superintendent and assistant superintendent, respectively, of the Fort Lee School District prior to the beginning of the 2008–2009 school year. When he first was appointed, Dr. Bandlow did not meet with Mr. Berman individually, but rather had a meeting with all of the supervisory staff together. Dr. Romano asked Mr. Berman and his two vice principals to put together a document setting out their goals for the year. Mr. Romano was not satisfied with the original document and asked Mr. Berman and his vice principals to do it over. While he claimed that the new document was somewhat better, but not up to his standards, he did not ask Mr. Berman to revise it again. Prior to Mr. Berman's removal, neither Dr. Romano nor Dr. Bandlow did any type of written evaluation of Mr. Berman in which Mr. Berman was advised that they were not satisfied with his performance as the principal of the high school.

On or about February 4, 2009, Judith Meller, a guidance counselor for many years at Fort Lee High School, approached Lawrence Wolff, the recently appointed director of the Guidance Department, and asked him for permission to change grades on a certain student's transcript, because it would be detrimental to the student's chances of getting into college if the grade remained unchanged. The student had received a "B" and a "D" in a course. Ms. Meller said that since the grades averaged to a "C," she could put a "C" on the transcript, which would be less detrimental than a "D." Ms. Meller represented that "they had been doing this for a while." Mr. Wolff told her that she was not permitted to do this and that it was "illegal to alter grades on [transcripts] and that [the high school] would not be doing that." The following day Ms. Meller approached Mr. Berman, without telling him that she had spoken to Mr. Wolff, and asked him for permission to "average" the grades of the student. Mr. Berman responded that he did not think that you could do that, and he took her to Mr. Wolff's office. Mr. Berman told Ms. Meller to repeat the question to Mr. Wolff. Mr. Wolff responded that it was "illegal" and she could not do that. Mr. Berman then said, "Well, there's your answer Judy. You can't do that." There was no further discussion between Ms. Meller and Mr. Berman or Mr. Wolff regarding the issue. Despite the directives of Mr. Wolff and Mr. Berman, Ms. Meller proceeded to "average" the grades of the student.

On February 6, 2009, Mr. Wolff sent an e-mail to the guidance counselors, with a copy to Dr. Romano, stating that grades were not to be altered or changed. Mr. Berman was not copied on the e-mail. When asked why he did not send the e-mail to Mr. Berman, Mr. Wolff stated that he did not think of it.

Although Mr. Wolff and Mr. Berman had indicated to Ms. Meller in early February 2009 that she could not make the grade change, Ms. Meller went to Marcia Leon, a secretary in the Guidance Department, on or about February 13, 2009, and asked her to make the grade change. Ms. Leon did not report this grade-change request to either Mr. Wolff or Mr. Berman. Mr. Wolff did not discover that the grade change had been made until, as part of his investigation, he discovered the transcript of the student whose grade had been changed contrary to Mr. Wolff's instructions to Ms. Meller.

Sometime after his conversation with Ms. Meller, Mr. Wolff contacted his immediate supervisor, Dr. Romano, and reported the content of the conversation he had with Ms. Meller. Dr. Romano told him not to discuss the conversation with anyone and to begin an investigation regarding incidents of alteration of grades, etc. Mr. Wolff interviewed the three secretaries in the Guidance Department: Rosa Pettigrew, Marcia Leon and Yvette Stamoulis.

Ms. Meller had been appointed a number of years before to be the guidance counselor for the students who were in the top 20 percent of the class at the high school.

Ms. Pettigrew is the secretary who is responsible for data entry. Any change of grades in the school's computer system had to be approved by a teacher and entered into the system by Ms. Pettigrew. The Genesis system is the computer system used by the high school to register students' grades, calculate students' decile rank, record student attendance and do other student record-keeping. In or about 2004 the Genesis system replaced the system previously used by the high school.

Over a period of about six years, Ms. Meller had asked Ms. Pettigrew, several times each year, to change a student's grade on the student's report card or transcript after the record had been printed out. Ms. Pettigrew would do this by using whiteout (correction fluid) on the hard copies that were sent to the colleges. The grades were not actually changed in the computer system. Ms. Meller told Ms. Pettigrew that the student was going to college and the bad grade would keep the student from getting into a good school. Ms. Meller characterized her request as "grade recalculation," which meant taking a first-marking-period grade, which might have been higher, and averaging it with a second-marking-period grade, which might have been lower, thus coming up with a higher grade for the second semester.

At the end of the first school year during which Ms. Meller had made the request, Ms. Pettigrew approached Leslie Appelbaum, who was director of Guidance at the time, and asked her if it was all right to do what Ms. Meller was requesting. Ms. Appelbaum said that Ms. Meller was requesting a "grade recalculation," and that was not a problem. Since Ms. Appelbaum had been at the school for a long time, Ms. Pettigrew did not question it further, and never asked Ms. Brennan, who replaced Ms. Appelbaum, if she could continue the practice. After Ms. Appelbaum became a vice principal, Ms. Pettigrew again asked Ms. Appelbaum if they were still doing grade recalculation, and Ms. Appelbaum said yes.

Ms. Pettigrew never discussed Ms. Meller's request for the grade "averaging" with Mr. Berman, and she did not believe that he knew about the practice.

During a four-year period, from the middle of 2004, Ms. Meller instructed Ms. Leon to cut-and-paste report cards to cover up a poor marking period of a student's grades, or to only send the grades from the marking periods that had good grades to the colleges to which the student was applying. Ms. Meller also asked Ms. Leon to change the decile (the student's rank) by using whiteout and then typing in a new decile to raise the student's standing on the transcripts. (Ms. Leon could not remember the number of times that Ms. Meller had asked her to alter the decile of a student.) Ms. Leon would then send the altered transcripts out to the colleges that the students had applied to attend.

Ms. Leon believed that she never asked Ms. Meller if this request was legal. She assumed that since Ms. Meller had been at the school for many years, the practice was allowable. Ms. Leon never received a similar request from any other guidance counselor. She never talked to Mr. Berman about the practice and she did not believe that Mr. Berman knew about it. Ms. Leon was "pretty certain" that Ms. Appelbaum knew about Ms. Meller's practice.

According to Ms. Leon, Ms. Brennan (a prior director of Guidance) and Ms. Appelbaum did not review transcripts prior to their being sent out. Prior to the investigation by Mr. Wolff, she never gave him the transcripts to review before they were sent out to colleges.

Yvette Stamoulis was a secretary in the Guidance Department at Fort Lee High School. Beginning in October 2008, Ms. Meller asked her to change the decile for various students. Ms. Stamoulis would use whiteout on the decile on the transcript and put in the number that Ms. Meller "thought was closer to what she calculated was the proper student's rank." This decile was invariably higher than the one generated by Genesis. The first time that Ms. Meller asked her to make the change, she spoke with Ms. Pettigrew and Ms. Leon. They said that the changing of the decile number had been done before. Ms. Leon did not discuss the situation with anyone else and she did not believe that Mr. Berman knew of the practice.

Ms. Meller also asked Ms. Stamoulis to alter the transcripts (use whiteout on the original grades) of several students. These grades would be on documents that went to the colleges that the students had applied to attend. When questioned, Ms. Meller stated that she was doing this because she did not want the colleges to see poor grades, which would prevent students from getting into the schools of their choice. Ms. Stamoulis put Mr. Berman's stamp on these altered transcripts. Ms. Stamoulis did not believe that Mr. Berman knew about these alterations.

Officer Michelle Morgenstern from the Fort Lee Police Department conducted a police investigation regarding the charges of grade changing. The investigation found no evidence that Mr. Berman knew anything about the grade changing as it occurred. Those findings were communicated to the superintendent of schools.

As part of his investigation, Mr. Wolff went through the college-application folders from Ms. Meller's students that were kept in a separate file drawer in the Guidance office. He found three transcripts that had grade changes, i.e., one had whiteout covering two grades in the senior year, and two others had similar alterations with whiteout. These changes were done by Ms. Stamoulis. He also found decile changes on certain transcripts.

Mr. Wolff issued a report on February 24, 2009, based on his interviews and his review of certain of Ms. Meller's files. This report was not shared with Mr. Berman. When asked why the report was not shared with Mr. Berman, Dr. Romano stated that he saw no reason to tell Mr. Berman. He said that the director of Guidance is equal to and not subordinate to the principal of the high school.

Following the issuance of the report, on February 24, 2009, Mr. Wolff, Dr. Bandlow and Dr. Romano had a meeting with Ms. Meller and two New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) representatives regarding the altering of the grade and going against the instructions of Mr. Wolff. The meeting did not cover other matters that were discovered later. Mr. Berman was not invited to, nor was he present at, that meeting.

On February 26, 2009, Dr. Bandlow and Dr. Romano visited the high school to deliver a letter of reprimand and recommendation to withhold the increment of Ms. Meller, based on her changing a grade in defiance of her superior's order not to do so. There was a meeting with Mr. Berman, assistant principal Elizabeth Moreland and Mr. Wolff, who were each given a copy of the letter. Mr. Berman expressed shock that Ms. Meller had disobeyed orders and that this practice had been going on in the high school. Mr. Berman stated that the letter did not go far enough, and that Ms. Meller and the secretaries should be fired. Dr. Bandlow said that the secretaries were just following orders from their superior. At this point, Dr. Bandlow dismissed Mr. Wolff and Ms. Moreland from the room and asked for Mr. Berman's resignation. Dr. Bandlow did not respond to Mr. Berman's query as to how he could have known about Ms. Meller's behavior if he had never been informed. Mr. Berman told Dr. Bandlow that he was not resigning, because he hadn't done anything wrong. Dr. Bandlow then advised Mr. Berman to get a lawyer.

At the time that Dr. Bandlow asked for Mr. Berman's resignation, Ms. Meller was still actively employed at Fort Lee High School. She was not fired until on or about March 6, 2009.

The following week, on March 3, 2009, Mr. Berman was summoned to the superintendent's office and told that he was suspended; that he should turn in his keys; and that he could not participate in any of the high school's activities.

After Mr. Wolff reported his findings to Dr. Romano, Cheryl Balletto, the Fort Lee Board of Education business manager and board secretary, was asked to conduct an audit during the first week of March 2009. She was told to compare the grades generated from Genesis with the grades that were sent to the colleges for current twelfth-grade students. The methodology she used consisted of her generating mid-year report cards and comparing them to what was in the students' files. According to the report that she gave to the superintendent, she found visible whiteouts on transcripts that were in student files of Ms. Meller. Deciles were changed, and information sent to colleges did not reflect the most current transcript available. Mid-year reports did not include second-semester grades, even though those grades had been generated on March 3, 2009.

Ms. Balletto's report also noted that GPAs on the generated transcripts were different than those in the student files, due to the fact that special education courses and other classes were not included in the GPA calculation. In addition, one semester report card would "include Class A and the second semester report card is replaced with Class B. Students in honors classes who receive a low grade are changed to a regular class with a higher grade. . . . Unapproved courses are listed on transcripts/report cards."

Following Ms. Balletto's investigation, the District hired Ferraioli, Wielkotz, Cerullo & Cuva, PA, certified public accountants. They issued an "Agreed Upon Procedures Report in Connection with a Compliance Review of Students Records." Sean Ferguson conducted the review. The report stated that all 2007–2008 final transcripts were shredded;[2] that over 50 percent of senior year and weighted GPAs recorded on the transcripts did not agree with the GPAs shown in the Genesis

[2] Mr. Ferguson said that he was told that all of the 2007–2008 transcripts were shredded, but he did not recall who told him this, who did the shredding, and when. He was not told that transcripts might be located in students' files housed in the Guidance office.

Education System; that only one of the individual grade GPAs did not agree, but all of the weighted GPAs on the transcripts tested did not agree with the weighted GPAs shown in the Genesis Education System; and that over 85 percent of all grade-scale adjustments tested did not have the proper grade-change approval slip. Certain grade-change approval slips could not be located in the students' permanent files; a program of studies, listing course offerings, was not available for review; neither Guidance nor the Main Office could locate the list of course offerings at the time of the review; not all core-curriculum courses were included in the student GPA calculations per the Curriculum Report; course GPA eligibility was not always consistent on the Curriculum Report; and Data from the Genesis Education System became unavailable (disappeared) during the process of gathering information for the review.

According to Mr. Berman's Employment Agreement, his responsibilities included ensuring that student record-keeping procedures complied with State and federal law and District policy, and establishing procedures for safe storing and integrity of all school records.

Mr. Ferguson was never given a written copy of the Board's policies and procedures, although he asked for one. He sat down with the superintendent, Dr. Bandlow, and the acting principal, Dr. Romano, to decide on the agreed-upon procedures that would be utilized in the review. Mr. Ferguson was not provided with a list of course offerings by Ms. Balletto or Dr. Romano. While Mr. Ferguson reported that certain transcripts and grade-change approvals were missing, there was no further inquiry made to see if these records were in the Guidance office file drawers, where student records were stored for two years. In addition, Ms. Meller remained in her position after she had received her letter of reprimand and after Mr. Berman had been fired. There was no testimony as to what steps were taken to secure the student files during the period of time that Ms. Meller remained on staff.

Mr. Ferguson made findings regarding weighted and unweighted courses vis-à-vis GPA. He was not aware that during the 2006–2007 school year, plus and minus signs had attached to grades. He acknowledged that this change in the grading system could explain why the grades in the Genesis system and the hard-copy grades found in the guidance counselors' folders, which might have been run before the change was made, were not the same. Mr. Ferguson was also not aware that in 2007–2008 there was a change in the course weighting, which he acknowledged would mean that the older, hard copies of the transcripts in the students' files would not necessarily agree with the weighted GPAs found in the Genesis transcripts that he generated at the time of his review. As for the finding that 85 percent of all grade-scale adjustments tested did not have the proper grade-change approval slips, Mr. Ferguson stated that he checked the student folders for this information and was told that this was where the forms were kept. He did not check the guidance counselors' folders to see if the slips were located there.

Mr. Ferguson was not given a copy of the class-rank policy. The policy states that class rank will be calculated by the final grade in all academic subjects, except those subjects for which no credit is awarded, and will not include failing grades. The testimony of several witnesses, including Ms. Balletto, Mr. Wolff and Dr. Romano, differed on what would be considered an "academic subject." Ms. Balletto was questioned about the document that spoke about courses that were not counted in the GPA. She stated that the document was not Board policy, and some of the courses on the list were not courses at all, but considered clubs by the Board. Mr. Ferguson was not charged, as part of his review, with determining what were academic as opposed to non-academic subjects.

Mr. Berman emphasized that he believed that every course taken by a student should count for credit. He brought the issue to the attention of six prior superintendents, but none of them wanted to deal with the issue. When he brought it to Dr. Bandlow's attention, the superintendent said that they would have to study the issue and take their recommendations to the Board. Mr. Berman held one meeting on the subject in December 2008, which Mr. Wolff attended. Following that meeting, Dr. Bandlow put together a formal committee to make recommendations to the Board. The recommendations included counting in the class rank all courses for which a student received a grade. To date, those recommendations have not been passed on by the Board.

According to the Organizational Chart of Personnel and Reporting Responsibilities, which was revised on September 8, 2008, the guidance counselors reported to the director of School Counseling Services, also known as the supervisor of Guidance. The supervisor of Guidance, who was on the same level as the principal of the high school, reported to the assistant superintendent. The director of Special Services also reported to the assistant superintendent of schools. The chart also showed that there was a dual reporting requirement of the guidance counselors to the supervisor of Guidance and to the principal of the high school. (The District did not produce the organizational chart that was in effect before that date, and Dr. Romano testified that he could not say what policy was in effect before, since he had not seen the prior organizational chart.) The guidance counselors reported to the supervisor of Guidance, who reported to the assistant superintendent. According to the job description that Mr. Berman received when he was first hired, he was required to supervise all administrative, professional, paraprofessional and non-professional personnel in the high school. This included the vice principals of the school. Mr. Berman testified that the supervisors of Guidance and Special Education never reported to him.

The Guidance office was housed in the high school in close proximity to the principal's office. It was Mr. Berman's testimony that he was in the Guidance office every day. Ms. Pettigrew claimed that Mr. Berman came into the Guidance office about once a week. Ms. Pettigrew said that Mr. Berman never asked to check the grade-change sheets, nor did she ask him about grade changes, because he was not part of the Guidance Department and he did not evaluate her. Ms. Stamoulis claimed that she never saw Mr. Berman coming down to the office to look at transcripts, and she only saw him come down to the Guidance office one or two times a year. Ms. Leon testified that she saw Mr. Berman in the Guidance office many times during the year, although she did not give an exact number of times per week or month. The secretaries claimed that prior to Dr. Romano becoming assistant superintendent, they had never seen an assistant superintendent in the Guidance office.

All of the secretaries testified that they received no formal training in how to perform their duties, but learned "on the job" by asking questions of their fellow secretaries or the guidance counselors.

After Ms. Appelbaum left her position as supervisor of Guidance in 2002, Margaret Brennan became the supervisor. She remained the supervisor for five years. Despite the fact that she held this position during the time that Ms. Meller instructed secretaries to change grades and decile rankings and alter report cards, she was never reprimanded. Nor did the District bring any other type of charges against her. According to Dr. Romano, he and Dr. Bandlow accepted Ms. Brennan's explanation that she was merely a "figurehead" and that Ms. Appelbaum continued to run the Guidance Department after she became vice principal.

There was no proof presented or testimony elicited that indicated that Mr. Berman had knowledge about Ms. Meller's illegal activities.

Sharon Amato, the supervisor of curriculum and instruction for English as a Second Language (ESL), Bilingual and World Language, spoke with Sun Kim, the lead ESL teacher, in September 2008 about the fact that she had been notified by the Department of Education that there were new rules promulgated. According to these rules, ESL students would no longer be permitted to take the High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA) in their native language.[3] Shortly thereafter, Ms. Kim gave Ms. Amato a list of five students (one student's name was later crossed out, leaving four students' names) who she was concerned were not making the level of progress needed to graduate the following year and to be successful on the HSPA. Ms. Amato asked Ms. Kim to check with the parents to see if they approved of placing their child back one year. Ms. Kim subsequently told her that she had spoken with the parents and four of them approved. Ms. Amato then went to Ms. Pettigrew with a list of students, and asked her to move the listed students from the eleventh grade back to the tenth grade. (Prior to this, it had always been a guidance counselor, with the authorization of the supervisor of Guidance, who would make such a request. However, at this time there was no supervisor of Guidance.) Ms. Pettigrew said that she needed authorization to make the change.

[3] Ms. Amato testified that previously an ESL student could take the Special Review Assessment (SRA) in his native language. She said, however, that at the time in question she had been notified by the Department of Education that students would have to take the SRA in English. Later she was informed that the Department had gone back to allowing the students to take the SRA in their native languages.

Ms. Amato approached Mr. Berman and told him that she wished to move the students back to the tenth grade on the recommendation of Ms. Kim and the approval of the parents. She said that two of the students were new registrants to the high school, and of the two other students, one had transferred in the prior year and the other had extremely poor language skills. She told Mr. Berman that the ESL teacher had said that the students were not prepared for the eleventh grade and that it would be cruel to subject them to the HSPA test. Ms. Amato felt that the change would benefit the students and was in their best interest. She felt that, besides having sufficient credit, ESL students needed to have certain skills and knowledge that were part of the State curriculum. Based on those criteria, she felt that it was in keeping with school policy to recommend that the students be put back to the tenth grade. Mr. Berman checked the students' records and saw that, while they had sufficient credits to be in the eleventh grade, in most of the cases the students were taking courses that would normally be taken in the ninth or tenth grades. In addition, three of the students were in the beginning ESL course, which was the lowest-level course for students who could speak and read very little English. One had not tested out of beginning ESL for three years. (Most students test out after one year.) Translating student transcripts from foreign schools to American schools is done by guidance counselors and is very subjective. Mr. Berman did not believe that it was right to be handing out diplomas to students who could not read, write or speak English. Mr. Berman approved the change based on his review of the transcripts and his interpretation of the District's promotion/retention policy, which "recognizes that, in general, students shall be placed at the grade level to which they are best suited academically, socially, emotionally and physically," and the final decision as to whether a child progresses to the next grade "will rest with school authorities." Mr. Berman viewed these statements to mean that if a student did not have the academic skills necessary then he should not be in a certain grade level simply because he had sufficient credits. The student should be academically suited for the grade. It was Mr. Berman's opinion that if the students progressed sufficiently by the end of the school year (2009), then they could be put into the twelfth grade for the next school year. There were no additional courses that the students would have to complete; rather, the decision on whether the student could be promoted would be based on how he performed in his ESL courses.

This was the first time that Mr. Berman had moved a student who was on the ESL track back a grade and the first time that Ms. Amato had asked to do so. Ms. Amato acknowledged that she did not ask for written consent from the parents to this change, and relied upon Ms. Kim's representation regarding the parents' wishes. Mr. Berman did not ask for any written authorization. Ms. Amato did not go through the proficiency requirements for the HSPA with Mr. Berman, nor did Mr. Berman ask her for this information.

The HSPA exam is first taken in the spring of the junior year, and if the student does not pass, then the exam is taken again in the fall of the senior year. If the student does not pass the second time, then he can take an SRA test, which is a test in which teacher assistance is permitted. A student who passes certain sections of the test but not others only has to retake the parts of the test that he has failed.[4] According to the "Guide to the HSPA" put out by the Department of Education, students with limited English are required to take the HSPA in the eleventh grade.[5]

The overall impact on the HSPA results of these four students not taking the test in March 2009 was negligible. Because of the small ESL population at the high school, they were not a significant subgroup in terms of the HSPA statistics. In addition, in the past the general education population at the high school had a 96 percent passing rate. Four students passing or failing would only affect the statistics by 1 or 2 percentage points.

Elizabeth Moreland became employed as an assistant principal for building management at Fort Lee High School in September 2008. She took over the job

[4] Mr. Berman asserted that passing the math part of the test required some degree of English proficiency.

[5] Mr. Wolff testified that the students in question were put back into the eleventh grade sometime in the spring of 2009 and took the HSPA test in March 2009. Dr. Romano disputed this, and said that while the students were put back into the eleventh grade, they were not moved in sufficient time to take the HSPA in March. According to him the students had only two chances to pass the test, and one of the students had not done so by the time of his testimony in the spring of 2010.

responsibilities of Robert Kravitz, who had left in June 2008. When she was hired, there was no director of Guidance. While it was not within her official duties, since there was no director of Guidance staff brought their issues and concerns regarding Guidance to her. Ms. Moreland reported to Mr. Berman and worked closely with him. Casey No Miller, the school psychologist, approached Ms. Moreland at the end of October 2008 and informed her that when she met with special education students to work on their college admissions applications, she had to calculate their GPAs by hand because the Genesis calculations were incorrect. She identified the fact that collaborative courses of special education students were not being counted toward their GPAs, and special education courses were easily identifiable. It is against the regulations for courses to be identifiable as "special education" on a transcript. Ms. Moreland told Mr. Berman about this situation. Mr. Berman immediately approved a change in the names of the special education courses, so that they would not be identifiable, and also told Ms. Moreland to contact Genesis to see what steps had to be taken to recalculate the GPAs to include the collaborative special education classes.[6] At the direction of Mr. Berman, Ms. Moreland also spoke to Cheryl Best, the head of curriculum and instruction in the District, and Drs. Romano and Bandlow. Dr. Romano also instructed Ms. Moreland to make the appropriate changes in the Genesis system. The supervisor of Special Education for the District was not notified of this problem in the Genesis reporting system. Ms. Moreland had to go back into the system, from 2004 forward, to revise the course names and GPAs. In her search she found out that other elective courses and ESL courses were also not included in the GPAs.

The period of June 16–20, 2008, was examination week at Fort Lee High School. Seniors were only required to come to school during that week if they had an examination to take. If a senior was scheduled to take an examination and did not appear for it, then he was marked absent. All other seniors were not marked absent if they did not come to school because they did not have an examination. This way of marking absences had been the policy before Mr. Berman came to the high school and remained in force throughout the time that he was the principal. Mr. Berman was never informed by prior superintendents that this practice was incorrect and that another designation should be placed in the Genesis system to show that seniors were excused from attending school during this period of time or that they had to attend school even though they did not have a scheduled exam.

Prior to the Genesis computer system being installed at the high school, grades were recorded in a system called Asbury Park. In that system the director of Guidance signed the students' transcripts. Once the school switched to the Genesis system, the transcripts had the principal's signature on them. Mr. Berman called Genesis to see if the signature could be changed to that of the director of Guidance. He was told that it could not be changed. Initially he had the transcripts brought to his office for them to be stamped with his signature. However, this became a cumbersome and time-consuming exercise. Therefore, a stamp was given to the supervisor of Guidance, Ms. Brennan, who gave it to the head secretary, Marcia Leon. The signature stamp was supposed to have been stored in Ms. Leon's desk, which was to be kept locked.

Frank Palatucci, principal of Highland Regional High School in Blackwood, N.J., has been a principal for a total of twenty-seven years and was formerly the president of the New Jersey Principals and Supervisors Association. According to Palatucci, it was the practice in his school for transcripts to be signed with a signature stamp. The stamped signature of the director of Guidance went on all student transcripts. Mr. Palatucci does not review the transcripts, nor does the supervisor of Guidance, because of the volume of transcripts that is generated.[7] It is the responsibility of the individual guidance counselors to review the transcripts to make sure that they are correct. Mr. Palatucci's signature stamp, which is used on each diploma, is kept in his secretary's locked drawer. The director of Guidance's signature stamp is also kept in the secretary's locked drawer.

When Mr. Berman started at Fort Lee High School, there was no written plan in place for how fire drills or other emergency evacuations should be conducted. Mr. Berman got a committee together to develop a plan. The plan was distributed to every faculty member and was reissued each school year. According to the plan, all staff and pupils were to leave the building as soon as the alarm sounded. Three secretaries in the main office stayed behind to call the police and fire departments to notify them that it was not a real emergency, but only a drill. In addition, the secretaries "interfaced" with the head custodian, who rang the alarms and monitored the telephones. All of the rest of the staff and students were to leave the building. Mr. Berman walked around the building to make sure that everyone had left and that there was no talking in the halls. In September 2008, Ms. Moreland received inquiries from teachers wanting to know if they had to evacuate the building in the case of a drill. There were also questions about fire-drill protocol. Ms. Moreland sent out a memo to staff reminding them of the fire-drill policy and protocol, which included evacuation of the building.

During the time that Dr. Romano was acting principal, after tenure charges were brought against Mr. Berman, he conducted fire drills. On two occasions, while he was checking the halls, he found faculty members and staff in the building during the drill. He claimed that they told him that Mr. Berman had told them that they did not have to evacuate the building during the drills.

During Mr. Berman's approximately seven years as principal of Fort Lee High School he never received an evaluation that said that he needed improvement in any area, nor did he ever receive any form of discipline. In 2002 he received a special merit increment. In April 2007 the Middle States Association[8] evaluated Fort Lee High School. Middle States issued a report which stated that "under the direction of Mr. Berman and his very competent administrative team, Fort Lee High School has made significant improvements in many areas." The report discussed the fact that the population in the community had changed from upper-middle-class students, many of whom were of Japanese and Korean descent, to a more working-class population with a higher concentration of Hispanic students. The report noted that many teachers credited Mr. Berman with responding positively to the changing demographics. The report also noted that Mr. Berman was always looking for new programs and was supportive of innovative programs.

[8] The Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools is a group of school administrators who come to high schools and evaluate the academic standards of the school.

Mr. Berman's last action plan had as one of his goals improvement of the HSPA scores of the Hispanic students to a 74 percent passing rate. In the 2006–2007 school year only 50 percent of the Hispanic students who took the HSPA test in the eleventh grade passed. Mr. Berman instituted a program where, in addition to the regular math classes, students who were in lower-level math in the eleventh grade would take a second period of math. As a result, in the 2007–2008 school year 71.8 percent of the Hispanic students taking the HSPA passed the math portion of the test.

According to a report to the Board of Education outlining the incidents of vandalism, violence, weapons possession, substance abuse, police reports and police complaints at Fort Lee High School during the period from March 3 through June 30 2008, while Mr. Berman was principal, and the same period in 2009, when Dr. Romano was principal, there was a 69.6 percent decrease in the number of instances of violence, vandalism, weapons possession and substance abuse from twenty-three to seven from 2008 to 2009. The number of instances requiring a police report decreased 82.6 percent, from twenty-three to four, and the number of police complaints decreased 90 percent, from twenty to two. While the drop was not as dramatic, there also had been a steady decline in the incidents of vandalism, violence, weapons possession and substance abuse from eighty-six reported cases in 2006–2007 to seventy-two reported cases in 2007–2008.

In 2008 there was an incident in which it was brought to Dr. Bandlow's attention that there were pictures of Jennifer Viti, one of the assistant vice principals at the High School, on Facebook, a social-networking website. She had a beer in her hand and was in a provocative pose. In a meeting with Ms. Viti, Dr. Bandlow and Dr. Romano, Mr. Berman said that he was shocked by the pictures and knew nothing about the Facebook page. In another incident, Louis Pagano, a substance abuse counselor, was accused of inappropriate behavior with a student in the high school. The original charges stemmed from incidents that occurred prior to Dr. Bandlow's and Dr. Romano's tenure at Fort Lee. At that time, Mr. Pagano was warned not to have contact with the student. When Dr. Bandlow and Dr. Romano became superintendents there was another incident involving a younger sister of the first student. In a meeting with

Dr. Bandlow and Dr. Romano regarding these new charges, Mr. Berman stated that he was shocked and disappointed and knew nothing about the new allegations. He pointed out, however, that since Mr. Pagano was not under his supervision, but rather reported to the assistant superintendent, there was nothing that he could do about it.

Prior to Dr. Bandlow becoming superintendent of Fort Lee schools, Joanne Calabro held the position. Mr. Berman had had a good relationship with Ms. Calabro until some students pointed out to him that she had plagiarized a speech she gave to the National Honor Society inductees. Mr. Berman called Ms. Calabro about the speech and his students' reactions. Pressure was put on the Board of Education not to renew Ms. Calabro's contract. Ms. Calabro asked Mr. Berman, as president of the administrators and supervisors association, to support her before the Board. The association convened a meeting and issued a vote of "no confidence" against Ms. Calabro. Ms. Calabro's contract was not renewed. Following this, the relationship between Calabro and Berman soured.

Ms. Appelbaum retired at the end of February 2008. Prior to her retirement, Mr. Kravitz, who had been a teacher of business education, was appointed to fill her position of vice principal. He shadowed her from November 2007 until March 2008, when he assumed the vice principal position. As part of his duties he was responsible for putting the students' schedules together for the following year, which was to be completed by July. Mr. Berman met with Mr. Kravitz and went over the broad outlines of what needed to be done for the scheduling. However, he did not go into detail and did not work with him in conjunction with the Genesis system. Mr. Kravitz had to deal with that himself. Mr. Berman called Superintendent Calabro and recommended that Ms. Appelbaum be called in as a consultant to assist Mr. Kravitz. He also asked Mr. Kravitz if he would like Ms. Appelbaum's assistance in making up the schedule. Unbeknownst to Mr. Berman, Ms. Calabro had told Mr. Kravitz that she did not want to pay Ms. Appelbaum the exorbitant amount of money that she wanted to work as a consultant on the project. Mr. Kravitz told Mr. Berman that he had the scheduling under control, and Ms. Calabro told Mr. Berman that she had talked to Mr. Kravitz and he felt that he could handle the scheduling himself. Mr. Berman was not available for consultation during the month of July, when he was on vacation. The guidance counselors, other than Ms. Meller, came in over the summer to assist Mr. Kravitz. In the interim, Mr. Kravitz had been appointed principal of an elementary school in the District. At the end of July, Mr. Kravitz presented the schedules to Mr. Berman and said that they were ready to be mailed out. When Ms. Meller came in during August, she claimed that there were problems with the scheduling and brought the problems to Mr. Berman's attention. Mr. Berman asked Ms. Meller and Ms. Acosta to clean up the problems. While most of the issues were resolved by the time school began, there were still some scheduling problems after the start of the semester. It is not clear whether these problems were the result of mistakes on Mr. Kravitz's part or whether the problems resulted from Ms. Meller meddling with the class assignments. Some parents called to complain about scheduling issues. By this time Dr. Bandlow had been appointed superintendent and was aware of the problems. He blamed Mr. Berman for not handling the situation effectively.

According to Dr. Romano, the incidents involving Ms. Viti, Mr. Pagano and Mr. Kravitz all made Dr. Bandlow question Mr. Berman's ability to be an effective principal. He believed that Mr. Berman was always making excuses for himself. According to Dr. Romano, the incident involving Meller changing grades was "the straw that broke the camel's back."

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES AND ANALYSIS OF THE LAW

1. Tenure Charges

The tenure of education personnel is authorized by the Education Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18. According to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, no person under tenure of office, position, or employment shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. Tenure is a status in a particular position created by statute, not the agreement of the parties, therefore, it is a "'statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment' . . . [that] may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982) (quoting Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), cert. denied, 371 U.S. 956, 83 S. Ct. 508, 9 L. Ed. 2d 502 (1963), and citing Red Bank Educ. Ass'n v.

Red Bank Bd. of Educ., 78 N.J. 122, 141 (1978)). Tenure was designed to protect employees "from dismissal 'for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons.'" Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of E. Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 (1985) (citing Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 71). Lack of fitness is usually demonstrated by a series of incidents, but it also may be found when there is a single incident that is sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326, 327 (E. & A. 1944). While tenure was designed to protect employees, teachers are responsible to act in a professional manner and to serve the welfare of the students in their care. In the final agency decision in In re Tenure Hearing of Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321, the Commissioner stated:

> [T]he teachers of this State . . . are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. As one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of the children, who are compelled to attend the public schools, the teacher is an enormous force for improving the public weal.

Among the charges lodged against Mr. Berman was "conduct unbecoming." This conduct was defined by the administrative law judge in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Motley, State-Operated School District of Newark, Essex County, EDU 7421-97, Initial Decision (May 5, 1999), aff'd as modified, Comm'r (August 4, 1999), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (December 1, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>:

> "Unbecoming conduct" is an elastic term broadly defined to include any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and [confidence] in the operation of [public] services." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct "need not be predicated upon a violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon a violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of what is morally and legally correct. Hartmann v. Police Dep't of

> Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 22, 40 (App. Div. 1992). Despite the apparent vagueness of this standard, "it fairly and adequately conveys its meaning to all concerned." Laba v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957). In the context of a school tenure case, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

It is the obligation of the District to prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. The Commissioner, in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Grundfest, School District of Madison, Morris County, EDU 5326-98, Comm'r (June 20, 2000), rev'g Initial Decision (March 29, 2000), aff'd, St. Bd. (November 1, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, outlined what a board of education had to prove in order to meet its burden in a tenure charge:

> Sustaining tenure charges for unbecoming conduct, however, is a very serious matter. The ramifications for respondent would be not only the loss of his tenured employment, but also the automatic referral of the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his teaching certificate, and the possible loss of his pension benefits. Since the penalty for respondent would be severe, it is the Board's responsibility and its burden to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence [the tenure charges against respondent].

As the District acknowledges in the instant case, the primary basis for the tenure charges lodged against Mr. Berman is that as the "captain of the ship" he was "asleep at the switch while illegal, inappropriate and discriminatory actions were taking place at the Fort Lee High School—Berman's responsibility." The District alleges that because Mr. Berman had a close relationship with Leslie Appelbaum, the former director of Guidance whom he had recommended for the position of vice principal of the high school, and Ms. Appelbaum had knowledge of Ms. Meller's illegal activities, Mr. Berman must have known about these illegal activities. In the alternative, as principal, Mr. Berman should have been aware of the illegal activities. As a result of his failure to fulfill his supervisory responsibilities and his lack of oversight, "he permitted an atmosphere of corruption to exist." As was stated above, I found no evidence that

Mr. Berman had any knowledge about Ms. Meller's doctoring of transcripts and report cards prior to Ms. Meller coming to Mr. Berman in February 2009 and the subsequent discovery of her illegal activities. Further, other than testimony that Mr. Berman and Ms. Appelbaum had a long-standing cordial relationship, as did Ms. Appelbaum with Ms. Meller, there was not one shred of evidence that Mr. Berman knew about Ms. Meller's actions. A finding of guilt by a preponderance of the credible evidence certainly cannot be sustained based on nothing more than supposition and rumor.

The argument that as principal of the school Mr. Berman should have been aware of the illegal activities and that his lack of oversight and negligence in fulfilling his supervisory responsibilities led to these wrongdoings is a more viable argument. However, there are problems with this position as well. In the first place, there is a real question as to what authority Mr. Berman had over the Guidance Department. The District presented an organizational chart that showed a chain of command from the guidance counselors to the director of school counseling and up to the assistant superintendent. There is another line which goes from the director of school counseling over to the principal of the high school as well. However, this chart is dated "Revised 9-08-8." This was only five months prior to the discovery of Ms. Meller's longstanding illegal activities. There were no documents presented or testimony elicited from the District as to the chain of command prior to that time. Mr. Berman testified that he never supervised the Guidance staff, and in fact had protested to prior and present superintendents that there was organizational dysfunction, because none of the supervisors reported to him, even though they were housed in his high school.[9] The testimony bore out the fact that Mr. Berman did not have a say in the selection of the supervisors, nor did he evaluate the supervisors or the people under the supervisors, including the members of the Guidance Department. As the testimony of Mr. Wolff demonstrated, he did not copy Mr. Berman on his e-mail to staff regarding changing of grades because he did not think about it. Certainly, if the director of student counseling thought that he was accountable to the principal of the school he would have copied him on an important e-mail about changing of grades. He sent this e-mail to Dr. Romano, whom he recognized as his superior, but not to the principal of the school.

[9] The District pointed to a negative letter that Mr. Berman wrote to the superintendent advocating that Ms. Brennan not receive tenure. The District said this contradicted Mr. Berman's assertion that he had no control over the Guidance Department. However, if Mr. Berman really had some form of control over Guidance, he could have blocked Ms. Brennan's tenure directly. As it was, Ms. Brennan received tenure despite Mr. Berman's protestations.

As another sign that Mr. Berman was not performing his duties as "captain of the ship," the District alleged that Mr. Wolff, who had only been a supervisor of Guidance for a short time, discovered that Ms. Meller had been changing grades, while Mr. Berman, who had been principal for seven years, had not discovered this illegal activity. This allegation is a distortion of the facts. There is no evidence that Mr. Wolff initiated an investigation about doctoring of grades, etc., prior to Ms. Meller's asking him if she could change a grade. Mr. Wolff did not discover that Ms. Meller was changing grades; rather, Ms. Meller brought this situation to his attention by asking him if she could do so. In the same vein, the District has alleged that the way that Mr. Berman responded to Ms. Meller's request to "average a student's grade" was another indication that he was acquiescing to the practice of grade changing or he was failing to properly supervise his staff. I cannot reach such a conclusion from the testimony presented. There were no proofs presented that Mr. Berman said that he approved Ms. Meller's request. Rather, in line with his testimony that he believed that the supervisor of Guidance had authority over the guidance counselors, Mr. Berman took Ms. Meller immediately to Mr. Wolff and made her repeat her request. When Mr. Wolff said that it was illegal and she could not change grades, Mr. Berman did not protest, but rather concurred in the supervisor's opinion. Whether another administrator would have handled the situation differently is certainly not proof that Mr. Berman in any way condoned Ms. Meller's actions or was promoting illegal activity in the school or was failing to supervise the high school staff.

The District has asserted that the doctoring of transcripts and report cards (approximately six per year) was done openly, and if Mr. Berman had been in the Guidance office as often as he claimed to have been he would have discovered what was going on. There certainly was conflicting testimony as to how often Mr. Berman was in the Guidance office. However, all of the secretaries who testified opined that Ms. Brennan, who supervised that office for five to six years and whose office was in the Guidance Department, was not aware of the grade changing, etc. If Ms. Brennan, who supervised the department, was not aware, then why should Mr. Berman, who had a whole high school to supervise, be charged with the knowledge that this activity was going on or be held responsible for finding out that doctoring was occurring?

I also find it strange that the District accepted without question Ms. Brennan's representation that she was a mere figurehead and, therefore, she was not responsible for what occurred on her watch. Based on this representation, the District took no further action against her, even though she was the direct supervisor of Ms. Meller. Yet the District has lodged tenure charges against Mr. Berman, who, at best, was indirectly involved with Ms. Meller. The District also took no action against the secretaries who did the actual doctoring of the report cards and transcripts. While I can understand the District's position that the secretaries were only following orders, it would seem that some type of discipline, however minor, would have been appropriate. Yet it is the inconsistent testimony of these secretaries as to the amount of time that Mr. Berman spent in the Guidance office that forms an important part of the District's case.[10]

The District pointed to Mr. Berman's employment contract, which said that he was responsible to ensure that student record-keeping procedures were followed and the records were safely stored. It was the District's position that Mr. Berman took the path of least resistance and simply trusted that staff duties were being performed correctly, when in reality something went terribly wrong. Ms. Meller was able to alter transcripts over a period of time because of the lack of oversight and the failure to monitor the system. As such, Mr. Berman gave tacit approval to Ms. Meller to change grade-point-average deciles or alter student transcripts. The District also seems to assert that if Mr. Berman had been checking the transcripts on a regular basis he would have discovered the doctoring of the transcripts. It seems clear from the evidence presented that Mr. Berman was far from an expert on the computer system. He relied on staff to generate transcripts, which he reviewed, and he was not familiar enough with the system to train Mr. Kravitz or Ms. Moreland on how to operate it. However, the question really is whether, even if Mr. Berman had been more conversant in Genesis, he would have discovered the illegal activity that was occurring. The testimony revealed that most of the grade changes were not occurring in the Genesis system itself, but rather occurred after the transcript was printed out. At that point the secretaries, on the instructions of Ms. Meller, whited-out grades and deciles and changed them. Report cards were also doctored, but that was also accomplished through whiteout and covering up a marking period of courses and grades and then recopying the card. Unless a person physically reviewed each transcript and report generated from Genesis and compared it with the transcript or report sent to the colleges or employers, there would be no way of uncovering the manipulation that occurred. A number of individuals testified that more than 1,000 transcripts went out in a given year. Certainly, a principal who was responsible for managing a high school with more than 1,000 students could not also be held responsible for reviewing all of the transcripts and report cards that were sent out by the Guidance Department. Mr. Palatucci, who was a long-term principal of a high school that was approximately the same size as Fort Lee High School, testified that he did not review the transcripts sent out, and neither did the director of Guidance, because the transcripts were just too voluminous. Even as to any grade changes that were registered in Genesis, reviewing all of the transcripts would appear to be a job for the director of Guidance, not the principal of the school. Yet, that person was not held responsible in any way for the criminal activity of the guidance counselor.

The District has claimed that one of the reasons that Ms. Meller was able to initiate and continue her illegal activities was that Mr. Berman did not keep his signature stamp in a safe place. As a result, it was available to anyone in the Guidance Department to be used for illegal and improper purposes. There was uncontroverted testimony from Mr. Berman that under the prior computer system it was the supervisor of Guidance, rather than the principal, whose signature went on the transcripts. Mr. Berman inquired of Genesis personnel whether the signature could be changed back to that of the supervisor of Guidance. He was told that it could not. Initially the transcripts were physically brought over to Mr. Berman's office for his stamped signature. However, the process was cumbersome and time consuming and so a signature stamp was left in the Guidance office; the stamp was supposed to be kept in a locked drawer by Ms. Leon. Since the transcripts were generated and sent out by the Guidance Department, it would be natural for that office to have the signature stamp. There was testimony by Dr. Romano that on at least two occasions he saw the stamp lying out on a desk in the Guidance office. The problem here is that the charges are not that some unauthorized stranger used the stamp. The stamp was used by Guidance Department personnel at the direction of a professional in the Guidance Department who was acting in an unprofessional manner. While the District seems to allege that Mr. Berman was derelict in his duties by relying on professionals to perform their duties in a professional and responsible fashion, Dr. Romano, when questioned as to whether he followed up with Ms. Moreland about a correction in the Genesis system regarding special education grades, stated that he did not follow up because he relied on her professionalism to complete the job as required. However, Mr. Berman apparently was not supposed to rely on the professionalism of the Guidance Department staff to use the stamp in an appropriate manner.

The District also accused Mr. Berman of failing to take proper care of student records. As part of this charge the District pointed to the finding of Mr. Ferguson, an accountant with Ferraioli, Wielkotz, Cerullo & Cuva, PA, who did a compliance review of student records for the period of July 1, 2005, to June 30, 2008. According to Mr. Ferguson, he was charged with investigating whether the policies and procedures of the District had been followed with regard to record-keeping. However, Mr. Ferguson testified that he was never given a copy of the policies and procedures that were supposed to be the basis of his investigation, because the policies and procedures could not be found. Rather, he sat down with Drs. Bandlow and Romano and they informed him of the District's policies and procedures. These were the guidelines that he used in conducting his investigation. In his report Mr. Ferguson stated that all 2007–2008 transcripts had been destroyed and were apparently shredded. However, during the hearing it became clear that Mr. Ferguson had no firsthand knowledge of this shredding. Rather, he could not locate the files.[11] Someone, though he could not recall who, told him that the files had been shredded. He then memorialized this in his report and it became a "fact." The problem is that there was no testimony of anyone that they saw the records being shredded. In addition, there was testimony that Ms. Meller remained on the staff after Mr. Berman had been terminated. She had already received a reprimand and was under suspicion for additional charges. Certainly, she had motivation to shred records, if they were in fact shredded. There was no testimony as to what steps Dr. Bandlow or Dr. Romano took to ensure the integrity of the student records while Ms. Meller remained at the school. Under these circumstances, the alleged shredding of records cannot be blamed on the negligence of Mr. Berman in failing to properly secure student records. As for Mr. Ferguson's finding that many of the grade-scale adjustments did not have the proper grade-change approval slip, Mr. Berman pointed out that the records should have been in the Guidance office in locked file drawers under the main counter. Mr. Berman did not have a key to this lock. It would seem to have been the responsibility of the supervisor of Guidance, in whose office the student records were supposed to be kept under lock and key, rather than that of Mr. Berman. If certain grade-change approval slips were missing, then why did Mr. Ferguson not ask Mr. Wolff or Ms. Brennan where these slips would be? They were the people in charge of the Guidance office and the files that were kept in the office.

Mr. Ferguson also found that "over 50% of 2006–07 senior year and weighted GPAs recorded on the transcripts did not agree to the GPAs shown in the Genesis Education System." However, after narrowing the scope, "only one of the individual grade GPAs did not agree, but all of the weighted GPAs on the transcripts tested did not agree to the weighted GPAs shown in the Genesis Education System." What became clear during the testimony was that Mr. Ferguson had not been made aware of the grading change that had occurred during the 2006–2007 school year, when plus and minus signs were added to grades. On cross-examination, Mr. Ferguson acknowledged that this change in the grading system could explain why the grades that he retrieved from the Genesis system at the time that he did his review differed from the earlier hard copies that he found in the guidance counselors' folders for the students. It was also clear from Mr. Ferguson's testimony that he was not aware that a grade in an honors course was given more weight than the same grade in a non-honors course.

Mr. Ferguson also found that not all core-curriculum courses were included in the student's GPA calculation per the Curriculum Report (i.e., Physical Education). The testimony clearly demonstrated that there was a wide disparity of opinion as to what courses should have been included in the GPA calculation. The policy on class rank stated:

> Class rank will be calculated by the final grade in all academic subjects, except those subjects for which no credit is awarded, and will not include failing grades. Weighted credit will be calculated for grades earned in advanced placement and honors courses. The class ranking of a pupil who has transferred to this district will include the grades earned in the regular program of the prior school.

The question became what constituted an academic subject. According to the testimony of Mr. Wolff and Dr. Romano, any course for which a student earned credit was an academic course. Mr. Wolff had put together a list of 140 courses that should have been included in the GPA. Yet, when Ms. Balletto testified, she pointed out that a number of courses on the list were considered clubs and were not sanctioned courses according to the Board of Education. The issue of which classes are to be included in the GPA seems yet to be decided, and no updated class-rank policy was introduced in evidence.[12] Mr. Berman presented uncontroverted testimony that he did not agree with Policy 5430, Class Rank, and had taken his concerns to six prior superintendents, none of whom wanted to tackle the issue because it involved the Board of Education. When he took his concerns to Dr. Bandlow, the superintendent said that the matter had to be studied and a recommendation made to the Board. Mr. Wolff testified that prior to his formally assuming his position at Fort Lee, he was asked to attend a meeting conducted by Mr. Berman that involved the issue of what courses should be included in the GPA. Later, Mr. Wolff was given the job by the superintendent of putting together a list of courses that were presently not counted toward the GPA, and helping to form a committee of professionals and citizens to study the issue. Certainly, there was nothing in the testimony presented that demonstrated that Mr. Berman was derelict in dealing with the GPA issue.

A more thorny issue is the charges surrounding discriminatory practice toward special education students. The District alleged:

> The High School during Berman's tenure had long had a discriminatory stance toward special education students.

[12] Policy 5430, Class Rank, was adopted on December 20, 1999.

> Grades from special education courses were specifically excluded from the GPAs of students in the special education program. Only the grades that they received in their regular education classes were counted.

The charge arose out of the testimony of Ms. Moreland and Dr. Romano. Ms. Moreland testified that Ms. No Miller, a school psychologist, brought it to the vice principal's attention, shortly after she assumed her position in October 2008, that the grades that special education students received for collaborative courses were not counting toward their GPAs.[13] Ms. No Miller also pointed out that the law prohibited any demarcation on a transcript that signaled that a student was taking special education courses. Some of the special education courses listed in Genesis were clearly designated as special education courses. Ms. Moreland testified that normally Ms. No Miller's concerns would have been brought to the attention of the supervisor of Guidance, but at the time there was no acting supervisor, so Ms. No Miller came to Ms. Moreland for advice, even though Ms. Moreland was not charged with responsibility for this area of education. After her conversation with Ms. No Miller, Ms. Moreland spoke with Mr. Berman, who told her to contact Genesis and fix the problem, because special education collaborative courses had to be counted and the law had to be followed. Ms. Moreland also discussed the problem with Dr. Romano, who gave her similar advice.

The District alleged that as a result of Mr. Berman's not doing his job correctly, regular education students' class ranking was artificially raised at the expense of the students in the special education program, and the special education students were systematically denied the opportunity to improve their GPAs and class rank. This allegation assumes that the special education students' class rank would have improved with the addition of their grades from collaborative courses. There was no evidence presented to substantiate this position, and it could also be that the students' grades in collaborative courses were lower than in other courses and could have brought down their GPAs and class rank. Be that as it may, the courses should have been included and demarcated in such a way that they did not alert anyone reading a transcript that the courses were for special education students. Certainly, if Mr. Berman had been more familiar with Genesis this glitch in the system might have been discovered earlier.[14] However, it is interesting that the District never brought its concerns about the special education courses to the attention of the supervisor of Special Education. Certainly, it was that person who was primarily responsible to ensure that special education students' credits were properly recorded and that courses were listed in conformity with special education law. In addition, Dr. Romano acknowledged that special education fell under the exclusive control of the director of Special Education. Child Study Team members reported to the director, who in turn reported to the assistant superintendent. Guidance Department witnesses made it clear that they were told that they should have nothing to do with special education students, including assisting them in their college applications, because this was the domain of the Special Education Department. It appears somewhat suspect, given this chain of command, that Mr. Berman, rather than the supervisor of Special Education, is being charged with discriminatory practices for failure to have special education students' course credits included in the students' GPAs.

The District's next argument involves HSPA testing. The District alleged that New Jersey law requires that all eleventh-grade students take the HSPA.[15] Mr. Berman circumvented State law requirements by authorizing four students to be moved from the eleventh grade to the tenth grade in order to avoid them having to take the HSPA exam. According to the District, the motivation for allowing this move was that, if these students took the test and failed, this would bring down the overall test scores for the high school. It had been one of the goals of Mr. Berman's Professional Growth Plan to improve the instruction for ESL and bilingual students, especially Hispanic students, in preparation for their taking the math portion of the HSPA. Demoting ESL students from the eleventh grade to the tenth grade was an attempt to accomplish the goal without actually providing the necessary curriculum changes.[16] Dr. Romano testified that as long as a student had sufficient credits, he should be kept in the grade that matched his credits. In addition, he pointed out that the HSPA manual specifically stated that ESL students were not exempt from taking the test, although accommodations could be made for the ESL student. The District asserted that, as a result of Mr. Berman's actions, these four students missed an opportunity to take the HSPA in the spring of 2009; they were only given two, instead of three, bites at the apple. At least one of the students, as of the spring of 2010, had not passed the HSPA test, which was required for graduation from high school.[17]

[14] There was testimony that the Genesis system had check marks that were activated next to a course name that indicated whether the course was to be calculated in the GPA.

According to the testimony elicited from Sharon Amato, the supervisor of curriculum and instruction for ESL, Bilingual and World Languages, she had initially spoken to Sun Kim, a senior ESL teacher, in September 2008 about the fact that the Department of Education would no longer permit an ESL student to take the HSPA test in the student's native language.[18] Following this conversation, Ms. Kim expressed concern about certain students' ability to succeed, and gave Ms. Amato a list of four students whom she wanted to move back to the tenth grade. Ms. Amato then approached Ms. Pettigrew with a note with four students' names written on it,[19] and asked her to move the students from the eleventh grade to the tenth grade. Ms. Pettigrew testified that she would not make the change without written authorization. At the time there was no supervisor of Guidance, so Ms. Amato went to Mr. Berman to ask for his approval. She explained to Mr. Berman, after speaking with Ms. Kim about the testing changes, that for the sake of the students it would be better to place the students in the tenth grade to improve their language skills. According to Mr. Berman, he approved this change because he thought that the move would be in the students' best interest. He believed that students should not receive a high school diploma if they cannot read and write English. The fact that the Guidance Department had deemed that the students had sufficient credits to be in the eleventh grade was not the complete story. He referred to the District's promotion/retention policy, which stated: "High school students may not move to the next grade level unless they have satisfactorily completed the required number of credits as specified in the regulation of this policy. Parents/guardians will be notified whenever exceptions are contemplated in [17] Dr. Romano testified that Mr. Wolff was incorrect when he testified that the students were able to take the HSPA in March 2009. There is no question that the students were placed back in the eleventh grade at some point in the spring of 2009. Their courses were not changed because they moved back a grade in October 2008.

[18] It was actually the SRA test given to students in the spring of their senior year that Ms. Amato was told could not be given in a student's native language. Students were permitted to use a translation dictionary, and instructions could be given in their native language. The policy was again changed and students are permitted to take the SRA in their native languages.

[19] There was another name on the note, which had been crossed out at some point.

a student's normal progression from level to level. The final decision in all cases will rest with school authorities." (Emphasis added.) Both Ms. Amato and Mr. Berman confirmed that they had the parents' permission to make this change. Ms. Amato also testified that she considered other factors besides the number of credits that the students had earned when recommending that they be placed back a grade. Namely, she pointed to another portion of the promotion/retention policy that said that "students shall be placed at the grade level to which they are best suited academically, socially, emotionally and physically." Mr. Berman testified that two of the four students were new to the United States; one had transferred from another school one year earlier; and the other, who had been in the high school for several years, was extremely low functioning in language skills. Mr. Berman also emphasized that despite the number of credits that the students had accumulated, almost all the courses that they were taking at the time were ninth- and tenth-grade courses rather than eleventh-grade offerings. During cross-examination, Dr. Romano acknowledged that a majority of the courses that these students were taking were usually scheduled for students in their freshman or sophomore years.

Ms. Amato testified that she had never made a request of this nature before, and Mr. Berman acknowledged that he had never before been asked to demote ESL students in this way. When I questioned Ms. Amato and Mr. Berman as to the purpose of moving the students back a grade if their courses were not being changed, they both stated that since the students were basically taking ESL courses there would be no course change from one grade to another. Basically it was the amount of time that the students would be exposed to ESL-style learning. If the students were able to progress with the ESL instruction to the next level, then they would be ready to enter the twelfth grade by the end of the school year. If not, they would remain in the ESL program for an additional year.

The testimony certainly presented a difference of philosophy between Dr. Romano and Ms. Amato and Mr. Berman as to what the criteria is for placing a student in a particular grade. There was also contradictory testimony from Ms. Pettigrew, who claimed that when she asked Mr. Berman why the students were being put back, he said that he was doing this because the students were recent entrants to the school and were ESL students with limited English ability, and they would most likely not be able to pass the HSPA and would need more time to gain proficiency. As a result of these contradictions, I am left to question the motivation for placing these students back a grade. The District opined that the motivation was the fact that Mr. Berman had been told that he needed to improve the Hispanic students' math HSPA results and the ESL students' scores on the HSPA. By demoting these students a grade, the students would not have to take the test, and their potentially low scores would not be reflected in the school's statistics. However, this hypothesis was refuted by the testimony of Mr. Berman and a document from the Department of Education website captioned "High School Proficiency Assessment Mathematics: 2007–08." According to Mr. Berman's testimony, which was bolstered by the exhibit, there would be little or no impact from these students not taking the HSPA. The ESL population at Fort Lee has never been statistically significant enough to be counted as a subgroup for the HSPA results. In addition, the general education population at the high school had previously had a 96 percent passing rate. Even if these four ESL students took the test and all failed, it would only make a 1 or 2 percentage-point difference in the passing rate, which was well above the state average. Based on the credible testimony presented, it appears that Mr. Berman's motivation for approving the movement of the four HSPA students back a grade was not to circumvent the State law requirements for the HSPA, but to attempt to provide a meaningful education for these students and prepare them to function in an English-speaking society.

As for the Hispanic students, Dr. Romano claimed that Mr. Berman failed to meet the goal in his action plan to improve their math scores in the HSPA up to 74 percent from the prior 50 percent passage rate. Mr. Berman testified that in an effort to improve these students' HSPA scores, he instituted support math classes in addition to the regular math classes. On the 2007–2008 HSPA examination, the Hispanic students' pass rate increased to 71.8 percent. While it is true that Mr. Berman did not meet the 74 percent goal outlined in the action plan, it can hardly be seen as a failure that the passage rate for Hispanic students on the math HSPA was raised almost 22 percentage points.

The District has also charged Mr. Berman with failing to adhere to critical safety requirements. It is the District's contention that Mr. Berman allowed staff members, including a supervisor, to remain in the building during fire drills. After Mr. Berman was terminated, Dr. Romano took over as acting principal. He testified that during two fire drills in March, while he was patrolling the halls of the school, he discovered staff members who had not evacuated. When questioned, they stated that Mr. Berman had not required them to leave the building during fire drills.

Mr. Berman responded that there was nothing to indicate that he violated the statute relating to fire drills, which does not say that the building has to be totally evacuated, but rather requires all teachers "to keep all doors and exits of their respective rooms and buildings unlocked during the school hours." N.J.S.A. 18A:41-1. Mr. Berman testified that when he first came to the school there were no written procedures regarding what should be done in case of a fire drill or other emergency procedure. He convened a committee to develop a plan, and that plan was reissued each year that he was principal of the school. The plan called for all staff and pupils to leave the school as soon as the alarm sounded. He also stated that three secretaries in the main office and the head custodian remained in the building to handle the calling of the police and fire departments and the ringing of the reentry bell. Mr. Berman said that he would walk around the building during fire drills to make sure that everyone had evacuated. Mr. Berman said that he was shocked to hear Dr. Romano's description of what occurred during the March fire drills that he conducted.

In deciding this issue, I found the testimony of Ms. Moreland most persuasive. As proof that Mr. Berman was not enforcing the evacuation policy, the District pointed to Ms. Moreland's testimony that when she first came to the high school she found staff members in the faculty room during a fire drill. In fact, Ms. Moreland stated that after she saw that staff was remaining behind, she made sure that the written policy on fire drills was issued again. This occurred in the fall of 2008. Yet in the spring of 2009 staff was still claiming that they did not have to exit the school. It appears to me that these staff members, who were caught red-handed by Dr. Romano, used Mr. Berman as an excuse. He was not there to contradict their assertion of permission. However, their statements contradict both Mr. Berman and Ms. Moreland's testimony that there was a written policy that people exit the building during fire drills, and they checked to be sure the policy was enforced.

The District also pointed to a report issued on school violence which showed that there was a dramatic and substantial decrease in violence, vandalism, weapons and substance abuse among Fort Lee High School students during the period March 3, through June 30, 2009, when Dr. Romano was acting principal.[20] The District attributed this to the fact that Mr. Berman was not actively engaged with respect to ensuring a safe environment for students. Mr. Berman pointed to a prior report covering 2006–2008, which also showed a decrease in the incidents of vandalism, violence, weapons possession and substance abuse, although the decrease was not as great as that achieved during the period March through June 2009. The assertion was that the downward trend began well before Dr. Romano took over the reins at the high school. While it is clear that there was a definite decrease in the incidents of violence in the school from March to June 2009, the District's conclusion that it resulted from Mr. Berman's departure and Dr. Romano's tighter administrative control is a simplistic leap that cannot be made from the testimony presented.

The District asserted that Mr. Berman assigned inexperienced staff to perform important functions with no guidance or direction. As an example, the District pointed to the problems that developed as a result of Mr. Kravitz's handling of the scheduling. It was clear from Mr. Kravitz's testimony that he was no fan of Mr. Berman. Mr. Kravitz certainly did not appreciate the fact that Mr. Berman had criticized his handling of the scheduling for the 2008–2009 school year. It was also clear that Mr. Berman, because of his own lack of familiarity with the Genesis computer system, did not give Mr. Kravitz hands-on assistance in working out the schedule. On the other hand, there was testimony from Mr. Kravitz that he shadowed Ms. Appelbaum, his predecessor, for two months before she left. She certainly was familiar with the computer system and scheduling, which she had done for many years. Mr. Berman offered to have Ms. Appelbaum come back to assist Mr. Kravitz with the scheduling, but Mr. Kravitz declined. Mr. Berman took Mr. Kravitz at his word when he said that he had the situation under control and did not need Ms. Appelbaum's assistance. What Mr. Berman did not know was that Ms. Calabro, the superintendent of schools, had told Mr. Kravitz that she did not want to hire Ms. Appelbaum as a consultant because her fee was exorbitant. When Mr. Berman called Ms. Calabro about getting assistance for Mr. Kravitz, he was told that Mr. Kravitz felt that he could do the job without assistance and she had confidence in him. Thus Mr. Berman was erroneously reassured from two sources that Mr. Kravitz had the ability to complete the task. Mr. Kravitz testified that he tried to contact Mr. Berman during the month of July, but he was on vacation and did not respond. He also testified that he got assistance from the guidance counselors, save Ms. Meller, who did not surface until August.

There was certainly a lot of finger-pointing going on during the testimony as to who was responsible for the problems with the scheduling. Mr. Kravitz testified that the schedules were complete and ready to go by the end of July. It appears that once Ms. Meller returned from vacation and looked at the schedule she did not like what she saw. Whether there were actual flaws in the scheduling or she just did not think that her "special students" had gotten the choice schedules is not clear, but it appears that she made changes that had a ripple effect on the entire schedule. Mr. Berman claimed that when the scheduling problems became apparent he called in guidance counselors, and almost all of the problems were resolved by the end of the first week of class. He also claimed that every year there are scheduling problems that need to be resolved and that some problems linger past the first week of school. Dr. Romano viewed the problem as much more severe. Certainly, if Mr. Berman had been more familiar with the computer system, some of the problems could have been avoided. However, it is also true that the lack of communication about using Ms. Appelbaum as a consultant added to the scheduling problem. Finally, it appears that Ms. Meller's interference negatively impacted the whole situation.

Mr. Berman was also charged with negligence in adhering to the law regarding attendance records in the high school. Dr. Romano testified that during senior exam week students were marked present even though they were not present in school. He opined that the practice at the high school of not marking a senior student absent if the student was not required to be in school to take an examination was inaccurate record-keeping. Some other designation should have been inserted in the Genesis system to show that these students were not present at school, but had some form of excused absence. Mr. Berman testified that the policy of not marking the senior students absent when they were not required to be in school to take an examination had been in effect long before he came to the high school, and he was not aware of any other designation that could be put in Genesis that would reflect those students' status.[21] The District's assertion that Mr. Berman's failure to raise the issue of the proper designation to the District administration resulted in the records being misleading appears to me to be an over-dramatization of the situation. It was clear that this procedure had been in effect for many years. The District officials knew full well that if a senior did not have an exam, then the student did not have to be in school. If the student did have an examination and did not attend, then the student was marked absent. Certainly, the system could have been changed, if the Board wished to do so, but it was an over-dramatization to allege that Mr. Berman permitted inaccurate attendance record-keeping.

2. Increment Withholding

Mr. Berman is appealing the District's withholding of his increment for the 2009–2010 school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 states:

> Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefore, to the member concerned.

The decision to withhold an increment is subject to the "arbitrary standard." It cannot be overturned unless the decision is found to be arbitrary, without rational basis, or adduced by improper motives. See Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960).

[21] Genesis did not mark students present, but only recorded students that were absent.

The District argued that once the Board discovered the criminal activities that had been occurring under Berman's tenure, there was no other option than to suspend Berman without pay and withhold his increment. The District claimed that Mr. Berman did not attempt during his testimony to rebut the validity of the increment withholding. In reality, Mr. Berman's whole case was an attempt to prove that the charges against him were false and unsubstantiated. There is a different burden of proof for sustaining tenure charges, i.e., by a preponderance of the evidence, than for increment withholding, i.e., arbitrary and capricious. However, if the charges are not proved, then it would be difficult to say that the District's action in withholding the increment is sustainable, especially in this case, where the District has made it clear that the withholding of an increment is based entirely on the allegations contained in the tenure charges. As to the other charges that the District brought unrelated to the Meller activities, it has not been shown that Mr. Berman was ever put on notice that these were practices that the administration found objectionable or that needed remediation. Before his increment was withheld, Mr. Berman should have been given an opportunity to correct any problems or practices that his superiors found wanting. Mr. Berman never received a negative review from prior superintendents, nor did he receive anything in writing from the current superintendents to advise him that there was a need for improvement.

CONCLUSIONS

Based on the reasoning above, I CONCLUDE that the District has failed to sustain its burden of proving the tenure charges against Mr. Berman.

I further CONCLUDE that since the withholding of Mr. Berman's increment was based, according to the District, on the tenure charges, especially those relating to Ms. Meller's illegal activities, and since the District has not proved those charges, the withholding of Mr. Berman's increment was arbitrary and capricious.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the tenure charges against Mr. Berman be dismissed and that Mr. Berman be paid all back pay and benefits due to him.

Further, it is ORDERED that Mr. Berman be paid his salary increment for the 2009–2010 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF JAN RUBINO	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MATAWAN-ABERDEEN REGIONAL	:	DECISION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission (Commission) found that respondent, a member of the Board of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) of the School Ethics Act, as well as 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members, when she solicited – via the school e-mail system – and received campaign contributions from three district employees. The Commission recommended the penalty of suspension for six months in this matter. The respondent did not appeal the Commission's underlying decision, nor did she file any comments with respect to its recommended penalty.

The Commissioner, whose jurisdiction – in the absence of an appeal – is limited to reviewing the Commission's recommended sanction, adopted the Commission's recommendation that respondent be suspended for six months. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended for six months as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 577-9/10

IN THE MATTER OF JAN RUBINO	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MATAWAN-ABERDEEN REGIONAL	:	DECISION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of a six-month suspension, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Jan Rubino, member of the Board of Education of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) of the School Ethics Act, as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members, when she solicited – via the school e-mail system – and received campaign contributions from three district employees.

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. No comments were submitted by or on behalf of Ms. Rubino.

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner unless a notice of appeal is filed pursuant to P.L. 2008,

c. 36 and N.J.A.C. 6A:4, which did not happen here. Therefore, the Commissioner's jurisdiction at this time is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner accepts the Commission's recommendation that a six-month suspension from the Board is the appropriate penalty in this matter. As clearly stated in its decision, the Commission finds this penalty congruent with that imposed in previously decided similar cases. As such, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Jan Rubino be suspended from the Board for a period of six-months as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed on May 8, 2008 by Kenneth M. Aitken alleging that Jan Rubino, a member of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District Board of Education (Board), violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. An answer was filed by the respondent on May 23, 2008. On May 27, 2009, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e), as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f). The Commission dismissed the allegation that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a). The Commission further voted to transmit this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.8(a)[1] for a de novo hearing where the Commission prosecuted those allegations in the complaint which it found probable cause to credit.

Following the hearing on this matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e), as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. The ALJ recommended a penalty of six-month suspension. The Initial Decision of the ALJ was reviewed by the Commission at its July 27, 2010 meeting; the matter was tabled pending receipt of the full record from the OAL, which was received by the agency on July 28, 2010. The Commission obtained an extension of time in which to consider the full record of this matter at its August 31, 2010 meeting. Neither party filed exceptions to the Initial Decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and N.J.A.C. 1:6C-18.3. At its meeting on August 31, 2010, the Commission adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons expressed in her Initial Decision, as amplified herein.

ANALYSIS

Upon its review, the Commission finds that the record sufficiently supports the ALJ's findings that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e), as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. Here, the respondent acknowledged that, during the Board election in 2008, she sent an e-mail to two or three employees at their school-provided e-mail accounts. (Initial Decision at p. 2) Although the text of the respondent's e-mail was not available, the respondent at no time disputed that the text of the e-mail that she sent to school employees was consistent with Exhibit P-2, the e-mail sent by her running mate, Mr. Rubrecht. That e-mail stated:

[1] On April 15, 2009, the State Board of Education adopted amendments to N.J.A.C. 6A:28, the regulations governing matters that come before the School Ethics Commission. These rules became effective on May 18, 2009. However, because the complaint in this matter was filed on May 8, 2008, the Commission followed procedures and rendered its determinations herein in accordance with the rules that were in effect at the time the complaint was filed. To the extent this decision cites to regulations, they are the regulations that were in effect when the complaint was filed.

> As we begin our campaign we find ourselves in need of many things. We are hoping you, our valued supporters, can help us once again.
>
> The days of simply placing signs on lawns, shaking hands and hoping that it will be enough to win an election are gone. Yes, our signs are a great help but we have found, after many campaigns that flyers, signs, magnetic reminder cards and postcards (along with postage) are all essential when trying to get the word out.
>
> We are at a critical crossroad in this district, needing to make some critical changes. With your continued help we can accomplish so much. As board members we will show support of our new Superintendent and help to ease his transition. We will move forward and do what's best for our children and not get caught up in the day-to-day micromanagement of the district. We will work to educate every child at every level so all of our children can reach their highest potential. We will show our community, and its organizations, that we respect and value their input and opinions and support their efforts on behalf of our children.
>
> Simply stated, we need your support of time, effort and money to run an efficient, effective and successful campaign. Only with your support can we win the election and dedicate our efforts to making the Matawan Aberdeen School District an environment where all of our children will thrive.
>
> We are currently soliciting monetary contributions to get this campaign moving in the right direction. We can no longer afford to do it alone and need your help to raise the money that will allow us to run this campaign the best way possible.
>
> Thank you in advance for whatever you can give. We promise to work hard to win this election for all of you.
>
> Jan Rubino and Marty Ruprecht
>
> P.S. of course, any contribution will be greatly appreciated but...
> A donation of $25.00 will pay for 6 signs. (we need 200)
> A donation of $50.00 will pay for 200 postcard stamps (we need 3000)

The ALJ found that the respondent "sought contributions from three district [employees] using the school email system, and they contributed to her campaign." (Id. at p. 5) The Commission notes in this regard that the ALJ's findings of fact must be accorded deference.[2] Like the ALJ, the Commission is not assuaged by the respondent's assertion that the staff members were "long-time friends" of hers. (Id. at p. 3) They were still employees of the Board of Education.

With respect to the ALJ's conclusions of law, the Commission first notes that it has determined that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) requires a showing that when the school official accepted the contribution, s/he did so based upon the understanding that it was given for the purpose of influencing him/her, directly or indirectly, in the discharge of his/her official duties. I/M/O Meera Malik and Elizabeth Vasil, C06-98 & C08-98 (September 22, 1998). In this connection, the Commission recognizes that current technology affords candidates direct and immediate access to District staff; this benefit carries with it a concomitant burden to avoid any language or conduct that may even subtly hint at reciprocity or quid pro quo.

Even granting that for a full year the respondent recused herself from voting on "any matters involving hiring, rehiring, tenure, contracts, collective bargaining, or other staffing matters for all district employees" (initial decision at p. 4), this does not alter the fact that at the time of the solicitation, the respondent: (1) requested a donation from three school employees (2) by using their school-provided e-mail accounts (3) when she was in a position to directly or indirectly affect their employment (4) and where the text of the e-mail solicitation states that the (solicited) contributions will enable the candidates "to make some critical changes." As the ALJ found, the employees contributed to her campaign. (Initial Decision at p. 4) As such, the Commission finds sufficient support in the record to concur with the ALJ that a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) is established.

Next, the Commission agrees with the ALJ that the record supports the conclusion that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), as set forth in the Initial Decision, by taking private action that was of such a nature that it might have compromised the Board. (Id. at p. 7) "Private action" means any action taken by a member of a district board of education that is beyond the scope of the duties and responsibilities of the member. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-7.1. The respondent's actions, as an incumbent candidate, may certainly be viewed as private action. As noted in the Initial Decision, there need not be a demonstration that the respondent, in fact, compromised the Board. Here, the Commission notes that as a result of the respondent's actions, the Board attorney issued a memorandum on April 4, 2008 to all Board members regarding the solicitation and/or receipt of campaign contributions from individual employees and the need for subsequent recusal on the individual's employment issues. (Exhibit P-4) One could reasonably conclude that the Board was sufficiently concerned about the implications of the respondent's actions and, therefore, turned to its counsel who quickly sought to thwart any potential violations.

[2] The Commission "may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Finally, the Commission agrees with the ALJ that the record supports the conclusion that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), as set forth in the Initial Decision, when she used the school e-mail for District employees as a means to solicit donations to her campaign, which yielded contributions for her campaign.

DECISION

For the reasons set forth above, the Commission adopts the Initial Decision of the ALJ finding that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e), and N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-24.1(e) and (f).

PENALTY

The Commission further adopts the ALJ's recommended penalty of a six-month suspension, finding precedent for such a penalty where there are multiple findings of violations. (See, Yafet v. Elbert Smith, Hillside Bd. of Ed., Union County, C24-07 (October 27, 2008), aff'd, Commissioner of Education Decision No. 156-09A, decided May 15, 2009 wherein the Commission found that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), (d), (i) and (j) and recommended a six-month suspension, which was affirmed by the Commissioner; Jacobs v. Delbury, Sussex Wantage Reg'l Bd of Ed., Sussex County, C44-07 (November 23, 2008) Commissioner of Education Decision No. 7-09SEC, decided January 9, 2009, wherein the Commission found that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), (g), and (i) and recommended a six-month suspension, which was approved by the Commissioner.) The Commission also notes that in a series of cases where Board members were found in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) and 24(b) after soliciting campaign donations from a vendor, the Commission specifically noted that it would have recommended removal of those Board members, but, at the time of its determinations, they were no longer on the Board. I/M/O Hugh Gallagher, Keansburg Bd. of Ed., Monmouth County C03-01 (July 23, 2002), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 387-02SEC decided November 6, 2002; I/M/O Judy Ferraro, Keansburg Bd. of Education, Monmouth County, C04-01 (July 23, 2002), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 348-02SEC decided September 23, 2002); I/M/O Thomas Keelen, Keansburg Bd. of Ed., Monmouth County, C06-01 (June 24, 2003), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 549-03SEC decided September 22, 2003. Thus, on balance, and in consideration of the mitigating factors in this matter, the Commission finds that the ALJ's recommendation for penalty is appropriate.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the School Ethics Commission's recommended sanction. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within 13 days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4 within 30 days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (13 days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

Resolution Adopting Decision – C16-08

Whereas, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members; and

Whereas, the Commission transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a de novo hearing; and

Whereas, the Administrative Law Judge concluded in her Initial Decision that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) and recommended a penalty of six month's suspension; and

Whereas, after consideration of the full record, at its meeting on August 31, 2010, the Commission adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ; and

Whereas, the Commission finds that the within decision accurately memorializes its affirmance of the ALJ's recommendations; and

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, that the Commission hereby adopts the within decision and directs it staff to notify all parties to this action of the decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EEC 6172-09
AGENCY DKT. NO. C16-08

IN THE MATTER OF JAN RUBINO,
MATAWAN-ABERDEEN BOARD OF EDUCATION,
MONMOUTH COUNTY.

Jan Rubino, petitioner, pro se

Susan M. Huntley, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, School Ethics Commission (Paula T. Dow, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 28, 2010 Decided: July 19, 2010

BEFORE LAURA SANDERS, ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On May 8, 2008, the School Ethics Commission (the Commission) received a complaint against Jan Rubino, a Matawan-Aberdeen Board of Education member, concerning an email sent out during her campaign for re-election to the school board. An answer was filed by Rubino with the Commission on May 23, 2008. Following a preliminary evaluation of the complaint, the Commission on May 27, 2009, voted that there was probable cause to credit four of the allegations in the complaint. These four were as follows. First, the Commission found a probable violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-

24(e) prohibiting solicitation or acceptance of a gift or political contribution based on an understanding that the contribution is for the purpose of influencing the candidate in the discharge of his or her duties. Second was a similar finding concerning an email to the Board attorney. Third was an alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), which prohibits the taking of private action that could compromise the Board. And fourth was a probable violation of N.J.S.A. 18:12-24.1(f), which forbids the use of the schools for personal gain or the gain of friends. Having determined the matter to be a contested case, the School Ethics Commission transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law for a fair hearing. It was filed on July 13, 2009, and heard on June 28, 2010.

Rubino acknowledges having sent an email to two or three employees at their school email addresses. She also acknowledges that her running mate sent an email to three employees through their school email addresses. She contends, however, that these were naïve errors, and that the fact that she recused entirely from all votes involving personnel for a full-year underlines that she never intended to act improperly.

Prior to the beginning of the hearing, counsel for the School Ethics Commission advised that during discovery, it became clear that Rubino's approach to the Board attorney was, not as originally charged, for the purpose of seeking contributions, but rather was for the purpose of seeking his advice. For that reason, the Commission's counsel advised the Commission is no longer pursuing any violation related to interaction with the Board attorney. This left three charges for hearing.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

There is no dispute as to the following. In the spring of 2008, Rubino was running for her third three-year term as a Board of Education member. The election was contentious, as the Board had been splitting five-to-four on important votes. The spring 2008 campaign marked the first time Rubino had run with someone not already sitting on the Board and also the first time that she did any fundraising related to the campaign. She and her running mate, Martin Ruprecht, together composed a joint letter that each distributed electronically to friends and family. The e-mails were sent out in approximately the third week of March 2008. No email sent from Rubino's email account was in evidence at hearing.

The factual issues concern Rubino's interaction with school employees. While she acknowledged having directly emailed two or three school employees at their school addresses, Rubino testified that she does not remember the names of those persons she contacted. She also could not recall whether she had received contributions from them; she thought she may have. She characterized the employees as long-time tenured teachers and friends made in her years serving in the Parent Teacher Organization while her children were going through school.

Rubino testified that about a month after the campaign ended, she erased the campaign materials from her laptop. The campaign ended in the second week of April 2008. Rubino purges email routinely to maintain the speed of the laptop. She said she did not recall whether the erasure occurred before or after she received the ethics complaint from the Commission, but that in any event, it was many months before she understood what the Commission wanted from her. The procedural history of the case indicates Rubino's response to the complaint was received by the Commission on May 23, 2008. A letter attesting to the answers stated that Rubino submitted them on May 12, 2008.

Although no copy of an email directly from Rubino was available, an e-mail from her running mate was offered. (P-2.) The email, which ended with the names and addresses of both candidates and their mutual-campaign bank account, was sent to three school district employees, among numerous others. Rubino testified that although the email presented itself as being from both candidates—she and Ruprecht did not pre-screen each other's lists of potential recipients. Rather, each independently sent email and letters to family and friends. From the list of recipients on the top of Ruprecht's email, Rubino identified "dgallagher" as a part-time assistant in the technology department; "lviel" as a long-time, tenured science teacher; and "kolsen" as another long-time teacher then serving as a principal. Although during the hearing, she could not recall Olsen's tenure status, she acknowledged that in response to interrogatories in February 2010 (P-3), she had stated a year earlier before the SEC that Kathleen Olsen, a middle school principal, was not tenured at the time Ruprecht sent the March 21, 2008, email. Rubino was not copied on Ruprecht's email. The content of the email included the following:

>
>
> Thank you in advance for whatever you can give. We promise to work hard to win this election for all of you.

There was no evidence at hearing linking the solicitation of the three employees identified in Ruprecht's email with an actual contribution to either candidate. Thus, the only evidence concerning actual contributions was Rubino's statement that the three employees she personally solicited "may have" contributed.

In response to her own email solicitation, Rubino testified a friend suggested she contact the Board attorney and seek advice about the campaign. This she did. By memorandum dated April 4, 2008, the Board attorney, referencing a newspaper article, advised Board members that "Any Board member voting on the renewal or non-renewal of any individual employee in the District, after soliciting and/or receiving campaign contributions from that specific employee, would present an 'appearance of impropriety.' As a result, any Board member who either solicited and/or received campaign contributions from individual employees of the District should recuse themselves from discussions and abstain from voting on that individual's employment status." (P-4.)

Although the Board attorney advised the Board members to specifically identify which district employees were solicited, so as to determine which matters would require recusal, Rubino testified she did not do that. Rather, she went further and simply refrained, for an entire year, from voting on any matters involving hiring, rehiring, tenure, contracts, collective bargaining, or other staffing matters for all district employees.

While acknowledging that using the school email was a mistake, Rubino testified that she made no promises and was in no position to make any promises as a single, volunteer member on a nine-member board. Further, the controversy surrounding the email was emotionally difficult for not only her, but also her family.

Essentially, the Commission is charging Rubino with ethics violations for an unknown email to school district employees identified only as long-time teachers. Except that Rubino sent it, and that it "may have" resulted in contributions of unidentified size, nothing else is known about it. Additionally, the Commission is charging Rubino with contacting three district employees via a second email. The "from" portion of the email identifies Ruprecht as the sender, and Rubino is among those copied. Thus, she did not physically send the email, and there is no evidence she approved the list of people to whom it went. It did, however, represent itself as coming from both candidates and benefiting both candidates.

With regard to the identity of the school district employees emailed directly by Rubino, Rubino's testimony lacked credibility. While nearly two years have passed since the election, it is nonetheless inconsistent to characterize the two or three recipients as old friends from PTO days, but not be able to recall their identities. The erasure from the laptop is also troubling, since the controversy surrounding the email solicitation was clearly heated and continued for some weeks, and by her own account, the erasure may have occurred after receipt of the complaint. Additionally, although she stated that she and Ruprecht jointly composed the letter Ruprecht sent, she never testified that it was that exact letter she sent to the three school employees she contacted. Based on the erasure, the lack of identification, the comment that they "may have" contributed, I FIND as FACT that Rubino sought contributions from three district employers using the school email system, and they contributed to her campaign.

As regards to the process employed in the solicitation of the three employees by Ruprecht and Rubino's involvement, Rubino's testimony about jointly writing the letter and not pre-screening each other's lists was credible, and I FIND as FACT that each sent to their own list, and she did not pre-screen the list of persons on his email.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The first issue is whether Rubino's email violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, the conflict-of-interest statute. Rubino points to the fact that the provision expressly allows board candidates to solicit and accept contributions to a campaign. She contends that there is no evidence whatsoever that she in any way knew or had reason to know that the three employees linked to contributions intended to influence her in the discharge of her duties. The conflicts law states:

> No school official, or member of his immediate family, or business organization in which he has an interest, shall solicit or accept any gift, favor, loan, political contribution, service, promise of future employment, or other thing of value based upon an understanding that the gift, favor, loan, contribution, service, promise, or other thing of value was given or offered for the purpose of influencing him, directly or indirectly, in the discharge of his official duties. This provision shall not apply to the solicitation or acceptance of contributions to the campaign of an announced candidate for elective public office, if the school official has no knowledge or reason to believe that the campaign contribution, if accepted, was given with the intent to influence the school official in the discharge of his official duties[.]

Rubino's silence in regard to the contributions made to her in response to her own solicitation suggests that something less generic than a general request for contributions occurred, and I CONCLUDE that a violation of that portion of the statute has been demonstrated.

With regard to the second two charges, the relevant ethics-code provisions state:

> e. I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.
> f. I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to > special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f).]

The Commission alleges that using school email to solicit funds was use of the schools for personal gain. I CONCLUDE that the use of the school email to seek campaign contributions did, in fact, constitute utilization of school district property for private use, and was therefore, a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f).

Additionally, the Commission argues that the Rubino-Ruprecht email and her email constituted private actions that could compromise the Board, and that the seriousness of the problem is underlined by the Board attorney's decision to send a memorandum to all Board members. The Commission contends that the fact that Rubino avoided voting on all personal matters for an entire year is irrelevant. The only thing that matters is that the solicitation could have compromised the Board. In other contexts, reliance upon the official counsel's advice have been deemed an adequate defense. See, for example, In re Zisa, 385 N.J. Super. 188 (App. Div. 2006), mayor's reliance on municipal attorney's advice prior to vote involving his own property held reasonable. Similarly, in other contexts, courts have held that efforts to avoid the public ill that a statute is designed to eliminate should be considered as mitigating factors in evaluating penalty. Div. of Alcoholic Bev. Control v. Maynard's t/a Maynard's Café, 192 N.J. 158 (2007). (Although ABC statute imposes strict liability for violations, mitigating factors should be evaluated in determining penalty). While I CONCLUDE that the emails were a private action and did have the potential to compromise the Board, the fact that the actual potential damage never occurred because Rubino refrained from all personnel matters is relevant to determining penalty.

The penalty recommended at hearing was suspension or removal from office on grounds that three separate violations occurred, and censure has been employed only in instances where a single violation occurred. In re Graves, SEC Dkt. No. C47-05, EEC 2435-06, Final Decision (July 10, 2008), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search, the Commissioner of Education imposed censure on a board member who improperly involved herself directly on two separate occasions in a personnel action involving an individual. In re Keelen, Agency Dkt. No. 289-8/03, EEC 8784-01, Final Decision (Sept. 23, 2003), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search, removal was downgraded to censure only because a board member already had left the board, where the respondent had flagrantly used his official position to secure unwarranted advantage for himself. In the Matter of the Suspension of Dr. Joseph Atalla, the State Board of Education imposed a one-year suspension on a board member who was found to have threatened a member of the public at a public meeting. In two other cases, board members were censured for single violations in In the Matter of Raymond Bonker, Lenape Valley Regional Board of Education, C11-07 (March 30, 1998) releasing staff email in campaign literature without prior board discussion or approval; and In the Matter of Lawrence James, Chesilhurst Board of Education, C10-98 (December 15, 1998) asking the business administrator to intercede on a private loan from the bank holding the board's accounts.

In the application of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(e), the Commission has distinguished between incumbent board members and mere candidates, on grounds that candidates are not school officials as defined by the Act. See In re Guarascio, C40-08 (April 20, 2010). Had the only issue been the sending by a non-official of that particular email to three employees, a reprimand would have been appropriate as there is no evidence Rubino pre-screened the list of recipients before Ruprecht sent it to employees.

Far more serious is the missing email to district employees who did contribute but have remained unnamed. This, combined with Ruprecht's email, would merit removal, but for the steps taken to prevent the potential harm from actually occurring. Balancing the mitigating factors against the seriousness of the actions, I CONCLUDE that a six-month suspension is warranted.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, the School Ethics Commission has jurisdiction to determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. If it concludes that the conduct constitutes a violation of the School Ethics Act, it shall recommend an appropriate penalty to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner of Education shall issue the final decision in this matter.

The recommendations of this decision as to whether the conduct constitutes a violation of the School Ethics Act may be adopted, modified or rejected by the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION. If the School Ethics Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision.

If the School Ethics Commission determines that a violation has occurred, it shall issue a written decision recommending to the Commissioner of Education an appropriate penalty and shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its decision, to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner of Education may subsequently render a final decision as to the appropriate penalty. If the Commissioner of Education does not render a final decision within forty-five days of its receipt of this Initial Decision, and unless such time period is otherwise extended, the recommended decision of the School Ethics Commission shall become the Final Decision.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IT IS ON THIS 5th day of October, 2010;

ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED as follows:

1. Judgment is hereby entered in favor of the Board against Petitioners, jointly and severally, on all counts of its Counterclaim with respect to the 2006-2007, 2007-2008 and 2008-2009 school years only, in the amount of $61,160.18, representing tuition for the school years set forth above, as well as attorney's fees and investigator's fees expended by the Board as a result of Petitioners' misrepresentation that they were domiciled in the Borough of Englewood Cliffs during the time periods set forth above.

2. Judgment is hereby entered in favor of Petitioners with regard to their claim that they were domiciled within the Borough of Englewood Cliffs for the 2009-2010 school year, and as such, their children were entitled to attend school in the District for the 2009-2010 school year without the payment of tuition.

3. The parties represent that they sign this Consent Judgment as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein. The parties further represent that they have negotiated and fully reviewed the Consent Judgment, and that the maxim that any uncertainty or ambiguity is to be construed against the drafter shall not apply to the construction or interpretation of this Consent Judgment.

4. The parties acknowledge that an authorized representative of each party has signed this Consent Judgment with full knowledge, understanding and acceptance of its terms, and that this person has done so with authority to legally bind the respective party.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LAUREN COOKE,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF EGG HARBOR,	:
ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board filed tenure charges of conduct unbecoming against respondent Lauren Cooke – a tenured teacher – for allegedly making inappropriate and derogatory racial comments about another staff member and by lying to an administrator during an investigation. The petitioning Board sought revocation of respondent's tenure and termination of her employment.

The ALJ found that: on two occasions, respondent used racial epithets in reference to another member of the teaching staff, and – based on previous case law – these incidents constitute unbecoming conduct for a teacher; respondent violated school district policy 3281 by engaging in inappropriate staff behavior; respondent's inappropriate comments were made during school hours, which potentially put young children at risk, created unnecessary tension among teachers, and cast doubt on respondent's fitness to teach; however, dismissal of respondent from her tenured teaching position is not justified because her conduct does not establish her unfitness to discharge the duties and functions of a teacher since the inappropriate comments were intended to be made in confidence, and were not public statements. Accordingly – based on mitigating and aggravating factors – the ALJ concluded that respondent's removal from her tenured position is not justified, and ordered that respondent receive a 150 day suspension without pay as appropriate discipline for her unbecoming conduct.

Upon independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct, but her conduct does not justify her termination from employment. The Commissioner therefore concluded that the loss of 120 days salary withheld pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, following the certification of tenure charges, plus an additional 30 day suspension without pay is a sufficient penalty to impress upon the respondent the seriousness of her errors in judgment. Additionally, the Commissioner ordered respondent to take coursework on racial sensitivity, at her own cost and expense, during the 2010-2011 school year.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 74-09
AGENCY DKT NO. 357-12/08

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LAUREN COOKE,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF EGG HARBOR,	:
ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the respective exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by respondent and the Board of Education (Board).

This case involves tenure charges brought by the Board against the respondent Lauren Cooke, a teacher in the Egg Harbor School District. The Board charged the respondent with unbecoming conduct based on two incidents during which the respondent used a racial slur and a racially derogatory comment in reference to another teaching staff member. The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") found that the respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct, and recommended that the respondent receive a 150 day suspension.

The respondent's exceptions largely reiterate the substance of her post-hearing submission at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support the contention that the ALJ erroneously sustained the Board's charges. Respondent asserts that the ALJ wrongfully determined that since neither of the two individuals who witnessed respondent's alleged use of the "N word" and "Aunt Jemima" had any discernable ulterior motive that it automatically means that respondent did in fact use those terms. Respondent maintains that she was equally or even more credible than the other witnesses, and her denial of the use of those phrases should hold more weight. In her exceptions, respondent also contends that the evidence is devoid of any basis for the ALJ's finding that "Aunt Jemima" is a racist reference. Finally, respondent argues in the alternative that if the Commissioner determines the charges should be upheld, the penalty should be reduced.

In its exceptions the Board also reiterates the positions advanced in its post-hearing submission at the OAL. The Board urges the Commissioner to adopt the ALJ's determination that the respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, but takes exception to the penalty recommended by the ALJ. The Board maintains that the respondent's use of the "N word" on one occasion and "Aunt Jemima" on another occasion warrants the dismissal of respondent from her tenured teaching position.

The Board takes exception to the ALJ's determination regarding the applicable aggravating and mitigating factors in this case. In its exceptions, the Board contends that the ALJ erred in not finding as aggravating factors the fact that the respondent created a hostile work environment and that respondent failed to acknowledge that she used the phrases. The Board also takes exception to the ALJ's determination that the mitigating factors included the fact that no children or other teaching staff members, including the teacher who was the subject of the comments, heard respondent's use of the phrases. The Board emphasizes that – although the comments were not heard by others – because of where the comments were made, they could have been heard by both the students and other teaching staff members.

The Board also takes exception to the ALJ's analysis of the case law with respect to his finding that respondent's comments did not warrant dismissal, but rather a 150 day suspension. The Board stresses that the respondent's conduct in this case was more egregious than in cases cited by ALJ, and that the comments were made on two separate occasions, which amounts to a pattern of inappropriate behavior justifying the dismissal of respondent's tenure.[1]

[1] In its exceptions, the Board also seeks clarification as to whether the 150-day unpaid suspension is a form of prospective relief or whether it applies retroactively to the 120-day unpaid suspension already served pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, plus an additional 30 days.

Upon a comprehensive review of the entire record in this matter, which included the transcripts of the hearings conducted at the OAL on April 1 and April 16, 2010,[2] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board has established that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner finds respondent's exceptions unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments and objections previously raised before the ALJ, and taken into account by him in weighing the testimony and in concluding that the record supported the Board's charges. Notwithstanding respondent's contentions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's recitations of testimony or his determinations of witness credibility. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before him and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The Commissioner also finds that the ALJ's fact-finding analysis and conclusions as to the truth of the Board's allegations and the characterization of respondent's behavior as unbecoming conduct to be fully supported by the record and consistent with applicable law.

Turning to the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter, the Commissioner is mindful that the "[f]actors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the individual's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among the students and staff, and the likelihood of such behavior recurring." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Deborah Suitt-Green, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner October 14, 1997, slip. op. at 32, citing In re Hearing of Ostergren, Franklin School District, 1966 S.L.D. 185; In re Hearing of Kittell, Little Silver School District, 1972 S.L.D. 535, 541; In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). It is also well recognized that, by virtue of the unique position they occupy, educators must be held to an enhanced standard of behavior.

The Commissioner recognizes that the charges in this matter are serious in nature and finds that the inappropriate behavior of respondent necessitates the appropriate penalty. While in no way minimizing the seriousness of respondent's infractions, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ – for the reasons fully detailed on pages 32-36 of his decision – that under all of the circumstances and considerations existing in this matter, removal of respondent from her tenured position is an unduly harsh penalty.

The ALJ properly determined that the dismissal of the respondent from her teaching position is not justified because the conduct does not establish her unfitness to discharge the duties and functions of her position as a teacher. The notable mitigating factors include the fact that there is no evidence that the respondent has ever been the subject of any discipline during her 16 years with the district; there was no evidence presented that suggested the respondent treated the students inappropriately; her comments were not directed at a student nor did any students hear her comments; and the comments were made during private conversations. Further, the Commissioner disagrees with the Board's contention that the conduct in this matter was more egregious than in other cases where the tenured teaching staff member received a suspension rather than termination. See, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Adelphia Poston, Commissioner Decision No. 326-06, decided October 19, 2006; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barbara Emri, School District of the Township of Evesham, Burlington County, Commissioner Decision No. 371-02, decided October 21, 2002; Jayson H. Burg v. State Operated Sch. Dist. of the City of Newark, Commissioner Decision No. 649-97, decided December 18, 1997.

Therefore, the Commissioner finds and concludes that the loss of the 120 days salary withheld pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, following the certification of tenure charges, plus an additional 30 day suspension without pay is a sufficient penalty to impress upon respondent the seriousness of her errors in judgment displayed in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. In addition, to help insure that respondent is able to correct the inappropriate behavior, the respondent is ordered to take coursework on racial sensitivity at her own cost and expense to be completed by the end of the 2010-2011 school year. The coursework will be subject to reasonable review and approval by petitioner, who may apply to the Commissioner if respondent fails to comply with the above articulated terms.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 74-09
AGENCY DKT. NO. 357-12/08

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF LAUREN COOKE, EGG HARBOR TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Yves C. Veenstra, Esq., for petitioner (Parker McCay, attorneys)

Clifford Van Syoc, Esq., for respondent (Van Syoc Chartered, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 7, 2010 Decided: July 22, 2010

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

Respondent, a teacher in the employ of the Board of Education of the Township of Egg Harbor, Atlantic County, New Jersey, is charged with conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member in violation of the provisions of the New Jersey Administrative Code, Board of Education policies and by violating the law against discrimination by harassing, intimidating and bullying, by making inappropriate racial derogatory comments toward another staff member; and by lying to an administrator during an investigation. Respondent requested a hearing and this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 12, 2009, for hearing as a contested case.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on January 27, 2009, and a Prehearing Order was entered on January 29, 2009, settling the procedures to be followed at the hearing. Hearing dates were scheduled for March 31 and April 1, 2009.

On March 9, 2009, I entered an Order denying petitioner's motion to strike respondent's answer and deem the tenure charges admitted.

On March 23, 2009, the hearing dates of March 31 and April 1, 2009, were adjourned at the request of both counsel because of their inability to complete discovery, and an Order Amending Prehearing Order was entered on that date extending the discovery period and rescheduling the hearing for April 24 and 30, 2009.

The rescheduled hearing dates of April 24 and April 30, 2009, were adjourned at the request of attorney for respondent with the consent of attorney for the school district on the condition that the hearing dates be rescheduled for May 7, and May 21, 2009, with the understanding that counsel would be discussing the issue of back pay.

The hearing date of May 7, 2009, was adjourned at the hearing at the joint request of the parties because they had entered into settlement negotiations and had reached a possible settlement subject to approval by respondent Board of Education. The hearing date of May 21, 2009, was not adjourned.

On May 20, 2009, the hearing date of May 21, 2009, was adjourned at the request of attorney for the school district, based on the allegation of the respondent through counsel accusing attorney for the school district and his firm of conducting an illegal investigation of the respondent leading to the tenure charges in this case. Attorney for the school district requested an opportunity to investigate this assertion. The hearing was rescheduled for June 23, 2009.

On June 20, 2009, the hearing of June 23, 2009, was adjourned at the request of respondent because of a death in her family. The matter was rescheduled for hearing on July 15, 2009.

On July 14, 2009, the hearing scheduled for July 15, 2009, was adjourned at the request of attorney for petitioner school district because of the retention by the school district of new counsel to undertake representation of the school district. The newly-retained counsel for the school district required additional time to review the matter and prepare for hearing. The hearing was rescheduled for August 19, and September 1, 2009.

On August 14, 2009, the hearing dates of August 19, and September 1, 2009, were adjourned at the request of attorney for the school district because of the unavailability of the witnesses for the school district. Because of the extensive delay in commencing the hearing, I offered approximately twelve rescheduled dates for hearing and required that the attorneys issue subpoenas for all witnesses. As a result, I scheduled the matter for peremptory hearing on October 28, and October 29, 2009.

On October 27, 2009, attorney for respondent requested an adjournment of the peremptory hearing dates because of a court conflict, the attorney being in a trial in the Superior Court. Because of my initial refusal to adjourn the peremptory hearing dates, the attorney for the school district consented to the adjournment on the condition that respondent agree to waive salary continuation until the end of the hearing in view of her attorney's trial calendar. When the respondent agreed to this condition, the hearing dates of October 28, and October 29, 2009, were adjourned and the hearing was rescheduled for December 4, 2009 and January 28, 2010, these being dates when respondent's attorney would be available.

The hearing commenced on December 4, 2009. The continued hearing date of January 28, 2010, was adjourned on January 12, 2010, at the request of attorney for respondent because of a court conflict. The matter was rescheduled for hearing on April 1, and April 16, 2010. On those dates, hearings were held and the hearing testimony concluded on April 16, 2010. At the conclusion of the hearing, the record remained open to permit the attorneys to submit written closing arguments. The record closed on June 7, 2010, with the timely receipt of the parties written closing submissions.

STATEMENT OF THE CHARGES

The respondent was charged as follows:

Charge 1. Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.9(a)(2)(vi) and Board of Education Policy Number 5512.01, harassment, intimidation and bullying, by making inappropriate racial derogatory comments toward another staff member.

Charge 2. Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating Board of Education Policy Number 3281, inappropriate staff conduct, by engaging in inappropriate behavior by making racial comments toward another staff member.

Charge 3. Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating the law against discrimination by engaging in inappropriate behavior by making racial comments toward another staff member.

Charge 4. Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating Egg Harbor Township Board of Education Policy Number 3281, inappropriate staff conduct, by lying to an administrator during an investigation.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony of Scott P. McCartney

Dr. Scott P. McCartney testified that he was employed by the Egg Harbor Township Board of Education as an assistant superintendent for four years, then became the interim superintendent on November 1, 2008, and was permanently appointed as superintendent on January 1, 2009. Prior to his service with Egg Harbor Township he was a teacher and holds certificates as a teacher, principal and superintendent. As superintendent, he reports to the Board of Education and is responsible for all operations in the school district, including supervision of the curriculum, personnel, fiscal matters, facilities, and coordination with the Board of Education and assisting the Board in its duties and responsibilities. The Board of Education has adopted a code of conduct for teachers with the policy guidance of a consulting firm, Strauss Esmay. Ultimately, he is responsible for enforcing these policies.

In December 2008, Dr. McCartney received a referral involving Lauren Cooke. Jamesella Johnson, a teaching staff member, had been told by Tracy Hurst, another teaching staff member, that Ms. Cooke had made derogatory comments about her to other teachers. Ms. Johnson reported this to Dr. Charles Fredericks' secretary, and Dr. Fredericks reported this to Dr. Philip Heery, the prior superintendent. Dr. Heery directed Dr. Fredericks to investigate this matter.

After Dr. Fredericks performed his investigation, the matter was referred to Joetta Surace, the school district's Affirmative Action officer, for further investigation. The next thing that occurred was Dr. Heery issued a Rice notice[1] to Ms. Cooke in September 2008. At that time Ms. Cooke was given an opportunity to participate with the Board of Education in considering this issue. Following this Dr. Heery suspended Ms. Cooke and on December 10, 2008, charges were certified against her (P-3)[2]. Dr. McCartney identified a Rice notice issued to Ms. Cooke on December 3, 2008 (P-1), with respect to the Board's consideration of certification of the charges. He did not speak to Ms. Cooke at any time prior to this.

Dr. McCartney identified the Board of Education policies regarding this matter (P-2). He also identified the packet of tenure charges filed with the Commissioner and served on the respondent, which are the subject matter of this hearing.

Dr. McCartney was questioned why "Aunt Jemima" is a racist comment. He indicated that if a Caucasian woman were called Betty Crocker, such a comment would be investigated in the same way. He admitted that afterwards it was determined that there was no merit to the report that Ms. Cooke had referred to Ms. Johnson as a "nigger bitch." He admitted that there is an expectation and desire that employees report racial slurs promptly. When he was questioned when these slurs were made he indicated that he knows one occurred on the spring 2007 "Fun Day." He acknowledged that his only knowledge of these claims is as a result of reviewing the preliminary investigation by Dr. Fredericks and the investigation by Joetta Surace. Ms. Surace reported her investigation to the superintendent and he read this. He does not recall the exact location where the second comment was made, but it was his understanding that it was not in the presence of any children.

In response to questions by respondent's attorney, Dr. McCartney stated that the Egg Harbor Township school district has a total of 8,000 students and the Township contains approximately 30,000 people. It is a mixed-race community with seventy percent of the population being Caucasian and thirty percent being members of minorities. The majority of the thirty percent making up the minorities are African-American. Ms. Cooke has worked for the school district approximately sixteen or seventeen years. She has interacted with students and parents of various races over those years and there was never any complaint of inappropriate actions or comments by her that he is aware of. There are approximately 700 or more teachers in the school district. Ms. Johnson is African-American. William Donio is the school district solicitor but he has also dealt with attorneys Amy Halk and Eileen Muskett of Mr. Donio's office. There is also a charge against Ms. Cooke that she lied.

Testimony of Dr. Charles Fredericks

Dr. Charles Fredericks testified that he has been employed by the school district since 1978 and is the supervisor of State and Federal programs in the school district. He holds a Ph.D. degree in educational psychology and holds certificates as principal, supervisor and school psychologist. He was a supervisor in the school and Ms. Cooke was a subordinate of his.

When a complaint is made of inappropriate conduct on the part of one of Dr. Fredericks' subordinates, he becomes involved, at least in the preliminary investigation. His secretary, Ms. Reilly, contacted him and told him that Ms. Jamesella Johnson came to her and told her that Ms. Cooke referred to Ms. Johnson as a "nigger bitch."[3] When he heard this he immediately went to the Davenport school where Ms. Johnson and Ms. Cooke worked to see Ms. Johnson. It was on December 12, 2007, at 3:30 p.m. when he met Ms. Johnson. She was obviously upset and she told him that she did not want to discuss the matter with him at that time because she was very upset and she needed to prepare for parent meetings. He then arranged to speak to her the next morning. The next day, Ms. Johnson advised him that Ms. Tracy Hurst told her that Ms. Cooke had called her a "n----- b----." She was still very upset about this. He then consulted with the principal of the Davenport school, Mr. Labarka. He felt that this matter should be brought to the attention of Mrs. Surace, the Personnel officer and Affirmative Action officer of the school district. He did not discuss this allegation with Ms. Cooke. He then discussed it with the superintendent who instructed him to interview Ms. Hurst. He interviewed Ms. Hurst on December 17, 2007, and a statement was given to him.

Dr. Fredericks identified a letter dated September 8, 2008, which he sent to counsel, indicating the timeline of his involvement and his actions in investigating this matter. Ms. Muskett asked him to send the letter. He was involved in the interview of Ms. Dixon, who stated that she did not hear the words "n----- b----." However, Ms. Dixon reported hearing Ms. Cooke say, "I don't want to work with that Aunt Jemima." He also identified an e-mail sent to Ms. Cooke and others (P-5) which describes a meeting on October 11, 2008, stating that Ms. Dixon and Jordan Burke heard the term "n----- b----." He met with Ms. Dixon in June 2008.

On cross-examination, Dr. Fredericks testified that prior to December 2007, there had never been any report made to him that Lauren Cooke acted in any way that was discriminatory and there were never any statements attributed to her as being racist. He interacted with her on a bi-monthly basis for approximately eight years. He also indicated that Jamesella Johnson and Lauren Cooke interacted with each other over a period of eight years. He acknowledged that Ms. Johnson now claims there were racial undercurrents three years earlier than the alleged remarks attributed to Ms. Cooke. He also acknowledged that Ms. Cooke now alleges that Ms. Johnson has animosity towards her and wants her job.

Ms. Dixon acknowledged to Dr. Fredericks that she heard Lauren Cooke say, "I don't want to work with that Aunt Jemima over there," referring to Ms. Johnson. When questioned why she did not report this earlier, Ms. Dixon indicated she was afraid of retaliation from Ms. Cooke.

Ms. Johnson and Ms. Cooke are both Title 1 teachers under his supervision. In addition, Ms. Johnson is the parent coordinator. He explained that to him "Aunt Jemima" has racial overtones. He felt it is a given that it is a racially derogatory term based on his prior life experience. It is so because it is a racial stereotype of a servant or slave. Ms. Dixon acknowledged to him that she has never heard Lauren Cooke say anything else derogatory toward Ms. Johnson. He could not explain why the investigation did not occur when the complaint was fresh in everyone's minds.

Testimony of Joetta M. Surace

Joetta M. Surace testified she has been employed by the Board of Education of Egg Harbor Township for thirty years and has been the director of Human Resources for six years. She started her employment with the school district as an English teacher, holds certificates as a teacher, a supervisor and a chief school administrator. As director of Human Resources she is responsible for teaching staff member hiring, qualification and accreditation, and professional development. She is also the Section 504 officer and the Affirmative Action officer. As the Affirmative Action officer she is involved in handling complaints of discrimination and improper conduct.

Ms. Surace became involved in this case in late December 2007. Dr. Philip Heery, the superintendent at that time, asked her to investigate this matter. An investigation performed by Dr. Fredericks, the supervisor of the involved teachers, was turned over to her. She received written statements from Ms. Johnson and she intended to meet with and interview Lauren Cooke in order to obtain her response to the allegations. However, Ms. Cooke had called out sick on December 17, 2007. At the time everyone in the school district believed that Ms. Cooke would be returning soon and she did not want to cause undue stress or impact on Ms. Cooke's recovery from her illness, so she decided to wait until Ms. Cooke returned to work before she interviewed her concerning these allegations.

When Ms. Cooke's return to work was delayed for several months, Ms. Surace contacted Ms. Johnson to explain the delay in her investigating this matter. Eventually she decided to meet with the witnesses and did so on May 15, 2008. She interviewed both Lynn Dixon and Jordan Burke (P-6). Both stated to her that something was said by Lauren Cooke but they were reluctant to tell her what was said. She again spoke to Jamesella Johnson to explain the delay. She then spoke to counsel and she subsequently met separately with Ms. Dixon and Ms. Burke and insisted that they advise her what occurred. Lynn Dixon provided her with a typed statement. Jordan Burke wrote a statement in which she indicated Ms. Cooke referred to Ms. Johnson as a "nigger." She compiled everything in a report and turned it over to the superintendent. She also wrote a memo concerning the meeting. She identified her computer notes that were prepared after the meeting.

Ms. Surace explained that there was a meeting on August 20, 2008, with Lauren Cooke to discuss accommodations because of Ms. Cooke's illness. After that discussion, Eileen Muskett questioned Ms. Cooke about this matter. When Ms. Muskett interviewed Lauren Cooke, Ms. Cooke denied everything. Her only other interview was that Ms. Johnson testified that Stephanie Tuthill had said to her that she had heard Ms. Cooke make derogatory comments about Ms. Johnson. She spoke to Ms. Tuthill, who denied that Ms. Cooke made any statement about Ms. Johnson.

On cross-examination, Ms. Surace testified that it was never brought to her attention that Lauren Cooke ever acted in a discriminatory manner in any other way. She acknowledged that Kathy Wasner, president of the teachers' union, may have advised Ms. Cooke of this investigation. However, she indicated she waited to confront Ms. Cooke with these allegations out of human kindness. As far as she knows, Ms. Cooke did not know anything about the allegations prior to the August 20, 2008, meeting. She testified there is nothing in the written policy about delaying the investigation.

Ms. Surace testified that the entire staff has been trained not make discriminatory statements. She acknowledges that the written brochures require immediate reporting of any racially discriminatory comments made by employees. She acknowledged there has never been a previous claim that Lauren Cooke ever made a discriminatory statement against anyone. Ms. Dixon indicated to her that Ms. Cooke made a discriminatory statement about Ms. Johnson in November 2006, in the teachers' room. Jordan Burke indicated that Ms. Cooke made the discriminatory statement about Ms. Johnson in June 2007, on Fun Day in the hallway coming in from Fun Day activities. She explained that Fun Day is a day of organized activities and games celebrating the close of the school year. Both of these occurred at the Davenport school. She admitted that when a comment is made it is important for the overhearing teacher to report it immediately. She knew nothing about the specifics of the allegations.

Both of the witnesses she spoke to claimed fear of reprisal by Ms. Cooke. There were stories they had heard about her attacking her husband's face and damaging his fishing equipment. She has never seen Lauren Cooke and Ms. Johnson interact. Mr. Labarka said that there had been no interaction between them for at least a couple of years. She overhead that Lauren Cooke said that Ms. Johnson wanted her job. She acknowledged the interview of Ms. Cooke was not taped although Mr. Van Syoc was present. It was Ms. Johnson who brought up Stephanie Tuthill and said that Ms. Tuthill heard Lauren Cooke say something, but it turned out not to be the case.

Testimony of Jordan A. Brown

Jordan A. Brown (nee Burke) testified that she was employed by the Egg Harbor Township Board of Education commencing in September 2006 until June 2009, when she moved to North Carolina. She has a Bachelor's degree in Speech Language Pathology and Audiology and was hired as a speech language pathologist. She taught students from pre-school to third grade both in mainstream classes and in pull-out classes. She met Ms. Cooke when they were co-workers at the C.J. Davenport Elementary school. Ms. Cooke was a Title I Basic Skills teacher. She spoke to her casually and as a co-worker. They had many of the same students. They had a friendly relationship as colleagues.

Ms. Brown testified that she heard Ms. Cooke state a racial epithet or slur in June 2007, in the main hallway of the elementary school. Students, some teachers and some parents were walking by within earshot. Ms. Cooke was discussing with her information that there were four Title I teachers and they were being split. Ms. Cooke specifically referred to Jamesella Johnson as a "nigger." This reference was offensive to her. She had no further discussions with Ms. Cooke afterwards. She recalls Ms. Cooke using the "N" word previously but does not recall when.

Ms. Brown indicated that she was aware of the school district's zero tolerance policy and its policy requiring notification of the school district of racial slurs immediately after they occurred. She admitted that she did not report this incident immediately. She was contacted by Joetta Surace, met with her twice and was questioned about the incident. She advised Ms. Surace what was said. Ms. Surace then asked that she put it in writing, and she replied that she did not want to do so because she was afraid of Ms. Cooke's reaction. She explained that Ms. Cooke has a strong personality and she has heard rumors of things that occurred. She eventually wrote a statement concerning the incident on June 16, 2008, and she identified it as her statement. (P-7).

On cross-examination, Ms. Brown said she is twenty-six years of age and is completing her Master's degree at the University of South Carolina. She has known Ms. Cooke since January or February 2007, when Ms. Cooke returned from an absence for medical reasons. They worked across the hall from each other. She does not remember when they first met but there were casual meetings in the hallway. She socialized with Ms. Cooke on only one occasion at Caroline's restaurant in Somers Point, New Jersey. Ms. Cooke was going on a date with someone and she called Ms. Brown and asked her to meet her at the restaurant so that she would not be alone with the date. She met Ms. Cooke at the restaurant and there was a gentleman who had a goatee, but she does not remember anything else about him. There was nothing else unusual about that occasion.

Ms. Brown acknowledged that her mother worked for the school district for fifteen years as an English as Second Language teacher, and is now an English language learner teacher. She recalls that the incident where Ms. Cooke used the "N" word was on "Fun Day" in June 2007. She explained that "Fun Day" is a day on which the students do not attend regular classes but engage in various kinds of fun activities such as playing games. She recalls that the incident occurred at about 9:30 a.m. because the children had not yet started their activities. It occurred in the school hallway, which is fifteen or sixteen feet-wide and very long. This incident occurred months after the meeting at Caroline's restaurant. There were many people in the immediate vicinity when Ms. Cooke used the "N" word, including approximately fifty first and second grade students, ages six or seven, returning from breakfast. There were also teachers present in the hallway, although she does not remember who they were, as well as parents. About a dozen people were within twelve feet; however, she cannot identify one other person who was in the vicinity.

Ms. Brown reported the incident after many months rather than in minutes. The training on zero tolerance policy was given by Dr. Heery, Ms. Surace and a professional trainer. They gave the policy in black and white and the policy provides that the teacher has an obligation to immediately report such an incident. She indicated that Ms. Cooke never asked her to lie. The date she signed the statement (P-7), June 16, 2008, was after her father spoke to an attorney and obtained legal advice. She could not recall other specific instances when Ms. Cooke used the "N" word. They were friendly and she admitted that Ms. Cooke would tell her who she was dating. She denied ever telling Ms. Cooke that she was emotionally unstable but admitted telling her that she has a problem with bulimia. Ms. Cooke has never tried to hurt her. There were only rumors about Ms. Cooke's hurting other people. She never heard that Ms. Cooke used the term "Aunt Jemima," but believed that the term is racist based on information she acquired in her life. She admitted there were a number of minority students and parents in the school district and she testified Ms. Cooke treated them with the same care as non-minority students and parents.

Ms. Brown did not remember that she gave any response to Ms. Cooke's use of the "N" word. The children in the vicinity were quiet since they were being supervised by a teacher who she believes was the gym teacher. She does not know if anyone else heard Ms. Cooke make the statement. She testified that Joetta Surace e-mailed her to meet with her and solicited this information from her.

Testimony of Tracie Walters Hurst

Tracie Walters Hurst testified that she resides in Northfield and is a third-grade classroom teacher. She has been a teacher since 1993, and has been in Egg Harbor Township since 1998, where she remains employed. She is certified to teach kindergarten through eighth grade. She explained that as a classroom teacher she has had other teachers come into the class to assist and others are pull-out teachers who take students out of the class. She has had Lauren Cooke as a "push in" or in-class teacher in Title I. She has had many meetings with Ms. Cooke where programs were discussed. They were co-workers but they only knew each other in school.

Ms. Hurst was aware of Ms. Cooke's use of some possible racial term at the end of November which could have been in either 2006 or 2007. Lynne Dixon, another Title I teacher, stopped in and told her something that Lauren Cooke had said to her to the effect that Ms. Cooke did not want to work in Title I kindergarten because she did not want to work with "that Aunt Jemima." When she heard that Ms. Cooke used that term, she thought of a house slave in the Civil War period.

Ms. Hurst testified that she has heard of other instances where Ms. Cooke would use inappropriate terms in referring to other teachers. For example, after a parent-teacher conference she knows that Ms. Cooke called another teacher a "dyke." Another teacher reported to her that Lauren Cooke called Jamesellen Johnson a "n----- b----."

Because of these incidents she told Jamesellen Johnson she heard that Lauren Cooke had called her a "n----- b----." After this Dr. Fredericks asked her to come to his office. She then reported what she had heard. She admitted that she had never personally heard Lauren Cooke utter these statements.

On cross-examination Ms. Hurst admitted she had never heard any of these slurs directly from Lauren Cooke. One of the teachers who reported these incidents to her was Shannon Ward who was allegedly called a dyke. She admitted that Ms. Ward and Ms. Cooke are friends and that Ms. Ward asked Ms. Cooke about this and Ms. Cooke denied ever calling her a dyke. She also indicated that Kandace Blvt reported to her that Ms. Cooke called Ms. Johnson a "n----- b----."

Ms. Hurst testified that she worked with Ms. Cooke in the same classroom and that Ms. Cooke always treated all children correctly. She admitted she was trained to report immediately when a racial slur was used so it could be investigated. She admitted that she did not report this immediately. She stated that while there was tension between her and Ms. Cooke about the program, there was never any friction between them in the classroom. She sent e-mails to Ms. Cooke because of scheduling but they never had any run-ins with each other. She admitted telling Jamesella Johnson about this rather than the school officials.

Testimony of Lynne Dixon

Ms. Dixon testified that she lives in Egg Harbor Township, New Jersey, and has been employed at the Egg Harbor Township school district as a teacher for fifteen years. In the 2006-07 school year she was at the Davenport school teaching basic and remedial skills with two pull-out students. Both she and Ms. Cooke taught Title I students. Their relationship was as co-workers and they had a cordial and friendly working relationship.

Ms. Dixon attended workshops concerning racial slurs and is aware of the policies at Egg Harbor Township school district concerning the use of racial terms. In addition, the faculty handbook, which is given to teaching staff every year with the employment contract, makes it clear that racial slurs are not tolerated.

Ms. Dixon testified that she heard racial slurs by Ms. Cooke in approximately November 2007, when she was in the teachers' room. Ms. Cooke was upset that day and said to her, "You teach third grade," and continued, "I can't work with Barbara or 'Aunt Jemima.'" Ms. Dixon testified that she knew Ms. Cooke was referring to Jamesella Johnson with a racially incorrect term and she took it as a racially incorrect term. It was upsetting and it was wrong. She admitted she did not do anything about it at the time.

In June 2008, Dr. Fredericks called her in to meet with her. At the meeting, when he confronted her whether this incident occurred, she denied it at first. She later told him and Ms. Surace about it. The incident was upsetting to her because Ms. Johnson is a great teacher and did her job. She testified that she had the same relationship with Ms. Cooke after the incident as before.

On cross-examination, Ms. Dixon acknowledged she has had a cordial relationship with Ms. Cooke both before and after the statement. She also acknowledged that Aunt Jemima is a brand name for pancake and syrup products.

Ms. Dixon admitted walking into Tracy Hurst's room on one occasion when Ms. Hurst said to her, "Can't you be our teacher because it is tough to work with Lauren Cooke." Her perception was that there was friction between Lauren Cooke and Tracy Hurst.

Ms. Dixon estimated that the teachers' room where Ms. Cooke made the comment was approximately twenty-four-feet-by-sixteen-feet. There were ten or twelve teachers in the room. Ms. Cooke made the comment in a normal voice. She does not recall the names of any of the other teachers in the room because she was not paying attention at the time. She also testified that she has never been in the same classroom with Lauren Cooke but Ms. Cooke treats all of the students the same and is always nice. She also always seemed nice to parents.

Testimony of Jamesella Johnson

Jamesella Johnson testified that she has been employed in the Egg Harbor Township school district since 1979, although she left to serve in the Army and returned in 1990. In 2006, she was employed as a teacher in the Remedial Services Program. She did not work with or alongside Ms. Cooke. Ms. Cooke was a basic skills teacher when Ms. Johnson was a classroom teacher through 2003. In 2006-07, they were team members on the Remedial Services Team. Her relationship with Lauren Cooke in 2006-2007 was as a colleague. She had no social relationship with Ms. Cooke and only taught. Ms. Cooke never used a derogatory term addressing her or in her presence.

Ms. Johnson testified that she learned in 2004 that Lauren Cooke used a derogatory term. However, this was not the subject of this proceeding. She learned for a second time in 2007, that Lauren Cooke used a derogatory racial term towards her. It was December 2007, when she ran into Ms. Hurst who was upset by program issues. At the time, they had been told that they could not talk directly to Dr. Fredericks concerning these issues. However, they decided they would walk to Dr. Fredericks' office to discuss the matter with him. On the walk over Ms. Hurst told her that Lauren Cook called her a "N.B." In response to the question whether she perceives the letters "N.B." to be "nigger bitch," she said yes.

After Ms. Johnson was told this, and after they attempted to see Dr. Fredericks who was unavailable, she went back to her room and was very upset. She felt that if these were the kinds of things being said to an adult educator what kind of information is being given to the children. Ms. Johnson eventually spoke to Dr. Fredericks who questioned her about the incident. She wanted to know what the process would be to resolve this situation. Dr. Fredericks got back to her the next day, which was either Thursday December 13 or Friday December 14, 2007.

On cross-examination, Ms. Johnson indicated that the information from Ms. Hurst was particularly hurtful. No one ever told her that Lauren Cooke denied ever saying this or that she wanted to sit down and meet with her in order to deny ever saying this. She admitted that this information about the incidents is required to be reported immediately to nip it in the bud and to allow the accused to defend herself. She admitted that for years she and Lauren Cooke did not talk to one another. She heard something from Lauren Cooke before this incident. However, she did not disclose it to school officials because she did not want to give credence to ignorance. She explained that it involved Lauren Cooke referring to someone as a "dot head." However, she just let it go even though she felt it was offensive. She also feels that the term Aunt Jemima is derogatory. She wanted to ask Ms. Cooke if she said the statement and if so she wanted an apology. She does not need to work in a negative environment and wanted to know the rules. She never said to Lauren Cooke that she wanted her job. She never looked down and had to veer off while they were walking toward each other. She admitted hearing the term "malicious gossip" in the workplace. She has never watched Lauren Cooke teach.

Testimony of Lauren Cooke

Lauren Cooke testified that she has been employed as a teacher by Egg Harbor Township Board of Education for seventeen years since 1993. She teaches Title I services to remediate students' problems with reading and math.

During her employment, she came to know Jordan Burke and she also worked with her mother, Lori Burke. She met Lori Burke when she first started to teach. When Lori's daughter, Jordan, started teaching in the school district, she worked with her as a Title I teacher, but not in the same classroom.

Ms. Cooke was questioned about an allegation that on Fun Day 2007 in a conversation with Ms. Burke, she allegedly stated that she could not work with Jamesella Johnson and that she mentioned the word "nigger" as part of the reason why she could not work with her. In response to the question whether she used the "N" word on that day or any other day pertaining to Ms. Johnson, Ms. Cooke stated that she did not.

Ms. Cooke considered herself to be a friend of Jordon Burke, but not a close friend. They went out on one occasion at Caroline's Bar and Restaurant in Somers Point during the spring about four or five years ago. She was dating a person and was meeting him at Caroline's for the first time and Jordon Burke lived a block away so she went out with her on that one occasion.

Ms. Cooke testified that the school district provided annual training about what conduct is and is not appropriate, and whether or not using racial or other types of discriminatory slurs were appropriate in the workplace. There was a demonstration on the stage and it is also in the handbook and they were trained in these policies. It was her understanding that if she deliberately violated those policies she could lose her job.

Ms. Cooke indicated that she did not remember speaking directly to Jordon Burke on Fun Day 2007 or a specific incident.

Ms. Cooke testified that the student population she has taught over sixteen years is very diversified. It consists of African-Americans, Asians, Caucasians, Hispanics, a little bit of everything. She has worked with a diverse student population for most of the seventeen years she has been with the school district. She has also interacted with the parents of that diverse student population. She testified that, to her knowledge, there has never been even one complaint by any parent based on her interaction with them or their children. She has no disciplinary history at the school district. She has never been brought up on any charge for anything.

Ms. Cooke testified she did not receive any kind of notification of this claim until August 2008. Fun Day was in May or June of 2007. The first time that she learned about it was when she came to a meeting to speak about accommodations for her disability. There is no doubt in her mind that she never used the "N" word on that occasion.

Ms. Cooke was also questioned about the allegation that at approximately the end of November 2007, while in the teachers' room, she told Lynn Dixon, "I can't work with Barbara or Aunt Jemima." She never heard a claim that using the phrase "Aunt Jemima" is in some way racially derogatory. She has seen Aunt Jemima products, but it was not her impression that displaying these products in a grocery store was some sort of racial slur. She denied ever using the term "Aunt Jemima" to refer to anybody, including Ms. Johnson or anyone else.

Ms. Cooke testified that the assertion she discussed something with Jordan Burke in the hallway on Fun Day does not trigger a recollection of any such discussion. She also testified that the teachers' room is a place where teachers go to make copies, have coffee, and use phones and there is also a computer, and the teachers in that room would be of different races. She acknowledged that in 2008, the only other teacher that was not Caucasian was an African-American. She denied ever being in the teachers' room speaking with Ms. Dixon about Ms. Johnson. She indicated that her relationship with either Ms. Dixon or Ms. Burke was not so close or intimate that she would be likely to use a racial slur if she were inclined to do so. Her relationship with Ms. Dixon was that of a co-worker who also taught Title I. Occasionally they would compare lessons but they only socialized outside the workplace once or twice. That was when she and her ex-husband went to Florida and they might have gone to dinner with Ms. Dixon once or twice. In the fall 2007, there was no friction between her and Ms. Dixon.

Ms. Cooke first found out that someone was alleging she had made racial slurs from her union representative, Cathy Wazen. She first heard it in January 2008. When she heard it, she felt it was a horrible thing and she wanted to have a meeting to talk this out because her reputation was at stake and she takes pride in her career. She did not hear anything about this until August 2008, when she was questioned by Ms. Muskett, the attorney for the school district. She responded truthfully to Ms. Muskett's questions. She was shocked, appalled and mortified to hear this rumor. She did not call Dr. Fredericks or Ms. Surace. She assumed the Board would contact her. She indicated that the last time she saw Ms. Dixon and Ms. Burke, they were on speaking terms in passing and their relationship was cordial and there were no grudges between them and her. There were no social interactions between the three of them which might have soured. She acknowledges that she went out on disability in December.

In response to my questions, Ms. Cooke stated that there was never an occasion on Fun Day in June 2007 when she was given class assignments that she was not happy with. She did acknowledge that Dr. Fredericks observed her and after that, he advised her he would like her to go to a new school to teach. She did not have a negative reaction to that. When Ms. Wazen advised her of the claim, Ms. Cooke stated to her that she would be willing to meet with anyone to discuss this, but nothing ever happened as a result of that.

Analysis of the testimony

This case involves two witnesses, Ms. Brown and Ms. Dixon, attributing to Ms. Cooke a racial slur and a racially derogatory description, which the appellant denies occurred. Thus, I must assess the credibility of the witnesses in order to determine whether either or both of the statements were made by Ms. Cooke.

Credibility is that quality of testimony or evidence which makes it worthy of belief. Testimony to be believed must be credible itself. It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances. In Re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura- Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

In order to assess credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness' expression, tone of voice and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transportation Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). In addition, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. In State v. Spruill, 16 N.J. 73 (1954), the Court looked to the interest of a party in the outcome of a trial as a factor in evaluating the evidence, stating that every fact or circumstance tending to show the witness' relation to the case or the parties is admissible in order to determine the weight to be given to his evidence. (Ibid. at 78.)

The testimony of Jordan Brown was that she heard Ms. Cooke make a racial epithet or slur by referring to Jamesella Johnson as "nigger." From Ms. Brown's expression, tone of voice and demeanor during her testimony, it was clear that she was nervous and upset about testifying. At one point during her testimony, she became upset to the point that a recess of several minutes was required. This nervousness may be an indication that Ms. Brown was being untruthful. In addition, even though Ms. Brown was aware of the school district's zero tolerance policy toward such conduct and its policy requiring notification of racial slurs immediately after they occur, she acknowledged that she did not report this incident immediately. In fact, it was only after she had been contacted by Ms. Surace, met with her and was questioned about the incident that she stated what was said. Even then, Ms. Brown was reluctant to provide a written statement concerning the incident and did not do so until approximately a year after its occurrence after seeking the advice of counsel. Certainly her delay in reporting this incident also raises questions concerning her credibility.

On the other hand, there are other possible explanations for Ms. Brown's obvious distress. It may be inferred from her testimony that she was reluctant to come forward because she had heard rumors about Ms. Cooke and was fearful of her. It may have been this fear that caused her distress. She explained that her failure to report the incident immediately was because Ms. Cooke has a strong personality and she was afraid of Ms. Cooke's reaction. Ms. Brown's concern about the reaction of Ms. Cooke was consistent with the testimony of other witnesses. The easy path to avoid this distress would have been for Ms. Brown to deny hearing Ms. Cooke utter a racial slur. Instead, Ms. Brown came forward, albeit reluctantly, and testified against Ms. Cooke. In addition, the surrounding circumstances seem to support the occurrence since it did occur at a time when Ms. Cooke had been advised of a reassignment with Ms. Johnson.

Also supporting Ms. Brown's credibility were the details she testified to concerning the date when the incident occurred and the location where it occurred. Ms. Brown's testimony that she had a friendly relationship with Ms. Cooke as colleagues and they socialized together on at least one occasion was not disputed. Thus, it may be inferred from the testimony of both Ms. Brown and Ms. Cooke that Ms. Cooke believed that Ms. Brown was a trusted friend and she used the racial slur in front of someone she trusted would not divulge it.

Finally, I have been unable to discern anything in the record or the surrounding circumstances to establish that Ms. Brown has any interest in the outcome of these proceedings or any undisclosed motive or bias, other than being truthful. It is for all of these reasons that I consider Ms. Brown's testimony to be credible.

The testimony of Lynne Dixon was that in November 2007, when she was in the teachers' room, Ms. Cooke was upset and stated that she could not work with "Aunt Jemima," referring to Jamesella Johnson with a racially incorrect term. Ms. Dixon's expression, tone of voice and demeanor were not unusual. She provided her testimony in a "matter of fact" way and I could discern no sign that her testimony was contrived.

Ms. Dixon also acknowledged she was aware of the policy of the school district that racial slurs are not tolerated and that they are to be reported immediately. Despite this, she admitted that she did not report Ms. Cooke's statement at the time it occurred. She also admitted she initially denied it occurred when she was confronted by Dr.

Fredericks in June 2008. However, she later admitted it occurred and provided a written statement.

Ms. Dixon testified that her relationship with Ms. Cooke was as co-workers and they had a cordial and friendly working relationship. Her details concerning the circumstances surrounding the incident are somewhat sketchy. She described the teachers' room and indicated there were ten or twelve teachers present, but she could not recall the names of any of the teachers because she was not paying attention at the time. She also testified that Ms. Cooke has always treated all students and parents well.

In reviewing the record of testimony and evidence, I could discern from no motive or interest on the part of Ms. Dixon other than being truthful in her testimony. Her testimony was not incredible or inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience. There is simply no evidence in the record showing that Ms. Dixon's testimony was anything less than credible, and I considered her to be credible.

During Ms. Cooke's testimony, her expression, tone of voice and demeanor were not unusual. She also provided her testimony in a "matter of fact" way and I could discern no sign that her testimony was contrived. I also note that the testimony of virtually all of the witnesses was to the effect that Ms. Cooke always treated all children and their parents correctly, no matter their racial background.

Ms. Cooke testified emphatically that she never uttered either the "N" word or used the term "Aunt Jemima" in referring to Jamesella Johnson. She stated that she never used either of these words. She considered herself to be a friend of Jordon Burke but not a close friend. Although denying that she used the term "Aunt Jemima," she said she never heard anyone claim that using that phrase was in some way racially derogatory. She indicated that her relationship with Ms. Dixon or Ms. Burke was not so close or intimate that she would be likely to use a racial slur if she were inclined to do so. Her relationship with Ms. Dixon was only that of a co-worker and they only socialized outside of the workplace once or twice when they and their spouses were on vacation in Florida. Ms. Cooke denied any friction between her and Ms. Dixon. In short, Ms. Cooke could not explain any basis or reason why Ms. Burke or Ms. Dixon would make untrue allegations against her.

While I did not believe that Ms. Cooke's testimony was incredible, her testimony was overborne by the testimony of the two credible witnesses having no apparent motive for being less than truthful.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After assessing the credibility of the witnesses, and based upon the preponderance of the credible evidence in the record, I FIND the following as FACTS:

1. Lauren Cooke has been employed as an elementary school teacher in the Egg Harbor Township School District for more than sixteen years.
2. Ms. Cooke is a tenured teacher in the school district.
3. On "Fun Day" in June 2008, the date of the first incident, Ms. Cooke was speaking to Jordan Brown, another teacher in the hallway of the Davenport school.
4. The conversation took place during school hours with teachers and school children present.
5. During this conversation, Ms. Cooke referred to a third teacher, Jamesella Johnson, as a "nigger."
6. Ms. Brown was more than an acquaintance but less than a close friend of Ms. Cooke; under the circumstances I infer that Ms. Cooke's belief was that Ms. Brown was a friend and confident and that the use of the derogatory term in referring to Ms. Johnson would not be divulged to others.
7. Despite their presence, there is no evidence in the record that Ms. Cooke's derogatory statement was overheard by either other teaching staff members or students.

8. Thereafter, Ms. Brown told a third party about Ms. Cooke's statements and the matter eventually came to the attention of school district officials.
9. In November 2007, the date of a second alleged incident, Ms. Cooke was speaking to Lynne Dixon, another teacher in the teachers' lounge of the Davenport elementary school.
10. The conversation took place during school hours in the teachers' lounge with other teachers present.
11. During said conversation, Ms. Cooke referred to a third teacher, Jamesella Johnson, as "Aunt Jemima."
12. While Aunt Jemima is a cooking and baking product, it also connotes servitude involving cooking services provided by an African-American woman to a Caucasian "master" in circumstances of servitude or slavery.
13. Ms. Dixon was more than an acquaintance but less than a close friend; under the circumstances I also infer that Ms. Cooke's belief was that Ms. Dixon was a friend and confident and that the use of the term "Aunt Jemima" in referring to Ms. Johnson would not be divulged to others.
14. There is no evidence in the record that Ms. Cooke's derogatory statement was overheard by teaching staff members present in the teachers' lounge.
15. Thereafter, Ms. Dixon told a third party about Ms. Cooke's statements and the matter eventually came to the attention of officials of the school district.
16. Egg Harbor Township Board of Education Policy No. 3281 Inappropriate Staff Conduct, applies to the actions and conduct of Ms. Cooke
17. Egg Harbor Township Board of Education Policy No. 5000 Pupils, 5512.01 Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying is not applicable to Ms. Cooke.
18. While Ms. Clarke made inappropriate racial derogatory comments toward another teaching staff member, the proofs are lacking to show that her actions fall within the definition of harassment, intimidation and bullying found at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and are in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.9(a)(2)(vi) and Board of Education Policy Number 5512.01.

19. There is no evidence in the record that Ms. Cooke violated Egg Harbor Township Board of Education Policy Number 3281, inappropriate staff conduct, by lying to an administrator during an investigation.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation, "(a) if [she] is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the State . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause . . ."

The term unbecoming conduct is elastic and broadly defined to include any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and competence in the operation of [public] services." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct "need not be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule of regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartman v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 22, 40 (App. Div. 1992).

Because of the position of public trust in which their profession places them, teachers are held to certain prescribed standards of behavior. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School Dist. of Black Horse Pike Reg., Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, the Commissioner in speaking about teachers stated:

> [T]hey are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and > controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. ... Those who teach do so by choice, and in this respect the teaching profession is more than a simple job; it is a calling.

Thus, because of their custody and care of children, teachers are necessarily required to exercise a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior unlike most other types of employment. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Lucarelli, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 537, 541. Teachers hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Tordo, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99.

In I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Romanoli, the superintendent used foul and abusive language against a member of the Board of Education. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Romanoli, 1975 S.L.D. 352. The incident occurred after midnight in a school parking lot subsequent to a conference meeting of the Board of Education. Id. at 353. The superintendent did not deny using epithets and four-letter obscenities, but argued that his "private" actions were insufficient "to warrant the imposition by the Commissioner of one of the penalties described in [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10]." Id. at 354. In ruling in favor of the superintendent, the Commissioner concurred that the 'private nature' of the incident was a bar to the exercise of any authority by him. Specifically, the conversation was after school hours and limited in scope to an exchange between two parties. Id. at 356. Thus, in essence, the Commissioner held that a superintendent is not, under all circumstances, a public person but that he is possessed also of private privilege. Id. at 357. On the date in question, the superintendent was acting pursuant to such privilege. According to the Commissioner, "[a] decision to the contrary would mandate the formulation of a graduated set of moral, ethical, and legal standards applicable to the use of language by public school employees in private situations ..." Ibid. (emphasis added).[4]

In Ridgefield Park Educ. Ass'n v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Educ., a superintendent had directed racial slurs against an African-American custodian. Ridgefield Park Educ. Ass'n v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Educ., EDU 9169-83, initial decision, (May 08, 1984), aff'd, Comm'r of Educ., (June 25, 1984), rev'd., State Bd. of Educ., (Feb. 06, 1985), aff'd., No. A-2859-84 (App. Div. Dec. 24, 1985). Specifically, it was charged that after a Board meeting, the superintendent had nodded to the custodian and said to a fellow board member, "Do you know what all these people have in common - they have pussy hair on their heads." Id. at *2 (initial decision). The local board refused to certify the charge, contending that although it found probable cause to credit the charge, it did not merit either dismissal or reduction of salary. Ibid. Although the ALJ and Commissioner ruled to the contrary, the State Board of Education reversed and upheld the local board's decision. Id. at *6 (State BOE decision). The Board explained, > [r]eview of the case law reveals no case in which a single incident involving an offensive comment made after school hours to a non-student where no students were present was the basis for dismissal or reduction in salary. We therefore conclude that given the status of the existing law, it was proper for the Ridgefield Board to conclude that, in light of the Assistant Superintendant's overall pattern of conduct, this one isolated incident in which a comment was made to an adult employee after the work day during casual discussion was not sufficiently flagrant to warrant a penalty.

> [Id. at *6-7 (State BOE decision) (emphasis added).]

The Board, however, explicitly stated that their holding was case-specific and did not stand for the assertion that a "sexually or racially offensive remark made to individuals other than students may never warrant dismissal or reduction in salary." Id. at *7 (State BOE).

[4] "This determination is limited to the specific factual circumstances in this case. It does not negate numerous prior decisions of the Commissioner and the courts that private conduct may, in other circumstances, properly be the subject of a charge before the Commissioner." Ibid (emphasis added).

In accord with the Board's disclaimer, New Jersey case-law strongly supports the proposition that use of racial/sexual/ethnic epithets constitutes unbecoming conduct when uttered in the presence of children during school hours. In Astacio-Borja v. Bd. of Educ. of the Passaic County Technical-Vocational Sch. Dist., a tenured teacher verbally assaulted another teacher in a lunchroom filled with students. Astacio-Borja v. Bd. of Educ. of the Passaic County Technical-Vocational Sch. Dist., EDU 5963-96, initial decision, (February 13, 1998), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, adopted,[5] Comm'r (March 30, 1998) <http://www.state.nj.us/education/legal/index.html>. In particular, the offending teacher (hereinafter "Mr. T") called Ms. Astacio-Borja an 'illegal alien' who "swam here across the Rio Grande." Mr. T stated that Hispanics "should not be in this country" and "you and all your people should be sent home." Finally, Mr. T pointed to Ms. Astacio-Borja's school identification and yelled that she should be instead wearing a "green card." Ibid. Not surprisingly, ALJ Gerson concluded that the tenured teacher's comments were sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary.[6] Ibid.

While the teacher in Astacio-Borja, supra, made numerous ethnic and racial statements in the presence of students, the following two cases stand for the proposition that a single derogatory slur made in the presence of children is sufficient to dismiss a tenured teacher or reduce the teacher's salary. In I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Matecki, Ms. Matecki instructed a class of seventh graders to straighten up their books and clean up the room before leaving the classroom. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Matecki, 1971 S.L.D. 566. When only one student complied, Ms. Matecki instructed him to sit down and not do "nigger work." Id. at 567.[7]. In I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of [5] The Commissioner also remanded the matter to the local board to certify Count I of the charges.

[6] The crux of Ms. Borja's claim was that the Board abused its discretion by failing to certify tenure charges against Mr. T. ALJ Gerson agreed with petitioner, concluding, "[t]he Board's action in determining not to certify tenure charges against Mr. [T] was unreasonable and constitutes an abuse of its discretion. Not only is the charge in the matter admittedly creditable, but prior cases clearly indicate that either a dismissal or reduction in salary would be warranted." Ibid.
[7] In the interest of full disclosure, the student was white, while the class as well as the school was predominantly black. Id. at 570. The teacher was subsequently dismissed. Id. at 574. The circumstances surrounding her dismissal will be discussed in the following section.

Poston, an eighth grade teacher told a student "your mother's a dyke" in front of the entire class. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Poston, EDU 03876-05, initial decision, (July 19, 2006), adopted with modification, Comm'r. (October 19, 2006) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. An investigation revealed that the student had been disruptive throughout the class and had provoked the teacher into losing her temper by repeatedly calling her a "dyke" in front of the class. Ibid. Taking these mitigating circumstances into consideration, the ALJ nevertheless found the teacher culpable of unbecoming conduct and suspended her for thirty days without pay.[8]

Finally, and certainly most helpful to deciding this case, New Jersey case-law supports the proposition that a tenured teacher's mere use of the word "nigger' in a school setting is per se unbecoming conduct. I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Emri, EDU 4579-00, initial decision, (August 30, 2002), adopted with modification, Comm'r., (October 21, 2002), adopted with modification, State Bd. of Educ., (December 03, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. In this case, Ms. Emri was having extreme difficulty with an African-American student in her class. While walking through a hallway with the assistant principal and discussing the student's extensive disciplinary history, Ms. Emri stated the student was "just your typical nigger". Ibid.[9] Reviewing the mitigating evidence before her, the ALJ opined that, "[e]ven though there [is] convincing testimony that Emri [was] not a racist, [had] African-American friends and as a teacher discourage[d] discrimination, this does not mean that she would not use, under any circumstances, the word "nigger" to describe a difficult student." Ibid. The ALJ concluded, "the use of the word "nigger" is so inappropriate as to constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher." Ibid (emphasis added). On review, the Commissioner agreed that Ms. Emri's remarks constituted unbecoming conduct. Id. at *92 (Comm'r. Decision). Thus, it appears that mere utterance of the word "nigger" by a teacher during [8] To quote the ALJ, the student was able to "stress respondent to a point of using poor judgment, and incite her to retaliate with unbecoming language which was inappropriate of the standards expected of teachers." Ibid. (emphasis added).

[9] There is no indication that students were present in the hallway.

school hours can constitute unbecoming conduct regardless of whether any students are in the vicinity when the word is spoken.[10]

Based on the guidance provided by the above-cited cases, and based on the Findings of Fact stated above, I CONCLUDE that on "Fun Day" in June 2008, when Ms. Cooke was speaking to Jordan Brown, another teacher, in the hallway of the Davenport school during school hours with teachers and school children present, and referred to a third teacher, Jamesella Johnson, as a "nigger" she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

Based on the guidance provided by the above-cited cases, and based on the Findings of Fact stated above, I further CONCLUDE that in November 2007, when Ms. Cooke was speaking to Lynne Dixon, another teacher in the teachers' lounge of the Davenport elementary school during school hours with other teachers present, and Ms. Cooke referred to a third teacher, Jamesella Johnson, as "Aunt Jemima," she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. I have reached this conclusion because the term "Aunt Jemima" carries the connotation of servitude or slavery involving cooking services provided by an African-American woman to a Caucasian "master."

I also CONCLUDE that by these incidents of unbecoming conduct, Ms. Cooke violated school district policy 3281 by engaging in inappropriate staff behavior.

Penalty

Where a teaching staff member is found guilty of violating the public trust, factors to be considered in assessing penalty include the nature and gravity of the offense; any extenuating or aggravating circumstances; and the effect on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In I/M/O the Tenure

[10] In a separate count, Ms. Emri was found to have called the same student a "nigger" during the course of a private conversation with another teacher. The ALJ likewise found this incident so inappropriate as to constitute unbecoming conduct. Ibid.

Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J.Super. 404, 420-422 (App. Div. 1967). Courts recognize that even a single instance of misconduct is enough to justify removal of an unfit teacher, if it is sufficiently flagrant. Redclay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), affd. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E&A 1944).

Penalties must be assessed on a case-by-case basis. Factors to be considered in assessing a penalty include the nature and gravity of the offense under all of the circumstances involved; any mitigating or aggravating factors; impact of the penalty on the teacher's career; and any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. at 422. Absent flagrant misconduct, dismissal is usually reserved for cases in which there has been a continuing pattern of misconduct accompanied by prior warnings. Id. at 421. In the context of a teacher tenure case, ". . .the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974) certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

In Matecki, supra, Ms. Matecki was dismissed for using the term 'nigger' in her predominantly African-American seventh grade class.[11] Of paramount importance, the principal testified that "he believed that the safety and welfare of both [Ms. Matecki] and the pupils in the school would be jeopardized if [Ms. Matecki] returned to the schools of New Brunswick." Matecki, supra, 1971 S.L.D. at 569. In fact, the uncontested testimony of the school administrators asserted that a major school disruption was imminent if Ms. Matecki returned. According to the administrators, "the pupils were planning, as stated in their language, to "Turn out" [Ms. Matecki's] classroom." Id. at 574. Taking into consideration past action of the pupils, the predominantly African-American makeup of the school, and the threatening statements made, the Commissioner deemed the incident grounds for dismissal. Ibid. The Commissioner concluded that, "the conduct of the teacher in the matter heretofore detailed was a demonstration of unprofessional conduct so gross, and so fraught with peril to the continued safety and well-being of both the teacher and the pupils, as to warrant the forfeiture of tenure rights." Id. at 575.

[11] Some of the cases from the preceding section will not be mentioned in this section. In those cases, the teacher was also found culpable of serious misconduct other than the use of derogatory language. As such, a review of the penalties in those cases would be misleading and exaggerated for our purposes.

While the circumstances in Matecki, supra, left the Commissioner with no choice but to dismiss the tenured teacher, the following two cases demonstrate that suspension is generally more appropriate. In Poston, supra, a teacher told a disruptive student that his mother was a dyke in front of her entire eighth grade class. Taking into consideration all of the circumstances, including provocation, the ALJ suspended the teacher for thirty days without pay. On review, however, the Commissioner found the suspension insufficient, regardless of how grievously provoked, and increased the penalty to include the forfeiture of the 120 days of salary already withheld from Ms. Poston pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Poston, supra, EDU 03876-05 at final decision <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

Finally, in Jayson H. Burg v. State Operated Sch. Dist. of the City of Newark, the ALJ determined that Mr. Burg's comments in the presence of fourth graders warranted a two-month suspension without pay. Jayson H. Burg v. State Operated Sch. Dist. of the City of Newark, EDU 3291-97, initial decision, (October 30, 1997) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, aff'd in part & rev'd in part, Comm'r (December 18, 1997) <http://www.state.nj.us/education/legal/>, aff'd, State BOE, (June 03, 1998) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. In particular, the ALJ determined that Mr. Burg had made two inappropriate and insensitive comments and ordered Mr. Burg. Ibid. The Commissioner, however, reversed in part, finding that in addition to the two comments[12], Mr. Burg had also used the word "nigger" in the fourth grade classroom. Id. at 18 (Comm'r. Decision). Accordingly, the Commissioner increased Mr. Burg's penalty to include forfeiture of 120 days' salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Id. at 21.

[12] Mr. Burg made an inappropriate reference to "The Boys in The Hood" while in class. Mr. Burg had also told a three year old student not to touch his tape recorder because his mother could not afford to replace it. Ibid.

In the case at hand, while speaking to Jordan Brown, Ms. Cooke referred to Jamesella Johnson as a "nigger." Ms. Cooke's statements were made during school hours, in the school hallway and in the presence of teachers and children. In accordance with New Jersey case-law, Ms. Cooke's one-time use of the word "nigger" constitutes unbecoming conduct. First, as a public role model, Ms. Cooke's actions are judged with more scrutiny than that of a typical government employee. Second, as an elementary school teacher, Ms. Cooke was arguably required to exercise an even greater degree of self-restraint. Unfortunately, her failure to act appropriately has recklessly put young children at risk, has created unnecessary tension among the teachers and has cast doubt as to her fitness to teach impressionable children. Although Ms. Cooke did not direct her comments at Ms. Johnson or the children, Emri, supra, stands for the proposition that a teacher's mere use of the word "nigger" is sufficient for unbecoming conduct. Such is the case, irrespective of whether children where in the vicinity of the teacher when the racial slur was uttered. Finally, Ms. Cooke's reference to Ms. Johnson as "Aunt Jemima" on a prior occasion portray a pattern of behavior rather than an isolated incident.

To adequately ascertain the appropriate penalty in this case, a list of aggravating and mitigating factors is in order:

I. Aggravating Factors

- Ms. Cooke's statements were made during school hours;
- Ms. Cooke's reference to another teacher as a "nigger" was made in the presence of children and other teachers;
- Ms. Cooke is a teaching staff member in an elementary school;
- Ms. Cooke's statements were said out of anger and not in a joking manner;
- Ms. Cooke referred to the same teacher as "Aunt Jemima" on a subsequent occasion.

Mitigating Factors

- Ms. Cooke has been teaching for more than sixteen years;
- Ms. Cooke has not been disciplined in the past.
- Neither the teacher who was the subject of the slurs nor the children heard Ms. Cooke's statements;
- Ms. Cooke made the racial remarks believing that they were being made in confidence to friends;
- School district officials only learned of the remarks after the teachers to whom they were made related them to another individual;
- Ms. Cooke did not direct her racial remarks at a student;
- Ms. Cooke did not direct her racial remarks directly at the other teacher.

In this case, I CONCLUDE that dismissal of Ms. Cooke from her teaching position is not justified because her conduct does not establish her unfitness to discharge the duties and functions of her office or position as a teacher. The racial slur and use of a racially derogatory term by Ms. Cooke were intended to be made in confidence and were not public statements. Furthermore, the circumstances surrounding Ms. Cooke's comments appear to be less egregious than in Poston, supra, as well as Burg, supra. In Poston, supra, the teacher called the student's mother a dyke in front of her entire class. Here, Ms. Cooke made derogatory statements in the context of a private conversation. In Burg, supra, the teacher used the word "nigger" in front of the entire fourth grade class and was found to have made two other inappropriate comments in front of the children. In Poston the ultimate penalty was a thirty-day suspension without pay and forfeiture of 120 days of salary, while in Burg the petitioner was suspended for two months without pay and also forfeited 120 days of salary. Based on the mitigating and aggravating factors presented herein, I CONCLUDE it would be reasonable to suspend Ms. Cooke for 150 days.

DECISION AND ORDER

As to Charge 1, I have determined that while respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by making inappropriate racial derogatory comments toward another staff member, the proofs are lacking to show that her actions fall within the definition of harassment, intimidation and bullying found at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and are in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.9(a)(2)(vi) and Board of Education Policy Number 5512.01. Therefore, respondent is NOT GUILTY of Charge 1.

As to Charge 2, I have determined that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating Board of Education Policy Number 3281, inappropriate staff conduct, by engaging in inappropriate behavior by making racial comments in referring to another staff member, and is GUILTY of this charge.

As to Charge 3, I have determined that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating the law against discrimination by engaging in inappropriate behavior by making racial comments toward another staff member, and is GUILTY of this charge.

As to Charge 4, I have determined that the proofs are lacking to establish that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by violating Egg Harbor Township Board of Education Policy Number 3281, inappropriate staff conduct, by lying to an administrator during an investigation, and that respondent is NOT GUILTY of this charge.

While I have found respondent's conduct in these matters was unbecoming, the foregoing findings do not establish her unfitness to discharge the duties and functions of her office or position as a teacher, and that her removal is not justified. Therefore, I ORDER that the respondent shall receive a 150-day suspension from duty without pay as an appropriate discipline for these charges of unbecoming conduct for the reasons expressed above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioner's tenured position as an English teacher in a pre-school extended-day/extended-year program was eliminated in response to a reduction in State aid in 2008, and petitioner was reassigned to a regular program and position, effectively reducing her salary. Petitioner contended that her seniority rights were violated when three teachers with less seniority were reassigned to extended-day/extended-year programs for kindergarten through grade eight. Petitioner sought recalculation of her seniority and a reassignment to an extended-day/extended-year program and position. At a prehearing conference, the parties agreed that no genuine issues of fact existed, and filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found that: 125 pre-school teachers were reassigned to regular-school programs in response to a reduction in State aid, and the reassignments resulted in a reduction in salary for all affected teachers; three teachers reassigned to extended-day/extended-year programs for kindergarten through grade eight were less senior than petitioner, but had become highly qualified teachers under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001; petitioner had not become highly qualified under the Act, i.e., she had not taken the Elementary Teacher Content Knowledge Praxis II Assessment to demonstrate content preparation/expertise for the core academic subjects taught in elementary school. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner was ineligible to teach kindergarten or higher because she had not met the highly qualified teacher requirement, and was therefore not eligible for reassignment to an extended-day/extended-year program and position in an elementary school. The ALJ granted summary decision to the Board and dismissed the petition.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACT

On September 1, 2006, Elizabeth eliminated all of its extended-day/extended-year programs for preschool and Brown was reassigned to a regular program and position. Meanwhile, less senior but highly qualified teachers under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 were reassigned to extended-day/extended-year programs and positions for kindergarten through grade eight. Were Brown's seniority rights violated?

No. Under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, all teachers teaching in kindergarten or higher must be highly qualified.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 26, 2008, Elizabeth eliminated its extended-day/extended-year programs for preschool in response to a reduction in State aid, and on September 1, 200, Brown was reassigned to a regular program and position, effectively reducing her salary. When three teachers less senior than she were reassigned to extended-day/extended-year programs and positions for kindergarten through grade eight, Brown filed a verified petition with the Department of Education, asserting that those teachers were reassigned in violation of her seniority rights. In short, Brown seeks a recalculation of her seniority and a reassignment to an extended-day/extended-year program and position.

On October 10, 2008, Brown filed her petition with the Department of Education; on October 31, 2008, Elizabeth filed its answer; and on November 14, 2008, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, and N.J.A.C. 1:31-3.9. Jurisdiction is conferred under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to -25.

At the prehearing conference, the parties agreed that no genuine issues of fact existed and that the case was ripe for summary decision. The administrative law judge to whom the case was originally assigned agreed and accepted their cross-motions for summary decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Background Information

In February 2001, Brown obtained a provisional certificate to teach preschool through grade three.

On September 1, 2002, the Elizabeth Board of Education hired Brown as a preschool English teacher and assigned her to teach at the Frances Smith Early Childhood Center (School No. 50) and the Donald Stewart Early Childhood Center (School No. 51).

The collective bargaining agreement characterized the position as an "extended day/extended year position." Although the normal work year for teachers in the school district was 10 months, the work year for teachers in extended-day/extended-year positions was 11 months. Similarly, the work day for teachers in extended-day/extended-year positions was 8 hours and 15 minutes while the normal work day for teachers in normal positions was 6 hours and 50 minutes.

In February 2003, Brown obtained her standard certificate; in September 2004, she attained tenure; and in April 2006, she was reassigned to the Donald Stewart Early Childhood Center and no longer taught at the Frances Smith Early Education Center.

At the time, the position at the Donald Stewart Early Childhood Center was still an extended-day/extended-year position and the Donald Stewart Early Childhood Center was still one of the four extended-day/extended-year programs in the district. Westminster Academy (School No. 26); Frances Smith Early Childhood Center (School No. 50); and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Early Childhood Center (School No. 52) were the other three.

Reduction in State Aid

Extended Day/Extended Year

On June 26, 2008, Elizabeth eliminated its extended-day/extended-year preschool programs in response to a reduction in State aid, effective September 1, 2008.

Westminster Academy then became the only extended-day/extended-year program in the district—but only for kindergarten through grade eight.

Extended Day

Similarly, the schools that had been extended-day programs for preschool and higher became extended-day programs for kindergarten and higher. In particular, Victor Mravlag (School No. 21), which had been extended day for preschool through grade three, became extended day for kindergarten through grade three; Dr. Albert Einstein Academy (School No. 29), which had been extended day for preschool through grade eight, became extended day for kindergarten through grade eight; and Ronald Reagan Academy (School No. 30), which had been extended day for preschool through grade eight, became extended day for kindergarten through eight.

William F. Halloran (School No. 22), which had been extended day for grades four through six, and Terrence Reilly (School No. 76), which had been extended day for grades seven through eight, remained extended day for grades four through six, and for grades seven through eight, respectively.

Extended Year

No schools in the district had ever been extended year only.

The Effect on Brown

In response to the reduction in State aid, all preschool teachers were reassigned to regular-school programs. Since the collective bargaining agreement contains separate salary guidelines for teachers in extended-day/extended-year positions, this reassignment resulted in a reduction in salary for those teachers. One hundred twenty-five teachers were affected.

Brown was one of the 125 teachers who were affected by this reduction and her salary was effectively reduced from approximately $63,000 to approximately $55,000.

The Effect on Others

Some teachers, however, were reassigned to Westminster Academy. In particular, Sandra Townes, Julia Lehman, and Melissa Fornarotto were reassigned to teach kindergarten, second grade, and third grade respectively. All three were less senior than Brown but had become highly qualified teachers under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, whereas Brown was more senior but had not become highly qualified under the Act.

More specifically, Brown had not taken the Elementary Teacher: Content Knowledge Praxis II Assessment to demonstrate content preparation/expertise for the core-academic subjects taught in elementary school. Nor had she met the requirements of New Jersey's High Objective Uniform State Evaluation (HOUSE) Matrix. In fact, she had not even completed let alone filed any of the requisite forms with Elizabeth or the New Jersey Department of Education.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, all teachers teaching in core-academic subjects must be highly qualified. P.L. 107-110, § 1119(a)(3). Toward this end, the implementing regulations require State educational agencies to develop their own plans to ensure it. 20 U.S.C. § 6319(a)(2).

In 2006, the United States Department of Education approved New Jersey's plan. (Ex. E at 3.) According to the memorandum the New Jersey Department of Education issued on July 30, 2007, all elementary school teachers working in a self-contained setting for kindergarten through grade five, kindergarten through grade six, or kindergarten through grade eight, and who had not become highly qualified by that time, had to satisfy the following criteria: (1) hold a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution of higher education; (2) hold a valid New Jersey Teaching Certificate for which no requirement had been waived; and (3) pass the Elementary Teacher: Content Knowledge Praxis II Assessment. (Ex. E at 3.)

In that same memorandum, the New Jersey Department of Education explained that P-3 teachers were not required to take the assessment unless they were teaching K-3 or had met the requirements through New Jersey's HOUSE Matrix before June 30, 2007. (Ex. E at 5.)

Moreover, school districts were required to keep on file the requisite documentation for every highly qualified teacher in every content, including: (1) the general form (A-E) that identified the teaching assignment and grade level; (2) the NJ HOUSE Matrix (if used) together with the accompanying documentation; and (3) the statement of assurance signed by the teacher and the administrator. (Ex. E at 4.) In fact, the memorandum specifically stated in bold letters that no teacher providing direct instruction in core content areas was grandfathered or exempt from this process. Ibid.

In this case, Brown had not filed any of this documentation with the school district. More important, she had not passed the Elementary Teacher: Content Knowledge Praxis II Assessment nor had she met the requirements of New Jersey's HOUSE Matrix by July 30, 2007. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that she was ineligible to teach kindergarten or higher when Townes, Lehman, and Fornarotto were reassigned to Westminster Academy.

Nevertheless, Brown argues that she should have been given one of those three teaching positions because she was more senior than Townes, Lehman, and Fornarotto at the time. In support of her position, Brown cites N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11; and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. Together those statutory provisions address reductions in workforce and eventual reassignment according to seniority, but they do not apply in this case because Brown was ineligible to teach kindergarten or higher. And though Townes, Lehman, and Fornarotto were less senior than Brown, they had become highly qualified teachers under the No Child Left Behind Act when they were reassigned. In fact, Brown had not even completed let alone filed any of the requisite documentation with Elizabeth or the New Jersey Department of Education. Given these circumstances, I CONCLUDE that Elizabeth is entitled to prevail as a matter of law and that this case be dismissed.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that Elizabeth is granted summary decision and that this case is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. BEFORE JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 6, 2009, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 to -13.

An in-person conference was scheduled for February 8, 2010, at the OAL, at which time only counsel for respondent appeared. Motions to dismiss and, in the alternative, for sanctions were made by respondent at that time pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1:1-14.4. However, one day later, E.C.M. contacted the OAL pursuant to that rule and a taped telephone conference was held pursuant thereto with the parties on February 18, 2010. A Letter Order denying dismissal but ordering sanctions was effectuated pursuant to that Order and, pursuant to ultimate compliance with the sanction order by E.C.M. , another conference was held on June 21, 2010. As a result of that conference, on August 2, 2010, the parties submitted an agreement signed by E.M. (otherwise known as E.C.M.) and by Debra L. Bruner, Superintendent of respondent. A review of that submission caused this tribunal to request a clarified submission pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3.1.13 (d). It was received at the OAL on September 29, 2010, at which time the hearing record closed. (J-1).

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures, as well as the Board Resolution 2009-10, approved on September 20, 2010, which was certified to pursuant to the raised seal of the Board and the signature of Dawn Leary, Business Administrator/Board Secretary, dated September 22, 2010.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. 2010 SEP 29 A 11:32
RECEIVED

This case arises from a residency challenge brought forth by Edmund Mays, 519 N. White Horse Pike, Apt. 21, Somerdale NJ 08083.

On April 24, 2009, Debra L. Bruner, Ed.D, Superintendent provided a letter to Ms. Nakesha Robinson requesting a residential schedule. Subsequently, on May 13, 2009 Dawn Leary, Business Administrator sent a letter to Ms. Nakesha Robinson informing her that the district was going to review the circumstances surrounding residency.

Subsequently, on July 23, 2009 counsel for Somerdale Board of Education sent a letter to Ms. Nakesha Robinson setting forth their formal position that C.L.M. did not reside in Somerdale and that he would not be permitted to attend Somerdale Park School for the 2009-2010 school year.

Ms. Nakesha Robinson was informed by letter dated August 3, 2009 that the issue of C.L.M.'s residency would be discussed in executive session at the Somerdale Board of Education meeting. On August 29, 2009, counsel for Somerdale Board of Education presented a letter to the parents informing them that upon review of the information presented C.L.M. was ineligible to attend school at Somerdale Park School District.

Edmund Mays filed a residency appeal on September 4, 2009. Somerdale Board of Education submitted a response to Petitioner's residency appeal on September 29, 2009. This case was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law before Honorable John R. Futey.

A pre-hearing conference was scheduled for February 8, 2010. Audra A. Pondish, Esq. appeared on behalf of the district. The petitioner failed to appear on this date. Ms. Pondish then made two motions: (one) for a dismissal based upon Mr. mays failure to appear and (two) sanctions in the event that the matter would be re-listed for hearing. On February 18, 2010, a telephone conference was held and Judge Futey listened to explanations from both parties with respect to the motions. Upon review and consideration of the circumstances, Judge Futey denied the Motion to Dismiss, however, he ordered the Petitioner's to pay sanctions in the amount of $380.15 to the Somerdale Board of Education.

Compliance with this sanction was a contingency that had to be satisfied prior to the case being re-listed. The Petitioner did comply and provided payment to counsel for Somerdale Board of Education.

The matter was re-listed for June 21, 2010. The petitioner's presented a Superior Court Order dated October 30, 2009 which stated that C.L.M. would attend school in the district where he resides with the parent of primary residence. The Order further stated that primary residence was with Defendant, Edmund Robinson. Counsel for Somerdale Board of Education informed the court that this new order would be presented the Somerdale Board of Education for review.

Upon consideration of the new Order and review of all the facts and circumstances in this case, Somerdale Board of Education is satisfied that C.L.M.'s primary residence is in Somerdale. In light of this fact, C.L.M. will be permitted to attend school in Somerdale for the 2010-2011 school year.

Petitioner, Edmund Mays will provide the District with a more definitive residency schedule. The basis for this request is for the safety and well-being of C.L.M. and in the event of an emergency the District needs to know who to contact.

Petitioner, Edmund Mays will advise the District if circumstances change relating to the primary residence of C.L.M.

IN WITNESS THEROF, the parties hereto have caused this Settlement Agreement to be executed by themselves.

AGREED

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF KIMBERLY GEURDS, EAST WINDSOR REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON MOTION

In this motion for clarification, the parties express conflicting positions about when the withholding of respondent's increment – ordered in Commissioner Decision No. 267-10+ (August 27, 2010) – should occur. The motion per se, to which there is no opposition, is granted and the parties are instructed as follows.

Respondent was administratively suspended on December 7, 2007, pending an investigation of complaints from the parents of some of her students. On September 29, 2008, formal tenure charges were certified to the Commissioner. After the Commissioner upheld the charge of unbecoming conduct – with a consequent forfeiture of 120 days' salary and one increment (and a directive that respondent take certain pedagogical courses) – respondent returned to work for the 2010-2011 school year.

Given the fact that respondent's performance during the portion of the 2007-2008 school year in which she worked resulted in sustained charges of unbecoming conduct, it follows that she did not earn an increment for her next year of service. Thus, respondent is not entitled to an increment during the present school year. Nor is respondent entitled to receive increments for the interim years. See, e.g. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barbara Emri, School District of the Township of Evesham, Burlington County, Commissioner Decision No. 371-02, decided October 21, 2002, at 34, footnote # 8. Indeed – since increments are awarded for satisfactory performance and withheld for poor performance – it would be counter-intuitive to award increments for no performance, in a case where the respondent did not prevail.

Accordingly, the first year respondent might have been eligible for an increment would be 2011-2012, but that increment is withheld pursuant to the Commissioner's August 27, 2010 decision herein. Whether she receives an increment for 2012-2013 will depend upon her performance during the 2011-2012 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a minister residing in Camden, filed a petition seeking an order directing the Board of Education of the City of Camden to place two referenda questions on a school election ballot. The two proposed questions involved, inter alia, removing the theory of evolution from Camden public school curricula and opening the daily school session with a moment of silence. Both the Board and the Mayor of Camden filed motions seeking dismissal of the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: to the extent that this case involves issues concerning school or other election-related issues, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over such matters; to the extent that the objects of the proposed referenda involve matters concerning the conduct of the public schools and the laws affecting same – over which the Commissioner does have jurisdiction – the objects of the referenda cannot be legally performed by the Camden Board of Education and the Commissioner has no authority to permit them to occur, as the referenda implicate federal constitutional issues. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record and the ALJ's decision in this matter, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, for the reasons set forth therein. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner. The petitioner's exceptions generally reiterate the substance of his submissions at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support the contention that his proposed referenda involving the theory of evolution and the need for a moment of silence should be placed on a school election ballot.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision for the reasons set forth therein. Accordingly, the petition is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 07304-10S

AGENCY DKT. NO. 101-5/10

EDWARD D. TORRES,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY and DANA REDD, MAYOR OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,

Respondents.

Edward D. Torres, petitioner, pro se

Louis Capelli, Esq. and Veronica P. Hallett, Esq., for respondent Board of Education (Florio Perrucci Steinhardt & Fader, L.L.C., attorneys)

Michelle Banks-Spearman, Esq. for respondent Dana Redd (Howard J. McCoach, City Attorney, attorney)

Record Closed: September 28, 2010 Decided: October 15, 2010

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Rev. Edward Torres, a minister residing in Camden, New Jersey, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) seeking an order directing the Board of Education of the City of Camden to place upon a school election ballot two referenda.[1] The petition also named Dana Redd, the elected mayor of the City of Camden, as a respondent. After the Commissioner transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law, both the Board and the mayor filed motions seeking dismissal of the petition. Each filed briefs and Rev. Torres replied with a written "Oral Argument." In addition, oral argument on the motions was held on September 28, 2010.

THE PROPOSED REFERENDA QUESTIONS

The two questions that the petition seeks to have placed before the voters of Camden read as follows:

1. Do you as a resident of Camden and a citizen of New Jersey want to end the Theory of Evolution as Science and History in the presentation of the origin and duty of mankind in your Public Schools in agreement with our New Jersey Constitution and our United States Constitution where we are grateful to Almighty God and where we are created and endowed equally by our Creator the God of Abraham?

2. Do you as a resident of Camden and a Citizen of New Jersey want the Camden Public School District to open daily session in prayer with one minute of silence to be used solely at the discretion of the individual student for quiet and private prayer, contemplation, or introspective at all K-12 schools under the discretionary authority of the Camden School Board?

In his petition, Rev. Torres notes that he has been working for a decade regarding issues relating to the Camden schools and expresses in several pages comments that reflect his view that the theory of evolution is racist and communistic ,and discusses his contention that racism and hostility to religion have played a role in what eventually he claims was an eventual refusal to present the above referenda to the voters of Camden. He lays the blame for the refusal on the Board of Education, whose members are appointed by the Mayor. In response to the petition, the Board has raised several contentions, ranging from a question as the jurisdiction of the Commissioner to consider this matter at all to a lack of the necessary statutory steps required for the presentation of referenda questions to the voters to the more fundamental arguments that the two actions apparently sought to be implemented after a positive vote on the referenda questions involve matters that are either outside the scope of the local board's competence and instead are directed by the State Board and State Department of Education (the science curriculum) or involve actions that have previously been determined by courts to violate the provisions of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution (the "moment of silence" and the banning of the teaching of evolution). The Mayor has seconded these arguments, but has also argued that as her only role in regard to the conduct of the schools is to appoint the members of the Board, of which she is herself not a member, she is not a proper party to Rev. Torres' petition, as it seeks to direct the action of the Board.

[1] The Petition was accompanied by seventy-nine (79) Petitions bearing signatures and addresses. The Mayor and Board have not specified whether they find these to be either sufficient in number or validity, as they have centered their opposition to Rev. Torres's efforts on grounds of jurisdiction, a lack of the existence of necessary statutory procedural steps and, most directly, on the legal impropriety of the proposed actions that the several Petitions seek to have the Board accomplish. The Petitions have not been marked as evidence for purposes of this proceeding; if the case were to proceed further they could be offered, but as they accompanied Rev. Torres's Petition they can be considered a part thereof.

A motion to dismiss a petition can be granted where, after a careful review of the claims and contentions asserted in that document and a liberal search therein for any legally recognized cause of action, it is determined that sufficient facts have not been presented to support such cause of action. It matters not whether the plaintiff can ultimately prove his contentions, but nevertheless the facts asserted must point to some cause of action that the law recognizes. In addition, if the petition seeks relief that is outside the power of the forum from which relief is requested, either on jurisdictional grounds or due to a lack of any legal authority for the relief sought, the petition may be dismissed. Motions to dismiss are not specifically identified in the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1 et seq., but reference to the New Jersey Rules of Court, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-1, show that such motions are recognized at R. 4:6-2 and can in some circumstances be decided under the standards for summary judgment, R. 4:46. Summary judgment in the parlance of administrative practice is summary decision, authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

MAYOR REDD

It is not clear why Rev. Torres has included Mayor Redd in his petition. Camden is a Type I school district. The Mayor appoints the members of the School Board to terms. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-7. While she appoints the Board members, there is no suggestion that once they are properly seated, she has any legal right to make them act in any matter. While Rev. Torres's notes in his Petition that he has sought to have Redd use her "diplomacy and legislative experience . . . to intervene in this dispute with the Camden School Board and especially the President of the Camden School Board," Torres offers no legal authority for the Mayor having any power to act in regard to his request for the placement of these referenda on the ballot. As such, as there is no legal remedy available against Mayor Redd that is related to the subject of Torres' Petition, her dismissal as a respondent is proper.

THE CAMDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION

Initially, the Board notes that there may be an issue as to whether Rev. Torres has chosen the correct forum in which to pursue his action against the Board. While the Commissioner of Education clearly has jurisdiction over matters regarding school law and academic courses of study and curricula, Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Educ., 77 N.J. 514 (1978), school elections are at present not considered as matters arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 states

> The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner. For the purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9]

Thus, if the issue here is deemed to be an election question, the Commissioner is not empowered to act on the subject and the petition must be dismissed on jurisdictional grounds. Additionally, the Board notes that in regard to the placement of referenda on a ballot, while there is no "school board election" as such in Camden due to the appointment authority of the Mayor, if any election were deemed the proper time to place referenda on school matters on the ballot, there are still procedural elements of the referenda process that are imposed by statute and which have not been fulfilled here, such that the placement of the requested referenda would not be proper. However, while the Board has chosen to note the jurisdictional issue in a footnote in its brief, it nevertheless seeks dismissal on other grounds which directly address the question of whether it could act on the subjects of the referenda even were they to be approved by the voters.

It may well be that the jurisdiction of the Commissioner is properly questioned. Rev. Torres certainly wants the Board of Education to offer to the voters the opportunity to express themselves on the topics addressed in the two questions. But underlying the request for placement of the matters on the ballot is the more fundamental question of the legal authority of the Board to do what the referenda would intend. And given the nature of Rev. Torres' concerns as expressed in the words of the questions themselves, I deem it most efficacious to base the clearly legally appropriate dismissal of the petition upon the most fundamental fact relevant to the case, that is, that as the referenda questions seek to influence the conduct of the public schools and implicate what is and what is not legally allowable in regard to that conduct, subjects that are clearly within the Commissioner's competence, the Camden School Board simply could not implement the changes in practice sought by the petitioner even if it had a mind to do so and even if the referenda were to receive an affirmative majority from the Camden electorate. As such, while jurisdictional and procedural issues do exist, as this matter involves a subject of great passion to the petitioner and more importantly, one that is no doubt of concern to others, it seems best to meet the question head on as to whether the Board of Education could even act as the referenda would seek it to do.

THE REFERENDA QUESTIONS

Simply put, while it may be of no solace to the sincerely held beliefs of the petitioner, the courts of this country, including the United States Supreme Court and

United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, have made it abundantly clear that it is a violation of the United States Constitution to either impose a "moment of silence", however couched, or to ban the teaching of evolution, the latter most clearly where the reason for the action is that evolution is seen as in contravention of the religious beliefs of those who seek to impose the ban. And as will be explained, that is precisely the reason why the petitioner seeks to take evolution out of the science and history curricula for the students of the City of Camden. And to the extent that these referenda seek to affect school curriculum and conduct, the Commissioner has jurisdiction over controversies involving these topics and can rule on the legal propriety of such matters.

BANNING THE TEACHING OF EVOLUTION

First, the Board is correct to question whether it could remove evolution from the science curriculum even if such an action was otherwise lawful. The reason for this is that the Core Curriculum for Science, established by the State Board of Education and mandated as the basic curriculum which each local board must assure its students receive, specifically includes the teaching of elements of evolution in the Life Science portion of the Curriculum, as part of a "strand" of the curriculum denominated as "E. Evolution and Diversity." Core Curriculum Content Standards for Science, pages 39-41, <http://www.state.nj.us/education/cccs/2009/final.htm>. It would appear that as to the basic content of an acceptable education in science, the State has mandated that content, and as such its determination must be seen as legally supreme to that of a local board of education. The State may be understood to have pre-empted the issue from local discretion, and therefore any attempt to remove evolution from that mandated curriculum, if such an attempt was otherwise lawful, would have to be directed to the State educational authorities and not to the local board. But in the end, it is clear that even such an attempt could not succeed.

In Epperson, v. Arkansas, 393 U.S. 97, 89 S. Ct. 266, 21 L Ed 2d 228 (1968), the United States Supreme Court struck down as unconstitutional an Arkansas statute that made it a crime to teach the "theory of evolution." Recognizing that the law was akin to the famous law that was the focus of the infamous Scopes "monkey" trial, Scopes v. State, 154 Tenn. 105, 289 S.W. 363 (1927), the Court found that the very purpose of the law was to "suppress the teaching of a theory which, it was thought, 'denied' the divine creation of man." Epperson v. Arkansas, 393 U.S. 97, at 107.

> In the present case, there can be no doubt that Arkansas has sought to prevent its teachers from discussing the theory of evolution because it is contrary to the belief of some that the Book of Genesis must be the exclusive source of doctrine as to the origin of man. No suggestion has been made that Arkansas' law may be justified by considerations of state policy other than the religious views of some of its citizens It is clear that fundamentalist sectarian conviction was and is the law's reason for existence. Its antecedent, Tennessee's "monkey law," candidly stated its purpose: to make it unlawful " to teach any theory that denies the story of the Divine Creation of man as taught in the Bible, and to teach instead that man has descended from a lower order of animals." Perhaps the sensational publicity attendant upon the Scopes trial induced Arkansas to adopt less explicit language. It eliminated Tennessee's reference to "the story of the Divine Creation of man" as taught in the Bible, but there is no doubt that the motivation for the law was the same: to suppress the teaching of a theory which, it was thought, "denied" the divine creation of man.
> [Id. at 108-109](footnotes not included)

It is beyond any doubt that the entire thrust and intent of the referendum question which Rev. Torres wishes to place on the ballot for the citizens of Camden to vote upon is motivated by the very same religious rationale as that which the Court understood to be the basis for both the Tennessee and the Arkansas statutes. It is not necessary to recount in detail the words of either the petition or of the written "oral argument" to simply state that Rev. Torres sees evolution as denying the role of the Creator as understood in the religious doctrine to which he, and he offers without dispute, the vast majority of citizens in Camden accept. While he also condemns evolution as a tool of racists and itself a racist doctrine this is only in reality a secondary element of his attack on evolution.[2] The very words of the question itself express the entirely religious nature of the attack, for the proposition that evolution be eliminated from the curriculum is not simply stated without flourish, but is instead coupled to the reference to "Almighty God" and our "Creator the God of Abraham." This very language clearly recalls the Tennessee statute in Scopes. Thus, if the Camden Board were to place on the ballot this question, it would be suggesting to the voters that it could eliminate evolution from its schools for reasons that completely eviscerate the line between Church and State. The Supreme Court ultimately concluded that > Arkansas' law cannot be defended as an act of religious neutrality. Arkansas did not seek to excise from the curricula of its schools and universities all discussion of the origin of man. The law's effort was confined to an attempt to blot out a particular theory because of its supposed conflict with the Biblical account, literally read. Plainly, the law is contrary to the mandate of the First, and in violation of the Fourteenth, Amendment to the Constitution.

It is also true that the very wording of the question implicates the concerns that led the Supreme Court to create the three-pronged test announced in Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602; 91 S. Ct. 2105; 29 L. Ed. 2d 745 (1971). There, the Court held that to pass Constitutional muster a law must first ."have a secular legislative purpose; second, its principal or primary effect must be one that neither advances nor inhibits religion, . . . ; finally, the statute must not foster 'an excessive government entanglement with religion.' " [403 U.S. 602, 612-613] (internal citations omitted). It is again clear from the very wording of the proposition that the very purpose of the elimination of evolution offered as the goal of an affirmative vote is to enshrine a particular religious viewpoint as to the origin of mankind, indeed all of "nature," and that such action by the Board would of necessity both advance religion, that is, at least one particular religious viewpoint, while also, by necessity, entangling the Board in the maze of religious doctrine. For while the proposition rejects evolution in favor of a recognition of what may be short handedly referenced as the role of the "Creator" and "Almighty God" as understood, at least broadly, in the monotheistic, Abrahamic religious tradition, it would seem to place the Board as favoring that concept while seeming to ignore other religious traditions or the rejection of religion. Indeed, Rev. Torres realizes this fact, for in the course of his arguments that certainly advocate for a Christian religious tradition as the accepted reality of creation, with bows to the Jewish and Muslim faiths, he does allow that some accommodation would have to be made by the public schools to deal with those of other faiths or none at all. "The Buddhist, The Hindu, The Atheist, and any other religion that are offended by the God of Abraham as Creator provisions can be made either with a voucher or a charter school." Thus, the goal of the first question can be understood as to replace the current school system with one in which Rev. Torres' understanding of the monotheistic tradition, undoubtedly mediated through his sincere Christian faith, would be the anchor of the Camden public schools. And whereas today those who choose to send their children to a religious day school do so with knowledge that the public school does not seek to choose which religion it will favor, the Camden school system in Torres's vision would make such choices. This is constitutionally intolerable.

[2] This is in no way meant to deny that the theory of evolution, as well as other theories and facts concerning science, have been perverted at times for racist intentions; indeed, I think it fair to recognize that it has been, both in this country and elsewhere. Of course, this same argument may be made about the perversions of religious doctrine that have plagued history, often to the embarrassment of those who hold sincere religious beliefs and to the detriment, indeed often to the fatal detriment, of persons who did not hold to the same religious beliefs as others. This said, the reality that these scientific and religious understandings have been at times been misused does not suggest that our fundamental law would permit the State to ban either the teaching of evolution or of religion. But the First Amendment has been understood to create a separation of Church and State that is most apparently significant in the context of the public schools.

For the reasons expressed, the Camden Board of Education could not lawfully carry out the purposes and goals of the first proposed question. It could not legally implement that which the proposition seeks. In Borough of Bogota v. Donovan, 388 N.J. Super. 248 (App. Div. 2006), the Appellate Division held that as it was beyond the power of the municipality to legislate that English be the official language of the Borough, the municipality was not authorized to place a referendum question on the ballot to gauge voter sentiment. Here to, the extent that the ballot questions seek to have the Board conduct the schools in ways that it is not empowered to do, the Board could not offer these questions for voter consideration. Here the Board was certainly acting correctly when it refused to act on the request to place this question on the ballot.

MOMENT OF PRAYER, CONTEMPLATION AND INTROSPECTION

Likewise, the second question proposes that a moment of silence be mandated, but while the author has also included the seemingly less controversial wording "contemplation" and "introspective" as conjunctive terms along with "quiet and private prayer", the author has given away the real intent of the proposition by stating that the school day would "open" with a "daily session in Prayer." The Camden Board could hardly impose such a requirement, when the New Jersey State Legislature itself was prohibited from such action. In May v. Cooperman, 572 F. Supp. 1561 (D.N.J. 1983), the Legislature passed a statute, P.L. 1982, Ch. 205, that required that > principals and teachers in each public elementary and secondary school of each school district in this State shall permit students to observe a 1 minute period of silence to be used solely at the discretion of the individual student, before the opening exercises of each school day for quiet and private contemplation or introspection.

In an action seeking declaratory and injunctive relief, the United States District Court determined that the purpose of the bill which became P.L. 1982, Ch. 205, was to "mandate a period at the start of each school day when all students would have an opportunity to engage in prayer." Judge Debevoise drew this conclusion from a number of factors which he detailed, but in the present case, the very wording of the question boldly announces that purpose. While the drafters of the legislation may have purposely eschewed the use of the word "prayer" so as to try to get around the Supreme Court's ruling in School District of Abington Township v. Schempp, 374 U.S. 203, 10 L. Ed. 2d, 844, 83 S. Ct. 1560 (1963), that school-sponsored prayer and Bible reading in the public schools was unconstitutional, to his credit Rev. Torres makes no such attempt at obfuscation. The clear purpose of the action sought in the proposition is to mandate a period of time each day for prayer. Such action is, as was the Legislature's, a violation of the First Amendment. Again, the Board was well within its right to refuse to act to bring to the voters a question which proposes action that the Board could not legally take.

Having concluded that the proposed questions would have asked the voters if they wanted the Board to conduct the Camden schools in ways that the Board could not legally carry out even if the referenda were overwhelmingly supported by a vote of the citizens of Camden, and that as such the Board was well within its right to refuse to offer these questions to the public, it is also important to note another reason why the petitioner appears not entitled to the relief he seeks and why the petition should be dismissed. In commenting on this issue it is understood that to the extent this case is viewed as an election matter and therefore outside the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, these remarks, which address grounds that the Board has put forward in support of the motion to dismiss the case, can be understood as nothing more than acknowledging the petitioner's apparent problem.

The process for a public referendum is set forth in the election statutes at N.J.S.A. 19:37-1 and N.J.S.A. 19:37-1.1.

> When the governing body of any municipality or of any county desires to ascertain the sentiment of the legal voters of the municipality or county upon any question or policy pertaining to the government or internal affairs thereof, and there is no other statute by which the sentiment can be ascertained by the submission of such question to a vote of the electors in the municipality or county at any election to be held therein, the governing body may adopt at any regular meeting an ordinance or a resolution requesting the clerk of the county to print upon the official ballots to be used at the next ensuing general election a certain proposition to be formulated and expressed in the ordinance or resolution in concise form. Such request shall be filed with the clerk of the county not later than 74 days previous to the election.
> Whenever a governing body of a municipality has adopted an ordinance or resolution pursuant to section 19:37-1 of the Revised Statutes, upon the presentation to the governing body of such municipality of a petition signed by 10% or more of the voters registered and qualified to vote at the last general election in such municipality, requesting the governing body of such municipality to ascertain the sentiment of the legal voters of the municipality upon any question or policy pertaining to the government or internal > affairs thereof that is reasonably related to any proposition formulated and expressed in such ordinance or resolution, such governing body of the municipality shall thereupon adopt at its next regular meeting following the presentation of such petition a resolution requesting the clerk of the county to print upon the official ballots to be used at the next ensuing general election a certain proposition as formulated and expressed in the petition. Such request shall be filed with the clerk of the county not later than the 60th day previous to the election.\

Under these statutes, the process that leads to a public referendum on questions or policies cannot be initiated by the public itself. While the members of a governing body might be aware of sentiment for polling the public, to legally begin the process the governing body must first pass an ordinance or resolution requesting that the county clerk print ballots containing "a certain proposition" that must be "formulated and expressed in the ordinance or resolution." Only then may the public, through the presentation of the required petitions from the required 10% or more of the voters registered and qualified to vote at the last general election, present a petition seeking to have offered on that ballot a "proposition." But that "proposition" must be one that is "reasonably related to any proposition formulated and expressed" in the governing body's own resolution or ordinance. Where such a "reasonably related" proposition is offered, the governing body "shall" adopt a resolution which has the purpose of requesting that the clerk print on the ballot at the ensuing general election that "certain proposition" offered by the requisite percentage of the voters. Thus, the right to have a proposition offered to the voters on a ballot is not one that is available to even any appropriate number or percentage of the qualified voters as a matter of right. The requirement for an initial governing body resolution or ordinance which effectively frames at least the general topic of concern for the referendum acts as a check on the process. Presumably if the governing body refuses to pass the initial resolution that would permit the presentation of a proposition sought by a proper percentage of voters, the remedy is to vote the refusing members of the governing body out of office at the next election. But in the absence of the initial resolution, there is no apparent recourse to force the governing body to seek the sentiment of the voters on a topic that it decides it has no interest in seeking. In The Borough of Eatontown v. Danskin, 121 N.J. Super. 68 (Law Div. 1972), Judge Merritt Lane addressed these statutes in a proceeding in lieu of mandamus. He noted, "Since submission of a petition by voters is explicitly contingent on the governing body's original resolution, which was not passed within the statutory period, neither petition nor the subsequent resolution are in compliance with N.J.S.A. 19:37-1 et seq." Eatontown, supra, at 75. Here, while the issue is not one of timeliness, nevertheless there has been no "original resolution," adopted by the Board of Education, and as such there is no basis for the Board to place these proffered questions on a general election or a special school election.

Conclusion

To the extent that this case involves issues concerning school or other election-related issues, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over such matters and the Petition must therefore be dismissed. However, to the extent that the objects of the proposed referenda involve matters concerning the conduct of the public schools and the laws affecting such, over which the Commissioner does have jurisdiction, as the objects of the referenda could not legally be performed by the Camden Board of Education and the Commissioner would have no authority to permit them to occur, the Petition similarly must be dismissed.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Movant, Archway Programs, Inc. ("Archway"): Florio, Perrucci, Steinhardt & Fader (Steven W. Weinstein, Esq.)

For Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("Department"): New Jersey Office of the Attorney General, Department of Law & Public Safety, Division of Law (Joyce Atkins-Williams, DAG)

This matter was opened by way of a motion for stay from Archway of the Commissioner's October 28, 2010 Partial Decision on Remand, Commissioner's Decision #453-10R, in the above-captioned matter. Archway's submission concedes that it did not – nor does it want to at this point in time – appeal the Commissioner's determination to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-15(a), which requires that a motion for stay be made "subsequent to or concurrent with, the filing of a notice of appeal with the court." Rather, Archway seeks leave to stay the Commissioner's Final Agency Decision pursuant to "N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.6, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.8(f)." (Archway's Motion for Stay at 1) The Commissioner is compelled to note that the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq. are applicable solely to the appeal of decisions of the State Board of Examiners and the School Ethics Commission to the Commissioner, and have no relevance whatsoever to this matter. It is additionally noted that there is no provision captioned N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1(e). In that Archway's submission does not satisfy the requisites necessary to request a stay of the Commissioner's decision, its motion will be deemed to be one for reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b).

Due to the nature and complexity of the underlying consolidated matter of which the decision at issue was a part, the following background overview is presented to assist in the comprehension of the parties' arguments with respect to the instant motion:

> Archway is a non-profit corporation which operates a private school for the handicapped authorized to educate public school students pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14(g), and receives tuition from sending districts commensurate with its actual cost per pupil as determined by a certified audit. Pursuant to governing regulations, certain specified items may not be included in the computation of a tuition rate chargeable to the sending districts. The underlying controversy in this matter involves five audits conducted by the respondent Department on Archway's accounts for the school years from 1994-1995 through 1998-1999, in which the Department disallowed approximately $9 million in non-allowable costs and expenses and ordered these tuition overcharges returned to the sending districts. Archway appealed this conclusion. In September 2008, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued an Initial Decision recommending resolution of legal issues concerning methodologies and allowable costs in connection with the five contested audits, and further recommended that the Commissioner compute and present final mathematical calculations as to disallowances based upon those resolutions. In a final decision dated December 5, 2008, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommendations regarding resolution of legal issues, but rejected the proposal regarding computation and presentation of final mathematical calculations. The Commissioner remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for such further proceedings as were necessary to allow the ALJ to conclude these consolidated cases by making the requisite calculations and recommended determination of monies due and owing.
> On remand, the ALJ determined that it was appropriate to initially resolve only the audit for the first audit year at issue – that of the 1994-1995 school year – and to reserve recommendation on the remaining years, as resolution of this particular audit will have a carryover effect on the remaining later audits; the ALJ, therefore, ordered that the Department prepare a new audit of the 1994-1995 school year. Based on that audit, and the fact that Archway indicated no objections to the mathematical calculations contained therein, the ALJ determined that the revised Department audit dated June 25, 2010 includes the amount that Archway is obligated to return to the sending districts, and she, therefore, issued a Partial Initial Decision ordering Archway to reimburse these districts the amount of their overpayments for the 1994-1995 school.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner adopted the Partial Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision as to the 1994-1995 school year, and ordered Archway to return – within 60 days of this decision – a total of $2,315,855.51 to the districts which sent students to its private school for the handicapped during the 1994-1995 school year. The matter was then returned to the OAL for further action as deemed necessary by the ALJ in order to make the requisite calculations and recommended determination of monies due and owing for the remaining audit years.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2., a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Archway argues that this consolidated matter comprises five years of Department audits. As such, it maintains, the record is continuous from audit year to audit year. Each disputed issue, although broken down into separate years, was presented to arrive at a final number at the end of the 5th year. A foundational difficulty was that the ultimate final recalculation for each of the audit years impacted the subsequent year's calculations. Archway purports that when the ALJ determined she would first finalize the refund due for the 1994-1995 school year and then address each subsequent audit year serially in order to finalize the total amount due and owing, she agreed that the decisions she issued on each of the first four years would be in the form of an interlocutory order. As such, it contends, a final number would be calculated and proceed to the Commissioner in one recommended Initial Decision, thereby insuring that the time to appeal to the Appellate Division would not begin to run until the calculations for all five years were completed. Here, however, the ALJ ultimately changed her mind or mislabeled her decision – setting in motion what Archway avers is an absurd situation – by issuing her decision as to the 1994-95 audit year as a Partial Initial Decision on Remand, resulting in a similarly titled decision by the Commissioner which is also characterized as a Final Agency Decision, necessitating appeal to the Appellate Division of only this one audit year in the consolidated case. Archway maintains that it was contemplated that the appeal to the Appellate Division subsequent to the Final Decision at the conclusion of calculations for the fifth audit would be based on a number of pre-hearing motions and a host of other rulings made by the ALJ during the course of the hearing which – in large measure – apply to all of the five audit years. It proposes that if each year is dealt with separately in Final Agency Decisions – which then proceed to the Appellate Division on appeal – this vast array of issues will have to be presented and dealt with five different times, result in five separate appeals over a lengthy period of time which involve the same record and evidence and could result in inconsistent decisions. Archway urges that staying the current "Final Decision" until all five audit years can be determined and contained in one "Final" decision is the most appropriate and efficient way to conclude this case.

In reply, the Department points out that Archway's arguments that staying the Commissioner's Final Agency Decision for the 1994-95 year is the most efficient way to proceed because it will reduce time and litigation costs, possible inconsistent results, speed up the final resolution of all of the audits and eliminate the need for multiple remands are merely speculative in nature. Rather, it argues that granting the stay could cause more of a delay. Because of the interdependency of the calculations from one audit year to the next, having a decision from the appellate court as to the foundational calculations – those of the 1994-95 audit – would only serve to hasten the movement of this matter to its ultimate resolution. Consequently, it could very well prove to be more efficient in terms of time and litigation costs to have the appellate court consider this audit as soon as possible rather than at the conclusion of all of the calculations.

Upon her full review of the parties' submissions, the Commissioner is compelled to deny Archway's motion for reconsideration as she concludes that it fails to satisfy any of the requisites for granting such relief specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2. Initially, notwithstanding Archway's representation that the ALJ at some point during these proceedings may have entertained the thought of issuing interlocutory orders[1] on the calculation of monies due by Archway for the first four audit years, this is not how she ultimately chose to proceed. To the extent Archway's submissions here effectively argue that the ALJ's determination to issue a Partial Initial Decision on her calculation of monies due and owing by Archway to its sending districts for the 1994-95 school year, thereby rendering the Commissioner's final decision in this regard immediately appealable, rather than issuing an interlocutory order on this and the subsequent audits – thus forestalling Appellate Division appeal to the point when a final decision subsequent to the completion of the calculations for the last audit year (1998-99) had been issued – was a "mistake" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-15(b)2., thus justifying the Commissioner's reconsideration of her October 28, 2010 decision, the Commissioner categorically disagrees. Rather, finding the reason(s) underlying the ALJ's determination in this regard wholly irrelevant, the Commissioner is in full accord with the ALJ's chosen procedural posture. Contrary to the arguments advanced by Archway, the Commissioner finds and concludes that review by the Appellate Division, at this point in time, of the propriety of the underlying methodologies, regulatory interpretations and foundational issues surrounding the calculations of the 1994-95 audit – which form the basis of the calculations of the succeeding four audit years – would operate to clarify, simplify, and insure the correctness of the calculations which will be forthcoming for the remaining audit years, thus potentially eliminating the need for any further appeals in this consolidated matter. Should one or more of the underlying rulings or orders attendant to the resultant calculations in the 1994-95 audit prove faulty, and discovery of this was not made until Appellate Division appeal at the completion of the last audit year's numbers, the entire process would have to begin all over again. The Commissioner determines that bringing closure to the processes utilized and conclusions made to-date would most effectively and efficiently expedite the adjudication and final resolution of this consolidated matter. As such, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the ALJ's ultimate determination as to the categorization of her decision as a Partial Initial Decision can in any way be termed a "mistake" within the intendment of the governing regulatory provision justifying reconsideration here. Similarly, Archway has failed to establish that this matter involves "newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence; newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based," so as to cause the Commissioner to reconsider her October 28, 2010 decision.

Accordingly, Archways motion for reconsideration is hereby DENIED.

Record Closed: October 22, 2010 Decided: October 22, 2010

BEFORE RONALD W. REBA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 6, 2010, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

M.S. o/b/o L.L.M. Petitioner, v. LENAPE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION DOCKET NO: EDU-894-2010 AGENCY REF: 36-3/10 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") is entered into by and between the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education (the "Board") and M.S. on behalf of L.L.M. ("Petitioner"). Petitioner is a resident of Medford, New Jersey and the aunt of L.L.M. The Board and the Petitioners are collectively referred to as the "Parties."

WHEREAS, on or about February 1, 2010, Petitioner filed an Affidavit application with the Board seeking enrollment for L.L.M. at Shawnee High School; and

WHEREAS, on February 16, 2010, the Board issued a letter advising Petitioner that she failed to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), and therefore L.L.M. would not be enrolled at Shawnee High School; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 2, 2010, Petitioner filed a Residency Appeal which forms the basis of the above-captioned matter. Pursuant to law, L.L.M. was enrolled and attended Shawnee

High School, effective March 4, 2010;

WHEREAS, on March 19, 2010, the Board filed a Counterclaim seeking reimbursement of tuition and costs;

WHEREAS, L.L.M. finished the 2009-2010 school year at Shawnee High School; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner represents that L.L.M. will be returning to California to reside with her parents and will not be attending or seeking to attend Board schools for the 2010-2011 school year;

WHEREAS, the Parties enter into this Settlement Agreement to outline the Parties' agreement.

THE PARTIES HEREBY AGREE THAT:

1. L.L.M. shall not be enrolled with the Board for the 2010-2011 school year. L.L.M. shall not be permitted to attend any Board school for the 2010-2011 school year. Petitioner represents that L.L.M. will be returning to California to reside with one or both of her parents for the 2010-2011 school year;

2. Petitioner hereby dismisses, with prejudice, the claims in the above-captioned matter;

3. Petitioner agrees, in resolution of the Board's Counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for March 4, 2010, to pay to the Board the amount of $5,706.63 which represents the tuition and fees for L.L.M.'s attendance and enrollment at Shawnee High School from March 4, 2010, through the end of the 2009-2010 school year. Payment can be made in one lump sum within thirty (30) days of this Agreement or payments can be made monthly in the amount of $317.03 for eighteen (18) months. Monthly payments shall be made by the first of each month, beginning on August 1, 2010 and on the first of each month thereafter for seventeen (17) additional months.

4. All payments pursuant to paragraph 3 above shall be made payable to "Lenape Regional High School District" and sent to following address:

Mr. James Hager, Business Administrator
Lenape Regional High School District
93 Willow Grove Road
Shamong, NJ 080088

5. In the event Petitioner fails to make the lump sum payment within thirty (30) days of this Agreement, or fails to make the monthly payment of $317.03 for two (2) consecutive calendar months, the Board shall be permitted to reduce the amount owed and outstanding to a judgment against Petitioner with a Court of appropriate jurisdiction. The Board may seek interest and counsel fees in connection with any effort to obtain payment of the amount owed pursuant to paragraph three (3) above.

6. This Agreement is dispositive of all issues in dispute between the Parties hereto, and is intended to constitute a final resolution of the dispute between the Parties. Each party shall be responsible for their own fees and costs, including physicians' and attorneys' fees and costs, incurred in connection with this dispute, to the extent applicable;

5. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior written or oral, as well as all contemporaneous oral agreements, understandings, and negotiations;

6. This Agreement shall be interpreted, enforced, and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The language of all parts of this Agreement shall in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning, and not strictly for or against any of the Parties.

7. This Agreement may only be amended by way of a writing signed by all Parties and counsel.

8. The Parties acknowledge that they have had the opportunity to review the terms of this Agreement with counsel and are satisfied with the representation provided. The Parties enter into this Agreement knowingly, without coercion or other improper influence.

9. The terms of this Agreement shall remain confidential.

HEARING OF JOHN BLEVIS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
LYNDHURST SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	DECISION
BERGEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' revised settlement agreement, and the Initial Decision on Remand of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. On September 16, 2010, the Commissioner remanded this matter to OAL based upon a determination that the prior settlement agreement recommended for adoption by the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") did not include the requisite Board of Education approval.

Upon review of the revised agreement and the record on remand, the Commissioner finds that the deficiency identified in the prior agreement has been corrected. The Commissioner also concurs with the ALJ that the proposed settlement is consistent with the established standards governing the settlement of tenure matters. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

Accordingly, the settlement is hereby approved and the tenure matter dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners.

(ON REMAND EDU 03408-10)

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN BLEVIS, LYNDHURST SCHOOL DISTRICT

Alfred F. Maurice, Esq., for petitioner (Springstead and Maurice, attorneys)

Karen M. Reis, Esq., for respondent (Francis J. DeVito, P.A.)

Record Closed: October 22, 2010 Decided: October 22, 2010

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALJ:

This matter involves tenure charges of incapacity, conduct unbecoming and policy violations based upon John Blevis (Blevis) hostile and aggressive behavior, certified by the Lyndhurst Board of Education (Lyndhurst) against Blevis under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1. Several hearings were conducted and a decision was rendered on August 6, 2010 under OAL Docket No. EDU 10159-10. The Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL on September 16, 2010 due to the settlement agreement not being signed by the Board's attorney and due to the file not containing a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement. On September 22, 2010 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1-13.

On September 28, 2010 a letter was submitted requesting the parties to obtain and submit a copy of the Board Resolution and a copy of the Settlement Agreement signed by the Board's counsel.

A telephone prehearing was scheduled for October 21, 2010. Prior to the telephone prehearing respondent's counsel resubmitted a copy of the Settlement signed by the Board's attorney as well as the Board Resolution via fax. The Original Settlement Agreement was received by the OAL on October 22, 2010, which is attached hereto for reference.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Board Resolution, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESOLUTION

Lyndhurst Board of Education

WHEREAS, Lyndhurst Board of Education ("Board"), filed tenure charges against, teaching staff member, John Blevis, under Agency Dkt. No.:45-3/10 on or about January 11, 2010 (collectively referred to as "the parties"); and

WHEREAS, John Blevis filed an answer to those charges and is prepared to defend the same; and

WHEREAS, the parties have come to an agreement that addresses the principal concerns of the Board in bringing the charges; and

WHEREAS, the Board has considered the agreement and the parties desire to make a full and final settlement of all the claims, defenses and issues between the parties; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED that the Board approves resolution of the tenure charges by way of settlement agreement dated July 22, 2010; and be it

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Superintendent, Dr. Tracy Stellato, is designated and authorized to execute the settlement agreement dated July 22, 2010 on behalf of the Board

President, Lyndhurst Board of Education

PREFACE

WHEREAS, Petitioner, Lyndhurst Board of Education ("Board"), filed tenure charges against Respondent, teaching staff member, John Blevis, under AGENCY DKT. NO.:45-3/10 on or about January 11, 2010; and

WHEREAS, Respondent, John Blevis filed an answer to those charges and is prepared to vigorously defend the same; and

WHEREAS, the parties recognize the substantial expense associated with bringing the matter to trial, including the cost of production of lay and expert witnesses, counsel fees, document production and the lost productivity of administration and staff. The parties also recognize the unpredictability of litigation, the likelihood of appeals and costs in terms of time, resources and expense of this endeavor; and

WHEREAS, the parties have come to an agreement that addresses the principal concerns of the Petitioner in bringing the charges and provides the Respondent of a means to address these issues without the expense in time and resources described above; and

WHEREAS, the parties are also involved in a civil action pending in the United States District Court filed on or about October 10, 2006 and served on Petitioner on or about November 28, 2006 in which Respondent is the Plaintiff and Petitioner is a Defendant arising out of the same facts and circumstances described in the charges which also is diverting the parties time, effort and resources from the business of education;

As a result of the foregoing, Petitioner and Respondent have reached a global resolution of all the matters in difference for the following reasons:

1. Petitioner's principal concern in bringing the subject charges was the Respondent's fitness to teach in the District;
2. The parties have agreed on a plan that includes the selection of and examination by an independent forensic psychiatrist, that will assure Respondent's fitness for work before re-entering the classroom thus alleviating Petitioner's principal concern;
3. By way of background, Respondent is a tenured science teacher in petitioner's employ, and, has been so employed since 1986.
4. There have been no previous proceedings involving the Respondent, in his entire tenure with the district, regarding either his performance or conduct prior to the initiation of these charges. There have never been any disciplinary charges or performance related increment withholding proceedings initiated against him.
5. There is a civil action pending in the United States District Court in which Respondent is the Plaintiff and Petitioner is a Defendant arising out of the same facts and circumstances described in the charges. In said action, Petitioner is charged with various civil violations of Respondents rights and there are claims for money damages. The defense of this action and the uncertainty of the result have also led the parties to reach a global settlement in the best interests of Petitioner, respondent and the public.
6. As a result of all of the above, Petitioner and Respondent have reached the following agreement.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This settlement Agreement and Release ("Agreement") is made this 22nd day of July 2010 by and between John Blevis ("Blevis") and the Lyndhurst Board of Education ("Board"),

WHEREAS, Blevis and the Board have been engaged in civil litigation in the United States District Court (Civil Action No. 06-4857), in which Blevis was a Plaintiff and the Board is a Defendant and in administrative proceedings before the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey under AGENCY DKT. NO.:45-3/10 and in which the Board is the Petitioner and Blevis was the respondent; and

WHEREAS, the parties desire to make a full and final settlement of all of the claims, defenses and issues between them and to suspend and forever withdraw their claims between them and against each other in their mutual interest; and

WHEREAS, the parties declare that the settlement and withdrawal of all of the claims between them, as contemplated by this agreement, does not constitute an admission of liability, wrongdoing, guilt, malfeasance or nonfeasance by any party to this agreement and is made for the sole purpose of terminating all proceedings.

NOW WHEREFORE, in consideration of the promises, agreements, undertakings and representations contained herein, the receipt and sufficiency of which the parties acknowledge, the parties hereto, covenant and agree to be legally bound as follows:

1. Counsel for the parties, with the consent of their clients, have selected an independent psychiatrist with appropriate credentials to perform a forensic "fitness for duty" examination for Mr. Blevis and provide a report setting forth his findings to the parties. The selected physician has no connection with any party, doctor or attorney in this or the federal litigation and is deemed to be truly independent.

2. Each party will pay for one half (1/2) of the fee charged by the psychiatrist for his services so there is no issue as to the allegiance of the doctor. Counsel for the parties have collectively reviewed the Curriculum Vitae and credentials of a number of qualified psychiatrists and selected a physician from among those deemed to be qualified for this engagement.

3. Counsel for the respective parties have contacted the selected psychiatrist and confirmed his willingness and availability to perform an exam and issue a report with reasonable promptness. Mr. Blevis has contacted the selected physician and made an appointment for the examination and report contemplated by this agreement.

4. All communications with the selected physician shall be made jointly by counsel for the respective parties. (Except that Mr. Blevis or counsel may contact the physician for the purpose of arranging and attending the examination)

5. The examination will be completed in 1 day with the expectation that a report be submitted shortly thereafter.

6. The parties have notified the independent psychiatrist, that the examination contemplated by this agreement, be completed in one day and that Mr. Blevis will make himself available for the entire day as may be required by the physician. The selected psychiatrist has been contacted by the parties and he has agreed to this procedure.

7. The physician will be provided with the reports of Dr. Head (11/10/2008,11/25/2008 &1/6/2010 reports), Dr. Sostowski (undated) and Dr. Gallina, (12/3/2009) for use in the examination and report process in such fashion as said physician shall determine. If additional records are requested by the doctor, the parties shall confer and determine which documents shall be submitted with the intention of presenting a fair and balanced record for the physician's use. It is preferable that the doctor could reach his determination without outside influence.

8. Upon Mr. Blevis submitting to the subject examination, the Board agrees to withdraw the pending administrative tenure charges against the Respondent with the consent of the Administrative Law Judge to whom the matter is assigned. Upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner of Education, Mr. Blevis will dismiss the pending Federal law suit without receipt of any payment. The parties will notify the federal court judge of the pending settlement with the expectation that the trial will be deferred until the Commissioner of Education acts. In any event, Blevis agrees not to seek any compensation in the federal court action if the settlement is ultimately approved by the Commissioner or the parties are otherwise satisfied with the resolution of the matter. The parties shall execute such additional documents as may be necessary to effectuate the intentions of this paragraph. The parties understand that should the Commissioner of Education not approve this agreement, the administrative tenure charges and federal court action will be reinstated.

9. If the results of the referenced examination establish that Mr. Blevis is "fit to teach", he will be immediately reinstated to a position with the Petitioner (Lyndhurst Board of Education) with back pay and benefits (pension contributions, sick and personal days, etc.) and be assigned to a teaching position within the scope of his certifications effective September, 2010. In calculating back pay, the Board will be credited with the amount of any earnings by Blevis during his suspension period earned during regular school hours.

10. If the subject examination and report results in a finding that Mr. Blevis is currently unfit, Mr. Blevis will be granted the two year statutory period from the date of the determination to prove his fitness to work. Upon establishing, his fitness, by certification of an independent professional, or such other person upon whom the parties mutually agree, Mr. Blevis will be reinstated. During the leave period, while Mr. Blevis is receiving professional assistance, he may use his accumulated sick leave and accrue sick leave as provided in the collective negotiations agreement between the Lyndhurst Education Association and Board policy and remain as an active employee of the Board. If counseling or other professional assistance is required either while working or in advance of reinstatement, Mr. Blevis will follow that direction. Mr. Blevis shall retain his contractual health insurance benefits during any recuperative period.

11. Upon completion of the requirements of paragraphs 8 and 9, Mr. Blevis personnel file will be purged of all objectionable material as permitted by law.

12. The parties mutually agree that their shall be no retaliation by any party against the other as the result of initiating the proceedings set forth in this agreement or as the result of entering into this agreement. The parties agree to refrain from disparaging each other either orally or in writing as the consequence of anything that has arisen in the underlying litigation described herein or based upon the facts or assertions set forth therein or upon which said actions were based.

13. Applicable Law. Any dispute about this Agreement that cannot be resolved by agreement shall be decided under the terms of the general contract law of the State of New Jersey.

14. Promises of Confidentiality. Blevis, the Board agree and will instruct their individual agents, servants, employees and representatives not to divulge the contents of this Agreement. Blevis and the Board agree not to publically disseminate the matters raised in this agreement, the civil action and the administrative charges before the Commissioner, including those set forth in the administration's statement dated January 12, 2010, that are the subject hereof, the facts surrounding the same and the terms of this Agreement is of essence of this Agreement. Blevis and Board agree to be bound by the confidentiality provisions of this Agreement. This confidentiality provision shall survive, and be given full force and effect separately from any invalid, unenforceable or inoperative provision of this Agreement.

Neither Blevis nor the Board, publicly or privately, shall characterize the settlement of these matters as either a victory or a defeat. The parties, shall only state that the matters in difference were settled to the mutual satisfaction of the parties.

Blevis and the Board represent and warrant that they have not disclosed or disseminate and will not disclose or disseminate to any person or entity the terms or conditions of this Agreement, nor shall Blevis or the Board disclose or disseminate the facts surrounding the same except that disclosure is permitted:

(1) as necessary with regard to any proceeding for the enforcement of this Agreement,

(2) as may be required by a court order from any court of competent jurisdiction; and

(3) As may be required by law. It shall not be considered a breach of the obligation of confidentiality for Blevis to make disclosure of the terms of this Agreement to his spouse or counsel or to make disclosure of the terms of this Agreement and the underlying events of this Agreement in order to obtain private and confidential professional advice, or to respond to any inquiry from any governmental entity or agency.

15. Non-Retaliation/Non-Disparagement. The parties agree that they shall refrain from retaliating against any other party as the result of the participation in any civil or administrative action or because of the prosecution or defense of any claims in any of the proceedings described in this agreement.

In addition, the parties agree that they will not publicly, orally, in writing or through electronic or other media, make any disparaging remarks, statements or innuendo about any other party either by inclusion or omission in any publication. Neither party will make any statement to the press or public. If asked by the press or public about any of the matters addressed in this agreement, the parties shall respond only that all civil and administrative actions have been dismissed or withdrawn

16. Entire Agreement. The parties hereby acknowledge that no promises or inducement which is not herein expressed has been made, and in executing this Agreement. This Agreement contains the sole and the entire agreement between the parties, and completely and fully supersedes and replaces any and all prior contracts, agreements, discussions, representations, negotiations, understandings and any other communications between the parties pertaining to the subject matter hereof, the parties represent and acknowledge, in executing this Agreement, that they have not relied upon any representation or statement not set forth in this Agreement made by either party or their counsel or representatives with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the parties hereto, and expressly stated to represent an amendment to this Agreement.

17. Accord and Satisfaction. This Agreement reflects a compromise and settlement of disputed claims in complete accord and satisfaction thereof. Neither the execution of the Agreement or performance of its terms and conditions shall be considered by any party or by any other person as an admission of liability or non-liability of any of the parties. The parties state that each of them has carefully read this Agreement and the attached Releases and that they have been fully explained to each by his/their attorneys, and that each fully understands that upon execution and performance of the covenants herein, are final and binding. The parties agree that they are bound by this Agreement.

18. Attorneys' Fees and Costs. Each party agrees to be responsible for their own attorney's fees and costs associated with this matter.

19. The parties represent that they are fully authorized to execute this agreement and that all formalities attendant to the execution of this agreement have been satisfied.

A.M.M., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, G.M.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PARK RIDGE, BERGEN COUNTY, ET AL.,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, the parent of an elementary student who was enrolled in the Park Ridge schools in 2009, initially filed an application for emergent relief in September 2009 contending, inter alia, that the restrictions placed on petitioner's access to school property were unlawful and made it impossible for her to send G.M. to school, since she could not be assured of his safety and freedom from retaliation for her actions advocating on his behalf. Petitioner requested that all records of absences for G.M. be expunged. The Board counterclaimed for interim judgment requiring petitioner to cause her son to attend school or otherwise comply with compulsory education laws (N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25 et seq.), and for attorney fees. Petitioner withdrew her appeal in response to the latter demand; an emergent hearing was held on the Board's counterclaim; the ALJ found that the Board had not met the necessary standard for grant of emergent relief, and dismissed the matter in its entirety. In November 2009, The Commissioner reinstated the petitioner's appeal and remanded it to the OAL for hearing solely on the school law claims. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

On remand, the ALJ found that: there is no genuine issue of material fact, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner does not currently have legal custody of her son; custody and decision-making authority for G.M. is presently vested in the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS); accordingly, petitioner currently lacks the authority to pursue this litigation or to direct her son's education; petitioner at no time alleged that G.M.'s non-attendance was inaccurately recorded, but urged that she was justified in keeping him at home, therefore – absent a contention that the attendance records are inaccurate – the records cannot be expunged as they are mandated student records which must be maintained by the district pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.8(2)(e); and the remaining issues for adjudication on remand have become moot as they all pertain to G.M. attending school in the Park Ridge school district, and at present he is in the legal and physical custody DYFS, attending school in Montvale. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon full and independent review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon full consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge – for the reasons clearly detailed in her decision – that summary decision is appropriately granted to the Board.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: September 23, 2010 Decided: October 18, 2010

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter comes before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on remand of A.M.M. on behalf of G.M. v. Park Ridge Board of Education, et al., Docket Number EDU 11357, for further proceedings in accordance with the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated November 30, 2009. The matter was originally assigned to Maria LaFiandra, ALJ, but was reassigned to me in June 2010 upon her retirement.

A petition and request for emergent relief was filed by petitioner, A.M.M., on September 23, 2009. At that time, A.M.M.'s son, G.M., was an elementary student in the Park Ridge School District. The emergent application sought an order lifting restrictions on A.M.M.'s ability to attend school functions and be present on school property. A cross-petition for emergent relief filed by Park Ridge sought an order compelling G.M.'s attendance at school. Upon receipt of the cross-petition, A.M.M. withdrew her petition via letter dated October 7, 2009. On October 27, 2009, Judge LaFiandra issued an Initial Decision dismissing the matter in its entirety.

Both parties filed exceptions to the Initial Decision. Petitioner asked to reinstate her appeal and stated that she continued to be aggrieved by the actions of the Board. The Board asserted that both the denial of its request for emergent relief and the dismissal of its underlying claim were in error. The Commissioner directed that the matter be remanded and it was transmitted again to the OAL on December 12, 2009. The Commissioner narrowed the issues on appeal and dismissed the individually named respondents.

On April 14, 2010, the Board filed a motion to dismiss and supporting certification. Petitioner filed opposition to the motion on May 4, 2010. Via letter order dated May 21, 2010, Judge LaFiandra reserved on the motion. Documents offered in support of the Board's motion reflected that a proceeding had been instituted by the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS), a law guardian had been appointed to represent G.M., and that G.M. had been placed in DYFS's custody.[1] Judge LaFiandra directed the Board, through counsel, to notify the law guardian regarding this proceeding and afford the law guardian until July 1, 2010, to intervene. No request to intervene was filed.

[1] The remand decision of the Commissioner directed that there be "a prompt hearing on petitioner's application for emergent relief." The record is unclear whether efforts to schedule an emergent hearing took place prior to the filing of the motion to dismiss by the Board.

On July 21, 2010, I conferred via telephone with the parties. I felt that I lacked sufficient information about the status of DYFS's involvement in G.M.'s case to render a decision on the pending motion. Accordingly, via letter order dated July 21, 2010, I directed counsel for the Board to communicate with both the Deputy Attorney General and the law guardian to obtain updated information. I conferred again with the parties via telephone on September 1, 2010. In advance of the telephone conference, I was provided with a certification from the law guardian, and an updated order of the Superior Court. Based upon the information provided, I scheduled oral argument on the pending motion. The parties appeared on September 23, 2010, at which time the record closed.

ISSUES PRESENTED

The Commissioner's November 30, 2010, decision set forth with specificity the issues on remand, as follows:

1. The propriety of Board action in excluding A.M.M. and her then boyfriend, now husband, J.F., from school property.
2. The propriety of Board restrictions on her ability to communicate with staff.
3. The continuation of these limitations into the 2009-2010 school year.
4. The denial of A.M.M.'s request to transfer G.M. to another school within Park Ridge.
5. The request to expunge all records of absences for G.M. from June 1, 2009, to the present.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The material FACTS are not in dispute, and I FIND:

A.M.M. is the biological mother of G.M., and is a resident of Park Ridge. She married J.F. in January 2010. During the 2009-2010 school year, G.M. was enrolled in the Park Ridge public schools. The petition set forth a "lengthy, tortured and contentious history" of A.M.M.'s relationship with school personnel, and included allegations that school administration unfairly barred her and her husband from school premises, and otherwise refused to cooperate with her in her son's best interest. A.M.M. urged in her petition that all she wishes is for school personnel to "allow [her and J.F.] to be parents and enjoy our son's education."

It is uncontroverted that A.M.M. stopped sending G.M. to school due to concerns about the ability of school personnel to ensure his health and safety. Importantly, the petition at no time alleges that the school district inaccurately recorded G.M.'s non-attendance; rather, petitioner simply urges that she was justified in keeping her son at home. A.M.M. contends, for example, that "[w]e kept our son home for three weeks as we did not feel comfortable that the school would meet our son's medical needs as we were not allowed access." The petition further states, "[w]e also kept in touch with the [sic] DYFS daily to inform them that our son was not able to attend school. They told us to keep him home." School officials asserted that petitioner was in violation of the compulsory education laws.

In or about November 2009, DYFS obtained a Superior Court order directing that G.M. return to school, and he did so on or about November 16, 2009. On February 9, 2010, the Superior Court entered an order directing that G.M. "be immediately made [a ward] of the court and placed in the immediate custody, care and supervision of the Division." The order further directed that DYFS be granted "legal and physical custody of [G.M.]," and that "[A.M.M.] and [J.F.] shall be restrained from the school property where the child attends." The order did permit A.M.M. to attend an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) meeting. At oral argument before me, A.M.M. indicated that DYFS's intervention was due to educational neglect.

While the February 9, 2010, order was temporary, a certification submitted by the law guardian for G.M., Mary Verderame, confirms that an order dated August 3, 2010, continues legal and physical custody of G.M. with the Division. A.M.M. is restrained from the home where G.M. resides, although she indicated that she is permitted supervised visitation with her son. A.M.M. urged that she will soon be reunited with her son, but the order does not reflect that a return of her son is imminent. The order schedules a follow up compliance review for October 26, 2010.

G.M. does not presently attend the Park Ridge schools, but rather attends school in Montvale. Although Ms. Verderame stated that A.M.M. "may be informally consulted from time to time regarding G.M. the power to make all decisions ultimately resides with the Division." Her representation that A.M.M. has no real decision-making power relative to G.M. appears to be supported by the statement made by A.M.M. in a September 14, 2010, letter to me that "as of this date, I do not know what school my son is enrolled in." A.M.M. does take exception to the statement in Ms. Verderame's certification that no objection was raised to G.M.'s enrollment in Montvale, stressing that she wanted her son to continue in Park Ridge as this would afford him greater continuity.

A.M.M. urged at oral argument that she intends to re-enroll her son in the Park Ridge schools once custody is returned to her, and that accordingly, the issues raised by her petition are properly before me for adjudication. She further asserted, and it is uncontroverted, that there has been no termination of her parental rights. In light of the August 2010 Superior Court order, the Board argues that petitioner lacks standing to file claims on her son's behalf, and further, that any claims regarding her lack of access to the Park Ridge schools are now moot.

The Board has filed a motion seeking to dismiss the petition, but includes certifications and other documents outside the pleadings in support of its motion. Accordingly, its application is properly considered in accordance with the standards set by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c) which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers...only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. There are no material disputed facts which require a plenary hearing, and the Board is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

Petitioner's Standing to Bring the Claims Raised by the Petition

Standing is a "threshold justiciability determination whether the litigant is entitled to initiate and maintain an action before a court or other tribunal." In re N.J.A.C. 5:91-1, 372 N.J. Super. 61, 85 (App. Div. 2004); Stubus v. Williams, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 47 (App. Div. 2001). A lack of standing precludes a court from entertaining any of the substantive issues presented for determination. Watkins v. Resorts Int'l Hotel and Casino, 124 N.J. 398, 424 (1991).

It is clear that custody and decision making authority for G.M. is presently vested in DYFS, per the August 2010 order of the Superior Court, which provided that "G.M. will remain in the custody, care and supervision of the Division." In Beck v Beck, 86 N.J. 480 (1981), the court defined "custody" as the "the legal authority and responsibility for making 'major' decisions regarding the child's welfare . . . ." Id. at 487. It is plain to me that determining to pursue litigation on a child's behalf is a major decision, as is a decision regarding a child's educational programming. It is clear from the record that A.M.M. does not have legal custody of her son at this time, and that accordingly, she lacks the authority to pursue this litigation or to direct his education.

Her arguments to the contrary are belied by her own assertion that she has been kept in the dark about details regarding her son, including a matter as simple as his school location. It is uncontroverted that A.M.M.'s parental rights have not been terminated. But even absent a termination of parental rights, custody arrangements can envision one parent retaining educational decision making power to the exclusion of the other. See F.C. on behalf of D.C. v Rockaway Twp. Bd. of Educ., EDS 11128-09, Final Decision (January 12, 2005), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Likewise here, although A.M.M. does retain her parental rights, Ms. Verderame's certification, together with the August 2010 Superior Court order, confirms that decision-making authority for G.M. is presently vested in DYFS.

A.M.M. lacks standing to ask that G.M.'s records be expunged, and accordingly, I CONCLUDE that her claims relative to G.M.'s student records should be dismissed.[2]

Furthermore, even assuming for arguments sake that A.M.M. has standing to challenge the content of G.M.'s student file, she makes altogether no factual allegations which would support entry of an order expunging his records under N.J.A.C. 6A: 32-7.7. The regulation provides that student records are subject to challenge, and a parent may seek to "expunge inaccurate, irrelevant or otherwise improper information from the student record." A.M.M. does not allege that G.M.'s attendance records are inaccurate, irrelevant or improper, rather that, although he indeed was absent from school, she was justified in keeping him home. Her concerns are better addressed through the mechanism contained at N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7, which allows a parent "to place a statement in the student record commenting upon the information in the student record." Petitioner can avail herself of this right without the intervention of this tribunal. Furthermore, and importantly, absent a contention that attendance records are inaccurate, I CONCLUDE that they cannot be expunged, as the applicable regulations consider attendance records to be "mandated" student records, which must be maintained by a school district for 100 years. N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.8(2)(e). For these additional reasons, I CONCLUDE that the claim regarding G.M.'s student records should be dismissed.

[2] A.M.M.'s claims relative to J.F. must likewise be dismissed. He is not a party to this action, nor would he have standing to bring an action relative to G.M., as he is not G.M.'s biological father.

Mootness

An action is considered moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues raised have become academic. For reasons of judicial economy and restraint, it is appropriate to refrain from decision-making when an issue presented is hypothetical, judgment cannot grant effective relief, or the parties do not have a concrete adversity of interest. Fox v. Twp. of E. Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 10067-98, Initial Decision (March 19, 1999), adopted, Comm'r (May 3, 1999), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; S.J. v Bd. of Educ. of Mountain Lakes, EDU 07081-03, Initial Decision (October 7, 2003), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. In light of the intervening involvement by DYFS in G.M.'s case, I CONCLUDE that the remaining issues for adjudication on remand have become moot.

G.M. no longer attends the Park Ridge Schools. Accordingly, an order directing the Board to transfer him to a different Park Ridge elementary school cannot provide effective relief to petitioner. The restrictions on access to school staff and property are likewise no longer relevant. A.M.M. urged that she sought access to the school in order to attend class events and monitor G.M.'s progress.[3] At the heart of her petition is the contention that school officials were depriving her of the opportunity to effectively parent her child, enjoy his educational success, or ensure his safety while at school. These concerns, however heartfelt, cannot be effectively addressed by me in an action against Park Ridge when it is no longer responsible for providing educational services to G.M., and he is enrolled through the intervention of DYFS in a neighboring school district.

A.M.M.'s argument that she intends to re-enroll G.M. in Park Ridge when they are reunited is likewise sincere, but does not warrant a ruling on claims and concerns that arose before DYFS's intervention. If and when the family is reunited, and if and when G.M. is enrolled again in Park Ridge, the parties will have to re-establish a productive working relationship in G.M.'s best interest. In the event they are unable to do so, this forum will always be available to address any justiciable disputes. But it is inappropriate to assume today that there will be an inability by the parties to work cooperatively, or to presuppose that the same issues will be in contention between A.M.M. and school officials if G.M. returns to Park Ridge.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the remaining issues in contention between the parties should likewise be dismissed.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's motion for summary decision be GRANTED and the petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

[3] The Board argues that the February 2010 order given custody to DYFS barred A.M.M. from school property in Park Ridge, and that those restrictions remain in effect. The most recent order does not so provide, and I am unable to conclude from the order presented that those restrictions continue. Nonetheless, it is unnecessary to reach this argument in light of my conclusion that the claims regarding access to school property are moot.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AMENDED JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Gloucester County Special Services School District Board of Education ("Board") and counsel for its tenured employee Kathleen McMahon, a secretary ("McMahon"), join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 (1983), as incorporated In N.J.A.C. 1 :1-19.1, recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the Board be withdrawn and this matter dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of charges certified by the Board to the Commissioner on May 13, 2010 against a tenured secretary on grounds of unbecoming conduct (See Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence attached hereto as "Exhibit B"). The tenure charges were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") as a contested case on June 1, 2010. A Scheduling and Status Conference concerning the Board's tenure charges took place before the Honorable Donald J. Stein, ALJ on August 13, 2010. On September 15, 2010, counsel informed ALJ Stein that the parties had reached a tentative settlement agreement. The settlement was expressly conditioned upon the drafting of mutually satisfactory settlement documents to be submitted for approval by the Board and by the Commissioner so that the tenure charges might be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that, among other terms, McMahon was suspended without pay from May 17, 2010 through September 14, 2010, has successfully completed in-patient counseling under the auspices of the Board's Employee Assistance Program ("EAP"), will agree to submit to alcohol and substance testing on a random basis for the remainder of her career with the District, and, that should she test positive for alcohol or controlled dangerous substance use during that period, she will be subject to Termination of tenure in accordance with the principles articulated by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), aff'd S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), aff'd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96Tl (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported) (Commissioner ruled employee and local school board may enter into binding return-to-work agreement providing for second chance and, under terms of agreement, Commissioner rejected employee's claim to "third strike" under New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, NJS.A. 10-5-1 et seq. ("NJLAD")). In exchange for these and other terms (including McMahon's execution and delivery of a general release of any and all claims, including claims of failure to accommodate under the NJLAD), the Board has reinstated McMahon to a position consistent with her qualifications and experience.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that the Board's withholding of her increments for the 2009-2010 school year will be a permanent increment withholding, subject to the Board's ability to restore the increments in its sole discretion at a future date as is its prerogative under Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127NJ 518 (1992).

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that conditioned upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against McMahon shall be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet her objections.

THE JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

As to the charge of unbecoming conduct, the Board's justification for withdrawal of the charge includes the existence of a controverted factual record, the existence of extraordinary mitigating circumstances including that the single incident of misconduct arose from depression, anxiety and stress, that McMahon had an otherwise unblemished record but for her substance abuse problem, and the Board's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation requirements of the NJLAD as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, supra, and as affirmed by the Appellate Division in that case. As to the charges of unbecoming conduct, neglect of duty and insubordination for failure to report for testing as directed by the Superintendent, the Board's justification for withdrawal of the charges is that a genuine question exists as to whether McMahon's failure to report for testing in a timely manner was an attempt to avoid a positive substance test result.

The Board's decision to request the withdrawal of the charges is further reinforced by the fact that the Board has had an opportunity to fully investigate and assess the progress McMahon has made with respect to her substance abuse issues. It is for these reasons and the reasons expressed in the recitals of the Settlement Agreement that the Board has decided to withdraw the charges upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RIGHTS

McMahon has had the opportunity to discuss these matters with her counsel, Mr. Buividas. She has reviewed the charges against along with the discovery in support of those charges. She understands that she has the right to have a hearing on the charges against her where she can dispute the facts alleged by the District, present a defense, and have Judge Stein and ultimately the Commissioner make a determination on the validatiy of the charges. She has decided to waive that right in exchange for the guaranteed opportunity to continue her employment with the District. Counsel is satisfied that McMahon makes this decision to waive her rights knowingly and voluntarily.

CONSIDERATION OF PUBLIC INTEREST

This settlement serves the interest of the public in that it is keeping with the District's core mission of helping those that suffer from mental, physical and emotional challenges and eliminates the need for costly litigation. The Parties recognize that McMahon's issues with substance abuse are a disease that can be controlled with proper treatment and supervision. Her problem is the only blemish on an otherwise outstanding employee record with the District. This settlement provides a high level of supervision and responsibility on McMahon for the remainder of her career with the District, while ensuring that any slip on McMahon's part will be grounds for dismissal. The settlement also preserves District resources by eliminating the need for litigation expenses, and ensures an outcome that is beneficial to the District.

CONCLUSION

The Settlement Agreement was negotiated between counsel after certain facts became known during the course of discovery and preparation for hearing. Counsel, as well as McMahon and the Board which approved it, are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of *N.J.A.*C. 1: 1-19.1, recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and therefore upon such approval dismiss with prejudice the tenure charges in this matter.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
REGARDING KATHLEEN MCMAHON
TENURE CHARGES

This SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT is entered into between the Gloucester County Special Services School District Board of Education (hereafter "Board" or "District") and Kathleen McMahon (hereafter "McMahon").

WHEREAS, McMahon has been employed continuously by the Gloucester County Special Services School District since September 4, 1994 and currently holds the title of Secretary for the Bankbridge Regional School Principal;

WHEREAS, McMahon has been accused of (1) conduct unbecoming a board employee; (2) neglect of duty; and (3) insubordination by the District related to her substance abuse issues.

WHEREAS, McMahon has been suspended since March 30, 2010;

WHEREAS, the Board directed the Board Secretary to certify tenure charges related to the allegations of misconduct on May 12, 2010;

WHEREAS, McMahon, was suspected of being under the influence of alcohol during working hours in violation of District policy and failed to report for testing in a timely manner as directed by the District;

WHEREAS, McMahon has entered into and successfully completed an intensive in-patient substance treatment program and has been continuing to participate in a comprehensive out-patient substance treatment program; and

WHEREAS, McMahon is willing to abide by the enumerated terms and conditions in this agreement, including the term that McMahon's employment with the Board will be terminated for any violation of the agreement, no matter how slight, in exchange for the resolution of the tenure charges against her and permitting the continuation of her employment with the Board.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made part of this settlement by reference.

2. McMahon shall serve a suspension without pay for the period of May 16, 2010 through September 13, 2010, which includes the 120 day period permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

3. McMahon agrees to forfeit her vacation leave days for the 2010-2011 school year to account for the days of administrative leave she served during the investigation of this incident.

4. McMahon voluntarily agrees to be transferred to the Non-Public Program effective upon her return.

5. McMahon shall have her salary frozen for the 2010-2011 school year. Future opportunities for salary increases to be based on performance, including but not limited to McMahon's performance in complying with the conditions of this agreement.

6. This agreement constitutes the last chance McMahon has to continue her employment with the Board. Any breach of this Last Chance Agreement shall result in McMahon's termination of her employment with the Board and McMahon and the Board agree that McMahon shall not ever be employed by the Board again.

7. McMahon shall be subject to probation for the remainder of her employment with the Board, which shall commence upon ratification of this agreement (hereafter referenced as "probationary period"). During the probationary period McMahon shall be bound by the following conditions:

    a. Prior to her return to work, McMahon shall submit to a medical, mental health, and substance abuse evaluation. The provider(s) shall be selected by the Board, and McMahon shall execute all releases necessary for the District to receive documents related to the evaluations;

    b. Random substance testing by the District at the direction of the Superintendent or his/her designee;

    c. Attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings weekly and supply the Superintendent with official written verification of attendance;

    d. Comply with all directions and requirements of the District assigned mentor, including but not limited to monthly conferences and written reporting;

    e. Attend quarterly conferences with the Superintendent and comply with all recommendations; and

f. Abide by all Board policies and New Jersey School Laws.

8. To the extent that the treatment referenced above is not paid for by McMahon's medical insurance with Board, McMahon shall be personally responsible for the cost of her therapeutic treatments.

9. During the probationary period, the Board shall have the right to receive and review any reports related to McMahon's progress and performance.

10. During the probationary period, McMahon agrees to submit to a medical, mental health and/or substance abuse evaluation upon the request of the Superintendent and abide by all recommendations.

11. In exchange for the valuable consideration listed herein, McMahon agrees that any violation of the Settlement Agreement, as determined in the sole discretion of the Superintendent, shall result in the immediate termination of her employment with the Board.

12. In the event of any violation of this Settlement Agreement by McMahon, as determined by the Superintendent, McMahon agrees that her employment has been terminated for cause.

13. McMahon enters this agreement knowingly and voluntarily, without coercion and with a full understanding of the rights and ramifications of this Settlement Agreement, entering into it on her own accord, after having the opportunity to consult with counsel. The signatory for the Board acknowledges that the Board authorized this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting.

14. The Parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding any statements concerning a reason that this agreement is not enforceable and/or consistent with the public's interest.

15. The Parties agree that in the event any provision or condition of this Settlement Agreement be finally determined to be in violation of any law, then such provision or condition, only to the extent that any may be so in violation, shall be deemed of no force and effect and unenforceable without impairing the validity and enforceability of the rest of the Agreement.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF KATHLEEN MCMAHON, Respondent, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT AND THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE COUNTY OF GLOUCESTER, Petitioner.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY Agency Ref. No.: OAL Docket No.: CERTIFICATE OF DETERMINATION

I, Marjorie Workman, being duly sworn according to law upon my oath depose and say:

1. I am employed by the Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Special Services School District and the Vocational School District of the County of Gloucester (hereafter referred to as "the Board"), as the Assistant Superintendent for Business/Board Secretary for the Board of Education.

2. On April 14, 2010, the Respondent, Kathleen McMahon, Secretary to the Principal, was served with tenure charges and a supporting statement of evidence (hereafter referred to as the "Charges"), which contain the following charges of unbecoming conduct, neglect of duty, and insubordination:

a) Charge No. 1: Ms. McMahon is guilty of conduct unbecoming a Board employee, neglect of duty, and insubordination for violating the Board's Employee Substance Abuse Policy and District Practice. More specifically, on March 30, 2010, Ms. McMahon reported to work under the influence of alcohol. On March 30, 2010, Principal Ronald Rutter, as well as Dr. Susan Heiken, Director of Clinical Services, detected that Ms. McMahon smelled of alcohol. When questioned, Ms. McMahon acknowledged that she smelled of alcohol, but attributed it to the night she had prior to reporting to work. Based upon reasonable suspicion, Ms. McMahon was instructed to make arrangements to be driven to Underwood Memorial Hospital Occupational Health Medical Facility in Paulsboro for alcohol testing pursuant to Board Policy and District Practice. Ms. McMahon agreed to submit to testing. Beginning at approximately 10:00 am, Ms. McMahon claimed to be calling and leaving messages for her significant other, Mike, to transport her to the testing facility. Principal Rutter and Dr. Heiken observed Ms. McMahon making the calls and leaving messages requesting a ride to the facility.

At around 11:00 am, Ms. McMahon was advised that the District intended to transport her by ambulance to the testing facility, if she was not able to secure transportation for herself. By 12:00 pm she was picked up by her brother and sister-in-law to be taken to the testing facility, which is located approximately ten miles from the District's Offices.

At approximately 12:50 pm it was discovered that Ms. McMahon had not arrived at the testing facility. Principal Rutter attempted to contact Ms. McMahon at her house. Principal Rutter continued to call Ms. McMahon's house and at around 1:15 pm Mike answered the phone. Mike told Principal Rutter that he did not know where Ms. McMahon was and that no calls were received at the house from the District before 12:00 pm. A review of the District phone records revealed that three outgoing calls were made from the phone Ms. McMahon was observed using from 10:00 am until after she was told that the District would call for an ambulance to transport her. All three calls were made to the same number, which was not her home number, and was out of service on March 30, 2010.

Ms. McMahon did not arrive at the testing facility until 3:00 pm at which time she immediately used the restroom at the facility without providing a urine sample as required by the testing procedure. Although she did provide a breath sample, which read 0.00%, she refused to provide a urine sample and left the facility by 3:15 pm.

Shortly thereafter, Ms. McMahon contacted Assistant Superintendent Michael Dicken and advised that her Breathalyzer test, which was administered over seven hours after she reported to work that morning, was negative. When asked why she left before taking the urine test, she said she didn't have to urinate and that her brother had to leave. When asked why it took her three hours to get to the testing facility, she stated that her brother forgot his license and had to go back to his house to get it and then they broke down and had to wait for AAA to assist them. Mr. Dicken asked Ms. McMahon if he could be provided with a copy of a receipt/documentation for the AAA service call to which Ms. McMahon altered her statement and said that it was a friend who assisted them. Statement of

b) Charge No. 2: Ms. McMahon is guilty of conduct unbecoming a Board employee, neglect of duty and insubordination for failing to report for substance testing in a timely manner and refusing to submit to the substance testing based on the facts set forth in "Charge No.1". The above-referenced acts of Ms. McMahon warrant her dismissal from her position as Secretary to the Principal with the Board of the Gloucester County Special Services School District. Statement of Evidence and Bates Stamped Documents GCSSSD KM 01 - GCSSSD KM 17. (See Exhibit No. 1).

c) Charge No. 3: Ms. McMahon is guilty of conduct unbecoming a Board employee, neglect of duty, and insubordination for deliberately providing false information to the Assistant Superintendent in an attempt to frustrate the Superintendent's investigation into the allegation that Ms. McMahon violated the District's Substance Abuse Policy and District Practice based on the facts set forth in "Charge No.1". Statement of Evidence and Bates Stamped Documents GCSSSD KM 01 - GCSSSD KM 17. (See Exhibit No. 1).

3. In support of the charges, Respondent was also served with the Statement of Evidence as well as Bates Stamped documents GCSSSD KM 01 - GCSSSD KM 17. (See Exhibit No. 1)
4. On April 29, 2010, Respondent filed a written statement of position in opposition to the charges. (See Exhibit No. 2)
5. On May 12, 2010, the Board met in closed executive session at a special Board meeting held at Bankbridge Regional School, to review the merits of the charges. After evaluating the charges, together with the supporting statement of evidence with exhibits, the Board made the following determinations by a majority vote of its full membership:

a) There is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges of conduct unbecoming of a Board employee, neglect of duty, and insubordination;

b) The charges of conduct unbecoming of a Board employee, neglect of duty, and insubordination, and the evidence to support thereof are sufficient, if true, to warrant the Respondent's dismissal from her employment with the Board;

c) The charges of conduct unbecoming of a Board employee, neglect of duty, and insubordination, shall be certified to the Commissioner of Education; and,

d) Respondent shall be suspended without pay as of May 13, 2010.

6. The Board has directed me to file the charges, together with the instant Certificate of Determination, with the Commissioner of Education and to forthwith notify Kathleen McMahon of the Board's determination.

7. On May 13, 2010, I served the Respondent, as well as Respondent's representative, Steven Buividas, Esquire, with notice of the Board's determination to certify the charges with the Commissioner of Education, by United Parcel Service (UPS).

NOTARY PUBLIC OF NEW JERSEY
MY COMMISSION EXPIRES OCT. 4, 2012

Exhibit No. 1

On March 30, 2010 at approximately 9:50 a.m. Sue Heiken and I were having a conversation with Kathy McMahon. At that time Sue and I both suspected we smelled alcohol on Kathy. Sue and I notified the Assistant Superintendent and he suggested she be sent out for drug and alcohol tests. Sue immediately made arrangements for Kathy to go to the Paulsboro clinic to have blood alcohol tests run. At approximately 10:30 a.m. Sue and I informed Kathy that we thought we smelled alcohol on her and that she would have to go to be tested. She said, "maybe it was from last night it's been a tough week for me". She agreed to go for the tests and attempted to call her boyfriend, Mike, from my phone. She said there was no answer but Sue and I did hear her leave a message for Mike to call her. At approximately 11:05 a.m. I asked her to make another phone call, as she hadn't heard back from Mike. She placed another phone call from my phone and again Sue and I heard her leave a message for Mike to call her. At approximately 11:30 a.m. I informed Kathy that if someone didn't pick her up immediately we would have to call an ambulance to transport her for the tests. She tried to call Mike from her phone and I heard her leave a third message for him to call her. She then called her brother who answered and agreed to transport her. At approximately 12:00 p.m. Kathy was seen getting in a vehicle with her brother and sister-in-law. At approximately 12:50 p.m. Sue called the clinic at Paulsboro to ensure Kathy went there directly. Sue was told that Kathy hadn't arrived yet. At approximately 1:00 p.m. I called Kathy's house because she hadn't reported for the tests and hadn't called us. I called again around 1:15 and Kathy's boyfriend Mike answered the phone. He hadn't heard from her and didn't know where she was. I called her house again at approximately 1:50 and Mike still hadn't heard from Kathy. I asked him if he heard her messages and he stated that she didn't leave him any messages and that the caller identification only showed four incoming calls that day. Two of the calls were from his Mother and the other two were from me. At approximately 3:15 p.m. I checked the call log on my phone and found that the number Kathy dialed, (856)686-9821, wasn't consistent with the phone number I used to contact her boyfriend, (856)686-9820. Please see the attached call log. I dialed the phone number I found in the call log and found that it was a disconnected phone number. I then checked the call log on Kathy's phone and found it was also the disconnected phone number. I then spoke with Sue Heiken who informed me That Kathy did show up at the clinic at approximately 3:00 p.m. and blew into the Breathalyzer but refused the urine test.

4218 SUBSTANCE ABUSE

The Board of Education recognizes that chemical dependency is an illness which is preceded by the misuse and/or abuse of alcohol, anabolic steroids, and other drugs. The Board recognizes that the use/misuse of alcohol, anabolic steroids, and other drugs, and the problems associated with it, are becoming increasingly commonplace in today's society. It is generally accepted that alcoholism and other chemical dependencies are illnesses that can be treated successfully if they are identified as early as possible, and if appropriate treatment is promptly instituted. The Board believes that the therapeutic approach to the problem is more effective than one which is solely punitive in nature.

For purposes of this policy, "substance" shall mean:

1. All controlled dangerous substances as defined and prohibited in New Jersey Statutes and Codes;

2. All chemicals which release toxic vapors as defined and prohibited in New Jersey Statutes and Codes;

3. All alcoholic beverages; and

4. Anabolic steroids.

Standard of Conduct

The Board clearly prohibits the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit substances, drugs, alcohol, and/or anabolic steroids on school premises or as part of any of its activities by any employee of the district as well as reporting to the workplace under the influence of any illicit substances, drugs, alcohol, and/or anabolic steroids. Compliance with this standard of behavior is mandatory.

The Board will make every effort to educate its employees regarding the misuse of illegal substances, alcohol, drugs, and anabolic steroids. Further, the Board will assist and provide guidance to an employee who is having a problem concerning the abuse of these substances on how to receive additional help and counseling.

Program Review

The Board shall review its substance abuse program on a biennial basis to determine its effectiveness and implement changes as required and to ensure that disciplinary sanctions are consistently enforced.

Any information gathered through a school investigation, counseling session, request by an employee for help, etc., shall comply with the confidentiality requirements established in Federal regulations found in 42 CFR Part II. Employees shall be subject to procedures and sanctions defined in Regulation No. 3218. All employees shall be provided with a copy of this policy and the accompanying regulations.

Adopted: 19 August 2009

R 4218 SUBSTANCE ABUSE

Procedures

A. Basic procedures to be used when an employee is suspected of having a dependency upon or illegal use of a controlled dangerous substance.

1. The employee's behavior shall be observed and documented by concerned staff. Such behavior as poor working performance, negative personality changes, and poor attendance could be symptomatic of a substance abuse problem. The concerned staff member shall make this report to the Building Principal or immediate supervisor, the school physician (school medical inspector), or the school nurse.

2. The school physician (school medical inspector) or the school nurse shall notify the Building Principal upon receiving any such report(s). The Principal will notify the Superintendent of any such report(s). The Principal and Superintendent, and school nurse when appropriate, will discuss their concern for the employee's health and performance to determine if further pursuance is appropriate and necessary.

3. The Principal or school nurse, as determined by the Superintendent, shall discuss the suspected behavior with the employee as to the extent of the problem. The Superintendent shall keep accurate and detailed official written records of all incidents related to suspected substance abuse.

4. If the suspected dependency or use is confirmed, the employee shall be required to obtain professional counseling or complete an appropriate rehabilitation program.

   If necessary, an immediate leave of absence may be granted to the employee by the Superintendent. The school nurse will recommend at least two certified counseling agencies or a rehabilitation program to the Superintendent.

B. Procedures to be followed when an employee confides to a colleague or administrator that he/she has a substance abuse problem:

1. The staff member shall encourage the employee to seek help.

2. Report the concern about the potential substance abuse problem to the Building Principal.

3. The school physician or the school nurse must report the substance abuse problem to the Principal. The Principal will then follow paragraph C2 of this regulation.

C. Procedures to be followed when an employee is suspected of being under the influence of a substance during working hours:

1. Whenever it appears to any teaching staff member, school nurse, or any other employee of the school district that an employee may be under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance as defined by the New Jersey Statutes, or any chemical (including alcohol/anabolic steroids) or chemical compound which releases vapor or fumes causing condition of intoxication, inebriation, excitement, stupefaction, or dulling of the brain or nervous system, this situation shall be immediately reported to the Principal, the school physician, or the school nurse.

2. The school physician or school nurse shall notify the Principal when they receive a report. The Principal shall:

   a. Notify the Superintendent of Schools.

   b. Arrange for the immediate examination of the employee by the school doctor or a doctor selected by the employee, or if such doctor is not immediately available, then arrange transportation to the local hospital. The employee shall be accompanied to the doctor or emergency room by a member of the school staff designated by the Building Principal and/or the Superintendent.

   c. A report shall be requested from the examining physician which shall set forth whether or not the employee is under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance, or any chemical, which includes alcohol, anabolic steroids, or chemical compound. This test must be made within twenty-four hours of the initial report made by the Principal.

   d. The employee shall not be permitted to resume work until he/she has submitted to the Building Principal a written report from his/her personal physician or the physician who initially examined him/her certifying that he/she is physically and mentally able to return to work.

e. If the report indicates a positive diagnosis, a Violence, Vandalism, and Substance Abuse Incident Report shall be completed by the Principal.

f. If the report indicates a positive diagnosis, the following sanctions apply:

First offense: Provided the employee is not dismissed, the employee must report to an outside certified agency for counseling for three required sessions. A report from the agency must be submitted to the Superintendent within one week after the third counseling session. A warning letter from the Superintendent will be placed in the employee's personnel folder.

Second offense: Provided the employee is not dismissed, the employee must report to an outside certified agency for counseling for five sessions. A report from the agency must be submitted to the Superintendent within one week after the fifth counseling session. A letter of reprimand will be placed in the employee's personnel folder advising him/her that a third incident will result in a suspension without pay and a loss of an increment for the following year.

Third offense: Provided the employee is not dismissed, the employee must enroll in a certified rehabilitation program. A letter must be sent to the Superintendent at the conclusion of the treatment programs. Also, the employee will be suspended for a week without pay and lose his/her increment the following year.

Fourth offense: Provided the employee is not dismissed, the employee will have a hearing before the Board in which a decision will be rendered by the Board relating to the continued employment of the employee.

g. If the employee is suspected of substance abuse or use and, in the judgment of the Board of Education, and/or its agents, shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health, the Board may require the employee to undergo a physical examination in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2, 18A:16-3 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-7.4(f). An employee who fails to comply with this requirement shall be subject to discipline.

3. If the employee refuses to be examined for suspected substance abuse, the supervisor will notify the Superintendent immediately, or in his/her absence, his/her designee. The Superintendent or designee shall request the school employee leave the school premises immediately. If the school employee refuses to leave the school premises when required, the appropriate law enforcement agency will be called and a police report will be filed.

D. Procedures to be followed when an employee is found in possession of, and/or selling/distributing alcohol, anabolic steroids, and/or a controlled dangerous substance as defined by New Jersey Statutes and/or Codes.

1. A report will be immediately filed with the appropriate law enforcement agency if any employee is found to be using, be in possession of, or selling illicit drugs, alcohol, or anabolic steroids on the school's premises or as part of any school function.

2. If in the course of any investigation by the appropriate law enforcement agency, an employee is arrested by the police, he/she will be immediately suspended from work with pay until a Board hearing can be arranged for further disciplinary action.

3. Should the employee be found guilty of a criminal offense, he/she will have a Board hearing at which time the Board will render a decision regarding disciplinary action. He/she may be suspended without pay, lose an increment, be required to attend a rehabilitation program, or be terminated from employment.

E. Any school staff member(s) who in good faith reports an employee to the Principal or the school medical inspector or the school nurse in an attempt to help such person cure his/her dependency upon or illegal use of controlled dangerous substance(s) as defined by N.J.S.A. 2A:170-25-9 and N.J.S.A. 24:21-2 shall not be liable in civil damages as a result of making any such report as specified in N.J.S.A. 2A:62A-4. Alcohol and anabolic steroids are not listed as a controlled, dangerous substance by statute or code.

COPY 2 - MEDICAL REVIEW OFFICER COPY - PINK

At approximately 3:00 on March 30th, 2010 I received a phone call in the Superintendent's office at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology from Ms. Kathleen McMahon. Present in the office during the phone call were the Superintendent, the Director of Human Resources, and myself. Ms. McMahon reported to me that she had returned from her appointment at the testing facility and the results of her Breathalyzer test reported an alcohol level of 0.00% and that I/we would be receiving a report from the center shortly. I thanked Ms. McMahon for reporting the information to me and informed her that I/we had several concerns in regard to the events of the day. I specifically stated that I was concerned about the timeliness of Ms. McMahon's arrival to the testing facility, the legitimacy of the phone calls she had made to arrange for transportation to the center, and that she had left the center prior to completing the examination.

When questioned about her tardiness to the testing center Ms. McMahon stated that she had left messages at her home for transportation to the center and that no one was home at her residence. I informed Ms. McMahon that we had checked the phone number that she left the messages on and the phone was clearly disconnected. She responded by saying "Why would I not call my number, I know my home number" and she stated her number. I asked why she didn't call the correct number on numerous occasions and why would she leave a message on a phone that was disconnected. Ms. McMahon responded that she did call the correct number. I informed that our records indicated otherwise. For the record, I do not believe there were any phone calls made to the home number Ms. McMahon reported to me and the gentleman living in the house reported to the building Principal that there were not any messages left on the machine at the house for him.

I also inquired of Ms. McMahon as to why she was so late reporting to the testing center. Ms. McMahon reported that her brother and sister-in-law picked her up at the Bankbridge Regional School. She stated that her brother did not have his driver's license with him and had to return to Sicklerville, N.J. to get his wallet. She then stated that her brother's car had broken down and that he called AAA for repairs. I told her that she should get a receipt for the repair for the record and it that it would help her in the investigation. After asking for the receipt Ms. McMahon then stated, "maybe it wasn't AAA it could have been just a friend of her brother".

Finally, I questioned Ms. McMahon in regard to the chain of events that occurred once Ms. McMahon entered the testing facility. It was reported to the school district that Ms. McMahon entered the testing facility, checked in and used the lavatory. She then participated in the breathalyzer test and was informed that she would need to provide a urine sample. At this time Ms. McMahon exited the testing facility. When I asked her she left the facility she stated that her brother had to go to work and that the last time she was at the facility she only had to take a breathalyzer. I asked her again why she left the facility without providing a urine sample. Ms. McMahon again stated that her brother had to go to work and she could wait until she had to urinate again because she had already evacuated her urine upon arrival to the facility.

I concluded the conversation with Ms. McMahon by informing her that we would be investigating the incident and that we would inform her of any action the Superintendent was intending to recommend at this time. I late called Ms. McMahon that she would be suspended with pay pending Board of Education action.

To Whom It May Concern:

Timeline of events of March 30, 2010 interactions with Kathy McMahon

- At approximately 9:50 am – Ron Rutter and myself were having a conversation with Kathy McMahon in his office and we both smelled alcohol.
- We contacted Michael Dicken, Assistant Superintendent, who stated that he recommended that Kathy go and be tested.
- I contacted Underwood Hospitals clinic in Paulsboro and arranged to have them test Kathy for alcohol and drugs and told them that I would call them when she left our campus. I requested a call back from the clinic upon Kathy's arrival, as well as a call back upon the Breathalyzer with the results.
- At approximately 10:30 am Ron and I talked with Kathy and explained that we both smelled alcohol and that she would have to go and be tested. Kathy asked if it was possible that our suspicions were from alcohol that she had consumed the previous evening. Ron and I stated that we did not know, but that she would need to be tested, to which Kathy agreed. I gave her a written copy of the address and phone number of the clinic, verbally confirmed with her that she knew the location and we asked her if she could contact a family member to take her. I explained that for privacy reasons, I would suggest that she use Ron's telephone in his office, which she did, leaving a message for Mike, her boyfriend. Kathy stated that he would call her back soon and would come and take her to be tested.
- At a little after 11:00 am, Kathy still had not had a return call from Mike and was asked by Ron to call again. Kathy left another message for him.
- At around 11:30 Ron informed Kathy that she needed to arrange transportation to the clinic or we would contact an ambulance to transport her.
- Kathy stated that she again left a message for Mike and also stated that she telephoned her brother to come pick her up and transport her to the clinic.
- At approximately noon Kathy was reportedly seen to get into a vehicle with her brother and sister-in-law.
- I telephone the clinic at approximately 12:50 to follow up and make sure that Kathy had arrived. The clinic stated that there were no patients there. I made repeated telephone calls to the clinic until I was told at approximately 3:00 pm that Kathy had arrived, gone directly into the restroom, and then signed in. The clinic staff reported that Kathy was given verbal instructions on the tests to be administered and the process followed. As per clinic staff, Kathy was instructed that she would have to sit and drink water so that she could produce a urine specimen following the Breathalyzer test. Clinic staff further reported that Kathy took the Breathalyzer and immediately left the clinic as the staff was going to get her water to drink. Clinic staff telephoned me reporting the results and above events.
- I telephoned Mike Dicken and reported the above.

To Whom it May Concern:

This corresdence is to address an incident that accurred on March 30, 2010.

I was accused of being under the influence of alcohol at approximately 11:30 a.m. I was instructed to obtain transportation to a clinic for testing. I made calls to a family member to no avail. At around 12:00 p.m. I was informed that if I could not get a ride immedaitely, that an ambulance would be called to transport me.

At that time I called another family member. At approximately 12:30 p.m., I was picked up at Bankbridge Regional. I was informed that my famliy member (in his haste to pick me up) did not have his driver's license, insuranace and registration information on hand. I could not, in good concience, ask him to drive me to the clinic without appropriate identification.

We arrived at his home at around 1:00 p.m. (Sicklerville). By 1:05 we started out for the clinic which is located in Paulsboro. From Sicklerville we where on the way and experienced car failure (I believe it had overheated). At that point, we pulled over and called a friend for assistance.

At approximately 3:15 I arrived at the clinic. I urinated upon arrival (not knowing that a urine test was manditory because when I was tested before the only test was a breathalizer). I immediately gave the breathalizer test and was given a reading of 0.00.

The clinician asked me to give a urine test and I explained that upon arrival I had urinated and was not sure I could give a sample. She gave me a vial asked if I could try. I agreed and went into the ladies room. I was not able to give enough of a sample so she through (what I had given) away. She then told me to sit in the waiting room and gave me a cup of water.

I could not wait any longer due to the fact that my brother had to get home because he had to work. He took me home and I immedaitely called Mike Dicken. I explained the facts and situation of the day. Mr. Dicken seemed to not believe the events. He said he would call me back to let me know of my situation. His phone call advised me that I was suspended with pay until further notice.

I was relectant to inquire about my position because I was told I would be contacted at the end of the investigation. I was contacted via express mail that I would be terminated.

Time frames notied by the administrators are very miscalculated. Mr Rutter did not contact me regarding my sobriety until approximately 11:30 not 10:00 as reported. Dr Heiken was not near me at the time and could not have samelled alcohol on my breath. Rather she was called in to support Mr. Rutter's abvious mistake.

The District gave me the opoortunity to participate in the Empolyee Assistant Program for which I am grateful. I learned many helpful ideas. As any person in recovey knows the first time is not allways the last. As you will see in the report given to the district, the report of the test read at 0.00.

I am proud and grateful to have served Gloucester County Special Services School District in the last 16 + years. . Thank you.

Fondly,
Kathleen McMahon

The record, Settlement Agreement and Release (Agreement), Stipulation of Dismissal (Stipulation), and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Agreement is neither signed by the Camden Board of Education's attorney – who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation – nor authorized by a board resolution. Further, the McIntyre Group, which withdrew from the case on March 30, 2010, is included as a signator to the settlement agreement. Finally, an entity called the Graham Company has signed the settlement, notwithstanding the fact that there is no record of the Graham Company joining the action as a party.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over two of the participants in the Agreement and insufficient evidence of the Camden Board of Education's consent to the Agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Agreement to indicate the appropriate parties and to include either the Camden Board attorney's signature or a Board resolution approving the settlement and designating who may sign it on behalf of the Board. If the parties are unwilling or unable to effectuate the requested revisions, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

Record Closed: October 13, 2010 Decided: October 15, 2010

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

Petitioners M&C Insurance Agency, Inc.; McIntyre Risk Management, LLC, t/a The McIntyre Group;[1] and McCollum Insurance Abstract &Title Company have challenged and sought to overturn State Monitor Michael Azzara's awarding of a contract of insurance for the Camden City Board of Education to Alston-Calaf & Associates. The petition, originally filed as a verified complaint in lieu of prerogative writs in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Camden County, on May 27, 2007, was transferred to the Department of Education for exhaustion of administrative remedies and then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed for hearing as a contested case on June 17, 2009.

Petitioners subsequently filed an application for emergency relief which was denied by the Hon. Joseph F. Martone, A.L.A.J., on June 18, 2009. At that time, the matter was reassigned to this Administrative Law Judge for handling and by order dated December 8, 2009, a hearing was scheduled to begin on March 22, 2010. Soon thereafter the parties engaged in meaningful settlement negotiations and agreed upon the following settlement, the terms of which are set forth in the attached Settlement Agreement submitted on October 13, 2010. I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I find:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and their representatives' signatures on the attached Settlement Agreement; and
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Accordingly, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the Settlement Agreement and that these proceedings be and are hereby concluded.

[1] By way of "Dismissal Without Prejudice" dated September 4, 2009, McIntyre Risk Management, LLC, t/a The McIntyre Group, dismissed the claims its claims against the Camden City Board of Education, Michael Azzara, and Alston-Calaf & Associates, and withdrew from this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release ("Agreement"), dated 4/9/10 IDD, 2010, is by and between M&C INSURANCE AGENCY, INC., Mc INTYRE RISK MANAGEMENT, LLC, t/a Mc INTYRE GROUP, and Mc CULLOM INSURANCE ABSTRACT AND TITLE AGENCY, INC. ("Petitioners"), on the one hand, and CAMDEN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, MICHAEL AZZARA and ALSTON-CALAF & ASSOCIATES ("Respondents") and THE GRAHAM COMPANY ("Graham"), on the other hand.

WHEREAS, on or about May 27, 2009, Petitioners filed a Verified Complaint in the New Jersey Superior Court, Camden County, against Respondents seeking an order to show cause and temporary restraints and other relief in connection with the awarding of the Camden Board of Education insurance broker contract to Alston-Calaf & Associates;

WHEREAS, on or about June 9, 2009, after considering submiss ons by Respondents in opposition to Petitioners' request for temporary restraints, the Hon. Franc is J. Orlando, Jr., A.J.S.C., denied Petitioner's request for temporary restraints, without prejudice, and transferred the case to the Department of Education for exhaustion of administrative remedies;

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing on a contested matter, and after a contested hearing on June 18, 2009, the Honorable Joseph F. Martone, ALJ denied Petitioners' request for temporary restraints, which was subsequently confirmed by the Commissioner;

WHEREAS, on or about December 23, 2009, Petitioners and Respondent Alston-Calaf & Associates, agreed to the terms of a settlement which fully and wholly resolved this matter, the terms of which are memorialized herein;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, and other good and valuable consideration (the receipt and sufficiency of which are acknowledged), it is hereby stipulated and agreed among, by and between the Petitioners, Respondents and The Graham Company as follows:

1. Payment Terms. Within twenty (20) days of the full execution of this Agreement, Respondent Alson-Calaf & Associates and Graham will pay Petitioners a total amount of $15,000 by delivering a draft in said amount to the Petitioners' Counsel, Joseph Betley, Esquire, made payable to "Capehart Scatchard and M &C Insurance."

2. Dismissal With Prejudice. Within seven (7) days of the settlement payment pursuant to paragraph 1, Petitioners shall file the appropriate Stipulation with the Office of Administrative Law and the Department of Education dismissing their claims in this matter against all Respondents, with prejudice.

3. General Release. Petitioners ("Releasors") hereby release, acquit, remise and forever discharge Respondents and Graham, their employees, agents, officers, shareholders, affiliates, subsidiaries, attorneys, estates, and assigns ("Releasees") from any and all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, judgments, claims and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, whether or not heretofore known, suspected or asserted, matured or unmatured, accrued or unaccrued, direct or indirect, which against the Releasees the Releasors ever had, now have or hereinafter can, shall or may have before, upon, or by reason of any matter relating to or arising out of the claims set forth the Verified Complaint and all other pleadings, briefs, certifications, and letters filed in this Action.

4. No Admission of Liability. It is expressly understood that neither the execution of this Agreement nor any other action taken by the Respondents in connection with Petitioner's alleged claims or this settlement, constitutes an admission by any or all of the Respondents of any violation of any law, duty or obligation, or that any decisions or actions taken in connection with Petitioners were unwarranted, unjustified, wrongful or otherwise unlawful. The parties agree that the Respondents have entered into the Agreement for reasons other than the merits of Petitioners' claims and that the Respondents specifically deny any liability to Petitioners or to any other persons.

5. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and interpreted pursuant to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

6. Execution. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of such counterparts together shall constitute but one and the same instrument. It shall not be necessary in making proof of this Agreement or any counterpart hereof to produce or account for any of the other counterparts. Additionally, a photocopy of the fully executed original of this Agreement shall be deemed an original for any and all purposes.

7. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Parties and supersedes any and all prior communications, written or oral, and understandings. This Agreement may not be amended or modified in any manner except by written agreement executed by the party to be charged.

8. Benefit of Counsel. All parties hereto acknowledge that they have entered into this Agreement knowingly, voluntarily and with full benefit of counsel, all of whom jointly participated in the drafting of this Agreement. Any ambiguities in this Agreement will not be construed against or in favor of any Party.

INITIAL DECISION

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 09230-10

AGENCY REF. NO. 292-8/10

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF FAITH RICHARDSON, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY.

Melvin C. Randall, Esq., for petitioner (Love and Randall, attorneys)

Faith Richardson, pro se

Record Closed: November 16, 2010 Decided: November 17, 2010

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALAJ:

On August 4, 2010 the School District of the Township of Orange ("the District") certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming against the respondent, Faith Richardson, a payroll bookkeeper employed by the District. On August 12, 2010 the District filed charges nunc pro tunc against Faith Richardson. Richardson filed an answer denying the charges on August 18, 2010. Having deemed the charges sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, the New Jersey Department of Education transmitted the charges to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on August 27, 2010.

On September 15, 2010 at the prehearing conference, the parties began settlement negotiation. Prior to the November 15, 2010 hearing date, the parties reached an agreement which was memorialized into a settlement document on October 29, 2010. Ms. Richardson and the Assistant Superintendent of the District and Mr. Randall the Attorney for the District approved the settlement terms.

Based upon a review of the attached settlement agreement, I FIND as follows:

1. The nature of the charges has been documented by the submission of the Statement of Charges and Certificate of Determination to the Commissioner of Education.

2. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, Ms. Richardson will be terminated/laid off from her position immediately.

3. Ms. Richardson agrees not to seek further employment with the District. Mindful that the Orange School District is a "high poverty school district." N.J.A.C. 6A:13-3.1(a).[1] With stringent budget limitations, it is in the best interests of the parties and the public to resolve this matter without risking an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly litigation. The settlement is financially prudent. The petitioner will be paid only from the date of her suspension to the date of the approval of the settlement by the Commissioner or for a period of up to 120 days whichever is sooner.

4. The proposed settlement agreement is with the consent of all parties.

5. By the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, Ms. Richardson has entered into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights.

6. Since Ms. Richardson does not hold a "licensed position" no action will be required by the Board of Examiners.

[1] Orange was previously denoted as an "Abbott District" in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1 et seq.

7. The agreement does not contain any provisions which restrict public access under the Open Public Records Act.

I therefore CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and that approval of this settlement is in the public interest.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Faith Richardson is a tenured payroll clerk with the Orange Township Board of Education; and

WHEREAS, tenure charges were filed against Faith Richardson due to excessive absenteeism, and among other things not properly using care and accuracy in the processing of payment for a substitute teacher and the negligent distribution of payroll checks; and

WHEREAS, after considerable deliberations, the parties agree that a settlement agreement would be in the best interest of the Orange Township Board of Education and Faith Richardson; and

WHEREAS, further litigation of these charges would necessitate extensive involvement and time for the School District's Administrative Staff; and

WHEREAS, settlement will avoid a prolonged trial and the uncertainties thereof; and

WHEREAS, the Orange School District (a former Abbott District) would incur substantial financial cost by continuing this litigation that would significantly exceed the cost of settlement; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Faith Richardson wish to amicably resolve their differences without the need for further litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, in consideration of the aforementioned statements, covenants and understandings of the parties, the Orange Board of Education hereby approves the attached proposed settlement agreement between Orange Board of Education and Faith Richardson.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that Adekunle James, Board Secretary, hereby certifies that the Orange Township Board of Education at its Business Meeting of October 12, 2010 adopted the attached Resolution.

(Love & Randall, Esqs., attorneys for the Petitioner), and Faith Richardson, Pro Se to issue a Final Decision incorporating and approving the terms of the settlement agreement annexed hereto.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made and entered into on this 29th day of October 2010, by and between the Orange Township Board of Education with offices located at 451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, New Jersey 07050 (hereinafter referred as the "Board") and

Faith Richardson, whose address is 18 Kate Lane, Metuchen, New Jersey 08840

WHEREAS, Faith Richardson is a tenured payroll clerk with the Orange Township Board of Education. Said position is uncertified and hence, no action is required by the Board of Examiners; and

WHEREAS, tenure charges were filed against Faith Richardson due to excessive absenteeism, and among other things not properly using care and accuracy in the processing of payment for a substitute teacher and the negligent distribution of payroll checks; and

WHEREAS, after considerable deliberations, the parties agree that a settlement agreement would be in the best interest of the Orange Township Board of Education and Faith Richardson; and

WHEREAS, further litigation of these charges would necessitate extensive involvement and time for the School District's Administrative Staff; and

WHEREAS, settlement will avoid a prolonged trial and the uncertainties thereof; and

WHEREAS, the Orange School District (a former Abbott District) would incur substantial financial cost by continuing this litigation that would significantly exceed the cost of settlement; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Faith Richardson wish to amicably resolve their differences without the need for further litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the aforementioned statements, covenants and understandings of the parties, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Faith Richardson shall be terminated/laid off effective immediately, subject to the approval of this agreement by the Administrative Law Judge, Carol I. Cohen, and the Commissioner of Education.
2. Faith Richardson hereby agrees not to seek future employment with the Orange Township Board of Education.
3. Faith Richardson hereby agrees to waive any and all claims either now or in the future she has or could have against the Board, its agents, employees and representatives including but not limited to claims for discrimination, contract, tort or constitutional violation contemporaneously with the execution of this agreement. This agreement shall also release and discharge the Board of Education and all other individuals from any and all claims, liabilities and expenses, including claims for tenure and any contractual or statutory benefits that may be subject to or which may have arisen from Faith Richardson's employment with the Board
4. Faith Richardson acknowledges and understands that the Commissioner of Education may reject, amend and/or modify the terms of this settlement agreement.
5. If this settlement agreement is approved by the Commissioner of Education, the Orange Township Board of Education agrees to rescind the suspension of Faith Richardson without pay and pay her full salary from the date of her suspension to the approval date of this agreement by Commissioner of Education or for a period up to One Hundred Twenty (120) days, which ever is sooner.

6. Should an inquiry be made by State of New Jersey, Department of Labor and Workforce, the Board agrees to advise that Faith Richardson was terminated/laid-off because her services were no longer needed by the Board.

IN WITNESS, WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date any year aforesaid.

STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS DOCKET NO. 0405-252;
COMMISSIONER APPEAL NO. 6-10/10A

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
REVOCATION OF THE TEACHING	:	DECISION ON APPEAL FROM THE
CERTIFICATES OF TROY HYLICK.	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS

Decided by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners on December 11, 2006

For the Appellant, Michael A. Armstrong, Esq.

For the Respondent, New Jersey Attorney General (Shannon M. Ryan, D.A.G.)

On October 7, 2010, appellant filed with the Commissioner a notice of appeal from an order of the State Board of Examiners (the Board) revoking his teaching certificates/endorsements. By letter dated October 18, 2010, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Director) notified appellant that his notice of appeal was deficient because he failed to provide proof that he served it upon the Attorney General – counsel for the Board. An amended notice of appeal was submitted – with proof of service on the Attorney General – on October 21, 2010.

On November 4, 2010, counsel for the Board submitted a list of items comprising the record on appeal of this matter, and on November 30, 2010 an amended statement of items was filed. After reviewing same, the appellant concluded that he did not have some of the identified documents. He consequently asked for an extension of time until December 10, 2010 to file his brief in order that he might first acquire and examine said documents.

The extension was granted on November 10, 2010, but on December 8, 2010 – before appellant's brief was due – his counsel submitted a "letter in lieu of a more formal pleading," requesting that the appeal be withdrawn. Upon consideration, the Commissioner grants the request and the appeal is hereby withdrawn.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 614-10/10
SEC DKT. NO. C04-10

IN THE MATTER OF PAUL J. BIRCH, : PROSPECT PARK BOARD OF :
EDUCATION, PASSAIC COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Paul J. Birch, member of the Prospect Park Board of Education, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 (c) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members – as set forth in a complaint against him. The record, the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") – including the recommended penalty of censure – and the parties' exceptions and reply thereto have been reviewed.

Initially, it must be emphasized that – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1 – the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner unless a notice of appeal is filed pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 and N.J.A.C. 6A:4. Because respondent did not file such an appeal, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.[1]

Respondent argues that censure is too severe a penalty because "his actions were so attenuated from any objective impairment or interest (even if there were evidence supporting such a conclusion, which there was not) that such a distinction necessarily should be recognized by the Commissioner and the sanction reduced." The Commissioner disagrées.

[1] Thus, the Commissioner will not consider respondent's request, in his exceptions, to amend the Commission's findings of fact.

First, prior cases – such as In the Matter of Richard Filipek, Saddle Brook Board of Education, Bergen County, C18-07 (June 24, 2008) – have not been decided based upon the actual potential for the respondent or his relatives to receive benefit from the respondent's actions. Thus, the distinction which respondent advocates is unsupported by precedent.

Second, the advisory opinions cited by the Commission clearly instruct that once administrators are hired, board officers with immediate family members employed by the district should not participate in discussions or actions relating to any supervising administrators – including the district Superintendent. See, e.g., Advisory Opinions A30-05 (March 10, 2006); A10-00 (June 27, 2000); and A07-06 (July 31, 2006). It is undisputed that respondent participated in negotiating committee discussions, made motions at public meetings and even voted on issues relating to salaries for incumbent administrators.

The Commission found and the Commissioner concurs that the penalty of censure is congruent with penalties imposed in previously decided similar cases. Thus, the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Paul J. Birch be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.[2]

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed on February 19, 2010 alleging that Paul J. Birch, a member of the Prospect Park Board of Education (Board) violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. On March 17, 2010, a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer and in Support of Claim that the Complaint is Frivolous was filed on behalf of the respondent. The complainant was accorded 20 days to respond to the motion and allegation of frivolousness. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-8.2(a). By letter dated April 12, 2010, for good cause shown, the Commission granted the complainant until April 16, 2010 to submit his responsive brief, and further advised the parties that this matter was scheduled for discussion by the Commission at its meeting on April 20, 2010 in order to make a determination regarding the respondent's Motion to Dismiss and allegation of frivolousness. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-8.3; N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.4. The complainant submitted a reply brief on April 15, 2010.

At its meeting on April 20, 2010, the Commission voted to deny the respondent's Motion to Dismiss and further found that the complaint is not frivolous, in accordance with the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2. That decision was issued to the parties on May 26, 2010. By letter dated June 17, 2010, the complainant submitted a request to withdraw the complaint. At its meeting on June 22, 2010, the Commission considered the complainant's request, but voted to deny the request, pursuant to its discretion under N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.6(b).

On July 6, 2010, an answer to the complaint was filed on behalf of the respondent. The complainant and respondent were notified by letter dated July 6, 2010 that the Commission would review this matter at its meeting on July 27, 2010 in order to make a probable cause determination, in accordance with procedures set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.7.

At its July 27th meeting, the Commission found probable cause to credit Counts 1 through 6 of the complaint. A probable cause notice was issued to the complainant and respondent on September 1, 2010. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-7.1(c)1, because the respondent admitted the material facts in this matter, he was accorded 20 days to submit a statement setting forth the reasons he should not be found in violation of the Act, after which time the Commission would make a determination of violation on a summary basis. After obtaining an extension for good cause shown, a responsive statement was filed on September 24, 2010. The respondent does not challenge the facts set forth in the Commission's probable cause notice. In his affidavit, the respondent affirms that he did not willfully or knowingly violate the Act. (Respondent's Affidavit at p. 1) Rather, he argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) should not be interpreted so as to find a violation in this matter. The respondent further asserts that the Commission's prior advisories regarding N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) "were somewhat confusing." (Responsive Brief at

p. 4). Referencing Advisory Opinion A10-00, (June 27, 2000) and Advisory Opinion A07-06, (July 31 2006), the respondent argues that:

> the purpose of the Commission's rulings and advisements with respect to recusal from certain employment issues and/or voting were based upon the premise that the public should not perceive that the board member's objectivity or independence of judgment was impaired due to the relationship between the administrator and the board member's employee spouse. Accordingly, the fact patterns of all of the opinions addressed substantive involvement on the part of the board member.  However, the opinions do not advise those same board members to recuse themselves from participating in insignificant matters involving administrators, such as a vote to table a motion involving the administrator [sic] contract." (Id. at p. 6)

The respondent reasons that virtually every decision made by a member of the Board of Education will, in some way, affect its employees. Thus, unless the Commission proscribes the employment of any immediate family of any board member within the district, the respondent asserts that "only ethics violations which are clear, not speculative, and shown by a preponderance of the evidence to have impaired the objectivity of a member or clearly create some tangible to the school official [sic] or member of his immediate family should be found to be violations of the Ethics act. [sic]" (Id. at p. 7)

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are deemed to be undisputed:

1. The respondent was at all relevant times a member of the Board.

2. Prospect Park is an elementary district which employs a Superintendent, Principal, Vice Principal and Business Administrator/Board Secretary as its sole administrators. http://www.prospectparknj.com/index.php?option=com_content&view=article&id=4&Itemid=14.

3. The respondent's wife is a Special Education classroom aide in the District. She has "extremely limited contact" with the Principal and Vice Principal and "virtually no contact" with the Superintendent. (Respondent's Affidavit, September 15, 2010 at p. 2.)

4. The respondent was a member of the Board's Negotiations Committee for the 2009-2010 school year. In July 2009, the Negotiations Committee met with the Superintendent to discuss 2009-2010 salaries for the non-affiliated staff, which includes the central office secretaries, the Business Administrator/Board Secretary, the Building Principal and the Vice Principal. The Committee determined to recommend a 3.5% salary increase across the board of all non-affiliated staff. At that meeting, there was also a recommendation to amend the Superintendent's employment contract for the 2009-2010 school year. (Ibid.)

5. The respondent attended the August 2009 meeting of the Negotiations Committee wherein he "listened [to] how the salary adjustment [for the Superintendent] was determined by coming to a desired annual salary and then determining the corresponding salary increase therefrom." (Id. at p. 3)

6. The Negotiations Committee gave its recommendations for the non-affiliated staff to the Board for inclusion on the September 8, 2009 Board Meeting Agenda, along with its recommendation for the amendment to the Superintendent's employment contract. (Certification of Respondent, March 16, 2010 at p. 2)

7. At the Board's meeting on September 8, 2009, while discussing the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, there were questions regarding the amendment. During the meeting, the respondent reminded the Board that the Superintendent's 2009-2010 salary increase was established by selecting a desired number and then converting same into a percentage. (Respondent's Affidavit, September 15, 2010 at pp. 3-4)

8. At the Board's meeting on September 8, 2009, the respondent voted "no" against a motion to table the amendment to the Superintendent's contract for further discussion. (Respondent's Answering Certification, June 30, 2010, at Exhibit A: Board Minutes from the September 8, 2009 Meeting at p. 10; Answer at p. 4)

9. At the Board's meeting on September 8, 2009, although the respondent abstained from the vote as to the Superintendent's 2009-2010 contract amendment, the Principal's 2009-2010 base annual salary and the Vice Principal's 2009-2010 base annual salary, he made the motions to approve the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, to approve the Principal's 2009-2010 compensation and to approve the Vice Principal's 2009-2010 compensation. (Respondent's Answering Certification, June 30, 2010, at Exhibit A: Board Minutes from the September 8, 2009 Meeting at pp. 10-11)

10. At the Board's meeting on November 17, 2009, the respondent voted "yes" to approve the revised amendment to the Superintendent's contract. (Board Minutes from November 17, 2009 at p. 13)[1]

ANALYSIS

The Commission previously found probable cause to credit the allegation that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) in connection with his actions, now set forth above in Factual Findings #4 through 10. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business > organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

In order to find a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), the Commission must find that the respondent has either: 1) taken action in his official capacity in a matter where he, or a member of his immediate family had a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment or 2) acted in his official capacity in a matter where he or a member of his immediate family had a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to him or the member of his immediate family. The School Ethics Act at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 defines "member of the immediate family" as the spouse or dependent child of a school official residing in the same household. The Commission's regulations at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 define "spouse" as "the person to whom the school official is legally married under New Jersey law and also includes a partner in a civil union couple as established in N.J.S.A. 37:1-33." Thus, the respondent's spouse is a member of his immediate family.

Participation on the Negotiations Committee for District Administrators; Clarification Made at the September 8, 2009 Meeting; and Voting on November 17, 2009

There is no dispute that the respondent was a member of the Board's Negotiations Committee for the 2009-2010 school year which negotiated the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal. During the summer of 2009, the Negotiations Committee met with the Superintendent to discuss 2009-2010 salaries for the non-affiliated staff, which includes the central office secretaries, the Business Administrator/Board Secretary, the Building Principal and the Vice Principal. Thereafter, the Negotiations Committee gave its recommendations for salaries for the non-affiliated staff to the Board for inclusion in the September 8, 2009 Board Meeting Agenda, along with its recommendation for the amendment to the Superintendent's employment contract. At the Board's meeting on September 8, 2009, while discussing the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, there were questions regarding the amendment. During the meeting, the respondent reminded the Board that the Superintendent's 2009-2010 salary increase was established by selecting a desired number and then converting the same into a percentage; he abstained from voting on the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal.

Later, at the Board's meeting on November 17, 2009, the respondent voted "yes" to approve the revised amendment to the Superintendent's contract. As to this vote, the respondent states that he incorrectly believed that his prior abstention from voting on September 8, 2009, coupled with the approval granted by the Executive County Superintendent to the Superintendent's contract rendered it "absolutely proper" that he participate in this vote. (Answer at p. 6).

Initially, the Commission reflects on the advisories referenced by the respondent in his responsive statement to the probable cause notice. In Advisory Opinion A10-00, (June 27, 2000), a board member's spouse was employed as a teacher in a K-8 district with 900 students; the Superintendent, Principal and Vice Principal were located in the same building as the board member's spouse. The question before the Commission was whether the board member may participate in discussions and votes involving the appointment of the Superintendent, Principal and Vice Principal or other employment issues regarding these positions. Although the Commission therein advised that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), the board member may participate in the search for a Superintendent, Assistant Principal and Principal, as well as vote on the initial appointments,[2] the Commission also advised that the board member "would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act if he were to participate in discussions and vote on employment issues concerning the administrators who supervise" his spouse after the administrators are appointed. A10-00 at p. 3.

In Advisory Opinion A07-06, (July 31 2006), a board member in a nine-school pre K-12 district had a spouse who worked as a teacher's assistant at the high school and was supervised by the Principal who was supervised by the Assistant Superintendent who was supervised by the Superintendent. Again, the questions before the Commission were whether the board member may participate in the hiring of the Superintendent and in any employment issues regarding the Superintendent. The Commission advised the board member that s/he would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) if s/he participated in the hiring of the Superintendent because the current Assistant Superintendent was a candidate to become Superintendent. Additionally, the Commission advised that the board member would violate the Act if s/he were "to participate in any employment issues regarding the Superintendent." A07-06 at page 3.

Thus, with respect to whether a board member with an immediate family member working in the District is permitted to participate in the search, selection and vote to hire the Superintendent (or other administrators), issues which are not specifically before the Commission in this matter, the Commission has considered whether the board member is familiar with any of the candidates for the position(s) to be filled. However, once the administrators are hired, the Commission has advised that the board member with an immediate family member employed in the District may not participate in any "employment issues" relative to the supervising administrators. Indeed, in Advisory Opinion A30-05 (March 10, 2006), the Commission advised that the board member identified as "B," whose spouse worked as a secretary in the High School nurse's office, must recuse himself "from all discussions and votes" with regard to the High School Principal and Superintendent. (A30-05 at p. 4; emphasis added) See also, Advisory Opinion A07-06 (July 31 2006) and Advisory Opinion A23-06 (November 15, 2006).

[2]The Commission reasoned that although these administrators could all be considered supervisors of the board member's spouse, it would not be reasonable for the public to expect that a board member, with a spouse who teaches in the district, would choose to appoint administrators who are most likely to be financially favorable to teaching staff, especially since teachers are employed pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement. The Commission specifically cautioned that "[t]his may change if the selection is for someone who already knows the board member's spouse." A10-00 at page 2.

With respect to the within matter, the Commission further notes that the respondent's participation as a member of the Board's Negotiations Committee for the 2009-2010 school year which negotiated the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal could not plausibly be characterized as involvement in "insignificant matters involving administrators," as argued in his responsive brief. (Responsive Brief at p. 6) As such, the Commission finds that the respondent's participation on the Negotiations Committee, together with his participation in the September 8, 2009 discussions, was well within the clear proscriptions set forth in the above advisories. Similarly, the Commission finds that the respondent's vote on November 17, 2009 to approve the amendment to the Superintendent's contract was improper, in accordance with the Commission's above advisories and its recent decisions. See, I/M/O William Depsee, Woodland Park Board of Education, Passaic County, C30-09 (January 26, 2010), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 65-10SEC, decided March 11, 2010; I/M/O Charles Carey, Pennsauken Bd. of Ed., Camden County, C33-08 (March 23, 2010), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 168-10A, decided June 3, 2010; I/M/O Frank Minniti, Greenwich Twp Bd. of Ed., Gloucester County, C08-09 (May 25, 2010), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 208-10SEC, decided July 12, 2010; I/M/O Thomas Guarascio, Berkeley Township Bd. of Ed., Ocean County C40-08 (April 20, 2010), Commissioner of Ed. Decision No. 170-10SEC, decided June 4, 2010; and I/M/O Carey, Pennsauken Bd. of Ed., Camden County C27-09 (April 20, 2010), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 169-10SEC, decided June 4, 2010.

The Commission so finds, notwithstanding that the respondent's spouse has "extremely limited contact" with the Principal and Vice Principal and "virtually no contact" with the Superintendent. (Respondent's Affidavit, September 15, 2010 at p. 2.) As noted in I/M/O Charles Carey, Pennsauken Bd. of Ed., Camden County, C33-08 (March 23, 2010) Commissioner of Education Decision No. 168-10A, decided June 3, 2010, the Superintendent has general supervision over all aspects of the schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20, which allows for a variety of managerial actions or decisions that could affect the employment of the respondent's spouse. See, Carey at p. 4.

Moreover, the decision to abstain from the votes pertaining to the Superintendent, Principal and Vice Principal does not necessarily shield the respondent where he had already, by his involvement on the Negotiations Committee, participated in discussions regarding the salaries of these administrators that were not open to the public. In I/M/O Richard Filipek, Saddle Brook Bd. of Ed., Bergen County, C18-07 (June 24, 2008) Commissioner of Education Decision No. 317-08SEC, decided July 23, 2008, the Commission found that the respondent Board member, whose spouse was employed in the District, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by being present in his capacity as president of the Board and running two closed session meetings of the Board when the tenure appointment of the middle/high school principal, his wife's direct supervisor, was discussed, notwithstanding that he did not participate in the vote. The Commission found that the respondent had a direct financial involvement in the tenure appointment of the middle/high school principal that would reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

Thus, the Commission finds that the respondent was acting in his official capacity in a matter where a member of his immediate family had an indirect financial involvement which a reasonable person could perceive to impair the respondent's objectivity or independence of judgment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he: (1) participated on the Board's Negotiations Committee for the 2009-2010 school year and negotiated the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal; (2) made clarifying statements at the September 8, 2009 meeting as to the Superintendent's contract; and (3) voted to approve the revised amendment to the Superintendent's contract at the November 17, 2009 meeting.

Making Motions and Voting Against the Motion to Table

At the Board's meeting on September 8, 2009, the respondent voted "no" against a motion to table the amendment to the Superintendent's contract. Moreover, although he abstained from the vote as to the Superintendent's 2009-2010 contract amendment, the Principal's 2009-2010 base annual salary and the Vice Principal's 2009-2010 base annual salary, he made the motions to approve the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, to approve the Principal's 2009-1010 compensation and to approve the Vice Principal's 2009-1010 compensation.

The respondent argues that "[i]t would be an anomaly indeed for the [C]ommission to find that I was somehow currying favor with the [S]uperintendent for the benefit of my wife by substantially reducing his proposed stipend." (Answer at p. 4) The respondent further asserts that he was not advised to recuse himself from the motion to table the discussion of the contract (id.) and, in any event, characterizes his vote against tabling the motion on September 8, 2009 as an "insignificant matter" that could not be reasonably anticipated in the proscriptions set forth in the Commission's advisories. (Responsive Statement at p. 6)

In I/M/O Alexander Sipos, Garfield Bd. of Ed., Bergen County, C20-99 (May 23, 2000) Commissioner of Education Decision No. 221-00SEC, decided July 10, 2000, the Commission found that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he made motions to pass resolutions that resulted in the appointment of his wife to two positions with the Board. Although there was no information before the Commission to indicate that the respondent participated in the discussions or involved himself in the decision to hire his wife, and notwithstanding that the respondent argued he made the motion as the chairperson of the Personnel Committee, that the resolutions were en masse and he excused himself from the vote, the Commission nevertheless found that the respondent acted in his official capacity. The Commission explained, > Making a motion that places a matter before the board for its vote is the way board business is conducted. Without the initial motion, no business takes place. Therefore, Mr. Sipos' moving the resolutions to hire his spouse on two instances was clearly acting in his official capacity. Pursuant to the Act, it is of no moment that he moved all the personnel committee recommendations or that he > moved them en masse. The only question is whether Mr. Sipos acted in his official capacity, which he clearly did. Sipos at p. 3

The Commission finds that the respondent's actions, taken together, demonstrate that, after participating on the Negotiations Committee which negotiated the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal, the respondent advanced these arrangements by making motions, or voting against a motion to table, so as to bring these compensation decisions to the Board. Thus, the Commission finds that the respondent was acting in his official capacity in a matter where a member of his immediate family had an indirect financial involvement which a reasonable person could perceive to impair the respondent's objectivity or independence of judgment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he: (1) voted "no" against a motion to table the amendment to the Superintendent's contract; and (2) made motions at the September 8, 2009 meeting to approve the Superintendent's 2009-2010 contract, the Principal's 2009-2010 compensation and the Vice Principal's 2009-2010 compensation.

DECISION

For the reasons set forth above, the Commission finds that Paul J. Birch violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he: (1) participated on the Board's Negotiations Committee for the 2009-2010 school year and negotiated the amendment to the Superintendent's contract, as well as the salaries for the Vice Principal and Principal; (2) made clarifying statements at the September 8, 2009 meeting as to the Superintendent's contract; (3) voted to approve the revised amendment to the Superintendent's contract at the November 17, 2009 meeting; (4) voted "no" against a motion to table the amendment to the Superintendent's contract; and (5) made motions at the September 8, 2009 meeting to approve the Superintendent's 2009-2010 contract, the Principal's 2009-2010 compensation and the Vice Principal's 2009-2010 compensation.

PENALTY

The Commission recommends a penalty of censure. In weighing the appropriate penalty in this matter, the Commission has considered the respondent's statement in response to its probable cause notice as well as his repeated assertions in his answer that his actions were guided by counsel's advice.

In Guarascio, supra, the Commission recommended a penalty of censure for six violations of voting where the respondent was conflicted, notwithstanding that four of the violations occurred within minutes of the time that he was sworn in. The Commission therein noted that the fifth violation occurred during an Executive Session meeting when the respondent participated in a discussion concerning the automatic renewal of the Superintendent's contract, then when he voted in the affirmative in a 5-4 vote not to automatically renew the Superintendent's contract. Even after the Board member completed training in June 2008, there was a sixth violation on September 23, 2008 when he voted to reappoint his wife as club sponsor for the Scrapbook Club.

In Sipos, supra, the Commission found that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when, after being elected to the Board in 1997, he made motions to pass resolutions in July 1998 and January 1999 that resulted in the appointment of his wife to two positions with the Board. The Commission recommended a penalty of censure and the Commissioner approved the penalty.

In Filipek, supra, the Commission recommended a penalty of censure for the Board member, notwithstanding that he did not participate in the vote and there was a single violation. The Commission therein cited to SEC v. Michael Kilmurray, Lacey Twp. Bd. of Ed., Ocean County, C12-94 (January 27, 1998), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 155-98 (April 15, 1998) where it found that "when a school official has a conflict of interest of which the public is aware, and that school official goes behind closed doors when that item is discussed, the situation creates a justifiable impression among the public that their trust is being violated." (Kilmurray at p. 3) The Commission finds this case particularly applicable to the within matter, since the respondent engaged in negotiations and discussion regarding the compensation package for the Superintendent, Principal and Vice-Principal prior to these matters being brought before the full Board.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the School Ethics Commission's recommended sanction. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within 13 days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4 within 30 days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (13 days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of censure, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent John Campbell, member of the Kearny Board of Education, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 (d) and (e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members as set forth in Count 1 against him.[1]

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. No comments were submitted by or on behalf of respondentl.

Initially, it must be emphasized that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner unless a notice of appeal is filed pursuant to [1] Count 1 of the complaint alleges that Mr. Campbell visited the High School field house in September 2009 and verbally and physically harassed and intimidated employees whom he believed were being disrespectful to his position as a board member.

P.L. 2008,c. 36 and N.J.A.C. 6A:4 which did not happen here. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner accepts the Commission's recommendation that censure is the appropriate penalty in this matter. As clearly stated in its decision, the Commission finds this penalty congruent with that imposed in previously decided similar cases. As such the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter.

Accordingly IT IS hereby ORDERED that John Campbell be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

KEARNY BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION
HUDSON COUNTY	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed on February 1, 2010 by Frank Digesere, Superintendent of the Kearny School District, alleging that John Campbell, a member of the Kearny Board of Education (Board) violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. By notice dated February 1, 2010, the complainant was notified that the complaint was deficient and, therefore, not accepted. On February 16, 2010, the complainant submitted an amended complaint, which was also deficient; by letter dated February 17, 2010, the complainant was so notified. On March 10, 2010, another amended complaint was filed, which was accepted by the Commission. Therein, the complainant alleges that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), (e), (f), (g) and (i) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members.

An answer was filed on behalf of the respondent on April 9, 2010. Thereafter, on April 15, 2010, a Motion to Dismiss was also filed on behalf of the respondent. The complainant was accorded 20 days to respond to the motion, which included an allegation that the complaint was frivolous. The complainant filed his response to the motion on April 29, 2010.

At its meeting on May 25, 2010, the Commission voted to grant the respondent's Motion to Dismiss Count 3 of the complaint[1], as well as the allegation that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) as alleged in Count 2. The Commission further found that the complaint was not frivolous, in accordance with the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.8(a), the Commission voted to retain this complaint for hearing at a later date.

By letter dated August 10, 2010, the parties were notified that the hearing in this matter would take place at the Commission's meeting on September 28, 2010. The parties were reminded that the complainant has the burden to factually establish a violation of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in accordance with the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a) and that the hearing before the Commission shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.8(c).

Both parties attended the meeting on September 28, 2010. The complainant appeared pro se. The respondent, John Campbell, appeared with counsel, Frederick Dunne, Esq. After hearing all testimony, the Commission voted during the public portion of its meeting to find that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and (e) and of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members and to recommend a penalty of censure, for the reasons set forth below.[2]

[1] In Count 3 of the complaint, the complainant alleges that the respondent entered a classroom at the High School on November 12, 2009 without authorization or permission, and proceeded to his niece's desk to give her a tee shirt, disrupting the classroom instructional session. The complainant asserts this is a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (i). (Complaint at paragraph 3)

SUMMARY OF THE RECORD

The complainant called as his first witness Leonard Cuba, a member of the grounds crew for the Kearny School District. Mr. Cuba testified that one day at the beginning of the 2009-2010 school year, when he was on his lunch hour, the respondent walked into the field house garage and said, "You're just the man I'm looking for." Mr. Cuba asked the respondent what he could do for him and, according to Mr. Cuba, the respondent turned and poked him in the shoulder and said, "Who do you think you are, a wise guy?" Mr. Cuba asked the respondent what he was talking about and the respondent referred to an interaction they had the week before. According to Mr. Cuba, the week before he was summoned to the Board office for a "Board run;" that is, he was asked to deliver documents to Board members. He was, at the time, sitting on a bench when the respondent walked by and questioned Mr. Cuba; Mr. Cuba jokingly responded that he was "waiting for a bus." Mr. Cuba testified that when the respondent later came into the field house he said to him, "Who do you think you are being disrespectful?" Cuba responded that it [the bus stop comment] was a joke. The respondent said that he would be watching Mr. Cuba. Mr. Cuba said he felt intimidated; he stepped back when the respondent poked him. Mr. Cuba testified that he would have "put down" someone [other than a Board member] who said this to him.

On cross-examination, Mr. Cuba stated that there was no one else present in the field house that day. He said that he reported the incident to his supervisor, Mr. Bruscino, the next day. He also acknowledged that it was the Superintendent who asked him to "file a complaint." In response to questioning from the Commission, Mr. Cuba explained that the field house is a maintenance shed and the public has access to the building.

Brian Hohmann is a teacher and coach in the District. He testified that on the evening of October 16, 2009, after a football game, he went to the respondent's home to retrieve a jacket that belonged to him which the respondent had taken from the field house earlier that evening during the game. Mr. Hohmann explained that he secretly taped the conversation with the respondent that evening.

According to Mr. Hohmann, as he was leaving the respondent's house, the respondent revealed "insider information" about two football players involved in a disciplinary incident. Mr. Hohmann recalled the respondent saying that he disagreed with actions taken by the Board; that a majority of the board was in favor of taking a harder line with the boys, but he was a little more open to being lenient and open to allowing them back on the team. Mr. Hohmann stated that he was pretty surprised by the respondent's statements, as they were irrelevant to his purpose for being there, but reasoned that the respondent made the statements because he is a coach and these were his best players. Mr. Hohmann testified that as to the Board's actions with respect to these students, he "had no idea what was going on."

[2] Although the complainant called Marcy Fisher, president of the local education association to testify, Mr. Dunne objected to her testimony in that she has no first-hand knowledge of any incidents in the remaining counts of the complaint. Accordingly, she was dismissed by the Commission as a witness.

When cross-examined, Mr. Hohmann testified that the respondent did not mention any names and did not disclose that there was discussion about the students in a closed session meeting. Mr. Hohmann could not recall that the respondent mentioned a vote coming up. As to whether the respondent told Mr. Hohmann anything about these students' activities that the witness did not know, Mr. Hohmann responded, "Not specifically." Mr. Hohmann acknowledged that the respondent said something to the effect that it must be tough on the team to not have the students able to play.

As to why Mr. Hohmann taped the conversation with the respondent, he explained that he had spoken to the respondent earlier that evening by telephone and "there was a conflict" about what exactly had happened with respect to Mr. Hohmann's jacket. Mr. Hohmann further explained that there was "already bad blood" between them and he believed that if the respondent saw him, there was a likelihood he would not tell the truth about the jacket. The witness explained that although he did not tell the respondent that he was taping, he did not "bate him" either. Mr. Hohmann further explained that the "bad blood" between them was because, upon an earlier resignation, the respondent tried to prevent him from being rehired as a coach. He also "had a healthy skepticism" about what transpired that night with respect to his jacket. Yet, according to the witness, he was congenial with the respondent that evening "with no ill feelings." According to Mr. Hohmann, his point in making the visit to the respondent's home was to establish boundaries with Board members. Mr. Hohmann acknowledged that he has taped other conversations with people before and has done so without disclosing to people that they are being taped.

Mr. Hohmann stated that when he left the respondent's home that evening, he believed everything was resolved. He testified that he shared the tape with the head coach. According to Mr. Hohmann, when the respondent "denied what happened," he thought it was in the community's best interest for the public to know. He then shared the tape with the Superintendent.

On redirect examination, Mr. Hohmann explained that he secretly taped the conversation because there were "detrimental issues that took place that night." He stated that he and the coach decided that Board members should not feel privileged about walking into the field house; he recorded the conversation because he did not think that the respondent would be honest when he showed up at his home to retrieve his jacket. According to Mr. Hohmann, the respondent's comment about the students was made as he was leaving the respondent's house, just "in passing reflecting on the game—if you had the [name] brothers you probably would have won." Mr. Hohmann stated that he was unaware that the Board was debating punishment and that the majority of the Board was against the students.

Alfred Somma was the Kearny High School Principal during the 2009-2010 school year. Mr. Somma testified that the respondent came to his office and questioned him about why his niece was not being called to substitute in the District. Mr. Somma explained to the respondent that he does not call the substitutes, his secretary calls them. Mr. Somma stated that he told the respondent that he did not know that the respondent's niece was on the list. However, Mr. Somma stated that, after the respondent left, he inquired about the respondent's niece and learned that when she substituted in the past, she had received bad reports from the High School. According to Mr. Somma, the respondent then spoke with Mr. Somma's secretary, since she calls the substitutes. His secretary reported that the respondent questioned her about his niece.[3]

Mr. Somma also testified about a phone call that he received from Assistant Superintendent Robert Sprague. According to Mr. Somma, Mr. Sprague told him that the respondent had been questioning Mr. Sprague about Mr. Somma's alleged misuse of school funds and the respondent told Mr. Sprague "that he was out to get me." Mr. Somma stated that he was upset about the comment and he felt threatened.[4]

On cross-examination, Mr. Somma acknowledged that the respondent did not ask him to call his niece to substitute teach. Mr. Somma was not aware of the exact words that the respondent said to his secretary, but he stated that his secretary "felt uncomfortable about the conversation." Mr. Somma testified that the respondent did not tell his secretary to call his niece. In response to questioning from the Commission, Mr. Somma stated that "on occasion," members of the public also ask about procedures for selecting substitutes and he tells them he has a list which the secretary uses to obtain the needed substitutes. They try to maintain an accurate list. Mr. Somma further explained that sometimes the substitutes themselves ask about selection procedures and sometimes they get questions from relatives of the substitutes.

On cross-examination, Mr. Somma also explained that while he was the Vice Principal of Athletics, apparel was sold as a fundraiser. The funds went into the athletic account. Mr. Somma stated that it was brought to his attention that the respondent was questioning the use of the funds; these questions were directed to the Assistant Superintendent.

Assistant Superintendent Robert Sprague testified that he had a discussion with the respondent who indicated that he was pursuing an investigation into the alleged improper use of funds by Mr. Somma. According to Mr. Sprague, there were two points made by the respondent during this discussion: one had to do with the Superintendent's alleged involvement in the improper use of school funds and one had to do with Mr. Somma's alleged involvement in the improper use of school funds.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-8.3(d), upon completion of complainant's case, and prior to the respondent's testimony, as set forth below, the respondent's counsel moved to dismiss the remaining counts in the complaint. After hearing arguments from the parties, the Commission asked the parties to leave the room so that it could deliberate. The Commission determined to deny the Motion to Dismiss. Upon resumption of the hearing, the respondent's counsel called his witnesses, as summarized below.

[3] Although Mr. Somma did not provide a date when the incident occurred, the complaint states that it was January 19, 2010. (Complaint at Count 4)

[4] Although the witness did not provide a date when the incident occurred, the complaint states that the respondent telephoned the Assistant Superintendent on February 5, 2010. (Complaint at Count 5)

Mark Bruscino, Director of Facilities, testified as Mr. Cuba's supervisor. He stated that he talked with Mr. Cuba after the incident when Mr. Cuba told the respondent that he was waiting for a bus. Mr. Bruscino believed that the respondent thought that Mr. Cuba was being sarcastic and he was annoyed because there was "summer help" present who overheard the interaction. Mr. Bruscino stated that he asked Mr. Cuba not to be sarcastic. Mr. Bruscino testified that he is aware that the respondent later came into the field house, pointed at Mr. Cuba and spoke with him. Mr. Bruscino testified that he does not recall how the conversation between Cuba and the respondent ended.

On cross-examination, Mr. Bruscino stated that complaints should be taken to the Superintendent. He further testified that he has received complaints from Board members and he directed them to the personnel involved in order to determine whether they were valid. When appropriate, the staff person might be verbally reprimanded. Mr. Bruscino acknowledged that Mr. Cuba's statement to the respondent could have been in jest, but he advised Mr. Cuba to be cautious. There was no complaint made to the Superintendent about this matter.

In response to questions from the Commission, Mr. Bruscino explained that the building where the respondent entered to speak to Mr. Cuba is a maintenance shed on the bottom floor and the locker rooms are above the maintenance area. The witness explained that sometimes people walk around the track and, therefore, members of the public may be present. As for the maintenance area, Mr. Bruscino said there is a garage door that is usually left open, although they do not want the general public there. Members of the public are not supposed to be where the staff desks are located, which is about 40 feet from the entrance. The field crew uses this area to work.

The respondent, John Campbell, testified that the day after Mr. Cuba made the "waiting for a bus" comment, he went to Mr. Bruscino and told him what happened. Mr. Campbell told Mr. Bruscino that he thought the comment was disrespectful and that Mr. Bruscino should talk to Mr. Cuba. Mr. Campbell acknowledged that he entered the field house, "but not back 40 feet." He explained that he is a member of the Facilities Committee. The Committee had taken a previous tour of the field houses because there was work to be done on these buildings. According to the respondent, he went to the field houses again that day in September 2009 to "take a second look."

Mr. Campbell stated that he entered the field house and saw Mr. Cuba with his feet up on his desk watching television. Mr. Campbell stated, "You're just the guy I wanted to see." He told Mr. Cuba that he embarrassed him [with his bus stop comment] in front of the summer help and he should not have said that. Mr. Campbell affirms that he did not touch or threaten Mr. Cuba; neither did he tell Mr. Cuba that he would be watching him. The respondent felt this was a "man to man" talk; Mr. Cuba said that his earlier comment was a joke and it would not happen again. Mr. Campbell then looked at the exterior of the field house where work is needed.

Mr. Campbell testified about the night that Mr. Hohmann came to his house. That evening, the respondent had attended a football game, along with another Board member. It started raining and he borrowed a jacket. He did not ask Mr. Hohmann if he could borrow it. He intended to wear the jacket during the game, then give it back. He wore the jacket to get his car, then took it home. Mr. Campbell testified that Mr. Hohmann called his house that night and said, "You have my jacket." The respondent replied that someone said he could borrow it and he did. Mr. Campbell stated that he told Mr. Hohmann he would return the jacket the next day, but Mr. Hohmann said he wanted it that night. Again, the respondent said he would return it the next day, but Mr. Hohmann said he wanted it immediately. The phone call ended; Mr. Hohmann called Mr. Campbell a second time and said that if the respondent did not give him the jacket that evening, he would call the police. Mr. Hohmann then "showed up at the door" and Mr. Campbell gave back the jacket.

Mr. Campbell stated that there were two students suspended for stealing laptop computers; this was common knowledge throughout the town. Mr. Campbell testified that he believed it was in the paper and talked about all over town. Mr. Campbell was shown a copy of a Kearny Police Department incident report; he affirmed that he did not say anything to Mr. Hohmann that was not in that report. He denied that he told Mr. Hohmann how members were going to vote, what they were going to do, or that he revealed anything that was said in closed session.

Mr. Campbell testified that he spoke with Mr. Somma and his secretary about the process for calling substitutes. He asked how they choose the substitutes and whether there was a list. Mr. Campbell testified that Mr. Somma said he did not handle that; he needed to speak to Mr. Somma's secretary. Mr. Campbell stated that the secretary explained the process to him, but it is known in the High School that only the "top names" on the list were being called. Mr. Campbell said that he raised the issue with Somma, but did not ask him or the secretary to hire his niece.

Mr. Campbell said he had "several discussions" with Mr. Sprague when he was the Principal of Franklin School. According to the respondent, he did not tell Mr. Sprague that he was "out to get" Mr. Somma. The respondent stated that there is an investigation underway and he made that information public at a Board meeting. Mr. Campbell attributes the within complaint to the fact that he reported funds being mishandled in the District.

On cross-examination, Mr. Campbell acknowledged that he entered the field house around 11:30 during the work day. He also acknowledged that he did not notify central office that he was going to look at facility. He did not bring the matter of Mr. Cuba's comment to him to the attention of central office staff. Mr. Campbell stated that he went to Mr. Cuba's supervisor; he reasoned that if Mr. Bruscino "thought it was worthy," then he would refer the matter to the Superintendent. Mr. Bruscino handled the matter by having a discussion with Mr. Cuba. The respondent reiterated that it was his intent that day to look at the field house, not talk to Mr. Cuba. He stated that he has "known Lenny for 30 years" and he was surprised he acted the way he did.

Mr. Campbell further testified that on the evening of the football game, he did not enter the locker room area, he entered the field house about 10 steps; he asked the equipment manager about the jacket. Mr. Campbell testified that the equipment manager did not say anything; he later borrowed a jacket.

Although Mr. Campbell acknowledged that the Board did discuss the discipline for the two students, he never stated to Mr. Hohmann that some board members were looking for a harsher penalty. He said that he was sure Mr. Hohmann missed the two boys and he said he did miss them.

Mr. Campbell testified that the reason he went to speak with Mr. Somma was to talk about the tape that Mr. Hohmann made and Mr. Somma said he did not know about it. When he was there, the respondent asked Mr. Somma about procedures for hiring substitutes. The Board was not aware that he was going to talk to Mr. Somma. Mr. Campbell denied speaking to Mr. Sprague about an investigation.

In response to questions from the Commission, Mr. Campbell stated that he believed that the names of the students who were suspended were in the paper because they were adults. He clarified that the Board's discussion of the students was prior to the time Hohmann came to his home. The Commission accepted the Kearny Police report into evidence as Exhibit R-1.

George King is Deputy Police Chief in Kearny. He is currently a member of the Board, but was not on the Board at the time of the incidents in question. Deputy Chief King testified about Exhibit R-1. He stated that the information in the report is available to the public. He provided a copy of the report to the respondent. Mr. King testified that the respondent approached him at the end of August or beginning of September in 2009 regarding the theft of the laptops and asked the Deputy what information he could tell him. The Deputy said that he was familiar with the investigation, but not sure about releasing information. Mr. King checked into the matter and determined that the students were both adults, so he told the respondent about the charges, the amount of bail and that the matter had been referred to the prosecutor's office.

On cross-examination, Deputy Chief King noted that there was nothing in the police report that would reveal or confirm any actions taken by the Board. The Board would administer its own discipline to the students. In response to questioning from the Commission, the witness explained that because Mr. Somma initiated the police complaint, the District was aware of the criminal action pending.

FINDINGS OF FACT

As the trier of fact in this matter, the Commission had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to judge their credibility. As such, the Commission found that the respondent was generally not a convincing witness. Additionally, while the Commission found Mr. Cuba, Mr. Somma and Mr. Sprague to be credible witnesses and the Commission has accepted their testimony, the Commission found that Mr. Hohmann's testimony was not trustworthy, for the reasons set forth in the analysis of Count 2, below. Thus, the Commission makes the following factual findings:

[5] The complainant did not offer any exhibits into evidence.

1. The respondent was at all times a member of the Board.

2. In late summer 2009, Leonard Cuba, who is a member the field crew in the District, was at the Board office waiting for documents that were to be part of a "Board run." When the respondent saw Mr. Cuba and inquired about why he was there that day, Mr. Cuba responded that he was "waiting for a bus."

3. The next day, Mr. Campbell spoke with Mark Bruscino, Mr. Cuba's supervisor, about Cuba's statement. Mr. Campbell told Mr. Bruscino that he thought the comment was disrespectful and that Mr. Bruscino should talk to Mr. Cuba.

4. In early September 2009, Mr. Campbell entered the field house in the middle of the work day and, seeing Mr. Cuba, stated, "You're just the guy I wanted to see." The respondent told Mr. Cuba that he embarrassed him by making an earlier comment to him about waiting at a bus stop in that the comment was made in the presence of the summer help.

5. On the evening of October 16, 2009, Brian Hohmann, a teacher and coach, went to the respondent's home in order to retrieve a jacket that Mr. Campbell had taken from the field house earlier that evening during the football game. Mr. Hohmann surreptitiously taped the conversation between himself and Mr. Campbell.

6. As Mr. Hohmann was leaving Mr. Campbell's house, talk turned to two students who had been on the football team, but had not played because they were suspended for disciplinary reasons. Mr. Campbell stated that Mr. Hohmann must be missing these players.

7. Mr. Campbell went to speak to Alfred Somma, Principal of the Kearny High School. It is not clear from the testimony what date this conversation took place. Mr. Campbell asked Mr. Somma about the procedures used by the school to contact substitutes, because Mr. Campbell's niece is a substitute. Mr. Somma informed Mr. Campbell that his secretary had a list and made the calls for substitutes.

8. Mr. Campbell then spoke to the secretary about the procedures for contacting substitutes.

9. Mr. Campbell did not ask Mr. Somma or his secretary to call his niece.

10. Mr. Campbell had a conversation with Assistant Superintendent Robert Sprague about the alleged involvement of the Superintendent and Mr. Somma in the improper use of school funds. It is not clear from the testimony when this conversation took place.

11. Mr. Somma received a telephone call from Mr. Sprague who reported to Mr. Somma that Mr. Campbell questioned Mr. Sprague about Mr. Somma's alleged misuse of school funds. It is not clear from the testimony when this conversation took place.

ANALYSIS

The complainant bears the burden of factually proving any violations of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in accordance with the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a). See also, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b). Here, the complainant alleges that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), (e), (f), (g) and (i). Each statutory provision is set forth below, together with the regulatory standard establishing the complainant's factual burden of proof.

Count 1

In Count 1 of the complaint, the complainant alleges that the respondent visited the High School field house in September 2009 and verbally and physically harassed and intimidated employees that he believed were being disrespectful to his position as a board member. The complainant asserts this is a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), (e) and (i). (Complaint at paragraph 1) The Commission first considers N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), which states:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

The Commission's regulations further provide:

> Factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) shall include, but not be limited to, evidence that the respondent(s) gave a direct order to school personnel or became directly involved in activities or functions that are the responsibility of school personnel or the day-to-day administration of the school district or charter school. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)4.

It is clear from this record that the respondent was embarrassed by Mr. Cuba's statement that he was "waiting for a bus," which was undisputedly made to the respondent about a week before their interaction in the field house. The Commission was not persuaded by the respondent's testimony that he returned to the field house the following week to take "a second look" at the facilities. Rather, the Commission is convinced that the respondent sought out Mr. Cuba during his work day in order to speak with him about a comment which the respondent believed to be disrespectful. Indeed, the respondent himself testified that he told Mr. Bruscino about the comment and also advised Mr. Bruscino that he should talk to Mr. Cuba. In so doing, the Commission finds that the respondent became directly involved in activities or functions that are the responsibility of school personnel or the day-to-day administration of the school district. It was not the respondent's place as a Board member to advise Mr. Bruscino to speak with Mr. Cuba and it was certainly not the respondent's place to confront Mr. Cuba in any manner regarding what he perceived to be a disrespectful comment. Thus, the Commission finds that the complainant has established that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

The Commission next considers whether the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), which states:

> I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.

The Commission's regulations further provide:

> Factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) shall include evidence that the respondent made personal promises or took action beyond the scope of his or her duties such that, by its nature, had the potential to compromise the board. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)5.

As noted above, the Commission is not persuaded by the respondent's testimony that he returned to the field house the following week to take "a second look" at the facilities. However, even assuming that this was the reason for his appearance at the field house that day, no other member of the Facilities Committee was present and the respondent did not let the administration know that he was going to be at the field house for this purpose. Thereafter, the respondent took it upon himself to interact with Mr. Cuba; the Commission finds this to be "private action," or action taken outside the scope of the respondent's duties as a Board member. The Commission further finds that the respondent's private action was of such a nature that it had the potential to compromise the Board as it may well have sparked an impulsive reaction from Mr. Cuba.

Finally, the complainant asserts that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i), which states:

> I will support and protect school personnel in proper performance of their duties.

The Commission's regulations further provide:

> Factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) shall include evidence that the respondent(s) took deliberate action which resulted in undermining, opposing, compromising or harming school personnel in the proper performance of their duties. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)9.

The Commission has found violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) where the comments made to or about the school employee were direct, confrontational and intimidating. For instance, in I/M/O Charles Fischer, Eatontown Bd. of Ed., Monmouth County, C30-03 (February 24, 2004), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 157-04SEC, April 12, 2004, the Commission found that a Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) when he called an employee at home and became angry when she refused to provide him with the reports that he had requested. In I/M/O David Kanaby, Hillsborough Bd. of Ed., Somerset County, C53-05 (July 24, 2007), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 350-07SEC, September 10, 2007, the Commission found that the respondent Board member violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) when he sent an email to the Superintendent which was both "threatening and intimidating" in that it asked the Superintendent for an accounting of her personal leave. The Board member sent the email to all Board members, as well as the Business Administrator, the Assistant Superintendent and his subordinate. The Commission found the respondent's email to be "a personal and highly critical expression of his anger towards the superintendent in the proper performance of her duties." (Kanaby at slip op. page 3) Finally, in Brown et al. v. David Matthews, City of Englewood Board of Education, Bergen County, C13-07 (October 27, 2008), aff'd, Commissioner of Education Decision No. 123-09A, April 14, 2009, the Commission found the respondent in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) when he refused to cooperate with the District's affirmative action officer (AAO) and, in so doing, engaged in offensive comments so upsetting to the employee that she resigned as the District's AAO. On this record, however, the Commission does not find that the respondent's limited communication with Mr. Cuba rises to the level of taking deliberate action which resulted in undermining, opposing, compromising or harming school personnel in the proper performance of their duties, so as to violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Accordingly, the Commission finds that the complainant has failed to establish that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i).

In Count 2 of the complaint, the complainant alleges that the respondent held a conversation with a teacher/coach on October 16, 2009 wherein he: (a) discussed another board of education employee; and (b) disclosed closed session information regarding two high school students involved in a disciplinary matter. (Complaint at paragraph 2) The complainant asserts this is a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g),[6] which states:

> I will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools. In all other matters, I will provide accurate information and, in concert with my fellow board members, interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

The Commission's regulations require that:

> Factual evidence of a violation of the confidentiality provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) shall include evidence that the respondent(s) took action to make public, reveal or disclose information that was not public under any laws, regulations or court orders of this State, or information that was otherwise confidential in accordance with board policies, procedures or practices. Factual evidence that the respondent violated the inaccurate information provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) shall include evidence that substantiates the inaccuracy of the > information provided by the respondent(s) and evidence that establishes that the inaccuracy was other than reasonable mistake or personal opinion or was not attributable to developing circumstances. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)7.

[6] As noted above, the Commission previously dismissed the complainant's allegation of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i).

First, the Commission notes that there was no testimony with respect to a discussion about another Board employee. As to the closed session information regarding two high school students involved in a disciplinary matter that was allegedly revealed, the Commission initially finds that it cannot, in consideration of this claim, accord weight to Exhibit R-1, the Kearny Police Report, as proof that information as to the students' criminal charges was public, since this exhibit would not necessarily affect the disciplinary actions taken by the Board, nor would it shield the respondent from any culpability for revealing closed session Board discussions relative to the Board's actions.

Consequently, this allegation rests on the testimony that was presented by Mr. Hohmann and Mr. Campbell, the only two witnesses with first-hand knowledge of the conversation that took place on October 16, 2009. As noted above, the Commission generally found the respondent to be less than credible; on this claim, his direct testimony was wholly unenlightening as he flatly denied that any potentially confidential information may have been disclosed. On the other hand, Mr. Hohmann, whose testimony was crucial to this allegation, admittedly approached the respondent that evening with a history of "bad blood," as well as the expectation that he would not be honest about taking his jacket. Not only was it not the place of a coach/teacher to "establish boundaries" for Board members, as Mr. Hohmann testified was his intended purpose for the conversation that evening, but his insistence on going to the respondent's home after the football game to retrieve his jacket, together with his surreptitious taping of the respondent, takes the appearance of a coach/teacher attempting an amateur "sting" operation on a Board member whom he believed needed to be taught a lesson. Thus, the Commission is constrained to find that it cannot rely with any satisfaction on either account of the conversation. Because the complainant bears the burden of factually establishing a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), the Commission must conclude that he has failed to meet his burden.

Count 4:

In Count 4 of the complaint, the complainant alleges that the respondent entered the High School on January 19, 2010 and confronted both the High School Principal and a Secretary about his perception that his niece was not being scheduled often enough as a substitute. (Complaint at paragraph 4) The complainant asserts this is a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), as set forth above and (f), as set forth below. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), states:

> I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends.

The Commission's regulations require that:

> Factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) shall include evidence that the respondent(s) took action on behalf of, or at the request of, a special interest group or persons organized and voluntarily united in opinion and who adhere to a particular political party or cause; or evidence that the respondent(s) used the schools in order to acquire some benefit for the respondent(s), a member of his or her immediate family or a friend. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)6.

Both Mr. Somma and Mr. Campbell agree that a conversation took place wherein Mr. Campbell asked Mr. Somma about procedures that were used by the High School to contact substitute teachers. Mr. Somma acknowledged that at times, other members of the public have asked about such procedures. Notably, he stated that the respondent did not ask him or his secretary to contact his niece from the list of substitutes. The Commission does not find that the conversation which took place between the respondent and either Mr. Somma or his secretary establishes that the respondent gave a direct order to school personnel or became directly involved in activities or functions that are the responsibility of school personnel or the day-to-day administration of the school district so as to constitute a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d). Likewise, the Commission can find no evidence that the respondent surrendered his independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or used the schools for personal gain or for the gain of his friends. Accordingly, the Commission finds that the complainant failed to establish that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and 24.1(f) as alleged in this count.

In Count 5 of the complaint, the complainant alleges that on February 5, 2010, the respondent telephoned the Assistant Superintendent of Schools and told him he was "out to get" the High School Principal. (Complaint at paragraph 5) The complainant asserts this is a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) as set forth above and (i), as set forth above.

Mr. Somma testified that Mr. Sprague relayed the message to him that Mr. Campbell stated he was "out to get" Mr. Somma. Notably, however, Mr. Sprague did not testify that these specific words were spoken by Mr. Campbell. Because Mr. Sprague was a party to the conversation with the respondent and was found to be a credible witness, the Commission accepts his account of the conversation as fact. In so doing, the Commission finds that the complainant has, therefore, failed to establish that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) by failing to recognize that authority rests with the board of education and making a personal promise or taking private action that was of such a nature that it might compromise the board. Similarly, the Commission finds insufficient evidence on the record to conclude that the respondent took deliberate action which resulted in undermining, opposing, compromising or harming school personnel in the proper performance of their duties so as to violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Accordingly, the Commission finds that the complainant failed to establish that the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and 24.1(i) as alleged in this count.

DECISION

The Commission finds that respondent John Campbell violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and (e) and of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members as set forth in Count 1 and dismisses the remaining allegations in the complaint.

PENALTY

The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure. In I/M/O Doris Graves, Pleasantville Board of Education, Atlantic County, C47-05 (May 27, 2008), Commissioner of Education Decision No. 301-08SEC, decided July 10, 2008, the Commission recommended a penalty of censure where the Board member was found to have violated 18A:12-24.1(d) on two occasions: first when she spoke with the district's facilities coordinator about a proposed personnel action involving her cousin by marriage, rather than bringing her concerns to the Superintendent, and second when she appeared at a Board Personnel meeting regarding a personnel action affecting the same person.

In Jennifer Dericks et al., v. Michael Schiavoni, Sparta Township Board of Education, Sussex County, C45-07 (April 28, 2009), aff'd Commissioner of Education Decision No. 294-09SEC, decided September 15, 2009, the Commissioner agreed that censure was an appropriate penalty for a former Board member found to be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d). The Commission found that the respondent administered the schools and became directly involved in a function that was the responsibility of the Superintendent by controlling the hiring process for a Principal's position. In another matter, the same respondent was censured by the Commission for sending a letter to the editor without the full knowledge and consent of the Board in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e). Jennifer Dericks et. al v. Michael Schiavoni, Sparta Board of Education, Sussex County, C41-07 (February 24, 2009) aff'd Commissioner of Education Decision No. 260-09SEC, decided August 18, 2009. Thus, the Commission finds that, on balance, a penalty of censure is appropriate given the findings in this decision.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the School Ethics Commission's recommended sanction. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within 13 days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4 within 30 days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (13 days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

Dear Mr. Donahue:

I have reviewed your recent letter wherein you express disagreement with my decision on your petition of appeal entitled W.J.D., on behalf of minor child, C.D. v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Commissioner's decision #504-10L, decided November 22, 2010. In this decision, I dismissed your petition wherein you were seeking to have me enjoin the NJSIAA from applying its 30-day rule set forth in its Bylaws at Article V, Section 4.K(2) to your son, C.D., declaring him – as a consequence of a transfer from St. Augustine Prep to the Clearview Regional School District – ineligible to participate in interscholastic sports for the first 30 days of the season or one half of the maximum number of games allowed by NJSIAA rules in those sports where he has attained varsity status, i.e., wrestling. Dismissal of your petition was mandated because the NJSIAA rule governing this situation is clear on its face in precluding waiver or appeal of the ineligibility period resulting from student transfers for any reason other than a bona fide change in residence, and your submitted materials clearly conceded that a bona fide change in residence was not the reason for the transfer of your son to the Clearview Regional School District from St. Augustine Prep. I am viewing your letter in this regard as a Motion for Reconsideration of my decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b).

Motions for reconsideration are considered based on the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation or misconduct could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

A full review of the arguments advanced in your letter indicates that you have failed to satisfy any of the necessary requisites which might allow me to reconsider this decision. Therefore, your request for reconsideration of my decision is hereby denied. You are, however, again reminded that my November 22, 2010 decision is appealable to the Superior Court, Appellate Division, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3.

Ref #504-10L

Commissioner Hendricks,

Thank you for your response to our appeal. However, I believe that the facts of this case were not looked at close enough. Clearview High Schools's letter to NJSIAA clearly asked for exception for extraordinary circumstances siting my new home in the school district. Your interpretation of the rule would make any Catholic school to public school transfer student ineligible because you can attend any Catholic school while living in any school district. How about a student with separated parents in two school districts. That would be a address change for one parent. The student would transfer because of the separation more then the address change. I was trying to point out another flaw in the rule. I realize that your office is not the avenue to attempt to get a NJSIAA rule changed. Regardless, the rule does not define bona fide address change or set limitations. The facts are that we have a bona fide address change. The NJSIAA has no exception for transfer students and are not willing to investigate why a student transfers. The rule is clear and agreed upon. They also make it clear that with a bona fide address change, a student athlete is eligible. I may have made a mistake in my initial approach to request for eligibility. I thought I had to explain the reason for the address change in, out and back into Clearview school district because the situation is extraordinary. I did not want to give the appearance that we were attempting to circumvent the rules. Please review the rule and facts again carefully. I believe that there have been pass student-athletes with similar bona fide address changes that were determined to be eligible.

CONTROVERSIES & DISPUTES

Dear Mr. Baly:

We are writing concerning one of our students, Connor Donahue, and the 30 day state mandated waiting period for the upcoming 2010–2011 Varsity Wrestling Season. During the 2009-2010 academic year, Connor was a member of St. Augustine Preparatory School's wrestling team for which he lettered as a freshman. At this time, Connor and his family are requesting a waiver for Connor to be eligible to participate for the entire wrestling season due to extraordinary circumstances. Connor's family recently purchased a new home within our sending district and due to economic hardship and the many issues beyond the Donahues' control; we do not feel that Connor should be punished as a result. Connor did not enroll in Clearview for any athletic advantage and would have continued at St. Augustine Preparatory School if the Donahues would have been able to afford tuition. However, according to the NJSIAA eligibility bylaws, Connor is not eligible for 30 days because of his prior Varsity letter and participation.

Both Keith Brook and I are in favor of allowing Connor to participate fully in Clearview's wrestling program due to extraordinary circumstances beyond Connor's control.

Thank you for your attention in this matter and please see the attached letter from Mr. William Donahue, Connor's father, outlining the circumstances beyond his control. Please contact us immediately if you need any additional information to support Connor's eligibility waiver.

Record Closed: October 15, 2010 Decided: November 8, 2010

BEFORE ANA C. VISCOMI, ALJ

This matter, involving petitioners' challenge to the board of education's residency determination as to their child, E. DeJ., and the board's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement, was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 17, 2010, for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. A pre-hearing conference was scheduled for May 19, 2010, and notices were mailed to the parties at the addresses they provided in their respective pleadings. On May 19, 2010, petitioner P.L. DeJ. failed to appear and in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, petitioner P.L. DeJ. was afforded an opportunity to explain his non-appearance. No explanation having ever been received, his petition seeking a hearing on the merits was deemed abandoned for failure to appear in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4. However, co-petitioner M. DeJ., sought to resolve her request for a hearing by negotiating a settlement with the respondent. As a result of a series of discussions held with me, the parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1).

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures. (J-1). Additionally, the respondent Board of Education passed a resolution accepting the settlement at its meeting of October 12, 2010, as reflected in the extract of the meeting minutes and as attested to by Business Administrator/Board Secretary, Patrick DeGeorge, who was authorized by the board to execute the settlement agreement (R-1a), and as further reflected in the correspondence from respondent's counsel. (R-1b). It should be noted that although the extract of the Board resolution identifies the former student by number only, (R-1a), the correspondence from respondent's counsel, which forwarded that document, clarifies that the resolution reflects a settlement of the within matter. (R-1b).

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore

ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Respondent.

THIS AGREEMENT is made this 30th day of August, 2010 between Miesha DeJesus (hereinafter "DeJesus"), residing at 415 Meadowood Road, Jackson Township, New Jersey 08527 and the Board of Education of the Borough of Freehold, Monmouth County ("Board").

WHEREAS, DeJesus is the mother of E.D.; and

WHEREAS, E.D. was enrolled as a student in the Freehold Public Schools; and

WHEREAS, the Board determined that E.D. was not entitled to a free public education in the Freehold Public Schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; and

WHEREAS, E.D.'s parents filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education contesting the determination; and

WHEREAS, the Board filed an answer to the petition and a counterclaim for tuition for the period of E.D.'s ineligible attendance pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1 and 6A:22-6.2; and

WHEREAS, E.D.'s father abandoned the appeal and E.D.'s mother notified the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that she was withdrawing her appeal and informed the Administrative Law Judge that she is enrolling E.D. in the Jackson School District for the upcoming school year; and

WHEREAS, DeJesus and the Board now desire to resolve all issues relative to the Board's counterclaim;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, the Board and DeJesus agree as follows:

1. DeJesus shall pay the Board the amount of $11,779.48 as tuition for E.D. for the 2009-10 school year.

2. The payment referenced above shall be made in monthly installments in the amount of $321.00, with the first monthly installment due upon the signing of this agreement, a second monthly payment on October 1, 2010, and each monthly payment thereafter due on the first of each subsequent month, together with a payment of $3500.00 upon DeJesus' receipt of her federal and if necessary state income tax refund in 2011, but in no event later than June 30, 2011, with a final payment of 896.48 due no later than June 30, 2012. This final payment is in addition to the monthly payment of $321.00 due on June 1, 2012. An illustrative payment schedule is attached to this Agreement.

3. Notwithstanding the foregoing, should DeJesus receive a tax refund in 2012 but prior to June 30, 2012, she shall pay half of the refund to the Board upon receipt of the refund, and at that time, the payment schedule shall be recalculated to determine the amount of the monthly payments then necessary in order for DeJesus to pay the balance due no later than June 30, 2012. The Business Administrator shall notify DeJesus of the new payment schedule. The purpose of the payment of the refund is to both accelerate the payment of the tuition to the Board and to avoid the necessity of DeJesus from having to make a final payment on June 30, 2012 in the amount of $896.48.

3. All payments shall be made to the Office of the Business Administrator, Borough of Freehold Public Schools, 280 Park Avenue, Freehold, New Jersey 07728.

4. If any payment required hereunder is not made within 15 days of the due date, then the Business Administrator shall notify DeJesus in writing of the delinquency and provide her a 7 day period in which to cure it. If DeJesus does not cure the delinquency within that time, the Board shall have the right, on notice to DeJesus, to file this agreement as a consent judgment for the balance then due in the Superior Court of New Jersey, with venue being in the Monmouth County vicinage. At its option, the Board may instead request the Commissioner of Education to seek entry of the unsatisfied portion of the tuition assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

5. DeJesus represents that she has enrolled E.D. in the Jackson Township School District, the district in which she and E.D. are domiciled.

6. Except for the payments to be made pursuant to this agreement, and subject to DeJesus' compliance with the terms of this agreement, the Board agrees to irrevocably waive and surrender any claim it has or may have against DeJesus for tuition reimbursement, related service fees, and/or attorneys' fees for any period during which E.D. was enrolled in the Freehold Public Schools prior to the execution of this agreement. In exchange, DeJesus agrees to irrevocably waive and release the Board from any and all claims related to the education of E.D. prior to the execution of this agreement.

7. DeJesus acknowledges that she has been provided sufficient opportunity to consult an attorney with respect to this Agreement.

8. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between DeJesus and the Board with respect to the subject matter, and supersedes all prior agreements or understandings dealing with the same subject matter. There is no agreement on the part of the Board to do anything other than as is expressly stated in this Agreement. This Agreement shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

9. No modification or amendment of this Agreement will be enforceable unless it is in writing and signed by the party to be charged. The adjusted payment schedule referenced in Paragraph 3 shall not be considered a modification or amendment of this Agreement.

10. DeJesus represents and warrants that she has carefully read each and every provision of this Agreement, and that she fully understands all of the terms and conditions contained in each provision of this Agreement. DeJesus further represents and warrants that she enters into this Agreement voluntarily, of her own free will, without any pressure or coercion from any person or entity including, but not limited to, the Board of Education.

11. This agreement shall be subject to the approval of the Board.

12. The Board will dismiss its counterclaim as to DeJesus after it has approved the Agreement and received a signed original from DeJesus. The dismissal shall be without prejudice, meaning that the Board may file another action or proceeding based on the subject matter of the counterclaim, until the payment due hereunder has been paid in full. At that time, the dismissal shall be considered with prejudice, meaning that the Board may not file another claim against DeJesus based on the subject matter of the counterclaim.

13. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts, one by each party, and when so signed and delivered, shall constitute an original, fully enforceable counterpart for all purposes.

In Witness Whereof, the parties have executed this Agreement on the day first above written.

Record Closed: November 4, 2010 Decided: November 4, 2010

BEFORE LAURA SANDERS, ACTING DIRECTOR AND CHIEF ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on April 6, 2010, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF STEVE GALLON, III, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, the proposed "Settlement Agreement" (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms as compliant with the standards set forth in In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 (State Board 1983). However, Section 1a of the Agreement makes reference to an immediate resignation date, which occurred prior to consideration of the Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation is not binding until the Commissioner approves same.

The foregoing notwithstanding, and in light of the parties' acknowledgment that the Commissioner is obliged to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for review and possible action regarding respondent's certificates, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this case, providing that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms, or have agreed upon a mutually satisfactory alternate date for the effectuation of same. Assuming the foregoing, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Robert T. Pickett, Esq., for petitioner (Pickett & Craig, attorneys)

Thomas R. Ashley, Esq., for respondent, Steven Gallon III

Record Closed: October 25, 2010 Decided: November 3, 2010

BEFORE J. HOWARD SOLOMON, ALJ:

Petitioner, School District of the Borough of Plainfield, Union County, initially filed tenure charges against respondent, Steven Gallon III (respondent or Gallon) on June 18, 2010 with the Department of Education, Controversies and Disputes, for conduct unbecoming by permitting his home address to be used in order to allow certain children to be enrolled in the school district of respondent for the purpose of obtaining a free public education knowing that said children were not domiciled in the school district nor residing with him.

On September 17, 2010, additional tenure charges were filed by petitioner against respondent for conduct unbecoming alleging that he knowingly misrepresented the qualifications of two individuals to petitioner who were hired for administrative positions; that he retaliated against certain district employees, such as by demoting and/or downgrading their positions, contrary to petitioner's "hiring, promotional and personnel policies"; that he failed to post employment and position vacancies "as required by [p]etitioner's policy and its contract with [the] Plainfield Education Association"; that he "misused [p]etitioner's property, an authorized cell phone, by giving the phone to his college age son which resulted in a very large phone bill" which petitioner paid; that he unilaterally breached contracts with certain unions "without consulting with or obtaining authorization from the [p]etitioner."

Respondent filed his answer to the initial charges on July 2, 2010 and to the subsequent charges on October 6, 2010, denying in both instances the charges alleged.

By Order of the undersigned dated October 25, 2010, and with the consent of the parties, both matters were consolidated for hearing.

Prior to October 25, 2010, which was the initial hearing date of several dates scheduled before the undersigned, both parties agreed to a proposed settlement, which was signed by the president of the Plainfield Board of Education and its attorney on September 8, 2010 and by respondent and his attorney on September 30, 2010, subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education, which is attached to and fully incorporated in this decision. In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 [1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.) 842] and as codified by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> . . . the nature of the charges, the length of . . . employment, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education > and the [educator] to the proposed agreement, the administrative law judge's finding that the [educator] entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his or her rights and [a finding] that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.

On October 25, 2010, the undersigned held a hearing on the issue of whether or not the proposed settlement agreement should be accepted. Counsel for both parties set forth on the record the reasons why the settlement would be in the public interest. Respondent testified that he fully understood and voluntarily agreed to the terms of the settlement. The Plainfield Board of Education (Board) approved the settlement, as evidenced by the attached resolution, dated September 8, 2010. In addition, respondent produced Gary Ottmann, Secretary to the Plainfield Board of Education, who testified under oath that the additional charges filed against respondent were intended to be included in the resolution.

Based upon my review of the record, the testimony of respondent, the representations of Mr. Ottmann and both counsel, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest for the following reasons:

1. Respondent's employment as superintendent with petitioner was under a four year contract, commencing July 1, 2008 and ending June 30, 2012.

2. It is anticipated that the hearing in this matter would be protracted and costly.

3. Litigation of all charges would lead to the disruption of petitioner's educational program due to the great amount of time lost by administrators and other personnel who would be required to testify to the occurrences which led to the filing of the tenure charges.

4. If the tenure matter proceeds to hearing, both parties would incur costs of paying their attorneys for a likely lengthy hearing and any appeals involved.

5. Petitioner and respondent have agreed that respondent's employment with the district is immediately terminated upon the approval of the Settlement Agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

6. Before entering into this agreement, respondent fully understood his rights and had adequate opportunity to consult with legal counsel.

7. Respondent acknowledged that the Commissioner is required under N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.4 to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for whatever action it deems appropriate. In fact, proceedings have already been instituted against respondent under OAL Docket No. EDE 10591-10 (Agency Reference No. 0910-209).

8. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in regard to the above consolidated matters.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the terms of settlement are in the public interest.

It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms of settlement and that these proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Petitioner,

VS.

STEVE GALLON, III,

Respondent.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement (the "Agreement") is made by and between the Plainfield Board of Education ("Petitioner District") and Steven Gallon, individually ("Respondent") on the date or dates indicated below.

WHEREAS, on or about June 15, 2010, Petitioner District commenced tenure proceedings an against Petitioner by way of Petition filed with the Commissioner of Education, the Department of Education for the State of New Jersey, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, entitled Plainfield Board of Education vs. Steven Gallon, III, Docket Nos. OAL EDU-07091-2010N & OAL EDU-11115-2010N (the "Tenure Charges").

WHEREAS, Respondent has denied, and continue to deny, the material tenure charges filed against him by the Petitioner District in the Action; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner District and Respondent desire to avoid the expense and disruption of further litigation with respect to the subject matter of the Action; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner District and Respondent understand that the Respondent is entitled to continue to receive his salary from Petitioner District after 120 days of any suspended salary payments from the Petitioner District until the Commissioner of Education has made a final decision in the Action herein pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner District and Respondent, upon consultation with their respective counsel, have independently concluded that it is in their respective best interests to settle and resolve any and all disputes and controversies which have been, or could have been, raised between them, with each party to bear their own counsel fees, costs and disbursements.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises exchanged herein and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are acknowledged, Petitioner District and Respondent hereby memorialize their agreement as follows:

1. Settlement of Claim – The Petitioner District and the Respondent agree to settle this Action as follows:

   a. By the Respondent's ~~submission of his Resignation~~ agreement to the termination from his position with the GCC School District as Superintendent upon the execution of this Agreement; and

   b. By the payment in the amount of six (6) months of his salary and other salary entitlements for the school year commencing as of July 1, 2009, by the Petitioner within thirty (30) days from the date of the approval of the settlement herein by the Commissioner of Education; and

   c. Release of the search firm Hazard Young Attea from its agreement not to place

Respondent with another school district during the term of Respondent's contract with the Petitioner District; and

d. All proceedings in this matter will remain confidential as required by the applicable statute and law and subject to the Open Public Records Act; and

e. In the event Respondent is required to testify in any Commissioner of Education, civil or criminal proceeding involving the Petitioner District, the Respondent agrees:

   i. To cooperate with the Petitioner and will make himself available to offer testimony in support of the Petitioner in the aforementioned proceedings; and

   ii. For his assistance, the Petitioner will reimburse Respondent's travel expenses, if any, and pay him a per diem dollar amount based on his salary for the school year commencing July 1, 2009 and ending as June 30, 2010; and

f. Petitioner District agrees to provide a letter to the Pretrial Intervention Program of Middlesex County indicating that it has no objection to the Respondent's admission into its Pretrial Intervention Program without a guilty plea.

2. Dismissal of Tenure Charges and Approval of Settlement By Commissioner Of Education – Petitioner District and Respondent shall cause the tenure charges in the Action to be dismissed as to Respondent with prejudice and without costs and both parties understand that the dismissal of the proceedings and settlement herein are subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

3. Confidentiality - No party shall issue or cause to be issued any statement regarding the Action which contradicts the terms of the settlement herein.

4. No Admission - It is specifically acknowledged and understood by the parties that this Agreement is not an indication or admission of any violation of any law, statute or regulation or a breach of any duty by Respondent. It is further acknowledged that the payments referenced herein or made hereunder are not indicative of any action or inaction taken by Petitioner District and/or Respondent, their past and present Board members, administrators, agents, employees or attorneys, with respect to the filed and approved tenure charges in this proceeding. It is understood and agreed by the parties that the settlement is being made solely to alleviate the necessary time and expense of a hearing, preparation therefore and/or further proceedings and continued payment of any salary entitlements to Respondent. This Agreement and compliance with this Agreement shall not be construed as an admission by any party of any liability or improper filing of tenure charges whatsoever with respect to any matter in this proceeding. This Agreement may not be introduced into evidence or used in any other way in any other legal or administrative proceeding other than a proceeding seeking enforcement of the terms of this Agreement.

5. Mutual Releases – The Petitioner District and the Respondent herein, by mutual agreement and consideration, hereby release each other from any and all obligations in the matter styled, Plainfield Board of Education vs. Steven Gallon, III, Docket Nos. OAL EDU-07091-2010N & OAL EDU-11115-2010N. Whereas, Petitioner District and the Respondent have accepted the terms of the settlement in the aforementioned administrative proceeding as set forth herein; and Whereas, Petitioner District and the Respondent agree, by further mutual agreement and consideration, to release and discharge each other, their representatives, attorneys, successors and assigns and employees, if any, from any and all actions, causes of action of any kind, suits, charges and obligations, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, reckonings, bonds, bills, specialties, covenants, contracts, sales and purchases, deed of conveyance(s), title deficiencies, controversies, agreements, promises, variances, trespasses, damages, judgments, extents, executions, claims, and demands whatsoever, in law, admiralty or equity, which against their heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have for, upon, or by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this release and agreement.

6. Representation and Negotiation by Counsel - The parties acknowledge that this Agreement is the result of arms length negotiations between the parties, all of whom are represented by counsel. The parties have consulted with their attorneys throughout the negotiations and have been fully advised of all of the ramifications of this Agreement, including the claims and rights they are waiving herein and the affirmative obligations they are agreeing to undertake. The parties are fully satisfied with the services of their counsel with respect to both this Agreement and all other aspects of this case and they enter into this Agreement knowingly, willingly and without any coercion or improper inducements.

7. Entire Agreement - This Agreement represents the entire agreement and understanding between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof.

This Agreement may not be modified unless same is in writing, authorized, approved and signed by all parties.

Each party agrees to execute such further and additional documents, instruments and writings as may be reasonably necessary, proper, required, desirable or convenient for the purpose of fully effectuating the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

8. Severability - If any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect any other provisions or applications and, to this end, the provisions of this Agreement are declared to be severable.

9. Law Governing - This Agreement and all of its terms and conditions shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey. The Commissioner of Education, the Department of Education of the State of New Jersey, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any and all actions or assignments related to or arising out of this Agreement.

10. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which shall constitute an original, but all of which shall constitute one and the same agreement.

11. This Agreement is for the benefit of the parties hereto and their successors and assigns.

12. This Agreement constitutes the entire Agreement among the parties hereto, and supersedes any prior understandings, agreements or representations by or between the parties, written or oral, which may have related to the subject matter hereof.

13. This Agreement cannot be amended or waived except in writing signed by all of the parties hereto. No waiver of any provision hereunder or any breach or default shall extend to or affect in any way any other provision of this Agreement or any prior or subsequent breach or default.

14. This Agreement shall be binding on any successor or assignee of the parties hereto.

15. The parties' agreement to the settlement contained herein and their execution of this Agreement shall not be deemed an admission of liability or wrongdoing.

16. Execution - This Agreement may be signed in several counterparts, all of which when taken together shall constitute a single document.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties and/or their representative(s) hereto have duly executed this Agreement as of the date first written above.

Resolution Authorizing Settlement of
Dr. Steve Gallon Tenure Charges
Before The Commissioner of Education

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-11, the Plainfield Board of Education has filed Tenure Charges against the former School Superintendent, Dr. Steve Gallon, III, (hereinafter "Dr. Gallon"), approved and authorized on June 15, 2010 and September 7, 2010, for his conduct during the period of his employment with the Board; and

WHEREAS, Board Counsel has advised the Plainfield Board of Education that Dr. Gallon wishes to settle any and all claims he may have against the Board arising out of the Tenure Charges filed against him by resigning from his former position with the District; and

WHEREAS, Board Counsel has advised the Plainfield Board of Education the Tenure Charges currently pending against Dr. Gallon will likely take more than six months to adjudicate before the Commissioner of Education and the Office of Administrative Law during the period that Dr. Gallon will have returned to the School District's payroll in accordance N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 and regulations; and

WHEREAS, Board Counsel has recommended that the Board enter into a settlement with Dr. Gallon that will terminate his employment with the School District upon his resignation, the payment of six months salary thereafter and subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education in accordance with the attached Settlement Agreement between the parties; and THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that Board hereby approves Board Counsel's recommendation on the settlement of the Tenure Charges with Dr. Gallon as set forth in the attached Settlement Agreement with, if required, any minor changes Board Counsel thinks necessary and appropriate to effectuate the resignation and termination of Dr. Gallon's employment with the District.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner asserted that the Board improperly disavowed and repudiated its policy of crediting employment as a maternity leave replacement teacher toward the acquisition of tenure, specifically referencing eighteen teachers who received a letter in September 2009 from the district superintendent which stated that only time worked in a permanent position can be counted toward the three years required to earn tenure. The Board sought dismissal of the petition, contending that its claims were not ripe for adjudication, and filed a motion for summary judgment.

The ALJ found that: there are no disputed material facts in this matter, and the Board is entitled to judgment as a matter of law; for a matter to be adjudicated, a party must have suffered a distinct injury or harm that was caused by the adverse party and can be remedied by the court; in this case, the petition asserts no loss of pay, rank, position, or any other benefit by the staff members who received the controverted letter from the district superintendent; subsequent to the filing of the petition, three of the teachers referenced therein were terminated for financial reasons, but even considering the changes in their status, the petition is still not ripe for adjudication; and the petition cannot properly be viewed as one for a declaratory ruling in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon full consideration, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ for the reasons comprehensively presented in her recommended decision, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon full consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that summary decision is appropriately granted to the Board as the claims advanced in the instant petition of appeal are not ripe for adjudication, necessitating their dismissal.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter – for the reasons clearly articulated therein – and the instant petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Bridgewater-Raritan Education Association (the Association), asserts that respondent, the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education (the Board), has improperly disavowed and repudiated its policy of crediting employment as a maternity leave replacement teacher toward tenure acquisition. The Board seeks dismissal of the petition, urging that its claims are not ripe for adjudication. In the alternative, the Board seeks summary decision, contending that there are no material facts in dispute and that it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Association filed its appeal before the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on December 14, 2009. The Board filed an answer and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 22, 2009. The Board filed a Motion to Dismiss or in the Alternative for Summary Decision on July 21, 2010. The Board supported its application with a brief and with the certifications of counsel and Gerard Nazzaretto, manager of human resources, for the school district. On August 30, 2010, the Association filed a brief and the certification of Association president, Steven Beatty, in opposition to the Board's motion. The Board replied on September 9, 2010.

I heard oral argument on October 6, 2010. At my request, on October 14, 2010, the Board submitted a supplemental certification in which Nazzaretto outlined the employment history of several district teachers. Via email dated October 15, 2010, counsel for the Association confirmed that this supplemental certification was factually accurate, and the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The material facts are not in dispute, and I FIND:

On September 14, 2009, the Bridgewater-Raritan Superintendent of Schools Michael Schilder sent a letter to thirty-four teachers employed by the district. Although not named as party petitioners, eighteen of these teachers are referenced in the petition. The letter stated, in pertinent part, as follows:

> This is to provide you with information on your current status with regard to earning tenure in your current teaching position with the District.
>
> Please be aware that under New Jersey Education statute 18A:28-4 only time worked in a permanent position can be counted toward the three years required to earn tenure. Therefore, any time worked in a position in which the prior incumbent is or was on leave of absence cannot count toward tenure under the NJ Education tenure statute.
> [(Emphasis in original.)]

It is uncontroverted that the information contained in Schilder's correspondence was at odds with the recipients' view of their tenure rights, and at odds with representations previously made to them by school district administration. Indeed, an email sent to Mary Gruber from Gerard Nazzaretto is representative, and states:

> Our district has chosen to grant credit towards tenure to anyone who is hired in a contract teaching position whether it is a leave replacement or not. In your case what this means is that you will receive one year of credit towards tenure for the 2007-2008 school year even though you were replacing Erin Hughes who was on leave.

There was no formal Board policy recognizing the right of leave-replacement teachers to accrue tenure. Nazzaretto states in his certification that Schilder's letter was sent to staff members to "[correct] a misunderstanding that previously existed relative to the state of the tenure law."

At the time of the filing of the petition, all of the referenced teachers continued to be employed by the district. In or about June 2010, however, seventy-six instructional positions were abolished by the Board due to a loss of State aid. Of the eighteen teachers mentioned in the petition, three were the subject of a Reduction in Force (RIF): Mary Gruber, Michelle Kirchofer, and Tamara Manzur. Gruber's employment commenced on September 1, 2007, and she worked continuously until she was not re-employed for the 2010-2011 school year due to budget constraints. Although at the time Nazzaretto filed his initial certification on July 21, 2010, Manzur also had been laid-off, she has since been rehired, effective September 1, 2010. Thus, there was no break in her service to the district.

As to Kirchofer, Nazzaretto writes in his certification:

> Michelle Kirchofer was hired on May 15, 2006 and worked for one month as a part-time Special Education Teacher. She had a break in service during the 2006-2007 school year and returned to the District on September 1, [2007] as a maternity leave replacement. She worked through the end of the 2009-2010 school year. Based on her prior one month of service and considering, for argument sake, that this leave replacement time counted toward her tenure, Ms. Kirchofer would have attained tenure on May 16, 2010, having three (3) years and (1) month of seniority a the time of the RIF making her the least senior person on her seniority list.
> [(Emphasis in original.)]

The Association agrees that Kirchofer's employment history was accurately set forth by Nazzaretto in his supplemental certification, as follows:

2005-2006	Employed from May 15, 2006 through June 22, 2006
2006-2007	Break in service for entire year (not re-employed due to layoff)
2007-2008	Employed for entire school year (leave replacement teacher)
2008-2009	Employed for entire school year (regular contract)
2009-2010	Employed for entire school year (regular contract)
2010-2011	Not re-employed due to RIF

It is uncontroverted that even if credited for her year as a replacement teacher, Kirchofer was the least senior teacher in her category of employment, and there is no challenge to the decision to RIF her. The remaining fifteen staff members mentioned in the petition continue to be employed by the district and there is no allegation that their employment status changed in any way subsequent to receipt of Schilder's letter.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Board seeks dismissal of the petition, but includes certifications and other documents outside the pleadings in support of its motion. Accordingly, its application is properly considered in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. There are no material disputed facts which require a plenary hearing, and the Board is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The Board correctly asserts that for a matter to be justiciable, a party must have suffered a distinct injury or harm that was caused by the adverse party, and that can be remedied by the court. New Jersey Turnpike Auth. v Parsons, 3 N.J. 235, 240 (1949); In re Ass'n of Trial Lawyers of Am., 228 N.J. Super. 180 (App. Div. 1988). It is not generally the role of the courts to enter rulings that are advisory or abstract. N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. State of New Jersey, 88 N.J. 605, 611 (1982); Crescent Park Tenants Assoc. v Realty Eq. Corp. of New York, 58 N.J. 98.107.

The Commissioner likewise requires that a controversy or dispute be ripe for adjudication. Milano v Franklin Bd. of Educ., EDU 08206-08, Initial Decision (February 24, 2009), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (citing Bott v. Middletown Bd. of Educ., EDU 4124-81, Initial Decision (October 30, 1981), Comm'r's Decision (December 21, 1981)). Consistent with this requirement, it is well-established that the rights flowing from claimed or actual tenure rights remain inchoate until an employee suffers an adverse action in alleged violation of such rights. Where a petitioner seeks no relief beyond a declaration that he or she has acquired tenure in the school district, and alleges no loss of pay, reduction in employment or deprivation of any other specific benefit as a result of the facts pleaded, the matter is not properly before the Commissioner for adjudication. See Milano v Bd. of Educ. of Franklin Twp., EDU 6797-06, Comm'r's Decision (July 25, 2008), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; Barca v Bd. of Educ. of Holmdel, EDU 2192-00, Initial Decision (May 11, 2001), Comm'r's Decision (June 22, 2001), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

Here, the petition asserts no loss of pay, rank, position, or any other benefit or emolument of employment by the staff members who received the controverted letter from the Superintendent of Schools.[1] The Association urges that its members promptly contested the changed interpretation of their tenure rights, fearing that a failure to do so would be viewed as a waiver. This is an understandable but nonetheless baseless concern. These employees certainly can challenge any future adverse employment action by the Board, including but not limited to action taken because their appointments were as replacement teachers. Such claims will be ripe when the adverse action is taken, and timely if filed within ninety days thereof. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

[1] Schilder's letter incorrectly cites to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4. The correct citation is N.J.S.A. 18:16-1.1, as noted in the brief submitted by the Board.

Subsequent to the filing of the petition, three staff members mentioned in the petition were terminated due to financial exigencies. These individuals are not named as party petitioners, and the petition itself was never amended to assert that their employment status changed as a result of the Board's revised view of their tenure entitlements. Technically, the petition should have been amended. But our regulations permit me to relax or disregard any procedural rule if adherence to that rule "would result in unfairness or injustice." N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(b). OAL rules are intended to "achieve just results, simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay." N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a). In this spirit, I CONCLUDE that it is appropriate that I consider the changed circumstances of staff members Gruber, Kirchofer, and Manzur, and determine whether these changes in their status render the petition ripe for adjudication.

There is no dispute that Gruber's employment was unaffected by the actions alleged in the petition. Having commenced employment on September 1, 2007, she would not have earned tenure under any theory of her rights unless and until she was re-employed in September 2010. N.J.S.A. 18A; 28-5(b). Similarly, while Manzur was initially advised that her employment was terminated due to a RIF, she was re-employed before there was any break in her service. Clearly, the changed circumstances of these two employees do not render the petition ripe for adjudication. Their employment was not adversely affected by the Board's change in practice relative to tenure acquisition.

The Association urges that the Board's actions have adversely affected the rights of Michelle Kirchofer, and that the issue of Kirchofer's entitlement to placement on a preferred eligibility list is properly before the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. Indeed, both parties appear to believe that Kirchofer would have earned tenure prior to her RIF if credited for the year she replaced a teacher on maternity leave. Were that the case, I would concur that the issue of Kirchofer's right to placement on the list might then be ripe for adjudication.[2] Indeed, her entitlement to recall is statutory and inclusion on the preferred-eligibility list is her assurance that her re-employment rights are respected.

But both parties misapprehend Kirchofer's rights under the tenure laws. Just like Gruber, Kirchofer did not have tenure at the time of her layoff, nor would she have even if credited for her service during 2007-2008 as a replacement for a teacher on maternity leave. Tenure is a legislative status, not a contractual one, and in to order to be protected by that status, a teaching staff member must have met the precise conditions articulated in the statute. Howley v Ewing Bd. of Educ., 6 N.J.A.R. 509, 516 (EDU). N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5 provides for the acquisition of tenure upon employment in a district for:

> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

In making his determination that Kirchofer would have earned tenure if credited for all of her service to the district, Nazzaretto counts her time in-district without considering her break in service during 2006-2007, and without reference to the clear statutory requirement that service take place in "consecutive" years. Although she worked for three consecutive academic years (2007-2010), Kirchofer was not re-employed at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5(b). Nor did she serve the district for "the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years," because she only worked for one month prior to her year-long break in service. N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5(c). A review of Kirchofer's employment history reflects that there are no four consecutive academic years in which she served for more than thirty months.

Accordingly, Manzur, Kirchofer, and Gruber's rights were unaffected by the Board's repudiation of its policy of crediting service as a replacement teacher toward tenure. Manzur remains employed; Gruber and Kirchofer would not have acquired tenure prior to the 2010 RIF even if the Board had credited them for their leave replacement service. I CONCLUDE that the RIF of Gruber, Kirchofer, and Manzur notwithstanding, the claims raised by the petition are not ripe for adjudication.

The Association's argument that I should reach a determination on the merits of its claims because it seeks declaratory relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 is unavailing. The petition was filed as a contested case and not as a petition for a declaratory ruling in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.2. More importantly, the claims of the petition do not meet the express regulatory criteria for entertaining a request for declaratory relief. The rule states:

> A request for a declaratory ruling shall reflect adverse positions on the statute or rule in question by the parties and may not seek consequential relief beyond a declaration as to the meaning of the statute or rule, and may not be based on underlying facts which are future, contingent, uncertain or disputed.
> [Emphasis supplied.]

The Association urges that its members relied to their detriment on administrative representations that their service was tenure eligible. The petition asserts, as does the brief submitted in opposition to the motion, that Association members declined alternative job opportunities or made other critical life choices based on the misinformation received from Nazzaretto. But even counsel for the Association concedes that its equitable estoppel argument "create[s] a triable issue of fact not appropriate for summary judgment." The Association clearly alleges facts which are "uncertain or disputed." Moreover, it is plain that the petition seeks well more than a clarification of the meaning of a statute or rule. Rather, a full exploration of the claims in the petition requires an analysis of both parties' conduct and its legal implications. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petition is not properly viewed as one for a declaratory ruling in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1.

Having determined that this matter is not ripe for adjudication, it is unnecessary to reach the Board's arguments on the merits of the Association's claims. I CONCLUDE that the petition should be dismissed.

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the claims raised by the petition of appeal are not ripe for adjudication and are DISMISSED.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

The petitioner, Kathleen Parte-Willbergh, filed a petition and hearing request alleging that she acquired tenure as a guidance counselor and that the school district's failure to hire her as a guidance counselor after the elimination of her substance abuse coordinator position was a violation of her tenure/seniority rights. This matter was originally transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 10, 2008, for hearing as a contested case. After a hearing, an initial decision was issued on November 2, 2009, concluding that the school district did not violate petitioner's tenure and seniority rights and dismissing the petition. On December 15, 2009, the case was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings based on the Commissioner's determination the initial decision failed to address petitioner's claim that since she is the holder of an Educational Services certificate and she achieved tenure under an endorsement to that certificate, she has a right to the guidance counselor position over a non-tenured individual based on Ellicot v. Bd. of Educ. of Frankford, 251, N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) and Dennery v. Bd. of Educ. of the Passaic County Reg. H. S. Dist., 131 N.J. 626 (1993).

Following the remand, I conducted a telephone prehearing conference on January 20, 2010, followed by a telephone settlement conference on February 3, 2010. At that time, counsel reported to me that they had discussed the outlines of a settlement and they requested additional time to resolve the details. Following a series of additional telephone conferences, counsel reported to me on July 29, 2010, that they had reached a settlement and they anticipated the submission of a fully executed Settlement Agreement within four weeks.

On October 6, 2010, a fully executed Settlement Agreement was submitted and on October 14, 2010, a certified copy of the motion to approve the Settlement Agreement was provided.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the their signatures and the execution thereof by the president and secretary/business administrator of the Board of Education and the submission of a certified and sealed copy of the minutes of the Board of Education approving the settlement as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13(d).

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT and Mutual Release ("Settlement Agreement" or "Agreement") is made on this _____day of _____, 2010, by and between the Wall Township Board of Education ("the District"), and Kathleen Parte-Willbergh ("Parte-Willbergh") in effort to resolve OAL Docket No. EDU-14046-2009S in an amicable and mutually satisfactory manner. The Parties hereby set forth their full and complete agreement as follows;

WHEREAS, the Wall Township Board of Education is charged with the operations of the public schools of the Wall Township School District, County of Monmouth, a K-12 school system, pursuant to Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes; and

WHEREAS, Parte-Willbergh was employed by the District as a certified staff member until a reduction in force in June 2008; and

WHEREAS, on December 11, 2009, the Commissioner of Education determined that Parte-Willbergh was entitled to a Guidance Counselor position in the District as of September 2008, and ordered a remand for a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law to determine Parte-Willbergh's actual damages and claims; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to amicably settle this matter, rather than conduct a prolonged hearing and continued litigation to determine Parte-Willbergh's rights to any position in the District, as well as Parte-Willbergh's right to compensation and to the relief sought in the Petition,

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises contained herein, and for good and valuable consideration, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

RECEIVED
2010 OCT -6 P 1:28

1. Payment on Claim.

The District agrees to pay and Parte-Willbergh agrees to accept the total sum of $73,927.90, to be paid in two (2) equal installments, which is less than Parte-Willbergh's contractual salary for the 2008-2009 school year, as full and total satisfaction for all claims made in the Petition of Appeal, and for any and all claims that Parte-Willbergh may have against the District. The first payment shall be made by December 15, 2010, and the second payment shall be made on January 2, 2011.

The payments constitute compensation for back pay, i.e., monies that Parte-Willbergh would have earned had she remained employed by the District for 2008-2009 school year, minus unemployment benefits received, compensation for costs of COBRA insurance and any other applicable benefits, and compensation for Parte-Willbergh's agreement not to seek reinstatement to her position following 2008-2009 school year and for waiving her tenure and seniority rights, thereafter.

The Parties understand and agree that, by entering into this Settlement Agreement, Parte-Willbergh has given the Board a credit for unemployment benefits that she received; and as a result, if the State of New Jersey or any State agency or authority seeks reimbursement of any unemployment benefits paid to Parte-Willbergh, the Board of Education shall reimburse Parte-Willbergh for all monies that she must reimburse the State or any State agency or authority.

The Parties recognize that Parte-Willbergh is presently receiving a pension and retirement allowance from the Teachers' Pension Annuity Fund, and that no part of the monies paid to her are for any period of time covered by that Pension or Retirement allowance.

2. General Release of Claims.

In entering this Settlement Agreement, the representatives of the parties represent that they are fully authorized to consent to all terms on behalf of their respective clients. The terms of this agreement have been approved by public action by the District on September 21, 2010.

In entering this Agreement, the parties hereby waive and release as against each other all claims, defenses and reservations whatsoever arising out of this matter in any jurisdiction, and it is the intention of the parties' authorized representatives to hereby resolve litigation, all related litigation, and any and all other matters arising out of the Office of Administrative law case referenced above, finally and with prejudice.

All parties shall bear their own respective professional fees and costs arising out of this litigation.

3. Dismissal of Appeal

In further consideration of the mutual promises, all Parties consent and agree to the withdrawal/dismissal of the Petition of Appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU-14046-2009S with prejudice and without costs to any Party, and provided further that if the Commissioner of Education does not approve this Settlement Agreement or any part thereof, subject to the Parties' right to enter into a new or modified Agreement subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education, this matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings without reference to this Settlement Agreement.

4. No Admission of Liability

The Parties understand and agree that this Settlement Agreement is the compromise of disputed claims and that the payment and consideration set forth herein is not to be construed as an admission of liability on the part of any Party hereto. All Parties deny liability and have agreed to settle this matter and pay the amount referenced herein solely to avoid the expense and burden of litigation.

5. Execution of Release

All Parties have consulted with their respective attorneys regarding the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement, have carefully read the same and know and understand its contents. The Parties expressly acknowledge that they execute this Settlement Agreement of their own free will.

6. Effective Date

This Settlement Agreement shall be effective when the last Party shall have executed the same and provided a copy to all other Parties.

7. Counterparts

This Settlement Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, all of which shall be one instrument, and all of which shall be considered duplicate originals.

8. Full and Complete Agreement

This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full and complete agreement between the Parties with respect to its subject matter. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, this Settlement Agreement supercedes all prior agreements, understandings, and discussions relating to the claims raised. There are no representations, agreements, arrangements or understandings, oral or written, concerning the subject matter between the Parties which are not fully expressed or incorporated by reference herein. This Settlement Agreement may be amended, modified or waived only by an agreement in writing signed by all Parties hereto.

9. Authority to execute agreement

All signatories hereto state and affirm that they have the authority to execute this Settlement Agreement and Release and do hereby bind the Party which they represent.

10. Severability

If any term, provision or section of this Settlement Agreement is unlawful, invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of this Settlement Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and shall remain binding on the Parties to this Settlement Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, the parties have executed this Settlement Agreement on the date specified below.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a head security guard employed by respondent Board – sought indemnification in the amount of $13,402.50 for counsel fees incurred in defending a civil action brought against him. Petitioner requests indemnification for the work of attorney Sanford R. Oxfeld (Oxfeld) at a rate of $300/hour, and work performed by Oxfeld's associate at a rate of $250/hour. The Board contends that the counsel fees are unreasonable because they exceed the allowable reimbursement rate of $125/hour set forth in its policy on employee indemnification. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no genuine issue of material fact and the matter can be decided on summary decision; the record includes a letter dated March 26, 2007, wherein counsel for petitioner clearly stated that he was representing petitioner at the hourly rate of $150; petitioner never paid nor was he expected to pay more than $150/hour for Oxfeld's legal services; and the respondent Board's policy restricting attorney fees to hourly rates not exceeding $125 violates the Board's responsibility under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 to defray all costs incurred by school employees in defending civil actions arising out of their employment. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner is entitled to indemnification in this matter at the hourly rate of $150, and ordered that the petitioner be indemnified for attorney's fees in the sum of $6,795, which represents 45.30 hours of legal services at the hourly rate of $150.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 governs the indemnification of legal costs incurred by employees for the defense of civil actions arising out of the performance of the employees' duties, and found that the March 26, 2007 letter from petitioner's attorney clearly stating a fee of $150/hour – and the lack of objection to that rate by the respondent – constitute facts supporting a contract implied-in-fact concerning the fee of $150/hour. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered that both parties should be bound by that rate, but noted that the associate in petitioner's counsel's firm who worked on the case should be compensated at a rate of $125/hour based on facts in the record which show that the billing rate for the associate is $25 less per hour than lead counsel's rate.

JOSEPH GALEGO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

At issue in this controversy is the hourly rate which may be used by petitioner's counsel to calculate the amount of attorney fees payable to him for services he rendered defending petitioner in a civil lawsuit brought against both parties. Respondent neither contests the petitioner's entitlement to indemnification for the legal fees nor disputes the number of hours itemized in the invoice provided by petitioner's counsel. Rather, respondent contends that the rate for the indemnified legal services should be $125/hour, the maximum rate allowed in a policy which respondent approved on June 25, 2009 – over two years after petitioner's counsel had begun representing petitioner. Petitioner, on the other hand, maintains that his counsel should be paid $300/per hour because that is a reasonable rate for an experienced attorney.

In her Initial Decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) correctly found that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 governs the indemnification of legal costs incurred by employees of boards of education for the defense of civil actions arising out of the performance of the employees' duties. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 provides, in pertinent part, that > the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom . . . .

> (Emphasis added.)

Acknowledging the statute's mandate that boards shall defray all reasonable legal defense costs incurred by employees, the ALJ reasoned that the respondent board could not defeat same by imposing a low ceiling on legal fees.[1]

Further, the record contains a letter dated March 26, 2007, from petitioner's counsel providing notice to respondent's counsel that he would be representing petitioner at the rate of $150/hour. There is no evidence that respondent objected to the rate, and petitioner's counsel proceeded to render his services. Under these circumstances petitioner and his counsel could justifiably expect indemnification at the designated rate. See, e.g. Starkey, Kelly, Blaney & White, v. Estate of Nancy Nicolaysen, Lisa Gelburd and Sigurd Nicolaysen, Jr., 172 N.J. 60, 68 and 69, (2002) citing Restatement (Third) of the Law Governing Lawyers § 39 comment b(i) (1998):

> Quantum meruit is a form of quasi-contractual recovery and rests on the equitable principle that a person shall not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another. Courts generally allow recovery in quasi-contract when one party has conferred a benefit on another, and the circumstances are such that to deny recovery would be unjust. Quantum meruit recovery then provides compensation in circumstances in which it would be contrary to the parties' expectation to deprive the lawyer of all compensation.

Petitioner's arguments in favor of the hourly counsel fee of $300 focused on the language in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 that directs boards of education to indemnify their employees for reasonable counsel fees and expenses. Relying on Rendine v. Pantzer, 142 N.J. 292 (1995),

[1] The ALJ's conclusion would appear to be especially appropriate in the present case, where the policy to cap legal fees was instituted by respondent over two years after petitioner's counsel had begun representing him.

certain Merit System Board regulations concerning representation fees in disciplinary hearings, and a certification by a fellow attorney, petitioner argued that $300/hour is a reasonable fee for his attorney, who is experienced and a name partner in a firm.

The ALJ correctly determined, however, that the reasonability of the fee must be evaluated within the four corners of the case at hand. While petitioner's counsel may enjoy the stature to charge $300/hour in today's market, there is no evidence that petitioner entered into a fee agreement binding him to pay that rate, or that petitioner made any payments to his counsel at that rate. To the contrary, the record contains the above-referenced March 26, 2007 letter from petitioner's counsel informing respondent's counsel that he would be representing petitioner at the rate of $150/hour.[2] While the letter itself did not constitute an express contract, the law provides alternative theories of contract.

Contracts are traditionally classified as express, implied-in-fact or implied-in-law. As explained in Wanaque Borough Sewerage Auth. v. Twp. of W. Milford, 144 N.J. 564, 574 (1996):

> The contract is express if the agreement is manifested by written or spoken words, and implied-in-fact if the agreement is manifested by other conduct. Thus, contracts implied in fact are no different than express contracts, although they exhibit a different way or form of expressing assent than through statements or writings. Courts often find and enforce implied promises by interpretation of a promisor's word and conduct in light of the surrounding circumstances. See Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 4 comment a (1979); id. at § 5 comment a ("The terms of a promise or agreement are those expressed in the language of the parties or implied in fact from other conduct.").

[2] Apparently, the first appearance of a $200/hour rate was in a bill from petitioner's counsel issued on January 14, 2010 – three years after the letter establishing $150/hour as the representation rate. In consequence of respondent's resistance to paying $200/hour, the instant petition was filed – on March 31, 2010 – demanding indemnification of counsel fees at the rate of $300/hour.

The Commissioner finds that the March 26, 2007 letter from petitioner's counsel's to respondent's counsel – reliance upon which should have been reasonably forseen by petitioner's counsel – and the lack of objection thereto by respondent during the following two years of counsel's representation of petitioner, constitute facts supporting a contract implied-in-fact concerning the fee of $150/hour. Consequently, the Commissioner concludes that both parties should be bound by that rate.

In sum, upon review of the record and Initial Decision, and after consideration of the arguments in the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner grants summary disposition with the following modification to the relief requested in petitioner's summary disposition motion: the Commissioner adopts the conclusion of the ALJ that the proper fee for petitioner's counsel's work time is $150/hour. In light of the facts in the record which show that the billing rate for the associate in petitioner's counsel's firm is $25 less per hour than lead counsel's rate, the Commissioner finds that the appropriate proportional fee for the associate's work time is $125/hour.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Joseph Galego, petitioner, an employee of the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (the Board/respondent), seeks indemnification in the amount of $13,402.50 for counsel fees incurred in defending a civil action brought against him. Petitioner requests indemnification for the work of attorney Sanford R. Oxfeld (Oxfeld) at a rate of $300.00 per hour and work performed by Oxfeld's associate at a rate of $250.00 per hour. The Board contends the counsel fees are unreasonable because they exceed its policy on employee indemnification, which precludes reimbursement of attorney's fees in excess of $125.00 per hour. Petitioner contends there are no facts in dispute and has filed a motion for summary decision.

The issue presented is whether Oxfeld is entitled to attorney's fees at the requested hourly rates pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed his appeal before the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on March 31, 2010. The Board filed an answer on April 20, 2010, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. The hearing was scheduled for October 28 and October 29, 2010. Petitioner filed his motion for summary decision on July 30, 2010. The Board filed a response on August 23, 2010, and petitioner filed a reply on August 31, 2010. Oral argument was held on the motion on September 24, 2010. The record closed on October 28, 2010, following the submission of the transcript of the oral argument proceedings; the receipt of a letter produced at oral argument that was inadvertently left out of the case file and the party's submissions concerning that letter.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After reviewing the papers submitted by both parties, I FIND the following FACTS are undisputed:

1. Petitioner, Joseph Galego, is a head security guard in the employ of the respondent.

2. Petitioner was named as a defendant individually in a lawsuit filed in the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey by Edward Brennan (Brennan), a former Board employee. In addition to petitioner the lawsuit named the Board; the individual Board members; and approximately 50 other named and up to 100 unidentified defendants (Docket No. 07-CV-329 (DMC)).

3. Brennan alleged that the Board wrongfully terminated him as a result of improper actions taken by petitioner.

4. Petitioner was named in the lawsuit in his capacity of Brennan's supervisor.

5. By letter dated March 26, 2007, Oxfeld notified Karen Murray, Esq. (Murray), Respondent's Labor Counsel that he was representing petitioner in connection with the lawsuit brought by Mr. Brennan. He stated that because the cause of action was civil in nature, petitioner had the right, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6, to expect the Board to "defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses." Further, Oxfeld advised Ms. Murray that his hourly rate for the matter was $150.00 and he asked her to advise him whether he should send billing on a monthly basis or upon completion of the case.

6. Petitioner was represented individually by Oxfeld throughout the pendency of the Brennan lawsuit.

7. In 2009, the parties entered into a settlement agreement, whereby Brennan agreed to dismiss the complaint, with prejudice, as to all defendants.

8. On January 13, 2010, the Hon. Dennis M. Cavanaugh, U.S.D.J., entered an Order of Dismissal, followed by a Settlement Order entered by Judge Cavanaugh on April 13, 2010.

9. Oxfeld worked a total of 40.3 hours on the case and his associate worked a total of 5 hours.

10. On January 14, 2010, Oxfeld submitted an invoice to the Board, which indicated that the total amount of his legal services pertaining to his representation of petitioner in the Brennan matter was $8,935.00. This amount was based on Oxfeld's rate of $200.00 per hour and work performed by his associate at a rate of $175.00.

11. In response to Oxfeld's letter, on February 12, 2010, the Board sent Oxfeld a copy of its policy regarding Employee Indemnification, which outlined the Board's policy with respect to reimbursement of attorney's fees, stating that such fees shall not exceed $125.00 per hour.

12. By letter dated February 16, 2010, Oxfeld replied that the $125.00 hourly rate was unacceptable and advised that if he was not reimbursed for the total amount of attorney's fees sought, he would file a petition on behalf of his client.

13. Subsequently, on March 31, 2010, Oxfeld filed the instant petition on petitioner's behalf seeking indemnification of petitioner's attorney's fees in the Brennan matter in the amount of $13,402.50. This amount was based on Oxfeld's rate of $300.00 per hour and work performed by his associate at a rate of $250.00.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The rules governing motions for Summary Decision in an OAL matter are embodied in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of R. 4:46-2 of the New Jersey Court Rules. See also Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the motion for summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The opposing party must submit responding affidavits showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of material fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, and that the moving party is not entitled to summary decision as a matter of law. Failure to do so, entitles the moving party to summary judgment. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. 520. Moreover, even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, the courts must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998). The New Jersey Supreme Court's standard for summary judgment is thus designed to "liberalize the standards so as to permit summary judgment in a larger number of cases" due to the perception that we live in "a time of great increase in litigation and one in which many meritless cases are filed." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 539.

Based on the briefs, certifications and exhibits presented by the parties, and having considered the oral argument of the parties, I FIND that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the matter can be decided on summary decision.

This dispute concerns petitioner's indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 for legal expenses incurred in defending the civil action brought against him. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 provides in relevant part:

> Whenever any civil or administrative action or other legal proceeding has been or shall be brought against any person holding any office, position or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, including any student teacher or person assigned to other professional pre-teaching field experience, for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of the duties of such office, position, employment or student teaching or other assignment to professional field experience, the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom; ...

Oxfeld avers that petitioner is entitled to indemnification for reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $13,340.00 at an hourly rate of $300.00 for his services and at a rate of $250.00 for the work performed by his associate. He argues the hourly rate of $300.00 is reasonable considering his experience and expertise. In support of his claim, he references the Court's discussion in Rendine v. Pantzer, 142 N.J. 292, (1995) regarding the establishment of the Lodestar amount in awarding reasonable attorney's fees; as well as, the rules of the Merit System Board (MSB) that provide for the payment of reasonable counsel fees incurred where an employee has prevailed in major disciplinary proceedings. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. In particular, he references the MSB rule that establishes ranges of reasonable counsel fees based upon whether the attorney is a partner or associate and the attorney's years of experience and expertise. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(c). In addition, he relies upon the certification of attorney Sheldon Pincus, which opines the requested $300.00 hourly rate is not only reasonable but less than what he believes is the appropriate rate of pay ($350.00 per hour) for an employment law attorney with Oxfeld's experience and skill.

Respondent does not contest petitioner's entitlement to indemnification; nor does respondent contest the number of hours itemized in Oxfeld's invoice. Respondent contends the hourly rate that petitioner seeks is unreasonable because it violates the Board's policy enacted in March 2008 that restricts reimbursement of attorney's fees in excess of $125.00 per hour. To support its claim that the Board's policy to reimburse attorneys at the hourly rate of $125.00 is reasonable, respondent relies upon an agreement between the Jersey City School District and the Jersey City Education Association that set an hourly rate for the reimbursement of attorney's fees at $150.00. Respondent further argues that Mr. Oxfeld's claim that the Board's policy is unreasonable and unacceptable is disingenuous when he initially stated in his March 2007 letter that his hourly rate was $150.00, only $25.00 above the hourly rate in the Board's policy.

Having reviewed the parties' briefs, certifications and exhibits, and having considered the parties' oral argument; I reject both party's suppositions.

Although, I agree that an attorney with the experience and expertise of petitioner's attorney could reasonably command an hourly rate of $300.00 or more; to determine whether petitioner is entitled to indemnification at that hourly rate, it is critical that the gravamen of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 be recognized. From the language of N.J.S.A.18A:16-6, it is clear that the statute is designed to protect school employees from any financial loss that could be incurred in defending civil actions arising out of their employment. Thus, in determining the indemnification of attorney's fees, the threshold determination must be what did the employee actually pay or agree to pay for the attorney's legal services. Petitioner never paid Oxfeld for his legal services. Rather, Oxfeld presented an invoice for his services directly to the Board. Moreover, Mr. Oxfeld presented not one but two different invoices to the Board seeking indemnification at two different hourly rates.[1] The hourly rates reflected in the invoices conflicts with Oxfeld's letter dated March 26, 2007,[2] wherein he notified respondent's Labor Counsel that he was representing petitioner in connection with the lawsuit brought by Mr. Brennan and advised her that his hourly rate for the matter was $150.00. Oxfeld argued his letter is of no consequence to this matter because Ms. Murray never accepted his offer; however, I am unable to ascertain any language in the letter that would lead one to conclude it manifested an offer. Instead, I FIND Oxfeld clearly and undeniably stated in his letter that he was representing petitioner in the Brennan matter at the hourly rate of $150.00 and I further FIND that petitioner never paid nor was he expected to pay more than $150.00 per hour for Oxfeld's legal services.

Contra to petitioner, the respondent argues any hourly rate that exceeds its policy on Employee Indemnification at the hourly rate of $125.00 is unreasonable. I reject this contention for the same reason I rejected petitioner's claim that he was entitled to indemnification at the hourly rate of $300.00, that is, because both suppositions ignore the clear mandate of the statute – to defray all costs incurred by school employees in defending civil actions arising out of their employment. I therefore FIND the Board's policy restricting attorney's fees to hourly rates not exceeding $125.00 clearly violates the Board's responsibility under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and I FIND it has no application to the matter at hand.

[1] I am mindful that the Commissioner's decision in Meisenbacher v. Board of Education of the City of Newark, 1 N.J.A.R. 162 (1980) denies standing to an attorney seeking payment for his services under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6. However, in this matter the petition for indemnification was filed on behalf of the petitioner.

[2] Mr. Oxfeld objected to my consideration of this letter because he was not made aware that this document would be introduced into the record ten days prior to the scheduled motion date, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4(e). However, Mr. Oxfeld's reliance on this rule is misplaced, as N.J.A.C. 1-10.4(e) only requires the parties to "complete all discovery no later than 10 days before the first scheduled evidentiary hearing or by such date ordered by the judge." N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4(e).

Accordingly, I deny petitioner's contention that he be indemnified for attorney's fees at the hourly rate of $300.00. I also deny respondent's contention that petitioner be indemnified for attorney's fees at the hourly rate of $125.00. Instead, I CONCLUDE petitioner is entitled to indemnification in this matter at the hourly rate of $150.00 – the hourly rate stated in Oxfeld's letter of March 26, 2007.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner be indemnified for attorney's fees in the sum of $6,795.00, which represents 45.30 hours of legal services at the hourly rate of $150.00 and the appeal is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter, the proposed "Settlement Agreement" (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. The Agreement is approved with the following proviso.

Section 1 contemplates payment to petitioner of $9,200 within thirty days of the Trenton Board of Education's resolution approving the Agreement – which resolution occurred on October 12, 2010. Additionally, Section 2 of the Agreement calls for dismissal of the petition upon full execution of the Agreement – which execution also occurred on October 2, 2010. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation is not binding until the Commissioner approves it.

The foregoing notwithstanding, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this case, providing that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms, or have agreed upon a mutually satisfactory alternate date for the effectuation of same. Assuming the foregoing, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

City of Trenton Board of Education,	:	AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 197-7/08
Respondent.	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement (hereinafter, Agreement) is made and entered into between the BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON (hereinafter, "Board") with administrative offices at 108 N. Clinton Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey and DEBORAH BURKE (hereinafter, Petitioner) residing at 5 Monmouth Place, Trenton, New Jersey.

WHEREAS, Petitioner was a tenured secretarial employee of the Board of Education for many years who retired from employment with the Board effective November 1, 2006; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner was unable to perform the duties of her position between March 1, 2006 and November 1, 2006, the effective date of her retirement, because of a work related injury; and

WHEREAS, in a separate and distinct legal matter between the parties resolved by the Division of Workers' Compensation, it was determined that the absences between March 1, 2006 and November 1, 2006 (totaling 139 days) were absences that fell under the coverage of N.J.S.A. 18A: 30-2.1 in light of said determination of the Division of Workers' Compensation; and

WHEREAS, the Board agrees to restore 139 days to Petitioner's sick bank as a part of this settlement; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner acknowledges that, pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the parties, in view of her retirement the Petitioner is entitled to receive credit for one-third of this time or 46 days at her per diem rate of $200.00 per day for a gross payment of $9,200.00; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Petitioner have been afforded the opportunity to consider the terms of this Agreement with advice of counsel of their choice;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants herein contained, and for other good and valuable considerations, the parties hereby agree as follows.

1. The Board shall pay to the Petitioner by way of salary reimbursement the gross amount of $9,200.00. These monies shall be subject to all normal payroll deductions. This payment shall be made within thirty (30) days of the Board's approval of the Settlement Agreement.

2. In return for compliance with the Settlement Agreement, the Petitioner hereby agrees to the dismissal, with prejudice, of the Petition of this matter, said Petition to be withdrawn upon the full execution of this Agreement.

3. The Board and the Petitioner further agree and understand that this Agreement is a compromise settlement of all claims asserted in connection with the Petition in this matter. Entering into this agreement does not constitute an admission of wrong-doing, error or omission by the Board. The Board does not admit that it has violated Title 18A, state or federal law or any contractual provisions that might exist by virtue of its entry into this Agreement.

4. This Agreement does not constitute a past practice or policy in the Trenton School District. The terms of this Agreement do not apply to any employee other than the Petitioner and may not form the basis for a claim by other employees, nor act as a bar to claims by other employees against the Board.

5. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Agreement and bind the Board to its terms. The Board shall adopt a resolution approving this settlement which shall be annexed hereto prior to the submission of this Agreement to the Administrative Law Judge.

6. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended or modified except by an instrument executed in writing by all parties.

7. The Agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey,

8. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts but shall be enforceable only if executed by all of the Petitioners named herein and by the Board's authorized representatives.

9. In entering into this Agreement, the parties have each relied upon the legal advice of their respective attorney and have read its terms. Neither party shall be responsible for the counsel fees of the other party's attorney.

Re: Request for Docketing of Judgment

Dear Ms. Perez:

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10,[1] I am requesting that the assessment against Glen and Bathsheba Davis ordered by the Acting Commissioner of Education on February 25, 2010, at the conclusion of the contested case proceeding entitled G.D. and B.D., on behalf of minor children, E.D. and E.D. v. Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Union County, be entered on the judgment docket of the court. This assessment represents a tuition payment to compensate the Rahway Board of Education for E.D. and E.D.'s period of ineligible attendance in the public schools of the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; the amount to be entered is $20,680, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

I make this request at the behest of the Rahway Board of Education, which reports that – subsequent to the issuance of the Acting Commissioner's February 25, 2010 decision – Glen and Bathsheba Davis have failed to make the required payment for the period of their children's ineligible attendance. Glen and Bathsheba Davis have offered no reasons why the judgment against them should not be docketed as sought by the Board, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

[1] Provides, in pertinent part, that if a State administrative agency has ordered payment of a fixed amount of money after having afforded the person so ordered an opportunity for administrative hearing, the agency may request the Clerk to record the final order of assessment on the judgment docket of the court and it will thereafter have the same effect as a judgment of the court.

A copy of the pertinent order is enclosed for your reference. If you require anything more to effectuate the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10 in this matter, please contact the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes at (609) 292-5706.

Sincerely,

Rochelle R. Hendricks

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF RAHWAY, UNION COUNTY,	:	ORDER
RESPONDENT.	:

On February 25, 2010, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner dismissed petitioners' residency appeal as a consequence of their failure to appear at the hearing scheduled for this matter without providing any explanation for their non-appearance – notwithstanding that notice of the February 2, 2010 hearing date was mailed to them at the address designated in their petition of appeal, and was not returned as undelivered. Because petitioners, therefore, failed to sustain their burden of establishing that their children, E.D. and E.D., were entitled to a free public education in the Rahway schools during the 2009-2010 school year, the Commissioner granted the Board's counterclaim for tuition. The Commissioner ordered petitioners to remit to the Board tuition in the amount of $10,340 for the period of the children's ineligible attendance in the Board's schools – that period encompassing the commencement of the 2009-2010 school year through February 2, 2010 – and $57.44 per day per child for each subsequent school day after February 2, 2010 that they remained in the Board's schools.

By letter dated August 23, 2010, the Board notified the Commissioner that the respondents had failed to comply with the decision, and that – in accordance with the decision – petitioners now owe the Board a total tuition amount of $20,680 for their children's ineligible attendance in its schools during the 2009-2010 school year. It requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Respondents offered no reasons why the judgment against them should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Glen and Bathsheba Davis are now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $20,680, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF BRIAN PRICKETT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
BRIDGETON, CUMBERLAND COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board certified tenure charges against respondent – a teacher at Bridgeton High School – for conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, incompetence, insubordination and other just cause for dismissal. The charges stem, inter alia, from allegations of severe attendance problems, refusal to sign evaluations, poor classroom management, and storing pictures of a sexual nature on his district assigned computer. Respondent twice failed to appear at scheduled hearings at the OAL in this matter, resulting in a default judgment against him. The Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for an explanation of the circumstances surrounding respondent's failure to appear.

On remand, the ALJ found that: the Board filed written tenure charges against respondent in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and submitted into evidence 43 documents in support of those charges; respondent was afforded every opportunity for a hearing to contest the tenure charges; and respondent failed to appear for hearings on June 22, 2010 and July 12, 2010, without explanation or excuse. The ALJ determined that given respondent's failure to contest the charges – and given the overwhelming documentation submitted by the Board in support of those charges – the tenure charges must be sustained. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position.

Upon independent review of the record and the Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision as the final decision in this matter. Respondent was dismissed from his tenured employment, and a copy of this decision was forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate(s) as that body deems appropriate.

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Bridgeton Board of Education, filed tenure charges against respondent, Brian Prickett, for conduct unbecoming a staff member, incompetence, insubordination, and other just cause.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 20, 2010, tenure charges were certified against respondent. Those charges were filed with the Department of Education on March 5, 2010. Respondent contested the charges, and the matter was received by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 24, 2010 and docketed at OAL Docket No. EDU 811-10. A hearing was scheduled for June 22, 2010, at which time respondent failed to appear. The matter was relisted for July 12, 2010, and again respondent failed to appear. At that time, his answer was stricken and judgment was entered in favor of the Board of Education. Thereafter, on August 24, 2010, the Commissioner of Education issued a Decision remanding the matter to the OAL for an explanation of the circumstances surrounding respondent's failure to appear, where it was received and docketed at OAL Docket No. EDU 9349-10.

On October 20, 2010, the record was opened for a detailed explanation of the circumstances surrounding the default. The record closed on October 20, 2010.

FACTS

On January 20, 2010, tenure charges were certified against respondent, Brian Prickett, by the Bridgeton Board of Education. Those charges were introduced into evidence as P-1. Supporting documentation was likewise introduced into evidence (P-1 - 43).

Respondent was represented by Ned P. Rogovoy, Esquire, throughout the proceedings. Mr. Rogovoy provided a narrative delineating the circumstances leading to the default, together with supporting documentation.

On April 27, 2010, Rogovoy forwarded to respondent a letter advising him that three trial dates had been set for his case: June 15, June 22, and July 12, 2010 (R-1). Subsequently, the Board of Education's attorney became ill, and the June 15, 2010, hearing date was adjourned. Rogovoy so advised respondent by e-mail dated June 11, 2010 (R-2).

On June 21, 2010, Rogovoy's office forwarded to respondent an e-mail reminding him that the hearing would commence on June 22, 2010 (R-3). On the same date, Rogovoy's office sent a second e-mail advising of the June 22, hearing date, and setting forth its efforts to contact respondent by cell phone (R-4).

On June 22, 2010, attorneys for both sides appeared at the Office of Administrative Law, 1601 Atlantic Avenue, Suite 601, Atlantic City, New Jersey, for the commencement of the hearing. Also present was Thomas Myers, New Jersey Education Association UniServ Representative, and six witnesses for the Board of Education. Respondent did not appear. Mr. Rogovoy was unable to account for his client's failure to appear, but requested that the matter be adjourned so that he could contact the respondent. Because of the serious nature of the charges, the postponement request was granted and it was ordered that the hearing would commence on the already scheduled July 12, 2010, date.

Upon returning to his office on June 22, Mr. Rogovoy forwarded a letter of that date to respondent (R-5). That letter sets forth the events of June 22, and advised respondent that the hearing would commence on July 12, 2010. Mr. Rogovoy delineated the failure of respondent to assist in the preparation of his defense. Finally, the letter advised respondent that if he failed to appear on July 12, he would forfeit his tenure.

On July 2, 2010, Rogovoy's office engaged in an exchange of e-mails with respondent in which Rogovoy requested respondent to make an appointment to meet with him or, alternatively, to have any new attorney file a substitution with the court. Appellant responded, requesting a copy of all documentation, witness list, and dates of court appearances (R-6). On July 2, Rogovoy follow up those e-mails with a letter to respondent in which he confirmed his intention to Federal Express all documents to respondent (R-7).

Again on July 2, 2010, respondent e-mailed Rogovoy's office, forwarding a draft of his defense statement, together with the names of his witnesses (R-8). On the same date, Rogovoy responded with another letter (R-9). This second letter of July 2 included a copy of a receipt executed by respondent's mother, evidencing her receipt of Rogovoy's letter June 22. R-9 also confirmed that Rogovoy had scheduled an appointment to meet with respondent on July 8, 2010, at 1:00 p.m. to discuss the tenure hearing. Finally, that letter states that respondent was considering new legal representation.

Again on July 2, Rogovoy sent another e-mail to respondent, asking him to have his new attorney call Rogovoy so that a substitution of attorney could be arranged (R-10). Rogovoy's office sent yet another e-mail to respondent on July 2, confirming the July 8 appointment.

On July 8, 2010, respondent e-mailed Rogovoy's office advising he was unable to keep the appointment because he was sick (R-12). Respondent attempted to reschedule for July 9. Rogovoy's office responded by e-mail on July 8, rescheduling respondent's appointment for July 9, at 9:30 a.m. (R-13).

On July 9, 2010, at 10:06 a.m., Rogovoy's office e-mailed respondent, noting that respondent had again failed to keep an appointment with Rogovoy (R-14). The e-mail confirmed that both Rogovoy and Tom Myers, the NJEA UniServ representative, were present on July 9, at 9:30 a.m., in Rogovoy's office awaiting respondent's arrival.

Respondent responded to the e-mail at 3:21 p.m. by forwarding extensive documentation to Rogovoy. He offered no explanation for his failure to keep the appointment (R-15).

At 4:18 p.m. on July 9, Rogovoy responded, advising respondent to bring his documents to the hearing (R-16).

The attorneys for both parties appeared for the hearing at the Office of Administrative Law on July 12, 2010, at 9:30 a.m. Also present were Tom Myers, the NJEA UniServ representative, and the Board's witnesses. Once again, respondent failed to appear. At 9:41 a.m., Rogovoy's office e-mailed respondent asking for his location and advising that Rogovoy and Myers were in court awaiting him (R-17). When respondent failed to either appear at court or answer the e-mail by 10:00 a.m., default was entered against him.

At 10:40 a.m. on July 12, 2010, Rogovoy's office e-mailed respondent, advising what had transpired in court (R-18). The e-mail went on to instruct respondent that the default would become final on July 13, 2010, at 10:00 a.m. unless respondent called the court and advised why he had failed to appear.

On July 26, 2010, respondent e-mailed Rogovoy, Myers, and two other NJEA representatives, advising that he had been ill and seeking direction regarding reopening his case (R-19). The e-mail goes on to complain that respondent's health has declined, his house has been condemned, and he requires medical coverage.

Rogovoy responded on July 26 by e-mail, advising that Director Duncan from the Commissioner of Education's office had called to set up a telephone conference for 11:00 a.m. on July 21, 2010, regarding his matter (R-20). On July 27, 2010, Rogovoy's office e-mailed respondent and advised that Director Duncan "wanted to be assured that you defaulted by not attending or otherwise getting an excuse not to attend" (R-21).

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, the Board of Education filed written tenure charges against the respondent. The Board submitted into evidence forty-three documents in support of those charges (P-1 – 43). Respondent was afforded every opportunity for a hearing to contest those charges. He failed to appear for hearing on June 22, 2010, without explanation or excuse. Notwithstanding respondent's failure to offer any reason for his failure to appear, he was afforded a second opportunity to have a hearing on July 12, 2010. Again, he failed to appear without explanation or excuse.

Given respondent's failure to contest the charges, despite multiple opportunities to do so, and given the overwhelming documentation submitted by the Board, the tenure charges must be SUSTAINED.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that Brian Prickett be DISMISSED from his tenured position of employment with the School District of the City of Bridgeton.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT, OCEAN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners filed a Pro Se residency appeal, challenging the respondent Board's determination that their son, J.T.G. is not entitled to a free public education in the Point Pleasant schools because the family no longer resides in the district. Petitioners contend that their move out of Point Pleasant following the sale of their house on March 19, 2010 is temporary and was based on personal and financial setbacks beyond their control; that they plan to re-establish residency in Point Pleasant at some undetermined point in the future; and that they are homeless and living temporarily with D.G.'s parents in Brick Township. Respondent Board filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days J.T.G. attended school subsequent to March 19, 2010.

The ALJ found that: it is undisputed that petitioners are no longer domiciled in Point Pleasant, and have endured significant personal and financial hardship; the issue in this case is whether J.T.G. is homeless for purposes of educational jurisdiction; petitioners bear the burden of proof to show that they are residing with relatives out of necessity; no evidence exists to show that petitioners' temporary living situation was an option undertaken in a crisis of immediacy, or that other options were thoroughly explored; and petitioners have failed to prove that J.T.G. is homeless. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that J.T.G. was not entitled to a free public education in Point Pleasant once his family moved out of the district, and that the Board is entitled to reimbursement of tuition for the 62 days that J.T.G. attended school after March 19, 2010, at the daily tuition rate of $59.56.

Upon a full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings that petitioners are not homeless and that – once the family moved from the district – J.T.G. was not entitled to a free public education in Point Pleasant schools, and ordered the petitioners to remit tuition in the amount of $3692.72 to the respondent Board. The petition was dismissed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 95-5/10

J.G. and D.G. on behalf of minor child, J.T.G.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF POINT PLEASANT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

This case was initially filed as a residency dispute, wherein petitioners alleged:

> We sold our house [in Point Pleasant] on March 19, 2010 and moved in with [D.G.'s] parents [in Brick] temporarily due to illness and financial hardship. We are actively looking to relocate back into Point Pleasant Boro and the Nellie Bennett school district. (Petition dated May 14, 2010, at 1)

However, after the matter was transmitted to the OAL, an examination of the facts revealed that it was unlikely that petitioner's circumstances would allow an expeditious return to residency in Point Pleasant, and that the family could not be regarded as domiciled there.

More specifically, after selling their house in Point Pleasant and moving in with D.G.'s parents in Brick, J.G. found a job in northern New Jersey. Petitioners wrote a letter dated April 8, 2010 to Vincent Smith, Superintendent of the Point Pleasant Schools (R-2), stating:

> In all honesty as much as we want to stay in Point Pleasant as we have been for 6 years. [sic] We will not be able to . . . . Realistically my kids need to see their dad so moving closer to his > work [at Picatinny Arsenal in Sparta, NJ] is what is best for all of us.

In addition, when asked – at an April 26, 2010 hearing before the respondent Board of Education – whether the family would consider moving back to Point Pleasant for the remainder of the 2009-2010 school year, petitioner D.G. explained that they would continue to stay at her parents' home because she was still monitoring her own health issues. (T at 17[1]) Further, at the August 10, 2010 OAL hearing, petitioners were still living in Brick and J.G. testified that he had not considered looking for a rental in Point Pleasant. (Initial Decision at 6)

Thus, while petitioners might hope to return to Point Pleasant some day, various circumstances beyond their control, together with decisions that they have made about their living arrangements have combined to undermine the realization of that hope in the near term. Nor can petitioners' domicile be assigned to Point Pleasant based upon such a hope.

Perhaps in light of the foregoing, petitioners argued in the OAL that the sale of their house and their move into the home of D.G.'s parents rendered the family homeless. Thus, they reasoned that the respondent school district – as J.T.G.'s last school district before the sale of their house – should be responsible for J.T.G.'s education and should allow J.T.G. to continue to attend the Nellie Bennett School.

Normally, the initial determination in a dispute about homelessness is made by the County Superintendent of Schools. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8. Here, however, the claim of homelessness was apparently raised subsequent to the transmission of this case to the OAL. For purposes of expediency, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) adjudicated the issue. Upon review of the record and Initial Decision,[2] and for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's findings that 1) petitioners are not homeless and 2) once the family moved from the district, J.T.G. was not entitled to a free public education in Point Pleasant schools.

[2] No transcript of the hearing in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) has been provided and no exceptions have been filed.

The record reveals that petitioners moved from the Point Pleasant school district on March 19, 2010 (Respondent's Exhibit R-2) and that respondent's per diem tuition rate for J.T.G.'s grade was $59.56 in the 2009-2010 school year. (Respondent's Exhibit R-3) The Commissioner consequently finds that petitioners owe respondent $3692.72. Accordingly, the petition is hereby dismissed and petitioners are ordered to remit that amount to respondent.

Record Closed: August 10, 2010 Decided: September 23, 2010

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

J.G., and D.G., the parents of J.T.G. (petitioner), challenge the determination made by the Point Pleasant Boro Board of Education (District) that he did not reside in the Point Pleasant School District. The District has filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days J.T.G. attended school in the district.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In April 2010, the District notified the petitioners that their son was being disenrolled based on non-residency. Petitioners appealed the decision. On June 3, 2010, the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). A hearing date was set for August 10, 2010. The matter was heard and the record closed on that date.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The facts in this matter are undisputed. Since the beginning of the 2009-2010 school year, J.T.G. attended the Nellie F. Bennett School in the Point Pleasant District. During the course of the year, petitioners went through a series of personal and financial setbacks. D.G. became seriously ill and is still recovering from her illness. J.G. received a 25% pay cut in September, 2009 and then ultimately lost his job in December. Although he has since found employment at Picatinny Arsenal (which involves a two hour commute), petitioners found that they were unable to remain in their home for financial reasons and in January, 2010, decided to list their home for sale. Their financial situation had become dire as they had medical bills in collection and had missed their December, 2009, mortgage payment.

Petitioners found a willing buyer and entered into a contract for sale of their home on or about February 1, 2010. A closing date of March 19, 2010 was set. Petitioners had sought to delay the closing through the end of the school year but found that the purchaser was unwilling or unable to do so. When closing came, petitioners had not made arrangements to remain domiciled in Point Pleasant. They moved in with D.G.'s parents in Brick Township, while continuing to send J.T.G. to the Nellie Bennett School, as they found he was doing very well there and did not want to disrupt his educational setting. After discussing with banks the possibilities of getting a mortgage, petitioners were advised that due to their credit situation they may be better off waiting 6-8 months before trying to purchase a home.

On March 22, 2010, James E. Karaba, Principal of the Nellie Bennett School notified petitioners that it had come to his attention that they no longer resided at the address of record, and asked that they provide proof of residency (R-1). Petitioner D.G. replied to the Superintendant of schools. Upon considering petitioners' responses and conducting a hearing at the local board level, (Transcript, J-1) the board determined that petitioners and J.T.G. were not domiciled in Point Pleasant and removed J.T.G. from the rolls of the school (R-5).

At the Board hearing, J.G. advised the Board that a friend of his from North Jersey had mentioned in passing that petitioners and J.T.G. could stay in their summer home in Point Pleasant. J.G. attempted to contact his friend after the hearing but the friend was non-responsive. J.G. admits that petitioners did not explore the possibility of renting a property in Point Pleasant and does not know what it would have cost or if they would have been able to do so.

J.T.G. was enrolled in the District for 62 days after the family moved to Brick Township. The daily rate is $59.56 per day. Therefore, the District is seeking reimbursement in the amount of $3,691.72 (R-1).

Petitioner does not dispute that the family has not been domiciled in Point Pleasant since March 19, 2010. He claims however that the family is homeless and as such entitled to be educated by the district of last residence, Point Pleasant Borough. The district disputes that J.T.G. is homeless and argues that even if he were that the district could pay to have J.T.G. educated in Brick Township. Petitioners argue that the location would be petitioner's choice.

The preceding statements are not in dispute and are hereby FOUND as FACT.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The issue in this matter is whether J.T.G. was entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See V.R. o/b/o A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (Educ. 1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds, sub nom Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. v. Manville Bd., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div. 1998), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S.Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed.2d 518 (1999).

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in light of all circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2.

The district of residence for a homeless child, as determined in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, shall be responsible for the education of the homeless child. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.1. The district of residence for children whose parent temporarily moves from one school district to another as the result of being homeless shall be the district in which the parent last resided prior to becoming homeless. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(c). The term "homeless" refers to an individual who temporarily lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence. Ibid.; N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2. The "school district of origin" means the school district in which the parent last resided prior to becoming homeless. Ibid. A child is homeless when he or she resides in any of the following: (1) a publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations; (2) a public or private place not designated for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation; and (3) the residence of relatives or friends with whom the homeless child is temporarily residing out of necessity because the family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. A homeless child is entitled to a free public education in his district of residence as determined in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(f). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2.

Petitioners contend that they resided within respondent's school district until they became homeless with the result that J.T.G.'s education is still respondent's responsibility. Respondent maintains that petitioners have not proven that J.T.G. meets the definition of a homeless child.

It is not disputed that petitioners have endured significant personal and financial hardship. In fact, there is much evidence to that fact. It is also not disputed that J.T.G. is not domiciled in Point Pleasant. The issue is whether J.T.G. is homeless for purposes of educational jurisdiction.

While petitioners clearly are residing with relatives, they have the burden of proof of showing that they are doing so out of necessity. Homeless connotes a situation of immediacy and is usually a matter of emergent circumstances. In the current matter, petitioners were not evicted from their home, it was not foreclosed upon or destroyed in a disaster. Petitioners listed their house for sale in early January and closed on its sale 2.5 months later. Other than testimony as to advice given by banks to wait before attempting to purchase another property, and an email to see if they could stay at a friend's house, this is little evidence as to petitioners efforts to remain in Point Pleasant Borough, or even in their house (attempts to refinance, to renegotiate the mortgage, etc...). J.G. admits that rental was not considered and that he does not now if he could afford to rent or not.

The decision to move in with D.G.'s parents (where petitioners and J.T.G. remained as of the hearing date) may not have been an appealing or desired option, and may not have been intended to be a permanent or even long term option, but there is no evidence that it was an option undertook in a crisis of immediacy, or that other options were thoroughly explored.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have not met their burden of proof in showing that J.T.G. is "homeless." I further CONCLUDE that J.T.G. was not entitled to a free public education in the District once his family moved from the district and that the Board is entitled to reimbursement of residence tuition in the amount of $3,691.72.

DECISION AND ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioner pay respondent tuition in the total amount of $3,691.72 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that, without proof of current domicile/residency, J.T.G. may be excluded from further attending the Point Pleasant public schools, at the discretion of the District, unless tuition is paid for this continued attendance. The appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner Egg Harbor Township Board of Education appealed the determination of the New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Finance, that Egg Harbor is responsible for the cost of educating the children of the L. family for the 2008-2009 school year, following a determination of homelessness by the Atlantic County Executive Superintendent. The L. family lived in a number of locations between 2003 and 2010, including a period of 24 continuous months when they resided at a motel in Egg Harbor Township. Petitioner contends that a homeless family's housing must be fixed and permanent before a district becomes liable for education costs. Respondent Mainland Regional High School District (Mainland) contends that once a homeless family resides in a district for one year, financial responsibility attaches, regardless of the form of housing. Mainland filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found that: the facts are not in dispute and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the motels in which the L. family lived are not intended as permanent housing and therefore – in order for Egg Harbor to become the district of residence of the L. family, the family had to satisfy the one year criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), which deems a homeless family domiciled in a particular jurisdiction so long as they have an "all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer"; the L. family was permanently domiciled within the Mainland district in 2005-2006, and became homeless again in the 2006-2007 school year; tuition responsibility remained with Mainland during this period, and would remain responsible until the L. household established a new residence or met the 12 month criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d); and starting in September 2008, Egg Harbor became the responsible district for tuition because the family had lived in a motel in the township for 12 months or more. Accordingly, the ALJ granted Mainland's motion for summary decision and denied Egg Harbor's request for relief.

Upon full and careful consideration, the Commissioner adopted the conclusions of the ALJ that Mainland bears tuition responsibility from 2005 to August 2008, that petitioner bears tuition responsibility from September 2008 through October 2010, and that – if the L. family still resides in Mays Landing as of November 2010 – tuition responsibility for B.L., if any, reverts to that district.

This controversy arises from a disagreement between school districts as to the financial responsibility for the education of M.L. and B.L., the minor children of the L. family, which was homeless for a period of time.[1] Although the facts are undisputed, the parties offer conflicting interpretations of the statutes and regulations pertaining to homelessness, domicile and the right to a free public education.[2]

The facts are thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision, but for ease of reference the Commissioner offers the following time line:

1998-2003 The L. family resided in the Karl-Le trailer park in Egg Harbor.

[1] B.L. attended Atlantic County Special School Services (ACSSS) during the time period at issue in this case. No claims for reimbursement of tuition have been made concerning B.L.'s education.

[2] In addition to the record and the Initial Decision, petitioner's exceptions, the replies thereto by respondents Mainland Regional High School District (Mainland) and the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE), respondent Mainland's exceptions, and petitioner's reply thereto have been reviewed.

2003-2005 The L. family was evicted from Karl-Le, stayed with various in-laws and lived in various motels within petitioner's school district. (Petitioner does not ask for tuition reimbursement for this time period.)

2005-October 2006 The L. family resided in the Atlantis Apartments in Somers Point. (M.L. finished eighth grade in Somers Point in June 2006.)

October 2006-December 2006 The L. family stayed with a sister-in-law and then in the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor for about six weeks.

January 2007-August 2007 The L. family lived in the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing and M.L. attended Oakcrest High School in the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School district.

August 2007–October 2009 The L. family resided in the Rex Motel, Egg Harbor and M.L. attended Egg Harbor Township High School.

October 2009 The L. family moved to the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing, but M.L. completed 12th grade in Egg Harbor Township High School in June 2010.

August 2010 As of the August 20, 2010 hearing in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the L. family still resided in the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing.

After assessing the facts and relevant law, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that: 1) petitioner was responsible for the children's education through a period ending in 2005, when the family moved to a permanent residence in the Atlantis Apartments in Somers Point; 2) Somers Point was responsible for the children's education both during the family's residence in Somers Point and during the subsequent school year (2006-2007), in which the family was homeless and lived first in an Egg Harbor motel and then in a Mays Landing motel; 3) because the family moved again in August 2007 – this time to the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor – the ALJ determined that the family was still homeless and Somers Point was still responsible for the children's education for the 2007-2008 school year; 4) at the beginning of the 2008-2009 school year the L. family was domiciled in Egg Harbor by virtue of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), which deems persons temporarily residing in a district to be domiciled there after they have lived there for a year; 5) petitioner was consequently responsible for the children's education during the 2008-2009 school year; 6) because the family moved to a motel in Mays Landing in October 2009, it was once again homeless, and petitioner was consequently still responsible for the children's education in the 2009-2010 school year; and 7) if the family has remained in Mays Landing past October 2010, B.L.'s education will be that district's responsibility. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's analysis.

In its exceptions petitioner contends that the ALJ was wrong to conclude that living in a motel, i.e. the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor, for over a year made the Egg Harbor district responsible for the L. children's tuition. Petitioner reasons that since – under N.J.A.C. 6A: 17-2.3(a) – families dwelling in motels will be considered homeless for purposes of the education of their children, the district in which the motel is situated should not be responsible for the education of the children – even after a year of residence in the same motel. The Commissioner disagrees.

First, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) instructs that any student whose parent or guardian is not domiciled in a district (e.g. because he or she is homeless), but has had his or her all-year-round dwelling place in the district for at least one year, shall be deemed domiciled in the district for the purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which entitles a student to a free public education in the district of domicile. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Thus, although a family may fall under the rubric of 'homeless,' it nonetheless achieves domicile for school law purposes after a year of residence in one district. With that designation of domicile in the district, comes the provision by the district of a public education to the minor children.[3]

[3] As respondent NJDOE argues in its reply to Egg Harbor's exceptions, a finding of 'homeless' pursuant to the definitions in N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 does not preclude the operation of Second, consideration of the time that a 'homeless' family has spent in the same location has resulted in administrative decisions bestowing domicile on such families. See, e.g. Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Township of Deptford, Gloucester County and A.D. and T.D. on behalf of minor children, C.V., H.L., J.D., J.D. and C.D., and Board of Education of the Township of Deptford, Gloucester County v. New Jersey Department of Education, Finance Division, Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia, Camden County and Board of Education of the Township of Moorestown, Burlington County, OAL Dkt. Nos. EDU 994-07 and EDU 8783-07, Initial Decision (March 27, 2009) at 15, http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu00994-07_1.html. In that Initial Decision, ALJ Israel Dubin instructed that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) "sets forth conditions under which a free public education shall be provided to a child, even though that child may not be domiciled in a particular school district." More specifically, he found that "one must look at the length of time a family that is alleged to be homeless has resided in one location." (Ibid.) ALJ Dubin rejected the Deptford Board of Education's position that after four years in the same dwelling the family should still be considered homeless, finding that such a practice would create a category of 'eternally homeless' children.

Finally, the Commissioner notes that petitioner's position would assign ultimate responsibility for tuition based on the physical configuration of the dwelling in which a family resides, irrespective of the duration of residence in the district. Such a position would render N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) meaningless, since domicile attaches immediately if a student's dwelling is found to be fixed, regular and adequate. See, e.g. N.J.S.A. 18A:17B-12(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), which bestows domicile on families after a year in the same dwelling despite the fact that they otherwise qualify as 'homeless.'

Respondent Mainland excepts to the ALJ's finding that the Rex Motel "did not fulfill the criteria for permanent housing." (Initial Decision at 9) This finding was based on the undisputed facts that the motel unit for the family of four consisted of a living room, a bedroom, a bathroom and a space with a sink, refrigerator and microwave. (T28[4]) Rent was not paid pursuant to a lease, but rather on a weekly basis. (T29-30) Basic amenities, such as a stove, storage spaces or dining table were absent. (T28, T48) The family members ate while sitting on the beds and stored their clothes in bags on the floor. (T48-49) The family could receive but not make calls. (T58) Their mail went to the motel's mailbox. (Ibid.) Not surprisingly, Mrs. L. testified that she did not consider the Rex Hotel as a permanent home. (See, e.g. T26-27 and T52)

In support of its position that the Rex Hotel was a true, fixed and adequate residence that established the family's domicile in Egg Harbor – independently from the operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) – Mainland recites four facts supported by the record. First, Mainland points to the length of time that the L. family stayed at the Rex Hotel (August 2007-October 2009), and the family's failure to find another residence in keeping with its $1700 monthly income. Second, Mainland makes much of the fact that the family used the motel address for such things as social security benefits, medical provider records, and Mrs. L's driver's license. Third, Mainland characterizes as significant the fact that the family brought food and toiletries to the motel. Fourth, Mainland appears to contend that Mrs. L's development of friendships with other motel residents was an indicia of permanent residency.

The Commissioner finds the foregoing arguments unpersuasive. The record shows that Mr. and Mrs. L made attempts to obtain more permanent housing, but Mr. L's disability and the family's limited resources limited their options. Mrs. L. testified that they are on waiting lists for low-income housing. (T53) The fact that the family used the motel address for such necessary purposes as the receipt of disability checks and as contact information for medical providers offers no insight regarding domicile. Mrs. L. testified, and the record supports, that the family had no alternate address. (See, e.g. T41; T47; T58-59) The Commissioner also rejects as meritless the notion that the purchase of food and toiletries, per se, or the nurturing of friendships with fellow motel residents transforms a temporary dwelling into a permanent residence. Finally, the cases cited by Mainland to support its position are inapposite. See, L.C. on behalf of minor child B.C. v. Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 1003 (decided September 12, 1996), and Englewood Cliffs Board of Education v. E.S. and W.S. on behalf of minor children A.S. and E.S., and the Teaneck Board of Education, EDU 11601-09, Initial Decision (May 20, 2010), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu11601-091.html, Commissioner Decision No. 196-10, June 30, 2010.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the conclusions of the ALJ that 1) respondent Mainland bears tuition responsibility for the L. children from 2005 to August 2008, 2) petitioner bears tuition responsibility from September 2008 through October 2010, and 3) if the L. family still resides in Mays Landing as of November 2010, tuition responsibility for B.L., if any, reverts to that district. Respondent Mainland's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter involves the allocation of education costs between districts for a homeless family living in various motels. The Egg Harbor Township Board of Education[1] (Egg Harbor Township or EHT) contends that a homeless family's housing must be fixed and permanent before a district becomes liable for education costs. The Mainland Board of Education (Mainland) contends that once a homeless family resides in a district for one year, financial responsibility attaches, regardless of the form of housing. For the reasons discussed below, I CONCLUDE the responsibility for providing and funding education costs attaches to a district once a family that is determined to be "homeless" resides in the district for one year, regardless of the form of housing.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 17, 2009, the Atlantic County Executive Superintendent (ACES) determined that the L. Family was homeless and that Mainland Board was responsible for the cost of educating the children. On May 11, 2009, the Department of Education (DOE) finance division modified the ACES decision and concluded that Mainland is only responsible for the 2007-2008 school year, while the Egg Harbor Township is responsible for the 2008-2009 school year. An appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education.

The petitioner requested a fair hearing and the matter was transmitted to the OAL on September 30, 2009, to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. Mainland filed a motion for summary decision on

[1] The November 12, 2009, prehearing order placed the burden of proof upon Egg Harbor Township by the preponderance of evidence. This appeal was filed in response to a determination of the Department of Education's finance division, a sub-agency of the Commissioner of Education. This is not an appeal of a Commissioner's decision. Hence, the preponderance of evidence standard applies in lieu of the arbitrary and capricious standard because the OAL is hearing the case de novo rather than as an

November 13, 2009. This matter was placed on the inactive list pending a ruling in Magnolia Board of Education v. Deptford Township Board of Education, Docket No. A-004942-08T3 (decided June 28, 2010). It was anticipated that Magnolia might be dispositive of some or all of the issues presented in this case. Ultimately Magnolia was not dispositive of the issues in this case.

On August 20, 2010, limited testimony was presented and oral argument was held. The record remained open to enable the parties to request transcripts and make final submissions. The record closed on October 7, 2010.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The material facts were undisputed. Mainland High School is a regional high school district comprised of Somers Point, Linwood, and Northfield. Egg Harbor Township is an independent district with its own high school.

The L. family testified on August 20, 2010. The L. family consists of two adults and two children, to wit: Mrs. L. (F.L.); Mr. L (J.L.); and two children M.L. and B.L. Mrs. L. has another child who is emancipated. B.L. is diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), together with multiple learning disabilities. B.L. attends the Atlantic County Special School Services (ACSSS). M.L. has also been diagnosed with several learning deficits but attends regular public schools.

Mr. L. had one of his legs amputated and survived a coma in 2003. The household has no earned income. The household income consists entirely of Social Security benefits. The approximate monthly household income is $1,700. Prior to becoming eligible for Social Security benefits, the family received assistance from the county welfare agency.

Mrs. L. primarily grew up in Egg Harbor Township. She married and resided in the Karl-Le trailer park off of the Black Horse Pike in Egg Harbor Township. She and her husband raised their children, M.L. and B.L. at the Karl-Lee Park from 1998 through 2003. During this period, M.L. attended grades K-6 at the Egg Harbor Township schools and B.L. attended the ACSSS. The family was evicted from Karl-Le due to financial difficulties. Mr. L.'s medical problems contributed to the family's financial difficulties.

Between 2003 and 2005, the family resided at various locations, including motels, the homes of their in-laws, and other temporary locations. The children continued to attend, or remain part of the Egg Harbor Township school system, while the family faced these difficulties.

In 2005, the family moved to the Atlantis apartments in Somers Point. They resided there for approximately one year. Their monthly rent was approximately $700 - $800 per month, which was affordable based upon the household's income. Mrs. L. considered the Atlantis Apartments to be a permanent residence. The apartment had two bedrooms, a kitchen, living area and all other conveniences associated with a permanent residence. The family would have remained at the Atlantis Apartments If not for the financial difficulties. The family was forced to move in or around October 2006.

M.L. was permitted to complete his eighth grade year in the Somers Point even though the family was evicted from the Atlantis apartments during the school year. B.L. remained at the ACSSS.

In October 2006, the family moved in with a sister-in-law. This lasted only a few days. In or around November 2006, the family moved to the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor Township for approximately a month and half.

In January 2007, the family moved into the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing. The family remained at the Plaza Motel until August 2007. M.L. attended Oakcrest High School from his freshman high school year. B.L. continued to attend the ACSSS.

In August 2007, the family moved back to the Rex Motel. The family remained at the Rex Motel from August 2007 through October 2009[2], resulting in twenty-four months of continuous living within Egg Harbor Township. Since the family resided in Mays Landing for a portion of the year 2007, M.L. attended Oakcrest High School for his entire freshman year (2006-2007). However, he attended the Egg Harbor Township High School for his sophomore (2007-2008), junior (2008-2009) and senior years (2009-2010).

A summary of the schools attended by M.L. is as follows:

Year	School Year	Motel	Town/Residence	School Attended
Freshman	2006-2007	Rex/Plaza	Mays Landing	Oakcrest
Sophomore	2007-2008	Rex	Egg Harbor Twp.	Egg Harbor Twp.
Junior	2008-2009	Rex	Egg Harbor Twp.	Egg Harbor Twp.
Senior	2009-2010	Plaza	Mays Landing	Egg Harbor Twp.

Mrs. L. described the living arrangements while at the Rex Motel. Rent was $300 per week which was paid monthly at $1,200. The accommodations consisted of one large living room, a small partial kitchen and a bathroom. There was no dining table. The kitchen consisted of a sink and microwave. The family cooked microwave food or bought food outside the motel. They ate meal on trays while sitting on the beds. There were no closets or other storage areas. Clothes were stored in bags on the floor. Mrs. L. described it as a temporary living arrangement. Transportation was difficult. There was public transportation and there were convenience stores within walking distance.

Mrs. L.'s ultimate desire was to find a permanent residence in Egg Harbor Township. She was raised in Egg Harbor Township and wanted to continue to live there. Mrs. L. was familiar and comfortable with the school system. Mrs. L. did not consider the Rex Motel to be a permanent place where she desired to raise her children.

[2] Stipulated by the parties.

In October 2009, the household moved back to the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing. Egg Harbor Township officials put pressure on the Rex motel owner because he had year round tenants living in a motel. This violated local ordinances prohibiting permanent residency at motels. (Egg Harbor Township Ordinance 155-2 and 155-3) The L. family was forced to leave the Rex Motel. But the motel owner also owned the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing, where the family then moved.

M.L. was a senior at Egg Harbor Township high school in October 2009. He petitioned the Egg Harbor Township Board of Education for permission to remain matriculated for the remainder of the 2009-2010 school year because he was a senior (MR-5). Egg Harbor Township high school granted his request.

The household has continued to reside at the Plaza Motel since October 2009. They continue to seek permanent affordable housing. The accommodations at the Plaza Motel are almost identical to those that were at the Rex Motel. Consequently, they do not consider the Plaza Motels as a permanent residence.

APPICABLE LAW

A homeless child is one who lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12; N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. If the child is determined to homeless, the district where the parent or guardian last resided shall be the district of residence. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(c).

N.J.S.A. 6A:17-2.3(a) sets forth several factors to be used in determining homelessness. One such factor is where a family is living in a motel. N.J.S.A. 6A:17-2.3(a)1i. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) sets forth the criteria for determining eligibility for a free public education when a child is homeless. The statute states, in part:

> d. Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall > be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section;

> [Emphasis added]

The legislature carved out clear and unambiguous exception for funding the educational cost for homeless families. A homeless family does not have to establish domicile[3].

DISCUSSION

There is no state of perpetual homelessness for purposes of providing the children of indigent families with a free public school education. Any person who is domiciled with a district is entitled to a free public school education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Domicile and residency determinations are very fact sensitive. It is determined by the intent of the person(s) in question. (see footnote no. 2).

Determining the residency, domicile or the intentions of the family when they are facing homelessness poses a more difficult and complex analysis. The intention of homeless families is not driven by reasonable or viable choices. Their decisions are made under hardship circumstances so their actual intentions, as opposed to their viable choices, must be reconciled. Many homeless families move from place to place in short succession. Consequently, allocating tuition cost cannot be determined merely upon distilling the intent of the family as to residency or domicile. Such a determination would be arbitrary and unworkable.

Recognizing this dilemma, the legislature promulgated N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). The legislature clearly waived the traditional elements of domicile for homeless families and replaced it with a "one year rule." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) deems a homeless family

[3] Domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Patterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971).

domiciled in a particular jurisdiction so long as they have "all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer." Id. This way the cost of education is fairly allocated based upon the number on months a particular homeless family resides in a district. Once the family meets the one year threshold, financial responsibility attaches to that district. The statute provides a logical and straight forward mechanism for allocating cost.

A statute must speak for itself and be construed according to its own terms, and a court may not concern itself with motive for enactment unless the language of the statute is ambiguous. State v. AA LaFountain Inc., 67 N.J. Super. 285 (Cty. Ct. 1961). There is no ambiguity here. There is no need for the L. family to establish actual domicile while they are homeless. A homeless family is deemed domiciled if living in a motel for one year or more. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d); N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(i). The facts established that both motels have all the characteristics of temporary housing. So long as the L. family resided either in one location or multiple locations while remaining homeless within a particular jurisdiction for one year or longer, tuition responsibility attaches to that district. They are deemed fixed and permanent in the district after one year, even though they remain in a homeless state.

CONCLUSIONS

The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e. the non-moving party, to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. I CONCLUDE that the facts are not dispute and that summary decision is appropriate.

I CONCLUDE that the motels described by the L. family were not intended to be permanent housing. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(i). The affidavits and testimony support this conclusion. The motels lacked the features ordinarily associated with permanent housing including, full kitchens, closets and bedrooms. And the L. family stated they had no intentions of making either the Rex or Plaza Motels their permanent residence. Both motels were default or temporary residences due to financial hardship. See N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(i). Thus the L. family met the definition of "homeless" while living in the "motels."

The facts also established that the L. family resided in Egg Harbor Township for the school years 1998 through 2005. They lived at the Karl-Le trailer park and other temporary places within Egg Harbor Township. This included friends and family that were in or around the Township.

In 2005-2006 the household's residential location changed when they moved to the Atlantis Apartments in Somers Point. Here the family became domiciled in Somers Point pursuant to common law and education law. The Atlantis apartments had all the attributes of permanent housing. The L. family considered Somers Point home. The apartment was the family's domicile upon moving into the apartment. Finally, the L. family met the one year requirement necessary to be deemed domiciled, even if considered homeless. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). Somers Point funded the education for B.L. at the ACSSS and provided M.L. with educational services at the local school.

For the 2006-2007 school year, the family lived at the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor Township and at the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing. Thus, for the succeeding school year (2006-2007), they were homeless. Tuition responsibility remained with Somers Point because the family did not; 1) establish actual or legal domicile or residency in another jurisdiction; or 2) did not reside in another district for twelve months. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). Therefore Somers Point became the de facto sending district even though the family moved. And Somers Point would remain responsible until the household established a new residence or met the twelve month criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d).

In August 2007 (school year 2007-2008), the L. family moved into the Rex Motel in Egg Harbor Township. Again, their last permanent residence remained Somers Point until the family meet the twelve month criteria or establish a permanent home. The motels described by the L. family did not fulfill the criteria for permanent housing. Therefore, in order for Egg Harbor Township to become a district of residence the L. family would have to satisfy the one year criteria for homeless families. This occurred in August 2008. I CONCLUDE therefore, that Somers Point remained the district of residence for the L. family from 2005 until August 2008. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(c).

Starting in September 2008, Egg Harbor Township became the responsible district for tuition. This was triggered by the L. family living in motels (i.e. deemed homeless) within the township for twelve months or more. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d).

In October 2009, the L. family moved to the Plaza Motel in Mays Landing. This was temporary housing because it is motel. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(i). And the family testified they are still looking for permanent housing on August 20, 2010. Applying criteria found in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), the household will pass the twelve month threshold in October 2010. Once the L. family resided in Mays Landing for twelve months, tuition became the obligation of that jurisdiction. Or stated differently, Egg Harbor Township was no longer responsible for tuition.

Lastly, Egg Harbor Township relies upon certain local ordinance violations arguing that the L. family was not lawfully residing in this district. I CONCLUDE that local ordinances have no bearing on this matter. This case falls exclusively under state education law. While the local ordinances may have relevance for business operations, they are not applicable when determining domicile, residency, homelessness or education funding matters. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

To summarize, I CONCLUDE that Mainland (Somers Point[4]) bears tuition responsibility from 2005 to August 2008; Egg Harbor Township bears tuition responsibility from September 2008 to October 2010[5].

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, Mainland's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. Tuition shall be allocated as indicated in the summary paragraph set forth above. The relief sought by Egg Harbor Township is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[4] Somers Point is part of the Mainland regional district for purposes of allocating the cost of High School education. In 2006 M.L. attended regular high school programs so his educational cost must be allocated to the regional district for the pertinent years. However, B.L. attended the Atlantic County Special School Services from Somers Point for some portion of the contested period. Somers Point was not part of this proceeding. However, if B.L. was not at the high school age or grade level, the tuition cost for the ACSSS would most likely be the responsibility of Somers Point, not the regional district, while the L. family resided at the Altantis Apartments in Somers Point.

[5] Mays Landing will most likely bear tuition responsibility from November 2010 forward assuming the L. family remains in a motel in that district.
