To cure the Itch. The best medicine yet known for the Itch is sulphur, which ought to be used externally and internally. The parts affected may be rubbed with an Ointment made of flour of sulphur two ounces, crude sal ammoniac, finely powdered, two drams; hogs lard four ounces; half a dram of the essence of lemon. About the bulk of a nutmeg may be rubbed upon the extremities, at bed-time, thrice a week.

JANUARY. The FIRST MONTH.

ON ADVERSITY.

WHEN first thy fire to send on earth
 Virtue, his darling child, design'd:
 To thee, he gave the heavenly birth,
 And bid to form her infant mind.
 Stern, rugged nurse! thy rigid lore
 With patience many a year she bore;
 What sorrow was, thou bad'st her know,
 And from her own, she learn'd to melt at others woe.

The greatest and only true Glory is to make Mankind happy.

WE read in the history of the Chinese, that Ham-ti, one of the wisest and best of their emperors, after having gained three signal victories over the Tartars who had invaded his dominions, returned to the great city of Nankin, in order to enjoy the glory of his conquest. After he had rested some days, the people, who are naturally fond of pageantry and shew, expected the triumphal entry which emperors upon such occasions, were accustomed to make: Their murmurs came to the emperor's ears. He loved his people, and was willing to do all in his power to satisfy their just desires. He therefore assured them, that he intended, upon the next publick festival, to exhibit one of the most glorious triumphs that had ever been seen in China. The people rejoiced at his descension, and on the appointed day assembled at the gates of the palace, with the most eager expectation. Here they waited for some time, without seeing any of those

WHO look on disappointments, shocks and strife,
 And all the consequential ills of life,
 Not as severities the gods impose,
 But easy terms indulgent heav'n allows
 To man, by short probation to obtain,
 Immortal recompense for transient pain.
 The intent of heav'n thus rightly understood,
 From ev'ry evil we extract a good:

MARCH. The THIRD MONTH.

This truth divine, implanted in the heart,
 Supports each drudging mortal thro' his part,
 Gives a delightful prospect to the blind,
 The friendless thence a constant succour find;
 The wretch by fraud betray'd, by power oppress'd,
 With this restorative still soothes his breast,
 This suffering virtue cheers, this pain beguiles,
 And decks calamity herself in smiles.

 Their test of sense, and read but to condemn.

MAY. The FIFTH MONTH.
O N E N V Y.

SHE never smiles but when the wretched weep,
Nor lulls her malice with a moment's sleep:
Restless in spite; while watchful to destroy
She pines, and sickens at another's joy;
Foe to herself, distressing and distress'd,
She bears her own tormentor in her breast.

eternity against time, and chuses rather to be for-ever great in the presence of God when he dies, than to have the greatest share of worldly pleasures whilst he lives.—
 It is of the last importance to searson the passions of a child with devotion; which seldom dies in a mind that has received an early tincture of it, though it may seem extinguished for a while by the cares of the world, the heats of youth, or the allurements of vice, it generally breaks out again and discovers itself, as soon as discretion, consideration, age, or misfortunes have brought the man to himself. The fire may be covered and overlaid, but cannot be entirely quench'd and smother'd.—
 He that keeps not open a constant intercourse with heaven, by frequent fervours of rational devotion, knows not the sublimest joy.

DEATH. Death to a good man is but passing thro' a dark entry, out of one little dusky room of his father's house into another that is fair and large, lightsome and glorious, and divinely entertaining.
 We see every day the unexpected death

ON ETERNITY.

ETERNITY! that thought will yield us joy,
 If we behave ourselves with innocence;
 And sure in that alone a refuge dwells,
 That can enable us in the sharpest sufferings
 To bear adversity with satisfaction,
 In pleasing prospect of a bless'd hereafter.

Dress. One thing among the rest I observe in China, which I could wish were followed among us, which is, very little or no change in their apparel, men and women always go in the same fashion; the women's for some thousands of years never was altered in the least, that of the men had also continued thousands of years the same throughout all the fifteen provinces.

TRADE It is a shameful wickedness common in Trade, to conceal the faults, or artfully heighten the good qualities of what one wants to sell, or to disparage any article one has a mind to buy, in order to have it cheaper. That Trader, who cannot lay his hand on his heart, and say, God, who knows all things, knows I use my neighbour as I would wish to be used, is no other in plain English, than a downright knave.

MERIT. What is true merit in either sex? 'Tis a purity of morals and justness of sentiments, sweetness of manners, knowledge of one's self,
 and the world, a solid and regular piety seasoned with an attention to decency, and a benevolent esteem of others.

AUGUST. The EIGHTH MONTH.

ON MORNING.

ARISE my soul, survey the morn,
 And purple beauties of the dawn,
 In order as they shine;
 The herbs, that with the dew-drops grow,
 The grass, the shrubs, the flowrets show,
 Their Maker all divine!
 Hark how the warbling feather'd throng
 Now tune their soft melodious song.

The Justice of a Persian Sultan.

AS one of the sultans lay encamped on the plains of Avala, a certain great man of the army entered by force into a peasant's house, and finding his wife very handsome, turned the good man out of his dwelling and went to bed to her. The peasant complained the next morning to the sultan, and desired redress, but was not able to point out the criminal. The emperor, who was very much incensed at the injury done to the poor man, told him, that probably the offender might give his wife another visit, and if he did, commanded him immediately to repair to his tent and acquaint him with it. Accordingly within two or three days, the officer entered again the peasant's house, and turned the owner out of doors; who thereupon applied himself to the imperial tent, as he was ordered. The sultan went in person, with his guards, to the poor man's house, where he arrived about midnight. As the attendants carried each of them a flambeau in their hands, the sultan, after having ordered all the lights to be put out, gave the word to enter the house, find out the criminal, and put

SEPTEMBER. The NINTH MONTH.

From every leafy spray;
 The Blackbird here with mellow throat,
 And there the Thrush with softer note,
 In concert pour the lay.
 Do thou, my soul, responsive join,
 Ambitious of a theme divine.
 And sing thy Maker's praise.
 Unnumber'd objects he supplies,
 For contemplation's wond'ring eyes,
 And all the muse's lays.

put him to death. This was immediately executed, and the corpse laid out upon the floor by the emperor's command. He then bid every one light his flambeau, and stand about the dead body. The sultan approaching it looked upon the face, and immediately fell upon his knees in prayer. Upon his rising up he ordered the peasant to set before him whatever food he had in his house. The peasant brought out a great deal of coarse fare, of which the emperor eat very heartily. The peasant, seeing him in good humour, presumed to ask of him, why he had ordered the flambeaux to be put out before he had commanded the adulterer should be slain? Why, upon their being lighted again, he looked upon the face of the dead body, and fell down in prayer? and why, after this, he had ordered meat to be set before him, of which he now eat so heartily? The sultan, being willing to gratify the curiosity of his host, answered him in this manner. Upon hearing the greatness of the offence which had been committed by one of the army, I had reason to think it might have

OCTOBER. The TENTH MONTH.

ON NATURE.

Nature deprav'd, abundance does pursue,
 Her first, and pure demands, are cheap and few,
 What health promotes, and unenvy'd peace,
 Is all expenceless, and procur'd with ease.

Behold the shepherd, see the industrious swain,
 Who ploughs the field, or reaps the ripen'd grain,
 How mean, and yet how tasteful is their fare?
 How sweet their sleep? their souls how free from care?

It were therefore to be wished that there were laws against idleness, to prevent its pernicious effects, and that no person was permitted to live without some honest occupation, either of the mind or body.

UNDERSTANDING. As certain therefore as piety, virtue and eternal happiness are of the most concern to man, as certain as the immortality of our nature and relation to God are the most glorious circumstances of our nature; so certain is it, that he, who dwells most in contemplation of them, whose heart is most affected with them, who sees farthest into them, who best comprehends the value and excellency of them, who judges all worldly attainments to be mere bubbles and shadows in comparison of them, proves himself to have of all others the finest understanding and the strongest judgment.

FOR intermitting Fevers, when the intervals are distinct. If the stomach appears loaded, or the bark has been given without success, to grown persons, I would recommend the following vomit :

Take from twenty to thirty grains of the Indian root ipecacuanha, in any convenient vehicle, and encourage the operation with plentiful draughts of carduus tea, water-gruel, or barley-water, but the former is preferable in general, especially if the cold fit is pretty severe. To children it may be given in proportion down to ten grains. After the vomit, as soon as the stomach will bear it, begin with the following powder: Take twenty grains of camomile flowers, diaphoretic antimony, and salt of wormwood, of each ten grains; let them be finely powdered, well mixed, and swallowed in a draught of any liquor, once in three or four hours between the fits. If this form be disagreeable, you may make the powder into a bolus, with syrup of cloves.
