Report Abuse, Neglect, or Exploitation

The Medicaid Fraud Control Unit \(MFCU\) of the New Jersey Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor responds to issues of fraud, abuse or neglect involving Medicaid recipients. Call their hotline at 1-877-55-FRAUD (1-877-553-7283) or 1-609-292-1272 for elder justice questions and issues, including to report abuse.

The New Jersey Adult Protective Services run programs in every county to investigate issues of abuse of individuals living on their own in the community. Use this service to report abuse.

The New Jersey Long-Term Care Ombudsman provides valuable resources for the elderly living in nursing homes or other care facilities and their loved ones. You can also file a complaint through their office.

Older individuals are also vulnerable to insurance fraud. Report insurance fraud concerns to the Attorney General's Office.

Learn About Domestic Violence and Elder Abuse

Domestic Violence refers to any violence that occurs inside the home. This includes elder abuse from a family member or other resident in a shared home. Visit our Domestic Violence Self-Help center for resources to report and stop domestic elder abuse.

Access the Stop Elder Abuse brochure. It provides information and resources on identifying, reporting and stopping abuse.

Guardianship of Incapacitated Adults and Supported Decision-Making

Some older adults have disabilities that make them unable to make decisions for themselves. They may need a court-appointed guardian to handle their affairs. Others may simply need support from people they trust to help them make their own decisions, instead of a court-appointed guardian making decisions for them.

Visit our resource center for Adult Guardianship. Get information on obtaining a guardianship and reporting suspected abuse. Or you can contact your County Surrogate for more information.

Some individuals in need of guardianship may be eligible for the New Jersey Office of the Public Guardian for the Elderly. Visit the office website for more information on their role and services.

Financial abuse is another form of vulnerability for the elderly. Resources are available to help financial caregivers manage someone else's money. Access guides on overseeing someone else's finances.

The National Center for State Courts \(NCSC\) provides guidance on finding the right fit in elder care. You can also get information on the role of the decision-maker or advocate. The National Center on Law & Elder Rights provides a resource for supporting an elderly person.

The American Bar Association also provides resources for decision-making support. Access their guide for Supported Decision-Making in Later Life. You can follow that up with the How Supported Decision Making Works for Older Adults guide.

The ACLU provides a resource library for supported decision-making.
