JOURNAL OF THE SENATE.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,)
SENATE CHAMBER,)
TRENTON, TUESDAY, January 14th, 1890, 3.00 P. M. }

As this was the time and place appointed by the constitution for the assembling of the Legislature, the Senate was called to order by John Carpenter, Jr., Secretary of the last Senate.

The roll was called by the Secretary, when the following Senators appeared and answered the call :

Messrs. Adrain, Carter, Everitt, Leaming, Mallon, Martin, Miller, Nevius, Newell, Pfeiffer, Roe, Smith, Thompson, Wyckoff
—14.

Mr. Roe moved that the Hon. Robert Adrain be appointed President pro tempore,

Which motion was agreed to, and the Secretary appointed Senators Wyckoff and Thompson to conduct the President pro tempore to the chair.

Mr. Smith presented the credentials of Hon. George T. Cranmer, Senator-elect from the county of Ocean,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Cranmer by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Pfeiffer presented the credentials of Hon. George T. Werts, Senator-elect from the county of Morris,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Werts by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Pfeiffer presented the credentials of Hon. John J. Gardner, Senator-elect from the county of Atlantic,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Gardner by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Nevius presented the credentials of Hon. Edward F. McDonald, Senator-elect from the county of Hudson,

Which were read.

Mr. Roe presented the following protest, which was read, and referred to the Committee on Elections when appointed :

To the Senate of the State of New Jersey :

The petition of William S. Stuhr, of the city of Hoboken, in the county of Hudson and State of New Jersey, respectfully shows unto your Honorable Body—

That your petitioner is a citizen of the United States of America ; was of the age of thirty years prior to the 5th day of November last past, and has been a citizen and inhabitant of the State of New Jersey for more than four years, and of the said county of Hudson for more than one year continuously next before said last-mentioned day, and that he was, on said 5th day of November last past, eligible to be elected to the office of member of the Senate of the State of New Jersey for and from the said county of Hudson.

That by virtue of an act entitled "An act to regulate elections," approved April 18th, 1876, and the supplements thereto, an election was held on said 5th day of November last past, in said county of Hudson, for member of the Senate of the State of New Jersey.

That at said election your petitioner believes that he received the largest number of votes legally cast for any person for said office of member of the Senate, and was duly elected to said office, and should have been declared elected thereto and believes he is now entitled to said office ; that, however, one Edward F. McDonald was, by the Board of Canvassers of the said county of Hudson, declared elected to said office, and has since received a certificate of election to the same.

That your petitioner protests that said certificate of election is false and untrue, and contests the so declared election of said Edward F. McDonald to said office of member of the Senate of the State of New Jersey for said county of Hudson, for the following causes :

1. Malconduct, fraud and corruption at said election on the part of the members of many of the Boards of Election in the various election precincts in said county of Hudson.

2. The receiving of illegal votes and the rejection of legal votes at many of the polls in said county at the said election.

3. The illegal registration of many persons who are not legal voters, in many of the precincts of said county of Hudson, by the various Boards of Registry therein.

4. Errors in and by many of the Boards of Canvassers of several of the election precincts of said county in counting the votes and in declaring the results of the election in the respective precincts, and of the Board of Canvassers of said county in declaring the result of said election as to the said office of member of the Senate ; and which errors your petitioner believes were sufficient to change the result of said election.

5. And your petitioner further shows that at said election large numbers of ballots were cast with the name of Edward F. McDonald thereon for State Senator, which ballots had been previously prepared, stamped and punctured by persons unknown to your petitioner, so as to make them appear as if they had been regularly and properly cast and marked in passing into the various boxes, when, in fact, the same were inserted in said boxes folded up in and with other ballots, so that thereby one person was enabled to and did, at the same voting, cast two or more ballots for said Edward F. McDonald for said office at said election, and your petitioner shows that thereby large numbers of ballots were illegally cast, which were afterward illegally counted for said Edward F. McDonald for said office of member of the Senate of the State of New Jersey at said election.

Your petitioner thereby protests against the said certificate of election issued to said Edward F. McDonald as aforesaid, and to the holding by said Edward F. McDonald of said office of member of the Senate, and prays that all the facts, matters and things relating to said election, held in said county of Hudson for said office of member of the Senate, may be inquired into by your Honorable Body, and that said certificate of election so issued to said Edward F. McDonald be declared and held as null and void, and that your petitioner may be declared to be the duly qualified and elected member of the Senate for said county of Hudson, and put in possession of said office.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM S. STUHR.

The oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. McDonald by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Smith presented the credentials of Hon. Henry D. Winton, Senator-elect from the county of Bergen,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Winton by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Nevius presented the credentials of Hon. Seaman R. Fowler, Senator-elect from the county of Cumberland,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Fowler by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Werts presented the credentials of Hon. John D. Rue, Senator-elect from the county of Mercer,

Which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Rue by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate.

Under the direction of the President pro tempore, the Secretary called the roll, when the following Senators appeared and answered the call:

Upon taking the chair, the President addressed the Senate as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE—To say that I thank you but feebly expresses my gratitude for the distinguished honor you have conferred in selecting me to preside over your deliberations during the coming session. I realize fully that the position is one fraught with many difficulties and great responsibility; that position honors no man, but man must honor the position. I pledge you my best efforts for the faithful discharge of every duty incumbent upon me, and as I recall the dignity, the ability and fairness displayed by the distinguished Senator who presided here one year ago, I am persuaded that in order to reflect some credit upon myself and some credit upon this Honorable Body, I shall need your hearty co-operation and support. This I earnestly ask. It will be my endeavor and my pleasure to treat every member of this Honorable Body with the utmost fairness, and if I err, I assure you that it will be from mistaken judgment and not from intention. I presume the most important questions to be considered at this session will be taxation and ballot reform. I trust these and all other questions will be deliberately, conscientiously and intelligently considered, and that such laws as we may pass and place upon our statute books may be wise and beneficial to the people of this State. I trust that our session may be short, and that our relations here may be most pleasant and harmonious. Again I thank you for the confidence reposed and honor conferred upon me.

Leaving disbursements on account of current expenses, including $90,000 paid on the public debt.....$1,286,962 52

The item of disbursements on account of military, of $123,516.04, includes $29,992.19 expended for cloth, uniforms, &c., of which one-half will be deducted from future allowances to the regiments, and, also, $3,361.35 expended for camp equipage and like articles which continue in use from year to year.

The whole of the balance to the credit of the State Fund, October 31st, 1889, has been required to meet disbursements, appropriations and payments to the Sinking Fund for debt maturing January 1st, 1890. This latter amount was $103,389 instead of the usual payment of $90,000. There has been paid since October 31st the sum of $12,812.11 on account of appropriations to the Soldiers' Home, in payment for work completed there. In consequence of these and other demands, it has been necessary to continue the temporary loans, which amount to $400,000.

The estimated ordinary receipts for the year are:

From railroad taxes.....	$950,000 00
From miscellaneous corporations.....	275,000 00
From State Prison earnings.....	60,000 00
From dividends and other sources.....	50,000 00

$1,335,000 00

Balance on hand October 31st, 1889..... 241,996 48

$1,576,996 48

Besides these estimated receipts there are several contingencies under which the State may reasonably expect to receive considerable sums of money during the year.

There is an unadjusted claim of a considerable amount against the Morris Canal and Banking Company, or the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, its lessee, for taxes of back years, which has been the subject of much consideration, and which, it is hoped, may be soon satisfactorily adjusted by the action of the State Board of Assessors.

No conclusion has yet been reached in the case of the State against the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, lessee, and which, under the act of 1887, was submitted to arbitrators, one to be selected by the company and the other by the State. I am, however, able to report that the testimony has all been taken, and that arguments of counsel on both sides are being submitted upon the controlling points in difference between the company and the State. We may look for a speedy decision of the questions which will settle the rights of the parties and furnish the rule upon which the computation of the amount to be paid is to be made. This latter work, in view of the exhaustive examination of the accounts already made, can take but a short period, and we may look, therefore, for a speedy adjudication of this claim, certainly before the adjournment of the Legislature. The claim of the State amounts to $1,165,099.10 as of December 31st, 1887. This includes all classes of charge objected to by the company. If, however, its objections, other than those which go to any recovery, should all be allowed, there will still be due the State, without interest, $287,341.38.

There is now pending before Congress a bill to refund the tax paid by the State at the outbreak of the war. Such a bill was passed by both houses of the last Congress. In the event of such a bill becoming a law, New Jersey would be entitled to receive $382,613.90.

The Legislature in 1867 made a grant of certain lands under water in Jersey City to the Morris Canal and Banking Company, said grant being by metes and bounds, for which the said company or its successors or assigns were to pay annually the sum of $25,000, having a right under the said act to pay into the treasury of the State, at any time, the sum of $357,142 in lieu of said annual payment, it being the capitalization thereof at seven per cent. The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, as the lessee of the Morris Canal and Banking Company, on the 20th of December, 1889, paid into the treasury the sum of $357,142 referred to in this grant. They also, under the fourth section of the act of March 31st, 1869 (Rev., p. 983), desiring "a paper capable of being acknowledged and recorded, made by and in the name of the State," conveying the land so granted to them by the act of 1867, with the benefits accruing by the fourth section of the act of 1869, paid the further sum of $48,000, being the consideration mentioned in said section. They also, at the same time, paid an accrued rental amounting, up to that date, to $23,767.12. The $357,142 is included in the item of riparian leases, amounting to $978,246.81 in the above enumeration, which item should be reduced by that amount, and it should be added to the item of cash, to which should also be added the sums of $48,000 and $23,767.12, together with the further amount of $2,800 received from a grant made since the end of the fiscal year, making the amount of the securities, leases and cash on hand belonging to the School Fund at the present time $3,790,876.25 at par value. As the market value of many of these securities is largely above par, it is estimated that the fund at present exceeds $4,000,000.

A moment's consideration shows that this fund is assuming dangerous proportions. It has already exceeded the amount required to answer any purpose which was originally contemplated or which can be practically attained. The amount expended for the maintenance of the public schools is now over $3,000,000 per annum, a sum which, of course, can never be produced from the income of a fund, and which must consequently be raised largely from a School Tax. The tax is not now an onerous one; is cheerfully paid by the people of the State, and serves a most useful purpose in maintaining the public interest in the successful operation of the schools. Why, then, should the State go on disposing of its lands under water, and accumulating the proceeds in the fund, when it is in debt for the building of its insane asylum, and when the crowded condition of the State Prison demands relief, either by the erection of an intermediate reformatory or additional buildings, and when the asylums, the Reform School, Industrial School for Girls and Home for Feeble-Minded absolutely require more accommodation for the unfortunate or the wayward, which pressing necessities might be met by the application of such revenue to their demands?

RIPARIAN COMMISSIONERS.

The principal of the grants, leases and leases turned into grants during the year ending October 31st, 1889, amounts to $225,986.32. The amount paid to the State during the year as rental on leases made by the Legislature, or by the Commissioners, was $57,519.60. The principal of grants and capitalization of leases for lands disposed of from the commencement of the system to October 31st, 1889, is $3,349,585.18. The amount received for rentals during the same period is $1,041,520.59.

There has been, since the end of the fiscal year, paid into the treasury, not included in the above, $75,155.12, and there is pending before the Commissioners for action, transfers which represent a principal amount of $64,314, and grants or leases ready for delivery, but not delivered, $55,337.15.

STATE FUND.

The securities of the State Fund are reported as :

1,887 shares of the stock of the Joint Railroad and Canal Companies, of the par value of.....	$188,700 00
Centennial stock.....	74,116 67
Bonds of the several counties of the State for the surplus revenue of the United States deposits.....	764,670 44
Nominal amount of fund.....	$1,027,487 11

I again call the attention of the Legislature to the fact that this last item of bonds of the several counties refers to certain instruments made by the counties respectively, acknowledging receipt of so much money, with a promise to repay it when it shall be called for by the United States. The other item of Centennial stock represents the contribution made by New Jersey to the Centennial in 1876. Both of these so-called securities are entirely valueless as assets, and should not be carried on the books, and published from year to year as available property of the State. Some provision should be made directing their classification as items of property held by the State Treasurer, but should no longer occupy the misleading character of securities of the State Fund, and swell to the amount of their par value the apparent resources of the State.

There are two bonds of $1,000 each, still in the hands of the Treasurer, and which were left with him by the Treasurer of the Children's Home at its discontinuance. In the absence of any law he is without authority to use or make any disposition whatever of them, and I renew my former recommendation for the passage of a law turning these bonds over to the State Fund.

The balances of the several funds October 31st, 1889, were :

State Fund.....	$241,996 48
School Fund.....	329,904 82
Local Railroad Tax.....	70 95
	$571,972 25

SINKING FUND.

The Commissioners received for interest and rent during the year, $26,364.43. They received for real estate sold, $7,300. The total receipts for the year, including the amount of annual appropriation from the State and balance on hand October 31st, 1888, were $208,669.40. There has been a loss on the sale of real estate over the cost of the same, during the year, of $4,749.97. The Commissioners have paid $102,000. of the principal of the debt during the year. There was paid, on account of interest on bonds, $76,254. The total payments were $186,554.47. Balance cash on hand October 31st, 1889, was $22,114.93. The total amount of the Fund is $577,653.27. This includes $3,995 for interest uncollected; $212,060.22 for real estate at its cost, and $6,066.44 for amount due on decrees of foreclosure. How much of the first and last items may be collectible is uncertain, and the actual value of the real estate cannot be ascertained except by sale.

ELECTION REFORM.

Each party is pledged in its platform to some measure of ballot reform. Let it not fail in a struggle for party advantage or in an effort to secure the adoption of some cherished system. If the subject is to be approached and dealt with in the spirit of partizanship, and not in that of patriotism and statesmanship—if parties are to divide upon matters of detail—we may be no nearer the solution of the problem than we were one year ago. There is danger to be apprehended from too determined insistent upon one or another scheme or plan, from an unwillingness to accept some immaterial feature, or an unyielding assertion of some particular provision.

The zeal displayed by some in the uncompromising demand for certain provisions, not necessary to correct the admitted evils, excites the suspicion that they aim not so much at reform in the ballot as to strike at the organization of the political parties. The success of such an effort, if possible, is not desirable. The existence of parties is a necessary incident of a representative government. Difference of opinion as to the policy to be pursued in the administration of public affairs, among people who have, by the right of suffrage, the power to direct that policy through chosen representatives, naturally brings those of the same thought together. The success of a party as a rule depends upon efficient organization. A tidal wave of popular opinion or excitement may occasionally sweep one party from, and carry another into, the control of affairs, but success generally depends on the united, intelligent action, which is the result of thorough organization. It is fashionable for theorists to decry the operation of so-called political machinery. While it is true that it may sometimes be employed to improper purposes, yet its legitimate use is attended with beneficial and desirable results; the elucidation of principles; the dissemination of argument; the ascertainment of those entitled to vote; the correction of registry; the prevention of fraudulent voting and getting out the vote—that vigilance, which is the “price of liberty,” are the attendant fruits of a well-ordered, healthy, active, efficient party organization. An eminent jurist has recently said: “To them (parties) we look for that activity in the advocacy of opposing views; that watchfulness over the assertion of authority; that keen debate as to the course most conducive to well-being; essential to the growth of public institutions. That voice of the people which, when duly given and properly ascertained, directs the action of the State, is largely brought to declare itself through the instrumentality of party.” To maintain its organization, each party will earnestly strive, and no party man can be expected to honestly favor measures which tend to impair or destroy its efficiency.

Whether the evils, which all admit to exist, can be corrected by the adoption of systems in force elsewhere, may depend much upon the conditions which exist here. The ballot is no experiment with us; it has long been in use in this State in the exercise of the right of suffrage. It is hampered with no property or educational qualifications; it depends on manhood and citizenship. Certain incidents have attached themselves to the use of the ballot here which cannot, in any innovations, be disregarded. In correcting one evil we must not inaugurate another. The ballot must be free as well as secret. In every country where the people, under the guise of an election, have deprived themselves of important rights, the machinery of such election has been under the active control of the government in matters of detail, and such result has come from the abuse of that power. While no danger of such extreme results may exist, evils of a lesser magnitude may be fastened upon the body politic by the same abuse. Provisions, which make the choice of the voter dependent upon the action of the State officers are not to be adopted without grave consideration and efficient restraints, and not at all, unless ample provision is made for the failure of such officer to fully perform the duty imposed upon him by law.

All are agreed as to the evils which ought to be corrected; the means to effect such result can be devised if we are willing, without blind subserviency to our own plan, to examine and select the one which is least objectionable, is best suited to our system of government, and which gives best promise of securing a pure, free and secret ballot.

The end to be sought is legislation which will secure the ascertainment of those legally entitled to vote; the prevention of colonization and the impersonation of the voter; the selection of competent, honest election officers; the prevention of intimidation and the corrupt use of money, and the absolute certainty that the ballots of the voters only are deposited in the box and are honestly counted and returned.

If these results can be obtained, all that properly relates to ballot reform is accomplished; any other aim is outside of pure reform and for some ulterior end.

Great stress is laid upon the assumption that these results have been practically reached in England and her colonies, where the so-called Australian system is in force. With some this system seems limited to the nomination by petition, the use of the official ballot, and the isolation of the voter. But it must also be borne in mind that in all the countries where these favorable results have been obtained, other laws have also been in force, directed to securing a correct and comprehensive registry, preventing personation, securing honest election officers, requiring publicity of election expenses, as well as providing by summary proceedings, for the judicial examination of charges impeaching the election on the ground of fraud, corruption or intimidation, with power to annul the election by the determination of judicial officers. These laws are of a stringent character, and there is no doubt but that a rigid enforcement has a large, if not a controlling, share in the correction of the evils at which they are aimed. We cannot confidently expect the same result from the adoption of any one of the remedies.

In the attempt to adapt these remedial laws to our elections, it must also be remembered that in England and in the colonies there are certain provisions regulating the use of the ballot, the effect of which have an important bearing upon the results obtained, but the adoption of which would be unwise here, because they violate our system of suffrage, and undermine the principle on which it is based. These provisions relate to the identification of the ticket with the individual who votes the same, so that it can be ascertained by investigation how each man has voted—a feature and procedure which at once destroys the secrecy of the ballot.

In some of those countries, also, certain property and other qualifications are required with reference to certain elections, while in Massachusetts an educational qualification exists, which applies to adopted citizens, and which limits the right of suffrage to those who can read and write the English language. These difficult conditions must all be considered in deciding upon the adoption of any system which is to be accepted, on the ground of its successful operation elsewhere.

All seem agreed on the plan that the voter, while preparing his ballot, should be provided with the means of doing the same alone, and the prevention of solicitation within a certain distance of the polls. These provisions give the voter an opportunity to prepare, arrange, or select just such ballot as he desires to vote, without interference from any one, and protects him, so far as any mechanical or physical arrangements are possible, from the oversight which has been the attendant aid of intimidation or corruption. I had faith in the use of the official ballot as a corrective of corrupt practices, but I am not blind to the serious objections which are urged to its exclusive use as a legal ballot. It is the constitutional right of every citizen of this State to vote for whomever he sees fit, for any elective office. This right exists up to the moment of casting his vote, and it should not be restricted by provisions which require a nomination of the person through certain forms of procedure, to be made days or weeks prior to the election. Neither should it be hampered by intricate provisions, depending upon the proper discharge of duty by public officials, with reference to details which involve the choice of the individual for whom the citizen desires to vote. In countries where it has been adopted and used, so far as I have been able to ascertain, the election has been confined to that of a few officers. It has never been in operation where the number of offices to be filled anywhere nearly equals the number which we, in this State, every spring have to vote for in our townships and cities. The trial ticket printed during the last session of the Legislature demonstrated that the use of the official ballot might be cumbersome, in consequence of its necessarily large size.

The effect of this official ballot to prevent corruption is theoretical, proceeding on the assumption that no one will risk his money unless he knows how the party votes. The evidence as to its practical corrective effect on the corrupt use of money is far from satisfactory; while its exclusive use, so far from preventing the evil, may by fraud be turned into an aid to the corruptor. If one ballot can, by any means, be taken from the polling place and put into the hands of the person engaged in buying votes, he is enabled to mark the ballot as he wishes, give it to his purchased voter, who, by bringing out the fresh one he has received, thus furnishes the evidence that he has voted as he agreed to do, and so on until the purchasable element has been voted, and each proved that he has kept his corrupt bargain. Many plans are suggested to prevent this fraud, all of which contemplate a marking of the ballot; but the most effective one seems to be that of numbering the ballot, a practice which identifies the ticket with the voter and destroys the secrecy. The greatest barrier to working this fraud lies in the vigilance and honesty of the election officers; but if there is one judge who is corrupt, the machinery can be at once put into operation. The futility of all laws, as preventive remedies, if the election officer is dishonest, is shown in the case of the Queen against Birdsall, 1 Q. B. Div. 425.

In Connecticut they have adopted the use of an official envelope in voting. The compulsory use of an official envelope has long been recognized as a useful measure in the prevention of election frauds. To be of any benefit, however, its use must be compulsory, for if not required, the corruptor or intimidator may require that it should not be used; and any one using it is at once credited with desiring to conceal the way he has voted. As it does not appear to be generally understood, it may be well to describe the use more in detail. Counterfeits are rendered well nigh impossible by having the paper of which the envelopes are made contain a water-mark. The envelopes are made and furnished by the State in such numbers to each election district as may be necessary for the number on the registry, with a small percentage in addition in case of accident or mistake; the voter is required to put his ballot in the envelope which he receives from the election officer, and vote it as thus enclosed; and the election officers are required to return and account for all envelopes furnished them not found in the box.

Many theories connected with the administration of law seem justified, on argument, as promising the very best results, which, on trial, are found to be defective, if not entirely useless, to accomplish that for which they are intended. On the other hand, measures which seem to be open to serious objection are found, on trial, to accomplish not only more than was expected, but all that could be desired. Three years ago the State adopted a ballot-box, a sample of which was exhibited, and which, from its trial, seemed to give reason for the claim that its use in election districts would render some crimes well nigh impossible. Whether from defective manufacture, or difficulty in keeping the same in order, or from some other cause, the use of this box in many parts of the State has been discontinued, and some fraudulent practices are even charged as having been perpetrated with the aid of this very box.

The desire to use the official ballot seems to be widespread; it is possible that its use may, by experiment, be found not to be inconvenient, and to effect results which are claimed for it, but for the reasons stated and others which can be urged it should not be the exclusive legal ballot to be voted. There is nothing to prevent the trial of the official ballot, and also the official envelope; at the same time. Experiment would very soon demonstrate whether it was wise to continue the use of either, or both, or only one.

It is claimed for the use of the official envelope that it prevents the use of duplicate and tissue tickets, and the crime known as "ballot-box stuffing," unless it be accompanied by the crime of making a correspondingly false poll list. And right here we are confronted by the fact that many of our election crimes and abuses, particularly such crimes as "ballot-box stuffing" or false count, could not be committed if the officers of election were honest, vigilant and intelligent. If, on the other hand, our board of election officers are corrupt, ignorant and inattentive, we may look in vain for honest elections to be brought about by mechanical and physical means. The use of the compartment plan and the practical exclusion of the public will only afford increased facilities to dishonest judges to carry on fraudulent devices.

In England, and the colonies where the system which is now so popular is in force, the elections are conducted before an officer, who is civilly the most important person in the community, or one selected by the highest civil authority. In these countries also the greatest attention is paid to the registry lists, some two months prior to an election being devoted to the making, correcting and perfecting the list of voters. The greatest publicity attends all the proceedings, and every person has an opportunity to intervene for the purpose of securing a correct list, the final action taken being the result of a judicial examination of objections and claims to the right of persons on the list to vote.

Another important factor of the system in effecting the reforms claimed is the statute known in England as the Corrupt Practices act. It was passed as a consolidation and amendment of existing laws in 1854, being chapter 102 of the 17 and 18 Victoria, and in 1883 was amended and enlarged by chapter 57, 46 and 47 Victoria, known as the "Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention act." These laws define with great minuteness what shall be held to be corrupt or illegal practices, embracing almost every known form of influencing a vote, save by argument, and restricting the amount and limiting and defining the objects for which money may be legitimately expended in a political contest. Not only are the objects and amounts specified, but the persons who can lawfully spend money in elections are limited; no money is allowed to be paid after fourteen days after election, and every one, including the candidate, is required, within thirty-five days after an election, to make a declaration, specifying with particularity what sums he has received, and from whom, with an itemized account of how the same has been disbursed. This statement is required to be published in two newspapers in the county within ten days after it is made. A failure to make it deprives a party of his right to his office until made, and a false statement subjects one to loss of office, to indictment, and on conviction to punishment for perjury. There are also provisions for a judicial inquiry by an election court composed of two judges, or by a commission appointed for that purpose, of allegations which impeach the election for fraud, corruption or illegality. In addition to these investigations conducted on the motion of the public prosecutor, a defeated candidate or any one or more voters may, by petition to the High Court of Justice, contest the election of the person returned, which question is tried by the election court. If, on the trial, it is found that corrupt or illegal acts have been practiced by the candidate or his agent, or by others with his knowledge, consent or approval, such finding or judgment avoids the election, and the party found guilty is committed for action by the Grand Jury and trial in case of indictment. These proceedings are summary and are continued from day to day until finished. The effect of an adverse finding is to disqualify the party from holding the office either under that election or a subsequent one for several years.

While this act relates to parliamentary elections, its provisions are applied to municipal elections by the act of 1884, 47 and 48 Victoria, chapter 70, and what are practically the same statutes also exist, I believe, in the colonies.

We have, therefore, as parts of the system, as indicated by the English law, not only the Ballot Act of 1872, 35 and 36 Victoria, chapter 33, but the Registry Act of 1878, 41 and 42 Victoria, chapter 26, and the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Acts of 1854 and 1883.

As to the relative effect of these acts, it is said in a note to Wigmore on the Australian Ballot System, page 19, speaking of the official ballot, "as to preventing bribery, it is not such a success as we should like; it has done a good deal; nevertheless, the most of our bribable electors, especially in the country, make it a curious point of honor to vote the way they have been paid to. The Corrupt Practices act is far and away more effectual than the ballot."

I have gone thus fully into this question, not to deter the experiment of any factor of the system or its equivalent which may appeal to the best judgment and does not infringe any constitutional right, but to give the reasons for my opinion that no radical or satisfactory reform can be effected by the adoption of any plan which does not secure not only the isolation and protection from interference of the voter in preparing his ballot, but also honest, competent, vigilant election officers; a comprehensive and correct registry law universally applied; a limitation of election expenses and their complete publicity, and summary proceedings inquiring into the conduct of the election, which will deprive a person from the enjoyment of office procured by corrupt and illegal practices.

While our constitutional provision makes each house the final judge of the election of its own members, a judicial inquiry into the election of members of the Senate and General Assembly might be had under laws providing more comprehensive and summary proceedings, to investigate charges of fraud, corruption and intimidation, with a determination thereon by judicial officers as to which of the candidates, under the evidence, is entitled to a certificate of election.

With reference to other elections, such laws can be passed and made effective, but care should be taken that the proceedings and determination of the investigation be conducted before the party is installed into office, and such event should be postponed until a decision of the charges. Attempts have been made to enact such laws, which are now on our statute books, the value of which is questioned in consequence of some such oversight, which raises a doubt as to their constitutionality.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

A concurrent resolution, proposing amendments to the Constitution of the State, was passed by the Senate and General Assembly at the last session.

It originated in the Senate, and was afterwards passed by the House. The amendments were entered on the Journal of each House, with the yeas and nays taken thereon. They were published, as required by the Constitution, and the same are respectfully referred to you for action. It is, of course, competent for this Legislature to adopt any, or all, or none, of these proposed amendments.

The first proposes to strike out that clause of the Constitution which prohibits the Legislature from passing any private, local or special laws regulating the internal affairs of towns and counties. The second proposes to strike out the further provision as follows: "The Legislature shall pass no special act conferring corporate powers, but they shall pass general laws, under which corporations may be organized and corporate powers of every nature obtained, subject, nevertheless, to repeal or alteration at the will of the Legislature." The attention of the Legislature has been repeatedly called to the difficulty which the first provision, referred to above, has entailed upon different municipalities of the State. A reference to the session laws will show that a large part of the legislation of each session has been devoted to the passage of general laws seeking to remedy existing evils or meet local wants, and an examination of the reports will show that a large portion of the time of our Supreme Court, and the Court of Errors and Appeals, has been taken up in the consideration of the acts which have been passed, so as to provide relief without violation of the constitutional inhibition. In a great number of cases the efforts of the Legislature has proved unsuccessful, and localities and municipalities which are laboring under provisions which entail hardships upon the inhabitants, seem to be without remedy, as no proper classification can be made without including places which do not require the particular legislation sought for by others.

In my judgment, relief can be obtained for the municipalities by the first amendment. The second proposed amendment would re-empower the Legislature to pass special laws conferring corporate powers, with the restrictions that they should not be exclusive, and should not grant the right to lay down railroad tracks. This would again throw open to all kinds of special legislation with reference to corporations the door which was happily closed. It is presumed that the second amendment was proposed because it was thought necessary in accomplishing the object of the first amendment, viz., to enable the Legislature to pass special laws with reference to municipal corporations. Such impression, if it existed, was erroneous, as it was decided in Pell v. Newark, 11 Vroom 71; that this part of the Constitution did not refer to municipal corporations, a construction which has never since been questioned. The adoption of the first without the second would leave the Legislature free to act with reference to municipal corporations.

The third amendment proposed is for the purpose of correcting the manifest mistake which was made by the Legislature in adopting the former amendment with reference to the appointment of judges for the Court of Common Pleas.

SALARY OF GOVERNOR.

The salary of the Governor is less than that of any of the prominent officers of the State, civil or judicial. It is entirely inadequate to meet the demands made upon him as the Chief Magistrate and representative of a great State. Under the Constitution no change can be made in the salary during the term of office of any public officer, and I recommend the passage of a law, before the term of office of the next Governor commences, making the salary commensurate with the dignity, importance and requirements of the position.

STATE BOUNDARY.

The commissioners appointed on the part of the State to fix and determine, in connection with a similar commission on the part of New York, the boundary line between the two States, have completed the work assigned to them in a manner which must prove highly satisfactory. The lines have been clearly defined, so that hereafter there may be no disturbing questions arising from dispute as to ownership of the lands under the waters which divide the two States. A permanent monument has been constructed in Raritan bay, and the boundary line marked at different points by buoys out to the ocean. The line through the Kills and the North river and New York bay cannot be so distinctly indicated, but is susceptible of being defined by monuments and maps. The line adopted is practically the middle of the channel in New York bay, and runs to the eastward of Ellis' and Bedloe's Island and the Robin's Reef lighthouse. The work of the commissioners is completed with the exception of filing the maps.

RAILROAD COMMISSION.

I renew my recommendation that the State Board of Assessors be invested with the powers and duties of railroad commissioners, confining those powers to such as pertain to the relations between the corporations, their employees, the people and the public interests.

FISHERIES.

I am in receipt of a communication from His Excellency, Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, enclosing a certified copy of an act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, approved May 22d, 1889, entitled "An act for the protection of shad, sturgeon and game fish in the River Delaware." He calls my attention to the fact that, by the provisions of the twelfth section of this act, it is provided that no part of the act shall be considered valid or operative until the Legislature of New Jersey shall approve of the same by enacting a similar act in whole or in part. I herewith transmit for action the statute of Pennsylvania.

NATIONAL GUARD.

From the last annual muster and inspection, the strength of the National Guard is shown to be 320 commissioned officers, 3,962 enlisted men, a total of 4,282. Two new companies, "F," Sixth Regiment, Atlantic City, and "G," First Regiment, Dover, have been added to the force, which now consists of fifty-seven companies of infantry and two Gatling gun companies, organized into seven regiments and three battalions, and comprised in two brigades and one division.

In pursuance of the authority given by the last Legislature, I directed the whole division to take part in the parade in the city of New York on the 30th of April, the centennial celebration of the inauguration of Washington as President of the United States. It is gratifying to report that the troops of New Jersey, on that occasion, showed themselves the equal of the National Guard of any other State in the Union. Their soldierly appearance and bearing deserved and received the encomiums of all. While the troops of other States were mostly brought to the city of New York the night before the occasion, those of New Jersey were taken from their own regimental armories, or from the place of their company formation, starting that morning and returning that night. So promptly was this gathering carried out, that the New Jersey troops reported to the Commander-in-Chief, General Schofield, that the column was formed and the troops ready to march some time before the hour fixed for them to do so. This is especially gratifying, as it proves that the National Guard of New Jersey can, on a short notice, be placed ready for service at any point within this State.

The First Brigade, under command of General Steele, was encamped at Sea Girt from July 8th to 13th, inclusive. The brigade practiced at the rifle range during the week of the encampment, and the Second Brigade at different times during the year.

In pursuance of authority given by the last Legislature, an interstate rifle match was arranged to take place at the range at Sea Girt in the first week of September, a trophy being offered to the winning team. The team representing this State was made up by competitive practice, as an additional incentive to the men during their rifle practice, and it was attended with very gratifying results. The match was lost by only two points; the successful team being arbitrarily selected from the marksmen of the New York National Guard.

Under the act of last winter, I appointed Messrs. James Smith, Jr., of Newark, and William L. Dayton, of Trenton, as agents of the State, to acquire by purchase, for the public use of the State, as a military encampment, the tract of land at Sea Girt, which has been under lease for some time. The agents report that they have been unable to agree with the owners of the land and encumbrances, and further that the owner of the fee has been enjoined from making conveyance of the tract for the purpose of a rifle range and encamping ground.

This will render it necessary to appoint commissioners to appraise the value of the lands and encumbrances, as further provided for by the act referred to.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

By the report of the managers, it appears that there were 431 inmates on the 31st day of October, 1889, being an increase of 64 over the number there at the same time last year. There were admitted during the year, 440 ; discharged, 324 ; expelled, 7 ; died, 45. The average number of inmates was 411. Since the home was opened there have been 16,125 cared for by the institution. The total receipts for the year, as reported by the Treasurer, amounted to $55,994.92, of which $18,772.32 was received from the United States government. Although it appeared, by the report of the managers, that there was a balance on hand of $931.85 on the 31st of October, 1888, it would appear, from the Treasurer's report, that he had paid out $3,826.03 more than his receipts for the year, and that he was to that amount in advance. The total disbursements for the last fiscal year amount to $54,031.74, leaving a balance due the Treasurer of $1,862.85.

The buildings have all been erected, but the commissioners have been unable to entirely complete the work which devolves upon them. Many of the bills which were unpaid at the end of the fiscal year have since that time been liquidated, and in a short time the work of the commissioners will be entirely finished.

PILOT COMMISSIONERS.

It appears by the report of the Commissioners of Pilotage that there have been no very serious accidents or loss of life or property during the year.

The board report an entire failure of the change in the apprentice system which was made some six years ago, and ask for the passage of a law providing that the board shall be permitted to select men from the boat keepers, a plan adopted and in use by the New York Board of Commissioners of Pilotage.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The operations of this bureau have been so extensive, and its reports are so exhaustive and voluminous, that any attempt to summarize its work would be very unsatisfactory. The work has been conducted on scientific and instructive lines, and the results will prove of great value to the State.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The total amount appropriated in the State for school purposes during the school year (not fiscal year) is $3,323,067.02. Of this there was levied by the State school tax, $1,939,235, being $68,180 more than was levied in the previous year. There was levied by the township tax for school purposes, $47,224.04, and by district and city taxes, $1,204,345.94, and of this last amount $678,548.22 was levied for building and repairing school houses. One hundred thousand dollars has been apportioned pro rata to the school districts of the State, from the income of the School Fund, and to this must be added, to make the total amount named above, the interest of the Surplus Revenue Fund, still available in sixteen of the counties, and amounting this year to $32,262.04. The total value of the school property is $8,300,610.

Thirty-two new school houses have been erected during the year, seven of these to replace old buildings, making the increase in the total number of school houses only twenty-five, and these furnish accommodations for but 1,972 additional school children, while the last school census shows an increase over the previous year of 4,362 children of school age.

There are now in the State 1,642 public schools, in which there were enrolled during the past year 227,441 pupils, and employing 4,299 teachers. The school census, taken in May last, numbered 392,209 children, while the present school buildings will accommodate but 211,514.

The forthcoming report of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction will show that too large a percentage of our children is unprovided with school accommodations, and a lack of sufficient school-room is reported from nearly every one of our larger cities.

For many years the school districts, other than cities, have been permitted, by statute, to borrow from the State School Fund, for the purpose of building new school houses, giving, as security for the loan, the bonds of the district. In 1886 the rate of interest on these bonds was reduced to five per cent., and since that time many districts have availed themselves of the benefit of these statutes, and as a result the school houses of the State have been much improved. An act was passed last winter which was intended to afford to cities the privilege of borrowing from the School Fund for the same purpose, but no loans have yet been made under this act. The Trustees of the School Fund are anxious to assist localities by making these loans wherever they are needed, and they have never refused an application that has been properly made.

NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

During the school year ending in 1889, 255 pupils were in attendance at the Normal School. The number graduated from the advanced course was 19, and the number graduated from the elementary course, 41 ; total graduates, 60. The whole number in attendance at the Model School during the year was 445 ; graduates, 14.

I have no report of the whole number in attendance at the Farnum School, at Beverly, but there were 10 graduated in June last.

The Principal of the Normal School reports a demand for increased building accommodations. The management especially urges the necessity for the construction of a proper building for manual training, which has been made a part of the school curriculum of the State. This demand is respectfully submitted to your consideration, with the suggestion that a portion of the income of the school fund could be properly appropriated to this purpose.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The Board of Visitors report that Rutgers Scientific School, the State Agricultural College, is faithfully discharging its obligations to the State. During the last two years a new department of work has been organized in the interests of agricultural science. The Professor of Chemical Geology is investigating the soils of the State ; the Entomologist, engaged for the purpose, has rendered valuable assistance to our farmers in preventing the depredations of insect pests ; the Botanist is carefully studying the horticultural and agricultural interests of the State, and has rendered valuable assistance to our farmers by his papers, reports and bulletins ; and the Biologist is investigating the oyster industries, with results already attained that promise to be of great use to this industry, so important in our State. A series of experiments upon the five leading breeds of dairy cattle has been commenced and will continue through three years or more. The breeders' organizations of the leading breeds have co-operated with the college station in furnishing three approved specimens of each breed. Useful results are confidently expected to follow.

The forty scholarships belonging to the State are already filled. In addition to these, twenty-nine young men, residents of New Jersey, have been recommended for free scholarships by the County Superintendents of their several counties, and have asked for and are receiving tuition free of expense. The new dormitory which is now building, at a cost of some $75,000, a gift from a trustee of the college, will accommodate certain students who are on State scholarships, as well as those in the classical course.

DEAF MUTE SCHOOL.

There have been under instruction at the school within the past year 123 pupils, and the average attendance has been 103. The number now enrolled is 110. There are now employed 7 teachers in the literary and 4 in the industrial department.

Increased provision has been made for the manual and industrial training of the pupils, and gratifying results have been obtained. The supply of books and other needed educational apparatus has been largely increased.

There has been received from the State on account of maintenance, $27,224 ; of repairs, alterations, &c., $5,000.

I recommend that the property, which has become very valuable, be sold. The ownership by the State of such a tract in the heart of a growing city takes its value out of the taxable property and increases the burden on the taxpayer. The estate could no doubt be disposed of for a sum sufficient to produce the same quantity of land elsewhere and to erect buildings more commodious and better adapted to the purposes of the school.

BLIND AND FEEBLE-MINDED.

The State supports the blind children in the institutions of New York city and Philadelphia, there being 44 in all, 33 being in New York and 8 in Philadelphia. The amount paid during the year to the New York institution was $6,907.16 ; to the Philadelphia institution, $2,537.26.

I sent to the care of the Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women, one patient during the last year, but had some hesitation as to whether the present condition of the law covered the case. These industrial institutions have been established for the purpose of instructing the blind in manual training, so as to enable them to acquire skill and proficiency in some industrial branch and to enable them to have some means of livelihood. There is a similar institution now opened and in successful operation in Elizabeth, of this State, being incorporated under the laws of the State, under the name of the "New Jersey Industrial Home for the Blind." It has thus far received assistance in contributions of the charitable, but has been mainly self-supporting. The managers propose to manufacture brushes, mattresses and cane chairs, and they have during the time which they have been in operation had these industries in successful progress. The blind readily acquire skill in these and similar branches of industry, and a person soon becomes so proficient as to be able to not only contribute to, but defray whatever expenses he or she may be to the institution.

I would recommend the passage of a law, similar to the one now in force, giving the Governor the power to send children to the asylums, which would authorize him to send blind adults to institutions where manual training is a feature, and to graduate the allowance to be made by the State according to the circumstances of each case.

There have been 144 feeble-minded children taken care of at the expense of the State, being an increase of 36 over last year; 76 of these have been sent to and maintained at the Pennsylvania Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Elwyn; 4 at the Connecticut Institution for Imbeciles, and 64 at the Educational Home for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, N. J. The amounts paid for the maintenance and support of these children were as follows: To the Pennsylvania institution, $19,176.58; to the New Jersey Home at Vineland, $12,457.15; to the Connecticut institution, $1,166.40.

MORRISTOWN INSANE ASYLUM.

It appears by the report of the Board of Managers that there have been under treatment at this institution during the past year, 1,122 patients; that there remained on the 31st day of October, 1889, 857 patients, of whom 427 were males and 430 females, and 723 public and 134 private patients. The average number under treatment was a fraction over 907.

The total receipts for the maintenance of the institution for the year, including the balance on hand at its commencement, were $247,093.47; the total expenditures amounted to $246,863.69, leaving a balance, October 31st, 1889, as reported by the Treasurer, of $229.73.

The managers report that the medical department, under the able management of the resident physician and his corps of assistants, and the business department, under the warden as general manager and those under his direction, have demonstrated that the dual system is not only practicable but useful, and the best mode of governing an asylum for the insane.

They again urge the desirability of a change in the existing arrangements, with reference to dining rooms of the institution, and the construction and use of assembly dining rooms, one for each sex.

The improvements which have been heretofore authorized are well-nigh completed, and the system of sewerage is in operation and entirely satisfactory.

TRENTON INSANE ASYLUM.

The number of patients during the year at this institution was 947—474 males and 473 females. There were 169 discharged during the year, of whom 64 had recovered, 29 improved, 6 unimproved, 2 not insane, 68 died, leaving remaining there on the 31st of October last, 778.

The total amount of receipts, including balance on hand October 31st, 1888, by the Treasurer's report, was $225,614.86, of which $20,000 was a transfer, in anticipation of payment, on account of appropriation for new building. The total amount disbursed was $207,343.10, of which $31,935.80 was expended on account of new building, the balance being chargeable to maintenance account. The balance on hand October 31st, 1889, was $18,271.76. The amount received from farm, garden and dairy during the year was $3,191.32.

INSPECTION OF FACTORIES AND WORKSHOPS.

The Inspector of Factories and Workshops reports that the present force of the department is sufficient to properly inspect and enforce the different laws coming under the jurisdiction of the department, provided further legislation is passed by way of amendments, making the present laws operative.

He calls attention to the Compulsory Education law, and the non-compliance with the same on the part of some of the city and township authorities, hoping that the Legislature will make its mandatory upon the authorities of every school district to enforce this most salutary law.

The statistics of the report will show the work accomplished during the past year, and it is very gratifying, as it is evident that the present force can, during the coming year, bring under the supervision of the department all the factories in the State employing minor help.

The third annual convention of the Factory Inspectors of the United States was held at Trenton, August 6th to 9th, 1889. The following States were represented, viz.: Massachusetts, Ohio, Wisconsin, Connecticut, New York, Maine, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Many valuable papers upon subjects in connection with the inspection of factories were read by several of the delegates.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS.

The Chief of the Bureau reports that the subject which has been under special consideration and investigation by the Bureau has been the collection of data respecting the active trade life of the New Jersey workmen engaged in the glass, hatting and pottery industries, paying particular attention to the diseases to which these particular trades are subject.

He calls attention to the question of mortgage indebtedness in our State, with reference particularly to that upon our farming land. A commencement has been made in some counties to obtain the statistics upon this question, but the work has not as yet been completed. This is a subject which is now receiving great attention at the hands of statisticians and might be made a work of great importance. In order, however, to be of any assistance in the solution of the questions which present themselves as economic problems, the examinations and reports should be thorough. The statistics gathered here and there can, of course, never be relied upon as data in solving any such problems. A thorough examination and report upon this question would require an additional appropriation for the Bureau.

I therefore recommend, in addition to the appropriation to carry on the regular work, a special appropriation be made to pursue the inquiry as to the mortgage indebtedness of the inhabitants of the State, upon such lines as shall meet the approval of the Governor.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Geological Survey of the State has been continued through the year, and its work has been, as heretofore, to develop and make public the natural products and resources of New Jersey.

Pursuant to the act of the last Legislature (Chapter CXXXVIII., Laws of 1889), the publications of the Geological and Topographical Surveys have been distributed to the several public free schools of the State.

The first volume of the Final Report of the State Geologist, upon the topography, magnetism and climate of New Jersey, has been issued; and the second volume, upon the natural history of the State, including catalogues of the minerals, plants and animals, is now in press. The other volumes will follow as rapidly as they can be properly prepared.

The field work of the year has been largely devoted to the investigation of some of the intricate problems in our structural geology.

Active operations for the drainage of the lowlands in the Passaic river and its branches, just above Little Falls, have been begun, and when the contemplated improvements have been made it is expected that the freshets, which have damaged so much property and been so injurious to public health, will no longer occur.

NEW JERSEY AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION.

The work of the station is now carried on in the new laboratory.

In addition to the important work done in analyzing the many brands of fertilizers which are sold to farmers in this State, the station has this year conducted important experiments, in both the laboratory and the field. It has analyzed feeding stuffs and studied and analyzed various farm and dairy products. Experiments have been made upon wheat, corn, oats, potatoes, and peach trees, and to test the fertilizing value of the different kinds of plant-food and the best forms and methods in supplying it. Investigations regarding the economic value of the lucern plant have been continued. Some 12,000 copies of the bulletins of information, published almost as often as one a month, are distributed to our farmers. An active participation in the meetings of the farmers' organizations, and frequent papers and lectures by members of the staff of the station, have helped to render familiar to our farmers the best results and applications of agricultural science in other parts of our country and in other lands.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

The President of the Board calls my attention to an examination of the causes of the decline in the value of the farming interests of the State, and urges a more liberal appropriation for the dissemination of information with reference to this subject.

STATE PRISON.

There were in confinement October 31st, 1889, 997 prisoners, being an increase over the number at that time last year of 116; at the time of making the report of the Supervisor there were 1,026; the total number during the year up to the above date was 1,410; the daily average was 965, of whom 929 were males and 36 females.

There was expended for maintenance the sum of $72,798.48, a per capita cost of 20.60 cents per diem, and $75.44 per annum. The total expenditures were $154,565.55, a per capita cost of $160.17 per annum. The earnings for the year were $54,985.94. The increase in the maintenance account over that of the previous year was $5,707.72, while the daily cost of maintenance was reduced from 47.35 cents to 43.88 cents, the increase in total expenses being due to the increased number, and the reduction in the per capita cost to a more rigid economy. The earnings show a decrease of $2,301.19 on those of last year, to be accounted for partly by the failure, during the summer, of one of the largest contractors, in consequence of which some of the men were idle. The average earnings per diem per man was 42.56 cents, as against 39.81 for the previous year. All of the contracts expired during the year and new contracts, under the piece-price plan, have been made, which it is expected will be of material advantage to the State.

The claim of the State against the firm of Downs & Finch, which failed, was $2,318.29 for work actually done, and an additional amount for penalties for non-fulfillment of contracts; the whole matter was finally compromised by the payment, by the receiver of the firm, of the sum of $6,000 in full of all demands.

The State Prison proper has accommodations for 700 convicts. Owing to the increased number, every available place is occupied; four are in the large cells, while the cells in the new wings, although intended for but one prisoner, are in many places compelled to accommodate two. It is an evil which should be remedied at once. Not only is the present enforced crowding against the intention of the law, but it is injurious to the health, morals and discipline of the prisoners. There is an urgent necessity, not only for cell room, but for a detached building for the use of a hospital; happily no contagious disease has broken out, but if such a calamity should occur there is really no place to properly quarantine the sick. Although an appropriation has been made for the purpose of providing improved facilities for water and drainage, no money has been available for that purpose, and this crying necessity has not been relieved. The moral instructors also urge the want of proper accommodations for religious services.

All of these subjects demand prompt action by the Legislature appropriating the necessary sums and furnishing the money required to meet the same.

The Inspectors and Supervisor testify to the gratifying results which have ensued from the careful management of the institution.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

The whole number of boys admitted to this institution since its commencement, July 6th, 1867, has been 2,052, 1,680 of whom have been discharged or gone out under the rules of the school, leaving remaining on the 31st of October last, 327. This is an increase of 74 over the number there one year before; 145 boys were sent to this institution during the past year. There was received during the year on account of maintenance, from the State, $52,157.50; from the farm and other industries, $3,349.61, which, with the balance on hand October 31st, 1888, of $823.82, in all amounting to $56,330.83, is amount received on maintenance account during the fiscal year.

The total amount of expenditures and expenses during the same period were $54,573.66, leaving a balance on hand October 31st, 1889, of $1,757.17. There was also consumed at the institution products of the farm and live stock of the value of $4,816.83.

The Trustees and Superintendent join in an urgent appeal for more accommodation; the buildings are already crowded, and the school would seem to require another dwelling house for the proper care of the inmates. They refer to the fact that many boys are sent to the Reform School who should be in some other reformatory institution, in consequence of their advanced age and vicious habits, and refer with approval to the plan suggested of the establishment of an intermediate reformatory, as supplying a need not only desirable in itself, but as giving relief to their own institution.

The Trustees urge the repeal or amendment of certain sections of the law with reference to the Reform School, for the particulars of which I refer to the report, recommending the suggestions to the consideration and action of the Legislature.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

At the time of the report there were 52 girls at the State Industrial School, and 32 under indenture, making a total of 84 under the control of the Trustees.

The Trustees again urge with great earnestness their want of sufficient accommodation; they say that another building with the proper appurtenances is absolutely required for the proper maintenance and administration of the establishment. This is apparent when it is considered that there are 52 girls now in the school, and the building was originally planned for the custody of only 35.

I respectfully urge these views upon your consideration.

The total receipts were $10,620.38; expenditures, $8,547.16; balance, $2,073.22.

PRISON SYSTEMS.

The crowded condition of the State Prison and Reform School for Boys brings the establishment of an intermediate reformatory prominently before you, independent of the many cogent reasons which can be urged for adding such an institution to our penal system. The Legislature last winter authorized the appointment of a commission to take the subject into consideration, and to report on a plan and site for a building. Their report will, no doubt, be presented at your present session, and I urge an appropriation and measures to meet the same, in order that its erection may be commenced at once. Such an institution will not only save many a youth and person convicted for the first time, or of an offence not involving moral turpitude, from association with confirmed criminals, but afford relief to our now over-crowded prison and reform school.

At the last session of the Legislature a law was passed authorizing the conditional release of convicts on good behavior. It is found to be inoperative, but an act will be presented for your consideration which, in my judgment, obviates the objections raised to the present statute. It is a system which meets the favor of those who have made a study of the proper management and treatment of criminals, and, if properly guarded, is a measure which will, in my judgment, be attended with good results.

Your attention is called to the reports of the Reform School and of the State Charities Aid Association on jails and station houses, by which it will appear that the law requiring the separation of adult and minor prisoners is not strictly complied with, and that there is not always proper provision for the separate accommodation of witnesses who are detained in custody. Some stringent law should be passed making it obligatory upon the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the respective counties to comply with the provisions of this law.

The National Prison Association holds annual sessions in different parts of the United States. Its deliberations are directed to the consideration of questions as to the best methods of management of prisons and reformatory institutions, and its efforts have been attended with great benefit to the convicts and to the community. Delegates have been appointed from time to time to attend these meetings, but as no provision has been made they have been obliged to bear their own expenses. I would recommend the passage of a law to reimburse those who have represented the State during the last three years, and make provision for the future.

STATE CHARITIES AID ASSOCIATION.

The work done by this excellent organization cannot be too highly commended. The members devote time, energy and intelligence to the examination of our jails, almshouses and asylums, and of the poor in their homes, and give their aid and experience to the amelioration of the conditions which they find require or are susceptible of improvement. Their reports are very full, and I would recommend that their suggestions be made the special object of legislative inquiry and action.

The Committee of this Association on Almshouses and Poor Houses and Children call attention to the necessity for the passage of a law for the prevention of keeping children in the almshouse for any length of time; there are at present in one county almshouse over 250 children. This is an evil which requires immediate attention. These children brought up in this manner are simply educated to be paupers and vagrants, to be always at the care and expense of the State. They recommend the passage of a law similar to the one passed in Pennsylvania in 1883, by which it is made unlawful to retain children between 2 and 16 years of age in an almshouse for a longer time than 60 days, and making it the duty of the officers or persons in charge to have them placed in some respectable family or proper institution, and authorizing one or more counties to act in the establishment and maintenance of an industrial home for the care and training of such children.

They also call attention to the fact that the Boards of Chosen Freeholders have not entirely complied with the law requiring the complete separation of the sexes in the almshouses. When we consider that many of the inmates of these establishments are persons who have not the full enjoyment of their mental faculties, and are not under the restraints which control others, and regard the consequences which are brought continually to our attention from the neglect to carry out the provisions of such a law, our manhood is shocked that such conditions are permitted to exist, with only the petty excuse furnished by false notions of economy.

HOME FOR FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN.

This institution is one of the most worthy of the charities of this State. The home is located at Vineland. The total number cared for during the year was 28, of which number there have been discharged 5, leaving at the close of the year 23. One has since been admitted. The report shows that they need more room and additional accommodations and further improvements. This institution has furnished a home for the weak-minded women who would otherwise have been placed or retained in the city or county almshouses, and exposed to temptations which their unfortunate mental condition render them illy able to resist. It appears by the report of the State Charities Aid Society that there are now in almshouses in this State 8 feeble-minded women who should be placed in an institution of this kind, but who cannot be received for want of accommodations.

This is a call which appeals to humanity and good government; and one which ought to be promptly responded to whenever the condition of the State Treasury will authorize the expenditure. The receipts for the fiscal year, including the balance on hand at its commencement, was $5,923.65. Total disbursements, $5,666.97, leaving a balance of $255.68.

On the 24th of September I was called upon to announce, through general orders, the death of Quartermaster-General Lewis Perrine, who had held that position for nearly half a century, and whose discharge of its arduous and trying duties during the civil war and since, entitles him to the respect and esteem in which he was held by his associates and the people of the State.

The State has also, during the year, sustained a loss in the death of Prof. George H. Cook, the State Geologist, whose long and valuable services to the State have done so much to bring her natural resources to public notice. Fortunately, his work in connection with the Geological Survey was well-nigh completed. It will always be an invaluable contribution to the State, and a monument to his ability and fidelity.

I cannot permit the pleasant relations which have existed between myself and the State officers, whose duties have brought them into constant intercourse with the Executive, to close without expressing to them my appreciation of the kindness, assistance and consideration I have ever received at their hands.

The trust which, three years ago, was reposed in me by the people of my native State, I have endeavored to discharge with fidelity to her interests and her honor, and will, in a few days, surrender to my successor, with the prayer that the Great Ruler of Nations will continue to bless this State and its people with "Liberty and Prosperity."

The Joint Committee of the Legislature on State Prison respectfully report that we have visited the institution and examined its general condition. From the balance sheet your committee find as follows :

First. Total amount received from the earnings of the convicts, $54,985 94, for the year commencing November 1st, 1888, and ending October 31st, 1889. This is a decrease of $2,301.19 of the previous year, and is due from the failure of the Downs & Finch contract, and because contracts could not be made until the end of all the recent contracts.

Second. The cost of maintenance, salaries, repairs and amount paid convicts on their discharge, was $154,565.55, being an increase of $3,516.74, which shows a loss in operating the prison of $99,579.61, against a loss of $93,761.68 of the previous year.

The Keeper and the attendants are to be commended for the cleanliness and good order preserved throughout the prison.

We find that complaint is made in the crowding of more than one prisoner in each cell, as there are nearly 1,000 convicts, and cells for only 700, which is a violation of the law, and this should be provided for in the passage of a bill to erect a new wing by the coming Legislature. Should a contagious disease break out in the prison, it could not fail but have serious results.

We desire to return thanks to Keeper Patterson, Supervisor Butler and other officers of the prison, for courtesies extended to the committee.

A special message was received from the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, March 31st, 1890. }

To the Senate and General Assembly:

I herewith transmit for your information a certified copy of an award made by the arbitrators in the matter of difference between the State and the Morris and Essex Railroad Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, its lessee, in regard to alleged taxes in arrear, arising under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company.

This award is made under the authority of Joint Resolution No. 1, entitled "A joint resolution relative to the arbitration of alleged taxes in arrear under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company," approved March 25th, 1887.

The practical result of this arbitration, if the Legislature passes the act recommended therein, will be that the State will surrender its right, under the sixteenth section of the charter of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, authorizing it to purchase and acquire the railroad and property of that company, upon the terms set out in its charter and the supplements thereto. On the other hand, the Morris and Essex Railroad Company will voluntarily surrender its special contract in relation to taxation, and it must also agree to submit itself to the operation of the provisions of all constitutional general tax laws applicable to all railroads, passed or to be passed. The company will also release the State from all liability to refund or repay taxes paid under the general tax laws since and including the year 1884, and will pay the State a net set sum amounting to $235,000.

If the Legislature refuses to pass the act suggested by the arbitrators, then the State will receive the net sum of $235,000, and also receive from the Morris and Essex Railroad Company an instrument releasing the State from all liability to refund or repay taxes paid by the company to the State under any general tax laws since and including the year 1884.

The suggestion of the arbitrators, which involves a settlement of all questions between the State of New Jersey and the Morris and Essex Railroad Company and its lessee, is in accordance with the views of public policy upon this subject heretofore settled by legislative action.

In the act entitled "An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property," approved April 10th, 1884, provision was made in section thirty-one, "That any corporation in this state having the right by contract to any different imposition of taxes, either state or municipal, than that provided for in this act, are hereby authorized to execute and file in the office of the secretary of state an instrument, to be first approved by the attorney-general, waiving the benefit of any such contract, whereupon they shall be bound by the terms of this act, or an amendment thereto, or any further act of the legislature, and upon filing any such instrument the State agrees to surrender its right to take the property of any such corporation under any law now existing; provided, that any such corporation shall execute and file such instrument within six months from the time of the passage of this act."

In 1888 this act was revised and amended by an act entitled "An act to revise and amend 'An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property,'" approved April 10th, 1884, which said act was approved March 27th, 1888. Section twenty-seven of the act is exactly the same as section thirty-one of the act of 1884.

The wisdom of adjusting these questions between the State and these corporations by mutual agreement will not be disputed, if done in accordance with the spirit of the acts of 1884 and 1888, as above set forth. Without legislation the powers cannot, however, be exercised on the part of the State, because the limitations of time in the acts of 1884 and 1888 have expired.

I am still of the opinion expressed by me in 1884, that all special contracts on the subject of taxation should be extinguished. I am prepared at all times to invoke every power of the State to secure such extinguishment, if the corporations will not voluntarily assent thereto. The Morris and Essex Railroad Company and its lessees, I am advised, are willing, voluntarily, to extinguish their contract on the subject of taxation if the State will release its right to take the property of that company upon payment therefor, under the sixteenth section of its charter.

It is with satisfaction that I present this matter to the Legislature, as it involves the right of the only corporation whose contract on the subject of taxation has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The decision of the arbitrators has fixed the amount which the State will receive for back taxes in dispute, and if the State and the company can now agree upon the terms of the proposed act and the form of the agreements to be executed to carry out the adjustment, all matters of difference between the company and the State will be finally settled.

Respectfully,

LEON ABBETT,

Governor.

March 31st, 1890.

AWARD.

WHEREAS, By virtue of a joint resolution relative to the arbitration of alleged taxes in arrears under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey submitted all matters in difference between the State of New Jersey and the Morris and Essex Railroad Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, its lessee, of alleged taxes in arrears arising under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company to the arbitration of two arbitrators, one of whom should be chosen in writing by the Governor, who duly chose Frederick W. Stevens as arbitrator, and the other arbitrator to be chosen by the said companies, in writing, who duly chose John F. Dillon as arbitrator; and

WHEREAS, The appointments of the said arbitrators were duly filed in the office of the Secretary of State within thirty days from the passage of said joint resolution, and the arbitrators duly took an oath of office; and

WHEREAS, Under orders made by the arbitrators, the State formulated in writing its complaint, setting forth its claims of alleged taxes in arrears, to which the said companies made answer; and

WHEREAS, Under the authority given to the said arbitrators in said resolution, they caused the said parties to take their respective proofs touching the matters contained in the complaint and answer and said joint resolution, which were submitted to the arbitrators as aforesaid; and

WHEREAS, The said arbitrators have examined the said proofs and heard the counsel of the respective parties thereon, and duly considered the same;

NOW, THEREFORE, We, the said arbitrators, do hereby make our award, in writing, as follows:

That in full payment and satisfaction of all alleged claims of the State against the Morris and Essex Railroad Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, its lessee, in respect of taxes in arrears from the organization of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company down to and including the year 1883, the said Morris and Essex Railroad Company and the said Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, its lessee, shall pay to the State of New Jersey the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000).

And it is further ordered and awarded in respect of the taxes since 1883 down to and including the year 1889, as follows, to wit:

That if the State shall, as contemplated, pass an act at the present session of the Legislature surrendering the right given by the sixteenth section of the charter of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, passed January 29th, 1835, or by any of the supplements thereto, to purchase and acquire the railroad and property of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, as set forth and contained in said charter and supplements, in consideration that the company shall surrender the special contract in relation to taxation, as provided in section fifteen of said charter of January 29th, 1835, and the third section of the supplement thereto of March 3d, 1865, or in any of the supplements to said original charter, and shall agree to submit itself to the operation of the provisions of all constitutional general tax laws applicable to all railroad companies, passed or to be passed, and shall release the State from all liability in respect of refunding or repaying taxes paid under general tax laws since and including the year 1884, then the above award is to be credited with the sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000).

It is further awarded that if the Legislature of New Jersey shall pass no such act as the one above contemplated at the present session thereof, then the above award is to be credited with the said sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000), provided the said railroad companies shall file with the Comptroller of the State a release to the State of New Jersey of all claims against the State for or in respect of refunding or repaying taxes paid by the said companies, or either of them, since and including the year 1884.

The amount above awarded shall be paid by the said railroad companies to the Treasurer of New Jersey as follows: $100,000 within thirty days after the rising of the present session of the Legislature; $100,000 within thirty days thereafter, and the balance within thirty days thereafter.

In reaching this award, the arbitrators deem it proper to add, each for himself, that it has been the result of a careful examination of the voluminous testimony embracing complicated transactions running through a period of about forty years. Many of the questions involved, especially those relating to net earnings, cost of road, time of payment, and others, are complicated, and, to a large extent, unadjudicated. In consequence of different constructions put upon the charter and acts relating to the subject by the State and the company, there was a wide difference between them, the State claiming that the company was in arrears about $500,000, exclusive of interest, and the company claiming to have paid the State not only in full, but about $240,000 besides. The arbitrators acquit the company and its officers of any intention, in the reports which have been made from time to time, of a design to defraud or wrong the State.

It is further awarded that each party shall pay its own costs.
Dated, signed and sealed this twenty-ninth day of March, A. D. 1890.

WHEREAS, Said magazine is within half a mile of the densely populated part of Jersey City, and not much over a mile distant from New York and Brooklyn, there is well founded apprehension, in case of accident, that there would be immense destruction of property and life, not only in the city of New York, but in this State, and on vessels in the harbor, and it appearing that the danger far outweighs the advantages of the location of the magazine on Ellis Island; therefore, be it

Mr. Cranmer, Chairman of the Joint Committee on Lunatic Asylums, presented the following report:

TRENTON, NEW JERSEY, May 19th, 1890.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

GENTLEMEN—The Joint Committee on the State Lunatic Asylum at Trenton respectfully report that, in pursuance of the duties devolved upon them, they have visited and carefully inspected the Asylum buildings and grounds, and have investigated with care the general management of the institution.

Public attention having been directed to criticisms upon this Asylum, published by authority of another State Association, your committee have felt called upon to make known formally to the Legislature the results of their examination and inquiries.

The main Asylum building is a composite structure, begun in 1846, increased by extension in 1861, and by additional wings in 1865. While the buildings, at the time of their erection, were, no doubt, not intended to be fire-proof, they are constructed of Trenton brown stone so as to be as nearly free from the danger of fire as is common in buildings erected for a like purpose. The expense of constructing a perfectly fire-proof building of the great size required for asylum purposes, seems to have precluded the general adoption of such a plan in other parts of the United States.

In the old and in the new building just finished, great care has been taken to avoid the danger of fire, and to provide the means of combating it should the occasion arise. An abundant supply of water is readily accessible in each hall, with water pipes prepared for hose attachment, with a constant supply of water in the reservoirs of the two buildings, both of which can be used at any point, amounting to twenty-eight thousand (28,000) gallons, with a head capable of throwing a stream thirty (30) feet. At least two, generally three, and in some cases four, exits are provided for each hall. It is true that the room doors of the patients are necessarily locked at night, but watchmen are constantly on guard, and the unlocking of the doors would require but a few minutes of time to accomplish.

The new building has been erected with more care to avoid the unnecessary use of wood work, and seems to your committee a model of careful, provident structure, well adapted to its purpose. Three exits by stairways to the ground are provided for each corridor. Constructed without extravagance, this edifice is a credit to the State. Its first object was to provide accommodations for the chronic insane patients. A system of large dormitories and general dining halls, large corridors and day rooms to be used in common by the patients, each sex, of course, being kept apart, was adopted as distinguished by the method of classification and separation of individual patients which prevails in the main building. While less expense per patient is thus incurred, it is found that the new building is regarded by the inmates with more favor, and residence there is generally preferred by them.

The ventilation of the Asylum buildings, both old and new, calls for special comment and approval. It is the opinion of the committee that in no large institution of this State does the air appear to be more pure and less tainted with the usual odors which are so common a feature of large hospitals and other asylums. In the main building, by means of a large fan operated by steam power, a constant flow of air is introduced into the corridors and rooms, and drawn out near the floor, in such quantities that the whole volume of air in each room is constantly and rapidly changed. The water-closets in both buildings are so connected with a heated flue that a strong current of air is, without interruption, carried from the inside of the building through and out of the ventilating shaft. The system of ventilation in the new building, although operated without the means of steam power, has proved a success, and the atmosphere of that building is notable for the absence of disagreeable odors. Your committee are of the opinion that the systems of ventilation and sewage, adopted in both buildings, provide every reasonable precaution against the danger of poisonous gases reaching any of the inmates of the house, which science and experience have suggested.

The water supply of the institution is of exceptional quality. Spring water of the purest kind is furnished in great abundance. The general health of the inmates, bearing in mind the hospital character of the institution, has been good during the last fiscal year. Very few deaths have occurred from acute diseases, apart from those resulting from the exhaustion of high maniacal excitement. The common grounds of the Asylum, as far as practicable, are used for exercise and recreation. Open-air courts, enclosed by high fences, have been provided for both men and women. The new airing court for men, at the extremity of the west wing, constructed and laid out by use of the regularly employed labor in and about the institution, with a total extra expense not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500), embracing two acres of ground, is a valuable addition and calculated to contribute largely to the comfort and health of the patients.

With the general management of the institution, your Committee cannot but express their satisfaction, and feel it a duty to publicly acknowledge their high appreciation of the sacrifice of valuable time, care and attention bestowed by the Board of Managers, who, without any compensation, have given to their duties faithful and conscientious services.

As the cost of maintaining our insane is a matter of interest to the Legislature, your committee would call attention to the following statistics, which appear in the State Comptroller's report of this year:

THE STATE LUNATIC ASYLUM OF TRENTON.

For appropriation toward maintenance of county patients..	$34,270 71
For support and clothing of insane convicts.....	4,878 25
For salaries of officers.....	7,900 00
For traveling expenses of managers.....	51 15
Total.....	$47,100 11

At the close of the last fiscal year there were seven hundred and sixty-one (761) patients in the asylum.

In addition to the above expenditures for the support of patients, the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) was, during the past year, paid out of the treasury on account of the appropriation for the new building made by the Legislature in 1887.

Adverse criticism having been published by authority of a State society upon the fact that autopsies were not made in the Trenton Asylum, your committee, in reporting it to be true, would respectfully submit that such a course of action meets with their full approval, independently of the fact that there is no law which would justify such procedure. The sources of a diseased mind are not, in the opinion of your committee, to be necessarily found by a dissection of the body after death, nor do the requirements of science demand or justify the mutilation after death of the forms of those unfortunate beings who are wards of the State and under its care, not because of crime or evil done by them, but because, as afflicted children, our brothers and sisters in humanity, we are under the deepest obligation to protect and provide for them with kindness while living, and when dead to respect their remains and lay them away reverently and tenderly.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE T. CRANMER,
JAMES L. MILLER,
PETER D. SMITH,

The Secretary was directed by the President to carry said bill to the House of Assembly, and inform that body that the Senate had passed the same, and requests its concurrence therein.

Mr. Gardner, Chairman of the Committee on Elections, on behalf of a majority of said committee, presented the following report:

To the Senate:

Your Committee on Elections, who, by resolution of the Senate passed January 29th, 1890, were directed "to investigate the election contest of William S. Stuhr against Edward F. McDonald, take testimony thereon and report thereupon to the Senate," beg leave to report as follows:

By the determination of the Board of County Canvassers of the County of Hudson it was declared that at an election held in said county on the fifth day of November, 1889, Edward F. McDonald was elected a member of the Senate. Upon the convening of the Senate Mr. McDonald presented the statement of the determination, took the oath of office and a seat in the Senate. At the same time William H. Stuhr presented a petition in writing, alleging malconduct, fraud and corruption on the part of the Boards of Election, the reception of illegal votes, and other fraudulent practices sufficient to change the declared result of said election, and protesting that said McDonald was in fact elected, but that petitioner was elected Senator in Hudson county, and praying that the certificate of election of said McDonald might be declared void and petitioner given the office.

Your committee at the outset of the investigation discovered evidence of extensive frauds by the election officers in Hudson county, covering so many precincts and so connected in method and purpose as to demonstrate a common conspiracy. The frauds were all in the interest of the candidates on the regular Democratic ticket, one of whom was Mr. McDonald, and it became necessary to enter upon a broad and laborious investigation commensurate with the wide range of the conspiracy. To that end the necessary counsel and assistants were employed, and an investigation was made which resulted in developing so much pertinent evidence of crime affecting the election, that all the time which your committee could give the case has been occupied in the mere listening to evidence, which evidence is, for the most part, a condensed recital of crime upon crime.

The expenses incurred have been necessarily large. They have been incurred by the Senate in the discharge of a high constitutional duty, and the service rendered to the committee by its assistants has been faithful and efficient.

All honorable citizens must agree that no expense should be spared which is needed to ascertain the honest result of an election of the importance of that involved in this contest, when the pursuit of the investigation reveals a multiplicity of crimes of an organization of criminals banded together to control the elections of the largest city and county in the State, and also of the State itself. Especially imperative, and more arduous in performance, does this duty become when some of the officers of the law, whose function it is to detect and punish the guilty, are in complicity with the crime or desire to conceal it. The State owes no debt to the payment of which its honor is more sacredly pledged, and provision for its payment should give precedence to that for no other purpose.

DETAILS OF THE INVESTIGATION.

The committee began its work by ordering the production of the Hudson county ballot boxes, 129 in number, with their contents, at Trenton. Some unwillingness having been manifested by certain of the officials of Jersey City to comply with the orders of the committee, peremptory measures were taken and the boxes obtained on the very eve of the time when by law the ballots might be destroyed. The checked registry lists filed with the Clerk of Hudson county were also taken into the custody of the committee.

Resistance to the authority of the Senate was encountered even after the ballots and registry lists had been brought to the State House, it being claimed that the ballot boxes and their contents should still remain in the charge of the City Clerk. This the committee refused to allow, and the boxes were deposited in the vaults at the State House under charge of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, the vaults being sealed, and the keys of the outer doors being kept by the committee, and the key of the inner door being delivered by the committee to Mr. John E. Scott, City Clerk of Jersey City.

The committee then entered upon an entire recount of the votes of the whole county, and continued it from day to day until finished, keeping a careful record of the results, in the presence of counsel for the contestant and incumbent. This task was begun on the 4th day of February, and although prosecuted with much diligence, occupied the days and evenings until March 5th, when it was completed.

At the conclusion of the recount the Senate ordered that the ballots and other contents of the ballot boxes be removed therefrom and carefully sealed in separate parcels and placed in the custody of the Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, and the boxes returned to the authorities of Hudson county, which was accordingly done.

The disclosures of fraud by the election officers, shown by the mere recount of votes and inspection of the poll books and registry lists, rendered it necessary to push the inquiries farther, and to determine whether charges of the additional crime of repeating were well founded.

For this purpose the registry and poll lists were copied by the order of the committee, and the names of voters in each of a number of precincts were arranged by the street numbers given on the poll lists. With the aid of these lists, officers employed by the committee made inquiries from house to house, and having ascertained the fictitious character of many entries of names of supposed voters on the poll books, procured the names of genuine residents of the houses. These residents were summoned before your committee by scores at a time, and being examined and cross-examined, gave evidence as to the existence and non-existence of the voters recorded by the election officers as having voted from their respective residences. About eight hundred witnesses were summoned to appear before the committee. This class of testimony continued to yield evidence of repeating as long as it was pursued, and was carried with more or less completeness through the precincts of the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Seventh Assembly Districts of the county, when it was discontinued from lack of time and because of expense. The committee also examined a large number of witnesses relative to the conduct of the election officers on the day of election and the conduct of certain party officers and public officials before and at the election.

The original returns made to the county clerk and the statement of result were also put in evidence.

Some witnesses were also examined who testified explicitly that they saw men vote more than once, and others who gave more indirect testimony of the existence of repeating.

The testimony covers more than 2,800 type-written pages.

DISCLOSURES BY THE INVESTIGATION.

I.—False Counting.

We find that in at least ten precincts there was a willful false count of the ballots in the box. In many other precincts there were small errors, but these may be accounted for by carelessness in counting. The ten precincts referred to are the following :

It should be added that in all these precincts abundant other evidences of fraud appeared. In all of them, except the Third precinct of the Seventh district, the false count was manifestly made in the interest of the Democratic ticket. In that precinct it appears, at first sight, to have been made in the interest of the Fusion ticket, but when the evidence respecting this precinct is all considered it is apparent that it was not so, but the fraud-doers who controlled the ballot box merely overreached themselves. There were 201 palpably fraudulent Democratic ballots on the string in this box, and the genuine ballots bore evidence of having been strung twice or thrice and roughly handled, while the spurious ballots were fresh and clean, and, although interspersed along the string, had been strung but once.

The recount of the votes resulted in reducing McDonald's vote from 24,922 to 24,743, and in increasing Stuhr's vote from 16,582 to 16,899.

II.—Forged Stamp.

We find that in 28 precincts of Jersey City and Hoboken 1,764 Democratic ballots were counted and placed upon the strings as genuine ballots, which had been stamped, milled and punctured by mechanism other than that upon the boxes in which the committee found them. The greatest number found in one box was 201.

It should be explained that by the use of the patent ballot boxes, provided for by the act of 1887, every ballot lawfully received into the box passes between two wheels, like cog wheels, which indent or "mill" the ballot as it passes into the box. These wheels also bring the ballot into contact with an inked rubber stamp, which prints upon it the name of the town or city in which the box is used. This name is divided, and in the middle of it appears the figure of a circle or an ellipse, through the centre of which a needle strikes and punctures the ballot as it passes in. By the boxes used in Jersey City the name is printed thus—

JERSEY ○ CITY, N. J.

The ink for the printing is supplied by an inking ribbon contained in the mechanism, which comes into contact with the rubber stamp at every turn of the wheels.

On the genuine ballots the puncturing always appears in the centre of the circle or ellipse; it cannot appear elsewhere.

Of the spurious ballots spoken of, 1,505 were on light, thin paper, and were very small, their entire length being only as great as the width of the other Democratic tickets used in the election. These small tickets were all stamped, milled and punctured in a manner so different from the genuine ballots in the boxes that they could be detected at a glance. The type was different, the spacing different, the ink different, and the puncturing done with a sharp needle, and striking at every conceivable place on the ballots, but seldom striking the ellipse. We have no hesitation in pronouncing all of them fraudulent. We are of opinion that they came into the boxes in two ways. Some were placed inside of large tickets which were deposited by voters, and others were placed in the boxes or upon the strings by the election officers. Although the question was asked of many witnesses, only one could be found who would swear that he had seen even one of these tickets openly voted.

There can be no two opinions about these ballots. They were printed, stamped, distributed and used for fraud. They were intended to give the persons who were willing to use them an easy method of depositing two or more votes without detection, and to give the election officers stamped ballots which they could put on the strings without running them through the boxes.

In addition to the 1,505 small tickets bearing a fraudulent stamp, there were found in four precincts of the Seventh Assembly District 259 ballots of the usual size which bore a fraudulent stamp. These were the First and Third precincts in Jersey City, and the Fourth and Fifth districts of the Fourth ward of Hoboken. The fraudulent stamp used in Jersey City was well calculated to escape detection. It was apparently made by a genuine ballot box, but not by either of the boxes in which the tickets were found. In the Seventh Assembly District a great variety of tickets was used, but all the tickets in the two Jersey City precincts, which bore the fraudulent stamp, were exactly alike, being a Democratic ticket with the figure of an eagle at the top. Those in both boxes had been stamped by the same machine. It is evident that a large number of these tickets had been prepared by running them through the mill of some other box. Fortunately, the type and spacing and inking on them were so conspicuously different from the appearance of the genuine ballots that the fraud was detected.

The fraudulent stamp used in Hoboken was detected the instant it was seen. It bore no more semblance to the genuine stamp than capital letters bear to small letters, and the word Hoboken, which on the genuine stamp was spelled correctly, was on the fraudulent stamp spelled "Hoboekn."

The fact that in many of the precincts where these fraudulent ballots were found in such large numbers no surplus of ballots was reported by the election officers, is evidence well-nigh conclusive that they were parties to the fraud, and that they must have, either by substitution of ballots or by false entries in the poll books, covered up the spurious ballots. In the First precinct of the First district, they did not even attempt to cover up the fraud. The poll book contains 258 names, while there are 503 ballots on the string, and the returns show that 503 votes were polled. So, in the Third precinct of the First district, the poll book was withheld from the ballot box and is missing, and no explanation is attempted.

III.—Ballots Not Stamped.

In many ballot boxes ballots were found which had not been stamped, milled or punctured, while other ballots in the same boxes bore all these marks clearly and plainly. In some cases ballots were found strung and counted which had never even been folded. With perhaps half a dozen exceptions, all these suspicious ballots were Democratic. There was a very large number of ballots, certainly hundreds, if not thousands, which were punctured, but bore no other evidences of having been put through the mechanism of the box. The committee found, by numerous experiments with the boxes, that precisely this effect could be produced by folding two or more ballots together and putting them together through the mechanism. All these, with a trifling number of exceptions, were Democratic ballots. There was also a large number of ballots, probably as many as of the last-named kind, which showed a puncture, and at the edge a brief trace of the milling and stamping. By experiment, it was found that this effect could be invariably produced by folding two or more ballots together, allowing the inner ones to protrude slightly beyond the outer ones. All these ballots, with possibly a few exceptions, were Democratic tickets. The committee have no hesitation in saying that most, if not all, of these ballots were fraudulently introduced into the boxes, and the fact that in the precincts where they are found no corresponding surplus of ballots was reported by the election officers, inevitably leads to the conclusion that they connived at the fraud. It is to be remarked, that where these suspicious ballots are found other evidences of fraud are almost invariably found to accompany them.

When the 86 Jersey City ballot boxes were sent out before election, all of them were put in perfect order and the dials all set at zero. In a number of cases the dials were found at the close of election to register a much smaller number, and in some instances a much larger number, than the number of ballots returned by the election board. Some of the boxes were reported as broken or out of order. The committee tested nearly every box, and generally found that the boxes worked perfectly. There were, however, exceptions to this, and it is to be noted that, as a rule, the boxes which were really broken or out of order belonged to those precincts where the evidences of fraud were most abundant. In a number of cases the dials afforded useful corroborative evidence. For example, in the Fourth precinct of the Seventh district, where various gross frauds were committed, the dial at the close of election stood at 404. It also stood at 404 when delivered to the committee, and worked perfectly. The election board announced and returned that 507 votes had been cast. A watcher, who stood near the polls and took every name from beginning to end of the election, produced his list to the committee and swore to its correctness. It had 404 names. Of the votes on the string, 96 were the fraudulently stamped small ballots, and there were 13 loose tickets in the box unaccounted for. It was proved by two witnesses that one of the election board admitted that about 125 fraudulent votes had been put into this box by the election board.

It may be proper to state here, that the mechanism of the ballot boxes, while apparently not very well made or very perfectly adjusted, has proved of great use in detecting the frauds in this election. Thousands of ballots, which without the patent boxes must have been passed by as genuine for want of sufficient evidence against them, are unmistakably stamped as spurious by the vain effort to imitate or secure the appearance which the use of the box produced.

IV.—Repeating.

There is some direct evidence of repeating, and there is a mass of evidence which indicates that in one form or another it was very extensively done. Votes were received on the names of men who were dead, or who were beyond the seas, or who did not vote, or who had removed to and voted in other portions of the county.

The practice of retaining upon the registry lists and receiving votes upon the names of men known to be dead or removed, was found to be so prevalent in Jersey City that the committee cannot resist the conclusion that lists of such persons' are kept and habitually used. While many persons actually living in the precinct and registered fail to vote, these absentees are registered and voted in large numbers, and apparently so generally throughout the city that it is impossible to believe that it could be done without a thoroughly organized conspiracy among the election officers. A basis for the repeating was usually laid by unlawfully placing names on the registry lists. These names were obtained in several ways. If a man who has once voted moves out of a precinct, and particularly if he has moved out of the city, his name affords a safe cover for repeating for years to come. If a voter dies, so much the better. No inquiries are likely to be aroused by a vote upon his name. One witness swore that her husband had been dead fifteen years—yet his name is still carried on the registry, and some one voted upon it last November. Instances of voting on the names of persons who have been dead one, two, three or five years, are not uncommon. ◊

Another method of "stuffing the registry" is as follows: Suppose a voter by the name of John Doe appears and lawfully registers his name, at his true residence, No. 1 Washington street. Immediately below his name, on the registry, will be found on election day, "John Doe, Jr.," "Patrick Doe," "Michael Doe," all from No. 1 Washington street. The name and residence of the one real voter thus suggests to the dishonest board of registry a residence and names for three fictitious voters.

Many names were added to the registry lists, apparently at random, being scattered among the different numbers of the streets in the precincts. In this way some were registered from vacant lots, some from mills, blacksmith shops, stables, churches, and many from the private residences of gentlemen who were much astonished to learn, when called as witnesses, that unknown and unheard of persons had voted from their houses.

A large number of names were registered and voted from tug-boats and canal-boats which ply in New York harbor. One hundred and fifteen such votes were cast in one precinct. This registration and voting is almost wholly fraudulent. Many of the vessels hail from New England, New York, Elizabethport, Amboy, &c., and only tie up in Jersey City when they happen to be in the North river. Their crews have for the most part homes on shore, and do not give the boats as their residences when they vote. It appears that a fictitious list was made up by some one and added to the registry lists. The masters and owners of many of the vessels were called, and, with a few exceptions, recognized none of the names registered.

Nine persons were registered from the little tug "Huddler." Her entire crew is three men. It was shown that on election day several of the vessels were at sea or in New England ports, or elsewhere away from Jersey City.

It was found to be a common thing to write the names and addresses of the repeaters in the registry and poll books so indistinctly that they could not be deciphered with certainty. In many cases the first letter of the name would be written clearly enough and all that followed would be a scrawl. The same was true of the names of streets. The difficulty did not appear to be inability to write clearly, for most of the election officers could write a fair hand, as shown by their signatures, and the clerks of election appear to be rather expert with the pen. An intention to slur the names over was quite apparent.

A considerable amount of repeating or fraudulent voting was done without any reference to the registry lists. A large number of names were found on the poll books which cannot be found on the registry lists, and their fraudulent character is the more apparent because they are often found in groups, as if they had been written in as opportunities offered during the day.

A common form of repeating was the simple one of receiving two votes on one name. In such cases the two votes would generally be widely separated on the poll book. For example, John Smith would appear as number 10 on the poll book and again as number 550, appearing on the registry but once. As the name on the registry is by law required to be checked when the vote is received, this form of repeating necessarily involves the election board, and it was practiced so extensively that there can be no doubt of their complicity in it. That they should have allowed to be practiced a fraud so easy of detection shows how reckless and corrupt they were. Proof was made of some instances of one person voting two or more times in the same precinct on different names, and also of persons voting in different precincts.

Evidence was produced indicating that gangs of repeaters were brought to Jersey City from the Bowery lodging houses in New York who voted about ten times each in the Fourth Assembly District and other districts. Considerable information corroborative of this evidence reached the committee, and much of the other evidence produced tended to corroborate it. The difficulty of making positive proof of such facts will be understood by the Senate. The witnesses who could have developed the details of this fraud were in the city of New York, and it was found to be impossible to induce them to come to New Jersey to testify before the committee.

It was proved that in numerous instances so-called "boarders" were present at the tenement houses and boarding houses of Jersey City about election time. Their stay was short and irregular. Where they have gone the witnesses could not tell, nor what their business was. Some witnesses testified that certain houses usually filled up about a week or two before election. The evidence given about those numerous persons who "moved away just after election" was often given reluctantly, and was far from satisfactory. Considered in the light of all the other evidence, which it is impossible to rehearse in this report, the committee are convinced that colonizing and repeating were extensively and generally carried on in Jersey City and parts of Hoboken, and, probably, in other parts of the county.

As has been said, about 800 witnesses were summoned by the committee, of whom the greater number appeared and testified with regard to this branch of the investigation. Apparently, the inquiry could have been prolonged indefinitely; the results were substantially the same in whatever direction the search was made, but, having spent three and a half months in the work, the committee decided to push the canvassing and the examination of witnesses no further of their own motion, and to leave the contestant and incumbent to add any further evidence they deemed important. After consideration, both declined to offer any.

It should be stated, that by sanction of the committee the Fourth ward of Hoboken was canvassed by sending circulars to the persons whose names appear on the poll books. Fourteen hundred and seventy-five circulars were sent, each with a postal card for reply. One hundred and seventeen were returned by the post office as "not found," and of these 54 were reported either to have died or removed before last November, or never to have been heard of at the houses from which they are said to have voted.

Five hundred and eighty-one replies were received from voters, and 18 of these declare that they did not vote.

V.—Substitution of Ballots.

The extent to which the substitution of false ballots was practiced it is impossible to say, but that it was done is proved. In several precincts of the Seventh Assembly District the indications of it are too clear to be mistaken. The 114 clean tickets, all exactly alike and all bearing the false stamp, which were found on the string in the box of the First precinct of that district, were, we are satisfied, substituted for an equal number of tickets of another kind. They were the Democratic tickets with an eagle at the top. The 106 of similar tickets marked by the same false stamp, found in the box of the Third precinct of that district, were doubtless substituted in like manner. The first of these boxes reached the City Clerk's office at 4.42 A. M. of November 6th, and the second at 6.56 A. M. The other tickets in these boxes show signs of rough handling, and are soiled, as ballots usually are that have been handled and voted. Moreover, most of them have been strung twice. The false ballots are clean and neat, and although scattered along the string, have been strung but once.

In the Fourth ward of Hoboken (Fifth election district) a large number of ballots were left in the box after the counting was done, which the Democratic Judge of Election burned up; others, of them were thrown in the street, and were found and picked up and were found to be votes for Stuhr.

In other precincts there were indications of the same fraud; indeed it probably was practiced in most of those where the grosser frauds were committed. It is a difficult crime to detect, particularly if the substituted ballots are put through the mechanism of the ballot boxes.

VI.—Intimidation and Violence.

Sixteen uniformed policemen were sent to the polling place of the First precinct of the Seventh district on the first day of registration. They formed in two lines in front of the approach to the place of registry. The only reason for their presence that the committee can learn was to assist the three Democratic election officers in preventing William Davis, Republican Inspector, from taking his seat in the election board. They succeeded, of course, and a pliable tool was put in his place. Eight of the policemen remained during the days of registration and during election day, drawn up in two lines, between which voters approached the polling place. When it was reached the voter was compelled to hand his vote through a door to the Judge of Election who stood inside. The evidence is, that there was no disorder, and that such a show of force was entirely unprecedented in the precinct. Any effective watch of the conduct of the election officers was made impossible. In the Third precinct of the same district the policemen present actually aided the dishonest election board in keeping away watchers during the progress of the count, and suffered the count to proceed in private, threatening to assault voters who should attempt to enter the room to observe the count. In this precinct the conduct of the election officers was such that it was the clear duty of the police to take them all into custody. The voters of the precinct who, to the number of twenty or more, stood their ground through the night in the effort to watch the count, are entitled to much credit, although, through the monstrous conduct of the election officers and the police, they were prevented from witnessing the count.

Witnesses who testified to illegal voting in different precincts were asked why they did not challenge the voters, and their replies were practically to this effect: It is useless to do so, it is unsafe, and if it was done, not only would the challenger be in danger, but would be prevented from continuing even to watch. The management of the elections in many of the precincts of Jersey City is in the hands of brutal, violent men, and they are made bold by the fact that they count upon the support of the police and other officers of the law.

Voting is so conducted that it is disagreeable for respectable people to vote, and electioneering for any ticket not approved by the rough crowd that surrounds the polls is made not only disagreeable, but difficult and dangerous. Watchers are assaulted or hustled about or drawn into quarrels, their tickets destroyed, and their tally books snatched away. Honest voters who are well known find hindrances to their voting, and are surprised by being challenged and delayed at the polls, while loafers whom nobody ever before saw there are quickly recognized and their votes deposited in the box before time enough has elapsed to find their names on the registry.

The evidence satisfies us that the frauds throughout the county were generally the work of the election officers themselves, and where fraud was committed by others they had knowledge of it and connived at it.

That the same officers who committed the crimes above recited committed no others, it would be absurd to suppose.

The committee entertain no doubt that extensive substitution of ballots was practiced both during the election and after opening the boxes before they were left at the proper place of deposit.

The law requires that the votes shall be received and deposited in a public manner and the boxes kept in public view. It is also required by law that the canvass shall be conducted in a public manner, and that in any city the Inspectors of Election shall forthwith, upon the completion of the canvass, carry the boxes containing the ballots, by the shortest route, to the City Clerk's office. These requirements appear to have been violated in many precincts. It appears by the testimony of the City Clerk of Jersey City that 24 boxes reached him after midnight, 16 after 1 A. M., 11 after 2 A. M., 6 after 3 A. M., 4 after 4 A. M., 1 at 5.11 A. M., 1 at 6.56 A. M., and 1 at 9 A. M. Many of the boxes so delayed belonged to precincts within a few minutes' walk of the City Hall.

It is to be noted that the boxes from the 12 Jersey City precincts of the Sixth district, which are the most remote from the City Hall, were delivered to the City Clerk before midnight, the first arriving at 8.50 P. M. and the last at 11.40 P. M. These precincts, likewise, are freer from suspicion of fraud than any others in the city.

In the Fourth ward of Hoboken, where gross frauds were committed, there are 6 precincts. In none of the 6 precincts were more than 300 votes polled, yet the first box, with 150 votes, did not reach the City Hall until 12.25 A. M.; the next, with 239 votes, at 1.15 A. M.; the next, with 233 votes, at 2.22 A. M.; the next, with 295 votes, at 4.10 A. M.; the next, with 300 votes, at 4.20 A. M.; and the last, with 276, at 5.20 A. M. These precincts are near the City Hall. Allowing a reasonable time to carry the boxes from the polling places to the City Hall, it will be seen that, on an average, the election officers in this ward took nearly three hours to count a hundred ballots, while in the 12 Jersey City precincts of the Sixth district, where no frauds are developed, the officers, on an average, counted a hundred votes in 51 minutes.

In the light of other irregularities committed by these election officers, it is, in the judgment of your committee, an unavoidable inference that these unlawful acts and delays were in furtherance of the same conspiracy to fraudulently diminish the vote for the Fusion ticket and increase the votes for the regular Democratic ticket.

In reaching a conclusion upon the remarkable case before them, a case of election crimes unprecedented in the annals of the State, your committee have taken into consideration, as a part of the evidence before them, the course of legislation, the division of parties, the results of previous elections, and other revelant matters of public record, of common knowledge and of general history. It is absurd to say that notice may be taken of the history of political corruption in Rome in the time of Clodius, or in England in the time of Walpole, but that we must shut our eyes to contemporary corruption in New Jersey. To use the language of the Supreme Court of Maine in the election contests of 1880:

"We are bound to take judicial notice of the doings of the Executive and Legislative Departments of the governments. * * * We are bound to take judicial notice of historical facts, matters of public notoriety and interest transpiring in our midst. We cannot accept a statement which asserts, as facts, matters that are in conflict with the record and with the historical facts that we are not at liberty to disregard.

"It cannot be that such a construction must be given to the Constitution of the State as will subvert the plain and obvious intention of its framers, or place it in the power of a few men to perpetuate their hold upon the offices in the gift of the people, in defiance of the will of the voters, constitutionally expressed and ascertained, because their own neglect of duty has made some departure from directory provisions and ordinary forms inevitable." 70 Me. 609, 612.

Under an act passed in 1888, the majority of the Board of Aldermen of Jersey City chose two and the minority party two election officers for each precinct, thus securing a non-partisan board of election.

By a Democratic caucus measure, devised and urged through the Legislature by the representatives from Hudson county, and passed just after the spring election of 1889, all these officers were legislated out of office and 344 vacancies created in Jersey City. It then became the duty of the Board of Alderman, under the 174th section of the General Elections Act, to fill the vacancies, which they proceeded to do by the choice of the persons who have committed the frauds above rehearsed. By another Democratic caucus measure, likewise urged and insisted on by the Hudson county members, the Personal Registration Act of 1888, which applied to Jersey City and Newark only, was repealed. It is not without significance that by still another caucus measure, advocated by the same members, the duty to draw grand and petit juries was restored to the sheriff.

Among the new appointees by the Board of Aldermen, three election officers in every precinct, whatever its political character, were chosen avowedly as Democrats, and the fourth, while designated as a Republican, was, in many precincts, repudiated as such by the voters of that party. Thus was the foundation laid on which might be erected a structure of fraud in every precinct of the city, regardless of its party character.

Not only in the slums of the city, but often in respectable precincts, the citizen was compelled to intrust his ballot to the dirty fingers of some notorious and brutal ruffian, whose very presence in that position was equivalent to a declaration of fraudulent design. With such a force of election officers, backed up by a truckling police force, the opportunities for election frauds could not well have been more complete.

The dangerous character of the governing authorities of Hudson county, and especially of Jersey City, created alarm and revolt. Such popular revolts have been frequent in Jersey City, where the chief cause of bad government is not the character, so much as the indifference, of its citizens, many of whom spend their days in the city of New York. A strong organization sprang up among members of the Democratic party, and nominations were made and a combination was formed with the Republican party of the county, each naming part of the ticket. The result was the "Fusion Ticket," upon which Mr. Stuhr was candidate for Senator, being one of the Democratic nominees. This ticket seems to have been acceptable to the Republicans of the county, and no serious defection appears. The canvass of this committee shows that in 123 precincts where the count was kept the name of Mr. Stuhr was scratched on only 255 Fusion tickets, and the name of Mr. McDonald on 284 Democratic tickets. The total vote for Mr. Stuhr, as reported by the election officers, was 16,582; as found in the boxes by the canvass of your committee, 16,899. There is no question that Mr. Stuhr was entitled to all these votes, and your committee are satisfied that he received many more. For instance, in the Fourth precinct of the First district, out of 322 votes the election officers gave Mr. Stuhr only 13; in the First precinct of the same district, only 65 out of 503; in the Ninth precinct, only 10 out of 511; in the Second district he was given, in the First precinct, only 30 out of 456; in the Second precinct, 35 out of 393; in the Third, 60 out of 491; in the First precinct of the Fifth district, he was given 10 out of 261. These instances might be multiplied. In each of these districts, fraudulent ballots by the hundred in favor of Mr. McDonald have been detected, and in many of them false counting against Stuhr. When we remember that Mr. Stuhr was nominated by Democrats, that many influential Democrats were supporting him, and that he actually carried Democratic precincts adjoining those above cited in face of gross frauds against him, it is hardly possible to doubt that he was deprived by fraud of votes running up into thousands. The criminals who reveled in every other election crime did not omit this simple mode of making place for the "joker ballots" put by them into the box. We are convinced that 18,000 would be an underestimate of the honest ballots cast for Mr. Stuhr.

We turn now to another phase of the conspiracy. The Hudson County Democratic Committee consists of 129 members, one from each of the precincts of the county. It has sub-committees of 10 each, one of each sub-committee being selected from each Assembly District. These are termed the executive committee, and the committees on organization, finance, auditing, printing and naturalization.

The evidence shows that this admirably contrived organization, although nominally kept up, has been in fact abandoned, and that the real organization consists of three or four leaders who decide and control everything, and the other members of the committee have little or no voice in the proceedings, being really the tools and hirelings of the leaders. The leaders are prominent office holders, and the other members are mostly holders of petty offices and clerkships and other positions in the public service, and are dependent for their maintenance therein upon the good will of the leaders. Such a thing as equality among the representatives of the different precincts is not thought of. The relationship between the leaders and the other members is that of master and man, of the political "boss" and "workers." The Finance Committee was not allowed to manage the finances, the Treasurer did not handle the money, the Printing Committee procured no printing, and the committees scarcely ever met, if at all. The chairman was a figure-head, giving no direction or control to the management of affairs; the Auditing Committee were not asked nor allowed to audit the accounts. The funds were received and disbursed without accounting, by Robert Davis, Sheriff, the real manager and leader of the committee; the printing was procured by him; the funds were distributed to the different precincts by him; apparently he had as complete control of the general committee as a colonel of his regiment. Two or three other prominent office holders were taken into his confidence to a greater or less extent, but it is doubtful if he confided everything to any one person. That anything of importance was done in the campaign without his knowledge and consent, is scarcely possible.

On the night before the election, the 129 members of the committee met at the Democratic headquarters in Jersey City. Behind a table sat Robert Davis, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Michael J. O'Donnell, Chairman of the General Committee, and Edward A. Dugan, Treasurer. On the table in front of them there lay several thousand of the small ballots above referred to, put up in small packages; they made a mass about as large as a ballot box. On the table were also packages of money, one for each precinct; also packages of pasters for certain candidates. On the floor were great bundles of Democratic tickets of the regular size, a package for each Assembly district, and these, from time to time, were placed upon the table for distribution. The Secretary called the roll and the members came forward, one by one, and to each was handed a package of the larger tickets for his precinct, a package of pasters and a parcel of money, and to those who would take them there was also given a package of the small tickets; many did take them; some would not. The handing out of the money and tickets was kept up for three hours. There is no direct evidence that these small tickets were then already stamped; probably those that were displayed on the table were not. Robert Davis testified that he saw these small tickets in the hands of workers at nine precincts which he named on election day. He says he saw only the fronts of them, the backs being covered up. He saw them in the hands of Patrick H. O'Neill, City Collector, John O'Brien and others. O'Neill testified that he gave some to voters; he says they had clean backs. Yet the significant and startling fact is, that 25 of them found in the box in the precinct where Mr. O'Neill was working all have the false stamp on the back, and the 864 found in nine boxes of the precincts mentioned by Mr. Davis all likewise bore the false stamp. Several Democratic witnesses testified that they saw some of these ballots lying on the table or shelf at the polling places unstamped, but, with a trifling number of exceptions, none of the unstamped ones got into the ballot boxes. We think that they were displayed there to be seen during the progress of the election, so that when the boxes were opened the fact that the ballots were very small would not excite suspicion and remark. They were not placed there for the use of voters, and were not used by honest voters. These small ballots were prepared and printed for use in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh districts. They were all of about the same size, but there were three different imprints, the types and arrangement being different. Mr. Henry Byrne, member of Assembly from the Second district, testified that he had 5,000 printed for use in his district. He says that a man whom he knew, but whose name he is unable to remember, and whose appearance he professes to be entirely unable to describe, came to him a day or two before election and suggested that he have these printed. He had met the man before, during the campaign, and had communications with him, and was acquainted with him, but he would state nothing whatever that would give any clue to the identity of this man. On the suggestion of this person he instructed him to go to Mr. Albert Datz and cause these ballots to be printed. They were printed and delivered to him, and he kept them in his store until the morning of election, or the night before, when he gave them out to the different precincts; he would not state to whom. He professes ignorance as to when and how they came to be stamped with the false stamp. Mr. Albert Datz testified that a man whom he knew and who had come to to him with other orders for printing during the campaign, came to him with this order from Mr. Byrne, and that he did print the ballots and deliver them to this man. He professes to be entirely unable to remember the name, or face, or appearance of the man, or to say whether he was young or old. We are convinced that these ballots were prepared at the suggestion of the same person who suggested the preparation of the others; they were fraudulently stamped like the others, and used in the same way. The person who had possession of the false stamp probably stamped all the small tickets. We have no doubt that these ballots were prepared and distributed by the same persons who had the active management and control of the Democratic campaign, and that the men who handed out these tickets on the night before election at the Democratic headquarters, or, at least, some of them, caused them to be prepared, fraudulently stamped and distributed.

These same men who control the Democratic County Committee caused the registry lists of the Fourth district to be taken from the City Hall by one of the Aldermen as soon as they were filed, and kept at the Democratic headquarters until the night before election. Notwithstanding dilligent efforts by the representatives of the Fusion ticket, they were unable to see these lists or to ascertain the state of the registry. These same men caused to be prepared at the Democratic headquarters about seventy lists of names, which, on October 31st, the last day of the registry, they sent in charge of two employes of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners to seventy of the different polling places in Jersey City and delivered them to the officers of election. It is to be remembered that on that day registry can only be lawfully made by personal appearance of the voter before the Board, or by affidavit from some voter. The use, therefore, of these lists of names at the registry was unlawful, and we believe that this remarkable proceeding accounts for the tremendous registration which was made. The total registration in Jersey City for the presidential election of 1888, which called forth an exceptionally large vote, was 32,218, which was commented on at the time by the newspapers as being an extraordinary registry, and which was found to contain much false registration. The registration in 1889, which in any case would be much smaller than that in the presidential year, reached the total of very nearly 40,000, a number wholly unprecedented and unapproached in the history of the city, and which cannot be reasonably accounted for except by fraud. We believe that the false registry in Jersey City amounted to fully 10,000 names, and that a very large part of these names was furnished by the seventy lists sent out on October 31st.

It was developed during the investigation that not only were a large number of the members of the County Committee young men, who are in subordinate offices of the city and county governments, and dependent on the leaders for their livelihood, but nearly all the election officers whose criminal conduct is clear were either employes of the Jersey City or Hudson county governments at the time of the election, or else were taken into such employ soon after the election. Some of the so-called Republican Inspectors who suffered these frauds to be committed without protest, were soon given places under the Jersey City government. It seems to be the plan of the managers of this criminal work to pay for it by the distribution of the public offices among the criminals. There are now probably 100 men drawing pay from the treasuries of Jersey City and Hudson county who were concerned in the crimes which this inquiry has developed. The motive they have to continue to commit these election frauds and to conceal them will be understood when it is remembered that only by so doing can they retain the favor of those who put them in their places and continue to receive the salaries which now give them a livelihood.

It is evident that the number of tickets in the boxes having Mr. McDonald's name upon them is no reliable evidence as to the number of votes he received. Is there any reasonable way to ascertain how many lawful votes were actually cast? It is evident that fraud in Hudson county elections is no new thing. So many experts have not been found without previous training. Some conclusions may be drawn from the vote at previous elections for Senator and Governor which in Hudson county fall in the same years. We discard returns for elections of county officers and members of Assembly only as too low, and Presidential votes as too high for a test. The vote in Hudson county in 1883 amounted to 27,356.

In 1886 the reported vote reached 31,771. The reported vote in 1889 was 41,042. The fraudulent character of this vote the inflated figures show, and your committee have demonstrated. The election of 1889 did not call out a full vote in Hudson county. In those precincts where the least evidence of fraud appears the vote was not heavy.

Your committee are convinced that the honest vote polled does not exceed 35,000, and that of this vote Mr. Stuhr received a plurality. While the frauds perpetrated have made a perfect demonstration impossible, yet the majority of your committee insist that a careful study of the returns, in the light of the exposures of a fraudulent conspiracy, will lead any disinterested student of the subject to the conclusion that the election of Mr. Stuhr is beyond reasonable doubt.

At the recent municipal election in Jersey City there was an unmistakable condemnation of the corrupt practices at the election of 1889. In the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth aldermanic districts, a majority was given, in spite of frauds, against the organization in power and responsible for the frauds. The same feeling unquestionably controlled the action of the voters in the other districts. Nevertheless, the same desperate conspirators renominated the same election officers, and with these exposed criminals in charge of the polls, renewed the frauds of the previous fall, and actually repeated and enlarged the impudent majorities then certified. By open and shameless frauds, these election officers—placed under bail for their offences by the judges of the higher criminal courts—have counted themselves again into control of the elections. To order a new election is to invite a renewal of these crimes.

This case is without a precedent. Since the early days of the investigation no responsible person has denied the existence of gross and monstrous fraud. That the election was enveloped in fraud, criminally directed and conducted, is no longer disputed. The canvassing board was largely composed of and was dominated by criminal conspirators fresh from election crimes. The statement of the determination of the election was based on fraud and promulgated by criminals. It must be, therefore, alike by the maxims of law, the rules of justice, and the promptings of common sense, set aside. Then there remain in this case no presumptions in favor of anybody. It is the duty of the Senate to determine from all the facts, applying the rules of reason and common sense, who was elected. The 2,800 pages of type-written testimony demonstrate that the vote of the county was fraudulently inflated many thousands—probably much more than 7,000—and that Mr. Stuhr received from 18,000 to 20,000 votes, and was elected Senator.

Your committee has spent laborious months in unraveling the most monstrous election conspiracy that ever disgraced a State. The majority are satisfied that they have reached a degree of certainty far beyond anything that can be derived from the certificates of these unwhipped criminals. They are convinced that Mr. Stuhr was honestly elected.

To fail to give him possession of the office to which he was chosen, would be a personal injustice of the most flagrant kind, and an outrage upon the majority of the honest voters of Hudson county who elected him. We have seen the leering, sodden faces of wretches garnered out of the foul places of a great city to assume the sacred trust of conducting an election by the people. If further power for evil is placed in their hands it will not be by the sanction of the majority of your committee.

The majority of your committee report that, in their judgment, William S. Stuhr received a majority of the votes honestly cast for Senator in Hudson county at the election of 1889, and should be seated.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN J. GARDNER,
JOS. B. ROE,

Of the Senate Committee on Elections.

Resolved, That William S. Stuhr be and he is hereby declared to be entitled to a seat in this Senate, and he is hereby declared to be a member of this Senate from the county of Hudson.

Mr. Adrain, on behalf of himself, as a minority of said committee, presented the following report:

To the New Jersey Senate:

Upon the 8th day of January, 1890, being the day upon which the Senate of New Jersey convened, William S. Stuhr presented to said body a protest against the seating of Edward F. McDonald, member from Hudson county.

The protest was ordered filed, and afterwards referred to the Committee on Elections for action thereon. Subsequently thereto a resolution was introduced directing an investigation into the election at last November, in Hudson county, to determine if William S. Stuhr was entitled to the seat occupied by Edward F. McDonald.

The proceeding was introduced to the attention of the Senate alone by simple protest, containing a number of assertions, but with no accuracy as to the matter of fact.

The usual method pursued by a contestant for a seat in the Senate is by the method suggested by the 116th section of the act concerning elections, found upon page 357 of the Revision, and the sections following, which direct that notice shall be given by the person contesting to the person holding a certificate of election, which notice shall particularly set forth the ground or grounds on which such seat will be contested.

Not that the Senate has not the right to try the title of the seat of any member therein, in any manner that they may adopt, still, if the contestant believed that he had a bona fide title to a seat in the Senate in opposition to the incumbent, ninety-nine men out of one hundred would have followed the method pointed out by the statute.

The natural tendency of every man is to pursue the course indicated by law. The course pursued by the contestant, if it proves nothing, leads to the conclusion that at the outset of this investigation he did not believe in his own case, which want of belief was shared by every man in the State of New Jersey. It was openly rumored upon the street that the investigation was merely a voyage of discovery to be used for political jugglery and legerdemain.

The leaders of the Republican party openly stated that they had no intention of unseating Edward F. McDonald, but they possessed the power to investigate, and having such power, they proposed to make what they could out of it; at the same time readily recognizing that the frauds complained of were similar to those carried on in the counties of Camden and Atlantic by the Republican party.

If the majority of Edward F. McDonald had been small, if there had been a fluctuation in the political character of the county, there might have been something in the argument that the straight Democratic ticket had been defeated; but to insist, for one moment, that the stronghold of Democracy had suddenly gone over to the fusion ticket, was beyond the temerity of the greatest cormorant in the Republican party, even supposing that he had an existence in Atlantic county.

It must be remembered, and it will be seen upon the examination of all the evidence introduced in this case, that after deducting all of the alleged fraudulent votes from the majority of Edward F. McDonald, he will still have a majority in excess of all the eleven Republicans put together.

The idea that the majority of the Election Committee would report to unseat Edward F. McDonald, and in lieu and instead seat William H. Stuhr, has never been entertained until within the last few days of the investigation, when William S. Stuhr put in a personal appearance before the committee, at Jersey City, followed by the appearance of John J. Toffey, Treasurer of the State, and Edward J. Anderson, the Comptroller of the State—two men more interested in the unseating of Edward F. McDonald than all the residue of the State put together—whose appearance at the finish was done for no other purpose than a silent insistence from them that Edward F. McDonald must be unseated at all hazards.

The picture in the New York World, wherein Senator Gardner, Chairman of the committee, seated in the committee-room with the Comptroller on one side and the Treasurer on the other, wherein, it is stated, he was relating one or more of his funny little anecdotes, was no other than a whispered conversation, in which these two gentlemen were plotting for the seat of Edward F. McDonald, so that they might themselves remain in safety in the respective positions of Comptroller and State Treasurer.

Their very presence, together with Stuhr, was the first intimation to the people of the State of New Jersey of the monstrous outrage that the majority of the Election Committee were about to perpetrate upon the good citizens of Hudson county.

That this committee ever rose to the dignity of a tribunal, composed of judges for a legal investigation, I deny.

Without consultation with me, counsel was secured without first having a meeting to determine whether counsel was necessary, or who that counsel should be.

Innumerable sergeants-at-arms suddenly made their appearance without my knowledge or my consent, together with a stenographic reporter. At no time have I been or was I consulted with reference to the plan or action adopted by the committee or the advising counsel. In fact, no system or method seems to have been adopted from the beginning to the end; no issues were defined; numbers of witnesses were introduced without prior examination by the counsel, who knew nothing about the subject.

All this, at an enormous expense to the State of New Jersey, utterly and entirely uncalled for, because before we were half through with the investigation, it was well known to every member of the committee that the examination was an absolute failure, in that the tremendous majority of Edward F. McDonald would be so reduced that William S. Stuhr could secure the seat.

During the progress of the examination, every rule of evidence known to the law that was in any way involved was flagrantly violated; even the counsel for the committee so far forgot himself as a lawyer in his partisan desire to be successful, that he insisted, upon one occasion, upon the argument of the admissibility of testimony, that fraud could be presumed without any proof of the fact.

The resolution adopted by the Senate presents but one single, solitary issue, and that is, has William S. Stuhr proved by competent testimony that he has received a majority over and above the vote received by Edward F. McDonald for Senator of Hudson county?

To arrive at a judgment upon this question, this issue must never be lost sight of, and right here seems to have been the difficulty of the Chairman and his associate in the control and management of this investigation.

Upon the discovery of what is alleged to be fraud in the county of Hudson, instead of looking toward the end to see whether these frauds were sufficient to demolish the majority of Edward F. McDonald—which was the only matter for the committee to consider—the majority of the committee became imbued with the idea that they were avengers bent upon the pursuit and conviction of each and every man that was shown to have had anything to do with these alleged frauds; they became the judiciary, the grand jury, the petit jury, and assumed that this was their province, and numbers of witnesses in this particular were introduced who may have shown some incidental fraud, but threw no light upon the desired result. The committee apparently had the idea that at the finish they had the power of conviction and punishment.

The county of Hudson has its Justice of the Supreme Court, its Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, its grand and petit jurors and its sheriff, all provided under the law of the State of New Jersey for the administration of justice and punishment of crime, and paid for at a large expense, by the State, yet, notwithstanding, this committee has invaded that province at a cost of $10,000, which they expect the State of New Jersey to pay.

The majority of the committee found themselves in this position, that they must either unseat Edward F. McDonald as an apology for their action or admit that the investigation was a failure, and this the committee had not the manhood to do.

Rather than suffer defeat they proposed to humiliate a man whose reputation is untarnished, whose name is a talisman to every laboring man in the State of New Jersey, and a man, if I may be permitted to predict, who some day will sit in halls where the majority of this committee will not be permitted to enter.

There is one fact admitted by all parties, that during all this long investigation and the many inquiries that have been made, not a single act or word connects Edward F. McDonald directly or indirectly with the slightest fraud in connection with the November election. Amidst the allegations of fraud and the evidence of the want of integrity of many men in political power in Hudson county, he stands out as a bright and beautiful star.

If there has been any fraud, and if unseated, he is forced to suffer for the alleged misdoings of others.

The learned gentleman who argued the contestant's case argues that this is a case of conspiracy, and commenced when the Legislature of last winter repealed the registry law, the sunset law, the jury commission law, and that in repealing them the motive was to play into the hands of the banditi of Hudson. How ridiculous such a statement is, is seen by merely repeating it.

Where was the motive? Hudson was the stronghold of the Democratic party; not a man presumed for a moment that Hudson would change its political complexion. Why then attempt to insist as the first foundation of conspiracy the repeal of these laws? The Senator from Hudson was perfectly safe, so the first insistent of counsel must fall to the ground.

During the argument by the learned gentlemen, he reminded me of a horse that has broken loose from his harness and who was running wild in the freeness of his power—a magnificent sight, but of little or no utility.

By the returns, Edward F. McDonald received a majority in excess of 8,000 votes. The single question is, is that an honest majority or is it not? If it is not honest, how much of it is not, and what do the facts show with respect to that majority? And to the facts alone are we bound to confine ourselves.

We are trying this case as a court of law. Learned counsel have compared the committee to judges while investigating the evidence, and a jury while listening to the argument of counsel. We are bound by the rules of law and the rules of evidence, and are bound to try this case under our oaths and under the evidence, eliminating all feelings of party bias or party presumption unless the inferences arise from the fact. By recount, that majority was reduced to 7,852.

In the investigation of this case, the first thing that was examined by the committee was the ballot boxes; every ballot box in every polling district in the county of Hudson was actually inspected. These ballot boxes were known as the Hall and Wood ballot boxes, a device or scheme invented for the purpose of preventing fraud in elections, and were adopted by the State of New Jersey by an act passed in 1887, page 228, entitled "A supplement to an act to regulate elections," approved April 18th, 1876. They were provided with a Hall-safe and Yale-key lock, and, in the language of the act, "shall have a mechanism adapted to convey a ballot into the box and print the same in its passage to the feeding rolls in connection with the printing pad and a puncturing point, to puncture ballots conveyed into the box, in combination with a registering ballot box, the revolving dial, located outside of the box and actuated by the feeding mechanism which conveys the ballots into the box, with a knocker, also actuated by the mechanism which feeds the ballots, to strike said dial and give audible notice when the ballot is deposited by sounding an alarm by means of a bell attachment, and that said ballot box shall have four French plate-glass sides."

No evidence was introduced as to the condition of the boxes by any expert with reference thereto. Forty-two thousand tickets were counted and inspected. Of that number 1,760 cast for McDonald have been denominated "jokers," "foreigners" and "strangers," and are alleged to be fraudulent, alone upon the testimony of inspection, upon the ground that upon their face they bore the stamp or impression made by some other stamp than that used in the box.

The committee had no difficulty in eliminating these tickets from the residue of the tickets. All others bore the indellible stamp, either of the stamp of the box, the milling process, or the puncturing process, and were at the time of inspection denominated true and honest ballots, bearing the stamp of truth upon their face as did the others of falsity.

These "jokers," "strangers" and "foreigners," if fraudulent, have been inserted in the boxes by the judges and inspectors of election, for it is admitted that they did not pass the slot in the box.

This is an omnipotent argument to the effect that, the others are true, because, if the others are false, the judges, instead of using "jokers," would have passed the straight tickets as readily through the box.

What is more, the dial upon the boxes which regulates the number of votes which passed through corresponded with the number of votes counted, less the "jokers," "foreigners" and "strangers."

This does away with the argument that the "jokers" represent the number of Stuhr tickets taken out of the box.

During the early part of the investigation of the tickets every ticket was examined with the greatest of care and examined under the glass and declared, at the time, honest or dishonest. At the conclusion of said count, the greatest insistent was that there was but 1,760 fraudulent votes.

The committee, in their investigation, have relied upon personal inspection of the box, not depending on the returns or certificate of election, but upon actual count, and have depended upon the mechanism of the Hall and Wood ballot box as a surety that those tickets are alone genuine that actually bore the indicia named for the construction of the ballot box.

If the argument that 1,760 did not bear the stamp of the box be that they are, therefore, false and spurious, then those that bear the stamp and indicia of the box are true and bona fide.

The inspection of these tickets was a personal inspection by the committee, not by clerks or talismen. After an inspection of a certain number of the ballot boxes, they were known, as they made their appearance, as honest or dishonest tickets, to the committee and every one present at the time.

There was no difficulty in determining the honest from the fraudulent ballots, and the tally of the ballots was kept right in the line of this argument.

In this connection, I cite Narr on Elections, page 238: "The disposition of the courts is against rejecting the entire poll, if it is possible to ascertain the majority for whom the legal votes were given, and if, in recounting the ballots, it be found that some of them have been marked by the election officers, in violation of the statute, they should, nevertheless, be counted."

No evidence has been introduced, of any strength, to show misconduct in the handling of the ballot box on the day of election.

The committee have depended entirely upon inspection. The committee have no right to presume fraud unless it can be inferred from the facts proved.

The committee have no right to presume any other frauds, with respect to the ballot boxes, than those shown. In this connection, I cite Narr on Elections, wherein he uses the following language: "Where the statute provides how the ballots should be kept after election, they are the best evidence."

In the same connection, McCrary on the American Law on Elections, page 227.

Biddle & Richards v. Wing, C., L. & H., 504, and McKenzie v. Broxton, and Geddings v. Clark, 42d Congress, Cooley's Constitutional Limitations.

If there is anything in the argument or insistent so far, that there have been fraudulent votes cast to the amount of 1,760, this reduces the majority from 7,852 to 6,092. For the sake of argument, admit that 1,760 fraudulent votes represent 1,760 taken from William H. Stuhr by the false votes being substituted for the honest vote of William H. Stuhr; that would necessitate the deduction of 1,760 from 6,092, which leaves a majority still to Edward F. McDonald of 4,332.

This concludes that branch of the case which is known as inspection of the ballots, and Edward F. McDonald still has a majority of 4,332.

We now come to that branch of the case which is under the head of false registration and false polling.

The evidence introduced under this head shows that the committee, in their investigation, found that in some 33 out of 129 precincts there had been false registration, in that men had voted from empty lots, stables, non-residents who had left town for many years, and in many instances dead.

With reference to the registration, there is no evidence of the intent to commit fraud. The registry was taken from the old registration lists; the evidence showed that the people moved from time to time very extensively—they moved their boarding places, they moved from one apartment to another, and they moved between the registry days, and it often happens that they vote from the new places.

The evidence shows that a number of persons would swear, and did swear, that certain individuals did not live in certain localities, and in the next breath admit that they did not know who lived there.

Giving this testimony the very fullest force, including all the allegations of fact, of doubtful testimony with reference to false registration and illegal voting upon the polling book, amounting, by careful computation, to 1,239, and charging every false registration and every false name as entered upon the poll book, for the sake of the argument, and for the sake of admitting every insistent in the nature of a reduction of Edward F. McDonald's majority, we still find him having a majority of 3,093.

Now, the insistent of counsel for Mr. Stuhr is, that by reason of the fact that they have proved false registration in 33 precincts out of 129, which represents the full number of precincts in Hudson county, that therefore they have a right to presume that the same proportion of the fraud permeated each of the other districts not examined.

I apprehend that the committee are trying this case according to the evidence introduced.

We have no facts with reference to the precincts beyond the 33 at all, and we therefore have no inferences; we cannot imagine, or guess, or presume. Fraud can never be presumed or inferred unless you have a fact or circumstance to build your presumption or inference from.

This is the rule of law as laid down in Bump on Fraudulent Conveyances (2d edition), page 583.

In the argument of the learned gentlemen for the contestant, he uses the following language: "If we have not proved it all, we have satisfied the law; we have satisfied justice; do not talk to me of figures. I say that the vote cast for Senator is so permeated by fraud that it is a nonentity; it must be thrown out; it is deeper than all mathematics—I never was much of a mathematician."

At this part of the argument the learned gentlemen lost his tenacity.

His admission, that upon the figures Edward F. McDonald had the majority, settles this case.

The argument of the learned gentleman, if it had been used against the perpetrators of these alleged frauds, was an able effort, but as against Edward F. McDonald, a perfectly innocent man, who had received a majority irrespective of the fraud, it was thrown away.

If we adopt another method of calculation, for the sake of the argument, throw out all of the precincts in which there was shown false registration, false polling, we still have this result: Total vote in precincts in which fraudulent ballots were found for McDonald, 7,316 by recount; for Stuhr, by recount, 2,613. The total votes of additional precincts for McDonald, 2,367; for Stuhr, 1,891, makes McDonald's total on recount 24,745; deduct 9,683, leaves 15,062;

Stuhr's total vote on recount, 16,893; deduct 4,504, leaves 12,389; McDonald's majority, 2,673.

I have now taken up all the evidence on the subject of fraud, and I find that Edward F. McDonald has a majority of from 2,500 to 3,000, admitting every contention that William S. Stuhr insists upon.

The argument has been made that the 1,760 votes denominated "jokers," "strangers" and "foreigners," were substituted for William S. Stuhr's vote.

The evidence, to my mind, discloses the fact that the number of false registration and false names upon the polling book about equal the number of fraudulent ballots.

This being so, W. S. Stuhr would not be entitled to the credit of 1,760 which he has received in the calculation.

Without evidence, counsel have argued that it is impossible that the population of Hudson county has increased to such an extent that 42,000 voters represented the vote at the last November election, and, as it was in excess of the vote polled in 1887, that, therefore, the fraudulent votes cast in the county of Hudson was 10,000, and that he believed that William S. Stuhr had actually received the majority of 2,000.

This argument is as idle as the wind, and is only used in extremis, as a dernier resort.

It is presumption without fact or circumstance, and without even evidence before the committee of the vote in prior years.

You have no right to suppose that the increase of population is so unusual, that it cannot be so. The next census may prove it to be true, therefore your theory will fall to the ground.

In this case you are dealing with facts, not theories.

In fact, the principle invoked on this character of evidence is not without precedent.

In the contested election case of John H. Conger v. Patrick Convery, in the Middlesex Circuit in the December Term, in 1889, the contestant offered to prove that in a ward where an unusual vote had been given against him, and he claimed the same was fraudulent, that for ten years prior to the said election no such majority had been given.

The court overruled this testimony upon the ground that in a fluctuating vote from one side to another, and in all matters of change of population, no evidence in the nature of personal opinion or prior returns could be given, on the ground that it was guess work.

This summarily disposes of the insistent upon this subject.

To oust Edward F. McDonald upon testimony of the kind only shows that if the Democratic party had been guilty of fraud in Hudson county it was because they were in power, for when the Republican party get in power they stop at nothing to advance their interests.

To declare this election void would be one thing, but to declare that William S. Stuhr is entitled to Edward F. McDonald's seat is the greatest monstrosity of human conduct ever known, and a fraud far superior to anything that has ever emanated from Hudson county.

To be the forerunners of ennobling sentiment, which was the object and purpose of the committee in hunting down fraud, and finally winding up in a corrupt finding, is a parody on good sense, and will only revert on the perpetrators.

I again cite from Narr on Elections, page 236: "The hearing in all contested elections, whether in legislative bodies, in courts, or before a jury, or upon quo warranto, is upon the whole question, and it goes to the merits of the case.

"The object being to ascertain and to give effect to the will of the majority of legal voters who voted in the election, accordingly the returns may be impeached, the ballots recounted, their legality, when questioned, inquired into, and their meaning, when doubtful, ascertained, and all allegations of fraud and corruption examined into."

People v. Vail, 16 Ohio; Commonwealth v. Commissioner, 5 Raleigh 77; People v. Rease, 22 N. Y.; Cushing's American Par. Law 199, 210.

Upon the question of the rejection of the entire vote of an election precinct because of illegal votes, the rule is stated in McCreary on Elections (3d edition) 483.

"To set aside the returns of an election is one thing; to set aside the election itself is another and very different thing; the return from a given precinct being set aside, the duty still remains to let the election stand, and to ascertain from other evidences the true state of the vote.

"The return is only to be set aside, as we have seen, when it is so tainted with fraud, or with the misconduct of the election officers, that the truth cannot be deduced from it.

"The election is only to be set aside when it is impossible from any evidence within reach to ascertain the true result; when neither from the returns nor from other proofs, nor from all together, can the truth be determined. It is important to keep this distinction in mind."

"The question, under what circumstances the entire poll of an election division may be rejected, has been much discussed, and conflicting views have been expressed by the courts. The power to reject an entire poll is certainly a dangerous power, and though it belongs to what every tribunal has jurisdiction to pass upon, the merits of a contested election case, it should be exercised only in an extreme case, that is to say, a case where it is impossible to ascertain, with reasonable certainty, the true vote."

I submit that the committee had no difficulty in distinguishing a pure ballot from a fraudulent one.

The committee had no difficulty in counting the false registration and the false polling.

I submit that all the testimony bears upon these two questions, and that there is no testimony upon any other subject in the case.

I submit that Edward F. McDonald is absolutely guiltless of all fraud.

I submit that the majority of the vote of Hudson county was for Edward F. McDonald, and that there was no fraud by the outside voter.

I do not believe that every man upon the floor of this Senate who wears the Republican mantle will sully his reputation by seating William S. Stuhr instead of Edward F. McDonald.

As a conclusion, I find from all the facts in this case that Edward F. McDonald has a clear title to a seat in this Senate.

ROBERT ADRAIN,

Of the Senate Committee on Elections.

After discussion, and the question recurring upon the adoption of the resolution accompanying the report of the majority,

It was decided as follows:

In the affirmative were—

In the negative were—

Messrs. Adrain, Everitt, Mallon, Newell, Pfeiffer, Smith, Werts, Winton, Wyckoff—9.

In accordance with the direction of the President, the Secretary carried the following bills to the House of Assembly, informed it that the Senate had passed the same, and requested its concurrence therein:

Senate Bill No. 255, entitled "An act in relation to the appointment of sergeant-at-arms to the several courts of the counties, and fixing the salaries of the same,"

Senate Bill No. 264, entitled "Supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation of associations for the erection and maintenance of hospitals, infirmaries, orphanages, asylums and other charitable institutions,'" approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven,

Said bills were then reported by Mr. Roe, Chairman of the Committee on Passed Bills, as having been received from the Secretary of the Senate, and this day delivered to the Governor for his approval.

Mr. Roe offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted :

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to wait upon the Governor and inform him that the Senate has completed its labors and is about to adjourn sine die, and inquire if the Executive has any further communication to make to this body.

The Chair appointed Messrs. Adrain, Martin and Mallon as such committee.

Mr. Werts offered the following resolution :

WHEREAS, The Hon. Henry M. Nevius, President of the Senate, has discharged the duties of that position with honor to himself and to the entire acceptance of this body; therefore, in appreciation thereof, and in testimony of our high regard,

Resolved, That the Senate pleasantly recalls the unvarying patience, courtesy and impartiality of its presiding officer during the session now closing, and hereby records its unqualified approval of the unexceptionable manner in which the duties of his difficult position have uniformly been performed.

Mr. Werts added that the resolution expressed the sentiment of the minority, and he doubted not every member of the Senate.

Mr. Gardner felt that all were under obligations to President Nevius for the dignity and impartiality with which he had presided. As he, with others, were about to leave these halls, their terms having expired, it could justly be said, as the shadows of each went from the door, "The Senate and State have lost an honest man."

Mr. Adrain felt forced to his feet to express his sincere esteem for the retiring President. He had been firm, decided, kind, and had shown exceptional executive ability and high integrity as a man.

Mr. Pfeiffer also expressed similar sentiments.

THE PRESENTATION.

At this point Senator Werts stepped forward with a small package in his hand, and the President arose. Mr. Werts said that he had been deputed by his fellow Senators to present this as a testimonial of their high esteem and appreciation of his integrity as a man, his valor as a soldier, his uprightness as a citizen, and his faithfulness as a representative of the people.

The gift consisted of an elaborate gold Past Grand Commander's badge of the Grand Army. It is of the finest workmanship, and contains three large diamonds on the upper part and five smaller ones set in each point of the pendant star below. Between the upper and lower parts is the letter N hanging from a swivel, and also studded with small diamonds. On the reverse side is engraved the sentiment expressed by Mr. Werts on its presentation.

In taking the gift, Mr. Nevius said it was gratifying to him to receive these testimonials of their esteem, and, although he would terminate his connection with the Senate on its adjournment, yet during his three years stay in all the varying vicissitudes of the political battles, the best of feelings had prevailed. If his work had given satisfaction, it was because he had the cordial support of his fellow Senators, for which he wished to thank them. He said he would always look back with pleasure on his legislative career, and would prize, beyond expression, this valuable gift as an emblem of the times when men left their homes and business to fight for a noble principle and the flag of Washington. The precious gift would be a constant reminder of his fellow Senators and of the State of New Jersey.

The resolution was then unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Werts offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

Resolved, That each of the other officers of the Senate have been courteous and obliging in their intercourse with Senators, and prompt and faithful in the discharge of their respective duties; in recognition and appreciation thereof the thanks of the Senate are hereby extended, with its best wishes for their future welfare and prosperity.

Mr. Werts offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are extended to Messrs. MacCrellich & Quigley, Current Printers, for the prompt and efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties and labors imposed upon them.

Mr. Adrain, from the committee appointed to wait upon the Governor, reported that His Excellency was not in his office, and that his Private Secretary has said to the committee that he knew of no reason why the Senate and House of Assembly should not adjourn.

Mr. Miller, from the Senate Committee of Conference on Assembly Bill No. 559, entitled "An act to defray the incidental expenses of the legislature of New Jersey for the session of one thousand eight hundred and ninety,"

Reported that the committee had been unable to agree.

Mr. Roe offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

Resolved, That the hour of adjournment having arrived, the Secretary shall inform the House of Assembly that the Senate is now ready to adjourn sine die, and awaits the presence of the House of Assembly.

The hour of 3 o'clock having arrived, the members of the House of Assembly, preceded by the Speaker, entered the Senate Chamber.

Upon the announcement of the Speaker that the house had adjourned, the President of the Senate declared the One Hundred and Fourteenth Session of the Legislature adjourned without day.

Secretary of the Senate.
