Toni Belford Damiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: December 5, 2006 Decided: December 7, 2006

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

The Department of Education Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 3, 2006 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for November 16, 2006.

Just prior to the date of the hearing, the parties were able to resolve the matter and submitted the attached Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release. On December 5, 2006, the undersigned received the attached Board Resolution approving the Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or signatures of their representatives

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND MUTUAL RELEASE

WHEREAS, D.S. is a 7 year-old girl (Date of Birth: 10/18/99) classified as eligible for special education and related services in accordance with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, 20 U.S.C.A. §1401, et seq., and the New Jersey Regulations pertaining to same, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1, et seq. (collectively referred to as the "IDEA"); and

WHEREAS, the Garfield Board of Education (the "Board") is the "Local Educational Authority" with responsibility for providing a free appropriate public education to D.S.; and

WHEREAS, a dispute arose between the parties over D.S.'s domicile within the school district operated by the Board, resulting in the Board ceasing to fund the costs of tuition and transportation for her to attend the out-of-district placement the Board's Child Study Team had placed her, New Beginnings, located in Fairfield, New Jersey, and the Petitioners, Christian and Wanda Savinovich (the "Parents"), having to privately fund the costs of that placement; and

WHEREAS, the parties in good faith have negotiated concerning this matter and have a desire to settle this matter in an amicable way enter into this Settlement Agreement and Release (this "Agreement") in order to reach a compromise in the best interest of the parties.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed by and between the parties hereto as follows:

1. Effective immediately upon the Board executing this Agreement, the Board shall accept registration of D.S. in its school district and retroactively fund the costs of D.S.'s program at New Beginnings from and including November 6, 2006 going forward per her most recent Individualized Education Program ("IEP") for the 2006-2007 school year.

2. In consideration for the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the Parents shall waive any and all claims and/or causes of action against the Board that could be raised through and including November 5, 2006.

3. In consideration for the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the Board shall waive any and all claims and/or causes of action that could be raised against the Parents or D.S. through and including November 5, 2006.

4. In consideration for the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the Board shall agree to be responsible for the costs of sending D.S. to New Beginnings through and including October 13, 2006, and the Parents shall agree to be responsible for the costs of sending D.S. to New Beginnings from and including October 14, 2006 to and including November 5, 2006.

5. All terms and conditions of this Agreement shall remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law. Nothing, however, shall preclude anyone from disclosing the terms and conditions of this Agreement for purposes of enforce or explain said terms and conditions to a Court of Law or government entity.

6. This Agreement represents the entire understanding between the parties and shall not be modified in whole or in part except as a mutual subsequent written and signed Agreement. It has been entered into freely, willingly and voluntarily, without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity for the Parties to consult with legal counsel of their choosing and option. The parties did consult with said legal counsel and acknowledge that they were represented by competent legal counsel, that they all understand the contents of this Settlement Agreement and Release, and that each party hereto shall be responsible for bearing the costs of their own attorneys' fees and costs and all other costs. It is also agreed that neither party is a "prevailing party" for any purpose through and including November 5, 2006.

7. This Agreement shall be governed by the IDEA and the laws of the State of New Jersey and constitutes a mutual release of all claims that were or could have been raised by both parties under any Federal or State Statutes or common law, as set forth herein, including any claims for compensatory education or monetary damages. It is not an admission by either party of any liability, or the violation of any law, statute, or regulation, nor shall it be cited as precedent in any future judicial or administrative proceedings, except as needed for enforcement or interpretation of its specific terms. It shall be incorporated into a Final Order by the Administrative Law Judge assigned to this matter.

8. A formal Board Resolution approving this Agreement shall be submitted by the Board to the Administrative Law Judge assigned to this matter so that His Honor can incorporate this Agreement into an Initial Decision.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Agreement on the dates set forth below:

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge – for the reasons clearly stated in his decision – that the Board's determination to refuse to reimburse petitioner for his children's tuition at the Sea Isle Board of Education schools is appropriately affirmed.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

MICHAEL KELLY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DENNIS, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner is a parent whose access to his children's school was restricted by the Board following petitioner's allegedly intimidating and threatening behavior in the aftermath of his wife's extramarital affair with a Board employee. Petitioner argues that his restricted access to the school resulted in a difficult environment for his children, which necessitated their enrollment out-of-district. Petitioner seeks reimbursement for tuition paid to place his children in Sea Isle City schools.

The ALJ found that: the validity of respondent's action to restrict petitioner's access to his children's school is not before him; petitioner's claim for reimbursement of tuition is the sole issue herein; petitioner's decision to enroll his children in an out-of-district school while the instant action was pending was premature, as nothing in the law – absent an Order from the Commissioner of Education – requires respondent to pay the cost of tuition for petitioner's children when a free public education was available to them in Dennis Township. The ALJ affirmed respondent's action denying petitioner reimbursement for tuition.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions set forth by the ALJ. The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AMENDED INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 652-06
AGENCY DKT. NO. 53-2/06

MICHAEL KELLY,
Petitioner,
v
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DENNIS, CAPE MAY COUNTY,
Respondent.

Michael Kelly, petitioner, pro se

Paul C. Kalac, Esq., for respondent (Parker McCay, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: November 28, 2006 Decided: November 30, 2006

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appealed respondent's action barring him from the Dennis Township school except under limited circumstances, and sought reimbursement for tuition paid to place his children in a school district in which they did not reside. The petitioner requested a fair hearing and the matter was transmitted to the OAL on February 23, 2006, to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The matter was scheduled for a hearing on October 24, 2006, in Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing proceeded on that date and the record remained open pending submission of post-hearing briefs, which were due on November 27, 2006. Respondent's post-hearing brief was submitted on November 28, 2006. No brief was submitted by petitioner.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner is a resident of Dennis Township. He has two sons: T.K., who is in the second grade; and E.K., who is in the fifth grade.

On March 19, 2004, Scott P. McCartney, Superintendent of Schools, sent petitioner a letter (P-1), which stated as follows:

> Please be advised that you are not permitted on school property except with my advanced permission. You will be permitted upon advanced request to be on school property for the following types of activities:
> 1) Parent/Teacher Conferences
> 2) Meetings requested by school district personnel
>
> 3) Signing your child in or out of school
>
> 4) Picking your child up from the school nurse
> 5) Picking up or dropping off your child to latch key
> Failure to comply will result in a trespass complaint being filed with the New Jersey State > Police. Should you have any questions regarding this letter, please feel free to contact my office.

Petitioner testified on his own behalf. He stated that the letter (P-1) was the result of a telephone message he left on voice mail for the school's Transportation Coordinator. The sum and substance of that conversation was set forth in Exhibit P-2.

Petitioner denied that said voice mail should have caused respondent to bar him from the school.

Petitioner introduced a document apparently excerpted from a summary concerning the matter that was submitted to the Board of Education (P-3). That document reveals that petitioner's wife was working as a bus aide at the school. During the Winter/Spring of 2004, Mrs. Kelly engaged in an extra-marital affair with another employee in the transportation department. The affair ended badly, and the other employee began harassing Mrs. Kelly. According to both petitioner and Mrs. Kelly, who also testified, the other employee threatened her, abused her, stalked her, and raped her.

Petitioner claimed he was barred from the school for no good reason. The ban was reiterated in a second letter from McCartney dated October 26, 2004 (P-7). That letter also states that McCartney's intent was to provide petitioner with full access to his children.

On December 14, 2004, the Board solicitor sent petitioner's then attorney a letter offering to lift the ban, provided petitioner agreed to certain conditions. Those conditions were (P-8):

> 1. Mr. Kelly agrees that while he us [sic] on school premises he will not engage in any behavior that is inappropriate, harassing or disruptive to employees, students or the educational community.

> 2. Mr. Kelly agrees that while he is on school premises he will not seek out [the other employee], take any action that will bring him in contact with [the other employee] or make any inappropriate or threatening gestures toward [the other employee]. This includes Mr. Kelly driving his car in the vicinity of the bus garage.
> 3. Mr. Kelly agrees that while he is on school premises or communicating with school employees he will not act in a manner which is threatening or harassing.
> 4. Mr. Kelly acknowledges and understands that if these representations by him are violated, the School District may reinstitute the provisions contained in Mr. McCartney's March 19, 2004 correspondence or take other action as it deems appropriate.

Petitioner refused to agree to the conditions set forth in P-8. In a letter dated January 18, 2005 (P-9), petitioner declined respondent's offer, asserting that he and his family were the damaged parties, and that they were in need of protection from another employee. Petitioner supported that allegation by referring to a restraining order he claimed he and his wife had obtained against the other employee in Superior Court.

The "restraining order" (P-15) is actually a handwritten agreement, executed by Mrs. Kelly and by the other employee, and witnessed by Basil Beck, who served as petitioner's attorney at the time. The document contains language similar to that used in a formal restraining order. It bears a stamp indicating that it was filed in the Superior Court on May 12, 2004. Given that stamp plus the nature of the language contained therein, I FIND that P-15 has the force and effect of a Domestic Violence Restraining Order.

Frustrated with being banned from the school, petitioner and his wife determined to remove their children from the district and enrolled them in the Sea Isle City School system. The cost of enrolling them there was $5600. Additionally, petitioner has been tardy with his payments, and has to date been assessed $250 in late fees. Petitioner seeks reimbursement of these monies based upon the refusal of respondent to afford him access to the school. On August 18, 2005, petitioner formally demanded these monies from respondent by letter of that date (P-10).

After placing their children in the Sea Isle City system for a year, petitioner and his wife sought to return them to Dennis Township for the 2006-2007 school year. By that time, Superintendent McCartney had departed the district, replaced by George R. Papp. Papp wrote to petitioner and his wife on May 15, 2006, agreeing to the reenrollment of their children. In that letter (P-16), Papp advised that he would lift the ban against petitioner's presence in the school without advanced notice.

Petitioner then reenrolled his children in the Dennis Township school, where they are presently placed.

Petitioner's wife, Shirley Kelly, testified. She asserted that petitioner was barred from the school because he complained that she had been sexually harassed.

Mrs. Kelly stated that the other employee had harassed her, threatened her, abused her, and raped her. Instead of taking action against the other employee, respondent allowed him to continue working, and instead barred petitioner from the school. She stated she had filed a Tort Claim Notice with respondent.

Throughout the proceeding, petitioner spoke with fervent emotion. He claimed he had been humiliated and disgraced by respondent's action.

Respondent declined to call any witnesses, choosing to rely upon oral argument and briefs.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The record before me is limited because respondent declined to call witnesses, relying instead on legal argument. Although an expanded record might cause me to have a contrary view, based upon what I now have before me, it would appear that Superintendent McCartney's action in severely limiting petitioner's access to the school was excessive. No one has explained why the limitations placed upon petitioner were for the entire school and not just the bus yard where the other employee was employed.

But the validity of respondent's action in limiting petitioner's access to the school is not before me. That matter was resolved by Papp's letter of May 15, 2006 (P-16). Petitioner's children are now back in the Dennis Township system, and all restrictions upon petitioner's access to the school have been lifted.

What remains before me is petitioner's claim for reimbursement for the tuition. He seeks the $5600 which he paid (and continues to pay) to the Sea Isle City Board of Education for the 2005-2006 school year. He asserts that he was forced to transfer his children to another school because of the arbitrary and capricious action of respondent.

I cannot agree. Petitioner's action was premature at best, and precipitous at worst. He had other options available to him, most notably the appeal to the Commissioner of Education presently before me. Although he filed this action, he did not await the outcome thereof before unilaterally removing his children.

He would have been better served by waiting for the Commissioner to rule. Instead, he formulated his own relief and now seeks confirmation thereof after the fact.

Such acts of self help cannot be countenanced. Absent an Order from the Commissioner of Education, I know of nothing in the law the would require respondent to pay the cost of tuition for petitioner's children when a free public education was available to them in Dennis Township. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. While I sympathize with petitioner's circumstance, the law compels me to AFFIRM the actions of respondent in denying petitioner tuition reimbursement.

ORDER

I ORDER that respondent's action denying petitioner reimbursement for his children's tuition at the Sea Isle City Board of Education be AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

This Stipulation of Settlement ("the Stipulation") is entered into and made effective this 30th day of November, 2006 (the "Effective Date"), by and between Craig Stull, (hereinafter the "Petitioner"), the Phillipsburg Education Association (hereinafter the "Association"), and the Phillipsburg Board of Education, Warren County, (hereinafter the "Respondent") in the above-captioned matter.

RECITALS:

WHEREAS, the Association is the exclusive majority representative for all teachers employed by Respondent, including Petitioner, for purposes of collective negotiations concerning wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment; and

WHEREAS, the Board and the Association are signatories to a collective negotiations agreement (hereinafter the "Agreement") covering all Board-employed teachers, including Petitioner; and

WHEREAS, on or about October 24, 2005, Respondent placed Petitioner, tenured teacher employed by Respondent, on the "Bachelor's Plus 30" level on the salary guide set forth in the Agreement, which resulted in a reduction in salary for Petitioner, as he was previously being paid at the "Master's Plus 30" level; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 5, 2005, the Association filed a grievance (hereinafter the "Grievance") on behalf of Petitioner, in accordance with the Agreement's grievance procedure, contesting Petitioner's move on the salary guide; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 6, 2005, Petitioner also challenged Respondent's action by filing a Petition of Appeal (hereinafter the "Petition")with the Commissioner of Education (hereinafter the "Commissioner"), claiming that Respondent impermissibly reduced his salary and violated his tenure rights; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 27, 2005, in response to the Petition, Respondent filed an Answer and Counterclaim, seeking recoupment from Petitioner of salary overpayment, with the Commissioner; and

WHEREAS, on or about May 15, 2006, a hearing was scheduled for November 27, 2006; and

WHEREAS, on or about October 5, 2006, Petitioner filed a Motion to Stay Further Proceedings and Dismiss Respondent's Counterclaims; and

WHEREAS, under all the circumstances, all parties are of the opinion that this matter should be settled upon reasonable terms mutually agreed to by the parties; and

WHEREAS, both parties agree that this Stipulation is merely a means to resolve a dispute by means of compromise and in no way may be interpreted or used as an admission of liability or of wrongdoing by any party; and

WHEREAS, following good faith negotiations, the parties and their designated representatives, hereby stipulate and agree to settle the above captioned proceeding upon the following terms and conditions:

1. Subject to the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner, Petitioner will withdraws his Petition, with prejudice.

2. Subject to the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner, Petitioner and the Association withdraw their Grievance, with prejudice.

3. Subject to the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner, Respondent withdraws its Counterclaims for salary recoupment from Petitioner, with prejudice.

4. Subject to the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner, Respondent agrees to maintain Petitioner on the "Bachelor's Plus 30" salary guide level at the dollar amount specified for his correct step at that level in each contract year, until such time as Petitioner is issued a Master's Degree from an accredited college or university.

5. Subject to the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner, at such time as Petitioner produces for Respondent's inspection an original transcript of Petitioner's graduate credits confirming that an accredited institution of higher education has conferred upon Petitioner a Master's Degree, Respondent will place Petitioner at the "Master's Plus 30" salary guide level in accordance with the practice prevailing in the District. The parties agree that graduate credits earned by Petitioner prior to his receipt of a Master's Degree, and which were not included in the credits rendering Petitioner eligible to be conferred such Master's Degree, will be accepted by Respondent for purposes of determining Petitioner's eligibility for the "Master's Plus 30" salary guide level.

6. As further consideration for the parties' covenants as set forth in this Stipulation, upon the full execution of this Stipulation and approval by the Commissioner, the parties, for themselves and their past, present and future heirs, agents and representatives, forever and irrevocably release and discharge the other, and their past, present and future directors, Board members, officers, trustees, employees, attorneys, agents, representatives, subsidiaries, parent corporations, successors, predecessors, executors, administrators, insurers and assigns, from any and all claims they may have against the other resulting from anything that has happened up to the date of this Stipulation, including claims of which the parties are unaware and claims which are not specifically released and given up in the following language. Petitioner specifically releases and gives up any and all claims which he may have against Respondent arising from or relating to Petitioner's employment with Respondent, including, but not limited to, claims arising under (1) the Constitution of the United States, (2) the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, 29 U.S.C. § 621 et seq., (3) Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, 42 U.S.C. § 2000(e) et seq., (4) the Civil Rights Act of 1866, 42 U.S.C. § 1981 et seq., (5) the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 29 U.S.C. § 791 et seq., (6) the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., (7) the Family and Medical Leave Act, 29 U.S.C. § 2601 et seq., (8) the Family Leave Act, N.J.S.A. 34:11B-1 et seq., (9) the Constitutions of the United States of America and the State of New Jersey, (10) the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., (11) the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 35:19-1 et seq., (12) the Education Laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 et seq., including but not limited to the Tenured Employees Hearing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., (13) the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., (14) any expressed or implied contract between the Board and the Employee, whether oral or written, (15) any collective negotiations agreement, (16) all regulations promulgated pursuant to any of the aforementioned laws, (17) any other Federal, State, County, local or Board common law, statutes, ordinances, resolutions and regulations not mentioned above, and (18) any employment manual or handbook or personnel or Board policies. Respondent specifically releases and gives up any and all claims which it may have against Petitioner arising from or relating to Petitioner's placement at "Master's Plus 30" level from 1998 through the 2004-2005 school year and/or the timing of the issuance of the Master's Degree versus the dates when Petitioner attained his thirty (30) additional graduate credits.

7. This Stipulation is not to be construed as a past practice, precedent or as an admission of liability or wrongdoing of any kind on the part of any party and may not be used in any subsequent legal or contractual proceeding for any purpose, provided that either party may refer to and use this Stipulation in any legal or contractual proceeding to enforce its terms and conditions.

8. This Stipulation is made and entered into in the State of New Jersey and shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

9. The terms and conditions of this Stipulation shall be construed according to their plain meaning, and shall not be construed in favor of or against Petitioner or Respondent.

10. All parties are bound by this Stipulation and each of its provisions. Anyone who succeeds to their rights and responsibilities, such as their successors and assigns, as well as the parties' heirs and the executors of their estates, also are bound. This Stipulation is made for the benefit of all the parties hereto and all who succeed to their rights and responsibilities, and expressly includes their officials, employees, agents, attorneys, successors and assigns.

11. The parties acknowledge that they are signing this Stipulation with full knowledge of their rights, voluntarily, and of their own free will, and not under duress or coercion of any kind.

12. If this Stipulation is not fully executed by all parties, then it shall become null and void and shall be of no effect.

13. If this Stipulation is not approved by the Commissioner, then is shall become null and void and shall be of no effect.

14. This Stipulation embodies the entire agreement between the parties hereto and supersedes any prior or contemporaneous agreement, representation or understanding, whether written or oral. This Stipulation may not be modified except by written instrument executed by all the parties hereto.

IT IS THEREFORE STIPULATED AND AGREED BY THE PARTIES AND THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD THAT THE ABOVE CAPTIONED MATTER BE DISMISSED, WITH PREJUDICE.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	REVISED DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, were originally reviewed in November 2006, at which time the Commissioner observed that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contained a copy of a resolution by the respondent Board approving the settlement and designating Jo Ellen Basaman, Assistant Superintendent, to sign the agreement on its behalf. Nor was the agreement signed by the respondent Board's attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. The Commissioner consequently rejected the proposed settlement via decision dated December 1, 2006, and ordered remand of the matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement to include either the Board attorney's signature or a Board resolution approving the settlement and designating Ms. Basaman or another individual to sign on its behalf.

On December 11, 2006, the Commissioner received from respondent a resolution dated November 2, 2006, wherein the respondent board of education ratified the settlement agreement that had been executed on October 19, 2006, and annexed to the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge. Both parties represented that they are satisfied with the settlement agreement as supplemented by the November 2, 2006 resolution, and requested that – in the interest of economy – the Commissioner issue a revised decision approving same.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the settlement agreement, supplemented by the November 2, 2006 resolution of the respondent board of education, as the final decision in this matter and orders compliance with its terms.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Y.E. on behalf of minor child E.E.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent's determination that her son, E.E., was not entitled to a free public education in the Newark school district because he no longer resided in the district as of December 25, 2005. E.E. had been enrolled in Newark schools in September 2005 based on an affidavit which stated that E.E. lived in Newark with his aunt, J.H., who later filed affidavit that her nephew had been returned to his mother's custody as of December 25, 2005. Petitioner claims that – despite the fact that she owns property in East Orange – she and her son now reside in Newark, and she sought emergent relief to return E.E. to the school he attended during the 2005-2006 school year. Respondent filed a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found that: an affidavit submitted by J.H. in May 2006 established that E.E. had not lived with J.H. in Newark since December 2005; the lease presented by petitioner for an apartment in Newark was discredited by respondent district's contention that its investigation found the lease to be fraudulent and the petitioner to be domiciled in East Orange; petitioner's proofs and testimony as a whole were not credible; petitioner did not meet the requirements for emergent relief; and respondent presented credible evidence to support its contention that E.E. is domiciled in East Orange with petitioner Y.E. The ALJ denied petitioner's request for emergent relief, dismissed the petition, and granted respondent's request for tuition reimbursement contingent upon submission of a tuition calculation.

Adopting the ALJ's determinations in these regards, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief and failed to meet her burden of showing that respondent was arbitrary and capricious in determining that E.E. was ineligible to attend Newark public schools. However, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's conclusion that the proofs at the October hearing showed that petitioner's current domicile is not in respondent's school district, instead finding that petitioner presented unrebutted evidence suggesting that it is. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered that: petitioner reimburse respondent in the amount of $4,478.88 for tuition for the period from January through June 2006; the matter be remanded to the OAL for a plenary hearing on E.E.'s current domicile; and that petitioner ensure that E.E. attends school pending the resolution of this matter.

Y.E. on behalf of minor child E.E.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

To be determined in this controversy is a minor child's (E.E.'s) domicile and the school district responsible for his public education. The record provided to the Commissioner, including the audio tapes of the proceedings on October 2 and October 17, 2006, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and petitioner's exceptions have been carefully and independently reviewed. The Commissioner has also reviewed respondent's certification identifying the amount of tuition payable for the period of time that respondent alleges petitioner's son improperly attended school in its district.

The following summary of facts and procedure is taken from hearing testimony and documentary exhibits in the record:

1. On September 27, 2005, C.H. – E.E.'s father – filed with respondent an affidavit that he could not care for E.E., and that E.E. lived in Newark with his aunt, J.H. On the same day, J.H. filed with respondent a guardian affidavit certifying that E.E. lived with her at an address on Broadway in Newark, and that she was supporting him gratis.

Relying upon these affidavits, respondent approved E.E.'s school attendance in its district.

2. E.E., who had previously gone to school in East Orange, attended school in respondent's district for the 2005-2006 school year.

3. During the course of the school year, petitioner – Y.E. – introduced herself as E.E.'s mother, and had contact with respondent's staff on many occasions.

4. On March 3, 2006, respondent mailed petitioner a "Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility" (Initial Determination). The Initial Determination was mailed to an address on North 17th Street, East Orange. The basis for the determination was articulated as follows:

> Residence where student is domiciled is ____ North 17th Street, East Orange, New Jersey. The guardianship affidavit submitted by [J. E. H.] is no longer in force. [J. E. H.] has renounced further guardianship of [E.E.] and/or no longer resides at ____ Broadway, Newark, New Jersey.

5. At respondent's April 5, 2006 hearing, which petitioner did not attend, respondent determined – for the reasons articulated in the Initial Determination – that E.E. was not entitled to a free public education in Newark. Although respondent alleged that it sent petitioner notice of the April 5, 2006 hearing, it did not present any evidence to support that allegation.

6. On April 5, 2006, respondent sent petitioner a Notice of Final Ineligibility (Final Notice) – mailed to the above-referenced East Orange address – which reiterated the allegations set forth in the Initial Determination. More specifically, respondent stated that it made the final ineligibility determination based on the following:

> *The guardianship affidavit issued by the district on September 27, 2005 for guardianship of [E.E.] by [J.E.H.] residing at ____ Broadway, Newark, New Jersey is no longer in force due > to the fact that Ms. [H.] has renounced further guardianship of [E.E.] and your son no longer resides with Ms. [H.].

> *The residence where student [E.E.] is domiciled is ____ North 17th Street, East Orange, New Jersey. The district has video and photographic evidence of you and your child leaving your East Orange residence on four consecutive days during the month of March. The car that you use to transport your child [E.] to Rafael Hernandez School is registered to you with an East Orange address.

7. Petitioner testified at the OAL hearing that she did not get the Final Notice until April 27, 2006, when she received it from her brother, to whom it had been given when he collected E.E. from school.

8. After receiving the Final Notice, petitioner apparently presented various documents to respondent, including a lease for a property on South 10th Street in Newark.

9. A letter dated May 8, 2006 was sent to petitioner from respondent advising that J.H. had denied, via a notarized statement [handwritten and dated April 28, 2006], that E.E. lived with her, and that the landlord of ____ South 10th Street, Newark, had told an investigator that the lease petitioner had presented for those premises was fictitious. Respondent's May 8 letter further stated that May 10, 2006 would be E.E.'s last day of school in Newark.

10. On or about May 11, 2006, petitioner sent the Commissioner a petition of appeal dated May 10, 2006, with a copy of a letter that she had written to three Newark School District employees "requesting an appeal regarding the school attendance of [her] son . . . as well as to explain the late response to the 'Notice of Final Ineligibility'." Her explanation for filing her appeal past the 21 day time period allowed for such appeals under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), was that she did not get the final notice "until April 27, 2006 In [sic] which it was handed to me by a family member." She argued that her

May 10, 2006, letter constituted a timely appeal in that it was sent within 21 days of her alleged actual receipt of the Final Notice. Also enclosed with the petition was a copy of the September 27, 2005 affidavit by J.H. certifying that E.E. lived with her in Newark and that she was supporting him. Petitioner's appeal made no claim that E.E. lived with her in Newark on ____ South 10th Street.

11. After sending her May 10th letter/petition to the Commissioner, petitioner was advised during a telephone call she had placed to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) that if she was contending that E.E. was supported by and living with a non-parent in Newark, it was that Newark resident who would have to file the petition challenging respondent's ineligibility determination.

12. On May 12, 2006, the Bureau received a petition of appeal, under J.H.'s signature, challenging respondent's final determination of ineligibility. This enabled E.E. to remain in respondent's school.

13. Petitioner's May 10, 2006, petition did not arrive at the Department of Education until May 16, 2006. It was not docketed because J.H.'s petition had already been received.

14. On May 19, however, a typewritten notarized statement by J.H. was submitted to respondent. Therein, J.H. stated that E.E. had lived with her in Newark until December 25, 2005, at which time she had "released him to the custody of his natural mother, [Y.E.]." J.H. further certified that she "was unaware of the language [in the May 12 petition] specifically stating that [E.] reside[d] with [her]." She advised that E.E. no longer lived with her, that she was not responsible for him, and that to the best of her knowledge he lived with his mother in East Orange. Finally, she asked that her petition be withdrawn.

15. The Bureau of Controversies and Disputes accordingly marked the petition "withdrawn" on June 14, 2006.

16. During the summer of 2006, respondent's child study team evaluated E.E., found that he was eligible for special education services, and developed an individualized education program (IEP) for him. Further, respondent placed E.E. in its Martin Luther King, Jr. School (MLK), where he began receiving services in September 2006. More specifically, he started school in Newark on September 6 or 7, and was removed from school on September 8, 2006.

17. On September 11, 2006, petitioner faxed a petition of appeal to the Commissioner, stating simply that E.E.'s attendance in respondent's school had been denied due to "residence." Attached to the petition was a copy of an email circulated between school employees in respondent's district between September 6 and 8, 2006, advising that E.E. should not be enrolled and referring to the fact that a determination of E.E.'s non-eligibility had already been made during the prior school year.

18. In a letter dated September 14, 2006, respondent asserted that the petition should be dismissed as untimely, since a determination of non-eligibility had already been made in the Spring of 2006, challenged by J.H., and then withdrawn.

19. The Bureau advised petitioner by letter dated September 15, 2006, that it appeared that a challenge to respondent's ineligibility determination had already been made and withdrawn in May/June of 2006. It cautioned her that E.E. could not attend school in respondent's district during the pendency of her most recent petition, unless she filed an emergent application and prevailed.

20. Petitioner accordingly filed requests for emergent relief on September 22 and 25, 2006, alleging – among other things – that she had not known that J.H.'s May 12, 2006 petition had been withdrawn. Her papers were transmitted to the OAL on September 25, 2006, as an emergent matter.

21. It appears from a certification filed on December 7, 2006, by Newark Public School Business Administrator, Ronald Lee, that E.E. actually attended classes in a special education program in Newark from September 11 through September 25, 2006.

22. On September 29, respondent answered Y.E.'s petition and counterclaimed both for tuition for January 2006 through the end of the 2005-2006 school year and for the time/services that had been provided to E.E. by respondent's child study team in the summer of 2006. On the same date, respondent moved before the OAL to dismiss the petition as untimely.

23. A hearing was scheduled at the OAL for October 2, 2006, at which both petitioner's request for emergent relief and respondent's motion to dismiss were to be heard. At the beginning of the hearing the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) stated: "since Ms. E. is not represented by counsel we did have a discussion off the record where we reviewed some of the background information."

24. At the hearing, respondent's counsel made argument supporting its motion to dismiss the petition and opposing petitioner's motion for emergent relief appealing E.E.'s September 8, 2006 removal from respondent's MLK school, but presented no evidence.

25. Respondent's counsel argued that petitioner had presented no current lease and no credit card or checking account statements showing a Newark address, and cast aspersions on the driver's license petitioner produced that showed the ____South 10th Street address. He alleged that respondent's investigator could show that it was obtained on April 27, 2006, the same day that respondent sent petitioner a letter advising that E.E. could no longer attend school in Newark and that the East Orange Board of Education had been notified of its responsibility for E.E.'s education.

Counsel stated that respondent could produce an investigator who could verify that the ____South 10th Street address claimed by petitioner in her September 2006 papers was not being used by her, and contended that the man who had verified petitioner's residence at that address was no longer the owner of same.

26. Respondent's counsel also alleged that petitioner owns the property in East Orange to which respondent sent the notices described above, and had used the address during the 2005-2006 school year on some correspondence that she had sent to E.E.'s school. According to counsel, during that school year respondent's investigator had observed petitioner leaving the East Orange address and taking E.E. from there to school in Newark.

27. Respondent's position on the motion for emergent relief was that: a) under the circumstances alleged by respondent, petitioner had no likelihood of success on the merits; b) there is no settled law that would mitigate in favor of petitioner; c) that the availability of a public education in East Orange precluded irreparable harm to E.E.; and that d) considering E.E.'s alleged domicile in East Orange and right to go to school there, and respondent's assistance to E.E. in evaluating and qualifying him for special education services, the equities did not mitigate against denying petitioner's application for emergent relief.

28. Following respondent counsel's argument, petitioner testified under oath. As regards respondent's motion to dismiss for untimeliness, petitioner testified that she never received the Initial Notice (sent to the East Orange address) or the alleged notice of the April 5, 2006 hearing (which notice has not been produced by respondent). As in her May 10, 2006 petition, she maintained that the first notice about the residency issue that she received was dated April 27, 2006, and was given to her brother when he picked E.E. up from school. Consequently, she argued that her May 10, 2006 petition to the Commissioner was timely and should preclude the dismissal of the matter.

29. As regards her motion for emergent relief, petitioner testified that although she owns ____ and ____North 17th Street, East Orange – the property that respondent claims is her residence – she left the premises because of threats on her life, and has tenants in the property. Petitioner contended that she has a lease or leases from her tenants that prove she has not been living in the East Orange property, but the Commissioner has found no such lease(s) in the record.

30. Attached to petitioner's application for emergent relief was a copy of a notarized statement dated September 24, 2006 from Frank Hodges, who identified himself as the owner of ____ South 10th Street in Newark and stated that petitioner resided there. Petitioner referred to that statement in her October 2, 2006 testimony. She also testified that she had shown employees at the Newark Board of Education her driver's license listing the ____ South 10th Street Newark address.

31. The Commissioner presumes that petitioner intended that the foregoing would constitute the basis for the requirement that she show a likelihood of success on the merits.

32. With regard to the requirement to show irreparable harm, petitioner argued that it was irreparable harm to remove E.E. "from the situation that they had allowed him to be in: he had gotten comfortable with the teacher; the teacher's gotten comfortable with him." Petitioner further contended that MLK is closer to home. E.E. could walk to and from school.

33. Finally, petitioner asked that respondent send someone to her home to verify that she and E.E. live in Newark. Respondent's counsel declined, stating that respondent's investigation had been completed. When petitioner requested a home visit the second time, the ALJ responded "They have completed their investigation."

34. Petitioner then represented that she did not understand the process of the hearing. When questioned by the ALJ, petitioner stated she would like an adjournment to get counsel. An attorney that she had contacted could not attend the October 2 hearing because it fell on a Jewish Holiday.

35. The ALJ opined that as a result of participating in real estate transactions and running a business, petitioner should have known to seek counsel, but allowed the adjournment nonetheless, with the understanding that E.E. would not be allowed to attend school in Newark in the interim. The proceeding was adjourned to October 17, 2006, at 1:30 p.m. The ALJ warned that the hearing would go ahead on October 17 whether or not an attorney appeared for petitioner, unless the attorney provided a compelling excuse. She also gave petitioner the opportunity to reply to respondent's motion to dismiss the petition, which petitioner had not yet done, and cautioned that failure to respond to that motion could result in negative consequences.

36. After the first hearing, petitioner filed an answer to respondent's counterclaim on October 12, 2006. In her answer, she asserted both that E.E. was living with J.H. in Newark, and that she – Y.E. – was residing in an apartment on South 10th Street in Newark. To support the latter assertion, she offered copies of a lease showing her as the tenant at that address, a driver's license bearing the same address, and a copy of a September 27, 2006 letter addressed to her from an attorney advising her that the South 10th Street premises had changed hands, and that she would have to contact the new owner or be evicted.

37. In the answer to the counterclaim, she admitted receiving the Final Notice of Ineligibility on April 27, 2006, as well as respondent's May 8, 2006 letter to her confirming E.E.'s ineligibility to attend school in Newark.

38. Petitioner filed no response to respondent's motion to dismiss her petition.

39. The hearing resumed on October 17, 2006. The ALJ recited that it was the continuation of the hearing opened on October 2, 2006.

40. Petitioner appeared without an attorney. She offered – as proof of her Newark residency – a letter from the new owner of the South 10th Street property, advising that she must contact the new owner's lawyer or be evicted. This letter had been annexed to her answer to respondent's counter-claim.

41. Petitioner reiterated her argument that since E.E. had been evaluated and enrolled in a special education program at MLK in Newark, he would be harmed by transfer to East Orange, and that a balancing of the equities consequently mitigated in favor of petitioner.

42. Petitioner also contended that: a) she had provided respondent with sufficient proof of her residency in Newark; b) she was a resident of ____ South 10th Street and would soon be its new owner; and c) she had consequently shown that she would succeed on the merits of her claims. No evidence to support her claim of impending ownership of the South 10th Street property was offered.

43. Further, petitioner complained that she had received no response to the petition she had sent to the Commissioner on May 11, 2006.

44. Respondent did not present any witnesses or produce any further documentary evidence. Counsel reiterated his position that petitioner had not produced a current lease or bank statements showing the South 10th Street address, and speculated that the letter from the new owner of the South 10th Street property to petitioner was a form letter sent to anyone who had ever had a lease on file at that address. He further stated that it was his "understanding" from respondent's investigation (which was often referred to but never produced) that the new owner would be evicting "any of the tenants in that area."

In the Initial Decision, disseminated on November 27, 2006, the ALJ denied Y.E. emergent relief, dismissed the petition, and ordered that tuition be paid by petitioner in the amount to be set forth by respondent in "appropriate documentation." Respondent accordingly filed with the Commissioner, on December 7, 2006, a certification setting forth: a) a regular tuition figure for January through June, 2006 in the amount of $4,478.88; and b) an LLD tuition figure for the ten days E.E. attended special education classes in Newark in September 2006.

The Commissioner agrees that petitioner's request for emergent relief must fail. Although Y.E. alleged in her exceptions that "E.E. was denied [enrollment] by East Orange," she did not present any evidence supporting that contention at the hearing. Consequently she did not meet the requirement that imminent harm be shown as grounds for an emergent relief application. In addition, although petitioner presented enough indicia of residence in Newark to warrant an evidentiary hearing, she fell short of proving a likelihood of success on the merits.

The Commissioner also adopts the ALJ's determination that petitioner did not meet her burden to show that respondent's ineligibility determination for January through June 2006 was arbitrary or capricious. In her October 12, 2006 answer to respondent's counterclaim, petitioner alleged that E.E. lived in Newark with his aunt – J.H. – from January through June 2006. However, respondent offered as evidence a notarized affidavit by J.H. to the contrary. The weight of the evidence was consequently against petitioner. Petitioner did submit a copy of a lease purporting to show that she had resided on South 10th Street in Newark during 2006.[1] However, considering petitioner's contradiction of J.H.'s above referenced certification, the Commissioner cannot fault the ALJ for determining that petitioner's credibility was poor regarding the circumstances of E.E.'s domicile from January through June 2006, and for finding in favor of respondent. See, D.L. and Z.Y. on behalf of minor children T.L. and K.L. v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, 366 N.J. Super. 269, 273 (App. Div. 2004) (we generally defer to credibility determinations made by the ALJ who had the opportunity to hear the testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses). See also State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 470, (1999).

[1] The ALJ declined to give the lease evidentiary weight because "the District's investigation determined that lease was 'fraudulent'," and "the document was not notarized and bore no seal." (Initial Decision at 5) The Commissioner notes that it is not unusual for leases to be without notarizations and seals, and – more importantly – whatever investigation respondent may have conducted was not presented through sworn testimony or as documentary evidence at the OAL.

However, as to E.E.'s current domicile – i.e. since September 7, 2006 – and the district responsible for his current education, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision. In her papers and at the October hearing, petitioner not only presented the lease indicating her residence on South 10th Street, Newark, from August 2005 to August 2006, but also produced: a notarized letter dated September 24, 2006 from the previous owner of those premises stating that she resided there; her driver's license showing the South 10th Street address; and a letter dated September 27, 2006 from the new owner of those premises asking that she contact its representative or be evicted. She further testified that she would soon be the owner of the premises, although she produced no corroborating evidence.

By way of contrast, at the October 2006 hearing respondent's counsel – who is unable to testify about the actions of respondent's employees or investigators – referred to a district investigation from the 2005-2006 school year which allegedly rebutted petitioner's evidence, but did not produce it, or any sworn testimony about it. In turn, the ALJ relied on this non-produced evidence to conclude that "the underlying issues of petitioner's claim, [i.e.] domicile, has [sic] been settled by the evidence presented." (Initial Decision at 7) The ALJ wrote:

> Petitioner's evidence that she is domiciled in Newark is rejected as incredible. Indeed, the District presented credible evidence that E.E. no longer resides in the home of J.H. In addition to the Affidavit of J.H., the District investigated the alleged leased premises where petitioner claimed to reside and discovered her residence there is non-existent. The District provided further support for its determination through video and photographic evidence of petitioner and E.E. leaving the East Orange residence on four consecutive days during the month of March [2006]. The car that petitioner used to transport E.E. to Raphael Hernandez School is registered to petitioner with an East Orange address.

Unfortunately, there is no indication in the audio tapes of the October 2 and 17, 2006 hearings that any of the "credible evidence" referenced by the ALJ was presented at the hearing, either by way of the testimony of an investigator, or by way of authenticated documentation. Nor is said "evidence"– which in any event pertains only to January through June 2006 – in the record provided to the Commissioner.

It is undisputed that respondent performed an evaluation of E.E. over the summer of 2006, and enrolled him in special education classes at MLK on September 6, 2006. E.E.'s subsequent removal from MLK was timely challenged, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), by Y.E.'s petition dated September 11, 2006. The Commissioner finds that while petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief, she did present evidence at the OAL hearing which suggests that she may reside in Newark. Since respondent did not rebut petitioner's proofs with competent evidence, the Commissioner remands the matter to the OAL for a plenary hearing on petitioner's current domicile.

The Commissioner reminds the parties that unless someone other than petitioner has legal custody of E.E., it is petitioner's domicile that defines E.E.'s domicile. See Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians v. Holyfield, 490 U.S. 30, 48, 109 S. Ct. 1597, 1608, 104 L. Ed. 2d 29, 46 (1989); Roxbury Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. West Milford Bd. of Educ., 283 *N.J. Consequently, it is the district of petitioner's domicile that shall educate E.E. E.A.E. on behalf of minor child S.N.W. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield, Essex County, OAL Dkt. In summary, the Commissioner: 1) adopts the ALJ's conclusion that the petitioner did not prove that respondent was arbitrary and capricious in determining that E.E. was ineligible to receive a free public education in Newark during January through June 2006; 2) adopts the ALJ's determination that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief; and 3) rejects the ALJ's conclusion that the proofs at the October hearing showed that petitioner's current domicile is not in respondent's school district.

The Commissioner accordingly directs that: 1) petitioner pay respondent $4,478.88 for E.E.'s tuition for the period from January through June 2006; 2) the matter be remanded to the OAL for a plenary hearing on E.E.'s current domicile, including the issues of petitioner's custody of E.E. and petitioner's current domicile; and 3) petitioner ensure that E.E. attends school pending the resolution of this matter.

Petitioners,

v.

STATE OPERATED SCHOOL OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Y.E., pro se

Arsen Zartarian, Esq., for respondent
(Newark Public Schools, Office of General Counsel)

Record Closed: November 21, 2006 Decided: November 22, 2006

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Y.E. appealed the action of respondent, State Operated School District of Newark, Essex County ("District" or "Board"). The District determined that E.E. was not entitled to a free public education in the District because he no longer resided in the City of Newark as of December 25, 2005. Petitioner claims she and

E.E. reside in Newark and thus, E.E. is entitled to a free education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Petitioner also seeks emergent relief to return E.E. to the Newark school. The District maintains E.E. is not domiciled in the school District and has filed a counterclaim for payment of tuition. Further, respondent moves to dismiss the petition as untimely under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

On September 26, 2006, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing scheduled on October 2, 2006 was adjourned at petitioner's request to permit her to retain counsel; she did not. Therefore, the hearing was held on October 17, 2006 and the record closed after review of the documents.

ISSUE

Whether petitioner has met the standards for emergent relief to attend respondent's school district?

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Based on a review of the relevant evidence I FIND as FACT:

1. Petitioner's son E.E., attended the District's Rafael Hernandez School for 2005-2006.

2. J.H. is E.E.'s parental aunt and resides in the City of Newark.

3. On March 3, 2006, the District mailed petitioner an Initial Determination of Ineligibility, which informed her that E.E. was ineligible to attend the district's public school. The notice states in part:

> The District's Office of Attendance has advised me that you and your child, [E.E.] do not reside in Newark.
> Residence where the student is domiciled is __ Street, East Orange, NJ. The guardianship affidavit submitted by [JH] is no longer in force. [JH] has renounced further guardianship of [EE] and/or no longer resides at ___, Newark.

4. On April 5, 2006, the District mailed petitioner a Notice of Final Ineligibility, which states in part:

> You were advised of a scheduled hearing by certified and regular mail to be held on April 5, 2006. You did not appear at the hearing. The hearing was conducted [and] we have made this determination based on the following;
> Your son no longer resides with [JH]. The residence where student [EE] is domiciled is __ East Orange. The district has video and photographic evidence of you and your child [EE] leaving your East Orange residence on four consecutive days during the month of March. The car that you use to transport your child [EE] to Rafael Hernandez School is registered to you with an East Orange address.
> If you believe the district's determination is in error, you have a right to appeal...within 21 days of the date of this notice.

5. On September 15, 2006, the Department of Education notified petitioner that "the 21-day time period set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) for appealing the above referenced Final Notice of Ineligibility to the Commissioner has expired. If you nonetheless wish to challenge the District's determination of ineligibility, your petition may be processed."

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The State of New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to . . . any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286. The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A-38-1(b)1, reads, in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the District and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parents or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the District solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Domicile is a matter of intention which may be acquired by an intention to make his home there permanently or at least indefinitely, and to abandon his old domicile. A person has the right to choose his own domicile, and his motive in doing so is immaterial. A very short period of residence in a given place may be sufficient to show domicile, but mere residence, regardless of its length, is not sufficient. Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264 (1972). Determination of domicile requires an evaluation of all the facts and circumstances of the case. Id. at 265. When there is more than one residence, a court should consider numerous factors in determining domicile, including "the physical characteristics of each, time spent and things done in each place, the other persons there, the person's mental attitude toward each place, and whether there is or is not an intention, when absent, to return." Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super 35, 39-40 (Ch. Div. 1970).

Petitioner must show that either she is domiciled within the District or that J.H. is supporting E.E. gratis because the parents are not capable of supporting or caring for him due to family or economic hardship. Thus, the credible evidence must establish that the child is not residing with J.H. solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District.

The record reveals that on May 19, 2006, J.H. submitted an Affidavit which states in part:

> I reside in Newark. While my nephew [EE] resided in my home in the beginning of the 2006-2006 school year, [EE] has not resided in my home since December 25, 2005. At that time I released him to his natural mother, [YE]. A petition of appeal was filed in my name on behalf of EE on May 12, 2006, claiming that EE resides with me and seeking EE's continued attendance in Rafael Hernandez School....EE does not reside with me and I am not responsible for his education. To the best of my knowledge, EE resides with his mother in East Orange. Therefore, I withdraw my Petition of Appeal claiming residency for EE submitted under my signature dated May 12, 2006.

On June 14, 2006, the Department acknowledged J.H.'s letter and considered the petition withdrawn. However, on September 15, 2006, the Department informed petitioner that "the 21-day time period set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) for appealing the above referenced Final Notice of Ineligibility to the Commissioner has expired. If you nonetheless wish to challenge the District's determination of ineligibility, your petition may be processed." Therefore, assuming arguendo petitioner timely filed the petition of appeal. I have considered the evidence and petitioner's demeanor.

Although petitioner presented an "apartment lease" purporting to rent the premises at S. 10th Street, Newark, the District's investigation determined that lease was "fraudulent". Indeed, the document was not notarized and bore no seal. While some inconsistencies in a witness's testimony do not warrant an automatic discounting of that testimony as incredible the testimony must be such that the trier of fact can reasonably conclude that the witness is wholly unworthy of belief. United Stations of N.J. v. Getty Oil Co., 102 N.J. Super. 459 (Ch. Div. 1968). Accordingly, the trier of fact must carefully weigh the evidence before rejecting testimony, even if not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to the circumstances. Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Thus, a fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. united States, 412. U.S. 837, 93 S. Ct. 2357, 37 Ed. 2d 380 (1973). Moreover, credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony, requiring an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo v. United states, 314 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). Consequently, the evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958).

Based on the whole of the evidence, I FIND petitioner's evidence to be incredible and her testimony unbelievable.

EMERGENT RELIEF

The standard for granting emergent relief is set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, and Crowe v. DeGioia. The judge may order emergency relief if the judge determines from the proofs that:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Based on the relevant evidence, I am persuaded that petitioner has not demonstrated the requirements for emergency relief. At the hearing, petitioner acknowledged owning property in East Orange. The District conducted an investigation showing Y.E. and E.E. leaving the East Orange premises on four consecutive days and driving to the school in Newark. Further, the District explained that petitioner must enroll her child in the East Orange school district. The District also noted that the new school district would address E.E.'s recent classification for special education. Further, the Department made clear in its letter dated September 15, 2006 that "due to the expiration of the appeal period, E.E. may not automatically attend school in the District during the pendency of such appeal."

Thus, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated E.E. will suffer irreparable harm from the enrollment and placement in the school district of East Orange, the District of domicile.

I CONCLUDE that the underlying issues of petitioner's claim, domicile has been settled by the evidence presented.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

I further CONCLUDE that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the Petitioner has not demonstrated E.E. will suffer greater harm than would the respondent if the relief is not granted. Indeed, petitioner must enroll E.E. in the East Orange school district so he can continue to receive education.

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish the grounds for emergency relief in this matter. Moreover, this proceeding has addressed the underlying issue for emergent relief on matters that have been addressed at the hearing. Petitioner's evidence that she is domiciled in Newark is rejected as incredible. Indeed, the District presented credible evidence that E.E. no longer resides in the home of J.H. In addition to the Affidavit of J.H., the District investigated the alleged leased premises where petitioner claimed to reside and discovered her residence there is non-existent. The District provided further support for its determination through video and photographic evidence of petitioner and E.E. leaving the East Orange residence on four consecutive days during the month of March. The car that petitioner used to transport E.E. to Rafael Hernandez School is registered to petitioner with an East Orange address.

Thus, I CONCLUDE that this proceeding concerning emergent relief and petitioner's domicile are resolved. Therefore, I direct the District to submit appropriate documentation of the calculation of tuition due.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergency relief is DENIED. It is further ORDERED that the petition of Y.E. on behalf of minor child E.E. be DISMISSED.

It is further ORDERED that respondent's request of the calculation of tuition due be GRANTED upon submission to the Department of Education appropriate documentation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Dr. Parker:

On November 14, 2005, pursuant to Section 5 of the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, P.L. 2000, c.72 (the "Act"), the New Jersey Department of Education-Office of School Facilities (the "Department") approved the application for the above-referenced school facilities project. The school facilities project is to be constructed by the New Jersey Schools Construction Corporation (NJSCC), a subsidiary of the New Jersey Economic Development Authority. The NJSCC on behalf of the district has now submitted the applicable detailed plans and specifications for such school facilities project pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:26-5.4. The submission of the detailed plans and specifications has been deemed complete by the Department and has been reviewed to determine consistency of the detailed plans and specifications with the educational specifications and schematic plans approved for educational adequacy.

The following are the Department's determinations:

The detailed plans and specifications for the above-referenced project is either consistent with the educational specifications and schematic plans or contain insubstantial differences with no adverse effect on educational adequacy. Therefore, the detailed plans and specifications are approved. The Corporation may advance the project, including review for Uniform Construction Code ("UCC") compliance as required, by sending documents to:

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning candidate for teacher certification appealed the Board of Examiners' determination that she could not seek employment as a provisional teacher for an additional year following two "insufficient" ratings pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d). The Board held that, because petitioner's appeal had already been considered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(a) – where it was found to have been untimely filed in a decision previously upheld by the Commissioner – it could not additionally proceed under N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d).

The ALJ recommended dismissal of the petition, concurring with the Board's interpretation of the operative rule. The ALJ found that the two provisions in question were mutually exclusive on their face, and that petitioner was entitled to appeal to the Board under one or the other of such provisions, but not both.

The Commissioner adopted in part, and reversed in part, the Initial Decision. The Commissioner fully concurred with the ALJ's (and Board's) interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18, but did not agree that the petition should be dismissed as a result. The Commissioner found that – given the particular facts of this matter – the Board's application of the rule so as to foreclose petitioner from any opportunity for appeal placed form over substance, rendering it unreasonable under the circumstances. The Commissioner remanded the matter to the Board for consideration of the merits of petitioner's appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d).

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner has determined to adopt in part and reject in part the Initial Decision of the OAL, concurring with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his analysis of the regulation at issue, but disagreeing that such analysis should result in dismissal of the petition under the particular circumstances here presenting.

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner notes that her prior decision with regard to petitioner's appeal to the Board of Examiners (Board) has already held the Board to have acted lawfully in dismissing petitioner's appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(a), rejecting petitioner's arguments as to good cause for relaxation of the clear regulatory filing

[1] Counsel for petitioner did submit a short letter to the Commissioner "taking exception" to the Initial Decision's contention (at 3) that he "never actually addresses the [Board of Examiners'] argumentthat the plain language of the regulation forecloses a petition under (d) where, as here, a petition has been brought under (a)," countering that his October 18, 2006 brief – to which he refers the Commissioner – "clearly addresses this issue." However, because this letter includes no indication of the requisite service on either the Board of Examiners or the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner does not consider petitioner to have filed exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. (Parenthetically, the Commissioner notes that petitioner's October 18, 2006 brief is part of the record of this matter, but was not mentioned by the ALJ in his recitation of sources relied upon for argument, Initial Decision at 2.)

deadline, as well as her allegations of constitutional infirmity in the notice of this deadline provided to her by the State. (Ellen Muench v. New Jersey State Department of Education, State Board of Examiners, decided by the Commissioner April 12, 2006, slip opinion at 1-6) That decision went on, however, to note that neither the Board nor the ALJ had considered petitioner's invocation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) or its applicability to her situation, and petitioner's appeal was consequently remanded to the Board specifically to address "the application of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) or, if the Board determines that N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) may not be applied,articulation of the reasons therefor." (Id. at 6-7) On remand, the Board again determined to deny petitioner's appeal, articulating its reasons as directed by the Commissioner:

> The Board noted that the two appeal provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(a) and (d) are mutually exclusive. In fact, 6A:9-17.18(d), specifically states, in relevant part: "Candidates who receive a recommendation of 'disapproved' or two recommendations of insufficient,' and who do not contest the certification recommendation pursuant to (a) above may petition the Board of Examiners for approval of an additional opportunity to seek provisional employment." (Emphasis added.) Your client chose to appeal her second insufficient rating in the PTP program under 6A:9-17.18(a) and the reviewable issues of her appeal were fully litigated and decided. Accordingly, the provisions of 6A:-17.18(d) are unavailable to her. The fact that she may have included language citing both provisions in her initial letter of appeal does not alter the clear language of the regulation which provides appellants with alternative remedies, not supplementary ones. If Ms. Muench was seeking different relief, she should have informed the Board of Examiners of her choice prior to its initial review of her case. Her appeal is therefore dismissed in its entirety. (Board of Examiners Letter Decision of July 25, 2006, at 2)

In her appeal of this second denial, petitioner challenges – as matters of both law and fundamental fairness – the Board's interpretation of the operative rule. Petitioner contends that a candidate for certification "should not have to choose between these two remedies when each might apply to her circumstances," explaining that:

> Under the interpretation sought by the State, someone in [petitioner's] shoes might never have any aspect of her case heard on the merits. Here, the Board of Examiners refused to consider her application under subparagraph (a) on the merits, because it was late. However, at the time that she made her appeal under such paragraph (a), she had no way of knowing whether the Board [would] hear her appeal on the merits. The regulations allow the Board might waive the sixty (60) day appeal deadline. [Petitioner] had no way of knowing whether or not the Board would waive that deadline. Accordingly, she had no factual basis for deciding whether subparagraph (d) might be a more appropriate avenue of relief.
> Under the State's interpretation, despite numerous briefs, appeals and hearings before an Administrative Law Judge, we have reached the point in this case where no decision-maker or tryer (sic) of fact has ever bothered to hear [petitioner's] case on the merits. In light of all of the facts that have been previously set forth in our papers, this seems patently unfair. We are not dealing with an individual who violated some law, abused some child or engaged in some horrific conduct. [Petitioner] had a few less than stellar evaluations that can easily be explained by the facts set forth in her papers. Unfortunately, no one in the State has ever considered those facts, because the State has chosen to stand behind a strict, technical interpretation of the regulation that relieves them from ever having to do so. In my humble opinion, a citizen in the position of [petitioner] deserves better. (Petitioner's October 18, 2006 Brief in Reply to Board's Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss, at 1-2)

The Commissioner rejects petitioner's view of the rule at issue, instead endorsing the ALJ's (and Board's) interpretation that sections (a) and (d) of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18 are mutually exclusive on their face,[2] so that recipients of "disapproved" or two "insufficient" ratings for their period of employment under provisional certification may appeal to the Board of Examiners under either (a) or (d) – but not both. As recognized by the ALJ, the two provisions are intrinsically separate and distinct: Under (a), the candidate disputes the employing district's assessment of his or her performance and initiates an adversarial proceeding before the Board seeking to disprove the district's rating, while under (d), the candidate concedes deficient performance but seeks the Board's permission for an additional period of provisional employment through a nonadversarial demonstration of why he or she is likely to be successful if the requested opportunity is granted.[3] As the ALJ further suggests, there is nothing in the rule to suggest that a candidate for certification may come before the Board alleging that a negative provisional rating was unwarranted, and then – that challenge having failed for whatever procedural or substantive reason – return for a "second bite of the apple" with the inherently inconsistent claim that he or she does not dispute the assessment but can show that circumstances warrant a further opportunity to succeed. Nor is the Board's (and ALJ's) interpretation unfairly "strict" and "technical" as claimed by petitioner; procedural rules are a necessary and accepted fixture of appeal proceedings of all kinds, and would be rendered meaningless if they could be disregarded solely because their reasonable application in a particular situation results in loss of a claimant's opportunity for hearing on the merits.

Adopting the ALJ's (and Board's) interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18, however, does not end the inquiry in this matter. The Commissioner differs with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board is entitled – on the basis of the referenced rule – to have its decision declining to hear petitioner's appeal under section (d) upheld by the Commissioner.

The letter of appeal submitted to the Board on behalf of petitioner on November 24, 2004 begins as follows:

> This firm represents Ellen Muench. We write pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18 to appeal a second "insufficient" recommendation received by Ellen Muench from the Perth Amboy Board of Education. We seek relief from the Board for the issuance of a Standard Certificate to Ellen Muench, or in the alternative, an opportunity to seek further employment as a provisional teaching staff member. In addition, we ask that the Board relax its sixty-day requirement for "good cause" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(c). If the Board does not deem "good cause" to exist, we seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) to provide Ellen Muench with an opportunity to seek provisional employment, because the facts below establish clearly and convincingly that she will succeed if granted the opportunity. Lastly, we ask for interim and immediate relief, allowing the > petitioner to return to her teaching position with the Rahway Board of Education, pending the Board's consideration of the relief sought herein. We set forth below the facts and circumstances that justify the relief requested.

[3] While the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the rule is clear on its face, she also notes that this reading is supported by the agency summary published with the rule at proposal level on October 6, 2003 (35 N.J.R. 4352, 4360-61).

However – notwithstanding its expressly subordinate invocation of section (d), its initial self-characterization as an appeal of the "insufficient" rating received from the Perth Amboy Board of Education, and its request for one of the two outcomes specifically associated with rating disputes under section (a), i.e., issuance of a standard certificate or, alternatively, an opportunity for a further year of provisional teaching – the entire substance of petitioner's five-page, single-spaced letter and its numerous appended exhibits consists of explication of the extenuating circumstances leading to her substandard performance, both in her first year of provisional teaching in the New Brunswick school district and in her second year in Perth Amboy. Not once does she even suggest – let alone directly allege or attempt to show as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(a)1-4 – that the rating she received from Perth Amboy did not reflect her actual performance. Thus, while her letter of appeal mischaracterized its own nature and requested a preferred relief – issuance of a standard certificate – available only to appellants disputing their receipt of an adverse rating, petitioner was, in fact, asking the Board's consideration based entirely on the contention that her concededly insufficient performance was due to circumstances beyond her control and that she would now succeed if allowed to continue in employment: precisely the type of appeal contemplated by section (d) of the operative rule, which did not – at the time of petitioner's submission – have a deadline for filing as did section (a).

Given the confusion as to intent and procedure evident in petitioner's good faith letter of appeal – and the magnitude of the consequences flowing from a second "insufficient" rating to a candidate for teacher certification – the Commissioner cannot accept the Board's categorical rejection of petitioner's invocation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) when, upon the Board's receipt of her appeal, petitioner had neither been advised of the need nor given the opportunity to make a choice between sections (a) and (d) of the rules and "[inform] the Board of Examiners of [such] choice prior to its initial review of her case." (Board of Examiners Letter Decision, supra) Under these circumstances – where the Board effectively made the necessary choice for petitioner, without her knowledge and in a manner that foreclosed her from any possibility of hearing on the merits – the Commissioner finds the Board's July 25, 2006 decision denying petitioner's section (d) appeal to have placed form over substance to an extent that rendered it unreasonable under the circumstances, and thus, susceptible to reversal on review.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted with respect to its interpretation of the operative rule, but rejected as to its dismissal of the petition. This matter is remanded to the Board of Examiners for consideration of the merits of petitioner's appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d).

ELLEN MUENCH,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Sean F. Byrnes, Esq., for petitioner
Melissa T. Dutton, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Stuart J. Rabner, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter was previously before this judge for hearing regarding Ms. Muench's attempt to challenge a second "insufficient" rating received during employment under a provisional teaching certificate. She had sought relief from the Board of Examiners ("Examiners") under N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(a), and because her petition was filed with the Examiners after the 60-day period permitted in that regulation she sought a waiver of the 60-day filing limit under N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(c). The Examiners transferred that contested case to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing and in an interlocutory order issued by this judge, I determined that the Examiners' motion to dismiss the petition as untimely should be determined only after a hearing during which the petitioner could seek to establish "good cause" for a waiver of the 60-day filing deadline. In an Initial Decision dated February 28, 2006, I ordered the dismissal of the petition, concluding both that it was untimely and that the petitioner had failed to demonstrate "good cause" for a waiver of the filing deadline. On April 12, 2006, Acting Commissioner Davy affirmed the ruling that the petition was untimely and that good cause had not been demonstrated, but she remanded the matter to the Examiners for consideration of whether Ms. Muench could avail herself of the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d). On July 25, 2006, the Examiners advised Ms. Muench that her appeal was denied because, having first asserted a challenge to the "insufficient" rating under subparagraph (a) and (c) of the regulation, she was precluded by the regulation from seeking relief under subparagraph (d). Counsel for Ms. Muench filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner on August 15, 2006, challenging the refusal of the Examiner's to grant Ms. Muench relief under subparagraph (d). The Examiners moved on September 14, 2006, to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim. The Commissioner transferred the matter to the OAL on October 24, 2006, with specific direction to consider "solely . . . the possible applicability of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) to petitioner's situation." In a telephone conference with counsel on November 9, 2006, I determined that the only decision to be made at this time is whether the conclusion reached by the Examiners that they need not consider the petition on its merits was proper. Counsel agreed that no material facts affecting this issue were in dispute and were satisfied that they had included all relevant arguments concerning the question in their letter briefs to the Commissioner filed on September 14 and October 16 by the Examiners and October 5 by Ms. Muench. As such, I will now decide the matter based upon an analysis of the applicable law as if the parties had each moved for summary decision.

N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.18(d) provides that candidates for certification who receive "a recommendation of 'disapproved,' or two recommendations of 'insufficient,' and who have not challenged the certification recommendation pursuant to (a) above may petition the Board of Examiners for approval of an additional opportunity to seek provisional employment." [i] (Emphasis supplied). The Examiners' motion argues that Ms. Muench clearly did file a challenge to the "insufficient" recommendation, seeking relief under (a) and asserting that this relief should be permitted under a time waiver permitted under subparagraph (c), and therefore, even though that petition was never considered on its merits due to the determination that it was untimely filed, the existence of that "challenge" precludes an attempt to obtain an additional opportunity to seek provisional employment under (d). The very language of the regulation is such that the two possible remedies are mutually exclusive and require the petitioner to choose in advance the relief she seeks. Once a "challenge" is pursued, a request under (d) for an "additional opportunity" is precluded. Thus, the Examiners argue that given her previous choice to pursue the (a) remedy, no relief can be given to the petitioner under this petition, which seeks the (d) remedy.

In response, counsel for Ms. Muench never actually addresses the argument presented by the Examiners, that is, that the plain language of the regulation forecloses a petition under (d) where, as here, a petition has been brought under (a). Instead, the petitioner claims that the facts pertaining to her two years of teaching experience, following each of which she received an "insufficient" rating, support her request for relief under (d). Indeed, in the prior hearing, where she sought relief under (a), Ms. Muench likewise asserted that the "good cause" determination under (c) was not limited to the issue of whether she had good reason for having missed the deadline, but was instead a question of whether the totality of the facts involved in her teaching experience and the issues surrounding that experience demonstrated "good cause" for simply ignoring the deadline so that the merits of her cause could be reached. And while he asserts that in her original petition Ms. Muench mentioned both the (a) and (d) remedies, he does not deal with the language of the regulation which specifically limits resort to (d) to situations where the petitioner has "not challenged the certification recommendation pursuant to (a)."

Discussion

The key to deciding the question of whether the relief which Ms. Muench seeks through this petition may be available to her is the plain language of the regulation itself. The language of the regulation, if clear, is the basis for determining its meaning, and where it is "clear and unambiguous," susceptible to but one interpretation, there is no need to "resort to extrinsic interpretative aids." In re Passaic County Utils. Auth., 164

N.J. 270, 299 (2000) (citing Bergen Commercial Bank v. Sisler, 157 N.J. 188, 202 (1999). The sole task is then to carry out the direction of the regulation. New Jersey Dep't of Law and Public Safety v. Bigham, 119 N.J. 646, 651 (1990). This regulation is, indeed, quite clear, for it states without any caveat that the relief possible under (d) is available only to those "who have not challenged the certification recommendation pursuant to (a) . . ." (emphasis supplied). Only such persons "may petition the Board of Examiners for approval of an additional opportunity to seek provisional employment." Those persons who have instead challenged the certification recommendation pursuant to (a) cannot then avail themselves of the possible remedy afforded by (d). While the regulation could of course have been written differently and permitted one who sought relief under (a) to alternatively seek relief under (d), the drafters did not choose to provide for seeking alternative means of relief, choosing instead to require the petitioner to make the choice of which exclusive means of relief to pursue. There is nothing ambiguous about the language employed to set out this choice. The fact that a petitioner such as Ms. Muench might initially express her interest in obtaining relief, citing both the (a) and (d) provisions, does not insulate her from the need to choose which of the two provisions to actually pursue. The choice imposed on the petitioner at the outset is therefore to either seek relief by means of a challenge under (a) and therefore forego the possibility of seeking an additional opportunity for provisional employment under (d), or to forego a challenge of the recommendation under (a) and instead to seek an additional opportunity under (d). Since Ms. Muench sought to challenge the recommendation and pursued that relief under (a), albeit unsuccessfully, she cannot now seek relief under (d) and thus no relief may be afforded to her under the petition. While the determination regarding the relief sought under (a) was resolved due to her failure to meet the filing deadline rather than on the merits, there is no warrant for treating her attempt to invoke (a) with any less consequence than had it been resolved against her on the merits. Knowing as she did that her filing for relief was occurring after the 60-day deadline and that she would have to plead, "good cause" in order to be permitted to pursue her challenge, she could have simply pursued the additional opportunity under (d), but she instead chose to move forward with her challenge under (a) and litigate the good cause issue. Presented with the choice, she chose to pursue the challenge, and thereby she precluded herself from pursuing the "additional opportunity." Therefore, as the facts are not in dispute and the Examiner's have demonstrated that the law requires that their position prevail on these facts, I CONCLUDE that the Examiners are entitled to the DISMISSAL of the petition. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – wherein the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissed petitioner's appeal and granted the respondent Board of Education's (Board) request for tuition due to petitioner's failure to appear as scheduled at two OAL hearings – have been reviewed.

Within the time permitted for the filing of exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, however, petitioner sent a letter explaining his absence and asking that he be permitted to present evidence showing J.L.-R.'s entitlement to attend school in the Board's district. In response, the Board notified the Commissioner that it would have "no objection to vacating the Initial Decisionand reinstating this matter so that the petitioner may proceed to a hearing." (Letter of Board Counsel, dated January 3, 2007)

Given that this matter concerns a student's entitlement to a free public education and that the Board has no objection to proceeding to hearing, notwithstanding petitioner's prior failure to appear, the Commissioner finds it appropriate to permit this matter to proceed as originally intended.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is rejected for the reasons set forth herein and the matter is remanded to the OAL for hearing on the merits of petitioner's claim.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On January 10, 2005, the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), "in the interest of fundamental fairness to a pro se petitioner who may be facing the possibility of a tuition assessment that this matter should be returned to the OAL for continued proceedings."[1]

A hearing on remand was scheduled on October 5, 2006. Notices were mailed to the parties. Petitioner failed to appear at the hearing on October 5, 2006. The Board of Education of Clifton submitted the affidavit of Karen L. Perkins, business administrator and board secretary. (Attached). The affidavit provides, in detail, the total amount due for tuition reimbursement for J.L.-R. minor, who was enrolled in the school district from September 20, 2001 to October 6, 2006. The total amount is $40,140.00.

CONCLUSION

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner had two opportunities to appear before the OAL and appeal the decision of the Board. Further, petitioner has not filed an objection or any response to the Board's calculation of tuition reimbursement.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the petition of R.R. on behalf of minor child J.L.-R.V. be DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that the tuition reimbursement as calculated by the Board of Education in the City of Clifton be GRANTED.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – wherein the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) returned the matter to the Department due to the respondent's apparent abandonment of her intent to defend against the Order to Show Cause issued by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 – have been reviewed.

Within the time permitted for the filing of exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, however, counsel for respondent submitted a certification explaining the miscommunication that led to his failure to appear at the scheduled prehearing conference and asked that his client not lose her opportunity to present a meritorious defense on the basis of an administrative error. The Edison Township Board of Education – which initiated the Commissioner's issuance of the referenced Order – filed no objection to respondent's request.

Upon consideration of counsel's submission and the absence of objection by the Board, the Commissioner concludes that the interests of justice would be best served by permitting this matter to proceed as originally intended. Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: November 30, 2006 Decided: December 1, 2006

BEFORE JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter is an action by way of Order to Show Cause to suspend the Teaching Certificate of Madeline P. Glacken, respondent, for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. It is alleged respondent broke her employment contract with the School District of Edison in mid-term without notice or just cause. Respondent, in her answer, denied the charge.

On June 13, 2006, the Edison Township Board of Education filed an Order to Show Cause with the Department of Education alleging respondent's improper conduct. Respondent filed a Certification in Opposition on July 31, 2006, denying the allegations of the Board and requesting a hearing. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on August 8, 2006. The matter was assigned to the undersigned for disposition.

Initially, an in-person prehearing conference (IPP) was scheduled for October 4, 2006; however, it was adjourned because of a scheduling conflict with the court. The IPP was rescheduled to November 6, 2006. Respondent's counsel requested an adjournment from that date because he was attending the State Bar Convention in Rome, Italy. The request was granted. The IPP was again rescheduled to November 22, 2006. On October 30, 2006, the undersigned telefaxed respondent's and plaintiff's counsel a letter advising them of the November 22, date. On November 1, 2006, the OAL Clerk's Office sent respondent's and plaintiff's counsel an official notice that the IPP was scheduled for November 22, 2006.

On the scheduled IPP date plaintiff's counsel appeared at the required time but respondent's counsel failed to appear.

Nine days have passed, which includes the Thanksgiving holiday, since the scheduled in-person prehearing conference. During that period, and as of the writing of this Initial Decision, neither respondent nor her counsel have contacted the OAL to offer any explanation for non-appearance. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a)

Therefore, I CONCLUDE the respondent no longer seeks to defend the matter. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), I ORDER the Clerk to return the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE BARRY N. FRANK, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on September 25, 2006, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, and assigned to the undersigned.

A hearing was scheduled on September 26, 2006 and continued to December 12, 2006 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the hearing on December 12, settlement discussions were held and a partial settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a partial settlement and have prepared a Partial Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the partial settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the partial settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of those issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The parties have agreed that the remaining issue shall be heard on Wednesday, April 4, 2007 at 10:00 a.m.

I CONCLUDE that this partial stipulation of settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the partial settlement should be approved. I approve the partial settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the partial settlement terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is entered into by and between John Flora (hereinafter "Flora") and the Fredon Township Board of Education (hereinafter "Board"), subject to the terms and conditions contained herein:

WHEREAS, on or about June 10, 2005, a Complaint was filed with the School Ethics Commission against John Flora, a member of the Board, by Janet and Henry Carstens (hereinafter "Complainants") alleging four (4) counts of violations to the School Ethics Act (the "Ethics Matter"; and

WHEREAS, an Answer to the violations and a Motion to Dismiss was filed by Attorney Gary A. Kraemer on behalf of Flora; and

WHEREAS, at its July 26, 2005 meeting, confirmed by letter dated August 24, 2005, the School Ethics Commission dismissed the allegations contained in Paragraphs one, three and four and referred the allegations in Paragraph two for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, on October 25, 2005 the Complainants and Flora resolved the remaining allegation in the Complaint with the Complainants agreeing to withdraw the remaining allegation in Paragraph two, and Flora agreeing to withdraw his request for sanctions against the Complainants for filing a frivolous complaint; and

WHEREAS, Flora requested indemnification of his legal fees and costs from the Board for the defense of the Ethics matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20; and

WHEREAS, a dispute arose over the Board's legal responsibility for these costs and the Board denied reimbursement; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 6, 2005, Flora filed a Petition of Appeal against the Board before the Commissioner of Education seeking indemnification for all reasonable counsel fees and litigation expenses from the underlying ethics proceedings in the amount of $4,331.25 together with such additional fees incurred by the enforcement action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 12-20 (the "Indemnification Proceeding"); and

WHEREAS, a separate action was also filed by these same Complainants against Flora on or about January 18, 2005 in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Sussex County, Law Division, Docket No. SSX–L–701-05 (the "Lawsuit"), and Attorney Gary A. Kraemer filed an Answer on behalf of Flora, and requested indemnification on behalf of Flora from the Board, and on or about September 13, 2006 the Board obtained insurance coverage through School Alliance Insurance Fund for this civil action; and

WHEREAS, BASED UPON ALL OF THE FOREGOING, Flora and the Board have decided to fully and finally resolve and settle the Indemnification Proceeding and all claims arising between them concerning the indemnification of legal fees and costs relating to the Ethics Matter and the Lawsuit.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. In exchange for the payment of $3,500.00, Flora agrees to hereby waive and release any and all claims he has or could have had relating to the Ethics Matter and the Lawsuit, and agrees to the filing of a Stipulation of Dismissal with prejudice in the Indemnification Proceeding. The parties agree that Flora is proscribed from reinstituting the Indemnification Proceeding at any time now or in the future, in this or any other forum.

2. The foregoing shall constitute full and complete settlement regarding any and all claims of whatever nature that Flora may have against the Board, its agents and employees, individually or collectively, that were raised or could have been raised in the Indemnification Proceeding, and constitutes a full and final Release to the benefit of the Board, its agents and employees regarding the same.

3. This Agreement does not constitute an admission of wrong-doing and/or liability by any of the parties, nor does it constitute an admission of violation of any statute, regulation, rule, policy or legal duty. This Agreement shall not be cited as precedent nor shall be used in any future legal proceedings (except for the enforcement of its own terms, by either party or their representatives).

5. Each party to this Agreement hereby acknowledges that they have had ample opportunity to review this Agreement and the terms embodied herein, understand the terms, entire into the Agreement voluntarily, and have consulted with and been represented by competent counsel prior to executing this Agreement.

6. This Agreement shall be governed by and shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey. Any action arising out of or relating to this Agreement shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the laws of the State of New Jersey and shall be venued exclusively in the Courts of the State of New Jersey.

7. This Agreement and all of its terms shall remain confidential to the greatest extent permitted by law. This Agreement is subject to the approval of the Board.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have caused this Agreement and Release to be duly executed as of the day and year indicated.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1995-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 35-1/06

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF GARRY HOWARD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF ROSELLE, UNION COUNTY,

Nicholas Celso, Esq., for petitioner, Borough of Roselle School District (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein Celso & Kessler., attorneys)

Louis Bucceri, Esq., for respondent (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 4, 2006 Decided: December 8, 2006

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The School District of the Borough of Roselle ("District") certified charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, chronic and excessive absenteeism and other just cause against respondent, Garry Howard, ("Howard") a tenured custodian employed by the District. The District filed the written charges with the Commissioner of Education on January 18, 2006.

The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on February 6, 2006 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 52:14F-1 to -13. Hearings were held on November 15 and 16, 2006.

At the November 16th hearing, the parties agreed to settle this matter. Due to the nature of the charges, Howard was advised by his attorney that since this is a tenure revocation proceeding, any settlement agreement herein is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education. Further, that the Commissioner could refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for further action. Thereafter, Howard acknowledged that he fully understood the charges and the consequences of this settlement. See Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842.

After a review of the entire record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest because it will save significant legal expenses and costs, as well as, time expended by administrators and witnesses.

I further FIND that Howard had full opportunity to consult with legal counsel prior to entering into the agreement. He is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action which he may deem appropriate. Further, he was informed by counsel that notwithstanding the parties agreement to settle this matter, the Commissioner may not approve the settlement agreement. Thus, any execution of the settlement prior to the approval by the Commissioner is done at the peril of the parties.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the attached the settlement which is incorporated herein by reference and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

WHEREAS, the Roselle Board of Education ("the Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Roselle School District; and

WHEREAS, Garry Howard commenced employment with the Board as custodian with the District in March, 1991; and

WHEREAS, on December 15, 2005, Darlene Roberto, Superintendent of Schools, filed sworn tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause against Respondent, together with a sworn statement of evidence in support of the charges, with the Board Secretary (See, Exhibits A & B, respectively); and

WHEREAS, on January 9, 2006, after considering the sworn tenure charges and sworn statement of evidence against Respondent, together with the submission filed on his behalf, the Board determined to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on or about January 19, 2006, the sworn tenure charges, together with a certificate of determination and certificate of service, were filed by the Board with the Commissioner of Education, and Respondent was simultaneously served with the sworn tenure charges, sworn statement of evidence, certificate of determination and certificate of service, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 3, 2006, an Answer was filed on behalf of Respondent; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 6, 2006, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, where it was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Irene Jones; and

WHEREAS, the hearing in this matter commenced on November 15, 2006 and continued on November 16, 2006; and

WHERAS, at the conclusion of the testimony on November 16, 2006, but prior to the conclusion of the proceedings, which were expected to last for at least two more days, the parties agreed to settle the matter; and

WHEREAS, the parties, wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, upon approval by the Court and the Commissioner of Education;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Tenure Charges to be Moot

The Board agrees that upon approval of the within settlement agreement and release by the Commissioner that the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be withdrawn by the Board. However, both parties agree that in the event that this agreement is not approved by the Commissioner of Education that they fully reserve their rights to proceed with this litigation and/or any other cause of action that they might have against one another and that their obligations under this agreement shall be null and void.

2. Resignation

Respondent has tendered his irrevocable resignation from all employment with the Board, effective as of the close of business on April 1, 2007.

3. Payment

The Board will pay to the Respondent his regular salary, pursuant to contract, through April 1, 2007. Respondent waives his right to all other compensation from the Board of any kind, including but not necessarily limited to payment for unused sick, vacation and personal days.

4. Health Benefits

The Board agrees to pay the premium for Respondent's health benefits at their current level, through April 1, 2007, after which Respondent shall have the same COBRA rights as any other former employee.

5. Release

In exchange for the above consideration, Respondent, and his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, officers, administrators, agents, employees, attorneys, and their successors, heirs and assigns, including, but not limited to any claims for attorneys fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any claims involving tax liability stemming from this settlement, and any claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retaining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim.

Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., and for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (commonly referred to as "COBRA"), provided that Respondent is not entitled to have the District pay any amounts for his or his dependents' health insurance coverage under COBRA. Also, excluded from this release is any claim for indemnification Respondent may have against the Board pursuant to Title 18A. Lastly, this release does not apply to any right Respondent might have to collect unemployment benefits and any application for such benefits will not be opposed by the Board.

6. Surrender of Board Property

Respondent shall forthwith surrender all school keys and property in his possession to the below named legal counsel who, in turn shall forward same to the Board's counsel.

7. Public Interest

The proposed settlement of this tenure dispute will serve the public interest because, as a result of Respondent having tendered his irrevocable letter of resignation from his employment with the Board, the Board will not have to incur any further legal fees in connection with the prosecution of this matter. Further, the Board's operation will not be disrupted by having staff members out of the District to testify in connection with this matter, nor will it have to pay for substitute employees.

8. Board Approval

The Board President is authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board of Education.

9. Assent to Terms

Respondent hereby acknowledges that he entered into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that he was fully informed of the implications of this agreement by his counsel. Respondent also enters into without duress of his own free will and volition.

Respondent acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and seven (7) days from the execution of this document to revoke this Agreement by delivering written notification to Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., 10 James Street, Florham Park, New Jersey 07932. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Respondent will not be entitled to the entire consideration described herein.

10. Entire Agreement

This Agreement represents the entire understanding of the parties and may be modified only in a subsequent written instrument, duly executed by the parties. No other representations of any kind shall be binding upon the parties. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material.

11. Governing Law

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

Re: Letter of Resignation

Dear Mr. D'Angelo:

I hereby submit my resignation from any and all positions of employment with the Roselle School District, effective April 1, 2007. This resignation is expressly conditioned upon the Roselle Board of Education's approval of and compliance with the Stipulation of Settlement signed by me on November 22, 2006, as well as the approval of that Stipulation by the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, but is otherwise irrevocable. This resignation may not be deemed to be any form of admission.

Sincerely,

Garry Howard 11-22-06

KENNETH DAMKEN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF TENAFLY, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed settlement agreement – as set forth in the July 20, 2006 letter of petitioner's counsel, and approved by the Board of Education – and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts it as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner observes that central terms of the agreement appear to have been effectuated by the parties prior to final agency approval, contrary to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Accordingly, the Commissioner cautions that, in controverted matters transmitted to the OAL, proposed settlements should not be effectuated without the Commissioner's approval, and that parties act at their peril in so doing.

With the caution noted above, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to continued compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

John P. Harrington, Esq., for respondent (Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 14, 2006 Decided: December 18, 2006

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 22, 2005, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on December 12 and 13, 2006. Prior to the date of hearing the parties settled the matter. The attached Letter Settlement Agreement was submitted on July 20, 2006 and on December 14, 2006, the parties submitted the Resolution by the Board of Education, indicating the terms of agreement which are incorporated herein by reference.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: Damken v. Tenafly Board of Education
OAL Docket No. EDUOR 07930-2005N
Agency Ref. No. 101-4/05

Dear Mr. Harrington:

This is to confirm the settlement of the above action on the following terms:

1. The Board will contract with Mr. Damken to engage him as a non-tenured Spanish teacher in the District for the 2006-2007 school year.
2. Mr. Damken will be paid on the 7th step of the teachers salary guide and receive a .7 (seven tenths) full time equivalent position at an annual rate of pay of $40,275.
3. In consideration for the appointment to the .7 position, Mr. Damken will resign his tenured position with the school district.
4. In addition, Mr. Damken will withdraw, with prejudice, his action before the Commissioner of Education.
5. Subsequent to the 2006-2007 school year, the Board will have the option to continue or non-renew Mr. Damken's employment as a non-tenured teacher with the District.
6. Mr. Damken will receive the full benefit of the Separation of Service Plan that was the subject of the above action and receive the cash benefits thereof as if he retired on June 30, 2006.

Please confirm that this settlement is acceptable to the Board and appropriate documents confirming the same will be drafted.

Very truly yours,

ALFRED F. MAURICE

SHAMONG TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION PETITIONER v. JOHN LAAG RESPONDENT	OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW DOCKET: EDUOS-08155-2005S Settlement Agreement

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT & GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement is made between the Shamong Township Board of Education (hereinafter "Shamong") and John Laag (hereinafter "Laag").

RECITALS

1. Shamong commenced an action for the recovery of non-resident tuition in the Office of Administrative Law of New Jersey, Docket Number EDUOS08155-2005S.
2. In the Action Shamong alleged that Laag's children attended Shamong Township schools while the family was living in another municipality.
3. The parties desire to resolve the issues among them, and to settle the Action.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the conditions, covenants, obligations and mutual agreements set forth in this Agreement, and in full settlement of Shamong's claims against Laag, the parties agree as follows:

1. Nothing provided in this Agreement shall constitute an admission by Laag of liability or wrongdoing, or the violation of any law, rule, regulation, public policy or contract provision.
2. In full and complete settlement of all the claims which were or could have been asserted by Shamong against Laag from the beginning of time to the present, Laag shall pay to Shamong the sum of Two Thousand Five Hundred Twenty Dollars and Fifty Centers ($2,520.50) (the "Settlement Sum"). Payment shall be made within ten (10) days of execution of this Agreement by all parties.

3. Shamong further agrees to release Laag from any responsibility for tuition for any and all of Laag's children, to wit: Jessica Laag, Dana Laag and Catherine Laag.

4. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement is confidential, and agree not to disclose any information regarding any of the terms of this Agreement, except to the parties' attorneys in the matter.

5. All parties to this Agreement had an opportunity to review this Agreement and obtain independent legal counsel to review same.

6. Upon the execution of this Agreement, the parties shall execute and file a Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice of the Action.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent's determination that his ward, D.K., was not domiciled in respondent's district during the 2005-2006 school years. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance, based on observations by an investigator that D.K. was living at an address in Burlington.

The ALJ found that petitioner has proven by a preponderance of evidence that D.K. was domiciled in respondent's school district during the period in question; that the address in Burlington was never a permanent domicile; and concluded that respondent was required to provide D.K. with a free public education. The ALJ dismissed the respondent's counterclaim for tuition.

Upon an independent and thorough review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge, for the reasons clearly presented in his decision, that A.P. was a domiciliary of respondent's district for the period at issue herein, i.e., December 12, 2005 through June 20, 2006, thereby entitling minor child D.K. to free attendance in the district's schools during this time.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00541-06S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 24-1/06

A.P., SR., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, D.K., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

A.P., Sr., petitioner, pro se
Peter Spaeth, Esq., for respondent (Wolff, Helies, Duggan, Spaeth & Lucas, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 28, 2006 Decided: December 5, 2006

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

The Bordentown Regional School District Board of Education advised Mr. A.P., Sr., that it disputed that a child for whom he serves as guardian, D.K., was entitled to receive a free public education provided by the Board, as it did not believe that Mr. P. was actually domiciled within the regional school district. Following issuance of a Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility on December 9, 2005, the District issued a Notice of Final Ineligibility to Mr. P. on December 16, 2005. In addition to claiming that it did not have any obligation to provide a free education to D.K., this Notice also alerted Mr. P. that if no appeal was filed from the Board's decision, that the Board might assess Mr. P. tuition at the rate of $56 per day for each day D. attended the district's school while not entitled to do so at no cost. On January 13, 2006, Mr. P.'s appeal was received by the Department of Education's Office of Controversies and Disputes. The Board filed an Answer to Mr. P.'s appeal, received by the DOE on February 10, 2006. The contested case was transferred to the OAL on February 16, 2006. A prehearing conference was held by Honorable John Futey, ALJ, on March 14, 2006. Subsequently, Judge Futey recused himself and the case was reassigned to this judge.

While the Board did not make a specific counterclaim for tuition in its Answer, it sought to assert such a claim at the hearing which was held on November 20, 2006. Mr. P. acknowledged that he was aware of the claim, as indeed the Notice of Final Ineligibility had referred to the possibility of such claim. However, as there never was a formal counterclaim or any other notice that an assessment of tuition might be claimed at a rate greater than the $56 rate noted in the Notice, I denied the Board's attempt to claim a daily tuition rate higher than $56 a day. Further, as the Board agrees that Mr. P. has been domiciled within the district during the current 2006-2007 school year, its contention that he was not so domiciled and its consequent claim for tuition is limited to the period from December 12, 2005, through June 20, 2006, a period of 118 school days.

Following the hearing on November 20, I permitted Mr. P. an opportunity to file a reply to the arguments set forth by the Board's counsel in his pre-trial memorandum, which was filed just prior to the hearing. Mr. P. replied on November 28 and the record closed as of that date.

Evidence

Mr. P. testified that he purchased the property located at 99 Dunns Mill Road, Bordentown in 2003. He moved in during the summer of 2003. A single family home is situated on this property, which is adjacent to the property of the Board on which the high school is located. Prior to that time, Mr. P. resided at 636 Oakland Avenue in Burlington, New Jersey. Mr. P. is D.K.'s uncle and has guardianship over the boy, who was 14 years old and in 9th grade during the period of school attendance in question here.

Photographs of the outside of the home located at 99 Dunns Mill Road were offered into evidence by the Board. These show that much of the siding is missing, and remains so, but the decision in this case is not governed by the appearance of the exterior of the home. Mr. P. testified that he remained in the home until an incident forced him to leave, and while he was gone on military duty with the National Guard for a period of 20 days, animals entered the home through a door improperly installed by a contractor and did much damage. The condition of the home was such that he had to stay with friends and then move to Tenby Chase in Delran in October 2003. He remained there until the summer of 2004, moved back to his mother's home at 636 Oakland Avenue, Burlington, in October 2004 and then finally returned to Dunns Mill Road in December 2005. In the interim he took over guardianship of D.K. in 2004. D.K. resided with him in Delran and then in Burlington.

D.K. was enrolled in the Burlington School District in 2004 and then in Bordentown Regional in the fall of 2005. This enrollment was initiated because the plan was to move into Dunns Mill Road full time, but this was not accomplished during the months of September, October and November 2005. Additionally, it was Mr. P.'s desire that given the intended move, that D. enjoy four years at Bordentown, rather than one year in Burlington followed by three years in Bordentown. In November 2005, Mr. James G. Lymper, Vice-Principal at the Bordentown Regional High School, contacted Mr. P. and advised of a "60-day policy" regarding renovation of a house. As a result of this conversation, Mr. P. discussed with a contractor the cleaning up of the bedrooms in the Dunns Mill Road house so as to permit him to live there full time with D.K. According to P., they had lived in Dunns Mill Road part-time since the summer of 2005, but they moved in permanently in December 2005. The house has three bedrooms and D.K. has his own bedroom. Mr. P. also has a two year old child who resides with him part-time. As of December, the bedrooms were cleared, but a partition was placed in front of the kitchen and a back room, due to the placement there of tools by the contractor and the intention to take that part of the house off to allow an expansion. A gas line that had been broken was repaired before they moved in full-time, but due to the tools, Mr. P. would go to his mother's house in Burlington and cook an amount of food to bring back to Dunns Mill Road, where he had a refrigerator and a microwave.

While Mr. P. is technically still employed as a corrections officer by Mercer County, for the past two years he has been on military leave, serving in the National Guard and assigned unspecified duties in "South Jersey."[i] He works nights on active duty and is not home three nights a week. He has a 50%-50% custody arrangement with the mother of his 2 year old child. If he is not home a nanny stays with the child. About once a week Mr. P.'s duties conflict with D.K.'s school work and D.K. stays in the Dunns Mill Road house by himself, with his mother checking on the boy. On weekends, they might go to Mr. P.'s mother's house. There were occasions when D.K. did not spend the night at Dunns Mill Road and would be at Oakland Avenue, such as the nights when major cooking took place at the Burlington address. The Oakland Avenue address was listed for sale for about 14 months until it was sold on November 7, 2006. If he could have done so, he would have stayed at Dunns Mill Road all of the time.

Evidence produced under subpoena from Mercer County showed that Mr. P. had not advised his employer of any change of address to Dunns Mill Road. He testified that he always showed a post office box as his mailing address, a common occurrence with corrections officers. He remains on full pay with the County and his checks are direct deposited to his account. His pay stubs are sent to his post office box.

Victoria Rivera-Cruz, Personnel Director for Mercer County, testified that county employees are responsible for supplying current addresses and telephone numbers to the employer. Mr. P. has been employed with the County's Department of Corrections since 1991. On November 15, 2005, an address at Oakland Avenue was provided to the County for the first time, along with a post office box in Trenton. On January 13, 2006, a memorandum received by her office indicated a change in the post office box but did not change the street address, which remained at 636 Oakland Avenue. She did not have any document signed by Mr. P. evidencing this change, only a memo to this effect. Similarly, she had no document signed by P. reflecting the change of address to Oakland Avenue on November 15, 2005. However, on August 8, 2006, he did sign a document transferring his post office box. Ms. Rivera-Cruz was not aware of any specific change of address form utilized by the Corrections Department, although the County does have such a form. Administrative staff at the Department of [i] Mr. P. was unsure whether he could be more specific as to the exact nature of his military assignment.

Corrections can advise the Personnel Department of address changes requested by corrections officers. Ms. Rivera-Cruz was aware of a disciplinary issue that prevented Mr. P. from being on the grounds of the Correction Center in January 2006. The January change of address notice was generated by Sonya Caldwell, an employee at the Corrections Center. In August 2006, Mr. P. came to the County's Administration Building and sought to discuss with her issues regarding his employment status and a disciplinary issue. He placed his request for a change of the post office box on a demographic sheet supplied to her by a staff member. She does not recall him raising any issue at that time regarding any alleged unauthorized changes of his address occurring in either November 2005 or January 2006.

Ronald Franks, a retired Bordentown Township police sergeant employed by the school district for matters dealing with security, truancy and residency, testified regarding his surveillance of Mr. P. and D.K. over a period from January 9, 2006, through June 1, 2006. On January 9, Mr. Lymper had told him to meet with P. at 99 Dunns Mill Road so that he could observe the interior of the home. He arrived there at 6:30 am and waited until 7:45, but no one answered the door. School starts at 7:35. There were no cars visible and no lights on and no sign of anyone there. No one came out. Later that morning, Lymper advised Franks that P. was at the house and he went there, where he saw P., D.K. and P.'s son. The downstairs was messy and clearly under construction. The bedrooms were upstairs and he had to climb over a ladder to get to the stairs. There was no furniture downstairs, but in the two bedrooms he saw there was a small single bed, a dresser and a lamp in each. A blanket and pillow were on each bed. No clothing was visible. A yellow Hummer was in the driveway, which he identified as Mr. P.'s vehicle. He next investigated the matter on March 6. He went to Mr. P.'s mother's home on Klockner Road in Hamilton, but saw no one coming from there. On Tuesday March 7, he observed 99 Dunns Mill Road from 6:30 to 7:40 am, driving past the house and then parking in the school driveway next to the house. He saw no vehicles or any persons. After school ended he went to 636 Oakland Avenue and saw the Hummer in the driveway and a white Ford on the street. There was a "For Sale" sign on the property. Thereafter he conducted surveillance on several days in March and again in May. The results are summarized below. The gray Altima referred to was identified in testimony by Mr. P. as belonging to the nanny who would watch the children when he was unavailable.

Date	Location observed	Time of observation or arrival	observations
3/8	Dunns Mill Road	6:30-7:36 am	No vehicles, lights or activity observed;
3/9	Dunns Mill Road	6:40-7:30 am	No vehicles, lights or activity, Hummer arrives at school at 7:28 from direction of Route 130 (opposite from direction of 99 Dunns Mill Road);
3/10	Dunns Mill Road	6:30-7:36 am	No vehicles, lights or activity, D.K. in school on time;
3/13	Dunns Mill Road	6:30-7:35 am	No vehicles, lights or activity. D.K. in school on time;
3/14	Oakland Avenue	6:45 am	observed Hummer, white Ford and Gray Altima, female exited house with small child and D.K., drove D.K. to school;
3/15	Oakland Avenue	6:36 am	Hummer and Ford observed, Hummer to school at 7:25 am;
3/16	Dunns Mill Road	7-7:35 am	No vehicles, lights or activity observed;
3/17	Dunns Mill Road Oakland Avenue	6:15 am 6:29 am	Nothing observed, then to Hummer and Ford observed, Mr. P and D.K. to school in Hummer at 7:21 am;
3/21	Oakland Avenue	6:15 am	Altima and Ford observed-female and two children leave for school at 7:19 am;
5/24	Dunns Mill Road		No improvements to outside of house;
5/30	Oakland Avenue	6:25 am	Ford, Hummer and Altima observed-female and two children depart for school;

6/1	Oakland Avenue	Ford and Hummer observed, Mr. P. and D.K. depart for school at 7:16 am.

Mr. Franks acknowledged that while there is no attached garage at Dunns Mill Road, there is a structure further back on the property. However, he asserted that from the spot on the school parking lot where he parked his vehicle he could see if any vehicles were exiting from the property. He noted that spot on a diagram entered as Exhibit J-8 and claimed that he could see the front yard of the house from that location, but not the front porch. Someone could conceivably go through the back of the Dunns Mill Road property to the back of the high school, hopping the chain link fence to gain access to the school lot.

James G. Lymper, High School Vice-Principal for two years and responsible for the 9th and 11th graders, spoke to Mr. P. sometime before November 21. He had been alerted by a secretary to the fact that D.K. had been late to school quite a few times at the beginning of the year. She said that D.K. said that he was living in Burlington City. Lymper called P. and discussed the renovations to the Dunns Mill property. After this discussion, in which Mr. P. expressed his desire to have D.K. have his high school experience in one, rather than two, high schools, Mr. Lymper wrote to Mr. P. that he had until December 9, as P. told him that he was going to have the contractor make the Dunns Mill house liveable by that date.

The Concept of Domicile

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district . . .

"In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving." In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991) (quoting Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944)). Thus, domicile is what is regarded as an individual's true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977). The question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). Intent is the touchstone of domicile, and the manifestation of a person's intent converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). A person may have multiple residences, but may have only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. Ibid. Thus, "the concept of 'domicile' may have different content and shades of meaning depending upon the context in which it is used." In re Estate of Gillmore, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 87 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 52 N.J. 175 (1968).

Nonetheless, "(e)very person has a domicile at all times, and no person has more than one domicile at any one time." Id. at 87 (citation omitted). "Where a person has two homes in which he lives and between which he divides his time, it is still his intention which creates one or the other as his domicile." Benny, supra, 20 N.J. at 251. A very short period of residence in a given place may be sufficient to acquire domicile. Domicile is established by the "concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode." Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264.

There is nothing inherent in a construction site that would prohibit it from qualifying as a domicile. However, where a person has more than one residence, the following factors are useful in determining his domicile: "the physical characteristics of each [place], the time spent and the things done in each place, the other persons found there, the person's mental attitude towards each place, and whether there is or is not an intention, when absent, to return." Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39-40 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). "[A] choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile." Unanue, supra, 255 N.J. Super. at 376.

The Commissioner of Education commented upon the domicile issue in reviewing the initial decision in F.P., on behalf of N.P.. & S.P. v. Board of Education of Point Pleasant Beach, Ocean County, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6951-98, Final Decision (Commissioner of Education April 12, 1999), > Domicile is thus intrinsically identified with the concept of home. As stated by the Unanue court, ". . . identification of domicile with the concept of home continues to have vitality in New Jersey '[h]ome is the place where a person dwells and which is the center of his domestic, social and civil life. '" (Unanue, supra at 374) Moreover, the concepts of home and domicile "mean more than physical residence. They also embody the subject's objective and subjective relationship to that residence." (Id. at 375).

> Establishing a domicile involves an act of volition, i.e., a person has the right to choose his own domicile; moreover, a person's motive in doing so is immaterial "so long as the necessary ingredients for establishment of the new domicil are present." Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264, 288;, Unanue, supra at 375.
> Central to the issue of determining true domicile, particularly when multiple residences are involved in the dispute, is the concept of "indicia of domicile." The Unanue Court concluded "[it] is clear that a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile. Thus, a person may not arbitrarily designate a given residence as his domicile. It is necessary that requisite subjective intent be present since domicile is `very much a matter of the mind - of intention.'" (Unanue, supra at 376, citing Lyon, supra) Such indicia oftentimes are statements relative to domicile in such documents as tax returns, wills, trusts, or other formal documents and statements made by an individual to others as to his/her domicile. The Unanue decision indicates that such recitals are evidential of actual domicile but the Court concluded, they are not at all conclusive, rather "[t]hey are of value evidentially to the extent that they are not intended to deceive and other proofs support such domicile ." (Id. at 377)
> As correctly noted by the ALJ, a change in domicile is a matter of intention, i.e.,"[a] change of domicile. . . is effected if a person actually moves to a new abode intending to remain there for an indefinite period of time and establishing it as a place of fixed present domicile, notwithstanding that he entertains merely a possibility, or floating intention, of returning to his former domicile at some later time ." (Unanue, supra at 378, citations omitted)

The following passage from Lyon, supra, synthesizes well the concurrence of elements referenced above which one has to consider when determining which particular residence is a person's true domicile.

> Domicil is very much a matter of the mind - of intention. One may be acquired, or changed to a new one, when there is a concurrence of certain elements, i.e., an actual and physical taking up of an abode in a particular State, accompanied by an intention to make his home there permanently or at least indefinitely, and to abandon his old domicil. A person has the right to choose his own domicil, and his motive in doing so is immaterial. . . . A very short period of residence in a given place may be sufficient to show domicil, but mere residence, regardless of its length, is not sufficient. It has been said that concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode, effects the change of domicil. And once established, the domicil continues until a new one is found to have been acquired through an application of the same tests. (Lyon, supra at 264)

The Unanue court identified three elements which must be considered when trying to ascertain if a change of domicile has occurred,

> 1) whether there had been an actual and physical taking up of an abode in a particular state;
> 2) whether the subject had an intention to make his home there permanently or at least indefinitely ; and
> 3) whether the subject had an intention to abandon his old domicile. (Unanue, supra at 376).

One must evaluate all of the facts and circumstances of the case to determine the place in which there is the necessary concurrence of physical presence and an intention to make that place one's home. (Id., citations omitted) Furthermore, if there are sufficient objective proofs brought to the record to support the actual existence of domicile, a person's choice of domicile must be honored, even when the person has multiple residences. (Id.)

Mr. P. purchased the home at 99 Dunns Mill Road in 2003. Thus, he owned the property well before he became D.K.'s guardian in 2004 and well before he enrolled

D.K. in the Bordentown Regional school district in September 2004. According to his undisputed testimony, Mr. P. lived in the house in 2003 and removed from the house after it suffered damage during his absence on military duty in the summer of 2003, all well before he became the child's guardian or the child entered the school district. There is no specific evidence in this record which would support any conclusion that the purchase of the house was made for the purpose of providing a claim for free attendance of D. in the Bordentown Regional district. While the full story of Mr. P.'s efforts to renovate the home and repair the damage and of his difficulties with contractors was not spread on the record, nevertheless there is undisputed testimony that repairs were undertaken starting in the summer of 2005 and cleanup efforts were made. There is also undisputed testimony that Mr. P., on military leave for a very long period from his employment as a corrections officer for Mercer County, was required to spend several nights during the school week at work, no doubt presenting significant problems with child care and supervision for both his very young child whose custody he shared with the child's mother and also for D.K., himself only fourteen years old at the time of the school attendance at issue here. Mr. P. explained that he had a nanny who assisted watching the children and that the condition of the Dunns Mill Road home was disrupted, so much so that he only contends that he moved in "full-time" in December 2004, not in September, October or November, a period of time when D.K. attended Bordentown Regional, but a period which predates the Board's provision of notice to Mr. P. that he had to either establish domicile or remove the child from the district and pay tuition for days when the child was not domiciled within the district. The Board, acting through Mr. Lymper, gave notice to Mr. P. by letter dated November 29, 2005, that he had to establish his family's permanent residency at Dunns Mill Road by December 9 or else sign D. out of school. Mr. P. asserts that he did move in full time and that the Dunns Mill Road residence was not simply one of his residences, but was his domicile, that place to which he always intended to return. There is clear and unrefuted evidence that on numerous occasions thereafter, in March and May 2005, observations by Mr. Franks showed that D.K. did not go to school from Dunns Mill Road, but was instead seen exiting Oakland Avenue and being transported by either Mr. P. or the nanny to the High School. There is no reason to doubt Mr. Franks' testimony as to his observations. It is clear that whatever the legal status of the home at Dunns Mill Road, at least on thirteen dates in March, May and the first of June, D.K.

started his day not from there, but instead from Oakland Avenue. But the question that must be considered in the context of a decision as to Mr. P.'s domicile is what is the meaning of these observations when considered in the context of the undisputed testimony of Mr. P. about his hours of work on military duty, his child care arrangements and his intentions about both the Oakland Avenue and the Dunns Mill Road residences.

There is no magic formula that provides how much furniture a house must contain in order to be a domicile, or how comfortable it must be. The evidence shows that when Mr. Franks went to the home in January he observed beds and dressers. It is not clear whether he actually went into closets or looked in the dressers to see if any clothing was present. He only testified that he saw none visible. Significantly, when he went to observe Oakland Avenue on March 7, he observed a "For Sale" sign on the property. This is a clear indication that Mr. P. did not intend that Oakland Avenue remain his place of residence and, were it argued that this was his domicile, the presence of the "For Sale" sign certainly indicates an intention to change that status. If one puts up a residence for sale, and if the placement thereof is bona fide, then one by design abandons any intention that he will make that residence his permanent abode. It may remain his residence until the sale occurs, but that period in which it remains so becomes very uncertain and cannot support any claim of an intention of permanency. Thus, if the offer of sale of the residence which the Board apparently contends was the domicile vitiates the status of that residence as a place to which the person can have an intention of making it "a permanent abode," Lyon, supra., we must look at whether there is any other residence for which the person has such an intention.

I FIND that Mr. P., having moved into Dunns Mill Road for a short period in 2003 with the intention that it be his home, credibly contends that he always intended to return to Dunns Mill Road, that his wanderings after the damage in the summer of 2003 were simply temporary stations on the way back to Dunns Mill Road. He was forced to remove from Dunns Mill Road by damage to that property, he was at least to some extent thwarted in his intention to return there full-time due to financial concerns, a custody dispute and problems with a contractor. The fact that he did not reside at Dunns Mill Road for a period from sometime in the summer of 2003 until at least December 2005 does not determine that this did not remain his domicile, just as the fact that Mr. Unanue did not return to New Jersey from 1970 until his death in 1976 did not change his domicile to Puerto Rico. Unanue, supra. at 378. His stay at Dunns Mill Road in 2003 may have been short, but having moved there with an intention that it be his home, his domicile, he never abandoned his intention to return to that home, and having moved finally to Oakland Avenue, he certainly manifested his intention to abandon that residence. As the Lyon Court stated,

> A very short period of residence in a given place may be sufficient to show domicil, but mere residence, regardless of its length, is not sufficient. It has been said that concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode, effects the change of domicil. And once established, the domicil continues until a new one is found to have been acquired through an application of the same tests.
> [Lyon, 60 N.J. at 264]

Much was made by the district about the lack of any listing with the employer of Dunns Mill Road as Mr. P.'s address. However, given the fact that for the past two years Mr. P. has not actually worked at the County position, despite remaining on the payroll, and has received his checks by direct deposit and his mail at a post office box, I am loath to read much into the fact that he did not supply the Dunns Mill Road address to the County. In actuality, he was not living there regularly, due to the factors already addressed. But, as Lyon points out, that he resided elsewhere did not necessarily change his domicile, and it is domicile that is the touchstone under the statute, not residence.

I CONCLUDE that the location of Mr. P.'s domicile was and remained Dunns Mill Road. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that D.K. was entitled to receive a free public education from the Bordentown Regional Board of Education during the period from December 12, 2005, through June 20, 2006. Mr. P.'s petition is GRANTED and the Board's counterclaim is therefore DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioner – a former facilities manager in respondent's district – alleged that the Board terminated him in violation of his tenure rights and other provisions of school law, as well as the "whistleblower" law and law against discrimination. Petitioner asserted that he was entitled to tenure rights as a business manager, and stated that he had also filed a Notice of Tort Claim in Superior Court. Respondent filed motion for summary judgement, asserting, inter alia, that: petitioner was not employed as a business manager; many of petitioner's claims are not under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner; and the petition should be dismissed because it failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Commissioner has complete jurisdiction over the issue of whether petitioner had tenured status with respondent Board, and whether the manner in which he was terminated violated procedural rights; Type II school districts have no authority to appoint a business manager; petitioner cannot be found to be employed in a position which the district is not legally authorized to have, and therefore he could not legally obtain tenure in such position; and the Veterans' statute did not confer tenure upon petitioner as he was an employee hired for a "fixed" or "stated" period of time. The ALJ concluded that petitioner seeks relief to which he is not entitled as a matter of law, and granted respondent's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge – for the reasons clearly presented in his decision – that the Board's motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted is appropriately awarded; the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

JOHN W. RUBY, II,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY; ROBERT COPELAND, INDIVIDUALLY; AND LAWRENCE LOCASTRO, INDIVIDUALLY, Respondents.

Lavinia Lee Mears, Esq., for petitioner (Mears Law Firm, attorneys)

David B. Rubin, Esq., for respondents

Record Closed: October 10, 2006[1] Decided: December 20, 2006

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

John Ruby II filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that he had been wrongfully terminated from his position as Facilities Manager for the Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway in violation of tenure laws. In his Petition, he notes that he also has filed a Notice of Tort Claim regarding alleged violations of several statutes and that in his view "jurisdiction is more properly vested with the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division. . ." The Petition asks that the Commissioner refer "this matter" to the Law Division.

[1] The record closed on October 10, 2006, when the last brief was received. The 45-day statutory time period to issue the initial decision in this case expired on November 24, 2006. On December 20, 2006, Judge Fidler filed a nunc pro tunc request to extend the time period to January 8, 2007

In response to the Petition, the Board filed its Answer and a motion for summary decision, asserting in the Answer that many of the petitioner's claims fell outside the jurisdiction of the Commissioner but also contending in the motion that the Petition should be dismissed because it failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. The Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, transferred the case to the Office of Administrative Law without any decision by the Commissioner on the motion. The case was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Joseph F. Fidler and then transferred to this judge on December 6, 2006. I have examined the briefs filed by counsel and treat the respondent's motion not as a motion for summary decision, but, as it was more properly described by the respondent in the body of the Notice of Motion, as a motion to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

In his Petition, Mr. Ruby argues that the he was a tenured employee of the District by virtue of the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, which provides for tenure for a "business manager," a title specifically listed in that statute as a position in which tenure can be achieved. In making the motion to dismiss, the Board disputes that he was a "business manager," and as such asserts that the statute simply does not cover the position he actually held. Additionally, Mr. Ruby claims that he achieved tenure upon his appointment to the position of Facilities Manager under the terms of N.J.S.A. 38:16-1. In response, the Board contends that this Act also does not apply to Mr. Ruby, because his appointment to the position was one which had a "fixed" or "stated" period of time and is thus excluded from the Act's coverage by its very terms. Finally, Mr. Ruby argues that he was terminated in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1, because the Board failed to accord him rights to which that provision entitles him. The Board contends that contrary to his view, Mr. Ruby's termination was accomplished within the confines of the law and he was not deprived of any procedural rights to which he was entitled given the nature of his position and legal status. In addition, the Board contends that he failed to take action necessary to invoke certain rights of which he claims to have been deprived.

Counsel for petitioner argues that the determination of this motion should be withheld until after the completion of discovery, contending that there are or are likely to be disputes of fact that would prevent summary decision from being granted and require a hearing. Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). However, in reply, counsel for the Board clarifies the intent of the motion as one directed at a failure to state a claim for which relief may be granted, and concedes, for the purpose of the motion, the correctness of the facts asserted in the petition. A motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim is recognized by the Rules of Court, R. 4:6-2 (e), and where the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1 et seq., do not specifically address a matter relating to procedure, reference may be made to the Rules of Court for guidance. N.J.A.C. 1:1-3(a). A motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim for which relief may be granted is based on the pleadings themselves. These are to be "searched in depth and with liberality to determine if a cause of action can be gleaned even from an obscure statement, particularly if further discovery is taken." Pressler, Current N.J. Court Rules, Comment R. 4:6-2, (Gann); Printing Mart v. Sharp Electronics, 116 N.J. 739, 746 (1989).

As noted above, petitioner has requested that this matter be transferred to Superior Court due to the existence of claims for relief which arise under statutes not within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. However, it is clear that the Commissioner has complete jurisdiction over the school law issue of whether this employee had tenured status with the respondent Board, and the Commissioner certainly has jurisdiction to determine if the manner in which the Board terminated the petitioner's employment violated the procedural rights and obligations which the petitioner claims were not honored. There appears no reason to put off the determination of these questions. The petitioner chose to file this petition. He contends that he had to do so in order to protect his rights against the 90-day rule, but if he felt that the entire matter should be resolved in a judicial proceeding, he was not compelled to invoke the Commissioner's jurisdiction. Having chosen to do so, he has no complaint that the Commissioner will determine the issues that fall within her jurisdiction.

DISCUSSION

Was Mr. Ruby a "Business Manager?"

Mr. Ruby's first claim to tenured status arises from N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1, which provides that "[no] secretary, assistant secretary, school business administrator or business manager of a board of education of any school district shall, during the term for which he was appointed, be dismissed or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior, or other offense unless it is otherwise provided in his contract of employment." Thus, the law recognizes the existence of a position denominated "business manager," a position that may be filled by a school board. But further legislation appears to limit the category of school board which may appoint a "business manager." School districts are classified as either a Type I or a Type II district, and Piscataway is a Type II district. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-25 provides "[a] business manager may be appointed in any type I school district, and subject to the provisions of article 1 of this chapter, may be removed from such office, by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education and shall receive such salary as the board shall determine." Thus, the Legislature provided that in a type I district, the position of business manager can exist. But this statute says nothing about the authority of a type II district, such as Piscataway, to appoint a business manager.

To counsel for petitioner, who argues that her client, whose position with Piscataway was labeled as "Facilities Manager," was nevertheless the business manager for the Piscataway District, the lack of any reference in the statutes to the authority of a type II district to appoint a business manager is not an impediment to his holding that title and status, with the protection it carries for the holder against the sort of removal to which Mr. Ruby was subjected. She first argues that there is a factual dispute as to the position he held, one that cannot be determined without discovery and even perhaps a hearing. She asserts that his job title and duties reflect the position of business manager or school business administrator. As for the statute, she asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 "does not expressly limit its tenure protections provided to the 'business manager' described in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-25. Nothing in the statutory framework would prevent a Type II school district from creating a position analogous to the N.J.S.A. 18A:17-25 business manager position and assigning similar duties. . . ." But in so arguing, counsel fails to explain why the Legislature specified that the appointment of a "business manager" was specifically permitted to a type I district and did not simply provide for such an appointment by "any school district." Indeed, although neither counsel appears to have commented on this, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-30 specifically addresses the case of type II districts, providing that these, if they have a board of school estimate, "may employ and dismiss a business assistant, fix his duties, compensation and term of employment." The Legislature thus appears to have drawn a clear distinction between the type I and type II districts concerning their authority to appoint someone assigned to deal with "business" matters. Further, the "business manager" appointed under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-25 is required to post a bond with the board "for the faithful discharge of his duties," and this appointee "shall have a seat on the board and the right to speak on all matters relating to his department but shall not have the right to vote." Neither the requirement for the posting of a bond nor the right to a non-voting seat on the board are provided for in connection with the position of "business assistant" as authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-30. The distinction between type I and type II districts appears to be related to their size and the status of the community served by the district as a city or as a town. This could explain the distinction between the authority of the type I district to "appoint" a "business manager" and the type II district to "employ" a "business assistant." Even the choice of words regarding the means of employment, that is, "appoint" for the business manager and "employ" for the business assistant, may connote a distinction between the positions.

In Smith v. Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, Burlington County, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 205, Administrative Law Judge Judge M. Kathleen Duncan (now DOE's Director of Controversies and Disputes) noted in a footnote on page 207 that "Only Type I school districts are authorized to employ business managers," citing N.J.S.A. 18A:17-25 and N.J.S.A. 18A:9-2. The Commissioner adopted Judge Duncan's initial decision without disturbing this conclusion, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 207. I agree with Judge Duncan that given the enactment of these statutes by the Legislature and the distinctions drawn, there appears to be no warrant for a type II district to appoint a business manager. Thus, as Mr. Ruby contends that he was, in effect, the "business manager" for the district and his tenured status arose from the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1, I must CONCLUDE that he cannot be found to be employed or appointed to a position which the district was not legally authorized to have and therefore, he could not legally obtain tenure in that position. Perhaps he might demonstrate that he was a "business assistant." But even if he did, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1 does not afford tenure protection to persons employed as a "business assistant." Tenure is a statutorily created status and, as such, its application must be limited only to those positions for which it is authorized. Thus, on this claim, I CONCLUDE that no relief can be given to Mr. Ruby from his termination as Facilities Manager.

Veteran's Tenure

Mr. Ruby contends that N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 protects him from removal from the Facilities Manager position. His status as a veteran under this legislation is not challenged. However, the Board denies that he is protected by this statute.

N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 provides

> No person now holding any employment, position or office under the government of this State, or the government of any county or municipality, including any person employed by a school board or board of education, . . . whose term of employment, office or position is not now fixed by law, . . . who has served as a soldier, sailor, marine or nurse, in any war of the United States, . . . shall be removed from such employment, position or office, except for good cause shown after a fair and impartial hearing, but such person shall hold his employment, position or office during good behavior, and shall not be removed for political reasons.
> For the purposes of this section no term of office, position or employment of any person shall be deemed to be fixed by law or coterminous with that of the employing or appointing board or body by reason of the fact that such person was or is appointed or employed by a noncontinuous board or body; provided, however, that in no event is it intended that this act shall apply to appointments made for a fixed or stated period of time.

Unlike other statutes that confer protection upon certain employees depending upon the category of employment they hold, i.e., teachers, board secretaries, school business administrators and business managers, this legislation appears to confer protection against removal from employment to persons who hold a broad range of employments, positions and offices based upon their service in the Armed Forces during certain designated periods. But this protection is not conferred on every single veteran holding any employment, office or position. By its own terms the legislation does not apply to those who hold appointments where the term is "fixed by law" or "made for a fixed or stated period of time." The Board argues that Mr. Ruby was hired in 1998 for a one year period and has subsequently been appointed for a series of consecutive one-year periods, most recently for the 2005-2006 school year, as demonstrated in the letter offered as Exhibit 12 by Mr. Ruby and as confirmed by his brief in the footnote at page 13. There, counsel for Mr. Ruby writes,

> As a factual matter, Petitioner vigorously disputed the contention that he was only a fixed or temporary employee. Petitioner never signed a contract. Indeed, Petitioner was hired with the understanding that he was a full time permanent employee and that he would be renewed each year as a matter of course. This is what in fact happened every year of Petitioner's employment until he was unlawfully terminated.

The Board argues that as each year Mr. Ruby's appointment had to be renewed and was therefore employment for a "fixed or stated period," on its face the statute does not apply and thus no relief can be afforded to Mr. Ruby by its terms. In response, Mr. Ruby, whose counsel contends that the board has "misquoted" the statute, contends that he was tenured from his first day of employment in the district. There is no statute that limits the time a person may be appointed to serve as Facilities manager. As such the position is not one whose "term . . . is fixed by law." However, despite claiming a misquote which is never explained, counsel does not address the entire legislative scheme as reflected in the actual wording of the enactment, for she fails to comment upon the second paragraph of the statute, which contains the limitation relied upon by the board, that is, regarding "appointments made for a fixed or stated period of time." Presumably, the argument would be that if Mr. Ruby were indeed tenured as of the first day of his appointment in 1998, there was no need for the yearly renewal of his appointment by the board and therefore the position is not one for a "fixed or stated period of time." But despite her contention that he was hired as a "full time permanent employee," she concedes that he knew he would be "renewed each year," and the board did apparently appoint him on a yearly basis for a stated period of time, as the most recent appointment shows. The veterans' tenure statute does not dictate when a position of employment is or is not properly one with a "fixed" or "stated" period of time; it merely says that if the employment fits that description, it is not intended to affect such employment. Given the year to year appointments to which Mr. Ruby was subject, with the appointments made for the coming school year, the Veterans' statute did not confer tenure upon him and no relief can be obtained based upon this statute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1

> Notwithstanding the provisions of any law, rule or regulation to the contrary,
> a. A board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.
> b. A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. A nontenured officer or employee who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator shall be deemed nonrenewed. Prior to notifying the officer or employee of the nonrenewal, the chief school administrator shall notify the board of the recommendation not to renew the officer's or employee's contract and the reasons for the recommendation. An officer or employee whose employment contract is not renewed shall have the right to a written statement of reasons for nonrenewal pursuant to section 2 of P.L.1975, c.132 (C.18A:27-3.2) and to an informal appearance before the board. The purpose of the appearance shall be to permit the staff member to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment. The chief school administrator shall notify the officer or employee of the nonrenewal pursuant, where applicable, to the provisions of section 1 of P.L.1971, c.436 (C.18A:27-10).
> c. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the appointment, transfer, removal, renewal or nonrenewal of a person who is a treasurer of school moneys, election officer, board auditor, board attorney or board secretary, except a board secretary who performs business administration functions.

Mr. Ruby argues that the manner of his termination violated the above-quoted statute and also the rule established in Rice v. Union County Board of Ed., 155 N.J.

Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977), which requires that he be provided with a so-called "Rice notice" before the board discussed his employment. He claims that the district's Superintendent "usurped" the authority of the board in terminating his employment. He was never notified by the board of the impending termination. Indeed, he contends this was at least partially because the board itself was not notified of the Superintendent's intention. He did not receive any "written statement of reasons for nonrenewal" and did not have any "informal appearance before the board" due to the lack of notice. But the board argues that the petitioner seriously misunderstands the statute and the requirements that it presents. The statute states clearly that a non-tenured, non-teaching staff employee such as Mr. Ruby, "who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator shall be deemed nonrenewed." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). It says nothing about any requirement that the board affirmatively act to endorse such nonrenewal. As for the need to notify the board before notifying the employee of the chief school administrator's decision not to renew, the board argues that this can be accomplished in many ways, and that as the nonrenewal is deemed to have occurred where there is no recommendation to renew, the Board did not have to engage in the sort of discussion that would trigger the requirement for a Rice notice in order for the nonrenewal to become legally effective. As for the "written statement" and "appearance" provisions, board counsel argues that the responsibility to request these benefits is, by statute, placed upon the employee, and here Mr. Ruby did not make any such request. In making this argument, counsel concedes that N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 does not specify that a request must be made in order for the employee to obtain either the statement or the appearance, but he notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 places the responsibility on a teaching staff member receiving notice that a teaching contract will not be offered for the succeeding school year to request such a written statement of reasons and N.J.A.C. 6A:32-4.6, which provides for the "informal appearance" before the board, places the same responsibility to make such request upon the non-tenured teaching staff member.

> Any teaching staff member receiving notice that a teaching contract for the succeeding school year will not be offered may, within 15 days thereafter, request in writing a statement of the reasons for such nonemployment which shall be given to the teaching staff member in writing within 30 days after the receipt of such request.

> (a) Whenever a nontenured teaching staff member has requested in writing and has received a written statement of reasons for nonreemployment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2, he or she may request in writing an informal appearance before the district board of education. Such written request shall be submitted to the board within 10 calendar days of receipt of the board's statement of reasons. [N.J.A.C. 6A:32-4.6]

Board counsel notes that it is not clear to him from the wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 whether the right to a written statement and a board appearance is limited to teaching staff members, but contends that as N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:32-4.6, which each only speak of these rights in the context of teaching staff members, each require that a teaching staff member must make the written request in order to obtain these rights, the reasonable understanding of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 is that the "certificated or non-certificated officer or employee" whose rights are addressed therein must make such a written request if they seek to exercise these rights. As it is uncontested that Mr. Ruby did not do so after he concededly received notice on June 5, 2006, that his appointment would not be renewed for the succeeding 2006-2007 school year, he cannot complain that his rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 were violated.

I CONCLUDE that the board's arguments regarding the "written statement" and "appearance" rights are persuasive. If teaching staff members must request these, then there is no reason to believe that other employees who receive notice of nonrenewal must not also request these rights if they choose to exercise them. Not every such employee may desire to receive a written statement of reasons, and more so, not every one will seek to go before the board and seek reemployment. The requirement that one who desires to invoke the written statement and even more, to appear before the board, request these opportunities is entirely sensible and in accord with the scheme demonstrated by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:32-4.6. As Mr. Ruby does not argue that he requested these opportunities, he cannot complain that he did not receive them.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the above discussion, I CONCLUDE that Mr. Ruby's petition seeks relief to which he is clearly not entitled as a matter of law. Additional discovery is not likely to change the facts as they relate to these requests. The motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim for which relief may be granted is GRANTED and the Petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record and notice of dismissal transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. It is noted that this matter was characterized as a Settlement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, by the Administrative Law Judge in his Initial Decision. The Commissioner determines that because no settlement terms were brought to the record and the document appended to the decision is an advisement of dismissal, this matter is more appropriately categorized as a withdrawal under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. The Commissioner approves the withdrawal; consequently, this matter is no longer deemed to be a contested case before her and is, accordingly, dismissed.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 26, 2004 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for February 2, 2005, which was adjourned by the petitioner because the newly retained counsel needed more time to prepare the file. It was rescheduled to June 1, 2005. It was adjourned again, because the attorney was waiting for the outcome of a related case. The hearing date of October 27, 2005, was rescheduled for November 15, 2005, due to the petitioner's attorney's vacation. On November 15, 2005, this matter was placed on the inactive List for six months, due to the death of the petitioner. The petitioner's attorney needed time to amend the complaint and to add the estate as a party. Subsequently, multiple telephone conferences were held. The matter was listed for a hearing on October 31, 2006.

The parties were ultimately able to settle the matter, and they submitted the attached fully executed Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice on December 15, 2006. Having reviewed the record and the Dismissal terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the Stipulation of Dismissal as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The Stipulation of Dismissal fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this Stipulation of Dismissal meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. I approve the Stipulation of Dismissal and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Parties:

Upon review of the record in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Richard E. Danielson, School District of the City of Long Branch, Monmouth County, Agency Dkt. No. 343-9/06, I note the Board Attorney's January 16, 2007 representation that the Board wishes to withdraw the charges filed against Mr. Danielson – a tenured custodian alleged to have abandoned his position with the district – due to Mr. Danielson's resignation from employment, which has been duly accepted by the Board.

In light of this information, I find that no purpose would be served by further proceedings in this matter. Accordingly, I approve the Board's withdrawal of its charges and dismiss the matter as a contested case before me.

Sincerely,

Lucille E. Davy

Record Closed: December 8, 2006 Decided: December 28, 2006

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 22, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Petitioner's counsel has represented on the record that he has explained the settlement to petitioner, and that she has acknowledged that the annexed settlement represents the agreement between the parties. Counsel for petitioner has further stated that petitioner has received and continues to receive from the Division of Pensions the benefits called for in the settlement.

For reasons unexplained, petitioner has declined to come to her counsel's office and execute the agreement. Notwithstanding that failure, I FIND that petitioner has accepted the settlement by virtue of her statement to that effect made to her counsel, and by virtue of her accepting the benefits from the Division of Pensions.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

The Petitioner, Lavonia Tillinghast ("Tillinghast ") and the Respondent, Township of Cinnaminson Board of Education ("Board of Education"), hereby stipulates and agrees as follows:

WHEREAS, Tillinghast was employed by the Board of Education; and

WHEREAS, Tillinghast retired from employment in the School District; and,

WHEREAS, Tillinghast filed the above-captioned lawsuit against the Board of Education; and,

WHEREAS, Tillinghast and the Board of Education, through their respective counsel have engaged in settlement discussions and as a result have mutually agreed upon the terms set forth in this Settlement Agreement ("Agreement"); and,

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between the parties, for the consideration stated herein, as follows:

1. For and in consideration of the undertakings of Board set forth herein, and intended to be legally bound, Tillinghast does hereby remise, release and forever discharge Board of Education from any all manner of action and causes of action, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which she ever had, now has or hereafter may have, or which her heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of her employment with the Board of Education to the date here present, and particularly, but without limitation, of the foregoing general terms, any claims arising from or relating in any way to her employment relationship and/or affiliation with Board of Education, including but not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted or could be asserted now or in the future under any and all federal, state, or local laws and any common law claims or hereafter recognized and any and all claims arising out of her employment with the Board of Education, with the exception of claims arising from the breach of this Agreement. Tillinghast is unaware of any factual basis for any such claims at this time.
2. The Board of Education, for and in consideration of the undertakings of Tillinghast set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, do hereby remise, release and forever discharge Tillinghast and her heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which they ever had, now have, or hereafter may have, or which the officers, members, employees and/or agents of Board of Education, their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors, or administrators hereafter may have by reason of any manner, cause or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of Tillinghast's employment with Board of Education to the date of these presents, and particularly, without limitation, of the foregoing general terms, any claims arising from or relating in any way to Tillinghast's employment relationship and/or affiliation with Board of Education, including but not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted or could be asserted now or in the future under any and all federal, state or local laws in any common law claims now or hereafter recognized, and any and all claims arising out of Tillinghast's employment with Board of Education except for claims arising from the breach of this Agreement.

3. The Board of Education shall pay in full settlement and accord of all claims Tillinghast asserted against the Board of Education and any and all claims which Tillinghast could have asserted as enumerated above the sum of $2,000.00.
4. Board shall cooperate with the New Jersey Division of Pensions and Tillinghast with respect to issues that may arise concerning Tillinghast's pension.
5. By entering into this Agreement, neither party is making any admission with respect to any of the issues raised by the respective parties.
6. Each party is to bear their own cost and attorneys fees.
7. Tillinghast and Board of Education agree and acknowledge that the Agreement and the parties described herein and the settlement and termination of any claims that the parties have against each other, as set forth herein, is not and shall not be construed to be an admission of any violation of any federal, state or local statute or regulation or of any duty owed by and between the parties.

8. By signing this Agreement, the parties certify that they have had the opportunity to discuss the Agreement with counsel. They are fully satisfied with the services of their counsel with respect to both this agreement and all other aspects of this case and they enter into this Agreement knowingly, willingly and without any coercion or improper inducement.
9. In the event that any portion of this Agreement is determined to be illegal, the parties agree in advance, to reform the Agreement so that each party receives the full benefit of the bargain.
10. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that he or she is a party or has been duly authorized by a party to sign that party's behalf.
11. The parties agree that this Agreement may be signed and counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

S.D. AND S.D. on behalf of minor child, M.D.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE KINGSWAY REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON
RESPONDENT.	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

The pleadings, audio tapes of the January 16, 2007 hearing, and the hearing exhibits pertaining to the above captioned matter have been reviewed. The Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioners have failed to show that emergent relief is warranted in this case.

The evidence shows that petitioners enrolled their minor child, M.D., in respondent's school district on the understanding that they lived temporarily with a local family while waiting to purchase a home that was under construction in one of respondent's sending districts. Upon investigation, respondent determined that petitioners did not, in fact, reside in the sending district. After notice and hearing, respondent disenrolled the minor child. (Notices were sent to the addresses petitioners themselves supplied to respondent.) Petitioners did not appeal the disenrollment within the twenty-one days allowed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and were consequently obliged to file an emergent application to attempt to re-enroll M.D. in respondent's middle school during the pendency of the residency dispute.

At the hearing, the petitioning father appeared pro se. He was instructed by the ALJ that – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 – in order to receive emergent relief, petitioners' burden was to show:

1. That without the relief petitioners sought, M.D. would be irreparably harmed;
2. That petitioners' legal rights were settled;
3. That petitioners were likely to succeed; and
4. That the balance of equities favored petitioners.

Failure to prove any one or more of the four prongs would bar petitioners from the relief they sought.

As to the first prong of the test, the facts in the record showed that M.D. began school in respondent's district on September 7, 2006; that petitioners received written notice – on or about October 13, 2006 – of their obligation to provide, within 90 days of M.D.'s start date, original documentation supporting residency; and that since no such original documentation was produced by petitioners, M.D. was disenrolled on or about December 18, 2006 – after notice and a hearing. On or about January 5, 2007, petitioners advised respondent that M.D. would be home schooled. Considering the foregoing, the Commissioner cannot find that a return to the school in which M.D. spent less than four months is necessary to avoid irreparable harm.

As to the second and third prongs of the test, the facts offered by petitioners at the hearing did not support their residency in respondent's district (or sending district) and the concomitant right to a free education in Kingsway for M.D. To the contrary, at the hearing, petitioners no longer even argued that they lived with the above referenced local family. Rather, they contended that they were domiciled in respondent's sending district, solely by virtue of their expectations that they would someday own a home in Swedesboro that was still owned by the builder and still not finished - over a year after the projected completion date.

Finally, in light of the apparent duplicities of petitioners' representations to respondent about residency, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the equities favor the petitioners, even accepting, arguendo, the non-specific and largely irrelevant allegations that the petitioners made at the hearing about deficiencies in respondent's registration procedures, materials and notices, and about the propriety of respondent's investigative activities. Nor can the Commissioner conclude that petitioners are being harmed by M.D.'s disenrollment – after three and one half months – from a school district in which they have not proven residence.

In summary, petitioner's application for emergent relief is denied. A plenary hearing in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on the underlying issues of 1) whether petitioners can prove the residency requirements for M.D. to attend respondent's middle school and 2) whether, to the contrary, petitioners owe respondent tuition for the three and one half months of M.D.'s attendance at respondent's middle school, is scheduled for March 13, 2007.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DIANE ROTHACKER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of abandonment of position, chronic and excessive absenteeism, and insubordination against Diane Rothacker, a tenured special education teacher, after her failure to return to work following an unpaid personal leave of absence which expired on September 1, 2003. Respondent was directed via both certified and regular mail to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her, but failed to do so. Because no reply was received in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted. N.J.A.C. 6A:5-3(c).

The Commissioner reviewed the tenure charges certified against the respondent, and the evidence in support of those charges. Deeming such charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has twice failed to respond to the allegations against her, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute excessive absenteeism and insubordination amply warranting dismissal from her tenured position. Summary judgment is granted to the District, and Diane Rothacker is dismissed from her tenured teaching position as of the filing date of this decision.

AGENCY DKT NO. 441-11/06

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DIANE ROTHACKER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

For the District, Adam S. Herman, Esq., Office of the General Counsel, Newark Public Schools

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on November 30, 2006 through certification of tenure charges of abandonment of position, chronic and excessive absenteeism, insubordination and other just cause by the State-operated School District of the City of Newark (District) against Diane Rothacker (respondent), a tenured teacher. Respondent did not reply to the charges when they were initially filed with the District, and subsequently, the District determined to certify the charges. On November 29, 2006, the District served respondent – via regular mail and certified mail, return receipt requested – with the District's resolution, Certification of Determination, and transmittal letter to the Commissioner, referencing the previously filed and served charges.

Upon receipt of the certified charges on November 30, 2006, the Commissioner directed respondent - via both certified and regular mail - to file an Answer to such charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee.[1] [2]

No reply was received from either respondent or counsel on her behalf.

The Commissioner's review of the certified tenure charges, and the statement of evidence in support of them, indicated that respondent was granted an unpaid personal leave of absence which expired on September 1, 2003 and – despite numerous written inquires from the District – respondent has neither returned to work nor provided notice of her intent to return. Respondent's protracted absence from the District has caused a substantial interruption in the continuity of educational instruction and a corresponding adverse impact upon the students of the District's schools.

Deeming such charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has twice failed to respond to the allegations against her, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute abandonment of her position, chronic and excessive absenteeism, insubordination and other just cause amply warranting dismissal from her position.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the District, and respondent Diane Rothacker is dismissed from her tenured teaching position in the District's employ as of the filing date of this decision.

[1] Although the certified mail copy of this notification was returned as "unclaimed," the copy sent by regular mail was not returned and is, therefore, presumed delivered.

[2] It is noted that although the notice acknowledging filing of the charges before the Commissioner correctly stated that such charges were filed on November 30, 2006, the notice itself was dated November 15, 2006. When this incongruity was subsequently discovered on January 4, 2007, a corrected notice was sent to the parties. In the interest of fairness, this matter was held an additional 15 days to accord respondent an opportunity to submit an Answer.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 29, 2005, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on October 30 and 31, 2006. Prior to the dates of hearing the parties settled the matter. The attached Stipulation of settlement was submitted on January 12, 2007, indicating the terms of agreement which are incorporated herein by reference.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal challenging the Board's residency determination that her nephew, R.B., was not eligible for a free education in the Township of Ewing School District during the 2005-2006 school year. Petitioner contended that R.B. did in fact reside in Ewing. Respondent Board filed a counterclaim for payment of tuition for R.B.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner provided no evidence that she supported R.B. gratis throughout the year in question; R.B.'s mother, M.B., provided for all expenses incurred by her son; R.B. lived primarily in Trenton with M.B. from September 2005 to late February 2006; and, accordingly – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2 – S.B. failed to meet her burden to prove that R.B. met the requirements governing attendance in a public school by an affidavit student. The ALJ dismissed the petition, and ordered S.B. to pay tuition in the amount of $10,015.35.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopted the recommended decision of the OAL, dismissed the petition, and directed petitioner to pay tuition for the period of R.B.'s ineligible attendance in the Board's schools in the amount of $10,015.35.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner agrees with the determination of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has failed to sustain her burden, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), of establishing that R.B. was entitled to a free public education in the schools of Ewing Township during the 2005-2006 school year. The Commissioner, similarly, concurs with the ALJ that the Board must prevail on its counterclaim for tuition.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted. Petitioner is hereby directed to pay tuition to the Board of Education of Ewing Township – in the amount of $10,015.35 – for the period of R.B.'s ineligible attendance in its schools, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

S.B., petitioner, pro se

Jeffrey F. Belz, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: January 3, 2007 Decided: January 11, 2007

BEFORE DOUGLAS H. HURD, ALJ:

For the 2005-2006 school year, R.B. was enrolled as a student in the Ewing School District. By resolution, dated April 24, 2006, the Ewing Board of Education, after a hearing, determined that R.B. is domiciled on a permanent basis with his mother, M.B., in Trenton.

S.B. is R.B.'s aunt, and she is a resident of Ewing Township. On May 22, 2006, S.B. filed a petition of appeal contesting the Board's conclusion. She claimed that R.B. was in fact residing with her in Ewing Township. On June 1, 2006, the District filed an Answer to the petition and a Counterclaim against S.B. seeking reimbursement of tuition.

The Department of Education transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on July 20, 2006. A hearing was scheduled for August 18, 2006. The parties appeared at the hearing, but the matter was postponed because S.B. requested an opportunity to hire an attorney. The matter was rescheduled for October 5, 2006. On October 5, 2006, S.B. did not appear at the hearing. No adjournment of the hearing date had been granted, and S.B. did not provide a written explanation of her non-appearance within the 24-hour or one-day time period prescribed in N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a). Since a written explanation was not provided by 9:00 a.m. on October 6, 2006, an Initial Decision was issued dismissing Petitioner's appeal and granting Respondent's counterclaim for tuition.

Petitioner subsequently filed an explanation for her nonappearance by facsimile after 4:00 p.m. on October 6. Despite the written explanation being outside the one-day time period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter for a determination pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(b) and a hearing on the merits if necessary.

At a hearing on December 19, 2006, after arguments by the parties, I determined that Petitioner's explanation for her nonappearance on October 5, 2005 to be excusable. The evidence showed that Petitioner's nonappearance was not meant to intentionally delay the proceeding. Accordingly, we then proceeded to a hearing on the merits of the case on that date.

ANALYSIS

R.B. resided with his mother in Trenton through his 9th grade year in 2002-2003. During the summer of 2003, R.B. enrolled in the Ewing Township School District ("District"). R.B.'s aunt, S.B., told the District that R.B. was residing with her and her husband to assist them in household duties and functions because they had medical conditions that limited what they could do. Based on these representations, R.B. was enrolled in the District as an affidavit student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 because his residency was due to a family hardship. R.B. was enrolled in the Ewing Township School District for 10th, 11th and 12th grades. He graduated in June 2006.

The District seeks to recover tuition for the year 2005-2006 based on an investigation it conducted to determine R.B.'s residency. The District conducted surveillance between September 6, 2005 and January 17, 2006. Thirty out of thirty-four surveillances indicated that R.B. was leaving his mother's residence in Trenton to attend Ewing high school. At the hearing, both S.B. and M.B. confirmed that from September 2005 through late February 2006 R.B. did in fact reside primarily with M.B. in Trenton. Both testified that S.B.'s husband passed away in the Fall of 2005 and that before and after his passing it was best for R.B. to stay with his mother in Trenton. Both testified that from late February 2006 through the end of the school year that R.B. resided primarily with S.B. in Ewing. Significantly, M.B. testified that she provided for all expenses incurred by R.B. throughout the 2005-2006 school-year.

This case is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2, the respective statute and regulation governing attendance in a public school by an affidavit student. The statute provides that the Petitioner has the burden of proof at a residency hearing. One of the elements that S.B. must establish is that she supported R.B. gratis as if he were her own child and assumed all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). The regulation likewise provides that S.B. would have to support "the student without remuneration as if the student were his or her own child." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a). S.B. also has to assume all personal obligations for the student relative to school requirements. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)(1)(ii)(1).

As noted above, M.B. testified that she provided for all expenses incurred by R.B., such as clothing, school supplies, etc. This support goes far beyond what is allowed for affidavit students in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)(3). R.B. worked as well, but any personal expenses beyond what his job covered were provided by M.B. Petitioner, S.B., provided no evidence that she supported R.B. without remuneration as if he were her own child. Indeed, the evidence is undisputed that S.B. did not support R.B. gratis as if he were her own child throughout the year in question. Accordingly, S.B. did not meet the requirements of the statute, and as such does not meet her burden of proof. In addition, Petitioner and M.B. admitted that R.B. lived primarily in Trenton with M.B. throughout most of the 2005-2006 school year – from September 2005 to late February 2006.

Since R.B. was inappropriately enrolled in the Ewing Township School District for the 2005-2006 school year, S.B. is liable to the Board for tuition for that school year. David Mikalauskas, attendance and residency officer for the Board, testified regarding tuition reimbursement. He certified to the amount of tuition owed by S.B. on a rate of $55.64 per day for 180 days. The school year was 181 days, however, the Board is seeking reimbursement for 180 days based upon the Board not contesting the appropriateness of R.B. attending the first day of school in September 2005. The testimony by Mikalauskas provides reliable evidence attesting to the amount of tuition owed by Petitioner.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's appeal of the Board's April 24, 2006 resolution disenrolling R.B. is DISMISSED. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, S.B., on behalf of R.B., must pay $10,015.35 to the Ewing Township Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board filed a complaint seeking reimbursement from respondent, J.H., of the costs of tuition pertinent to the period of ineligible attendance of respondent's daughter during the 2005-2006 school year. Respondent failed to appeal the Board's residency decision, and failed to answer the Board's petition seeking payment of tuition.

The Commissioner directed respondent to submit an answer to the petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5, and informed respondent that if no answer was submitted, each count of the petition would be deemed admitted and the matter could then be decided summarily. As no answer was subsequently filed, the Commissioner granted summary decision in favor of the Board, and ordered respondent to pay tuition in the amount of $4,617.60.

RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Capizola, Baker, Lapham & Fralinger

J. H., Pro Se

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on December 7, 2006 by way of a verified petition against respondent, the parent of a student who formerly attended school in petitioner's district. Petitioner alleged that the student had been ineligible to attend school in its district from September 6, 2005 to February 15, 2006 and demanded tuition reimbursement for that period of time.

By notice dated December 7, 2006 – which was sent both to the Newfield, New Jersey address that respondent had provided to petitioner, and to the address of the home in Clayton, New Jersey, which respondent reportedly owns – the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) directed respondent, via regular mail, to file an answer to the petition. On January 5, 2007, the Bureau directed respondent for a second time, via both certified and regular mail to both addresses, to file an answer to the petition. The certified letter sent to the Newfield address was returned to the Commissioner unclaimed, but the notice sent by certified mail to the Clayton address – and both notices sent by regular mail – were not returned.

The first communication from the Bureau clearly provided respondent with notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5, an individual against whom a petition is filed shall have 20 days from receipt of the petition to file an answer. The second notice advised that if respondent did not file an answer within ten days of her receipt of same, each count of the petition would be deemed to have been admitted and the Commissioner might decide the matter on a summary basis. The Bureau has received neither an answer to the petition from the respondent nor from any attorney purporting to represent respondent.

Petitioner's business administrator has certified that $4,617.60 is the amount of tuition due for the amount of time that respondent's child improperly attended school in petitioner's district.

The Commissioner concludes that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), and are sufficient to justify an order that respondent pay the tuition.

As to petitioner's request for interest, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not met the standards set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(a)(1), N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)(1) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(d).

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that summary decision shall be granted to the petitioner, and that respondent shall pay tuition in the amount of $4,617.60 for the period of time in which her daughter was ineligible for a free education in the Buena Regional School District. Petitioner's request for interest is denied.[1]

This matter was brought before the Commissioner of Education by the Board of Education of the City of Clifton (Board) by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on October 16, 2006,[1] requesting that respondents be ordered to pay the Board tuition for the period of their child, D.F.'s ineligible attendance in its schools, September 7, 2005 through June 26, 2006; and

The Board served a copy of both the petition and the amended petition on respondents, by certified and regular mail; and

The Commissioner, by notices dated October 16, 2006 and November 16, 2006,[2] directed that an Answer to the petition be submitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5; and

Having received no response to these communications, on December 7, 2006 the Commissioner notified respondents – by regular and certified mail[3] - that if an Answer was not submitted, each count of the petition would be deemed admitted and the matter could then be

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former teacher in respondent's district – alleged that the Board acted improperly in failing to renew his employment at the end of a one year contract that expired in June 2001. The petition in this matter was filed on August 17, 2006. Petitioner had previously filed a separate complaint in Superior Court that was largely based on allegations of discriminatory conduct and retaliation; he sought, but failed, to amend that complaint in March 2004 to include the substance of his current petition. Respondent Board filed a motion for summary judgment, asserting that petitioner's appeal was untimely.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the circumstances of this matter do not meet the criteria for relaxation of the 90-day limitations period, as petitioner had knowledge of the alleged procedural violations and termination of his contract in 2001; petitioner's claims in the instant matter are distinct from those made in his 2001 complaint in Superior Court; and petitioner's assertion that Superior Court should have transferred his Title 18A action to the Commissioner under R1:13-4, the case transfer rule, is without merit. The ALJ concluded that summary decision is appropriate, and granted respondent's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with supplementation. More specifically, the Commissioner found that petitioner's claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 were untimely, and the alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 – even if true – could not serve as a basis for the relief petitioner seeks.

DREW BRADFORD,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Initial Decision, exceptions filed by petitioner on January 22, 2007, and respondent's reply to petitioner's exceptions have been reviewed.[1] The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and with the following supplementation.

By way of exception to the Initial Decision, petitioner argues that his claims pertaining to respondent's alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1, which claims were brought in Superior Court almost three years after the events of which they complain, are timely under the 90-day statute of limitations for instituting petitions under the school laws (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i)). He contends that he first discovered the facts upon which the claims are based via his attorney after review of respondent's January 27, 2004 motion in Superior Court for summary judgment. Within 90 days he filed a motion to amend his Superior Court complaint to add the school law claims, and asserts that – pursuant to R. 1:13-4 – the [1] As the rules do not provide for sur-reply exceptions, the Commissioner did not consider petitioner's submission dated January 25, 2007.

Superior Court judge should have issued an order transferring his claims to the Commissioner of Education. For the following reasons, the Commissioner finds petitioner's exception without merit.

First, petitioner does not specifically identify the facts supporting his new (March 2004) allegations that he was not evaluated properly or notified in the correct sequence of his non-renewal. Second, as to petitioner's invocation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 – which requires observation and evaluation of non tenured teaching staff members three times per academic year – petitioner must be charged with having known whether and when an observer was in his classroom in the 2000-2001 school year, and whether and when he received evaluations. Thus, the claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1, which petitioner filed in March 2004, was untimely.

Third, petitioner's invocation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 – even if deemed timely – cannot help him. Petitioner relies on the portion of the statute that states:

> Prior to notifying the [nontenured] officer or employee of the nonrenewal, the chief school administrator shall notify the board of the recommendation not to renew the officer's or employee's contract and the reasons for the recommendation.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b).

However, there is nothing in the statute to indicate that the purpose of that sentence is for anyone's benefit other than the board's. More specifically, in light of the fact that an officer or employee whose contract is not renewed may ask for reasons and an informal appearance before the board, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b), it stands to reason that the board's timely awareness of the chief school administrator's recommendation is beneficial to the board. Nor does petitioner's early notice harm him in any way. Thus, even if petitioner had presented proofs that the Union Superintendent had advised him of his non-renewal before, instead of after advising the BOE – and even if petitioner had timely raised this fact – it does not follow that the remedy may be petitioner's reinstatement. Reinstatement of an employee deemed unsuitable by the chief school administrator simply because the administrator allegedly switched the order of serving notice is neither called for in the statute nor sensible.

Finally, petitioner had notice via a nonrenewal letter dated May 1, 2001, and signed by petitioner on May 2, 2001, that the chief school administrator would not renew his employment. Consequently, the 90-day period to appeal his nonrenewal began on May 2, 2001. Cordell Wise v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, Commissioner's Decision No. 301-00, decided September 11, 2000 (petitioner was required to file his petition within 90 days of the notice of his nonrenewal, not within 90 days of the exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms).

Accordingly, summary judgment is granted in favor of respondent and the petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10878-06
AGENCY DKT. NO. 288-8/06

DREW BRADFORD,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent

Drew Bradford, petitioner, pro se

Jacqueline A. DeGregorio, Esq., and Margaret A. Miller, Esq., for the respondent (Weiner Lesniak, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 22, 2006 Decided: January 2, 2007

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a petition filed with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, alleging that respondent acted improperly in failing to renew petitioner's employment. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. Respondent asserts that the appeal is untimely and filed a motion for summary decision, see, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

The relevant facts are undisputed. Petitioner was hired by respondent as a teacher for the 2000/01 school year; the contract extended through June 30, 2001. By letter dated May 1, 2001, district superintendent Theodore Jakubowski informed petitioner that his employment would not be renewed for the next school year. In response petitioner and his attorney, Carol K. Boyd, Esq., appeared at a May 8, 2001 work session meeting of the Board to request a statement of reasons and a formal hearing. Petitioner was given an opportunity to address the Board at this meeting and to present testimonials regarding his teaching ability. Thereafter, on May 21, 2001, Superintendent Jakubowski supplied petitioner with a statement of reasons.

Petitioner sought another opportunity to address the Board in public session and a meeting was convened on June 12, 2001. Petitioner addressed the Board for forty-five minutes and the Board also heard from parents who supported his cause. In letters of June 14, and June 18, 2001, the Board advised petitioner that it would take no further action and that his employment was not being renewed for the reasons discussed in the Superintendent's May 21, 2001 correspondence.

On August 17, 2001, petitioner filed a complaint in the Superior Court asserting violations of the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq., as well as violations of his constitutional and federally protected rights under 42 U.S.C. 1983, 1981 and 1985, defamation, and loss of prospective economic benefit. To a large degree the individual counts were based on alleged discriminatory conduct and retaliation. On January 27, 2004, respondent filed a motion for summary decision. Petitioner filed a cross motion on March 1, 2004 seeking to amend his complaint to add procedural violations regarding the timing of his evaluations, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 and the steps respondent followed to non-renew his contract, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. By order dated April 16, 2004, the Superior Court denied petitioner's motion to amend the complaint and granted the District's summary decision motion. Petitioner sought reconsideration which was also denied. Petitioner appealed and on September 26, 2005 the Appellate Division affirmed the decision below. A Petition for Certiorari to the New Jersey Supreme Court was declined on December 12, 1995; a petition to the United States Supreme Court was denied on May 22, 2006. The current matter was filed on August 17, 2006. This is the substance of the record.

An employee's appeal to the Commissioner must be filed within ninety days of the time he receives notice of a District's adverse action, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Limitations periods, particularly in labor relations, are intended to stimulate diligent filings so that whatever the result parties can quickly move on. For this reason the requirement is generally construed strictly, Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993).

Petitioner argues that his situation is the exception recognized by cases like, Kacmarek v. New Jersey Turnpike Authority, 77 N.J. 329 (1978) and Townsend v. Great Adventure, 178 N.J. Super. 508 (App. Div. 1981). I disagree. In Kacmarek, the New Jersey Supreme Court discussed circumstances that would lead to relaxation of a statute of limitations. The employee there incorrectly filed an unfair labor practice claim in the Superior Court that should have been filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) and the six month limitations period passed before the employee realized his error. Among the factors considered by the Supreme Court in relaxing the limitations period was that the law had recently changed and it was not then plain that PERC was the correct venue. In the instant matter the Commissioner's exclusive jurisdiction under title 18A is longstanding.

The Kacmarek Court also pointed to the filing in Superior Court as proof that plaintiff had not "slept on his rights". Our petitioner too feels that he was diligent by filing in the Superior Court, but there is a difference. In Kacmarek, the claims in court and before PERC were of a piece and plaintiff simply filed in the wrong forum. Our petitioner did not misfile in court. His 2001 suit alleges discrimination and retaliation; his filing with the Commissioner asserts procedural violations in the evaluation and non-renewal process. The latter claims are distinct and the District had no notice of these until petitioner filed his March 2004 motion to amend the Superior Court complaint.

Petitioner also believes that the Superior Court should have transferred his title 18A action to the Commissioner under the Court Rules, who would receive it as if filed in August 2001. This misreads the discussion of the subject in Kacmarek, and Townsend, supra. R1:13-4 governs case transfers within the court system and to administrative agencies, when a filing is made in a forum that lacks jurisdiction. In that circumstance a transfer to the correct court or agency defeats any time bar that has accrued as a result of the misfiling because the original filing date is used. This is not our situation. Here the Superior Court had jurisdiction to hear, and did hear, the constitutional and statutory claims filed by petitioner in August 2001. The ninety day limitations period had long run by March 2004 when petitioner sought to amend his complaint to add title 18A claims. As indicated the original suit dealt primarily with allegations of discrimination and retaliation; the proposed amendment addressed alleged procedural flaws in the evaluation and non-renewal process. Petitioner must conflate these to come within the transfer rule.

Finally, Ms. Boyd submitted certifications stating that she was not an expert in employment litigation and therefore only discerned petitioner's title 18A rights during discovery in the Superior Court action. I perceive little merit in this assertion; counsel's unfamiliarity with the subject matter is between her and her client. The steps taken by respondent to evaluate petitioner's performance during his contract term and then not to renew his contract, were either known or readily discernable in 2001. Relaxation of time bar rules for newly discovered claims is for plaintiff's who unearth facts that could not previously have been known with reasonable diligence, Lynch v. Rubacky, 85 N.J. 65 (1981).

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that summary decision be granted in favor of respondent and that this petition be dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and advisement of petitioner's failure to appear transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with a copy of the notification sent to the parties by OAL on January 9, 2007, providing petitioner thirteen (13) days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, have been reviewed. There being no explanation filed by petitioner, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice due to petitioner's failure to appear at hearing or provide an explanation for her nonappearance.

Notwithstanding dismissal of the petition, the Commissioner notes that the Board's Answer in this residency matter contains a demand for tuition left unaddressed by the Administrative Law Judge. In that the record before the Commissioner contains no affidavit of a responsible Board official attesting to the amount of tuition claimed by the Board as a consequence of the ineligible attendance of petitioner's children in its schools, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for supplementation of the record in this regard and an appropriate recommended order regarding the payment of tuition.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In October 2006, the petitioning school district served an Order to Show Cause upon respondent – a non-tenured school social worker – requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending her certificate, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, for resigning without providing the amount of notice required by her contract with petitioner. The respondent failed to answer the order, but submitted a note in December 2006 stating that she was unable to return to work due to "health concerns," and had retained counsel. Respondent's attorney requested an extension to December 30 to respond to the order to show cause, but no answer has been filed to date. Respondent was duly advised that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), failure to respond would cause each allegation in petitioner's papers to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner.

There being no response to the order to show cause, the Commissioner concluded that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted, and are sufficient to justify suspension of respondent's certification. Accordingly, summary decision is granted to petitioner, and respondent's certificate is suspended for a period of one year from the date of the filing of this decision – a copy of which has been forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 368-10/06

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE CERTIFICATION OF LYNNE C. EINHORN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

For Petitioner, Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer

For Respondent, Barbara Einhorn, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on October 12, 2006 by way of an Order to Show Cause served by petitioner, Edison Board of Education, upon respondent, Lynne C. Einhorn, requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending her certificate – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 – for resigning without providing the amount of notice required by her contract with petitioner. By notice dated October 12, 2006, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) directed respondent, via regular mail, to file an answer to the order to show cause within twenty days. By amended notice dated October 24, 2006, the Bureau directed respondent – via regular and certified mail – to file an answer to the order to show cause within twenty days. The notice sent by certified mail was returned unclaimed, but the notice sent by regular mail was not.

On November 22, 2006, the Bureau sent respondent a final notice – via regular and certified mail – directing respondent to file an answer within ten days. The final notice advised that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), failure to respond would cause each allegation in petitioner's papers to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner. The certified notice was returned to the Commissioner unclaimed, but the notice sent by regular mail was not.

On December 5, 2006, respondent faxed to the Bureau a two-sentence note advising that she was unable to return to work due to unspecified "health concerns" and that she had retained counsel, who had requested an adjournment. Attached to respondent's note was a doctor's note that had been written four months earlier, on August 15, 2006, stating that respondent was "currently suffering from a medical condition which can be directly related to her current work environment," and recommending that respondent "find a new work situation for the sake of her health . . . where she should have no difficulty working at her usual work level."

Respondent's attorney, Barbara Einhorn, faxed the Bureau a letter on December 7, 2006, asking for an extension to December 30, 2006, to respond to the order to show cause. On December 8, 2006, attorney Einhorn obtained the consent of her adversary to the extension, and same was granted. No answer having been received by December 30, 2006, the Bureau sent respondent's attorney a final notice, dated January 19, 2007, via regular and certified mail. Proof of delivery of the certified mail, with respondent's attorney's signature dated January 23, 2007, was returned to the Bureau on January 25, 2007. No answer to the order to show cause has been filed as of this date.

As stated above, the first communications from the Bureau to respondent clearly provided respondent with notice that she was required to file an answer within 20 days from receipt of the order to show cause. The final notices to respondent and to respondent's attorney clearly advised that if an answer was not filed within ten days of receipt of same, each allegation in the papers supporting the order to show cause would be deemed to have been admitted and the Commissioner might decide the matter on a summary basis. The Bureau has received neither an answer to the order to show cause from the respondent nor an answer from respondent's attorney.

The Commissioner now concludes that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), and are sufficient to justify an order suspending respondent's certification. Accordingly,

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that summary decision is granted to petitioner, and respondent's certification is suspended pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*18A:26-10 for a period of one year from the date of filing of this decision. A copy of this decision is hereby forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.[1]

RESIGNATION FROM EMPLOYMENT
SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Resignation from Employment, Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement"), is entered into this _____ day of _____, 2006, by and between Arthur Drummond ("Mr. Drummond") and the Atlantic City Board of Education, Atlantic County (the "Board") (collectively, the "Parties"). For purposes of this Agreement , the term the "Board" shall mean and include the Atlantic City Board of Education, its elected representatives, agents, employees, insurers and attorneys, and all of their predecessors and successors (all in both their official and individual capacities). The term "Mr. Drummond" shall mean and include Arthur Drummond and any and all of his heirs, executors, administrators, successors, predecessors, assigns, agents, representatives and privies. This Agreement constitutes the complete and final settlement of any and all disputes arising from or relating to Mr. Drummond's employment by the board, the termination of his employment and any claims or actions he has brought or could have brought against the Board.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond filed a Petition before the Commissioner of Education against the Board under Agency Docket No. 188-8/05, OAL DKT No. EDU8017-2005 on or about July, 2005 which requests monetary relief in payments of salary withheld and additionally, for the reimbursement of legal expenses totaling approximately $96,000.00 which is currently pending. ("The Petition");

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond, by and through the Atlantic City Education Association (ACEA) filed a grievance, AR No. 2006-434, on July 27, 2005 alleging a monetary loss for the Board's failure to recognize his black seal license and pay him a stipend related thereto which is currently pending ("Black Seal Grievance");

WHEREAS, the Board prepared and filed tenure charges ("Tenure Charges") based on charges of conduct unbecoming against Mr. Drummond pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and said charges were certified and are pending under Agency Docket No. 345-9/06 and OAL DKT No. 8243-06; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into this Agreement to fully and finally resolve and dismiss Mr. Drummond's charge and to fully and finally settle and resolve any and all claims, complaints, charges and actions of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond may have against the Board; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond acknowledges and agrees that his agreement to resign and voluntarily dismiss, waive and withdraw any and all claims, complaints, charges, administrative actions and civil actions of any kind against the Board is provided as consideration for a lump sum payment from the Board and the Board's agreement to request that the Commissioner of Education approve the Board's voluntary dismissal of the tenure charges with prejudice;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained in this Agreement, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. (A) In consideration for Mr. Drummond's execution of this Agreement and the promises and covenants contained herein, the Board commits that it shall issue and remit to Ned Rogovoy, Esquire, (Mr. Drummond's "Counsel") a check payable to Arthur Drummond in the gross amount of Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00). The Board will report the payment to the taxing authorities via an IRS Form 1099. The check will be sent to Mr. Drummond's Counsel after (I) this Agreement is executed, (II) the Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Appendix A is signed and (III) Mr. Drummond resigns by executing Appendix B.

(B) In the event that it is subsequently determined that either party owes any employment taxes with respect to this payment, Mr. Drummond expressly acknowledges and agrees that he and/or his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, and not the Board, will be responsible for the payment of any such taxes, liabilities, payments or costs, interest and penalties. Mr. Drummond agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Board to the full extent of any such taxes, liabilities, payments or costs, interest and penalties, which may be assessed against the Board in connection with any payment made to or on behalf of Mr. Drummond hereunder, however, it is acknowledged by all Parties that this is a lump sum settlement for the consideration of Mr. Drummond resigning his position and for him to dismiss all of his matters including the Petition for back wages and counsel fee, his grievance, and the Board agrees to dismiss with Prejudice the tenure charges against Mr. Drummond and Mr. Drummond agrees to execute his resignation.

2. Mr. Dummond, for the consideration given by the Board as set forth above, which he acknowledges is adequate and satisfactory to him, hereby commits as follows:

(a) Mr. Drummond agrees that by signing this Agreement and by signing his resignation, which is attached hereto as Appendix B, he is irrevocably resigning his employment with the Board effective upon the execution of this Agreement, which causes forfeiture of tenure.

(b) Mr. Drummond irrevocably and unconditionally remises, releases, waives and forever discharges the Board from any and all manner of liabilities, actions, causes of action, contracts, agreements, promises, claims and demands of any kind or nature whatsoever, in law or equity, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond has ever had or now has against the Board in connection with his employment with the Board, the resignation of his employment, compensation and/or benefits with the board and the charges. Mr. Drummond further understands and agrees that this Agreement shall act as a complete bar to any claim, demand or action of any kind whatsoever which could be or could have been brought by him and which seeks personal, equitable or monetary relief for him against the board, including, but not limited to: any claims of wrongful discharge; breach of express or implied contract; fraud; discrimination; retaliation; wages; benefits; other compensation; misrepresentation; defamation; liability in negligence or tort; and any claims of any kind which may be brought in any court of law or equity or an administrative agency; claims for arbitration in any forum; the U.S. Constitution, as amended; the Constitution of the State of New Jersey; Title VII of the U.S. Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; the U.S. Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967; the U.S. Americans with Disabilities Act; the U.S. Age Discrimination in Employment Act; the U.S. Employment Retirement Income Security Act; the U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act; the United States Family and Medical Leave Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Department of Personnel; and any other federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance relating to employment; related torts; and employment, discrimination; employee benefits; collective bargaining agreement; and the termination of employment and any other claim arising from or relating to Mr. Drummond's employment. Mr. Drummond understands that he is not releasing any claims he may have to enforce the provisions of this Agreement. This release covers both claims that Mr. Drummond knows about and those he may not know about, except for claims (I) that may arise after the date Mr. Drummond executes this Agreement; (II) for a breach of this Agreement; or (III) with respect to any benefits in which Mr. Drummond has a vested interest under the terms and conditions of any of the Board's employee benefit plans. Mr. Drummond further agrees not to file a lawsuit or administrative claim or demand for arbitration to assert any of the claims he has given up, released or waived. Any substantial or material breach of this agreement shall entitle the non-breaching party to an injunction or any action at law or equity to remedy the breach and an award of reasonable attorney's fees, other professional fees, costs and expenses incurred to remedy and defend against said breach.

(c) Mr. Drummond agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Petition bearing Agency DKT. No. 188-8/05 having an OAL DKT. No. EDU8017-2005, in that regard, Mr. Drummond's counsel in that matter, being Cristal Holmes-

Bowie, Esquire, in accordance with the New Jersey Rules of Administrative Practice, shall, simultaneously with the execution of this Agreement, execute the Stipulation of dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Appendix A, dismissing the case with Prejudice for the reason of the settlement reached by the Parties. It is further acknowledged that Mr. Drummond by and through the President of the Atlantic City Education Association, Marcia Genova, will cause a cancellation and dismissal of the "black seal grievance" forthwith. In any event, this document and its signing by Mr. Drummond shall cause by its very nature a dismissal of the grievance.

(d) The Board agrees to request that the Commissioner of Education approve the Board's voluntary dismissal of the tenure charges, Agency Docket No. 345-9/06, OAL Docket No. 8243-06, with prejudice in light of Mr. Drummond's Agreement to resign and voluntarily dismiss, waive and withdraw any and all claims, complaints, charges, administrative actions and civil actions of any kind against the Board as consideration for a lump sum payment from the Board. In executing this agreement, Mr. Drummond understands the ultimate decision with regard to the resolution of the tenure charges lies with the Commissioner of Education and that notwithstanding the commissioner's decision with regard to the tenure charges, the remaining promises and covenants between the parties that are contained in this Agreement are enforceable upon the execution of the Agreement.

(e) Mr. Drummond agrees that he will not talk about, discuss or consult with, advise, counsel or otherwise cooperate with or assist any employees of the Board in the pursuit of any legal or administrative action(s) against the Board, including, but not limited to, any action(s) in connection with any matters relating to his employment or the termination of his employment, unless compelled to do so by court order or lawful subpoena. Mr. Drummond further agrees that he will not participate, directly or indirectly, as a party, witness or otherwise, in any action at law, proceeding in equity or in any administrative proceeding in which the Board or Board personnel are Parties, unless compelled to do so by force of law.

(f) Mr. Drummond acknowledges and agrees that other than the consideration provided for herein, he is not entitled to and will not receive any additional compensation or benefits of any kind from the Board and that no representations have been made to him regarding any such additional compensation or benefits. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to or should be construed to affect Mr. Drummond's receipt of the benefits in which he is vested or to which he is entitled under the Board's current pension, disability and/or other vested plans or policies.

3. (a) Mr. Drummond agrees to maintain the confidentiality of, and refrain from disclosing, making public, or discussing in any way whatsoever, the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is understood that as the sole exception to this Confidentiality Provision, Mr. Drummond may discuss or disclose this Agreement (I) with his immediate family; (II) with his attorney or tax advisor; and (III) in response to inquiries from, any governmental, regulatory or self-regulatory body or agency with jurisdiction over the activities Mr. Drummond or the Board.

(b) Mr. Drummond may disclose, make public or discuss his resignation from the district only to the extent as set forth in the Joint Statement. A copy of said Joint Statement is annexed as Appendix C.

4. (a) Mr. Drummond agrees that he shall not issue any communication, written, verbal or otherwise, that disparages, criticizes or otherwise reflects adversely upon the Board or which encourages any adverse action, provided that Mr. Drummond is permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to a subpoena.

(b) With respect to any inquiries directed to the Atlantic City School Board's Department of Human Resources regarding Mr. Drummond, the Board shall have the responsibility only as provided below; provided that the Board and Board employees are permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to a subpoena. If any inquiries are made, there will be a neutral reference and Appendix C shall be read to the inquiring party.

5. This Agreement is not and shall not in any way be deemed to constitute an admission or evidence of any wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Board, nor of any violation of any federal, state or local statute, rule, regulation or principle of common law or equity. Rather, this Agreement constitutes the good faith settlement and release of disputed claims, and it is acknowledged and agreed by the Parties that this Agreement is being entered into by the Parties solely to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of further litigation and to fully and finally resolve, settle and dismiss with prejudice, any and all claims of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond has ever had or now has against the board arising out of or relating to his employment with the Board, the termination of his employment, his compensation and benefits with the Board. The Board expressly denies any wrongdoing of any kind in regard to Mr. Drummond's employment, the termination of his employment, his compensation and benefits with the Board.

6. This Agreement may not be changed orally and no modification, amendment or waiver of any provision contained in this Agreement, or any future representation, promise or condition in connection with the subject matter of this Agreement shall be binding upon any party hereto unless made in writing and signed by such party and subject to approval by the Board.

7. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and complete settlement between the Parties and supersedes any and all previous agreements of any kind whatsoever between them, whether written or oral. All prior and contemporaneous discussions and negotiations have been and are merged and integrated into, and are superseded by, this Agreement. This is an integrated document.

8. In the event that any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof should be held to be void, voidable, unlawful or, for any reason, unenforceable, the remaining portion shall remain in full force and effect, and, to that end, the provisions of this Agreement are declared to be severable.

This Agreement is made and entered into, and shall be subject to, governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey and shall be fully enforceable in the courts of that state, without regard to principles of conflict of laws. The Parties agree that any suit, action or other legal proceeding arising out of this Agreement shall be brought in Superior Court for the State of New Jersey, County of Atlantic.

9. Mr. Drummond agrees that he shall be responsible for his own attorney's fees and costs incurred in connection with any matter mentioned in this Agreement.

10. Mr. Drummond agrees that neither this Agreement nor any portion hereof is assignable. Mr. Drummond represents, warrants and covenants that he has not previously assigned or transferred, or purported to assign or transfer, to any individual or entity, any of the rights, claims, demands or causes of action being released herein, and agrees that no such assignment or transfer may occur without a written consent executed by the Board, and any attempt to do so shall be void.

11. In executing this Agreement, Mr. Drummond has had an opportunity to speak to his attorneys and to the President of the Atlantic City Education Association and has relied upon the legal advice of his attorneys as to the terms of this Agreement, which have been completely read by him and explained by his attorneys, and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

12. This Agreement shall not be executed in counterparts and shall be enforceable only if executed by Mr. Drummond and the Board.

13. This Agreement shall become effective immediately following the execution by Mr. Drummond and the Board.

WHEREFORE, intending to be legally bound, the Parties have agreed to the aforesaid terms and indicate their agreement by signing below.

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY. THIS AGREEMENT IS A LEGAL DOCUMENT AND INCLUDES A RELEASE OF ALL KNOWN AND UNKNOWN CLAIMS, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, ALL CLAIMS ARISING UNDER THE AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT, THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT, TITLE VII OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE RIGHTS ACT OF 1964, THE EQUAL PAY ACT, THE EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT INCOME SECURITY ACT, THE FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT, THE OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH ACT, THE NEW JERSEY LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, THE NEW JERSEY CONSCIENTIOUS EMPLOYEE PROTECTION ACT, STATE AND FEDERAL FAMILY LEAVE LAWS, STATE AND FEDERAL WAGE AND HOUR LAWS AND ANY OTHER FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL OR COMMON LAW CLAIM.

APPENDIX C

Joint Statement of
Atlantic City School District and Mr. Drummond

Mr. Drummond has tendered his resignation as a custodian with the Atlantic City School District. The Board and Mr. Drummond have agreed that it is in the best interest of both parties that an amicable conclusion be reached as to the ending of the employment relationship.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, there are various actions or claims pending between Arthur Drummond and the Atlantic City Board of Education (the "Board") before the Commissioner of Education and/or the Public Employment Relations Commission, namely OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8017-05, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8243-06 and AR No. 2006-434; and

WHEREAS, the parties desire to fully and finally settle and resolve any and all actions of any kind between them including the above-referenced matters; and

WHEREAS, the parties have drafted a Settlement Agreement and General Release which fully and finally settles and resolves any and all actions of any kind between them including the above-referenced matters; and

WHEREAS, the Settlement Agreement provides, in part, that in consideration for Arthur Drummond's agreement to dismiss his action(s) or claim(s) against the Board and tender his resignation, the Board shall request that the Commissioner of Education dismiss its action(s) or claim(s) against Mr. Drummond and issue a check to Mr. Drummond's attorney payable Mr. Drummond in the gross amount of $40,000.00; and

WHEREAS, an executive session meeting of the Board was held on Tuesday, January 16, 2006 at 5:30 p.m. at 1300 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, New Jersey where the Board reviewed and considered the Settlement Agreement and General Release; and

WHEREAS, during open session the Board determined by a recorded vote of a majority of the entire membership of the Board with 12 members voting in favor, 0 members voting against, and 0 members abstaining, to approve the Settlement Agreement and accept Arthur Drummond's resignation;

NOW BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board hereby accepts the Settlement Agreement which will fully and finally settle and resolve any and all actions of any kind between the parties including the above-referenced matters and authorizes a lump sum payment to Arthur Drummond in the amount of $40,000; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Board hereby accepts Arthur Drummond's resignation effective January 16, 2007.

ADOPTED this 16 day of January, 2007.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ARTHUR DRUMMOND,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY	:

The record, Resignation from Employment/Settlement Agreement and General Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 – have been reviewed. It is noted that the parties propose a "global" settlement agreement to resolve two matters currently before the Commissioner, i.e., the instant tenure charges against respondent, a tenured custodian, and a case entitled Arthur Drummond v. Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City, Atlantic County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8017-05, Agency Dkt. No. 188-8/05.[1] [2]

The instant matter seeks – as a consequence of the parties' agreement, which encompasses respondent's resignation from his position as of January 16, 2007 – the Commissioner's approval of the Board's withdrawal of tenure charges against respondent. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the purpose of tenure charges is to provide a mechanism for the dismissal from employment, or the reduction in compensation, of a tenured individual who is found guilty of the charges proffered. The maximum penalty, therefore, that could be imposed on respondent as a result of these proceedings – if the charges are proven to be true – would be the loss of respondent's right to employment in the Atlantic City School District, a right that he has voluntarily relinquished by his resignation. As such, the Commissioner concludes that the instant tenure charges have been rendered moot.

[1] This matter, along with another copy of the proposed agreement, was submitted to the Commissioner by way of a separate OAL decision. The adequacy of the proposed agreement to resolve this separate controversy will be ruled on by the Commissioner in a subsequent decision.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement agreement – calling for respondent's resignation from his position effective January 16, 2007 – is approved and, consequently, the instant tenure charges are hereby dismissed as moot.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Record Closed: January 23, 2007 Decided: January 31, 2007

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 13, 2006, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESIGNATION FROM EMPLOYMENT
SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Resignation from Employment, Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement"), is entered into this _____ day of _____, 2006, by and between Arthur Drummond ("Mr. Drummond") and the Atlantic City Board of Education, Atlantic County (the "Board") (collectively, the "Parties"). For purposes of this Agreement , the term the "Board" shall mean and include the Atlantic City Board of Education, its elected representatives, agents, employees, insurers and attorneys, and all of their predecessors and successors (all in both their official and individual capacities). The term "Mr. Drummond" shall mean and include Arthur Drummond and any and all of his heirs, executors, administrators, successors, predecessors, assigns, agents, representatives and privies. This Agreement constitutes the complete and final settlement of any and all disputes arising from or relating to Mr. Drummond's employment by the board, the termination of his employment and any claims or actions he has brought or could have brought against the Board.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond filed a Petition before the Commissioner of Education against the Board under Agency Docket No. 188-8/05, OAL DKT No. EDU8017-2005 on or about July, 2005 which requests monetary relief in payments of salary withheld and additionally, for the reimbursement of legal expenses totaling approximately $96,000.00 which is currently pending. ("The Petition");

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond, by and through the Atlantic City Education Association (ACEA) filed a grievance, AR No. 2006-434, on July 27, 2005 alleging a monetary loss for the Board's failure to recognize his black seal license and pay him a stipend related thereto which is currently pending ("Black Seal Grievance");

WHEREAS, the Board prepared and filed tenure charges ("Tenure Charges") based on charges of conduct unbecoming against Mr. Drummond pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and said charges were certified and are pending under Agency Docket No. 345-9/06 and OAL DKT No. 8243-06; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into this Agreement to fully and finally resolve and dismiss Mr. Drummond's charge and to fully and finally settle and resolve any and all claims, complaints, charges and actions of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond may have against the Board; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Drummond acknowledges and agrees that his agreement to resign and voluntarily dismiss, waive and withdraw any and all claims, complaints, charges, administrative actions and civil actions of any kind against the Board is provided as consideration for a lump sum payment from the Board and the Board's agreement to request that the Commissioner of Education approve the Board's voluntary dismissal of the tenure charges with prejudice;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained in this Agreement, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. (A) In consideration for Mr. Drummond's execution of this Agreement and the promises and covenants contained herein, the Board commits that it shall issue and remit to Ned Rogovoy, Esquire, (Mr. Drummond's "Counsel") a check payable to Arthur Drummond in the gross amount of Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00). The Board will report the payment to the taxing authorities via an IRS Form 1099. The check will be sent to Mr. Drummond's Counsel after (I) this Agreement is executed, (II) the Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Appendix A is signed and (III) Mr. Drummond resigns by executing Appendix B.

(B) In the event that it is subsequently determined that either party owes any employment taxes with respect to this payment, Mr. Drummond expressly acknowledges and agrees that he and/or his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, and not the Board, will be responsible for the payment of any such taxes, liabilities, payments or costs, interest and penalties. Mr. Drummond agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Board to the full extent of any such taxes, liabilities, payments or costs, interest and penalties, which may be assessed against the Board in connection with any payment made to or on behalf of Mr. Drummond hereunder, however, it is acknowledged by all Parties that this is a lump sum settlement for the consideration of Mr. Drummond resigning his position and for him to dismiss all of his matters including the Petition for back wages and counsel fee, his grievance, and the Board agrees to dismiss with Prejudice the tenure charges against Mr. Drummond and Mr. Drummond agrees to execute his resignation.

2. Mr. Dummond, for the consideration given by the Board as set forth above, which he acknowledges is adequate and satisfactory to him, hereby commits as follows:

(a) Mr. Drummond agrees that by signing this Agreement and by signing his resignation, which is attached hereto as Appendix B, he is irrevocably resigning his employment with the Board effective upon the execution of this Agreement, which causes forfeiture of tenure.

(b) Mr. Drummond irrevocably and unconditionally remises, releases, waives and forever discharges the Board from any and all manner of liabilities, actions, causes of action, contracts, agreements, promises, claims and demands of any kind or nature whatsoever, in law or equity, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond has ever had or now has against the Board in connection with his employment with the Board, the resignation of his employment, compensation and/or benefits with the board and the charges. Mr. Drummond further understands and agrees that this Agreement shall act as a complete bar to any claim, demand or action of any kind whatsoever which could be or could have been brought by him and which seeks personal, equitable or monetary relief for him against the board, including, but not limited to: any claims of wrongful discharge; breach of express or implied contract; fraud; discrimination; retaliation; wages; benefits; other compensation; misrepresentation; defamation; liability in negligence or tort; and any claims of any kind which may be brought in any court of law or equity or an administrative agency; claims for arbitration in any forum; the U.S. Constitution, as amended; the Constitution of the State of New Jersey; Title VII of the U.S. Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; the U.S. Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967; the U.S. Americans with Disabilities Act; the U.S. Age Discrimination in Employment Act; the U.S. Employment Retirement Income Security Act; the U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act; the United States Family and Medical Leave Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Department of Personnel; and any other federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance relating to employment; related torts; and employment, discrimination; employee benefits; collective bargaining agreement; and the termination of employment and any other claim arising from or relating to Mr. Drummond's employment. Mr. Drummond understands that he is not releasing any claims he may have to enforce the provisions of this Agreement. This release covers both claims that Mr. Drummond knows about and those he may not know about, except for claims (I) that may arise after the date Mr. Drummond executes this Agreement; (II) for a breach of this Agreement; or (III) with respect to any benefits in which Mr. Drummond has a vested interest under the terms and conditions of any of the Board's employee benefit plans. Mr. Drummond further agrees not to file a lawsuit or administrative claim or demand for arbitration to assert any of the claims he has given up, released or waived. Any substantial or material breach of this agreement shall entitle the non-breaching party to an injunction or any action at law or equity to remedy the breach and an award of reasonable attorney's fees, other professional fees, costs and expenses incurred to remedy and defend against said breach.

(c) Mr. Drummond agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Petition bearing Agency DKT. No. 188-8/05 having an OAL DKT. No. EDU8017-2005, in that regard, Mr. Drummond's counsel in that matter, being Cristal Holmes-

Bowie, Esquire, in accordance with the New Jersey Rules of Administrative Practice, shall, simultaneously with the execution of this Agreement, execute the Stipulation of dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Appendix A, dismissing the case with Prejudice for the reason of the settlement reached by the Parties. It is further acknowledged that Mr. Drummond by and through the President of the Atlantic City Education Association, Marcia Genova, will cause a cancellation and dismissal of the "black seal grievance" forthwith. In any event, this document and its signing by Mr. Drummond shall cause by its very nature a dismissal of the grievance.

(d) The Board agrees to request that the Commissioner of Education approve the Board's voluntary dismissal of the tenure charges, Agency Docket No. 345-9/06, OAL Docket No. 8243-06, with prejudice in light of Mr. Drummond's Agreement to resign and voluntarily dismiss, waive and withdraw any and all claims, complaints, charges, administrative actions and civil actions of any kind against the Board as consideration for a lump sum payment from the Board. In executing this agreement, Mr. Drummond understands the ultimate decision with regard to the resolution of the tenure charges lies with the Commissioner of Education and that notwithstanding the commissioner's decision with regard to the tenure charges, the remaining promises and covenants between the parties that are contained in this Agreement are enforceable upon the execution of the Agreement.

(e) Mr. Drummond agrees that he will not talk about, discuss or consult with, advise, counsel or otherwise cooperate with or assist any employees of the Board in the pursuit of any legal or administrative action(s) against the Board, including, but not limited to, any action(s) in connection with any matters relating to his employment or the termination of his employment, unless compelled to do so by court order or lawful subpoena. Mr. Drummond further agrees that he will not participate, directly or indirectly, as a party, witness or otherwise, in any action at law, proceeding in equity or in any administrative proceeding in which the Board or Board personnel are Parties, unless compelled to do so by force of law.

(f) Mr. Drummond acknowledges and agrees that other than the consideration provided for herein, he is not entitled to and will not receive any additional compensation or benefits of any kind from the Board and that no representations have been made to him regarding any such additional compensation or benefits. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to or should be construed to affect Mr. Drummond's receipt of the benefits in which he is vested or to which he is entitled under the Board's current pension, disability and/or other vested plans or policies.

3. (a) Mr. Drummond agrees to maintain the confidentiality of, and refrain from disclosing, making public, or discussing in any way whatsoever, the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is understood that as the sole exception to this Confidentiality Provision, Mr. Drummond may discuss or disclose this Agreement (I) with his immediate family; (II) with his attorney or tax advisor; and (III) in response to inquiries from, any governmental, regulatory or self-regulatory body or agency with jurisdiction over the activities Mr. Drummond or the Board.

(b) Mr. Drummond may disclose, make public or discuss his resignation from the district only to the extent as set forth in the Joint Statement. A copy of said Joint Statement is annexed as Appendix C.

4. (a) Mr. Drummond agrees that he shall not issue any communication, written, verbal or otherwise, that disparages, criticizes or otherwise reflects adversely upon the Board or which encourages any adverse action, provided that Mr. Drummond is permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to a subpoena.

(b) With respect to any inquiries directed to the Atlantic City School Board's Department of Human Resources regarding Mr. Drummond, the Board shall have the responsibility only as provided below; provided that the Board and Board employees are permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to a subpoena. If any inquiries are made, there will be a neutral reference and Appendix C shall be read to the inquiring party.

5. This Agreement is not and shall not in any way be deemed to constitute an admission or evidence of any wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Board, nor of any violation of any federal, state or local statute, rule, regulation or principle of common law or equity. Rather, this Agreement constitutes the good faith settlement and release of disputed claims, and it is acknowledged and agreed by the Parties that this Agreement is being entered into by the Parties solely to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of further litigation and to fully and finally resolve, settle and dismiss with prejudice, any and all claims of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Mr. Drummond has ever had or now has against the board arising out of or relating to his employment with the Board, the termination of his employment, his compensation and benefits with the Board. The Board expressly denies any wrongdoing of any kind in regard to Mr. Drummond's employment, the termination of his employment, his compensation and benefits with the Board.

6. This Agreement may not be changed orally and no modification, amendment or waiver of any provision contained in this Agreement, or any future representation, promise or condition in connection with the subject matter of this Agreement shall be binding upon any party hereto unless made in writing and signed by such party and subject to approval by the Board.

7. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and complete settlement between the Parties and supersedes any and all previous agreements of any kind whatsoever between them, whether written or oral. All prior and contemporaneous discussions and negotiations have been and are merged and integrated into, and are superseded by, this Agreement. This is an integrated document.

8. In the event that any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof should be held to be void, voidable, unlawful or, for any reason, unenforceable, the remaining portion shall remain in full force and effect, and, to that end, the provisions of this Agreement are declared to be severable.

This Agreement is made and entered into, and shall be subject to, governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey and shall be fully enforceable in the courts of that state, without regard to principles of conflict of laws. The Parties agree that any suit, action or other legal proceeding arising out of this Agreement shall be brought in Superior Court for the State of New Jersey, County of Atlantic.

9. Mr. Drummond agrees that he shall be responsible for his own attorney's fees and costs incurred in connection with any matter mentioned in this Agreement.

10. Mr. Drummond agrees that neither this Agreement nor any portion hereof is assignable. Mr. Drummond represents, warrants and covenants that he has not previously assigned or transferred, or purported to assign or transfer, to any individual or entity, any of the rights, claims, demands or causes of action being released herein, and agrees that no such assignment or transfer may occur without a written consent executed by the Board, and any attempt to do so shall be void.

11. In executing this Agreement, Mr. Drummond has had an opportunity to speak to his attorneys and to the President of the Atlantic City Education Association and has relied upon the legal advice of his attorneys as to the terms of this Agreement, which have been completely read by him and explained by his attorneys, and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

12. This Agreement shall not be executed in counterparts and shall be enforceable only if executed by Mr. Drummond and the Board.

Arthur Drummond v. Atlantic City Board of Education
OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8017-2005

Dear Judge Gorman:

This office represents the Atlantic City Board of Education with regard to the above-referenced matters. Enclosed please find a Settlement Agreement and General Release executed by Arthur Drummond and the Atlantic City Board of Education. Also enclosed is the original Resolution of the Atlantic City Board of Education approving the Settlement Agreement. The Agreement provides that in consideration for Mr. Drummond's agreement to dismiss his claims against the Board and tender his resignation, the Board agrees to ask the Commissioner of Education to dismiss the tenure charges and issue a check to Mr. Drummond in the gross amount of $40,000.00.

As you will see, Mr. Drummond tendered his resignation, which the Board approved, effective January 16, 2007. Under separate cover, I forwarded to Ned Rogovoy, Esq. a check from the Board payable to Arthur Drummond in the amount of $40,000.00.

Upon receipt of the check, Mr. Rogovoy will ask Cristal Holmes-Bowie, Esq. to file a a Stipulation of Dismissal dismissing Mr. Drummond's action against the Board, OAL Docket No. EDU 8017-2005. In addition, Mr. Rogovoy will ask Marsha Genova, President of the Atlantic City Education Association, to withdraw or dismiss Arthur Drummond's pending grievance against the Board, AR-2006-434. If the Court requires, I will likewise submit a Stipulation of Dismissal requesting that the Commissioner of Education dismiss the tenure charges pending against Mr. Drummond.

Thank you for Your Honor's courtesies as the attorneys worked towards a settlement in these matters. If Your Honor has any questions or concerns, please contact counsel.

Respectfully submitted,

AGENCY DKT. NO. 457-12/06

LEAP ACADEMY UNIVERSITY CHARTER SCHOOL, INC. AND MARCO MORCOS,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:
NJSIAA,	:
RESPONDENT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
-- and--	:	DECISION ON APPLICATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PENNSAUKEN,	:	FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
INTERVENOR.	:

This matter was opened by way of a petition filed on December 8, 2006, challenging a decision by the NJSIAA Executive Committee that had been made three months earlier (on September 13, 2006), affirming the determination by the NJSIAA Controversies Committee that LEAP Academy University Charter School (LEAP) had violated Article V, Section 4D of the NJSIAA bylaws, which prohibits the recruitment of students for athletic purposes. The penalties imposed for the violations were two-year probationary periods for both the basketball program and the coach, the submission of a corrective action plan, and disqualification from the 2007 and 2008 post-season tournaments.

Respondent's answer and statement of items comprising the record were submitted on December 20, 2006. On December 28, 2006, the Pennsauken Board of Education moved to intervene. On January 4, 2007, the record was filed with the Commissioner. After considering all parties' submissions regarding the intervention motion, the Commissioner granted same on January 12, 2007, and set a schedule for the remaining briefs. All papers allowed by the briefing schedule were received as of February 1, 2007. Two weeks later, on February 15, 2007, petitioners filed the instant motion for emergent relief.

Mindful of the imminence of the tournament in which petitioners seek to participate, the Commissioner will refer to the facts which the parties have presented in the course of the legal discussion, in lieu of setting forth a separate factual background.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, petitioners' application for emergent relief must conform to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) and meet the substantive standards articulated therein. The four standards are:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
>
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
>
> (Emphasis added.) See also, Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Since the standards are conjunctive, petitioners must prevail on all four.

Regarding the first standard, i.e., irreparable harm, the Commissioner does not find respondent's arguments to be helpful. The fact that participation in sports is a privilege rather than a right is not determinative of whether a prohibition against competing in a specific tournament may result in irreparable harm. Clearly, loss of the opportunity to play in a tournament has an impact for the athletes that cannot be reversed after the fact. Petitioners satisfy the first prong of the test for emergent relief.

The second standard does not mitigate for or against petitioners. The gravamen of petitioners' claim is that the facts of this controversy do not support respondent's ruling that a violation of NJSIAA Bylaw Article V, Section 4D was perpetrated by petitioners. The legal right that petitioners invoke is the right to relief in the event that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. That is a settled right, but petitioners cannot claim it for themselves in this case unless they can show that the NJSIAA's decision is contrary to the facts of this matter.

The third standard requires petitioners to make a showing that they are likely to prevail on the merits. The Commissioner cannot so conclude. The record includes proof that the parents of three outstanding basketball players from three different states, New York, Maryland and Georgia, appeared in Pennsauken within three months of each other and bestowed guardianship of their sons on two individuals connected to the LEAP basketball program. Those individuals, in turn, immediately transferred the students From Pennsauken High School to LEAP, where two of them immediately joined the basketball team.[1] There was no showing of any prior connection or relationship between the two "guardians" and the out-of-state students or their families. Two of the three athletes, who had been declared ineligible to play basketball in their states of origin, were subsequently described in New Jersey newspapers as the players that were most responsible for LEAP's tournament wins.

Respondents have provided facts which strongly support an inference that the reason for the three students' registration in Pennsauken and immediate transfer to LEAP was athletics, in violation of NJSIAA's bylaws. Petitioners' only direct response to that important point has been a general assertion that students are attracted to charter schools. This is not enough for the Commissioner to find that petitioners have shown a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

As to the last standard, balancing of the equities, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the harm that would befall petitioners if emergent relief is not granted is greater that the harm that would ensue upon the granting of the relief. It is undisputed that the first games of the tournament begin tomorrow, February 24, 2007. Although not submitted in evidentiary form, respondents and the intervenor have provided information about the implementation of tournaments that cannot be ignored. More specifically, teams are seeded and game schedules are set far before the first day of a tournament. Adding an extra team at this late date would create a burdensome disruption to the tournament. Moreover, should the LEAP team enter the tournament, one must inquire whether another team would have to be eliminated, irreversibly depriving it of an opportunity for success. Further, if the LEAP team were to finish the tournament with a title and subsequently be found to have violated the recruitment bylaws, another competing team would have been irrevocably stripped of its chance for a championship. Finally, it appears that the LEAP team still contains at least one of the students whose admission to the team is in question.

In summary, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have not met the required standards for obtaining emergent relief. Their application is denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

DECISION ON

APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

The record of this emergent matter – which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge(ALJ) – has been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons stated in her oral ruling from the bench – that petitioner has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most specifically, the existence of irreparable harm.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits as soon as practicable as contemplated by the ALJ and the parties.

THIS MATTER having been presented to the Office of Administrative Law on application of Francis J. DeVito, P.A., attorneys for Petitioner, the Lyndhurst Board of Education, for emergent relief, and it appearing that notice has been given to Respondent and Respondent's counsel, and the Honorable Carol I. Cohen having considered the arguments of counsel, the Affidavits and Briefs on file, and for good cause having been shown:

IT IS on this 22nd day of February 2007;

ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that Petitioner Lyndhurst Board of Education's motion for emergent relief is denied as the threshold requirement of irreparable harm has not been met. The Administrative Law Judge made the following findings:

1. The disruption and harm alleged by Petitioner does not rise to the level of irreparable harm, particularly since the Petitioner suspended Respondent with pay on January 22, 2007.

2. The applicable statute and case law provide that a Board of Education may request a teacher to undergo physical and psychiatric examinations when the teacher deviates from normal, physical or mental health in a manner that imposes a danger of harm to students. As such, there is not a reasonable probability that Petitioner will succeed on the merits in this matter.

3. As to balancing of the equities, Respondent himself has put in issue his psychiatric well being by his filing of the Federal action which balances against any harm to his reputation. And it is further

ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that limited discovery be exchanged; including the tapes referenced and maintained by Respondent be produced to Petitioner; and it is further ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that the matter will proceed to hearing tentatively scheduled for March 12 or 13, 2007.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. IF the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 13, 2006, along with the recommended order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

It must be noted that – notwithstanding that the hearing in this matter took place on February 13, 2007 – the recommended Order of the ALJ and the hearing tape were not received by the agency until Thursday, February 22, 2007. Because the ALJ's Order contemplated P.B.'s return to his regular school setting on this very date – absent a hearing by the Board no later than 5 P.M. February 21, 2007 – upon receipt of the instant Order, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes initiated a conference call with the parties to ascertain the current status of this matter. The parties reported that they have agreed between themselves that P.B. should be returned to his regular classes pending resolution of the criminal charges against him, and that he has, in fact, returned to school. Consequently, the Commissioner finds and concludes that this emergent application has been rendered moot.

Accordingly, petitioner's application for emergent relief is hereby dismissed. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

The record of this matter, including the audiotape of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons orally set forth on the record at the conclusion of OAL proceedings, that petitioner in this matter has not met the standard for grant of emergent relief. Crowe v. DeGioia, supra; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the Order of the OAL – denying petitioner's application for immediate return to the wrestling team pending adjudication of the felony charges underlying his suspension – is adopted for the reasons expressed by the ALJ. BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

THIS MATTER having been opened to the Court upon application by Wilson, Elser, Moskowitz, Edelman & Dicker, LLP, attorneys for Petitioners, and the Court having read and reviewed the moving papers and opposition thereto; and the Court having heard oral argument; and the Court having found that Petitioners failed to demonstrate irreparable harm, a likelihood of success of the merits, that the legal right underlying their claim is not unsettled, and that the relative hardships to the parties weight in their favor; and for good cause having been shown;

It is on this 23rd day of February, 2007,

ORDERED that Petitioner's application for emergent relief is hereby DENIED; and it is further ORDERED that a copy of this Order shall be served upon all counsel within five (5) days from the day of entry.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UPPER FREEHOLD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners sought to set aside the results of a bond referendum held during a special election of the respondent school district, held on December 14, 2004. The referendum sought voter approval for a school facilities renovation and expansion project, and was passed by a majority vote. Petitioners contended that the Board's failure to disclose to voters the presence of environmental contamination on the proposed school site denied voters the right to make an informed decision on the referendum.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petition was filed well outside of the 20-day statutory deadline for challenging the results of a bond election (N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65), and, therefore, even if petitioners' allegations were deemed true, the result of the referendum cannot now be challenged; additional arguments put forth by the petitioners were insufficient to disregard the clear mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65; and the petition must be dismissed as a matter of law. Subsequent to the issuance of the OAL's Initial Decision, the Board authorized a new referendum and petitioners sought to withdraw their appeal as moot. The Board opposed petitioners' request, contending it was entitled by law to a final agency decision on a matter it had litigated to conclusion at the OAL.

The Commissioner declined to permit withdrawal of the petition, but rejected the Initial Decision. Although the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's dismissal of the petition, she did so for reasons of jurisdiction and mootness rather than for the reasons expressed by the ALJ. Noting that Commissioner of Education jurisdiction over the dispute had not been determined, the Commissioner declined to reach the merits of the dispute and explained that remanding the matter to the OAL for the a jurisdictional determination at this juncture would serve no purpose since the matter has been mooted by the Board's decision to hold a new election, effectively granting the sole relief sought by petitioners.

V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UPPER FREEHOLD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

A few days after expiration of the time frame for submission of exceptions,[2] however, petitioners' administrative designee advised that he and his fellow petitioners wished to withdraw their appeal based upon action taken by the Board of Education the preceding evening:

> Last night, the Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education authorized a new middle school referendum, which for the first time gives the voters the opportunity to make a fully informed decision on this project. In light of this development, the [present] petition is no longer necessary. Please consider it withdrawn, effective immediately. (Letter dated February 8, 2007,[3] from Micah Rasmussen to Commissioner Davy c/o Director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes)

[1] In a communication dated January 11, 2007 and forwarded to the Commissioner on January 23, 2007 by petitioner Rasmussen – whom petitioners had designated as their administrative agent for this matter pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a)1 – Marc Covitz withdrew as a petitioner.

[2] Exceptions were due on February 2, 2007 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the Initial Decision having been mailed to the parties on January 22, 2007.

The Board objected to petitioners' request to withdraw their petition, arguing that the matter had been litigated at the OAL to the point of an Initial Decision, which the Commissioner was now obliged by law to accept, modify or reject.[4] The Board urged that the Initial Decision be adopted, contending that its findings, conclusions and recommendation granting the entirety of the Board's Motion to Dismiss were fully correct.[5] (Letter dated February 20, 2007, from Board Counsel to Director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes)

Upon consideration, for the reason set forth below, the Commissioner declines to permit withdrawal of the petition without issuance of a final agency decision, but rejects the Initial Decision of the OAL.

In scrutinizing the petition on its initial filing – notwithstanding that the Board raised no objection to the forum in which petitioners chose to file – the Department was concerned that the Commissioner might not have jurisdiction over the parties' dispute given that the sole relief sought by petitioners was the voiding of an election.[6] Consequently, in transmitting the matter to the OAL, the Department requested that the [4] The Board mistakes the date of the ALJ's decision (January 16, 2007) with the date of its receipt by the Department of Education (January 17, 2007), resulting in the erroneous conclusion that the Commissioner's final decision is due on March 2, 2007, rather than March 5, 2007.

[5] The Board's position on exception is consistent with its stance in response to petitioners' December 14, 2006 attempt to resolve this matter prior to issuance of an Initial Decision. In declining petitioners' proposal at that time, the Board maintained that its arguments were meritorious and that it was "entitled to a decision dismissing the petition as a matter of law." (Letter dated January 16, 2007, from Board Counsel to Micah Rasmussen) question of Commissioner jurisdiction be decided by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as a threshold matter in light of the relief sought by petitioners.

[6] The Department's reservations were rooted in 1) the absence of any State statute expressly conferring such authority upon the Commissioner of Education, and 2) the fact that P.L. 1995, c. 278 had repealed in their entirety the school election statutes long codified in State education law (Title 18A), concomitantly enacting new statutes – codified in State election law (Title 19) – largely conforming school election procedures to those of general elections and transferring disputes arising from the administration and application of the school election process from the Commissioner of Education to the Superior Court. See N.J.S.A. 19:60-1 et seq., N.J.S.A. 19:29-1 et seq., and George Saunders v. Toms River Regional Schools Board of Education, 289 N.J. Super. 225 (March 27, 1996).

Although the ALJ was clearly aware of the agency's direction – as evidenced by the Initial Decision's procedural recitation (at 2) – neither he nor the parties addressed the requested determination, instead (apparently) equating it with resolution of the arguments embodied in the Board's Motion to Dismiss. As a result, the Commissioner is now confronted with the existence of a well-reasoned OAL recommendation in a matter she may not, in fact, have the jurisdiction to hear.

Given the circumstances and status of this matter, the Commissioner believes that closure through a final agency ruling adopting, modifying or rejecting the Initial Decision of the OAL is appropriate, and, for this reason, declines petitioners' request to withdraw their petition. However, neither can the Commissioner, in good conscience, rule on the merits of a matter when she is uncertain of her authority to do so.

Ordinarily, the Commissioner would resolve a dilemma of this type by remanding the matter to the OAL for the necessary threshold determination, deferring any ruling on the substantive findings and conclusions of the Initial Decision – if appropriate – until resolution of the underlying jurisdictional question.[7] In the present instance, however, no useful purpose would be served by compelling further proceedings, since the election petitioners seek to void has been rendered a nullity by the Board's decision to hold a new election – granting, in effect, the very relief sought by petitioners.

[7] See, for example, Board of Education of the Lenape Regional High School District v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner on March 21, 2006; Board of Education of the Lenape Regional High School District v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner on April 25, 2006; and Board of Education of the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District v. New Jersey State Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner on May 2, 2006.

Accordingly, the Commissioner being loath to decide the merits of a matter over which her jurisdiction is in question and petitioners' dispute having been mooted by the Board's own actions, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected and the Petition of Appeal dismissed for reasons set forth herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

GRANTING MOTION TO DISMISS

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8171-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 336-9/06

MICAH RASMUSSEN, DANIEL ZOROVICH, GERALD NATHANSON, DIANE STERNER AND MARC COVITZ, Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UPPER FREEHOLD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

Micah Rasmussen, Daniel Zorovich, Gerald Nathanson, Diane Sterner, and Marc Covitz, petitioners, pro se

Viola S. Lordi, Esq., for respondent (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Record closed: November 29, 2006 Decided: January 16, 2007

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners Micah Rasmussen, Daniel Zorovich, Gerald Nathanson, Diane Sterner and Marc Covitz filed a Petition of Appeal (P-1) seeking to set aside and not further consider the results of a bond referendum held during a special election of the respondent school district on December 14, 2004. Respondent Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education has submitted a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal in Lieu of an Answer (R-1) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-l.5(g), contending that the Petition of Appeal must be dismissed in view of the mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65. N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65 requires that all challenges to the election results of a bond referendum proposal must be commenced within 20 days of the election. Because the Petition of Appeal in this matter was filed more than 20 months after that date, respondent contends that the Petition must be dismissed as a matter of law.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 11, 2006, for hearing as a contested case. In the transmittal, the Department of Education requested that a threshold determination be made on the jurisdiction of the Commissioner. Accordingly, a schedule for the submission of legal arguments on respondent's motion to dismiss was established and, after such submissions were received from the parties, the record closed on November 29, 2006.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioners are residents of either the Borough of Allentown or the Township of Upper Freehold, New Jersey. As is stated in the Certification of Dr. Robert E. Smith, respondent's Interim Superintendent, in Support of Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal in Lieu of an Answer dated October 3, 2006, ¶2 (R-2), these municipalities collectively make up the school district which is governed by the Board of Education.

It is undisputed that on December 14, 2004, a special election was held before the legal voters of the school district with respect to a referendum proposal. (R-2, ¶3). The proposal sought the voters' determination as to whether or not the Board of Education should:

> * * * undertake an enrollment driven, school facilities renovation and expansion project entailing (1) the construction of a new grades 5-8 middle school on an approximate 40-acre site on Ellisdale Road in Upper > Freehold Township to be purchased by the Board of Education, and (2) the construction of physical plant and educational renovations at the existing elementary school and the programmatic conversion thereof from a grades pre K-8 to a grades pre K-4 school. (R-2, ¶4, Exhibit A).

As part of the proposal it was explained to the voters that:

> * * * [t]he State has awarded the project a $6,412,705 State grant, representing 16.5% of the overall project cost. The School District "local share" is $32,586,196, representing the remaining 83.5% of the project cost. Assuming voter approval of the project, the Board of Education intends to finance the "local share" through a long-term school bond financing.

As indicated in the Certification of Dr. Smith (R-2), ¶5, Exhibit B, on December 14, 2004, the voters approved the referendum proposal by a vote of 1,118 to 986. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65, the voters had 20 days until January 3, 2005, to contest the results of the election before the vote was "conclusively presumed to be due authorization for the issuance of bonds." Notwithstanding the fact that the 20-day statutory deadline for challenging the results of the election has long-since passed, petitioners filed their Petition of Appeal on September 13, 2006, to "request that the results of the referendum be set aside." The Petition was filed more than 20 months beyond the statutory deadline.

In the Petition it is alleged that during a public meeting on June 28, 2006, school district officials acknowledged that prior to the election the school district was aware of but failed to disclose to voters the presence of dieldrin contamination on the proposed school site. The public records concerning the referendum reveals no disclosure of the school district's knowledge of this contamination. The petitioners contend that this failure to disclose a serious material defect of the site denied voters the right to make an informed decision on the referendum and disenfranchised them from their right to cast an informed vote. Despite this deficiency and several requests for a new referendum, school district officials have declined to authorize a new referendum.

Petitioners contend that the voters and taxpayers of the school district have no present responsibility and/or liability for the contamination and/or remediation of the site, but are being obligated to assume both without their informed consent. Petitioners argue that since the site has not yet been acquired and since remediation has not yet begun, setting aside the referendum would prevent the taxpayers from being exposed to responsibility and/or liability for this remediation without their informed consent.

In a subsequent document filed with the OAL on November 17, 2006 (P-2), the petitioners sought to make additions to their pleadings. In that document, the petitioners further contend that: (1) the free exercise of voters was effectively denied by the school district's nondisclosure of its knowledge of the material defects of the land it was seeking voter approval to acquire; (2) the school district's nondisclosure constituted a contrivance that impeded, prevented and interfered with the free exercise of voters elect the franchise; (3) since the referendum in question referred solely to land acquisition and construction, environmental remediation and acquisition of contaminated land are not true purposes of the matter voted upon; (4) environmental remediation and acquisition of contaminated land are both "new purposes" that require a new approval by the voters and the Department of Education in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-16; (5) school district taxpayers are being denied equal protection of the laws because of the school district's failure to conform to N.J.A.C. 6A:26-7.1; (6) funds should be withheld from the school district by the Department of Education because the Department's approvals were granted based upon erroneous and incomplete information.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Respondent first argues that the Petition should be dismissed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g) because petitioners have "advanced no cause of action even if [their] factual allegations are accepted as true. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10(a). Procedurally, such a dismissal is similar to that granted in response to a motion to dismiss under Rule 4:6-2(e) of the Rules Governing the Courts of the State of New Jersey for "failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted."

In order to determine the legal sufficiency of the facts alleged on the face of any initial pleading for the purposes of Rule 4:6-2(e), the pleading must be analyzed "to ascertain whether the fundament of a cause of action may be gleaned even from an obscure statement of claim." Printing Mart-Morristown v. Sharp Electronics, Corp., et al., 116 N.J. 739, 746 (1989). Where an initial pleading states no basis for relief, dismissal is appropriate. See Village Supermarket, Inc. v. Mayfair Supermarkets, Inc., 269 N.J. Super. 224 (Law Div. 1993) (dismissing complaint under R. 4:6-2(e) as complaint was void of any factual and/or legal support).

Similarly, a petition filed before the Commissioner of Education, which fails to state a claim, must also be dismissed as a matter of law. Sloan ex rel. Sloan v. Klagholtz, 342 N.J. Super. 385, 394 (App. Div. 2001).

Respondent contends that the petitioners in this matter make a series of claims, without any basis in fact or law. Yet, even if petitioners' allegations are true and supported by facts, the claim they make is barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65 and, thus, must fail as a matter of law for that reason alone.

I consider respondent's motion to be a straightforward motion to dismiss based on the petitioners' failure to comply with the statutory deadline for challenging the validity of the December 14, 2004, special election. I will first consider N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65 which provides:

> No action to contest the validity of any proceeding or election authorizing the issuance of any bonds, held in connection with any such authorization, or the application of the proceeds of any such issue to a purpose other than those for which the bonds were issued, shall be commenced after the expiration of 20 days from the date of the institution of such proceedings or the holding of such election or the action in connection therewith forming the subject matter of such contest. Thereafter, the proceedings shall be conclusively presumed to be due authorization for the issuance of the bonds.

The basis for the requirement that actions to contest the validity of a public question must commence within 20 days after the date of the election is that "[t]he legislature has deemed it advantageous to the public welfare to limit reasonably the time within which the validity of school district elections authorizing the issuance of bonds can be controverted." See, Welsh v. Board of Education of Tewksbury Tp. et al., 7 N.J. Super. 141, 143 (App. Div. 1950), referring to N.J.S.A. 18:7-89 (repealed), the predecessor statute to N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65. By establishing this requirement, the Legislature has provided certainty in the enforceability of any debt issued pursuant to an approved ballot. By establishing this time limit the Legislature recognized the importance of ensuring that purchasers of bonds know that the debt authorization will not be revoked subsequent to the making of the loan.

The referendum was approved by the voters of the school district in an election held on December 14, 2004. (R-2, ¶5 and Exhibit B). Thus, under the statute, any challenge to contest the validity of the referendum must have been filed on or before Monday, January 3, 2005, which is 20 days after the election. N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65. The petition in this matter, filed on September 13, 2006, more than 20 months after the statutory deadline for challenging the results of the referendum, "request[s] that the results of the referendum be set aside and not further considered. . ." I CONCLUDE that application of the statute requires that, even if each of the allegations stated in the Petition are deemed true, the result of the referendum cannot not now be challenged. See, Hardy v. Ruhnke, 47 N.J. 10, 20 (1966) (Referendum cannot be challenged 18 months after the election).

I will now consider the additional arguments made by the petitioners to determine if there is any basis for disregarding the clear requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65. Petitioners argue that the referendum vote of December 14, 2004, should be set aside, and rely on N.J.S.A. 18A:24-84 stating that the Act authorizing the issuance of bonds by boards of education, Laws of 1971, Chapter 36, "shall be liberally construed." However, this language does not support their position. The rule is settled in this State that election laws are to be liberally construed to effectuate their purpose. Dreamer v. Jones, 42 N.J. 516, 521 (1964). The purpose of the Act that should be effectuated may be discerned from the balance of the provision relied upon by petitioners. It provides:

> This act shall be liberally construed. Its provisions shall be deemed severable in any case where such severability will not tend to defeat its purpose. No defect, error or omission in any matter of form or substance shall in any way affect the validity and binding obligation of any bond issued hereunder, and the Division of Local Finance is authorized, in any such case, to issue an order validating any bonds to be issued after the discovery thereof, in any respect in which there may be such defect, error or omission, if it is satisfied that the same is not substantial or prejudicial, or upon a curing or correction of the defect, error or omission. [N.J.S.A. 18A:24-84]"

Thus, the purpose of the Act is not to defeat the validity of an election, but to protect the validity and binding obligation of any bonds issued pursuant to an election held under the Act, and to authorize the validation of any such bonds from any defects, errors or omissions that are not substantial or prejudicial or that are cured. Id. This purpose is entirely consistent with and supportive of the language found at N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65 which requires that any action to contest the validity of the election be filed within 20 days, and thereafter. Therefore, I FIND that the mandate for liberal construction of the Act does not support petitioners' claims.

I likewise FIND that the cases cited by petitioners do not support their position. The Court in Sharroch v. Borough of Keansburg, 15 N.J. Super. 11 (App. Div. 1951), refused to invalidate a referendum election even though the county clerk failed to include on the ballot the explanatory statement required by the statute. The Court refused to overthrow the express will of the voters who voted in favor of the proposal. Id. at 19-20. Also, in In re Atlantic County Bd. of Education, 117 N.J. Super. 244, (App. Div. 1971), the Court refused to invalidate the results of an election for technical reasons. The point of these cases is that election results will not be overturned lightly since they express the will of the voters.

Petitioners make the further argument that the expenditure of bond proceeds for site cleanup and remediation are "new purposes" and that N.J.S.A. 18A:24-51 requires a new referendum and other approvals. However, I agree with respondent that this provision does not require a new referendum, and I so FIND. Rather, it authorizes a board of education to conduct such a referendum if the board "shall determine, by resolution, that all or any part of the proceeds of school bonds...are not necessary for the purpose or purposes for which the bonds were issued..." If the board makes no such determination, a referendum need not be held.

I also FIND that the language of the referendum proposal in question for "construction" of a new grades 5-8 middle school on a site "to be purchased" is sufficient to encompass site cleanup and remediation incidental to such construction as an improvement of the site. See N.J.S.A. 18A:24-5.a. which specifically includes the improvement of the site for the acquisition or construction of buildings as a project for which bonds may be issued. In addition, while I have been unable to find any court or administrative decisions which are on point, and while the Local Bond Law has no applicability to the present proceeding, its provisions found at N.J.S.A. 40A:2-12 are of some assistance. Under that law, municipalities and counties of this State are authorized to adopt bond ordinances appropriating funds for capital improvements and to issue bonds for such funding. N.J.S.A. 40A:2-12 requires the bond ordinance to contain in substance, "a. an authorization . . . stating in brief and general terms sufficient for reasonable identification the purpose or purposes for which the obligations are to be issued. . ." Dolan v. Borough of Tenafly, 75 N.J. 163, 170-171 (1977). So, in Matlack v. Burlington Cnty. Freeholder Bd., 191 N.J. Super. 236, 252-253 (Law Div. 1983), a bond ordinance authorizing the purchase of conservation easements was construed to allow the purchase of Pineland Development Credits (PDCs) as incidental to and derivative from the acquisition of conservation easements, even though PDCs are not mentioned in the bond ordinance. Based on this additional guidance, I FIND that the referendum proposal in this matter is sufficient as a brief and general statement of the purpose for which the obligations are to be issued and is properly construed to encompass site cleanup and remediation.

I have reviewed the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:26-7.1 (b)1.vii, and I agree with respondent and FIND that it is not applicable in this matter. This only applies to a district required to use the New Jersey Economic Development Authority for school construction. Since respondent school district is not required by N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5(a) to use the Authority, this provision is not applicable to support any alleged equal protection violation claim.

Finally, petitioners make a general assertion that the respondent school district provided erroneous and incomplete information to the Department of Education. Petitioners assert that respondent incorrectly indicated that the land is designated for growth under the State Development and Redevelopment Plan, that the area is consistent with local wastewater management plans and that it is not subject to other environmental laws or regulations. Respondent contends that the petitioners claim must fail because they have not alleged noncompliance with the regulations as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:26-14.1(a).

Even if petitioners' assertions are true, I FIND that the providing of erroneous and incomplete information to the Department of Education has no effect on the validity of the referendum vote of December 14, 2004. I FIND that the only method available to attack the validity of the approval of the Department of Education based on the allegations that respondent provided erroneous and incomplete information is to challenge the Department's approval. I FIND that there are no factual allegations supporting this assertion and it must fail on that additional basis.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the additional arguments put forth by the petitioners are insufficient to disregard the clear mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:24-65, and that the Petition of Appeal must be dismissed as a matter of law.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the discussion stated above, I hereby ORDER that respondent's motion to dismiss the Petition of Appeal is hereby GRANTED, and the Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: January 30, 2007 Decided: January 30, 2007

BEFORE J. HOWARD SOLOMON, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 20, 2006, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for January 30, 2007. The parties appeared and agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

THE DERON SCHOOL OF NEW JERSEY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning private school for the disabled appealed the Department's determination to disallow the cost of increased pension benefits – paid under the school's Social Security Integration Pension Benefit plan – from its final approved tuition rate for the 2002-2003 fiscal year. The Department acted on audit findings showing that benefits paid to four of petitioner's employees – totaling $8,778 – did not meet the equitable standard of distribution required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23. Petitioner argued that these benefits had been fully disclosed in previous audit reports over many years, and the Department's failure to disallow them previously was relied upon as tacit approval that the integrated pension plan conformed to the regulations.

The ALJ concluded, inter alia, that: the Social Security Integration Pension Benefit is a non-allowable expense because it is not equitably distributed; the Department did not use its power to interpret its own regulations as a means for amending the regulations; laxity in enforcement of a regulation does not prevent subsequent enforcement; and equitable estoppel can only be invoked against a public entity to prevent manifest injustice. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Department's disallowance of $8,778 from petitioner's final approved tuition rate for 2002-2003.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's analysis and conclusions; adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL for the reasons clearly stated therein; and dismissed the instant petition.

THE DERON SCHOOL OF NEW JERSEY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Department's reply thereto – filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced below with respect to its contention that the respondent should be equitably estopped from enforcing N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23 against it to preclude costs associated with the school's Social Security Integration Pension Benefit. It is determined that petitioner's exception submission raises no credible expostulation which could serve to call into question the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) thorough Initial Decision examination and discussion in this regard and, therefore, further presentation of and elaboration on petitioner's proffered arguments is unnecessary.[1]

[1] It is noted that petitioner's exceptions additionally charge that this matter was inappropriately decided on summary decision as there are "disputed issues of material fact that must be resolved prior to the entry of a summary decision." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) Such a position, at this point in time, is – at the very least – curious, given that this matter was decided on cross motions for summary decision. As pointed out by respondent – "instead of opposing the Department's Motion for Summary Decision altogether by arguing that factual disputes in this matter required disposition via an evidentiary hearing, the School only filed a cross-motion arguing its case as a matter of law." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 5)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's Initial Decision analysis and conclusions. She, therefore, finds that the $8,778 in Social Security Integration Pension Benefits paid by petitioner to its employees during the 2002-03 school year is a non-allowable fringe benefit pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23 which must be excluded from the calculation of the school's certified actual cost per pupil for that period.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons clearly stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: December 1, 2006 Decided: January 19, 2007

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Deron School of New Jersey Inc. II (the "Deron School" or "School") is a state-approved private school for learning disabled and handicapped children. The Deron School's costs, plus a 2.5% profit, are reimbursed by the State. To be more precise, a private school for the disabled receives tuition payments from the sending school's board of education. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2.

Approximately twenty-five years ago, the Deron School's Board of Directors adopted a pension plan that was integrated with Social Security. As a result, those employees' whose annual salaries exceeded the "integration level" received increased pension benefits. This benefit is known as a social security integration pension benefit.

For at least seven years, the Deron School disclosed its social security integration pension benefits to the Department of Education (the "DOE") in its audited financial statements. In letters dated from 1998 to 2004 and signed by James Verner, the Section Supervisor of the Office of Fiscal Policy and Planning of the DOE accepted and approved the Deron School's audited financial statements.

On July 6, 2004, Anthony Hearn, Manager of the DOE's Office of Compliance Investigations, issued a fiscal monitoring report for the period beginning July 1, 2002 through June 30, 2003. Subsequently, the DOE found that the Deron School's use of social security integration was improper. In the Findings and Recommendations section of its report, the DOE found that due to the social security integration, the pension contributions calculation of four of the Deron School's directors exceeded the same benefit made available to all other full-time employees by 5.7% of their earnings, and did not conform to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23. The DOE stated that N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23 requires an equitable standard of distribution that is attainable for all full-time employees in order for a fringe benefit to be considered an allowable cost in the calculation of the actual cost per pupil. The audit determined that the $8,778 paid to those employees who received the benefit must be excluded from the calculation of the July 1, 2002 to June 30, 2003 certified actual cost per pupil.

On or about August 11, 2004, the Deron School appealed the July 6, 2004 fiscal monitoring report to the Director of the Office of Compliance Investigations. On or about September 16, 2004, the Deron School also appealed the fiscal monitoring report to the Deputy Commissioner of the DOE of Education. Both appeals were denied. Now, the Deron School appeals the DOE's finding that its social security integration pension benefits are non-allowable fringe benefits under N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23. The Deron School further contends that the DOE's new interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23 constitutes new rulemaking, which required the DOE to comply with the public notice and comment requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act ("APA"). In addition, the Deron School asserts that the DOE should be estopped from disallowing the cost of the school's use of social security integration pension benefit in light of its history of permitting the practice for more than two decades.

NON-ALLOWABLE FRINGE BENEFITS

Petitioner argues that the Department erroneously characterized the social security integration pension benefits cost as a non-allowable "fringe benefit".

The section which petitioner contends has been misconstrued is N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(23) which in the years 2002 to 2003 read as follows:

> (A) Costs that are not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per student include the follow:
> i. When the benefits are determined in an arbitrary or capricious manner rather than on an existing written uniform policy based on an equity standard of distribution, such as years of service or education; and > ii. When the fringe benefit has not been adopted by the School Board of Directors at a Board meeting prior to the implementation of the benefit documented in the Board minutes and the employers are not made aware the policy;

Petitioner argues that the rules of construction used to interpret statues requires that the two subsections above which are separated by the conjunctive word "and" should be read to require all of the elements of (i) and (ii). The petitioner argues as follows:

> Thus, in order for a cost to be considered a nonallowable, fringe benefit, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(23)(in effect during the > 2002-2003 school year) requires the presence of the following five elements:

> > (1) The benefit be determined in an arbitrary or capricious manner: (2) the benefit is not an uniform policy based on an equitable standard of distribution; (3) the benefit was not adopted by the school Board of Directors prior to its implementation; (4) the adoption of the benefit was not recorded and (5) the employers are not aware of the policy.

Petitioner contends that since the Deron School's Social Security Integration Pension Plan does not meet all five of the requirements, it can not be a non-allowable fringe benefit. The DOE contends that the interpretation propounded by petitioner would render an illogical result not contemplated by the State Board of Education. Construing the Administrative Code provision pursuant to the argument of petitioner would lead to a conclusion that a school could have a benefit that is determined in an arbitrary or capricious manner and then have it adopted by the School Board's Directors at a meeting prior to the implementation of the benefit and documented in the Board minutes thereby qualifying it for treatment as a allowable cost. This interpretation defeats the purpose of the provision. The Court in Bergen Commercial Bank v. Sissler, 307 N.J.Super 333 (App. Div. 1998) Aff'd. 157 N.J. 188 (1999) aptly recognizes the dilemma:

> We are mindful of the twin and sometimes conflicting principles of statutory interpretation. First, we have a duty to apply the Legislative intent as expressed in the statute's language, and . . . not presume that the Legislature intended something other than what it expressed by its plain language. Another principle is that the surest way to misread a rule or statute is to read it literally while ignoring the overall Legislative intent. Accordingly, we tried to read the statute reasonably.

A reading of this code provision "reasonably" a reading which is in fact fortified by a subsequent amendment eliminating the "and" between the clauses leads to the inescapable conclusion that benefits which are determined in an arbitrary or capricious manner are fringe benefits that are not allowable.

Petitioner rejects the case of Y.A.L.E. School North Inc. v. New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Compliance Investigation, EDU 4356-04, Initial Decision (April 1, 2005), Adopted Comm'r. of Educ. (May 18, 2005) in which the Commissioner Education determined that higher pension contributions to higher earning employees did not conform to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23(i) and are to be disallowed from the calculation of the actual certified cost per pupil charged to public schools sending students to Y.A.L.E. The Y.A.L.E. decision was decided after the amendment eliminating the "and" from the code provision but its pronouncements by the Commissioner are dispositive. The Commissioner's pronouncement in Y.A.L.E. is compelling and controlling. The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that Y.A.L.E.'s pension plan was a non-allowable expense since it failed to meet the "equitable standard of distribution" requirement of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(23)(i) because of the manner in which employees of different salary levels were treated with respect to employer pension contributions. The Commissioner stated that Y.A.L.E.'s plan, which is quite similar to Deron's plan, ". . . clearly had the effect of favoring a small number of highly paid employees". The Commissioner elaborated by saying that such a disparity did not meet the requirements for equitable distribution and that disallowing its inclusion in the tuition costs is consistent.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION INTERPERTATION OF THE CODE PROVISION IN QUESTION CONSTITUTED NEW RULE MAKING

Petitioner argues that the Department's non-allowable costs determination is null and void because it is the product of unauthorized rulemaking in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. (APA). Petitioner argues that the Department's action falls within the six factors used to determine whether an Agency's action constitutes Administrative Rulemaking thus requiring compliance with the procedures set forth in the APA citing MetroMedia Inc. v. Director of the Division of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 331-332 (1984).

Generally, a state agency has the authority to amend, change, or repeal its regulations, especially in response to changing conditions. County of Hudson v. Dep't of Corrections, 152 N.J. 60, 72 (1997). See Dougherty v. Dep't of Human Servs., 91

N.J. 1, 10 (1982) ("[T]he Legislature has delegated to the agencies the authority to adopt, revise and enforce implementing regulations . . . ."). The APA, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to - 25, provides the way in which an agency can amend existing regulations. Thus, under the APA, a state agency may amend or change an existing regulation by following the same notice and comment procedures that it used to adopt the regulation in the first place. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-4. As a result, "[a]n agency may not use its power to interpret its own regulations as a means of amending those regulations or adopting new regulations." Bessler & Company v. Bradley, 361 N.J.Super. 168, 173 (App. Div. 2003) (quoting Venuti v. Cape May County Constr. Bd. of Appeals, 231 N.J.Super. 546, 554 (App. Div. 1989)). See also 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 3.25, at 158 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta, & Patricia Prunty) (2d ed. 2000) (footnotes and citations omitted) ("An agency may not interpret its rules in such a way as to amend those rules without complying with the Administrative Procedure Act.").

The evidence presented by Deron establishes that for at least of period of 25 years, the school had included social security integration pension benefits in its cost per pupil calculation. Deron argues that since the cost was never questioned by the Department, the School had the right to reasonably rely on what they considered the school's interpretation of social security integration benefit as an allowable cost. By not allowing the cost, it is argued that the Department has departed from its previous interpretation of the code provision which violates the APA.

The Department contends that although it failed to discover the instances of noncompliance during the reasonable course of its monitoring of the school, it does not prevent them from making this finding once it is discovered. Intertwined with the argument concerning rulemaking is the contention that the doctrine of "equitable estoppel" should be applied even if there was no new rulemaking.

The doctrine of equitable estoppel provides that "one shall not be permitted to repudiate an act done or position assumed where that course would work injustice to another who, having the right to do so has detrimentally relied thereon." Anske v. Borough of Palisades Park, 139 N.J.Super. 342, 348 (App. Div. 1976) (citations omitted). The general elements required to invoke an equitable estoppel defense require the party to "show that the alleged conduct was done, or representation made, intentionally or under such circumstances that it was both natural and probable that it would induce action. Further, the conduct must be relied on, and the relying party must act so as to change his or her position to his or her detriment." Miller v. Miller, 97 N.J. 154, 163 (1984) (citations omitted).

New Jersey law holds, however, that the defense of equitable estoppel should rarely be invoked against public entities. Cipriano v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 151 N.J. Super 86, 91 (App. Div. 1977). Furthermore, equitable estoppel may only be invoked against a public entity to prevent manifest injustice. W.V. Pangborne & Co. v. N.J. Dep't of Transportation, 116 N.J. 543, 554 (1989); Vogt v. Borough of Belmar, 14 N.J. 195, 205 (1954).

In New Jersey, cases have been brought against municipalities and counties when they have attempted to enforce a residency requirement against public employees, who for years have worked for these public entities while residing outside of the required area.[1] The common thread that runs through these cases is the principle that a public entity will be estopped from enforcing an ordinance where the court finds evidence of the public entity's "studied policy not to enforce" the ordinance. Communications Workers of America v. Treffinger, 291 N.J. Super. 336, 359 (Law Div. 1996). The court found a "studied policy not to enforce" exists where there is evidence of the public entity's official knowledge of violations of the ordinance coupled with its non-enforcement of the ordinance. Id. at 336.

"Laxity" in enforcement, however, is insufficient to warrant a finding of a "studied policy not to enforce" an ordinance or regulation. Newark Council No. 21 v. James, 318 N.J.Super. 208, 217 (App. Div. 1999) (citation omitted). Therefore, a public entity's lax enforcement of ordinances and regulations does not give rise to an equitable estoppel defense. For example, in Holy Name Hospital v. Division of Medical Assistance and Health Servs., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (DMAHS) 36, ALJ Masin found that the alleged lax enforcement of a regulation did not suggest equitable estoppel should apply to a state

> [T]he circumstances of this case, which involves claims for services by a provider which filed late in contravention of the already existing regulation, purportedly in part due to the lax enforcement by the agency of the rule, does not rise to the level of such extreme circumstances as would suggest [equitable estoppel] should be applicable here.

Here, the Deron School contends that the DOE should be estopped from disallowing the cost of the school's use of social security integration pension benefits in light of its history of permitting the practice for more than two decades. The Deron School disclosed its social security integration pension benefits to the DOE in its audited financial statements, and from 1998 to 2004 the DOE accepted and approved the Deron School's financial statements. As indicated by the School, it was not until the DOE's Office of Compliance Investigations issued a fiscal monitoring report for the 2002-2003 school year that the DOE informed the Deron School that its use of social security integration was improper.

For all intents and purposes, the Deron School estoppel argument mirrors the estoppel argument set out in the residency requirement cases. In the residency cases, the public employees asserted the municipalities and counties should not be able to terminate them because they had been allowed to work for a number of years without the requirement being enforced against them. Nevertheless, despite the municipalities' or counties' lax enforcement of the existing ordinance, equitable estoppel was found to be inapplicable to the situation.

Equitable estoppel may only be invoked against a public entity to prevent manifest injustice. Here, it would appear that barring the School from passing on the cost of its social security integration pension benefits to the sending school districts is not a "manifest injustice" because the School was not induced to integrate its pension system with Social Security because of some action or statement made by the DOE.

In actual fact, the Deron School's board of directors adopted a pension plan that was integrated with social security almost twenty-five years ago. The regulation (formerly N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4, now N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5), which set forth that certain fringe benefits and pension costs were not allowable costs in the calculation of tuition, became effective on September 4, 1984 years after the Deron School's board of directors adopted its integrated pension plan. 16 N.J.R. 2358 (September 4, 1984). In addition, it was not until December 17, 1990 that the regulation was amended to require fringe benefits to be rooted in "an existing written uniform policy based on an equitable standard of distribution" so that they were reimbursable as tuition. 22 N.J.R. 3739 (December 17, 1990). Accordingly, the School's equitable estoppel argument should fail because it has not "detrimentally relied" on the DOE's purported non-enforcement of the regulation. Instead, the School had its integrated pension benefits system in place years before the DOE even proposed N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)23.

CONCLUSION

The social security integration pension benefit is a non-allowable expense because it is not equitably distributed.

The State Board of Education did not use its power to interpret its own regulations as a means for amending the regulations or adopting new regulations but had been "lax" in the enforcement of the regulation which does not prevent subsequent enforcement.

Equitable estoppel does not apply because the Agency never failed to enforce the regulation though they knew it was violated preventing the doctrine from being applied. Equitable estoppel can only be invoked against a public entity to prevent manifest injustice. Not allowing the school to pass on the cost of its social security integration pension benefit does not equal a "manifest injustice".

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the State Board's Motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED and that the Board's direction to Deron to exclude $8,778 in Social Security Integration Pension Benefits from the certified actual cost per pupil for the physical year ending June 2003 is AFFIRMED.

It is further ORDERED that petitioner's Cross Motion for Summary Decision is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon an independent and comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge – for the reasons presented in her decision – that petitioner's claim here is time-barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). She further agrees with the ALJ that even assuming, arguendo, that the instant Petition of Appeal had been timely filed, at no time during her service as a vice-principal in various District schools from September 18, 2000 through June 30, 2004 – the last day she served as an administrator in the District – did petitioner possess the requisite certification "in full force and effect" to achieve credit towards tenure in that position.[1] (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5)

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL granting summary decision to the District is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner claims tenure in the position of vice-principal and contends that the Board terminated her employment in violation of the law. Respondent Board filed a motion for summary decision, based on petitioner's failure to timely file her petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's appeal, filed in May 2005, is time barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i); an August 2004 letter from the Board rescinding petitioner's contract provided adequate notice to petitioner that her right to tenure as a vice-principal was in dispute; petitioner offered no reasonable explanation why her appeal was untimely filed. Further, the ALJ found that petitioner did not hold the appropriate certification, during the time that she worked as a vice-principal, to obtain tenure in that position. The ALJ concluded that there is no material issue of fact that would require a hearing in this matter, and granted the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge – for the reasons clearly presented in her decision – that petitioner's claim is time-barred, and that petitioner did not at any time during her service as vice-principal possess the requisite certification "in full force and effect" to obtain tenure in that position. The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

Record Closed: January 23, 2007 Decided: February 2, 2007

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 10, 2006 the petitioner, (Michelle T. Clanton or Ms. Clanton), filed a petition with the Department of Education alleging that her tenure rights had been violated. After requesting an extension of time to file its response, the respondent, (the State-operated School District of the City of Newark or Newark), filed its answer on June 2, 2006. The matter was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 9, 2006. It was scheduled for a hearing on December 5, 2006. However, after discussions with the parties, it was decided that the respondent would file a motion for Summary Decision on December 21, 2006. The petitioner filed her brief in opposition to the petitioner's motion on January 22, 2007. The respondent filed its reply brief on January 23, 2007.

ISSUES

1. Can the matter be decided on Summary Decision?
2. Did the petitioner obtain tenure?
3. Did the petitioner file her petition in time?
4. Did the respondent violate the petitioner's tenure rights?

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. Michelle Clanton began working as an elementary school teacher for Newark in September, 1998. She continued in this position until May 1, 2000, when she was appointed as a Resource Teacher Coordinator.
2. On September 18, 2000 Ms. Clanton was appointed Interim Vice-Principal at Gladys-Hillman-Jones Middle School. She served in this position until May 1, 2001.
3. On May 16, 2001 she was appointed as Vice Principal at the school. She worked there for the 2001-2002 school-year.
4. On or about August 6, 2002 the petitioner was transferred to Roberto Clemente School as Vice Principal. She served in that position for the 2002-2003 school-year.
5. On July 30, 2003 Ms. Clanton was told that she was reassigned as Vice Principal of the McKinley School.
6. On August 7, 2003 she was advised that the July 30 letter was rescinded and that she would remain at the Roberto Clemente School for the 2003-2004 school-year.

7. On or about August 21, 2003 Ms. Clanton was advised that she was transferred to the position of Vice Principal at the McKinley School. She served in that position for the 2003-2004 school-year.
8. On May 14, 2004 Newark sent Ms. Clanton a letter stating that her employment contract for 2004-2005 would not be renewed.
9. On May 25, 2004 the respondent sent another letter to Ms. Clanton informing her that the non-renewal letter had been rescinded and that she should return to her position as Vice Principal.
10. On May 28, 2004 the petitioner and respondent entered into a contract effective May 1, 2004 for the period August 11, 2004-June 30, 2005.
11. On August 5, 2004 Ms. Clanton was informed by the respondent that her contract as Vice Principal was rescinded due to excessive absenteeism and tardiness. She was offered an assignment of Resource Teacher/Coordinator or Elementary Teacher.
12. In September 1998 Ms. Clanton was issued a Certificate of Eligibility as Principal/Supervisor.
13. In June 2004 the Petitioner acquired a Provisional Certificate as a Principal/Supervisor.
14. In July 2004 Ms. Clanton was issued a Standard Certificate to serve as a Principal.

DISCUSSION

1. STANDARD FOR SUMMARY DECISION

In accordance with the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.12.5, any party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. To grant a motion for summary decision, it must be examined whether "the papers and discovery...together with the affidavits...show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

A motion for summary decision is similar to summary judgment found at R. 4:46-2. The motion for summary judgment "shall be served with briefs, a statement of material facts, with or without supporting affidavits." R. 4:46-2(a). "The statement of material facts shall set forth in separately numbered paragraphs a concise statement of each material fact as to which the moving party contends there is no genuine issue, together with a citation to the portion of the motion record establishing the fact or demonstrating that it is uncontroverted." Ibid.

The Supreme Court has held that, when deciding a motion for summary judgment:

> [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.
> Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

The burden is on the moving party to exclude all reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the moving party and in favor of the non-moving party. Saldana v. DiMedio, 275 N.J. Super. 488, 494 (App. Div. 1994). Thus, the critical question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 533.

II. Filing of Petition

There are specific regulations that have been promulgated regarding the process for initiating a contested case before the Commissioner of Education.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) specifically addresses the time in which a petitioner must file a petition of appeal:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal. Id.

The ninety-day requirement has been strictly construed. See Riely v. Board of Ed. of Hunterdon Central Regional High School Dist., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980).

The purpose of the limitations period is two fold. First, it "[s]timulates" litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims." Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993) (citing Ochs v. Federal Ins. Co., 90 N.J. 108, 112 (1982)). "The second purpose is 'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose' by giving security and stability to human affairs." Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 587 (quoting Farrell v. Votator Div., 62 N.J. 111, 115 (1973)).

Decisions addressing N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and its predecessor, N.J.A.C., 6:24-1.2(c), have held that the regulation is mandatory and that the ninety-day time period begins to run on the date notice is received of the action taken. McCrea v. Upper Saddle River Board of Education, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 817 (1995). The New Jersey Supreme Court has stated that the notice provided must be adequate. Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 587. "[A]dequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Id. Additionally, "adequate notice under the regulation must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period." Id.

The petitioner has argued that the "District's August 5, 2004 letter was not a 'final order, ruling, or other action' sufficient enough to provide notice to Ms. Clanton that the District was rescinding her position as Vice Principal due to a denial of tenure." Ms.

Clanton asserted that the recession, according to the plain terms of the District's letter, had nothing to do with a final determination as to Ms. Clanton's tenure rights, but rather was based upon excessive absenteeism and tardiness.

The petitioner's argument is not reasonable. If Ms. Clanton had obtained tenure, as she contends, then Newark could not strip her of tenure simply by writing her a letter. She had to have realized that it was Newark's position that she did not have tenure and therefore they could remove her from the vice-principal's position and place her back in the classroom. Certainly, Ms. Clanton had adequate notice from the August 5, 2004 that her right to tenure as a principal was in dispute. As Newark pointed out, Ms. Clanton received no other notice from Newark regarding this issue. Eventually, it was on the basis of that August 5 letter that Ms. Clanton filed her petition.

The petitioner has given no reason why she delayed until May 2005 to file her petition. Instead she argued that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 provides:

> the rules in this chapter shall be considered general rules of practice to govern, expedite and effectuate the procedure before, and the actions of the Commissioner in connection with, the determination of controversies and disputes under the school laws. Where such rules do not reflect a specific statutory requirement or an underlying rule of the OAL, they may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner, in the Commissioner's discretion, in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary and may result in injustice.

Ms. Clanton equates her situation to that of the petitioner in Eisenberg v. Board of Education of the Borough of Fort Lee, 2003 WL 23643569 (N.J. Adm.2003). Eisenberg was a case in which the petitioner alleged that, at the time he received his notice that his contract would not be renewed, he did not know that he might have a claim for intentional wrongdoing on the part of the Board. The information, alerting him to the existence of such alleged facts, was not known to him until three months later. The facts in this case are not analogous to Eisenberg. A litigant has a certain responsibility to determine if her rights have been violated. Certainly, the August letter was sufficient to alert her that she might have a cause of action and that she should investigate the matter. Inexplicably she waited eighteen months to file a petition. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner's claims are time-barred.

While this disposes of the claim, it is important that the issue of Ms. Clanton's right to tenure should also be explored.

II. Acquisition of Tenure

Teachers and other related staff including principals in New Jersey have a statutory right to tenure provided they meet certain requirement. Zimmerman v. Newark Board of Education, 38 N.J. 65, 70-72 (1962), cert. den. 371 U.S. 956 (1963). The criteria under which teachers achieve tenure are outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 which provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members ... which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holder of a proper certificate in full forced and effect, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency . . . after employment in such district or by such board for:
> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding year; or
> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years . . .
>

A "teaching staff member" is defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 as:

> . . . a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualification, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, > position or employment, issued by the state board of examiners and includes a school nurse. [Emphasis added].[1]

In order to achieve tenure, the petitioner must meet the following conditions: (1) work in a position for which a principal's certificate is required; (2) hold the appropriate certificate; and (3) serve the requisite period of time. Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). As the respondent pointed out, the petitioner did not possess, during the period of service as a vice-principal, the requisite certification "in full force and effect" to achieve credit towards tenure. Ms. Clanton did not acquire a Provisional Certificate until June 2004 and was not issued her Standard Certificate as a Principal/Supervisor until July 2004. Ms. Clanton argued that it was necessary to take testimony to determine why a mentor was not assigned to her upon her receipt of a Certificate of Eligibility and what measures the District undertook to allow Ms. Clanton to complete the program that was necessary in order for her to obtain a provisional certificate. If Ms. Clanton believed that she should have been assigned a mentor earlier, then she had a responsibility to pursue that at that time. The language of the statute is plain regarding eligibility for tenure and Ms. Clanton did not hold the appropriate certificate, during the time that she worked as a vice-principal, to obtain tenure.

The petitioner further argued that:

> the years in which Ms. Clanton served as a vice principal with her Certificate of Eligibility should be tacked and counted towards tenure since her service during those years was in the same area of endorsement as the standard certificate issued in July 2004. In this respect, a teaching staff member who has obtained a Certificate of Eligibility should be treated the same as someone who possesses an emergency certificate.

However, there is nothing in the statute or case law that supports this position. As the court pointed out in Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 72: In order to acquire tenure, "a teacher must comply with the precise conditions articulated in the statute." Based on this standard, the ALJ in Joanne McAneney v. Board of Education of the School District of the Chathams, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 208 (1991) found that a teacher, who taught for 13 years, but did not have the proper instructional certificate, had not attained tenure. The decision was affirmed by the Commissioner who concurred that "the petitioner did not possess the appropriate certificate for service as a supplemental teacher and, therefore, did not meet the precise requirements for acquiring tenure set forth in Spiewak, supra. See also Jennings v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, 1989 S.L.D. (St. Bd. Feb. 28, 1989) in which an athletic trainer who taught health courses without the proper health education endorsement was denied tenure. The qualifications for an emergency certificate are clearly spelled out in N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.3. Ms. Clanton does not meet the qualifications for an Emergency Certificate and therefore her Certificate of Eligibility does not allow her to count time served in a position before she obtained her Standard Certificate.

[1] A standard certificate is a "permanent certificate issued to candidates who have met all requirements for State certification." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.1. A provisional certificate is "a temporary one-year certificate issued to candidates who have met requirements for initial employment as part of a State approved district training program or residency leading to standard certification." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.2. An emergency certificate is "a substandard one-year certificate issued only in the field of educational services, teacher of the handicapped, teacher of the blind and partially sighted, and teacher of the deaf and hard of hearing." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.3.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based on the briefs, exhibits and certifications submitted, I CONCLUDE that there is no material issue of fact that would require a hearing. Therefore, the matter can be decided on Summary Decision.

I further CONCLUDE that Ms. Clanton's claim is barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Finally, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not acquired tenure under the terms of the statute.

I therefore ORDER, that the Ms. Clanton's petition for relief be denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." P.R.R., on behalf of her minor child, S.M.R., ("petitioner") filed a residency appeal to the Commissioner of Education for the removal of the enrollment of S.M.R. in the Neptune Township Middle School by the Neptune Township School District. The matter was transferred from the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on November 1, 2006, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A hearing was scheduled before the undersigned judge for January 31, 2007. On January 29, 2007, counsel for the respondent filed a motion seeking dismissal of this appeal as moot. On January 29, 2007, P.R.R. orally advised this office that she was withdrawing her appeal and would send a letter confirming the withdrawal. This office never received her written confirmation of withdrawal. Based upon her oral representation, I FIND that this case is now moot since there are no outstanding issues, and the matter should be withdrawn.

It is therefore ORDERED that the case be WITHDRAWN.

DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

The record of this matter, including the audiotape of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed. [1]

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons fully set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner in this matter has not met the standard for grant of emergent relief. Crowe v. DeGioia, supra; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the Order of the OAL – denying petitioner's application for immediate removal of D.E.H. from the math class to which she has been assigned without otherwise altering her class schedule – is adopted for the reasons expressed by the ALJ. The underlying appeal on the merits, should petitioner wish to pursue it, shall proceed at the OAL as determined by the ALJ.

BEFORE JAMES W. FAISON, III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner seeks to compel respondent (hereafter "BOE") to remove her daughter from her currently assigned mathematics class due to alleged incompatibility with the teacher and misconduct of included students in the class.

Petitioner states that her daughter has lost honor status, is depressed and has expressed suicide ideation.

Petitioner submitted a Petition to the Commissioner of Education, undated, but received February 5, 2007, seeking emergent relief in this matter. The matter was transmitted without an answer to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case on February 23, 2007. March 1, 2007, oral argument was held and some limited testimony was taken. At the conclusion of the hearing, the record remained open to permit opposing counsel to file closing briefs with respect to the application for emergent relief.

For the purposes of deciding the application for emergent relief, the following facts are deemed to be undisputed.

D.E.H. is twelve years old and a sixth grade student at Memorial Upper Elementary School (Memorial) in the Willingboro School District. This is her first year at Memorial. Prior to her attendance at Memorial, she had been enrolled in the Program for Academically Talented Students (PATS). She is no longer enrolled in that program.

At the commencement of the school year, D.E.H. was assigned to a class that also contained "included" (classified) students. D.E.H. complained to petitioner that her grades were declining due to the inability of her mathematics instructor to properly convey the educational material and the misconduct of the included students in the class. D.E.H. is not classified.

Because of concerns regarding her daughter's health and education, petitioner requested BOE to remove D.E.H. from the mathematics class only.

Contrary to the Petition filed by petitioner, BOE has not refused to move D.E.H. Memorial utilizes a "team" process. The students in a class remain together and

Contrary to the Petition filed by petitioner, BOE has not refused to move D.E.H. Memorial utilizes a "team" process. The students in a class remain together and circulate to different classrooms for instruction. BOE agreed to move D.E.H. to a different team or a different homeroom. Petitioner rejected BOE's offer because she wanted the mathematics class only changed. She wants D.E.H. to remain with her other teachers. Petitioner objects that D.E.H. would be required to attend class with other included students if moved as offered by BOE. She wants D.E.H. in a class that does not have included students.

Not as part of the undisputed facts, BOE contends that D.E.H. is having trouble in other classes with other teachers.

Petition states that D.E.H. is undergoing therapy. However, that is inaccurate. D.E.H. is on a waiting list for therapy and the type of therapy is not specified, although the Petition alleges that D.E.H. is depressed and has talked about suicide.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Petitioner claims that D.E.H. is suffering damage that will result in irreparable harm if some relief is not granted. In support of her claim for emergent relief, she cites standards set by the New Jersey Constitution (art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1), the federal Individuals with Disabilities Improvement Act of 2004 (20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq. [IDEA]) and the holding in Hamel v. State, 321 N.J. Super. 67 (A.D. 1999).

Both parties acknowledge that the standard for determination of an application for emergent relief is found in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(a) provides for the granting of emergency relief where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case. In such circumstances, emergent relief pending a final decision may be ordered upon the application of a party. Subparagraph (f) of this section provides that temporary relief may be granted if there is a finding that immediate and irreparable harm will probably result, if there is the likelihood that the moving party will prevail, and if the relief is as limited in scope and as temporary as possible.

The foregoing regulation embodies the principles of law announced by the court in Crowe v. DeGioia (supra). These legal principles may be summarized as follows:

(1) Emergency relief should not issue except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be addressed adequately by monetary damages. In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief. Pecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or the right of the affected.

(2) Emergency relief should be withheld when the legal right underlying the claim of the requesting party is unsettled.

(3) Emergency relief should not issue where all material facts are controverted. Thus, to prevail on an application for emergency relief, the party requesting the relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. That requirement is tempered by the principle that mere doubt as to the validity of the claim is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo. The point of emergency relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition when the final decision is issued, as they were when the litigation began.

(4) The final test in considering the granting of emergency relief is the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief. The relief granted should be no broader than necessary to preserve the status quo pending a full hearing on the merits.

Petitioner's letter to the state Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, states, ". . . my child has become depressed with thoughts of suicide. She is in therapy." Petitioner's Request for an Emergency Relief Hearing states, "She (D.E.H.) had become frustrated with this situation, but has now gone into depression. My daughter has had thoughts of suicide from this ordeal." There is no doubt that a twelve year old in depression and verbalizing thoughts of suicide could lead to irreparable harm if the child is maintained in the same condition that gave rise to those circumstances. If attendance in her present mathematics class is the cause, then change is warranted.

However, petitioner sends mixed signals. D.E.H. is not in therapy, as stated in the Petition, but on a waiting list. More than six weeks prior to the date of hearing, BOE offered to move D.E.H. from the math class and particular included students that petitioner finds offending. If petitioner prevented BOE from moving D.E.H. out of the circumstance which caused thoughts of suicide, question arises as to the credibility of petitioner's assertions. Attendance at therapy was misstated and, although a treating doctor is referenced, no medical opinion as to depression was provided. That is not to say that a parent's observation of changed behavior in a child should be disregarded, but the overstated assertions by petitioner cause concern that she maybe utilizing elevated rhetoric to attain her goal to have D.E.H. moved to another mathematics class.

Whether clinical depression and/or suicide ideation are health concerns for D.E.H. require a broader hearing to determine the factual and medical circumstances. In the absence of such factual determination, I FIND that petitioner has failed to establish the requirement of irreparable harm in this matter.

As to the requirement that the right underlying the claim of a requesting party must be settled, it is clear that each school district is obligated to provide a thorough and efficient education to of all children residing in its school district. N.J. Const. (1947), art. VIII, § 1, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. To carry out this policy, local boards of education have been granted discretionary authority at N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1c and d, to adopt rules for the management of the public schools of the district and to perform all acts and do all things necessary for the lawful and proper conduct of the public schools of the district.

The primary legal considerations in this matter are very much couched in settled law. That settled law does not favor the request of the petitioner.

(1) D.E.H. is not a classified student and BOE does not need parental consent to move her to another class.

(2) Petitioner's effort to have D.E.H. removed from any class that has included students is contrary to the law of this state and federal circuit. BOE has delayed removing D.E.H. from her current class only because of the objection of petitioner and the pendency of the hearing for emergent relief. That delay (restraint) was not required and the move cannot be prohibited by petitioner absent good cause.

Further, petitioner's challenge of the use of the "TEAM" system is her mere assessment. She has not provided professional and/or expert opinion that the educational concept is inappropriate. In general, a board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions are unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. of Montgomery Township, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 (citing Schnick v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Township, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962)). The "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" standard of review imposes a heavy burden on challengers of board actions. This standard has been defined by the New Jersey Courts as follows:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is no room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached . . . Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an > administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling.

> [Piccoli v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, OAL DKT. EDU 1839-98 (January 22, 1999) (citing Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dept. of Envir. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).]

In the absence of a clear showing of abuse of discretion, the Commissioner of Education will not substitute his or her own judgment for that of the Board of Education. Massaro v. Bd. of Educ. of Boro of Begenfield, 1965 S.L.D. 84, 85. In Kopera v. Board of Education v. West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), the Appellate Division stated, "the well established rule that action of the local board which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently without rational basis or induced by improper motives." See also G.M. v. Roselle Park Boro Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 107, 109 (where the Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ when in a challenge to the board action, the ALJ stated, "It is the management prerogative of boards of education that will not be usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taken in bad faith without a rational basis."). As long as the record reflects a rational basis for the action, as well as an absence of bad faith, a board's action should be upheld. In the G.M. case, supra, the ALJ, after a full hearing, found the board's decision to change geographic boundaries for kindergarten pupil placement, with a goal of evenly distributing the pupils at different schools within the district, to be a reasonable exercise of authority.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that the right underlying petitioner's claim is settled against the petitioner's position. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner has failed to establish the right to relief in the absence of a full evidentiary hearing showing that the action of respondent is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The third factor is the most difficult requirement for a moving party to establish in order to show entitlement to emergency relief. In order to prevail on the application for emergency relief, the party requesting the relief, the parent in this matter, must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. If the point of emergency relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition of the final decision as when this matter began, it must be established by the moving party that she will probably win on the merits. It is with respect to this that petitioner has the greatest difficulty.

Petitioner must show that respondent's actions in this matter are arbitrary and capricious and unreasonable. However, petitioner's claim can only be established after a full hearing because of the presumption that respondent's actions are correct. Petitioner must show that respondent's actions violated petitioner's rights by failing to remove D.E.H. from her current mathematics class into a class that contains no included students. However, petitioner has not shown such a settled right and, in fact, the settled law does not favor petitioner's demand. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner has failed to show the likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

The final test in considering the granting of emergency relief is the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying the relief in order to preserve the status quo pending a full hearing on the merits. While neither party specifically addressed this factor, it appears clear that any hardship which may result will fall upon petitioner and D.E.H. rather than upon respondent school district. I so FIND.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing, for the purposes of deciding this application for emergency relief, petitioner has failed to establish the existence of irreparable harm, that petitioner's claim is based upon a settled right or that petitioner is likely to prevail on the merits. In view of the fact that petitioner has failed to establish three of the four requirements for emergency relief, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's request should be DENIED.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergency relief seeking to compel BOE to transfer D.E.H. into class that does not contain included students is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: March 6, 2007 Decided: March 7 , 2007

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

On September 27, 2005, petitioner, a Principal employed by respondent, filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) contesting action by respondent withholding an increment for the 2005-20006 school year. Subsequent to an extension, respondent filed an answer on November 9, 2005. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on January 3, 2006 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Scheduled hearing dates were adjourned at the requests of the parties for various reasons, the matter was reassigned to this judge, during the proceedings, and telephone and settlement conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. The parties ultimately reached a resolution of the matter. An executed Stipulation of Settlement and Release (Stipulation) was initially filed on January 31, 2007. Subsequent to communications in that respect, a certified copy of a Resolution issued by respondent approving the Stipulaiton was filed on on Februry 7, 2007; and a newly executed Stipulation, on March 6, 2007, on which date the record was closed. Attached herewith are copies of the latter two documents.

Having reviewed the terms of the Stiuplation, I FIND that the parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms and conditions of the settlement, as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon, and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the Stipulation and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

RECEIVED
2007 MAR 9 P 12:15
STATE OF N.J.
OFFICE OF ADMIN. LAW

WHEREAS, the East Orange Board of Education ("the Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the East Orange School District; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Robert Morgan currently is employed by the Board as Principal on Special Assignment; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 28, 2005, the Board withheld Dr. Morgan's employment and adjustment increment for the 2005-06 school year; and

WHEREAS, on or about September 26, 2005, Dr. Morgan filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the increment withholding; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 7, 2005, an Answer and Affirmative Defenses was filed on behalf of the Board; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 10, 2005, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, where it was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Diana C. Sukovich; and

WHEREAS, the parties, wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, upon approval by the Court and the Commissioner of Education;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Increment to be Restored

On or about June 28, 2005, the Board acted to withhold Dr. Morgan's employment and adjustment increment for the 2005-06 school year. Commencing July 1, 2007, Dr. Morgan will be placed on the appropriate step of the salary guide as if the aforesaid increment withholding had not taken place so long as Dr. Morgan receives satisfactory evaluations during 2005-06 and 2006-07 school years and no further complaints by students, staff or parents are substantiated against him.

2. Release

In exchange for the above consideration, Dr. Morgan, and his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, officers, administrators, agents, employees, attorneys, and their successors, heirs and assigns, including, but not limited to any claims for attorneys fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any claims involving tax liability stemming from this settlement, and any claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retaining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq. as well as Dr. Morgan's right to enforce the terms of this agreement.

2. Withdrawal of Litigation

Upon approval of this agreement by the Board, Dr. Morgan agrees to withdraw with prejudice the above captioned litigation.

3. Board Approval

The Board President is authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board of Education.

4. Assent to Terms

Respondent hereby acknowledges that he entered into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that he was fully informed of the implications of this agreement by his counsel. Respondent also enters into without duress of his own free will and volition.

Respondent acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and seven (7) days from the execution of this document to revoke this Agreement by delivering written notification to Stephen J. Edelstein, Esq., 10 James Street, Florham Park, New Jersey 07932. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Respondent will not be entitled the entire consideration described herein.

5. Entire Agreement

This Agreement represents the entire understanding of the parties and may be modified only in a subsequent written instrument, duly executed by the parties. No other representations of any kind shall be binding upon the parties.

6. Severablility

In the event that a court or agency of competent jurisdiction shall deem any part of this Agreement to be contrary to law, then the remaining portions of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

7. Governing Law

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

PETITIONERS,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the Board's residency determination that their nephew, N.P., was not eligible for a free education in the Morris Hills Regional School District. N.P. has resided with his aunt and uncle since the fifth grade. His parents, however, reside in India, where his father is in business.

The ALJ found that N.P.'s parents do not have a permanent home in the district, and neither D.P. nor M.P. is the legal guardian of N.P. Therefore, this situation does not meet the eligibility criteria set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1; nor does it satisfy the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)1.i, as the petitioners have not claimed or established any family or economic hardship and have not set forth competent evidence that N.P. is residing with them for any reason other than receiving a free public education. The ALJ concluded that N.P. is ineligible to attend respondent's schools, and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the cost of tuition from September 14, 2006 through the date of issuance of the final decision, at the rate of $78.23 per day, together with post-judgment interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions set forth by the ALJ. The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and M.P. and D.P. are directed to reimburse the Board for tuition as set forth therein. The Commissioner noted that a request for post-judgment interest is premature, as the timeline for the granting of such begins subsequent to the issuance of this decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were received from the parties.

For the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision. The Commissioner agrees that N.P. is ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's district, and that respondent is due from petitioners a tuition reimbursement for the days that N.P. has attended school in its district - i.e., from September 14, 2006, through the date of the issuance of this decision - at the rate set forth in the Initial Decision, $78.23. Any request for post-judgment interest is premature, as the 60-day timeline relative to the granting of this interest does not even begin to run until the Commissioner renders her decision in the instant matter. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

N.P., who resides with his aunt and uncle M.P. and D.P. (petitioners), contends that he is entitled to attend school within the Morris Hills Regional School District (District) because M.P. and D.P. are domiciled in the District and are his legal guardians. The school residency law in New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1 and 3.2, provides that public schools shall be free for a student who is living with a parent or guardian whose permanent home is located within the school district; or for a student kept in the home of a person other than the student's parent or legal guardian (1) where that person is domiciled in the district, and (2) where the parent or guardian has sworn that he or she is not capable of supporting or providing care for the student due to family or economic hardship and that the student is not residing with other persons solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education. The District denied the request for admission of N.P. because of the failure to satisfy either of these requirements, and petitioners appeal. The issues in petitioners' appeal are whether N.P. has met either eligibility requirement so as to entitle him to admission in the District's high school. I conclude that he has not, and, therefore, the District is entitled to tuition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 12, 2006 petitioners filed a pro se residency appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") from the District's September 6, 2006 denial of the request for admission of N.P. Following the filing of the District's Answer and Counterclaim on October 10, 2006, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The OAL filed it for hearing and determination as a contested case on November 8, 2006. I heard the matter on January 30, 2007 and closed the record on February 14 upon the receipt of briefs and after giving petitioners an opportunity to respond to additional information provided by the District after the conclusion of the hearing.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Background

D.P. and M.P. testified as well as Manuel E. Deus, Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the District. The following background facts are undisputed, and I FIND them to be FACTS of this case:

The District operates two regional high schools for students from four constituent elementary school districts that have their own elementary and middle school programs. One year ago the District began to require residency information from all entering ninth graders regardless of how they were treated in elementary school.

M.P. and D.P. are the uncle and aunt of N.P., who has entered the ninth grade in the District. N.P. has resided with them since the fifth grade in their home in Dover, New Jersey, which is within the District. N.P.'s parents, P.P. and R.P., reside in Navsari, India where the father is in business. Although N.P. was born in the United States, his family moved back to India when N.P. was six-months old, where he resided until the fifth grade.

N.P. began attending the District's high school on September 14, 2006, six days after the start of the school year. The annual tuition rate for 2006-07 is $14,083 or $78.23 per day.

Factual discussion

On June 15, 2006 M.P. and D.P. submitted an "Affidavit of Resident" to the District on behalf of N.P. where they made the following representations: D.P. was identified as N.P.'s "legal guardian;" N.P. is not living with his parents "because parents live in India and he desires to study here, also because of his health condition;" neither parent is capable of caring for or providing support for N.P. and N.P. will be residing with M.P. and D.P. "due to family business they live in India"; N.P. will not be residing with M.P. and D.P. for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education in the District; his parents do not currently pay any of the costs of maintaining him; no one will claim N.P. as a dependent for federal income tax purposes.

On August 26, 2006 N.P.'s parent P.P. submitted an "Affidavit of Parent/Guardian" to the District where he made the following representations on behalf of both parents: D.P. and M.P. are N.P.'s legal guardians; N.P. is not living with his parents "because he desires to study at USA, also his health condition is better in USA"; they are not capable of supporting or providing care for N.P. due to family or economic hardship, because "his health in India, does not stay healthy"; N.P. lives with his parents "every other year" for "4 to 5 weeks" per year; none of his expenses are paid by any charitable agency. N.P. provided no home or work telephone number as requested on the form. He also failed to answer the questions as to whether N.P. will or will not be residing with D.P. and M.P. for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education in the District and whether the parents would be paying any of the costs of maintaining N.P. while he resides with his aunt and uncle.

Petitioners submitted a document to the District entitled "Declaration For Guardianship" signed by parents R.P. and P.P. in India and notarized by an advocate and notary. In this document, R.P. and P.P. represent that they are the parents of N.P. who lives in Dover, New Jersey. They also represent. "We hereby give full guardianship of our son [N.R.P.] to [S.M.N.P.] and [D.M.P.] who are residing at New Jersey in America. They are ready and willing to accept the guardianship of our son for his further studies." D.P. testified that this document does not confer legal guardianship of N.P. to him and M.P. under Indian law because it was only notarized and never presented to a judge or endorsed by a judge. An Indian judge would have entertained the guardianship application only if D.P. and M.P. and the child had been present, which they were not. D.P. further acknowledged that no guardianship proceeding has occurred in the United States. He also reiterated the answers on the two Affidavits.

As to the issue of N.P.'s health condition mentioned in the Affidavits, D.P. testified that, whereas N.P. suffered from asthma in India from vehicular pollution, he has not encountered this problem in the United States and is not currently under treatment. He presented no medical verification of this condition or of a preclusion from N.P. living in India. To the contrary, N.P.'s elementary school health history and appraisal record of October 8, 2002, taken upon N.P.'s arrival, reflects that there is no disease history for Asthma. In an Athletic Pre-Participation Physical Examination Form signed on November 11, 2006, D.P. answers "no" regarding N.P. to the question, "Have you had or do you currently have ... a chronic or ongoing illness (such as diabetes or asthma)?" These documents are an exception to the hearsay rule in that they constitute admissions against interest as well as statements of then existing physical condition and statements for the purposes of medical diagnosis or treatment.[1]

D.P. had provided the District with a copy of the NJ FamilyCare Eligibility Card for N.P. reflecting health insurance coverage he had obtained for N.P. through the State of New Jersey. He indicated that N.P. could not be covered under his insurance, because N.P. is not his child, but that he could have covered him if he had had court-ordered guardianship of N.P., which he did not. The card instructs that "You (or your Parent, Legal Guardian, or Representative) must sign this card on the line above Beneficiary's Signature." Deus had contacted a representative of NJ FamilyCare and inquired whether only a parent or legal guardian could procure such insurance. He learned that anyone could obtain the coverage so long as premiums were paid. D.P. testified however that the State, rather than he, pays the premiums. D.P.'s testimony is inconsistent with the statement on the parents' affidavit that none of N.P.'s expenses are paid by any charitable agency. This Eligibility Card is not competent evidence of guardianship. The hearsay statement of the NJ FamilyCare employee corroborates the card itself, which allows a "representative" in addition to a "parent" or "guardian" to procure it. Moreover, D.P.'s own testimony reveals that he had to obtain this type of health coverage for N.P. because he lacked the proper guardian status for eligibility under his own insurance.

Based upon a review of the totality of the evidence, and having had the opportunity to assess the demeanor and credibility of the witnesses, I make the following additional FINDINGS of FACT:

[1] The District presented these documents after the conclusion of the hearing but before the record closed. Petitioner declined to respond to the District's request that I consider these documents, despite being afforded an opportunity to do so. As these documents are relative to the issues in dispute, I have made them part of the record.

The Declaration For Guardianship presented by the parents, by D.P.'s own admission, does not confer legal guardianship on D.P. and M.P. under either Indian or New Jersey Law. D.P. and M.P. accordingly are not the legal guardians of N.P.[2] N.P.'s parents are not incapable of providing care for N.P. due to a family or economic hardship. They claim no such hardships in their Affidavit. Indeed, R.P. is in business in India. There is no competent evidence that N.P. is medically unable to reside in India with his parents. N.P. is living with D.P. and M.P. solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the District. This purpose is evident from the parents' own Affidavit For Guardianship which recites that the aunt and uncle are "willing to accept the guardianship of our son for his further studies [emphasis added]." It is also telling that the Declaration For Guardianship is silent as to any medical basis for D.P. and M.P. undertaking the care of N.P.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

In New Jersey public schools are free for children so long as they meet certain residency requirements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides eligibility in two alternative ways as follows in pertinent part:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and > support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, ... and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. ... If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. ... If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. ...

[2] Guardianship is conferred upon application to a County surrogate. N.J.S.A. 3B:12-12-23. The application process must be in accordance with New Jersey Court Rule 4:81. Neither D.P. or M.P. nor the parents of N.P. have initiated guardianship proceedings in accordance with New Jersey law or the rules of court, and no Letters of Guardianship meeting the requirements of law have been presented in this proceeding. See N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a)(3) and (8) requiring the production of court orders.

For the purpose of applying subsection (a) of the statute, the regulations of the Department of Education provide that a student is domiciled in the school district when he is with a parent or legal guardian whose permanent home is located within the school district. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1. Since N.P.'s parents do not have a permanent home within the district, and, since neither D.P. nor M.P. is the legal guardian of N.P., I CONCLUDE that he is not entitled to a free public education in the District under subsection (a).

Subsection (b) of the statute entitles a free education under certain circumstances to a student living with someone domiciled in a district other than a parent or guardian if that other person is supporting the student without remuneration as if the student were his or her own child. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2. However, such eligibility does not exist where the parties fail to validly establish that the parent or guardian is not capable of supporting or providing care for the student due to family or economic hardship, and that the student is not residing with the other person solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)1.i. I CONCLUDE that N.P. is not entitled to a free public education from the District under subsection (b) because there is neither a claim nor proof of a family or economic hardship. To the contrary, the reason stated on the parents' "Declaration of Guardianship" for having N.P. live with D.P. and M.P. was "for his further studies."

As petitioners have not provided any other basis whereby N.P. would be entitled to a free public education in the District, I CONCLUDE that N.P. has been, and continues to be, ineligible to attend a District school, since the beginning of the 2006-07 school year. I further CONCLUDE therefore that the District is entitled to reimbursement for those days that N.P. has attended the District's school from September 14, 2006 until the Commissioner issues her Final Decision at a rate of $78.23 per day.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the petition is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and it is further ORDERED that the District's counterclaim for tuition is GRANTED and that petitioners shall pay to the District tuition for the 2006-07 school year at a rate of $78.23 per school day starting from September 14, 2006, together with post judgment interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners appealed the decision of the NJSIAA Controversies Committee – affirmed by the NJSIAA Executive Committee – which found that petitioners had engaged in athletic recruitment in violation of Article V, Section 4D of the NJSIAA bylaws. As penalty for this violation, petitioners' boys' basketball team and its coach were placed on probation, and disqualified from tournament competition, for a period of two years. The Pennsauken Township Board of Education (Pennsauken) intervened in this controversy as the case involved the transfer of three out-of-state affidavit students into LEAP Academy University High School (LEAP) immediately after their registration in Pennsauken schools. Two of the three students went on to become key players on LEAP Academy University Charter School's boys' basketball team; the third was admitted to LEAP, but never attended after inquiries from Pennsauken's athletic director revealed that the student had been declared academically ineligible and was under suspension from his former high school in New York State. Subsequent inquiries on the two other players revealed that both had been declared academically ineligible in their former states. All three students in question had been enrolled in Pennsauken schools based upon alleged guardianship by two Pennsauken residents who had close ties to the LEAP basketball program.

Petitioners aver: that the NJSIAA Executive Committee based their decision upon findings of fact that are not supported by the record; that the Executive Committee's conclusions are erroneous, that the final NJSIAA decision is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; that due process was denied them; and that the NJSIAA inappropriately exceeded its jurisdiction and authority by requiring a charter school to scrutinize the familial relationships of affidavit students and their legal guardians.

The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's findings and conclusions and denied petitioners' appeal, noting, inter alia, that: respondent's findings of fact are supported in the record; petitioners' were accorded the process that they were due; NJSIAA did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner; and the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of NJSIAA where due process has been provided, and where there is adequate basis for the decision finally reached. The Commissioner further found that the penalties imposed upon petitioners were appropriate to the violations found by the NJSIAA Controversies Committee and affirmed by the NJSIAA Executive Committee.

This matter was opened by way of a petition filed on December 8, 2006. Respondent's answer and statement of items comprising the record were submitted on December 20, 2006. On December 28, 2006, the Pennsauken Board of Education moved to intervene. On January 4, 2007, the record was filed with the Commissioner. After considering all parties' submissions regarding the intervention motion, the Commissioner granted same on January 12, 2007, and set a schedule for the remaining briefs. All papers allowed by the briefing schedule were filed as of February 1, 2007.[1] Subsequently, on February 15, 2007, petitioners moved for emergent relief. That motion was denied on February 26, 2007.

BACKGROUND

Petitioner LEAP Academy University Charter School (LEAP) obtained its charter and opened a grammar school in 1997. It expanded in 2004, adding grades nine through twelve. The purpose of the LEAP Academy is set forth in its charter's mission statement:

> The mission of the LEAP Academy University Charter School is to enhance opportunities for the children and families of Camden through the collaborative design, implementation, and integration of education, health and human services programs and through community development.

As counsel for petitioners stated during the hearing before the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) Controversies Committee (the Hearing), the funding for LEAP is provided by the district(s) of residence of its students. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-12, these districts pay to the charter school – for the students who reside in their districts but attend LEAP – 90 % of the program budget per pupil for the specific grade level in the district or 90 % of the maximum T&E amount, whichever is lower.

It is undisputed that in 2004 – the year that LEAP added a high school – it launched a boys' basketball program. A review of exhibits in the record reveals that in the Autumn of the following year – i.e., on October 31, 2005 – an eleventh grader from Maryland, C.G., enrolled in the Pennsauken school district based upon the alleged guardianship of Pennsauken resident Tamara Hidalgo, the mother of a LEAP basketball player. No evidence of any prior close ties between Hidalgo and C.G. has been offered by petitioner. Subsequent inquiries by Pennsauken's athletic director, William Wright, established that before C.G. arrived, he had become academically ineligible to compete under Maryland's eligibility rules. One day after enrolling in Pennsauken, C.G. transferred to LEAP. He was accepted despite the fact that he held slot #20 on the waiting list.

About three weeks after C.G. appeared in Pennsauken, another out-of-state student, L.J., registered in Pennsauken. L.J., a twelfth grader from Georgia, was enrolled based upon the alleged guardianship of Pennsauken resident Robert Davis, an individual who consistently attended LEAP team practices and sat on the bench with the LEAP coach at games. Petitioner presented no evidence that there was any prior significant connection between L.J. and Davis. Wright eventually learned that two days before L.J. arrived in Pennsauken, he had been declared ineligible to compete in Georgia. L.J. transferred to LEAP on the same day that he registered in Pennsauken. He was accepted despite the fact that he held slot #9 on the LEAP waiting list.

One month later – on the afternoon of January 25, 2006 – Pennsauken's football coach, Reginald Lawrence, saw the LEAP basketball coach, petitioner Marco Morcos, arrive at the Pennsauken High School by car. Another car arrived shortly thereafter, out of which a tall young male and a woman emerged, and joined Morcos in his car. The woman subsequently left the car and entered the school; Morcos drove away with the young male.

Lawrence related what he saw to the Pennsauken basketball coach and – subsequently – to Wright, the athletic director. Upon checking with the guidance office, Wright learned that D.C., a male student from Rochester, New York, had been registered in Pennsauken by his mother on the day in question, based upon the alleged guardianship of Robert Davis – the same person purported to be L.J.'s guardian. Petitioners have presented no evidence of prior connection between D.C. and Davis. D.C. transferred out of Pennsauken High School the next day and his application was accepted by LEAP on February 3, 2006.

When Wright called the athletic director of the school D.C. had attended in Rochester, he discovered not only that D.C. had been declared academically ineligible to compete in New York, but that he had also been suspended from school. Wright then sent a letter to the NJSIAA outlining the information about D.C. On February 10, 2006, Robert W. Baly, Assistant Director of the NJSIAA, wrote to LEAP's chief school administrator, Stephanie Branch, Ed.D., advising that there may have been recruitment violations in connection with the enrollment of D.C. at LEAP. Correspondence in the record indicates that within five days of Baly's letter, D.C. backed out of his registration at LEAP and allegedly returned to Rochester.

The LEAP basketball team did very well in the season during which the above referenced students joined it. The record contains articles in the Courier Post that attributed the team's victories to the performances of L.J. and C.G., the youths from Maryland and Georgia. Further, examination of the 2005-2006 LEAP basketball team roster eventually provided to the NJSIAA by the charter school revealed that of 23 basketball players, less than half resided in Camden, the district which LEAP is intended to serve. This is in contrast to LEAP's general student body, eighty-percent of whom reside in Camden.

Although asked to, LEAP did not provide information about any general student body members who had transferred to LEAP from out-of-state. The rationale provided by LEAP was that any out-of-state student would be required to register in a New Jersey district before applying to LEAP. The Commissioner notes, however, that LEAP would have been able to spot out-of-state students by checking the information in their files pertaining to the last school that a student had actually attended and the institution(s) that would have had to have been contacted to obtain their transcripts.

As referenced above, by way of a letter dated February 10, 2006, LEAP was put on notice by Baly that it may have violated Article V, Section 4D of the NJSIAA bylaws,[2] which addresses athletic recruitment. That provision states:

> The granting of "athletic scholarships," free tuition, or other assistance of monetary value at any level is forbidden when there is evidence that such grant was offered to induce a student to attend a school for athletic reasons.
> (1) The total value and dignity of the individual should not only guarantee to all an equal opportunity to participate in athletics, but should also preclude any excessive emphasis on the importance of athletics.
>
> (2) The proselytizing and recruiting of grammar school students for athletic reasons is strictly forbidden.
>
> (3) Such proselytizing and/or recruiting shall be understood as attempting to induce a student to attend a particular school for athletic reasons by means of:
>
> a. Mail, in the form of letters and brochures, news media, comparing high schools and contrived to point out the assets of the sender, and sending district;
>
> b. Proselytizing interviews, initiated by school personnel or associates, and often further aggravated by the offering of an "athletic scholarship" either from the school directly or indirectly through some affiliated body or individual;
> c. Recruitment by Student-Athletes to attend a school for athletic reasons, with the knowledge of that school's administration.

The February 10th letter from Baly also asked LEAP to provide the following information by February 24, 2006:

2 For purposes of this decision, all references to the NJSIAA Handbook will refer to the 2005-2006 Handbook, unless otherwise indicated.

> [A] list of all members of your varsity, junior varsity and freshman basketball teams and an explanation as to why these students came to LEAP Academy, from what school they came, how long they were at the sending district, and how long they have been at LEAP Academy. We also want to know your admissions procedures and whether the admittance of these students violated your "lottery system."

Finally, the letter advised that a hearing by the "Controversies and Disputes Committee" (the Committee) might be required.

On March 17, 2006, the NJSIAA sent notice to LEAP that a hearing before the Committee would take place on March 31, 2006. As of March 21, 2006, LEAP still had not provided the information that NJSIAA had requested on February 10. Eventually LEAP obtained legal representation and the March 31 hearing date was adjourned to allow LEAP's counsel time to review the matter. The hearing was held on May 16, 2006.

At the hearing, the Committee noted with disappointment that Branch – who was LEAP's chief school administrator during the relevant period of time – did not appear. LEAP's counsel stated that Branch's absence was due to her employment status, which was "in question." In Branch's place, LEAP produced Wanda Garcia, a Rutgers employee who served as a liaison between Rutgers and the Chairperson of the LEAP Board of Trustees.

Garcia described the priority system for admitting students into LEAP. In accordance with the LEAP charter, students who are already attending LEAP have first preference, their siblings have second preference, Camden residents on the waiting list are considered next, and students on the non-Camden resident waiting list are considered last. The Committee found Garcia's testimony about the actual application of the admissions process for the 2005-2006 school year to be contradictory. For example, at different points in her testimony she both testified that there was no waiting list for eleventh and twelfth graders, and that there were waiting lists for all the grades. The Commissioner further notes that exhibits in the record indicate that there were waiting lists for all grades at the LEAP high school.

In describing LEAP admissions in general, Garcia testified:

> We are public schools. So, we got [sic] to take in anyone that [sic] comes in. Once they get into the school, we check their records. If there's something that doesn't seem, you know, right, then [sic] we go back to the sending district and send that student back. (NJSIAA Controversies Committee Hearing Transcript, p. 103[3])

This testimony is in contrast to the record, which lacks evidence that LEAP examined the basketball players' backgrounds with any degree of care.

Finally, Garcia testified that D.C. was never admitted to LEAP. The Committee found, to the contrary, that D.C. was admitted, but declined to enroll.

Petitioner Morcos also testified before the Committee on May 16, 2006. He contended that he was unaware of the three out-of-state players' ineligibility to compete because he was not allowed to check the transcripts of students transferring from different schools. The Committee found this assertion at odds with the NJSIAA procedures for permitting transfer students to compete.

Pages 73-75 of the NJSIAA handbook (the Handbook) discuss the NJSIAA's transfer rules, and the transfer waiver form. That form (an example of which is set forth on page 152 of the Handbook), must be completed by the administrators (including athletic directors) of the "previous" and "present" schools of transferring students. The form requires parents to agree to the submission to the NJSIAA of their child's transcripts and other pertinent school records.

Morcos testified that he filled out this waiver form for his transferring athletes, thereby certifying that he was satisfied that they had not been recruited and had not transferred for athletic advantage. Thus, Morcos' claim of ignorance of the students' backgrounds suggests that he either failed to review records which were supposed to be available, or that he knowingly signed forms with false representations.

When asked about his meeting with D.C. and D.C.'s mother at the Pennsauken High School, Morcos acknowledged taking D.C. to lunch while the mother registered the youth. The Committee found this to be highly suggestive of a cooperative effort by Morcos and Davis, the alleged "guardian" of D.C., to "have D.C. enrolled at LEAP Academy as a freshman basketball player, by using Pennsauken High School as a New Jersey 'sending district'." (Committee Decision, p.11) It further concluded that Morcos knew that Davis' professed "guardianship" of two basketball players was not an act of altruism, but rather a means of creating a conduit for moving outstanding out-of-state athletes through Pennsauken and into LEAP's basketball team.

Finally, the Committee found Morcos' credibility to be poor. They found, for example, that he was involved in the application for a Katrina Victim waiver for L.J. (ie: waiver of the waiting period for out-of-state varsity players), even though L.J. had not been living in an area affected by Katrina. They also found, as mentioned above, that he was aware of L.J.'s and C.G.'s ineligibility in their respective states of origin when he let them play.

Before issuing its decision, the Committee asked LEAP for further information, including D.C.'s application documents, and an itemization of the districts of residence of all LEAP students.

The Committee's decision was issued on July 21, 2006. In addition to the facts articulated above, the Committee made the following summative factual and legal findings, respectively:

> The Committee finds that the ratio of basketball players from outside the City of Camden, combined with the action of Marco Morcos on January 27, 2006, and the use of putative guardianships by individuals active in the LEAP basketball program, clearly evidenced a conscience [sic] attempt to gain an improper athletic advantage through impermissible recruitment efforts, in violation of NJSIAA Bylaws and the Interpretive Guidelines concerning athletic eligibility.

> The fact that LEAP Academy is a charter school does not absolve that school's administration of its responsibility to verify the eligibility of transferring students. Yet it turned a blind eye toward the questionable use of affidavits to establish residence in Pennsauken High School [sic] for three out-of-state basketball prospects, all of whom were ineligible at their former high schools. (Committee Decision, p. 12)

Based upon the foregoing facts and legal findings, the Committee arrived at six conclusions.

1. When it came to the enrollment of male basketball players, LEAP ignored its responsibility – set forth in its charter and by statute – to give preference to Camden students.
2. Talented male basketball players were granted admission to LEAP because of their athletic ability, rather than their residence or their place on a waiting list, in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-7.
3. By failing, at the time of admission, to determine the eligibility of three talented basketball players transferring to LEAP from three other states, the LEAP administration failed in its responsibilities to the NJSIAA and other member schools to compete fairly in interscholastic competition.
4. The participation of two of the three out-of-state athletes in the LEAP basketball season "was certainly a contributing factor in that school's basketball team winning the South Jersey Group I Basketball Championship and qualifying for the Group I Statewide Championship." (Committee Decision, p. 12.)

5. LEAP's supervision of the eligibility of the members of its boys' basketball program was virtually non-existent, in contravention of its obligations to NJSIAA to assure fair competition.
6. The manner in which out-of-district basketball players have been enrolled in LEAP has not only undermined fair competition but has imposed substantial costs upon sending districts who have little, if anything, to do with the student-athletes.

Based upon its findings and conclusions that petitioner Morcos had engaged in athletic recruitment, and failed to "supervise [LEAP's] athletic program to assure adherence to principles of fair athletic eligibility" (Committee Decision, p.13), the Committee recommended the following penalties to the NJSIAA Executive Committee:

- A two-year period of probation for the boys' basketball program, beginning with the 2006-2007 school year, and the submission by the LEAP "Superintendent" of a Corrective Action Plan outlining how compliance with NJSIAA eligibility standards will be assured in the future, and providing for supervision of both the boys' basketball program and its coach.

- Disqualification of the LEAP boys' basketball program from the 2007 and 2008 tournaments.

- A two-year period of probation for petitioner Morcos, coinciding with the probation period for the boys' basketball program, during which time he would be expected to attend appropriate workshops to assure his compliance with the standards which athletic directors and coaches must observe.

Petitioners appealed the Committee's decision to the NJSIAA Executive Committee (the Executive Committee), which heard arguments from the parties on September 13, 2006, and voted – on the same date – to affirm. On December 8, 2006, petitioners filed the present appeal to the Commissioner.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES AND COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATIONS

In the brief supporting their appeal, petitioners make the following five arguments for reversal of the decision below:

I. The NJSIAA Controversies Committee's findings of fact, upon which the NJSIAA Executive Committee relied, are not supported by the record;

II. The NJSIAA Controversies Committee's conclusions, which were adopted by the NJSIAA Executive Committee, are not supported by the record;

III. The NJSIAA Executive Committee's adoption of the Controversies Committee's decision was arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable;

IV. Petitioners were denied due process; and

V. The NJSIAA inappropriately exceeded its jurisdiction and authority by requiring a charter school to scrutinize the familial relationships of affidavit students and their legal guardians.

Argument I

Petitioners contend that ten findings of fact in the Controversies Committee's decision were erroneous.

1. Petitioners aver that nothing in the record supports the Committee's finding No. 5 that LEAP did not apply the four-tiered enrollment preference system to the basketball players – particularly those who did not reside in Camden. They argue that the Commissioner should rely on Garcia's testimony that she felt that no mistakes had been made. However, as respondents point out, the Committee found Garcia's testimony to be contradictory, and provided cites to the record to support that finding. This also justified its finding that Garcia was not credible, at least on that point, and the Commissioner may not disturb that credibility finding. See, e.g., D.L. and Z.Y. on behalf of minor children T.L. and K.L. v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, 366 N.J. Super. 269, 273 (App. Div. 2004)

In addition, as set forth above, the record includes documents and testimony which show that the basketball players who are the subject of this controversy – none of whom were Camden residents – were accepted to LEAP right away, notwithstanding that they were numbers 9, 20 and 25 on the waiting lists for their respective grades. Further, documents provided by petitioners themselves showed that over half of the LEAP basketball team members were not Camden residents. Considering these facts as a whole, the Commissioner cannot agree that the Committee's finding No. 5 was unsupported.

2. Petitioners challenge the Committee's finding No. 7, that they failed to carry out their responsibility to carefully review the eligibility – both academic and athletic – of transferring basketball players. Petitioners maintain that the finding relates to ineligibility, an issue that was not included in the NJSIAA's notice of possible violations, and is therefore not germane to the instant controversy. Intervenor Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken ("Intervenor" or "Pennsauken") suggests that the petitioners' claimed ignorance of the eligibility of the out-of-state students is consistent with petitioners' design to ensure that the recruited youths would be able to play for LEAP in the 2005-2006 basketball season.

The record shows that on the day D.C.'s mother registered him at Pennsauken High School, petitioner Morcos met with D.C. and his mother and helped them fill out the necessary paperwork. This was not only highly suggestive of a pre-conceived plan to move D.C. to LEAP, but also strongly implied that Morcos knew D.C.'s city and high school of origin. He therefore could have, but allegedly did not, contact same to check on D.C.'s eligibility. In light of his duty to assure the eligibility of transferring affidavit students who are varsity athletes, it would not be arbitrary or unreasonable for the NJSIAA to view Morcos' failure to check with D.C.'s school in Rochester (which school is also supposed to sign the transfer waiver form mentioned above) as a deliberate attempt to protect his recruitment efforts. In fact, given the evidence suggesting Morcos' prior knowledge of D.C., the Commissioner would be hard-pressed to reject as arbitrary or unreasonable the inference that Morcos knew of D.C.'s ineligibility and suspension.

3. Petitioners contend that, contrary to NJSIAA's finding No. 9, Davis was not "an active member of the LEAP basketball coaching contingent." They base this position on Morcos' testimony that Davis was nothing more to the LEAP team than a parent. Respondents point out that there was testimony at the hearing by both Pennsauken's athletic director, William Wright, and Pennsauken's football coach, Reginald Lawrence, that Davis did assist with the coaching of the LEAP team.

   The Commissioner notes that Wright testified that he had known Davis for years as a member of the Pennsauken Youth Athletic Association (T58), and that several months before the hearing Davis had personally told Wright that he was no longer at Rutgers/Camden – where he had been the assistant coach – but was now an assistant coach at LEAP. (T81) Lawrence testified that his staff and LEAP's staff "hang out" in the same places, and that he had personally observed Davis on the sidelines at LEAP basketball games. (T82) Morcos himself acknowledged that Davis "gives up his time every season, football, baseball, basketball" (T165), and that Davis had warmed-up LEAP players at games and sat on the bench with Morcos. (T168-T169) Petitioners did not present Davis at the hearing to rebut the testimony of Wright and Lawrence.

The Committee is entitled to assign more credibility to the testimony of Wright and Lawrence than to the testimony of Morcos, and the record contains nothing that would allow the Commissioner to reject that credibility determination as capricious. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that bickering over the correct characterization of the relationship between Davis and the LEAP team is unhelpful. What is significant is the fact that Davis indisputably did support the LEAP team, did work in concert with Morcos on the transfer of D.C. from Rochester to LEAP through Pennsauken, and did serve as a guardian to two LEAP basketball-playing, out-of-state transfer students with whom he apparently had no prior ties.

4. The Committee's finding No. 10 – i.e., that Davis and Morcos acted in concert to have D.C. enrolled at Pennsauken and transferred to LEAP as a freshman basketball player – is challenged by petitioners. They argue that since it is Pennsauken's role to make the determination as to whether a student applicant's residency is valid, and the Pennsauken guidance office approved the residency of D.C., Davis and Morcos cannot be assigned responsibility for the fact that Pennsauken became the sending district for a LEAP out-of-state basketball-playing student.

Petitioners do not deny that Morcos worked in concert with Davis by helping D.C. and his mother fill out registration papers for Pennsauken High School, including a form agreeing to make "uncle" Davis a guardian of the six-foot five-inch basketball player. There is no evidence that Morcos assists other students in this manner. Nor did petitioners present any evidence to rebut the strong inference that no familial or significant relationship existed between D.C. and Davis prior to D.C.'s appearance in Pennsauken, and that Davis' "guardianships" of D.C. and L.J. were meant to facilitate the recruitment of athletes.

Further, in the record is a written document submitted to Pennsauken from D.C.'s mother stating that she was giving custody of her son to "my uncle Mr. Davis" for "financial reasons." Before any responsibility is assigned to Pennsauken for approving D.C.'s residency, petitioners should be able to show that the scenario presented to Pennsauken – i.e., that Davis is D.C.'s uncle and that financial hardship brought D.C. from Rochester, N.Y. to Pennsauken, N.J. – was accurate and genuine.

5. Petitioners dispute the NJSIAA's finding No. 13 that D.C. was admitted to LEAP Academy. The Committee made finding No. 13 based upon a letter dated February 16, 2006 from LEAP enrollment coordinator Norma Rosa-Santos to Davis confirming that Davis had – in a telephone conversation of that date – "declined to accept a 9th grade seat for [D.C.] as per the waiting list." The wording of the letter would appear to signify that D.C. was offered admission to LEAP two weeks after he applied. Thus, finding No. 13, which states that D.C. was admitted to LEAP, cannot be characterized as erroneous.

6. Petitioners maintain that the Committee's finding No. 15 is irrelevant to the issue of recruitment which, petitioners assert, is the only issue set forth in the notice of possible violation sent to them by the NJSIAA. The petitioners reason that it would be a violation of due process to rely upon finding No. 15 in the adjudication of the present controversy, because it pertains to the eligibility of L.J. and not to the issue of recruitment.

In finding No. 15, the Committee found that Morcos asked the NJSIAA for a "Katrina waiver" for L.J. A Katrina waiver is a waiver of the 30-day period that varsity athletes must normally wait before they may play in a new school. As the term suggests, this waiver was created for students who were displaced by hurricane Katrina. It is undisputed that the NJSIAA granted the waiver and L.J. immediately began playing basketball for LEAP. It is also undisputed that L.J. had lived in Georgia before arriving in New Jersey, and had not been displaced by Katrina.

Respondent NJSIAA argues that finding No. 15 was not presented as an eligibility determination, but rather as another fact illustrating the lengths to which petitioners were prepared to go to add L.J. to the LEAP basketball team. More specifically, the NJSIAA contends that the "misportrayal of a 'Katrina victim' to gain advantage was part and parcel of Mr. Morcos' disregard of the rules of fair play in his eagerness to establish a basketball powerhouse." Intervenor Pennsauken points out that "acts of recruiting are necessarily almost never acts that come with signed confessions from the Coaches. They are more often findings and conclusions that must be pieced together from the evidence." (Intervenor's Brief, January 22, 2007, p. 9) The Commissioner agrees that the unjustified Katrina waiver request suggests that L.J. was the subject of an affirmative effort to draw athletes to LEAP. As such, it was a legitimate finding, germane to the subject of this controversy.

7. In its finding No. 16, the NJSIAA referred to the fact that the father of C.G. – an all-state basketball player from Maryland who had been declared ineligible to play in Maryland – named the mother of a LEAP team member as C.G.'s guardian. Petitioners contend that this finding is irrelevant to the NJSIAA' charge that LEAP and Morcos engaged in recruitment violations. They claim – as they did regarding finding No. 15 – that finding No. 16 pertains to the issue of eligibility, which issue was not identified in the notices to them of possible NJSIAA violations. Further, LEAP suggests that C.G. is a child of the Hidalgos, that the Hidalgo's "family composition" is of no concern to LEAP or the NJSIAA, and that in accepting C.G., LEAP was merely fulfilling its duty not to discriminate against families with other than "natural issue" or adopted children.

   Respondent NJSIAA explained that, in the Controversies Committee's view, finding No. 16 was relevant because, aside from athletic recruitment, "there was no plausible explanation given for the transfer of an Allstate basketball player from Maryland to reside in a Pennsauken residence other than the fact that this residence was that of the mother of another player on the basketball team." (Respondent's Reply Brief, p. 26) As respondent pointed out, petitioners did not present Hidalgo, C.G.'s parents or any other witness to explain the reason for the transfer. The Commissioner is also hard pressed to find anything in the record that rebuts the strong inference that the impetus behind C.G.'s appearance in the Hidalgo home was C.G.'s enlistment into the LEAP basketball team.

   In addition, the Commissioner notes that in petitioners' brief certain liberties have been taken with the term "legal guardian." While the respective parents of L.J., C.G. and D.C.

signed school forms or presented notes purporting to give guardianship to Davis and Hidalgo, respectively, those writings did not bestow the status of "legal guardian." That status is defined generally in New Jersey statutes as "the person who exercises continuing control over the person or property, or both, of a child, including any specific right of control over an aspect of the child's upbringing, pursuant to a court order." See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 3B:12A-4; N.J.S.A. 26:2H-61(b); *N.J.S.A.*26:2H-110; N.J.S.A. 44:10-44; N.J.S.A. 44:10-57; N.J.S.A. 44:10-71. (Emphasis added.) Similarly, in federal statutes such as 42 U.S.C.A. 675 (7), the term "legal guardianship" is defined as "a judicially created relationship between child and caretaker which is intended to be permanent and self-sustaining as evidenced by the transfer to the caretaker of the following parental rights with respect to the child: protection, education, care and control of the person, custody of the person, and decisionmaking." (Emphasis added.) In the NJSIAA bylaws themselves, the term "guardian" means a "person who has control over the person and property of a child as established by the order of a court of competent jurisdiction." (Article V, Section 4(K), emphasis added.) In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner is not persuaded that C.G. was nor is the Hidalgo's child. The Commissioner consequently regards petitioners' discussion about avoiding discrimination against families to be a red herring.

8. Petitioners contend that there is no evidence in the record to support the Committee's finding No. 17 that the three out-of-state basketball players were accepted to LEAP without regard to the four-tiered admissions policy that was created to insure that the applications of Camden residents receive preference. They urge the Commissioner to accept Garcia's testimony that LEAP correctly applied its policies to the three out-of-state students – without mistake. For substantially the same reasons articulated in the Commissioner's discussion of petitioners' challenge to the Controversies Committee's finding No. 5, the Commissioner rejects as meritless petitioner's challenge to the Committee's finding No. 17.

9. Petitioners challenge the Committee's finding No. 18 – i.e., that the high percentage of out-of-district students on the basketball team, combined with putative guardianships by team-related individuals and Morcos' actions on January 25, 2006 – evidenced an intent by petitioners to gain athletic advantage through recruitment. In petitioners' exception to that finding they simply suggest that there may be an alternate explanation for the fact that non-resident basketball players flock to LEAP in much higher proportion than non-basketball playing out-of-district students. Since no "studies" of this phenomenon have been conducted by LEAP or anyone else, petitioners urge the Commissioner to reject finding No.18 as conjecture.

   Petitioners do not refute the facts upon which finding No. 18 is based. Nor do they even discuss two of the three facts which form the basis of the finding. They merely speculate that the disproportionate number of non-Camden residents on the basketball team might be a function of some factor yet to be identified. Such speculation cannot prevail over unrebutted facts. The Commissioner cannot conclude that finding No. 18 is arbitrary or unreasonable.

10. Finally, petitioners challenge the Committee's finding No. 19, that LEAP abdicated its responsibility to verify that its transferring athletes were eligible to play, and turned a blind eye to the glaring fact that three ineligible, out-of-state basketball players arrived within a span of two months, all by establishing residence with team-related adults in Pennsauken. For the reasons set forth in the discussions of findings No. 7, 10 and 16, the Commissioner rejects petitioners' position.

Argument II

Petitioners maintain that all seven of the Controversies Committee's conclusions were erroneous.

The first and second conclusions both alleged that when it came to talented basketball players, LEAP violated statutory and charter provisions that required enrollment preferences for Camden residents. The documents showing immediate acceptance for the three out-of-state basketball players, together with the high proportion of out-of-district students on the basketball team, support the Committee's conclusion.

The third conclusion was that by failing to check the eligibility of its transferring players, LEAP abdicated its responsibility to the NJSIAA and other member schools to compete fairly. Petitioners ask the Commissioner not to consider Morcos' negligence because the NJSIAA never specifically notified petitioners that they would be charged with violations of eligibility rules. The Commissioner will not compartmentalize the evidence in this case. Morcos' professed ignorance about the out-of-state students' eligibility will not serve as the basis for a determination that petitioners violated NJSIAA rules concerning eligibility. Rather, it will be considered as corroborative of petitioners' zeal to get gifted athletes into its basketball program.

The Committee's fourth conclusion was that the two out-of-state athletes that played on LEAP's basketball team, L.J. and C.G., were contributing factors in the team's South Jersey Group I Championship. Petitioners challenge the conclusion by asserting that all the team members contributed to its success.

Acknowledgment of the efforts of all the members of a team is appropriate in the stewardship of team morale and the cultivation of good social values. However, for purposes of assessing the significance of the addition of the out-of-state athletes to the LEAP team, the reality is reflected in two newspaper articles that are contained in the record. One article, dated March 8, 2006, named L.J. and C.G. as two of the three players "featured" in a tournament game against Burlington City. L.J. scored 28 of the ninety LEAP points and was responsible for two baskets and two free throws toward the end of the game when the score was close.

Another article, dated March 10, 2006, entitled "J[ ] Lifts LEAP to Final," describes L.J. as the "sensational senior guard," a "driving force" that led LEAP to victory. Petitioner Morcos was quoted as saying that L.J. was the team's "catalyst." C.G. was also named as a "top player." In light of L.J.'s and C.G.'s performances during the tournament, the Commissioner cannot determine that the NJSIAA's conclusion No. 4 is arbitrary or capricious.

The Controversies Committee alleged, in its conclusion No. 5, that LEAP did not monitor the eligibility of its basketball team members and, consequently, breached its duty to assure fair competition. Petitoners suggest that this is irrelevant to the charge of "recruitment" which is the subject of this controversy.

As discussed above, the Commissioner will not compartmentalize the evidence. The facts presented in this matter show, in particular, that the LEAP administration failed to execute its obligation to check its athletes' eligibility before certifying same to the NJSIAA. That was clearly a violation of the NJSIAA Bylaws concerning eligibility and mitigated against fair competition. However, the evidence as a whole suggests recruitment, i.e., an affirmative pursuit by Morcos and associates of out-of-district talent.

The Controversies Committee reasonably found that a number of measures were taken to facilitate the infusion of such athletes, such as team-related putative guardians and immediate admission to LEAP, notwithstanding waiting list rankings. Morcos testified that he signed the forms that require him to certify to the eligibility of his transferring players, but he also testified that he did not, in fact, check that eligibility. Thus his certifications were misleading and could be reasonably construed as another measure that was taken to facilitate the supplementation of the LEAP basketball team with non-Camden residents.

The Committee's conclusion No. 6 summarized the effect on sending districts of the methods employed by LEAP to add gifted athletes to its basketball team. Petitioners characterize the conclusion as irrelevant to the instant controversy. Respondents contend that the sending districts' tuition payments made on behalf of the out-of-district athletes constitute just the kind of "assistance of monetary value" that, under NJSIAA By-law Article V, Section 4 D may not be "offered to induce a student to attend a school for athletic reasons."

The Commissioner finds that conclusion No. 6 is correct that sending districts that are improperly used as conduits for the recruitment of athletes are unfairly burdened by the costs of tuition for those athletes. However, for the purposes of the instant controversy, that conclusion does not advance respondents' case. Students – including 'affidavit students' – have the right to attend charter schools, for which the districts of residence pay tuition. This "assistance of monetary value" per se is not deemed improper under the current school laws. Moreover, by definition, all 'affidavit students' – including, of course, those who attend charter schools – receive "assistance of monetary value" by virtue of the room, board and other care provided by the affidavit guardian.

It is only when the statutory provisions that allow affidavit students are misused – e.g., as mechanisms to enable athletic recruiting, as opposed to avenues of relief for families experiencing hardship – that the burden on the sending districts to pay tuition becomes unfair. Thus, the sending district's payment of tuition is not an element of proof in the establishment of a recruiting or other violation. Rather, the establishment of a violation is a precondition to a finding that the sending district has been improperly required to pay tuition for the 'affidavit student'.

Moreover, upon review of the record, the Commissioner notes that it is less likely that the three out-of-state athletes – as to whom there was no showing of hardship – were enticed to come to Pennsauken for free tuition and room and board in a stranger's house, and more likely that their motivation to transfer to LEAP was that they had all been declared ineligible to compete in their respective states of origin and expected to be able to play in New Jersey.

In sum, the Commissioner does not regard conclusion No. 6 as directly determinative of whether petitioners violated the NJSIAA bylaws. However, the Commissioner accepts the other factual findings and conclusions set forth in the Committee's decision, finds that they are supported by the record, and affirms respondents' ultimate assessment that petitioners violated the cited rules regarding recruitment.

Consequently, the Commissioner affirms the Committee's conclusion No. 7, which imposes penalties upon petitioners for recruiting and failing to do their part to assure fairness in their competition with other NJSIAA member schools.

Argument III

Petitioners claim that the decision of the Controversies Committee – which was affirmed by the Executive Committee of NJSIAA – was arbitrary and capricious. The grounds for petitioners' claim are as follows.

First, petitioners contend that the Committee's decision was "almost completely devoid of citations to the record and relevant legal authority including NJSIAA rules and bylaws." (Petitioners' Brief, p. 33) Thus, reasoned petitioners, its decision was vague and ambiguous, rendering it arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Second, petitioners aver that the Committee erroneously ignored the legal authority provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 in concluding that there were improprieties related to Davis' and Hidalgo's 'legal guardianships' of the out-of-state basketball players.

Third, petitioners allege that "[w]rongdoing was incorrectly imputed against LEAP Academy based upon Pennsauken's admission of three students into the Pennsauken School District." (Ibid.)

Fourth, petitioners assert that the Committee improperly concluded that LEAP had violated its own enrollment procedures.

Respondents do not specifically reply to petitioners' point heading alleging arbitrariness on the part of the Controversies Committee, but rather incorporate in other sections of their briefs positions that counter petitioners' allegations. The Commissioner will refer to respondents' positions as needed.

First it is important to bear in mind that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA is appellate in nature. See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 183. Thus, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA absent a finding that NJSIAA acted in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner – nor may she substitute her judgment for that of NJSIAA, even if she would decide differently in a de novo hearing – where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision finally reached. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259. As codified in 2000 to provide notice of this long-held standard to the public and regulated parties:

1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his or her judgment for that of NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.

2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner.
(N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a))

For the reasons set forth in her analysis of petitioners' Argument IV, the Commissioner finds that petitioners were accorded the process that they were due. Consequently, she will only reject the NJSIAA's decision if it is patently arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Turning to petitioners' first contention, the Commissioner agrees that the Controversies Committee's decision did not employ many citations to the record. However, the Commissioner found in the record the factual bases for the Committee's findings. Consequently, the Commissioner will not disturb those findings and cannot characterize them as vague or ambiguous.

In addition, the Commissioner notes that extensive notice was given to petitioners about the rules that would be the subject of the hearing, and the Controversies Committee discussed the relevant NJSIAA bylaws and interpretive comments on pages 9-10 of its decision.

Included in that discussion was Bylaw 4(D)(1), which identifies "excessive emphasis on the importance of athletics" as indicative of recruiting, and Bylaw 4(D)3(c), which states that recruitment includes the attendance of a student-athlete at a school for athletic reasons – with the knowledge of the administration. Given the foregoing, the Commissioner rejects the view that the Committee's decision was invalid for vagueness.[4]

Petitioners' second and third proposed bases for a determination that the Committee's decision was arbitrary and capricious are essentially the same – i.e., that there is no evidence of impropriety related to the purported 'guardianships' of the three out-of-state athletes. The first flaw in petitioner's position is the contention that Davis and Hidalgo were the students' legal guardians. As mentioned above, under New Jersey law and NJSIAA regulations, a court order is required to establish legal guardianship. No proof of any such court orders was presented by petitioners.

The second weakness in petitioners' argument is their statement that Davis and Hidalgo are not "officially" or "formally" associated with LEAP. The Commissioner does not find that this sort of hair-splitting is useful. The individuals purporting to be guardians were clearly invested in the LEAP basketball team, and facilitated the infusion into it of talented athletes, with the knowledge of the LEAP athletic director. Moreover, as set forth above, there was testimony from multiple, first-hand sources that Davis assisted in the coaching of the LEAP team.

Third, the petitioners' explication of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 does not help them. The evidence in the record created a strong inference, or prima facie case, that the underlying reasons for the three athletes' transfers to Pennsauken were not the reasons for which the affidavit-student exception to New Jersey's regular residency rules was created. It was thus encumbent upon petitioners to rebut that strong evidence by offering facts that showed a familial or other longstanding and close relationship between the respective students and Davis and Hidalgo, court orders imposing guardianships upon Davis and Hidalgo, affidavits from the athletes' parents describing genuine financial or other significant family hardship, and/or other forms of evidence to rebut the inference that the guardianships were created to funnel L.J., C.G. and D.C. into the LEAP basketball program.[5] Petitioners failed to do so.

As mentioned above, the remaining reason given for petitioners' assertion that the Controversies Committee's decision was arbitrary and capricious was the Committee's conclusion that LEAP had violated its own enrollment procedures that were intended to give preference to Camden residents. This issue was addressed in the discussion of the Controversies Committee's finding No.5.

As explained in that discussion, the Commissioner will not disturb the Committee's finding that the testimony of petitioners' witness, Garcia, about enrollment procedures was inconsistent and lacked credibility. Further, the Commissioner is satisfied that the Committee's finding about enrollment procedure irregularities is supported by documents and testimony in the record that show that the basketball players who are the subject of this controversy – none of whom were Camden residents – were accepted to LEAP right away, notwithstanding that they were numbers 9, 20 and 25 on the waiting lists for their respective grades. In addition, the record contains documents provided by petitioners, themselves, showing that over half of the LEAP basketball team members were not Camden residents. Considering these facts as a whole, the Commissioner cannot find that the Committee's conclusion about enrollment irregularities was arbitrary and capricious.

[5] In the present case it is petitioners and those affiliated with petitioners that are in a superior position to produce the information needed to reveal the nature of the relationships, or lack thereof, between Davis, Hidalgo and the three student athletes. Thus, respondents' presentation of facts adequate to raise a strong inference of recruiting is sufficient to shift the burden of production to petitioners to prove the legitimacy of the guardianships. See, e.g., Furst v. Einstein Moomjy, Inc., 182 N.J. 1, 31 (2004) (In shifting the burden of production of evidence to defendants, we acknowledge that the retailer is in a superior position to present proof of the product's market value.)

In sum, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's contention that the Controversies Committee's decision was arbitrary and capricious is without merit.

Argument IV

Petitioners maintain that since the NJSIAA identified only one by-law – i.e., Article V, Section 4D, in its numerous notices to LEAP of possible violations, it was an infringement upon petitioners' due process rights to examine, in this proceeding, any other possible violations by petitioners of the NJSIAA rules. More specifically, petitioners suggest that it was improper of the Controversies Committee to consider such facts as the use of Davis and Hidalgo as 'guardians' to establish residency for the out-of-state athletes, and Morcos' failure to check the transferring athletes' eligibility before signing their NJSIAA transfer waiver forms, which forms state that such signature indicates that the transferring student has met all NJSIAA eligibility requirements. These facts, according to petitioners, are not germane to the issue of recruiting.

Petitioners further argue that since the Controversies Committee failed to specifically cite Article V, Section 4D of its by-laws when it concluded that penalties should be imposed upon petitioners, and since the NJSIAA Executive Committee adopted the Controversies Committee's conclusions without offering any clarification, the basis of the penalties cannot be ascertained. Urging that there is no evidence that they committed recruitment violations, and relying on the absence of a specific cite to the recruiting by-law in the Committee's conclusion No.7 (imposing the penalties), petitioners reason that the penalties must have been imposed because of violations of other by-laws or rules, as to which petitioners received no notice.

Respondent Pennsauken counters that the testimony and documentary evidence in the record describing the guardianships offered to the out-of-state basketball players – and LEAP's certification to the NJSIAA that the players were eligible, when they were, in fact, ineligible in their respective states – was presented to demonstrate a pattern of recruiting, not to expand the scope of the NJSIAA's charges against petitioners. The Commissioner agrees.

The record includes proof that the parents of three outstanding basketball players from three different states – New York, Maryland and Georgia – appeared in Pennsauken within two months of each other and bestowed guardianship of their sons upon two individuals connected to the LEAP basketball program. Those individuals, in turn, immediately transferred the students from Pennsauken High School to LEAP, where two of them immediately joined the basketball team. There was no showing of any prior connection or relationship between the two "guardians" and the out-of-state students or their families. All three athletes had been declared ineligible to play basketball in their states of origin. The two that remained at LEAP were subsequently written-up in New Jersey newspapers as the players that were most responsible for LEAP's tournament wins.

The record also includes Morcos' admission, in his testimony before the Controversies Committee, that he did not check the transferring athletes' eligibility. (Nor is there any evidence that the chief operating officer of LEAP or anyone else at the school did so.) In fact, Morcos took the position, citing no authority, that he was not permitted to review the athletes' academic records. This is contrary to the NJSIAA Transfer Waiver Form that Morcos was required to provide for each athlete. That form, which Morcos signed for the athletes in question, requires certification that the students meet all the eligibility criteria in Article V of the NJSIAA bylaws.

Petitioners clearly failed in their responsibility to assure that their athletes were eligible to compete. In the Commissioner's view, the significance of this fact for purposes of this controversy is not its suggestion that NJSIAA bylaws other than Article V(4)(D) were violated by petitioners. Rather, the Commissioner finds that, when Morcos' submission of misleading transfer waiver forms is considered along with other facts established above, it helps suggest a deliberate plan to improve the level of petitioners' basketball program by: 1) inviting talented out-of-state athletes who could not compete in their home states to live with adults committed to the LEAP team; 2) transferring the athletes to LEAP immediately after their registration in Pennsauken; and 3) hiding from the NJSIAA the athletes' ineligibility in their states of origin.

There were enough examples of this conduct in a short period of time to suggest that out-of-state athletes were not gathering in Pennsauken and immediately transferring to LEAP by coincidence. Added to this picture was the discrepancy between the out-of-district percentage of the total student body and the out-of-district percentage of the basketball team. Further, Morcos' undisputed assistance with D.C.'s enrollment at Pennsauken implies that he had a role in the advent of the three athletes into LEAP Academy and its basketball team.

These facts, viewed collectively, are supportive of the notion that the reason for L.J.'s. C.G.'s and D.C.'s registration in Pennsauken and immediate transfer to LEAP was athletics, in violation of NJSIAA's bylaw concerning recruitment. Petitioners were given ample notice of the charge, were represented by counsel, and had an opportunity to be heard and the right to appeal. They received the process they were due, see, e.g., Doe v. Poritz, 142 N.J. 1, 106(1995), but did not present evidence adequate to rebut the legitimate inferences.

Argument V

Petitioners allege that the penalties that the NJSIAA imposed upon them were sanctions for admitting affidavit students from Pennsauken and receiving tuition payments from Pennsauken. In their brief, p.51, they protest that "LEAP has no control over this legislation [concerning charter school attendance by out-of-district students] or where the guardians of affidavit students reside." Petitioners highlight the fact that it was Intervenor Pennsauken who approved the out-of-state youths as affidavit students, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and argue that petitioners should not be penalized for what Pennsauken set in motion, simply because LEAP benefited by the students' athletic talents. These arguments are duplicative of those made in petitioners' Argument III.

Respondents rejoin that petitioners confuse the issue of admission to a school with the issue of participation in interscholastic sports. While it was Intervenor Pennsauken who had to approve the enrollment of the out-of-state students into its school district, it was LEAP who was responsible for certifying the eligibility of its athletes. Respondents cite to Article V, Sections 4A and 4B of the NJSIAA bylaws which require member schools to submit annual affidavits, signed by the principals, certifying that all competing students meet all of the NJSIAA eligibility requirements.[6] Clarifying comment # 1 to Bylaw V, Section 4 (NJSIAA Handbook, p.45) explains that this must be done before a student's first participation in an interschool scrimmage or game, and the record must include an athlete's personal statistics, including credits passed in the previous school year or semester, and prior participation in athletic competition.

[6] The required affidavits for LEAP were apparently signed by Morcos instead of the head of the school. Although the individual who served as the head of petitioner LEAP was asked to attend the hearing before the Controversies Committee, she did not.

The Commissioner notes that at the time Pennsauken accepted the three out-of-state students as affidavit students, it had no way of knowing that the students were exceptional athletes who were ineligible to compete in their home states, and that they planned to join the LEAP basketball team – with the knowledge of the LEAP athletic director. Moreover, affidavits had been provided to Pennsauken by Davis, Hidalgo and the students' parents that alleged familial relationships and/or hardship as reasons for the arrival of the three students into Pennsauken homes. In other words, Pennsauken accepted the students on the basis of far less than full disclosure. The Commissioner must consequently reject petitioners' argument that Pennsauken's acceptance of the students can shield LEAP and Morcos from penalties for recruiting.

Based upon all of the foregoing, the Commissioner determines that petitioners have failed to demonstrate that NJSIAA's decision either was reached in violation of their due process rights or was unsupported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as whole. Nor have they established as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable NJSIAA's conclusion that petitioners' conduct violated the intent of Article V, Section 4D, especially when viewed in the context of other NJSIAA rules.

Thus, for the reasons articulated, supra, the Commissioner upholds the decision of the NJSIAA Executive Committee which, in turn, upheld the NJSIAA Controversies Committee's decision. The Commissioner further finds that the penalties imposed upon petitioners were appropriate to the violations found by the Controversies Committee and affirmed by the Executive Committee. Accordingly, the Commissioner denies petitioners' appeal.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged her son's suspension for possession of a firearm on school property, arguing that the penalty was excessive since the gun was a toy. Respondent Board contends that the penalty is warranted since the gun fits the statutory definition of "Firearm".

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the firearm in question is a soft air pistol that shoots pellets, and meets the definition of a firearm as set forth in N.J.S.A. 2C:39-1f; G.H. admitted that he had the gun on the school bus and in his locker on school property; there was no violation of procedural due process; and the Board's disciplinary action was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's action in suspending G.H., and ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determinations articulated in the Initial Decision, and dismisses the petition for the reasons stated therein.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1] No reply exceptions were received from the Board.

Petitioner's exceptions recast and reiterate her arguments advanced below. Specifically, she again argues that G.H. was denied procedural due process at the Board's hearing in that 1) the track coach should have been allowed to testify and 2) petitioner was not provided an opportunity to cross examine witnesses. Petitioner, additionally, corrects certain statements made by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in her decision which petitioner contends do not comport to exact testimony at the instant hearing.

[1] Petitioner, who at all times during these proceedings was represented by legal counsel, submitted pro se exceptions to the Initial Decision. In that the Commissioner and her staff are, by law, strictly proscribed from considering information or argument outside the record of contested case proceedings – including papers sent directly by a party who is represented by legal counsel – petitioner was advised that her submission could not be taken into account or commented on in any way and this material was, therefore, returned to her. Petitioner subsequently advised the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) that her representation by legal counsel had ended at the conclusion of the OAL hearing and she, therefore, requested that she be allowed to resubmit her pro se exceptions. By letter dated March 20, 2006, the Director of the Bureau advised the parties that, notwithstanding that petitioner was obligated at the time of her original submission to advise that she had elected to proceed pro se, in that she now attests that such is the case, her resubmitted exceptions, originally filed on March 6, 2007, would be accepted and considered by the Commissioner in her determination in this matter. Board counsel was afforded 5-days within which to file reply exceptions on behalf of the Board.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner has failed to sustain her burden of establishing that the Board's action suspending her son, G.H., – for possession of a firearm on school property – was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. As to petitioner's charges that the Board's hearing in this matter violated G.H.'s procedural due process rights, the Commissioner is in full accord with the ALJ that:

> [t]here is no dispute by the Board of Education in this matter that the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses is preserved in our Constitution. However, the facts and circumstances of this case are such that the student admitted to the possession. Therefore, other students who were on the bus on April 25, 2006 could not add to the admission. And, regardless of whether or not the track coach intervened or should have intervened in this situation, the fact remains that G.H. had a gun on school property which has been legally described as a firearm. Testimony from the track coach could not change the admission made by G.H. Once G.H. confessed that he was in possession of the firearm on school property, there were no questions of fact remaining.
> (Initial Decision at 7)

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted – for the reasons stated therein – and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, D.H. (Mrs. H.), the mother of a fifteen-year old high school student, appeals her son's suspension for possession of a firearm on school property. Mrs. H. argues that the penalty was excessive since the gun was a toy. Respondent, West Orange Board of Education (Board of Education) contends that the penalty is warranted since the gun fits the statutory definition of "Firearm". N.J.S.A.18A:37-8 and N.J.S.A. 2C:39-1 requires a mandatory suspension for possession of firearms on school premises.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 7, 2006, the Commissioner of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. The OAL held hearings which were concluded on November 9, 2006. The exhibits listed in the Appendix were marked into evidence. Post-hearing briefs were due and submitted by November 28, 2006 on which date the record closed.

Good cause having been shown, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, the time for filing the Initial Decision was extended until February 26, 2007.

ISSUES

Does the toy gun meet the statutory definition of "firearm"?

Was there a violation of procedural due process?

Was the suspension arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable?

BACKGROUND

G.H. was a student and track-team member at West Orange High School on April 25 and 26, 2006. An incident regarding a toy gun started on the school bus as G.H. rode home on April 25th. On April 26th Patrick Galante, a West Orange High School dean, questioned G.H. about the school bus incident from the previous evening. After Dean Galante told G.H. that the tape was on in the bus, G.H. disclosed that he knew about the incident. Galante telephoned Mrs. H. to inform her of the incident. Ms.

H. spoke to her son on the phone and asked him where the toy gun was. G.H. told her the gun was in his locker. Mrs. H instructed her son to go with Dean Galante to retrieve the gun.

When Dean Galante took the gun, he contacted the West Orange Police Department. G.H. was suspended on April 26th, pending the outcome of a disciplinary hearing scheduled for May 8, 2006. On May 1, 2006 West Orange High School mailed Mrs. H. notice for the disciplinary hearing which included a statement of the charges against her son, the period of suspension, a proposed alternative educational placement plan, and statements of persons who witnessed or knew about the incident. The disciplinary hearing was completed on May 8, 2006. The Board determined that its interpretation of the pertinent New Jersey statute required a one-year suspension for possession of a firearm on school grounds. G.H. initially received the one-year suspension, which the superintendent reduced on May 22, 2006, to six months.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

Mrs. H. has been an elementary school principal for ten years. She was a teacher in the Baltimore, Maryland school system and the East Orange, New Jersey school system for another ten years.

On April 25, 2006, Patrick Galante, a school dean, called Mrs. H. at her job. He told her that her son had a gun, which had been observed by the school bus driver on the video tape inside the bus. Mrs. H. told Mr. Galante that she was coming to the school to see the videotape. Mr. Galante said the videotape and the gun were not at the school and had been turned over to the police. Mrs. H.'s husband called Dean Galante and the dean repeated the same story told to Mrs. H.

Mrs. H. contacted the West Orange Police Department regarding the video which she wanted to see. An officer in the West Orange Police Juvenile Department telephoned Mr. and Mrs. H. to inform them that there was never a videotape.

Mrs. H and her husband retained counsel after May 1, 2006, when they learned that the school had brought charges against their son. She confirmed her appearance and that of her husband and son at the May 8, 2006 disciplinary hearing and noted that her son testified freely and admitted to having a toy gun on school property. She said a police officer was at the hearing but made no comment and did not testify; he only showed the toy gun. Mrs. H. said she had been unaware of her son's possession of a toy gun.

Mrs. H. said that on the eleventh day of her son's one-year suspension he was provided with an educational program at an alternative school. Mrs. H. believes that the punishment for her son is harsh and unfair, even though the chief school administrator later reduced the length of the suspension to six months.

Mrs. H. identified a picture of the gun illustrated in a newspaper advertisement as a soft air rifle and pistol. She said a family member in law enforcement advised her that if the toy gun had an orange tip it was considered a toy gun. The newspaper illustration showed an orange tip on the gun.

Mrs. H. also made inquiries of the West Orange Police Department in an attempt to understand when a toy gun is considered a firearm. An officer of the West Orange Police Department gave her a contact name at the Firearms Unit, New Jersey State Division of Firearms. She received a statement from the head of the Firearms Unit. Mrs. H. referred to an article in the Bergen Record newspaper, dated October 19, 2006, wherein the Attorney General of New Jersey and several county prosecutors provided statements regarding their views on firearms and toys. Mrs. H. said that she has had incidents of this type in the school where she is the principal, but in no incident was a toy pistol considered a firearm.

G.H. is the student involved in this case. He is a member of the track team. On some days after classes he and eight other students play with toy guns. G.H. said the track coach knows about the students playing with the toy guns and suggested that an arena or driving range would be a good place to practice shooting the guns. The coach told the students that it was okay if they had the toy guns, but just don't use them on her.

G.H. said that he was walking to the office with Dean Galante on April 25, 2006, when the dean engaged him in a conversation, asking: "What happened on the bus yesterday, we have you on camera?" G.H. said that, when he heard or knew he was on videotape, he decided to tell the truth. G.H. did not disclose anything to Dean Galante prior to the dean telling him that he had been pictured on the videotape. G.H. purchased the toy gun from one of the track team members. He had it for one week and was unaware of how the pellets are propelled. He did not believe it was real because it was plastic.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the law, the testimony and evidence presented, I FIND as follows:

1. G.H's toy gun is a soft air pistol that shoots pellets.
2. G.H. admitted that he had a toy gun on the bus and in his locker on school property.
3. The police incident report was consistent with the testimony presented.
4. G.H. was not denied procedural due process. No evidence was offered to show that testimony from the track coach would have altered the charges against G.H., after he admitted to possession of the toy gun on school property.
5. The Board of Education did not act arbitrarily, capriciously or unreasonably when suspending G.H., because the law requires a suspension from the school's regular education program for at least one year, when it is determined that the student possessed a firearm on school property.

LEGAL ANAYLSIS

The "Zero Tolerance for Guns Act," N.J.S.A. 18A:37-7 to -19, enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature in 1995, is critical to the resolution of this case. The Act, in pertinent part, states:

> Any pupil who is convicted or adjudicated delinquent for possession of a firearm or a crime while armed with a firearm or found knowingly in possession of a firearm on any school property . . . shall be immediately removed from the school's regular education program pending a hearing before the local board of education to remove the pupil from the regular education program for a period of not less than one calendar year subject to modification on a case-by-case basis by the chief school administrator.

G.H. admits that he had a toy gun in his locker and went to the locker with a school dean to retrieve the gun. G.H. has labeled the gun "a toy." However, the definition of a firearm includes the description of G.H.'s weapon.

The meaning of firearm is set forth in N.J.S.A. 2C:39-1 f, (in part):

> . . . any handgun, rifle, shotgun, machine gun, automatic or semiautomatic rifle, or any gun, device or instrument in the nature of a weapon from which may be fired or ejected any solid projectable ball, slug, pellet, missile or bullet, or any gas, vapor or other noxious thing, by means of a cartridge or shell or by the action of an explosive or the igniting of flammable or explosive substances. It shall also include, without limitation, any firearm which is in the nature of an air gun, spring gun or pistol or other weapon of a similar nature in which the propelling force is a spring, elastic band, carbon dioxide, compressed or other gas or vapor, air or compressed air, or is ignited by compressed air, and ejecting a bullet or missile smaller than three-eighths of an inch in diameter, with sufficient force to injure a person.

G.H.'s gun is a soft air pistol that shoots pellets, which was identified as a Sig Sauer P230 soft air pistol offered by Mrs. H, and by the police officer receiving it.

School board hearings must allow students an opportunity to confront and cross-examine witnesses. Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565 (1975). There is no dispute by the Board of Education in this matter that the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses is preserved in our Constitution. However, the facts and circumstances of this case are such that the student admitted to the possession. Therefore, other students who were on the bus on April 25, 2006 could not add to the admission. And, regardless of whether or not the track coach intervened or should have intervened in this situation, the fact remains that G.H. had a gun on school property which has been legally described as a firearm. Testimony from the track coach could not change the admission made by G.H. Once G.H. confessed that he was in possession of the firearm on school property, there were no questions of fact remaining.

In order to overturn a school board's disciplinary action, petitioner must show that the board acted arbitrary, capriciously or unreasonably. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960); K.L. v. Matawan/Aberdeen Regional H.S. District, 91 S.L.D. 1823, 1829. In the instant case, the facts and circumstances of the case do not demonstrate that the West Orange Board of Education's decision to suspend G.H. was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

CONCLUSION

Based on the review of testimony, documentary evidence, and the legal analysis, I CONCLUDE that there is no violation of procedural due process and that the "toy gun" fits the description of "firearm" in New Jersey state statutes.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that respondent West Orange Board of Education's action in suspending G.H. be AFFIRMED. I further ORDER that the petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

The record of this matter, including the audiotape of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.[1]

Preliminarily, the Commissioner observes that this matter was initiated on the morning of February 28, 2007 as a dispute over the applicability of certain facilities standards, wherein petitioner sought an interim order enjoining the Irvington Board of Education from withholding rental payments based on alleged noncompliance with such standards – a matter appropriately brought to the Commissioner for adjudication pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-2.3(c)6. However, later that same day – based on receipt of the Board's letter putting petitioner on notice that its contract would not be renewed – petitioner sought an immediate hearing, and on March 15, 2007 it filed a revised brief additionally incorporating arguments against such nonrenewal. At the ensuing emergent relief proceeding held at the OAL on March 22, 2007, this latter issue was the only one heard by the ALJ, and it is the sole subject of the recommended Order here under review.

[1] On April 4, 2007, the Board of Education filed objections to the Order of the ALJ. However, because applicable procedural rules make no provision for such submissions, they are not considered by the Commissioner herein. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. The OAL Order (at 3) errs in citing N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10.

Upon review of the record, however, it is apparent that the Board's nonrenewal of its contract with petitioner has not been presented to the Office of Early Childhood Education for affirmation or denial, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-2.3(b). That rule provides, in pertinent part:

> 1. The school district shall notify, in writing, the child care center provider and the Department of the decision and reasons for non-renewal of the Abbott Preschool Program Contract.
> 2. The child care center provider may dispute the non-renewal of the Abbott Preschool Program Contract by written notification within 10 business days to the Office with a copy to the Department of Human Services, Office of Early Care and Education.
> 3. The Office may request additional information.
> 4. The Office shall affirm or deny the appropriateness of the non-renewal decision.
> 5. The non-renewal decision may be appealed to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-9.2.

It is, thus, clear that he Commissioner does not yet have jurisdiction over the sole issue under review in this interim proceeding.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL is rejected and this matter – to the extent that it pertains to nonrenewal of the parties' contract – is hereby referred to the Office of Early Childhood Education in the Department of Education for decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-2.3(b). The remaining claims raised by petitioner, which are not addressed in this interim ruling, shall continue at the OAL as determined by the ALJ in consultation with the parties.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Respondent.

Kecia M. Clarke, Esq., representing petitioner, Toddlertown Child Care Center

Jennifer Carrillo-Perez, Esq., representing Board of Education of the Township of Irvington, Essex County (Trenk DiPasquale Webster Della Fera Sodono)

BEFORE:IMRE KARASZEGI, J.R., ALJ

Petitioner brings this action seeking emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. regarding the non-renewal of petitioner's child care center provider contract with the Irvington Board of Education, an Abbot District. On March 15, 2007, the Commissioner of Education received Petitioner's application for emergent relief. On March 16, 2007, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case. On March 22, 2007, oral argument was presented in the Newark offices of the Office of Administrative Law.

The standards for the granting of emergency relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). It may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that :

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In the instant case, after hearing the arguments of counsel and any other documentation submitted, I find that petitioner is entitled to emergent relief because the proofs submitted have established the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). The letter terminating the contractual agreement between petitioner and the Irvington Board of Education is therefore, of no force and effect until a full hearing is conducted. Petitioner's motion for emergent relief is therefore GRANTED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This order may be reviewed by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

The record, Settlement Agreement and Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that the President and Board Secretary of the Board of Education of the Borough of Mountain Lakes signed the Agreement and Release on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating these individuals to sign the agreement on its behalf, nor, in the alternative, is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement and Release consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 11, 2006, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on January 10, 2007. Prior to the hearing the parties settled the matter. A Settlement Agreement was prepared and executed indicating the terms of the agreement, which are incorporated herein by reference.
Having reviewed the contents of the attached Settlement Agreement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release ("Settlement Agreement"), dated January 15, 2007 is entered into by and among Petitioners, MARYANNE MURRAY and ANTHONY MURRAY (collectively "Petitioners"), and respondent, MOUNTAIN LAKES BOROUGH BOARD OF EDUCATION ("Respondent"). Petitioners and Respondent are collectively referred to as "the Parties."

WHEREAS, Petitioners brought suit against the Respondent in the matter captioned M.M. obo A.M. v. Mountain Lakes Borough Board of Education, before the Commissioner of Department of Education, Agency Reference No. 215-6/06, and in the Office of Administrative Law, Docket No: EDU 09698 (the "Action"), and

WHEREAS, the Petitioners intend to and do hereby settle fully and finally all claims they may have which were asserted, or which could have been asserted, in the Action; and

WHEREAS, the Parties have agreed that the Action shall be dismissed with prejudice;

It is HEREBY AGREED as follows:

1. Obligations of Petitioners: Petitioners shall execute a Stipulation of Dismissal dismissing the Action with prejudice. Counsel for Petitioners shall promptly file the Stipulation upon execution of this Settlement Agreement and Release and shall promptly forward a filed copy of the Stipulation to counsel for Respondent upon receipt.

2. Obligations of Respondent: Respondent shall pay $3,040.00 to Petitioners within thirty (30) days of the execution by all Parties of this Settlement Agreement and Release.

3. General Release: Petitioners, as well as their agents, servants, assigns, representatives, attorneys, heirs, and successors release and forever discharge Respondent and its insurers, agents, servants, assigns, representatives, employees, attorneys, affiliates, officers, directors, and successors for any and all claims of any nature whatsoever, whether known or unknown, that Petitioners had, now have or claims to have against Respondent with respect to any claims that were, should or could or may have been raised in the Action.

Petitioners expressly waive, and assume the risk of, any and all claims for damages that exist as of this date, but that are unknown to the Petitioners for any reason whatsoever, and that if known would materially affect their decision to enter into this Settlement Agreement and Release. Petitioners further agree that they accept the agreements specified in this Settlement Agreement and Release as a complete compromise of matters involving disputed issues of law and fact.

4. Enforcement. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement and Release shall be construed to release the right of any Party to enforce any obligations under this Settlement Agreement and Release, or any claim arising out of a breach of this Settlement Agreement and Release.

5. Confidentiality. The Parties understand and agree that the existence and terms of this Settlement Agreement and Release are strictly confidential and shall not be disclosed without the prior written consent of each other Party to any person or entity except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Settlement Agreement and Release, as required by the Open Public Meetings Laws, Open Public Records Acts or other statute governing public entity disclosure requirements, or as otherwise required by law. The Parties further agree to promptly notify one another in the event that any of them receives any discovery request, subpoena, or court order, or any other written request or demand of any type, calling for production or disclosure of this Settlement Agreement and Release or any part hereof, in order to allow the other party to seek a protective order.

6. No Admission of Liability. This Settlement Agreement and Release reflects a business decision by the Parties to settle their differences, disputes and claims. Nothing contained in this Settlement Agreement and Release is intended to be, nor shall it be construed to be, an admission of liability by Respondent or an admission of the existence of any facts upon which liability could be based.

7. Warranties. The Parties represent and warrant that they are duly and validly authorized to enter into and execute this Settlement Agreement and Release and have not transferred, assigned or conveyed, agreed to transfer, assign or convey, or taken any action that would cause there to be a transfer, assignment or conveyance, to any other entity of any claim or interest subject to this Settlement Agreement and Release.

8. Entire Agreement. This Settlement Agreement and Release contains the entire agreement among the Parties as to the settlement of their disputes alleged or that could have been alleged in the Action, and no amendment, modification or addendum to this Settlement Agreement and Release shall be effective unless in writing and dated and executed by the parties after the date of this Agreement. The Parties further acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement and Release is intended to replace any and all written or oral existing agreements and representations between the Parties with respect to the subject matter of this Settlement Agreement and Release.

9. Binding Effect: All of the provisions of this Settlement Agreement and Release shall bind the Parties hereto and their predecessors, successors and/or assigns.

10. Severability. If any provision of this Settlement Agreement and Release is held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable for any reason, it shall not affect the validity, legality or enforceability of any other provision.

11. Counterparts. This Settlement Agreement and Release may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties to this Settlement Agreement and Release affix their signatures as of this 15 day of January, 2007.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the Board's action eliminating their positions as tenured social workers on the District's child study team due to a reduction in force (RIF) in 2003; petitioner Stock remains a titled petitioner, although her issues were resolved by a prior Commissioner's decision, dated June 10, 2005, which found the RIF to be invalid. However, the Commissioner remanded the matter regarding petitioner Parise for a determination of appropriate relief in light of pending tenure charges against her, and her retirement on a disability pension subsequent to the filing of the original petition. Ms. Parise subsequently noted her intention to return to work, and an independent medical examiner has found her fit to do so; respondent has not, however, returned her to work because of the pending tenure charges and her retirement. The instant matter seeks to determine the appropriate relief to be given Ms. Parise in light of the invalid RIF.

The ALJ found that: although petitioner was determined to be capable of returning to work, and is entitled to do so under statute and case law, she cannot do so since respondent Board filed tenure charges and suspended her without pay in 2003; the tenure charges remain unresolved and are scheduled for a hearing in April 2007; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, if a final determination is not made within 120 days after certification of tenure charges, an employee is entitled to full salary until such determination is reached. The ALJ concluded that until a final determination is made in the tenure case, respondent can continue Ms. Parise's suspension, but she is entitled to back pay from September 26, 2003 until August 1, 2004 – the date on which she received her disability pension.

Upon independent and careful review of the record, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with the clarification that the award of back pay is subject to recoupment should the Board prevail on its position that Parise's rejection of a .10 position was tantamount to her resignation, which matter is currently pending hearing at the OAL.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BUTLER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C 1:1-18.4. No reply exceptions were filed by or on behalf of petitioner Parise.[1] [2]

[1] It is noted that because this remanded matter has, since May 4, 2004, proceeded as a consolidated petition, Iris C. Stock remains a titled petitioner, notwithstanding that the issues with respect to this individual were resolved by the Commissioner's prior decision dated June 10, 2005.

[2] By letter dated March 6, 2007 Nancy I. Oxfeld, Esq., of the firm Oxfeld Cohen, P.C., advised that the instant Initial Decision erroneously lists John Boppert, Esq. of that firm as Ms. Parise's representative in this remanded case. She reports "the record should note that while our law firm did represent Ms. Parise in the initial matter before Judge Jones (OAL Docket No. EDU 5953-03, Agency Docket No. 181-6/03), Ms. Parise represented herself pro se before the Commissioner and, upon the remand, before Judge Jones." However, by letter dated March 12, 2007,

The Board advances two exceptions to the Initial Decision. First, it avers, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) was mistaken with respect to one of the dates she utilized in the calculation of back pay awarded to petitioner. Specifically, the ALJ "ordered back pay for the period from the 121st day after the tenure charges were certified, which is correctly given as being September 26, 2003, until the date Ms. Parise started receiving her disability pension, which is given as August 1, 2005. The correct date on which the disability pension began is August 1, 2004."[3] (Board's Exceptions at 1)

Next, the Board contends that the award of any back pay to petitioner here is premature. Such is the case, it maintains, because the issue of whether Ms. Parise effectively resigned by declining the Board's offer of a .10 position created after her full time position was abolished in the RIF is still pending adjudication before ALJ Celentano at the OAL (OAL Docket No. EDU 9055-03). Should that matter be resolved in the Board's favor, any back pay which might have been due petitioner pursuant to the tenure statute would be nullified by her resignation. (Id. at 2)

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner, fully cognizant that this matter was explicitly remanded for a determination of relief due petitioner Parise as a consequence of the Board's invalid RIF of her child study team social worker position - in light of the pending tenure charges against her and her retirement on a disability pension - is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion that Ms. Parise is entitled to her full salary for the period September 26, 2003 (the 121st day after certification of the tenure charges against her, adjusted

Ms. Oxfeld filed a Substitution of Attorney form advising that, from that date forward, the firm of Oxfeld Cohen, PC would again be representing Ms. Parise in this matter.

[3] In support of this correction the Board enclosed a copy of the Appellate Division decision in the matter entitled Parise v. Board of Review and Butler Board of Education, App. Div. Dkt. No. A-5260-04T1, which confirms that petitioner's disability pension benefits became effective as of August 1, 2004.

for the fourteen-day extension she requested to file an answer to such charges)[4] to August 1, 2004[5], the effective date of her disability pension. Given the specificity of the remand directive in this matter, the Commissioner rejects as without merit the Board's exception argument that this back pay award is premature. However, such award is granted subject to recoupment should the Board ultimately prevail on its position that Ms. Parise's rejection of a .10 position - created after the abolition of her full-time position – was tantamount to her resignation, which matter is currently pending hearing at the OAL.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as clarified above. As a consequence of its improper RIF of her position, the Board is hereby directed to remit back pay to Ms. Parise for the period September 26, 2003 to August 1, 2004.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 4/11/07

[4] The Commissioner notes that the record reflects that the parties agreed that the Board's tenure charges against Ms. Parise, OAL Docket No. EDU 5793-2003, should be held in abeyance until the instant matter, involving Ms. Parise's claim that the Board improperly abolished her position, and OAL Docket No. EDU 9055-2003, involving Ms. Parise's challenge to the Board's contention that she resigned her position (currently pending at the OAL), had both been adjudicated – as the resolution of these matters might serve to render the tenure charges moot.

[5]The ALJ's use of the date August 1, 2005 in her Initial Decision order (Page 5) is an obvious typographical error (See Initial Decision, Page 4, footnote 1, paragraph 5, where it is clear that she recognized that Parise's ordinary disability became effective on August 1, 2004.)

Record Closed: January 11, 2007 Decided: February 26, 2007

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By way of background, petitioners Maria Parise and Iris Stock challenged the action of the respondent, the Board of Education of the Borough of Butler, Morris County, that eliminated their positions as tenured members of the Butler School District's child study team, due to a reduction in force (RIF). The matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as contested cases. An Order of Consolidation was entered on March 4, 2004. Thereafter, hearings were held on November 8 and 9, 2004.

On April 28, 2005, I issued an Initial Decision concluding that the RIF was invalid. It was ordered that petitioners Parise and Stock be reinstated to their positions as social workers and be given back pay, any salary adjustments and all emoluments for the period of time that their positions were reduced or eliminated.

By Decision dated June 9, 2005, the Commissioner of the Department of Education affirmed the Initial Decision but remanded the matter for determination of the appropriate relief for petitioner Parise because she had pending tenure charges against her. Further, she had retired from the District on a disability pension.

Subsequent to the Commissioner's decision, a conference was held with the parties wherein Parise noted her intention to return to work. An issue arose as to whether Parise, who suffers from multiple sclerosis and esophoria, was capable of returning to her position as a social worker.

Thereafter, Parise was examined by several doctors, including an independent medical examiner, Dr. Daniel Feuer, who found her fit to return to her former position. By letter dated January 5, 2007, the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund determined that Parise's disability had diminished and that she is capable of resuming her former duties of social worker or any other comparable duty that the District is willing to assign to her. Significantly, the Board of Trustees wrote: "if you do not have a suitable position to which Ms. Parise may return, . . . be advised that . . . under N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40 a retiree will not suffer the loss of benefits while . . . await[ing] restoration to active service."

The respondent has not returned Parise to her position because of the tenure charges and her retirement. However, since the independent medical examiner found Parise physically fit to return to work, this matter is ripe for determining the appropriate relief to be given her in light of the invalid RIF.

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-39, New Jersey teachers are entitled to retire on a disability pension provided certain requirements are met. A teacher under sixty years of age who has ten or more years of credit for New Jersey service may be retired for ordinary disability by the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:66-39(b). The teacher must first submit to a medical examination by a Board-designated physician. The physician must certify to the Board that the teacher is physically or mentally incapacitated for the performance of duty and should be retired.

Reemployment is possible after retiring on a disability pension. Indeed, the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund may require a disability beneficiary who is under the age of sixty to undergo annual medical examinations by a Board-designated physician for a period of five years following his retirement. N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40(a). This is to determine whether or not the disability that existed at the time of retirement has vanished or has materially diminished. If the physician's report shows that a beneficiary is able to perform his or her former duty or some other comparable duty that his or her former employer is willing to assign, then the beneficiary must report for duty.

The Commissioner has found that retirees have a statutory entitlement to reemployment under N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40. In Klumb v. Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District, Monmouth County, EDU 2892-03, Comm'r Decision (June 16, 2005), aff'd, State Board of Education (January 4, 2006) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, and Bublin v. Board of Education of Point Pleasant, Ocean County, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 768, 774 (Bublin II), it was found that reinstatement was mandatory, citing In the Matter of John J. Allen, 262 N.J. Super. 438 (App. Div. 1993), and Board of Police Commissioners, City of East Orange v.

Board of Trustees, Police and Firemen's Retirement System, No. A-2629-87T8 (App. Div. May 18, 1989), in which the interpretation of N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8, a statute substantially identical to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40, was found to compel reinstatement in order to carry out its legislative purpose.

The right to reinstatement, however, is not unfettered. For example, there is no requirement that an additional slot be created if there are no existing vacancies in the retiree's former position, nor will a current employee be "bumped" to make room. If there is a vacancy in the retiree's former position, then the retiree must be placed in that position. Alternatively, if there is no vacancy, then it is in the discretion of the employer whether to place the retiree into another position. Klumb, supra, Comm'r Decision (June 16, 2005) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (citing Bublin v. Bd. of Educ. of Point Pleasant, Comm'r Decision (January 26, 1994) (Bublin I)).

Here, Parise was found capable of returning to work by the independent medical examiner, and under our statutory scheme and case law she is entitled to return to her position as a school social worker. However, I FIND that Parise cannot return to her position since the respondent filed tenure charges against her on April 29, 2003, and immediately suspended her without pay. On May 14, 2003, the tenure charges were filed with the Commissioner. On May 19, 2003, Parise requested and was granted an extension of fourteen days to file an answer. The tenure charges have not been resolved and are scheduled for a hearing in April 2007.[1]

[1] In January 2002 Parise filed a handicap discrimination complaint against the respondent in the New Jersey Superior Court, Morris County. On April 29, 2003, the District filed the tenure charges and suspended her. On April 28, 2003, the District notified Parise of the RIF. On May 27, 2003, Parise notified the Board that she was refusing a .10 position. On June 9, 2003, Parise filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner regarding the RIF. On June 17, 2003, the District notified Parise that her refusal to accept a .10 position would be deemed a formal resignation. On June 27, 2003, a tenure charge was filed at the OAL under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5793-03 and assigned to the undersigned. On July 11, 2003, Parise v. Butler, an RIF case, was filed at the OAL under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5953-03 and assigned to the undersigned.

On September 10, 2003, Parise v. Butler BOE was filed at the OAL and assigned OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9055-03. Here Parise challenges the Board's action on her refusal of a .10 position. The case was assigned to ALJ Celentano.

On September 12, 2003, Parise argued in favor of a stay tenure proceeding until the Superior Court case was resolved.

On May 6, 2004, Parise filed an action alleging that the Board's refusing her a .40 position violated her tenure rights. The matter was filed under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5171-04 and assigned to ALJ Sukovich.

All dockets were stayed until disposition of the civil case. On May 24, 2004, the civil case was resolved with a verdict against Parise and in favor of the District. On August 1, 2004, Parise's ordinary disability became effective. On April 28, 2005, an Initial Decision in the RIF matter was issued and on June 9, 2005, the Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision but remanded the matter for a determination of appropriate relief.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, if a final determination is not made within 120 days after the certification of tenure charges, then the employee is entitled to his or her full salary until such determination is reached:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the Commissioner of Education is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made. Should the charge be dismissed, the person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of such suspension. Should the charge be dismissed and the suspension be continued during an appeal therefrom, then the full pay or salary of such person shall continue until the determination of the appeal. However, the board of education shall deduct from said full pay or salary any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension. Should the charge be sustained on the original hearing or an appeal therefrom, and should such person appeal from the same, then the suspension may be continued unless and until such determination is reversed, in which event he shall be reinstated immediately with full pay as of the time of such suspension.

I CONCLUDE that until a final determination is made in the tenure case, the District can continue Parise's suspension, but she is entitled to back pay. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, Parise is entitled to her full salary beginning on September 26, 2003, the 121st day after certification of the charges, adjusted for the fourteen-day extension to file her answer, until she received her disability pension, effective August 1, 2005, and it is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made and entered into on this _____ day of _____ ,2007, by and between the Newark Board of Education with offices located at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102 (hereinafter referred as the "Board"), and Eric Polhill (hereinafter referred as "Polhill"), whose address is 4Tornillo Road, West Orange, New Jersey

WHEREAS, Polhill was a tenured teacher with the Newark Board of Education during the 2005/2006 school year; and

WHEREAS, on or about January 27, 2006, Polhill requested a medical leave of absence from February 1, 2006 to March 30, 2006; and

WHEREAS, Polhill's medical condition did not improve but instead worsen during his leave of absence; and

WHEREAS, in March 2006 Polhill submitted his letter of resignation to the Board; and

WHEREAS, said letter of resignation was presumably not received by the Board; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 15, 2006, the Board filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education, asserting Polhill had abandoned his employment; and

WHEREAS, the Polhill subsequently filed an Answer with Affirmative Defenses denying that he had abandoned his position but instead had resigned therefrom; and

WHEREAS, this matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case and was Docketed as EDUTH 01306-2007N; and

WHEREAS, the parties have elected to settle all outstanding matters and allegations in dispute in lieu of a hearing so as to avoid expending further resources and to eliminate the uncertainty of litigation; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Polhill are now mutually desirous of settling the matters and allegations in dispute; and

WHEREAS, all parties have been afforded the opportunity to consider the terms of this Agreement with advice of counsel and/or a representative of their choice; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and the mutual covenants herein contained, and for other good and valuable considerations, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Polhill hereby resigns from his position of employment with the Newark Board of Education, together with all tenure and seniority rights effective March 30, 2006. See Letter of Resignation annexed hereto as Exhibit A made a part hereof. Said resignation is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

2. Polhill hereby waives any and all claims he has or could have against the Board, its agents and employees, including but not limited to claims for discrimination, tort or constitutional violation contemporaneously with the execution of this agreement.
3. This agreement shall also release and discharge the Board from any and all claims, liabilities and expenses, including claims for tenure and any contractual or statutory benefits that may have arisen from Polhill's employment with the Board.
4. Polhill, specifically acknowledges that he has been advised and has the explicit understanding that the Commissioner of Education can refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible action which could result in the revocation of his teaching certificate, pursuant to Cardonick vs. Brooklawn Board of Education, 1983 S. L. D. (State Board of Education April 6, 1983). Consult further the decision In the Matter Of The Tenure Hearing Of Lenore M. Allen, School District Of The Township Of Old Bridge, Middlesex County decided by the State Board of Education, November 2000.
5. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF FREDDIE WILLIAMS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter – wherein respondent was charged with excessive absenteeism, insubordination and unbecoming conduct – and the advisement of his failure to appear at hearing, transmitted by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, have been reviewed. On February 22, 2007, a notice providing respondent with an opportunity to submit an explanation of his nonappearance was sent to counsel by the OAL; on February 27, 2007, upon receipt of the record, the Department sent a second notice directly to respondent because his designated counsel – to whom the OAL notice was addressed – had been relieved of his obligation to provide representation by a February 16, 2007 Order of the Administrative Law Judge. Notwithstanding such notice, no explanation was filed by respondent.

In light of respondent's failure to appear at hearing, the charges against him – previously found sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary – are deemed admitted, and respondent is accordingly dismissed from his employment as a tenured custodian with the Trenton Board of Education as of the date of this decision.*

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Settlement & Release Agreement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner notes with respect to Term No. 15 that: 1) Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.1(a), records of all contested case hearings are open for public inspection unless, for good cause shown, the Administrative Law Judge orders sealing of the record, or any part thereof; and 2) the Board must comply with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq., with respect to information concerning this matter, notwithstanding any agreement the parties may have between themselves to keep the terms of their settlement confidential.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement consistent with applicable public records law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

D.G. pro se, for petitioners

Paul N. Barger, Esq., for respondent (Barger & Bolger, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 14, 2007 Decided: February 23, 2007

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

The Department of Education Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 17, 2005 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. At the request of the parties, I adjourned hearings scheduled for August 2005, January 2006, March 2006, and September 2006 in order to afford them the opportunity to complete discovery and engage in settlement discussions.

On the hearing date of January 24, 2007, the parties were able to resolve the matter and submitted the attached Settlement and Release Agreement. This Agreement was also read into the record at which time D.G. executed the Agreement and represented that he had the authority of all petitioners to consent to its terms. Additionally, counsel for respondent represented in the Agreement that it, and all the terms contained therein, is acceptable to the Board, and he affixed his signature to the Agreement to reflect that fact. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I

FIND

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT & RELEASE AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT IS MADE on this 24th day of January, 2007, by and between the Millburn Township Board of Education (the "Board") and D.G. and B.B.G. (the "Parents"), the parents of L.A.G. and O.R.G., students residing within the confines of the Millburn Township School District (the "District");

WHEREAS Petitioners filed a Petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. § 18A:6-9, alleging, among other things, discriminatory conduct by the Board; and

WHEREAS the Board has denied all of Petitioners' allegations; and

WHEREAS the parties hereto wish to amicably resolve this matter in order to avoid risk, costs and inconvenience of litigation.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises set forth below, the Board and the parents, individually and on behalf of L.A.G. and O.R.G., agree to the following terms and conditions:

1. The parents, L.A.G. and O.R.G. will be permitted to continue to work with the African American Club to develop exhibits to be displayed at the Middle School and the High School in connection with Black History Month. The parents, L.A.G. and O.R.G. are invited to meet with the District's public relations director to prepare a press release, which will be distributed to the community, regarding the exhibits.

2. The current ban prohibiting D.G. from entering the High School will be removed. As would be the case with any other District parent, the Board reserves the right to institute a subsequent ban if the situation so warrants.

3. If L.A.G. continues to act in an appropriate manner, as he has done throughout the 2006-07 school year, the Superintendent will write a college recommendation letter for L.A.G. The letter will include information regarding L.A.G.'s founding of the African American Club and recommendations that L.A.G. has made or will make regarding additions to the Millburn High School curriculum in connection with the contributions and history of African Americans.

4. The District agrees to follow the existing Board policy and Student Handbook with respect to discrimination, harassment and bullying. The Student Handbook will be provided to all students at the outset of the school year and will include information addressing peer harassment and/or discrimination on the basis of racial and/or sexual orientation.

5. The Superintendent will meet with the African American Club, if an invitation is extended by the Club, to discuss ways to improve racial sensitivity in the District. Further, the African American Club is invited to meet with members of the High School Administration to explore ways for the members to visit national historical sites regarding contributions of African Americans.

6. The Board and the Administration will continue to explore ways to attract qualified minority candidates for teaching staff positions. This includes, but is not limited to, the possibility that the Board will advertise open positions in the Amsterdam News.

7. The High School Administration will continue to ensure the safety of all students by requiring that any non-student or staff member entering the building sign in at the front office. Any violation of this rule could be considered trespassing and could result in arrest. It is the High School's policy to advise parents of any physical altercation involving their student.

8. While New Jersey law prevents the District from expunging L.A.G.'s disciplinary record for a period of five (5) years after graduation from High School, the Board agrees that L.A.G. will be treated as any other student with respect to the guidance department's treatment of college applications.

9. L.A.G. and O.R.G. are encouraged to meet with the Social Studies department and the High School Administration to present their ideas for incorporating the history and contributions of African Americans and descendants of the African Diaspora into the curriculum. The Board cannot agree to include any new items to the curriculum until after L.A.G. and O.R.G. present their ideas to the appropriate bodies. After that, a determination will be made as to whether additions to the curriculum will be considered by the Board. L.A.G. and O.R.G. will attempt to invite a representative, such as Dr. Carnell West, to attend the meeting.

10. L.A.G. is invited to meet with his guidance counselor and members of the High School Administration to explore possible scholarships or partial scholarships to assist Petitioners in funding L.A.G.'s attendance at college.

11. The parents, L.A.G. and O.R.G. agree that upon receipt of the above-referenced consideration from the Board, any and all claims, demands, liabilities, damages, costs, expenses, actions and causes of action which they now have or may hereafter have, including, but not limited to, claims for compensatory education, attorneys' fees, legal costs and expenses, against the Board, including but not limited to each and every claim which the parent made or could have made in any forum, including the Office of Administrative Law, the Superior Court or the Federal Courts, are hereby compromised and settled, released, remised, acquitted and fully discharged forever, without any further liability of the Board or any of its past, present or future agents, employees, officers, directors, divisions, successors or assigns.

12. By entering into this Agreement, the Board makes no admissions with respect to Petitioners' claim of discriminatory practices by the Board and/or District personnel. Indeed, the Board denies the allegations contained in the Petition.

13. This Settlement and Release Agreement constitutes the full and complete Agreement of the parties and may not be changed or modified. This Agreement is binding upon the parties and their respective heirs, assigns or successors in interest. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with New Jersey law. This Agreement shall be construed as if it were drafted contemporaneously by both parties.

14. This Agreement is made without any admissions of liability or responsibility by any party hereto and shall not be admissible in any legal proceeding except to enforce its terms.

15. The parties further mutually agree that the terms and conditions of this Agreement shall be kept strictly confidential and will not be disclosed to any individual that is not acting directly on behalf of any party. In the event the Agreement is required to be disclosed in any litigation, including an action to enforce the Agreement, the party or parties involved shall make every effort to have it disclosed to the court in camera and subject to an appropriate protective order maintaining the confidentiality of the Agreement to the fullest extent possible.

16. The Board, the parents, L.A.G. and O.R.G. each hereby verify, affirm and represent that they have each had the opportunity to discuss the terms of this Agreement with counsel, that they understand its contents and are entering into this Agreement voluntarily and with a full understanding of its meaning.

17. As counsel to the Board, Paul N. Barger represents that this Agreement, and all the terms contained herein, is acceptable to the Board.

18. Reverend Daryl L. George is acting on behalf of Petitioner B.B.G. and on behalf of L.A.G. and O.R.G. in entering into this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Agreement.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Settlement Agreement, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon such review, the Commissioner generally approves the parties' settlement, but cautions that she has no jurisdiction over the purchase of pension credit and cannot obligate the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity fund with respect to the settlement term (No. 4) providing that petitioner shall be entitled to buy back pension time from February 2, 2005 to November 1, 2006. For purposes of her review herein, therefore, the Commissioner shall interpret this term to mean that the Board of Education will cooperate fully in petitioner's attempt to purchase the referenced credit, subject to applicable pension law.

Accordingly, with the understanding set forth above as to the settlement term regarding purchase of pension credit, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, which is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Record Closed: March 5, 2007 Decided: March 7, 2007

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a Verified Petition filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education ("Commissioner") by Joel Brown, ("petitioner"), seeking reinstatement and restoration of salary lost as a result of unpaid suspension imposed by his employer, the Camden Board of Education ("respondent"). The Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law on September 22, 2005, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a Settlement Agreement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between these parties.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden (BOARD) and its employee Joel Brown(Brown).

WHEREAS, Brown has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a Teacher since December 1, 1992; and

WHEREAS, as of March 2003 the BOARD voted to suspend M. Brown's employment due to the instigation of criminal charges brought by the Prosecutor's Office; and

WHEREAS, the charges against Mr. Brown were dismissed, the BOARD having no known reason to continue the suspension, reinstated Mr. Brown's employment as of January 1, 2006;

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge and recognize the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the Reinstatement provisions of the Education Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. More specifically, the BOARD recognizes that under this provision, upon reinstatement it is required to reinstate full pay from the first day of such suspension. Likewise, Brown recognizes that the Board is entitled to deduct from full pay any sums received by way of substitute employment during the suspension period;

WHEREAS, the BOARD and Brown have each retained independent counsel of their own choosing, and have been advised of their respective rights and responsibilities pursuant to Title 18A; and

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made a part of this Settlement Agreement by reference;

2. The BOARD will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, the Board shall pay the sum Twenty-One Thousand Dollars ($21,000.00) into Mr. Brown's pension account.

3. The BOARD will also pay Mr. Brown the sum of Seventeen Thousand Eight Hundred Eighteen Dollars and Twenty Cents ($17,818.20);

4. Mr. Brown shall be entitled to buy back pension time from February 2, 2005 to November 1, 2006;

5. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void, the parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for a plenary hearing and the parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

6. Brown agrees that he has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that he is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that she is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of his rights and the ramifications of this Settlement Agreement entering into it on his own accord. Brown fully understands that this Settlement Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

7. The signatory for the BOARD acknowledges that the BOARD has ratified this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting.

8. The Agreement shall not take effect until the expiration of the Governor's statutory veto period, which is fifteen (15) days after a certified copy of the Board's minutes is received in the Governor's office.

9. The parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements concerning the reasons they believe this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board of Education challenged the Department's denial of funding for certain items in its revised 2007-2008 Preschool Operational Plan. The Department determined that the food service expenditures for petitioner's preschool program should be placed in petitioner's general food service budget, within its "Fund 50" enterprise fund, which was established for program activities that can generate income to offset costs. Petitioner asserts that the Department acted in an arbitrary manner in denying the food service costs, as such costs were allowed in 2006-2007.

The ALJ found that: the Department's directive to place preschool food service expenses in the "Fund 50" was appropriate given the nature of the district's food service operation and the purpose of the enterprise fund; the Department did not act in an arbitrary manner in its method of funding the preschool food program; and the principles of estoppel and waiver do not generally apply to government agencies. The ALJ concluded that the District failed to meet its burden to prove that additional state aid is necessary for its in-district preschool food program, and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings, noting that the issues in this matter were already addressed and well articulated in a previous Commissioner's decision dated April 15, 2005. The Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

This matter was precipitated by respondent Department of Education's (Department) denial of the petitioning school board's requests for early childhood funds for food service salaries, benefits and other operating costs, and petitioner's appeal of same. The Department determined that the food service expenditures for petitioner's preschool program should be placed in petitioner's general food services budget, within its "Fund 50," which was established for program activities that can generate income to offset costs. The Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and the Department that such allocation is appropriate for reasons already articulated in the Commissioner's April 15, 2005 decision entitled Board of Education of the City of Vineland v. New Jersey Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 660-05, Agency Dkt. No. 41-2/05.

In that decision, the Commissioner articulated two reasons why it was reasonable for the Department to determine that food service expenses for pre-school programs should not be segregated from food service expenditures for the entire Vineland school district:

> (1) School district budgets include a differentiated auxiliary fund (Fund 50) expressly for those programs such as food services which generate both revenue and expenditures, with the expectation that, where a program contributes revenues, associated costs will also be handled through the fund, the goal being to reach eventual self-sufficiency; and 2) the Board's food service operations are district-wide, so that there is no practical or budgetary reason to segregate preschool food service costs from those for K-12.
> Board of Education of the City of Vineland, supra, at 3.

Thus, the Commissioner determined that because of the district-wide nature of petitioner's food service operation and the existence of the enterprise fund, such food service needs as staffing should be funded and assessed within the context of the district's general budget.

Petitioner argues now, as it did in 2005, that it is unfair for the respondent to fund food service programs of private early childhood education providers, but to decline to allocate to petitioner extra food service funds specifically dedicated to petitioner's early childhood program. The Commissioner expressly rejected that argument in 2005, because private early childhood providers are not similarly situated to petitioner as regards the above articulated reasons for denying petitioner separate funding for food services. More specifically, many such private providers do not belong to larger organizations with food service operations from which they may receive support, and their frequently smaller size prevents them from having the benefit of economy of scale.

In addition, the Commissioner notes that the record in this case indicates that private providers must participate in the USDA's Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFD) (Exhibit P-7).[1] Department witness Karin Garver testified (hearing transcript, page 124) that membership in the CACFD imposes the obligation upon private providers to show a stable funding source. This requirement, not imposed upon public school early childhood programs such as petitioner's, would be a difficult requirement to satisfy for many private providers who serve small, fluctuating numbers of pre-school children, were it not for their eligibility to receive funding from the public school districts that they serve.

Finally, petitioners contend that the Department's denial of funding for food services in the 2007-2008 school year is arbitrary and capricious because the Department granted petitioner a special request for $54,000 for food service workers for the 2006-2007 school year. Petitioner did not, however, meet its burden to show arbitrariness. The Commissioner notes that the Department's Early Childhood Education Office's budget instructions and guidance for Abbott preschool programs (Exhibit P-13) is expressly designed for one-year budgets. In addition, as the ALJ found, budgets are subject to cycles and fluctuating circumstances and forecasts. The fact that the Department may have granted a request for food service funds in one year but not in another does not create a precedent or requirement that such grants of public monies continue. [2]

Accordingly, the petition is dismissed.

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Vineland School District (petitioner or District) is an Abbott District as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:24-1.2. On February 7, 2007, the Department of Education (Department or DOE) approved a $15,033,047 budget for the District's three and four year old early childhood program. The Department denied the District's special requests for increased teacher's and teacher's aide's salaries in the amount of $64,323 and its special requests for food service costs in the amount of $49,383. The Department also retracted its approval of the District's special request for food service salaries and benefits in the amount of $44,768. The District appealed, seeking additional funding. The parties resolved the District's request for increased teacher's and teacher's aide's salaries in the amount of $64,323. Accordingly, the District withdrew its request based upon the resolution. This left the District's request for an additional $94,151, comprised of food service costs in the amount of $49,383 and salaries and benefits of $44,768 as the contested issues.

The Department asserts the additional funding sought by the District is unnecessary because food service costs and related expenses are part of an enterprise fund within the District. The enterprise funds are required to operate under similar financial constraints as private business. Therefore, any anticipated deficit should be resolved by reappropriating funds, increasing revenues or decreasing expenses, rather than through requests for additional state aid. For the reasons stated below, I am DENYING the District's request for additional funding.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 13, 2007, the District filed an appeal of the Commissioner's decision. The matter was received by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 13, 2007, as an expedited contested case. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The matter was heard on March 5, 2007. Post-hearing submissions were submitted on March 12, 2007.

SUMMARY OF MATERIAL FACTS

The Vineland school district provides educational programs for approximately 11,000 students, of which 1,272 are enrolled in the early childhood program. The District's total budget is approximately $140,000,000. Eighty percent of the District's budget is state funded, ten percent from property tax levies and another ten percent from other sources, such as federal grants. The Department approved a $15,033,047 for the District's early childhood program. This correlates to approximately $11,818 per early childhood pupil.

The District's food operations are part of a program called the Enterprise Fund or Fund 50. Enterprise funds are costs centers within the District operations that are intended to function like a private enterprise. These cost centers are intended to generate their own revenues, control their expenses and either break even or generate a profit.

The District contends that its early childhood program food services will generate a deficit of approximately $94,151 for 2007-08. The deficit has two specific categories. Food costs will generate a deficit of $49,383. Food service workers' salaries and benefits will generate a deficit of $44,768.

Here, the District has carved out or isolated the food operations for the early childhood program separate and apart from the remaining food operations for the entire District. The early childhood food program was isolated from the remaining food service operations so additional funding could be obtained from Abbott aide.

The District's urges that it has utilized all of the revenue sources within the pre-K food cost center. This cost center cannot generate any further revenue and reduce expenses. For example, only eighty students out of the 1,272 pay full price for lunch. And, there is a cap on the amount the District can charge as a "full price." Currently the District charges $2.20 as its full price. Witnesses for the District contend that the maximum amount they can charge is $2.25 as set by the National Lunch Program (NLP). The amount ($2.25) was only an estimate of the ceiling. The actual ceiling was not known by either party. It has been confirmed, however, by the Department in its post-hearing brief. (Exhibit B-post; hearing brief). If an added five cents were charged to eighty students, it would only contribute an additional $720 towards its anticipated deficit. However, if the District charged an additional $.05 for all students who paid full price (grades pre-K through12), it would generate an additional $29,000 toward the deficit (3,240 students X $.05 X 180 days).

The District also asserts that it cannot reduce the expense side of the equation. The District seeks an additional $44,768 for workers' salaries and benefits. The workers are unionized. Their salaries and benefits are controlled by a Collective Bargaining Agreement. Therefore, the District is unable to negotiate worker salaries outside of the collective bargaining process.

Finally, the District seeks an additional $49,383 for food costs. The food items are purchased through a food cooperative. This gives the District additional buying power. It offers the District the most cost-effective means to purchase food items. Again, in terms of the projected 2007-08 deficit, little more can be done to reduce the pre-k food costs.

The Department asserts that the District has the means to operate in a financially prudent and constrained manner by utilizing the Enterprise Fund concept. The District carved out the pre-K portions of its food operations to reflect the deficit. The Department contends that, if the food service operations are viewed as a whole, including pre-K and K through 12, there would be sufficient means to generate savings to the deficit related to the pre-K food program. The pre-K food program is but a small segment of other larger food operations within the district. For example, the District has operated with a deficit for approximately the past nine years. Each year the District was able to reallocate funds between cost centers to offset any deficit in the pre-K food program. In prior years, the District was able to allocate monies from other food cost centers or from the general fund. The Department also asserts that the District could privatize the food service operations in order to eliminate its internal deficit.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

The early childhood program is required to provide each student with an enriched, balanced, nutritious food program. N.J.A.C. 2:36-1.2. The early childhood program provides student meals in three categories: fully paid, reduced and free. Lunch programs are also offered through two distinct outlets; 1) in-district lunch program; and 2) lunch programs at private learning centers. The present dispute involves the in-district lunch program. A fully paid lunch for the early childhood program is approximately $2.20. The reduced rate varies depending on the child's financial situation.

Here, the District's 2007-08 budget for its pre-K early childhood programs is $15,043,047. The cost per pupil is approximately $11,818. The District is petitioning for additional Abbott funding in the amount of $94,151. The additional funding, expressed as a percentage of the total Abbott funding, is ½ of one percent.

The district assets that its in-district lunch program is being treated differently than the private-provider programs. The in-district program must pay a percentage of the deficit whereas the providers do not. This is fact is not disputed. But, providers are not subject to the enterprise fund. Providers submit entirely different budget requests. (cf. P-13 and P-7). Therefore, inequities do exist but, it is by design in the budget process.

The District also asserts that the Department is acting arbitrary in its method of funding the pre-K food program. The Department denied funding in 2005-06, then in 2006-07 provided funding is the amount of $54,000 for food service workers. Now, it is again denying funding in 2007-08. The District argues such conduct constitutes a waiver or estoppel. Moreover, the Department is acting outside the Abbott regulations and cases. I DISAGREE as discussed below.

The Abbott funding is, in part, a budgetary process. This process involves cycles, changes, revisions and the like. Here, the Department provided $15 million in Abbott aide. This dispute centers on a very small segment. And, the segment at issue is an enterprise fund. The very core of an enterprise fund concept is to adjust revenues and expenses in order to break even. Applying this concept to the case at hand, the food operations can either be looked at in gross, which is all food operations for the District, or in groups, i.e. pre-K and K through 12. The District isolated the pre-K food operations. It asserts that the pre-K food operations will operate at a deficit. It therefore needs additional funding to offset the anticipated deficit.

The Department asserts that if all food operations are grouped together, funds can be reallocated, in accordance with the enterprise concept, and close the deficit. Therefore, the District's request for additional funding tailored solely for the pre-K program is inappropriate.

The enterprise concept requires all in-district food operations to be looked at in total. This way, shortfalls in some cost centers can be offset by the reallocation of resources from other solvent cost centers. This argument has particular merit during a time of financial restraint and difficulty currently being experienced by the state, of which I take judicial notice. Evid. R. 201. Presenting the pre-K in-district food program deficit in isolation from the other enterprise funds distorts financial picture.

The request by the District is not significant in the larger scheme. The request is for an additional ½ of one percent of Abbott funding for in-district food operations. The District maintains that if it is unable to receive additional funding, it cannot reallocate resources, and would have to cut programs. This argument was not well supported. And, past experience refutes that contention. As brought out by the Department, the District has experienced deficits in its food operations over the last nine years and has successfully reallocated resources. The District did not demonstrate its inability to reallocate resources to the significant detriment of any programs. There was no competent evidence that important programs are in jeopardy in the absence of more aide. The District has not exhausted all resources in its enterprise funds, including raising the food reimbursement rate, reallocating monies from other enterprise funds on a school wide basis, or privatizing services. See, Board of Educ. of the City of Vineland v . N.J. Dep't of Educ. OAL DKT No. EDU 660-05 (March 24, 2005); adopted in part and reversed in part, Com'r of Education Agency DKT No. 136-05 (April 15, 2005).

Finally, I CONCLUDE that estoppel and waiver do not apply. These principles generally do not apply to government agencies. Buonviaggio v. Hillsborough Twp. Comm., 122 N.J. 5, 17 (1991). Here, there was no detrimental reliance raised by the District or any manifest injustice. The limited issue involved budgets. And, they are subject to cycles, changes, estimates, revisions and the like. Funding may vary year-to-year.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the District failed to meet its burden of proof that additional Abbott aide is necessary for its pre-K in-district, food program.

I ORDER that the relief sought by the District is DENIED and the petition DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within twenty-five days as provided under the existing orders of the New Jersey Supreme Court and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

#134-07

PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Pemberton Board of Education sought to recoup a tuition overpayment to the Burlington County Special Services District (BCSSD) for the 2000-01 school year, based on the Department of Education's January 27, 2004 recertification of such rates. Pemberton also sought return to sending local district boards of education of that amount of BCSSD's 2004-05 surplus exceeding the permissible level of 10%.

The ALJ dismissed Pemberton's petition as to recoupment of 2000-01 overpayment because he found it to be untimely, holding that Pemberton should have filed its appeal within 90 days of receiving notice of the recertified rates in February 2004. The ALJ granted the petition as to return of BCSSD's excess surplus, devising an ad hoc method for this purpose in the apparent belief that proposed rules had not yet been finalized by the State Board of Education.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision in part, and rejected it in part. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that Count One of the petition was untimely filed, since Pemberton had sufficient information to protect its rights by appealing within 90 days of becoming aware of the recertified rates notwithstanding the ongoing efforts of staff to resolve the matter informally. The Commissioner did not, however, concur with the ALJ's method of returning BCSSD's excess surplus, finding that the State Board had, in fact, adopted the referenced rules in September 2006 and that the Department soon thereafter made adjustments to BCSSD's 2004-05 excess surplus consistent with them. Because Pemberton had already received the relief it sought in a manner consistent with rule and policy of the State Board, the Commissioner dismissed Count Two of the petition as moot.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions to the Initial Decision were filed by both petitioner (Pemberton or the Board) and respondent (BCSSD); BCSSD's exceptions, however, were untimely filed and consequently not considered herein.[1] Neither party replied to the other's exceptions.

In its exceptions, Pemberton first objects to the November 5, 2005 Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ)[2] dismissing Count One of the Petition, wherein the Board sought to recoup a tuition overpayment to BCSSD for the 2000-01 school year based on rates recertified by the Department of Education (Department) in January 2004. The Board contends that the ALJ erred in finding that its petition was required to be filed within 90 days of February 23, 2004 – the date it learned of the recertified rate – since Pemberton's business

[1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, exceptions were due thirteen days from the mailing date of the Initial Decision (February 21, 2007), or March 6, 2007. Respondent's exceptions dated March 6, 2007 were mailed on that date and filed on March 8, 2007.

[2] Noted in the Initial Decision at 2 and appealed at the end of the contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j).

administrator did not become aware that the revised certification would not result in an adjustment to the Board's tuition liability for the 2004-05 school year until she received verbal notice to this effect from the Department in response to her May 19, 2004 memorandum. Moreover, Pemberton claims, even if the ALJ's deadline were to be accepted, relaxation of the 90-day rule is warranted pursuant to Brunetti v. Borough of New Milford, 68 N.J. 576, 586 (1975). The Board explains:

> The rates sought to be invoked here were those set forth in the Department's letter of January 27, 2004. When and how would this letter put Pemberton on guard that BCSSD would not apply the new rates? It wouldn't. When, then, did Pemberton find out that BCSSD would not apply the new rates? When should have Pemberton known that its rights were in jeopardy? Certainly not for the first 90 days after BCSSD got the January 27, 2004 letter. BCSSD could have challenged the new rates during this time period. In any event, BCSSD never told Pemberton about the new rates. That information came from an informal fax from a Department employee on February 23, 2004. But that fax only indicated that the new rates existed, not that BCSSD would ignore them. The February 23, 2004 fax in any event was still within the time period when BCSSD could have challenged the new rates. During this time period there could be no expectation that BCSSD would not challenge the rates, or, if no appeal was taken, that the new rates wouldn't be applied. Therefore, until April 28, 2004 (90 days after January 27), no expectation could exist that required action by Pemberton. After April 28, 2004, [Pemberton Business Administrator] Austin repeatedly tried to find out what was going on. No definitive decision was ever forthcoming: not from BCSSD, not from the County Superintendent, and not from the Department. It was not until May 19, 2004, and then on a most informal basis, that Ms. Austin and therefore Pemberton, found out that BCSSD would not apply the new rates and that a challenge to this decision, the decision not to follow the January 27, 2004 directive, should be mounted. A Petition filed on August 10, 2004 is timely. Even if it is not, the informal nature and ex parte nature of how Pemberton gathered sufficient facts to put it on guard that its rights were being adversely effected (sic) warrant a relaxation of the rules to permit a late filing. Count One should be reinstated. Pemberton's cross motion requiring modification of the tuition rate and reimbursement for overpayments should be granted.
> (Pemberton's Exceptions at 3-5, quotation at 4-5)

Pemberton further excepts to the relief ordered by the ALJ as a result of his finding – on Count Two of the Board's petition – that BCSSD maintained a fund balance in excess of 10%. On this point, the Board reiterates its arguments – summarized in the Initial Decision at 10 – with respect to rules "proposed" by the Department,[3] contending that neither the rule proposal nor the remedy crafted by the ALJ are sufficiently refined to ensure that sending districts are, in fact, fully and fairly compensated for prior tuition overcharges, and that a methodology must be devised to address "all of the concerns with the system" so as to rectify the "basic unfairness" of both its current and proposed forms. (Pemberton's Exceptions at 5-7, quotations at 7)

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner adopts the Order of the ALJ finding Count One of Pemberton's appeal untimely filed, but rejects the relief ordered in the Initial Decision as to Count Two.

With respect to the question of timeliness, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that Pemberton should have acted to file its petition within 90 days of learning of the recertified rates on February 23, 2004. While this notice alone – as observed by the ALJ – might not necessarily alert a sending board to a cause of action against a receiving district, it cannot be overlooked that in this matter such notice was received under circumstances where: 1) the clear terms of rule and contract[4] provided for tuition adjustments to be made not later than the third year (2003-04) following the contract year in question (2000-01) and the adjustment sought by the Board in response to the recertification would need to be effectuated outside that regulatory and contractual time frame; and 2) it was evident by early-to-mid-April at the very latest – well within 90 days of February 23 – that BCSSD was taking no action of any kind toward making

[3] The rules at issue were, in fact, adopted by the State Board of Education on September 8, 2006. 38 N.J.R. 4178(b). Pemberton's references to the "current" form of the rule cite to its language prior to the September 2006 amendment. See Note 6 below.

[4] See N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.1(f)6, 6A:23-3.4(g)-(h); see also BCSSD's Memorandum in Reply to the Opposition to Motion for Summary Judgment and in Further Support of Respondent's Application (R-6), Exhibit A (Special Education Tuition Contract Agreement for County Special Services Districts). The current rules and contract are substantially the same as those in effect during the period at issue.

the requested adjustment.[5] Under these facts, there is no question that Pemberton should have acted to protect its rights by filing an appeal within 90 days of its notice of the recertified rates – i.e., on or before May 23, 2004 – notwithstanding the persistent efforts of its Business Administrator to resolve the matter informally through BCSSD directly, and by seeking assistance from staff in the Department's Division of Finance and others. Riely v. Hunterdon Central Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980), Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993)

With respect to Pemberton's claim for refund of surplus held by BCSSD during the 2004-05 school year above the level (10%) permitted by law, the Commissioner finds this matter to be moot as a dispute between the parties in light of the State Board of Education's adoption – on September 8, 2006[6] – of rules establishing a mechanism for refund of excess surplus to sending districts, and the Department's October 20, 2006 application of that rule to 2004-05 balances for all special services districts, including BCSSD (Exhibit R-12). Given that the State Board has now spoken – as a matter of policy and law – as to how the issue raised by Count Two of Pemberton's petition is to be handled for 2004-05 and prospectively, and given that Pemberton has already been accorded the relief it sought in Count Two of its petition in a manner consistent with the State Board's directive, there is no basis on which the Commissioner can sanction a different result as recommended by the ALJ. To the extent Pemberton believes that the mechanism established by the newly adopted rule is insufficient and not responsive to its concerns, the Board's remedy lies in the rulemaking processes of the Administrative Procedure Act,[7] not in the contested case process – where the result it seeks would, in effect, cause the Commissioner to engage in improper rulemaking through her decision in this matter. Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313 (1984).

[5] See Certification of Pat Austin (Exhibit P-1), ¶17-24 and attached Exhibits 4-8; Pemberton's Memorandum in Opposition to Motion for Summary Judgment (Exhibit P-2) at 4-5 and 7-8; and Pemberton's Responses to Interrogatories (Exhibit P-3), attached exhibits A, D and F.

[6] See Note 3 above. It appears from the record and the Initial Decision that neither Pemberton nor the ALJ realized that the "proposed" rules referenced throughout proceedings at the OAL had actually been adopted by the State Board. Additionally, while BCSSD's filings from mid-to-late December 2006 (Exhibits R-12, R-13) indicate that the Department had devised a procedure addressing the issue of excess surplus and made the requisite adjustments to the benefit of sending districts, they do not explicitly state that the proposed rules were enacted into law.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted in part and rejected in part, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed as untimely filed (Count One) and moot (Count Two).

INITIAL DECISION
AS TO RESPONDENT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION TO DISMISS COUNT 2 OF PETITION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8568-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 278-8/04

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY, Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

Frederick W. Hardt, Esq., for petitioner
John T. Kelley, Esq., for respondent (Kelley, Wardell & Craig, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 3, 2007 Decided: February 13, 2007

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, Burlington County, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education on August 10, 2005, seeking a refund of tuition it claims it overpaid to respondent Burlington County Special Services District for the 2000-2001 school year, and a determination that respondent's surplus exceeds limits imposed by the regulations. Petitioner seeks an order that such surplus be reduced and refunded to all affected school districts. In its answer to the petition, respondent generally denied petitioner's claims, raised the issue of the timeliness of the petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 and counter-petitioned for monies which it alleges is owed to it by petitioner.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 14, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to me on November 18, 2004. On July 5, 2005, respondent filed a motion to dismiss Count 1 of the petition. After oral argument on the motion, I entered an Order on November 3, 2005, granting respondent's motion to dismiss Count 1 of the petition as untimely under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). I then scheduled further proceedings to address the remaining issues. At the request of the parties, I scheduled a settlement conference for February 1, 2006. Following this, the parties contacted the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) in an effort to have the matter resolved by the Department. In May 2006, I was advised by the parties that the DOE would not take a position in the matter and the parties agreed that the matter must be addressed in this proceeding. The parties agreed to provide stipulated facts. When a stipulation of facts was not forthcoming, I directed the parties to submit a motion to address the legal issues. On June 26, 2006, respondent filed a motion for summary decision seeking dismissal of Count 2 of the petition (R-7, R-8 and R-9). Respondent replied (P-4, P-5 and P-6), and after additional submissions (P-7 and R-10), I closed the record with respect to this motion on October 6, 2006.

During my writing of the Initial Decision in this matter, I had concerns whether the proposed remedy I was considering would take into account specific details of the free balance in question or other information which was not of record. For this reason, I arranged a conference with counsel on November 6, 2006, to discuss these concerns. In an effort to address all outstanding issues in a proper manner, and in order to finalize this matter, I offered to counsel the opportunity to address the issue of the proper remedy and both counsel agreed to do so. Accordingly, I reopened the record on November 6, 2006, to allow counsel to submit their arguments on this issue. Upon receipt of these additional arguments, I closed the record on January 3, 2007.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Undisputed facts

A review of the pleadings filed by the parties in this matter, respondent's Statement of Uncontested Material Facts, and the briefs and submissions of both parties establishes the following as the undisputed facts herein.

The petitioner is a local board of education located in Pemberton Township, Burlington County. It is an Abbott[1] school district and receives special needs assistance as one of thirty-one poor urban districts within the State with special needs. Among its responsibilities, petitioner is required to identify children with special needs and to develop for each of them an individualized educational program (IEP) and placement under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. §§1400-1491. For students with certain disabilities, this may require sending them to an out-of-district educational facility specializing in the education of special needs children because the school district does not have the programs and services necessary to implement the IEP.

Respondent Burlington County Special Services District (BCSSD) is a body corporate and politic which operates schools for students with special needs. It accepts such students from local school districts and, in so doing, it is executing the school district's responsibility to educate students on behalf of their home school district.

[1] Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 119 (1997).

The BCSSD educates many of the petitioner's special education students for which the petitioner pays tuition. Tuition rates are set and are subject to control by the DOE. The BCSSD is permitted to charge for tuition of those pupils, a sum not to exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined for each special education program or for the special services school district, according to the rules prescribed by the Commissioner and approved by the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-31(b), This is referred to as the "certified rate."

The DOE is to assure that the rates charged are in keeping with the limits set. The DOE periodically monitors and reviews the accounts of schools such as respondents. In an effort to get the rates correct it is not uncommon for the DOE to adjust or re-certify the tuition rates. It is also not uncommon for the certified rate to be re-certified after an initial rate has been found to be in error.

In the present case, for the school year 2000-2001, there were at least two rates struck. The first rate was certified in a November 21, 2002, letter from the DOE. It is not disputed that on November 21, 2002, the Commissioner of Education issued certified costs per pupil for tuition adjustment for the 2000-2001 school year. (R-5, Exhibit A.) On February 1, 2003, the petitioner's superintendent was advised of the adjustment for the 2000-2001 school year. (R-5, Exhibit B.) That led to a request contained in a letter dated February 1, 2003, that Pemberton reimburse BCSSD the amount of $441,319.02 for the year 2000-2001. On January 27, 2004, the Commissioner revised the tuition adjustments for the 2000-2001 school year. (R-5, Exhibit C.)

A second rate for the 2000-2001 school year, presumably based on re-consideration of the factors considered by the DOE in setting a rate, was set on or about January 27, 2004. Retro-tuition adjustments for 2000-2001 for BCSSD were made in 2003-2004 as a direct deduction from Pemberton Township's State Aid payments. These deductions would be then paid to BCSSD by the DOE. Total deductions were $441,319. and were based on the original 2000-2001 certified rate.

Pursuant to statute and regulations, a special services school district may carry a general fund balance no greater than ten percent of the annual budget. N.J.S.A. 18:46-31. It is not disputed that for the period 2004-2005, the free balance of the BCSSD district exceeded the ten percent permissible limit.

Petitioner submitted the following to supplement same. In response to petitioner's request, a representative of the DOE replied by e-mail and has confirmed the following:

a. On January 27, 2004, a re-certified rate was calculated for Burlington County Special Services for the 2000-2001 school year.

b. The original rates for 2000-2001 were overstated since the District submitted data through the School Register Summary that was incorrect. BCSSD reported students by classification and not by program.

c. The number of students sent to BCSSD by Pemberton Township in 2000-2001, was 169. Currently for the school year 2005-06, Pemberton is sending 98 students.

d. Pemberton Township's student population sent to BCSSD is declining. Therefore, the re-certified rates for 2000-2001 should be applied to the 170 students sent in 2000-2001 and not in a future adjustment since Pemberton Township would not be fairly compensated.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

It is undisputed that during the school year 2004-2005, the general fund budget of respondent exceeded the ten percent limitation on undesignated general fund balance. Therefore, the issue before me involves a determination as to the appropriate remedy, if any, for respondent's maintaining of an undesignated general fund balance exceeding ten percent of the general fund budget.

N.J.S.A. 18A:46-31(b) allows the maintaining of an undesignated general fund balance not to exceed ten percent of the general fund budget exclusive of tuition adjustments of prior years. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.4(e)(2) provides the method of determining tuition rates for county special services districts and provides that if the ending general fund free balance is equal to or greater than ten percent of its general fund budget for the year the tuition rate applies, no amount shall be added to the net cost of any tuition category. However, there is no statutory or regulatory provision establishing a mechanism in the tuition certification process to "give back" excess charges because of an incorrect certification.

Respondent concedes that the parties are generally in accord that the excess free balance must be returned in a way that meets the mandates of both the statute and the administrative regulations. Both petitioner and respondent have contacted the DOE seeking guidance as to how this should be accomplished. To date, a mechanism for the return of these funds has not been promulgated by the DOE.

Respondent takes the position that it must comply with the directions of the DOE, but only when regulations are issued dealing with this issue. Since there is an absence of regulations at present, respondent contends that an order should be entered directing that respondent comply with the directions of the Department of Education at such time as they are issued, and that the petitioner's petition should be dismissed because there is no dispute between the parties.

Respondent further contends in its response to petitioner's position that petitioner is attempting to reargue its time-barred and dismissed claim set forth in Count 1 of the petition.

In response, the petitioner concedes that there is no mechanism in the tuition certification process to "give back" excess charges because of an incorrect certification. However, it points out that even the respondent acknowledges the existence of excess funds in its general fund balance.

Petitioner points out that the Pemberton Township School District is an "Abbott" district and is one of the thirty-one poorest, urban districts in the State of New Jersey warranting special aid and assistance. To make matters worse, on May 9, 2006, the New Jersey Supreme Court issued an order which permitted the State to freeze this special aid at the level of prior years. Petitioner contends that since it is an "Abbott" school district, it is confronted with serious and immediate financial issues and cannot afford to wait indefinitely for reimbursement from respondent.

Petitioner argues that jurisdiction exists in the present matter to direct the reimbursement requested and that petitioner is entitled to reimbursement in the amount of $441,319. In the alternative petitioner requests that respondent be directed to deposit the excess funds in an escrow account until the DOE determines an alternate mechanism for reimbursement.

Analysis

N.J.S.A. 18A:46-31.b. provides in relevant part as follows:

> The board of education of any county special services school district . . . shall be entitled to collect and receive from sending districts . . . for the tuition of those pupils, a sum not to exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined for each special education program or for the special services school district, according to rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State Board.

A further provision in this same section states:

> An undesignated general fund balance of 10 percent of the general fund budget exclusive of tuition adjustments of prior years may be maintained.

N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.4 provides the method of determining tuition rates for county special services districts. Subsection (e)2 of that section provides:

> If the county special services district board of education's ending general fund free balance is equal to or greater than 10 percent of its general fund budget for the year the tuition rate applies, no amount shall be added to the net cost of any tuition category.

When tuition rates are certified and the surplus exceeds ten percent, no amount is subtracted from the net tuition cost of any tuition category. There is no mechanism in the tuition certification process to "give back" excess charges because of an incorrect certification.

The DOE is to assure that the rates charged are in keeping with the limits set; in an effort to get the rates correct it is not uncommon for the DOE to adjust or re-certify the tuition rates; it is also not uncommon for the certified rate to be re-certified after an initial rate has been found to be in error.

There is no doubt that respondent has excess funds in its general fund balance for the 2004-2005 school year, and I so FIND. I agree with the parties that there is no mechanism, procedure or formula set forth in either the statutes or the regulations dealing with the tuition certification process to "give back" excess charges the cause of an incorrect certification. I have been unable to find any case law or other guidance that is directly on point as to how to decide this matter.

However, I FIND it legally indefensible to allow the respondent to retain funds in violation of a specific provision of the law which prohibits such retention. Under these circumstances, I FIND that it is necessary for the DOE to fashion a remedy which requires that the excess free balance be returned in a way that meets the mandates of both the statute and the administrative regulations.

The only case I have been able to find which gives some guidance as to how to approach this question is In Re Fees of State Board of Dentistry, 84 N.J. 582 (1980). While that case clearly differs from the present matter, I FIND that the legal principles contained therein provide assistance in formulating a remedy in the present matter.

In the State Board of Dentistry case, the appellant dental association challenged the State Board's increase in registration fees for dentists. The statute in question, N.J.S.A. 45:1-3.2, provided that fees shall not be fixed at a level that will raise amounts in excess of the amount estimated to be required. The purpose of the statute was to ensure that fees set by State agencies pursuant to the statute would not generate revenues in excess of the needs of the agencies. Over four years after the filing of this challenge, the lower court held that the State Board's amended regulation, which increased the registration fees, was in conflict with the applicable statute and was invalid. When the agency refused to refund the monies collected under the invalidated regulation, the appellant filed motions in aid of litigant's rights and a petition for a rehearing. The lower court denied both motions and the petition.

The Supreme Court held that the case should be remanded to the State Board of Dentistry for the calculation and distribution of a refund based on the difference between the fees collected during the years in question and the Board's actual expenses during those years, supra at 586. To determine the proper amount to be refunded for collections made in past years, actual expenses, not estimated ones, were determined to be the proper measure. That refund was being distributed to all dentists who paid registration fees under the invalidated fee schedule.

The Court stated that basic principles of honesty and equity mandated this result. Furthermore, there is no basis in law for the Board to retain the disputed funds since they were collected in violation of the statute. To hold otherwise would allow the Board to enrich itself unjustly at the expense of the members of the Association and would violate one of the cardinal principles of the common law, requiring restitution to prevent unjust enrichment. "[T]he law raises an assumption to refund the money which can no longer be honestly retained." The taxing entity has "not a particle of right to the money in question," which is due to the taxpayer "according to the principles of common honesty." Id. at 586-588

Applying the foregoing principles, I FIND that there is no basis in law for the respondent to retain the excess funds in its general fund balance for the 2004-2005 school year, since their continued retention is in violation of the statute. To hold otherwise would allow the respondent to enrich itself unjustly at the expense of the sending districts and would violate one of the cardinal principles of the common law, requiring restitution to prevent unjust enrichment. The law raises an assumption to refund the money which can no longer be honestly retained.

Based upon my determination that respondent is required to refund tuition collected which results in its free balance exceeding the ten percent limitation, I became concerned that in establishing a remedy I might fail to take into account specific details of the free balance in question in order to establish an appropriate remedy. As I stated in the Statement of the Case and Procedural History, I reopened the record on November 18, 2006, to allow counsel to submit their arguments on this issue.

In his letter of December 11, 2006 (R-11), attorney for respondent attached as Exhibit A thereto a process used by respondent in calculating the proportional refund to be paid to sending districts of any excess unreserved general fund balance. He asserts that this process uses the same paradigm used by the DOE in determining the annual budget in order to calculate the funds to be returned to the sending districts. He requested that I adopt this as an exhibit so that this procedure could be approved by the DOE. In his letter of December 15, 2006 (R-12), attorney for respondent asserts that in the DOE's Certification of Rates for the 2004-2005 school year (attached to R-12), it has already adjusted the general fund balance to resolve the issue of the excess general fund balance. Finally, in his letter of December 21, 2006 (R-13), attorney for respondent contends that it is up to the DOE to resolve this issue and that it has established a procedure to do so as set forth in his letter of December 15, 2006 (R-12).

In response to the foregoing, in his letter of December 18, 2006 (P-8), attorney for petitioner points out that a procedure has been proposed by the DOE to be adopted by regulation which attempts to deal with this tuition refund issue, and that it would not be appropriate to fail to recognize these efforts in rule-making. In addition, attorney for petitioner points out that fund balances are impacted by over-estimated or under-estimated revenues, by capital reserves that are not considered in the net cost adjustment, and by revenues that are not considered part of costs associated to special services districts. In addition, unauthorized transfers in expenditures to avoid generating additional surplus impact the excess surplus calculation and should also be considered. For these reasons attorney for petitioner urged that I affirm my draft decision and leave the ultimate methodology for such refunds to be established by the Commissioner of Education. In a second letter of December 18, 2006 (P-9), attorney for petitioner again urged that I issue my draft decision as the Initial Decision in this matter. By letter dated December 27, 2006 (P-10), attorney for petitioner reiterated this request.

I have considered the foregoing submissions in determining an appropriate remedy in this matter. I did not find these submissions to be helpful in deciding the appropriate specific method of calculating the refund amount. Therefore, I have determined that I would set forth in general terms what I believe to be the correct method.

I FIND that in order to determine the correct amount to be refunded the respondent should first be required to calculate a total refund amount based on the difference between the tuition collected during the year or years in which its free balance exceeds the ten percent limitation and the amount determined by adding the respondent's actual expenses plus a ten percent free balance during those years. I FIND that the resulting amount should then be divided among all sending districts in proportion to the total amount of any payments made by each sending district for the year in question. I FIND that these calculations should then be submitted to the DOE for its approval and, if so approved, the refunds should be made by respondent to the petitioner and to all other sending districts.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, I hereby ORDER that the respondent shall be required to refund the amount of any excess tuition collected during the year or years in which its free balance exceeds the ten percent limitation. I ORDER that the respondent shall calculate the amount of the refund based on the difference between the tuition collected during the year or years in which its free balance exceeds the ten percent limitation and the amount determined by adding the respondent's actual expenses plus a ten percent free balance during those years. I further ORDER that the resulting amount shall then be divided among all sending districts in proportion to the total amount of any tuition payments made by each sending district for the year in question. I ORDER that these calculations shall then be submitted to the DOE for its approval and, if so approved, I ORDER that the refunds as so calculated shall be made by respondent to the petitioner and to all other sending districts.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY, Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

Frederick W. Hardt, Esq., for petitioner
John T. Kelley, Esq., for respondent (Kelley, Wardell & Craig, attorneys)

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, Burlington County, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education on August 10, 2005, seeking a refund of tuition it claims it overpaid to respondent Burlington County Special Services District for the 2000-2001 school year. It also seeks a determination that respondent's surplus exceeds limits imposed by the Commissioner and seeks an order that such surplus be reduced and refunded to all effected school districts. In its answer to the petition, respondent generally denies petitioner's claims, raises the issue of the timeliness of the petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 and counter-petitions for $962,491.35 in monies which it alleges is owed to it by petitioner.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 14, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to me on November 18, 2004, and I scheduled a telephone prehearing conference for January 5, 2005. As result of that telephone prehearing conference, I scheduled the matter for hearing on September 21 and 22, 2005, and also scheduled another telephone conference for March 3, 2005. On March 3, 2005, I discussed the status of the matters with the parties and there was agreement that after the discovery was completed respondent would be moving to dismiss the petition on the basis of timeliness. Additional telephone conferences were scheduled and held. On July 5, 2005, respondent filed a motion to dismiss. After petitioner responded, I scheduled oral argument on the motion which was held on September 16, 2005. I closed the record with respect to the motion on September 16, 2005, and I am issuing this Order within 45 days of that date.

Undisputed facts

A review of the pleadings filed by the parties in this matter establishes the following as undisputed facts herein. The petitioner is a local board of education located in Pemberton Township, Burlington County. It is an Abbott school district (Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 119 (1997)), and receives special needs assistance as one of 30 poor urban districts within the State with special needs. Among its responsibilities, petitioner is required to attend to identify children with special needs and to develop an individualized educational program (IEP) and placement under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. Sec. 1400-1491. For students with certain disabilities, this may mean sending them to an out-of-district educational facility specializing in the education of special needs children because the school district does not have the program necessary to implement the IEP.

Respondent is a body corporate and politic which operates schools for individuals with special needs, and in so doing it is executing the school district's responsibility to educate students on behalf of their home school district. Respondent charges the local school district for the service but is not free to select the rates charged. These rates are subject to control by the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE). The DOE is required to assure that the rates charged by a school such as respondent are in keeping with the limits set, and it periodically monitors and reviews the accounts of schools such as respondent's.

There are certain additional facts that do not appear to be disputed. It does not appear to be disputed that on November 21, 2002, the Commissioner of Education issued certified costs per pupil for tuition adjustment for the 2000-2001 school year. (Lucas Certification, Exhibit A.) It also does not appear to be disputed that on February 1, 2003, the superintendent of the petitioner school district was advised of the adjustment for the 2000-2001 school year. (Lucas Certification, Exhibit B.) On January 27, 2004, the Commissioner revised the tuition adjustments for the 2000-2001 school year. (Lucas Certification, Exhibit C.) The petition in this matter was filed on August 10, 2004.

Disputed facts

Respondent contends that petitioner was aware of the January 27, 2004, revision on that date (Lucas Certification, Exhibit A), and that the failure to commence the within proceeding within 90 days of that date is fatal to its claim.

Petitioner submitted the July 25, 2005, Certification of Pat Austin, the Business Administrator of the Pemberton Township School District. In that Certification Pat Austin states that a certified rate for tuition is determined for each special services school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-31(b). The DOE is to assure that the rates charged are in keeping with the limits set and that it is not uncommon for the DOE to adjust or recertify the tuition rates after an initial rate has been found to be in error. In the present case there were at least two rates struck for the 2000-2001 school year. A rate appears to have been first certified by the DOE as of November 21, 2002. This led to a request that petitioner reimburse respondent the amount of $441,319.02.

Pat Austin goes on to state in the Certification that a second rate, presumably based on reconsideration of the factors considered in setting a rate by the DOE, was struck on or about January 27, 2004. However, petitioner was never formally notified that a new rate had been recertified nor was petitioner advised of the effect that a change in the rate would have on the petitioner school district's tuition obligation for the year 2000-2001. Respondent never challenged the new rate within 90 days of the January 27, 2004 letter.

Pat Austin further states in the Certification that on February 12, 2004, the DOE was contacted by e-mail to obtain information on the recertified rates for the 2000-2001 school year. On February 23, 2004, Heather Leary, an employee of the DOE, faxed a copy of the new rates to Pat Austin. Petitioner acknowledges that while this faxed copy of the new 2000-2001 rates was not exactly official it was "knowledge" that new rates had been recertified. Petitioner goes on to state that on May 19, 2004, it formally requested the DOE to make the adjustment called for in the January 27, 2004, recertifying rates, and that Pat Austin was verbally advised a few days later that the request was denied. Petitioner contends that it filed the petition in this matter within 90 days of being advised that the requested adjustment was being denied.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Based on my review of respondent's motion to dismiss and the arguments made by the parties, I am satisfied that the motion is directed solely to Count 1 of the petition. The motion relies on N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

In Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1992), the Court discussed the requirement for notice and what notice is deemed "adequate notice." Id. at 587-589. It stated that adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate and that it must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period. The Court explained that adequate notice should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the involved individual has been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with a cause of action. See Burd v. New Jersey Tel. Co., 76 N.J. 284, 291 (1978). At the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order "to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government." Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 21 N.J. 28, 48 (1956). In Kaprow, the notice the petitioner had received when others were appointed to the position to which he was seeking reinstatement was adequate to enable him to pursue his claim. He received adequate notice when he learned from the local board the existence of that state of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim.

Based on the foregoing, the issue to be resolved in the present matter is when petitioner Pemberton Township Board of Education learned of the existence of a state of facts that would enable it to file a timely claim?

Apparently, the procedure that was followed when the DOE completed its first review of respondent's costs per pupil for the 2000-2001 school year pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.4, was that it notified respondent of the certified cost per pupil for tuition adjustment purposes by a writing dated November 21, 2002. Respondent then issued a letter directed to petitioner dated February 1, 2003, setting forth its calculation of petitioner's additional liability for the 2001-2002 school year resulting from the DOE's determination of the certified cost per pupil for tuition adjustment purposes.

It may be argued that it is significant that when DOE notified respondent by a writing dated January 27, 2004, of its revision of the 2000-2001 per pupil cost-tuition, neither that writing nor any subsequent written notice was provided to petitioner by respondent or by the DOE. The question then arises whether notice of the existence of the January 27, 2004 DOE revision of the 2000-2001 per pupil cost-tuition amounted to notice of the existence of a state of facts that would enable it to file a timely claim. Based upon the procedure followed in connection with the first review of respondent's costs per pupil for the 2000-2001 school year, an argument may be made that simply being notified of the January 27, 2004 DOE revision of the 2000-2001 per pupil cost-tuition was insufficient to give rise to notice of a claim. There was no letter issued by respondent directed to petitioner setting forth respondent's calculation of petitioner's undercharge or overcharge for the 2001-2002 school year resulting from the DOE's revised determination of the certified cost per pupil for tuition adjustment purposes. If there had been such a letter, petitioner clearly would have been placed on notice.

However, petitioner had been previously billed for tuition for the 2000-2001 school year in an amount that apparently exceeded the amount that should have been paid pursuant to the recertified tuition rate of January 27, 2004. I FIND that the facts that petitioner had been so billed and that the tuition rate had been revised downward existed as of January 27, 2005. I FIND that the Pemberton Township Board of Education learned of the existence of this state of facts on February 23, 2004, and that the existence of this state of facts would enable it to file a timely claim. I FIND that as of that date, the petitioner had been billed tuition based on the prior rate and it was on notice of a revised rate that had the effect of reducing its tuition obligation for the 2000-2001 school year.

In view of the foregoing findings, I FIND that petitioner was aware of the January 27, 2004, tuition rate revision no later than February 23, 2004, and that the failure to commence the within proceeding within 90 days of that date is fatal to its claim. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss Count 1 of the petition as untimely under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) should be GRANTED, and Count 1 of petitioner's petition should be DISMISSED.

Since respondent's motion to dismiss addresses only Count 1 of the petitioner's petition, I intend to schedule a conference with the parties to discuss the necessity for further proceedings to address Count 2 of the petition as well as respondent's counter-petition.

ORDER

For the reasons stated above, I ORDER that respondent's motion to dismiss Count 1 of the petition as untimely under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) is hereby GRANTED, and Count 1 of petitioner's petition is hereby DISMISSED.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

OAL Docket No.: EDUOT 04169-2004S

Agency Ref. No.: 170-5/04

CONSENT ORDER

THIS MATTER, being opened to Honorable John Tassini, A.L.J. pursuant to the consent of the Board of Education of the Borough of Red Bank, in the County of Monmouth ("Red Bank Board"), by its counsel, McOmber & McOmber, P.C., R. Armen McOmber, Esquire, appearing; the Red Bank Charter School ("Charter School") by its counsel, McCarter & English, Esquires, David C. Apy, Esquire, appearing; and the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey by her counsel, Carolyn Grace Labin, Deputy Attorney General, appearing, and it appearing that the parties have agreed to the form and content of the within Consent Order, and for other good and sufficient cause, it is on this 20th day of March, 2007;

ORDERED as follows:

1. In accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:11-7.2, in order for a student residing in the Borough of Red Bank to apply for enrollment or continued enrollment in the Charter School, the student must first register with the Red Bank Board, and upon submission of a registration form, the Red Bank Board shall process the registration of the student for the subsequent school year. All registrations shall be processed in a timely manner by the Red Bank Board including an assessment of residency. Further, in the event that the Charter School becomes aware that the residency of any student attending the Charter School and registered by the Red Bank Board shall change at any time, the Red Bank Superintendent shall immediately be notified, in writing, by the Charter School. Further, the Charter School shall in concert with the Red Bank Board continue to use reasonable efforts to assess the residency of all of its students. All present Charter School students and students expected to begin attendance in September of 2007 will be registered with the Red Bank Board by September 1, 2007.

2. No later than October 30th of each school year, the Red Bank Superintendent shall submit in writing to the Charter School and the Charter School shall submit to the Red Bank Superintendent, the number of students by grade level, their gender, race/ethnicity, economic status i.e. the percentage of students entitled to free and reduced lunch and the number of students who are limited English proficient, attending the Red Bank District School and the Charter School, respectively.

3. No later than January 15th of each school year, the Charter School shall submit to the Red Bank Superintendent, in writing, the number of students by grade level, their gender, race/ethnicity, economic status and the number of students who are limited English proficient from each district selected for enrollment from the initial recruiting period of the Charter School for the following school year, N.J.A.C. at 6A:11-4.4(b).

4. In accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:11-4.5, the Charter School shall continue to maintain a waiting list and shall provide a written copy of the waiting list to the Red Bank Superintendent, including the district of residence, no later than October 15th, January 15th and May 15th of each school year.

5. In accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:11-4.7, the Charter School shall provide an enrolled limited English proficient student with all required courses and support services to meet the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards for High School Graduation in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-4 and 5 and N.J.A.C. 6A:15.

6. Within ten (10) days of the date of the approval of the Minutes of each Open Public Meeting of the Charter School, copies of the Minutes shall be provided to the Red Bank Superintendent, without any additional request, and the Red Bank Board shall pay all statutory costs therefor. Additionally, copies of the formal agendas for all of the Open Public Meetings of the Charter School shall be forwarded to the Red Bank Superintendent at least twenty-four (24) hours prior to the Open Public Meeting without any additional request therefor and the Red Bank Board shall pay all statutory costs therefor. The Red Bank Board will receive written notice of all Open Public Meetings of the Charter School and at least forty-eight (48) hours' notice of any changes in the times, dates or places of such Open Public Meetings.

7. In accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:11-5.1, all classroom teachers, principals and professional support staff employed by the Charter School shall hold appropriate New Jersey Certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1 and be "highly qualified" in accordance with Section 9101(23) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, also known as the No Child Left Behind federal legislation ("NCLB"). In accordance with the provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, in the event that any of the classroom teachers, principals and professional staff employed by the Charter School are not "highly qualified" in accordance with Section 9101(23), letters shall be sent to parents advising them of same in accordance with NCLB and copies shall be sent to the Red Bank Board.

8. In the event that the Charter School Child Study Team determines that an out-of-district residential or non-residential placement of one of its students is warranted based on the student's individualized educational program, written notice shall be given to the Red Bank Superintendent prior to the placement in order that same may be evaluated by the Red Bank Schools' Child Study Team; provided however, that the Charter School Child Study Team shall, subject to law, make the final decision on the student's individualized educational program.

9. The Charter School shall use its best efforts to assure that the gender, race/ethnicity, economic status and limited English proficient percentages of the students attending the Charter School equate as closely as practicable with the gender, race/ethnicity, economic status and limited English proficient percentages of the students residing in the Borough of Red Bank.

10. The Charter School will use its best efforts to comply with its File Code 5131 entitled "Conduct/Discipline" and will exhaust all reasonable methods to enforce that policy before suggesting that a student return to the Red Bank District Schools. In no event will a student be transferred from the Charter School to the Red Bank District Schools within a period of 24 weeks prior to a statewide standardized test. Further, the Charter School shall use its best efforts to comply with Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act.

11. In accordance with Section 6.1.3 of the Policies and Procedures of the Charter School entitled "Recruitment Activities", recruitment efforts shall include newspaper advertisements and press releases in Spanish to be placed in Spanish newspapers including, but not limited to, El Diario, Nosotros and Nuestra Communidad. Further, community flyers and community announcements shall be in both English and Spanish and to the greatest extent possible, the Charter School shall seek to recruit students by grade level, gender, race/ethnicity and economic status to be in general conformity with the students residing in the Borough of Red Bank. Additionally, the Charter School shall send announcements of its annual lottery in both English and Spanish to the Red Bank Board and to all Red Bank clubs, groups, churches and other public and quasi-public organizations. Commencing with the lottery for the 2007-2008 school year, the Charter School shall use its best efforts to assure that the applicants entered into the lottery are in the same proportions of Caucasian, African-American and Hispanic Limited English Proficient students as reside in the Borough of Red Bank.

12. Written notice of the time, date and location of the annual student lottery of the Charter School shall be provided, in writing, to the Red Bank Superintendent at least ten (10) days prior to the lottery in order that representatives of the Red Bank Board may attend the lottery.

13. Commencing on October 15, 2007 and on each October 15th thereafter, the Charter School shall provide to the Red Bank Board written information concerning the impact of its sibling policy on the enrollment demographics of the Charter School. Said information shall include how many of the students selected under the sibling policy are Caucasian, African-American, Hispanic and/or limited English proficient. The Red Bank Board reserves the right to challenge the sibling policy of the Charter School should it be demonstrated that said policy is having an adverse impact on the gender, race, ethnic and/or limited English proficient balance of the student population of the Charter School.

14. The entry of this Consent Order shall only be dispositive of the issues directly relating to this matter and shall neither restrict nor prejudice in any way, the rights of the parties to pursue against each other any legal action with respect to any claim or violation of law, rule or regulation.

On April 5, 2007 – in light of petitioner's withdrawal of the Petition of Appeal – this matter was returned to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2(b).

Upon review of the record, however, the Commissioner notes that – notwithstanding petitioner's letter to the OAL indicating that she had decided against pursuing her appeal – the Board's answer in this residency matter contains an unresolved counterclaim for tuition for the period of R.O.'s alleged ineligible attendance. Accordingly, the Commissioner remands this matter to the OAL for such proceedings as are necessary to address the Board's counterclaim.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that this matter is appropriately dismissed as a contested case, the question of T.C.'s continued enrollment in the schools of the district having been mooted by petitioner's decision to enroll him elsewhere and the Board having withdrawn its counterclaim for tuition.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the matter is dismissed.

Record Closed: February 20, 2007 Decided: March 2, 2007

BEFORE: IRENE JONES, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 24, 2006, petitioner, K.R., filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner challenged the respondent's, Bloomfield Board of Education, decision to disenroll his son (T.C.) from the District's school on the basis that T.C. was not domiciled in the Township of Bloomfield.

On February 22, 2006, the matter was accepted for filing as a contested case at the Office of Administrative Law. The matter was scheduled for hearing on February 22 and 23, 2007.

Prior to the hearings, respondent advised that T.C. was no longer enrolled in the District school, having transferred to the City of Orange School District. As consequence of the transfer, the only issue remaining for hearing would be the District's counterclaim which it has elected to withdraw.

FINDINGS

Having reviewed the record in this matter, I FIND that petitioner is no longer enrolled in the District's school, thus the issue of disenrollment is moot. I further FIND that the District withdraws its counterclaim for tuition during the period of alleged ineligible attendance, thus this matter is no longer a contested case and should be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden (BOARD) and its employee Andre Sturgis (Sturgis).

WHEREAS, Sturgis has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a truck driver in the Food Services Division for approximately fifteen (15) years; and

WHEREAS, on January 30, 2006 the BOARD voted to terminate Mr. Sturgis for "Conduct Unbecoming and Insubordination"; and

WHEREAS, genuine questions of law and fact exist as to whether the BOARD provided Sturgis with adequate Due Process in accordance with the Constitution;

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge and recognize the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation provisions of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yaniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), affd. S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), affd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96T1 (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported). More specifically, the BOARD recognizes that under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, an employer is required to consider the possibility of reasonable accommodation before firing an employee with disabilities. Likewise, Sturgis recognizes that notwithstanding BOARD's obligation to provide reasonable accommodation to an employee with disabilities, the employee must still be capable of performing his duties, including but not limited to maintaining sobriety consistent with Yaniello, supra, the BOARD may lawfully hold Sturgis to the terms of a return to work agreement;

WHEREAS, the BOARD and Sturgis have each retained independent counsel of their own choosing, and have been advised of their respective rights and responsibilities pursuant to Title 18A and the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; and

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made a part of this Settlement Agreement by reference;

2. The BOARD will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, the Board shall return Sturgis to his former position and step with all benefits, medical, dental, vision, accrued sick time, vacation, pension, and entitlements in place prior to Sturgis' separation on January 31, 2006;

3. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void, the parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for a plenary hearing and the parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

4. Sturgis shall not be entitled to any "back-pay" a result of this Settlement Agreement, and the period of separation shall be indicated as a leave of absence in his personnel file;

5. Within 30 days of the Commissioner issuing a final decision approving this settlement, Sturgis will attend an out-patient program for substance abuse and rehabilitation at a reputable facility for a minimum period as set by said facility. Sturgis may choose the facility subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Schools; such approval will not be unreasonably withheld;

6. Sturgis shall have the aforementioned facility provide the Board with proof of completion of treatment. Failure to do so will result in a breach of this Agreement and subject Sturgis to termination consist with the terms contained herein;

7. For a period of one year from the Commissioner's final approval of this agreement by and between Sturgis and the BOARD, Sturgis consents in advance to submit to a Breathalyzer analysis or blood testing upon request by the BOARD or its administrators for the presence of alcohol and/or controlled dangerous substance (ACDS) in his body. Blood testing is to take place at a licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory or clinic utilizing a split sample method, with the sample to be split into three parts. In the event that the first part of the sample tests positive utilizing the then-current standards accepted by the United States Department of Transportation, the BOARD may immediately suspend Sturgis in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., and the second part of the sample will be forwarded promptly and directly by the licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory or clinic to a facility operated by Quest Diagnostics or its successor by merger or acquisition (which Sturgis agrees, in advance, is an independent laboratory of his choice). Sturgis will pay for the analysis of the second part of the sample. In the event that the second part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by Sturgis . In the event that the second part of the sample tests negative, the third part will be tested by Laboratory Corporation of America or its successor by merger or acquisition at the expense of the BOARD. The third test shall be conclusive. In the event that the third part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by Sturgis. In the event of a violation of this agreement by Sturgis , following the principles articulated in Yaniello, Sturgis acknowledges that he will be subject to the termination of his employment and he will not be entitled to a third strike.

8. Sturgis agrees that he has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that he is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that he is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of his rights and the ramifications of this Settlement Agreement entering into it on his own accord. Sturgis fully understands that this Settlement Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

9. The signatory for the BOARD acknowledges that the BOARD has ratified this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting.

10. The Agreement shall not take effect until the expiration of the Governor's statutory veto period, which is fifteen (15) days after a certified copy of the Board's minutes is received in the Governor's office.

11. The parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements concerning the reasons they believe this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

THIS AGREEMENT, made on the 22 day of February, 2007, by and between Yu Wen Chen, who currently resides at 1 Bella Court, in the Township of Wayne, the County of Passaic, and State of New Jersey (hereinafter referred to as "Chen"), Kwong Ming Lee (hereinafter referred to as "Lee") and the Wayne Township Board of Education, which has offices located at 50 Nellis Drive in the Township of Wayne, the County of Passaic, and State of New Jersey (hereinafter referred to as the "Board").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Chen sought to enroll his minor child, W.X., in the Wayne Township Public School District (hereinafter referred to as the "District"), which is operated by the Board, on or about November, 2005, indicating by way of letter drafted by his cousin, Lee, that Chen lived with Lee in Wayne six (6) days per week, spending the other day with the rest of Chen's family in Brooklyn, New York; and

WHEREAS, Chen's application was denied based upon the District's determination that Chen was domiciled in Brooklyn, not Wayne, notwithstanding his part-time residence in Wayne; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 5, 2005, Chen filed a verified petition of appeal on behalf of his minor child W.X., contesting the District's residency determination and, as a result of the filing, W.X. was enrolled in the District in accordance with state law; and

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer and Counterclaim for tuition; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to settle their disputes amicably as set forth in greater detail herein;

NOW, THEREFORE, based upon the foregoing premises and mutual promises and covenants herein, the parties agree as follows:

1. Chen agrees to pay the Board one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500.00) as a compromised tuition amount and that he shall repay said sums to the Board in eight (8) equal monthly installments of one hundred eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents ($187.50).

2. Chen agrees to make payments to the Board by way of check or money order made payable to the Wayne Township Board of Education and shall forward such sums to:

Mr. Gary Ottmann
Business Administrator/Board Secretary
Wayne Township Board of Education
50 Nellis Drive
Wayne, New Jersey 07470

3. Chen agrees that the first payment shall be made within thirty (30) days after this Stipulation of Settlement is entered into a final order by an Administrative Law Judge. Each subsequent payment shall be due within thirty (30) days thereafter until the full amount set forth in Paragraph 1 has been paid.

4. In the event that Chen makes a late payment, which shall be defined as a payment received more than five (5) days after the due date, the Board shall have the option of giving Chen written notice that it is demanding that the remaining sum due be paid in full in five (5) days from the receipt of said notice. Should Chen fail to pay the remaining amount, Chen shall be deemed to be in Default, and agrees that the Board may proceed by summary action to obtain a judgment and execute on the judgment. Chen agrees that in the event of Default, he shall be responsible for any and all attorneys' fees and costs incurred by the Board in the collection of the outstanding amount due.

5. Upon the signatures of all parties and approval by the Board, this Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law, shall be incorporated into a final order, approved by an Administrative Law Judge.

6. This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the law of the State of New Jersey, without regard to its choice of law principles.

7. The parties agree to refrain from filing any proceeding regarding the issues that are the subject of the instant petition; however, both parties expressly reserve the right to bring a claim to enforce their rights under the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

8. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel or a representative of his or her own choosing and that they sign this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

9. Should any part, term or provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, applying New Jersey law, to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity or enforceability, of the remaining parts, terms or provisions shall not be affected thereby.

10. This Agreement and compliance with this Agreement shall not be construed as an admission by any party of any liability whatsoever with respect to any matter.

11. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the Board, Chen and Lee, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings, written or oral between the parties pertaining to the subject matter hereof. This Agreement may only be modified by an instrument in writing signed by both parties.

12. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Stipulation of Settlement and bind the Board to its terms.

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Settlement Agreement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that the Board of Education's residency officer signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the record nor the agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating this individual to sign the agreement on its behalf – nor, in the alternative, is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation – the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Stipulation of Settlement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Counsel:

I have considered the papers filed in conjunction with petitioner's request for interlocutory review of Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Jeff S. Masin's March 29, 2007 Order regarding my jurisdiction over certain claims raised in the matter of Maurice S. Kaprow v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley, Ocean County, Agency Dkt. No. 397-11/06, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 12277-06. Upon such consideration, I have determined to grant the requested review so that this matter may move forward with its threshold jurisdictional question fully resolved, and, further, to proceed directly to a ruling on the Order rather than request an additional submission from the Board of Education, since the Board's responsive papers of April 12, 2007 substantially encompass the further argument contemplated by N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(d).

On interlocutory review, petitioner contends that his appeal is cognizable before the Commissioner of Education in its entirety, contending that the ALJ – who found that most of petitioner's claims were contractual in nature and consequently outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction – erred in failing to recognize that petitioner's claims for payment of accrued vacation/personal days and health insurance waiver arose from the relief awarded him in a prior Commissioner's decision, which the Commissioner has the necessary incidental powers to bring to completion. The Board, on the other hand, urges that the Order of the ALJ not be disturbed, since it correctly recognizes that the relief sought by petitioner is granted to him, if at all, solely by the terms of a collective bargaining agreement – disputes regarding which are contractual in nature and do not arise under the school laws.

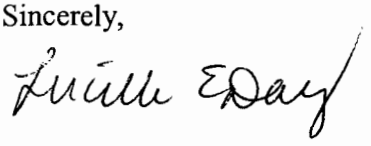
Having reviewed the Order of the ALJ and the arguments of the parties, I concur that resolution of petitioner's dispute will involve determination of rights under – and hence interpretation of – contractual terms and conditions of employment which do not fall within my jurisdiction.

Accordingly, I hereby ADOPT the Order of the ALJ for the reasons well expressed therein, and direct that this matter proceed solely on petitioner's claim for post-judgment interest as recommended by the ALJ.

Sincerely,



Lucille E. Davy

INTERLOCUTORY ORDER
REGARDING JURISDICTION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 12277-06S
AGENCY DKT.NO. 397-11/06

MAURICE S. KAPROW,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BERKELEY TOWNSHIP, OCEAN COUNTY,
Respondent.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

In a prior contested case, the Commissioner of Education adopted as the final decision an initial decision issued by Honorable James W. Faison III, ALJ, directing the respondent Board of Education to "immediately appoint petitioner to the position of District Director of Elementary Education and compensate him with back pay, less mitigation, and emoluments due him consistent with this decision." In the present matter, petitioner filed a Petition to Enforce Commissioner's Decision, claiming therein that although he and the Board had reached agreement on the amount of back pay due to him for the period from July 1, 2002, to August 31, 2006, that amount had not yet been paid, despite the passage of over sixty days since the effective date of the Commissioner's decision. In addition, petitioner claimed that a dispute existed regarding his claim for re-enrollment in the State pension plan, pension buy back differential, payment for accrued vacation and personal days in the amount of $42, 425.16 and payment of a health insurance waiver for "husband/wife" coverage. The petitioner notes that the Board disputes his entitlement to the waiver. Petitioner sought an order from the Commissioner to the Board that he be paid the "back pay and emoluments" as set forth in his Petition, pay prejudgment and post judgment interest, commencing October 5, 2006, which was sixty days after the effective date of the Commissioner's decision and grant such other relief as was just and equitable.

In response, the respondent, claiming that the back pay and re-enrollment issues had been addressed, contended that the issues regarding compensation for vacation and personal days, as well as the health insurance waiver, were matters that arose pursuant to the applicable Berkeley Township Administrators Association collective bargaining agreement and were therefore issues that did not "arise under the school laws" and were not within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner since they were to be determined by interpretation of contract rights. In response to this argument, petitioner, relying on Board of Education of the City of Newark v. Levitt, 197 N.J.Super. 239 (App. Div. 1984) ("Levitt"), argued that a decision by the Commissioner on the issues of the vacation and personal days and health insurance waiver issues was required in order to provide "meaningful finality" to the Commissioner's earlier final decision.

The case was transferred to the OAL with specific direction to determine the issue of jurisdiction. The parties discussed the matter with the assigned ALJ in a telephone conference held on March 6, 2007. The record concerning the jurisdictional dispute closed as of that date.

During oral argument, counsel for Kaprow indicated that the dispute over vacation days involved Kaprow's contention that he should be paid for days he did not utilize as vacation days during the period when the Board had failed to properly appoint him, but the Board contends that he received the pay for these days as part of the back pay award.

Discussion

In the previous contested case, the petitioner, a tenured employee of the respondent school district, had been terminated in a Reduction In Force ("RIF"). He sought to establish that the district had defaulted in its responsibility to notify him of positions in which he could be reemployed and that he was entitled to be reemployed as the District's Director of Elementary Education. Judge Faison granted a motion for summary decision, ordering that the petitioner be immediately appointed as District Director of Elementary Education and awarding "back pay, seniority rights, tenure rights and all other rights and benefits to which he is entitled consistent with this initial decision." As noted, the Commissioner's Final Decision adopted Judge Faison's decision.

At oral argument, counsel for Kaprow acknowledged that the vacation days and health insurance waiver in dispute were granted to the petitioner, if at all, by the terms and conditions of the contract between the Administrators' Association and the Board. All that the Final Decision held was that Mr. Kaprow was entitled to be the Director of Elementary Education and that as such, he was entitled to be made whole for that which he would have received by way of salary, tenure rights and seniority rights had he been treated properly by the Board and notified and appointed as he should have been. In addition, to the extent that he was deprived of other rights and entitlements because of the Board's failure to notify him and appoint him, the decision also establishes his entitlement to receive such benefits. But since his right to any specifically agreed upon vacation, personal time and insurance provisions constitute terms and conditions of employment provided for by the contract and not specifically by statute, the proper understanding of what his rights under the contract are involve interpretations of the contract. The case law makes clear that in such instances, the Commissioner is not empowered to perform this task. In South Orange-Maplewood Ed. Assn. V. Bd. of Ed. of South Orange, 146 N.J. Super. 457 (App. Div. 1977), the petitioners filed an action in the Chancery Division seeking specific enforcement of a provision of the agreement with the Board of Education relating to sabbatical leave. The trial court dismissed the action, transferring it instead to the Commissioner of Education. The court, stating that the action involved a dispute over terms and conditions of employment akin to wage and vacation benefits, reversed the trial court and remanded the case for a hearing in Chancery.

> The board exercised its authority under the school laws to fix the compensation and other terms of employment through negotiations with employees' representatives. The result was memorialized by the agreement. Now the only remaining dispute concerns the interpretation of that agreement. . . .

> The Commissioner has jurisdiction over certain disputes in the absence of an agreement or if the subject matter is not susceptible to binding agreement because it concerns major educational policy or because the issues are controlled by the school laws. . .
>
> We see nothing in the dispute over the meaning of the agreement as it pertains to sabbatical leave which involves an interpretation of any specific statute in Title 18A.

Again, in Archway Programs v. Pemberton Board of Education, 352 N.J. Super. 420, 425 (App. Div. 2002), the court, citing Picogna v. Bd. of Ed. of Cherry Hill, 249 N.J. Super 332, 335 (App. Div. 1991), held, "Contract claims against boards do not arise under the school laws but rather from statutory or common law."

The petitioner believes that the Levitt case, supra., supports the Commissioner's jurisdiction. But in Levitt, the claim was for post-judgment interest on a back pay award granted by the Commissioner, who had determined that the Newark Board had improperly denied to the petitioners' tenure status which they had earned. The purpose of such interest was to make sure that where the payment of the back pay was delayed past the allowable sixty days, that the effective amount of the award was not diminished below the amount awarded. The court backed the Commissioner's authority to assure the effectiveness of the remedy, even in the face of a lack of statutory authority for the Commissioner to award interest.

> We are therefore persuaded that the Commissioner not only has the incidental power to award interest but, furthermore, that the interest of the judicial and administrative process as well of the litigants, would be advanced by his exercise thereof rather than deferring the question to a court for separate adjudication. In considering whether or not to allow interest, and, if so, how much, the Commissioner should, of course, be guided by the same principles respecting the award of pre-judgment interest and post-judgment interest which controls the judicial exercise of this power.

The petitioner rests much of his argument on the last portion of this quotation, that is, the court's concern to avoid piecemeal litigation. But it must be remembered that the issue of post judgment interest did not implicate any need to interpret a contractual agreement between the teachers and/or their bargaining representative and the Board, as the current dispute does. Thus, Levitt must be read to involve only a limited circumstance in which the courts endorse the Commissioner's role to protect the integrity of the Commissioner's order and the case cannot be read to overturn the basic principle espoused in South Orange-Maplewood, Picogna and Archway. This case falls within the ambit of the South Orange-Maplewood line of cases and not that of Levitt.

I CONCLUDE that the issues of petitioner's rights under the terms and conditions of the contract agreement are not matters that arise under the school laws and do not come within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. Therefore, the accrued vacation and personal days and the health insurance waiver issues are DISMISSED. The claim for post-judgment interest will be considered in further proceedings.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MOORESTOWN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former teacher in respondent's school district – alleged that the Board required her to submit a letter of resignation in order to continue her employment for the 2005-2006 school year, and that this requirement and the Board's subsequent refusal to allow her to withdraw her resignation before it took effect in May 2006 was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. Respondent Board filed a motion for summary decision, based on petitioner's failure to timely file her petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's appeal, filed in July 2006, is time barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i); the 90-day limitations period for filing began with the Board's acceptance of petitioner's letter of resignation in August 2005; there is no genuine issue of material fact in this matter, and summary decision is appropriate. The ALJ concluded that the petition is time-barred; granted summary decision in favor of respondent; and dismissed the petition.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's grant of summary decision to the respondent, finding that the petition was filed well out of time. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal as the final decision in this matter.

NANCY T. SNOW,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MOORESTOWN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

Petitioner's exceptions – appending her Brief in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision advanced below – essentially recast and reiterate her arguments made before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Specifically, she first contends that the ALJ erred in concluding that her resignation was effective when it was accepted by the Board. Rather, she contends, because "she was induced by the Board for the unlawful purpose of circumventing the operation of the Tenure Law[,] [t]he agreement, thus entered into, between the Petitioner and the Board was therefore void ab initio and therefore it could not have been 'binding' as a matter of contract law at the time it was accepted by the Board." (Petitioner's Exceptions at pages 1-2). Further elaboration on this argument must be derived from petitioner's appended brief which indicates that the essence of petitioner's claim in this regard is that the agreement to resign – irrespective of the benefits she may have derived from it – led to a situation where she was employed for the requisite period of time to obtain tenure status but, she argues, she did not receive that statutorily mandated status. Petitioner maintains the resignation letter the Board required her to sign as a condition of employment for the 2005-2006 school year – which was accepted by the Board in August of 2005 (but not effective until May of 2006) – contravened terms and conditions of employment dictated by the tenure statute which cannot legally be waived or bargained away and, therefore, she was entitled to rescind her resignation. (Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision at 5) Petitioner argues that the Board did not have the legal authority "to make such an end run around the tenure law" and to permit it to do so "would allow local boards to endlessly delay the granting of tenure by the subterfuge of each year obtaining a resignation, effective in the future, before granting a new contract." (Id. at 7)

Petitioner next excepts to the ALJ's conclusion that her petition was time-barred, asserting that at the time her resignation was accepted by the Board, "it was not binding, because it was entered into for an unlawful purpose." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Additionally, as argued in her brief below, she maintains that – due to the fact that there remained a possibility that the parties, by mutual consent, would agree to the withdrawal of petitioner's resignation,[1] and because the resignation, by its own terms, did not become effective until May 22, 2006 – the 90-day time period for filing her Petition of Appeal began running on the effective date of her resignation rather than when the resignation was submitted and accepted. (Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision at 14-15)

[1] Petitioner's exceptions charge that it had been represented to her that "if she performed in an acceptable fashion, she might be permitted to rescind the resignation and enjoy continued employment with the district." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

The Board's reply exceptions – which also appended its Brief in Support of Summary Decision, in addition to its Reply Brief to Petitioner's response and the ALJ's Initial Decision[2] – urge that the ALJ's holding that petitioner's resignation was effective and legally binding on her upon its acceptance by the Board at its regularly scheduled meeting on August 16, 2005[3] is correct. It advances that there is no legal authority – either cited by petitioner, or otherwise – which would require the Board to permit petitioner to rescind her resignation some nine months after this time. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1)

In response to petitioner's charge that agreements of the nature of the one involved in this matter are illegal, the Board points out:

> [t]he material facts of this matter are undisputed – the Board agreed that in exchange for Petitioner's resignation, they would re-hire her so she could obtain her 25 years of service. Petitioner did so, and then attempted to circumvent the deal she proposed and agreed to by attempting to rescind her resignation. The agreement at issue did not violate the tenure laws, in fact, Petitioner later obtained tenure, worked for a few months past her tenure date, when her retirement became effective. The fact that she agreed to submit a letter of resignation prior to her obtaining tenure is of no consequence. (Id. at 2)

Finally, the Board charges that there is no authority for petitioner's "supposition" that the 90-day timeline for the filing of a petition in this matter did not begin to run until her last day of employment with the Board. Rather, it proposes – citing Charles E. Willson III v. Board of Education of the Toms River Regional School District, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 872 and Blossom S. Nissman v. Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 380-81 (App. Div. 1994) – that this timeframe was triggered by the Board's acceptance of her letter of resignation. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2) Moreover, it urges:

[2] The parties are advised that inclusion of their briefs filed below or the Initial Decision with their Exceptions is unnecessary as these materials are always contained in the record before the Commissioner.

[3] Respondent's exceptions mistakenly indicate the date as August 16, 2007.

> [p]etitioner does not dispute that she understood the effect of her letter of resignation, nor does she dispute that she was aware the Board had accepted her resignation at the August 16, 2005 Board meeting. Yet she waited over 11 months to dispute the Board's ability to accept her voluntary letter of resignation. If Petitioner wished to challenge [the] Board's authority to do so, she had to file her Petition within 90 days of August 16, 2005. She failed to do so, and thus, her Petition was properly dismissed for being out of time. (Ibid.)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's grant of summary decision to the Board, as she agrees that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law (N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b)), because this matter was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and is, therefore, appropriately dismissed. In so determining, the Commissioner notes that the instant record reveals:

> In late April or early May, 2005 petitioner was advised that her employment contract would not be renewed for the 2005-2006 school year.
>
> The Board subsequently agreed to rehire petitioner for the 2005-2006 school year in order to allow her to attain 25 years of service, thereby qualifying her for certain additional pension and health benefits, with the express understanding that she immediately submit a letter of resignation effective after the vesting of these benefits.
>
> By letter dated August 15, 2005, petitioner submitted her voluntary resignation – effective May 26, 2006[4] – which was accepted by the Board at its regularly scheduled meeting of August 16, 2005.
> By letter dated May 8, 2006 – subsequent to the vesting of her additional retirement benefits and less than three weeks before her scheduled resignation date – petitioner requested that the Board allow her to rescind her resignation.

[4] Petitioner claims that her union representatives urged her to submit this letter and that they led her to believe that if she performed well during the 2005-2006 school year, the Board might change its mind and keep her. She does not, however, charge that her letter of resignation was coerced or resulted from any misrepresentation on the part of the Board.

> The Board did not have a meeting in May 2006 and, therefore, petitioner's request was placed on the agenda for its June 20, 2006 meeting. At this time, the Board determined that since petitioner had resigned effective May 26, 2006, consideration of a request to rescind her resignation was a moot issue.
> The instant Petition of Appeal was filed on July 20, 2006.

The Commissioner finds and concludes that, pursuant to the Supreme Court's decision in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), petitioner's receipt of notice of the Board's "final action" on the subject of her resignation at its August 16, 2005 meeting triggered the running of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and, consequently, any challenge to this action by petitioner was required to be filed before the Commissioner within 90-days of this time. (See also Willson and Nissman,[5] supra) Neither the fact that petitioner continued in the Board's employ subsequent to its acceptance of her resignation nor petitioner's attempt to rescind her resignation by letter dated May 8, 2006 serve to preclude application of the 90-day rule. Therefore, the instant Petition of Appeal – filed in July 2006, some eleven months after the Board's final action – is clearly out of time.

Notwithstanding that the limitations rule of N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.3(i) is to be strictly applied, the Commissioner recognizes that she may – pursuant to her authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 – relax this rule under exceptional circumstances or if there is a compelling reason to do so. (See Kaprow, supra; DeMaio v. New Providence Board of Education, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d [EDU] 449, 453) Such authority, however, is rarely invoked unless strict adherence to the rule would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would occur (DeMaio at 453), or where the Commissioner finds the presence of a substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves. Pacio v. Lakeland Regional High School District, 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2064. The instant matter presents no such compelling or exceptional circumstances – nor other sufficient reason – to warrant relaxation or waiver of the 90-day rule here.

[5] The focus of the 90-day rule is on "the date of the employer's wrongful act as the accrual date for a cause of action, rather than the date on which the consequences of the act is directly felt by the employee." Nissman at 381

Irrespective of the fact that untimeliness has barred consideration of the instant petition, the Commissioner is compelled to correct the ALJ's statement on Page 12 of his Initial Decision that "[p]etitioner was specifically denied tenure." The petitioner in this matter was not prevented from acquiring tenure, as such status is statutory in nature and attaches automatically upon the fulfillment of the requisite conditions. However, the fact that petitioner may have acquired tenure at some point during the 2005-2006 school year has no bearing whatsoever in this matter. Petitioner resigned from the District – consequently, she voluntarily relinquished any rights which otherwise might have accrued to her by virtue of such status.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the recommended decision of the OAL dismissing the instant Petition of Appeal as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Record Closed: February 28, 2007 Decided: March 19, 2007

BEFORE DENNIS P. BLAKE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE

Petitioner appeals the decision of the respondent, Moorestown Board of Education which refused to rescind her resignation and effectively denied her tenure. Petitioner had been employed by respondent from February 2003, until June 2005. Prior to the start of the 2005-2006 academic year petitioner was notified that her contract would not be renewed. Petitioner was continued for that academic year only after agreeing to submit her resignation effective May 2006. This contract gave petitioner more than three consecutive years of employment with respondent. Respondent points out that the rationale for the contract extension was to permit petitioner to accumulate twenty-five years of service and entitle her to the resulting increased benefits. It argues that the resignation was effective on the date when respondent accepted it, August 16, 2005. It also argues that the petition was not filed within the ninety-day period required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Petitioner counters that the limitations period did not start to run until the last day of employment, May 26, 2006, and thus she complied with the ninety-day rule.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 20, 2006, petitioner filed its petition with the Commissioner of Education in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed its answer to the petition on August 9, 2006. On August 29, 2006, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through 15 and N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 through 13. Respondent filed its Motion for Summary Decision on February 2, 2007. On February 19, 2007 petitioner filed its response, and on February 28, 2007, respondent filed its reply.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner was employed by the Moorestown Board of Education (Board) from February 10, 2003 through the end of the 2005 academic year. See Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Summary Decision, February 19, 2007. In April of 2005, she was advised that her contract would not be renewed. The parties disagree as to what happened next, however it is clear the petitioner was offered a new contract conditioned upon her agreement to retire effective May 26, 2006. Ibid. She contends that she was not aware of this condition until August 11, 2005, and that she was advised by her union representative that she had no choice but to sign. She argues that she was coerced into submitting her resignation and that the Board misrepresented the circumstances of her resignation. Petitioner submitted her letter of resignation and was given a contract for the 2005–2006 school year. She alleges that she, "felt at the time the resignation was submitted that she had no alternative and that there still existed the possibility that if she performed well that she would be offered continued employment." In 2005–2006, she received good performance evaluations and approached the administration about continuing her employment. The administration refused to discuss future employment. On May 8, 2006, she wrote to the Board and requested to rescind her resignation. The May Board meeting was cancelled and her request was placed on the agenda for June 20, 2006. At the June Board meeting, the Board found that the resignation had been previously accepted and there was no need to reconsider petitioner's request to rescind.

The Board indicates that petitioner was non-renewed for the 2005–2006 school year and was only offered employment as part of a voluntary agreement conditioned on her resignation at the end of the 2006 school year. Respondent's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, February 2, 2007. This agreement arose because petitioner was approaching her twenty-fifth year of service and wanted to obtain the additional retirement benefits that are granted to teachers with twenty-five years of service. Her letter of resignation was accepted on August 16, 2005.[1] The text of the resignation letter is brief, but enlightening as to petitioner's understanding of the agreement she reached with the Board. The letter reads, "I am resigning on May 26, 2006 of this upcoming school year 2005–2006. Please consider this letter notice of my intention. Thank you for the opportunity to complete my twenty-five years as an educator." Ibid.

[1] Respondent's brief indicates the date as August 16, 2006, but that is incorrect.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Petitioner's Resignation

Respondent argues that petitioner's resignation was binding when it was accepted by the Board. See Respondent's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, February 2, 2007. Respondent contends that petitioner reaped the benefit of her bargain by attaining twenty-five years, and cannot now turn around and rescind her resignation. In the alternative, respondent argues that if rescission is ordered, the parties should be put back in their original positions and petitioner should be non-renewed without the benefits of twenty-five years of service. Respondent makes the point that, "Snow was non-renewed. She was not entitled to tenure before her resignation agreement; therefore, the parties' agreement did not violate the tenure law..." See Respondent's Letter Brief, February 28, 2007. Petitioner argues that she actually attained tenure based on her period of employment, and that, "the arrangement or 'contract' presented to her by respondent contravened specific terms and conditions of employment set by a statute which legally could not be waived or bargained away and as result thereof she was entitled to withdraw her resignation." See Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Summary Decision, February 19, 2007. According to petitioner, the resignation was void ab initio because it was accepted for the purpose of circumventing the tenure statute. Ibid. Petitioner contends that this case is controlled by the outcome in Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982).

In Spiewak, the plaintiffs were public school teachers who provided remedial and supplemental services to children with special needs. Id. at 66. Spiewak was denied tenure and was paid as an hourly employee. Id. at 68. The Supreme Court of New Jersey stated, "State statutes grant teachers in New Jersey the right to tenure. The Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, specifically defines the conditions under which teachers are entitled to the security of tenure. The statute makes tenure a mandatory term and condition of employment. It therefore supersedes contractual terms." Id. at 72-73 (internal citations omitted). The Court also noted, "[w]e have specifically stated that the tenure provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 constitute a mandatory contractual term that may not be waived or bargained away." Id. at 76. While there is an exception for temporary employment, that exception only applies if the employee is hired to take the place of an absent employee. Id. at 77. The Court concluded, "Tenure is not dependent on agreement between the parties. Teachers are entitled to tenure because the Legislature has granted them that right." Id. at 80.[2] Based on Spiewak, it appears that petitioner did satisfy the terms of the tenure statute.

However, regardless of whether or not petitioner attained tenure, it is well settled that a resignation is legally binding upon its acceptance by the Board of Education. Gross v. Board of Education of the Township of Mount Holly, EDU 8567-04, Initial Decision (July 26, 2006) adopted, Comm. (September 1, 2006). In Gross, the petitioner participated in an enhanced sick leave buy-back program. As part of this program, the petitioner submitted his resignation. He argued that the school board promised him the right of first refusal to any long term substitute positions at an enhanced pay scale. The school district admitted to discussions about the possibility of long term substitute positions, but denied making promises of that nature. The petitioner argued that he was entitled to rescind his resignation based on a number of equitable circumstances. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petitioner received the benefit of his bargain with the school district when he received the enhanced sick leave buy-back. The ALJ concluded that the school board was within its rights to refuse rescission of the resignation.

[2] But see Merlino v. Borough of Midland Park, 172 N.J. 1, (2002). Merlino dealt with tenure in the context of a construction code official. Id. at 4. The plaintiff was appointed to a four-year term as construction official. Ibid. The term was to end on June 3, 1994 and the governing body was undecided as to whether the plaintiff should be reappointed and thus, granted tenure. Ibid. The governing body proposed a compromise where the plaintiff would be given a brief hiatus, and then reappointed without tenure. Ibid. Based on this compromise, the plaintiff resigned on June 3, 1994 and ten days later was appointed to a new term. Id. at 4, 5. The tenure statute at issue required either appointment to a second consecutive term, or the commencement of a fifth consecutive year for an individual to achieve tenure. Id. at 8. The Court relied on Spiewak, and found that the plaintiff had not attained tenure because of the break between his appointments and the requirement of consecutive terms. Id. at 10.

Thus, in the present case, while it is clear that petitioner's resignation was effective upon its acceptance, it is not clear how petitioner's employment subsequent to her resignation affects her ability to gain tenure. However, this issue need not be resolved, because the petitioner's claim is time barred.

B. The Ninety-day rule

Controversies arising under school law are governed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to -1.17. A petition must be filed, "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ninety-day time period for filing a petition is not tolled by an individual's attempt to resolve the issue through negotiation. Maurice Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572, 588 (1993). In Kaprow, the tenured petitioner (Kaprow) was subject to a reduction in force (RIF) on June 30, 1981. Id. at 575. The local board failed to notify Kaprow of positions that became available after the RIF. Kaprow had no notice of such positions until February 23, 1988. Id. at 577. On that date, Kaprow asked the board secretary about any vacancies for positions that he would have tenure rights to. On the same date, the secretary sent Kaprow a letter indicating that two positions for which petitioner had tenure rights were filled by the board. On February 28, 1988, Kaprow sent a letter to the Board asserting his right to both positions. Initially, the board did not reply. The Board's attorney responded to the letter on June 14, 1988 and informed Kaprow that the positions were substantially different from the position Kaprow held, and that his RIF rights were not implicated. Id. at 578. Kaprow filed a verified petition with the Commissioner on August 1, 1988.

The case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law and the ALJ granted partial summary judgment and dismissed Kaprow's claim of bad faith for insufficient evidence. Id. at 579. The Commissioner dismissed Kaprow's petition with prejudice, and found that the bad faith claim was untimely. The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner, agreeing that the petition was untimely. The Appellate Division affirmed and found that Kaprow would be entitled to his former position if the district reactivated it. Id. at 580.

> The Supreme Court of New Jersey held that Kaprow's petition was barred by the ninety-day rule. Id. at 591. The Court noted that, the limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. Because education disputes frequently involve conflicting claims to one teaching position, the remedy is to award the prevailing party the position with back pay. The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety-days. Moreover, because local school boards operate on a cash basis, claims must be filed promptly so that the local board can anticipate any back-pay requirements. [Id. at 582.]

The Court found that the Board's letter of February 23, 1988 gave Kaprow sufficient notice to begin the ninety-day limitation period. Id. at 586. Specifically, the Court determined that the final order, ruling or other action by the local board occurred when the Board appointed non-tenured individuals to positions that Kaprow claims tenure rights to. Id. at 588. However, since the Board did not notify Kaprow of these positions, he did not have adequate notice until he received the letter on February 23, 1988. The Court held that Kaprow did not file his petition until August 1, 1988, which was more than two months after the ninety-day limitations period had expired. Id. at 589. Therefore, Kaprow's claim was time-barred.

The procedural question of the ninety-day rule should be decided prior to any decision on the merits. Blossom S. Nissman v. Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 380-81 (App. Div. 1994). In Nissman, the petitioner (Nissman) appealed from a final decision of the State Board of Education dismissing her claim as time barred. Id. at 374. Nissman was hired as an elementary school principal on August 10, 1987, for a three-year term. During March and April of the third year, the local board held meetings to determine whether Nissman would be offered a new contract. Id. at 375. On April 23, 1990, the local board adopted a resolution that Nissman's employment contact would not be renewed and that she would not be granted tenure. Nissman received notice of the resolution on April 27, 1990, and continued to work through the last day of her contract, August 31, 1990.

On her last day, Nissman's attorney faxed the local board and indicated that Nissman was claiming tenure based on her service of three calendar years. Ibid. Counsel for the local board responded that Nissman has been terminated and was not granted tenure. Ibid. On September 21, 1990, Nissman filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education contending that she acquired tenure on August 31, 1990. Id. at 376. Before the ALJ, the local board argued that the petition was time barred based on the ninety-day rule. Nissman argued that the local board's correspondence on August 31, 1990, constituted action, and therefore the petition was properly filed within the ninety-day limitations period. The ALJ concluded that Nissman acquired tenure and ordered that she be reinstated. The Commissioner affirmed and determined that the claim was not time barred because of the correspondence on August 31, 1990. Id. at 376-77. The State Board concluded that the only action taken by the local board was the adoption of the resolution on April 23, 1990. Id. at 377. The State Board noted that the August correspondence merely restated the prior action and did not constitute separate board action.

The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's decision and held that Nissman's claim was time barred. Id. at 382. Additionally, the Appellate Division noted that the last date upon which Nissman could have brought her claim was July 23, 1990. Id. at 381. The court stated, "[p]etitioner may have elected not to file a petition prior to August 31, 1990 for tactical reasons. However, the Local Board was entitled to know within 90 days of its action whether its [decision]... was going to be challenged." Id. at 382.

An ALJ granted summary decision on behalf of a respondent school board when the petitioner failed to file his petition within the ninety-day time period. Charles E. Willson III v. Board of Education of the Toms River Regional School District, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 872. In Willson, the petitioner was employed by the Board of Education as a certified food services instructor. Id. at 873. On June 30, 1990, the petitioner's position was eliminated and the Board reassigned him to the high school as a permanent substitute. On February 10, 1992, the petitioner was transferred to the Alternate Learning School Center as an employment orientation/food program teacher. When this program was considered for elimination, the Board realized that this would eliminate the petitioner's position when he was just one year short of twenty-five years of service. On January 15, 1994, a meeting was held to discuss the situation. The petitioner attended the meeting and was accompanied by the union president. The Board decided to continue the food service program for one additional year to allow the petitioner to reach twenty-five years of service. At the meeting, it was suggested that the petitioner retire at the end of the 1994-1995 school year. Approximately one month after the meeting the petitioner submitted a letter of resignation, effective July 1, 1995. The Board notified the petitioner that his resignation would be discussed at the August 30, 1994, Board meeting. On August 31, 1994, the petitioner was notified that the board accepted his resignation. The petitioner continued teaching through the end of the school year, but became concerned with his prospects of reemployment. On June 28, 1995, the petitioner sent the Board a letter attempting to rescind his resignation. The Board did not receive this letter and did not learn of the petitioner's request until July 17, 1995, when the petitioner's attorney contacted the Board. The Board told the petitioner's attorney that it considered him retired as of July 1, 1995.

The petitioner filed an appeal with the Commissioner on October 26, 1995. The Board sought dismissal of the appeal as time barred under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).[3] The ALJ concluded that the "petitioner's receipt of the Board's action by letter dated August 31, 1994, triggered petitioner's, 'receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action' by the Board...the Board's action on August 30, 1994, was final...any challenge to the Board's action by petitioner was required to be filed before the Commissioner on or before November 29, 1994." Id. at 883. The ALJ further determined that the petitioner's attempt to rescind his resignation did not bar the application of the ninety-day rule. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision and dismissed the petition. Id. at 884.

Petitioner in this matter argues that the ninety-day limitations period begins on the last date of employment. In support of this contention, petitioner relies upon Holmin v. TRW, Inc., 330 N.J. Super. 30 (App. Div. 2000) affirmed 167 N.J. 205 (2001). Petitioner asserts that Holmin stands for the proposition that New Jersey courts, "have held that the limitation period begins to run on the last day of employment." See Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Summary Decision, February 19, 2007. As respondent points out, Holmin is distinguishable because it dealt with the cause of action of fraud, which requires damages as an essential element. Holmin, supra, 330 N.J. Super. at 35. However, Holmin is further distinguishable because the court directly addressed the issue of tenure in its discussion of the Nissman case. The court noted:

[3] The language of this provision is identical to the current regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

> [Nissman] involved an unusual chronology in a tenure dispute. A State Board of Education regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) barred any challenge to a local board order if the challenge was not filed within ninety-days of receipt of the order. Applying that regulation, this court found that petitioner's complaint was time barred, since it was filed more than ninety-days after she was told her contract would not be renewed and thus she would not receive her tenure....
> We repeat there is nothing "inherently arbitrary or capricious" about the regulation applied in Nissman. [Ibid.]

Thus, petitioner's reliance on Holmin is not persuasive because the case is factually different and the Holmin court noted that tenure disputes and the ninety-day rule are distinct from other types of employment termination.

Petitioner also cites Keelan v. Bell Communications Research, 289 N.J. Super. 531 (App. Div. 1996) for the proposition that the limitations period begins to run on the last date of employment. See Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Summary Decision, February 19, 2007. Again, petitioner's reliance on this case is misplaced. In Keelan, the court stated, "We are cognizant that in an academic setting, the denial of tenure, and not the subsequent date when the employment ceased, invokes the running of the statute of limitations...." Keelan, supra. 289 N.J. Super. at 539.

Finally, petitioner argues that, "the resignation, by its very terms, did not become effective upon its acceptance instead it did not become effective until May 22, 2006." See Petitioner's Brief in Opposition to Summary Decision, February 19, 2007. Petitioner does not explain this argument. Here, the Board accepted the petitioner's letter of resignation on August 16, 2005. As of that date, the Board's action was final, and the petitioner had ninety-days to file an appeal challenging the action. The petition was not filed until July 2006. Therefore, the petition is time-barred.

C. Summary Decision

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR), summary decision is appropriate if, "the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Essentially, the standard for summary decision mirrors the standard for summary judgment. Contini v. Board of Education of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995), certif. den., 145 N.J. 372 (1996). "[W]hen deciding a motion for summary judgment under Rule 4:46-2,[4] the determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance, Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

Here, the facts indicate that the petitioner submitted a letter of resignation to the school board. That resignation was accepted by the Board on August 16, 2005. Petitioner was specifically denied tenure and was only offered employment during the 2005–2006 school year to permit her to achieve twenty-five years of service. The final action taken by the Board was the acceptance of petitioner's resignation. Therefore, the ninety-day limitations period was triggered on August 16, 2005. Because petitioner did not file the petition until July, 2006, I CONCLUDE that the petition is time barred and summary decision shall be granted in favor of the respondent Board.

[4] Rule 4:46-2 governs motions for summary judgment in civil actions.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that respondent's motion for summary decision is granted and petitioner's petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

L.O'H. and J.O'H. on behalf of minor child, J.O'H.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN VALLEY REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The pleadings, audio tapes of the March 21, 2007 hearing and the hearing exhibits pertaining to the above captioned matter – including an audio tape marked P-16 – have been reviewed.[1] The Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioners have failed to show that emergent relief is warranted in this case.

Petitioners lived in respondents' district until the summer of 2006, after their minor child's junior year at Northern Valley Regional High School (NVRHS). Prior to the commencement of the 2006-2007 school year, petitioners moved out of the school district, but nonetheless continued to send their child to NVRHS. Respondent determined that petitioners' child was no longer entitled to a free education in its district, and sent petitioners a tuition bill. Petitioners asked respondent to excuse them from paying tuition, based on their particular circumstances, and respondent offered a settlement that would require petitioners to pay about a third of the district's usual annual tuition for twelfth grade. Petitioners rejected the settlement offer, appealed to the Commissioner and moved for emergent relief.

[1] No exceptions were received by the parties.

A hearing on the emergent relief application took place in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 21, 2007. As to the standards set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) – which petitioners must satisfy to receive a grant of emergent relief – the petitioners argued as follows:

- Irreparable Harm. Petitioners maintained that they cannot afford to pay the reduced tuition amount of $4,260, and that their child would quit school if respondent disenrolled her. Moreover, even if their child did not quit school, a transfer during her senior year would cause serious academic and social disruption.
- Settled Law. Petitioners made no argument concerning the status of the law applicable to this matter.
- Likelihood of Success. Petitioners contended that their ownership of a house in respondent's district and the payment of taxes thereon entitled their child to a free education at NVRHS, notwithstanding that the family was not domiciled in respondent's district. They testified that they thought that respondent had a policy to allow non-resident high school seniors to attend school tuition free if they had attended the district's school as a resident for the first three high school years.

Petitioners also urged that two of respondent's published policies on exceptions to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), which requires that a child be domiciled in the district to receive a free public education, apply to their child. Those exceptions are:

> A child otherwise eligible for attendance whose parent/guardian has signed a contract to buy, build or rent a residence in this district shall be enrolled based on the signed contract of residency without tuition charges.

> Regularly enrolled children whose parents/guardians have moved out of the school district during the final marking period shall be permitted to finish the school year without payment of tuition.

Finally, petitioners asserted that respondent applied its policies in an arbitrary and capricious manner.

- Balance of the Equities. Petitioners contend that respondent is estopped from disenrolling their child because the administration did not respond to a letter that they sent in July 2006 (P-1) advising that they were moving out of the district. Petitioners also maintain that the harm their child will suffer if they do not prevail outweighs the harm the district will suffer if the Commissioner rules in favor of petitioners.

After hearing testimony from petitioner, L.O'H., and respondent's witness, Raymond Jacobus, the administrative law judge (ALJ) made the following findings of fact.

1. It is undisputed that the petitioners do not live in respondent's district. They purchased a half-interest in an $838,000 house in Rivervale, to which they moved in the summer of 2006. There is no mortgage on the house, and the taxes are paid by L.O'H.'s parents, who own the other half-interest in the house. Petitioners pay $12,000 per year for utilities and other expenses.
2. Petitioners still own their house in Northvale – in respondent's district. They attempted to sell it but were not able to command a price that would satisfy the mortgage and leave them with $165,000 to settle a loan from L.O'H.'s parents. Petitioners are renting out the Northvale house for $30,000 per year. The mortgage is $26,100 per year and taxes are $8000 per year.

3. J.O'H. earns $65,000 per year. L.O'H. receives $8,400 per year in disability payments.
4. Petitioners stated that their child has been accepted to college and that they plan to take out loans to finance her college education.
5. In May 2006 respondent sent a letter (R-1) to the parents of all its high school juniors articulating its policy for students who move out of the district during their senior year and wish to finish high school in the district. The letter stated that for such students respondent would charge 75 per cent of the regular tuition, prorated from the time the student was no longer domiciled in its district.

Based upon the foregoing factual findings, the ALJ arrived at the following legal conclusions regarding the four emergent relief standards in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b):

Irreparable Harm

While petitioners' child would arguably suffer irreparable harm if forced to transfer out of respondent's high school during her senior year, the ALJ found that a viable alternative to that course of action existed. Namely, respondent offered to allow the child to attend its high school for a greatly reduced tuition fee of $4260. Based upon the information elicited at the OAL hearing about petitioners' financial situation, the ALJ found petitioner's claims that they could not afford respondent's tuition to be unsupported by the evidence. Accordingly, he could not conclude that irreparable harm was the inevitable consequence of denying petitioners' application for emergent relief. The Commissioner agrees.

Settled Law

The ALJ found that the law applicable to this controversy is settled, and the Commissioner concurs. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, domicile is a necessary precondition to a free public education in a school district. Respondent may and did formulate policies that allow exceptions to the law concerning domicile. Those policies are set forth, supra, and the parties agree that they govern the instant dispute.

Likelihood of Success

Petitioners admitted that they are not domiciled in respondent's district, and the ALJ found that the two provisions of respondent's policy about non-resident students upon which petitioners relied for their appeal did not apply to them. First, J.O'H. could not receive a free education in respondent's school district as an enrolled child "whose parents/guardians have moved out of the school district during the final marking period," since petitioners had moved out of the district before the school year even began.

Second, J.O'H. could not receive a tuition-free education in respondent's district as "a child otherwise eligible for attendance whose parent/guardian has signed a contract to buy, build or rent a residence in this district," because her parents had signed no such contract. Further, petitioners conceded at the hearing that they had planned on selling their house in respondent's district, and that they had no plans to move back into the district.

Finally, the ALJ found that although petitioners had made generalized allegations that similarly situated students had been allowed to attend school in respondent's district tuition free, pursuant to district policy, they had presented no policy provisions – other than the above articulated provisions that do not apply to J.O'H. – or evidence to support those allegations. There was no basis to conclude that respondent had not followed its own policy or that respondent had acted arbitrarily.

In summary, the ALJ concluded, and the Commissioner agrees, that petitioners did not show that they were likely to succeed on the merits of their appeal.

Balance of the Equities

In discussing the equities, the ALJ found that petitioners would experience a greater impact from a ruling against them than would respondent. The Commissioner could concur with that finding if the analysis were limited to the relative financial impacts. However, there are other impacts to be considered, such as the consequences respondent would experience as a result of its abandonment of its own policy.

Moreover, there are other equities to balance. Petitioners alleged that they would have transferred their child at the beginning of the 2006-2007 school year if respondent had answered Mrs. O'H's letter, dated July 2, 2006, disclosing that J.O'H. was moving out of respondent's district.[2] However, as found above, prior to July 2006, respondent had sent a letter to the parents of all high school juniors advising that all students who moved out of the district during their senior year would be required to pay tuition, at the rate of 75% of the regular tuition, prorated from the date that the student moved. Thus, petitioners had been apprised of what would be expected of them. The ALJ also noted – and the Commissioner cannot disagree – that it was unreasonable of petitioners not to follow up on their July 2006 letter when no response had been received by September 2006.

Finally, in considering the equities, the Commissioner notes that respondent was prepared to subtract – from the total tuition due – the period of three months (September through November 2006) during which it was not aware that J.O'H. was a non-resident, and another two or three month period at the end of the school year corresponding to the last marking period. The net result was that petitioners were offered the opportunity to pay less than a third of normal tuition costs for twelfth graders in respondent's district.

[2] The letter was sent to the Northern Valley Administrative Offices and its salutation was "To Whom It May Concern."

The ALJ denied petitioners' application for emergent relief by way of an oral opinion placed on the record at the end of the March 21, 2007 hearing. He found that they had not met their burden to satisfy N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)(3), i.e., they had not shown that they were likely to succeed on the merits of their appeal of respondent's determination concerning tuition. The Commissioner agrees and – for the reasons articulated above – is also not persuaded that petitioners satisfied any of the four standards of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). However, because the rule requires that all four of its standards be met before emergent relief is granted, the Commissioner need not reach any further than the determination that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)(3) was not satisfied.

The Order of the OAL – as amplified above – is adopted as the final decision on the motion for emergent relief, and petitioners' application for emergent relief is denied.

BEFORE JOANN LaSALA CANDIDO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 5, 2006, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13.

Hearings were scheduled for September 25, 2006, January 4 & 25, 2007. The September 25, 2006 hearing was adjourned because petitioner was out of the country at the time of the hearing. During the pendency of the case at the Office of Administrative Law, the parties reached a settlement of the matter. The Stipulation of Settlement was received by the undersigned on March 15, 2007.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Stipulation of Settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner claimed tenure in the position of principal, assistant principal and vice-principal in respondent's school district, alleging that his termination violated his tenure and seniority rights. The Board claimed petitioner's termination was permissible because he had not accrued sufficient time in either the position of principal or vice principal – which is "one and the same" as assistant principal – to achieve tenure. Both parties filed motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the material facts are not in dispute, and the matter is ripe for summary judgment; petitioner's tenure in the district began to accrue after he received his provisional certificate as a principal/supervisor in November 2000; petitioner's tenure as principal began to accrue from August 1, 2002, when the position he had been filling on a temporary basis became vacant; and petitioner was, therefore, employed for a sufficient period of time to acquire tenure as a principal and was unlawfully terminated from his position. The ALJ ordered the Board to restore petitioner to the position of principal and pay him lost salary and benefits retroactive to his termination date of August 18, 2005.

The Commissioner modified and amplified the Initial Decision of the OAL. She concurred with the ALJ that the petitioner had acquired tenure, and was therefore removed from his position in violation of his rights, but found, inter alia, that – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 – such tenure was attained on August 1, 2004, rather than on August 1, 2005, as stated by the ALJ, and that petitioner had also acquired tenure in the positions of assistant principal and vice principal – positions which are separately tenurable as a matter of law. The Commissioner directed the Board to restore petitioner to a position as principal and reimburse him for lost salary and benefits retroactive to August 18, 2005, less mitigation as appropriate; or, if no such position is available due to the greater seniority of the district's incumbent principals, to accord him the appropriate placement on a preferred eligibility list and proceed thereafter to honor his tenure and seniority rights as vice principal and assistant principal.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8923-05
AGENCY DKT. NO. 286-10/05

DOUGLAS AUSTIN,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have petitioner's exceptions and the reply of the Board of Education (Board) filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

On exception, while petitioner fully concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that he acquired tenure as a principal in the Willingboro school district and was dismissed in violation of that right, he contends that the ALJ erred by: 1) failing to address his claim of tenure in the position of vice principal; and 2) finding that he acquired tenure as a principal on August 1, 2005 rather than on August 1, 2004, since N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 – which applies in this instance since petitioner was promoted to the position of principal from another tenure-eligible position in the district – requires two years' service for acquisition of tenure, not three. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-3)

In reply, the Board rejects petitioner's claim of tenured status as a vice principal on grounds that his service as interim principal from January 2002 to

August 1, 2002 cannot count toward acquisition of tenure in any position, since he was serving in a substitute capacity during that time. (Board's Reply at 1)

Upon consideration, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision with modification and amplification as set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that petitioner did, in fact, acquire tenure as a principal in the district and was removed from that position in violation of his rights. However, the Commissioner also concurs with petitioner that the ALJ erred in calculating the date on which such tenured status was obtained. In this regard, the record is clear that petitioner was promoted to the position of principal from the tenure-eligible position of vice principal, thus triggering the following provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, omitted by the ALJ in his recitation and application (Initial Decision at 4-5) of that statute:

> Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:
> (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
>
> (b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years; (emphasis supplied)

Consequently, under the plain language of controlling statute, petitioner acquired tenure as a principal on August 1, 2004 – after the passage of two consecutive calendar years – rather than on August 1, 2005, after passage of three years as stated by the ALJ (Id. at 9).

See Alan R. Sitek v. Board of Education of the Southern Regional High School District, Ocean County, 1988 S.L.D. 2247; affirmed State Board of Education. 1989 S.L.D. 3079.

Moreover, petitioner is correct in asserting that the Initial Decision did not squarely address his claim with respect to the position of vice principal, and the Commissioner further notes that his claim to tenure in the position of assistant principal – as raised in the Petition of Appeal and argued in petitioner's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment – is similarly omitted, notwithstanding that petitioner did not object to such omission on exception.[1] Additionally, the ALJ appears not to have contemplated the possibility that there may not be a principal position in the district held by a nontenured or less senior principal so as to enable petitioner to obtain the relief ordered for having prevailed in this matter. The Commissioner, therefore, finds it appropriate to address the question of petitioner's status as assistant principal and vice principal.

In this regard, the record shows that petitioner began accruing time toward acquisition of tenure in the position of assistant principal upon his receipt of provisional certification in November 2000, and as vice principal upon his appointment to that position on December 1, 2000. Thus, given his subsequent continuous service within the district – together with the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 providing that "the period of employment in [a] new position to which a tenure-eligible employee is promoted or transferred] shall be included in determining the tenure and seniority rights in the former position held by such teaching staff member" – petitioner had, at the time of his unlawful termination, unquestionably satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:28-6, respectively, for acquisition of tenure as both an assistant principal and a vice principal.[2] The Commissioner rejects, as entirely without merit, the Board's contention that petitioner could not accrue tenure in any position while serving as interim principal; while he clearly could not accrue tenure as a principal as a result of such service, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, there can be no question that he continued to accrue tenure as an assistant principal and vice principal while acting as principal, the latter circumstance correctly noted by the ALJ. (Initial Decision at 8)

Accordingly, as modified and amplified above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Willingboro Board of Education is directed to restore petitioner to a position as principal and reimburse him for lost salary and benefits retroactive to August 18, 2005, less mitigation as appropriate; or, if no such position is available due to the greater seniority of the district's incumbent principals, to accord him the appropriate placement on a preferred eligibility list and proceed thereafter to honor his tenure and seniority rights as vice principal and assistant principal.

[2] Notwithstanding the Board's stance to the contrary (Brief in Support of Cross-Motion for Summary Disposition at 1) and petitioner's apparent acquiescence to it for purposes of this proceeding (Letter Memorandum of May 16, 2006 at 1, together with omission of references to tenure as assistant principal in all subsequent submissions), these positions are – as correctly noted by the ALJ – separately tenurable as a matter of law. (Initial Decision at 5)

DOUGLAS AUSTIN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., appearing for petitioner
James F. Schwerin, Esq., appearing for respondent (Parker McCay, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 2, 2007 Decided: March 21, 2007

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

On August 22, 2005, the Willingboro Board of Education terminated Douglas Austin's employment as a vice principal. Austin filed a petition of appeal claiming that he had accrued tenure not just as a vice principal, but also as a principal, and that the termination had therefore violated his tenure and seniority rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and -6. The Board answered that the termination had been permissible because Austin had not accrued sufficient time in either position to achieve tenure. For the reasons set forth below, Austin's motion for summary decision is granted and the Board's cross-motion is denied.

Austin filed his petition of appeal on October 6, 2005, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case on December 2, 2005. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. During a prehearing conference conducted on January 31, 2006, the parties agreed that the material facts were not in dispute and that the matter could proceed with the filing of a stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. A briefing schedule was established and the record was initially closed on September 6, 2006, upon receipt of the parties' respective reply briefs.

Following two extensions of the forty-five-day statutory period within which to file an initial decision, the record was reopened when it became apparent that additional information concerning the circumstances under which Austin had been appointed to serve as interim principal was needed. A supplemental certification providing the requested information was submitted on January 31, 2007, and the record was ultimately closed on February 2, 2007, upon receipt of a final letter brief from Austin's attorney.

The one-sentence stipulation of facts executed by the parties on March 7, 2006, provides that "Austin's employment with the Board is accurately reflected by the Board's personnel card for Austin, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A." The personnel card, entitled "Douglas Austin's Employment Record," discloses the following chronological history of Austin's employment by the Board:

Year	Title	Salary
9/01/99	Assistant Principal	$65,837
9/01/00	Reappointment – Assistant Principal	$68,141
12/01/00	Appointment – Vice Principal	$74,000
9/01/01	Reappointment – Vice Principal	$77,700

Documentation submitted by the Board on June 14, 2006,[1] established that Austin held only a certificate of eligibility as a principal/supervisor from September 1999 through and including October 2000, and obtained his provisional certificate as a principal/supervisor in November 2000.

In the supplemental certification submitted on January 31, 2007, Lorene W. Moore, the Board's Interim Director of Human Resources, stated that "[w]hen Austin was appointed as Interim Principal, first for the period January 1-June 30, 2002, and continuing through July, he was substituting for Trudy Austin, no relation, who was on leave. Effective August 1, 2002, Trudy Austin was transferred to another position. Douglas Austin remained as Interim Principal until his appointment as Principal on August 27, 2002." Moore Certification, Exhibit R-4.

After careful review of the record, I am satisfied that the material facts giving rise to this matter are not in dispute. Therefore, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:12.5 and Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, supra, 142 N.J. 520, I find that this matter is ripe for summary disposition.

The Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, specifically defines the conditions under which teaching staff members are entitled to the security of tenure. Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982); Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of

[1] The documentation included correspondence dated June 12, 2006, from Department of Education's Office of Licensure and Credentials (Exhibit R-1); Austin's Certificate of Eligibility issued August 1998 (Exhibit R-2); and Austin's Standard Certificate issued January 2005 (Exhibit R-3).

Educ., 38 N.J. 65 (1962), cert. den. 371 U.S. 956 (1963). Tenure arises only upon compliance with the precise conditions articulated in the statute. Picogna v. Board of Education of Cherry Hill, 143 N.J. 391, 400 (1996).

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 grants tenure to enumerated teaching staff members, including principals, assistant principals, vice-principals, and assistant superintendents, who meet the statutory requirements. By the express terms of this statute, a teaching staff member is entitled to tenure if he or she (1) works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) has served the requisite period of time. Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, supra, 90 N.J. at 74.

Generally, a teaching staff member is entitled to tenure once he or she has been employed in a school district for (a) three consecutive years, or (b) three consecutive academic years and the first day of the next academic year, or (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within any four academic years. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; Dennery v. Board of Education of the Passaic Cty. Reg. High Sch. Dist., 131 N.J. 626, 633 (1993). However, tenure in an administrative or supervisory position can accrue only during the period of time the individual is actually employed in that particular position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. And the tenure accrued in that position cannot be extended to any other administrative or supervisory position. Ibid.

Special tacking provisions apply to non-tenured teaching staff members who are voluntarily transferred or promoted to a new tenure-eligible position before reaching tenure in their former position. When a teaching staff member eligible to obtain tenure is transferred or promoted with his or her consent to another tenure-eligible position, > the period of employment in such new position shall be included in determining the tenure and seniority rights in the former position held by such teaching staff member, and in the event the employment in such new position is terminated before tenure is obtained therein, if he then has tenure in the district or under said board of education, such teaching staff member shall be returned to his former position at the salary which he would have received had the transfer or promotion not occurred together with any increase to which he would > have been entitled during the period of such transfer or promotion.

Here, Austin was initially employed as an assistant principal on September 1, 1999, and remained in that position until December 1, 2000, when he was appointed to the position of vice principal. There can be no question that the fifteen months he served as an assistant principal was insufficient to achieve tenure in that position. Yet, the Board has asserted, albeit in a footnote, that "[i]n actuality, Vice-Principal and Assistant Principal are the same." Board's Brief in Support of Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, May 3, 2006, pg. 1, fn. 1. In other words, the two titles are, in its view, interchangeable.

It is unclear why the Board has taken this position when it should know that the Commissioner of Education has held that it is "contrary to the clear and specific language of the statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5) which separately enumerates the two positions." Schweber v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, EDU 6469-96, Final Decision, Commissioner (June 10, 1998), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. I can only assume the Board did so to make the point that even Austin's combined service time as an assistant principal and vice-principal of two years and eleven months, fell one month short of the three years required by the statute. Still, it need not have done so because Austin did not possess the necessary certification to accrue tenure during the first fourteen months he served as an assistant principal.

A "teaching staff member" is defined as > a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications for such office, position, or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the state board of examiners....

[N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 (emphasis supplied)]

What is more, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 provides that "[n]o teaching staff member shall acquire tenure in any position in the public schools in any school district or under any board of education, who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate for such position, issued by the state board of examiners." Therefore, it is virtually axiomatic that the period of time a teacher serves in a position without the benefit of a valid and appropriate teaching certificate and any specific endorsement that may be required by the position cannot be counted toward the accrual of tenure or seniority in that position. See e.g. Cooker v. Brigantine Bd. of Educ., 91 S.L.D. 1202, aff'd., Commissioner, 91 S.L.D. 1224, aff'd., N.J. Superior Court, App. Div., Docket No. A 2128-91T1 (1992) (teacher lacking a valid and appropriate certificate was denied tenure rights after ten years in her position).

Nor can a late-acquired certificate or endorsement retroactively qualify earlier service. See, e.g., McAneny v. Chatham Bd. of Educ., 91 S.L.D. 794 (late-acquired elementary school teacher's certificate did not qualify thirteen years of supplemental service by a teacher holding only home economics endorsement); and Gelsomino v. Belleville Bd. of Educ., 80 S.L.D. 541 (time served in departmental position for evaluation of teachers prior to acquisition of supervisor's endorsement did not count toward tenure).

Here, Austin did not obtain his provisional certificate as a principal/supervisor until November 2000. I therefore find that the first fourteen months he served as an assistant principal (September 1999 – October 2000) did not count towards the accrual of tenure or seniority rights in that position and that he actually accrued only one month of tenure-eligible service as an assistant principal before his promotion to vice-principal.

Austin was appointed to the position of vice-principal on December 1, 2000. He served in that position until January 2, 2002, when he was appointed to serve as an interim principal, an appointment that continued through to the end of July. During that period of time, Austin was substituting for the principal, Trudy Austin, who was on leave. Effective August 1, 2002, Trudy Austin was transferred to another position, but it was not until August 27, 2002 that Douglas Austin was appointed as principal to succeed her. It is this twenty-seven-day period (August 1 – August 27, 2002), that appears to be the bone of contention between the parties.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 provides that

> In each district the board of education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee subject to the provisions of section 18A:17-13.
> The acts of any person so designated shall in all cases be legal and binding as if done and performed by the officer or employee for who such designated person is acting but no person so acting shall acquire tenure in the office or employment in which he acts pursuant to this section when so acting.

The Appellate Division had occasion to discuss the difference between a "temporary employee" or substitute on one hand, and a teaching staff member actually holding a tenure-eligible position on the other, in Sayreville Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ., Etc., 193 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1984). In the decision written by the Hon. Sylvia Pressler, J.A.D., the court construed N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 as applying > when the services of a substitute teacher are required because of the temporary absence, even if protracted, of a regular teacher whose return to duty is contemplated. We do not construe it as authorizing the use of a substitute to fill a vacant position on a long-term basis. This interpretation, in our view, accords with the plain meaning of the statutory provision. The phrase, "to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee," clearly implies a temporary arrangement. That is, the "place" which is the intended subject of the statute is the place of another which that other will reclaim when his period of absence is over. The substitute is appointed to act for the other during that period. If that other employee has, however, terminated his employment, then the place which the appointee is filling is not the place of the other but rather a vacant place, and the statute ordinarily does not apply. This interpretation is, > moreover, in accord with the observation in Spievak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., supra, 90 N.J. at 77, that the exception to the tenure statute which N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 constitutes "is limited to employees hired to take the place of an absent teacher." Again, the implication is clear that the place for which the temporary substitute teacher was hired is not vacant but only temporarily unoccupied by its incumbent.

In the present matter, it is undisputed that Austin's appointment as interim principal was for a six-month period of time from January 2, 2002, through and including June 30, 2002. As it happens, the interim appointment continued through to the end of July. Throughout that period of time it was anticipated that Trudy Austin would reclaim her position when her leave of absence was over. Therefore, the principal's position was not vacant, but only temporarily unoccupied, for the first seven months of 2002 and any tenure Douglas Austin accrued while serving as interim principal was in the position of vice-principal.

However, Trudy Austin was transferred to a different position in the school district on August 1, 2002. From that point on, Douglas Austin was no longer filling Trudy Austin's place, but rather a vacant place, and he began to accrue tenure as a principal. The fact that the Board did not formally appoint Austin to the position of principal until August 27, 2002, does not change the fact that he became the principal the moment Trudy Austin's transfer became effective. Therefore, he began to accrue tenure as a principal on August 1, 2002, and not August 27, 2002, as the Board has argued.

Austin continued to serve as principal until August 18, 2005, when he was transferred and "returned" to his original position of assistant principal. Five days later he was terminated. However, the fact remains that he filled the vacant position as interim principal for twenty-six days and continued to serve as principal in his own right for an additional thirty-five months and twenty-two days. As of the day of he was transferred, he had served as principal for thirty-six months and seventeen days, seventeen days more than the three-year requirement to achieve tenure.

Undisputed facts establish and I therefore conclude that Austin was employed for a sufficient period of time to acquire tenure as a principal in the Willingboro school district and was terminated in violation of his tenure and seniority rights. Accordingly, Austin is entitled to entry of summary decision in his favor.

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the Board restore Austin to the position of principal and promptly pay him all lost salary and other benefits retroactive to August 18, 2005, subject to appropriate mitigation, if any.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." MARK PERKINS, Petitioner, vs. EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY AGENCY REFERENCE NO. 247-7/06 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is made by and between the East Orange Board of Education (hereinafter the "Board") with administrative offices located at 715 Park Avenue, East Orange, New Jersey, 07017 and Mark Perkins, whose address is P.O. Box 4122, East Orange, New Jersey 07019 (hereinafter the "Petitioner"). In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned parties state:

WHEREAS, on March 28, 2006, Petitioner was employed by the Board as a teaching staff member; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner was charged with a criminal action for certain acts alleged to have occurred on March 28, 2006, while Petitioner was in the employ of the Board; and

WHEREAS, on May 8, 2006, the criminal complaint against Petitioner was dismissed; and

WHEREAS, the Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on or about July 12, 2006, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, seeking reimbursement from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs associated with the legal defense of the criminal action with which Petitioner had been charged; and

WHEREAS, on or about August 30, 2006, the Board filed its answer to the Petition of Appeal with Affirmative Defenses; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined that it is in their respective best interests to enter into this Stipulation of Settlement and Release to avoid the need for further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board will pay to the Petitioner the sum of Five Thousand Two Hundred Twenty-Five Dollars and Forty-Eight Cents ($5,225.48) in full and complete satisfaction of the amount Petitioner is claiming to be due and owing to him from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs.
2. This settlement amount will be paid directly to the trust account of Petitioner's legal counsel, Timothy Smith, Esq. of Timothy R. Smith & Associates, LLC, 76 South Orange Avenue, Suite 211, South Orange, New Jersey, 07079, following the approval of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release by the Commissioner of Education.
3. Petitioner, in consideration of this Agreement, hereby releases the Board, individually and collectively, and its agents, servants and employees from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to the subject matter set forth in the Petition of Appeal now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release.

4. Petitioner acknowledges that he has reviewed this Stipulation of Settlement and Release with his own independent legal counsel and that he enters into it without duress, and of his own free will and volition. He further acknowledges that he fully understands the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and the duties and obligations enumerated herein.
5. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and in full, final and complete settlement of this matter hereby withdraws, with prejudice, the above-docketed Petition of Appeal.
6. Nothing contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release should be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party and neither party shall be considered a prevailing party for any reason.
7. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is conditioned upon approval of the Board.
8. The Board's President is authorized to execute this Stipulation of Settlement and Release on behalf of the Board.
9. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release contains the entire agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing shall be binding upon them.
10. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release are deemed material. This instrument may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by a new instrument executed in writing by the parties.

11. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is an agreement which is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties, or their duly authorized representatives, do set forth their hands and seal as of the date(s) set forth below.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE WEST ESSEX REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.

The record of this emergent matter – which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 4, 2007 – along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination, for the reasons stated in her Order, that petitioner has failed to satisfy any of the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The Commissioner declines, however, to reach to the ALJ's recommendation that M.C.'s participation in the Youth Guidance Council's 5-hour car wash on April 21, 2007 be credited toward the 30-hours of community service imposed by the Board, as she determines that resolution of this issue is not appropriately accomplished in an emergent application.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter is being returned to the OAL - along with briefs of the parties in connection with petitioner's motion for summary decision filed with the Agency - for plenary hearing.

ORDER ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03601-07

AGENCY DKT. NO. 88-3/07

D.C. ON BEHALF OF M.C.

Petitioner,

v.

WEST ESSEX REGIONAL SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION

Respondent.

Stephen M. Latimer, Esq. appearing for petitioner (Loughlin & Latimer)

Jocelyn M. Frank, Esq. appearing on behalf of respondent (Fogarty & Hara)

Record Closed: April 4, 2007 Decided: April 5, 2007

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, D.C., brought an application for emergent relief to compel respondent, the West Essex Board of Education, (WEBOE) to permit M.C. to participate in extra curricular activities and to reduce the amount of time M.C. is to participate in a community service.

On March 29, 2007, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for an emergent hearing or a preliminary injunction until a plenary hearing could be held. The parties submitted written arguments on the emergent issues and oral arguments were heard on April 4, 2007.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following basic facts are not in dispute and for purposes of the emergent hearing which was held on April 4, 2007, the parties agreed to the following FACTS:

M.C. is a tenth grade student at West Essex Regional High School. On January 12, 2007, M.C. and a friend were found by the North Caldwell Police in a car on a street behind the school, during school hours, engaging in a narcotics related activity. Based on this incident, on January 19, 2007, M.C. was suspended for ten (10) days. He was suspended from January 19, 2007 until February 2, 2007. Following this suspension, it came to the WEBOE's attention that on January 12, 2007, M.C. also had in his possession a four (4) inch hunting knife considered to be a weapon in possession and contrary to school policy. This knife is commonly known as a buck knife.

On February 8, 2007, M.C. was again suspended for having had a "buck knife" in his possession on January 12, 2007. This time M.C. was suspended pending a WEBOE formal hearing, said hearing took place on March 7, 2007. At the conclusion of that hearing the WEBOE found that M.C. had in his possession a knife on school premises on January 12, 2007, and that he further violated the terms of his suspension when he came onto school grounds on February 13, 2007.

The WEBOE determined that M.C. would be re-admitted to the district on a probationary basis through the end of the 2006-2007 school year under certain terms. The WEBOE imposed nine (9) conditions and/or penalties of M.C.'s probationary return to school. Out of the nine (9) items imposed petitioners are appealing two (2) which are the subject of the instant emergent hearing.

Petitioners appeal on an emergent basis that: 1) M.C. shall not be permitted to participate or attend any athletic, co-curricular and/or extracurricular activity sponsored by the WEBOE either on or off campus. 2) M.C. is to perform thirty (30) hours of community service.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Resolution of the emergent relief requested is governed by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1. Emergent relief shall be granted if it is determined from the proofs that:

i. Petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.

ii. The legal rights underlying the petitioner's claim is settled.

iii. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

iv. When the equities and interest of the parties are balanced the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A: 3-1.6(b).

It is well settled that a petitioner must meet these four criteria in order to prevail on an emergent application. See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Regarding the first prong requiring a showing of irreparable harm; petitioner presents that to deprive M.C. of the opportunity to participate in extra curricular activities is damaging to his standing with his fellow students because it is stigmatizing and ostracizing and that it will affect his college admissions and impact on his future employment. Participation in extra curricular activities is a privilege and not a right, it has been held that students do not suffer irreparable harm if they are prohibited from participating in extra curricular activities. BOE of the City of Trenton v. N.J.S.I.A.A., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 158. Also, there is no indication that petitioner is an active participant or is actively involved in any extra curricular activity. Petitioner has failed to provide a showing of how performing thirty hours (30) of community service will cause M.C. to sustain irreparable harm. I FIND that it is speculative to say what, if any, affect this prohibition and/or requirement will or may have on his college admissions or employment. I CONCLUDE that there is no proof of irreparable harm.

Petitioner must show that the legal right underlying his claim is settled. I FIND that there has been nothing provided to show that this matter is so clean cut. I CONCLUDE from petitioner's arguments that such a claim is anything but settled.

It is well settled law that the actions of a Board of Education which lie within the area of discretionary powers, especially in discipline matters, may not be upset unless there is a showing that the discipline imposed was arbitrary, capricious and without a rational basis or was induced by improper motives. J.M. vs. Hunterdon Central RE. High School, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 415, 419 (citing Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ. 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div 1960)). Respondent submitted a certification from the district's superintendent that he imposes thirty (30) hours of community service as a standard penalty, only one exception with grounds was cited in the certification. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated the likelihood of success on the merits as based on the record before me.

When one balances the equities I FIND that the Board's need to implement and to enforce school regulations outweighs the petitioner's need or desire to attend extra curricular activities or to refrain from performing thirty hours of community service. I FIND that compliance with the disciplined imposed is not, for this emergent matter, unduly burdensome. Therefore, I further CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated that M.C. will incur any substantial harm, at least substantial enough as to create an imbalance necessitating immediate relief.

During the hearing the parties acknowledged that M.C. is an active participant in the Youth Guidance Council of Roseland; this organization is not related to school.

The Youth Guidance Council is sponsoring a five (5) hour car wash on April 21, 2007. The proceeds of the car wash are to go to the family of a Newark police officer that died in the course of duty. The WEBOE is permitting M.C. to attend this activity but M.C. must make up those five (5) to the WEBOE at a later date. I, RECOMMEND that if M.C. participates in the car wash he is credited with five (5) hours towards the thirty (30) hours he has to serve. The WEBOE is to obtain the appropriate proof as to M.C.'s five (5) hour attendance and participation in that car wash.

ORDER

The petitioner has not met the criteria for granting emergent relief, this application is hereby DENIED. The petition for emergent relief is hereby DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF ARETHA DOOLEY MALLOY, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended revised penalty of censure, have been reviewed. No comments were filed by the respondent.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the revised penalty of censure recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes the respondent for failure to timely file the requisite disclosure statement, in that such delay has resulted in a waste of administrative and adjudicative time by local, county and State education officials.

Accordingly, the above-named respondent is hereby censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act. In addition, the Commissioner echoes the Commission's dismay regarding the Newark School District's failure to properly process respondent's disclosure statement once it was provided on October 2, 2006.

RE: In the Matter of Aretha Dooley Malloy
School Ethics Commission Decision Docket No. D07-06
Agency Docket No. 407-11/06

Attached is a letter and amended resolution regarding the above school administrator who failed to file her disclosure statement on time. It appears that the Newark School District never filed her disclosure statement with the county and never notified the Commission that she had filed despite being copied on the decisions of the School Ethics Commission and the Commissioner. The statement was finally filed with the county office on January 26, 2007. Ms. Malloy had filed with the district on October 2, 2006. The Commission is still recommending that she be censured; however, because she ignored the many letters and decisions that made it clear that the disclosure statement had never been properly filed. Her disregard of these documents resulted in a colossal waste of time and effort on the part of the staff of the School Ethics Commission and the staff of Controversies and Disputes.

Please do hesitate to contact me at 4-6941 if you have any questions.

RE: In the Matter of Aretha Dooley-Malloy, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, SEC Docket No. D07-06

Dear Ms. Malloy:

On January 3, 2007, the Newark Board of Education advised the School Ethics Commission that you had filed your disclosure statement on October 2, 2006 with the Newark School District. However, this was after the Commission had rendered its decision finding you in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act for failing to file your disclosure statement and after the Commissioner of Education rendered its decision concurring with the Commission's recommended penalty, which suspended you until your disclosure statement was filed, provided that if the statements were not filed within 30 days of the mailing date of the decision, you would be removed from office.

Following receipt of this message, the Commission undertook an investigation to determine why no one in the Newark School District or in the county office notified the Commission of the receipt of the statement despite the Commission's decision sent to you on October 31, 2006, the Commissioner's decision imposing the penalty sent to you on December 12, 2006 and the Commission's resolution of suspension sent to Perry Lattiboudere and copied to you on December 21, 2006. The Commission determined that the Newark Board of Education received your statement, but did not file it with the Essex County Office of Education as required. Rather, it was not received in the County Office until January 26, 2007.

Based on the foregoing information, the Commission voted at its meeting of February 27, 2007 to rescind the Resolution of Suspension that was sent for reading to the Newark School District on December 21, 2006. Apparently, the Resolution is the only reason that the Commission was ever notified of the District's receipt of the statement. The Commission first considered your attempt to file, which was unsuccessful because filing does not occur until the statement is received in the county office. The Commission next considered the extraordinary waste of administrative and adjudicative time spent by State education officials due to your failure to timely file your statement and your choice to ignore the many documents sent to you clearly indicating that your statement was never filed with the county office. Weighing each of these factors, the Commission voted to instead recommend a penalty of censure to the Commissioner of Education. The Commission is dismayed that the Newark school officials to whom these decisions and the resolution were sent chose to ignore them rather than file the statement properly and inform the Commission of the District's receipt. We trust that such an oversight will not recur in the future.

A draft amended resolution is enclosed herewith that will be adopted by the Commission if the Commissioner concurs with the recommendation.

Sincerely,

Lisa James-Beavers, Executive Director
School Ethics Commission

ARETHA DOOLEY MALLOY, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT, CITY OF NEWARK ESSEX COUNTY	:	AMENDED RESOLUTION FOR FAILURE TO FILE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act requires each school official to file a personal/relative disclosure statement and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 requires each school official to file a financial disclosure statement with the School Ethics Commission; and

WHEREAS, Aretha Dooley Malloy is a Vice Principal for the Newark City School District and thus a "school official" under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the Act and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2 of the Code; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the Essex County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with her school district and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission sent a reminder letter to her on August 29, 2006, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 15, 2006, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on September 28, 2006, directing Ms. Malloy to Show Cause why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that she had 20 days to respond to the Order, that the Commission would discuss this matter at its October 24, 2006 meeting, that she had the right to attend the meeting, and she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, this school official did not provide an answer to the Commission's Order; and

WHEREAS, at its meeting of October 24, 2006, the Commission adopted a decision concluding that Ms. Malloy violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 and recommending that the Commissioner impose a penalty of suspension until Ms. Malloy files disclosure statements, removal if the disclosure statements are not filed within 30 days of the Commissioner's decision on penalty, and censure if the disclosure statements are filed prior to issuance of the Commissioner's decision; and

WHEREAS, by decision of December 12, 2006, the Commissioner concurred with the penalty recommended by the Commission; and

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission adopted a resolution of suspension at its meeting of December 19, 2006 stating that Ms. Malloy is suspended as of December 12, 2006 until such disclosure statement is filed; provided, however, that if such statement is not filed by January 11, 2007, Aretha

Dooley-Malloy is removed from office and sent this to the District for reading at a public meeting on December 21, 2006 in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.10(d); and

WHEREAS, the Newark City Board of Education was ordered to read this resolution at its next public meeting following the Commission's adoption on December 19, 2006 and to post it in such places as the board posts its public notices for 30 days; and

WHEREAS, the Newark School District never read or posted the resolution, but notified the Commission on January 3, 2007 that the District had received Ms. Malloy's disclosure statement on October 2, 2006; and

WHEREAS, the Essex County Office of Education did not receive Ms. Malloy's statement until January 26, 2007 making such date the actual date of filing under the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission recognizes that using such a filing date would result in Ms. Malloy's removal from her position pursuant to the Commissioner's decision of December 12, 2006, which would be unduly harsh in light of her attempt to file; and

WHEREAS, the Commission voted at its meeting on February 27, 2007 to rescind the resolution of suspension/removal that had been sent to the District and to instead recommend to the Commissioner of Education that Ms. Malloy be censured for violating the School Ethics Act in light of the extraordinary waste of time she has caused by filing late and ignoring all of the decisions and the resolution that had been sent to her;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission hereby adopts this resolution rescinding its prior resolution of suspension/removal sent on December 21, 2006 and adopts this amended resolution, in accordance with the decision of the Commissioner, censuring Ms. Malloy as a school official having violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 of the School Ethics Act; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the State Operated School District of Newark is ordered to read this resolution at its next public meeting following the Commission's adoption and to post it in such places as the board posts its notices for 30 days.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CEDAR GROVE, ESSEX COUNTY

PETITIONER,

V.

PHILIP TULLY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board of Education of the Township of Cedar Grove filed a Petition of Appeal, with request for emergent relief, seeking removal of Board member Philip Tully for alleged conflict of interest as the result of a Tort Claim Notice filed by respondent against the Board. Oral argument was presented in an emergent relief hearing in December 2006, after which the respondent was immediately suspended pending a full hearing on the merits. Subsequently, the Board filed a motion for summary decision, to which respondent did not respond.

The ALJ found that the respondent has an actual claim against the Board, which is expressly prohibited pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, and no facts exist to show that there is a genuine issue of material fact requiring further hearing in this matter. The ALJ concluded that respondent is disqualified from serving on the Board as a matter of law, and so ordered.

The Commissioner adopts the recommended order of the ALJ as the final decision in this matter, concurring with the ALJ that respondent is disqualified as a matter of law from serving on the petitioning Board of Education, in view of the conflict of interest created by his tort claim against the Board. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered respondent removed as a member of the Cedar Grove Board of Education as of the date of this decision, and directed the County Superintendent to fill the resulting vacancy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15a.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CEDAR GROVE, ESSEX COUNTY PETITIONER, V. PHILIP TULLY, RESPONDENT.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that respondent is disqualified as a matter of law from serving on the petitioning Board of Education, in view of the conflict of interest created by his tort claim against the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2; Berlin v. Kennedy, decided by the Commissioner June 30, 2005, affirmed State Board of Education January 4, 2006.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and Phillip Tully – who has been suspended from service as a Board member since December 22, 2006, pursuant to the Commissioner's Order on the Board's Application for Emergent Relief – is hereby removed as a member of the Cedar Grove Township Board of Education as of the filing date of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15a, the Essex County Superintendent of Schools is directed to fill the resulting vacancy for the remaining length of Mr. Tully's term, which is due to expire upon the Board's reorganization following the April 2008 annual school election.

Philip Tully, appearing for himself

Record Closed: March 6, 2007 Decided: March 21, 2007

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

SUMMARY

Tully, a member of the Board of Education, filed a tort claim against the Board. Does such a claim prohibit Tully from serving on the Board? I conclude that it does. The statute governing the qualifications of board members, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, states that no board member may have an interest in a claim against the board on which the member serves. Moreover, interpretive administrative decisions adopted by the Commissioner of Education have specifically held that the statute encompasses tort claims.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 8, 2006, the Board of Education moved for emergent relief to suspend Tully from its board by its next meeting, which was scheduled for December 12, 2006.

On December 12, 2006, I held an emergent hearing. The Board of Education had submitted a legal memorandum in support of its motion and presented oral argument. Tully did not submit any papers in opposition to the motion but did appear to oppose it. After reviewing the Board of Education's moving papers, and after considering the parties' oral arguments, I granted the motion and ordered the emergent relief. As a result, I ordered that Tully was immediately suspended from serving on the Board of Education pending a full hearing on the merits.

On December 22, 2006, the Commissioner of Education adopted my initial order.

On February 27, 2007, the Board of Education filed this motion for summary decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the moving papers, I FIND the following facts:

On November 30, 2006, Tully and his wife filed a notice of tort claim with the Board of Education. The notice states that Tully suffered serious and permanent injuries as a result of the Board of Education's failure to properly maintain the seating area around the high school football field for which Tully seeks unliquidated personal damages.

On December 5, 2006, the Board of Education notified Tully that his claim against it constitutes a conflict of interest under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and asked him to resign from the Board of Education or withdraw his claim. When Tully did neither, the Board of Education filed its application for emergent relief.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A motion for summary decision may be rendered if no genuine issue of material fact exists and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When the motion is supported, the adverse party must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue of material fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. "If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

In this case, Tully, the adverse party, did not respond. As a result, no specific facts exist showing that there is a genuine issue of material fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. Indeed, the Board of Education is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

Under the statute governing the qualification of board members, no member of a board of education may have an interest in a claim against it, see N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, and under interpretive administrative decisions, tort claims are considered to be such a claim, see Board of Education of the Borough of Berlin v. Charlotte Lee, 2002 WL 991700 (N.J. Adm), aff'd by Comm. 2002 WL 32590940l.

More specifically, in Berlin v. Lee, the administrative law judge explained that a tort claim is not merely an inchoate claim that might be pursued at some future date but an actual claim that may be settled:

> [N]otice of a tort claim is not merely an inchoate claim that may be pursued at some future date, but represents an actual claim against a public entity which may be subject to settlement and, failing that, may be the subject of a future court action against the public entity.

He also explained that the statute specifically prohibits an interest in a "claim" as opposed to an "action" or "pending litigation." Ibid. Thus, the administrative law judge concluded that Lee was disqualified from serving as a board member. Id. at 6.

In this case, Tully is still pursuing a tort claim against the Board of Education. As such, Tully has an interest in an actual claim against the Board, which is expressly prohibited. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Tully is disqualified from serving on the Board of Education as a matter of law.

ORDER

Based on my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that Tully is disqualified from serving on the Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 10, 2006 for determination as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to amicably solve the matter and submitted a Stipulation of Settlement. The Board of Education Resolution was submitted with the Settlement Agreement, but inadvertently no language was included to designate and authorize the Board President and Board Secretary to execute the Agreement on behalf of the Board. The Board Resolution has been reworded to include the previously omitted portion, and has been certified. 1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ALPINE, ALPINE, NEW JERSEY AS RECORDED IN THE OFFICIAL MINUTE BOOK

The Board of Education of the Borough of Alpine, in the County of Bergen, New Jersey convened in a Regular meeting on Thursday, August 17, 2006. The following members of the Board of Education were present: Ms. Elizabeth Herries, Mr. Walter Roura, Mr. Richard Serko, Mr. Philip Simotas and Mrs. Joyce Sonpal.

The following resolution was offered by Mrs. Sonpal, seconded by Mr. Roura:

DO382 Moved by Mrs. Sonpal, seconded by Mrs. Roura BE IT RESOLVED that the Alpine Board of Education hereby accepts the settlement agreement made between the Alpine Board of Education and J.C. o/b/o minor children J.D. and K.R. in the amount of $3,500. Students' address is corrected. The Board President and Board Secretary are hereby authorized and directed to execute the settlement agreement and any other document necessary to effectuate said settlement.

J.C. o/b/o minor children J.D. and K.R., Petitioners, v. ALPINE BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY AGENCY REF. NO. 267-12/05 OAL DOCKET NO. EDUOS-01166-2006N SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made between: (1) the Alpine Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") with offices located at 500 Hillside Ave, Alpine, New Jersey; (2) J.C. (hereinafter referred to as "Petitioner") whose address is currently 379 Anderson Avenue, Alpine, New Jersey; and (3) A.D. and S.R. (hereinafter referred to as the "Parents"), whose address is currently 379 Anderson Avenue, Alpine, New Jersey.

WHEREAS, J.D. and K.R. are pupils who were residing with J.C., and are now residing with their parents S.R. and A.D., in the Alpine School District (hereinafter referred to as the "District"); and

WHEREAS, the J.C. sought to enroll J.D. and K.R. as pupils in the District for a tuition-free public education based upon his claim that J.D. and K.R. were "affidavit students" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; and

WHEREAS, the Board denied the enrollment of J.D. and K.R., finding that they did not meet the standards to qualify as "affidavit students" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a verified petition of appeal seeking a declaration that J.D. and K.R. were eligible for tuition-free attendance in the District; and

WHEREAS, the Board enrolled J.D. and K.R. in the District and provided them with a tuition-free public education; and

WHEREAS, the Board counterclaimed against Petitioner for the costs of tuition for the period of J.D. and K.R.'s ineligible attendance in the District; and

WHEREAS, the Parents/Guardians and the Board would like to reach an amicable resolution on all issues to avoid the time and expense associated with the litigation of this matter.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Parents and Board herein agree to the following terms, covenants and promises:

1. SETTLEMENT TERMS AND EXECUTION OF DOCUMENTS.

   A. Petitioner and the Parents agree to pay the Board three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500.00) as a compromise of this disputed claim. Said payment shall be made no later than June 30, 2006.

   B. The parties agree that if the Petitioner and/or the Parents fail to make such payment by June 30, 2006, the Board shall have the right to initiate litigation to recover the outstanding amount against the Petitioner and/or the Parents jointly and severally, and shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of suit incurred in the prosecution of such litigation.

   C. Upon the signatures of all parties and approval by the Board, this Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative law to be incorporated into a final order, approved by an Administrative Law Judge, and shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey. The parties agree to refrain from filing any proceeding regarding the issues that are the subject of the instant verified petition of appeal. However, both parties expressly reserve the right to bring a claim to enforce their rights under the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

2. NO RELIANCE. The parties hereto represent and acknowledge that, in executing this Settlement Agreement, they have not relied upon any representation or statement, written or oral, made by any of the parties' agents, attorneys or representatives with regard to the subject matter, basis or effect of this Settlement Agreement or otherwise.

3. PARTIAL INVALIDITY. Should any part, term or provision of this Settlement Agreement be declared or determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, applying New Jersey law, to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity or enforceability, of the remaining parts, terms or provisions shall not be affected thereby.

4. REPRESENTATION BY COUNSEL. Each party is represented by competent counsel of its choosing and that they have signed this Settlement Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

5. NO ADMISSION. This Settlement Agreement and compliance with this Settlement Agreement shall not be construed as an admission by any party of any liability whatsoever with respect to any matter.

6. GOVERNING LAW. This Settlement Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the law of the state of New Jersey without reference to conflicts of law principles.

7. MODIFICATION. No amendment, modification or attempt to supersede or cancel any of the terms, covenants or conditions hereof shall be effective unless such amendment, modification or direction to supersede or cancel such term or covenant is in writing and executed by all of the parties hereto or, in the case of a waiver, by or on behalf of the party waiving compliance. The failure of any party at any time or times to require performance of any provision hereof shall in no way affect the right at a later time to enforce the same. No waiver by either party of the breach of any term or covenant contained in this Settlement Agreement, in any one or more instances, shall be deemed to be, or construed as, a further or continuing waiver of any such breach or a waiver of any breach of any other term or covenant.

8. SUCCESSORS. All of the terms, agreements, covenants and conditions of this Settlement Agreement shall be binding upon, and inure to the benefit of and be enforceable by, the parties hereto and their respective successors, heirs and other legal representatives.

9. ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This Settlement Agreement and the documents referred to herein set forth the entire agreement and the understanding of the parties in respect of the transactions contemplated hereby and thereby and supersede all prior agreements, arrangements and understandings relating to the subject matter hereof. No representation, promise, inducement or statement of intention has been made by the parties which is not embodied in this Settlement Agreement or in the documents referred to herein, and none of the parties shall be bound by or liable for any alleged representation, promise, inducement or statement of intention not so set forth.

10. COUNTERPARTS. This Settlement Agreement may be signed in counterparts, which, when taken together, shall constitute but a single document when executed by all parties. This Settlement Agreement shall not be effective until such time as it has been duly authorized and executed by all parties.

11. FURTHER ASSURANCES. The parties shall execute any document(s) required in the future to manifest the intent and purpose of this Settlement Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seal the year and date set forth below.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a member of the Atlantic City Board of Education, sought a ruling that the sending district members of the Atlantic City Board are prohibited from voting on the selection of a board attorney pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1. Respondent Ventnor City Board of Education filed a motion for summary decision, and was joined by the Brigantine, Margate and Longport boards in its request for relief.

The ALJ found that: the right of a sending district member to vote on the choice of a board attorney is not found within the voting rights enumerated in statute; prior decisions rendered by the Commissioner have expanded the role played by sending district members to allow non-enumerated voting powers over board procedure and organizational matters; voting on the choice of a board attorney cannot, however, be construed among the voting rights necessary for the internal organization of the board; therefore, sending district members do not have voting rights in the appointment of a board attorney. The ALJ denied respondents' motion for summary decision.

The Commissioner concurs fully with the ALJ that sending district board members are not entitled to vote on the selection of a board attorney, finding that the question has previously been considered and resolved by two previous Commissioner's decisions. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of the Ventnor City Board of Education, the Margate City Board of Education and the Borough of Longport Board of Education were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were the reply exceptions of petitioner. All of these submissions were considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

The exceptions of each of the Boards essentially recast and reiterate the arguments advanced in their submissions below. The Commissioner determines that such arguments were fully addressed and considered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in her decision and, therefore, will not be revisited here.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that – in light of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1, the legislative history of this provision and applicable case law – sending district board members are not entitled to vote on the selection of a board attorney.

As recognized by the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 accords a sending district representative membership on the receiving district's board and, at the same time, circumscribes the voting rights of such member. In an effort to reconcile the tension created by the limiting of these individuals' voting rights and their statutory duties and responsibilities as members of a board of education, the Commissioner has, over time, attempted to broadly construe the governing statutory provision to permit these individuals to function effectively on the board, while at the same time remaining cognizant of the limits inherent in the overall statutory scheme and its legislative history. Such endeavor has resulted in an expansion of sending district board member rights over and above the substantive rights expressly specified in statute. However, these additional rights are not unlimited, parameters for them having been established by prior decisional law. (See Initial Decision, pages 4-8) This said, the Commissioner finds and determines that the question at issue in this matter – the entitlement of a sending district board member to vote on the selection of a board attorney – has previously been considered and resolved by the Commissioner on two separate occasions. The first of these, as discussed by the ALJ on pages 5-6 of her decision, was in Callowhill v. Board of Education of Atlantic City, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 693, and – more recently – in Board of Education of the Borough of Bloomingdale, Passaic County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Butler, Morris County, decided by the Commissioner June 17, 2004. In both instances the Commissioner determined that the rights afforded to sending district members on receiving boards of education in effectuation of their status as board members, over and above the substantive voting rights expressly enumerated in statute, did not extend to voting for the selection of a board attorney.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, as amplified above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

STATEMENT OF CASE

This matter arises out of a petition filed by Scott Evans, a member of the Atlantic City Board of Education. The only remaining issue is his request for a ruling that the sending district members on the Atlantic City Board are prohibited from voting on the selection of Board solicitor pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 25, 2006, Scott Evans, a member of the Atlantic City Board from Atlantic City, filed a verified petition and request for emergent relief with the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education (DOE). The petition contained two counts. The first count challenged the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools' certification of an additional representative from the sending districts of Brigantine, Ventnor, Margate, and Longport to sit on the receiving board of Atlantic City. The second count concerned the right of the sending district representatives to vote on the choice of the receiving district's solicitor.

On May 25, 2006, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. In petitioner's initial filing, only the Atlantic City Board of Education was named as a respondent. Petitioner subsequently filed amended pleadings and served the sending districts of Ventnor, Longport, Margate, and Brigantine, as well as the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools (Superintendent), as parties to this action. The amended petition did not request emergent relief. Prehearing conferences were held on June 7, 2006, June 23, 2006, July 24, 2006, August 14, 2006, November 3, 2006, and January 4, 2007. On October 20, 2006, respondents' motion to dismiss the petition was denied.

By letter of January 12, 2007, petitioner Scott Evans withdrew his request for relief based on the first count of the amended petition challenging the Superintendent's certification of an additional sending district representative to the Atlantic City Board. Respondent Ventnor has filed a motion for summary decision on the remaining issue in this case, whether the sending district representatives are entitled to vote on the appointment of the Board solicitor. Brigantine, Margate, and Longport joined in Ventnor's request for relief. The Superintendent, through his counsel, the Department of Law and Public Safety, took no position on the issue. Counsel for the Atlantic City Board also took no position on the issue, citing the divided status of the Board.

The petitioner did not file a cross motion for summary decision. However, he did advise the court that he joined in the respondents' request that the remaining issue in this matter be decided on the record and legal arguments submitted to date by the parties.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The parties are in agreement that the material facts are not in dispute. The Atlantic City school district is a receiving school district for high school students, grades 9 through 12, from the receiving school districts of Brigantine, Ventnor, Margate, and Longport. Constituted as a nine-member body, the Atlantic City Board had an additional two members from its sending districts until May 2006. At that time, another member from the sending districts was certified to the Board by the Superintendent, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7-8 and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1. That action created a twelve-member Board, which immediately became deadlocked on a number of issues.

For at least the past decade, it has been the custom of the Atlantic City Board to include the sending district representatives in the vote for Board solicitor. At an organizational meeting in the spring of 2006, after the third sending district representative had joined the Board, the Board deadlocked on the appointment of a Board solicitor. The Board remained without a solicitor until a compromise was reached among members and an "interim" solicitor was retained in the summer of 2006. As a result of the deadlock, petitioner filed his request for a ruling on whether the sending district members had a right to vote on the choice of Board solicitor.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The facts in this matter are not in dispute, and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), the matter is appropriate for summary decision. The request for relief by the petitioner also is in the nature of a request for a declaratory ruling. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1, any interested person may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling "with respect to rights, responsibilities and status arising from any statute or rule" within his or her jurisdiction. See also N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8.

In seeking a ruling on whether sending district representatives may vote on the appointment of a receiving board's solicitor, petitioner cites N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1:

> In addition to the members of the board of education of a Type I and Type II school district provided by law, in a school district which is receiving pupils from another district or districts pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8, there shall be an additional member as provided pursuant to section 2 of this act to represent the board of education of each sending district. Any additional member shall be a member of the board of education of a sending district designated annually by the board of that district and shall be eligible to vote on the following matters before the receiving district board of education:
> > a. Tuition to be charged the sending district by the receiving district and the bill lists or contracts for the purchase, operation or maintenance > of facilities, equipment and instructional materials to be used in the education of the pupils of the sending district;

>
> b. New capital construction to be utilized by sending district pupils;
>
> c. Appointment, transfer or removal of teaching staff members providing services to pupils of the sending district, including any teaching staff member who is a member of the receiving district's central administrative staff; and
> d. Addition or deletion of curricular and extracurricular programs involving pupils of the sending district.[1]

The statute formalizes the relationship between a sending school district and a receiving school district. It provides for representation for the sending district on the receiving district's board, while limiting the voting rights of the sending district representative to some, but not all, matters before the board. By limiting the voting rights of the sending district's member, the statute creates a tension between that member's duties and responsibilities as a member of a board of education and his or her limited voting rights.

This inherent tension has resulted in several decisions by the Commissioner of Education that explore the role of the sending members and the parameters of their voting rights. The first, Callowhill v. Board of Education of Atlantic City, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 693, involved Atlantic City and its sending district members in a dispute similar to this matter. In a petition for emergent relief, sending district members requested inclusion in the board's discussions and votes on a number of matters. The decision allowed participation by the sending district representatives in the selection of the district superintendent and the school business administrator, finding them within the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1. However, the decision did not grant the sending district members the right to participate in or vote on the contract for board solicitor, simply noting that "no entitlement to vote on the underlying contract had been shown."

[1] The legislation was enacted in 1995 and was effective January 12, 1995. It was amended in 1996 with the amendments effective on August 19, 1996. For a comprehensive review of its legislative history see Board of Education of Lincoln Park v. Board of Education of Boonton, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 592.

In a decision rendered shortly after Callowhill, the Commissioner affirmed an initial decision rendered by an administrative law judge in Board of Education of Lincoln Park v. Board of Education of Boonton, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 592. Rejecting a narrow interpretation of the statute, the Commissioner allowed the sending district member to participate in deliberations regarding business before the board. Additionally, the member was entitled to information and documents distributed to other board members, even regarding matters on which the sending district member was not entitled to vote. The decision affirmed the sending district member's status as a full-fledged member of the receiving district board, albeit one with limited voting powers.

Shortly after Lincoln Park, the Commissioner once again rejected a narrow approach to the role of the sending district member. In Board of Education of Little Ferry v. Board of Education of Ridgefield Park, Agy. Dkt. No. 149-5/97 (July 24, 1997) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal>, the issue was whether a sending district representative had the right to vote on the election of board officers and other procedural matters related to the orderly conduct of board operations. In ruling that a sending district member could vote on such matters, the Commissioner found:

> [I]t is undeniable that, notwithstanding that the representative of a sending district has limited voting rights on substantive matters which arise before the board, in all other respects such representative, by virtue of the statutory entitlement to a seat on the receiving district board, is empowered to function as a full member of the board. . . .
> . . . [E]ligibility for full participation, including voting rights, in those procedural and organizational matters necessary to ensure the effective operation of the board itself also inures to the sending district representative by virtue of that individual's board membership.
> [Little Ferry, supra, Agy. Dkt. No. 149-5/97 (July 24, 1997) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal>.]

In a more recent decision exploring the role of the sending district member and the limits placed on that member's voting power, the Commissioner, while adopting the underlying analytical framework of Little Ferry, nevertheless focused on the limited voting power conferred by the statute in reaching its decision. In Board of Education of Bloomingdale v. Board of Education of Butler, EDU 9367-03, Letter Order (May 14, 2004), rejected, Comm'r of Educ. (June 17, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, the Commissioner upheld the receiving district board's refusal to allow the sending district member a vote on a number of matters, including various professional appointments. Reviewing the statute and case law, the decision acknowledged that sending district members have voting rights "in effectuation of their status as board members" other than those "substantive voting rights expressly enumerated in statute." However, those rights "extend only to participation in deliberation, discussion and access to materials and information, and to voting on organization of the board . . . ." In rejecting the more expansive voting power requested by the sending district member, the Commissioner found:

> In other words, under controlling statute and case law, the sending district board member's right to vote on non-enumerated matters encompasses internal procedural and organizational items only, such as election of officers, parliamentary matters, approval of board minutes and officer reports, and the like, and does not encompass matters arising from the operation of the school district, as opposed to the operation of the board itself, such as voting on staff appointments or employment matters other than those enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1c . . . .

In espousing a broader interpretation of the statute than that adopted by the Commissioner in Bloomingdale, the respondents argue that the position of Board solicitor is voted on at the organizational meeting of the Board and is integral to the operation of the Board. They assert it is one of the internal procedural or organizational matters on which sending district members have voting rights by virtue of their status as board members. Relying upon the "procedural and organizational" exception to the enumerated voting powers in the statute found in the earlier decisions of the Commissioner, respondents contend the exception is broad enough to include the Board solicitor appointment.

While respondents make a compelling case that the Board solicitor is integral to the operation of the Board and the school district as a whole, the extent of the sending member's voting rights ultimately must be controlled by the statute. The statute provides representation for the sending district on the receiving district's board, but limits the member's voting power. That statutory scheme is limiting on the member in a crucial way, and creates a tension with the statutory duties and responsibilities of a school board member. In reconciling the two statutory schemes, the Commissioner has construed N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 broadly enough to allow the member to function effectively on the Board. By finding a reserve of non-enumerated voting powers over board procedural and organizational matters the Commissioner has construed the statute to allow a member to participate as fully as possible as a member of the board, while still respecting the legislature's clearly stated intention to limit his or her voting rights.

Given the specific enumeration of voting rights in the statute, any ruling on the extent of non-enumerated rights necessary for the effective functioning of the Board must take into account the limits inherent in the statutory scheme. In general, the prior decisions rendered by the Commissioner have expanded the role played by sending district members on a receiving board, but have found few additional voting rights. Such an approach is consistent with the duality inherent in the statute and its legislative history. The initial version of the bill passed by the Legislature allowed the sending district member "to vote on all matters before the receiving district board of education . . . except those matters pertaining exclusively to the grades of the receiving district in which no students from the sending district are enrolled . . . ." In her veto of the initial version of the bill, Governor Whitman recommended limited voting rights and the bill was amended to conform to her recommendation.[2]

The right of a sending district member to vote on the choice of board solicitor is not found within the enumerated voting rights in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1. Nor can it be found in the voting rights necessary for the internal organization of a board. I FIND that the position of board solicitor, as integral as it may be for the functioning of a school district, is not an appointment over which the Legislature has granted voting rights to a sending district representative.

Respondents' motion for summary decision is DENIED, and petitioner's request for a ruling that the sending district members on the Atlantic City Board are not entitled to a vote on the selection of Board solicitor pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF SPECIAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS,	:	DECISION ON MOTION

The record of this emergent matter, which included the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 11, 2007, and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – received on January 17, 2007 – have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Deputy Commissioner – to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33 – rejects the recommended Order granting a stay in this matter as he determines that the provision of this type of relief, at this point in time, is an impossibility. Contrary to the apparent perception of the ALJ, a stay in this matter cannot operate to determine future placement of A.C.E.'s former students. Such a determination is only possible after an adjudication of this case on its merits, where clarification of disputed facts will determine the propriety of the Department's action removing A.C.E.'s approval to operate as a private school for disabled students. Rather, the intendment of the emergent application of a stay is only to maintain the status quo until this ultimate resolution of the case is achieved. It is uncontroverted on this record that on December 15, 2006 A.C.E. was unable to provide an approved, safe and stable facility in which its students could be appropriately educated. As a consequence, the Department removed A.C.E.'s approval as a provider and directed that its students be immediately placed in alternative educational institutions. Such alternative placements were promptly accomplished and these students are currently receiving the educational services to which they are entitled in approved, safe environments. It is further noted that – despite A.C.E.'s advancements that it has a facility which eminently will satisfy the requisites which will allow Department approval – as of the date of the OAL hearing in this matter, January 11, 2007, there is no such facility. Therefore, A.C.E.'s stay application in this matter – filed on January 3, 2007, after the relocation of its students – is not seeking to maintain the status quo but, rather, it seeks that students be pulled from the alternative educational institutions they are now attending, returned to what is recognized as an unapproved, inadequate location to await the completion of requisite approvals for its proposed facility. Such is not the intendment of a stay.

Even assuming, arguendo, that A.C.E.'s motion for stay had been filed prior to the relocation of its students, it would have required denial as A.C.E. has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most notably, that a balancing of the equities and interests of the parties inures to its favor. The Deputy Commissioner finds that the overriding consideration in this regard is and must remain the provision of educational services to these disabled children in an appropriate, safe environment: something that A.C.E. was not in a position to offer. Furthermore, as previously noted, there are many material facts in dispute in this matter; any finding of likelihood of success on the merits is not possible.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL is rejected and the instant application for stay is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF
SPECIAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS,
Respondent.

Ronald C. Hunt, Esq., for petitioner
(Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Melanie M. Brookes, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Stuart Rabner, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

All Can Excel (A.C.E.) Academy (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a determination by the Office of Special Education Programs of the New Jersey Department of Education (hereinafter "respondent") to revoke petitioner's approval to operate a private school because the existing facility is unsafe and petitioner failed to obtain a new facility in a timely manner. Petitioner seeks emergent relief in the form of a stay of the revocation.

Respondent advised petitioner of the revocation by memorandum dated December 15, 2006. The petition of appeal including the request for emergent relief was filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on January 3, 2007, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 8, 2007, for determination as a contested case. An oral argument in regard to the motion for emergent relief and request for a stay was held on January 11, 2007, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), an application for emergent relief will be granted only if it meets the following four requirements:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The first requirement is that the denial of the requested relief will cause irreparable harm. Petitioner identifies several types of harm. First, petitioner is losing substantial revenue in the form of tuition on a daily basis. Second, the closure will undermine confidence in the school and damage its reputation. Third, the children will also suffer in that they will travel to schools farther from home.

Respondent contends that harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by money damages. Further, because this situation involves a purely monetary loss, petitioner has not demonstrated that the revocation will cause irreparable harm.

Petitioner's arguments are more persuasive. Petitioner is suffering a substantial loss of revenue, and there is no realistic prospect of monetary damages. Further, the revocation is likely to impair the school's reputation. It follows that petitioner will suffer irreparable harm as a result of the revocation.

The second consideration is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. The applicable legal standard is set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.10(b), which provides as follows:

> When an approved private school is determined to be in noncompliance, Department of Education actions may include, but are not limited, to the following:
>
> 1. The Department of Education may issue a conditional approval status when noncompliance is demonstrated with State or Federal statute or rules and/or implementation of the corrective action plan.
>
> i. An approved private school which is issued a conditional approval status may not accept new students;
>
> 2. The Department of Education may revoke approval effective at the end of a school year, when chronic or systemic noncompliance is demonstrated; and
> 3. The Department of Education may immediately remove program approval when it is documented that the health, safety or welfare of the students is in danger.

The third consideration is whether petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. The reasons for the revocation were set forth in the memorandum dated December 15, 2006, from respondent. In regard to respondent's current facility at 71 Sanford Street in East Orange, reference was made to an early memorandum dated December 6, 2006, which raised concerns about insufficient educational space, lack of a certificate of occupancy for the second floor, and potential fire hazards in several areas of the school.

The concerns about safety were based on an evaluation completed on November 2, 2006, by the Essex County School Business Administrator, who found a total of twenty-one deficiencies. The serious deficiencies from a safety standpoint relate to fire hazards. But petitioner presented a certificate from an inspection on September 19, 2006, indicating that the Fire Official of East Orange found satisfactory compliance with applicable fire safety requirements. It would be difficult to disregard the assessment by the Fire Official in regard to questions of fire safety. In addition, many of the deficiencies noted by the Business Administrator seem as though they could easily be abated. The other concerns would seem to warrant a less drastic measure such as a corrective action plan as opposed to a revocation.

More importantly, petitioner has made substantial progress toward obtaining a new facility located at 760 Clinton Avenue in Newark. The memorandum dated December 6, 2006, gave petitioner nine days to obtain a new facility. Despite the fact that efforts to obtain a new facility were already in progress, the period of time is obviously very short. Since the new facility required construction work, it was impossible for petitioner to meet the deadline. The construction work is now complete, and petitioner expects to obtain a certificate of occupancy during the week of January 15, 2007. The availability of the new location is likely to resolve concerns related to the facility. It follows that petitioner has a likelihood of ultimately prevailing on the merits.

In regard to the equities and interests of the parties, respondent is properly concerned about the safety of the pupils. But petitioner has made substantial progress to alleviate these concerns by locating a new facility. Since the pupils have been dispersed to other schools, presumably they will not return to petitioner's program until the new facility receives approval. With the safety concerns alleviated by the new facility, there will be insufficient reason to revoke petitioner's approval to operate a private school.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for a stay is granted, provided that petitioner will not reopen its school until it receives approval of its new facility.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ADRIENNE M. BELL, Petitioner, v. TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY, Respondent.	:	BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW DOCKET NO.: EDUOR 02109-2006S AGENCY REF. NO.: 45-1/06 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, Adrienne Bell and the Trenton Board of Education, having reached an agreement to resolve the within matter, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms and conditions as their settlement agreement.

1. The parties agree that their agreement to this agreement and its validity is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education of all of the terms of this agreement, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and that in such event, neither parties' position in relation to the petition of appeal shall be prejudiced and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing in relation to the petition of appeal, provided that nothing in this paragraph or in this agreement shall, in such event, preclude the parties from agreeing to a new, revised, or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the Commissioner of Education's approval of all of the terms of this agreement, the petitioner shall withdraw the petition of appeal.

3. Rationale for Settlement

A. On or about January 26, 2006, petitioner filed her petition of appeal with the Commissioner against the respondent.

B. The petition of appeal alleges that petitioner was wrongly terminated by respondent and denied her tenure and seniority rights as a result of the respondent failing to provide the necessary documents and information to the Department of Education in order for petitioner to obtain her Standard Certificate. In addition, the petition of appeal alleges that respondent purported to terminate petitioner's employment without proper legal authority in the form of prior Board of Education action effectuating the termination, and ignoring that petitioner did obtain her Standard Certificate prior to the date of the respondent's purported termination of petitioner's employment.

C. In the course of their investigation and discovery in the case, information was exchanged between the parties which demonstrates that documents and information which were available were not transmitted to the Department of Education, which would have resulted in Petitioner obtaining her Standard Certificate, and that respondent may not have known that petitioner obtained her Standard Certificate prior to the date of respondent's purported termination of petitioner's employment.

D. Both parties acknowledge that they are desirous of resolving the matters addressed by this agreement, and upon review of all the circumstances, it is in the best interests of both parties and the public, and it being consistent with applicable law, to resolve this matter by this settlement agreement.

4. The parties agree that respondent will provide a full-time employment position to petitioner for the 2007-2008 school year commensurate with her standard certification as a teacher of Preschool through Grade 3. Both parties acknowledge that respondent has not and can not delineate the specific full-time employment position to which petitioner will be assigned for the 2007-2008 school year at this time, but when the first position becomes available for the 2007-2008 school year commensurate with petitioner's certification, petitioner will have the right of first refusal with respect to that position, and that irrespective of respondent's inability to delineate the specific position at this time, petitioner will be appointed to an appropriate position for the 2007-2008 school year.

In addition, both parties acknowledge that petitioner is desirous of teaching Preschool at a school within the district for the 2007-2008 school year, and if a Preschool position is not available, then a Kindergarten position, and if a Kindergarten position is not available, then a First Grade position, and that respondent will attempt to place petitioner in a full-time Preschool position at a school within the district for the 2007-2008 school year, and if a full-time Preschool position is not available, then a full-time Kindergarten position, and if a full-time Kindergarten position is not available, then a full-time First Grade position.

5. The parties agree that respondent will recognize petitioner's right to tenure in a full-time position of employment with respondent as of December 5, 2005, the date the New Jersey State Board of Examiners issued petitioner a Standard Certificate as a Teacher of Preschool through Grade 3. The parties further agree that respondent will recognize petitioner's entitlement to seniority in all applicable categories as a consequence of her service and employment with respondent, both before her purported termination and as the result of her employment resulting from this agreement, and that petitioner shall also receive seniority credit for the time period from the date of the purported termination until her return to employment with respondent.

6. The parties agree that respondent will place petitioner on and petitioner's salary will be in accordance with Step 8 of the salary guide for the 2007-2008 school year included within the collective bargaining agreement applicable to teachers.

7. The parties acknowledge that respondent will pay petitioner's salary from November 9, 2005, the date petitioner was informed by respondent that it was terminating petitioner from her employment with respondent, through January 3, 2006, the date petitioner started employment with another school district, provided that payment will be subject to any and all applicable deductions and a set-off of any payments petitioner received in unemployment insurance benefits from the State of New Jersey, provided however, that if the State of New Jersey seeks reimbursement of any unemployment insurance benefits, respondent shall reimburse petitioner for any monies that she must reimburse or repay the State. In addition, respondent will provide petitioner with all benefits and emoluments that petitioner would have received if she had been employed by respondent for the period of November 9, 2005 through January 3, 2006, including, but not limited to, pension credit for November and December 2005, and personal and sick leave days.

8. The parties agree that respondent will pay petitioner $2,775. 60. This amount represents the difference in salaries petitioner earned and will earn from employment with another school district from January 3, 2006 through June 30, 2007 and what petitioner would have earned if she remained employed with respondent over the same time period.

9. The parties agree that if petitioner does not accept a position of employment from respondent for the 2007-2008 school year under paragraph 4 of this agreement, respondent will still be required to adhere to the terms under paragraphs 7 and 8 of this agreement.

10. By settling this matter, petitioner acknowledges that she is waving her right to a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which she could seek an adjudication on the merits of the petition of appeal. Petitioner further acknowledges that she understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and that she is satisfied with the legal representation that she received in this matter.

11. The parties agree that in the event that the Commissioner of Education does not accept any provision of this settlement agreement, this settlement agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing without prejudice to either parties' position and without waiver of any of either parties' legal rights.

12. The respondent board of education has approved the terms of this settlement as acknowledged by the attached resolution.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a teacher employed by the Board, contends that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when it deducted accumulated sick days to cover the hours she was absent from work between March and May 2005, after she returned to teaching on a part-time basis following a work-related injury in October 2004.

The ALJ found that the language of the governing statute is specific. It conditions an employee's receipt of one year of service related sick leave – without liquidation of the employee's accumulated contractual sick leave – upon the employee's receipt of temporary workers' compensation benefits. The ALJ further found that the workers' compensation benefits do not extend to a return to work on a part time basis. Thus, in the ALJ's judgment, petitioner did not meet the standard set in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 and respondent consequently was permitted to draw down petitioner's contractual sick leave benefits for her un-worked hours upon her return to work on a part-time basis.

The Commissioner found, inter alia, that: under the principles set forth in previous decisions on this issue, petitioner was eligible for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 through mid-May 2005, even though her workers' compensation benefits had stopped upon her return to part-time service in March 2005. The Commissioner further found that petitioner should not be penalized for her voluntary return to part-time employment when she could have declined to return to work until she was fully healed. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected, and respondent is directed to restore 29.5 days of sick leave to petitioner's account.

CAROL SCHUENEMANN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELRAN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and petitioner's exceptions have been reviewed.

Petitioner appealed respondent's deduction of 29.5 of her accumulated sick days for the un-worked portions of school days between March 15, 2005 – when she returned to work on a part-time basis after an absence due to a work-related injury – and mid-May 2005, when she returned to full-time status. Because there were no material issues of fact, the parties consented to disposition upon summary decision.

By way of background, the parties agree that petitioner suffered a knee injury arising out of her employment duties on October 18, 2004, and was awarded temporary disability by the workers' compensation court. On March 15, 2005, she asked the workers' compensation-authorized physician whether she could return to work, and was cleared to do so – on a half-time basis only. It is undisputed that petitioner's knee was not sufficiently healed at that time to allow a return to full-time work. Her return to full-time employment occurred in mid-May.

When petitioner returned to part-time duties, of her workers' compensation payments ceased. For the period from March 15 through mid-May, petitioner received her full salary amount, but respondent compensated petitioner for the un-worked hours by drawing down her accumulated sick days.

In support of her position that she should have received full pay for the period in question, without forfeiture of accumulated sick days, petitioner relied upon N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. That statute provides, in pertinent part:

> Sick leave payment for service connected disability; satisfactory service > a. Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in N.J.S.18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation, of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.

Respondent, on the other hand, argued that the (underlined) second sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a) moderated its obligation to pay petitioner full salary without liquidation of sick leave, by restricting the period of time during which petitioner could receive such full benefits to the period of time that petitioner received workers' compensation temporary disability benefits. It maintained that since petitioner had stopped receiving such benefits on March 15, 2005, when she commenced a part-time teaching schedule, she was no longer eligible to receive the full salary – without liquidation of sick leave – mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a).

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) reluctantly agreed with respondent. The Commissioner notes, however, that the issue has been previously considered and decided to the contrary.

In John Theodore v. Board of Education of the Town of Dover, Morris County, decided by the Commissioner March 15, 1983, the question of entitlement to benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 after workers' compensation payments have ceased was addressed. Custodian John Theodore's workers' compensation benefits had stopped on August 21, 1980, but he nonetheless petitioned to receive his full year of salary, without sick leave liquidation, under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. It was necessary for the Commissioner to determine whether Theodore was still "eligible" to receive workers' compensation disability benefits even though he was no longer actually receiving them. A finding of "eligibility" would, under the second sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a), require the respondent board of education to pay Theodore the prorated amount of his annual salary from August 21, 1980 to February 15, 1981, without liquidation of sick leave.

At the outset, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that statutes in support of workers who have been accidentally injured on the job should be liberally construed to the fullest extent allowable. He further agreed that to accept the view that petitioner's salary would be payable pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 only while workers' compensation benefits were being received, because cessation of benefits equals ineligibility, absent such an express limitation in the law, would lead to an absurd result, which is not favored in the law. State v. Provenzano, 34 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1961); LaPolla v. Bd. of Chosen Freeholders of Union City, 71 N.J. Super. 264 (Law Div. 1961).

Seeking a more reasonable determinant of whether Theodore was still eligible to receive workers' compensation benefits, even though they had actually been terminated, the ALJ reviewed N.J.S.A. 34:15-38, which explains how to calculate the amount of disability payable to claimants. It states, in pertinent part:

> To calculate the number of weeks and fraction thereof that compensation is payable for temporary disability, determine the number of calendar days of disability from and including as a full day the day that the employee is first unable to continue at work by reason of the accident, including also Saturdays, Sundays and holidays up to the first working day that the employee is able to resume work and continue permanently thereat. . . .

Theodore's affidavit, attached to his brief, had indicated that in the 12-month period following the February 1980 accident, he had been employed temporarily for a one-month period as a security guard, earning $ 1,126.64, but was not able to continue at work for the Dover Board of Education because of the disability received from the on-the-job accident. In other words, he had been unable to continue to work or be employed permanently during the year following his accident.

Accordingly, the ALJ found that Theodore was "eligible" to receive temporary disability benefits for the 12 months after his injury (from February 15, 1980 to February 15, 1981) because that injury prevented him from continuing his work for the Board during that period. Having been found eligible, he was entitled under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 to his full salary , without sick leave liquidation, for the twelve months after his injury - minus his workers' compensation payments, minus salary received from the Board and minus the salary he received for the one-month temporary job as a security guard. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's analysis and conclusions as the final decision in the case.

Eight years later the issue was once again put before the Commissioner - in Jaques Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 191; aff'd as modified, State Board, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. 134, 135. Subsequent to a workplace injury, Verneret – a bus driver/utility person – had been granted only a nine-week period of temporary disability by the Workers' Compensation court. It was undisputed in the proceedings before the Commissioner of Education, however, that Verneret's disability had prevented him from returning to work after the nine weeks. He consequently argued that even though he had stopped actually receiving workers' compensation benefits and had not appealed their cessation, he had nonetheless been "eligible" to receive them. Thus, he reasoned, he was entitled to the year of full salary available under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

Based on the precedent established in Theodore, the Commissioner agreed that, notwithstanding the cessation of workers' compensation disability benefits, Verneret was entitled – under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 – to his salary for one full year from the date of his injury, since he was undisputedly unable to return to work for the respondent board after the date of the injury.[1] As in the case of Theodore, supra, petitioner's entitlement to full salary was mitigated by workers' compensation benefits, salary already paid by respondent, and any salary he may have received from temporary work during his period of eligibility for the sick leave benefits.

In the present case, it is undisputed that petitioner's knee injury prevented her from fully resuming her teaching responsibilities until mid-May 2005. It appears from the record that it was a workers' compensation-authorized doctor who made this determination. Under the principles set forth in Theodore and Verneret, petitioner was thus "eligible" for disability benefits through mid-May 2005, even though those benefits stopped upon her return to part-time service on or about March 15, 2005. Accordingly, during the period between March 15, 2005 and mid-May 2005, petitioner was entitled to the salary benefits available under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a), without sick leave liquidation.

Finally, the Commissioner agrees with petitioner that she should not be penalized for her voluntary return to part-time employment, particularly when she could have continued to receive full salary – without sick leave liquidation – had she declined to return to work until she was fully healed. Such a penalty could indeed serve as a disincentive to dedicated employees who might consider returning to work prior to being released for full time duty.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected. Petitioner's appeal is granted, and the Delran Township Board of Education is directed to restore 29.5 days of sick leave to petitioner's account.

CAROL SCHUENEMANN,

Petitioner,

v.

DELRAN TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondents.

Barbara E. Riefberg, Esq., for petitioner (Baron & Riefberg, attorneys)

John T. Barbour, Esq., for respondent

Record closed: January 2, 2007 Decided: February 8, 2007

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner appeals respondent Delran Township Board of Education's decision to deduct her accumulated sick days for the portions of the days she was unable to work due to an employment related injury. Her appeal is based on the argument that she was entitled to partial sick leave benefits for those days pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:30-2.1.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her appeal from the decision of the Delran Township Board of Education (Delran) on May 12, 2005, with the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey. The matter was transmitted to the Office of the Administrative Law as a contested case on June 24, 2005. The petitioner subsequently filed a motion for Summary Decision and Oral Argument was heard on the matter. The record remained open to allow information on the status of petitioner's pending Workers' Compensation matter to be submitted to the Court.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The material facts are not in dispute in this matter, most of which are set forth in petitioner's certification filed in support of her Motion for Summary Decision (P-1). On October 18, 2004, petitioner Carol Schuenemann fell at her employment as a teacher for Delran. Her left knee was seriously injured, and as a result she received extensive treatment, including surgery. She received benefits through Worker's Compensation for the injury. While she was out of work for a number of months from October 18, 2004, until March 15, 2005, she received her full salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, without losing any of her accumulated sick leave. In March 2005, she received permission from her physician to return to work on a part-time basis. However, once she returned to work on a part-time basis, she was no longer eligible for temporary Worker's Compensation benefits. The Board paid her full salary from March 15, 2005, until the end of the school year. However, since she was no longer eligible for Workers' Compensation benefits, the Board took the position that her accumulated sick days would be deducted for the portions of the day when she was not at work. As a result of the Board's decision, during the 2004-2005 school year, petitioner lost a total of 29.5 sick leave days from March 15, 2005, until the end of the school year.

The parties agree that once petitioner was cleared by her physician to return to work on a part time basis, her eligibility for temporary Workers' Compensation benefits ceased. They also submit that nothing in the Workers' Compensation matter (P-2) or in a concurrent arbitration proceeding (P-3) addressed the issue of whether she should have been charged sick leave time after her return to work on a part time basis.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The parties are in agreement as to the facts in this matter and the case is therefore appropriate for determination by way of Motion for Summary Decision. N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 520, 523

(1995). The parties submit that the only issue in this matter is the correct application of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 to the facts at hand.

In her appeal, petitioner argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 should be construed broadly to entitle her to payment for the time she was not present at her employment due to her service related injury, and that her sick days should not have been deducted. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 sets out standards for the payment of sick leave to school employees for an employment related disability. As cited by petitioner, it provides:

> (a) whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3.

As respondent points out, however, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 further provides:

> ...Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under Chapter 15 Title 34 Labor and Workmen's Compensation of the revised statutes.

Delran based its decision to charge her accumulated sick time for the days during which she worked on a part-time basis on the second sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a). Since petitioner had returned to work, albeit on a part-time basis, she was not eligible to continue receiving Worker's Compensation benefits, and Delran chose to only pay her for the time she actually worked. Respondent argues that the clear language of the statute limits its duty to pay sick leave benefits to petitioner to the time period specified in the statute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is a complement to Worker's Compensation benefits and insures that school employees receive a full salary during temporary disability arising out of service related disability for up to a year. Magaw v. Middletown Bd. of Educ. 323

N.J. Super., 1, 17 (App. Div. 1999). It serves to "complement workers'compensation benefits for a strictly limited time period." Theodore v. Dover Bd. of Educ., 183 N.J. super. 407, 416 (App. Div. 1982).

Petitioner argues that Delran's action flies against the intent of the statute and requests that the N.J.S.A. 18A: 30-2.1 be construed liberally to provide maximum coverage to the petitioner. She also analogizes to N.J.S.A. 4A:6-1.6, the regulation which governs payment of sick leave benefits to state employees for employment related disability. Under that regulation, any employee who could return to work on a part-time basis is compensated for hours actually worked, and receives sick leave benefits for the time missed due to the disability

In this matter however, the language of the statute is specific. While it grants service related sick leave for a period up to a year, it assumes that such sick leave benefits "shall" be awarded during the period in which the employee is eligible for temporary workers compensation benefits. The statute seeks to make the employee whole, but it is also specific as to the time allowed for the benefit. In enacting the award of this benefit, the legislature also chose to use eligibility for the receipt of temporary workers compensation benefits as one of the parameters for the award of the benefit. Since the workers' compensation benefit does not extend to a return to work on a part time basis, a school employee who returns on that basis is not covered by the language of the statute governing the award of this benefit. While the statute is imperfect in its goal of making the employee whole, the courts have held that sick leave injury benefits, "just like any other remedial legislative program, may be attended by reasonable limitations." In the Matter of Dykas, 261 N.J. Super. 626, 632 (A.D. 1993).

A similar statutory scheme was enacted for state employees, however, it differs in certain key aspects. N.J.S.A. 11A:6-8 governs the award of sick leave benefits due to injury or illness arising out of state employment. Its terms are not as specific as N.J.S.A. 18A: 30-2.1, and it provides that the terms for such leave "shall be governed by rules of the board." In implementing that legislative delegation of authority, the Department of Personnel chose to enact N.J.A.C. 4A:6-1.3 et seq., a series of detailed regulations governing the award of sick leave to state employees. N.J.A.C. 4A:6-1.6 and 1.7 govern leave for service related disability. N.J.A.C. 4A 6-1.6(b)1 addresses the return to work by an employee on a part time basis and allows the benefits to continue for the portion of the day not worked.

Petitioner has analogized her situation to that of a state employee similarly situated. However, in implementing the broad delegation of authority granted to it by the legislature, the Department of Personnel chose to promulgate regulations which allow for award of benefits in a case such as petitioner's. The statute governing the similar benefit for school employees does not contain such a broad delegation of authority, but instead references the eligibility to receive benefits from the workers' compensation system as one of its criteria.

Although the result in this case may be inequitable, with petitioner losing accumulated sick time while recovering from a service related disability, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 sets out a standard for the receipt of the benefit which petitioner simply did not meet. I FIND that respondent was not required to extend petitioner's sick leave benefits for her service related disability upon her return to work on a part time basis.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that respondent's action charging petitioner's accumulated sick time for 29.5 days from March 15, 2005, until the end of the school year did not contravene N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 and should be AFFIRMED. Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED and her appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought reimbursement for tuition payments made to respondent Board for a period of time in which it is alleged that petitioner's children attended schools in Mendham while residing out of district. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on the basis that petitioners are not entitled to any relief in view of the fact that the payments were made pursuant to the terms of a prior settlement agreement between the parties.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner entered into a settlement agreement with respondent, the terms of said agreement being clear and unambiguous; petitioner agreed to pay a reduced amount of tuition in three installments in order to avoid litigation; the intendment of the agreement was to provide a full and final resolution of the tuition issue; nothing in the record evidences an expressed or apparent intent on the part of the parties to permit petitioners to later seek reimbursement of the monies paid; the settlement agreement is valid and binding upon the parties; and petitioner has failed to raise any genuine issue of material fact that would preclude summary decision in this matter. The ALJ granted respondent's motion for summary judgment, and dismissed the petition with prejudice.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the parties reached and fulfilled a valid settlement of their underlying dispute, and petitioner is thus barred from seeking further relief with respect to it. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, dismissing the petition, is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MENDHAM, MORRIS COUNTY,

Respondent.

P.B. and L.B., petitioners, pro se

Scott W. Carbone, Esq., for respondent (Sills, Cummis, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 12, 2007 Decided: March 29, 2007

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, petitioners seek reimbursement of tuition payments made to the respondent, the Board of Education of the Borough of Mendham (the Board), for a period of time in which it is alleged that petitioners' children attended schools in Mendham Borough while residing in Bernardsville. The Board has filed a motion for summary decision on the basis that petitioners are not entitled to any relief in view of the fact that the payments, which are the subject of petitioners' reimbursement claim, were made pursuant to the terms of a prior settlement between the parties.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about February 14, 2006, petitioners filed the within matter seeking reimbursement of monies paid to the Board, in the amount of $6,321, representing tuition for their two children during the 2004-2005 school year. Petitioners allege that reimbursement is warranted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). The Board filed an Answer and Affirmative Defenses on March 24, 2006. Among other defenses, the Board's fifth affirmative defense asserts that "Petitioner's claims are barred by the doctrine of accord and satisfaction and any applicable settlement agreements between the parties." The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on April 5, 2006, it was filed for hearing as a contested case. The matter was scheduled for hearing on October 30, 2006. On October 25, 2006, the Board filed a motion for summary decision or, in the alternative, to compel settlement. The undersigned adjourned the hearing in order to address the Board's motion and to provide petitioners an opportunity to submit a written response to the motion. Petitioners opposed the motion and submitted a letter certification in support of their position. The Board filed a reply brief, which was accompanied by a certification of Stewart McClure (McClure Cert.), who serves as a member of the Board, and a certification of Lester Aron, Esq. (Aron Cert.), who served as the Board's attorney during the relevant timeframe. Subsequently, petitioners submitted a letter certification in further support of their position. The Board was afforded the opportunity to respond to this submission, after which the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based upon a review of the documentation submitted in support of, and in opposition to, the within motion including the various certifications, I FIND the following undisputed material facts:

In January 2005, a dispute arose between the Board and petitioners regarding petitioners' domicile and tuition payments relating to petitioners' two children. (Aron Cert. at ¶3; McClure Cert. at ¶2). Based upon the Board's review of the matter, the Board determined that petitioners were not properly domiciled in Mendham Borough between September 2004 and January 2005 and, therefore, owed the Board tuition charges relating to the attendance of petitioners' children in the Board's schools during this period. (Ibid.).

Petitioners disputed the Board's allegation that they were not domiciled in Mendham Borough and the Board's assessment of tuition charges. (Aron Cert. at ¶4). Petitioners requested, and were afforded, an opportunity to meet with the Board on January 25, 2005 concerning the matter. (McClure Cert. at ¶3). Mr. B. addressed the Board at its January 25, 2005 meeting in an effort to persuade the Board that petitioners were properly domiciled in Mendham Borough and that no tuition was owed. (Aron Cert. at ¶4; Exhibit C attached to the Board's initial brief). After the meeting, the Board did not change its position regarding the domicile issue and, accordingly, affirmed its tuition charge assessment for the period of September 2004 to January 2005. (Aron Cert. at ¶5; McClure Cert. at ¶3).

On January 27, 2005, Mr. Aron sent a letter to petitioners informing them of the Board's determination that petitioners were obligated to pay tuition for their two children commencing September 2004 since the family was not properly domiciled within the Borough. (Aron Cert. at ¶7; Exhibit A attached to the Board's initial brief). The letter enclosed an invoice, dated January 26, 2005, representing "Tuition at Mendham Borough Schools for the months of September 2004 through January 2005" in a total amount of $10,535. (Exhibit B attached to the Board's initial brief).[1]

Petitioners retained the services of an attorney. On February 4, 2005, petitioners' attorney sent a letter to Mr. Aron setting forth petitioners' legal and factual position with regard to the domicile/tuition dispute. (Aron Cert. at ¶8; Exhibit 1 attached to the Board's reply brief). The letter concluded by stating "we appeal to your good offices and sense of equity under the circumstances to help us find a way to resolve this matter fairly, quickly and amicably."

[1] Although the certifications submitted by the Board refer to tuition charges in the amount of $10,267, the invoice attached to the Board's initial brief reflects total tuition due in the amount of $10,535.

Over the next two months, Mr. Aron had various discussions with the Board and petitioners' attorney regarding the domicile/tuition dispute in which a possible settlement of the matter was discussed. (Aron Cert. at ¶9; McClure Cert. at ¶4). On April 28, 2005, Mr. Aron had a telephone discussion with petitioners' attorney, during which terms of a settlement were agreed upon. (Aron Cert. at ¶10). Under the terms of the settlement, petitioners agreed to make three payments to the Board of $2,107, for a total of $6,321. In exchange, the Board agreed not to institute litigation against petitioners in an effort to collect the tuition that it believed was properly due and owing. (Aron Cert. at ¶10). Mr. Aron reduced these items to writing in a letter to petitioners' attorney dated April 28, 2005. (Ibid.). That letter states in pertinent part:

> In confirmation of our telephone call earlier today the Board of Education has agreed to settle with your clients Mr. and Mrs. [B] for the tuition for their children during the 2004-2005 school year at a total amount of $6,321.00. Based on that Agreement, the [Bs] are to make three equal payments of $2,107.00....
> Thank you in advance for your cooperation in resolving this matter.
> [Exhibit D attached to the Board's initial brief; emphasis added].

On or about April 28, 2005, Mr. Aron advised the Board that petitioners had agreed to settle the matter by making three payments to the Board of $2,107, for a total of $6,321 and, in exchange for petitioners' payments, the Board agreed to forego any litigation against petitioners seeking tuition payments. (McClure Cert. at ¶5; Aron Cert. at ¶12). The certifications submitted on behalf of respondent reflect the understanding and belief of Board attorney Aron and Board member McClure that performance of the terms of the agreement, as set forth in the April 28, 2005 letter to petitioners' attorney, would constitute a full and final settlement of the dispute between the Board and petitioners regarding the domicile/tuition matter, the agreement resolved the entire domicile/tuition matter and it concluded the dispute between the parties. (Aron Cert. at ¶11; McClure Cert. at ¶6). In a letter dated April 29, 2005, petitioners' attorney informed Mr. B: "The enclosed is as we discussed by telephone. Please copy Les Aron, Esq. and me on your letters transmitting the three payments. It has been a pleasure assisting you in this matter." (Exhibit 2 attached to the Board's reply brief).

On May 5, 2005, an updated invoice was generated and sent to petitioners reflecting the settlement terms, i.e. tuition due in the amount of $6,321 to be paid in three installments. (Aron Cert. at ¶12; Exhibit E attached to the Board's initial brief). Consistent with the settlement terms that Mr. Aron had negotiated with petitioners' attorney, petitioners issued three checks to the Board in the respective amounts of $2,107 totaling $6,321. (Aron Cert. at ¶13; Exhibit F attached to the Board's initial brief). The last check submitted by petitioners includes a notation stating "Section 18A:38-1 reimb. due to [petitioners] no later than 1/31/06." (Exhibit F attached to the Board's initial brief).

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This rule is substantially similar to the summary judgment rule embodied in the New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:46-2. The summary judgment procedure is designed to provide a "prompt" and "inexpensive" method of disposing of a case, which does present any genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at a hearing. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

In evaluating the merits of the motion, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Judson, supra., 17 N.J. at 75. However, the plain language of the rule "dictates that a court should deny a summary judgment motion only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a 'genuine issue as to any material fact challenged.'" Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (citation omitted). See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The New Jersey Supreme Court has cautioned that, "if the opposing party offers no affidavits or matter in opposition, or only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, ... '[f]anciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious'..., he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment, taking as true the statement of uncontradicted facts in the papers relied upon by the moving party, such papers themselves not otherwise showing the existence of an issue of material fact." Judson, supra, 17 N.J. at 75 (citation omitted). Stated differently, the "non-moving party cannot defeat a motion for summary judgment merely by pointing to any fact in dispute." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 529. Disputed issues of fact that are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature will not suffice. Ibid. Further, even if the pleadings themselves appear to raise a factual dispute, summary decision should not be denied where the papers pertinent to the motion "show palpably the absence of any issue of material fact...." Judson, supra, 17 N.J. at 75. See Martin v. Rutgers Casually Insurance Co., 346 N.J. Super. 320, 323 (App. Div. 2002) (finding that, where the record was barren of evidence that the plaintiff had a driver license "other than her own self-serving assertion to that effect," this "is clearly insufficient to create a question of material fact for purposes of a summary judgment motion"); Brae Asset Fund, L.P. v. Newman, 327 N.J. Super. 129, 134 (App. Div. 1999) (holding that "bare conclusory assertions in an answering affidavit are insufficient to defeat a meritorious application for summary judgment").

In judging whether or not summary decision is appropriate, the court must "engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or shifting of evidential materials as required by Rule 4:37-2(b) [governing an involuntary dismissal] in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 539-40. In this regard, the New Jersey Supreme Court has provided the following guidance:

> [A] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The 'judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a > genuine issue for trial'. . . . If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a 'genuine' issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,'... the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

> [Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citations omitted)]

It is well settled that the "'[s]ettlement of litigation ranks high in [the] public policy'" of New Jersey. Nolan v. Lee Ho, 120 N.J. 465, 472 (1990) (quoting Jannarone v. W.T. Co., 65 N.J. Super. 472 (App. Div. 1961), certif. denied, 35 N.J. 61 (1961)). See Lahue v. Pio Costa, 263, N.J. Super. 575, 595 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 134 N.J. 477 (1993); Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118, 125 (App. Div. 1983), certif. denied, 94 N.J. 600 (1983). There is a strong public policy in this State in favor of settlements. Department of the Public Advocate, Division of Rate Counsel v. N.J. Bd. of Public Utilities, 206 N.J. Super. 523, 528 (App. Div. 1985); Bistricer v. Bistricer, 231 N.J. Super. 143, 147 (Ch. Div. 1987). Indeed, "courts will strain to give effect to the terms of a settlement wherever possible." Department of the Public Advocate, supra, 206 N.J. Super. at 528. And, second thoughts by a party unhappy with the bargain reached "are entitled to absolutely no weight as against our policy in favor of settlement." Id. at 530.

The courts have recognized that an agreement to settle a lawsuit is a contract. Nolan, supra, 120 N.J. at 472; Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 124. Equally recognized is that settlement agreements should be honored "absent a demonstration of 'fraud or other compelling circumstances'...." Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 125 (citation omitted). The courts "have refused to vacate final settlements absent compelling circumstances" and require "clear and convincing proof" that a settlement agreement should be vacated. Nolan, supra, 120 N.J. at 472. Moreover, a court "will not ordinarily inquire into the adequacy or inadequacy of the consideration underlying a compromise settlement fairly and deliberately made." Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 125.

That an agreement to settle is orally made is of no consequence. Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 124. Rather, "an 'agreement to settle a lawsuit, voluntarily entered into, is binding upon the parties, whether or not made in the presence of the court and even in the absence of a writing.'" Ibid. (quoting Green v. John H. Lewis & Co., 436 F.2d 389, 390 (3d Cir. 1971)). See Good v. Pennsylvania Railroad Co., 384 F.2d 989, 990 (3d Cir. 1967) (holding that a "settlement agreement which was entered into by duly authorized counsel expressed the intention to settle the case for the agreed amount and was valid and binding despite the absence of any writing or formality"). Likewise, "[t]hat an agreement was to be memorialized in writing makes it no less a contract...." Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 126. "Where the parties agree upon the essential terms of a settlement, so that the mechanics can be 'fleshed out' in a writing to be thereafter executed, the settlement will be enforced notwithstanding the fact the writing does not materialize because a party later reneges." Lahue, supra, 263 N.J. Super. at 596. See also Moss v. McDonald's Corp., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13936 (D. N.J. 2006); Williams v. Vito, 365 N.J. Super. 225 (Law Div. 2003) (ruling that plaintiff's authorization of his attorney to accept defendant's settlement offer and the attorney's communication of the acceptance to the opposing counsel and the court created an enforceable settlement agreement, irrespective of whether a subsequent writing was contemplated).

In general, an accord and satisfaction will be found where there is a bona fide dispute as to the existence of liability or an amount due, payment by one party of a sum less than the whole amount in satisfaction of the disputed claim and its acceptance by the other with the intention that it will operate as full satisfaction of the entire disputed obligation. Zeller v. Markson Rosenthal & Co., 299 N.J. Super. 461 (App. Div. 1997); Decker v. George W. Smith & Co., 88 N.J.L. 630 (E. & A. 1916); Loizeaux Builders Supply Co. v. Donald B. Ludwig, Co., 144 N.J. Super. 556 (Law Div. 1976). The doctrine of accord and satisfaction resulted in the dismissal of petitioner's petition in Scelba v. Board of Education of the Town of Montclair, EDU 628-80, Initial Decision (February 18, 1981), adopted, Comm'r (April 6, 1981) (cited in and attached to the Board's submission).

In Scelba, the petitioner, a tenured teacher/administrator, held the administrative position of Advisory Specialist in the Arts until 1978 when it was abolished by the board of education. That same year, the board created a new position, Director of the Arts and Career Education, which the board filled with another applicant. The petitioner alleged that the new position involved duties similar to his abolished position and that petitioner's transfer to a teacher position violated his tenure rights. The petitioner pressed his claims with the district's assistant superintendent for instruction and, upon request, outlined in writing the terms and conditions for settlement of his claims. In consideration for certain listed teaching and administrative duties, coupled with a designated salary and title, petitioner indicated that he would be willing to stop his efforts to investigate the violation of his property and tenure rights as an administrator. In October 1978, the assistant superintendent for personnel services confirmed the petitioner's terms and conditions by a letter to the petitioner and enclosed an employment contract for the 1978-79 year which the petitioner signed. The petitioner filed a petition approximately fourteen months later when his then position was abolished for the 1979-80 school year. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petitioner and the board "reached an accord" by which the petitioner would be paid an unreduced salary for 1978-79 and would serve as the Coordinator of Music in addition to his teaching duties and, by the terms of the accord, petitioner agreed to give up his efforts to investigate and vindicate the alleged violation of his property and tenure rights. The ALJ further found that the existence of the dispute between the board and the petitioner established consideration to support the accord reached, the accord was satisfied by mutual performance of obligations during 1978-79 and, accordingly, the petitioner's petition for relief was barred by the accord achieved in 1978 and fulfilled in 1978-79. In so ruling, the ALJ explained:

> What is an accord and satisfaction? It is a method of discharging a contract or cause of action whereby parties agree to give and accept something in settlement of the claim or demand of the one against the other, and perform such agreement, an 'accord' being the agreement and 'satisfaction' its execution or performance....An accord and satisfaction, like any other contract, must, in order to be valid and effectual, be founded upon a proper consideration....The consideration need not be adequate, nor will courts inquire into its reasonableness, as distinguished from its existence. So even a slight modification of the status of the parties resulting from the terms of the new agreement is sufficient consideration....In general, any lawful claim or demand, whether or not tenable or enforceable in law, may be the subject of an accord and satisfaction....
> What is the legal effect of an accord and satisfaction? Absent fraud, mistake, duress or rescission, and after satisfaction, the original demand is extinguished and action thereon, as in the form of the present claim petition, is debarred. Debarment is sometime regarded as an estoppel.... But it is in absolute defense. (citations omitted).

The Commissioner adopted the initial decision dismissing the petition. The Commissioner concluded that an agreement between the petitioner and the board was negotiated and consummated by the parties, the agreement constituted a good faith effort on the part of the parties to reach an amicable resolution of the matter between them and the accord reached and fulfilled barred the petitioner's request for further relief.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In this matter, petitioners seek reimbursement of monies paid to the Board for tuition for the period of September 2004 to January 2005, during which the Board had maintained, and petitioners disputed, that petitioners were not domiciled in Mendham Borough. The foundation of the Board's summary decision motion is that a legally enforceable settlement was reached regarding the domicile/tuition dispute and the parties fully performed under the terms of that settlement. Accordingly, the Board contends that, because the settlement agreement should be enforced, there is no remedy available to petitioners warranting dismissal of this action.

In opposition, petitioners do not challenge the facts, series of events or the documentary evidence submitted by the Board, including the letter between counsel memorializing the settlement reached. Equally absent is any claim by petitioners that their attorney was not authorized to accept the settlement terms set forth in that letter. Indeed, petitioners acknowledge that they paid the reduced tuition assessment because they "did not want to be named as defendants in a lawsuit." However, petitioners purport to show in the offered letter certifications that the agreement to pay the tuition, and the payment thereof, did not preclude their ability to later seek reimbursement. Petitioners assert "[i]t was our understanding that we would pay the money to the Board and not give up our rights to seek reimbursement...." It is further maintained that petitioners "made it clear that [they] intended to seek reimbursement of all monies paid and never intended that the payment would end our dispute." Petitioners also argue that "[t]he Board has not proven that the payment of tuition negates" their "rights to seek reimbursement under the statutes of the law" in view of the absence of evidence suggesting that petitioners have not been properly domiciled in Mendham Borough since January 31, 2005.[2]

A settlement agreement is a contract between the parties and, as such, is subject to the law governing the interpretation of contracts. In construing a contract, it is necessary to "'determine the intention of the parties 'as disclosed by the language used, taken as an entirety; and, in the quest for the intention, the situation of the parties, the attendant circumstances, and the objects they were thereby striving to attain are to be regarded.'" Dontzin v. Meyer, 301 N.J. Super. 501, 507 (App. Div. 1997) (citation omitted). To discover the meaning of the terms of a contract, extrinsic evidence may be used only to "shed light on the mutual understanding of the parties" if the contract terms are vague or not specific. Hall v. Jefferson Bd. of Educ., 125 N.J. 299, 305 (1991). In other words, "[e]xtrinsic evidence is admissible as an aid to understand the significance of the contract language, but not to give effect to an intent at variance with that language." Dontzin, supra, 301 N.J. Super. at 507. "'So far as the evidence tends to show not the meaning of the writing, but an intention wholly unexpressed in the writing, it is irrelevant.'" Ibid. (citation omitted). The function of the court is to "'consider what was written in the light of the circumstances under which it was written, and to give the language a rational meaning consistent with the expressed general purpose.'" Ibid. (citation omitted). Further, "the intent which controls the contract is the 'intention common to both [parties]'" and "'it is not the real [subjective] intent but the intent expressed or apparent in the writing that controls." Ibid. (citations omitted). A party's "unexpressed intent not to be bound is also immaterial." Brawer v. Brawer, 329 N.J. Super. 273, 283 (App. Div. 2000), certif. denied, 165 N.J. 138 (2000). Rather, "[a] contracting party is bound by the apparent intention he or she outwardly manifests to the other party" and "[i]t is immaterial that he or she has a different, secret intention from that outwardly manifested." Ibid.

[2] In their petition and submissions in opposition to the Board's motion, petitioners rely on N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) in support of their reimbursement claim. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) states: "Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age....Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section."

Against this backdrop, the undisputed facts disclose that a dispute existed between the parties in January 2005 regarding petitioners' domicile and tuition owed stemming from the attendance of petitioners' children at the Board's schools during the period of September 2004 to January 2005. Petitioners retained the services of an attorney to address the domicile/tuition issue. The record reveals that an "accord" was reached pursuant to which petitioners would pay to the Board, and the Board would accept, $6,321 in three installments and the Board would forego its claim to the full amount of tuition believed to be due and owing. This agreement is explicitly memorialized in the letter between counsel in April 2005. The existence of the dispute between the Board and petitioners established consideration to support the "accord" reached. And, the "accord" was satisfied by mutual performance of the agreement, i.e. petitioners' payment of the three installments and the Board's acceptance of the reduced tuition assessment as full satisfaction of the entire disputed obligation. In short, the undersigned embraces the Board's stance that it is clear by the actions of the parties and their representative attorneys that a legally enforceable settlement had been reached and the parties fully performed consistent with the terms of that settlement.

I FIND that the intent of the parties in entering into the settlement agreement is apparent because the terms of the agreement as set forth in counsel's letter are clear and unambiguous. I FIND that the meaning of the agreement between the parties is evident from the circumstances under which it was written as described above and that the intendment of the agreement was to provide a full and final resolution of the tuition issue. Following the disputed claim between the parties regarding petitioners' liability for the tuition payments, the Board relinquished its right to seek the full tuition believed to be owed and, in turn, petitioners agreed to pay the reduced amount in three installments in order to avoid litigation. There is nothing in the letter memorializing the settlement which evidences an expressed or apparent intent on the part of the parties to permit petitioners to later seek reimbursement of the monies paid. Rather, there is no doubt from the plain language of the memorialized agreement that the specified terms would end the dispute. Clearly, the Board's consideration for its concession included freedom from future litigation concerning the tuition issue. Since the intent of the parties as expressed in the letter memorializing the settlement is clear and unambiguous, it is unnecessary to look beyond the four corners of the expressed agreement.

Beyond this, the record fails to support petitioner's assertion that a full and final settlement was not reached. No documentation supports a conclusion that the bargain struck between the parties was merely an intermediary step, which did not end the tuition dispute and did not preclude a later claim for reimbursement. That petitioners' last check refers to reimbursement does not somehow undo the settlement reached months earlier.[3] The record is bereft of any evidence suggesting that petitioners' attorney objected to the terms set forth in the Board attorney's April 28, 2005 letter or, thereafter, sent a letter making clear that petitioners reserved their right to seek reimbursement at a later juncture. Apart from petitioners' notation on the last check, petitioners' ability to later seek reimbursement of the monies paid, which plainly would have been a material term of the agreement, is neither expressed nor implied in any documentation surrounding the settlement. Succinctly stated, petitioners' letter certifications, when considered in the context of the intent of the parties as derived from a consideration of the situation of the parties and the attendant circumstances under which the agreement was entered, as well as the entirety of the language of the agreement, attempt to "give effect to an intent at variance" with the plain language of the memorialized settlement and suggest an "intention wholly unexpressed in the writing." Dontzin, supra, 301 N.J. Super. at 507. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that this extrinsic evidence is irrelevant and should not be considered.

Based upon the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE petitioners have failed to raise any genuine issue of material fact which would operate to preclude summary decision and necessitate an evidentiary hearing. I CONCLUDE that the parties entered into a valid settlement agreement regarding the underlying tuition claim, the agreement is binding upon the parties, the parties fully performed under that settlement agreement, and the accord reached and fulfilled bars petitioners' request for further relief. The settlement between the parties is not only enforceable but it should be enforced. "If later reflection were the test of the validity of such an agreement, few contracts of settlement would stand." Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 126. The failure to give a clear settlement the conclusive effect intended would discourage parties from resolving disputes amicably by mutual consent and lead to unnecessary litigation and expense. In view of these conclusions, coupled with the absence of any cross-motion by petitioners, it is unnecessary to address the merits of petitioners' argument predicated on the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d).

[3] It is observed that petitioners' petition attaches a letter from the Board's Business Administrator, dated September 13, 2005, acknowledging receipt of petitioners' check which, the letter states, "represents the final installment due for tuition for your children...under our agreement for the 2004-2005 school year." The letter further instructs that, "[w]ith this check, you have fulfilled your payment obligations under our agreement, and no reimbursement for this or any other tuition payment is due to you from the Board of Education."

ORDER

It is ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED.

It is further ORDERED that petitioners' petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

On August 11, 2006, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein, the Commissioner adopted the parties' settlement agreement assessing petitioner, Christine M. Rhodes, $5,327.06 in tuition to compensate the Buena Board of Education for her child's period of ineligible attendance in the public schools of the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner had ceased compliance with the agreement after satisfying only $50.00 of the judgment against her, and it requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the unsatisfied portion of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Petitioner offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Christine M. Rhodes is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $5,277.06 – which represents the $5,327.06 payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, less the $50.00 previously remitted – with interest to accrue as provided by law.

BEFORE JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on December 2, 2005, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement and Release indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

HENRY SOLARES vs. NEW BRUNSWICK BOARD OF EDUCATION	OAL Docket No.: EDUOA 08924-2005S STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is made by and between the New Brunswick Board of Education (the "Board") with administrative offices located at 268 Baldwin Street, Third Floor, New Brunswick, New Jersey 08901 and Henry Solares ("Solares"), whose address is 6 Pine Grove Avenue, Somerset, New Jersey 08873. In consideration of mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and for good and valuable consideration the receipt of which is hereby acknowledge, the undersigned parties state:

WHEREAS, on June 19th, 2003, Solares was employed as a school teacher by the Board; and

WHEREAS, on that date, Solares was charged with a criminal action for certain acts alleged to have occurred while Solares was in the employ of the Board; and

WHEREAS, on July 15, 2005, the criminal complaint/indictment against Solares was dismissed by the Middlesex County Superior Court; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, Solares' defense counsel forwarded a demand letter to the New Brunswick Board of Education, on or about August 15th, 2005, seeking reimbursement from the Board for Solares' attorney's fees and cost associated with the legal defense of the criminal action with which Solares was charged; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined that it is in their respective best interests to enter into this Stipulation of Settlement and Release to avoid the need for further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board will pay to Solares the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000.00) in full and complete satisfaction of the amount Solares is claiming to be due and owing to him from the Board for Solares' attorneys' fees and costs.
2. This settlement amount will be paid directly to the trust account of Solares' legal counsel, Timothy R. Smith Esq. of Timothy R. Smith & Associates L.L.C., 76 South Orange Avenue, Suite 201, South Orange, New Jersey, 07079, following the approval of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release by the commissioner of Education.
3. Solares, in consideration of this Agreement, hereby release the Board, individually and collectively, and its agents, servants and employees from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to the subject matter set forth in the demand for reimbursement, now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release.
4. Solares acknowledges that he has reviewed this Stipulation of Settlement and Release with his own independent legal counsel and that he enters into it without duress, and of his own free will and volition. He further acknowledges that he fully understands the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

5. Solares, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and in full, final and complete settlement of this matter hereby agrees to withdraw without prejudice the above-docketed Petition for Reimbursement before the Commissioner of Education.
6. Nothing contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release should be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party, and neither party shall be considered a prevailing party for any reason.
7. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is conditioned upon approval of the Board.
8. The Board's President is authorized to execute this Stipulation of Settlement and Release on behalf of the Board.
9. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release contains the entire agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing shall be binding upon them.
10. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release are deemed material. This instrument may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by a new instrument executed in writing by the parties.
11. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is an agreement which is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties, or their duly authorized representatives, do set forth their hands and seal as of the dates(s) set forth below.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 727-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 392-12/05

JENNIFER BOYCE,

Petitioner,

v.

OCEAN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION

AND CAPE MAY COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,

Respondents.

Ned P. Rogovoy, Esq., for petitioner

Michael P. Stanton, Esq., for respondent, Board of Education of the City of Ocean City (Taht, Stanton & McCrosson, attorneys)

Cynthia Raymond, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, Cape May County Superintendent (Stuart Rabner, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: March 5, 2007 Decided: April 11, 2007

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ, T/A

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, in a three Count Petition of Appeal, contends that she achieved tenure status with the Board of Education of the City of Ocean City, Cape May County, (Board) and seeks an order of reinstatement to her teaching position and seniority rights by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) together with monetary damages for her illegal termination, plus costs of suit.

The Board contests petitioner's assertion contending, among other things, that petitioner was the holder of an elementary certificate endorsement and served as a long-term substitute as a media specialist under an emergency certificate where, among other things, petitioner taught Character Education and, therefore, is not eligible for tenure status.

The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The hearing was held on December 1, 2006, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The parties submitted post-hearing briefs. The hearing record closed on March 5, 2007, with receipt of the last document.

ISSUES TO BE DETERMINED

The issues to be determined by this administrative tribunal were set forth on the hearing record as follows:

1. Whether the Board improperly dismissed petitioner in her dual capacity as an elementary teacher and/or as an emergency educational media specialist?

2. Whether or not petitioner had acquired tenure status with the Board under her elementary teaching certificate?

3. Whether the Board violated the sixty-day clause of the contract entered into by petitioner and the Board?

It is noted here that Count Three of the Petition of Appeal was withdrawn and dismissed at the opening of the hearing,

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Dr. Lyle Alverson, the former Superintendent of the Ocean City Public Schools who retired from the Board's employ in the year 2000, testified that he and Thomas Campo, the vice principal of the intermediate school, interviewed and recommended that petitioner be employed as the intermediate school media specialist. Both Alverson and Campo knew that petitioner had been an elementary teacher in the Atlantic City public schools. They also understood that petitioner did not have a permanent certificate as a media specialist; however, petitioner was in the process of enrolling in academic course work to qualify for the media specialist certificate.

Petitioner's employment commenced on October 15, 2001, at which time the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools approved petitioner for an emergency certificate as a library media specialist upon the recommendation of the Ocean City Superintendent. Prior to petitioner's employment with the Board, the then Governor of New Jersey, James McGreevey, issued Executive Order #9, which initiated the program identified as "The New Jersey Character Education Partnership" (NJCEP). The initiative was voluntary and provided a stipend to school districts which participated. Petitioner's Brief, at page 2, sets forth the initiative, as follows:

> Character Education Program Selection
> Districts may expand implementation of their character education program model selection (Program of Merit, alternative program, homegrown program or combination of programs) or choose new programs to augment character education efforts that serve new schools or students. Please note that funding is not restricted to one program selection. Depending upon district priorities, staffing and student and program needs, schools may select additional program providers for materials, assemblies, staff training, curriculum infusion, community service or other related character education activities. (New Jersey Department of Education, Character Education Update. . .)

In her Brief, petitioner quoted a portion of the overview published by the state, as follows:

> 59% of the districts chose Programs of Merit, 11% selected alternative program providers, 18% developed their own homegrown programs and 12% used a combination of program choices (Character Initiation Update, supra) (Petitioner's Brief at page 2.)

Dr. Alverson testified that he did not contemplate petitioner's assignment to the Character Education program; however, subsequent to petitioner's employ, he determined that a certificated teacher should be assigned to its Character Education program. Dr. Alverson was aware that a New Jersey teaching certificate was not required for the initiative; however, he was determined to assign a certificated teacher to the program. Dr. Alverson was also aware petitioner was employed by the Board under her emergency library media specialist certificate. Moreover, he considered the availability of the then staff members and decided to assign petitioner to the Character Education program because she possessed an elementary teaching certificate. Also, his main consideration involved the convenience of scheduling the teaching staff members.

Dr. Alverson asserted that petitioner was required to prepare lesson plans, provide grades to the participating students and provide progress reports to parents while assigned to the Character Education program. He asserted that her assignment to the program was the same as other formal structured classes.

Dr. Alverson referred to documents entered into evidence as P-1 A through P-1 G. "Classroom Observation" and "Teacher Evaluation-Annual Report." The Classroom Observation, dated November 13, 2002, states as follows:

> Mrs. Boyce was hired this year as the media specialist for the Intermediate School. She has assumed all duties and responsibilities performed by the previous media specialist, and more. Mrs. Boyce also teaches formal classes in > character education to our younger students to support the movement that has been initiated in the District. She has developed a strong rapport with her students.

> They responded well to her instruction and desire to perform for her. This quality results in student success.
>
> Mrs. Boyce has established a good working relationship with the teachers who utilize the library. She prepares pertinent materials for their use when they come to the library. The teachers feel welcome in the library and as a result the faculty has become a valuable resource for their instructional program. A very nice atmosphere has been created by Mrs. Boyce.
> Matters affecting the library are well attended to by Mrs. Boyce. She takes the initiative to properly inventory the content of the library and order appropriately based on the inventory. She also schedules classes in an efficient manner and remains flexible when others, such as administrators, schedule classes into the library unexpectedly. (P-1 A)

With respect to petitioner's Classroom Observation dated February 11, 2003 (P-1 B), Dr. Alverson testified that petitioner was observed teaching the Character Education program to forth, fifth, seventh and eighth grades pupils. He admitted that petitioner was not observed as the media specialist on February 11, 2003, but, rather, as a classroom teacher.

Dr. Alverson read into the hearing record from the petitioner's Classroom Observation dated November 3, 2003, as follows:

> As the 4th graders took their seats at the library tables for the Character Education lesson, Ms. Boyce took attendance. One by one, Ms. Boyce invited the class to sit on the floor in a circle. Ms. Boyce did likewise. She proceeded to have each student share his or her weekend's activity. With Friday being Halloween, candy and "trick or treat" were hot topics. Ms. Boyce asked good questions to lead students to elaborating on their stories. P-1 C, page 1)

Dr. Alverson testified that petitioner was observed as a classroom teacher, where all of her instruction presentation and teaching techniques were effective (P-1 C, page 2). On page 3 of the document, Alverson referred to the observed statement that, "She also continues to enhance all aspects of the Library Media Program" (P-1 C, page 3). Dr. Alverson agreed there is a difference between the library media program and the Character Education program.

Dr. Alverson testified that petitioner's Classroom Observation, dated December 21, 2003, where he noted that petitioner was rated as "effective," the highest rating, in all of the observable areas of the classroom activities (P-1 D). On petitioner's Teacher Evaluation-Annual Report for the 2002-2003 school year, her instructional assignment is that of "Librarian" at the Board's Intermediate School (P-1 E). Dr. Alverson characterized the evaluation as good and referred to petitioner's professional growth as "proficient" and "advanced proficient" (P-1 E, page 3). He also observed that petitioner contributed to the overall school program (P-1 E, page 4). Dr. Alverson read on the hearing record, that portion of the Annual Report, entitled "Additional Information," as follows:

> Mrs. Boyce has transformed the library into a more greatly utilized resource for teachers and students. Although she is not a certified librarian, her knowledge and abilities as a teacher have benefited the library program and the school in general (P-1 E, page 4).

Dr. Alverson asserted he relied upon petitioner's skills as a certificated elementary teacher to perform the duties as the teacher of Character Education.

On cross-examination, Alverson testified he relied upon petitioner's availability as well as upon her elementary teaching certificate to teach the Character Education course. He asserted that petitioner's elementary teaching certificate was a strong consideration where children are concerned with her assignment to the Character Education program. Dr. Alverson did not want to place the burden of the Character Education program on the regular classroom teachers who were preparing their students for the scheduled state-wide testing program. Dr. Alverson admitted that anyone could teach the Character Education course where no teaching certificate was required.

Dr. Alverson could not recall the petitioner's Job Code for the Board's Report of Certificated Staff to the New Jersey Department of Education (Department) as of October 15, 2002. When shown the document marked into evidence as R-1, he identified petitioner's name with the Job Code of 2850. The Job Code, 2850, is further identified under the category of Educational Support Services Personnel as "Educational Media Specialist." (R-1, page 24)

Dr. Alverson asserted that Catherine Bassett was the media specialist prior to petitioner's hire. Dr. Alverson testified that he probably would not have assigned Bassett the responsibility of teaching the Character Education program. He opined that Ms. Bassett would have found such an assignment offensive because it was not in her job description. He asserted, moreover, that petitioner taught library skills to the intermediate school pupils because such instruction is typically the librarian's responsibility. He also stated that Character Education was not a part of the core curriculum standards established by the Department.

On re-direct examination, Alverson contended that petitioner acted in a dual capacity and that it was reported as such on R-1. He reiterated his former testimony where he asserted that when he recommended petitioner's employment, he did not contemplate assigning her as the teacher of Character Education. Rather, it was his choice to assign a certificated teacher because he knew that a certificated teacher would perform as a professional, i.e.; prepares lesson plans and conduct student evaluations, among other things. He did not wish to have the regular classroom teachers assume any additional responsibilities, ergo, he assigned petitioner to teach Character Education.

Petitioner testified on her own behalf asserting, among other things, that she possessed a New Jersey Elementary Teacher's certificate. From the years 1992 through 2001, petitioner taught in the Atlantic City Public Schools. Petitioner testified she was interviewed by Dr. Alverson for the media specialist position with the Board for the 2001-2002 school year. Petitioner was employed under an emergency media specialist certificate approved by the Cape May County Superintendent of Schools. Petitioner asserted that the Character Education program was not discussed at her interview for the position of media specialist. Petitioner cited the Employment Contract entered into by petitioner and the Board wherein it states, in pertinent part, that petitioner was to be employed as a Library Media Specialist, from the period of October 15, 2001 to June 30, 2002 (P-3).

Petitioner asserted that in the beginning of November 2001, Dr. Alverson approached petitioner and assigned her to teach the Character Education program. She testified that Dr. Alverson requested that petitioner teach the program to the fourth and fifth grade students and have it integrated it into the school's regular academic program.

Petitioner asserted, among other things, she prepared for teaching the Character Education program by using the Board's approved Elementary Curriculum Guide (Guide). From the Guide, petitioner then constructed lesson plans, among other things. Petitioner contended that when she was employed she did not know she would be required to prepare lesson plans for a program which differed from library media specialist lesson plans. In addition, petitioner prepared and issued progress reports, conducted tests, and prepared for "Back-to-School" night meetings with the students' parents engaged in the Character Education program. Petitioner stated that during her second year under her contract with the Board (2002-2003), her responsibilities did not differ from the prior school year.

Petitioner testified she taught the Character Education program sixty minutes per day for five days per week, for a total of 300 minutes. Petitioner asserted she devoted 400 minutes per week as the schools media specialist for a total of 700 minutes per week for both assignments. She stated that the Character Education program consumed 40 percent of her workweek.

Petitioner testified that Dr. Pamela Vaughan was appointed the principal of the Intermediate School for the 2003-2004 school year and that petitioner's schedule did not change from the previous two school years. However, for the 2004-2005 school year, the Character Education program had been discontinued and petitioner's teaching schedule changed. She asserted that she was not assigned solely to the media specialist position but, rather, Dr. Vaughan assigned petitioner to teach the PACE social studies program to the fourth and fifth grade students. The PACE program had nothing to do with petitioner's media specialist responsibilities. Petitioner stated that the PACE program was a part of the Gifted and Talented program where she taught the students on an alternating schedule. Schedule "A" met two times per week for 90 minutes with fourth grade students and 90 minutes per week with fifth grade students. Schedule "B" met 135 minutes per week with fourth grade students and 135 minutes per week with fifth grade students.

Petitioner testified that she was employed for the 2005-2006 school year as the library media specialist pursuant to the Employment Contract (P-3). Petitioner asserted that Dr. Vaughan assigned petitioner to the same PACE program responsibilities she held the prior school year, including the same amount of hours devoted to the program.

Petitioner asserted she began the 2005-2006 school year on or about September 1, 2005, and taught until September 15, 2005. Petitioner received a letter, dated September 22, 2005, from Dr. David H. Moyer, Superintendent of Schools, which stated, in pertinent part as follows:

> A recommendation will be given to the Ocean City Board of Education, at their September 28, 2005 meeting, to terminate your employment in the Ocean City School District effective as of September 29, 2005, due to your failure to meet Standard Certification requirements.
> A recommendation will also be made to terminate your employment as a Coach in the district effective as of September 29, 2005 (P-4).

Petitioner asserted she looked for other employment with other school districts; e.g., the Blackhorse Pike and the Egg Harbor school districts, without success. She attended Drexel University full-time to complete the requirements for Library Media Specialist. She was subsequently employed in or about July 2006 and commenced work with the Ocean Township, Waretown Elementary School, as its Librarian Media Specialist.

On cross-examination, petitioner testified, among other things, that she worked in a team-teaching approach in the fourth and fifth grade PACE program. She worked together with Mr. Holder with the fourth grade students and with Mr. Porter with the fifth grade students. All three members of the team issued grades with respect to the student's progress. Petitioner also performed research as a part of the team.

Petitioner testified she understood the termination letter from Dr. Moyer (P-4) was due to the fact that she had not acquired full certification as a library media specialist. She opined that Dr. Moyer would not recommend to the Cape May County Superintendent of Schools for the issuance of an emergency media specialist certificate to petitioner.

Dr. Pamela Vaughan, the principal of the Intermediate School, replaced Dr. Alverson upon his retirement, and testified on behalf of the respondent Board. Vaughan asserted she observed and evaluated petitioner in petitioner's capacity as a media specialist on December 21, 2003 (P-1D). She also testified that beginning November 1, 2004, Vaughan assigned petitioner as a media specialist to the school's PACE program, which extended through June 2005.

Dr. Vaughan asserted she was familiar with the Character Education program, and that a teaching certificate was not required to teach the subject nor was Character Education within the Core Curriculum. She testified the school received a stipend of approximately $2,000 per year while the Character Education was performed. She understood that petitioner was a member of the Character Education committee, along with other teachers in the school district. Vaughan knew that petitioner had had prior teaching experience and that petitioner was under an emergency certificate as a media specialist.

Dr. Vaughan referred to the document marked R-1 in evidence where, she asserted, the codes thereon represented the certificate the employee possessed during the period of her/his employment with the Board. Vaughan stated that the code for petitioner was that of a media specialist. Vaughan stated further, that petitioner was to complete the requirements for certification as a media specialist. Vaughan did not evaluate petitioner as an elementary classroom teacher.

On cross-examination, Vaughan admitted, among other things, that she had not been employed by the Board for the school years 2001-2002 or 2002-2003. Vaughan further admitted she had not discussed the Character Education program with Dr. Alverson.

Dr. Vaughan admitted that she was not aware that vice principal Thomas Campo and petitioner has taught together in another school district. Nor, she admitted, did she know that Campo advised Alverson with respect to the Character Education program. Vaughan asserted she made changes in the Character Education program subsequent to the start of the 2003-2004 school year; however, she contended, petitioner's duties did not change. Petitioner testified she was paid through September 29, 2005. Petitioner was assigned the extra curricular positions as coach of the junior high school girl's field hockey team, volleyball, and track and field sports. She stated she coached and was paid $4,000, the full amount for her field hockey assignment.

Dr. Vaughan was referred to document P-1 D, "Classroom Evaluation," dated December 21, 2003, Character Education-8th Grade where, she asserted, the evaluation had nothing to do with petitioner's teaching. She testified she did not know whether or not petitioner issued grades to the students but assumed that progress reports were results of the grades.

Dr. Vaughn stated that there was a change in the program in December 2003, to include the 8th grade in the Character Education program. Vaughan continued to assert that the state's money ceased after the 2004-2005 school year. Vaughan admitted she did not observe petitioner while she was involved in the PACE program. She contended that petitioner was not the teacher of record for the fourth and fifth grade PACE program. Nor, she asserted, did she believe that petitioner functioned in any way as an elementary teacher. She contended that petitioner did not teach any Social Studies classes and admitted that an individual was required to hold a teaching certificate to teach Social Studies.

Dr. Vaughan admitted she recommended petitioner for other employment and read her letter of recommendation addressed "TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN," dated November 15, 2005, on the hearing record, as follows:

> I would like to recommend Ms. Jennifer Boyce for a teaching position in your school. As principal, I have observed Ms. Boyce teach character education, library skills, and Gifted and Talented. Her creativity infused into her lessons has given the students excitement and motivation in the classroom. Ms. Boyce also has strong knowledge of technology which she also uses in her instructional lesson.
>
> Besides contribution as a teacher, she has contributed to many student activities as coach and club advisor. As a professional, Ms. Boyce has always been a team player in whatever she was asked to complete.
> Again, I recommend Ms. Boyce for your teaching position. She will be a welcome faculty member to your staff. Please feel free to contact me for any further questions.

Walter Whittaker, Supervisor of Curriculum testified on behalf of the Board and stated the Character Education program was initiated for the 2000-2001 school year to provide opportunities to instruct students for good citizenship. The program afforded a small amount of funding, approximately $2,000 per year.

Mr. Whittaker stated that in the beginning, the Board employed a consultant and subsequently involved all the pupils and staff members of the Intermediate School. A good citizenship "trait" was identified for each month and a student was recognized who exemplified the trait; e.g., "honesty." Whittaker worked with Alverson to implement the program at the Intermediate School, however, there became an issue of scheduling of the existing professional staff to carry out the recommended program.

Mr. Whittaker was aware that petitioner possessed a valid teaching certificate and also that petitioner was working under an emergency media specialist certificate. He was aware that petitioner had replaced the former librarian media specialist (Ms. Hartman) and that there were no fully certificated media specialists available to replace Ms. Hartman. He was also aware that the Character Education program did not require that an individual possess a valid teaching certificate.

Mr. Whittaker testified on cross-examination that the state funding for the Character Education program was open-ended and the money could be used in any fashion. After the state funding for the Character Education program ceased, the school district attempted to carry on and continue the program where the fourth and fifth grades students were instructed in the school's Media Center. He admitted he had never observed petitioner teaching the Character Education program. He further admitted that it made sense to employ an individual with a teaching certificate to instruct the pupils in the program.

Mr. Whittaker stated that subsequent to petitioner's termination, Mr. Robert Grey, the school district's Audio-Visual Specialist and certificated media specialist, replaced petitioner on a temporary basis. A fully certificated library media specialist was employed by the Board in January 2006 to replace petitioner.

Donald Dearborn, the Board's Superintendent of Schools in 2005, testified on behalf of the respondent asserting, among other things, that he knew petitioner was recommended to the media specialist position. Dearborn assumed petitioner possessed a valid elementary teaching certificate, however, he never saw it. He was aware that petitioner had taught in other school districts.

Superintendent Dearborn testified that in the 2000-2001 school year, an application for the Character Education program was executed. The Character Education program was not a part of the Core Curriculum, nor was a teaching certificate required to teach the program. Dearborn asserted that Mr. Whittaker selected petitioner to teach the program and assigned as the school's media specialist. Dearborn stated that the media specialist provides support for all phases of the educational endeavor.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony and documents in evidence offered at the hearing, and having given fair weight thereto, and having assessed the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Prior to the 2001-2002 school year, the Board advertised for the position of librarian media specialist for its Intermediate School.

2. Petitioner, the holder of a valid elementary teaching certificate issued by the New Jersey Board of Examiners, applied for the position of library media specialist.

3. Petitioner was interviewed for the position by Thomas Campo, the principal of the Intermediate School, and the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Lyle Alverson.

4. Both petitioner and Thomas Campo had previously been employed by the Atlantic City Public Schools, therefore, Campo knew of petitioner's reputation as a classroom teacher.

5. Petitioner was recommended by Alverson to be employed as the library media specialist at its Intermediate School and the Board accepted his recommendation.

6. Superintendent Alverson recommended to the Cape May County Superintendent of Schools that an emergency library media specialist certificate issue. The Cape May County Superintendent approved petitioner's emergency library media specialists certificate.

7. Petitioner commenced her employment with the Board on or about October 15, 2001.

8. Pursuant to Governor James McGreevey's issuance of Executive Order #9, The New Jersey Character Education Partnership (NJCEP) was created.

9. The hearing record discloses that a valid New Jersey teacher certificate was not required to teach the Character Education program, nor was it considered a part of the Board's Core Curriculum.

10. Notwithstanding, Alverson determined that the instructor of the Character Education program should possess a valid New Jersey teaching certificate.

11. Dr. Alverson assigned petitioner to instruct the Intermediate School students in the Character Education program due to her holding a valid New Jersey elementary teacher certificate.

12. Petitioner served as the school's library media specialist under her emergency certificate, in addition to teaching the Character Education classes.

13. Under the Character Education program, petitioner prepared lesson plans, prepared tests, submitted student grades, prepared and sent progress reports to parents and, presented the program to parents at the annual "Back-to-School" night.

14. Petitioner devoted 300 minutes per week with the fourth and fifth grade Character Education classes.

15. Petitioner was granted a subsequent contract for the 2002-2003 school year, under her emergency certificate library media specialists and also instructed the Intermediate School elementary students in the Character Education program.

16. In or about the 2004-2005 school year, the state financial subsidy for the Character Education program ceased.

17. Beginning with the 2004-2005 school year, and upon the retirement of Dr. Alverson, Dr. Pamela Vaughan became the principal of the Intermediate School.

18. Dr. Vaughan assigned petitioner to the school's PACE program for gifted and talented students in the fourth and fifth grade social studies curriculum.

19. On or about May 16, 2005, petitioner was awarded a contract for the 2005-2006 school year under her emergency library media specialist certificate, to begin September 1, 2005.

20. At its regular monthly meeting held on July 20, 2005, the "Board officially approved renewal of [petitioner's] emergency certificate for the 2005-06 school year. (Attachment "A" to petitioner's Petition of Appeal)

21. Petitioner began the 2005-2006 school year under the agreed upon contract.

22. In addition to petitioner's assignment as the library media specialist, petitioner coached the girl's field hockey, volleyball and track and field sports.

23. Petitioner was subject to classroom observations by her supervisors on November 13, 2002, February 11, 2003, November 3, 2003, December 21, 2003, January 13, 2005, and March 23, 2005 (P-1 A through F and P-1 F and G). All observations were conducted under petitioner's position as a librarian/media specialist.

24. Dr. Alverson executed an annual teacher evaluation of petitioner for the year 2002-2003, pursuant to her position as a librarian (P-1 E).

25. On September 22, 2005, Dr. David Moyer, Superintendent of Ocean City Schools, addressed a letter to petitioner advising petitioner that the Board terminated her employment at its regular September 28, 2005, meeting because petitioner had failed to meet standard certification requirements (P-4).

26. Seven days prior to September 22, 2005, letter, Dr. Vaughan told petitioner she was not to report for duty for the "Back to School" night.

27. Petitioner's termination was effective November 15, 2005. Petitioner was paid, in full, in the position as coach of the girl's field hockey team.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES[1]

PETITIONER'S POSITION

BY ALL APPEARANCES, AND FOR ALL INTENTS AND PURPOSES, JENNIFER BOYCE WAS USED AS AN ELEMENTARY CERTIFIED TEACHER ON A SUFFICIENT PART-TIME BASIS THAT SHE ACQUIRED TENURE ON OCTOBER 16, 2004.

The Supreme Court in Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), clearly ruled that while a Board of Education may call and characterize a part-time teacher as a supplemental teacher and, therefore, not subject to acquiring tenure, the Board's designation does not control. The tenure act, found at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to 18, specifically defines the conditions by which teachers are entitled to secure tenure. As was said in Spiewak, supra., referring to the tenure statute,

[1] Legal arguments of the parties are reproduced from the submissions of counsel.

> The statute makes tenure a mandatory term and condition of employment. It therefore supersedes contractual terms.
> (at page 72)

And, further, on page 73, the Court specifically stated while the tenure act was enacted in 1909,

> . . .its purpose has not changed. The tenure statute prevents school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power over teachers in contract negotiation, . . . It protects teachers from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons."

Further, in overruling certain prior decisions such as Schultz v. State Board of Education, 132 N.J.L. 345; Biancardi v. Waldwick, at 139 N.J. Super. 175; and Kapella v. Camden City Vo Tech, the Court stated:

> To the extent those decisions imply that the right to tenure derives from contract rather than statute, they are wrong.

Therefore, the question in the case at bar is not what the employment contract says as to what designation Jennifer Boyce is employed, but what function she was directed to perform as those functions apply to the appropriate certificate. This case is all about the objective appropriate characterization of how a district uses a teacher's learning and skills which she was taught while acquiring her certification. Dr. Alverson testified that a major consideration in choosing Jennifer Boyce to infuse the character education curriculum into his intermediate school was that she had an elementary certification which would allow her to use her skills and training in instruct fourth and fifth graders. Dr. Alverson's successor, Dr. Vaughan, specifically chose Jennifer Boyce to teach PACE social studies to gifted and talented elementary education students.

Jennifer Boyce taught elementary education in the same way she taught elementary education in all of her prior districts. She developed lesson plans, she developed testing, she monitored student's progression and sent home progress reports, she graded students, she was there for back to school night and she did everything that a certified elementary teacher does when she teaches elementary education. To say that she was functioning only as a media specialist is a Board subjective view and not an objective application of her assigned duties. She functioned as a part-time elementary teacher and any other characterization is a mischaracterization.

In part, this case concerns N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school nurses, chief school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services, school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect and school business administrators shared by two or more school districts, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this Title, after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (a) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
>
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three > academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

"Teaching staff member" is defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, as follows:

> "Teaching staff member" means a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the State Board of Examiners and includes a school nurse and a school athletic trainer.

By the express terms of these statutes, an employee of a board of education is entitled to tenure if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time.

The focus here should be upon the words on which the board of education relies; a professional staff member shall hold an appropriate certificate commensurate to his/her assigned employment. Certainly, what the Board through its agents, Alverson and Vaughan, clearly did was to rely upon Ms. Boyce's elementary certificate which was appropriate to the responsibilities they assigned to her employment. The duties define objectively what a teaching staff member is in fact. Since the Board relied upon that elementary certificate for her objective employment duties, she obtained tenure because (1) she worked in the position for which a teaching certificate commensurate with her duties required; (2) she did hold the appropriate elementary certificate; and (3) she served the requisite period of time. She is, therefore, entitled to tenure under her elementary certificate because the duties she was assigned as a teaching staff member were derived for that elementary certificate.

Objective performance of assigned duties overrides the subjective characterization by the Board of what functions an employee performs. See Dudzinski v. Borough of Franklin, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 531.

The Board disputed in the Dudzinski matter that he did not acquire tenure as a guidance counselor since he never worked full-time in that position and, therefore, could not claim a full-time guidance position whereby he was ultimately demoted. The administrative law judge, in the decision which was ultimately adopted by the Commissioner, clearly agreed that even though he only worked part-time in guidance, there was enough factual basis to show that he performed the functions of a guidance counselor whereby the court determined that he had acquired tenure even at the Board's denial.

PETITIONER'S CONCLUSION

After Jennifer Boyce was hired as an emergency media specialist, the principal of the intermediate school became faced with the challenge of how to infuse the character education curriculum into his school. He testified that he chose Jennifer Boyce, relying heavily on the fact that she had already obtained and was an elementary certified teacher. While he may not have hired petitioner for that reason, his focus turned and her employment became based upon her learning, knowledge and experience acquired under her elementary certificate for the purpose of teaching fourth and fifth grade character education. Objectively, and for all intents and purposes, she was an elementary teacher when it came to forty-two percent of her teaching load in the intermediate school for almost three years for October 15th of 2001 through June 30th of 2003. Following, the new principal, Dr Vaughan, assigned her to teach elementary students in the PACE social studies gifted and talented curriculum. Again, objectively, her employment was forty-five percent based upon elementary education certificated principles. It is an admitted fact by the Board that she taught in those capacities for the requisite time, e.g., three years and one day, to become tenured; their position is and has always been that she did not teach as an elementary teacher. To believe the Board's position, you must put form over substance and you must allow the Board to engage in the principles of subjective characterization for their own contract benefit. Jennifer Boyce was clearly and objectively used in substance as an elementary certificated employee and, as such, should have been allowed upon her termination, to use her seniority rights in order to teach elementary education in the Ocean City Schools. Since she was not allowed to use her tenure rights, she should be compensated in monetary damages for her loss and reinstated as a tenured teacher.

In the alternative, and pursuant to Count Two of the Complaint, if for some reason the Court determines that she is not tenured and entitled to monetary damages and reinstatement, she should certainly receive sixty days compensation for the breach of contract for lack of sixty days notice.

THE RESPONDENT BOARD'S POSITION

1. JENNIFER BOYCE DID NOT ACQUIRE TENURE AS A RESULT OF HER TEACHING CHARACTER EDUCATION

A. THERE IS NO CERTIFICATION REQUIRED TO TEACH CHARACTER EDUCATIONAND, THEREFORE, TENURE CANNOT BE ACQUIRED TEACHING CHARACTER EDUCATION.

The Supreme Court in Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982) established the criteria necessary to claim tenure: (a) work in a position for which a certificate is required; (b) hold such certificate; and (c) work the required number of years in the position.

Under the Spiewak criteria one cannot acquire tenure for teaching character education because a certificate is not required to teach character education. Because Dr. Alverson assigned Ms. Boyce to teach character education and because, among other considerations, he knew she had a background in elementary education, has no significance as to whether or not tenure can be acquired as a result of teaching character education.

The Licensing Code at N.J.A.C. 6A:9, lists all authorized certificates and does not reference any certificate required to teach character education. Character education is simply the teaching of honesty, trust, etc., it is not a core curriculum content standard, but is embedded in all that good teaching does. "Guidance for School Districts in Fostering Character Education" encourages media services to incorporate character education in their work. (See Exhibit B).

Ms. Boyce taught character education during the 2001-2002, 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 school years while she was employed as a media specialist under her emergency certificate. Character education can be taught by a media specialist. You do not need an elementary certificate to teach character education. The petitioner, in her brief, cites Dudzinski, supra. However, there is one significant distinction: a certificate is required to work as a guidance counselor, whereas no certificate is required to teach character education. Were an elementary endorsement required to teach character education, the Dudzinski case would have relevance. The simple fact of the matter is that a media specialist is authorized to teach character education, whereas someone not holding the proper certificate cannot act as a guidance counselor.

B. SERVICE AS A LONG-TERM SUBSTITUTE DOES NOT COUNT TOWARD THE ACQUISITION OF TENURE.

Jennifer Boyce was hired as a long-term substitute for the 2001-2002 school year, starting on October 15, 2001, due to the Board approving a leave of absence for the Intermediate School media specialist. During the summer of 2002 the media specialist on leave advised the Board she would be retiring on September 1, 2002 and, therefore, would not be returning in September 2002.

Jennifer Boyce's service as a long-term substitute during the 2001-2002 school year, does not count toward the acquisition of tenure. See Lustberg v. Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly, Bergen County, EDU 7080-03 (February 10, 2000) adopted, Comm'r. (April 12, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. In that case, the Board approved a tenured third grade teacher's child-rearing leave for the 1999-2000 school year. Sylvia Lustberg was hired as a long-term substitute to teach third grade, during the 1999-2000 school year. On February 23, 2000, the Board was informed by the third grade teacher on leave she would not return to her teaching position in September 2000.

Subsequently, Sylvia Lustberg was hired as the third grade teacher. She remained so employed for the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years. Prior to the 2003-2004 school year, she was notified that her employment would not be renewed. Lustberg then filed a petition challenging her non-renewal and alleged she had acquired tenure.

The administrative law judge (ALJ) stated that, under the facts presented, the only way Lustberg could have acquired tenure is if her service during the 1999-2000 school year is counted. Citing Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), the ALJ explained that all teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who work the required number of years, are eligible for tenure unless they fall within an exception in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1 provides that a person hired by the Board to act in the place of an employee during his/her absence cannot acquire tenure. The ALJ concluded that Lustberg's service as a long-term substitute did not count towards acquisition of tenure.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings and conclusion and ordered the petition dismissed with prejudice. The Commissioner found that Lustberg's service as a long-term substitute did not count toward tenure. Citing Lammers v. Board of Educ. of the Borough of Point Pleasant, 134 N.J. 264 (1993), where the Commissioner opined that entitlement to a position arises when a vacancy exists, and a leave of absence does not create a vacancy or temporary vacancy.

A vacancy in the present case did not arise until the media specialist on leave notified the Board that she would not be returning. Assuming Jennifer Boyce taught Character Education under her elementary certificate and further assuming that the teaching of Character Education required a certificate, she would still not be eligible to tenure because her service during the 2001-2002 school year would not count towards the acquisition of tenure. She only taught character education for three years, which include the 2001-2002 school year, when she was initially employed as a long-term substitute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 requires that a teacher teach for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year. Therefore, Jennifer Boyce did not obtain tenure on October 16, 2004, as set forth in Petitioner's Brief. The earliest date she could have obtained tenure was October 16, 2005, and she was no longer working by that date.

2. JENNIFER BOYCE COULD NOT OBTAIN TENURE AS A MEDIA SPECIALIST BECAUSE SHE WAS NEVER ISSUED A PERMANENT EDUCATIONAL CERTIFICATE AS A MEDIA SPECIALIST.

Tenure cannot accrue, regardless of the length or type of service, unless an individual has been issued a permanent educational certificate, also called a standard certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-41. Ms Boyce failed to demonstrate she had completed the required course work as a library media specialist leading to a standard certificate. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-6.3, provides that "renewal [of an emergency certificate] is predicated on demonstration of progress towards successful completion of course work. . .required for issuance of a . . .standard certificate."

Ms. Boyce, in addition to teaching character education during the 2001-2002, 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 school years, taught research/library skills. The teaching of research skills is a function of a media specialist pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.14.

Starting in November of the 2004-2005 school year, and only for the remainder of that school year, Ms. Boyce taught research based projects and activities designed by the PACE teacher. Dr. Vaughan testified that Ms. Boyce was not the teacher of record. PACE teachers would assign work and Ms. Boyce would assist the students in the library with that particular assignment.

All of the teaching was done pursuant to her job as a media specialist, for which was employed pursuant to her emergency certificate as media specialist. Part of the job of a media specialist is to teach research/library skills and to help students with research based projects, which is exactly what Ms. Boyce taught. However, Ms. Boyce never obtained a standard certificate as a media specialist and, therefore, is not eligible for tenure as a media specialist regardless of the number of years in that position.

THE RESPONDENT BOARD'S CONCLUSION

Ms. Boyce never taught under her elementary certificate. She was not hired as an elementary school teacher and never taught as an elementary school teacher. She was hired as a media specialist. She never provided the district with a copy of her elementary certificate for her personnel file because she was not hired as an elementary teacher. The district never reported her to the Department of Education in its "Report of Certified Staff Status" as anything but a media specialist.

Based on the foregoing, the petitioner did not obtain tenure either as an elementary teacher or as a media specialist.

PETITIONER'S REBUTTAL

It is admitted that Jennifer Boyce became employed on October 15, 2001, under an emergency certificate as a media specialist, with the administration knowing that she had an elementary education certificate. She taught from October 15, 2001, until the end of that school year which was June 2002; again she taught from 2002 through 2003 school year; 2003 through 2004 school year; and admittedly, in the 2004-2005 school year which was her fourth year of teaching she taught PACE Social Studies. The Board now argues that she was hired originally as a substitute, and therefore, it was not until the district knew that the absent media specialist was not going to return does the time clock begin ticking toward tenure. There was never any testimony by any witness presented by the Board regarding who the absentee media specialist was, when the actual resignation occurred, and how by some creative brief writing, there is an attempt to create a scenario whereby Jennifer Boyce's actual teaching time in the 2001-2002 school year should not be counted toward her tenure clocking.

The Board waived that argument in opening statements which can be discerned from the record, but more telling, is the reason the Board waived that argument as follows:

As was stated on the record, the Ocean City Collective Bargaining Agreement specifically confers upon substitutes after teaching for 90 consecutive days, all benefits according to teachers. (Exhibit "A") This language in Article 21 of the Collective Bargaining Agreement was the exact reason why the Board abandoned any argument as to the substitute status of petitioner since it was well known to all parties that after Jennifer Boyce taught 90 days, she retroactively received all the benefits of a teacher which certainly includes the counting of her time employed toward her clocking for the receipt of tenure. Any case law is going to be superseded by the language of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and its application to the petitioner herein.

Jennifer Boyce taught in the Ocean City System for more than three years and one day and any argument which attempts to disqualify her because of the length of time which she taught is firstly waived because of the posture and record at trial, and secondly, not applicable as it relates to case law since it is superseded by contract which was the exact reason that the Board did not and could not make the substitute argument. I find the argument now an attempt to create within the law what is surely called a "red herring."

OTHER REPLIES

The Board seems to argue that because anyone could have taught character education, the actual facts as related by Dr. Alverson are of no moment. I am not going to repeat the facts that were in my original Brief, specifically on page 3., only to say that it was clear that when Dr. Alverson was faced with the type and method of infusing character education into the intermediate school, he chose Jennifer Boyce in great part because she did possess an elementary certification and could and did instruct fourth and fifth graders in a program of merit. Therefore, when the Board agues in their Brief on page 3, "you do not need an elementary certificate to teach character education," it is respectfully suggested that the Board's argument misses the mark, since what was or was not needed in superseded by what was in fact done. The Board continues in that same argument in trying to distinguish the Dudzinski v. Board of Education of the Borough of Franklin, Sussex County, supra, since they argue the distinguishing fact with the case at bar is that Dudzinski had a certificate. Again, arguing from page 4. of Respondent's Brief, ". . .whereas no certificate is required to teach character education." The Board of Education in Dudzinski assigned him responsibilities of a guidance counselor and yet would not recognize that he was acting as a guidance counselor and of course, the Court looking at the totality of the circumstances ruled that since the Board assigned Dudzinski responsibilities commensurate with his certificate, he should be recognized as performing duties thereunder with all the privileges related thereto. Jennifer Boyce is also looked upon by the Board as not performing any duties as an elementary-certified teacher and therefore, the Board is not going to recognize that she has acquired any rights as a result of that certificate. This Court must look at Jennifer Boyce as did the Dudzinski Court and certainly realize that she performed the duties of an elementary certificated individual and therefore, she is entitled to all the emoluments of her effort.

The Board attempts to water down and diminish the amount of time Jennifer Boyce spent teaching character education by comparing a 35-hour work week with what petitioner characterized as student contact time. Certainly, the percentages are correct in regard to student contact time, however, the real key is that the ruling is Spiewak is that part-time service does not count toward tenure.

The Board concludes the Jennifer Boyce should not be viewed as teaching under her elementary certificate because, "she never provided the district with a copy of her elementary certificate. . ." and that the district did not report her to the Department of Education as a elementary school teacher, but a media specialist. These are the subjective views of the Board only since objectively we know that Dr. Alverson knew and relied upon her elementary certification and I am further sure that the Board in Dudzinski did not report him to the Department of Education as being a guidance counselor.

Objectively, Jennifer Boyce was used as an elementary teacher, she taught for the prerequisite amount of time and with the prerequisite efficiency and dedication to become tenured and I argue the Court should so find.

CONCLUSIONS

The case of Spiewak, supra., grew out of the case of Point Pleasant Beach Teacher' Ass'n v.Callam, 173 N.J. Super. 11, certif. den., 84 N.J. 469 (1980). In Point Pleasant Beach, Title I, supplemental teachers appealed to the Commissioner of Education subsequent to the Board of Education having refused to grant the teachers with tenure after they each had been employed by the Board for the requisite period of time under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The Commissioner held for the Title I teachers; however, the State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner contending that the Title I teachers were funded by Title I federal funds, 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 236 to 241.1. The Appellate Division of Superior Court affirmed the State Board's decision and certification to the New Jersey Supreme Court was denied at 84 N.J. 469 (1980). Consequently, the Point Pleasant Beach holding became the law regarding supplemental teachers in the State of New Jersey.

Subsequently, Rita Spiewak, among other supplemental teaching staff members represented by other boards of education, appealed their denial of tenure, which denial was based upon the Point Pleasant Beach. Spiewak and the other litigants were denied tenure based upon the Point Pleasant Beach, decision 180 N.J. 312 (1981). In the opening paragraph of the Spiewak decision, the Supreme Court overturned Point Pleasant Beach, 90 N.J. 63 (1982).

The Court in Spiewak determined the statute, at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, controlled. The Court stated, among other things, that the Tenure Act was originally enacted in 1909, pursuant to L. 1909, c. 243. It observed that the Act had undergone a series of amendments; however, its purposes had not changed. It observed further, that the statute prevented school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power over teachers in contract negotiations citing, Trenton Bd. of Ed. v. State Bd. of Ed.,135 N.J.L. 611, 614 (S. Ct. 1941) and, that it protects teachers from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Ed., 38 N.J. at 71.

The Court observed that by the express terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, an employee of a board of education is entitled to tenure if he/she (1) works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) has served the requisite period of time. The Court further held that the only statutory exception is found at N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, which denies tenure rights to substitute teachers and provides that:

> . . .[the] board of education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee... [However,] no person so acting shall acquire tenure in the office or employment in which he acts pursuant to this section when so acting.

The Spiewak Court observed that the tenure statute makes it a mandatory term and condition of employment. The Act, therefore, supersedes contractual terms, citing, among other cases, In the Matter of Local 195, IFPTE, AFL-CIO v. State, 88 N.J. 893, 403-04 (1982); State v. State Supervisory Employees Ass'n., 78 N.J. 54, 82 n.7 (1978). The Court observed that it was well settled that public employees and employers may not agree to contractual terms that contravene a specific term or condition of employment set by statute. The Court specifically stated that the tenure provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 constitutes a mandatory contractual terms that may not be waived or bargained away.

In the instant matter, petitioner was employed to replace the library/media specialist in the Board's Intermediate School. Petitioner did not have a standard certificate issued by the Board of Examiners to employment as a library/media specialist. Rather, petitioner was the holder of an emergency library/media specialist certificate issued by the Cape May County Superintendent of Schools. Petitioner did possess a valid elementary teacher certificate; however, she did not present the certificate to the Board during the period of her employment. The Cape May County Superintendent did not renew petitioner's emergency library/media specialist certificate for the 2005-2006 school year. The Board terminated petitioner's employment effective September 29, 2005, due to petitioner's failure to meet the Standard Certification requirements.

There is no doubt that petitioner participated in the Board's Character Education initiative. The herein record demonstrates that a valid teaching certificate was not necessary or required to carry out the functions of the Character Education program. The former Superintendent of Schools testified, however, that he assigned petitioner to the program because she had a valid elementary teacher certificate and that she was an experienced elementary teacher. Petitioner conducted the program as a classroom activity by providing tests and periodic progress reports to the parents of the fourth and fifth grade students enrolled in the program. The Character Education program was similar to an extra-curricular activity; e.g. coaching athletic programs, drama coach, Spanish club, and chess club, among other things. Tenure does not attach to extra-curricular programs, even though the programs may be conducted during the school day.

In administrative proceedings, the burden of persuasion lies with the petitioner and is determined by the standard of the preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion, Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number if witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Credibility, or more specifically, credible testimony, in turn must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well. Spagnulo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954).

I CONCLUDE that the testimony of Dr. Alverson and petitioner, Jennifer Boyce to be credible. There is no doubt that Dr. Alverson wanted a certificated teaching staff member to be in charge of its adopted Character Education initiative, notwithstanding, that a valid teaching certificate was not required. Dr. Alverson was faced with a scheduling problem due to the other teaching staff members established schedules of the Intermediate School. Consequently, Dr. Alverson selected petitioner to perform the duties and tasks of the Character Education program.

It is unfortunate, moreover, that petitioner was employed to replace a teaching staff member (library/media specialist) who was granted a leave of absence by the Board and, therefore, her time spent as the replacement cannot be counted toward tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. To the extent that petitioner participated with the school's PACE program, it appears petitioner acted more as a reference point in her capacity as the library/media specialist, rather than having complete control of the socials studies classes. It is not disputed petitioner participated with the PACE program, however, there is no evidence that she was the sole teaching staff member in charge.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that petitioner, Jennifer Boyce, has not acquired tenure status with the Board by virtue of her employment under an emergency library/media specialist certificate as a replacement for a teaching staff member awarded a leave of absence by the Board, and, accordingly, no seniority attaches. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1; Spiewak, supra.

I CONCLUDE, that petitioner presented insufficient evidence to demonstrate that she was, in fact, the teacher of record for the Board's PACE social studies program. I FURTHER CONCLUDE that petitioner's participation with the PACE social studies program was performed under her emergency library/media specialist certificate.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that petitioner, Jennifer Boyce was not improperly dismissed by the Board.

With respect to the issue of the contractual sixty day clause, I CONCLUDE that the Board violated the terms of the agreed upon contract conditions and is responsible to award petitioner the amount due and owing under the contract.

In all other respects, I CONCLUDE that the herein Petition of Appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record, Stipulation of Settlement, and Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that the Board Secretary has signed the Stipulation of Settlement on behalf of the Northern Valley Regional High School District Board of Education. In that neither the record nor the stipulation includes a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating this individual to sign an agreement on the Board's behalf, nor, in the alternative, is the agreement signed by the Board attorney – who is the Board's duly authorized representative in this litigation – the Commissioner cannot approve the Stipulation of Settlement in its present form.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement or supplementation of the record consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to effectuate such modification, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF CARL A. HILL, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP : DECISION

OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning school district certified multiple tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and endangering the welfare of students against respondent -- a tenured physical education teacher -- for conduct which included, inter alia: insubordination toward his supervisors; habitual lateness and absence from work; use of disrespectful and unprofessional language and vulgar gestures towards colleagues; and use of inappropriate language toward a student.

The ALJ found that: petitioner's witnesses were straightforward and credible; the respondent engaged in various incidents of insubordination during the 2004-2005 school year; petitioner's behavior constituted conduct unbecoming a teacher and unprofessional conduct, and fostered a climate of disrespect for his colleagues. The ALJ concluded that the appropriate penalty is removal of the respondent from his tenured teaching position.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, including transcripts of five days of hearing, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion that the charges against respondent have been proven by a preponderance of credible evidence, and that respondent's termination from tenured employment is warranted. The Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the Commissioner directed that respondent be dismissed from employment with the Irvington School District as of the date of this decision. A copy of this decision has been transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CARL A. HILL,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein. The Board did not file reply exceptions.

Respondent's exceptions mirror his post hearing brief advanced below; it is determined that the arguments raised therein were either satisfactorily addressed or belied by the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision and, therefore, these will not be revisited here.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, which includes transcripts of the five days of hearing at the OAL,[1] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and her conclusion that the Board has proven its charges against respondent by a preponderance of the credible evidence and that termination from his employment is warranted. In so determining, the Commissioner has given full consideration to all evidentiary proofs which comprise the record and recognition to the particular importance of the ALJ's assessment of the credibility of the witnesses. Such being the case – and the ALJ having had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her, and having made findings of fact based upon their testimony – the standard governing the Commissioner's review is clear and unequivocal:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record.
> (N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c))

The Commissioner's considered review of the entire record before her provides no basis whatsoever for alteration of the ALJ's determinations.

With respect to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner is mindful, in adopting the conclusion of the ALJ, that the consequences for respondent are serious. "Factors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the teacher's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among the students and staff, and the likelihood of such behavior reccurring." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Deborah Suitt-Green, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner October 14, 1997, slip. op. at 32, citing In re Hearing of Ostergren, Franklin School District, 1966 S.L.D. 185, 187; In re Hearing of Kittell, Little Silver School District, 1972 S.L.D. 535, 541; In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). In the instant matter, the Commissioner can find scant evidence on this record that would otherwise militate against the ALJ's recommended penalty of termination. The Board's charges establish that petitioner's chronic lateness without notice, insubordinate attitude and conduct toward his supervisors, use of disrespectful language and vulgar gestures toward fellow teaching staff members, and use of inappropriate language toward a student occurred over the last two years of respondent's relatively short service with the Board.[2] Particularly unsettling here is respondent's failure to take responsibility for any problematic behavior on his part, let alone be repentant for it. Respondent's response to the unbecoming conduct charges ranged from complete denials of the behavior alleged by the Board and blaming the New Jersey Transit system for his habitual lateness, to rationalizations based on the bad behavior or ill-motives of others. Neither does the Commissioner find that the record before her provides any promise that respondent will, in the future, eliminate his chronic lateness without notice,[3] improve his interpersonal relationships with fellow teachers and students or yield to the authority of the administration without continued conflict.

The Commissioner recognizes that "teachers carry a heavy responsibility by their actions and comments in setting examples for the pupils with whom they have contact." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Blasko, School District of the Twp. of Cherry Hill, 1980 S.L.D. 987 at 1003. As such, some actions are "so foreign to the expectations of the deeds and actions of a professionally certificated classroom teacher as

[2] Respondent testified that he has worked for the Irvington Board of Education for six years. (Hearing Transcript, 8/28/06, p. 38)

[3] The impact of this particular conduct on students is well recognized:

> [f]requent absences of teachers from regular classroom learning experiences disrupt the continuity of the instruction process. The benefit of regular classroom instruction is lost and cannot be entirely regained, even by extra effort, when the regular teacher returns to the classroom. Consequently, many pupils who do not have the benefit of their regular classroom teacher frequently experience great difficulty in achieving the maximum benefit of schooling.

to raise manifest doubts as to the continued performance of that person in the profession." (Ibid.) Based on the total record before her, the Commissioner finds that such is the case in this matter and the ALJ's recommended penalty of removal is appropriate.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons articulated therein. The Commissioner hereby directs that Carl A. Hill be dismissed from his tenured employment with the Irvington School District as of the date of this decision. A copy of this decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as that body deems appropriate.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 154-4/06

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CARL A. HILL, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY

Ronald C. Hunt, Esq., for petitioner School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for respondent Carl A. Hill (Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 13, 2007 Decided: April 2, 2007

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, (Board or District), certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher and endangering the welfare of students against respondent Carl A. Hill. The Board seeks to remove Hill from his position.

On June 5, 2006, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On June 13, 2006, a prehearing conference was held pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-13.1.

Respondent denied the charges. Additionally, respondent claimed that the Board failed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) and moved to dismiss the tenure charges. I considered the arguments of the parties and denied respondent's motion to dismiss the appeal. Hearings were held on August 14, 15, 21, 28, and 29, 2006. Upon receipt of posthearing briefs and a telephone conference with counsel regarding the status of posthearing documents, the record closed on February 16, 2007.

CHARGES

The School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County charges Carl Hill, a physical education teacher, with conduct unbecoming a teacher and endangering the welfare of the students. The specific charges are as follows:

1. Habitual and repeated lateness and/or absence from work from September 2005 to the present; sleeping on the job; failure to attend professional workshops; and failure to complete lesson plans timely.

2. The use of disrespectful an unprofessional language toward fellow teachers in the presence of students as well as disrespectful language towards students.

3. Dereliction of duty by failing to supervise students prior to the end of the school day as assigned; failure to timely report the cafeteria duty as assigned.

4. Abandonment of students, leaving them in the school building unsupervised during a fire drill, endangering their welfare.

5. The respondent, Call Hill, has been charged with conduct supervise of discipline and morale of the school district by displaying unprofessional and behavior toward students and fellow teaching staff members.

ISSUE

The issue is whether respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher and/or endangering the welfare of students? If so, what is the appropriate penalty?

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

In 2000, the Irvington Board of Education hired Carl Hill to teach physical education and health education. Hill was assigned to the University Six School and acquired tenure in school year 2003-2004.

The Board presented Ronald Bligh, supervisor of Health and Physical Education. Bligh testified to several incidents involving Hill's conduct. For example, on April 19, 2005, all physical education teachers were required to attend an in-service workshop at 1:30 p.m. When Hill arrived at 2:00 p.m., Bligh questioned him about arriving late. Hill retorted with a snap remark, calling Bligh "crazy." Bligh believed Hill's conduct was insubordinate, unprofessional and unbecoming a teacher. Consequently, Bligh attempted to serve Hill a letter of reprimand. Hill refused to accept and sign the document. The building principal, Dr. Wilma Crespo, was present on this occasion.

Hill denied arriving late to the workshop on April 19, and he maintained that he did not address Bligh in an abusive manner. When Bligh accused him of arriving to the meeting late, he responded, "Man, you must be crazy." Hill explained that on the date of the workshop he accompanied the students on the bus from University Six to the Thurgood Marshall School, the site of the workshop, arriving at 1:15 p.m. Hill acknowledged that he and Bligh did not get along. Thus, he refused to socialize or attend any pre-meeting events. Instead, he waited inside the office until the meeting began. Hill refused to accept the letter of reprimand and did not sign the "sheet" because Bligh falsely accused him of arriving late.

Bligh testified about an incident that occurred on April 22, 2005. Bligh attempted to serve Hill another letter of reprimand. Hill refused to accept or sign the letter and called Bligh "crazy" and "liar." Bligh maintained that Hill's behavior was disrespectful and threatening. (P-5; P-6; P-7; P-8). In May 2005 Bligh recommended withholding Hill's salary increment for the 2005-2006 school year because of Hill's continued behavior. The Board adopted the recommendation to withhold his salary. Bligh further testified that on May 3, 2005, he planned to meet with Hill and another physical education teacher to review their roll books. Hill arrived at the meeting late and informed Bligh that his roll book and grade book was "no concern of [Mr. Bligh]" and refused to produce them. Hill then called Bligh a "jerkoff."

Hill denied yelling at Bligh and calling him a "jerkoff." Hill said he did not respect Bligh as a person but he acknowledged Bligh's position of authority. Nevertheless, he refused to accept letters, memos or other written communications from Bligh because he believed that they contained false accusations. Further, he refused to meet with Bligh and Crespo without a union representative. With regard to the plan book, Hill maintained that he prepared and submitted his lesson plans to Crespo on Fridays for the following week. At the end of the school year, the books were submitted to the administration and not returned to the staff. Hill further maintained that prior to receiving a letter from Bligh about his plan book, the issue was never raised by Bligh. However, Hill discussed the issue with Crespo, and Hill conceded that on occasion his plan book was not timely submitted.

Bligh recalled another incident in which he and Crespo observed Hill arguing with a female student and three male students. Crespo's attempt to calm Hill was unsuccessful. Hill told the female student to "shut up" and then stated, "Just because you have breasts that don't make you a woman." Bligh immediately verbally reprimanded Hill for his inappropriate comments to the student. Bligh testified that Hill told him to mind my own business and stomped out of the office. (P-10).

Hill's version differs from that of Bligh and he believes that Bligh has taken the incident out of context. Hill observed a female student and two male students arguing in the main office. He claimed to have counseled the girl on ladylike behavior. Hill told the female student, "Just because you have breasts, that doesn't make you a young lady, that makes you a female." Hill saw Bligh but said nothing.

Bligh also testified about Hill's deficiencies in instruction and record keeping. He claimed that Hill inadequately maintained students' attendance and grade records. An audit of Hill's roll book and grade book revealed some of the following deficiencies: no indication that Hill took class attendance prior to March 14, 2005; no records of students in homerooms 301, 303, and 310 participating in physical education; inadequate student attendance records; misspelled student names; and poor or inadequate grading strategies. (P-12). Bligh believed that Hill's roll book was "flawed and lacked validity, integrity and accountability." As a result of the audit, Bligh and Crespo issued Hill a sixty-day improvement plan. Ibid.

Bligh testified about an incident on December 13, 2005. Two students laughed and joked about Hill's late arrival to class. Hill disciplined their behavior by making the students sit in the cafeteria while he took the remainder of the class outside for physical education instruction. During the class period the school conducted a fire drill. The two students remained in the cafeteria while everyone else exited the building. (P-14). Hill maintained that he left the two students in the charge of Ms. Murtha, another teacher. (P-5).

The Board presented Dr. Wilma Crespo, principal of University Six School. Crespo testified about Hill's chronic lateness and his failure to notify the substitute service if he planned to be late or absent. On three occasions she met with Hill concerning his excessive absence, lateness, failure to provide lesson plans, and overall poor performance. (P-21a to P-21y). Crespo corroborated much of Bligh's testimony about Hill's insubordination. For example, Crespo was present during the incident involving Hill's remark about a female student's breasts. She had also reviewed the audit of Hill's grade book, which revealed many inaccuracies and misinformation on students who were no longer enrolled in the school. Further, the audit showed inadequate student grading strategies to measure the students' progress. Crespo also issued Hill letters of reprimand. Hill, however, never responded to or rebutted the administration's concerns over his lack of interpersonal skills, absenteeism, tardiness, failure to submit instructional plans and failure to properly monitor student attendance.

Dr. Crespo also handled several complaints against Hill by other teachers. For example, the language arts teacher was obligated to remain with the students until Hill arrived to pick them up. Consequently, the language arts teacher was deprived of time from her forty-five-minute preparation period due to Hill's tardiness. (P-28). On one occasion Crespo observed Hill sleeping in the school medical office when he was assigned to cafeteria/recess duty.

The Board presented Rose Teer, a music teacher at University Middle School. Teer worked with Hill during school years 2004-2005 and 2005-2006. She said that on "many" occasions she was compelled to give up her free period to cover Hill's class because he was late or absent and failed to notify the substitute service. Teer also recalled an incident in the cafeteria when Hill told her to "shut up" and made a vulgar gesture with his middle finger. This occurred in the presence of a student.

Hill denied the remaining allegations, including making derogatory remarks about other teachers and vulgar gestures. Hill provided explanations for the alleged inappropriate conduct. For example, he refused to sign any letters of reprimand because he believed that they contained false accusations. He requested that Crespo change his schedule so that he could visit his ailing mother before he came to work. Another reason for the schedule change was to accommodate his commute to work. Hill used public transportation and every morning he left home at 6:10 a.m. to arrive to work by 8:10 a.m. He also disclosed to Crespo his personal illnesses and hospitalizations.

Hill argues that the Board's proofs have been undermined because the Board failed to produce the original roll book and instead presented copies, which contained missing sections from each marking period. Hill further maintained that the missing portions contained the "grades, quizzes and tests." Moreover, the Board's audit and amended audit of his roll book are invalid because they contain missing sections. (P-12; P-13). Additionally, he contends that he was never advised about the audit.

Hill also denied leaving students unattended in the classroom. Further, he denied leaving two students in the cafeteria unsupervised during a fire drill. On that day, he arrived at work at 9:30 a.m. and was informed that there would be a fire drill at 10:00 a.m. He went to the cafeteria to meet his class. The art teacher and another physical education class were in the cafeteria. "[Hill] agreed to let [students] play outside to do the art teacher a favor." (Petitioner's Brief at 9). Two boys began misbehaving and teasing Hill about being late. Hill maintained that his concern was about the behavior of the students "in the event guests or parents were present in school." Id. at 10. Therefore, he disciplined those two students by prohibiting them from joining their class outdoors for gym. Instead, "he asked the art teacher to supervise them while [he] took the rest of the class outside. She agreed." Ibid. Hill acknowledged that he slept in the nurse's office, but claimed that he was ill. He denied sleeping in Room 311. He further claimed that the school apparently lost his documents covering the professional improvement plan and lesson plans.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on a careful review of the evidence and the demeanor of the witnesses I FIND as FACT:

During school year 2004-2005 respondent engaged in various incidents of insubordination. These included:

1. Arrived late to a workshop scheduled for all physical education teachers and addressed his supervisor in a manner that was unprofessional and insubordinate.

2. Refused to accept letters from supervisors because he believed that they contained false accusations regarding his conduct.

3. Failed to timely submit his roll book and grade book.

4. Used inappropriate language toward a student.

5. Used disrespectful language and vulgar gestures toward colleagues on more than one occasion.

6. In school year 2004-2005, Hill was absent eighteen full days and fourteen half days, and late thirty-five days.

Positions of the Parties

The Board contends that Hill's actions constituted conduct unbecoming a public school teacher and insubordination, and endangered the welfare of students. The Board maintains that Hill's conduct did not improve, notwithstanding several verbal and written warnings from his supervisor and the building principal. Moreover, he failed to provide sufficient information to justify the excessive absences and late arrivals. The Board reasoned that Hill's mother's unspecified illness and the difficulty he experienced with transportation to work did not justify the "habitual unexcused absence/lateness." Instead, respondent's problems with absences and lateness continued from one school year into the next, such that respondent's conduct deprived the students of valuable education. (Petitioner's Brief at 11).

The Board further contends that through school years 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 Hill was repeatedly insubordinate and disrespectful towards his supervisor, Ronald Bligh, and the building principal, Dr. Wilma Crespo. Hill refused to accept letters of reprimand and he used vulgar and profane language towards his supervisor. The Board argues that Hill's consistent misconduct constituted a lack of respect, trust and confidence in his immediate supervisor and building principal. The Board contends that respondent's conduct warrants dismissal from his tenured position.

Respondent argues that a negative inference should be drawn as the result of the Board's treatment of the documents. The Board presented a copy of his roll book, not the original. (P-22). Respondent contends that the copy was incomplete and lacked sections on "grades, quizzes, etc." (Respondent's Brief at 18). Additionally, respondent contends that Dr. Crespo presented inconsistent testimony regarding the date she evaluated Hill's performance. The evaluation occurred in November 2004, and reflects ratings of "effective" in all categories, with the exception of four areas[1] in which he was rated "not effective." Thus, respondent maintains the Board's actions are highly suspicious and warrant a negative inference.

Respondent further argues that the Board's allegations should be dismissed for failure to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c). "A substantial number of these allegations have been improperly constituted by the Board . . . [and] are actually based on alleged shortcomings in performance that fall traditionally within the definition of inefficiency rather than unbecoming conduct or incompetence." (Respondent's Brief at 20). Respondent asserts, "The manner in which respondent conducted his classes and dealt with other staff and students . . . " should be claims of inefficiency, not unbecoming conduct or other wrongdoing. (Id. at 21). Accordingly, respondent would be entitled to a ninety-day period to remedy inefficient conduct. Since this did not occur, all charges should be dismissed.

Additionally, respondent argues that the Board failed to meet its burden of proof. It did not inquire into the reasons for Hill's absences. Moreover, many issues, e.g., attendance, hat wearing, and insufficient lesson plans, were documented by only Hill's immediate supervisor, Bligh, and the building principal, Dr. Crespo. Respondent maintains that the allegations lack merit.

Alternatively, respondent argues that dismissal is not an appropriate penalty. Respondent contends that many of the allegations against him "arise from a clear personality conflict between Hill and Bligh." (Id. at 49). Respondent claims that the Board had the opportunity to remedy the situation through an intensive ninety-day improvement plan. Ibid. Respondent also asserts that the matter involves only a two-year period of time in Hill's lengthy career. Therefore, termination is unwarranted. Respondent suggests a penalty such as salary loss during his time of suspension.

DISCUSSION

State law provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Thus, tenured employees are protected "in their employment when they are subjected to unfair or improper attacks or when they are unable to perform effectively because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Maratea, 1966 S.L.D. 77, 106. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing are required under the law to protect tenured teachers from arbitrary dismissal for unfounded or flimsy reasons. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee that may help to explain the situation. In re Romanoli, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

The District has the burden of proof to establish the charges against respondent by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982). Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonable cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958). Where the standard is reasonable probability, that is, preponderance of the evidence, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Proof of the charges against respondent depends in part on the credibility of the witnesses. In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Township v. Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511, 523 (App. Div. 1962). Moreover, the trier of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness and may accept or reject, in whole or in part, the testimony. Application of Howard Sav. Bank, 143 N.J. Super. 1, 9 (App. Div. 1976). One factor to consider in determining which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, biases or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose providence it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

I have carefully considered the testimony and demeanor of the witnesses. "[T]estimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954). I have also considered respondent's claim that the Board presented inconsistent evidence. Some inconsistencies in a witness's testimony do not warrant an automatic discounting of that testimony as incredible. United Stations of N.J. v. Getty Oil Co., 102 N.J. Super. 459, 476 (Ch. Div. 1968). The testimony must be such that the administrative law judge can reasonably conclude that the witness is wholly unworthy of belief. Accordingly, the trier of fact must carefully weigh the evidence before rejecting testimony, even if not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to the circumstances. Dr. Crespo's testimony was straightforward and credible.

The charges against Hill are serious and the penalty sought is severe. Based on the whole of the record, I am persuaded that Hill engaged in the conduct described by the Board.

CONCLUSION

Based on the totality of the evidence, including the arguments presented by the parties, I CONCLUDE that Hill's behavior constituted conduct unbecoming a teacher and unprofessional conduct and fostered a climate of disrespect for his colleagues.

Penalty

The District contends that Hill's conduct warrants dismissal. Factors to be considered in assessing an appropriate penalty include the nature and gravity of the offense, any extenuating or aggravating circumstances, and maintaining discipline and proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 420-22 (App. Div. 1967). Except for the pending charges, Hill's record is unblemished. He received unsatisfactory scores on one performance evaluation.

Respondent's explanations do not account for chronic lateness without notice. The frustration he might have experienced from working with people whom he personally disliked does not excuse unbecoming conduct. Behavior that constitutes unbecoming conduct need not be "predicted upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Indeed, members of the teaching profession hold a sacred position in our society. They have daily contact with our students, molding habits and nurturing young minds. Thus, teachers must be held to a high standard of conduct. Parents, law enforcement officials and the general public expect teachers to impart to students the foundations of "reading, writing and arithmetic" as well as convey social and moral values appropriate to the setting. Clearly, teachers influence the opinions of their pupils and, indeed, teachers are role models. Also, teachers encourage students to set goals and then help to steer them on a path to achieve those goals. Further, teachers are entrusted with the care and custody of school children. Thus, they play a most important role in the community. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99, the Commissioner recognized:

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully . . . violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other severe penalty as set by the Commissioner.

It is essential that teachers avoid conduct that is in violation of the public trust or that creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated. Teachers are expected to exercise self-restraint and control.

Based on the whole of the record, I CONCLUDE that the mitigating factors do not support Hill's continued employment with the Irvington public schools. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the appropriate penalty is removal from his tenured teaching position.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that respondent Carl A. Hill be removed from his teaching position with the Irvington School District and that all of his tenure rights be extinguished.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CARRIE L. BRIGHAM,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF CRIMINAL HISTORY REVIEW,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a teacher at a private high school in Morristown, challenged a determination by the New Jersey Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit (Department) disqualifying her from school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Petitioner contended that her conviction for a violation of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic (FD&C) Act does not constitute a disqualifying offense, as the drug which she pled guilty to mislabeling – gamma hydroxybutyrate , or GHB – was not classified as a controlled substance at the time of her offense.

The ALJ found that: there are no material facts in dispute, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; GHB was not classified as a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) by the federal government until March 2000; petitioner committed her offense three years prior to that date; petitioner's conduct could not have supported a prosecution for a CDS violation in 1997; and petitioner's offense of conspiring to misbrand GHB before or after it was introduced into interstate commerce cannot be construed as substantially equivalent to the possession or distribution of a CDS. The ALJ granted the petitioner's motion for summary decision, concluding that petitioner's violation in 1997 of the FD&C Act regarding GHB is not an offense involving a CDS, and does not constitute a conviction for a substantially equivalent crime or offense.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ, for the reasons fully set forth in the Initial Decision, that petitioner's conviction for conspiracy to violate the FD&C Act does not disqualify her from school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 et seq. and 18A:6-7.1 et seq. In so deciding, the Commissioner stated that under the specific circumstances related to the petitioner's offense, the plain language of statute precludes a finding of disqualification. Accordingly, the Initial Decision – reversing the determination of the Department and finding petitioner qualified for school employment – is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

CARRIE L. BRIGHAM,	:

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF CRIMINAL HISTORY REVIEW,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions of the Department of Education (Department) and petitioner's reply thereto, duly filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

On exception, the Department reiterates its arguments before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as substantially set forth in the Initial Decision. (Department's Exceptions at 1-5) In reply, petitioner objects to the Department's statement that she admitted to "possessing" the drug in question, stressing that – as the Department elsewhere acknowledges – the offense to which she actually admitted was "mislabeling." Additionally, she addresses a case law precedent cited by the Department but not specifically discussed in the Initial Decision,[2] distinguishing the situation in that matter from the one herein. (Petitioner's Reply at 1-3)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner is compelled – for the reasons fully set forth in the Initial Decision – to concur with the ALJ that petitioner's conviction for conspiracy to violate the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic (FD&C) Act does not disqualify her

[1] Although the Department's exceptions were inadvertently addressed to the State Board of Examiners, they were timely filed and promptly redelivered to the Commissioner, as well as properly served on counsel for petitioner.

from school employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 et seq. and 18A:6-7.1 et seq. In so holding, the Commissioner stresses that her determination, like that of the ALJ, is a necessary consequence of the fact that: 1) the drug involved in petitioner's conviction – gamma hydroxybutyrate (GHB)[3] – had not, at the time of her actions, been classified as a "controlled dangerous substance (CDS)" or "controlled substance" under Federal or State law, as it subsequently was; and 2) there is no disqualifying offense in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 that is "substantially equivalent" to petitioner's offense of conspiring to misbrand a drug other than a CDS before or after its introduction into interstate commerce. Under these circumstances, the plain language of the controlling statute precludes a finding of disqualification, notwithstanding the Department's understandable attempt to apply the law in a manner consonant with the Legislature's broader intent and the State's public policy interest in protecting school children.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL – reversing the determination of the Department and finding petitioner qualified for school employment – is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

[3] According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, in the early 1990s, GHB was marketed as a dietary supplement for claimed purposes including inducing sleep, releasing growth hormone, enhancing sexual activity and athletic performance, and relieving depression; it also gained favor as a recreational drug, and was used for date rape because of its intoxicating effects. It is considered highly dangerous, and is – apart from its recently approved usage for strictly limited medical purposes – subject to penalties under the most restrictive schedule of the Controlled Substances Act. Melanie Brookes, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Stuart Rabner, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: March 13, 2007 Decided: March 30, 2007

BEFORE JOSEPH A. PAONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Carrie L. Brigham challenges the determination by respondent New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), Criminal History Review Unit (CHRU), that she is disqualified from school employment due to her conviction for a violation of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic (FD&C) Act, 21 U.S.C. § 301, et seq. Petitioner contends that she has been convicted of neither a disqualifying offense, nor its substantial equivalent.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 13, 2005, the CHRU notified petitioner that a fingerprint search revealed a conviction and, therefore, she was permanently disqualified from employment with any school under the supervision of the DOE. On October 24, 2005, petitioner wrote to the CHRU challenging her disqualification. On January 20, 2006, the CHRU notified petitioner that after a review of documents she submitted in support of her position, the CHRU concluded that petitioner remained disqualified. On February 9, 2006, petitioner filed a verified petition with the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau), and on March 10, 2006, the DOE filed its answer.

On March 23, 2006, the Bureau transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On February 23, 2007, Brigham filed a motion for summary decision and on February 26, 2007, the DOE filed a cross-motion for summary decision. On March 13, 2007, oral arguments were presented on behalf of both parties and the record closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are stipulated by the parties:

1. Petitioner is employed as a high school English teacher at the Morristown Beard School, a private non-sectarian school located in Morristown, New Jersey.

2. Petitioner does not hold a teaching certificate from the State of New Jersey, nor is she required to hold such a certificate by the Morristown Beard School.

3. Petitioner commenced her employment at Morristown Beard in or about September 2005.

4. On or about July 26, 2000, petitioner pled guilty to conspiracy to violate the FD&C Act, 18 U.S.C. 371, which is delineated in Count One of the Information, dated September 28, 1999. (J-1; J-2).

5. By letter dated October 13, 2005, Carl H. Carabelli, manager of the CHRU, notified Brigham that a fingerprint search conducted through the New Jersey State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13, had revealed a disqualifying offense. (J-3).

6. After a period of correspondence between counsel for petitioner and the CHRU regarding the disqualification issue, the CHRU issued a letter dated January 20, 2006, concluding that petitioner would remain disqualified from public school employment, and that this decision could be appealed to the Commissioner of Education. (J-4).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The facts related to this motion are not in dispute. Petitioner admits that she has been convicted in federal court of a violation of the FD&C Act, and as a nonpublic-school employment candidate is subject to the disqualification provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13. The only issue is whether her conviction constitutes a disqualifying offense as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), there are no genuine issues of material fact and, therefore, the matter is ripe for summary decision.

Petitioner was charged in an Information filed on October 1, 1999, by the United States Attorney with conspiracy to violate the FD&C Act, a misdemeanor. (J-2). Count

One alleged that from an unknown date until February 9, 1997, petitioner conspired with another to > [introduce] or [cause] to be introduced into interstate commerce drugs, namely GHB (gamma hydroxybutyrate and gamma hydroxybutyrate acid sodium salt), that were misbranded within the meaning of Title 21, United States Code, Sections 352(b) and 352(f), in violation of Title 21, United States Code, Sections 331(a) and 333(a)(1); and [did] an act to a drug, namely GHB, after shipment of one or more of its components in interstate commerce, which act caused the drug to be misbranded while held for sale within the meaning of Title 21, United States Code, Section 353(b)(1), in violation of Title 21, United States Code, Sections 331(k) and 333(a)(1).

The prosecutor asserted as overt acts that in December 1996, petitioner and her codefendant purchased gamma butyrolactone in Roanoke, Virginia, which her codefendant used to manufacture GHB. In January 1997, petitioner asked her codefendant to send her GHB, which he shipped to her in Massachusetts between January and February 1997.

According to the Information, it was the responsibility of the United States Food and Drug Administration to ensure that drugs, including GHB, "bore labeling containing true and accurate information and adequate directions and warnings for use." Under 21 U.S.C. § 352(f), failure of a label to contain such information, or under 21 U.S.C. § 352(b), failure of a package to bear a label containing the name and place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor and an accurate statement of the quantity of the contents, would deem the drug misbranded. 21 U.S.C. § 331(a) makes it illegal to introduce into interstate commerce such a misbranded drug. And 21 U.S.C. § 331(k) makes it illegal to do any act with respect to a drug if such act was done while the drug was being held for sale after shipment of one or more of its components in interstate commerce and resulted in the drug being misbranded.

Petitioner pled guilty to Count One and faced a maximum penalty of one year of imprisonment and a fine of not more than $1,000. 21 U.S.C. 333(a)(1). On July 26, 2000, petitioner was sentenced in the United States District Court for the Western District of Virginia to two years' probation and fined $500. (J-1). She was also ordered to pay an assessment of $25 and perform 100 hours of community service.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 provides in pertinent part:

> A . . . school . . . under the supervision of the Department of Education . . . shall not employ . . . [a teacher] . . . unless the [school] has first determined . . . that no criminal history record information exists on file in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Identification Division, or the State Bureau of Identification which would disqualify that individual from [employment]. . . .
>
> An individual . . . shall be permanently disqualified from employment . . . if the individual's criminal history record check reveals a record of conviction for . . .
>
> . . . .
> b. An offense involving the manufacture, transportation, sale, possession, distribution or habitual use of a "controlled dangerous substance" as defined in the "Comprehensive Drug Reform Act of 1987," N.J.S. 2C:35-1 et al. or "drug paraphernalia" as defined pursuant to N.J.S. 2C:36-1 et seq.

The disqualification applies also to convictions for conspiracy to commit such offenses. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(3).

If one has been convicted under a similar statute of the United States for a "substantially equivalent crime or other offense," that conviction would have the same disqualifying effect. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(d). As a nonpublic school, the Morristown Beard School may require "final candidates for employment . . . as a teacher . . . to demonstrate that no criminal history record information exists . . . which would disqualify that individual from employment in the public schools of this State . . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13.

Petitioner contends that she merely pled guilty to her involvement in mislabeling GHB, which took place at the latest on February 9, 1997. She did not plead guilty to any offense involving a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Nor could she, because GHB was not classified as a CDS at that time. GHB was added as a CDS in New Jersey on August 19, 1999, L. 1999, c. 186, and was made a Schedule I controlled substance by the Federal Government on March 13, 2000, 65 Fed. Reg. 13235. Petitioner committed her offense three years before GHB was scheduled by the Federal Government as a controlled drug. Petitioner further contends that her conviction for mislabeling a drug in violation of the FD&C Act is not the substantial equivalent of a conviction involving the possession or distribution of a CDS. New Jersey does not have any agency equivalent to the Food and Drug Administration or a statute similar to the FD&C Act. Had petitioner resided in New Jersey at the time she committed her offense involving GHB, she could not have been charged by the State with any offense.

The DOE concedes that at the time petitioner committed her offense, GHB was not a CDS. The DOE argues, however, that whether an offense constitutes a disqualifying CDS offense is determined at the time the CHRU conducts its criminal history record check. Since on September 2005, the date of the criminal history record check, GHB was a CDS and its possession constituted a disqualifying offense pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, the DOE argues that petitioner's offense in 1997 disqualifies her from employment. In support of its position, the DOE relies on Cidoni v. Camden Board of Education, EDU 6088-03, Initial Decision (January 11, 2006), adopted, Comm'r (February 27, 2006) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, and Nunez v. Department of Education, EDU 3689-02, Initial Decision (January 5, 2005), rejected and remanded, Comm'r (May 26, 2005) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. The Commissioner in Cidoni reiterated the principle enunciated in Nunez that "any application for criminal history record check received by the Department must be reviewed and effectuated based upon the standards of law then in effect." Cidoni, supra, EDU 6088-03, Comm'r (February 27, 2006) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

Respondent's reliance on Cidoni and Nunez is misplaced. In Cidoni, no record check was performed in 1991 when Cidoni became employed by the school district. A 2003 background check revealed his 1984 conviction for carrying a firearm without a license. Cidoni asserted that the amended version of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 should not apply to him because his conviction would not have constituted a disqualifying offense in 1991, when a prior version of the statute was in effect. He argued that he should be subject to the earlier version of the criminal record check statute. In Nunez, the petitioner had been convicted of the sale of a CDS in 1984. He was hired by a school district in March 1998. Prior to June 1998, an applicant would not be disqualified if he demonstrated his rehabilitation to the Commissioner by clear and convincing evidence. Because no criminal review records could be found in Nunez's personnel file, another criminal history check was conducted in 2001, after the provision allowing for the showing of rehabilitation had been repealed. Nunez similarly argued that he should be subject to only the earlier version of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

Brigham is not arguing, as the school-employment applicants in Cidoni and Nunez had, that the criminal history record check provision contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 has changed and become more onerous, and urging a retroactive application of that statute. Instead, she contends that the law governing the conduct in 1997 for which she was convicted has since expanded. Petitioner's conduct never could have supported a prosecution for a CDS violation in 1997. Accordingly, Cidoni and Nunez are inapposite.

In the alternative, respondent urges that since petitioner's conviction was entered on July 26, 2000, after GHB was scheduled as a CDS by both the State of New Jersey and the Federal Government, she must be disqualified. The date petitioner's conviction was entered, however, cannot change the fact that petitioner's conduct did not constitute a disqualifying CDS offense in 1997.

Petitioner cannot be held accountable for a CDS offense that did not exist at the time she conspired to misbrand GHB. She could only be liable, as she was, for the FD&C Act violation. Had N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 been amended and provided that the possession of GHB constitutes a disqualifying offense, respondent's argument would be more compelling. But I cannot conclude that petitioner's offense of conspiring to misbrand GHB before or after it was introduced into interstate commerce is substantially equivalent to the possession or distribution of a CDS. In order to do that, I would have to consider GHB a CDS at a time when neither the Federal Government nor the State of New Jersey had. Accordingly, I must CONCLUDE that petitioner's violation in 1997 of the FD&C Act regarding GHB is not an offense involving a CDS. Nor does it constitute a conviction for a substantially equivalent crime or offense.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that petitioner's motion for summary decision that her conviction for conspiracy to violate the FD&C Act is not a disqualifying offense is GRANTED. I further ORDER that respondent's motion for summary decision is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

On January 6, 2006 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was initially scheduled for hearing on August 10 & 11, 2006 but the dates were adjourned and rescheduled to October 18 & 19, 2007 because Respondent's witnesses were not available. On September 21, 2006, respondent's counsel notified the undersigned that he had a scheduling conflict for the October hearing dates and requested that the matter be adjourned. The undersigned subsequently rescheduled the matter for January 10 & 11, 2007. On January 9, 2007, the parties notified the undersigned that the matter had been settled in principal subject to Board approval. The Board approved the settlement on January 29, 2007 and a signed Stipulation of Dismissal was forwarded to the OAL on March 27, 2007. A copy of the Stipulation of Dismissal is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the Stipulation of Dismissal and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the dismissal as evidenced by the Signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The dismissal fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the dismissal meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contended that respondent Board's mandatory school uniform policy was adopted in violation of the statutory requirement for parental request, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8. Petitioner sought to postpone implementation of the policy pending the results of an updated and independently audited parent survey which would be made available to the public.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the respondent Board adopted a policy for student school uniforms pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8; parents, staff, and the student body were kept informed prior to adoption of the policy; a majority of parents/guardians and staff members were in favor of uniforms; the Board met statutory terms and conditions in adopting its uniform policy; petitioner failed to carry her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the adopted policy was in violation of statutory provisions. The ALJ concluded that the action of the Board should stand, and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner failed to meet her burden, and further found that there has been no showing that the respondent acted arbitrarily or unreasonably in the course of establishing its policy requiring school uniforms. Accordingly, the Commissioner dismissed the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were received from the parties.

For the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner failed to meet her burden to prove that the respondent school board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8. The Commissioner further finds that there has been no showing that the respondent acted arbitrarily or unreasonably in the course of considering, researching, planning, presenting, and implementing its policy requiring school uniforms.

Accordingly, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

AGENCY REF. NO. 293-8/06

EDNA DARE,
Petitioner,
v.
CITY OF SALEM BOARD OF EDUCATION, SALEM COUNTY,
Respondent

Edna Dare, petitioner, pro se
Roger A. Barbour, Esq., for respondent (Barbour and Barbour, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 25, 2007 Decided: February 28, 2007

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ, T/A

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner contends that the policy adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Salem (Board) mandating that all pupils in attendance in its schools wear an approved uniform was adopted in violation of the statutory requirement for parental request, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8. Petitioner seeks to postpone the incorporation of the Board's policy pending the results of an updated parental survey and that the survey be independently audited and made available to the public.

The Board admits it adopted a school uniform policy subsequent to its having conducted a survey of parents and staff members, in accordance with the requirement of state law, and denies that it in any way violated any law or regulation.

The Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The hearing was held on January 25, 2007, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on January 25, 2007.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

This matter arises out of a petition of appeal by petitioner, Edna Dare, as a consequence of the Board having adopted a policy requiring all pupils attending its public schools to wear approved uniforms during the school day. Petitioner seeks to have the Commissioner issue a stay of the implementation of the policy pending an independent audited parent survey.

Petitioner testified on her own behalf and offered, among other things, a series of documents in support of her position. The first of which is a letter dated April 12, 2004, where the Board addressed it to all parents and guardians of students attending its public schools, which states, in part, as follows:

> A safe and disciplined learning environment is the first requirement of a good school. Every school is in essence a learning institution. That which aids learning is acceptable and that which hinders it is unacceptable. Students who are safe and secure, who learn the basics of society and the essential values of good citizenship are better students. Many public schools are turning to school uniforms. They range from formal to the informal. For the most part, it's an outfit made up of khakis and knit shirts of varying colors. The Salem City School District is considering the adoption of school uniforms. We realize parental support is critical for success. Please read below the list of pros and cons of > school uniforms. As you read through the list will become evident that the pros far outweigh the cons (P-3).

The letter, dated April 12, 2004, contains a list of ten pro statements and six con statement (P-3). Attached is a survey, dated April 22, 2004, which asks three questions to be answered by students:

> 1. Do you feel you need to wear name-brand clothing to fit in?
>
> For Example: Fubu – Nike – Tommie Jean – Lee – Levis
>
> _____Yes ___No
>
> 2. Has anyone ever made fun of your clothes?
>
> _____Yes ___No
>
> 3. Would you be willing to wear a school uniform to avoid peer pressure, teasing, arguing with your parent on what to wear, etc?
>
> ____Yes ___No

Petitioner offered a letter, dated April 22, 2004, where the Board surveyed the parents/guardians, and asked them to answer a question concerning school uniforms:

> Would you be willing to have your child(ren) wear a school uniform starting next year? A uniform generally consists of khaki slacks, shorts or skirts and a knit shirt. The cost of one uniform, which includes a shirt and a pair of pants, would be approximately $15. The uniforms may be purchased from JC Penney's, Wal-Mart and Target.
>
> Directions: Please place a check on the line below that best reflects your feelings.
>
> _____Yes, I would be willing to have my child(ren) wear a school uniform starting next year. I understand that the cost of one uniform, which includes a shirt and a pair of pants would be approximately $15.

_____No, I would not be willing to have my child(ren) wear a school uniform next year.

Why?_____

The survey continued to request the family name, the child's name and grade, together with the parent's signature (P-3). There also included a survey of teachers, which asked whether or not the teacher favored school uniforms (P-3).

Petitioner's Exhibit P-3, contains the survey results of the Board's John Fenwick School with respect to the use of school uniforms, which is shown as follows:

Parent – Yes – 209

Parent – No – 51

Student – Yes – 140

Student – No – 117

Teacher – Yes – 19 For Self

Teacher – No – 35 For Self

Teacher – Yes – 51 For Students

Teacher – No – 3 For Students (P-3)

Petitioner offered the results of the survey, by way of the Interoffice Memorandum addressed to the Superintendent of Schools, dated June 4, 2004, and are shown as follows:

95 parents responded with 67% in favor of student uniforms, 21% against, and 12% undecided.

48 teachers responded with 96% in favor and 4% against student uniforms. The 48 teachers voted 67% in favor of teachers wearing uniforms, with 29% against and 4% undecided.

347 students responded with 27% willing to wear student uniforms and 73% against (P-3).

Petitioner referred to a newspaper article dated June 6, 2004, where, among other things, she observed that the Salem High School Principa Gregory Dunham is quoted as stating that he was not a proponent of uniforms for high school students and did not think the policy would be instituted next year (P-4). Petitioner cited a subsequent newspaper article, dated August 28, 2006, which, among other things, included a report of the Board meeting where the policy for school uniforms was adopted by the Board by a vote of seven in favor to four against (P-5). Attached thereto, is the e-mail, dated August 29, 2006, from petitioner addressed to Superintendent of Schools Nicolosi, with a courtesy copy addressed to Principal Dunham, wherein petitioner referred to the Board meeting at which the Board adopted the student uniform policy. In petitioner's e-mail to the Superintendent, petitioner opines, among other things, that she appreciated that everyone had the opportunity to be heard at the Board meeting, however, she perceived that the Board had already made up its mind about the student uniforms and that the meeting was a waste of time. Petitioner continued to state she had done some research concerning the Quinton school district (which had adopted a student uniform policy) and reported that the "GEPA performance in Language Arts, Math and Science Advanced Proficient was better in 1999-2000 without uniforms than it was in 2004-2005 with uniforms." (P-5) Petitioner continued to opine, among other things, that the results were definitely not "concrete evidence in favor of uniforms in schools" as stated by Dr. Agnew (P-5).

Petitioner offered a newspaper article, dated November 13, 2006 (P-6), where petitioner highlighted certain portions of the article. The highlighted sections read as follows:

> . . .According to Superintendent Margaret Nicolosi, the rules were not enforced in September and October as a way to ease students into the process of wearing a uniform to school each day.
> . . .Initial success was observed at the start of the school year at Salem High School, but as the weeks went by students started to revert back to their pre-uniform wardrobes.

> ...We had a lot of students in the high school wearing uniforms at the start of the school year, Nicolosi said. "But as the year went by and more students saw their peers stop wearing the uniforms, participation in the policy waned.
> . . .Despite the complaints, the board of education members adopted the policy by a vote of seven to four. (P-6)

Petitioner observed that the Board adopted the school uniform policy three years after it surveyed the parents, students and teachers. Petitioner contends that the delay in implementing the policy makes it invalid. Petitioner asserts there is no evidence to prove that the student uniform policy will result in improved student behavior. Petitioner contends, moreover, that the high school principal and the present parents of high school students now do not support the policy.

Superintendent of Schools Margaret J. Nicolosi testified on behalf of respondent concerning the August 2006 Board meeting where the student uniform policy was adopted. Superintendent Nicolosi asserted that fewer than ten percent of the adult school population appeared at the August meeting. She opined that supporters of Board actions generally do not appear at Board of Education meetings. Superintendent Nicolosi testified that the enrollment for the Salem City Schools was 1,400 students with 250 receiving students from other school districts.

Superintendent Nicolosi testified that the letter in petitioner's exhibit P-3 was sent to all parents, teachers and students representing each of the three schools in the district. She reiterated the tabulation of the responses to the survey as indicated above by petitioner's testimony and the exhibit at pages 5, 6, and 7 of P-3 in evidence. She asserted that the wearing of school uniforms does not take away a student's choice. Rather, she testified, there is a combination of four different color choices the student can make and comply with the school uniform policy.

Superintendent Nicolosi testified that she contacted the superintendents of the school districts of Quinton, Pennsgrove and Bridgeton where each board of education adopted student uniform policies. The Bridgeton Board of Education conducted a pilot program two years ago and now has phased in its school uniform policy. The Quinton student uniform policy has been in operation for five or six years and it was reported to Ms. Nicolosi that student discipline decreased and the number of students on the honor roll increased. It was reported to her by the Quinton Superintendent of Schools that the parents had some initial concerns; however, the parents now have accepted the policy. The Pennsgrove school district has had its student uniform policy in operation for four years. She testified, among other things, that a committee composed of parents, staff members and students, engaged in long-range planning and favored the student uniform policy.

Superintendent Nicolosi testified that the student uniform policy was introduced at the regular Board Meeting held on July 12, 2006, where the first reading of the policy was approved by roll call vote of seven in favor with none opposed. However, there was one board member who voted "no" concerning student uniforms for high school students (R-5). On July 20, 2006, the Superintendent caused a letter to be sent to all parents/guardians of pupils in the school district, advising that the Board's "Uniform Policy" had been approved on its first reading. The letter also advised parents/guardians that a meeting was to be held on August 9, 2006, to solicit comments concerning the policy and prior to the second reading for the adoption of the school uniform policy (R-3). Enclosed with the letter (R-3), the Superintendent provided the parents/guardians with a copy of the proposed School Uniform policy, which, in six pages, detailed the rules and regulations (R-4). Subsequent to the meeting soliciting public comment, the second reading of the policy was held at the regular Board meeting held on August 9, 2006, where the recorded roll call vote of the eleven board members was seven in favor and four opposed (R-1).

In September 2006, the principal of the John Fenwick School sent all to of the parents of students attending the school, the Parent Handbook, which included the following: General Policy and Procedures; Attendance Policy, Protocol for Complaints, Clothing Concerns for Students, Arrival/Dismissal Procedures, Discipline Policies – Preschool & K-2; School Calendar; and the New Uniform Policy. Each parent/guardian was required to acknowledge receipt of the document with a signature, to be returned to the student's classroom teacher (R-7).

The Board's adopted School Uniform policy was distributed to all parents attending the "Back-to-School" night held on September 21, 2006 (R-9)

Superintendent Nicholosi testified that, although no Board funds are expended, it assists disadvantage students to acquire school uniforms through private donations and contributions. She asserted that the Board has the support of the parents and that while high school principal Dunham did not support the use of school uniforms three years ago, he now supports the policy.

Superintendent Nicholosi admitted there was some minor resistance to the school uniform policy. She asserted that when a violation of the policy occurs, the student is directed to the school principal's office where the student telephones his/her parent to ask that the parent bring the approved uniform to the school. If the change of clothes does not occur, the student is either sent home or assigned to detention. She also testified that fewer than twenty-five students did not wear the approved uniforms on "Senior Cut-Day." Here again, the parents were called to bring the approved uniforms to school.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having considered the testimony of the witnesses and carefully reviewed the documents in evidence, and having given fair weight thereto, I FIND the following FACTS:

The hearing record demonstrates that between April 12 and April 22, 2004, the Board conducted a survey of parents, students and staff concerning the use of student uniforms in its schools (P-3). The results of the survey shows that a majority of the parents/guardians and teaching staff members were in favor of uniforms while the student body was generally opposed (P-3).

Salem City School Superintendent Margaret Nioclosi surveyed other school administrators where boards of education had adopted student school uniform policies and was advised that the policies had met with success. The Quinton Superintendent reported that subsequent to its board of education approval of the uniform policy, student discipline had decreased and its honor roll had increased.

The Board held its first reading of the School Uniform Policy on July 12, 2006, where it was approved for the 2006-2007 school year by a vote of seven to zero, with one board member opposing uniforms for high school students. (R-5)

Superintendent Nicolosi testified that the committee composed of parents and professional staff members studied long-range plans for the school district and favored a policy for student school uniforms (P-3)

Prior to the second reading adopting the school uniform policy, the Superintendent sent a copy of the proposed policy, dated July 20, 2006, to all parents and guardians of students enrolled in the Salem public schools. In addition to the proposed policy, the Superintendent also advised the parents and guardians that a public hearing would be held on August 9, 2006, to solicit comments, prior to the Board meeting at which the second reading of the policy would occur (R-3).

The various school principals kept the parents, staff member and students advised of the policy through letters and a copy of the policy (R-3), a Parent Handbook (R-7), and letters to parents/guardians (R-8).

The second reading, adopting the Board policy, was held on August 9, 2006. The roll call vote approving the policy was seven votes in favor of the policy and four votes opposed to the policy (R-1). The school uniform policy became fully effective on November 13, 2006

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, the general mandatory powers and duties, the board of education shall, among other things:

> c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees, subject, where applicable, to the provisions of Title 11, Civil Service, of the Revised Statutes; and
> d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

Pursuant thereto, the herein Board has adopted a policy for student school uniforms under the statutory provisions found at N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8, which provides, as follows:

> a. A board of education may adopt a dress code policy to require that students wear a school uniform if the policy is requested by the principal, staff and parents of an individual school and if the board determines that the policy will enhance the school learning environment. Any policy adopted which requires the wearing of a uniform shall include a provision to assist economically disadvantaged students. The board shall hold a public hearing prior to the adoption of the policy and shall not implement the policy with less than three months' notice to the parents or guardians of the students. The specific uniform selected shall be determined by the principal, staff, and parents of the individual school.
> b. The board of education may provide a method whereby parents may choose not to comply with an adopted school uniform policy. If the board provides such a method, a student shall not be penalized academically or otherwise discriminated against nor denied admittance to school if the student's parents choose not to comply with the school uniform policy.
>
> c. A dress code policy adopted pursuant to this section shall not preclude students who participate in a nationally recognized youth organization which is approved by the board of education from wearing organization uniforms to > school on days that the organization has scheduled a meeting.

Pursuant to the above statutory provisions, the Board adopted its school dress code policy mandating the wearing of approved uniforms by the students attending its public schools. The record clearly demonstrates the Board kept the parents, staff and student body informed prior to the Board's adoption of its policy. The hearing record demonstrates that a majority of parent/guardians and staff members favored a dress code and the wearing of student uniforms. The record also shows that there are a variety of dress options available to the students. In addition, those financially disadvantaged students will have their uniforms provided to them, without cost to the school district.

Petitioner contends that the policy is void due the lapse of time between the survey of parents, students and staff members and the adoption of the dress code policy. The statute, however, does address the issue of a time between the consent of the school-community and the approval by a board of education to mandate a student dress code. The statute is clear where it requires the "...board shall hold a public hearing prior to the adoption of the policy and shall not implement the policy with less than three month's notice to the parents or guardians...." N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8 a. (emphasis added). Thus, the Board has met the terms and conditions of the statute and, therefore, its adoption should stand.

Having carefully considered the testimony of the witnesses and the documents in evidence, I CONCLUDE that the action of the Salem City Board of Education, in adopting its Student Uniform Policy, is pursuant to the statutory provisions found at N.J.S.A.18A:11-8. I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to carry her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the adopted policy was in violation of the statutory provisions. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the action of the Board should stand and that the herein Petition of Appeal be DISMISSED.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

CAROL ANN MOORE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
AND	:
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CAROL ANN MOORE, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement together with the resolution of the Board approving the settlement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon such review, although the Initial Decision does not address the applicable standard for acceptance of settlements in tenure matters, the Commissioner finds that the instant settlement is, in fact, consistent with such standard. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

[1] Although there is no indication in the record that these matters were formally consolidated at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), consolidation was suggested in the agency's transmittal instructions; the two matters appear to have proceeded at the OAL as if consolidated from the outset, and the parties' proposed settlement agreement pertains to both matters and was presented to the Commissioner through a single Initial Decision. The Commissioner, therefore, finds it appropriate to review this matter for final agency decision as a consolidated case.

In so holding, the Commissioner is fully mindful of the distressing allegations raised against respondent in the tenure matter. However, in the case of charges alleging use of racial slurs and profanity in the presence of students, the Commissioner cannot compel the Board to litigate such charges under the circumstances set forth in the settlement agreement at Paragraph 3D, which cast serious doubt on the Board's ability to prove the charges true; and in the case of respondent's distribution of inappropriate material to a 12th grade literature class, the Commissioner is satisfied that the penalty imposed by the settlement agreement – withholding of an increment and forfeiture of the 120 days of salary withheld during the tenure proceeding pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 – is consonant with penalties imposed for similar conduct in other tenure matters, particularly in a case such as this where the parties have stipulated that respondent's record is otherwise unblemished. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Adelphia Poston, School District of the City of Orange Township, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner October 19, 2006, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barbara Emri, School District of the Township of Evesham, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner October 21, 2002, affirmed by the State Board December 3, 2003, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Motley, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner August 4, 1999; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Allegretti, School District of the City of Trenton, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 2000; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of George Mamunes, Pascack Valley Regional School District, decided by the Commissioner June 26, 2000.

Moreover, the Commissioner is mindful of respondent's decision to cease employment in the district on June 30, 2007 for reasons unrelated to the tenure charges. In this regard, the Commissioner concurs that – under the circumstances – the present matter is not appropriate for referral to the State Board of Examiners by the school district or the Commissioner for suspension or revocation of respondent's certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.4 or N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)1. However, the Commissioner also reminds the parties that her decision and its underlying record are public documents, and that acceptance of the parties' agreement by the Commissioner cannot circumscribe the authority of the Board of Examiners to act independent of such referral, should it so wish, nor obviate the district's responsibility to cooperate with the Board in that eventuality.

Accordingly, for the reasons – and with the proviso – set forth above, the proposed settlement is approved, and this matter is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

These matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 15, 2006 and October 19, 2006, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1). Upon receipt of the Trenton Board of Education Resolution on April 4, 2007, the hearing record closed.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY	BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NOS. EDU 08330-2006S AND EDU 06733-2006S AGENCY DOCKET NOS. 351-9/06 AND 291-8/06 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to these matters, the Trenton Board of Education ("Board") and Carol Ann Moore ("Ms. Moore"), having reached an agreement to resolve the within matters, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms and conditions as their settlement agreement.

1. The parties agree that their agreement to this agreement and its validity is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education of all of the terms of this agreement, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and that in such event, neither parties' position in relation to the tenure charge or the petition of appeal challenging the increment withholding shall be prejudiced and the matters shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for hearings in relation to the tenure charge and petition of appeal challenging the increment withholding, provided that nothing in this paragraph or in this agreement shall, in such event, preclude the parties from agreeing to a new, revised or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the Commissioner of Education's approval of all of the terms of this agreement, the Board shall withdraw the tenure charge and Ms. Moore shall withdraw her petition challenging the Board's withholding of her increment.

3. Rationale for Settlement

A. On or about September 15, 2006, Ms. Moore filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education against the Board. On or about October 19, 2006, the Board filed the tenure charge with the Commissioner of Education against Ms. Moore.

B. The petition alleges that the Board's withholding of Ms. Moore's employment and adjustment increments for the 2006-2007 school year was arbitrary and capricious, and thus in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, because the Board provided no reasons, including any written reasons, to Ms. Moore to take such action; and that if any purported reasons were provided by the Board, those reasons would be arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable under the law.

C. The tenure charge alleges that during the 2004-2005 school year, Ms. Moore distributed material authored by her students to her World Literature students who were 12th grade seniors which contained inappropriate language, and that during the 2005-2006 school year, the Board received some complaints by her students and their guardians regarding Ms. Moore's conduct in the classroom, specifically the use of racial slurs, profane language, and an argumentative behavior towards her students which disrupted the learning environment in her classroom.

D. In the course of their investigation and discovery in the case, information was exchanged between the parties which demonstrates to the Board's satisfaction that the Board can rely only on a few students, essentially from one class that Ms. Moore taught during the 2005-2006 school year, in order to present the allegations in the tenure charge that Ms. Moore used racial and profane language, or inappropriately handled a student in her classroom. The Board further understands that Ms. Moore denies that she engaged in the conduct referred to in the written statements provided by those students, and realizes that Ms. Moore will present statements and/or testimony from other students she taught during the 2005-2006 school year to dispute the statements made about her classroom behavior from those students, and from herself.

E. In the course of their investigation and discovery in the case, information was exchanged between the parties which has demonstrated to Ms. Moore's satisfaction that it is likely that the Board can prove the allegation that Ms. Moore distributed material authored by her students to her World Literature students which contained inappropriate language, but that the Board understands that Ms. Moore made an inadvertent error by not checking the materials that were collated by her students and distributed to those students.

F. Both parties acknowledge that this settlement agreement is based upon their analysis and understanding of the evidence which would be proffered at the hearing, that these conclusions appear to be probable, but cannot be stated with certainty, and that in the event that this settlement agreement is not approved and the matters proceed to a hearing, neither this agreement nor anything in this agreement shall be admissible in evidence, and that neither party will be deemed to have admitted or conceded any of the contents of or the statements in paragraph 3 (D) or (E) of this agreement, or in any other paragraph in this agreement.

G. The Board is aware of the public interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges to assure that unqualified persons do not teach in the public schools in New Jersey. However, upon review of all the circumstances, which includes evaluation of the time and expense of pursuing tenure charges, the uncertainty of the result which might be obtained, both in terms of sustaining the charges and the penalty which might be imposed, Ms. Moore's tenured service in the district, and in all other respects favorable record, the Board believes and Ms. Moore concurs that it is in the best interests of all parties and the public to resolve these matters by this settlement agreement.

4. The parties agree that the acts or omissions engaged in by Ms. Moore as referred to in paragraph 3 above may be deemed to constitute conduct unbecoming and were sufficient to warrant the filing of the tenure charge, but not her removal, and that the appropriate penalty for Ms. Moore in these circumstances is the withholding of Ms. Moore's employment and adjustment increments for the 2005-2006 school year, and the suspension without pay for one hundred and twenty (120) days, penalties which have already been imposed on and served by Ms. Moore as a result of the tenure charge.

5. The parties further agree that the Board will reinstate Ms. Moore to an employment position and pay her salary through June 30, 2007, and with all benefits and emoluments, including, but not limited to, health insurance benefits, through June 30, 2007. In addition, upon leaving her employment, the Board will provide Ms. Moore with a positive letter of reference and incorporate such letter of reference in her personnel file.

6. By settling these matters, Ms. Moore acknowledges that she is waiving her right to hearings before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which she could seek an adjudication on the merits of the petition challenging the increment withholding and the tenure charge, and on the penalty, if any, if the tenure charge is sustained. Ms. Moore further acknowledges that she understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and is satisfied with the legal representation that she received in this matter.

7. The parties understand that as a result of personal circumstances unrelated to the tenure charge, Ms. Moore will not return to employment with the Board after June 30, 2007, instead choosing to seek other employment opportunities, and has so advised the Board. The parties further agree that the appropriate penalty for Ms. Moore's acts or omissions is as set forth in paragraphs four (4) and five (5) above, and that Ms. Moore's determination not to return to employment after June 30, 2007 does not constitute part of the consideration for this agreement, and is not as the result of the tenure charge.

8. As per paragraph seven (7) above, the parties expressly agree that neither the tenure charge nor the settlement thereof shall be deemed to have resulted in Ms. Moore's loss of her tenured position, that the facts do not warrant suspension or revocation of Ms. Moore's certificate, and that in these circumstances, that the tenure matter is not appropriate for transmittal or referral to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:9-17.4 or under any other statute or regulation, and will not be referred to the State Board of Examiners by the Commissioner of Education, and the Commissioner accepts this agreement, and will not refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners.

9. The parties agree that in the event that the Commissioner of Education does not accept paragraph eight (8) or any paragraph of this settlement agreement, this settlement agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matters shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for hearings without prejudice to either parties' position.

10. The Board has approved the terms of this settlement agreement as acknowledged by the attached resolution.

ROSALIE SCIARRINO,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,

Respondent.

Michael T. Barrett, Esq., for petitioner (Bergman & Barrett, attorneys)

Karen A. Murray, Esq., for respondent (The Murray Law Firm, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 17, 2007 Decided: April 19, 2007

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

On May 7, 2003 the petitioner, Rosalie Sciarrino, filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the action of the respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (the Board), charging petitioner with sick days for a work-related injury violated N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. On May 14, 2003, the Board filed an Answer to the Verified Petition. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on June 3, 2003, it was filed for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was originally assigned to Thomas E. Clancy, ALJ. Subsequently, the matter was re-assigned to the undersigned on February 5, 2007. By letter dated March 21, 2007, counsel for the Board advised the undersigned that a settlement had been reached. Thereafter, under letter dated April 16, 2007, counsel for the Board submitted the attached Settlement Agreement and Resolution of the Board reflecting the Board's agreement to accept the Settlement Agreement.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Petitioner ROSALIE SCIARRINO (R.S.) hereby agrees, with the Respondent, the ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION (the "Board"), to settle the above-referenced matter as follows:

1. Respondent shall credit Petitioner, R.S., a total of thirty-five (35) sick days. This credit represents the reinstatement of the sick days Petitioner utilized on February 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 21, 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28, 2003 and March 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28 and 31, 2003.

2. The parties agree that this Settlement shall not constitute any admissions relative to this case by either party.

3. Petitioner, R.S., agrees that this Settlement resolves any and all claims that she had, or may have had against Respondent relative to Petitioner's injuries that occurred on or about October 22, 2002.

4. Petitioner, R.S., agrees to waive any rights she had or may have had to file any other grievance, complaint, petition or charge in any court of law or administrative agency, including but not limited to the Commissioner of Education; Division of Worker's Compensation; Office of Administrative Law; the Public Employment Relations Commission, etc., relative to any issues or potential issues that arose or could have arisen during the time period that Petitioner incurred and was treated for injuries that occurred in October 2002.

5. Petitioner, R.S., hereby waives any claims for compensatory damages, interest, attorney fees, costs of suit and/or any other forms of relief in relation to the injuries that occurred in October 2002.

6. Petitioner, R.S., agrees that she has entered into this Settlement Agreement voluntarily and without coercion.

7. Petitioner, R.S., agrees that she has been fully and fairly represented by legal counsel throughout this proceeding.

8. All parties mutually agree to accept the terms contained in this Settlement.

9. This agreement shall not be precedential with respect to any similar claims raised against the Elizabeth Board of Education by the Elizabeth Education Association and/or any of their members.

10. All parties agree and acknowledge that the Settlement Agreement herein embodies the parties' full understanding of the terms of the parties' Settlement and constitutes a full and final resolution, with prejudice, of the case referenced herein.

11. This Settlement Agreement may only be modified in writing signed by all the parties.

12. All parties hereby agree that the terms of this Settlement are binding upon all parties, their heirs and their assigns.

T.B.M, ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.M.,
Petitioner,

v.

MOORESTOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Louis N. Caggiano, Esq., for petitioner

Arthur Risden, Esq., for respondent (Archer & Greiner, attorneys)

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

T.B.M. on behalf of minor child M.M. (petitioner) asserts that her son's punishment, including the removal from an Honors class at Moorestown High School (School) for plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads is arbitrary, and capricious. The Moorestown Board of Education (Board) asserts that more than twenty students were found to have been involved in plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads from the school internet site, and the punishments for such behavior are set forth in the student handbook and are not arbitrary and capricious.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 3, 2007, Petitioner filed an application for emergent relief with the Commissioner of Education. The application stated the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by imposing the punishment on her son, including the removal of her son from the Honors program and a two-day in school suspension.

On May 4, 2007, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the requested emergent relief on May 9, 2007. On that date, petitioner requested a brief adjournment to obtain counsel. On May 11, 2007, the case was heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township) and the record closed on that date.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

M.M. is a ninth grade Moorestown student who was enrolled in the Honors Computer Assisted Drafting 1 course (CAD 1) during the current academic school year.

On or about March 1, 2007, the school became aware of potentially widespread cheating in the CAD 1 class. The School began an investigation to determine the full extent of the cheating in the CAD I class, as well as what steps need to be implemented to prevent this type of situation in the future (R-1). The Moorestown Student Handbook provides that plagiarism will not be tolerated in any schoolwork, and it will result in the loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions, and/or loss of credit for the course (R-2). The Moorestown's Acceptable Use Agreement and Policy No. 6142.10 specifically provides that users will respect the rights of others by complying with all school district policies regarding plagiarism (R-5).

The Administration presented the students in CAD I with the opportunity to come forward to admit to any violations of policies and guidelines, and indicated that students who came forward would be disciplined, but more leniently than those who did not come forward (R-1, R-7, R-8).

On March 9, 2007, M.M. submitted a written admission that he had copied a project from another student although he was "not sure which" one (R-6). M.M. was one of twenty-one students who came forward.

The School determined that students who came forward would be treated with leniency, when compared to the traditional consequences for plagiarism. Although the students who came forward faced the same discipline, the school alleges each student was considered individually, and special accommodations were offered, when appropriate, such as for special education students and senior students. Specifically, the students were afforded safeguards regarding credit, the ability to retake the course, and counseling on how to handle questions about the incident during the college admission process, if asked (R-1, R-7, R-8).

Based on his admission, M.M. was charged with possession of a file that was determined to be the work of another student, the use of a computer file that was the work of another student, defined as plagiarism, and/or the possession of an executable gaming file that was identified as an unauthorized download.

As a result of these charges, M.M. received an administrative withdrawal from CAD I, with a final grade of W (Withdraw), suspension of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007, a two-day in-school suspension, and ten social probation points. Customarily, such conduct would result in an academic withdrawal with a final grade of WF (Withdraw-Fail), which impacts the G.P.A., suspension of MooreNet privileges for the remainder of the school year, a five day out-of-school suspension, and twenty-five social probation points (R-7).

Any student who came forward, including MM., was afforded special safeguards, including the ability to maintain sufficient credits for the current year, despite the loss of five CAD I credits, the ability to retake CAD I, and discussions with parents regarding how a student should handle questions about the plagiarism suspension during the college admission process, if asked (R-1, R-7, R-8).

The preceding information has not been disputed or contradicted by the parties, and is found as fact.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The standards which must be met by the moving party in an application for emergent relief in a matter concerning a special needs child are embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m)1, N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1, and Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Emergency relief may only be granted if the judge determines that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

Petitioner argues that M.M. will suffer irreparable harm because he will not be able to catch-up in the CAD I class unless he is reinstated immediately; he will not be able to attend all of the classes available in the architecture/engineering field if he has to take CAD I next year; that he will not earn enough credits upon completing the ninth grade; and, that he will have a difficult time explaining to colleges and universities why he withdrew from CAD I. Although Petitioner may sincerely believe M.M. will suffer some or all of these problems if the alleged harm is not reinstated in CAD I, M.M. will have the opportunity to take CAD I next year. There was also an allegation that the withdrawal would affect his grade point average, however the testimony was clear that this would only be a withdrawal without a failure and not affect his average. Although the petitioners certainly raise important arguments as to the effect of this action on the possible effects on college admission and the ability to take future honors course, M.M.

is only a freshman. Any effect on future classes or college admission is only speculative. There is no guarantee if reinstated that M.M. would be able to complete the CAD 1 program. Therefore, I FIND the petitioners have been unable to meet their burden that M.M will suffer irreparable harm if this relief is not granted.

Student's choice in specific courses, curriculum materials, assignments, and teachers are matters of educational policy and not constitutional rights. J.L. and J.E.H. o/b/o T.H.I. v. Board of Education of the Hopewell Valley Regional School District, EDU 2658-99, Initial Decision (August 20, 1999, adopted, Commissioner of Education (October 18, 1999), and, adopted, State Board of Education (February 2, 2000). The determination of placement, suspension, or withdrawal from an Honors course is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm.

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. The School has clearly established a policy that does not tolerate plagiarism and any students found to violate that policy will face loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions and/or loss of credit for a course. As a result, I FIND that Respondent's actions in applying its policy to withdrawal from CAD I, with a final grade of W (Withdraw); suspend of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007; suspend M.M. in-school for two days; and assess ten social probation points due to his conduct cannot be disturbed. Consequently, I further FIND it unlikely that the Petitioners would have prevailed on the merits.

Petitioner cites N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) in reliance of her position that the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) provides that a code of conduct shall be created:

> Establish parameters for school responses to violations of the code of student conduct that take into account, at a minimum, the severity of the offenses, the developmental ages of the student offenders and students' histories of inappropriate behavior.

Petitioner alleges that Moorestown failed to take into account these standards. The School asserts that they did, including his status as a freshman and lack of a disciplinary record. Petitioners further argues that this incident constitutes misuse of technology equipment, which is disciplined as a Level C offense (R-3). Petitioner further argues that that the first offense for a Level C offense is one Saturday suspension (R-4), and the penalties imposed on M.M. are in far excess of what is prescribed, and is arbitrary and capricious.

The School argues that this offense constitutes plagiarism, which has specific penalties outlined under that chapter of the handbook (R-2), and the penalties imposed are well within that section. The School further argues that level offense are penalties that can be imposed, and the handbook also states that they have the authority to administer a higher level of discipline or may take other appropriate action when deemed necessary.

As stated above, the actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity. A specific policy and punishment was established by the Board with respect to plagiarism and enumerated in the School Handbook. Based on these factors, I FIND that the petitioner did not meet her burden of proof that there is a legal right underlying the claim.

Clearly, the respondent has a substantial interest in preventing plagiarism and cheating, as well as ensuring that its disciplinary policies are applied. If it did not enforce its disciplinary policies, the School would be sending the wrong kind of message and possibly establishing a dangerous precedent. Consequently, I FIND that Respondent will suffer greater harm than Petitioner if the requested relief is granted.

DECISION AND ORDER

Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m)1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 are written in the conjunctive and all three petitioners have failed to satisfy any of the four requirements, I CONCLUDE that the Petitioners have failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Petitions of M.M. for emergent relief is DENIED without prejudice.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former library media specialist in respondent's district – contends that she attained tenure in the district, and that the Board terminated her employment in violation of the law. Respondent asserts that petitioner – who holds an instructional certificate with an elementary endorsement – was employed in the position of media specialist first as a long term substitute and then under an emergency certificate; petitioner taught Character Education, a subject for which no certificate is required, in addition to her media specialist responsibilities; and petitioner was never eligible for tenure status. Respondent claims that petitioner was terminated due to her failure to complete the requirements for standard certification for the position of library/media specialist.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was originally employed as library/media specialist to replace a staff member who was on a leave of absence, and her time spent as a replacement cannot be counted toward tenure; petitioner's time in the Character Education program does not contribute toward tenure because the function did not require an instructional certificate; petitioner failed to present sufficient evidence that she was the teacher of record for the PACE program, and her service in that program was performed under her emergency library/media specialist certificate. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was not improperly dismissed, but the Board violated the 60 day contractual notice clause and is responsible to award petitioner any salary due under the contract. In all other respects, he recommended that the petition be dismissed.

Upon a full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner did not attain tenure in respondent's district. However, the matter is remanded to the OAL for findings and conclusions regarding 1) whether the pleadings included a claim that respondent violated the 60-day notice clause, and/or a demand that petitioner be paid for the sixty days; and 2) if such a claim and demand were made in the pleadings, the amount of pay petitioner received after respondent's notice to her of termination.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF OCEAN CITY, CAPE MAY COUNTY, AND CAPE MAY COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] Neither party filed exceptions.

The Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner did not meet her burden to show by a preponderance of the evidence that she had achieved tenure in respondent's district prior to her dismissal in September 2005; this matter, however, is remanded to the OAL for clarification regarding whether the issue of violation of the contractual 60 day notice requirement was addressed in amended pleadings at the OAL hearing, and if it was, whether petitioner received compensation for the sixty day period.

Initially, it is undisputed that between the onset of her employment by respondent in 2001 and her dismissal in 2005, petitioner failed to complete the academic requirements for certification as a media specialist. Thus, tenure in that position was not available to her. Furthermore, there are multiple flaws in petitioner's position that she achieved tenure by teaching two classes per day of character education for about 2.8 school years and assisting other teachers with the PACE program for about a year. For instance, tenure accrues to "teaching staff members." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The term "teaching staff member" is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, to mean an employee whose job requires him or her to "hold a valid and effective, standard, provisional or emergency certificate appropriate to his office." It is undisputed – and the ALJ found – that petitioner's service as a character education instructor did not require certification. Thus, petitioner was not, by virtue of her instruction in character education, a teaching staff member and consequently could not accrue time toward tenure for that instruction. See, also, Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982).

Moreover, although he did not include it in his formal findings of fact, the ALJ clearly accepted (Initial Decision, p.32) that petitioner began her employment in respondent's district as a long term substitute, temporarily replacing an employee who had requested a leave of absence. Thus, the period of time prior to the date upon which the on-leave employee resigned could not be counted in calculating tenure eligibility. See, e.g. Lustberg v. Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly, Bergen County, EDU 7080-03 (February 27, 2004), adopted by the Commissioner April 12, 2004. Accordingly, even if petitioner's service as a character education instructor could be considered tenure-track service, the first year of it could not be counted.

Additionally, although the ALJ did not include the following in his formal findings of fact, he did accept that:

> To the extent that petitioner participated with the school's PACE program, it appears petitioner acted more as a reference point in her capacity as the library/media specialist, rather than having complete control of the socials [sic] studies classes. It is not disputed petitioner participated with the PACE program, however, there is no evidence that she was the sole teaching staff member in charge. (Initial Decision, p.32, emphasis added)

Thus, the ALJ determined that the assistance petitioner provided to PACE students was consistent with her responsibilities as a media specialist, and was designed to help students accomplish assignments designed by other teachers. Respondent's exhibit R-3 supports this determination. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner did not perform independent service as an elementary classroom teacher during the year or so of her involvement in the PACE program, and could not use that aspect of her employment as a basis for tenure accrual. The Commissioner cannot disagree.

In sum, petitioner neither achieved tenure as a media specialist nor as an elementary teacher in respondent's district. Thus, respondent's termination of her employment was not a tenure violation. Accordingly, the petition is dismissed as to petitioner's allegations that her tenure rights were violated, and as to any relief requested in connection therewith.

The remaining issue in the case is the ALJ's conclusion that respondent violated the sixty-day notice clause in the employment contract between the parties, and his determination that respondent is required to pay petitioner wages for any balance due for the period between the September 22, 2005 notice of termination and November 21, 2005. The Commissioner notes that, as a general matter, she does not have jurisdiction over contract disputes. In the present controversy, however, the application of the 60-day notice clause in the parties' contract can be regarded as ancillary to the main issues in the case. Having decided the primary issues, the Commissioner would be loathe to send the parties to another forum for a determination concerning a maximum of sixty days of pay.

However, the Commissioner must remand this matter to the OAL for the following reasons. First, neither the petition nor the pre-hearing order includes an allegation that respondent violated the 60-day notice clause and/or a demand that petitioner be paid for the sixty days. Because the Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the hearing she was unable to determine whether the pre-hearing order was modified during the hearing to include that issue. Relief may not be granted if it was not requested in the pleadings or articulated in the pre-hearing order unless the pleadings were amended at hearing.

In addition, it is unclear from the record whether petitioner's remuneration was, in fact, paid through November 15, 2005, as found by the ALJ (Initial Decision, p.17), whether her pay was stopped on September 29, 2005, the effective date of her termination, as set forth in petitioner's exhibit P-4, or whether some other date was used as the terminus for her salary.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for findings and conclusions regarding 1) the existence vel non in the pleadings of a claim that respondent violated the 60-day notice period in the contract of employment between the parties, and a demand for relief for such violation, and 2) if such a claim and demand were made in the pleadings, the amount of pay petitioner received after respondent's notice to her of termination.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.[1]

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons extensively set forth in her oral decision from the bench – that petitioner has failed to satisfy any of the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The Commissioner, however, finds it unnecessary to reach to the ALJ's grant, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, of petitioner's Motion to Amend the Petition as this is not appropriately before her in resolution of this emergent matter.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits a contemplated by the ALJ and the parties.

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

On or about November 27, 2006, North Jersey Community Coordinated Child Care Agency, Inc. d/b/a Michael's Energy Factory and d/b/a Barney's Educational Center (NJCCCC) filed a Verified Petition of Appeal against the respondent, the State Operated School District of the City of Paterson (the District), challenging the recoupment of monies from NJCCCC's monthly payments based on the review of financial reports of NJCCCC's programs. The Department of Education (the Department) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on January 3, 2007, it was filed for hearing as a contested case. On March 9, 2007, NJCCCC filed with the Commissioner of Education a Motion for Emergent Relief and Leave to Amend its Petition. More particularly, NJCCCC moved for an Order granting emergent relief enjoining the District from implementing the repayment/reduction schedule delineated in its January 17, 2007 notifications pending disposition of the underlying dispute. In support of the motion, NJCCCC filed a brief and a Certification of Mary Ann Mirko, the Director and Chief Executive Officer of NJCCCC. The Department transmitted the emergent relief application and motion to amend to the OAL where it was filed on or about March 15, 2007. The District submitted a brief in opposition to the emergent relief motion dated March 19, 2007, along with a Certification of Anna DeMolli, Ed. D., the District's Director of the Department of Early Childhood Education, and a Certification of Counsel. NJCCCC submitted a reply brief and Certification of Antonio DiNizo, the Chief Financial Officer of NJCCCC, in further support of the motion. The motion was held in abeyance due to a pending motion before Administrative Law Judge Richard McGill seeking reconsideration of his Order denying consolidation of this matter with an earlier matter pending before Judge McGill, captioned as Holistic Ministries International d/b/a Loving Care Early Learning Center v. State Operated School District of Paterson, OAL Docket No. EDU 11391-06. Subsequently, on April 18, 2007, the matter assigned to Judge McGill was reassigned to the undersigned. The undersigned denied NJCCCC's reconsideration motion by Order dated April 30, 2007. On May 2, 2007, the undersigned heard oral argument on NJCCCC's Motion for Emergent Relief and Leave to Amend.

Having considered the documentation, including the certifications, exhibits and briefs, submitted on behalf of the parties; and having heard the arguments of counsel (Christina N. Campanella, Esq. appearing for petitioner and Roy J. Evans, Esq. appearing for respondent); and for good cause shown, I CONCLUDE that, for the reasons more particularly set forth in the undersigned's oral decision rendered on May 2, 2007, NJCCCC has failed to meet the standards to grant emergent relief as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) and Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Specifically, I CONCLUDE that, for the reasons set forth in the undersigned's oral decision on May 2, 2007, NJCCCC has failed to demonstrate that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

I ORDER that petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief be and hereby is DENIED.

I further ORDER that petitioner's Motion to Amend the Petition, which respondent did not oppose, be and hereby is GRANTED.

I further ORDER that, within ten (10) days of receipt of this Order, petitioner shall file an Amended Verified Petition substantially similar to the Amended Verified Petition attached to the Notice of Motion, after which respondent shall file an Answer to the Amended Verified Petition within the time required by the regulations.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: April 26, 2007 Decided: April 30, 2007

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On May 20, 2003, petitioner, AnneMarie Torre filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education contesting the respondent's action that charged her sick time for a work related injury in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. On August 15, 2003 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was scheduled for hearing but was placed on the inactive list for good cause. On March 6, 2007, the parties agreed to settle the matter and filed a Stipulation of Settlement which is attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

Annemarie Torre, Petitioner, and the Board of Education of the Township of Irvington, Respondent, hereby agree to resolve this matter upon the following terms:

1. The Respondent agrees to pay the Petitioner $440.00, representing pay for unused sick days pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement between the Respondent and the Irvington Education Association;

2. The Petitioner agrees to withdraw with prejudice her petition in this matter;

3. Both parties agree that the entire agreement between the parties is set forth herein. Both parties waive any claims which were brought or could have been brought relating to this matter, including any grievance Petitioner could have filed pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement between the Respondent and the Irvington Education Association, other than the relief specifically set forth in this agreement;

4. This agreement may not be utilized by either party in any other proceeding as support or proof of any contention raised by that party in this proceeding and neither party is admitting to any liability with regard to the allegations set forth in this or any other proceeding.

SYNOPSIS

T.B. and M.B. filed a petition in April 2007 seeking reimbursement of the $400 cost of S.B.'s 2006 summer school chemistry class which – according to petitioners – was necessitated by a chemistry teacher's unfair and discriminatory treatment of their daughter during the 2005-2006 school year, and respondent board and superintendent's failure to take corrective action. Respondent board made a motion to dismiss for violation of the 90-day requirement provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The Commissioner found, inter alia, that: respondents' action – or lack thereof – which allegedly caused petitioners harm took place in May 2006 and therefore the 90-day limitations period ended in August 2006; there is no indication in the pleadings that petitioners ever brought a formal appeal of S.B.'s grade or the teacher's alleged misconduct before the respondent board; and the Commissioner has no jurisdiction to grant petitioners the relief they seek. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

T.B. and M.B. on behalf of minor child S.B.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PARK RIDGE, BERGEN COUNTY, and DR. PATRICIA JOHNSON,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

According to the petition in this matter, petitioners' minor child, S.B., had been doing poorly in chemistry during the 2005-2006 school year, and petitioners had requested an audience with the teacher and a guidance counselor in May 2006. Petitioners did not accept the teacher's representation – made at the conference – that he had given S.B. extra help. To the contrary, they accepted S.B.'s assertions that the teacher had been treating her unfairly. In the petition they further alleged that the guidance counselor had promised – at the above referenced meeting – to provide S.B. with tutoring, but never followed through on the promise.

Petitioners also contended in the petition that the principal of S.B.'s school and the respondent superintendent of schools had improperly failed to investigate "the unequal and discriminatory treatment of [S.B.] by Mr. Deutsch" and take "corrective action." The allegation of discriminatory treatment rested upon S.B.'s assertion that the teacher did not like her and ridiculed her when she gave wrong answers.

S.B. failed chemistry, and petitioners consequently enrolled her in a summer chemistry course, which necessitated rescheduling of the family's 2006 summer vacation. Petitioners alleged in the petition that they had made telephone calls to the school beginning in May 2006 but that the "school gave no attention to our complaint and seemed to dismiss it outright." They contend further that they had "tried to get the attention of the Board of Education; however, they [sic] just gave us a run around and asked us to write another letter to the Superintendent to no avail."

The relief demanded in the petition, which was filed on April 2, 2007, was the reimbursement of the $400 cost for S.B.'s summer class which, according to petitioners, had been necessitated by the chemistry teacher's behavior and "the appalling response by the Park Ridge School."

Respondent answered on May 1, 2007, by way of a brief motion to dismiss the petition for untimeliness. On May 2, 2007 the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) wrote to petitioners asking them to address respondent's motion, and also to identify the legal basis for their request for consequential damages.

Petitioners' response was received by the Bureau on May 10, 2007. As to the issue of timeliness, they contended that their petition had been filed within the 90-day period required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) because it had been filed 73 days after "the final ruling of the board of education." The "final ruling" to which petitioners referred is a letter dated January 19, 2007, from respondent Superintendent Patricia Johnson. In the letter Johnson stated, in pertinent part:

> After our last conversation I apprised the Board of Education at the January 8th meeting of your concerns and displeasure concerning your daughter's experience in chemistry during the last school year and your assertion that the teacher, the school and the district did not meet their responsibilities. I further indicated to the Board your belief that you should be compensated $400 due to the expenses incurred in placing your daughter in summer school (summer 2006), along with the inconvenience revolving around her attendance during the summer months.
> The Board of Education requested that I respond for them. It is not the practice of the Board to compensate parents for summer school expenses. In doing so they would be creating a precedent that is questionable at best.

Respondents pointed out in their motion papers that the action the petitioners challenge is actually the district's decision – in May 2006 – not to investigate or correct the alleged mistreatment of S.B. by her chemistry teacher.[1] Accordingly, counting from the end of May 2006, petitioners ran out of time for filing an appeal at the end of August 2006. Nonetheless they did not file an appeal to the Commissioner until April 2007, at least ten months after the alleged offending action. Thus, respondents ask that the petition be dismissed with prejudice for untimeliness.

The Commissioner agrees. The district action, or lack thereof, which allegedly caused petitioners harm took place in May 2006, and the 90-day limitations period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) consequently ended in August. Even if the date upon which the district issued S.B. a failing grade were used as the beginning of the period of limitations, the petitioner's time to file an appeal would have expired long before April 2, 2007, the date of their petition.

Furthermore, there is no indication in the pleadings that petitioners had ever brought a formal appeal of S.B.'s grade, or the teacher's alleged misconduct, before the respondent board of education. Thus, the letter dated January 19, 2007 – conveying the board's informal response to petitioners' concerns, which petitioners had expressed verbally to respondent Johnson at some point before January 8, 2007, and Johnson had conveyed to the board on January 8, 2007 – does not constitute an intervening "final ruling of the board of education."[2]

[1] According to petitioners, such an investigation and, perhaps, corrective action, would have prevented S.B.'s failing grade in chemistry and, in turn, the need for petitioners to pay $400 for summer school.

[2] The Commissioner rejects petitioners' request that respondents' answer be dismissed. The first acknowledgment letter sent out by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on April 2, 2007, was inadvertently not sent to all parties. An amended acknowledgment letter was distributed on April 30, 2007, and respondents' motion to dismiss was filed one day later, on May 1, 2007.

point before January 8, 2007, and Johnson had conveyed to the board on January 8, 2007, does not constitute an intervening "final ruling of the board of education."[2]

In response to the Bureau's request for the identification of a legal basis for their demand for consequential damages, petitioners simply reiterated their factual allegations and assumptions. No legal basis was provided to show that the Commissioner has the authority to award such damages and, indeed, the Commissioner has previously found to the contrary. See, e.g., John Scott and Charles Yarnell v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, and Board of Education of the Mercer County Vocational and Technical School District, Mercer County, and James Pupalaikis, Augustine Spagnola and Edward Schmidt v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County and Board of Education of the Mercer County Vocational Technical School District, Mercer County, OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 10333-96 and EDU 6748-97 (Consolidated), decided by the Commissioner on September 30, 2002, pp. 3-4. Therefore, even absent a timeliness problem, the Commissioner would have no jurisdiction to grant petitioners the relief they seek.

For the reasons set forth above, the petition is dismissed.[3]

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this case, with one qualification. Paragraph 9 of the Settlement Agreement recites that it shall not serve as precedent for "similar claims raised against the Elizabeth Board of Education by the Elizabeth Education Association and/or any of their members." Mr. Cras has no authority to bind the Elizabeth Education Association or its members. Consequently, paragraph 9 of the Settlement Agreement is null and void.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement, excepting paragraph 9.

Record Closed: April 12, 2007 Decided: April 16, 2007

BEFORE JOANN LaSALA CANDIDO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 18, 2006, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. This matter was initially assigned to Thomas E. Clancy, ALJ whom placed it on the inactive list because of a companion Workers' Compensation petition. The matter was then reassigned to the undersigned on April 3, 2007. A telephone conference was conducted on April 10, 2007 at which time the parties advised that the matter was settled. On April 12, 2007 the undersigned received the fully executed settlement and Board of Education Resolution, and the record closed that day.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Stipulation of Settlement, and Board of Education Resolution, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

The West Orange Board of Education challenged the decision of the Interim Essex County Superintendent that petitioner must provide free public education to five homeless children following a determination that the last known residence of the children's mother was in petitioner's district. Respondent Department filed a motion to dismiss, citing petitioner's failure to exhaust its administrative remedies pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d-f).

The Commissioner finds that N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d-f) require the petitioner to first bring an appeal of the county superintendent's determination to the Division of Finance in the Department of Education; as petitioner has not done so, the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction in this matter. Accordingly, the petition is dismissed and the matter referred to the Division of Finance for decision pursuant to the regulations.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

May 31, 2007

AGENCY DKT. NO. 91-3/07

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

This matter was initiated as a challenge by the petitioning West Orange Board of Education to the decision by the Interim Essex County Superintendent of Schools that petitioner should provide free public education for five children who are currently housed in a shelter in Newark. The decision was based upon the Superintendent's determination that the last known residence of the children's mother, S.M., before she became homeless was in petitioner's district.

The respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education, answered by way of a motion to dismiss the petition, alleging that petitioner failed to exhaust its administrative remedies. Respondent referred to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(b), which is the regulation that allows a school district which has been designated by a county superintendent as a homeless child's district of origin to appeal to the Department of Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(b) expressly directs that a district wishing to make such an appeal follow the instructions set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d-f).

The first of those provisions directs the appealing district to "submit a written notification of a dispute to the Division of Finance [of the Department of Education], within 30 days of the receipt of a final notice that a child was determined to be a resident of the district for purposes of state funding." N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d). The second provision instructs the Division of Finance to "attempt to resolve the dispute administratively and [ ] notify the district board of education whether a redetermination of district of residence shall be made ...." N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(e). The third provision allows a district board of education to "initiate a formal proceeding before the Commissioner to resolve such a dispute if the Division of Finance is unable to resolve a dispute within the 90-day time limit . . . ." N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(f).

Thus, respondent is correct that the regulations require that petitioner first bring its appeal of the county superintendent's determination to the Division of Finance in the Department of Education. As petitioner has not done so, the Commissioner does not yet have jurisdiction.

In its reply to respondent's motion to dismiss the petition, petitioner argued against the dismissal of its appeal, citing as support of its position a sentence in the letter from Interim Essex County Superintendent of schools to petitioner, memorializing his determination that petitioner is responsible for the education of S.M.'s children. That sentence stated that petitioner had "the right to appeal this decision to the Department of Education/Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(d), (e) and (f)."

While petitioner does have the right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education through the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, it must follow the procedures set forth in the regulation which the Interim Essex County Superintendent cited. As discussed above, that regulation requires petitioner to first give notice to the Division of Finance which, in turn, must attempt to resolve the dispute administratively.

Accordingly, the petition before the Commissioner is dismissed and this matter is hereby referred to the Division of Finance for decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 (d-f).

SYNOPSIS

T.B. and M.B. filed a petition in April 2007 seeking reimbursement of the $400 cost of S.B.'s 2006 summer school chemistry class which – according to petitioners – was necessitated by a chemistry teacher's unfair and discriminatory treatment of their daughter during the 2005-2006 school year, and respondent board and superintendent's failure to take corrective action. Respondent board made a motion to dismiss for violation of the 90-day requirement provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The Commissioner found, inter alia, that: respondents' action – or lack thereof – which allegedly caused petitioners harm took place in May 2006 and therefore the 90-day limitations period ended in August 2006; there is no indication in the pleadings that petitioners ever brought a formal appeal of S.B.'s grade or the teacher's alleged misconduct before the respondent board; and the Commissioner has no jurisdiction to grant petitioners the relief they seek. According to the petition in this matter, petitioners' minor child, S.B., had been doing poorly in chemistry during the 2005-2006 school year, and petitioners had requested an audience with the teacher and a guidance counselor in May 2006. Petitioners did not accept the teacher's representation – made at the conference – that he had given S.B. extra help. To the contrary, they accepted S.B.'s assertions that the teacher had been treating her unfairly. In the petition they further alleged that the guidance counselor had promised – at the above referenced meeting – to provide S.B. with tutoring, but never followed through on the promise.

Petitioners also contended in the petition that the principal of S.B.'s school and the respondent superintendent of schools had improperly failed to investigate "the unequal and discriminatory treatment of [S.B.] by Mr. Deutsch" and take "corrective action." The allegation of discriminatory treatment rested upon S.B.'s assertion that the teacher did not like her and ridiculed her when she gave wrong answers.

S.B. failed chemistry, and petitioners consequently enrolled her in a summer chemistry course, which necessitated rescheduling of the family's 2006 summer vacation. Petitioners alleged in the petition that they had made telephone calls to the school beginning in May 2006 but that the "school gave no attention to our complaint and seemed to dismiss it outright." They contend further that they had "tried to get the attention of the Board of Education; however, they [sic] just gave us a run around and asked us to write another letter to the Superintendent to no avail."

The relief demanded in the petition, which was filed on April 2, 2007, was the reimbursement of the $400 cost for S.B.'s summer class which, according to petitioners, had been necessitated by the chemistry teacher's behavior and "the appalling response by the Park Ridge School."

Respondent answered on May 1, 2007, by way of a brief motion to dismiss the petition for untimeliness. On May 2, 2007 the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) wrote to petitioners asking them to address respondent's motion, and also to identify the legal basis for their request for consequential damages.

Petitioners' response was received by the Bureau on May 10, 2007. As to the issue of timeliness, they contended that their petition had been filed within the 90-day period required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) because it had been filed 73 days after "the final ruling of the board of education." The "final ruling" to which petitioners referred is a letter dated January 19, 2007, from respondent Superintendent Patricia Johnson. In the letter Johnson stated, in pertinent part:

> After our last conversation I apprised the Board of Education at the January 8th meeting of your concerns and displeasure concerning your daughter's experience in chemistry during the last school year and your assertion that the teacher, the school and the district did not meet their responsibilities. I further indicated to the Board your belief that you should be compensated $400 due to the expenses incurred in placing your daughter in summer school (summer 2006), along with the inconvenience revolving around her attendance during the summer months.
> The Board of Education requested that I respond for them. It is not the practice of the Board to compensate parents for summer school expenses. In doing so they would be creating a precedent that is questionable at best.

Respondents pointed out in their motion papers that the action the petitioners challenge is actually the district's decision – in May 2006 – not to investigate or correct the alleged mistreatment of S.B. by her chemistry teacher.[1] Accordingly, counting from the end of May 2006, petitioners ran out of time for filing an appeal at the end of August 2006. Nonetheless they did not file an appeal to the Commissioner until April 2007, at least ten months after the alleged offending action. Thus, respondents ask that the petition be dismissed with prejudice for untimeliness.

The Commissioner agrees. The district action, or lack thereof, which allegedly caused petitioners harm took place in May 2006, and the 90-day limitations period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) consequently ended in August. Even if the date upon which the district issued S.B. a failing grade were used as the beginning of the period of limitations, the petitioner's time to file an appeal would have expired long before April 2, 2007, the date of their petition.

Furthermore, there is no indication in the pleadings that petitioners had ever brought a formal appeal of S.B.'s grade, or the teacher's alleged misconduct, before the respondent board of education. Thus, the letter dated January 19, 2007 – conveying the board's informal response to petitioners' concerns, which petitioners had expressed verbally to respondent Johnson at some point before January 8, 2007, and Johnson had conveyed to the board on January 8, 2007 – does not constitute an intervening "final ruling of the board of education."[2]

[1] According to petitioners, such an investigation and, perhaps, corrective action, would have prevented S.B.'s failing grade in chemistry and, in turn, the need for petitioners to pay $400 for summer school.

[2] The Commissioner rejects petitioners' request that respondents' answer be dismissed. The first acknowledgment letter sent out by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on April 2, 2007, was inadvertently not sent to all parties. An amended acknowledgment letter was distributed on April 30, 2007, and respondents' motion to dismiss was filed one day later, on May 1, 2007.

In response to the Bureau's request for the identification of a legal basis for their demand for consequential damages, petitioners simply reiterated their factual allegations and assumptions. No legal basis was provided to show that the Commissioner has the authority to award such damages and, indeed, the Commissioner has previously found to the contrary. See, e.g., John Scott and Charles Yarnell v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, and Board of Education of the Mercer County Vocational and Technical School District, Mercer County, and James Pupalaikis, Augustine Spagnola and Edward Schmidt v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County and Board of Education of the Mercer County Vocational Technical School District, Mercer County, OAL DKT. NOS. Therefore, even absent a timeliness problem, the Commissioner would have no jurisdiction to grant petitioners the relief they seek.

For the reasons set forth above, the petition is dismissed.[3]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a teacher in the Hackensack School District – challenged the respondent's denial of her request for reimbursement of legal fees incurred in connection with her defense against a criminal complaint for disorderly conduct in April 2004. Petitioner claimed indemnification for her legal fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that petitioner's arrest occurred off of school property, at a time when she had abandoned her place of employment, and was neither in the course of educating children nor in the course of attempting to fulfill her accompanied medical test obligation under the substance abuse program by which she was bound; petitioner's disorderly conduct charge neither arose out of nor arose in the course of the performance of her duties as a teacher; and petitioner has not satisfied the statutory requirement for reimbursement of her legal fees. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement, and ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's conclusion, and adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions – dated and mailed on May 16, 2007, and filed with the Agency on May 21, 2007 – were untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4[1] and, consequently, these and the Board's reply exceptions were not considered herein.

Upon her full and independent review, the Commissioner is in full accord with the Administrative Law Judge's conclusion – for the reasons clearly detailed in his decision – that petitioner is not entitled to indemnification for legal fees and expenses, pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:16-6 and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, incurred in the defense of a criminal charge of disorderly conduct as such charge neither arose out of nor in the course of the performance of her duties as a teacher.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: April 25, 2007 Decided: May 2, 2007

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Margaret Crews ("Crews"), a teacher for respondent Hackensack Board of Education ("Board"), had a criminal complaint for disorderly conduct filed against her for activity occurring outside the Hackensack Middle School on April 22, 2004. The charge against her was dismissed when she was acquitted after a bench trial. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1, if a criminal action is dismissed against a teacher for any act arising out of and in the course of performing her teaching duties, the Board shall reimburse her for reasonable counsel fees. Crews appeals from the Board's denial of this reimbursement. At issue is whether the criminal complaint arose out of and was in the course of her teaching duties thereby requiring a counsel fee indemnification by the Board.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

After receipt of Crews' May 26, 2006 Appeal from the Board's failure to reimburse her for counsel fees and the Board's June 6, 2006 Answer, the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The OAL filed it for hearing and determination as a contested case on July 17, 2006. At the April 9, 2007 hearing, the parties stipulated to all of the facts. The record closed on April 25, 2007 upon the receipt of briefs.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties stipulated to the following facts in this matter and included, as part of the stipulation, the transcript of proceedings involving Crews before the Hackensack Municipal Court, the Board's substance abuse policy (3218), and a sketch of Union Street in Hackensack along the Middle School site. I accordingly FIND the following FACTS based on the stipulation, the substance abuse policy and unrebutted testimony from the stipulated transcript of the municipal court proceeding:

Crews, an employee and teacher of the Board on April 22, 2004, was, at all relevant times, aware of District Policy 3218.

As a result of an allegation made by a student and observations independently made by Hackensack Middle School Principal Ann Small, Small had reasonable cause to direct Crews to obtain testing to determine if she was under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance or alcohol pursuant to the relevant provisions of District Policy 3218. Under this substance abuse policy, when an employee is suspected of being under the influence of a substance during working hours, the principal shall arrange for the immediate examination of the employee by the school doctor or a doctor selected by the employee, or if such doctor is not immediately available, then arrange transportation to the local hospital. The employee shall be accompanied to the doctor or emergency room by a member of the school staff designated by the principal.

In an effort to comply with this policy, Principal Small directed Dean of Students Christopher Moran on April 22 to accompany Crews to a doctor upon Crews leaving the Principal's office. Moran followed Crews through the school and informed her several times that he was there to offer her a ride to a doctor. She told him that she did not want a ride and that he should "get away." She then exited the school and the school grounds with Dean Moran following her at a time when school was still in session.

When Hackensack police officers Thomas Aletta and Kenneth Martin arrived in the area of Hackensack Middle School on April 22, 2004, they were not there as a result of being summoned by Hackensack School District personnel. When the police arrived, Crews was in the passenger seat in a car owned and operated by Rhonda Bembry, which was parked on Union Street in front of the property of the Middle School campus. Upon seeing the police, Dean Moran, while on Middle School property and during school hours, motioned to the police officers and directed their attention to Crews, in a manner which they interpreted as a request to stop the vehicle. The police officers proceeded to park their car at an angle in front of Bembry's vehicle.

When Aletta told Bembry to stop her vehicle, she replied that she had to go. When she turned her wheel and accelerated the vehicle, its bumper and tire struck Aletta on his hip and thigh. She stopped when Martin stepped in front of the vehicle. Moran told Martin that Crews had been drinking while teaching class. Aletta asked Crews what was wrong, and she replied that she was having a heart attack and needed to go to a hospital. He detected the odor of alcohol coming from Crews. Crews exited the car and became excited and agitated for a few minutes and said that she did not want to be there and that the police had no right to bother her. Aletta summoned an ambulance. When it arrived Crews became more agitated and loud, was flailing her arms, was cursing and said that she did not want to go with the ambulance. She yelled to get the f--- off her and to keep his f---ing hands off her. He told her she would be arrested for disorderly conduct if she did not calm down and did arrest her when she persisted and tried to push away from the officers.

All activities and communications by and between Crews and the Hackensack police on the scene took place in either Bembry's car or on the sidewalk in front of the Middle School on Union Street in Hackensack. The sidewalk and street on the Union Street side of the Middle School are not the property of the Hackensack School District.

As a result of this incident on April 22, 2004, Crews was charged with disorderly conduct by the Hackensack police. On March 22, 2006 the charge against her was dismissed when she was acquitted after a Bench Trial.

The reasonable legal fees and costs related to defending the disorderly conduct charge was $19,704.48.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1 are complementary provisions which must be read together in order to determine the circumstances under which a teacher may be reimbursed for defending herself in a criminal proceeding. See, Bowers v. Board of Education of City of East Orange, 149 N.J. 416, 423 (1997). Section 6 provides that, whenever any legal proceeding has been brought against a person holding any office or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of the duties of such position or employment, the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses. Subsection 6.1 further provides that, should any criminal action be instituted against any such person for any such act or omission, and, should such proceeding result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse her for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals.

These statutes set a two-part standard for determining when indemnification is appropriate: (1) when any act or omission, on which criminal charges are based, arises out of and is in the course of the performance of the duties of such employment; and (2) when the charges result in a final disposition in favor of the employee. Here, the second prong has been satisfied with Crews' acquittal of the disorderly person charge. I CONCLUDE however that the disorderly person charge neither arose out of nor arose in the course of the performance of her duties as a teacher.

Bowers involved a situation where an indictment on charges of sexual abuse of three pupils during school time and on school premises was twice dismissed without trial. The dilemma the Supreme Court encountered was that, without any proceeding, no evidence existed concerning whether any predicate acts or omissions had occurred that could serve as the basis for establishing the second prong of the statutory test for indemnification. Id. at 419. It noted that, in most cases, the predicate conduct is sufficiently well-defined so as to simplify the inquiry. Id. at 424. The conduct of Crews is indeed sufficiently well-defined here by the stipulation of the parties and the record established in the municipal court proceeding.

Powers v. Union City Board of Education, 124 N.J. Super. 590 (Law Div. 1973), aff'd. o.b. 127 N.J. Super. 249 (App. Div.), cert. denied, 65 N.J. 575 (1974), involved a suit for indemnification of a board of education member for the successful defense of a charge of demanding kickbacks from service providers. The Court looked to identical language in the Workers' Compensation Act where an accident arising out of employment signifies that it results from a risk reasonably incidental thereto, and arising in the course of employment connotes that it occurs within its period at a place where the employee may properly be and while he is fulfilling the duties of his employment or doing something incidental to it. Id. at 595-596. The party seeking the indemnification under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1 must satisfy both requirements. The proper inquiry is whether the "...the gravaman of the litigation took place when and where the individual performed his duties and while he was fulfilling the duties of [his position]." Id. at 597.

In Scirrotto, 272 N.J. Super. 391 (App. Div. 1994), a former teacher sought indemnification for the successful defense of criminal bribery charges, where he allegedly made statements to school administrators threatening to go public with regard to immoral or illegal activities of other teachers, if the administration did not reverse its decision to deny him tenure. The Appellate Division had reversed his bribery conviction because of a lack of evidence that a "benefit" had been offered to school officials. Approving of Powers and earlier cases, the Court held that,

> ...for the acts complained of to arise out of and in the course of the duties of employment, 'the officer must have been acting in a matter which the corporation has an interest, he must have been acting in the discharge of a duty imposed or authorized by law and he must have acted in good faith' [citations omitted]. Id at 397.

Although the Court conceded that Scirrotto's statement to a superior at a meeting, while he was a teacher, arguably was in the course of the duties of employment, "...the conduct did not arise out of performance of the duties of his employment as a high school history teacher, any more than if he had indisputedly punched [the school principal] during such a meeting, but was thereafter acquitted of criminal assault charges." Id. at 398.

It is evident that, but for Dean Moran bringing Crews to the attention of Officers Aletta and Martin, the subsequent chain of events leading to her arrest would not have occurred. Yet, at the time Crews had her encounter with the police officers, her duty was to be inside the school. She was not there. As it is conceded that Crews was aware of the substance abuse policy and that Principal Small had reasonable cause to direct Crews to obtain testing to determine if she was under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance on the afternoon of April 22, 2004, Crews' duty at that time was to cooperate with arrangements for her immediate examination by a school doctor or a doctor selected by the employee, while being accompanied by a school staff member. Instead, she thwarted and ignored Moran's efforts to escort her for testing purposes. Simply put, when Crews, of her own volition, left the school grounds in derogation of her duties under the substance abuse policy and certainly not to further any pedagogical purpose, her subsequent conduct neither arose out of nor was in the course of her performance of her duties as a teacher or duties to comply with the substance abuse policy. By her conduct preceding the police encounter, she forfeited any claim that she was fulfilling her duties of employment by time, place and/or subject matter that proximately led to her disorderly person arrest. See, Powers, supra at 597. Her arrest occurred at a time when she had abandoned her place of employment; at a place on a public street off of school property; and due to a confrontation with police officers that was neither in the course of educating children nor in the course of attempting to fulfill her accompanied medical test obligation under the substance abuse program by which she was bound. Her conduct certainly lacked a good faith attempt to discharge her imposed duties. See, Scirrotto, supra at 397.

As Crews has not satisfied the statutory requirement for reimbursement of her counsel fees and costs in defending the criminal proceeding against her, I CONCLUDE that she is not entitled to such reimbursement.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the petition of Margaret Crews is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

In September 2004, petitioning Board determined that A.A., N.A. and J.A. – children of J.W.A. and C.A. – were not domiciled within the school district, and therefore not entitled to a free public education in Hamilton Township Schools. J.W.A. appealed this determination to the Commissioner, who adopted the OAL's decision upholding removal of the children from the district's schools and requiring J.W.A. to reimburse the Board for tuition. While J.W.A.'s appeal was pending, the Board filed a petition against C.A. and B.Z. – the children's mother and grandmother – seeking tuition reimbursement. Respondents failed to appear at hearing, and the Acting Commissioner adopted the OAL Initial Decision directing C.A. and B.Z. to pay tuition. Subsequently, respondents appealed to the State Board of Education, requesting to re-open the record to permit them to supplement it by presentation of testimony and documents. The matter was then remanded to the OAL for a hearing, at which C.A. did not appear.

The ALJ found that B.Z. was not a credible witness, and no other evidence – testimonial or documentary – was produced at the hearing to show that respondents had complied with the terms and conditions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). The ALJ concluded that there is no basis in law or fact to alter or amend the order directing respondents to reimburse the Board for the period of ineligible attendance of C.A.'s children.

The Commissioner adopted the OAL's Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, and directed respondents to pay petitioner tuition in the amount of $7,499.80 for each of C.A.'s three children, totaling $22,499.40.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
C.A. AND B.Z.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No transcript was provided to the Commissioner and the parties submitted no exceptions. The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision – supplemented by the following comments – as the final decision, for the reasons articulated by the administrative law judge (ALJ).

Respondent C.A. failed to appear at the remand hearing ordered by the State Board of Education. Thus, she provided no basis for the Commissioner to modify the December 5, 2005 decision directing her to pay tuition fees in the amount of $7,499.80 per child for her children's attendance in petitioner's schools.

Respondent, B.Z., who did appear at the remand hearing, failed to show that the children legally resided with her in Hamilton Township. While she appeared to make an argument under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) that she had taken in C.A.'s children, supported them gratis, and sent them to petitioner's schools because C.A. was unfit and neglected them, she did not provide competent evidence to substantiate those allegations or to show that she and C.A. had complied with the terms and conditions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-(b)(1).

Further, the ALJ found that "B.Z. totally lacked credibility," both by misrepresenting that she was the children's grandmother and by presenting inconsistent and implausible testimony. Her testimony was, according to the ALJ, also contradicted by, inter alia, surveillance reports submitted by petitioner and by the testimony of her own witness, the children's father. Orders giving custody to the children's maternal grandmother further undermined B.Z.'s account of the children's domicile, legal status and living conditions. In matters of credibility, the Commissioner generally defers to the ALJ. D.L. and Z.Y. on behalf of minor children T.L. and K.L. v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, 366 N.J. Super. 269, 273 (App. Div. 2004).

In sum, respondents' supplemental documents and testimony at the OAL remand hearing were not sufficient to disturb the Commissioner's December 5, 2005 decision ordering respondents to pay petitioner $7,499.80 in tuition for each of C.A.'s three children, totaling $22,499.40. Notwithstanding the fact that B.Z. may possibly have acted out of concern for the children, it appears nonetheless that the children were not entitled to a free public education in petitioner's school district, and petitioner is entitled to reimbursement.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

September 22, 2004, petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County (BOE) determined that A.A., N.A. and J.A., children of J.W.A. and C.A., were not domiciled within the school district and, therefore, not entitled to a free public education. J.W.A. appealed to the Commissioner of Education, who adopted the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) Initial Decision upholding removal of the children and requiring J.W.A. to reimburse BOE.

While J.W.A.'s appeal was pending resolution, BOE filed a petition against C.A. and B.Z. (grandmother) seeking tuition and counsel fees. C.A. and B.Z. failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The Acting Commissioner adopted that OAL Initial Decision which directed C.A. and B.Z. to reimburse BOE, denied assessment of counsel fees.

December 19, 2005, C.A. and B.Z. appealed the Acting Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education (SBE) requesting to re-open the record and permit them to supplement it by presentation of testimony and documents.

C.A. and B.Z.'s motion to supplement the record was granted and the SBE remanded the case to the Acting Commissioner. The Acting Commissioner remanded the case to the OAL for a hearing consistent with the decision of SBE.

The OAL hearing of the remand was held January 18, 2007, at the OAL in Hamilton Township, New Jersey. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the Appendix.

FACTUAL PRESENTATION AND DISCUSSION

C.A. did not appear for the hearing.

B.Z. referred to herself as the grandmother of the children in question. She stated that the children lived with her during the week, but would go to Trenton to stay with their mother on the weekends. The children would return to B.Z.'s home Sunday nights. She also said the children would stay with C.A. when they were sick. C.A. had a fourth child August 19, 2000, S.A. who was never enrolled in BOE's district.

B.Z. testified that the residence in Trenton occupied by C.A. also housed some unsavory characters. She was not comfortable with the children residing there full time. However, she could not say when C.A. moved into or out of that residence.

B.Z. testified that N.A. lives with her currently, but is not enrolled in school. A court order from August 1998 placed all the children in the custody of C.A.'s mother, Ms. Lizer. B.Z. said she is unaware whether that order was ever set aside. B.Z. was permitted to place into evidence a purportedly notarized letter from C.A. dated March 26, 1999, giving B.Z. temporary custody of the children. (Exhibit R-1).

On cross examination B.Z. admitted that she is not the grandmother of the children. At one time she had a relationship with J.W.A.'s father, but they never married. B.Z. acknowledged that she "lied" when she listed herself as "grandmother" on the various school documents, including the petition challenging the removal of the children from the school district. She also admitted "numerous times" claiming the children as dependents on her tax filings. (Exhibit P-1).

J.W.A. testified that he claimed the children for tax purposes 2004 to 2006. He stated that children were with him 2004 to 2005. A new custody order in 2006 again placed the custody of the children with the maternal grandmother. He stated that he has not had legal custody of the children since the 1998 custody order.

J.W.A. contradicted B.Z.'s testimony, testifying that the children stayed with C.A. many times at night, not just weekends.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

B.Z. totally lacked credibility. Her explanations as to why the agents of BOE observed the children entering and leaving the Trenton residence were not believable. The time frames that she claimed the children would stay in Trenton were contradicted by the surveillance of BOE. When confronted with the contradiction, B.Z. would adjust her testimony in an attempt to explain. Had she any credibility left, it would have been totally destroyed by her admissions that she misrepresented herself as the children's grandmother not only to BOE, but also to IRS. Further, J.W.A. contradicted her testimony as to the regularity that the children would stay at the Trenton address. Add to that, two court orders placing custody of the children with the maternal grandmother and it is clear that B.Z.'s performance at the hearing was a sham.

No credible evidence, testimonial or documentary, was produced at the hearing to alter the previous conclusions and rulings.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

C.A. and B.Z. were afforded the opportunity to supplement the record of the hearing which gave rise to the order requiring them to pay tuition to BOE. C.A. failed to appear at the supplementation hearing. The testimony and exhibit presented by B.Z. lacked credibility. There is no basis in law or fact to alter or amend the order for them to reimburse BOE for the unlawful attendance of A.A., N.A. and J.A. in BOE's school district.

ORDER

ORDERED, that the Order of Restitution signed September 23, 2005, in Agency Dkt. No. 406-11/04 and OAL Dkt. No. EDU 436-05 adopted by the Acting Commissioner December 5, 2005, remains in effect as originally entered.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that the appealed filed by C.A. is dismissed for lack of prosecution.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 23, 2007, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief, concurring with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has not satisfied her burden of establishing the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); most notably, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has not demonstrated a likelihood of prevailing on the underlying merits of the matter, or that a balancing of the equities and interests of the parties inures to her favor.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further action as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

A.D., pro se

Frank Pomaco, Esq., for Respondent (Gaccione, Pomaco & Malanga, attorneys)

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On May 11, 2007, Petitioner, A.D., filed an application for emergent relief through the attorney then representing her. The application for emergent relief was filed with the Department of Education which transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 16, 2007, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

Petitioner seeks an Order directing the District to permit her to attend the high school senior prom on June 8, 2007. An in-person hearing on the application was held by the undersigned on May 23, 2007. The District was represented by counsel. Petitioner proceeded pro se with her parents in attendance.[1]

FINDINGS

The incident giving rise to this application occurred on January 16, 2007, at Bloomfield High School. The allegations by A.D.'s teacher were that she had repeatedly come to class late and, when the teacher sought an explanation as to where A.D. had been and asked for a pass, A.D. became belligerent and used foul language. In addition, A.D. refused to step out of the classroom when the teacher asked her to do so and she told the teacher to get security because she was not leaving. A.D. had to be escorted from the classroom by another teacher. A.D.'s teacher filed a Student Referral Form and, as a result of this incident, a three-day out of school suspension was imposed on A.D. commencing on January 18, 2007.

According to the testimony of the District personnel, the assistant principal, Michael Schilari, who is familiar with A.D., received the referral form from the teacher involved and as a result of the report, had a conversation first with the teacher and then with A.D. A.D. denied the allegation that she used foul language. The assistant principal noted that he then spoke with others, although he did not specify who those others were, and he spoke with Petitioner's mother. He testified that the teacher described specifically that A.D. used foul language to her and specifically recited the language (See R-1). Petitioner denied having used foul language; however, she admitted during testimony that she did in fact yell and scream at the teacher at that time. It is a logical inference to be drawn that since tempers were flaring, Petitioner more likely than not did use the language.

Petitioner raises the issue of failure to provide her with an opportunity to be heard by the District and presented, at the time of hearing, a printout purportedly of a publication by the New Jersey State Bar Foundation Student Rights Handbook in which suspensions of ten days or fewer are discussed. She has noted that a give and take session should take place before the suspension and the student should also be given an opportunity to present his or her side of the story. Although it is clear from the record there was not a formal or informal sit down, face-to-face between the teacher and A.D., Mr. Schilari testified that he did speak first with the teacher and then with A.D. explaining the evidence he had, i.e., the teacher's referral, and asking whether she engaged in using foul language, A.D. denied doing so. He then proceeded to talk with others including, most importantly, Petitioner's mother. Thus, clearly, Petitioner has been afforded the less extensive protections described in her own document.

[1] There is a fax dated May 18, 2007, from the attorney noting that he was no longer handling the matter and the clients wished to proceed pro se.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In order to prevail on an application for emergent relief in a matter such as this, the applicant must prove by a preponderance of credible evidence:

- the moving party, A.D., will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
- the legal right underlying the moving party's claim is well settled;
- the moving party has a likelihood of prevailing on the underlying claim; and,
- when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the moving party will suffer greater harm than the Respondent if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Turning now to the record, Petitioner has established that it means a great deal to her to participate in the prom; however, I CONCLUDE that she has not established that she will suffer irreparable harm. A conclusory statement about the lasting effect of her inability to attend the prom is not enough to stand as evidence of irreparable harm.

I further CONCLUDE that A.D. has not established that the legal right underlying her claim is well settled. She has not demonstrated that a student who has not complied with the District's disciplinary policy clearly has the right to participate in a graduation ceremony, which is a privilege, not a right. From the evidence at the hearing, it is clear the District personnel have met several times throughout the year to stress the need for compliance with the student code of conduct in which the specific examples of appropriate and inappropriate behaviors are set forth. The student code of conduct specifically prohibits the use of profanity or obscenity. In addition, it prohibits openly defiant and disrespectful behavior as well as willful and continuous disobedience. There was testimony during the hearing that she has engaged in these inappropriate behaviors within this school year, which further supports the inference drawn above that it is more likely than not she did engage in using foul language.

I further CONCLUDE that the moving party has not proved that she has any likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim and finally I CONCLUDE that A.D. has not met her burden of proving she will suffer greater harm than the District will suffer will the equities and interest of the parties are balanced. Specifically, A.D. has not demonstrated that her interest in going to the prom outweighs the District's interest in maintaining order in its school.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that Petitioner's application for emergent relief be and hereby is DENIED; I further ORDER the matter be and hereby is DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 11, 2007, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination - for the reasons clearly detailed in his Order - that petitioner has failed to satisfy any of the requirements necessary for the granting of extraordinary relief as set forth in *Crowe v. R.Y. and E.Y., ON BEHALF OF
MINOR CHILD, T.Y.,
Petitioners,
v.
MOORESTOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

R.Y. and E.Y., petitioners, appearing pro se

Arthur Risden, Esq., for respondent (Archer & Greiner, attorneys)

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

R.Y. and E.Y., on behalf of minor child T.Y. (petitioners), assert that the punishment imposed on their son, including the removal from an Honors class at Moorestown High School (School) for plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads is arbitrary, and capricious. The Moorestown Board of Education (Board) asserts that more than twenty students were found to have been involved in plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads from the school internet site, and the punishments for such behavior are set forth in the student handbook and are not arbitrary and capricious.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 30, 2007, Petitioners filed an application for emergent relief with the Commissioner of Education. The application stated the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by imposing the punishment on their son, including the removal of their son from the Honors program and a two-day in school suspension.

On May 4, 2007, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the requested emergent relief on May 16, 2007. On that date, the case was heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township) and the record closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

T.Y. is a ninth grade Moorestown student who was enrolled in the Honors Computer Assisted Drafting 1 course (CAD 1) during the current academic school year.

On or about March 1, 2007, the school became aware of potentially widespread cheating in the CAD 1 class. The School began an investigation to determine the full extent of the cheating in the CAD I class, as well as what steps need to be implemented to prevent this type of situation in the future (R-2). The Moorestown Student Handbook provides that plagiarism will not be tolerated in any schoolwork, and it will result in the loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions, and/or loss of credit for the course (R-10). The Moorestown's Acceptable Use Agreement and Policy No. 6142.10 specifically provides that users will respect the rights of others by complying with all school district policies regarding plagiarism (R-13).

The Administration presented the students in CAD I with the opportunity to come forward to admit to any violations of policies and guidelines, and indicated that students who came forward would be disciplined, but more leniently than those who did not come forward (R-2, R-15, R-16).

On March 9, 2007, T.Y. submitted a written admission that he had copied two drawings from another student (R-6). He was one of twenty-one students who came forward.

The School determined that students who came forward would be treated with leniency, when compared to the traditional consequences for plagiarism. Although the students who came forward faced the same discipline, the school alleges each student was considered individually, and special accommodations were offered, when appropriate, such as for special education students and senior students. Specifically, the students were afforded safeguards regarding credit, the ability to retake the course, and counseling on how to handle questions about the incident during the college admission process, if asked (R-2, R-15, R-16). Students who would not be able to graduate or be promoted were given the opportunity to earn enough credits to graduate or be promoted.

Based on his admission, T.Y. was charged with possession of a file that was determined to be the work of another student, and the use of a computer file that was the work of another student, defined as plagiarism.

As a result of these charges, T.Y. received an administrative withdrawal from CAD I, with a final grade of W (Withdraw), suspension of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007, a two-day in-school suspension, and ten social probation points. Customarily, such conduct would result in an academic withdrawal with a final grade of WF (Withdraw-Fail), which impacts the G.P.A., suspension of MooreNet privileges for the remainder of the school year, a five-day out-of-school suspension, and twenty-five social probation points (R-15).

Any student who came forward, including T.Y., was afforded special safeguards, including the ability to maintain sufficient credits for the current year, despite the loss of five CAD I credits, the ability to retake CAD I, and discussions with parents regarding how a student should handle questions about the plagiarism suspension during the college admission process, if asked (R-2, R-15, R-16).

The petitioners assert that T.Y. copied two drawings, which were not projects. He had completed approximately one hundred drawings, and only two were the subject of this action.

The preceding information has not been disputed or contradicted by the parties, and is found as fact.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The standards which must be met by the moving party in an application for emergent relief in a matter concerning a special needs child are embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m)1, N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1, and Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Emergency relief may only be granted if the judge determines that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

The petitioners argue that T.Y. will suffer irreparable harm because he will not be able to catch-up in the CAD I class unless he is reinstated immediately; he will not be able to attend all of the classes available in the architecture/engineering field if he has to take CAD I next year, and that he will have a difficult time explaining to colleges and universities why he withdrew from CAD I. Petitioners allege that if T.Y. is asked to explain his two day suspension for copying two drawings out of the one hundred he completed on his own, this explanation will not be believed by an admissions officer.

Although Petitioners may sincerely believe T.Y. will suffer some or all of these problems if he is not reinstated in CAD I, T.Y. will have the opportunity to take CAD I next year. He has enough credits to be promoted to tenth grade. Although the petitioners certainly raise important arguments as to the effect of this action on college admission and the ability to take future honors course, T.Y. is only a freshman. Any effect on future classes or college admission is only speculative. Therefore, I FIND the petitioners have been unable to meet their burden that T.Y. will suffer irreparable harm if this relief is not granted.

Student's choice in specific courses, curriculum materials, assignments, and teachers are matters of educational policy and not constitutional rights. J.L. and J.E.H. o/b/o T.H.I. v. Board of Education of the Hopewell Valley Regional School District, EDU 2658-99, Initial Decision (August 20, 1999, adopted, Commissioner of Education (October 18, 1999), and, adopted, State Board of Education (February 2, 2000). The determination of placement, suspension, or withdrawal from an Honors course is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm.

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. The School has clearly established a policy that does not tolerate plagiarism and any students found to violate that policy will face loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions and/or loss of credit for a course. As a result, I FIND that Respondent's actions in applying its policy to withdraw T.Y. from CAD I with a final grade of W (Withdraw); suspend of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007; suspend T.Y. in-school for two days; and assess ten social probation points due to his conduct cannot be disturbed.

Petitioners allege that the penalty given to their son was arbitrary and capricious, because some students may have had the opportunity to make up some credits to graduate or be promoted, but their son was not given the opportunity to do so because he had enough credits to be promoted. I do not agree. These safeguards were put into place to ensure that all students would be able to graduate or be promoted, similar to T.Y. If these safeguards were not put in place, some students would face a much harsher punishment; the inability to graduate or be promoted.

Petitioners further argue that this offense does not constitute plagiarism, because the copied materials are drawings, and not class projects. Petitioners refer to the Moorestown Student Handbook, which states that "students who found to have plagiarized on school exams, term papers, research assignments or class projects" will face punishment referred to herein (R-10). I do not find that the definition of plagiarism is to be that limited or strictly construed. The Handbook also states that "all assessments/assignments must be independently completed. This includes homework" (R-10). Therefore, I further FIND it unlikely that the Petitioners would have prevailed on the merits.

Petitioners cite N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) in reliance of their position that the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) provides that a code of conduct shall be created:

> Establish parameters for school responses to violations of the code of student conduct that take into account, at a minimum, the severity of the offenses, the developmental ages of the student offenders and students' histories of inappropriate behavior.

Petitioners allege that Moorestown failed to take into account these standards.

The Board asserts that they did, including his status as a freshman and lack of a disciplinary record. Petitioners further argue that this incident constitutes misuse of technology equipment, which is disciplined as a Level C offense (R-3). Petitioners further argue that that the first offense for a Level C offense is one Saturday suspension (R-4), and the penalties imposed on T.Y. are in far excess of what is prescribed, and is arbitrary and capricious.

The Board argues that this offense constitutes plagiarism, which has specific penalties outlined under that chapter of the handbook (R-2), and the penalties imposed are well within that section. The Board further argues that level offense are penalties that can be imposed, and the handbook also states that they have the authority to administer a higher level of discipline or may take other appropriate action when deemed necessary.

As stated above, the actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity. A specific policy and punishment was established by the Board with respect to plagiarism and enumerated in the School Handbook. Based on these factors, I FIND that the petitioners did not meet their burden of proof that there is a legal right underlying the claim.

Clearly, the respondent has a substantial interest in preventing plagiarism and cheating, as well as ensuring that its disciplinary policies are applied. If it did not enforce its disciplinary policies, the Board would be sending the wrong kind of message and possibly establishing a dangerous precedent. Consequently, I FIND that Respondent will suffer greater harm than Petitioners if the requested relief is granted.

DECISION AND ORDER

Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m) 1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 are written in the conjunctive and the petitioners have failed to satisfy any of the four requirements, I CONCLUDE that the Petitioners have failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Petition of T.Y. for emergent relief is DENIED without prejudice.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner claims that respondent Board violated his tenure rights by failing to appoint him to a part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator for the 2005-2006 school year. The petitioner holds an Educational Services certificate with endorsement as a Coordinator of Industrial Education (C.I.E.), and had been employed by respondent as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program between 1995 and 2004. Petitioner does not hold an endorsement as Apprentice Coordinator. Respondent Board contends that petitioner is not tenured because he does not hold the proper certification pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the regulations clearly differentiate the County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement from the C.I.E. endorsement; petitioner does not possess the proper endorsement for the Apprenticeship Coordinator position; petitioner's prior employment as Apprenticeship Coordinator was based on waivers granted by the New Jersey Department of Education to the district, and cannot be construed as service under an appropriate certificate; petitioner did not take steps towards securing the appropriate endorsement, contending that it was impossible to attain, nor did he apply for an emergency County Apprenticeship Coordinator certificate. The ALJ concluded that petitioner had not gained tenure in the position of Apprenticeship Coordinator because he did not possess the required endorsement, and therefore cannot assert a seniority right to the part-time Apprentice Coordinator position reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year. The ALJ dismissed the petition.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner has no tenure rights and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that the referenced waivers permitted the district to employ a less-than-fully certified person, but did not operate to confer upon petitioner the certification necessary to meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The Commissioner also noted that petitioner's contentions regarding the requirements for the Apprentice Coordinator certificate should have been directed to the State Board of Examiners in the context of an application for certification.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board of Education's reply was untimely filed[1] and consequently has not been considered.

On exception, petitioner reasserts his claim to both tenured status and the position of part-time Apprentice Coordinator, substantially reiterating the arguments of his post-hearing brief as summarized in the Initial Decision. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-7) He urges rejection of the OAL's decision because the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to take sufficient account of the "specific, somewhat unique facts of this case," ignoring that: 1) the Department of Education made it impossible, by including a course that was "simply was not taught in the state," to meet the academic requirements for certification as an Apprentice Programs Coordinator; and 2) the Board was issued a

[1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d), any reply to exceptions is due within five business days of receipt thereof. Petitioner's exceptions were served on the Board by regular mail on May 9, 2007; the Board's reply – dated May 22, 2007 – was filed with the Commissioner on May 30, 2007 with neither an explanation for its late date nor an extension having previously been requested pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

waiver allowing petitioner to work as Apprentice Coordinator under his C.I.E. Coordinator certificate, so that he did, in fact, possess an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of acquiring tenure in the position. The narrow reading of the law espoused by the ALJ, petitioner opines, results in "another example of an employee who plays by the rules [but] is denied tenure protections because of the actions, or inactions of other entities, whether the respondent or the Department of Education." (Id. at 3)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ did, in fact, consider the circumstances stressed by petitioner, but concluded nonetheless – correctly – that petitioner did not hold the requisite certificate to obtain tenure as an Apprentice Coordinator, nor did he take steps to acquire it while employed with the district. (Initial Decision at 12-13.) The Commissioner notes in this regard that the waivers in question were granted to the district to permit it to employ a less-than-fully certified person in the position of Apprentice Coordinator, and such action does not – indeed, cannot, in view of the process for issuance of certificates by the State Board of Examiners – concomitantly confer upon petitioner as an individual the certification necessary to fulfill the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Moreover, petitioner's contention that the correct certificate was "impossible" to obtain because one required course was not easily available could and should have been raised before the State Board of Examiners in the context of an application for certification, the Examiners' decision on which could then have been appealed to the Commissioner if petitioner believed it to be arbitrary or unlawful. Thus lacking the requisite certificate, as found by the ALJ, petitioner has no entitlement to tenure status, nor to the ancillary relief sought in the Petition. (Initial Decision at 14-15)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03291-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 379-12/05

ROBERT LAGRUTTA,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,

Respondent.

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for petitioner (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

John M. Mills, III, Esq., for respondent (Mills & Mills, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 12, 2007 Decided: April 27, 2007

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Robert LaGrutta, claims that the respondent, the Board of Education of the Morris County Vocational School District (the Board), violated his tenure rights by failing to appoint him to a part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator. The Board controverts petitioner's tenure claim and entitlement to the position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 19, 2005, petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education asserting that the Board's failure to employ him as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator for the 2005-2006 school year violated petitioner's tenure rights. Petitioner seeks an order directing the Board to employ him as its part-time Apprentice Coordinator and granting back pay together with any other benefits or emoluments of employment and interest. On January 19, 2006, the Board filed an Answer and Separate Defenses. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on March 13, 2006, it was filed for hearing as a contested case. A hearing was held on November 28, 2006, after which the record remained open for the receipt of post-hearing briefs. The parties submitted briefs in support of their respective positions and the record closed on February 12, 2007.[1]

FINDINGS OF FACT

The majority of the facts surrounding this matter are not in dispute. At the commencement of the hearing, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Facts memorializing the parties' agreement with regard to certain facts and the admission of various documents in evidence. Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence presented, including the Stipulation of Facts (Stip.), and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner, Robert LaGrutta, was employed by the Board as an Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program for the following school years: 1995-96; 1996-97; 1997-98; 1998-99; 1999-2000; 2000-01; 2001-02; 2002-03 and 2003-04. (Stip. at ¶1; J-1 to J-9).

[1] An order was entered extending the time within which to file this Initial Decision.

2. While employed by the Board, petitioner worked four days per week, part-time, arriving at approximately 2:45 p.m. and working until 7:30 p.m. (Stip. at ¶2).

3. Petitioner's employment with the Board commenced after his full-time employment with the Wayne Township Board of Education. Petitioner has been employed by the Wayne Township Board of Education as a full-time Cooperative Industrial Education (C.I.E.) Coordinator for approximately thirty-three years.

4. During the summer, petitioner worked up to five days per week for approximately six to eight hours Monday through Thursday and less than six hours on Friday.

5. During the course of the performance of his duties as Apprentice Coordinator, petitioner was evaluated. (Stip. at ¶4). The following evaluations were annexed to the Stipulation of Facts: May 13, 2002 (J-11); December 14, 2001 (J-12); June 28, 2001 (J-13); January 31, 2001 (J-14); June 12, 2000 (J-15); November 29, 1999 (J-16); June 3, 1999 (J-17); December 7, 1998 (J-18); June 9, 1998 (J-19); January 6, 1998 (J-20); June 16, 1997 (J-21); December 10, 1996 (J-22) and July 29, 1996 (J-23).

6. The Job Descriptions in effect during petitioner's employment as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator list, as qualifications for the position, that the individual "[s]hall hold appropriate certificates as required by the Department of Education" as well as meet the qualifications as established by the Board of Education. (J-29, J-30, J-31).

7. Petitioner holds an Educational Services certificate authorizing him to serve as a C.I.E. Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶3; J-10).

8. Petitioner does not hold an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement.

9. James Rodgers has served as the district's Superintendent of Schools since July 2002.

10. Kenneth Williams has been employed by the Board as its Director of Adult Education since August 2002.

11. Petitioner acknowledged that the issue regarding petitioner not holding a certificate for the Apprentice Coordinator position arose after Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Williams commenced employment with the district and petitioner had discussions with them in or around 2002 concerning obtaining the necessary certificate.

12. On an excerpt from the New Jersey Department of Education website setting forth requirements for licensure for the position of Apprentice Coordinator, Mr. Williams wrote a note to petitioner, dated June 23, 2003, indicating petitioner's "need to pursue this." (R-1).

13. Petitioner did not undertake to obtain an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement during his employment with the Board.

14. On January 12, 1999, the Board approved an "Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Application" to waive the course requirement of "Industrial and Labor Relations" for Apprenticeship Coordinator certification "as no such course is offered at surrounding colleges/universities." (R-1). The Board also completed a "New Jersey State Department of Education Regulatory Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Form," dated January 14, 1999, requesting a waiver of the above course requirement since it "is not offered at any of the surrounding universities." (R-1).

15. On or about June 10, 2004, the Board posted an opening for the position of Apprenticeship Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶5; J-24).

16. This position was available for the 2004-2005 school year as an eleven month, full-time position (i.e. 8:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. plus one late evening per week). (Stip. at ¶5, J-24).

17. The Board was planning to create this full-time position in early Spring, 2004. (Stip. at ¶5).

18. On June 8, 2004, the Board adopted a Job Description for the eleven month Apprentice Coordinator position. (J-32).

19. On June 17, 2004, Superintendent of Schools James Rogers called petitioner into his office to inform petitioner that the new position was now full-time and that petitioner was welcome to apply.

20. Although petitioner described being interviewed by Mr. Rogers during this meeting, applying for the full-time position and thereafter never hearing back from the district, the undersigned finds this testimony to be overborne by the testimony of Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Williams, both of whom credibly testified that petitioner did not apply in writing or by verbal communication for the posted full-time Apprentice Coordinator position for the 2004-2005 school year.

21. Petitioner has not worked in respondent's school district since June, 2004.

22. The Board received no applications in response to the posted position from an applicant holding an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement.

23. The Board appointed Joseph Rooney, who was already employed as C.I.E. Coordinator, to the additional position of Apprenticeship Coordinator for the 2004-2005 school year. Mr. Rooney was certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator when he filled the position. (Stip. at ¶6).

24. On or about July 6, 2005, the Board posted an opening for the position of Coordinator of Industrial Education

(C.I.E.)/Apprenticeship Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶7; J-25). This was to be a twelve month, full-time position. (J-25).

25. The Board did not notify petitioner of the creation of this position. (Stip. at ¶7).

26. Mr. Rooney fulfilled the duties of C.I.E. Coordinator and Apprenticeship Coordinator for the 2004-2005 school year. (Stip. at ¶8).

27. In the opinion of the Board, the combined responsibilities did not work out so the Board continued Mr. Rooney's employment solely as full-time C.I.E. Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶8).

28. As a result, after the initial posting for the full-time combined Coordinator of Industrial Education (C.I.E.)/Apprenticeship Coordinator position, the Board determined to separate the full-time C.I.E. Coordinator position from the Apprentice Coordinator position.

29. On or about July 25, 2005, the Board posted an opening for the position of Apprentice Coordinator – Part Time. (Stip. at ¶9; J-26). The qualifications for the position listed in the posted notice state: "New Jersey Certified as Apprentice Coordinator." (J-26).

30. The Board did not notify petitioner of the creation of this position. (Stip. at ¶9).

31. The Board received no applications in response to the posted Apprentice Coordinator-Part Time position.

32. The Board did not fill the Apprentice Coordinator–Part Time position. (Stip. at ¶10).

33. On or about September 13, 2005, the Board adopted a resolution appointing "Ken Williams, Director of Adult Education as acting apprentice coordinator until such time as a permanent replacement is found." (Stip. at ¶11; J-27).

34. Mr. Williams is not certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator or Apprentice Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶12).

35. On or about June 27, 2006, the Board adopted a resolution reappointing "Ken Williams as County Apprentice Coordinator for the period from July 1, 2006 through June 30, 2007." (Stip. at ¶13; J-28).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The tenure laws, N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-1 to -18, define the conditions under which teaching staff members are entitled to the security of tenure. Tenure has been described as a "statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment status." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), cert. den., 371 U.S. 956, 83 S. Ct. 508, 9 L. Ed. 2d. 502 (1963). The statutory provisions supersede contractual terms. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). The objective of the tenure statutes is to protect competent and qualified teaching staff members, after a probationary period, from removal for "unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons." Zimmerman, supra., 38 N.J. at 71. They are "designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to principals and teachers a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister. v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949).

"The right to tenure is created and governed entirely by statute." Breitwieser v. State-Operated School District of Jersey City, 286 N.J. Super. 633, 637 (App. Div. 1996). To acquire the security of tenure, the precise requirements set forth in the statute must be met. Picogna v. Cherry Hill Bd. of Educ., 143 N.J. 391, 400 (1996); Kletzkin v. Spotswood Bd. of Educ., 136 N.J. 275, 278 (1993); Spiewak, supra., 90 N.J. at 72; Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 72; Ahrensfield v. State Bd. of Educ., 126 N.J.L. 543, 544 (E & A 1941). The employee shoulders the burden of proving an entitlement to tenure protection, which ordinarily must be clearly proven. Canfield v. Pine Hills Bd.

of Educ., 51 N.J. 400 (1968), rev'd. on dissent, 97 N.J. Super. 483, 493 (App. Div. 1967).

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 governs the requirements for tenure. The statute directs in pertinent part:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal..., assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses..., school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect..., shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (a) Three consecutive calendar years...; or
>
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years. (emphasis added).

Accordingly, in order to gain tenure, a teaching staff member must: (1) work in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) hold the appropriate certificate; and (3) serve the requisite period of time. Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. at 74.

Tenure is achieved in a specific position. Ellicott v. Frankford Twp. Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348 (App. Div. 1991); Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, 1337, adopted, Comm'r., 1982 S.L.D. 1356, aff'd., State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 1554. Tenure is achieved in either one of the positions specifically designated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which are separately tenurable, or in position which requires the teaching staff member to hold an appropriate certificate. Ellicott, supra, 251 N.J. Super. at 347; Duva v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, EDU 9801-98, State Bd. of Educ. (March 6, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html.>.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, a teaching staff member must serve the required probationary period before tenure will accrue. Tenure "arises only by passage of the time fixed by the statute...." Canfield, supra, 97 N.J. Super. at 490. In the within matter, the parties do not contest that part-time employment may be tenure eligible. See Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J. 362 (1983); Spiewak, supra. Similarly, no debate exists that teaching staff members assigned to positions in adult education programs may gain tenure if the conditions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are met. See Trenton Education Assoc. v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 777, adopted in part and remanded in part, Comm'r, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 780, decision on remand, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 781, modified, Comm'r, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 783, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 328; Rabolli v. Bergen County Vocational-Technical Schools Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 196, adopted, Comm'r, 1983 S.L.D. 210, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 217. Equally undisputed is that petitioner was employed by the Board, on a part-time basis, as the Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program for nine consecutive school years, which is plainly sufficient to meet the service time requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, the parties' paths diverge concerning whether petitioner served the requisite period of time under an appropriate certificate.

All teaching staff members employed in the public schools must generally be "the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of...pupils in such public schools...." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.1(a). In order to achieve tenured status, a teaching staff member must possess an appropriate certificate. In this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 specifically excludes from tenure protection teaching staff members "who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect." Additionally, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 unambiguously directs that "[n]o teaching staff member shall acquire tenure in any position in the public schools...who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate for such position, issued by the State Board of Examiners, in full force and effect...."

The State Board has implemented the certification requirement by authorizing the issuance of three categories of educational certificates: Instructional, Administrative and Educational Services. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.2(a). The State Board has designated endorsements under each type of certificate, which identify the specific area in which a certificate holder is authorized to serve. The regulations set forth various endorsements that may be issued under an Educational Services certificate. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.1 et seq. Pertinent to the within matter, the endorsements include a cooperative education coordinator endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.20, and a County apprenticeship coordinator endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21.

In general, a cooperative education coordinator (CEC) endorsement is required for an individual to serve in the capacity as a coordinator supervising vocational students who are participating in cooperative education experiences in non-hazardous occupations and this endorsement also permits the individual to supervise students participating in any other non-hazardous structured learning experience in any career cluster. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.20(a). An individual holding a cooperative industrial education (C.I.E.) endorsement "may serve in a position requiring the CEC endorsement in any career cluster." N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13-20(c).

A separate endorsement is required for the position of County Apprentice Coordinator. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21, which establishes the certification process and requirements for this position, provides in pertinent part:

> The county apprenticeship coordinator endorsement is required for the position of county apprentice coordinator in any county vocational school district conducting an apprenticeship program. The endorsement authorizes the holder to approve and coordinate apprenticeship training programs in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:8 and 6A:19.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(a)] [2]

[2] The "certificate" requirement for the position of Apprentice Coordinator was previously codified in N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.4 and included the "Industrial and labor relations" course requirement referred to in the Regulatory Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Form dated January 14, 1999. The new rules adopted as N.J.A.C. 6A:9, effective January 20, 2004, eliminated this course requirement and codified the requirement for a "county apprenticeship coordinator endorsement" in N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.22. See 36 N.J.R. 469 (January 20, 2004).

In Breitwieser, supra, the Appellate Division addressed whether service under an emergency certificate as a teacher of the handicapped could be tacked on to the petitioner's service under permanent certification as an elementary teacher for purposes of acquiring tenure. The petitioner was appointed as a full-time teacher of the handicapped with the district effective September 1, 1989. When appointed, the petitioner held an emergency certificate for Teacher of the Handicapped and a permanent certificate as an Elementary School Teacher. The petitioner did not obtain or become eligible for a standard certificate as Teacher of the Handicapped during her employment with the district. In March 1990, the petitioner requested a transfer from her position as teacher of the handicapped to a position as an elementary school teacher, which was granted. The petitioner was transferred on March 9, 1990 and, thereafter, was hired as an elementary school teacher for the 1990-1991, 1991-1992 and 1992-1993 school years. By letter dated December 14, 1992, the district advised the petitioner that she was terminated effective February 12, 1993. The pivotal issue concerned whether petitioner's prior service under an emergency certificate as teacher of the handicapped could be counted towards the service period needed for tenure since her service under the elementary school standard certificate fell several weeks short of the period required for tenure.

The Appellate Division observed that "[e]mergency certificates are issued only on the application of a public-school district when the district is unable to locate a suitable standard-certified teacher due to unforeseen shortages or other extenuating circumstances." Breitwieser, supra, 286 N.J. Super. at 639. The court explained that:

> [a] teacher may not acquire tenure solely upon service under an emergency certificate. No matter how long a teacher serves under an emergency certificate, tenure is unavailable.... This is because holders of emergency certificates 'have not fully satisfied the educational prerequisites for standard certification, nor are they entitled to automatic renewal of the privilege to teach accorded them by the emergency certification process'.... The requirement that teachers hold a non-emergency certificate to obtain tenure is appropriate because emergency-certified teachers are by definition unqualified to hold their position. They hold their positions temporarily, subject to termination or non-renewal as > soon as the district locates a provisionally or permanently certified teacher.

> [Id. at 640-41]

While recognizing that "emergency-certificate service is not always excluded from calculation of a teacher's period of service for purposes of the tenure statute," the Appellate Division held that "service under an emergency certificate may be counted towards the service needed for tenure only when that service is followed by the teacher ultimately obtaining a permanent certificate in the same field as the emergency certificate." Id. at 643, 644. Accordingly, since the petitioner never received a standard certificate as teacher of the handicapped, the court concluded her emergency service could not be counted towards tenure and such emergency service was not under an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of the tenure statute. Id. at 645-46.

It is against this backdrop that the parties' positions are considered.

Petitioner asserts that he gained tenure in the part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator and that his "tenure rights were violated when he was not reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year and thereafter." At the hearing, petitioner testified that, during his employment, the district applied for and was granted waivers from the Department of Education, which petitioner understood was a waiver on behalf of the district that authorized his employment. Petitioner indicated that, although the Apprentice Coordinator endorsement existed during his employment, it could not be obtained because a required course was not offered in any State college, acknowledging, however, that petitioner was unaware whether the course was offered out of state. Petitioner argues in his post-hearing submission that "under the circumstances of this case," petitioner "held certification sufficient for employment in the position in question" and held "an appropriate certificate." Specifically, petitioner maintains that he "was certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator," "[b]ased upon the express waiver granted to the District (R-1), this certificate was all that was required for employment as Apprentice Coordinator" and, "[b]ecause a required course was not offered in New Jersey, obtaining an additional certificate, such as Coordinator: Apprentice Programs, was impossible." In short, the Board contends that since petitioner "does not hold a Certificate for Apprenticeship Coordinator" he "could not accrue tenure status in that part-time position."

The regulations make clear that a County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement is a separate and distinct endorsement from a C.I.E. endorsement, and that a County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement is required for the position of County Apprentice Coordinator. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(a). It is undisputed that petitioner does not possess an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement. Accordingly, since petitioner did not hold an "appropriate" certificate for the position in issue, he did not accrue tenure status in that part-time position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The record reveals that petitioner served as the Apprentice Coordinator for several years, which appears to have been based on waivers granted by the Department of Education to the district.[3] However, while such a waiver may have permitted the district to employ petitioner, similar to an emergency certificate, this service is not under an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of the tenure statute. Indeed, petitioner acknowledged that he did not take steps towards securing the appropriate endorsement during his employment with the Board and no evidence suggests that petitioner applied for an emergency County Apprenticeship Coordinator certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(c).

In sum, tenure protection in a position is limited to teaching staff members who hold an appropriate certificate for that position issued by the State Board of Examiners. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. This certificate requirement is mandated by the tenure statutes and is a necessary prerequisite to achieve tenure. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that, since petitioner did not possess the endorsement required for the position in issue, he did not gain tenure in that position.

[3] The Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Application Form submitted at the hearing references N.J.A.C. 6:3A. The cited regulations addressed Regulatory Equivalency and Waiver and were recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.1, et. seq. In general, the purpose of the regulations is to provide regulatory flexibility for school districts to meet the requirements of the rules contained in Title 6 and Title 6A of the New Jersey Administrative Code and the regulations permit the Commissioner to approve a waiver to a specific rule based upon application submitted by a school district. See N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.5.

Seniority refers to an employee's bumping rights upon a reduction in force (RIF). Howley, supra, 1982 S.L.D. at 1339. It is a concept that applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and only has meaning when a RIF is necessary. Id. at 1340. The concept of seniority becomes relevant only after tenure has been achieved. "[S]eniority provides a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions among the tenured force can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational policies." Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super. 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 109 N.J. 514 (1987). Dismissals resulting from a RIF must be made on the basis of seniority according to standards established by the Commissioner and approved by the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10. See N.J.A.C. 6A:32:5.1. A tenured member dismissed as a result of a RIF must be maintained on a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person is qualified and must be reemployed if and when such vacancy occurs. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. As explained in Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 531 (App. Div. 1999), "[w]hen a school board deems it necessary to eliminate a position, 'seniority' is a right afforded to tenured employees entitling the employee to either continue in an existing job opening based upon their longevity of employment or to be placed upon an eligible list for reemployment when a new position becomes available." Simply put, I CONCLUDE that, inasmuch as petitioner did not acquire tenure, he cannot assert a seniority right to the part-time Apprentice Coordinator position reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year.

In view of the foregoing, it is unnecessary to address petitioner's argument that his tenure rights were violated because "the evidence establishes that there was no actual reduction in force or elimination of the Apprentice Coordinator position" but, rather, "the duties and responsibilities of the position were simply transferred, in full, to another employee"; first to Mr. Rooney for the 2004-2005 school year and then to Mr. Williams for the subsequent years. Notwithstanding, it is observed that the statutory provisions afford boards of education wide latitude in the organization of its staff to meet the district's needs. A board may effectuate a reduction in force for reasons of economy, because of a change in the administrative or supervisory organization or for other good cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The courts have consistently recognized that a RIF "whether of tenured or nontenured teachers, if done for reasons of economy, is entirely within the authority of the board." Maywood Bd. of Educ. v. Maywood Educ. Assoc., 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div. 1979), certif. denied, 81 N.J. 292 (1979). See Jamison v. Morris School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 198 N.J. Super. 411, 414-15 (App. Div. 1985); Klinger v. Cranbury Twp. Bd. of Educ., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277 (1983). Further recognized is that "[t]he determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions." Impey v. Shrewsbury Bd. of Educ., 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div. 1994), aff'd, 142 N.J. 388, 399 (1995). See Klinger, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 357.

At the hearing, the Board's witnesses described the rationale underlying the Board's determinations to make the Apprentice Coordinator a full-time position for the 2004-2005 school year and to reinstate the part-time position for the subsequent school years. Further, as observed by the Board in its post-hearing submission, by placing the Apprentice Coordinator position under the umbrella of the Director of Adult Education in 2005 and 2006, the Board has essentially effectuated a reduction in force. Suffice it to say, the Board acted within the scope of its authority and the Board's actions cannot be viewed as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Indeed, to the extent that petitioner's arguments can be construed as a challenge to the Board's action in June 2004 to make the position a full-time position, any such claim would appear to be barred under the ninety-day rule. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's Verified Petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 11, 2006 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for March 27, 2007, which was adjourned due to a possible settlement.

On April 3, 2007, the parties were able to resolve the matter. On April 30, 2007, the undersigned received the original copy of the Stipulation in Lieu of Judgment and the Stipulation of Dismissal. See attached copy.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 16, 2007, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons detailed in his Order – that petitioners have failed to satisfy any of the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

R.Y. and E.Y., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, T.Y.,
Petitioners,

v.

MOORESTOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

R.Y. and E.Y., petitioners, appearing pro se
Arthur Risden, Esq., for respondent (Archer & Greiner, attorneys)

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

R.Y. and E.Y., on behalf of minor child T.Y. (petitioners), assert that the punishment imposed on their son, including the removal from an Honors class at Moorestown High School (School) for plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads is arbitrary, and capricious. The Moorestown Board of Education (Board) asserts that more than twenty students were found to have been involved in plagiarism and possession of unauthorized downloads from the school internet site, and the punishments for such behavior are set forth in the student handbook and are not arbitrary and capricious.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 30, 2007, Petitioners filed an application for emergent relief with the Commissioner of Education. The application stated the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by imposing the punishment on their son, including the removal of their son from the Honors program and a two-day in school suspension.

On May 4, 2007, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the requested emergent relief on May 16, 2007. On that date, the case was heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township) and the record closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

T.Y. is a ninth grade Moorestown student who was enrolled in the Honors Computer Assisted Drafting 1 course (CAD 1) during the current academic school year.

On or about March 1, 2007, the school became aware of potentially widespread cheating in the CAD 1 class. The School began an investigation to determine the full extent of the cheating in the CAD I class, as well as what steps need to be implemented to prevent this type of situation in the future (R-2). The Moorestown Student Handbook provides that plagiarism will not be tolerated in any schoolwork, and it will result in the loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions, and/or loss of credit for the course (R-10). The Moorestown's Acceptable Use Agreement and Policy No. 6142.10 specifically provides that users will respect the rights of others by complying with all school district policies regarding plagiarism (R-13).

The Administration presented the students in CAD I with the opportunity to come forward to admit to any violations of policies and guidelines, and indicated that students who came forward would be disciplined, but more leniently than those who did not come forward (R-2, R-15, R-16).

On March 9, 2007, T.Y. submitted a written admission that he had copied two drawings from another student (R-6). He was one of twenty-one students who came forward.

The School determined that students who came forward would be treated with leniency, when compared to the traditional consequences for plagiarism. Although the students who came forward faced the same discipline, the school alleges each student was considered individually, and special accommodations were offered, when appropriate, such as for special education students and senior students. Specifically, the students were afforded safeguards regarding credit, the ability to retake the course, and counseling on how to handle questions about the incident during the college admission process, if asked (R-2, R-15, R-16). Students who would not be able to graduate or be promoted were given the opportunity to earn enough credits to graduate or be promoted.

Based on his admission, T.Y. was charged with possession of a file that was determined to be the work of another student, and the use of a computer file that was the work of another student, defined as plagiarism.

As a result of these charges, T.Y. received an administrative withdrawal from CAD I, with a final grade of W (Withdraw), suspension of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007, a two-day in-school suspension, and ten social probation points. Customarily, such conduct would result in an academic withdrawal with a final grade of WF (Withdraw-Fail), which impacts the G.P.A., suspension of MooreNet privileges for the remainder of the school year, a five-day out-of-school suspension, and twenty-five social probation points (R-15).

Any student who came forward, including T.Y., was afforded special safeguards, including the ability to maintain sufficient credits for the current year, despite the loss of five CAD I credits, the ability to retake CAD I, and discussions with parents regarding how a student should handle questions about the plagiarism suspension during the college admission process, if asked (R-2, R-15, R-16).

The petitioners assert that T.Y. copied two drawings, which were not projects. He had completed approximately one hundred drawings, and only two were the subject of this action.

The preceding information has not been disputed or contradicted by the parties, and is found as fact.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The standards which must be met by the moving party in an application for emergent relief in a matter concerning a special needs child are embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m)1, N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1, and Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Emergency relief may only be granted if the judge determines that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

The petitioners argue that T.Y. will suffer irreparable harm because he will not be able to catch-up in the CAD I class unless he is reinstated immediately; he will not be able to attend all of the classes available in the architecture/engineering field if he has to take CAD I next year, and that he will have a difficult time explaining to colleges and universities why he withdrew from CAD I. Petitioners allege that if T.Y. is asked to explain his two day suspension for copying two drawings out of the one hundred he completed on his own, this explanation will not be believed by an admissions officer.

Although Petitioners may sincerely believe T.Y. will suffer some or all of these problems if he is not reinstated in CAD I, T.Y. will have the opportunity to take CAD I next year. He has enough credits to be promoted to tenth grade. Although the petitioners certainly raise important arguments as to the effect of this action on college admission and the ability to take future honors course, T.Y. is only a freshman. Any effect on future classes or college admission is only speculative. Therefore, I FIND the petitioners have been unable to meet their burden that T.Y. will suffer irreparable harm if this relief is not granted.

Student's choice in specific courses, curriculum materials, assignments, and teachers are matters of educational policy and not constitutional rights. J.L. and J.E.H. o/b/o T.H.I. v. Board of Education of the Hopewell Valley Regional School District, EDU 2658-99, Initial Decision (August 20, 1999, adopted, Commissioner of Education (October 18, 1999), and, adopted, State Board of Education (February 2, 2000). The determination of placement, suspension, or withdrawal from an Honors course is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm.

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. The School has clearly established a policy that does not tolerate plagiarism and any students found to violate that policy will face loss of credit for the assignment, out-of-school suspensions and/or loss of credit for a course. As a result, I FIND that Respondent's actions in applying its policy to withdraw T.Y. from CAD I with a final grade of W (Withdraw); suspend of his MooreNet privileges until Friday, March 16, 2007; suspend T.Y. in-school for two days; and assess ten social probation points due to his conduct cannot be disturbed.

Petitioners allege that the penalty given to their son was arbitrary and capricious, because some students may have had the opportunity to make up some credits to graduate or be promoted, but their son was not given the opportunity to do so because he had enough credits to be promoted. I do not agree. These safeguards were put into place to ensure that all students would be able to graduate or be promoted, similar to T.Y. If these safeguards were not put in place, some students would face a much harsher punishment; the inability to graduate or be promoted.

Petitioners further argue that this offense does not constitute plagiarism, because the copied materials are drawings, and not class projects. Petitioners refer to the Moorestown Student Handbook, which states that "students who found to have plagiarized on school exams, term papers, research assignments or class projects" will face punishment referred to herein (R-10). I do not find that the definition of plagiarism is to be that limited or strictly construed. The Handbook also states that "all assessments/assignments must be independently completed. This includes homework" (R-10). Therefore, I further FIND it unlikely that the Petitioners would have prevailed on the merits.

Petitioners cite N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) in reliance of their position that the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(b)(6) provides that a code of conduct shall be created:

> Establish parameters for school responses to violations of the code of student conduct that take into account, at a minimum, the severity of the offenses, the developmental ages of the student offenders and students' histories of inappropriate behavior.

Petitioners allege that Moorestown failed to take into account these standards.

The Board asserts that they did, including his status as a freshman and lack of a disciplinary record. Petitioners further argue that this incident constitutes misuse of technology equipment, which is disciplined as a Level C offense (R-3). Petitioners further argue that that the first offense for a Level C offense is one Saturday suspension (R-4), and the penalties imposed on T.Y. are in far excess of what is prescribed, and is arbitrary and capricious.

The Board argues that this offense constitutes plagiarism, which has specific penalties outlined under that chapter of the handbook (R-2), and the penalties imposed are well within that section. The Board further argues that level offense are penalties that can be imposed, and the handbook also states that they have the authority to administer a higher level of discipline or may take other appropriate action when deemed necessary.

As stated above, the actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity. A specific policy and punishment was established by the Board with respect to plagiarism and enumerated in the School Handbook. Based on these factors, I FIND that the petitioners did not meet their burden of proof that there is a legal right underlying the claim.

Clearly, the respondent has a substantial interest in preventing plagiarism and cheating, as well as ensuring that its disciplinary policies are applied. If it did not enforce its disciplinary policies, the Board would be sending the wrong kind of message and possibly establishing a dangerous precedent. Consequently, I FIND that Respondent will suffer greater harm than Petitioners if the requested relief is granted.

DECISION AND ORDER

Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m) 1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 are written in the conjunctive and the petitioners have failed to satisfy any of the four requirements, I CONCLUDE that the Petitioners have failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Petition of T.Y. for emergent relief is DENIED without prejudice.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner claims that respondent Board violated his tenure rights by failing to appoint him to a part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator for the 2005-2006 school year. The petitioner holds an Educational Services certificate with endorsement as a Coordinator of Industrial Education (C.I.E.), and had been employed by respondent as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program between 1995 and 2004. Petitioner does not hold an endorsement as Apprentice Coordinator. Respondent Board contends that petitioner is not tenured because he does not hold the proper certification pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the regulations clearly differentiate the County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement from the C.I.E. endorsement; petitioner does not possess the proper endorsement for the Apprenticeship Coordinator position; petitioner's prior employment as Apprenticeship Coordinator was based on waivers granted by the New Jersey Department of Education to the district, and cannot be construed as service under an appropriate certificate; petitioner did not take steps towards securing the appropriate endorsement, contending that it was impossible to attain, nor did he apply for an emergency County Apprenticeship Coordinator certificate. The ALJ concluded that petitioner had not gained tenure in the position of Apprenticeship Coordinator because he did not possess the required endorsement, and therefore cannot assert a seniority right to the part-time Apprentice Coordinator position reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year. The ALJ dismissed the petition.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner has no tenure rights and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that the referenced waivers permitted the district to employ a less-than-fully certified person, but did not operate to confer upon petitioner the certification necessary to meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The Commissioner also noted that petitioner's contentions regarding the requirements for the Apprentice Coordinator certificate should have been directed to the State Board of Examiners in the context of an application for certification.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board of Education's reply was untimely filed[1] and consequently has not been considered.

On exception, petitioner reasserts his claim to both tenured status and the position of part-time Apprentice Coordinator, substantially reiterating the arguments of his post-hearing brief as summarized in the Initial Decision. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-7) He urges rejection of the OAL's decision because the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to take sufficient account of the "specific, somewhat unique facts of this case," ignoring that: 1) the Department of Education made it impossible, by including a course that was "simply was not taught in the state," to meet the academic requirements for certification as an Apprentice Programs Coordinator; and 2) the Board was issued a

[1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d), any reply to exceptions is due within five business days of receipt thereof. Petitioner's exceptions were served on the Board by regular mail on May 9, 2007; the Board's reply – dated May 22, 2007 – was filed with the Commissioner on May 30, 2007 with neither an explanation for its late date nor an extension having previously been requested pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

waiver allowing petitioner to work as Apprentice Coordinator under his C.I.E. Coordinator certificate, so that he did, in fact, possess an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of acquiring tenure in the position. The narrow reading of the law espoused by the ALJ, petitioner opines, results in "another example of an employee who plays by the rules [but] is denied tenure protections because of the actions, or inactions of other entities, whether the respondent or the Department of Education." (Id. at 3)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ did, in fact, consider the circumstances stressed by petitioner, but concluded nonetheless – correctly – that petitioner did not hold the requisite certificate to obtain tenure as an Apprentice Coordinator, nor did he take steps to acquire it while employed with the district. (Initial Decision at 12-13.) The Commissioner notes in this regard that the waivers in question were granted to the district to permit it to employ a less-than-fully certified person in the position of Apprentice Coordinator, and such action does not – indeed, cannot, in view of the process for issuance of certificates by the State Board of Examiners – concomitantly confer upon petitioner as an individual the certification necessary to fulfill the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Moreover, petitioner's contention that the correct certificate was "impossible" to obtain because one required course was not easily available could and should have been raised before the State Board of Examiners in the context of an application for certification, the Examiners' decision on which could then have been appealed to the Commissioner if petitioner believed it to be arbitrary or unlawful. Thus lacking the requisite certificate, as found by the ALJ, petitioner has no entitlement to tenure status, nor to the ancillary relief sought in the Petition. (Initial Decision at 14-15)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03291-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 379-12/05

ROBERT LAGRUTTA,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,

Respondent.

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for petitioner (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

John M. Mills, III, Esq., for respondent (Mills & Mills, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 12, 2007 Decided: April 27, 2007

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Robert LaGrutta, claims that the respondent, the Board of Education of the Morris County Vocational School District (the Board), violated his tenure rights by failing to appoint him to a part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator. The Board controverts petitioner's tenure claim and entitlement to the position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 19, 2005, petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education asserting that the Board's failure to employ him as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator for the 2005-2006 school year violated petitioner's tenure rights. Petitioner seeks an order directing the Board to employ him as its part-time Apprentice Coordinator and granting back pay together with any other benefits or emoluments of employment and interest. On January 19, 2006, the Board filed an Answer and Separate Defenses. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on March 13, 2006, it was filed for hearing as a contested case. A hearing was held on November 28, 2006, after which the record remained open for the receipt of post-hearing briefs. The parties submitted briefs in support of their respective positions and the record closed on February 12, 2007.[1]

FINDINGS OF FACT

The majority of the facts surrounding this matter are not in dispute. At the commencement of the hearing, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Facts memorializing the parties' agreement with regard to certain facts and the admission of various documents in evidence. Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence presented, including the Stipulation of Facts (Stip.), and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner, Robert LaGrutta, was employed by the Board as an Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program for the following school years: 1995-96; 1996-97; 1997-98; 1998-99; 1999-2000; 2000-01; 2001-02; 2002-03 and 2003-04. (Stip. at ¶1; J-1 to J-9).

[1] An order was entered extending the time within which to file this Initial Decision.

2. While employed by the Board, petitioner worked four days per week, part-time, arriving at approximately 2:45 p.m. and working until 7:30 p.m. (Stip. at ¶2).

3. Petitioner's employment with the Board commenced after his full-time employment with the Wayne Township Board of Education. Petitioner has been employed by the Wayne Township Board of Education as a full-time Cooperative Industrial Education (C.I.E.) Coordinator for approximately thirty-three years.

4. During the summer, petitioner worked up to five days per week for approximately six to eight hours Monday through Thursday and less than six hours on Friday.

5. During the course of the performance of his duties as Apprentice Coordinator, petitioner was evaluated. (Stip. at ¶4). The following evaluations were annexed to the Stipulation of Facts: May 13, 2002 (J-11); December 14, 2001 (J-12); June 28, 2001 (J-13); January 31, 2001 (J-14); June 12, 2000 (J-15); November 29, 1999 (J-16); June 3, 1999 (J-17); December 7, 1998 (J-18); June 9, 1998 (J-19); January 6, 1998 (J-20); June 16, 1997 (J-21); December 10, 1996 (J-22) and July 29, 1996 (J-23).

6. The Job Descriptions in effect during petitioner's employment as a part-time Apprentice Coordinator list, as qualifications for the position, that the individual "[s]hall hold appropriate certificates as required by the Department of Education" as well as meet the qualifications as established by the Board of Education. (J-29, J-30, J-31).

7. Petitioner holds an Educational Services certificate authorizing him to serve as a C.I.E. Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶3; J-10).

8. Petitioner does not hold an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement.

9. James Rodgers has served as the district's Superintendent of Schools since July 2002.

10. Kenneth Williams has been employed by the Board as its Director of Adult Education since August 2002.

11. Petitioner acknowledged that the issue regarding petitioner not holding a certificate for the Apprentice Coordinator position arose after Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Williams commenced employment with the district and petitioner had discussions with them in or around 2002 concerning obtaining the necessary certificate.

12. On an excerpt from the New Jersey Department of Education website setting forth requirements for licensure for the position of Apprentice Coordinator, Mr. Williams wrote a note to petitioner, dated June 23, 2003, indicating petitioner's "need to pursue this." (R-1).

13. Petitioner did not undertake to obtain an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement during his employment with the Board.

14. On January 12, 1999, the Board approved an "Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Application" to waive the course requirement of "Industrial and Labor Relations" for Apprenticeship Coordinator certification "as no such course is offered at surrounding colleges/universities." (R-1). The Board also completed a "New Jersey State Department of Education Regulatory Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Form," dated January 14, 1999, requesting a waiver of the above course requirement since it "is not offered at any of the surrounding universities." (R-1).

15. On or about June 10, 2004, the Board posted an opening for the position of Apprenticeship Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶5; J-24).

16. This position was available for the 2004-2005 school year as an eleven month, full-time position (i.e. 8:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. plus one late evening per week). (Stip. at ¶5, J-24).

17. The Board was planning to create this full-time position in early Spring, 2004. (Stip. at ¶5).

18. On June 8, 2004, the Board adopted a Job Description for the eleven month Apprentice Coordinator position. (J-32).

19. On June 17, 2004, Superintendent of Schools James Rogers called petitioner into his office to inform petitioner that the new position was now full-time and that petitioner was welcome to apply.

20. Although petitioner described being interviewed by Mr. Rogers during this meeting, applying for the full-time position and thereafter never hearing back from the district, the undersigned finds this testimony to be overborne by the testimony of Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Williams, both of whom credibly testified that petitioner did not apply in writing or by verbal communication for the posted full-time Apprentice Coordinator position for the 2004-2005 school year.

21. Petitioner has not worked in respondent's school district since June, 2004.

22. The Board received no applications in response to the posted position from an applicant holding an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement.

23. The Board appointed Joseph Rooney, who was already employed as C.I.E. Coordinator, to the additional position of Apprenticeship Coordinator for the 2004-2005 school year. Mr. Rooney was certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator when he filled the position. (Stip. at ¶6).

24. On or about July 6, 2005, the Board posted an opening for the position of Coordinator of Industrial Education

(C.I.E.)/Apprenticeship Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶7; J-25). This was to be a twelve month, full-time position. (J-25).

25. The Board did not notify petitioner of the creation of this position. (Stip. at ¶7).

26. Mr. Rooney fulfilled the duties of C.I.E. Coordinator and Apprenticeship Coordinator for the 2004-2005 school year. (Stip. at ¶8).

27. In the opinion of the Board, the combined responsibilities did not work out so the Board continued Mr. Rooney's employment solely as full-time C.I.E. Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶8).

28. As a result, after the initial posting for the full-time combined Coordinator of Industrial Education (C.I.E.)/Apprenticeship Coordinator position, the Board determined to separate the full-time C.I.E. Coordinator position from the Apprentice Coordinator position.

29. On or about July 25, 2005, the Board posted an opening for the position of Apprentice Coordinator – Part Time. (Stip. at ¶9; J-26). The qualifications for the position listed in the posted notice state: "New Jersey Certified as Apprentice Coordinator." (J-26).

30. The Board did not notify petitioner of the creation of this position. (Stip. at ¶9).

31. The Board received no applications in response to the posted Apprentice Coordinator-Part Time position.

32. The Board did not fill the Apprentice Coordinator–Part Time position. (Stip. at ¶10).

33. On or about September 13, 2005, the Board adopted a resolution appointing "Ken Williams, Director of Adult Education as acting apprentice coordinator until such time as a permanent replacement is found." (Stip. at ¶11; J-27).

34. Mr. Williams is not certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator or Apprentice Coordinator. (Stip. at ¶12).

35. On or about June 27, 2006, the Board adopted a resolution reappointing "Ken Williams as County Apprentice Coordinator for the period from July 1, 2006 through June 30, 2007." (Stip. at ¶13; J-28).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The tenure laws, N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-1 to -18, define the conditions under which teaching staff members are entitled to the security of tenure. Tenure has been described as a "statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment status." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), cert. den., 371 U.S. 956, 83 S. Ct. 508, 9 L. Ed. 2d. 502 (1963). The statutory provisions supersede contractual terms. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). The objective of the tenure statutes is to protect competent and qualified teaching staff members, after a probationary period, from removal for "unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons." Zimmerman, supra., 38 N.J. at 71. They are "designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to principals and teachers a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister. v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949).

"The right to tenure is created and governed entirely by statute." Breitwieser v. State-Operated School District of Jersey City, 286 N.J. Super. 633, 637 (App. Div. 1996). To acquire the security of tenure, the precise requirements set forth in the statute must be met. Picogna v. Cherry Hill Bd. of Educ., 143 N.J. 391, 400 (1996); Kletzkin v. Spotswood Bd. of Educ., 136 N.J. 275, 278 (1993); Spiewak, supra., 90 N.J. at 72; Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 72; Ahrensfield v. State Bd. of Educ., 126 N.J.L. 543, 544 (E & A 1941). The employee shoulders the burden of proving an entitlement to tenure protection, which ordinarily must be clearly proven. Canfield v. Pine Hills Bd.

of Educ., 51 N.J. 400 (1968), rev'd. on dissent, 97 N.J. Super. 483, 493 (App. Div. 1967).

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 governs the requirements for tenure. The statute directs in pertinent part:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal..., assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses..., school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect..., shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (a) Three consecutive calendar years...; or
>
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years. (emphasis added).

Accordingly, in order to gain tenure, a teaching staff member must: (1) work in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) hold the appropriate certificate; and (3) serve the requisite period of time. Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. at 74.

Tenure is achieved in a specific position. Ellicott v. Frankford Twp. Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348 (App. Div. 1991); Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, 1337, adopted, Comm'r., 1982 S.L.D. 1356, aff'd., State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 1554. Tenure is achieved in either one of the positions specifically designated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which are separately tenurable, or in position which requires the teaching staff member to hold an appropriate certificate. Ellicott, supra, 251 N.J. Super. at 347; Duva v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, EDU 9801-98, State Bd. of Educ. (March 6, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html.>.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, a teaching staff member must serve the required probationary period before tenure will accrue. Tenure "arises only by passage of the time fixed by the statute...." Canfield, supra, 97 N.J. Super. at 490. In the within matter, the parties do not contest that part-time employment may be tenure eligible. See Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J. 362 (1983); Spiewak, supra. Similarly, no debate exists that teaching staff members assigned to positions in adult education programs may gain tenure if the conditions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are met. See Trenton Education Assoc. v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 777, adopted in part and remanded in part, Comm'r, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 780, decision on remand, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 781, modified, Comm'r, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 783, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 328; Rabolli v. Bergen County Vocational-Technical Schools Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 196, adopted, Comm'r, 1983 S.L.D. 210, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 217. Equally undisputed is that petitioner was employed by the Board, on a part-time basis, as the Apprentice Coordinator for its Adult Education Program for nine consecutive school years, which is plainly sufficient to meet the service time requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, the parties' paths diverge concerning whether petitioner served the requisite period of time under an appropriate certificate.

All teaching staff members employed in the public schools must generally be "the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of...pupils in such public schools...." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.1(a). In order to achieve tenured status, a teaching staff member must possess an appropriate certificate. In this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 specifically excludes from tenure protection teaching staff members "who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect." Additionally, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 unambiguously directs that "[n]o teaching staff member shall acquire tenure in any position in the public schools...who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate for such position, issued by the State Board of Examiners, in full force and effect...."

The State Board has implemented the certification requirement by authorizing the issuance of three categories of educational certificates: Instructional, Administrative and Educational Services. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.2(a). The State Board has designated endorsements under each type of certificate, which identify the specific area in which a certificate holder is authorized to serve. The regulations set forth various endorsements that may be issued under an Educational Services certificate. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.1 et seq. Pertinent to the within matter, the endorsements include a cooperative education coordinator endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.20, and a County apprenticeship coordinator endorsement, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21.

In general, a cooperative education coordinator (CEC) endorsement is required for an individual to serve in the capacity as a coordinator supervising vocational students who are participating in cooperative education experiences in non-hazardous occupations and this endorsement also permits the individual to supervise students participating in any other non-hazardous structured learning experience in any career cluster. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.20(a). An individual holding a cooperative industrial education (C.I.E.) endorsement "may serve in a position requiring the CEC endorsement in any career cluster." N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13-20(c).

A separate endorsement is required for the position of County Apprentice Coordinator. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21, which establishes the certification process and requirements for this position, provides in pertinent part:

> The county apprenticeship coordinator endorsement is required for the position of county apprentice coordinator in any county vocational school district conducting an apprenticeship program. The endorsement authorizes the holder to approve and coordinate apprenticeship training programs in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:8 and 6A:19.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(a)] [2]

[2] The "certificate" requirement for the position of Apprentice Coordinator was previously codified in N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.4 and included the "Industrial and labor relations" course requirement referred to in the Regulatory Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Form dated January 14, 1999. The new rules adopted as N.J.A.C. 6A:9, effective January 20, 2004, eliminated this course requirement and codified the requirement for a "county apprenticeship coordinator endorsement" in N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.22. See 36 N.J.R. 469 (January 20, 2004).

In Breitwieser, supra, the Appellate Division addressed whether service under an emergency certificate as a teacher of the handicapped could be tacked on to the petitioner's service under permanent certification as an elementary teacher for purposes of acquiring tenure. The petitioner was appointed as a full-time teacher of the handicapped with the district effective September 1, 1989. When appointed, the petitioner held an emergency certificate for Teacher of the Handicapped and a permanent certificate as an Elementary School Teacher. The petitioner did not obtain or become eligible for a standard certificate as Teacher of the Handicapped during her employment with the district. In March 1990, the petitioner requested a transfer from her position as teacher of the handicapped to a position as an elementary school teacher, which was granted. The petitioner was transferred on March 9, 1990 and, thereafter, was hired as an elementary school teacher for the 1990-1991, 1991-1992 and 1992-1993 school years. By letter dated December 14, 1992, the district advised the petitioner that she was terminated effective February 12, 1993. The pivotal issue concerned whether petitioner's prior service under an emergency certificate as teacher of the handicapped could be counted towards the service period needed for tenure since her service under the elementary school standard certificate fell several weeks short of the period required for tenure.

The Appellate Division observed that "[e]mergency certificates are issued only on the application of a public-school district when the district is unable to locate a suitable standard-certified teacher due to unforeseen shortages or other extenuating circumstances." Breitwieser, supra, 286 N.J. Super. at 639. The court explained that:

> [a] teacher may not acquire tenure solely upon service under an emergency certificate. No matter how long a teacher serves under an emergency certificate, tenure is unavailable.... This is because holders of emergency certificates 'have not fully satisfied the educational prerequisites for standard certification, nor are they entitled to automatic renewal of the privilege to teach accorded them by the emergency certification process'.... The requirement that teachers hold a non-emergency certificate to obtain tenure is appropriate because emergency-certified teachers are by definition unqualified to hold their position. They hold their positions temporarily, subject to termination or non-renewal as > soon as the district locates a provisionally or permanently certified teacher.

> [Id. at 640-41]

While recognizing that "emergency-certificate service is not always excluded from calculation of a teacher's period of service for purposes of the tenure statute," the Appellate Division held that "service under an emergency certificate may be counted towards the service needed for tenure only when that service is followed by the teacher ultimately obtaining a permanent certificate in the same field as the emergency certificate." Id. at 643, 644. Accordingly, since the petitioner never received a standard certificate as teacher of the handicapped, the court concluded her emergency service could not be counted towards tenure and such emergency service was not under an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of the tenure statute. Id. at 645-46.

It is against this backdrop that the parties' positions are considered.

Petitioner asserts that he gained tenure in the part-time position of Apprentice Coordinator and that his "tenure rights were violated when he was not reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year and thereafter." At the hearing, petitioner testified that, during his employment, the district applied for and was granted waivers from the Department of Education, which petitioner understood was a waiver on behalf of the district that authorized his employment. Petitioner indicated that, although the Apprentice Coordinator endorsement existed during his employment, it could not be obtained because a required course was not offered in any State college, acknowledging, however, that petitioner was unaware whether the course was offered out of state. Petitioner argues in his post-hearing submission that "under the circumstances of this case," petitioner "held certification sufficient for employment in the position in question" and held "an appropriate certificate." Specifically, petitioner maintains that he "was certified as a C.I.E. Coordinator," "[b]ased upon the express waiver granted to the District (R-1), this certificate was all that was required for employment as Apprentice Coordinator" and, "[b]ecause a required course was not offered in New Jersey, obtaining an additional certificate, such as Coordinator: Apprentice Programs, was impossible." In short, the Board contends that since petitioner "does not hold a Certificate for Apprenticeship Coordinator" he "could not accrue tenure status in that part-time position."

The regulations make clear that a County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement is a separate and distinct endorsement from a C.I.E. endorsement, and that a County Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement is required for the position of County Apprentice Coordinator. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(a). It is undisputed that petitioner does not possess an Apprenticeship Coordinator endorsement. Accordingly, since petitioner did not hold an "appropriate" certificate for the position in issue, he did not accrue tenure status in that part-time position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The record reveals that petitioner served as the Apprentice Coordinator for several years, which appears to have been based on waivers granted by the Department of Education to the district.[3] However, while such a waiver may have permitted the district to employ petitioner, similar to an emergency certificate, this service is not under an "appropriate certificate" for purposes of the tenure statute. Indeed, petitioner acknowledged that he did not take steps towards securing the appropriate endorsement during his employment with the Board and no evidence suggests that petitioner applied for an emergency County Apprenticeship Coordinator certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.21(c).

In sum, tenure protection in a position is limited to teaching staff members who hold an appropriate certificate for that position issued by the State Board of Examiners. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. This certificate requirement is mandated by the tenure statutes and is a necessary prerequisite to achieve tenure. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that, since petitioner did not possess the endorsement required for the position in issue, he did not gain tenure in that position.

[3] The Equivalency/Waiver Renewal Application Form submitted at the hearing references N.J.A.C. 6:3A. The cited regulations addressed Regulatory Equivalency and Waiver and were recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.1, et. seq. In general, the purpose of the regulations is to provide regulatory flexibility for school districts to meet the requirements of the rules contained in Title 6 and Title 6A of the New Jersey Administrative Code and the regulations permit the Commissioner to approve a waiver to a specific rule based upon application submitted by a school district. See N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.5.

Seniority refers to an employee's bumping rights upon a reduction in force (RIF). Howley, supra, 1982 S.L.D. at 1339. It is a concept that applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and only has meaning when a RIF is necessary. Id. at 1340. The concept of seniority becomes relevant only after tenure has been achieved. "[S]eniority provides a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions among the tenured force can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational policies." Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super. 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 109 N.J. 514 (1987). Dismissals resulting from a RIF must be made on the basis of seniority according to standards established by the Commissioner and approved by the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10. See N.J.A.C. 6A:32:5.1. A tenured member dismissed as a result of a RIF must be maintained on a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person is qualified and must be reemployed if and when such vacancy occurs. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. As explained in Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 531 (App. Div. 1999), "[w]hen a school board deems it necessary to eliminate a position, 'seniority' is a right afforded to tenured employees entitling the employee to either continue in an existing job opening based upon their longevity of employment or to be placed upon an eligible list for reemployment when a new position becomes available." Simply put, I CONCLUDE that, inasmuch as petitioner did not acquire tenure, he cannot assert a seniority right to the part-time Apprentice Coordinator position reinstated for the 2005-2006 school year.

In view of the foregoing, it is unnecessary to address petitioner's argument that his tenure rights were violated because "the evidence establishes that there was no actual reduction in force or elimination of the Apprentice Coordinator position" but, rather, "the duties and responsibilities of the position were simply transferred, in full, to another employee"; first to Mr. Rooney for the 2004-2005 school year and then to Mr. Williams for the subsequent years. Notwithstanding, it is observed that the statutory provisions afford boards of education wide latitude in the organization of its staff to meet the district's needs. A board may effectuate a reduction in force for reasons of economy, because of a change in the administrative or supervisory organization or for other good cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The courts have consistently recognized that a RIF "whether of tenured or nontenured teachers, if done for reasons of economy, is entirely within the authority of the board." Maywood Bd. of Educ. v. Maywood Educ. Assoc., 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div. 1979), certif. denied, 81 N.J. 292 (1979). See Jamison v. Morris School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 198 N.J. Super. 411, 414-15 (App. Div. 1985); Klinger v. Cranbury Twp. Bd. of Educ., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277 (1983). Further recognized is that "[t]he determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions." Impey v. Shrewsbury Bd. of Educ., 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div. 1994), aff'd, 142 N.J. 388, 399 (1995). See Klinger, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 357.

At the hearing, the Board's witnesses described the rationale underlying the Board's determinations to make the Apprentice Coordinator a full-time position for the 2004-2005 school year and to reinstate the part-time position for the subsequent school years. Further, as observed by the Board in its post-hearing submission, by placing the Apprentice Coordinator position under the umbrella of the Director of Adult Education in 2005 and 2006, the Board has essentially effectuated a reduction in force. Suffice it to say, the Board acted within the scope of its authority and the Board's actions cannot be viewed as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Indeed, to the extent that petitioner's arguments can be construed as a challenge to the Board's action in June 2004 to make the position a full-time position, any such claim would appear to be barred under the ninety-day rule. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's Verified Petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 11, 2006 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for March 27, 2007, which was adjourned due to a possible settlement.

On April 3, 2007, the parties were able to resolve the matter. On April 30, 2007, the undersigned received the original copy of the Stipulation in Lieu of Judgment and the Stipulation of Dismissal. See attached copy.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

BEFORE JOANN LaSALA CANDIDO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 21, 2006, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. Several hearings and telephone conferences were conducted. On March 28, 2007 the parties reached a tentative settlement pending Board Resolution. May 7, 2007 the undersigned received a fully executed Settlement Agreement with a certified copy of the Board Resolution approving same, and the record closed that day.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Stipulation of Settlement, and Board of Education Resolution, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

WHEREAS, the Board of Education of the Hudson County Schools of Technology ("the Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Hudson County Schools of Technology; and

WHEREAS, Gabe Paul commenced employment with the Board as janitor/boilerman with the District in August 2002; and

WHEREAS, on September 11, 2006, Frank Gargiulo, Superintendent of Schools, filed sworn tenure charges of excessive absenteeism, insubordination, incapacity, unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause for dismissal against Respondent, together with a sworn statement of evidence in support of the charges, with exhibits, with the Board Secretary (See, Exhibits A & B, respectively); and

WHEREAS, on October 19, 2006, after considering the sworn tenure charges and sworn statement of evidence against Respondent, the Board determined to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on or about October 20, 2006, the sworn tenure charges, together with a certificate of determination and certificate of service, were filed by the Board with the Commissioner of Education, and Respondent was simultaneously served with the sworn tenure charges, sworn statement of evidence, certificate of determination and certificate of service, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 6, 2006, an Answer was filed on behalf of Respondent; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 8, 2006, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, where it was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Joann LaSala Candido; and

WHEREAS, prior to the commencement of the hearing in this matter on March 28, 2007, the parties agreed to settle the matter; and

WHEREAS, the parties, wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, upon approval by the Court and the Commissioner of Education;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Tenure Charges to be Moot

The Board agrees that upon approval of the within settlement agreement and release by the Commissioner that the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be withdrawn by the Board. However, both parties agree that in the event that this agreement is not approved by the Commissioner of Education that they fully reserve their rights to proceed with this litigation and/or any other cause of action that they might have against one another and that their obligations under this agreement shall be null and void.

2. Resignation

Respondent has tendered his irrevocable resignation from all employment with the Board, effective as of the close of business on June 30, 2007.

3. Payment

The Board will pay to the Respondent his regular salary, pursuant to contract, through June 30, 2007, excluding the 120 days Respondent was suspended from employment without pay. Respondent waives his right to all other compensation from the Board of any kind, including but not necessarily limited to payment for unused sick, vacation and personal days.

4. Health Benefits

The Board agrees to pay the premium for Respondent's health benefits at their current level, through June 30, 2007, after which Respondent shall have the same COBRA rights as any other former employee.

5. Release

In exchange for the above consideration, Respondent, and his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, officers, administrators, agents, employees, attorneys, and their successors, heirs and assigns, including, but not limited to any claims for attorneys fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any claims involving tax liability stemming from this settlement, and any claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retaining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim.

Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., and for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (commonly referred to as "COBRA"), provided that Respondent is not entitled to have the District pay any amounts for his or his dependents' health insurance coverage under COBRA.

6. Surrender of Board Property

Respondent shall forthwith surrender all school keys and property in his possession to the below named legal counsel who, in turn shall forward same to the Board's counsel.

7. Public Interest

The proposed settlement of this tenure dispute will serve the public interest because, as a result of Respondent having tendered his irrevocable letter of resignation from his employment with the Board, the Board will not have to incur any further legal fees in connection with the prosecution of this matter. Further, the Board's operation will not be disrupted by having staff members out of the District to testify in connection with this matter, nor will it have to pay for substitute employees.

8. Board Approval

The Board President is authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board of Education.

9. Assent to Terms

Respondent hereby acknowledges that he entered into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that he was fully informed of the implications of this agreement by his counsel. Respondent also enters into this agreement without duress of his own free will and volition.

Respondent acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and seven (7) days from the execution of this document to revoke this Agreement by delivering written notification to Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., 10 James Street, Florham Park, New Jersey 07932. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Respondent will not be entitled to the entire consideration described herein.

10. Entire Agreement

This Agreement represents the entire understanding of the parties and may be modified only in a subsequent written instrument, duly executed by the parties. No other representations of any kind shall be binding upon the parties. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material.

11. Governing Law

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION :

OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :

MAXIMILIAN CAPSHAW, :

UPPER FREEHOLD REGIONAL SCHOOL :

DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school district sought to suspend the certificate of respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 for not providing adequate notice of resignation from his position as a school psychologist in Upper Freehold Regional Schools. Respondent resigned to accept employment with another district out of state, offering 30 days notice, but subsequently left employment in petitioner's district with only 18 days notice of his departure.

The ALJ found that: the facts in this matter are undisputed; respondent violated the statutory sixty day notice requirement; respondent was under pressure from his new employer to begin before the expiration of 60 days and sought to compromise with petitioner by offering 30 days notice; and a one year suspension under the circumstances presented in the record is harsh. The ALJ concluded that respondent should be suspended for a period of three months.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner adopts the conclusion of the ALJ that respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct for failure to give proper notice before resigning. The Commissioner, however, rejects the ALJ's recommendation that respondent's teaching certificate be suspended for only three months, finding that: the facts in this matter are neither unique nor do they warrant the exercise of the Commissioner's discretion; and respondent's desire for early release from his professional obligations was based on personal motives and convenience. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered suspension of respondent's teaching certificate for a period of one year, and forwarded a copy of the decision to the State Board of Examiners.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION : OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :
MAXIMILIAN CAPSHAW, :
UPPER FREEHOLD REGIONAL SCHOOL :
DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that respondent, Maximilian Capshaw, is guilty of unprofessional conduct for failure to give proper notice before resigning from his position as a school psychologist. The Commissioner, however, rejects the ALJ's recommendation that - as a consequence of such conduct – respondent's teaching certificate be suspended for only three months.

As recognized by the ALJ, the facts in this matter are undisputed. The record establishes that respondent, a tenured psychologist in the Board's employ, submitted his letter of resignation on August 28, 2006; respondent offered to stay for 30-days but indicated he would like to leave earlier, if possible, in order to begin work in a new position he had accepted in New York City; the Acting Superintendent advised respondent on August 31, 2006 that he was obligated to provide the Board with sixty days notice, that is, until October 26, 2006 – but should the Board be able to find a replacement who could begin working prior to the end of this sixty-day period – it would release him early; respondent subsequently agreed to work only through September 15, 2006 – a mere 18 days after he notified the Board of his resignation – and he left his position on that date; the Board – despite advertising respondent's position on August 29, October 18 and November 15, 2006, and conducting several interviews – was unable to find a suitable replacement for respondent's position until January 2, 2007.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 establishes the notice requirement necessary when a tenured teaching staff member wishes to resign his position and authorizes the Commissioner to suspend the teaching staff member's certificate for a period of up to one year for failure to comply with its provisions.[1] Specifically,

> [a]ny teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

It is well recognized that "[t]he obvious purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 [and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8] is to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." (citations omitted) (Penns Grove-Carneys Point Board of Education v. Regina Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 405, 407) In the instant matter, it is undisputed that respondent resigned without providing the requisite notice to the Board. It is, similarly, uncontroverted that the Board refused to release respondent from his 60-day obligation unless and until a suitable replacement was located, which did not happen. As such, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct for his failure to provide the 60-day notice required by statute.

[1] It is noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is a companion statute applicable to non-tenured teaching staff members.

However, unlike the ALJ, the Commissioner is unable to conclude that circumstances in this matter serve to militate against the imposition of a one-year suspension of respondent's teaching certificate and she, therefore, rejects his conclusion that a lesser penalty is appropriate. The Commissioner is fully aware that – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 – whether a teaching staff member's certificate is suspended for failure to give the requisite notice and, if so, the length of such suspension up to the maximum one-year permitted by law, are both discretionary determinations vested in the Commissioner. In making determinations in this regard, the Commissioner has historically evaluated all attendant circumstances specific to each case. As a general rule, however, given the underlying purpose of the statute, this evaluation – with rare exception – has resulted in suspension of any and all certificates for the maximum one-year period, particularly where the facts demonstrate that individuals have violated the 60-day notice requirement for strictly personal reasons, putting their own self interest above the interests of students and their professional obligation to provide adequate notice to the Board. See East Amwell Township Board of Education v. Patricia Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Vincent Montalbano, decided by the Commissioner June 11, 2001; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Mary Elizabeth Farran, School District of the Chathams, Morris County, decided by the Commissioner March 29, 2005; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Mary Savino, Rahway Board of Education, Union County, decided by the Commissioner August 30, 2005.

Those unique instances where the Commissioner has found justification for exception to this general rule were cases which presented compelling mitigating circumstances, e.g. 1) Board of Education of Black Horse Pike Regional School District v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 810, where the Board had a candidate to replace the respondent as of her requested release date through the end of the school year. Additionally, the respondent made considerable efforts to assist the Board in ensuring a smooth transition for her replacement, including meeting with her successor in order to establish the program, including lesson plans; 2) In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Burgess, 1983 S.L.D. 183, where the Board failed to fulfill its promise to accelerate the replacement process, despite the almost immediate availability of a suitable replacement. Respondent left detailed lesson plans for his successor and even offered to meet with his replacement on his own time to ensure an orderly transition if necessary; and 3) In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Rogers, 1989 S.L.D. 1962 where a non-tenured teacher of the handicapped resigned on short notice to take a position at a state facility, New Lisbon Developmental Center, working with more severely and multiply handicapped children than those in his District. The Board was able to obtain a replacement for his position within one week. Here, the ALJ observed, and the Commissioner concurred, that respondent's early departure "was not to feather his own nest, but rather from honest and more noble motivations" in that "[n]otwithstanding the burdens of New Lisbon's work, school districts almost invariably pay better than does the State and the State has considerable difficulty obtaining sufficient dependable staff for that work. Civil service decisions out of the State developmental centers demonstrate a continuing theme of inability to obtain and hold staff due to the pay and working conditions there." Rogers, at 1966.

Unlike these rare cases cited above which have justified an exception to the customary one-year suspension, the facts in this matter are neither unique nor do they warrant the exercise of Commissioner discretion. Rather, in the instant matter, respondent's desire for early release from his professional obligations was based on personal motives and his own convenience, with nary a concern about the well-being of the special education students in need of his assistance, the Board's ability to find a suitable replacement on such short notice, or the increased workload for his co-workers who were required to complete his evaluations and evaluation reports along with assuming his case management responsibilities for over 3-months subsequent to his abrupt departure from the District.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 and consistent with the penalty assessed in similar matters, respondent Maximilian Capshaw is deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and his teaching certificate is hereby suspended for a period of one year, effective upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision is being forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 12318-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 431-11/06

IN RE: SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF MAXIMILIAN CAPSHAW,

---

Viola S. Lordi, Esq. and Mary H. Smith, Esq., for the petitioner, Upper Freehold Regional School District (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Maximilian Capshaw, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: April 12, 2007 Decided: April 30, 2007

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a complaint filed with the Commissioner by the Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education against its former employee Maximilian Capshaw, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18:28-8. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. The Board filed a motion for summary decision under Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company, 142 N.J. 520 (1995); N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. No response has been received.

The facts are undisputed. Respondent, a tenured staff member, submitted his letter of resignation to the Board on August 28, 2006. He offered to stay on for thirty days, but hoped to be released sooner so that he could commence employment in New York City. Dr. Robert E. Smith, the Acting Superintendent, met with respondent on August 31, 2006, and advised him that sixty days notice was required. Dr. Smith indicated that the Board would release respondent sooner if a suitable replacement could be found quickly. Respondent then gave notice that he would work through September 15, 2006. Following respondent's departure the Board advertised for the position and it was filled on January 2, 2007.

Although respondent did not answer the motion, he did submit a letter to the Department dated December 21, 2006 in response to the District's complaint. There he provides some detail, which also appears undisputed. He is originally from New York City; this is where his fiancé resides and where they plan to make their home. The opportunity that arose took longer to finalize then he had hoped and he notified the district as soon as he received a firm offer. His prospective employer was prepared to wait thirty days for him to start, but not sixty days. Once it was clear that thirty days would not satisfy Dr. Smith, respondent felt no obligation to remain that long. This is the substance of the record.

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18:28-8 make plain that professional staff must give sixty days notice and failing that are subject to certificate suspension for up to one year. Petitioner violated these sections and liability is undisputed. It appears; however, that the penalty sought - one year suspension - is harsh. It is true, as the Board asserts, that short notice burdens other staff, and may deprive students of their due. That said, it also follows that the maximum penalty should be reserved for egregious examples of the infraction. Here, respondent was under pressure from his prospective employer to begin before the expiration of 60 days. He discussed the matter with the District and sought to forge a compromise. There is no indication that he acted with indifference toward his obligations to the Board. Thus, it appears that something well below one year is appropriate.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the certificate of Maximilian Capshaw be suspended for a period of three months.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter – including the audiotape of hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – and the recommended Order of the OAL, denying petitioner's application for emergent relief, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner (Toddlertown) has failed to meet the established criteria for grant of emergent relief in that it had presented nothing compelling in support of its assertions of irreparable harm, could not demonstrate that its claim was based on settled law or that it was likely to prevail on the merits, and failed to establish that the balance of equities and interests lay in its favor. Crowe v. DeGioia, supra; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the underlying appeal on the merits shall proceed as determined by the ALJ in consultation with the parties.[1]

[1] It is noted in this regard that the issues remaining in the related matter of Toddlertown Child Care Center v. Board of Education of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 58-2/07, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3041-07 (Toddlertown I) – which may be appropriate for consolidation in conjunction with the matter herein, as recognized by the ALJ and the parties – need not, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-2.3(c)6, first be heard at the Division of Early Childhood Education as is the case with nonrenewal of contracts pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-2.3(b). The Commissioner further notes that the issue of nonrenewal of petitioner's contract was not raised in Toddertown I – either in the Petition of Appeal or the accompanying Application for Emergent Relief – prior to its transmittal to the OAL, but was first raised in a second application for emergent relief filed subsequent to such transmittal at the directive of the ALJ then assigned to the matter. However, during the emergent relief proceedings held (by a different ALJ) in conjunction with Toddertown I, the issue of nonrenewal was the sole issue addressed, apparently because petitioner's immediate concern with that issue overrode its concerns about previously articulated disputes that would, in its view at the time, have effectively become moot if the contract nonrenewal was allowed to stand. (Audiotape of Emergent Relief Hearing, Toddlertown I)

Petitioner brings this action seeking emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. regarding the Department of Education decision upholding the non-renewal of petitioner's child care center provider contract with the Irvington Board of Education, an Abbot District. On May 15, 2007, the Commissioner of Education received Petitioner's application for emergent relief. On May 16, 2007, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case. On May 30, 2007, oral argument was presented in the Newark offices of the Office of Administrative Law.

The standards for the granting of emergency relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). It may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In the instant case, after hearing the arguments of counsel and any other documentation submitted, I find that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because no proofs have been submitted that would establish irreparable harm as a necessary element to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). In addition, it is clear that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is unsettled and emergent relief should be withheld. Petitioner's motion for emergent relief is therefore DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners alleged that their child's application for admission to the Governor's School of Engineering and Technology was rejected on the basis of racial discrimination. Respondents filed a motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction, which was denied by the ALJ.

The ALJ found that: petitioners wish to transfer this matter to the Division on Civil Rights (DCR) – contrary to their prior rejection of such transfer upon filing of their appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes – as it now appears to them that limits on the Commissioner's jurisdiction, particularly relating to monetary damages, make the DCR a more attractive venue in which to hear this case; and petitioners agree to dismissal before the Commissioner on the assumption that the matter may be pursued through the DCR. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the petition be dismissed without prejudice.

The Commissioner rejected petitioners' assumption that this matter may be summarily transferred to the DCR and proceed as if originally filed with that agency, noting that DCR rules and procedures include a 180-day time limitation for the filing of a complaint and that the right and authority of the DCR to accept or reject complaints in accordance with such rules and procedures may not be preempted by the Commissioner. The Commissioner concluded that the appropriate course of action is to remand this matter to the OAL to be held in abeyance pending petitioners' filing of their complaint with DCR, whereupon petitioners may either withdraw the matter before the Commissioner if their complaint is accepted or continue before the Commissioner if it is rejected. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected, and the matter is remanded to the OAL.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner cannot accept the OAL's recommended resolution of this matter.

Petitioners have "agreed to dismissal" on the "assumption" that the matter may now be transferred to the Division on Civil Rights (DCR), where it would presumably proceed as if originally filed with that agency.[1] This assumption, however, has no basis in law or fact. The DCR has rules and procedures of its own, including a 180-day time limitation for the filing of a complaint,[2] and the Commissioner may not preempt the right and authority of the Director of the DCR to accept or reject complaints in accordance with such rules and procedures. Moreover, the Commissioner is mindful that petitioners in this matter: 1) objected to transferring their dispute to the DCR at the appropriate point in proceedings in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10(b); 2) opposed a motion at the OAL to dismiss the matter before the Commissioner on jurisdictional grounds, notwithstanding that they now seek such dismissal contingent upon acceptance of their complaint in a forum perceived to be more advantageous; and 3) waited nearly a year to change their minds about their preferred venue, during which time the OAL duly expended time and resources in the conduct of contested case proceedings on behalf of the Commissioner. Under these circumstances, the Commissioner is loath to create the appearance that she condones petitioners' conduct or that she expects or urges the DCR to accept petitioners' complaint under the circumstances.

[1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3.1-10(b), such transfer was initially proposed by the Department upon filing of the Petition of Appeal on June 16, 2006; however, it was vigorously opposed by petitioners in their responsive letter dated June 26, 2006. As a result of petitioners' objections, the matter was transmitted to the OAL with instructions to consider the question of Commissioner jurisdiction as a threshold issue and the State respondents duly moved to dismiss the petition on jurisdictional grounds; the ALJ, in an order dated December 26, 2006, denied this motion. The matter then continued, and petitioners now, for reasons of "the limitations on the Commissioner's jurisdiction particularly relating to monetary damages," deem the Commissioner an "unattractive venue" and "would prefer that the matter be transferred to the Division on Civil Rights." (Initial Decision at 2)

In light of the above, the Commissioner finds that the appropriate course of action is to remand this matter to the OAL with the directive that it be held in abeyance while petitioners file their complaint in the forum of their current choice. Then, upon the DCR's independent determination as to whether or not it will accept the complaint, petitioners may either withdraw their petition before the Commissioner and proceed before the DCR, or continue before the Commissioner if the DCR declines to accept the complaint—without prejudice, however, to respondents' ability to raise such defenses and objections as they deem appropriate, including renewal of their jurisdictional arguments at the end of the contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j).

[2] See N.J.S.A. 10:5-18; also http://www.state.nj.us/lps/dcr/.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected and this matter is remanded for further proceedings consistent with the holding above.

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of charges filed with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, alleging that respondents discriminated against V.T. in the selection process for the New Jersey Governor's School of Engineering and Technology. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15.

Petitioners have attempted to redress their grievances through the education laws, but it appears to them now that limits on the Commissioner's jurisdiction particularly relating to monetary damages, make this an unattractive venue. They would prefer that the matter be transferred to the Division on Civil Rights consistent with the course originally suggested by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes. They agree to dismissal here on the assumption that this avenue remains open.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement includes a copy of a resolution by the respondent board of education approving the settlement and designating a specific individual to sign the agreement on its behalf. Nor is the agreement signed by the board attorney, who is the board's duly authorized representative in litigation. The Commissioner consequently cannot adopt the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL.

The Commissioner notes that the record contains a letter from petitioner's counsel stating that it was petitioner's intent to withdraw the petition, in light of the Stipulation of Settlement into which the parties entered. Stipulation of Settlement

This Agreement between John VanDerBas and the Verona Board of Education made this 23 day of September 2003, sets forth the obligations of the parties to each other.

Whereas, prior to his announced resignation (and retirement), which resignation was accepted with regret by the Verona Board of Education, Mr. VanDerBas enjoyed an excellent reputation for his job performance and had sixteen years of positive evaluations;

Whereas, now that his retirement has become effective, Mr. VanDerBas and the Board of Education wish to resolve any and all potential outstanding issues that remain between them;

To this end Mr. VanDerBas is willing to waive all rights he may have against the Verona Board of Education and its individual members and employees for any violation of his rights of tenure in employment and in exchange the Board is willing to make certain adjustments to Mr. VanDerBas's compensation, in accordance with arrangements in existence with similar employees;

Mr. VanDerBas will receive pay for thirty-five and one half accumulated vacation days, which payment totals eleven thousand, seven hundred and fifteen dollars and zero cents ($11,715.00)

Mr. VanDerBas will receive payment for twenty-two sick days at forty dollars and zero cents for a total of eight hundred, eighty dollars and zero cents ($880.00).

The payments outlined above shall be made by the Board of Education within thirty days of receipt of a properly executed release, in a form acceptable to Board counsel.

Nothing contained in this agreement shall be construed to mean that Mr. VanDerBas has waived any right he has against Dr. Robert Rosado, Individually for acts or omissions taken with regard to Mr. VanDerBas, and any invasion of Mr. VanDerBas's rights.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent's determination that her nephew, S.B., is ineligible to attend West Orange Township schools because she failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship which would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Respondent sought tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance. Petitioner failed to appear at hearing scheduled for October 16, 2006, and the OAL issued an Initial Decision affirming the Board's decision, and granting the application for tuition reimbursement; this Initial Decision was subsequently rejected by the Commissioner and the matter was remanded to the OAL for a hearing on the merits based on petitioner's exceptions, which stated that she failed to appear because she believed the hearing was scheduled for another day. On March 22, 2007, S.B. withdrew from respondent's schools after his arrest for an offense involving a controlled dangerous substance. A second hearing was conducted on April 13, 2007, at which the sole issue was whether S.H. is responsible for tuition reimbursement.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner kept S.B. in her home, supporting him gratis, for a temporary period, but did not intend to keep and support him for longer than the school year; S.B.'s mother, C.K., failed to demonstrate that she is incapable of supporting or providing care for her son due to family or economic hardship; and concluded that S.B. was not entitled to a free education in West Orange Township schools. The ALJ granted the Board's application for tuition reimbursement for S.B.'s ineligible attendance.

Upon a full and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, and ordered petitioner to remit tuition in the amount of $23,208.28 to the West Orange Board of Education for the period from September 2005 to March 22, 2007.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that, during the period at issue, S.B. was ineligible to attend the schools of respondent's district under either N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) or N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and petitioner is hereby directed to remit the sum of $23,208.28 to the West Orange Board of Education, representing tuition for S.B.'s attendance at West Orange High School from September 2005 to March 22, 2007.

Record Closed: April 13, 2007 Decided: May 10, 2007

BEFORE JOSEPH PAONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner S.H. appeals the determination of respondent Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (Board) that S.B., petitioner's nephew, is ineligible to attend the West Orange Township schools because his parent failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship that would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Respondent requests tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

By letter of October 12, 2005, the Board notified petitioner of its determination. On October 27, 2005, the Commissioner received an appeal from C.K., S.B.'s mother. The New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) responded and advised C.K. that the appeal must be initiated by petitioner, S.H., with whom her child resides. On May 12, 2006, the Board advised petitioner that due to the failure to file an appeal, S.B. would be disenrolled as of May 19, 2006. On May 19, 2006, the Commissioner received an appeal from petitioner. On July 19, 2006, an Answer was filed on behalf of the Board. On August 9, 2006, the Bureau transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for October 16, 2006, and petitioner failed to appear. The hearing went forward without petitioner and the Board's decision to remove S.B. was affirmed. The Board's application for tuition reimbursement was also granted. Petitioner filed exceptions stating that she failed to appear because she had believed the hearing was scheduled for another day. After a review of the matter, the Commissioner concluded that it would be contrary to the interests of justice to deprive petitioner of the opportunity to have the merits of her case adjudicated. The Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision and remanded the matter to the OAL for a hearing on the merits.

On March 22, 2007, S.B. withdrew from West Orange High School after his arrest at the school for an offense involving a controlled dangerous substance. Therefore, S.H.'s appeal is limited to whether S.B.'s parent or guardian is responsible for tuition reimbursement. On April 13, 2007, a hearing was conducted and the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

C.K. testified that she had resided at 243 Nesbit Terrace in Irvington with her son, S.B. When the apartment building was sold, she agreed to vacate her residence on November 20, 2004, in exchange for $1,000. P-1. She placed her personal belongings in storage. The company for which C.K. worked ceased operating in February 2005. Her initial application for unemployment benefits was denied (P-4), but she prevailed on appeal (P-5). It is unclear from the testimony when those benefits commenced, but she received benefits until October 2005. She testified that in July 2005 she and S.B. moved in with her sister S.H., S.H.'s fiancé M.A., and their three children at 30 Edgar Road in West Orange. M.A. owned the home. S.H. and M.A. have since married. S.H. testified that she provided for all of S.B.'s needs and C.K. had signed a document that purportedly gave S.H. guardianship over S.B. She no longer has that document. Notwithstanding S.H.'s understanding to the contrary, she is not the legal guardian of S.B. There is no custody order and legal guardianship was never sought.

On July 25, 2005, S.H. enrolled S.B. in West Orange High School, which is in the Board's district. In the "Affidavit for Non-Resident Pupil Enrollment," S.H. wrote that S.B. had resided with her since July 2005 and she intended to support him gratis; C.K. also resided with her, but would be in Rochester, New York, until May 2006; S.B. would live with C.K. during the summer of 2006; and C.K. would declare S.B. as a dependent for federal income tax purposes. R-1. In the "Affidavit of Parent," C.K. wrote, "I will be returning to N.J. around mid-May. I also reside at 30 Edgar rd. [sic] in West Orange, N.J." R-3. She attested in the affidavit that S.H. would keep and support S.B. "for a longer time than merely through the school term." Ibid.

C.K. testified that she intended to go to Rochester, New York, to seek opportunities and to enter into some type of welfare program, but she returned after five weeks when she learned that she couldn't qualify due to a lack of residency. But, M.A. wrote in an undated document submitted to the Board that his company employs C.K. and that she would travel to Rochester on August 26, 2005, on behalf of his company and remain there until he decides otherwise. R-5. When confronted by the inconsistency, C.K. explained that she also worked for M.A.'s company and she intended to scout locations for his business. Moreover, in the "Affidavit of Parent," C.K. wrote that she is not capable of supporting or providing for S.B. because she "will be traveling out of State on 8/26/05 to persue [sic] a new business location in Rochester, N.Y." R-3.

On October 12, 2005, the Board advised petitioner that it decided at its October 10, 2005, meeting to deny S.B. admission to its school district because S.B.'s parent failed "to demonstrate a family or economic hardship, which would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child." R-4. In a letter to the Commissioner dated October 20, 2005, C.K. wrote that she "resides at 1108A Stuyvesant Avenue [, Irvington,] in a four-room apartment" with her mother. R-2. C.K. testified that her nephew and sister also lived there. She also wrote in that letter that she was employed by OSI Collection Service, and worked noon to 9 p.m. Monday to Friday and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. She explained that her income was insufficient and her time was limited to care for her son. She testified that she earned $9.50 per hour. C.K.'s employment with OSI terminated in January 2006. In March 2006 she commenced employment with Cingular. In September 2006 C.K. starting working at AIG as a policy assembler, where she now earns $28,000 per year.

C.K. has no other dependents. She owns a 2000 Ford Expedition. She doesn't drive the vehicle, however, because she has not paid for insurance. She car-pools to her job in Berkeley Heights. C.K. explained during the hearing that her criminal conviction for the unlawful distribution of a controlled dangerous substance makes it difficult for her to obtain employment. P-2. She also explained that she has not received child support payments since January 22, 2004. P-3.

The testimony was clear that C.K. has no present intent of leaving Irvington. According to the testimony of S.H. and C.K., when C.K. returned from Rochester, C.K. stayed in S.H.'s West Orange home approximately four nights per week. C.K. conceded, however, that she "never physically wanted to live there." The rest of the week she stayed in Irvington, where she felt more comfortable. Even though she claimed to be living in West Orange, all her bills and mail were sent to Irvington and her driver's license and pay stub list the Irvington address.

On or about March 22, 2007, S.B. was arrested at West Orange High School after distributing marijuana on school property. He never returned to the school. His mother explained that the Board intended to expel S.B., so she enrolled him in the Irvington school district. C.K. also explained that her mother recently moved out of her Irvington apartment and C.K. remained, establishing it as her primary residence. She now resides there with S.B and her nephew. She is responsible for the rent, but has fallen behind and is presently facing an eviction action.

I FIND that the preponderance of evidence has established that:

1. S.B. was kept in the home of S.H., who is domiciled within the Board's district.

2. S.H. agreed to assume all the personal obligations for S.B. relative to school requirements.

3. S.H. supported S.B. gratis.

Because S.H., however, wrote in her affidavit that S.B. would reside with his mother during the summer of 2006, and C.K. would claim him as a dependent for federal income tax purposes, I cannot FIND that S.H. intended to keep and support S.H. for longer than the school year. The evidence adduced at the hearing established that C.K. experienced temporary periods of unemployment. She attributes that to a former criminal conviction. Temporary unemployment, however, does not render one necessarily incapable of supporting and caring for a child. Therefore, I also cannot FIND that C.K. is incapable of supporting or providing care for her child due to a family or economic hardship.

While C.K.'s inconsistent explanation of the reason for her trip to Rochester raises suspicion, the fact remains that near the start of the 2005-2006 school year, C.K.

had already returned to New Jersey. The testimony that C.K. resided both in Irvington and West Orange appeared contrived. It is inconsistent with C.K.'s letter of October 20, 2005, wherein she wrote that she resided in Irvington. R-2. C.K.'s mail and bills went to her Irvington address. Her driver's license and pay stub listed the Irvington address. Even if I were convinced that C.K. may have stayed several days per week in West Orange, I FIND that she intended Irvington to be her domicile. Therefore, I must also FIND that C.K. has not established by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that S.B. was not residing with S.H. solely to receive a free public education in the Board's district.

The parties have stipulated that the per-pupil cost to the school district was $13,287 during the 2005-2006 school year. R-6. The parties have also stipulated that during the 2006-2007 school year, the cost per student is $77.51 per day. Since S.B. attended West Orange High School during the 2006-2007 school year for 128 days, until March 22, 2007, the total cost for the 2006-2007 school year is $9,921.28. I, therefore, FIND as fact that the total cost to the Board for S.B.'s attendance at West Orange High School is $23,208.28.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

> Public schools shall be free to . . .
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
>
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child . . . and [such other person] will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and . . . intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and . . . the child's parent . . . is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and . . . the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district.

S.B. is not domiciled within the Board's district. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1) provides:

> A student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is living with a parent or legal guardian whose permanent home is located within the school district. A home is permanent when the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere.

Since I have found that S.B.'s mother is domiciled in Irvington, S.B. cannot be a domiciliary of West Orange. Accordingly, I must CONCLUDE that he is not entitled to attend West Orange High School for free pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) due to his improper domicile.

Since I could not find by a preponderance of the evidence that: 1) S.B. intended to stay with S.H. beyond the school term; 2) C.K. is incapable of supporting or providing care for S.B. due to a family or economic hardship; and 3) S.B. was not residing with S.H. solely to receive a free public education in the Board's district, I must also CONCLUDE that S.B. is not entitled to a free education by the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

The Board is entitled to recover tuition from a parent or guardian of a child found ineligible to attend a school in its district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The parties stipulated that the cost for S.B.'s attendance at West Orange High School from September 2005 to March 22, 2007, is $23,208.28. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the total due the Board for S.B.'s attendance at West Orange High School is $23,208.28.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the Board's application for tuition reimbursement is GRANTED in the amount of $23,208.28.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. The audiocassette tapes of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on June 24, 2005 and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Petitioners' and the Board's exceptions were submitted on June 27, 2005 and were duly considered by the Assistant Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Assistant Commissioner concurs that petitioners have failed to satisfy the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for obtaining emergent relief.[1] In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe at 132-34.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and petitioners' request for emergent relief is, therefore, denied. Notwithstanding the parties' representations at hearing that there are no issues remaining once the emergent relief matter has been resolved, petitioners specifically indicate in their exceptions that there are due process questions that can only be determined upon a full hearing on the merits. Accordingly, this matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioners' claims as may be deemed necessary.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOMS RIVER SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter – including the audiotape of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed by the Assistant Commissioner to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the evidence presented by the parties show the Board of Education's decision denying N.Y.'s participation in the district's graduation ceremony to have been arbitrary and unreasonable under the circumstances, so that petitioner has clearly demonstrated her entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL directing the Toms River Board of Education to allow N.Y.'s participation in commencement exercises[1] is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Because the present decision fully disposes of all issues in dispute between the parties, no further proceedings are necessary, and this matter is, therefore, dismissed with the request that the Clerk of the OAL return the file to the agency pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4288-07
AGENCY DKT. NO. 148-6/07

D.Y. ON BEHALF OF N.Y.,
Petitioner,
v.
TOMS RIVER BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent

D.Y., petitioner, pro se

Jared J. Monaco, Esq., for the respondent (Gilmore & Monahan, attorneys)

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of an application for emergent relief filed by petitioner on June 7, 2007. The matter was transmitted to the OAL by the Department of Education on the same day and an emergent relief proceeding was conducted on June 12, 2007. The question presented is whether N.Y. should be permitted to participate in commencement exercises scheduled for Thursday, June 14, 2007.

The facts are undisputed. N.Y. was born on September 28, 1989 and he began his high school career with respondent. His grades during the 2003/04, 2004/05, and the first half of the 2005/06 school years were poor. He also received multiple suspensions and engaged in behavior that brought him to the attention of the criminal justice system. He was diverted into alternative school in January 2006 and entered the New Jersey Training School for Boys in September 2006, where he remained until June 2007. N.Y.'s transcripts reveal that his grades improved dramatically during these latter experiences, such that he received mostly A's. He has completed the necessary course work for graduation and the record contains multiple certificates of achievement reflecting his positive performance. N.Y. testified that once he saw the inside of these facilities, it dawned on him that he had taken a wrong turn and he dedicated himself to change. He would like to go on to college.

A February 2007 letter in evidence from Rhonda Hunter, a substance abuse counselor with the Juvenile Justice Commission, to Honorable Marlene Lynch Ford, J.S.C., recommends that N.Y. be released from custody early based on his academic performance, positive attitude, and role model status within the institution. He has undergone counseling, which continues, and he successfully completed anger management training. N.Y. was released from custody early, which has allowed him to make this application.

The school district, through Mr. Lenny Stanziano the high school principal, related that petitioner had many suspensions and difficulties in-district, that participation in commencement exercises is a privilege, and that this decision falls within the District's discretion. This is the substance of the record.

In an emergent relief proceeding the moving party, here petitioner, must show a likelihood of success on the merits, that the law is settled, and that on balance the harm to him if relief is denied is greater than the harm that will befall the district if it is granted, Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). This has been done. In the last year and a half N.Y. has performed well academically and has overcome anger issues. Mrs. Hunter wrote glowingly of his maturation in support of his early release. The district does not appear to have lent weight to this progress, but rather, stands on his prior poor behavior while in-district. That was a year and a half ago. No evidence has been advanced that would suggest N.Y. is currently incapable of comporting himself at these exercises; to the contrary, the indications are that he can. While it is true that school district's have wide discretion in such matters, the failure to attach significant weight to current circumstances is in my view arbitrary and capricious.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that N.Y. be permitted to participate in commencement exercises on Thursday, June 14, 2007.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought to have her child return to school as a 10th grader, and sought assurances from the district that she would be protected in the future from religion-based hate crimes. Respondent Board asserted that until such time as A.M. was re-enrolled in the district, no controversy exists under the school laws for the Commissioner to rule on.

The ALJ found that in the course of proceedings in this case, the petitioner shifted her position on re-enrolling her child for the remainder of the 2006-2007 school year, and instead informed the ALJ that she intends to home-school and re-enroll her daughter in September 2007; accordingly, the district is not legally charged with A.M.'s education. The ALJ concluded that there is no cognizable controversy or dispute before the Commissioner, and that the contested case must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ for the reasons clearly stated in his decision, and dismissed the petition. In so holding, the Commissioner stressed that upon A.M.'s re-enrollment in the district's schools, any dispute between petitioner and the Board about A.M.'s appropriate grade placement would be a new cause of action appealable to the Commissioner at that time.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONROE, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has removed her dispute from the jurisdiction of the Commissioner by withdrawing A.M. from the public school system. In so holding, however, the Commissioner stresses that – should petitioner re-enroll A.M. in September 2007 as she indicates her intent to do – any dispute between her and the Board about A.M.'s appropriate grade-level placement[1] would be a new cause of action appealable to the Commissioner at that time, provided A.M. remains enrolled in school.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00050-07
AGENCY DKT. NO. 452-12/06

L.S.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD A.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF MONROE TOWNSHIP, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,

Respondent.

L.S.M., petitioner, pro se

John J. Armano, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Trimble & Associates, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 23, 2007 Decided: May 8, 2007

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Petitioner L.S.M. filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order that her daughter A. be allowed back to school as a tenth grader, seeking assurances that she would be protected in the future from religion motivated hate crimes and what appropriate investigations be conducted by the respondent if, in the future, A. sought assistance regarding claims of harassment. A similar matter had apparently been filed in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Gloucester County, but that matter was apparently terminated due to the Commissioner's jurisdiction over matters arising under the school laws. The Petition was transferred by the Commissioner to the Office of Administrative Law. An in-person pre-hearing conference was held before this judge on March 12, 2007.

The initial response to the Petition by the respondent suggested that what the parents were actually disputing was a minor disciplinary action against their daughter involving three three- to seven-day suspensions for alleged disrespect towards a teacher. The district also asserted that it had investigated allegations of religion-based harassment and determined that they had not been substantiated. The response stated that the matter was not one "for consideration by the Department of Education." As it was not entirely clear to me whether the respondent was contending that the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction over the case, I wrote to counsel for the Board to seek clarification. On February 15, 2007, counsel responded, advising that he did not mean to suggest that the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction, but that it was his position that the Commissioner should not take any action. However, in the same letter counsel noted that based upon a letter dated February 7, 2007, and the Superior Court hearing held on February 8, it appeared that indeed the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction due to the fact that the M.'s had made it "clear" that they had removed the child from the High School and were home schooling her. Counsel suggested that a dispute might arise in the future if the child were re-enrolled in the district, at which time the "board of education treats the child as any other new or returning child (i.e. assessed as to the acceptance of credits and the appropriate grade level for purposes of placement)" which would be "based on an objective assessment that is given to all students for that subject or grade." He suggested that until such time as the child was re-enrolled in the district there was no "controversy under the school laws for the Commissioner to rule on." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

At the prehearing conference, I explored any prospect for resolving the matter and, without making any legal determination as to jurisdiction, encouraged the parties to work to try to end their dispute. It was agreed that Mrs. M. would re-enroll her child and that a meeting would take place on March 14 to begin the process of assessing A. to determine her proper placement. It was also suggested that the district at least consider whether it would make any changes in the reporting and investigating process regarding any future contentions by A. of harassment. Further, discussions were held about the prospect of future harassment, the inability to predict the future or to issue any orders that guaranteed that no further trouble would occur, the possible salutary effect of Family Court proceedings already completed against two alleged perpetrators of harassment and the heightened concern of school authorities to do all possible to prevent harassment, particularly in light of recent case law developments. L.W. v. Toms River Regional Schools Board of Education, 189 N.J. 381 (2007). I also reviewed the burden of persuasion that would apply in the case. A letter dated March 14, 2007, to the parties summarized the discussions at that conference.

Having heard nothing regarding the outcome of the March 14th meeting, I wrote to Ms. Miles on April 12 (the letter mistakenly is dated March 12), 2007, inquiring as to whether she was withdrawing her petition or wished the matter to proceed. She responded on April 13, advising that the "meeting did not go well" and that the administration had > refused to accept any of the home schooling that was done from April 6, 2006 until the present. They are refusing to test/assess A. to determine if she can go into the tenth grade. Therefore I have decided to keep her out of the public school system and continue to home school her in the tenth grade curriculum at home. I have also decided to proceed with the case as the school administration does not believe they need to make changes to provide A. with a safe learning environment. . . . I will plan to re-enroll A. into the public school in September, 2007 as an eleventh grader. I do believe that the school system must have a procedure or protocols to assess home schoolers who enter the system specifically to obtain an actual diploma.

> [April 13, 2007, letter from L.S.M. to Hon. Jeff S. Masin.]

As a result of this letter, it is necessary to now consider the jurisdictional issue first raised in Mr. Armano's February 15 letter. The understanding I had after the meeting on March 12 was that A. would be re-enrolled and the Board would then have to formally decide on a placement, which could then presumably be challenged by the parents if they were not satisfied. Re-enrollment would have placed the child squarely within the responsibility of the public school district to educate the child in a thorough and efficient manner. However, as it stands, Mrs. M. has acknowledged that at the present time she has chosen not to re-enroll A. and to continue to home school her. Thus, the district is not legally charged to educate her. In essence, for a controversy to exist here that provides the Commissioner with jurisdiction, the parents must re-enroll A., the district must declare its decision respecting placement and then, if the decision dissatisfies the parents, a controversy or dispute will exist for which they may invoke the Commissioner's assistance. But, as it now stands, despite the parents' stated intention to re-enroll A. in September 2007, that is only a statement of possibility, not a statement of fact. As such, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction to determine anything and it remains in the hands of the parents to determine whether to actually re-enroll their child and thereby bind the district to take action.

I CONCLUDE that there is no cognizable controversy or dispute before the Commissioner and that the contested case must be DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter and the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on June 13, 2007 – along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most notably, that petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his underlying claim.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. As recognized by the ALJ, with the denial of this emergent application – seeking that S.L. be allowed to attend her 8th grade prom – there is no subsequent relief available to petitioner and, therefore, the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

EMERGENCY RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 05949-07
AGENCY DKT. NO. 162-6/07

E.L. O/B/O MINOR CHILD S.L.,
Petitioner,
v.
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,
Respondent.

E.L., pro se

Joanne Butler, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

On June 13, 2007, petitioner came before me on an application for Emergency Relief appealing the decision of the District to prohibit S.L. from attending her Eighth Grade Prom on June 14, 2007.

Petitioner contended that the reason given for her ban from the prom was because she answered another student's question during a no-talk time reading class; that the contract that S.L.'s mother signed that would prevent students from attending their ceremonies if they misbehave was vague on certain issues; and that the punishment exceeds the violation.

For a request for interim relief or stay, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 requires as follows:

> (b) A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Since the requirements are in the conjunctive, all of these criteria must be satisfied by a petitioner in order to be entitled to emergency relief.

I have heard the arguments of all parties and read their submissions and have heard the testimony of Dorothy Douge, Principal of School #10. Around May 16, 2007 parents and students, including S.L. and her mother signed a promotion agreement acknowledging that a student would forfeit the right to participate in the prom and graduation for violation of school rules, policies, rituals and routines including open defiance of school authorities and violation of school and District policies. In subsequent assemblies the administration advised students of the consequences of misconduct. By State mandate there is ten minutes of sustained silent reading every day in homeroom class. Ms. Nunez, S.L.'s homeroom teacher, reported that S.L. and seven other students repeatedly violated this silent reading requirement since the issuance of the prom/graduation contract in May, by speaking out during this exercise. As a result, of repeated misconduct, all eight students have been banned from participating in the prom. For those and other infractions, twenty-six of the seventy-five students in the entire grade have forfeited their privilege to attend the prom.

The Commissioner generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. However, the exercise of discretionary powers by a local board of education, or in this case its principal designee, may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, or without reasonable basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Since there is a presumption of validity, the burden of proving unreasonableness lies with the party challenging the action. Id. at 297. Also see, K.O.H. o/b/o R.H. v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Edison, 95 N.J.A.R.2d. (EDU) 275 (1995). Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining whether the underlying facts were as those which the finder of fact at the district level found and whether it was unreasonable for the administration to conclude based on those facts as it did as to the appropriate action. The decision below carries a presumption of validity.

Notwithstanding petitioner's argument that the punishment is excessive, there is an acknowledgment that S.L.'s mother signed the contract which has given rise to the pending discipline, and it is undisputed that S.L. and other students were reminded of their obligations as a condition of attending the prom. Under the limited scope of my review of the District's action, namely that it be patently arbitrary or without reasonable basis, even if I might independently disagree with the quantum of punishment imposed here, I must CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to satisfy the Crowe v. DeGioia requirement of a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. This is so because of the discretion vested in the administration, the admitted violation of school rules and the fact that many students have been similarly disciplined regarding the prom.

Additionally, although it is evident that there will be no subsequent relief available to S.L. if she is denied an opportunity to attend the prom on June 14, 2007, I CONCLUDE nevertheless that the harm is such that it would not be irreparable, her extreme disappointment notwithstanding.

For this and any other reasons set forth in my oral opinion issued from the bench on June 13, 2007 I issue the following ORDER:

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that petitioner's Application for Emergency Relief be DENIED; I further hereby ORDER that further proceedings regarding this petition be DISMISSED as moot.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 08704-06

AGENCY DKT. NO. 391-10/06

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MARIAN STEWART, BERNARDS TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY.

Philip E. Stern, Esq., for petitioner Bernards Township Board of Education (Sills, Cummis, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Keith Waldman, Esq., for respondent Marian Stewart (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 8, 2007 Decided: May 7, 2007

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from certified tenure charges that the Bernards Township Board of Education ("petitioner") filed alleging that Marian Stewart ("respondent") engaged in unbecoming conduct in connection with her duties as a teacher of Music and Band Director pursuant to allegations contained in a Statement of Charges filed with the Commissioner of Education on October 25, 2006. The Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law on November 15, 2006, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a Settlement Agreement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between these parties.

CARDONICK CONSIDERATIONS

The settlement of this case as proposed in the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement reflects legal and factual issues which both parties have recognized as affecting the hearing of these charges. It appears to the judge from extensive discussions with counsel on the record that the allegations at worst reflected poor judgment on the part of the tenured employee, but the nature of the allegations does not warrant any concern that the alleged actions, even if proven, suggest any cause for concern that this teacher poses any threat to anyone or that her performance as a teacher is otherwise lacking. Indeed, the Board considers this nine year staff member to be a valued employee and she has no prior disciplinary record. The parties have recognized that proof issues exist and have determined that a letter of reprimand will suffice to deal with the judgment matter. I am convinced that this settlement is in the public interest and reasonable. Further, on the record Ms. Stewart acknowledged that she understood that this settlement does not preclude the Commissioner from referring her to the Board of Examiners for consideration of action against her teaching license.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Board of Education of the School District of Bernards Township ("BOARD") and counsel for its tenured employee MARIAN STEWART ("STEWART") join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") and the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the BOARD be withdrawn and this matter dismissed without prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of charges certified by the BOARD to the Commissioner on October 24, 2006, against a tenured teaching staff member on grounds of conduct unbecoming. The tenure charges were transmitted to the OAL as a contested case on November 6, 2006. A hearing concerning the BOARD's tenure charges was scheduled before the Honorable Jeff Masin, ALJ, for February 6 and 8, 2007. On the February 6, 2007 hearing date, the parties reached a tentative settlement agreement conditioned upon the drafting of mutually satisfactory settlement documents to be submitted for approval by the OAL and the Commissioner in accordance with which the tenure charges might be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that STEWART will be reinstated to a position consistent with her certification as a teacher.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that conditioned upon the OAL's and the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against STEWART shall be withdrawn and dismissed without prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet her objections.

The parties have further agreed that neither the BOARD not its agents or employees will take any actions which could be adverse to STEWART's future employment interests elsewhere.

THE JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

Due to the fact that STEWART was prepared to present student witnesses whose testimony would contradict the testimony of the BOARD's student witness, and that several key witnesses have graduated from the school district, are attending school out-of-State and are otherwise unavailable, the BOARD has reviewed the evidence and decided to withdraw the charges upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner.

CONCLUSION

The Settlement Agreement was negotiated between counsel after certain facts became known during the course of discovery. Counsel, as well as STEWART and the BOARD which unanimously approved it, are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and therefore upon such approval dismiss without prejudice the tenure charges and petition of appeal in this consolidated matter.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of Bernards Township ("BOARD") and its tenured employee MARIAN STEWART ("STEWART").

WHEREAS, STEWART has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a teacher since September of 1998; and

WHEREAS, on October 24, 2006, the BOARD certified tenure charges against STEWART to the Commissioner of Education under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, which charges were captioned:

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MARIAN STEWART, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF BERNARDS TOWNSHIP, SOMERSET COUNTY

OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 08704-06S
AGENCY REF. NO. 391-10/06

WHEREAS, STEWART filed an answer contesting the tenure charges;

WHEREAS, the parties have exchanged reciprocal discovery, and

WHEREAS, the BOARD has reviewed the defenses and evidence and decided to withdraw the charges pending this settlement;

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The BOARD will reinstate STEWART to a position consistent with her certification as a teacher.

2. STEWART agrees in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that, if it is approved by the Commissioner of Education without modification, she will agree to the placement of a letter of reprimand in her personnel file and that she will not grieve or appeal the letter of reprimand;

EXHIBIT A

3. The BOARD voluntarily withdraws the present action, without prejudice, and each party will bear its own attorney's fees, expenses and costs.

4. The parties will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, ask the Commissioner to allow the tenure charges against STEWART to be withdrawn and dismissed without prejudice.

5. Should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet her objections.

6. STEWART further agrees in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, she will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements by the BOARD through its attorney concerning the reasons it believes this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden (BOARD) and its employee Mae Chandler (Chandler).

WHEREAS, Chandler has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a Clerk III for approximately fifteen (15) years; and

WHEREAS, on May 29, 2003 the BOARD voted to withhold Ms. Chandler's increment for "Poor Work Performance"; and

WHEREAS, genuine questions of law and fact exist as to whether the BOARD withholding Chandler's increment was arbitrary and capricious;

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge and recognize the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the Withholding increment provisions of the Education Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. More specifically, the BOARD recognizes that under these provision, it is allowed to withhold an increment for good cause. Likewise, Chandler recognizes that the Board's decision may be overturned by the Commissioner, only if the Board's decision is deemed arbitrary or capricious. ;

WHEREAS, the BOARD and Chandler have each retained independent counsel of their own choosing, and have been advised of their respective rights and responsibilities pursuant to Title 18A; and

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made a part of this Settlement Agreement by reference;

2. The BOARD will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, the Board shall increase Chandler's base salary in the amount Three Hundred Seventy-Five Dollars ($375.00)

3. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void, the parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter continue with its plenary hearing and the parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

4. Chandler agrees that she has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that she is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that she is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of her rights and the ramifications of this Settlement Agreement entering into it on her own accord. Chandler fully understands that this Settlement Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

5. The signatory for the BOARD acknowledges that the BOARD has ratified this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting and that the Governor of the State of New Jersey has indicated that he will not exercise his right to veto this Settlement Agreement pursuant to the Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64.

6. The parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements concerning the reasons they believe this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

D.G. o/b/o A.L.,
Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BARRINGTON, Respondents.

David Alan Klein, Esq., for petitioners

Ronald Sahli, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case concerns whether respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Barrington (BOE) properly suspended petitioner A.L., an eighth grade student, from the BOE's middle school and whether the BOE may bar A.L. from participating in his class's graduation ceremony tonight.

The case can be summarized. Recently, A.L. pleaded guilty to juvenile delinquency by engaging in an act that, had he been an adult, would constitute harassment relative to a fellow student in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4(a.). Based on a report of the incident, the BOE suspended A.L. from school and notified petitioners that it would bar him from participating in the graduation ceremony tonight. Procedurally, petitioners contend that the BOE did not comply with A.L.'s due process rights by conducting a hearing before it determined that it should so suspend and so bar him. Substantively, petitioners allege that the incident was minor and that A.L., who has no prior history of danger to himself or others, is not a threat to anyone from school and they submit that the BOE has no reasonable basis for its determinations. The petitioners move for an order granting emergent relief, vacating the BOE's determinations and allowing A.L. to participate in the graduation ceremony. The BOE alleges that its actions are consistent with the parties' agreement before resolution of the juvenile case and the BOE submits that, given A.L.'s plea of guilt to the harassment, its actions should not be upset. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1, -2, -2.1, -2.4, -4, -5, -10.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 13, 2007, the petitioners' papers were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the contested case as a request for emergent relief to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 13, 2007. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 14, 2007, I heard the request for emergent relief.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A.L. is an eighth grade student in the BOE's middle school. He has a good relationship with his mother, father and stepfather; he has no prior record of relevant misconduct; and he has complied with all academic requirements for graduation tonight.

On or about May 8, 2007, in a public park in the Borough of Barrington, an incident occurred involving A.L. and other students in the BOE's school system. A.L. has alleged that M.W., a fellow student, assaulted him. No testimony from the participants in the incident was presented here, so I make no finding relative to this allegation. Petitioners have admitted that, after the alleged assault, A.L. uttered words to the effect that, if M.W. did not leave him alone, he

(A.L.) would get back at M.W. A.S., a fellow student overheard A.L.'s utterance and reported it to her grandparent who, on or about May 9, 2007, reported it to the BOE's school system. School officials contacted the police, who interviewed students, and A.L. was the subject of a Superior Court, Chancery Division, Family Part, juvenile case, charging that he had made a terroristic threat.

By letter dated, May 9, 2007, school administrators notified the petitioners that it was determined that A.L. had made a terroristic threat directed at fellow students, that he was suspended indefinitely, and that the BOE would provide homebound instruction. P-A.

By letter, dated May 11, 2007, school administrators notified the petitioners of the BOE's request that they appear for a BOE hearing on May 14, 2007, relative to the charge of terroristic threat, the ongoing police investigation, and the suspension. The letter also stated that the BOE would issue a written determination on the matter. P-B.

On May 14, 2007, the petitioners' attorney appeared before the BOE and a confidential discussion of the matter ensued. Petitioners' attorney has alleged that the parties agreed that the homebound instruction would continue and that they would await the outcome of the juvenile case.

By letter, dated May 15, 2007, school administrators notified the petitioners of the following: The BOE had resolved to continue the suspension, "pending the outcome of an investigation by appropriate law enforcement authorities." The BOE would continue to provide homebound instruction. A.L. would not participate in end-of-year school activities and commencement programs. A psychiatric evaluation must be performed prior to A.L.'s admission to school for the 2007-08 school year. P-C.

On June 4, 2007, the Camden County Prosecutor and petitioners entered into a plea agreement and appeared in the Superior Court, before the Honorable Charles Dortch, J.S.C., who entered a juvenile order, which provided the following: A.L. pleaded guilty to juvenile delinquency and conduct which, had he been an adult would constitute harassment, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:3-4(a.). He was placed on continued house arrest. He would submit to a psychological evaluation and abide by all recommendations in that regard. He was on probation for six months. He would have "no contact with victim(s) or witnesses." He would be subject to a curfew of 5 p.m. on weekdays and 5 p.m. on weekends. He would "attend school with no unexcused absences or tardiness or cuts." He would have "no more trouble passing grades [and] no school [or] home problems." P-D.

After entry of the Superior Court order, the petitioners' attorney spoke with the assistant prosecutor assigned to the case and spoke to Loyola Garcia, Ed.D., superintendent of the BOE's school system, about whether A.L. could participate in the graduation ceremony. There are issues of fact relative to what exactly was stated between petitioners' attorney and Dr. Garcia. The petitioners' attorney represented that he understood that, given the dismissal of the terroristic threat charge, the BOE would allow A.L. to participate in the graduation ceremony. Dr. Garcia testified that she advised the petitioners' attorney that she needed to see documents showing what the court had ordered and that she communicated with the assistant prosecutor and a court official in an effort to determine what the court had ordered.

Dr. Garcia testified that, during the BOE's June 11, 2007 meeting, she reviewed the matter with the BOE and the BOE did not vacate its earlier determination that A.L. should be suspended. No notice was provided to the petitioners that the BOE would consider the matter at that meeting.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

It is well established that public school systems have authority to take actions, including suspension of students, in order to maintain a safe environment conducive to learning and that such suspension can be based on incidents which occurred away from school grounds and events. R.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Shore Regional High School, 109 N.J. Super. 337, 343-44 (Ch. Div. 1970), citations omitted.

The Legislature, which has prohibited harassment and intimidation on school property, has identified causes for suspension of public school students and where public school officials have reason to believe that a student, because of actions after school hours and off of school property, presents a danger to himself or others, the school system may temporarily suspend the student, pending a full hearing, which will afford the student procedural due process. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2; R.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Shore Regional High School, supra, 109 N.J. Super., at 344. In the case of a longer suspension, to satisfy due process, the school system must notify the student of the charge, allow the student to be confronted by and to cross-examine witnesses with evidence against him, and to present a defense. See, e.g., G.F. v. Board of Education of Washington Township, 1 N.J.A.R. 55 (EDU) (1980).

Here, the petitioners were aware of the basis of the suspension and, on June 4, 2007, A.L. pleaded guilty and admitted that he engaged in harassment relative to a fellow student, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4(a.), which provides that harassment occurs when a person "[m]akes, or causes to be made, a communication or communications anonymously or at extremely inconvenient hours, or in offensively coarse language, or any other manner likely to cause annoyance or alarm." Ibid.

To succeed in a motion for a temporary restraint and interlocutory injunction, the movant must show, among other things, that, when the case is fully heard, it will probably prevail in its claim and that, if the relief is not granted, it will suffer immediate and irreparable harm, i.e., that money damages would not be adequate compensation. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; R. 4:52-1; Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982).

Graduation ceremonies involve environments wherein people, young and old, are often pressed together in limited space and, alarming actions in such circumstances present an opportunity for chaos and harm.

Public entities, such as the BOE, are presumed to act lawfully and in good faith. Given the circumstances here, especially A.L.'s admission of the recent harassment, I do not see that the BOE's determinations can now be viewed as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or unlawful or in bad faith. I do not see that the petitioners have met their burden of demonstrating that, when the case is fully heard, they will probably prevail. I do not see that the petitioners have demonstrated that emergent relief should be ordered.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4510-07

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I DENY the motion for emergent relief.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

The record in this matter, the proposed settlement agreement, executed by counsel for the parties, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this case, with one modification. Insofar as both EDU4819-06 and EDU6428-06 have been resolved in one settlement document, the Commissioner hereby consolidates the two cases.

The petitions are hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the settlement terms.

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

These matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 19, 2006 and August 31, 2006, respectively, for determination as contested cases, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SCOTT POWELL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LOPATCONG,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
WARREN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
AND
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF SCOTT POWELL,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LOPATCONG, WARREN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Settlement Agreement, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon such review, the Commissioner cannot be satisfied – as she must be in order to meet her obligation to the schools and children of New Jersey – that the proposed agreement meets the established standard for settlement of tenure matters, as set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6.

In the instant matter, the tenure charges filed against respondent – which substantially center on inappropriate behavior toward, and touching of, special education students in a longstanding pattern of conduct judged likely to recur – are such that the Commissioner cannot approve a settlement that leaves the Board's allegations unadjudicated unless she can be certain that respondent will no longer be able to work in New Jersey schools or present himself for any type of employment – in New Jersey or elsewhere – as an educator duly licensed by the State. As emphasized by the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Corey Younger, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided September 7, 1999 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Elmena Jean, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided October 4, 1999, the mere fact that the terms of a proposed settlement in a tenure hearing matter call for the teaching staff member's resignation or retirement does not in and of itself assure that the Cardonick standards have been met, since the Commissioner's concern for the public interest extends beyond the boundaries of the particular district certifying the tenure charges.

In the present instance, the Commissioner is not unmindful of the settlement term providing that respondent "will never again teach in any public, private, pre/nursery, elementary, secondary, and (sic) post-secondary school located within the State of New Jersey" and that he will immediately surrender his teaching certificate and refund all settlement monies paid by the Board "in the event he attempts to, or teaches in, a school within the State of New Jersey" (Settlement Agreement at 5, Term No. 12). However, the Commissioner observes that: 1) it is unclear how respondent's compliance with such a provision could realistically be monitored or enforced; and 2) respondent expressly retains the right to represent himself as the holder of a certificate in good standing issued by the State Board of Examiners (Ibid.), while potential employers will be told upon inquiring of the district only that respondent "voluntarily filed for retirement from employment (Id. at 8, Term No. 19). Under these conditions – particularly where the settlement's only real benefit to the Board and public is avoidance of the uncertainty, expense, disruption and threat of future litigation that nearly always accompanies tenure proceedings centered on charges of unbecoming conduct toward students[1] – the Commissioner cannot find that the agreement in its present form is consistent with the standards of Cardonick, supra, notwithstanding its acknowledgement that the Commissioner may refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of respondent's certificate.[2] Rather, in the Commissioner's view, the minimum necessary condition for settlement of this matter is the relinquishment by respondent, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.11, of all certificates issued to him by the Board of Examiners.

Accordingly, while not precluding the possibility of settlement in light of respondent's circumstances as set forth in the Settlement Agreement, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision of the OAL approving the proposed settlement, and directs instead that this matter be remanded for such further proceedings as are necessary to address the concerns expressed herein. If the parties are unwilling or unable to agree on an appropriately modified agreement,[3] the matter shall then proceed to plenary hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 6/15/07

Date of Mailing: 6/15/07

[1] It is well established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges need no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Smith, School District of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, aff'd with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, aff'd Superior Court January 30, 1986.

[2] In this regard, it is noted that the Board would be obliged to cooperate fully with the Board of Examiners in any hearing held to suspend or revoke respondent's certificate, thus obviating in significant part the benefits of settlement claimed by the Board (Settlement Agreement at 2).

[3] The record must additionally evidence the clear approval of any such agreement by the Board of Education, either by signature of the Board Attorney on the agreement itself or inclusion in the record of the Board resolution approving settlement.

[4] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

OAL Docket No. EDUTH 01425-2006N

Dear Judge Rigo:

As the Court is aware, we represent Petitioner, Lopatcong Township Board of Education (the "Board"), in the above tenure charge matter.

We are very pleased to enclose a fully executed Settlement Agreement in the action, and would ask that you kindly review same, and if appropriate, incorporate into an initial decision.

On behalf of both parties, we would like to thank Your Honor for your assistance and courtesies in resolving this matter. I am available if Your Honor has any questions.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

RECEIVED
2007 APR 26 A 10:42
STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMIN. LAW

This Agreement is made this 1st day of April, 2007 by and between Scott Powell (hereinafter "Powell"), who resides at 220 Fillmore Street, Philipsburg, New Jersey 08865, and the Lopatcong Township Board of Education, with its principal offices located at 263 Route 57, Phillipsburg, New Jersey 08865 (hereinafter the "Board").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Powell has been employed by the Board since the 1980-1981 school year and has obtained tenure under his instructional certificate; and

WHEREAS, on December 13, 2005, the Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against Powell and determined to suspend him without pay for a period of 120 days (86 working days), in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, pending a determination of the charges pursuant to the Tenure Employee Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on April 25, 2006, the Board acted to withhold Powell's salary increments for the 2006-2007 school year; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 28, 2005, Powell filed an Answer and Affirmative Defenses denying the tenure charges; requesting dismissal thereof; and further requesting an order of reinstatement to his tenured position; and

WHEREAS, on May 24, 2006, Powell filed a Verified Petition of Appeal contesting the withholding of his salary and adjustment increments for 2006-2007; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education thereafter determined that the aforementioned matters were contested cases and should be transferred to the Office of Administrative Law for hearings; and

WHEREAS, thereafter the said matters were consolidated for hearing by Order of the Honorable Caridad F. Rigo, A.L.J. filed on August 24, 2006; and hearings scheduled to commence on January 3, 2007 and to continue thereafter on various dates scheduled in the months thereafter;

WHEREAS, the Board has been advised that one (1) of Powell's three (3) children has, and will continue to suffer from, a form of terminal cancer that requires a substantial expenditure of family time and resources that is necessary to provide for the child's care and treatment; and that notwithstanding Powell's determination and intention to fully contest the tenure charges and/or the withholding of his increments, Powell has determined that, based on these family matters, it is both necessary and prudent for him to pursue an early retirement that is now available to him as a member of the New Jersey Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund; and

WHEREAS, after completion of discovery and a full investigation of the facts through available witnesses, and taking into account the uncertainty of litigation, the parties have concluded that their respective positions can best be addressed through a settlement agreement; and

WHEREAS, the terms of settlement take into account the public interest and that the litigation of these tenure charges would cause disruption to the educational program in the district due to the absence of administrators, teachers and students who will have to testify at the hearings; and that the Board will incur substantial financial costs to continue the litigation, including the salary that Powell will continue to receive until a decision is rendered by the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, it will be cost effective to negotiate a settlement which would enable the parties to effectuate a mutually acceptable decision on Powell's employment in the District; and

WHEREAS, both the Board and Powell desire to enter into a Settlement Agreement that stipulates the terms of his separation from all employment with the Board, together with the release of all his tenure and seniority rights as an employee of the Board, as well as providing for the exchange of General Releases of any and all claims which the patties may have against the other arising from Powell's employment or otherwise;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted below, it is hereby agreed:

1. Powell agrees to sign an irrevocable letter of resignation due to retirement from all employment with the Board effective at the close of business on October 31, 2007. The resignation letter shall be in the form annexed hereto as Exhibit A and shall be expressly conditioned upon the Board's compliance with this Separation of Employment Agreement and the approval of this Agreement by the Board, the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. The letter of resignation shall be null and void if the terms of the Separation of Employment Agreement are not met or if the required approvals of the Agreement by the Board, the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education are not granted. In that event, the parties reserve all respective rights. The resignation is otherwise irrevocable. The Board waives all statutory, regulatory, or contractual claims for notification of Powell's resignation, other than notice as provided herein.

2. The Board, by resolution, will approve and accept the resignation of Powell at its next regularly scheduled meeting, effective the close of business on October 31, 2007.

3. Powell hereby requests a leave of absence with pay commencing the date this Agreement is approved by the Commissioner of Education and ending on October 31, 2007. The form of Powell's letter requesting a leave of absence with pay is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

4. The Board, by resolution, will approve and accept Powell's requested leave of absence with pay commencing the date this Agreement is approved by the Commissioner of Education and ending October 31, 2007.

5. The Board agrees that it will repay to Powell the 86 days of salary that it withheld from him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. The parties stipulate and agree that the gross sum due to Powell for reimbursement of these days is Twenty Nine Thousand, five hundred Dollars and fifty-eight cents ($29,500.58). The Board shall further direct that all salary and pension records be amended to reflect that the restored salary is made part of the base salary for Powell for the 2005-2006 school year.

Powell shall be solely responsible for the reimbursement of any unemployment compensation or benefits he received during this period and for which he is required to repay.

6. The Board agrees that it will restore and repay to Powell the salary and adjustment increment that it withheld from him for the 2006-2007 school year. The parties stipulate and agree that the gross sum due to Powell for the restored increment is Two Thousand Five Hundred Twenty Seven Dollars ($2,527). The Board shall further direct that all salary and pension records be amended to reflect that the restored increment is made part of the base salary for Powell for the 2006-2007 school year.

7. Based on the required amendment of salary and pension records required by Paragraphs 5 and 6, the parties stipulate that Powell's base salary for the 2005-2006 is Sixty Eight Thousand, Six Hundred Six Dollars ($68,606); and, for 2006-2007, it is Seventy One Thousand, One Hundred Thirty Three Dollars ($71,133).

8. The gross sums due in accordance with Paragraphs 5 and 6, shall be paid by the Board to Powell, net of applicable taxes and the usual and customary deductions (including pension), within thirty (30) days of approval of this settlement agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

9. Throughout the two month period of September 1, 2007 - October 31, 2007, Powell shall be paid two months' salary for the 2007-2008 school year. The parties stipulate that the Powell's 2007-2008 salary rate is Seventy Three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($73,770). Powell shall receive two months of salary paid to Powell in the normal course of business, net of applicable taxes and the usual and customary deductions (including pension).

10. From the present time and until October 31, 2007, the Board shall continue to provide Powell all of the medical, prescription and dental insurance coverage(s) that it is presently provided to Powell and other teaching staff members under the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the Lopatcong Education Association.

11. As a condition of Powell's retirement, the Board agrees that it will pay Powell a lump sum longevity payment that is required to be paid under Article XVII of the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the Lopatcong Education Association. The parties stipulate the lump sum amount required to be paid to Powell is Eleven Thousand, Seven Hundred Dollars ($11,700). Powell acknowledges that the lump sum payment will not be paid outright to him, but instead credited to a Section 403B account that must be established by him with the Board and/or Section 403B Custodian before the sum may be credited.

12. Powell agrees that he is permanently retiring and will never again teach in any public, private, pre/nursery, elementary, secondary, and post-secondary school located within the State of New Jersey. Powell agrees that in the event he attempts to, or teaches in, a school within the State of New Jersey, he is obligated to immediately surrender his teaching certificate and immediately repay all payments made hereunder to the Board. Notwithstanding this agreement, the Board agrees that it is not requesting that Powell voluntarily relinquish his teaching certificate inasmuch as the parties expressly recognize that the certificate is a valuable credential in the event that Powell ever determines to pursue non-teaching employment in the future.

13. The Board agrees that the Tenure Charges in this matter bearing Agency Docket No. 374/12/05 and O.A.L. Dkt. No. EDUTH 0145-2006N shall be dismissed, with prejudice, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education, and the terms of this agreement.

14. Powell agrees that the Verified Petition of Appeal in this matter bearing Agency Docket No. 188-5/06 and O.A.L. Dkt. No. EDUOR 07630-2006N shall be dismissed, with prejudice, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

15. Powell's entry into this Settlement Agreement shall not constitute nor shall it be interpreted as an admission of wrongdoing or guilt, or liability in any manner on his part.

16. Powell waives any and all rights to tenure, seniority, recall or reinstatement as of the effective date of his resignation. It is understood and agreed that Powell shall not, as of the effective date of his resignation, receive any other compensation or benefits or emoluments of employment except as otherwise provided in this Settlement Agreement.

17. In consideration of the above, Powell agrees for himself and his heirs, successors and assigns, to release irrevocably and unconditionally, and discharges the Board, its members past, present and future; welfare and/or pension plans; trustees, officers, supervisors, employees, students, and agents of the Board ("Releasees"), past, present and future; of and from any debts, obligations, claims, demands, judgments, claims for attorneys' fees, claims seeking employment or reemployment with the Board, claims for contributions and/or in tort, contract, by statute, or on any other basis, whether in law or in equity, which he, or his estate, might otherwise have or have had. This release includes but is not limited to claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, The Civil Rights Act of 1866, The Civil Rights Act of 1991, The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990, The Employment Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, The Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, and all Federal, State, and Local law claims, whether statutory or common law, for defamation, libel, tortious interference, wrongful discharge, harassment, or for discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, handicap or disability, sexual orientation, veteran's status, or marital status or on any other prohibited basis, or any other claim arising out of or related to his employment or his termination from employment with the Board.

Notwithstanding the signing of the release by Powell, the Board shall remain obligated, to the extent required by law, to indemnify Powell against claims of third parties arising on or prior to October 31, 2007 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1, if applicable.

18. The Board, its members, agents, servants and employees ("Releasees"), agree to release irrevocably and unconditionally, and discharge Powell from any and all claims which it may have against Powell. It specifically releases Powell from any and all claims arising out of the employment relationship, including but not limited to any cause of action pursuable before any state or federal court or agency (including the filing and/or certification of tenure charges under the N.J. Tenure Employees' Hearing Law), or any other federal or state statutory provision, administrative regulation, collective negotiations agreement or other act that has the force and effect of law; as well as any claims for counsel fees, or any statutory or common law claim or cause of action for defamation, libel, tortious interference, breach of duty or loyalty, harassment, or for discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, handicap or disability, sexual orientation, veteran's status, or marital status or on any other prohibited basis.

19. In accordance with Executive Orders Nos. 9 and 11 and Trenton Times Corp. v. Bd. of Ed. of Trenton, 138 N.J. Super. 357 (App. Div. 1976) the parties agree that, subsequent to the date of this Agreement, any inquiries from potential employers regarding Powell shall be channeled solely to the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Michael A. Rossi, Jr. or the then current Superintendent of Schools. Responses to such inquiries shall be limited to providing the dates of Powell's employment, his position, his salary, and for the reason for separation, stating only that Powell voluntarily filed for retirement from employment on October 31, 2007.

20. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education for review and approval, and that the terms of the Agreement are expressly made subject to and contingent upon such review and approval. In the event that the Commissioner of Education disapproves and/or rejects any of the terms contained herein, this Agreement shall be null and void and shall not be evidential or used by either party in any proceeding involving any party to this Agreement. In addition, the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to this Agreement, and all rights are reserved in such event.

21. Powell acknowledges that, notwithstanding his entry into this Agreement, the Commissioner of Education may undertake to refer this matter to the New Jersey State Board of Examiners for action concerning his teaching certificate as it deems appropriate.

22. The Board and Powell agree that Powell shall be provided a mutually convenient opportunity to obtain whatever personal belongings of his remain within the school district, as well as to return any district materials that Powell has in his possession.

23. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement or the Releases set forth above shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any term of this Agreement should there be a default in performance.

24. The parties expressly agree that they shall act in good faith to ensure implementation of this Settlement Agreement. This shall include cooperation in filling out and submitting in timely fashion any documents related to Powell's application for early retirement effective November 1, 2007. The parties mutually agree to refrain from retaliation, in any manner, against the other party (or, their families, members, agents and employees). The parties further mutually agree not to make any derogatory comments, statements or misrepresentations about the other (or, their families, members, agents and employees).

25. The parties acknowledge that each has had the opportunity to consult with an attorney or a representative of their own choosing prior to signing this Settlement Agreement and that each signs this Settlement Agreement freely and voluntarily and without coercion or duress. The parties further acknowledge that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein and has been informed of their legal rights and obligations.

26. This Settlement Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

27. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Settlement Agreement and bind the Board to its terms. Upon ratification of this Agreement, the Board authorizes its President and Secretary to execute the same on its behalf.

28. All terms of this Settlement Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

29. This Settlement Agreement incorporates and settles all claims and disputes which may exist between Powell and the Board arising from his employment or otherwise. Further, this Settlement Agreement incorporates the complete financial obligation of the Board with regard to its employment relationship with Powell and Powell's separation from employment.IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on June 8, 2007, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most notably, irreparable harm. As set forth in the ALJ's oral decision from the bench, during the period of his suspension A.E. has received instruction in each of his academic courses; there has been no showing that he is academically disadvantaged, and the school year is scheduled to end on June 15, 2007.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits as contemplated by the ALJ and the parties.

ORDER ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL Docket No.: EDU 05790-07
Agency Docket No.: 139-5/07

O.E. o/b/o A.E.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WALLINGTON, BERGEN COUNTY.

Respondent.

O.E., pro se, o/b/o minor child A.E., petitioner

Walter M. Slomienski, Jr., Esq., representing Board of Education of the Borough of Wallington, Bergen County

BEFORE:IMRE KARASZEGI, J.R., ALJ

Petitioner brings this action seeking emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. regarding the Board of Education of the Borough of Wallington, Bergen County, decision to suspend A.E., a minor child, from regular classroom study.

On May 25, 2007, the Commissioner of Education received Petitioner's application for emergent relief. On June 4, 2007, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case. On June 8, 2007, oral argument was presented in the Newark offices of the Office of Administrative Law.

The standards for the granting of emergency relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). It may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In the instant case, after hearing the arguments of petitioner and counsel for the Wallington Board of Education and considering any other documentation submitted, I find that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because no proofs have been submitted that would establish irreparable harm as a necessary element to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Petitioner's motion for emergent relief is therefore DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CHARTER TECH HIGH SCHOOL FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the recommended Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, particularly with respect to his likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his claim at plenary hearing. The Commissioner further concurs that, because the present decision fully disposes of all issues in dispute between the parties, no further proceedings are necessary and the matter is appropriately dismissed.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief and dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

CHASEN BYNUM-GRANTHAM.,

Petitioner,

v.

CHARTER TECH HIGH SCHOOL FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS,

Respondent.

Chasen Bynum-Grantham, petitioner, pro se

Richard A. Carlucci, Esq., for respondent (Griffith and Carlucci, attorneys)

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about June 6, 2007, petitioner learned that he was required to obtain a 95 on his Physics final examination in order to pass the course. Unfortunately, he received a 67. Since he has not passed Physics, he has only ten credits in science instead of the fifteen credits required in science for graduation from high school under N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(3). As a result, the respondent has determined that he may not participate in the graduation ceremonies. Mr. Bynum-Grantham petitioned the Commissioner of Education for emergent relief and the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law. A hearing was held on June 15, 2007. Graduation is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on June 15, 2007.

The Board has presented documentary evidence that Mr. Bynum-Grantham failed to pass Physics. His teacher, William J. Murray, has provided a letter dated June 14, 2007, indicating that he failed the course with a grade of 67. The Board has not presented any evidence that it has a written policy regarding who may participate in the graduation ceremonies. Mr. Bynum-Grantham has presented interim progress reports from May 16, 2007, and June 3, 2007, indicating that, at the time, he had a C or higher in the Physics course. Nevertheless, Mr. Bynum-Grantham advised that he was told on Wednesday, June 6, 2007, that he needed to obtain a 95 on his final exam in order to pass the course. While he does not specifically contend that he in fact did pass and therefore is entitled to receive the credits to the course and to graduate pursuant to the graduation requirements previously cited, nevertheless, he implores that he would like to participate in the graduation ceremony with his classmates, having worked very hard during his four years at the school and believing that, in some instances, his progress therein has been thwarted by others who have "sabotaged" his efforts. He feels he has "earned something" due to his efforts over his high school years.

APPLICABLE LAW

Petitioner carries the burden in seeking emergent relief. The standard is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), necessary for the awarding of this relief. See also, Princeton Ins. Co. v. 349 Associates, L.L.C., 147 N.J. 337, 340 (1997). Crowe requires a showing of each of the four specific criteria:

1. The relief must not be granted except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, or harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy;

2. Relief should not be granted when the legal right underlying the applicant's claim is unsettled;

3. The applicant for relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits; and

4. The relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief must be considered. Id. at 132-34.

The burden not only rest with petitioner to meet the emergent relief standards but petitioner also has the burden of proving unreasonableness for actions that are within the management's prerogative. G.M. v. Roselle Park Borough Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 107, 109. Board decisions will not be "usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taken in bad faith without a rational basis." Ibid. Local boards of education have reasonable discretion for various managerial matters. For example, the Commissioner has held that the matters of class assignment, and specifically, the session assignment of kindergarten pupils, constitutes a `management prerogative' of local boards of education, which will not be assumed nor usurped by the Commissioner unless there is " . . . a definite showing that the action of a local board of education was arbitrary, in bad faith, without rational basis, or discriminatory." Paddock v. Demarest Bor. Bd. of Educ., 1974 S.L.D., 435, 440; See also, Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. Tp. Of W. Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960).

Petitioner has not met the aforementioned elements necessary for emergent relief. Fundamentally, the petitioner has failed to establish a preliminary showing that there is a reasonable likelihood that he could prevail on the merits of this case. The Board of Education is certainly not acting unreasonably in determining that those who are not eligible to graduate pursuant to State standards should not be permitted to participate in the graduation ceremony. While certainly the Board could make another decision and could make some provision for students otherwise in good standing to participate in some fashion in this ceremony, it would be difficult to conclude that there is a reasonable likelihood of success in establishing that failure to make such accommodation constitutes an unreasonable action on the part of the Board. Even without a written policy, the Board's decision can hardly be deemed arbitrary, and Mr. Bynum-Grantham had notice as to the grade he needed to obtain in order to graduate.

The very concept of a graduation ceremony implies that it is for those who are graduating. As such, since the Commissioner is loathe to interfere with the action of a local Board of Education unless it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, it cannot be said that Mr. Bynum-Grantham has a reasonable likelihood of success in overturning the Board's action. While there may be some debate as to whether preventing a student from participating in a graduation ceremony constitutes sufficient psychic damage as to rise to the level of irreparable harm, in the end Mr. Bynum-Grantham's ability to obtain emergent relief is not established. Therefore, since I CONCLUDE that the Board's action is not unreasonable, and since there are no further issues to be resolved as the request for emergent relief is being heard just prior to the graduation ceremony for which relief is sought, I CONCLUDE that this contested case must be DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 163-6/07

CHASEN BYNUM-GRANTHAM,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON APPLICATION
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CHARTER TECH HIGH SCHOOL FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the recommended Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, particularly with respect to his likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his claim at plenary hearing. The Commissioner further concurs that, because the present decision fully disposes of all issues in dispute between the parties, no further proceedings are necessary and the matter is appropriately dismissed.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief and dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED. *

CHASEN BYNUM-GRANTHAM.,

Petitioner,

v.

CHARTER TECH HIGH SCHOOL FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS,

Respondent.

Chasen Bynum-Grantham, petitioner, pro se

Richard A. Carlucci, Esq., for respondent (Griffith and Carlucci, attorneys)

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about June 6, 2007, petitioner learned that he was required to obtain a 95 on his Physics final examination in order to pass the course. Unfortunately, he received a 67. Since he has not passed Physics, he has only ten credits in science instead of the fifteen credits required in science for graduation from high school under N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(3). As a result, the respondent has determined that he may not participate in the graduation ceremonies. Mr. Bynum-Grantham petitioned the Commissioner of Education for emergent relief and the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law. A hearing was held on June 15, 2007. Graduation is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on June 15, 2007.

The Board has presented documentary evidence that Mr. Bynum-Grantham failed to pass Physics. His teacher, William J. Murray, has provided a letter dated June 14, 2007, indicating that he failed the course with a grade of 67. The Board has not presented any evidence that it has a written policy regarding who may participate in the graduation ceremonies. Mr. Bynum-Grantham has presented interim progress reports from May 16, 2007, and June 3, 2007, indicating that, at the time, he had a C or higher in the Physics course. Nevertheless, Mr. Bynum-Grantham advised that he was told on Wednesday, June 6, 2007, that he needed to obtain a 95 on his final exam in order to pass the course. While he does not specifically contend that he in fact did pass and therefore is entitled to receive the credits to the course and to graduate pursuant to the graduation requirements previously cited, nevertheless, he implores that he would like to participate in the graduation ceremony with his classmates, having worked very hard during his four years at the school and believing that, in some instances, his progress therein has been thwarted by others who have "sabotaged" his efforts. He feels he has "earned something" due to his efforts over his high school years.

APPLICABLE LAW

Petitioner carries the burden in seeking emergent relief. The standard is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), necessary for the awarding of this relief. See also, Princeton Ins. Co. v. 349 Associates, L.L.C., 147 N.J. 337, 340 (1997). Crowe requires a showing of each of the four specific criteria:

1. The relief must not be granted except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, or harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy;

2. Relief should not be granted when the legal right underlying the applicant's claim is unsettled;

3. The applicant for relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits; and

4. The relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief must be considered. Id. at 132-34.

The burden not only rest with petitioner to meet the emergent relief standards but petitioner also has the burden of proving unreasonableness for actions that are within the management's prerogative. G.M. v. Roselle Park Borough Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 107, 109. Board decisions will not be "usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taken in bad faith without a rational basis." Ibid. Local boards of education have reasonable discretion for various managerial matters. For example, the Commissioner has held that the matters of class assignment, and specifically, the session assignment of kindergarten pupils, constitutes a `management prerogative' of local boards of education, which will not be assumed nor usurped by the Commissioner unless there is " . . . a definite showing that the action of a local board of education was arbitrary, in bad faith, without rational basis, or discriminatory." Paddock v. Demarest Bor. Bd. of Educ., 1974 S.L.D., 435, 440; See also, Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. Tp. Of W. Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960).

Petitioner has not met the aforementioned elements necessary for emergent relief. Fundamentally, the petitioner has failed to establish a preliminary showing that there is a reasonable likelihood that he could prevail on the merits of this case. The Board of Education is certainly not acting unreasonably in determining that those who are not eligible to graduate pursuant to State standards should not be permitted to participate in the graduation ceremony. While certainly the Board could make another decision and could make some provision for students otherwise in good standing to participate in some fashion in this ceremony, it would be difficult to conclude that there is a reasonable likelihood of success in establishing that failure to make such accommodation constitutes an unreasonable action on the part of the Board. Even without a written policy, the Board's decision can hardly be deemed arbitrary, and Mr. Bynum-Grantham had notice as to the grade he needed to obtain in order to graduate.

The very concept of a graduation ceremony implies that it is for those who are graduating. As such, since the Commissioner is loathe to interfere with the action of a local Board of Education unless it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, it cannot be said that Mr. Bynum-Grantham has a reasonable likelihood of success in overturning the Board's action. While there may be some debate as to whether preventing a student from participating in a graduation ceremony constitutes sufficient psychic damage as to rise to the level of irreparable harm, in the end Mr. Bynum-Grantham's ability to obtain emergent relief is not established. Therefore, since I CONCLUDE that the Board's action is not unreasonable, and since there are no further issues to be resolved as the request for emergent relief is being heard just prior to the graduation ceremony for which relief is sought, I CONCLUDE that this contested case must be DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LACEY, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter – including the audiotape of proceedings – and the recommended Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, particularly with respect to his likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his claim at plenary hearing.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Because the present decision fully disposes of all issues in dispute between the parties, no further proceedings are necessary, and this matter is, therefore, dismissed with the request that the Clerk of the OAL return the file to the agency pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ t/a:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is an appeal for emergent relief from a decision by the Board of Education, Lacey Township, prohibiting petitioner from participating in the graduation ceremony for the class of 2007, of which he is a graduating member.

Respondent Lacey Township Board of Education opposes the motion.

Today's order denies the emergent relief sought by petitioner, S.Mc.A

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law by the agency on June 12, 2007, for hearing. The case convened for oral argument today, June 14, 2007, on which date the record closed and this initial decision issues.

ANALYSIS OF THE RECORD

Background:

Petitioner, S. McA., has been a student in the Lacey Township School System for thirteen years. During his attendance in high school, petitioner has been on the honor roll for four years, compiling a laudable academic record. Additionally, he has captained both the basketball and football teams, and has accrued numerous honors county and state-wide for his accomplishments. The high school principal and the supervisor of his elementary school have unreservedly supported his college applications with letters of recommendation.

In contrast to this admirable record is an event which occurred on April 1, 2007, while petitioner was driving his car at 1:22 a.m. At that time, petitioner was stopped by the Lacey Township Police, and issued a summons for violation of N.J.S.A 39:4-50 and 39:4-50.14 (driving while under age and intoxicated) N.J.S.A. 39:4-96 (reckless driving), and N.J.S.A. 39:4-81 (failure to observe traffic signal). The administrative disposition which followed this occurrence included a ten-day out-of-school suspension beginning on April 2, and a nine week co-curricular restriction, beginning on April 24. Proper measurement of the length of the suspension and of the restriction are in dispute. A Board hearing attended by petitioner's parents, but not petitioner, was held on June 7, 2007.

What petitioner will be denied as a consequence, a denial from which he here seeks relief, is an opportunity to be honored with his classmates by participating in the public receipt of a diploma at the graduation ceremony for the entire Lacey Township High School Class of 2007. Petitioner's actual graduation will occur nonetheless on the same day.

Petitioner and respondent school district presented their arguments for and against emergent relief during today's oral argument.

Arguments of the Parties:

Petitioner's argument:

Without denying the error in judgment which has caused his predicament, petitioner asks that the acknowledged record of distinction in his studies and in his athletic achievements, together with his laudable personal history be taken into account. His accumulated background should ameliorate a penalty far in excess of what is reasonable, he argues, i.e., denial of graduation with those classmates who have been party to experiences which are the stuff of memories cherished life-long. Also relevant is his ready acknowledgement of wrongdoing already punished enough elsewhere, petitioner states.

As a matter of law, petitioner points out there is no distinction in the Student/Parent Handbook (Exh. J-5) between the method for calculating days for suspension and the measure for calculating days for co-curricular restriction. His suspension should therefore be measured in calendar days, with the result that completion of the nine-week co-curricular restriction would end before the graduation ceremony, allowing his inclusion therein. Any ambiguity in the language of rules and handbooks should be resolved in favor of students. Further, petitioner believes he was denied due process at the Lacey Township Board of Education hearing because no notices were ever addressed to him. Thus, the matter should be remanded. Meanwhile, he should be allowed to graduate with his peers, petitioner insists.

Respondent Lacey Township Board of Education's argument :

Through its witness, Michael Adamski, the Principal of Lacey Township High School for fifteen years until 2005, submits that ten-day out-of-school suspensions are measured in school days. Nine week co-curricular restrictions would be measured in calendar days. A spring break therefore would stop the clock on a suspension, and resume it with the return to school. Mr. Adamski testified that this was his and the Board's unwavering interpretation during his tenure as principal.

The Board argues as a matter of law that emergent relief is not appropriate under Crowe v. DiGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), contending that not all four prongs of its holding have been satisfied. Moreover, the Board's action is entitled to a presumption of correctness. It may be reversed by the Commissioner of Education only if the record compiled by the administrative law judge warrants a finding that the action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The Board cites numerous administrative cases upholding the need to maintain order and discipline, and affirming the equally important need to enforce rules uniformly so as to serve as a deterrent from future prohibited behavior. The Board is certain that its rules fall within these justifiable standards.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Findings of Fact:

To resolve disputes of material fact, I make the following FINDINGS:

1. The longstanding practice of the Lacey Township Board of Education since at least 1990 is to count ten-day out-of-school suspensions in school days, and to count restrictions from co-curricular activities in calendar days. This is the legislative intent and has been the consistent legislative interpretation of its rules (Exh. J-1) as well as of its handbook (Exh. J-5).
2. Petitioner's ten-day out-of school suspension ran from April 2 to through April 5 (four school days) and from April 16 through and including April 23 (six school days).
3. Petitioner, an adult of eighteen years now and on June 7, the date of the informal hearing, knew of the Lacey Township Board of Education meeting, but did not attend.

Conclusions of Law

There is no dispute that the applicable legal standard is well-settled in the law: The Board's action is entitled to a presumption of correctness, and its ruling may be overturned only if found to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Board of Education of the Twp. Of Morris, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 328 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed 46 N.J. 581 (1966). The affirmative showing required to cause this reversal is a heavy burden to carry, as the several cases cited in the Board's brief confirm. Especially pertinent here is the case, P.G., et al. v Board of Education of the Greater Harbor Regional High School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4210-89 (June 9, 1989), adopted by the Commissioner of Education (student barred from graduation exercises for consumption of alcohol during school trip). For this reason, petitioner's case is not focused in the main on the power of the Board of Education to exclude a student from the graduation ceremony because of a DWI offense. All agree the power exists. It is the circumstances underlying the Board decision which petitioner maintains amount to fatal legal flaw, thus nullifying the Board's decision.

As noted above, most of the critical facts are not in dispute. The case turns on the proper calculation of the days in issue fixed by the Board for suspension and restriction because of the DWI. These days represent the period during which petitioner's discipline may be imposed under Board rules, a fact not argued otherwise by the Board in this case.

1. The first contention of petitioner is that calculating the dates for the ten-day out-of school suspension should be consistent, and that both the suspension and the co-curricular restriction of nine weeks should be counted as calendar days. This, he maintains, fits the plain language of the Student/Parent Handbook (Exh. J-5) and the Discipline Rules of the Board, R 5600 (Exh. J-1).

The argument is not persuasive. The threshold of preponderating evidence required in administrative hearings [CITE] has been satisfied through the credible testimony of former Lacy Township High School principal Michael Adamski, who recalled that during his fifteen-year tenure through 2005, the measurement for out-of-school suspension was by school-day only. Under the preponderance standard, this may safely be accepted as the longstanding practice and interpretation to date, as well. With the suspension beginning April 2, 2007, and, excluding the spring break which began on April 6, 2007 and ended on April 16, 2007, this would end petitioner's nine-week co-curricular prohibition on June 26, 2007. This date is well beyond the graduation ceremony to be held tomorrow, June 15.

2. Second, petitioner asserts the existence of a gap in the ten-day suspension, which he contends should not have occurred. If this time were eliminated from consideration, he argues, his period of discipline, the sole bar to graduation ceremony, would have ended beforehand. In support, he cites the testimony of Michael Adamski, who recounted his own practice of never allowing a lapse of time between (a) the end of out-of school suspension with a principal's conference and (b) the onset of co-curricular restriction.

It must be held now that spring break was not a comparable "gap," any more than Thanksgiving, Columbus Day or winter break would be. The fact of spring break is not disputed. The ten-day suspension beginning April 2 and measured by the number of in-school days forfeited, ended six school days after the break extending from April 6 to April 16, and the principal-student conference memorializing it's ending was on or about that date.

3. Third, petitioner insists that fundamental due process was violated. No written or verbal notice was provided petitioner, legally an adult of eighteen, that the appeal to the Board of Education by his parents was to convene on June 7. Accepting, arguendo, the testimony of petitioner and his father that all family members knew of the appeal date but were unaware petitioner could attend, petitioner's position still falls short. There has been no cited authority to offset the Board's legal position: ten-day out-of-school suspensions and nine-week co-curricular restrictions are not mandatory appeal issues for the Board. Consequently, the standard Lacy Township Board of Education practice of notifying parents only can still prevail as adequate notice.

Additionally, and in any event, possible due process flaws by the Board below are rectified in the Office of Administrative Law. Due process is conferred through opportunity for submission of evidence and argument before the administrative law judge, followed by decision from the Commissioner of Education. It would be absurd, in the legal sense, to grant the remedy sought, participation in graduation ceremonies (as petitioner suggests) and then return the appeal to the Board of Education for hearing on whether it was deserved.

4. Fourth and finally, the standard of Crowe v. DiGioa, supra, has not been satisfied. First, petitioner will not be irreparably harmed. He will graduate, and neither physical nor emotional damage requiring remedy is likely, nor have any such preponderating proofs been offered, other than through letters from petitioner's parents, to suggest otherwise. Second, all of petitioner's legal due process rights have been provided through this appeal opportunity. Third, given the admitted standards and case law conceded or cited above, there is small likelihood of success in any plenary hearing to follow this emergent proceeding. Fourth, the need to maintain discipline and to deter bad behavior through consistent imposition of penalties to accomplish these goals across-the-board within the school district more than outweighs in balance the inconvenience brought on by petitioner's admitted misstep.

For all these reasons, relief may not be granted.

ORDER

I ORDER, therefore under the above rationale that petitioner's motion for emergent relief be, and hereby is, DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter – including the audiotape of proceedings – and the recommended Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982), and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, particularly with respect to the likelihood that petitioner will prevail on the merits.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Because the present decision fully disposes of all issues in dispute between the parties, no further proceedings are necessary, and this matter is, therefore, dismissed with the request that the Clerk of the OAL return the file to the agency pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

ORDER ON EMERGENT RELIEF

J.E., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, A.E., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF LACEY TOWNSHIP,
OCEAN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Terry Brady, Esq., on behalf of petitioner (Mulvaney, Coronato & Brady, attorneys)

Arthur Stein, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Stein and Supsies, attorneys)

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 12, 2007, J.E. (petitioner) filed an application for emergent relief with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs. The application requested that A.E. be permitted to participate in graduation ceremonies schelеduled for Friday, June 15, 2007. The Lacey Board of Eduction (Board) suspended A.E. for ten days and prohibited her from participating in any extracurricular activities for nine weeks as a result of A.E. being charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DWI).

On June 13, 2007, the matter were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the requested emergent relief on June 15, 2007, at 9:00A.M. The case heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township), and the record closed on that date.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Some of the facts are undisputed. On May 19, 2007, A.E. was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, (N.J.S.A. 39:4-50), refusing to submit to breath testing (N.J.S.A. 39:4-50.4a), underage drinking (N.J.S.A. 39:4-50.14), and failure to maintain a lane (N.J.S.A. 39:4-88). A.E. has entered pleas of not guilty to all charges, and her trial is scheduled for July 10, 2007.

According to the police report, the arresting officer smelled a strong odor of alcohol from A.E., and she admitted consuming alcohol, by admitting that she had "two sips of Malibu over a friend's house"(P-1). This has not been contradicted or disputed. The officer also wrote that A.E. failed the field sobriety tests (P-1)

The Lacey Township Policy 5600 provides in part:

> During the academic school year in cooperation with law enforcement officials, any student issued a summons or arrested for being under the influence, using, distributing, and/or possessing drugs, alcoholic beverages, or weapons off school ground will be subject to same penalties as if the action had taken place on school grounds. (R-3)

The first offense penalties include a ten-day out-of-school suspension, a nine week restriction on co-curricular activities for the equivalent of one marking period, which includes attendance and participation in graduation activities (R-2).

DISCUSSION OF THE LAW

A party seeking emergent relief must satisfy the standards in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), which requires the movant to establish:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

The Commissioner has consistently found that denial of attendance at graduation exercises does not constitute irreparable harm. The case law is remarkably consistent that attendance at graduation ceremonies is a privilege, not a right. That privilege may be withheld in the interest of maintaining an orderly and efficient school system. Martin A. Domacasse v. Board of Education of the North Warren Regional School District, Warren County, State Board of Education decision dated April 17, 1996, citing Camden City Board of Education v. NJSLAA, Docket #A-2802-91T2 (App. Div. 1992); Burnside et al. v. NJSIAA, 1984 S.L.D. 1695 (App. Div. 1984), cert. denied 101 N.J. 236 (1985). The determination of whether or not they may attend is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm. Denial of attendance at graduation exercises is, therefore, not irreparable harm.

I disagree

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety, and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. The issue to be determined is whether the action of the Board and its policy to discipline a student based upon an arrest or charge is arbitrary and unreasonable.

Petitioner argues that an arrest standing alone cannot give rise to punishment. This may be true if the policy applied to a pending DWI charge only. Defenses could exist as to whether or not the individuals was under the influence .

However, this case involves underage drinking. Petitioner admitted in the police report she did consume alcohol beverages. The office smelled the odor of alcohol and opined that she failed the field tests. I FIND there is substantial evidence to conclude that A.E. consumed alcoholic beverages. The Board's actions were not solely based on the arrest, but the circumstances surrounding the arrest.

N.M. v. Bd of Education of Wall Twp., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8895-01 (December 21, 2001), Adopted by the Commissioner of Education December 28, 2001, involved a similar situation. Several students, including N.M., were involved with the consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages in a private home, and N.M. was prevented from participating in extra-curricular activities.

The Board's disciplinary policy not only authorizes it to suspend a student for such conduct, but also renders the student ineligible to participate in any school activities. As a result, I FIND that Board's actions in applying its policy to prohibit A.E. from attending and participating in graduation ceremonies due to her conduct, no matter how regrettable and unfortunate this may be for her, cannot be disturbed. Consequently, I further FIND it unlikely that the petitioner would have prevailed on the merits.

As stated above, the actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity. A specific policy and punishment was established by the Board with respect to underage drinking and enumerated in the School Handbook. Based on these factors, I FIND that the petitioners did not meet their burden of proof that there is a legal right underlying the claim.

Clearly, the petitioner have a substantial interest in attending and marching in the processional at graduation. However, the Board also has a substantial interest in ensuring that its disciplinary policies are applied as to prevent underage drinking. If it did not enforce its disciplinary policies, or treat A.E. differently than other students in the school, the Board would be sending the wrong kind of message and possibly establishing a dangerous precedent. Consequently, I FIND that the Board will suffer greater harm than Petitioner if the requested relief is granted.

DECISION AND ORDER

Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m)1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 are written in the conjunctive and all three petitioners have failed to satisfy any of the four requirements, I CONCLUDE that the Petitioner has failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Petition of A.E. for emergent relief is DENIED without prejudice.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4508-07

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent Board's determination that her children, S.L. and S.L., were ineligible to attend West Orange Township schools. Petitioner asserted that the children spent the night in Irvington on nights when their father – from whom petitioner was separated – helped them with homework. Respondent alleged that S.L. and S.L. were domiciled in Irvington, and sought tuition reimbursement for the period of their ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: both children were domiciled in Irvington during the time they attended school for fifty-six days in West Orange; petitioner only intended to reside temporarily in West Orange until her family unit was reunited; and petitioner failed to demonstrate that her children were entitled to a free public education in the District's schools. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's application for tuition reimbursement in the amount of $6,621.44 for S.L and S.L.'s ineligible attendance.

Upon a full and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, and ordered petitioner to remit tuition to the West Orange Board of Education for the period from October 6, 2005 to January 10, 2006.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions.

Upon independent and careful review of the record in this matter, and according due deference to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) credibility determinations,[1] the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that M.L. and her children, S.L. and S.L., were not domiciliaries of West Orange and, thus, the children were not entitled to a free public education in that District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons set forth therein. Petitioner is directed to pay the Board $6,621.44 for her children's ineligible attendance in its schools during the period October 6, 2005 to January 10, 2006 and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01122-06
AGENCY DKT. NO. 359-12/05

M. L. o/b/o MINOR CHILDREN, S.L. AND S.L.,
Petitioner,
v.
TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

M. L., petitioner, pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq, for respondent

Record Closed: May 15, 2007 Decided: May 16, 2007

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 8, 2005, petitioner, M.L., filed a residency appeal on behalf of her two children, S.L. and S.L., grades 4 and 6, respectively. On December 7, 2005, the Township of West Orange Board of Education (BOE or respondent) filed an Answer with the State Department of Education (DOE) seeking reimbursement from petitioner for the costs of tuition incurred by the attendance of her two minor children in the BOE's school district from October 6, 2005 to January 10, 2006. The DOE transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 6, 2006, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to Judge Edith Klinger on January 6, 2006, was subsequently assigned to Judge Diana Sukovich, and ultimately to the undersigned on April 20, 2007. A hearing was held on May 15, 2007, on which date the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

M.L. had resided at 35 Laurel Avenue in Irvington with her husband and two children. When she began having marital problems, she separated from her husband in July 2005 and in August 2005 moved in with her sister who resided at 52 Hazel Avenue in West Orange. Other than providing shelter, there was no testimony that the sister contributed to the support of the children. M.L., along with her two children, continued to reside with her sister until January 2006, when M.L.'s family reconciled. M.L. and her sister testified that the children would go to Irvington to do homework with their father, but would stay at the West Orange home two or three nights per week. The children then returned to Irvington in January 2006 where they continue to attend school. Although M.L. provided a driver's license and pay stubs reflecting the West Orange address, nevertheless it was her intent that this was a temporary residence until her family was reunited. (Exhibit "P-1").

Frank Guarneri, the district registrar and former investigator for the district, gave compelling and credible testimony. On October 6, 7, 10 and 11, 2005, he observed a silver Toyota Landcrusier drop off S.L. and S.L. at the home of M.L.'s sister at approximately 7:15 a.m. and then observed the children enter the house. On each occasion, he thereafter observed one child exit the home at approximately 7:35 a.m. and walk to Hazel Ave. and Pine Street to board the #329 bus. The other child exited the home at approximately 8:25 a.m. and cross the street to attend the Hazel Avenue School. Guarneri further observed mail in the mail box at the Irvington home addressed to M.L. On October 11 and 12, 2005, at 6:30 a.m., Guarneri observed an adult female and S.L. and S.L. exit the Irvington residence, enter the Landcruiser and drive to Birch Street and Wellington Avenue in West Orange where both children exited the vehicle and walked to 52 Hazel Street. (Exhibit "R-2")

The individual cost to the BOE for that period of time for S.L., the fourth grader, was $3,146.08 and $3,475.36 for S.L. the sixth grader. (Exhibit "R-3"). This was calculated upon the daily cost for each student at the rate of $56.18 and $62.06, respectively. The combined total cost for both children to attend school in West Orange for fifty six school days was $6,621.44.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The issue in this appeal is not economic or family hardship as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), but whether S.L. and S.L. were domiciled students during the fifty-six days they attended school in West Orange.

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including individuals who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is the domicile of the parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). Thus, a child would routinely attend school in the district where his or her parents live.

Local school districts must also provide a free education to any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the district and supported by such other person gratis as if he/she were such other person's own child, upon the filing by that person with the pertinent board of education of a sworn statement. Such statement shall, if so required by the board, state that he/she is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements. The sworn statement must also state that he/she intends to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term. A copy of certain documents regarding residency shall also be filed. The parent/guardian shall file with the board a sworn statement that he/she is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child because of a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely to receive a free public education therein. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation supporting the validity of the sworn statements. Id. at § (b)(1). Here, there were no proofs that M.L.'s sister contributed to the support of the children.

From the evidence submitted, it is clear that both children were domiciled in Irvington during the time they attended school for fifty six days in West Orange. M.L. failed to demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that her children were entitled to a free public education in West Orange. To the contrary, the BOE has proven that they were not since they were not domiciled there. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1) provides:

> A student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is living with a parent or legal guardian whose permanent home is located within the school district. A home is permanent when the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere.

Thus, domicile is what is regarded as an individual's true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977). The question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). Intent is the touchstone of domicile, and the manifestation of a person's intent converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). A person may have multiple residences, but may have only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. Ibid.

Based upon the facts adduced, I CONCLUDE that S.L. and S.L. were domiciled in Irvington during the fifty six school days they attended in West Orange. M.L. only intended to reside temporarily in West Orange until the family unit was reunited and then return to Irvington. Additionally, the children were observed leaving their Irvington address early in the morning over the course of several days and driven to West Orange to attend school. Accordingly, they were not entitled to attend schools in West Orange and given a free public education there pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

A school board is entitled to recover tuition from a parent or guardian of a child found ineligible to attend a school in its district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). S.L. and S.L. were not entitled to a free public education in West Orange. Accordingly, respondent is entitled to reimbursement from M.L. in the sum of $6,621.44 for the cost of providing a public education to both children from October 6, 2005 until January 10, 2006, and I so CONCLUDE.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition of petitioner, M.L., be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. It is further ORDERED that M.L. reimburse respondent the total sum of $6,621.44 for tuition costs associated with the attendance of her children, S.L. and S.L., in West Orange between October 6, 2005 and January 10, 2006.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: May 17, 2007 Decided: May 18, 2007

BEFORE IMRE KARASZEGI, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on February 5, 2002 for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A.52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On May 16, 2007, the parties, having reached an amicable resolution of the matter, submitted a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Petitioner ELVI RODRIGUEZ (E.R.) hereby agrees, with the Respondent, the ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION (the "Board"), to settle the above-referenced matter as follows:

1. Respondent shall reinstated to Petitioner, E.R., a total of two (2) sick days for sick days utilized on October 1 and 2, 2001.

2. The parties agree that this settlement shall not constitute any admissions relative to this case by either party.

3. Petitioner, E.R., agrees that this Settlement resolves any and all claims that he had, or may have had against Respondent relative to any issue raised in or related to this matter.

4. Petitioner, E.R., agrees to waive any rights he had or may have had to file any other grievance, complaint, petition or charge in any court of law or administrative agency, including, but not limited to the Commissioner of Education, Division of Worker's Compensation, Office of Administrative Law and/or the Public Employment Relations Commission, relative to any issues or potential issues that arose or could have arisen during the time period that Petitioner incurred and was treated for his injuries that occurred on or about August 6, August 13 and August 20, 2001.

5. Petitioner, E.R., hereby waives any claims for compensatory damages, interest, attorney fees, costs of suit and/or any other forms of relief in relation to the injuries that occurred on or about August 6, August 13 and August 20, 2001.

6. Petitioner, E.R., agrees that he has entered into this Settlement Agreement voluntarily and without coercion.

7. Petitioner, E.R., agrees that he has been fully and fairly represented by legal counsel throughout this proceeding.

8. All parties mutually agree and enter into the terms contained in this Settlement.

9. This agreement shall not be precedential with respect to any similar claims raised against the Elizabeth Board of Education.

10. All parties agree and acknowledge that the Settlement Agreement herein embodies the parties' full understanding of the terms of the parties' Settlement.

11. This Settlement Agreement may only be modified in writing signed by all the parties.

12. All parties hereby agree that the terms of this Settlement are binding upon all parties, their heirs and their assigns.

ROBERT SMITH, WILLINGBORO BOARD OF EDUCATION BURLINGTON COUNTY	:	SEC DOCKET NO. C33-05
	:	CONSENT DECREE

WHEREAS, Complainant, Willingboro Board of Education represented by Thomas Eschleman, Esq. and Respondent, Robert Smith, represented by John Goins, Esq., have mutually agreed to settle the above-captioned matter pending before the School Ethics Commission, Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson; and

WHEREAS, this matter arose from a complaint that was filed with the School Ethics Commission alleging that Mr. Smith violated the School Ethics Act when, as a member of the Willingboro Board of Education, he engaged in conduct that some employees found improper and offensive;

WHEREAS, Mr. Smith denied that any conduct that he engaged in violated the Act; and

WHEREAS, prior to the School Ethics Commission's probable cause hearing on this matter, the parties reached a resolution with Mr. Smith agreeing to certain remedial measures as follows:

1. Robert Smith agrees to a sanction of reprimand for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) of the Act, which prohibits a board member from taking private action that may compromise the board;

2. Robert Smith agrees to issue a public apology regarding this matter at the next school board meeting. The language of the apology will be as follows:

   > I would like to apologize for any past behavior on my part, which unintentionally resulted in individuals feeling harassed or intimidated. It was never my intention that any individual experience these feelings of discomfort, and I will specifically refrain from such actions and conduct in the future.

3. Robert Smith agrees to attend and complete sexual harassment training courses as designated by the Willingboro Board of Education;

4. Robert Smith agrees that he will not initiate any direct contact with employees T.L. and B.W.;

5. Robert Smith agrees to recuse himself in any matters that come before the Board of Education involving T.L. and B.W.; and

6. Robert Smith agrees to abide by the Willingboro Board of Education's policy regarding school visits;

7. Robert Smith will surrender any identification in his possession that allows him specialized access to schools;

8. Robert Smith agrees to abide by the Willingboro Board of Education's policy on sexual harassment; and

9. Robert Smith will not act as a hearing officer in any proceeding in which T.L. and/or B.W. are participants.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission finds that a sanction of a reprimand is appropriate in light of his agreement to make a public apology and undergo training; and

WHEREAS, the Commission hereby forwards this signed agreement to the Acting Commissioner with its recommendation that she impose a sanction of reprimand in this matter; and

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the parties, the School Ethics Commission and the Acting Commissioner of Education hereby consent to this Resolution in settlement of the above matter imposing on Robert Smith a sanction of reprimand.

Dear Parties:

KENTWOOD ACADEMY V. NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, AGENCY DKT NO. 319-9/06, OAL DKT NO. EDU 9997-06, COMMISSIONER DECISION NO. 253-07

We are enclosing a copy of the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated June 19, 2007, in the above-captioned matter. Appeals of Commissioner decisions, other than State Department of Education employee contractual determinations and matters involving the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, may be filed with the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Please note that this office is no longer providing an additional copy of the initial decision to the parties in this case.

Additionally, please note that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the Commissioner's decision is mailed to the parties three days prior to the date it is deemed officially filed. This provides counsel and pro se litigants with the decision before it is made public by the Department. Parties and counsel are requested to refrain from making Commissioner decisions public prior to the filing date. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Very truly yours,

KENTWOOD ACADEMY, Petitioner, v. STATE OF NEW JERSEY, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION	BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINSTRATIVE LAW DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION Agency Docket No: 319-9/06 OAL Docket No: EDU 9997-06 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

THIS MATTER having been opened before the Office of Administrative Law by Kalison, McBride, Jackson & Murphy, P.A., attorneys for Petitioner Kentwood Academy ["The Academy"] and the parties having conferred during a conference before the Hon. Barry Frank, A.L.J. on April 13, 2007, and having negotiated and come to an agreement in the interest of resolving amicably the outstanding issues of the pending appeal, and as result of said conference all parties agreeing to terms placed on the record on that day;

IT IS on this 15th day of May 2007 hereby STIPULATED AND AGREED:

1. Kentwood Academy shall have until March 31, 2008 in order to establish an Average Daily Enrollment [ADE] of 24 public school placement students;

2. The ADE of Kentwood Academy shall be determined based on Kentwood's enrollment established between April 1, 2007 through March 31, 2008;

3. Within two weeks of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement, the Department of Education shall issue the attached letter, which is incorporated by reference, to all sending districts;

4. The Department of Education shall not issue any letter to the sending districts regarding Kentwood's compliance with the April 1, 2007 through March 31, 2008 ADE requirement prior to February 13, 2008;

5. Kentwood shall provide quarterly year-to-date copies of its school register(s) with a demarcation as to which students are private placements, complete a department generated spreadsheet with monthly actual and year-to-date information along with projected enrollment(s) for the remaining month(s). Dear Ms. Richards:

This correspondence will serve to rescind Ms. Yut'se Thomas' letter to you dated March 14, 2007 which required Kentwood Academy to attain an average daily enrollment (ADE) of 24 public school placement pupils for the 2006-2007 school year. The letter indicated that Kentwood Academy must attain an ADE of 24 public school placement pupils for the 2006-2007 school year or the school's preliminary approval status will be revoked and the school will be unable to operate as an approved private school for students with disabilities effective July 1, 2007. The time period to meet the ADE of 24 public school placement pupils has been revised from the July 1, 2006 to June 30, 2007 school year to the period of April 1, 2007 through March 31, 2008.

Any county offices of education that forwarded Ms. Thomas' original letter dated March 14, 2007 to school districts are asked to forward this letter to school districts. If the original letter was not forwarded, please do not forward this letter.

If you have any questions concerning this matter, please do not hesitate to contact Jim Verner at (609) 984-4229 or jim.verner@doe.state.nj.us or Elise Sadler-Williams at (609) 777-4483 or elise.sadler-williams@doe.state.nj.us.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELRAN,

Respondent.

Louis Cappelli, Jr., Esq., for petitioner

John T. Barbour, Esq., for respondent (Barbour & Barbour, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 1, 2007 Decided: May 7, 2007

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Board of Education of the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) claimed that respondent Board of Education of Delran Township (Delran) should pay tuition and transportation costs for a student, domiciled in Delran's district, who attended petitioner's GCIT.

Delran answered the petition and the parties agreed to await the outcome of another case involving the GCIT and similar issues: K.B. v. Rancocas Valley High School Board of Education, EDU 2190-00 (EDU 6974-97 on remand)', EDU 6096-00, Initial Decision (March 1, 2002), decision, Comm'r (July 18, 2002), decision, State Board of Educ. (July 2, 2003), aff'd, No. A-6814-02T4 (App. Div. November 12, 2004), pet. for certif. denied, 182 N.J. 431 (2005). As shown on the attached Stipulation of Settlement Agreement and Settlement Confirmation, the parties have settled this case. N.J.A.C. 6A:1-1.13.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 22, 2001, the petition was filed with the Department of Education and, on February 14, 2001, the answer was so filed. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on February 22, 2001. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The case was placed on the inactive list to await the outcome of the above-cited case. By letter, dated March 30, 2006, petitioner's attorney advised (Judge Richard Wells, then assigned to the case) that the parties had settled and that a settlement agreement would be submitted. By letter, dated February 20, 2007 (Judge Wells having left the OAL to serve in the Superior Court), I requested that the attorneys submit a settlement agreement and confirm that the respective boards had approved it. On the record closed date, I received copies of the Settlement Agreement and Settlement Confirmation.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The petitioner understood the Settlement Agreement and the parties voluntarily entered in to it.

2. The Settlement Agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

The case involved substantial issues of fact. The Settlement Agreement avoids the time and expense of full hearing and further litigation. The terms of the Settlement Agreement are reasonable and in the public interest.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and should be approved. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

ORDER

I ORDER that the parties comply with the Settlement Agreement and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (hereinafter "G.C.I.T.) operates a Performing arts Academy with enrollment open to both in-county and out-of-county residents;

WHEREAS, the pupil(s) from the Delran Township Board of Education, (hereinafter "Delran") County of Burlington applied to and were accepted at GCIT's Performing Arts Academy commencing with the 1997-1998 school year and continuing through the 2004-2005 school year; and,

WHEREAS, GCIT has filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of education, State of New Jersey, seeking the payment of and out-of-county fee for each pupil residing within the geographical boundaries of Delran and attending GCIT, together with the costs of transportation for those pupils and interest on the unpaid tuition; and,

WHEREAS, Delran has, in good faith, denied GCIT's claims; and,

WHEREAS, All possible legal proceedings have been undertaken and exhausted on behalf of Delran with respect to the issues presented in defense of GCIT's claims; and,

WHEREAS, GCIT and Delran have undertaken, through their respective counsel settlement negotiations as it is in both school district's financial interest to reach an amicable resolution of this matter without further legal proceedings or delay.

IT IS HEREBY AGREED by and between and to settle and terminate any and all disputes between them by executing this Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") as follows"

1. Delran shall pay, within sixty (60) days of execution of this Agreement, the sum of $26,799.00 representing payment in full for all disputes between the parties and that were made a part of the Petition of Appeal.

2 .Both GCIT and Delran do hereby remise, release and forever discharge each other, their respective Boards of Education and their officers, members, employees, agents, respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of action and causes of action, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which they ever had, now and up through and including June 30, 2005.

3. Board will take the appropriate action at its next regularly scheduled meeting to approve and accept the terms of the within settlement.

4. By entering into this Agreement, neither party is making any admission with respect to any of the issues raised by the respective parties.

5. Each party is to bear their own cost and attorney fees.

6. Both GCIT and Delran agree and acknowledge that the Agreement and the parties described herein and the settlement and termination of any claim that the parties have against each other, as set forth herein, is not and shall not be construed to be an admission of any violation of any federal, state or local statute or regulation or of any duty owed by and between the parties.

7. By signing this Agreement, the parties certify that they have had the opportunity to discuss the Agreement with counsel. They are fully satisfied with the services of their counsel with respect to both this agreement and all other aspects of this case and they enter into this Agreement knowingly, willingly, and without any coercion or improper inducement.

8. In the event that any portion of this Agreement is determined to be illegal, the parties agree in advance, to reform the Agreement so that each party receives the full benefit of the bargain,.

9. By signing this Agreement, each signator represents that he or she is a party or has been duly authorized by a party to sign that party's behalf.

10. The parties agree that this Agreement may be signed and counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

Intending to be legally bound hereby, GCIT and Delran execute the foregoing Agreement this _____ day of _____, 2006.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Stipulation of Settlement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts it as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner observes that Term 2 requires effectuation prior to final agency approval, contrary to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The parties herein – and all litigants in controverted matters – are accordingly reminded that parties to proposed settlements act at their peril when including terms requiring effectuation prior to the Commissioner's approval, since the Commissioner may ultimately disapprove the term(s) in question.

The present settlement having been approved, this matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2151-07

AGENCY DKT NO. 67-3/07

G.H. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN J.H. AND C.H.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY.

Respondent.

Lance D. Brown, Esq., for petitioner (DePinto & Brown, attorneys)

Dennis M. DeSantis, Esq., for respondent (Destribats, Campbell, DeSantis, Magee & Staub, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 10, 2007 Decided: May 24, 2007

BEFORE DOUGLAS H. HURD, ALJ:

This matter involves petitioner's challenge of the Board of Education's residency determination concerning the minor subject children. Thereafter, the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 16, 2007, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A.

52:14F-1 to -13 and was assigned to the undersigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for hearing.

At the plenary hearing scheduled for May 10, 2006, the parties entered into successful settlement negotiations and executed a Stipulation of Settlement.

The Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY AND RIEFOLO CONSTRUCTION COMPANY,	DECISION ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENTS.

The record of this emergent matter, which included audiotapes of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on June 15, 2007, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as she concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons extensively set forth in his oral decision from the bench – that petitioner has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most notably, the probability of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. My temporary restraining order of June 8, 2007 – continuing the restraints originally imposed by Judge Thomas F. Brogan, P.J.S.C., of the Law Division of the Superior Court in Passaic County – is hereby lifted. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits as contemplated by the ALJ and the parties.

The record of this matter – including the proceedings held at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – and the recommended Order of Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has not demonstrated entitlement to attend Project Graduation on an emergent basis, having failed to make the necessary showing of irreparable harm, settled law, likelihood of success on the merits, and balancing of the equities in her favor. Crowe v. DeGioia, supra; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The Commissioner further concurs that, all issues in dispute between the parties having been resolved herein, no further proceedings are necessary and the matter is appropriately dismissed.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief and dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons set forth therein.

VIOLA LORDI, Esq., respondent (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 21, 2007 Decided: June 21 , 2007

BEFORE: JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Petitioner seeks emergent relief after being barred by the respondent from attending tonight's Project Graduation post-graduation party. The action occurred as the result of the Board's determination that she was involved in a water ballon throwing fracas in a hallway of the high school on June 20, 2007. The emergent relief application was argued before me this afternoon. Ms. M. asserts in her certification she did not throw any water ballons; the district has filed certifications which explain that students were warned to go to the auditorium and not to D Hall where the incident occurred. Ms. M. apparently acknowledges that she was at least in the vicinity of the incident and claims all those who were in the vicinity and did not escape were charged and are being punished.

Tine does not permit a full recitation of all arguments made by counsel on the record. However, applying the Crowe v. DeGioia standard, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982), it is abundantly clear that the inability to attend a party is not irreparably harmful. The Board determined to lessen the initial penalty that it had intended to impose on Ms. M., that is her being barred from both the graduation ceremony and from the party, by allowing her to attend the graduation. By doing so, it is allowing her to attend what is a meaningful and traditional function associated with graduation. That she cannot attend the school sanctioned party thereafter can hardly be said to rise to the level of irreparable harm. Thus, Ms. M. cannot meet the Crowe standard. Additionally, while it is not clear what a full hearing on the merits would demonstrate, the fact that Ms. M.

OAL DKT. NO. 4648-07S

may not have herself thrown a balloon, if that is indeed the case, does not mean that she could not reasonably be held accountable as a participant in the incident, as a supporter of it or as a person who by her presence violated the school's directives. She has not demonstrated that she has a reasonably likelihood of success on the merits. Finally, weighing the public interest to be advanced by either the grant of emergent relief or its denial, the ability of the school to control its students and assure the safety of large numbers of students who inhabit the building trumps whatever public interest may be advanced by allowing her to attend this event. As for allegations of procedural deficiencies, it musr be remembered that the extremely short time between the event and the graduation tonight does necessitate that procedural protections be accorded with a due respect both to the students' rights and the short time in which the Board's action must be taken.

For the reasons stated and incorporating the far more extensive comments on the record, I CONCLUDE that the application for emergent relief must be DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Parties:

D.G. on behalf of minor child, A.L. V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BARRINGTON, CAMDEN COUNTY, Agency Dkt. No. 164-6/07

We are enclosing a copy of the decision of the Assistant Commissioner of Education dated June 14, 2007 in the above-captioned matter. Appeals of Commissioner decisions, other than State Department of Education employee contractual determinations and matters involving the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, may be filed with the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Please note that this office is no longer providing an additional copy of the initial decision to the parties in this case.

Additionally, please note that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the Commissioner's decision is mailed to the parties three days prior to the date it is deemed officially filed. This provides counsel and pro se litigants with the decision before it is made public by the Department. Parties and counsel are requested to refrain from making Commissioner decisions public prior to the filing date. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Finally, by copy of this letter, we are advising the OAL Clerk that the enclosed decision requests return of the file to the Department pursuant to N.J.AC. 1:1-3.3.

ORDER ON EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4655-07
AGENCY DKT. NO. 176-6/07

D.W.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

D.W., petitioner, appearing pro se

Jeffrey F. Belz, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 22, 2007, D.W. (petitioner) filed an application for emergent relief with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs. The application requested that she be permitted to participate in graduation ceremonies scheduled for Friday, June 22, 2007. The Ewing Board of Education (Board) determined that D.W. has been absent for more than eight days and has prohibited her from participating in any extracurricular activities

On June 22, 2007, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for an oral argument on the requested emergent relief on June 22, 2007, at 11:30 A.M. The case was heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Some of the facts are undisputed. D.W. has been tardy fifteen days, late three days, and has one late arrival during the first period class (R-1). The Board has alleged that she also has two unexcused absences during that class.

Pursuant to school policy R5200 B (7) B, each tardiness results in a one-third absence (R-2). A student is marked late instead of tardy when they are more than fifteen minutes late. Therefore, the board alleges that the D.W. was absent 11 days during the semester (February to June 2007). Policy R5200 A4(C) states that unexcused absences may not exceed eight for any half-year course (R-1).

The School sent nine letters to the parents of D.W. at her address between February 23, 2007, and May 30, 2007 (R-4 thru R-12), advising of the absences and lateness, as well as the consequences. The letter also states to contact the school if they believe that the absences or lateness were incorrect.

D.W. testified that she was passing her classes, and the reason for the tardiness was because she had to take care of her nine-year brother and make sure he went to school, and take care of her mother who is suffering from depression and other health issues. She explained that a doctor's note was sent for the two unexcused absences (R-2). However, after Dr. Logan explained that school called the doctor and was told that she was not there on those dates, she explained that the doctor told her to stay home from school. Even if D.W. was given the benefit of the doubt for the two unexcused absences, she would still be left with nine unexcused absences.

D.W. testified that she could not document any other absences, or latenesses. She testified that the late arrival was due to the fact that she had to take her mother to the doctor and get her brother to school. However, no letter from her mother's doctor has been supplied.

Y.W. testified that the absences were her fault because D.W. had to take care of her and her brother. E.W. testified that he thought his daughter was being singled out, because she had some problems in the past in the school. He said that D.W. worked very hard and has come so far, and her tardiness of less than fifteen minutes should not prevent her from graduating.

Dr. Logan, the school principal, testified that D.W. was not treated differently or unfairly. The School has attempted to work with her. The school semester is ninety days, and counting excused absences, unexcused absences, and a three day suspension, D.W. has missed thirty days of school during the semester. The school also sent numerous letters to the house to address the situation.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A party seeking emergent relief must satisfy the standards in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), which requires the movant to establish:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

The Commissioner has consistently found that denial of attendance at graduation exercises does not constitute irreparable harm. The case law is remarkably consistent that attendance at graduation ceremonies is a privilege, not a right. That privilege may be withheld in the interest of maintaining an orderly and efficient school system. Martin A. Domacasse v. Board of Education of the North Warren Regional

School District, Warren County, State Board of Education decision dated April 17, 1996, citing Camden City Board of Education v. NJSLAA, Docket #A-2802-91T2 (App. Div. 1992); Burnside et al. v. NJSIAA, 1984 S.L.D. 1695 (App. Div. 1984), cert. denied 101 N.J. 236 (1985). The determination of whether or not they may attend is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm. Denial of attendance at graduation exercises is, therefore, not irreparable harm.

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety, and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294.

Petitioner argues she is doing the best she can. She has responsibilities that few students have at her age, and that her lateness issues revolves around her care of her younger brother and mother.

However, there is no evidence that this was brought to the attention of the school administration before this action was taken. Notices were sent to the household advising of the problem and potential effect on D.W. No response was given to the school until this action was taken. I FIND there is substantial evidence to conclude that D.W. violated the attendance and lateness policy. As a result, I FIND that Board's actions in applying its policy to prohibit D.W. from attending and participating in graduation ceremonies due to her conduct, no matter how regrettable and unfortunate this may be for her, cannot be disturbed. Consequently, I further FIND it unlikely that the petitioner would have prevailed on the merits.

As stated above, the actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity. A specific policy and punishment was established by the Board with respect to absences and lateness are enumerated in the School Handbook. Based on these factors, I FIND that the petitioners did not meet their burden of proof that there is a legal right underlying the claim.

Clearly, the petitioner has a substantial interest in attending and marching in the processional at graduation. She has worked extremely hard to pass all her classes and be in a position to graduate. However, the Board also has a substantial interest in ensuring that its disciplinary policies are applied as to excessive lateness and absences. If it did not enforce its disciplinary policies, or if it did treat D.W. differently than other students in the school, the Board would be sending the wrong kind of message and possibly establishing a dangerous precedent. Although petitioner has worked so hard and diligently, would have been the first to graduate in her family in three generations, I FIND that the Board would suffer greater harm than petitioner, if the requested relief was not granted.

DECISION AND ORDER

Since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m) 1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 are written in the conjunctive and the petitioner has failed to satisfy all four requirements, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition of D.W. for emergent relief is DENIED without prejudice.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF UMA SWAMINATHAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In August 2004, petitioning school district certified tenure charges of incapacity and conduct unbecoming against respondent – a tenured middle school social studies teacher – alleging chronic failure to meet professional expectations, and unprofessional and hostile reactions to supervision by district personnel. Respondent denied the charges and contended that she is a victim of racism based upon her Asian Indian heritage. The matter was transmitted to the OAL in September 2004 and – after multiple delays – hearings commenced in November 2005. Settlement negotiations occurred during the summer of 2006, but were unsuccessful. Subsequently, petitioner requested leave from the ALJ to withdraw tenure charges, and submitted certification indicating that the continued financial cost and diversion of resources necessary to sever the employment relationship with respondent could no longer be justified. In the fall of 2006, the OAL transmitted the case file – marked "WITHDRAWAL" – to the Commissioner for review. In October 2006, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings, or for a settlement or withdrawal that meets the standards required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a), stating that petitioner was obligated to provide a reasonably specific explanation of why it was in the public interest not to pursue the tenure charges previously certified. The school district subsequently renewed its request for leave to withdraw the tenure charges, based on a proposed reassignment of respondent to a newly created position in which she would provide individualized instruction to high school students on long-term suspension.

On remand, the ALJ found that the rationale provided by the petitioning school district in its renewed request for leave to withdraw the tenure charges now satisfies the six standards required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a), and provides satisfactory explanations concerning: the district's need for a teacher to provide educational services to students on long-term suspension; why the respondent would be suitable for this position; and how her reassignment would best serve the public interest. The ALJ concluded that: the district's request to withdraw tenure charges should be granted; any back salary and seniority to which respondent is entitled should be restored to her; and the matter should be dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ; adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision; granted petitioner's application to withdraw the tenure charges against respondent, provide her back salary as appropriate, and recognize any tenure and seniority rights; and dismissed the matter.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF UMA SWAMINATHAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Initial Decision on Remand (Initial Decision) of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exhibits appended thereto, and the record of this case have been reviewed. The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter for the reasons set forth by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

Accordingly, the Commissioner grants petitioner's application to withdraw the tenure charges certified against respondent, provide any back salary to which she is entitled under Title 18A, and recognize any tenure and seniority rights which respondent has accrued pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.A.C. 6A:32-5.1. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF UMA SWAMINATHAN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY

David B. Rubin, Esq., appearing for petitioner

Lennox Hinds, Esq., appearing for respondent (Stevens, Hinds & White, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: April 24, 2007 Decided: May 18, 2007

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

This matter is on remand from the Commissioner of Education who, in a decision dated October 25, 2006, rejected the Piscataway Township School District's proposed withdrawal of the tenure charges it had certified against Uma Swaminathan on August 19, 2004. These charges of incapacity and conduct unbecoming alleged that Ms. Swaminathan had chronically failed to meet professional expectations and reacted to supervision by District personnel with unprofessional and hostile behavior. In her answer dated August 31, 2004, Ms. Swaminathan denied the charges and claimed that she had been the victim of racism based upon her Asian Indian heritage.[1]

The matter was initially transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 7, 2004.[2] Although the prehearing conference was held as scheduled on October 1, 2004, subsequent hearing dates were repeatedly adjourned for reasons including scheduling conflicts, settlement negotiations, and other good cause. The hearing began on October 21, 2005, and continued on October 31, 2005, November 16 and 18, 2005, December 21, 2005, February 2 and 7, 2006, March 29, 2006, and June 8, 2006, but was far from over. In fact, it was abundantly clear that numerous additional dates would be required to hear this matter to conclusion.

In the meantime, the parties continued to engage in settlement discussions until July 27, 2006, when counsel notified me that they had been unable to resolve their differences and were requesting that a settlement conference be convened before the hearing resumed in the fall of 2006. The conference was subsequently held on August 31, 2006, and although some progress was made, approximately one week later the District received word that Ms. Swaminathan had rejected its final proposal and had made no counter offer. At or about the same time, the District received a letter from Ms. Swaminathan's counsel, Lennox Hinds, Esq., stating that his client had received a "finding of Probable Cause" from the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights and intended to seek a Right to Sue Letter from the EEOC and add civil rights causes of action to the lawsuit she had filed against the District in federal court.

On September 25, 2006, the District requested leave to withdraw the tenure charges and submitted the certification of its Superintendent, Robert L. Copeland, in support of the request. In his certification, Mr. Copeland reiterated the District's dissatisfaction with Ms. Swaminathan's performance as follows:

[1] Ms. Swaminathan filed a complaint with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights following the withholding of a salary increment at the conclusion of the 2002-2003 school year, alleging that the District's action was based on her Indian ethnicity. She filed additional charges after the District certified tenure charges against her in 2004, again alleging that the District's action had been motivated by anti-Indian bias.

[2] Although transmitted on September 7, 2004, the papers were not received and filed by the OAL until September 22, 2004.

> [A]fter reviewing her record and conferring extensively with her building principal and other supervisors, I was satisfied that she possessed neither the skills nor the professional attitude necessary to be an effective middle school social studies teacher in this District. She had rejected virtually all attempts to assist her in improving her skills, and reacted to any criticism of her performance with unfounded accusations of racism. After having given her every opportunity to rehabilitate her job performance, I was convinced that further attempts would be futile....
> [W]e remain convinced that she should not be teaching middle school students in this District .... Based on her historical unwillingness to take direction from any supervisor with whom she disagrees, we have serious concerns about the prospects for success at another grade level without a substantial change in attitude on her part.[3]

Nevertheless, Mr. Copeland went on to state that the continued financial cost and diversion of resources necessary to sever Ms. Swaminathan's employment with the District could no longer be justified.

On September 28, 2006, the case file – marked "WITHDRAWAL" – was returned to the agency for the Commissioner's review.[4] Approximately one month later, on October 25, 2006, the Commissioner issued her decision rejecting the requested withdrawal and remanding the matter for further proceedings. Specifically, the Commissioner rejected the District's request because it did not satisfy standards 2 through 5 of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a).

Among other things, the Commissioner held that once tenure charges have been filed, financial considerations alone cannot justify abandoning them. Rather, the District must provide "a reasonably specific explanation of why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them." Commissioner's Decision, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of [3] Since the original file bearing OAL Docket No. EDU 8108-04 was not retained by the Clerk's office, this section of Mr. Copeland's certification has been copied directly from the Commissioner's Decision #368-06.

[4] N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 provides that "[i]f the judge deems it advisable to state the circumstances of the withdrawal on the record, the judge may enter an initial decision memorializing the withdrawal and returning the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition."

Kenneth Smith, School District of Orange, Essex County, Commissioner's Decision on Remand (June 16, 1983), aff'd. with modification, State Board of Education (November 2, 1983), aff'd., Superior Court (January 30, 1986) (emphasis in the Commissioner's Decision). Therefore, she stated that in the event the District decided to submit a new request, it would have to satisfy the six standards set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a) and have its request evaluated by an Administrative Law Judge in an Initial Decision.

The Commissioner's Remand was received and filed by the OAL on November 2, 2006, and a prehearing/status conference was conducted on December 7, 2006. During this first of several conferences, the District's counsel, David B. Rubin, Esq., indicated that his client was considering the possibility of renewing its request to withdraw the tenure charges on other than financial grounds. More specifically, Mr. Rubin stated that with the State Board of Education's adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)9, the District had decided to provide suspended students with in-school instruction under the supervision of a fully-certified teacher as of the fifth day of their suspensions, and was considering assigning Ms. Swaminathan to that position.

On January 16, 2007, the District submitted the Supplemental Certification of Superintendent Copeland in support of its renewed request for leave to withdraw the tenure charges. In this certification, Mr. Copeland provided the following rationale for the District's request:

> Since then (the Commissioner's rejection of the initial request), there has been a change in circumstances in the District that presents a new basis for withdrawing these charges that did not exist at the time of our original application. In 2005, the State Board of Education adopted new regulations requiring that students on suspension be provided with "educational services, either in or out of school" within five days of the commencement of the suspension. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(9)(1) (sic).[5] We have recently concluded that, while home instruction may legally suffice under this regulation, the best interests of both the District and the student might well be served by continuing their education in a classroom-like setting in the District as of the fifth day of their suspension, separated from the general population but under the supervision of a fully-certified teacher who would provide individualized instruction from lesson plans already prepared by the student's regular teacher. I have determined to initiate this program on an experimental basis at Piscataway High School.

The staffing of this class presents several concerns, however. Reassigning a current teacher at the High School would disrupt class schedules already in place. We could staff the position with a new hire, but that individual would have no familiarity with the District or our students. We could assign individuals from our substitute teacher list to oversee the class, but that would provide no continuity for students who may be there long-term. After due consideration, I have concluded that Ms. Swaminathan should be assigned to fill this position.

I believe that this assignment is in the public interest, and not inconsistent with the positions taken earlier in this matter concerning Ms. Swaminathan's performance as middle school social studies teacher. The factors that prompted the filing of these tenure charges dealt largely with poor lesson planning, a teacher-centered lecturing style, and what we perceived as difficulties Ms. Swaminathan had dealing specifically with children of middle school age. We never disputed Ms. Swaminathan's knowledge of the subject matter, or the possibility that she could succeed in a different educational environment with older students, but were under no obligation to fashion out of whole cloth a position that did not exist.

In this new assignment, which we anticipate creating as of the Spring 2007 semester, Ms. Swaminathan would have no responsibility for lesson planning. She would be administering one-on-one instruction without lecturing, and would be dealing with older students, all under the guidance of high school supervisors with whom there has been no prior history of conflict. It would be my intention to assign Ms. Swaminathan to this position promptly upon the Commissioner's approval of the withdrawal of the charges. For the reasons stated above, I believe that withdrawing the tenure charges and assigning Ms. Swaminathan to this position would be in everyone's best interests.

As I noted in my earlier certification, if the Commissioner determines to grant our application, we would restore to Ms. Swaminathan whatever back salary she is entitled to under Title 18A. She would be supervised in her new position as we deem appropriate, but would receive > neither preferential nor adverse treatment as a result of our prior experience. Whether she receives salary increments in the future would depend entirely on her performance. We recognize that Ms. Swaminathan's discrimination claims in federal court will continue, but are prepared to defend ourselves there and are confident that we will be vindicated.

>
> We are hopeful of success with this new venture but, in the event that this experimental program does not meet our expectations and must be discontinued, will of course honor whatever tenure and seniority rights Ms. Swaminathan may have at that point in any decisions concerning future assignments.
> [Supplemental Certification of Robert L. Copeland, ¶¶ 3-8]

By letter dated February 13, 2007, Mr. Hinds initially stated that he had shared the District's proposed withdrawal of the tenure charges with Ms. Swaminathan and advised her of her rights. He then stated that "[a]fter consultation with counsel, Ms. Swaminathan with full understanding of her rights, wishes to inform the court that she does not object to the Board's request to withdraw the subject matter tenure charges." Hinds Correspondence, February 13, 2007.

On April 24, 2007, Mr. Hinds, at my request, submitted a certification from Ms. Swaminathan indicating that she had, in fact, been advised of her rights in connection with, and consented to, the District's proposed withdrawal of the tenure charges against her. Ms. Swaminathan also stated that she had been "advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer Tenure Determinations resulting in the loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate(s) which is not applicable in the instant matter." Swaminathan Certification, ¶ 4.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a),

> Once tenure charges are certified to the Commissioner, such charges may be withdrawn or settled only with the Commissioner's approval. Any proposed withdrawal or settlement, whether submitted to the Commissioner or to the ALJ, shall address the following standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.) 842, 846):

1. Accompaniment by documentation as to the nature of the charges;

2. Explication of the circumstances justifying settlement or withdrawal;

3. Consent of both the charged and charging parties;

4. Indication that the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his or her rights;

5. A showing that the agreement is in the public interest; and

6. Where the charged party is a teaching staff member, a showing that the teaching staff member has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate.

After careful consideration of the record in this matter, I find that the parties have satisfied these six standards, which shall be addressed sequentially.

1. Documentation. The Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence filed in support of the charges have been appended to this Initial Decision as Exhibits P-1 and P-2, respectively.

2. Explication. In his certification, Superintendent Copeland stated that with the State Board of Education's adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3, the District had a need for a teacher to provide educational services to students on long-term suspension, and believed that placing Ms. Swaminathan in this position "would be in everyone's best interests." As he explained, the factors that prompted the filing of the tenure charges were Ms. Swaminathan's inability to prepare appropriate lesson plans in a timely manner, a teacher-centered lecturing style, and difficulties dealing with middle school-aged students. But in this new position she would have no responsibility for lesson planning, would be administering one-to-one instruction, and would be dealing with older students, all under the guidance of high school supervisory personnel with whom she has had no prior history of conflict. In other words, she would be given a new position and a clean slate.

3. Consent. Although the parties have argued that a withdrawal is, by definition, a unilateral act, they have nonetheless consented to the withdrawal of the tenure charges. The District's consent is implicit in its request and stated intention to recognize Ms. Swaminathan's continued status as a tenured teaching staff member. Ms. Swaminathan's consent may be found in Mr. Hinds's February 13, 2007, correspondence and her certification in which she stated that "with full understanding of my rights, I consent to the Board's withdrawal of the ... Tenure Charges."

4. Understanding of Rights. Since the parties were unable to resolve this matter, there was no settlement agreement for Ms. Swaminathan to "enter into," with or without the advice of counsel. Nevertheless, in her certification, Ms. Swaminathan stated that she had consulted with her attorney, been advised of her rights, and that "with full understanding of my rights, I consent ...." Swaminathan Certification, supra, ¶ 3.

5. Agreement in the Public Interest. As stated above, the parties were unable to resolve this matter and, as a result, there is no settlement agreement per se. Still, Mr. Copeland has established to my satisfaction that the District's requested withdrawal of the charges would be in the public interest.

Mr. Copeland laid the framework by stating that the District had "never disputed Ms. Swaminathan's knowledge of the subject matter, or the possibility that she could succeed in a different educational environment with older students, but [had been] under no obligation to fashion out of whole cloth a position that did not exist." Supplemental Certification of Robert L. Copeland, supra, par. 5. Now, with the adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)9i, the District had the opportunity to create a new position teaching high school students serving suspensions.

Mr. Copeland then explained that he had several options when it came time to fill this position. He could assign a current High School teacher to the position, but that would disrupt class schedules already in place. He could also assign individuals from the District's substitute teacher list, but that would provide no continuity for students with long-term suspensions. And a new hire unfamiliar with the District and its students would not be as effective as an experienced teaching staff member instructing and supervising students with disciplinary problems. Therefore, the assignment of Ms. Swaminathan would best serve the public interest.

6. Referral to State Board of Examiners. Clearly, the proposed withdrawal of the charges will not result in a loss of position. To the contrary, it will enable Ms. Swaminathan to retain her position as a tenured teaching staff member and will not, therefore, obligate the Commissioner to refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of her teaching certificate. Nevertheless, in her certification, Ms. Swaminathan stated that she had been advised of the Commissioner's duty, "which is not applicable in the instant matter." Swaminathan Certification, ¶ 4.

Based upon the foregoing, I conclude that the Piscataway Township School District's request for leave to withdraw the tenure charges certified against Uma Swaminathan should be GRANTED; that the District should restore to Ms. Swaminathan any back salary and seniority to which she may be entitled under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; and that this matter should be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

The Camden Board of Education certified tenure charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming and neglect of duty against three teachers based on allegations that they were involved in a fraudulent attempt to receive payment for attendance at meetings of their respective School Leadership Councils – when no such meetings ever took place – and then attempted to cover up the facts during the district's investigation by filing fabricated documents and giving false information. The cases were tried together because the charges against each respondent stemmed from the same alleged activities and raised the same issues regarding their obligations as tenured employees.

The ALJ found that the Board had proven the charges against each of the three respondents and that – notwithstanding prior unblemished records, absence of venal motives, and circumstances that helped explain their conduct – dismissal from tenured employment with the district was, in fact, the appropriate penalty for respondents' conduct.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that all charges had been proven by the Board and that respondents' conduct warranted dismissal from their tenured employment. The Commissioner referred all three matters to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)1 for action against respondents' certificates as that body deems appropriate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JANICE JONES, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record of these matters – heard together because they arose from the same alleged activities – and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions to the Initial Decision were filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by Rosalyn Vinson, Jannette Duran and the Camden Board of Education, respectively; none filed replies, and no submission of any kind was received from Janice Jones.

In her exceptions, Rosalyn Vinson (Vinson) contends that the Administrative Law Judge failed to consider, or make findings of fact indicating, that "there were distinct differences in the procedures used in the meetings that resulted in cooperation offered by the Wilson staff and lack of cooperation by the Wiggins staff" and that these differences – together with the loyalty, trust and fear inspired by Wiggins Principal Juanita Worthy, whose directive to "continue the lie" Vinson dutifully followed – "discouraged [Vinson] from coming forward with the truth when asked" and led to the conduct that has now threatened her tenured employment. Vinson urges that teachers, while held to a higher standard as public employees and role models, are "susceptible to [the] same pressures and demands [as] any other individuals," and that, on balance, she is a "loyal and dedicated employee perhaps to a fault" who does not deserve to lose her tenure rights as a result of the incident in question. (Exceptions of Rosalyn Vinson at 1-3, quotations at 2-3)

Similarly, Jannette Duran (Duran) argues on exception that the ALJ failed to consider sufficiently the situation in which her conduct arose, specifically that she was "out of school and ill during the critical period of the investigation," so that she had "no understanding of the peripheral matters" related to it; had she had such knowledge, she contends, she would not have submitted the fabricated meeting matrix – which she had signed at the directive of her principal – and would instead have acted as did her colleagues, who received letters of reprimand because they did not submit such matrices although they had previously signed meeting attendance sheets. According to Duran, "it cannot be ignored that there are a number of teaching staff members who did essentially the same things with which [she] has been charged, and who have received only letters of reprimand," so that, under all of the circumstances, the appropriate penalty for her additional act of submitting a matrix is the withholding of her increment and forfeiture of the 120 days' pay withheld pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 – not the "extreme measure of termination" as recommended by the ALJ. (Exceptions of Jannette Duran at 1-3, quotations at 2-3)

The Camden Board of Education (Board), on the other hand, urges adoption of the Initial Decision in major part but objects to: 1) the ALJ's characterization of respondents as redeemable and perhaps still able to contribute in a teaching setting; 2) his failure to find that respondents' actions constituted insubordination as well as unbecoming conduct; and 3) his failure to find Rosalyn Vinson guilty of neglect of duty, insubordination and unbecoming conduct with respect to the separate charge arising specifically from her role as chairperson of the Wiggins School Leadership Council (SLC).[1] With respect to its first objection, the Board reviews case law addressing the high standard of conduct to be expected of teachers in light of their influence as student role models and cites extensively to specific actions on the part of respondents, as proven in this matter, that demonstrate the Board's contention that they are "unfit to teach and should not return to any situation where they would again have the opportunity to set the kind of destructive example they have put forth to the impressionable children of Camden." (Board's Exceptions at 3-11, quotation at 10) With respect to its charge of insubordination, the Board argues that by virtue of the behavior in which respondents were found to have engaged, they "all committed flagrant acts of insubordination," since "it is axiomatic that purposefully providing untruthful information to supervisors and administrators or refusing to cooperate with an administrator's investigation is 'willful and intentional disregard of the lawful and reasonable directives' of that administrator." The Board holds this behavior to be all the more egregious in a society "plagued by corruption, violence and poverty, such as Camden," where it is "especially crucial for teachers to instill a sense of truthfulness and independence and encourage students to stand up for what is just and right." (Id. at 11-13, quotations at 11 – citing State-Operated School District of Paterson v. Long, decided by the Commissioner October 26, 2006 – and 13) Finally, with respect to respondent Vinson, the Board contends that – as chairperson of an SLC – she must be held to an even higher standard of leadership and integrity, yet she knowingly and repeatedly took actions that facilitated and perpetuated the "concerted plan to defraud the Board." (Id. at 13-14, quotation at 13)

[1] At various points in the record and Initial Decision, SLCs are incorrectly referred to as School Leadership Committees.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board has proven its charges against respondents, and that the appropriate penalty in each case is dismissal from tenured employment.

In so holding, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ dismissed neither the charges of insubordination against all three respondents nor the charge against Vinson with respect to her role as SLC chairperson, but rather made no express mention of them in his discussion of law (Initial Decision at 26-27) or final conclusions with respect to each respondent. (Id. at 34) Notwithstanding such omission, however, it is abundantly clear from the discussion at 26-33, that the ALJ regarded all charges as proven with respect to all three respondents: In the case of the charge against Vinson, the behavior underlying it is subsumed by the ALJ's general statement (at 34) regarding her attempt to fraudulently obtain money from the Board, and, to the extent that the ALJ was silent on the question of whether respondents' actions constitute insubordination as well as unbecoming conduct and neglect of duty, the Commissioner here clarifies that persistently and knowingly responding in an untruthful, evasive manner to district administrators attempting to investigate a very serious situation – as respondents herein were found to have done – cannot be viewed as anything other than insubordinate; it is well established that there need not be an overt exhibition of disrespect, or an outright refusal to obey directives or perform duties, in order for insubordination to be found. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Peter Loria, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, January 26, 1998 slip. op. at p. 69, aff'd State Board August 7, 1998.

Similarly, although respondents Vinson and Duran protest that the ALJ failed to consider sufficiently the extent to which each in her own way was a victim of circumstance, the Commissioner finds that, to the contrary, the ALJ very carefully weighed the situations in which respondents found themselves before concluding that their conduct could not be found to warrant anything less than loss of their tenured employment in the district. (Initial Decision at 35-36)

Finally, with respect to the question of whether respondents should suffer professional consequences over and above the loss of their tenured employment in the Camden school district, the Commissioner does not reach the statements of the ALJ to which the Board takes exception and instead construes them not as facts or conclusions to be adopted or rejected, but as dicta expressing nothing more or less than an honest opinion based upon first-hand observation of respondents over multiple days of hearing. Such opinion notwithstanding, however, conduct of the type proven to have been committed by respondents herein cannot be countenanced in the public schools, and the Commissioner, therefore, would be remiss in meeting her own obligations if she failed to refer respondents to the State Board of Examiners so that that body may, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.1 et seq., exercise its exclusive authority to determine whether respondents should be permitted to retain their educational certification.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein as clarified and amplified above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in these matters. Respondents Jannette Duran, Rosalyn Vinson and Janice Jones are dismissed from tenured employment with the Camden Board of Education as of the filing date of this decision, and all three matters are hereby referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)1 for action as that body deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: May 2, 2007 Decided: May 17, 2007

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This initial decision involves certified tenure charges brought against three teachers employed by the Board of Education of the City of Camden (Board).[1] The contested cases have been tried together, as the allegations involving each individual teacher stem from the same alleged activities and involve essentially the same alleged violations of their legal obligations as tenured employees. The Board certified the charges against each to the Commissioner of Education, who transferred them to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing. Hearings were held on multiple days in March, April and May 2007 and were completed with closing arguments presented on May 2, 2007.

The charges against each teacher resulted from an investigation conducted by employees of the Board concerning certain requests made for payment of extra compensation to various school employees for their purported attendance at a series of meetings of the School Leadership Committees ("SLC") for the H.B. Wilson ("Wilson") School and the U.S. Wiggins School ("Wiggins") during the 2005-2006 school year. SLCs are a product of the Abbott designation accorded to Camden by case law and statute and are defined at N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 as "a collaborative school-based planning and advisory body established in N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3." A full explanation of the SLC's membership and responsibilities will follow, but it is sufficient here to note that the general gravamen of the complaints about these teacher is that they, along with others, are alleged to have fraudently attempted to receive payment of monies for their supposed attendance at a series of meetings of their respective school's SLC when in fact no such meetings were ever held and then to have attempted to cover up the facts once an investigation had begun, by filing fabricated documents and false information. The Board contends that prior to the investigation, all three teachers had signed their names to multiple SLC sign-in sheets which purported to establish their attendance at meetings when in fact the meetings did not occur and they were not in attendance. Then, after the investigation was launched, each signed and prepared a grid, or matrix, presented to them by the investigators, and falsely represented facts about these meetings and their participation therein on those documents. Further, in the case of Ms. Vinson and Ms. Jones, they each participated in the preparation of massive binders which were then submitted to the Board as proof of the meetings, binders which contained phony agendas for the several purported meetings and notes purportedly made at the time of those meetings. Ms. Vinson is charged with seven charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming and/or neglect of duty for intentionally lying to investigators concerning the SLC investigation and for conspiring with others and using her position as chairperson of the Wiggins SLC to attempt to defraud the district. Ms. Jones, who was an SLC member but not a chairperson, faces six charges of the same nature. Finally, Ms. Duran, an SLC member for whom no binder was submitted, faces five charges of insubordination, misconduct and neglect of duty.

[1] There were originally five cases that were to be tried together. However, non-tenured employees Valerie Cooke and Aida Guzman, withdrew their respective challenges to the Board's decision not to offer them contracts for the 2006-2007 school year.

As will be explained, the essential facts regarding the purported meetings, the validity of the signatures of the respondents on sign in sheets and the preparation and submission of the binders are not really in contention. In fact, these respondents do not so much argue that they are guiltless; indeed, they agree that they did wrong. But they attempt to explain their conduct, emphasize that they did work and seek to convince that they should not lose their tenure despite their misconduct. As a result, while the Board sees the issues narrowly and thus the evidence relevant to actually proving guilt as also narrow, the respondents have attempted to at least place their actions within a broader context of issues surrounding the SLCs and the atmosphere and culture of their schools. In some degree, the respondents believe that the work of the SLCs was performed, albeit not at the meetings at issue here, and they may be seen in part as attempting to defend themselves from suggestions that they did nothing at all. But the Board emphasizes that the tenure charges are not about whether SLC work was done, but whether the representations and documentation presented to support the payroll reports were fraudulent and whether these respondents and others were in collusion to try to convince the investigators that what did not actually happen really did happen. Thus, it may be said that to the Board the issue is truthfulness, rather than work.

It is important to note that this matter has been the subject of a State Grand Jury investigation which, during the early days of the hearings in this case, resulted in an indictment against Juanita Worthy, who was the principal at Wiggins, her daughter Keah Worthy, who was a teacher and SLC member at Wilson, Michael Hailey, who was the principal at Wilson, and Pat Johnson, a literacy coach and SLC member at Wilson, for their actions in regard to the SLCs, as well as other unrelated matters not involving the three respondents. However, the respondents, while initially advised that they were targets of the investigation, each testified before the Grand Jury regarding the SLC matter and were then advised, again just after the issuance of the indictments and early in this hearing, that they were no longer targets.

SCHOOL LEADERSHIP COUNCILS

As this case involves the SLCs, it is important at the start to understand what these are and what their responsibilities are as defined by regulation. They are established pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3. The SLC is established

> To facilitate the participation of the school principal, teachers, staff, parents, grandparents or guardians, and the community to develop a culture of cooperation, accountability and commitment, all with a focus on improving student achievement.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3(a)]

The regulations present roles and responsibilities for the SLC. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3 (a)1 requires that the SLC "shall assist in the development of, and approve, the school two-year report on instructional priorities." However, while the SLC is to "concentrate on the objective of universal mastery of the CCCS [Core Curriculum Content Standards] and helping to create a climate of cooperation and focus on student achievement," it is not to "manage the day-to-day implementation of school policies," a responsibility mandated for the school principal and instructional staff. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3(a)2. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.4(a) sets out the following as roles and responsibilities:

> collaborative advisory and decision-making body to improve teaching and learning in the school . . .
> 1. Continuously analyze student performance assessment data; and work with the school principal and faculty to identify obstacles to improved performance;
> 2. Review the school-based budget prepared by the school district central office for accuracy and to ensure that the needs of students, faculty and the school are addressed. The SLC may propose modifications, consistent with the school district budgeting procedures and criteria. The SLC must document its recommendations;

3. Participate in training provided by the school district or Department;
4. If the SLC has completed all school district training to participate in principal selection, the SLC shall recommend three candidates for school principal to the CSA;
5. Collaborate with the CAPA team;
6. Develop the school report on instructional priorities, review its implementation amend it in light of performance data and circumstances, and make it available to the school community and the school district; and
7. Maintain minutes and an agenda for all SLC meetings and make them available to the school community. Copies of the minutes shall be transmitted on a timely basis to the CSA.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.4(a)]

SLC membership shall consist of "the school principal, representatives of teachers, of non-instructional support staff, of parents, and of the community," and may include students. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3(b). A member of the SLC "shall receive no compensation for his or her services except that:" payments may be made to employee members pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement for hours beyond the school work day and for reasonable expenses. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3(d)3i and ii. Meetings shall be held at least monthly and shall be public and shall be publicized in advance. N.J.A.C. 6A:10A-5.3(d)4.

STIPULATIONS

Both at the start of and later during the hearings, counsel were able to enter into stipulations of fact. These are set forth as to each of the respondents.[2]

Janice Jones

1. Jones was employed by the Camden City Board of Education as a teacher of the handicapped. She was hired on or about February 8, 1988.

[2] In addition to the stipulations received regarding the respondents, a stipulation was admitted regarding Roquetta Reed, a member of the Wilson SLC.

2. During the 2004-2005 school year, Jones was assigned to the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School.

3. During the 2005-2006 school year, Jones was assigned to the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School.

4. Juanita Worthy was the building principal at the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School during the period of September 2004 through June 2006.

5. Jones was a member of the School Leadership Council during both the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 school years.

6. The following persons were members of the SLC at the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School during the 2004-2005 school year: Juanita Worthy, Albert Campbell, Rosalyn Vinson, Chairperson, Janice Jones, Nancy Ruiz, Valerie Cooke, Kevin Farrington, Aida Guzman, Yvette Torres, parent, and Olga Hernandez, parent.

7. The following persons were members of the SLC at the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School during the 2005-2006 school year: Juanita Worthy, Rosalyn Vinson, Chairperson, Denise Tucker, Janice Jones, Valerie Cooke, Aida Guzman, Javier Roman, and Maribel Leon, parent.

8. Respondent at the start of the 2005-2006 school year, signed the SLC Statement of Understanding on July 1, 2005.

9. On April 27, 2006, as Jones and the several members of the SLC at the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School individually attended a meeting with Dr. Fred Reiss, Assistant Superintendent and Kimberlee Buell-Alvis, Affirmative Action Officer, Respondent was asked to fill out a form regarding the alleged SLC meetings with dates and locations of the same. The respondent signed and dated the document.

10. In the 2004-2005 school year, Jones was compensated for her SLC approved time via direct deposit listed as "Extra Compensation."

11. On August 11, 2006, Jones was served with tenure charges and supporting Statement of Evidence which contained six charges against her.

12. On August 31, 2006, after Jones filed a Written Statement of Position, the board met in closed executive session at a special board meeting to review the merits of the charges against Jones. After evaluating the charges, together with the supporting Statement of Evidence with exhibits, the board voted to certify six tenure charges against Jones.

13. Javier Roman is a Custodian employed by the Camden City Board of Education.

14. During the 2005-2006 school year, Mr. Roman was assigned to the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School.

An additional stipulation was offered with respect to Ms. Jones and the stipulations therein have been renumbered to follow consecutively with the prior stipulations.

15. On or about May 8, 2006, the Camden City Board of Education held a board meeting where it recommended and approved the respondent Jones not be permitted to participate in any school leadership or co-curricular activities in the future, in addition to withholding her increment for the 2006-2007 school year.

16. Respondent Jones was given an opportunity to appear at a Donaldson Hearing on or about July 17, 2006 in regard to the withholding of the increment for the 2006-2007 school year. Jones did not appear at the Donaldson Hearing.

17. On July 17, 2006, the board voted to uphold its decision to withhold the increment for Jones for the 2006-2007 school year.

18. Respondent Jones certified Answers to Interrogatories and served them on Petitioner on or about January 31, 2007.

Jannette Duran

1. Jannette Duran was employed by the Camden City Board of Education as a teacher at the H.B. Wilson Elementary School. Duran was hired by the District on or about September 1, 2001.

2. During the 2004-2005 school year, Duran was assigned to the H.B. Wilson Elementary School.

3. During the 205-2006 school year, Duran was assigned to the H.B. Wilson Elementary School.

4. Michael Hailey was the building principal at the H.B. Wilson Elementary School during the period of September 2004 through June 2006.

5. Duran was appointed as a member of the SLC during both the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 school years.

6. The following persons were members of the SLC at the H.B. Wilson Elementary School during the 2004-2005 school year: Michael P. Hailey, Patricia Johnson, Alton Booker, Jannette Duran, Sandra Rose-Finger, Roquetta Reed and Keah Worthy.

7. The following persons were member of the SLC at H.B. Wilson Elementary School during the 2005-2006 school year: Michael Hailey, Patricia Johnson, Jannette Duran, Sandra Rose-Finger, Roquetta Reed, Keah Worthy, Alton Booker and Judy Bright, parent.

8. Duran was entitled to compensation on an hourly basis for attending SLC meetings held beyond the school day with prior board approval.

9. Duran at the start of the 2005-2006 school year, signed the SLC Statement of Understanding on July 1, 2005.

10. In the 2004-2005 school year, Duran was compensated for her SLC approved time via direct deposit listed as, "Extra Compensation."

11. On August 11, 2006, Duran was served with tenure charges and supporting Statement of Evidence which contained five (5) charges against her.

12. On August 31, 2006, after Duran filed a Written Statement of Position, the board met in closed executive session at a special board meeting to review the merits of the charges against Duran. After evaluating the charges, together with the supporting Statement of Evidence with exhibits, the board voted to certify five (5) tenure charges against Duran.

An additional stipulation between counsel for the Board and Ms. Duran contains the following stipulations, renumbered herein consecutive to the previous Duran stipulations.

13. On or about May 8, 2006, the Camden City Board of Education held a board meeting where it recommended and approved Respondent Duran not be permitted to participate in any school leadership or co-curricular activities in the future, in addition to withholding her increment for the 2006-2007 school year.

14. Respondent Duran was given an opportunity to appear at a Donaldson Hearing on or about July 17, 2006 in regard to her withholding increment for the 2006-2007 school year. Duran did not appear at the Donaldson Hearing.

15. On or about July 17, 2006, Camden City Board of Education voted to uphold the decision to withhold increment for the Respondent Duran for the 2006-2007 school year.

Rosalyn Vinson

1. Rosalyn Vinson is employed by the Camden Board of Education as a teacher. Ms. Vinson was hired by the District on or about September 1, 1988.

2. During the 2005-2006 school year, Vinson was assigned to the U.S. Wiggins Elementary School. Juanita Worthy was the building principal at Wiggins.

3. The respondent was the Chairperson of the SLC for the 2005-2006 school year.

4. The following persons were members of the SLC at Wiggins School during the 2005-2006 school year: Juanita Worthy, Rosalyn Vinson, Chairperson, Denise Tucker, Janice Jones, Valerie Cooke, Aida Guzman, Javier Roman and Maribel Leon, parent.

5. Respondent printed her name and signature on several forms titled SLC Sign in Sheets which at the time were not dated.

6. On April 27, 2006 the respondent and several members of the SLC at Wiggins attended a meeting with Dr. Fred Reiss, Asst. Supt. and Kimberlee Buell-Alvis, Affirmative Action Officer.

7. On Friday, April 28, 2006, respondent attended a meeting in the Conference Room of the Wiggins School with Principal Worthy and other SLC members to discuss and assemble a binder.

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon both the testimony and the documents presented at the hearing, a series of additional factual findings can be made on issues that were not disputed.

1. Each member of the SLC signed a "Statement of Understanding" which listed responsibilities of the SLC as to oversee the selection and implementation of a whole-school reform model;

a. Ensure implementation of the model to achieve Core Curriculum Content Standards and three-year operational plan;

b. Develop the school-based budget;

c. Make recommendations for the appointment, transfer or removal of staff;

d. Submit recommendations of three or four names for the appointment of a Principal when a vacancy occurs. (The Superintendent will make the final selections and recommendation to the Board);

e. Develop and submit a school-level technology plan;

f. Provide for cross-content workplace readiness standards.

2. At its meeting in November 2005, the Camden Board of Education approved a recommendation that authorized both the Wiggins and the Wilson SLCs to meet from 3:30 pm to 5:30 pm on November 5 and December 3, 2005, and January 14, February 3, March 4, April 1, May 6 and June 3, 2006. All of these approved days were weekdays. The total cost for the Wiggins SLC was not to exceed $3,000; the total cost for the Wilson SLC was not to exceed $4,000. Administrators, clerical and SLEO personnel were to be compensated from 4:00 to 5:30 only.

3. Regardless of whatever else may have actually been done with respect to any work of the SLC at either Wiggins or Wilson, and regardless of any representations made by any members of the SLC to the contrary, no meetings of the SLC were held on the approved dates by either SLC.

4. While various payroll records were submitted seeking payment for members of each SLC of compensation for alleged attendance at specific SLC meetings purportedly held on the approved dates or on other dates, no compensation was ever paid to any member of either SLC for the 2005-2006 school year.

5. As a result of concerns raised after review of payroll reports submitted beginning on February 9, 2006, (CBOE 3 and 4), claiming that payment should be made to seven members of the Wiggins SLC, each for 64 hours of work at a total of eight meetings held on October 15 and 29, November 12 and 26, December 3 and 17, 2005 and January 7 and 21, 2006, an investigation was begun into the Wiggins and Wilson SLCs. Victoria Pratt, Esq., a compliance officer for the district, noted that the times and dates of meetings for which compensation was sought did not correspond with the officially approved meeting dates as documented in the official Board minutes. The dates for which payment was sought were all Saturdays and payment was sought for meetings on those dates that were listed as lasting from 8:00 am to 4:00 pm. Pratt enlisted Kimberlee Buell-Alvis, Affirmative Action officer employed by the District, to assist her in her investigation.

6. Further analysis of the several "SLC SIGN-IN SHEETS" submitted with the payroll reports showed that there were identical dates and times for the meetings of the two SLCs and that no parental representatives on either SLC were listed as having signed in. Also, sign-in sheets were not submitted within ten days of the SLC meetings as required and as noted specifically on the bottom of the sign-in sheets.

7. When, as a result of the discrepancies noted, further information was requested from the two schools, additional payroll reports (CBOE 52, 53, 54, and 55) were submitted on March 13. These sought payment for meetings supposedly held on dates that had been approved in the Board's November action. Specifically, these dates were November 5 and December 3, 2005 and January 14, February 4 and March 4, 2006. Again, an examination of the supporting documentation showed discrepancies and apparent doctoring of sign-in sheets and agendas.

8. Another set of payroll reports was submitted (CBOE 55 and 56), which duplicated the request for payment for meetings purportedly held on the same eight Saturdays as were listed in the original payroll reports (CBOE 3 and 4).

9. As the investigation proceeded, on April 26, 2006, interviews were held with individuals from both schools at the Board offices. Interviewed were Kevin Farrington, a custodian at Wiggins; Marva Williams, a custodian at Wiggins; Javier Roman, a custodian at Wiggins and member of the SLC; and Alton Booker, Head Custodian at Wilson and a member of its SLC. These persons were queried as to their presence and the presence of other employees and/or SLC members at the respective schools on certain Saturdays when, according to the payroll reports, it was alleged that meetings of the SLC had occurred. In addition, the investigators had secured alarm records that showed entry and exit information for the schools. The result of the interviews confirmed to the investigators that there had been no meetings at the schools, much less meetings lasting for eight hours, on those Saturdays as the payroll reports stated. Indeed, Mr. Roman, in the presence of his union representative, confirmed that he had been directed to sign sign-in sheets by school principal Juanita Worthy, all on the same day. Alton Booker confirmed that he had also been told to sign sign-in sheets.

10. That same afternoon, meetings were held with Michael Hailey, Juanita Worthy and Pat Johnson. When queried by Ms. Pratt as to where Wilson SLC meetings were held, Hailey stated that they were held at homes of various members such as Ms. Vinson's and Juanita Worthy's, and at Rutgers-Camden. He said that he would provide information to support that meetings were held "tomorrow." Worthy also stated that meetings were held at different locations and not everyone attended each meeting, but changed her story when confronted with the sign-in sheets which showed each member who signed having signed each sheet. (There were no signatures for the parent members). Worthy also promised to provide documentation to substantiate meetings and locations. Patricia Johnson similarly provided conflicting information and changed her story when shown documents.

11. As a result of these interviews, the investigators determined that the meetings did not appear to have actually been held at the schools on the Saturdays for which the payroll reports sought payment and that sign-in procedures had apparently been manipulated.

12. After these interviews, the investigation team, also including Dr. Fred Reiss and Mr. Luis Pagan, each an assistant superintendent, arranged to go on April 27th to Wiggins and Wilson in two-person teams for the purpose of meeting with the staff members of the SLCs in order to verify signatures on the sign-in sheets and to obtain information about the alleged meetings. They prepared a grid, referred to in the record mostly as a "matrix," a sample of which is CBOE 337. This matrix listed the several alleged meeting dates, twelve in total, under the heading "Date of SLC Meeting Submitted for Payment." It then had columns entitled "Was an SLC Meeting Held?", "Where Was It Held?", "Did You Attend The Meeting?", and "From When to When?" A box next to each of the twelve dates of the purported meetings was provided for the member to fill in.

13. Jannette Duran was out of work due to illness on April 27th and was not present for the meeting at Wilson where this matrix was presented to the members of that school's SLC.

14. The SLC members at each school were not advised in advance that they were to be summoned to these meetings or told in advance that they would be queried about dates, times and locations of specific meetings. Neither Juanita Worthy nor Michael Hailey was in attendance at these meetings.

15. At Wiggins School, Buell-Alvis and Reiss met with the staff members in the library. A union representative was present, but also had no forewarning of the meeting. Ms. Vinson was present at the outset; Ms. Jones was out of the building. She was summoned to the meeting and arrived part-way through the session. Dr. Reiss discussed the implications of fraudulent documents, the need to verify signatures and the filling out of the matrix. He told those present that there was to be no discussion and they were placed at separate tables. Ms. Denise Tucker objected to the process and wanted to know if there were any legal implications. When Janice Jones arrived she was given the same instructions as the others had received. No one left the room before Jones arrived.

16. Each person present was individually shown a series of sign-in sheets for meetings purportedly held during the 2005-2006 school year and each person confirmed that their signatures on these documents were authentic. As there were several submissions made there were more than one sign in sheet presented for several dates. The sign-in sheets presented for the review of the Wiggins SLC members were dated October 15, October 29, November 5, November 12, November 26, December 3, December 17, 2005, and January 7, January 14, January 21, February 4, and March 4, 2006.

17. The following is the material handwritten upon Janice Jones' matrix. As to each of the twelve dates listed she answered the question as to whether a meeting was held with the word "Yes." She did not fill in anything under the questions as to where held, whether she attended and the times of the meetings. She signed the matrix and dated it and wrote the following on the bottom of the form, "*Mtgs were held and hours were put in and all work was completed. Each task addressed on agenda was accomplished and turned in. Some tasks were done outside mtgs and hours were longer than actually put in."

18. The following is the material handwritten upon Rosalyn Vinson's matrix. As to each of the twelve dates listed she answered the question as to whether a meeting was held with the word "Yes." She did not place anything in the boxes under the "where held" column. She wrote "Yes" under the "did you attend" column for each of the twelve dates. She did not write anything under the "from when to when" column. She signed the form and dated it and wrote the following on the bottom of the form, "Please note: We met at various homes. I can produce whereabouts by looking at notes. I am not comfortable with placing locations w/o first being sure w/o legal representation. P.S. I would like an opportunity to give locations at a later date."

19. Denise Tucker, who had voiced objections to the process, did not fill in any of the boxes under the four columns and wrote at the bottom of her matrix, "I'm sorry I do not recall exact information as to locations." She signed her name under this note.

20. Valerie Cooke filled out most of the boxes on the matrix. She claimed that meetings were held on at least eleven of the twelve dates listed and as to the other wrote, "Yes don't recall." She did not recall some of the locations, but wrote that the October 15, 2005, meeting was held at "home" and the January 21, 2006, meeting was held at "my home mine." The November 12, 2005, meeting was held at "Ms Jones home." All meetings lasted from 8:00 am to 4:00 pm and she wrote, "Yes" as to attending seven of the meetings and did not recall another two, leaving the remaining three blank.

21. Aida Guzman did not fill out the matrix and after apparently first signing and dating the form, crossed out her signature and the date and wrote "refuse to sign."

22. At no time during either the meetings at Wiggins or at Wilson did any of the SLC members present advise that they had pre-signed sign-in sheets or that they had signed them in blank.

23. After this meeting ended, the two investigators met with Juanita Worthy and left her a blank copy of the matrix to complete. She did not fill it out while they were present.

24. Ms. Pratt and Mr. Pagan went to Wilson School at the same time as Buell-Alvis and Reiss went to Wiggins. As noted, Ms. Duran was absent that day.

25. At Wilson, Keah Worthy did not fill in the matrix, but wrote, "We met at people's house/school and went into small groups to discuss our Agenda (District Initiatives)." She signed and dated the form.

26. Roquetta Reed wrote "I don't remember" for the October 15 and 29 dates and "I do not remember" for November 5. She did not fill in any of the information for the other dates or write any notes next to those other dates, signed the form and wrote at the bottom, "I do not remember and I did not know what I was signing."

27. Sandra Rose-Finger did not write anything in the matrix itself and signed the form, adding at the bottom, "I do not remember these meetings. I did not realize that I was signing for specifically."

28. Late in the afternoon of April 28th, a series of blue binders, each containing some four hundred pages of essentially identical material, were delivered to the Board's offices. Each binder presented for a member of the Wiggins SLC had placed on top of it a memorandum to "U.S.Wiggins SLC Members" from J.C. Worthy, dated April 27, 2006 re: Documentation of Meetings." This memo (CBOE 99) read:

> In an effort to cooperate with the investigation we must document our meetings. It is vital that you go through all of your SLC information. We must be able to show that we met. Please check all of your files, notebooks, calendars, etc. Any information you can bring to the meeting on Friday will be helpful. Please try to remember the dates, where you ate, your mode of transportation to the meeting, how much money you spent, the exact state of your health or ANY THING ELSE that may trigger the correct time and dates of the SLC meetings. Please do not include your unscheduled meetings. The documentation is due April 28, 2006.
> All information will be gathered and sent to the Office of Compliance April 28, 2006 at 3 pm.

On each of the Wiggins binders the name of one of the listed SLC members was highlighted. In all, nine binders were submitted, for Jones, Cooke, Keah Worthy, Tucker, Vinson, Juanita Worthy, Guzman, Hailey and Johnson.[3]

29. Among other materials, these binders contained meeting agendas dated for the various dates upon which it was apparently represented that meetings had been held. For example, an "Agenda" for a meeting on "November 5, 2005 3:30-5:30 PM" for the Wiggins SLC and typical of the format of the other agendas included in the binder, runs for three pages, includes items such as "welcome," "review budget," "Technology," "Professional Development," Focus Room: Mr. Joe Schechtman, Consultant,"

[3] As stipulated, Roquetta Reed refused to attend the "binder session" and no binder was submitted in her name.

"Committee Reports," "Questions/Comments/Concerns" and "Reminder: Next Meeting December 3, 2005." While the vast majority of the material in the binders was identical, as an example of the slight differences between what each contained when submitted, notes were handwritten on some of the Agendas. For instance, in the binder submitted for Ms. Jones, the Agenda for "October 15, 2005 8-4 PM," has a section devoted to "Expectations for members." The printed page has a bullet point, "Attending at least 80% of all SLC meetings." On the Agenda, which bears the word "Jones" in the upper right hand corner, is handwritten "(must attend all mtgs)," with each word double underlined, and the words "We will try 100% to make it truly workable," with circles around the "100%" and the printed "80% and an arrow from "80%" to the latter note.

30. Despite the existence of these dated Agendas, no meetings were held on the dates represented by the Agendas. As for the handwriting, the notes were written on the Agendas by SLC members during the meeting on April 28th at which the binders were prepared. Directions as to what to write were at least in part provided by Juanita Worthy. No minutes of the meetings for which agendas were included were found in the binders.

31. A report of the findings and recommendations of the investigative team was prepared and submitted to then Superintendent of Schools Annette D. Knox. This report, which bears an April 28th date, was updated to report not only the receipt after 5:00 pm that day of the binders, but also the receipt on May 1 and 2, 2006, of four matrices submitted for Juanita Worthy, Keah Worthy, Michael Hailey and Jannette Duran.

32. Juanita Worthy's matrix is dated 4/28-2006. It is completely filled out. It specifies the location of each of the twelve meetings, including a name of an SLC member in whose home a particular meeting was held and the town where that home is located (i.e., 10/15/05 J.C. Worthy Evesham). The times vary, such that some meetings are listed as from "8-400" and others "330-530." The November 5 and January 14 meetings are listed as having occurred at Rutgers Camden, the February 4 and March 4, 2006, at Wiggins from 3:30 to 5:30.

33. As for the matrices submitted for Pat Johnson, Michael Hailey, Keah Worthy and Jannette Duran, each is on a pre-printed form with the words "Wiggins School" printed on top, crossed out, and the words "HB Wilson" or "HB Wilson School" handwritten in place of Wiggins. Each of these four matrices exactly matches that submitted by Juanita Worthy. Each bears a signature, and Ms. Duran acknowledges that she prepared and signed her matrix. Additional information as to how she came to do this will be addressed later in this opinion.

34. Dr. Reiss formulated, and the investigation report contained, recommendations to the Superintendent that increments be withheld and tenure charges be brought against Juanita Worthy, Michael Hailey and Patricia Johnson for initiating acts of fraud and perpetuating a cover up against the district; increments be withheld and letters of reprimand be issued against Rosalyn Vinson, Denise Tucker and Janice Jones, all tenure teachers, for failing to provide accurate and honest information to the Board and participating in the cover-up; that non-renewal of employment be instituted for Aida Guzman and Keah Worthy for failing to provide accurate and honest information to the Board and participating in the cover-up; and that Sondra Rose-Finger, Roquette Reed, Alton Booker and Javier Roman, employees who assisted in the investigation, be issued a letter of reprimand, which would include their understanding that they were barred from participation in an SLC or any similar body during their employment because they placed their signature on documents showing that they participated in Board activities without actual participation. The report did not contain any recommendation concerning Jannette Duran. It appears that there was some confusion over whether she was a tenured employee.

35. In early May 2006, both Michael Hailey and Juanita Worthy were removed from their positions as principals and Dr. Reiss was placed temporarily in charge of Wilson School. During an inspection of Mr. Hailey's office at Wilson after he was replaced, Ms. Pratt discovered twelve signed, but undated sign-in sheets in an SLC binder. These also did not have any times listed. Several of these had blank spaces within the column of signatures, leaving room for an additional name to be added. The order of the names varied from sheet to sheet. Ms. Duran stipulates that her signature is on each of these sign-in sheets.

36. The payroll reports submitted, seeking payment to the members of the Wiggins and Wilson SLCs, were neither prepared nor submitted by any of the three respondents.

37. The investigator never determined who placed the dates and times on the various sign-in sheets. The three respondents denied that these items were on the sheets when they signed them.

38. The district held a training session for the school principals and chairpersons of the SLC in January 2006, at which a Power Point presentation was made concerning the SLC. Neither Ms. Jones nor Ms. Duran was invited to or in attendance at this meeting. Principals were responsible to disseminate information about Abbott requirements back to their schools.

39. Documentation shows that in the 2004-2005 school year, the Board approved specific meeting dates for the Wiggins and the Wilson SLCs and payroll reports requesting payment of extra compensation for the members of the SLCs were submitted. Ms. Vinson and Ms. Jones were members of the Wiggins SLC; Ms. Duran was a member of the Wilson SLC. Ms. Duran's name and signature appear on numerous sign-in sheets submitted for meetings purportedly held in 2004-2005.

40. Juanita Worthy had a reputation for doing things her own way.

41. Both Wiggins and Wilson Schools had reputations as exemplary schools in the District.

TESTIMONY

Sandra Rose-Finger, a teacher for twenty-six years, claimed that she was never directly told that she was a member of the SLC and never had any conversations with either Johnson or Hailey about her role as a member or about its activities. She was given the Statement of Understanding (CBOE 365) to sign in September 2005 by Pat Johnson, who told her to date it July 1, 2005. Sometime later, in late January or early February 2005, Hailey told her to sign a stack of papers that were stapled together. One of these is CBOE 105. These had no dates or times on them. The pages contained signatures and printed names of other persons and Hailey directed her to sign on different lines on different sign-in sheets so that they did not all look the same. She realized what the form was and what its purpose was. It was obvious to her that it was to be used to obtain "payment for something." She never attended any SLC meetings. After she attended the meeting on April 27th with Ms. Pratt and Mr. Pagan, Mr. Hailey questioned her about what had happened at that meeting. He continued to question her the April 28th as to what was said and by whom. He called her while she was on her way to work and told her that Mr. Booker had "ran and said there were no meetings and we have to have a meeting and get our stories straight." Despite Hailey's continued harassment she did not attend the "binder" meeting." She did not return to school for three weeks, by which time Hailey, who she described as a very vindictive person, had been replaced.

Janice Jones has a Masters degree from Arcadia University and twenty-seven graduate credits in Educational Administration from Cheney State. She has been certificated since 1984 in Special Education and employed by the Camden Board of Education since 1988. She began teaching at Wiggins Elementary School in September 1984. During the summer of 2004 she was asked to serve on the SLC by Juanita Worthy. She had previously served both on and as chairperson of the Pupil Assistance Committee, a position that did not involve any additional pay. She described her activities as a member of the SLC as developing tests, helping teachers develop tests, interpreting testing data, performing in-service for parents and attending training sessions. She was sent to meetings concerning new initiatives, such as Dibble and believed that this occurred due to her SLC membership. She shared what she learned at these sessions with Ms. Worthy. In 2004-2005 there were never any formal meetings of the SLC and she was never provided with any list of any meeting dates, nor was she invited to attend or told of any formal meetings. When issues came up, such as through grade or department level meetings, some SLC members would meet to discuss whatever had come up. For 2004-2005 she was paid $3,500 as "extra compensation," on top of her salary of about $70,000. She believed that she was making a difference in the education being provided at her school as a result of her involvement with the SLC in 2004-2005. She signed documents labeled, "SLC SIGN-IN SHEET," possibly two or three times with a total of perhaps nine or ten sheets, "for the work that was done," and was not herself knowledgeable about the payroll process. These sheets did not contain times or dates when she signed them.

In 2005-2006, Jones was a 5th grade resource teacher and again an SLC member. She recalled that she helped create tests, worked on issues regarding 4th grade writing skills and the Focus Room. She also prepared agendas for the Pupil Assistance Committee. She worked both after school and on weekends. She attended no Saturday meetings in 2005-2006. On April 27th she was at another school in the district for a meeting, but was summoned to return to Wiggins. Worthy told her to report to the library. Worthy told her that there were questions about the SLC and that "they" were going to say that they met at people's homes. Jones testified that she understood that she was being told to lie. At the meeting she was shown sign-in sheets with signatures and acknowledged the presence of her signature on the various sheets. As she did this she did not notice that the sheets contained dates or times. She was given the matrix and told that she had to sign and date it and answer the questions. She was "confused" and "didn't know what to do" so she decided to sign and date the document. She was not told at that meeting that anyone had by then said that there were no meetings. When she handed the matrix back to Dr. Reiss, she had not filled out anything, but had written her statement on the bottom.[4] He told her to "at least answer" the first column, which asked if the meetings took place. She "felt torn," but

[4] "*Mtgs were held and hours were put in and all work was completed. Each task addressed on agenda was accomplished and turned in. Some tasks were done outside mtgs and hours were longer than actually put in."

nevertheless she wrote "yes." However, as it was not true that meetings had been held, she was not going to fill out anything else.

Jones participated in preparing the binders on April 28th, adding comments to the Agendas as directed. Worthy explained that the purpose was to "document our work" and that the binders would be sent downtown. Jones also thought of the binders as the means to show that work was done, and she did not think of them as a means of demonstrating that meetings had been held as represented in the agendas and sign-in sheets. By this time Jones was realizing that the matter "was bigger than [she] had thought," but she believed that they could document their work. In the middle of morning the staff members went to the union office to sign up for attorneys. By then, they were "all in disbelief," but there was no discussion of what was happening. Juanita Worthy gave her a copy of Worthy's own, fully completed matrix to copy. She wanted them to fill the matrix out so that they would all be the same. At first, Jones did so, but she was "uncomfortable" and said that she was not going to turn it in and she tore it up. She also acknowledged at hearing that she should never have turned in the binder. Jones noted that agendas in the format presented in the binders, but without dates and times, had been previously prepared and topics listed on agendas were actually discussed with SLC members, but not at formal meetings, none of which occurred.

Interestingly, Jones explained that at the binder session she asked Juanita Worthy in the presence of "others" why they did not simply say what they had done and how they had done it. Worthy replied that "that would look like fraud." Jones did not see this binder project as "fraud."

Rosalyn Vinson holds a Masters degree in Educational Administration from Cheney State. She has been employed in the district since September 1988 as a teacher of the handicapped. Beginning in 2001 she has acted as a "facilitator" under Juanita Worthy, making sure that there is compliance with the Whole School Model, as a liaison between the principal and the program. She described the "Comer" philosophy, under which parents, teachers and the entire school community should work together. As a facilitator she served on the School Management Team (SMT), predecessor to the SLC, but "more as an overseer than as a member." When Superintendent Knox came to the district and disbanded the Whole School Reform, she became a literacy coach in 2004, but did much the same work as she had performed as a facilitator. Ms. Worthy was her direct supervisor and they had a good working relationship. Worthy "had her agenda" and "expected you to follow it."

When the SLC replaced the SMT in 2004-2005, there was only a name change, for the SLC functioned in the same manner as had the SMT. The SLC helped to facilitate that which the school needed to achieve, to promote safety, high standards, good relationships with parents and the community. There had earlier been committees that dealt with these areas, such as public relations and espirit d'corps. There were never any full staff meetings of the SLC in either 2004-2005 or 2005-2006. Worthy, who did not like meetings and whose motto was the oft-stated, "we're not consumers, we're producers," would often speak to her about matters between 6:30 and 7:30 am, as they both came to work early. There were grade level and departmental meetings and if one's role on the SLC involved something to be discussed at one of these sessions you would attend. Thus, as she described it, Guzman and Cooke were the parent coordinators; Roman related to the community at fairs, festivals and the like and knew the building and dealt with cleaning issues; Jones dealt with special education; Tucker with technology and Vinson with student achievement and how to prepare teachers to prepare students. Vinson worked on these issues on weekends and at night. In 2005-2006, there was no formal budget committee at Wiggins and she, Tucker and Juanita Worthy prepared the budget, but none of that work was done during school hours as Worthy did not want "non-student work" done during the school day. During the summer, Vinson, who had a ten-month contract, nevertheless worked much of the time, preparing for trips, ordering books, cleaning and redecorating. Worthy always came up with new ideas that had to be addressed.

Vinson testified that when she signed sign-in sheets they did not contain dates or times. Worthy always referred to these as "for work that was done" outside of school time and this is what Vinson believed she would be paid for. This "was just the way it was done."
