OUTLINE HISTORY OF NEW JERSEY.

Within the limits of what is now the State of New Jersey, aside from any evidences of the presence of prehistoric man in the "Trenton Gravels," the original inhabitants of the commonwealth were Lenni Lenape, or Delaware, Indians. This subdivision of the great Algonkin family occupied the river valleys of the State, had made some progress in agriculture and in elementary arts, were peaceable but small in numbers, and at last have become totally extinct in this portion of the United States.

In its settlement, New Jersey was not an English colony. The claims of the Crown, based upon early discovery and various grants, were totally ignored by two great commercial nations of Europe-Holland and Sweden. It was not until 1664, practically a half century after the first occupancy of New Jersey by a white man, that England had aught more than a slight influence upon the destinies of the State. In settlement, Holland was first to send out planters, under the auspices of the Dutch West India Company. Claiming both the valleys of the Hudson and the Delaware, by virtue of the explorations of Hudson and Mey, land was taken up upon the banks of the Hudson, Passaic, Hackensack, Raritan and smaller streams tributary to New York harbor, as well as at Gloucester upon the Delaware. By 1630 these claims were well established by occupancy, and by the creation of a centre of local government in what is now New York city. Upon the rapidly growing influence of Holland, Sweden looked with jealous eye. Gustavus Adolphus, in his plan to make Sweden a world-power, saw the Dutch to be dangerous rivals in America. In 1638 there was equipped a Swedish expedition to settle the valley of the Delaware. What is now the State of Delaware, the valley of the Schuylkill and isolated portions of the west bank of the Delaware River were occupied, civil and military government was established, and the colony of farmers and traders entered upon a brief career of prosperity. The death of Gustavus Adolphus, internal dissensions in Sweden, the inherent weakness of the Delaware settlements, and the constantly increasing power of Holland brought matters to a crisis. In 1655 New Sweden was conquered by New Netherlands, and for nine years the soil of New Jersey was absolutely under Dutch control.

Emerging from the interregnum of the Cromwells, the restoration of the House of Stuart brought peace to England. On the 12th of March, 1664, Charles II., with royal disregard for previous patents, grants and charters, deeded to his brother James, Duke of York, a vast tract embracing much of New England, New York and all of what is now New Jersey. This was accompanied by active preparations to drive the Dutch from America, as they, in alien claims to New Jersey, practically separated the New England colonies from Virginia, Maryland and the Carolinas. In the summer of 1664 armed vessels appeared in New York harbor. After negotiations, the Dutch surrendered and the power of Holland in North America became simply a matter of history. In the meantime James, Duke of York, transferred to two favorites of the House of Stuart-John, Lord Berkeley, and Sir George Carteretpractically what is now the State of New Jersey. In honor of Carteret's defense of the Island of Jersey (Caesarea) during the Parliamentary wars, the territory was called New Jersey (Nova Caesarea).

Carteret and Berkeley, in granting a liberal frame of government and extolling the advantages of their colony so well located for agriculture, commerce, fishing and mining, attracted settlers not only from England, but from Scotland and New England, particularly Long Island and Connecticut. These planters were largely Calvinists, from Presbyterian and Congregational communities, and mainly occupied land in Newark, Elizabeth and upon the north shore of Monmouth county. The valley of the Delaware remained unsettled. The Calvinists brought into East Jersey distinctive views upon religious and civil matters. Early legislatures punished many crimes by death. the penalties being similar to those of the Jewish dispensation, while the "town-meeting" strengthened the individual action of the small communities. There was an intense individualism in every phase of political and religious development, the life of the people centering around the church and the school house, the head of both, as in New England, being the minister.

In 1676 a division of the interests of Carteret and Berkeley occurred. In the meantime Berkeley had disposed of his rights to a company of English Quakers, a conflict had ensued, and to establish the claims of all parties concerned, the two colonies of East and West Jersey came into existence. A line was drawn from a point in Little Egg Harbor to the Delaware Water Gap, Berkeley and his assigns retaining West Jersey as their moiety, Carteret obtaining East Jersey.

By Berkeley's transfer the dominant influence in West Jersey was that of the Society of Friends. Salem was settled in 1675, Burlington, Gloucester and the site of Trenton about five years later, while within ten years thereafter the "shore" communities of Cape May and Tuckerton came into existence. The Society of Friends established in West Jersey a series of communities in which the life of the people was different from that of East Jersey. As East Jersey resembled New England in civil government, so West Jersey resembled Virginia. The political and social centres of the large plantations were the shiretowns, slave owning was common, a landed aristocracy was established, prominent families intermarried, and under the advice of William Penn and his friends good faith was kept with the Indians. Capital punishment was practically unknown and disputes were settled frequently by arbitration.

Two elements of discord marked the genesis of East Jersey and of West Jersey. One, external, was the attitude of the Duke of York after he became James II. In 1673 New Jersey was recaptured by the Dutch, who held the colony until the early spring of 1674. A question arose as to the Duke of York's title after 1674, reconveyances were made, but in spite of past assurances, James II. claimed the proprietary right of government. To that end Sir Edmund Andros was commissioned Governor of New Jersey, and a climax was reached in 1680 when the proprietary governor of East Jersey was carried prisoner to New York. In 1681 the Crown recognized the justice of the proprietors' contention, and local government was re-established, but not before the seeds of discontent were sown that bore fruit in the Revolutionary War.

An internal disturbance was a contest between the Boards of Proprietors and the small land owners. Both in East and West Jersey, Carteret and Berkeley and their assigns had transferred to wealthy combinations of capitalists—most of whom were non-residents—much of the broad acreage of the colonies. With the land went the right of selection of Governors and of members of Executive Councils, which right Berkeley and Carteret had derived from the Crown. This, with "quit-rent" agitations in East Jersey, led to much bitterness. Finally, disgusted with turmoil, and viewing a sentiment of revolt on the part of the people, the Boards of Proprietors surrendered to the Crown, in 1702, their rights of government, retaining only their interest in the soil, East and West Jersey were united, and the two provinces became the royal colony of New Jersey.

From 1702 until the outbreak of the Revolution the political history of the colony was quite uneventful. Throughout the period of seventy-five years there was almost constant friction between the Legislature and the Governor and his Council. The governors, in the main, were Crown favorites sent over the sea without a personal knowledge of the colony and with but an ill-concealed ambition to wrest from the people as much money as could be secured for the support of themselves and the executive office. The Councils, composed of wealthy land owners of the Society of Friends and rich merchants from East Jersey, were quiescent, and even the members of the popular branch of the Legislature were chosen by those possessing property qualifications. The small non-voting farmers raised the cry of "aristocracy," and the equivalent of "taxation without representation," and while loyal to the Crown were open in their expressions of dissatisfaction to the personal attitude of their governors. In 1738 New Jersey, in recognition of this sentiment, was given a governor separate from the one appointed jointly for the colonies of New York and New Jersey.

During this period the farm was the centre of the activities of the life of the people; particularly was this true in the western part of the colony, where favoring climate and soil, slave labor and the proximity of Philadelphia led to abundant crops and a good market. In East Jersey a commercial spirit was more active. Perth Amboy threatened to rival New York, and Jersey ships from Newark. Elizabeth and the Monmouth villages were to be found from Boston to Charleston. The repressive economic policy of the Crown precluded the development of manufactures. In the southern part of the State, sand and unlimited forests of oak and pine led to the development of glass making, while "bog iron," with abundance of lime from oyster shells, gave an impetus to the erection of forges and bloomaries. These, as well as the copper mines of the trap rock region, were throttled by adverse Parliamentary legislation. Ship building was a recognized industry, and cedar was extensively "mined" from the sunken forests of the tide-water district. Whaling and other fisheries were unhampered, and were profitable, as was also the trade in skins and in hay from the salt meadows of the coast.

Throughout the years from 1702 to 1776 gold and silver and copper money was scarce. In obedience to the demand of the English merchants that competition should be crushed, legislation was enacted to draw "hard" money away from the colony. An inflated paper currency, first issued in 1707 to provide ways and means to aid the Canadian expedition against the French, poured from the printing presses. Trade was reduced to barter, and gold, silver and copper were practically at a premium for nearly three generations.

Of the more prominent incidents during the period were the organized attempts to suppress piracy in New York and Delaware bays, the growth of a well-defined system of transportation by land and water between New York and Philadelphia, the establishment of ferries and post roads, the reclamation of waste land, the injection of Hugenot, Scotch-Irish and Palatinate German elements into the settled population, the chartering of Princeton University and Rutgers College, the religious revival led by Whitefield, the propogation of abolition doctrines by Woolman, the erection of a series of barracks owing to the French and Indian war, and what is probably of supreme importance, the growth of a sentiment of independence fostered by the stupid policy of the Crown, and carried from hamlet to hamlet, as much by itinerant hawkers and by "Redemptioners," who had served their time, as by any other cause.

The opening of the Revolution found New Jersey's sentiment unevenly crystalized. Few, if any, were favoring absolute independence. There were three elements. One, the Tory party, was led by Governor William Franklin, the illegitimate son of Benjamin Franklin. This conservative class embraced nearly all the Episcopalians, a vast proportion of the non-combatant members of the Society of Friends and some East Jersey Calvinists. Another element was composed of men of various shades of belief. some in favor of continual protest, others desirous of compromise. This included at the outbreak of the struggle most of the Calvinists, some few Quakers of the younger generation, and the Scotch-Irish. The third party drew its support from a few bold, aggressive spirits of influence whose following included men who believed that war for independence would benefit their fortunes.

The part played in the Revolution by New Jersey has been frequently told. Events passed rapidly after the affairs of Trenton and Princeton; Monmouth and Red Bank will never be forgotten, while the raids at Salem, Springfield, Elizabeth, in the valley of the Hackensack, and the winter at Morristown are a part of national history. Occupying a position between New York and Philadelphia, its soil was a theatre where the drama of war was always presented. At no time was the Tory element suppressed, finding its expression in open hostility, or in the barbaric cruelties of the "Pine Robbers" of Monmouth, Burlington, Gloucester and Salem counties. Though under suspicion, the Society of Friends were neutral, for conscience sake, remaining close to the teachings of their creed.

The close of the struggle found the people of New Jersey jubilant and not disposed to relinquish their sovereignty. The Articles of Confederation were weak and had become a by-word and a jest. There was much State pride and much aristocratic feeling among the old families who continued to dominate State politics. The Constitution of 1776, adopted by New Jersey as a makeshift war measure, provided that all State officers of prominence should be elected by a Legislature, which was chosen by voters possessing property qualifications. As in the colony, the Governor was Chancellor, and class distinctions were closely drawn. In spite of agitation, all proposed changes were rejected, and a strong federal union with the other States was viewed with dislike and suspicion. The State, in a quarrel with New York, at one time refused to obey the requests of Congress, and, in the exercise of her sovereignty, established a Court of Admiralty and coined money.

While the spirit of "State rights" was dominant, it was recognized by leaders of public thought that New Jersey was too weak to stand alone. She entered the Annapolis convention called to revise the Articles of Confederation, and whose lasting monument was the present Federal Constitution adopted in Philadelphia in 1787. Upon the 15th of June of that year the "New Jersey Plan" was presented, which, while lost as a measure, led to the famous compromise upon representation, whereby in the Senate of the United States the States were given equal vote, with a representation based on population in the House.

The adoption of the Constitution of the United States led to the rapid growth of political parties in New Jersey as elsewhere. In spite of the intense conservatism of the State, led by the Quakers of West Jersey, who were Federalists almost to a man, the anti-Federalist sentiment developed rapidly, spurred by a virulent party press, the death of men who had been trained in colonial methods of thought and the democratic tendency of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which grew in strength in West Jersey.

In the eastern part of the State there was among the individualistic Calvinists a strong anti-Federal spirit. This, in 1800, led to the election of Thomas Jefferson as President of the United States, and in 1801 the election of his political ally, Joseph Bloomfield, as Governor of the State of New Jersey. The death of Hamilton at the hands of Burr, and the death of Livingston, the "war" Governor, tore down the strongest pillars of Federalism in New Jersey, and led to the absolute domination of the State by the anti-Federalists, who held power until the outbreak of the second war with England.

The period from 1790 to 1812 in New Jersey was marked by a demand for internal improvements and better transportation. The agitation concerning the Delaware and Raritan Canal, Stevens' experiments in 1802 with steam, along the lines laid down in 1785 by Fitch, the project of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures at Paterson as early as 1791, and highways conducted through the northwest portion of the State, indicate the trend of public sentiment.

The second war with England was not altogether a popular measure in New Jersey. The Federalists, the "Peace Party," secured control of the Legislature and elected their Governor. Nevertheless the State furnished her quota of troops. The one permanent effect of the struggle upon the State was indirect. Owing to the movement of supplies and the necessity of quick transportation between Philadelphia and the exposed port of New York, the wagon roads between Bordentown and Perth Amboy, and between Trenton, New Brunswick, Metuchen, Rahway, Elizabeth and Newark, were improved and their advantages as "short routes" demonstrated. Upon these lines two later railroads, now a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, were constructed.

The era following the close of the war of 1812 until the opening of the Civil War was one of stupendous activity. Interrupted only by the financial depressions of 1817 and 1837, and slightly retarded by the Mexican War, the progress of the State was beyond the wildest dreams of the enthusiast, Alexander Hamilton. In the eastern part of the State, aided by a constantly increasing foreign population, Jersey City rose from the marshes, Newark grew toward her present greatness, Paterson became a centre of industry, while in the west, Camden was recognized as an available site for manufactures. The public school system was established and extended, reforms in the caring for the criminal, defective, delinquent and dependent classes were instituted, railroads were reaching every town of size, in the vicinity of New York and Philadelphia, ferries were erected, banks established, post offices opened and newspapers printed. In 1844, when social unrest was most marked, the present State Constitution was adopted by a large popular majority and needed reforms tending to elevate the legal position of married women, imprisoned debtors and bankrupts were adopted.

The year 1860 brought a termination to the then impending conflict. While every other State north of Mason and Dixon's line by 1850 had set the black man free, there were still 236 negroes in bondage in New Jersey. The abolition movement made slow progress and an anti-war party had a decided following. But when the die was cast New Jersey responded to the call for men and money. She furnished 88,305 men, or within 10,501 of her entire militia. For organizing, subsisting, supplying, supporting and transporting her troops she paid $2,894,385, and upon the field sustained the reputation for bravery she had won during the days of Trenton and Monmouth.

New Jersey has made great advances since the Civil War. Among the important legislation was the passage of the General Railroad law in 1873. This ended the domination of the Camden and Amboy monopoly and opened the way for other enterprises in the same field.

Although the State passed an Emancipation act in 1804, the Constitution was not amended as to legalize negro suffrage until 1875. The Legislature of 1871 ratified the fifteenth amendment to the U.S. Constitution which gives absolute authority to the negro to cast his vote at all national, State, county and municipal elections,

Women exercised the right of suffrage in New Jersey under laws passed in 1790 and 1797. That right was taken from them by an act passed in 1807. In 1912 the Supreme Court held that the 1776 Constitution did not confer any right on women to vote. The Constitution of 1844 limited the right to vote to males. In 1887 women were given the right to vote at school meetings. This was declared unconstitutional in 1894 as to voting for school trustees and officers; they could vote, however, on other school matters. A proposed amendment to the State Constitution in 1897

A proposed amendment to the state Constitution in 1897 giving women the right to vote for school officers was defeated. The vote was 65,021 for, to 75,170 against. In 1915 another proposed amendment conferring full suffrage on women was defeated. The vote was 133,282 for and 184,390 against. In 1883 laws were enacted regulating the labor of women and children in factories.

In 1838, the last whipping post disappeared from New Jersey. It stood on a vacant lot in Trenton, where many offenders had suffered the degrading punishment. Franklin S. Mills, a veteran reporter of that time, called several kindred spirits around him and they decided that the whipping post must go. There was unanimous agreement that the best time for its vanishment would be a dark night, and meanwhile the plot was kept a profound secret. The plan was carried out and the post was never set up again. The next step to lessen the horror of capital punishment was in 1907, when the penalty was changed from hanging to eloctrocution. In the same year tuberculosis was pronounced infectious and a sanitorium for the treatment of such patients was established.

Gambling at race tracks and all other places was prohibited by law in 1894 and in 1897 a constitutional amendment was adopted to the same effect.

In 1907 the first primary law went into operation. In 1911, the direct primary was extended to the offices of governor and representatives in Congress. In 1915 it was extended to the office of United States Senator. In 1911, a blanket form of ballot was adopted. In 1907 the Board of Railroad Commissioners for the State of New Jersey was created, and in 1910, the name was changed to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners. In 1911, the Employers' Liability act was passed.

The admirable system of public education in New Jersey deserves more than passing notice. The first steps were taken during the colonial period, and soon after the Revolution a number of private schools and academies were established. In 1816, the Legislature ordered that the sum of $15,000 should be invested in a Permanent Educational Fund. During the following two years, this sum was increased to $113,236.78. In 1824, a tenth of the State tax was added to the school fund. Improvement was continually made in the educational 1acilities, the annual appropriation being increased in 1838 to $30,000. The new Constitution adopted in 1844, prohibited the diversion of any part of the school fund under any pretext. Two years later every township was required to raise the same amount contributed by the State, and in 1851 the State appropriation was increased to $40,000.

Since no one is considered qualified to follow a profession without special training, it followed that that of the teacher should receive the same preparation. In 1855, the first State Normal School was opened in Trenton and proved highly successful. It has been followed by others with the most beneficial results to the cause of education throughout the State.

In 1867, the whole school system was remodeled and placed on a sound basis. Provision was made for the continual maintenance of the Normal School and the Model, or training school, attached to it; for the examination and licensing of teachers; for increasing the State Educational Fund; defining the duties of district and township trustees, the city boards of education, the county superintendents, the State superintendent and the State Board of Education.

In 1881, an act was passed by the Legislature to encourage the establishment of schools for industrial education. In 1888, manual training was provided for and several such institutions have been established. The Compulsory Education law went into effect in 1884. Parents and guardians are compelled to send children between the ages of seven and fourteen years to school each day the schools are in session, or provide for their instruction at home or elsewhere. The State College for Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts is connected with Rutgers College at New Brunswick. Candidates for this course are examined annually at the county seat of each county. The number of pupils is limited to sixty and tuition is free. Other State institutions are referred to elsewhere.

One of the most beneficent enterprises with which New Jersey is specially identified is the life-saving service. The United States has more than ten thousand miles of sea and lake coast. Thousands of lives and untold millions of dollars of property have been swept down to death and destruction by the fearful storms which at times rage over these waters. Of all the vast extent of coast, there is none more dangerous than that of New Jersey. The causes of this is the peculiar formation of the Long Island and New Jersey shores, and the fact that a bar runs parallel with the beach at a distance therefrom of from two hundred yards to a mile. The water on this bar is shallow, and many a ship, when driven toward shore goes to pieces long before it can be reached by the anxious watchers on the heach.

One of the residents of Monmouth county who was deeply impressed by the frightful loss of life was Dr. William A. Newell, a member of Congress from 1848 to 1851, and governor of New Jersey from 1857 to 1860. It is worth mentioning in this place that Dr. Newell was in Congress when John Quincy Adams was stricken with apoplexy and caught him in his arms as he was falling. Dr. Newell, during the first part of his term, secured an appropriation of $10,000 for the protection of life and property from shipwreck on the coast between Sandy Hook and Little Egg Harbor. Some months later, the ship Ayrshire was driven on Squan Beach. The life car was employed to bring the 202 passengers and crew ashore and only one man who refused to enter the car was drowned. Instances without number occurred, when with the help of the life-saving crew, not a single life was lost, when without such aid all would have perished.

At the close of 1914, the life-saving establishments in the United States included 285 stations, 203 being on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, 62 on the lakes, 19 on the Pacific coast, 1 at Nome, Alaska, and 1 at the falls of the Ohio, Louisville, Ky.

Since the establishment of the life-saving service down to June 30th, 1914, the number of disasters was 28,121; value of property involved, $355,401,084; value of property saved, $288,871,237; value of property lost, $66,529,847; persons involved, 178,741; persons lost, 1,455; shipwrecked persons succored at stations, 28,711; days' succor afforded, 59,659.

In addition to the 522 disasters in 1914, there were 1,415 casualities to lesser craft, such as launches, sailboats, rowboats, &c., on which were 3,757 persons of whom all were saved excepting 12.

As in every State and in the National government, the government consists of the legislative, executive and judiciary. The last named embraces the courts,

Justice's Court.—This is the lowest court with common law and criminal jurisdiction. Suits involving no more than $200 may be tried in it, and appeal can be had to the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Police Court.—This is composed of a police justice, or a justice of the peace appointed by him. His criminal jurisdiction in the city for which he is appointed is the same as that of a justice of the peace. He tries cases of violation of city ordinances and appeal is to the Court of Common Pleas, or Quarter Sessions, or to the Supreme or Circuit Court

District Court.—The jurisdiction of this court is limited to the county in which the court is held. It has authority in all suits of a civil nature in which the sum involved does not exceed $500, exclusive of costs, including disputes between landlords and tenants and replevin and attachment cases. Appeal is to the Supreme Court.

Court of Quarter Sessions.—This court has jurisdiction over all offences of an indictable nature within the county, except treason and murder. As a court of common law jurisdiction, it can hear only appeals from the justices' courts and the police courts.

Court of Common Pleas.—The jurisdiction of this court is extensive. It holds three stated terms each year and special terms when so ordered by the Supreme Court. Its original jurisdiction includes all personal actions not involving the freehold: the changing of the name of any town or village in the county or of any person on his request; cases relating to insolvency, roads and wrecks; the property of absconding debtors; applications for exemption from military duty, and it decides suits against constables who neglect to execute warrants. It grants licenses and tries cases referred to it by the Circuit Court. The presiding officer is a judge appointed to that office. The justice of the Supreme Court, holding the Circuit Court within the county, is ex-officio judge of the Court of Common Pleas. It can try cases referred to it by the Circuit Court and certify the same to the Supreme Court.

Circuit Court.—This court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Supreme Court except in criminal cases and has authority to try Supreme Court issues. It holds three stated terms annually and a special term when so ordered by a justice of the Supreme Court. Appeals are taken to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Supreme Court of Judicature.—The chief justice and eight associate justices compose this court, which may be held by any one of the nine justices. It meets in Trenton on the third Tuesday in February and the first Tuesdays respectively of June and November. Special terms may be ordered by the chief justice or any two associate justices. Its jurisdiction covers all real, personal or mixed actions at common law, and it has power to decide when the laws and joint resolutions have not been duly passed and approved. It has authority to review the proceedings of other courts and the only appeal is to the Court of Errors and Appeals. The business of this court has grown to such an extent that it has been divided into parts I., II. and III.

Court of Errors and Appeals.—This court is composed of the chancellor, the justices of the Supreme Court and six specially appointed justices. It is the highest tribunal in the State from whose decisions there is no appeal.

Court of Chancery.—The members of this court are the chancellor and eight vice-chancellors. Its function is to give such relief as is not given by the common law courts, and appeal must be made to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Surrogate Court.—Each county has a surrogate whose duties mainly relate to will cases. Appeals have to be made to the Orphans' Court of the county.

Orphans' Court.—This court is held by the judge of the Court of Common Pleas, the justices of the Supreme Court being judges ex-officio. It decides all disputes relating to wills, the accounts of executors, the recovery of legacies, the mental condition of persons in the military, naval or marine service, the division of estates, &c.

Prerogative Court.—The chancellor is the judge of the Prerogative Court, which has authority to grant the probate of wills, letters of administration and the settlement of disputes relating to the same. Its decisions are to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Court for the Trial of Impeachments.—This court consists of the senate which tries the governor or any officer of the State for misdemeanor while holding such office. The impeachment must be by the assembly. A two-thirds vote is necessary to convict and from such conviction there is no appeal.

Court of Pardons.—This court consists of the governor, chancellor and the six judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals. A majority of the court of whom the governor must be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, grant pardons after conviction except in cases of impeachment, and commute sentences of death to imprisonment at hard labor for life or a stated number of years. There is no appeal from the judgment of this court.

Court of Oyer and Terminer.—This court is composed of any Supreme Court justice and the judge of the Court of Common Pleas. It meets in the respective counties and has jurisdiction over all offences of an indictable nature, from which appeal may be made to the Supreme Court.

In addition to the courts specified, there is one for the trial of juvenile offenders, which is for the beneficent purpose of reforming rather than punishing youthful criminals, and the Coroner's Court, whose duty is to inquire into the causes of all deaths in prison and of those elsewhere which have a suspicious appearance. No appeal can be taken from the verdict of a coroner's jury.

It is a singular coincidence that the three presidential cabinet members from New Jersey down to 1877, were each Secretary of the Navy. They were, Samuel L. Southard, 1823-29; Mahlon Dickerson, 1834-38, and George M. Robeson, 1869-77. The cabinet officers from this State, since the last-named date, were, F. T. Frelinghuysen, Secretary of State, 1881-85; John W. Griggs, Attorney-General, 1898-1901, and Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, 1913-1916, Having done so well with the cabinet, New Jersey gave the nation her governor (Woodrow Wilson), in 1913, when on March 4th he began his four-year term as President of the United States.

The population of New Jersey in 1790 was 184,139 and

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

OF THE

UNITED STATES.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operations till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for the naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitutions, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

The has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inev-Itably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are also absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as Free and Independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which Independent States may of right do. And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

CONSTITUTION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.*

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

LEGISLATIVE POWERS.

Section I.

All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Section II.

1. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States; and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

MEMBERS' QUALIFICATIONS.

2. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

RULE OF APPORTIONING REPRESENTATIVES AND DIRECT TAXES.

3. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three,

^{*}This Constitution went into operation on the first Wednesday in March, 1789.

FILLING OF VACANCIES.

4. When vacancies happen in the representation of any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

OFFICERS-IMPEACHMENT.

5. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SENATE-HOW COMPOSED.

Section III.

 The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years, and each senator shall have one vote.

ROTATION OF SENATORS.

2. Immediately after they shall be assembled, in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. And if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

THEIR QUALIFICATIONS.

3. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

4. The Vice-President of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

SENATE OFFICERS.

5. The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

THE SENATE'S POWERS.

6. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside. And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

7. Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment according to law.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS-HOW ELECTED.

Section IV.

1. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State, by the legislature thereof; but the congress may, at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

WHEN CONGRESS SHALL MEET.

2. Congress shall assemble at least once in every year; and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF EACH HOUSE.

Section V.

1. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

RULES, &C.

2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

JOURNALS.

3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of each house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

ADJOURNMENT.

4. Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

COMPENSATION, PRIVILEGES AND INCAPACITIES.

Section VI.

1. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

APPOINTMENT TO OFFICE.

2. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

REVENUE BILLS.

Section VII.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

PASSING BILLS, &C.

2. Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ORDERS AND RESOLUTIONS.

3. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on the question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

POWERS OF CONGRESS.

Section VIII.

The congress shall have power:

1. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense, and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

- 2. To borrow money on the credit of United States;
- 3. To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes;
- 4. To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies, throughout the United States;
- 5. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coins, and fix the standard of weights and measures;
- 6. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;
 - 7. To establish post offices and post roads;
- 8. To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing, for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;
 - 9. To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court:
- 10. To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;
- 11. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;
- 12. To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years:
 - 13. To provide and maintain a navy;
- 14. To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;
- 15. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;
- 16. To provide for organizinz, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States, respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress;
- 17. To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square), as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards and other needful buildings; and—
 - 18. To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper, for carrying into execution the foregoing powers and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

LIMITATIONS OF THE POWERS OF CONGRESS.

Section IX.

1. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the congress, prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

2. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless, when in cases of rebellion or invasion.

the public safety may require it.

3. No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law shall be passed.

4. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

5. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State. No preference shall be given, by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State, be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

6. No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

7. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign State.

LIMITATIONS OF THE POWERS OF INDI-VIDUAL STATES.

Section X.

1. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts; or grant any title of nobility.

2. No State shall, without the consent of the congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress.

3. No State shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit delay.

ARTICLE II.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

Section I.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

HOW ELECTED.

2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

ELECTORAL COLLEGES.

3. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot, for two persons, of whom one, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot, one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors, shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the Vice-President. [See XIIth amendment.]

4. The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their wates, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

WHO MAY BE ELECTED PRESIDENT.

5. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. [See XIIth amendment.]

ON THE DEATH, REMOVAL, &C., OF THE PRESI-DENT, THE POWERS AND DUTIES DE-VOLVE UPON THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

6. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

COMPENSATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

7. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive, within that period, any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

8. Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

THE OATH.

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

POWERS, &C., OF THE PRESIDENT.

Section II.

1. The Fresident shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

TREATIES, AMBASSADORS, &C.

2. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint, ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of department.

APPOINTING POWER.

3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.

Section III.

He shall, from time to time, give to the congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

IMPEACHMENT, &C.

Section IV.

The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

THE JUDICIAL POWER.

Section I.

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their service a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

EXTENT OF THE JUDICIAL POWER.

(See Amendments, Art. XI.)

Section II.

1. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, or other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

ORIGINAL AND APPELLATE JURISDICTION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

TRIALS FOR CRIMES.

3. The trials of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

TREASON-WHAT AND HOW PUNISHED.

Section III.

1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

2. The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

ACTS, RECORDS, &C., OF EACH STATE.

Section I.

Full faith and credit shall be given, in each State, to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

PRIVILEGES OF CITIZENS.

Section II.

1. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

2. A person charged in any State with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

SERVANTS. &C., TO BE SURRENDERED ON CLAIM.

3. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up, on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

HOW NEW STATES ARE ADMITTED.

Section III.

1. New States may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the congress.

THE DISPOSITION OF TERRITORIES.

2. The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

GUARANTY AND PROTECTION OF THE STATES BY THE UNION.

Section IV.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union, a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION— HOW MADE.

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution; or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year eighteen hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article, and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

FORMER DEBTS VALID.

Section T.

All debts contracted, and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

THE SUPREME LAW OF THE LAND.

Section II.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL OATH NO RELIGIOUS TEST. Section III.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

WHEN THE CONSTITUTION TO TAKE EFFECT.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in the convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names.

AMENDMENTS

TO THE CONSTITUTION of the United States, Ratified According to the Provisions of the Fifth Article of the Foregoing Constitution.

The following articles proposed by congress, in addition to and amendments of the constitution of the United States, having been ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the States, are become a part of the constitution.

First Congress, First Session, March 5th, 1789.

ARTICLE I.

RIGHT OF CONSCIENCE, FREEDOM OF THE PRESS, &C.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

OF THE MILITIA.

A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

OF QUARTERING SOLDIERS.

No soldier shall in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

OF UNREASONABLE SEARCHES AND SEIZURES.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

OF CRIMES AND INDICTMENTS.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger, nor shall any person be subject, for the same offense, to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself; nor to be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

OF CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII.

OF TRIAL BY JURY IN CIVIL CASES.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

OF BAILS, FINES AND PUNISHMENTS.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

RESERVED RIGHTS.

The enumeration in the constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others, retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

POWERS NOT DELEGATED RESERVED.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Third Congress, Second Session, December 2d, 1783.

ARTICLE XI.

THE JUDICIAL POWER-SEE ART. 3, SEC. 2.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit, in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States, by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign State.

Eighth Congress, First Session, October 17th, 1803,

ARTICLE XII.

HOW THE PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT ARE ELECTED.

The electors shall meet in their respective States,* and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name, in their ballots, the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed,† to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the sen ate; the president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates,* and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed. And if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President; but in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from twothirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice; and if the house of representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of a choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President, shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII.

SLAVERY ABOLISHED—13TH AMENDMENT, PASSED 1865.

Section I.

Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

Section II.

Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

^{*}On the 2d Wednesday in February, by the same act.

CITIZENS AND THEIR RIGHTS-14TH AMENDMENT.

Section I.

All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the State wherein they restde. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States. Nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

APPORTIONMENT OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Section II.

Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective number, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed; but whenever the right to vote at any election for electors of President and Vice-President, or for United States representatives in congress, executive and judicial officers, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

DISABILITY OF PERSONS ENGAGED IN THE REBELLION.

Section III.

No person shall be a senator or representative in congress, elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State to support the constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; but congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each house, remove such disability.

VALIDITY OF PUBLIC DEBT NOT TO BE QUESTIONED.

Section IV.

The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for the payment of pensions and bounties for service in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned, but neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave, but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Section V.

The congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XV.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE NOT TO BE IMPAIRED.

Section I.

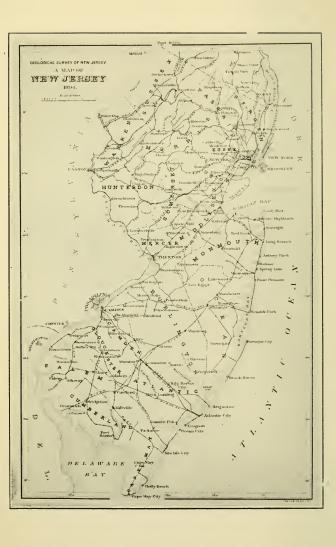

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Section II.

The congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The fifteenth amendment passed at the Fortieth Congress.]

ARTICLE XVI.

POWER TO LAY AND COLLECT TAXES ON INCOMES.

The congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

ARTICLE XVII.

UNITED STATES SENATORS TO BE ELECTED BY THE PEOPLE.

The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for election of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.

Whenever vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies, provided that the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

STATE CONSTITUTION.

A CONSTITUTION agreed upon by the delegates of the people of New Jersey, in convention begun at Trenton on the fourteenth day of May, and continued to the twenty-ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, ratified by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1844, and amended at a special election held on the seventh day of September, A. D. 1875, and at another special election held on the twenty-eighth day of September, A. D. 1897.

We, the people of the State of New Jersey, grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this Constitution:

ARTICLE I.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people, and they have the right at all times to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

3. No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshiping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor, under any pretense whatever, to be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform.

- 4. There shall be no establishment of one religious sect in preference to another; no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and no person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principles.
- 5. Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.
- 6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the papers and things to be seized.
- 7. The right of a trial by jury shall remain inviolate; but the legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men.
- 8. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense.
- 9. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense, unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy; or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger.
- 10. No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offense. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or presumption great.
- 11. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.
- 12. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.
 - 13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in a manner prescribed by law.

14. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required, excessive fines shall not be imposed, and cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted.

16. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation; but land may be taken for public highways as heretofore, until the legislature shall direct compensation to be made.

17. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any action, or on any judgment founded upon contract, unless in cases of fraud; nor shall any person be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

18. The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives, and to petition for redress of grievances.

19. No county, city, borough, town, township or village shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit, to or in aid of any individual association or corporation, or become security for or be directly or indirectly the owner of any stock or bonds of any association or corporation.

20. No donation of land or appropriation of money shall be made by the State or any municipal corporation to or for the use of any society, association or corporation whatever.

21. This enumeration of rights and privileges shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

1. Every male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote five months, next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people; provided, that no person in the military, naval or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident in this State, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack, or military or naval place or station within this State; and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of a crime which now excludes him from being a witness unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector; and provided further, that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which, and the time and place at which, such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election districts in which they respectively reside.

2. The legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of the government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Section I.

1. The legislative power shall be Yested in a senate and general assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the senate who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election; and no person shall be a member of the general assembly who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either house of the legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected yearly and every year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; and the two houses shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election, at which time of meeting the legislative year shall commence; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the legislature.

Section II.

- 1. The senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the State, elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, for three years.
- 2. As soon as the senate shall meet after the first election to be held in pursuance of this constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year; of the second class at the expiration of the second year; and of the third class at the expiration of the third year, so that one class may be elected every year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

Section III.

1. The general assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, re spectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the general assembly shall be made by the legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

Section IV.

- 1. Each house shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the legislature, the writs may be issued by the governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.
- 2. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

3. Each house shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; and the year and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the iournal.

5. Neither house, during the session of the legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each house, before the final passage thereof; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present and agreeing thereto; and the yeas and nays of the members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

17. Members of the senate and general assembly shall receive annually the sum of five hundred dollars during the time for which they shall have been elected and while they shall hold their office, and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever, The president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation, equal to one-third of their allowance as members.

8. Members of the senate and general assembly shall, in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place. Section V.

1. No member of the senate or general assembly shall.

during the time for which he was elected, be nominated or appointed by the governor, or by the legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this State which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time.

2. If any member of the senate or general assembly shall be elected to represent this State in the senate or house of representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the legislature of this State shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the supreme court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this State, shall be entitled to a seat either in the senate or in the general assembly; but, on being elected and taking his seat his office shall be considered vacant; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States shall be entitled to a seat in either house.

Section VI.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of assembly; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but for appropriations made by law.

3. The credit of the State shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for purposes of war, or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by a law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrepealable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be, deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

Section VII.

1. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by the legislature or otherwise in this State, and no ticket in any lottery shall be bought or sold within this State, nor shall pool-selling, book-making or gambling of any kind be authorized or allowed within this State, nor shall any gambling device, practice or game of chance now prohibited by law be legalized, or the remedy, penalty or punishment now provided therefor be in any way diminished.

3. The legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title. No law shall be revived or amended by reference to its title only; but the act revived, or the section or sections amended, shall be inserted at length. No general law shall embrace any provision of a private, special or local character. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of the act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

5. The laws of this State shall begin in the following style: "Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey."

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock and other property which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested and remain a perpetual fund; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public free schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the State; and it shall not be competent for the legislature to borrow, appropriate or use the said fund. or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretense whatever. The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in this State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

7. No private or special law shall be passed authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors, or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. Individuals or private corporations shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

9. No private, special or local bill shall be passed unless public notice of the intention to apply therefor, and of the general object thereof, shall have been previously given. The legislature, at the next session after the adoption hereof, and from time to time thereafter, shall prescribe the time and mode of giving such notice, the evidence thereof, and how such evidence shall be preserved.

10. The legislature may vest in the circuit courts, or courts of common pleas within the several counties of this State, chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages and sale of mortgaged premises.

11. The legislature shall not pass private, local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases; that is to say:

Laying out, opening, altering and working roads or highways.

Vacating any road, town plot, street, alley or public grounds.

Regulating the internal affairs of towns and counties; appointing local offices or commissions to regulate municipal affairs.

Selecting, drawing, summoning or empaneling grand or petit jurors.

Creating, increasing or decreasing the percentage or allowance of public officers during the term for which said officers were elected or appointed.

Changing the law of descent.

Granting to any corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

Granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks.

Providing for changes of venue in civil or criminal cases.

Providing for the management and support of free public schools.

The legislature shall pass general laws providing for the cases enumerated in this paragraph, and for all other cases which, in its judgment, may be provided for by general laws. The legislature shall pass no special act conferring corporate powers, but they shall pass general laws under which corporations may be organized and corporate powers of every nature obtained, subject, nevertheless, to repeal or alteration at the will of the legislature.

12. Property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws, and by uniform rules, according to its true value.

Section VIII.

1. Members of the legislature shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear [or affirm, as the case may be,] that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator [or member of the general assembly, as the case may be,] according to the best of my ability."

And members-elect of the senate or general assembly are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

2. Every officer of the legislature shall, before he enters upon his duties, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly promise and swear [or affirm] that I will faithfully, impartially and justly perform all the duties of the office of ———, to the best of my ability and understanding; that I will carefully preserve all records, papers, writings or property intrusted to me for safe-keeping by virtue of my office, and make such disposition of the same as may be required by law."

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor.

2. The governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this State. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the governor; but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen governor by the vote of a majority of the members of both houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be determined in such manner as the legislature shall direct by law. When a governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and at the places where the people shall respectively vote for members of the legislature.

3. The governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter; and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired; and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the governor during the last week of his said term.

4. The governor shall be not less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State seven years next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States cr of this State.

5. The governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.

6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the State; he shall have power to convene the legislature, or the senate alone, whenever in his opinion public necessity requires it; he shall communicate by message to the legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the State, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both houses shall be presented to the governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house" in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it: if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered. and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that house, it shall become a law; but in neither house shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items while approving of the other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated, a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section in relation to bills not approved by the governor shall apply to cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

8. No member of congress, or person holding an office under the United States, or this State, shall exercise the office of governor; and in case the governor, or person administering the government shall accept any office under the United States or this State, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant. Nor shall he be elected by the legislature to any office under the government of this State or of the United States, during the term for which he shall nave been elected governor.

9. The governor, or person administering the government, shall have power to suspend the collection of fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, to extend until the expiration of a time not exceeding ninety days after conviction; but this power shall not extend to cases of impeachment.

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor, and the six judges of the court of errors and appeals, or a major part of them, of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

11. The governor and all other civil officers under this State shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office during their continuance in office, and for two years thereafter.

12. In case of the death, resignation or removal from office of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate, and in case of his death, resignation or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly, for the time being, until another governor shall be elected and qualified; but in such case another governor shall be chosen at the next election for members of the legislature, unless such death, resignation or removal shall occur within thirty days immediately preceding such next election, in which case a governor shall be chosen at the second succeeding election for members of the legislature. When a vacancy happens, during the recess of the legislature, in any office which is to be filled by the governor and senate, or by the legislature in joint meeting, the governor shall fill such vacancy and the commission shall expire at the end of the next session of the legislature, unless a successor shall be sooner appointed; when a vacancy happens in the office of clerk or surrogate of any county, the governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire when a successor is elected and qualified. No person who shall have been nominated to the senate by the governor for any office of trust or profit under the government of this State, and shall not have been confirmed before the recess of the legislature, shall be eligible for appointment to such office during the continuance of such recess.

13. In case of the impeachment of the governor, his absence from the State or inability to discharge the duties of his office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate; and in case of his death, resignation or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly for the time being, until the governor, absent or impeached, shall return or be acquitted, or until the disqualification or inability shall cease, or until a new governor be elected and qualified.

14. In case of a vacancy in the office of governor from any other cause than those herein enumerated, or in case of the death of the governor-elect before he is qualified into office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate or speaker of the house of assembly, as above provided for, until a new governor be elected and qualified.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIARY.

Section I.

1. The judicial power shall be vested in a court of errors and appeals in the last resort in all causes as heretofore; a court for the trial of impeachments; a court of chancery;

a prerogative court; a supreme court; circuit courts, and such inferior courts as now exist, and as may be hereafter ordained and established by law; which inferior courts the legislature may alter or abolish, as the public good shall require.

Section II.

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of the chancellor, the justices of the supreme court, and six judges, or a major part of them; which judges are to be appointed for six years.

2. Immediately after the court shall first assemble, the six judges shall arrange themselves in such manner that the seat of one of them shall be vacated every year, in order that thereafter one judge may be annually appointed.

3. Such of the six judges as shall attend the court shall receive, respectively, a per diem compensation, to be provided by law.

4. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

5. When an appeal from an order or decree shall be heard, the chancellor shall inform the court, in writing, of the reasons for his order or decree; but he shall not sit as a member, or have a voice in the hearing or final sentence.

6. When a writ of error shall be brought, no justice who has given a judicial opinion in the cause in favor of or against any error complained of, shall sit as a member, or have a voice on the hearing, or for its affirmance or reversal; but the reasons for such opinion shall be assigned to the court in writing.

Section III.

1. The house of assembly shall have the sole power of impeaching, by a vote of a majority of all the members; and all impeachments shall be tried by the senate; the members, when sitting for that purpose, to be on oath or affirmation "truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question according to evidence;" and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of the senate.

2. Any judicial officer impeached shall be suspended from exercising his office until his acquittal.

3. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend farther than to removal from office, and to disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, profit or trust under this State; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable to indictment, trial and punishment according to law.

4. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

Section IV.

- 1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor.
- 2. The chancellor shall be the ordinary or surrogate general, and judge of the prerogative court.
- 3. All persons aggrieved by any order, sentence or decree of the orphans' court, may appeal from the same, or from any part thereof to the prerogative court; but such order, sentence or decree shall not be removed into the supreme court, or circuit court if the subject-matter thereof be within the jurisdiction of the orphans' court.
- 4. The secretary of state shall be the register of the prerogative court, and shall perform the duties required of him by law in that respect.

Section V.

- The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and four associate justices. The number of associate justices may be increased or decreased by law, but shall never be less than two.
- 2. The circuit courts shall be held in every county of this State, by one or more of the justices of the supreme court, or a judge appointed for that purpose, and shall, in all cases within the county except in those of a criminal nature, have common law jurisdiction, concurrent with the supreme court; and any final judgment of a circuit court may be docketed in the supreme court, and shall operate as a judgment obtained in the supreme court from the time of such docketing.
- 3. Final judgments in any circuit court may be brought by writ of error into the supreme court, or directly into the court of errors and appeals.

Section VI.

- 1. There shall be no more than five judges of the inferior court of common pleas in each of the counties in this State, after the terms of the judges of said court now in office shall terminate. One judge for each county shall be appointed every year, and no more, except to fill vacancies, which shall be for the unexpired term only.
- 2. The commissions for the first appointments of judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April next; and all subsequent commissions for judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April in every successive year, except commissions to fill vacancies, which shall bear date and take effect when issued.

Section VII.

- 1. There may be elected under this constitution two, and not more than five, justices of the peace in each of the townships of the several counties of this State, and in each of the wards, in cities that may vote in wards. When a township or ward contains two thousand inhabitants or less, it may have two justices; when it contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and not more than four thousand, it may have four justices; and when it contains more than four thousand inhabitants, it may have five justices; provided, that whenever any township not voting in wards contains more than seven thousand inhabitants, such township may have an additional justice for each additional three thousand inhabitants above four thousand.
- 2. The population of the townships in the several counties of the State and of the several wards shall be ascertained by the last preceding census of the United States, until the legislature shall provide, by law, some other mode of ascertaining it.

ARTICLE VII.

APPOINTING POWER AND TENURE OF OFFICE.

Section I.

MILITIA OFFICERS.

- 1. The legislature shall provide by law for enrolling, organizing and arming the militia.
- 2. Captains, subalterns and non-commissioned officers shall be elected by the members of their respective companies.
- 3. Field officers of regiments, independent battalions and squadrons shall be elected by the commissioned officers of their respective regiments, battalions or squadrons.
- 4. Brigadier-generals shall be elected by the field officers of their respective brigades.
- 5. Major-generals, the adjutant-general and quartermaster-general shall be nominated by the governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the senate.
- 6. The legislature shall provide, by law, the time and manner of electing militia officers, and of certifying their elections to the governor, who shall grant their commissions, and determine their rank, when not determined by law; and no commissioned officer shall be removed from office but by the sentence of a court-martial, pursuant to law.

7. In case the electors of subalterns, captains or field officers shall refuse or neglect to make such elections, the governor shall have power to appoint such officers, and to fill all vacancies caused by such refusal or neglect.

8. Brigade inspectors shall be chosen by the field officers of their respective brigades.

9. The governor shall appoint all militia officers whose appointment is not otherwise provided for in this constitution.

10. Major-generals, brigadier-generals and commanding officers of regiments, independent battalions and squadrons shall appoint the staff officers of their divisions, brigades, regiments, independent battalions and squadrons, respectively.

Section II.

CIVIL OFFICERS.

1. Justices of the supreme court, chancellor, judges of the court of errors and appeals and judges of the inferior court of common pleas shall be nominated by the governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the senate.

The justices of the supreme court and chancellor shall hold their offices for the term of seven years; shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointments; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this State or of the United States.

2. Judges of the courts of common pleas shall be appointed by the senate and general assembly, in joint meeting.

They shall hold their offices for five years; but when appointed to fill vacancies, they shall hold for the unexpired term only.

3. The state treasurer and comptroller shall be appointed by the senate and general assembly, in joint meeting.

They shall hold their offices for three years, and until their successors shall be qualified into office.

4. The attorney-general, prosecutors of the pleas, clerk of the supreme court, clerk of the court of chancery, secretary of state and the keeper of the state prison shall be nominated by the governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the senate.

They shall hold their offices for five years.

5. The law reporter shall be appointed by the justices of the supreme court, or a majority of them; and the chancery reporter shall be appointed by the chancellor.

They shall hold their offices for five years.

6. Clerks and surrogates of counties shall be elected by the people of their respective counties, at the annual elections for members of the general assembly.

They shall hold their offices for five years.

7. Sheriffs and coroners shall be elected by the people of their respective counties, at the elections for members of the general assembly, and they shall hold their offices for three years, after which three years must elapse before they can be again capable of serving. Sheriffs shall annually renew their bonds.

8. Justices of the peace shall be elected by ballot at the annual meetings of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the wards in cities that may vote in wards, in such manner and under such regulations as may be hereafter provided by law.

They shall be commissioned for the county, and their commissions shall bear date and take effect on the first day of May next after their election.

They shall hold their offices for five years; but when elected to fill vacancies, they shall hold for the unexpired term only; provided, that the commission of any justice of the peace shall become vacant upon his ceasing to reside in the township in which he was elected.

The first election for justices of the peace shall take place at the next annual town-meetings of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the wards in cities that may vote in wards.

9. All other officers, whose appointments are not otherwise provided for by law, shall be nominated by the governor, and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the senate; and shall hold their offices for the time prescribed by law.

10. All civil officers elected or appointed pursuant to the provisions of this constitution, shall be commissioned by the governor.

11. The term of office of all officers elected or appointed, pursuant to the provisions of this constitution, except when herein otherwise directed, shall commence on the day of the date of their respective commissions; but no commission for any office shall bear date prior to the expiration of the term of the incumbent of said office.

ARTICLE VIII.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1. The secretary of state shall be ex officio an auditor of the accounts of the treasurer, and as such, it shall be his duty to assist the legislature in the annual examination and settlement of said accounts, until otherwise provided by law.

2. The seal of the State shall be kept by the governor, or person administering the government, and used by him officially, and shall be called the great seal of the State of New Jersey.

4. This constitution shall take effect and go into operation on the second day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four.

AMENDMENTS.

Any specific amendment or amendments to the constitution may be proposed in the senate or general assembly, and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature then next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to making such choice, in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein; and if in the legislature next chosen as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments, or any of them, shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house, then it shall be the duty of the legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments, or such of them as may have been agreed to as aforesaid by the two legislatures, to the people, in such manner and at such time, at least four months after the adjournment of the legislature, as the legislature shall prescribe; and if the people at a special election to be held for that purpose only, shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments, or any of them, by a majority of the electors qualified to vote for members of the legislature voting thereon, such amendment or amendments so approved and ratified shall become part of the constitution; provided, that if more than one amendment be submitted, they shall be submitted in such manner and form that the people may vote for or against each amendment separately and distinctly; but no amendment or amendments shall be submitted to the people by the legislature oftener than once in five years.

ARTICLE X.

SCHEDULE.

That no inconvenience may arise from the change in the constitution of this State, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared and ordained, that—

- 1. The common law and statute laws now in force, not repugnant to this constitution, shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation, or be altered or repealed by the legislature; and all writs, actions, causes of action, prosecutions, contracts, claims and rights of individuals and of bodies corporate, and of the State, and all charters of incorporation, shall continue, and all indictments which shall have been found, or which may hereafter be found, for any crime or offense committed before the adoption of this constitution, may be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place. The several courts of law and equity, except as herein otherwise provided, shall continue with the like powers and jurisdiction as if this constitution had not been adopted.
- 2. All officers now filling any office or appointment shall continue in the exercise of the duties thereof, according to their respective commissions or appointments, unless by this constitution it is otherwise directed.
- 3. The present governor, chancellor and ordinary or surrogate-general and treasurer shall continue in office until successors elected or appointed under this constitution shall be sworn or affirmed into office.
 - 4. In case of the death, resignation or disability of the present governor, the person who may be vice-president of council at the time of the adoption of this constitution shall continue in office and administer the government until a governor shall have been elected and sworn or affirmed into office under this constitution.

5. The present governor, or in case of his death or inability to act, the vice-president of council, together with the present members of the legislative council and secretary of state, shall constitute a board of state canvassers, in the manner now provided by law, for the purpose of ascertaining and declaring the result of the next ensuing election for governor, members of the house of representatives, and electors of president and vice-president.

6. The returns of the votes for governor, at the said next ensuing election, shall be transmitted to the secretary of state, the votes counted, and the election declared in the manner now provided by law in the case of the election of electors of president and vice-president.

7. The election of clerks and surrogates, in those counties where the term of office of the present incumbent shall expire previous to the general election of eighteen hundred and forty-five, shall be held at the general election next ensuing the adoption of this constitution; the result of which election shall be ascertained in the manner now provided by law for the election of sheriffs.

8. The elections for the year eighteen hundred and forty-four shall take place as now provided by law.

9. It shall be the duty of the governor to fill all vacancies in office happening between the adoption of this constitution and the first session of the senate, and not otherwise provided for, and the commissions shall expire at the end of the first session of the senate, or when successors shall be elected or appointed and qualified.

10. The restriction of the pay of members of the legislature, after forty days from the commencement of the session, shall not be applied to the first legislature convened under this constitution.

11. Clerks of counties shall be clerks of the inferior courts of common pleas and quarter sessions of the several counties, and perform the duties, and be subject to the regulations now required of them by law until otherwise ordained by the legislature.

12. The legislature shall pass all laws necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this constitution.

State of New Jersey:

I, George Wurts, Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of the Constitution of the State of New Jersey as amended, as the same is taken from and compared with the original Constitution and amendments thereto, now remaining on file in my office.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, this twenty-sixth day of October, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-sever GEORGE WURTS.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

This edifice, a massive structure, erected at sundry times and added to at various periods, is located on West State street, near Willow street. The grounds have a frontage of 425 feet on State street and extend southerly a distance of about 700 feet to the Delaware river. The original plot, up to the year 1910, had a frontage of 310 feet, extended back in a parallelogram and embraced about 3½ acres.

The seat of Government was fixed at Trenton by an act of the Legislature, approved November 25th, 1790. James Cooper, Thomas Lowery, James Ewing, Maskell Ewing, George Anderson, James Mott and Moore Furman were appointed commissioners to select, purchase or accept so much land as was needed, and to erect thereon suitable buildings for the use of the Legislature. They purchased a site, containing about three and three-quarters acres-a frontage on Second street (now West State street) of 247 feet and 6 inches, and a depth from the front to low water line of the Delaware river of 666 feet-at a cost of £250 5s. The old State House was a plain, bare-looking, rough-cast building, and was erected at a cost of £3,992 3s. 1/2 d. By an act of March 4th, 1795, a building was erected to serve as an office for the Secretary of State, and for the preservation of the public records, at a cost of £620 19s. 10d. Numerous improvements and repairs were made, and on March 3d, 1806, an act was passed appointing commissioners to make certain repairs to the State House, to provide and hang a suitable bell, &c. This was done, and the bell was used for informing the members of both houses, as well as the courts, of the hour of meeting. The bell was eventually discarded, and an American flag substituted, which waves from the building unto this day, when the Legislature is in session, and upon holidays and State occasions. In 1848, the State House was altered by the removal of the rough-casting, and changing the style of the front by placing neat porticoes over the front and rear entrances, and erecting two additional buildings adjoining the main one, as offices for the Clerks of the Chancery and Supreme Courts. The rotunda was also erected, and the grounds fenced, graded, laid out and shade trees planted, all at a cost of $27,000. commissioners under whose direction the work was completed, were Samuel R. Gummere, Samuel R. Hamilton and Stacy A. Paxson. In 1863, '64 and '65, appropriations were expended in building additions for the State Library, Executive Chambers, &c. In 1871, Charles S. Olden, Thomas J. Stryker and Lewis Perrine were appointed commissioners to cause a suitable addition to be built-more commodious apartments for the Senate and Assembly, &c. The sum of $50,000 was appropriated, and the buildings for the Legislature were ready for occupancy in time for the meeting of the Legislature in 1872. In 1872, $120,000 was appropriated for completing the building, $3,000 for fitting up the Executive Chamber, $4,000 for fitting up the Chancery and Supreme Court rooms, and $2,000 for fitting up the offices on the first floor of the east wing. In 1873, the sum of $43,000 was appropriated for the improvement of the front of the building, completing unfinished repairs and improvements, and for fitting up the Library, &c. On March 18th, 1875, the sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purpose of putting a new three-story front to the building, and to fit up offices on the second floor for the Clerks of the Court of Chancery and Supreme Court, and for providing a suitable museum for geological specimens, and the battle-flags of New Jersey volunteer regiments, carried during the war of the Rebellion.

On March 21st, 1885, the front portion was destroyed by fire, and the Legislature appropriated $50,000 for rebuilding, and in 1886, an additional appropriation of $225,000 was granted.

The new building was finished in 1889. It is of rectangular shape and of the Renaissance style of architecture, with a frontage of one hundred and sixty feet on State street, a depth of sixty-seven feet, and three and a half stories high, with a rotunda thirty-nine feet across, which connects the new section of the Capitol with the original part. The rotunda is surmounted by a dome one hundred and forty-five feet high.

The building has about sixty feet more frontage than the former one, and approaches about ten feet nearer the street.

The walls are constructed of solid, fire-proof, brick masonry, faced with a light-colored stone from Indiana, known as Salem Oolitic, with foundations and trimmings of New Jersey free stone, from the Pralls-ville quarries, in Hunterdon county. The portico, doorhead and trimmings about the door are of the same material. The portico, with balcony, is supported by massive pillars of polished granite and surmounted by the coat of arms of the State.

The apartments used for offices are very spacious, fitted throughout in the most approved modern style, and each department is supplied with one or more of the finest fire-proof vaults. The first and second stories are set aside for offices, and the entire third story is used for the State Library. This front portion, including the dome, was designed and constructed under the plans and supervision of L. H. Broome, architect, of Jersey City.

The old State Library apartments have been improved and extended, and are now used as offices for the Attorney-General, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

In 1891, a new Assembly Chamber was erected. The old one was too small and poorly ventilated, and besides, there was a lack of suitable committee rooms. The Legislature of 1891 passed a Joint Resolution, which was approved on March 20th, authorizing the Governor "to provide a suitable chamber and committee rooms for the use of the General Assembly of this State," &c., and also, "to make such additions and alterations as will afford the necessary accommodations for the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, or for other State offices, and sufficient money is hereby appropriated for that purpose, to be paid by the Treasurer of this State on the warrant of the Comptroller, after approval by the Governor."

The new chamber was built by James W. Lanning, of Trenton, from plans prepared by James Moylan, of Jersey City, and under the superintendency of Bernard J. Ford of Newark. It covers the site of the former chamber, and extends beyond it to Delaware street on the east and to the water power on the south. It has a frontage on Delaware street of 120 feet and a depth of 75 feet.

The exterior finish and design of the building are similar to the adjoining portion of the Capitol. The foundation is of brown stone, from the Stockton quarries, and the trimmings of light Indiana stone. The interior is finished in Trenton tile, quartered oak and Italian statuary marble. It is a fire-proof building throughout, and is specially ventilated. The committee rooms are ample and convenient, and the interior design arrangement and finish make it a model legislative chamber. It cost the State $140,500. The cost of the steam heating and ventilating systems was about $25,000.

The other new addition to the Capitol provides a consultation room for the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors and Appeals and a private room for the Governor, a room for the Museum of the Geological Survey, and other offices, and cost $34,500.

Two Otis elevators have been placed in the building, which gives easy access to all the upper floors.

In 1900 the Legislature appropriated $96,000 for additions and alterations to the Capitol, which included the cost of an electric light plant.

A new Senate Chamber was erected in 1903, and was ready for occupancy in 1904, at a cost of about $182,-000. In 1904 about $60,000 was expended for other improvements in the Capitol. The architect was Arnold H. Moses. Merchantville.

Another addition was made to the Capitol in 1907 at a cost of about $100,000. It is a massive structure of a classical style of architecture and is finished in stucco to match the rest of the Capitol. It contains four stories above a deep basement. The construction is fire-proof, consisting of solid brick walls, steel beams and columns and concrete floors. The exterior is attractive with its classic lines and Indiana limestone trimmings. The structure was designed and all the plans drawn by George E. Poole, State Architect.

In 1911 the Legislature made an appropriation of $60,000 for the extension of the west wing of the front part of the building, and in 1912 $70,000 was appropriated for the extension of the east wing.

In 1910 and subsequent years to 1915, the State purchased Delaware street, the Green property which fronted on West State street, properties which fronted on Front and Willow streets and which extended to the old Water Power, now Sanhican creek, all of which embrace about the same area as the old State House site, 3½ acres, making a total of about 7 acres north of the creek.

The land across Sanhican creek, that has been acquired by the State, has been filled in to the river wall, is computed to be about 19 or 20 acres, making the sum total of the State's holdings about 26 acres. The river park has been laid out and completed by the State and the city of Trenton, the area of which is about 40 acres. The old Revolutionary Barracks and the old Masonic Temple have been preserved on the park grounds. The State park contains about 19 acres, is an up-to-date enterprise and presents a most beautiful and attractive appearance. The cost of all the improvements was about $400,000.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

This valuable collection of books is located on the third floor of the State Capitol. The old saying, "Great oaks from little acorns grow," most appropriately applies to this institution.

The first library of the State was a case ordered to be procured by Maskell Ewing, Clerk of the House of Assembly, for the keeping and preservation of such books as belonged to the Legislature. It was ordered by a resolution passed March 18th, 1796. This was the nucleus of the present extensive library. On February 18th, 1804, William Coxe, of Burlington; Ezra Darby, of Essex, and John A. Scudder, of Monmouth, were appointed a Committee on Rules to make a catalogue; they reported that there were 168 volumes belonging to the State, and presented a code of seven rules, which was adopted. On February 10th, 1813, an act (the first one) was passed, entitled "An act concerning the State Library." Up to 1822 it appears that the Clerk of the House had charge of the books, as Librarian, and, on November 16th, 1822, an act was passed for the appointment of a State Librarian, annually, by joint meeting. In 1846, on April 10th, an act was passed making the term of office three years. The Law Library at that time belonged to the members of the Law Library Association. The only persons allowed the use of the Library were members of the Association, the Chancellor, and the judges of the several courts. Stacy G. Potts was Treasurer and Librarian of the Association. The Law Library was kept in the Supreme Court room until 1837, when the Legislature authorized the State Librarian to fit up a room adjoining the Library for the care and reception of the books and papers belonging to the State Library. Thus the two Libraries were consolidated. On March 13th, 1872, $5,000 per year for three years was appropriated for the Library by the Legislature, and by the act of March 15th, 1876, the sum of $2,500 was appropriated for finishing and refurnishing the Library room. In 1890, the Library was removed to the third story of the new part of the Capitol.

In 1904 the Legislature made a special appropriation of $15,000 for the installation of steel stacks, and the shelf-space was doubled. There is room now for more than 125,000 books and pamphlets. About the same time the decimal classification system was introduced and the work of making a modern card catalogue begun, which was practically finished in 1905.

THE STATE ARSENAL.

The building now used as the State Arsenal was formerly the old State Prison. It is situate on Second street, in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton, and has on its front the following inscription:

Labor, Silence, Penitence.
The Penitentiary House.
Erected by Legislative Authority.
Richard Howell, Governor.
In the XXII. Year of American Independence, MDCCXCVII.
That Those Who Are Feared For Their Crimes May Learn to Fear the Laws
And be Useful.
Hic Labor, Hoc Opus.

In the messages of Governors P. D. Vroom and S. L. Southard, recommending the erection of the new prison, it was proposed that the old one be converted into an Arsenal for the safe keeping of the arms and military property of the State, which, previous to that time, had been kept in the old State Bank, corner of Warren and Bank streets, with accoutrements and camp and garrison equipage at the State House. After the removal of the State convicts from the old prison, permission was given to the county of Mercer to occupy it as a jail until its jail, then in course of completion, was finished, and when it was again vacated it was converted into an arsenal.

Among the stores, &c., at the Arsenal are one bronze gun, French, of the date of 1758; two bronze guns, English, four-pounders, and two iron six-pounders. There is also one gun captured at the battle of Trenton, December 26th, 1776, and two guns captured at Yorktown, October 19th, 1781. There are also a large quantity of fire-arms, ammunition, ordnance, tents, clothing, blankets, &c.

STATE HOSPITAL.

Trenton.

This institution is located on the left bank of the Delaware River, about two miles northwest of the City Hall. The buildings are constructed of reddish sandstone, obtained from quarries near the hospital, and are located on an elevation of about seventy-five feet above the river. The front of the Main, or Administration Building, is ornamented by a handsome porch of Ionic architecture, designed by the celebrated Notman, from which may be obtained one of the finest landscape views in the State.

In 1844, after repeated and unsuccessful attempts to cause action to be taken by the Legislature for the building of a State institution for the special care and treatment of the insane, a commission was appointed, chiefly through the earnest efforts of Dr. Lyndon A. Smith, of Essex, and Dr. Lewis Condict, of Morris, and the eminent philanthropisc, Miss D. L. Dix, to select a site. An appropriation of $35,000 was made to purchase the land and to commence the erection of the building. The present site was selected by the commissioners from among many that were offered in various sections of the State, because of the large spring of excellent water found on the place. This spring was developed, and furnished a daily supply of about one-half million of gallons of pure water for many years. In the severe drought of 1880 the supply was greatly diminished, falling off nearly two hundred and fifty thousand gallons. In 1907 the city sewer, running about 200 feet from the spring, burst or overflowed, and this caused contamination of the water supply, resulting in a typhoid epidemic, so that it was necessary to discontinue the use of the spring. At present the hospital is supplied with water by six artesian wells, one of which gives 150 gallons of water per minute. The spring has been filled up, and thus an important landmark destroyed.

Work was commenced on the main building in November of 1845, and the hospital was opened for the reception of patients on the 15th day of May, 1848. Numerous additions have been made from time to time to the building, increasing its capacity.

In 1887 the Legislature passed an act appropriating $100,000 for providing additional accommodations. The new building is a handsome structure of red sandstone, and similar to that used in the main building. This is five hundred feet long, three stories in height, and capable of accommodating three hundred patients. one hundred and fifty of each. The building is designed to accommodate the chronic incurable class, and was a great relief from the overcrowded state that existed in the main building prior to its completion. The building was completed within the appropriation, and opened for the reception of patients in the month of October, 1889.

Much has been done for the comfort and pleasure of the patients. A greenhouse has been erected for the purpose of furnishing plants and flowers for the patients' corridors, handsome pictures adorn walls, and everything about the hospital presents a comfortable and homelike appearance.

The institution possesses a library, one of the largest, if not the largest, in this country, connected with a hospital for the insane. The books are accessible to all members of the household. They have been freely used, and do much to relieve the monotony of many an hour of hospital life. The library now consists of about 4,000 volumes, and is the result of the bequest of a former nurse (Anne Robinson) who, by will, bequeathed her earnings for several years as a nurse and attendant in this hospital. She made the bequest, as she herself expressed it when making her will, for the purpose of purchasing books to be used for the pleasure and benefit of those to whom she had, for so many years, endeavored to minister.

During the year 1898 a handsome amusement room, capable of seating about four hundred, was finished; also, a large and commodious chapel, in which religious exercises are held every Sunday, when various clergymen, without regard to denominational preference, officiate. The new chapel is capable of seating about five hundred patients. In 1904-1905 an appropriation of $250,000 was made for the erection of two additional wings to the annex building, which will accommodate 400 more patients. In 1905 the Legislature appropriated $12,500 for the construction of fire escapes.

A few years ago a modern laboratory building was erected, and at the present time is fully equipped for scientific work.

In 1907 the new wings, spoken of above, were opened for the reception of patients, so that now the hospital is not overcrowded.

In 1908 the Legislature appropriated $111,000 for extraordinary improvements, which included installation of modern plumbing throughout the buildings, also tiling for toilet rooms, water sections, etc.

Two buildings for tuberculosis patients, male and female, have been erected, and will accommodate twenty-five, each known as the "open air" ward.

Since January 1st, 1908, there has been no mechanical restraint of any kind used in the hospital. All restraint apparatus, chairs, straight jackets, straps, etc., have been removed from the hospital building, and are stored away where no one can get at them.

During the year 1909 the plumbing and tiling of the old building was completed, and the sanitary arrangements for the hospital have been considered by those competent to judge, to be the best of any public institution of this character.

In both the male and female departments a hydrotherapeutic apparatus has been installed for giving the continuous bath treatment. This apparatus was made especially for the hospital, and has given satisfactory service in the treatment of acutely excited cases.

The Legislature of 1911 appropriated $103,000 for extraordinary improvements. Two farms in the neighborhood of Trenton Junction have been purchased, which will add 250 acres of farm land to the hospital. A new laundry has been erected and equipped with modern machinery, at a cost of $30,000.

The Legislature appropriated $2,800 for research work, which enables the hospital to employ two trained field workers who go out in the community and look up facts regarding the patients' heredity and personal history, which gives valuable information to the medical history. They also engage in "after care" work, i. e., in visiting discharged patients at certain intervals, investigating their condition, and reporting to the hospital any unusual conditions which have any bearing on the recurrence of mental disease. During the years 1910 and 1911 $5,000 has been spent for furniture for the wards. The Legislature of 1912 appropriated $165,000 for new buildings, including one for the criminal insane.

STATE HOSPITAL.

Morris Plains (P. O. Greystone Park).

Further provision for the accommodation of the insane being made necessary by the overcrowded condition of the State Hospital at Trenton, the Legislature of 1871 appointed a commission to select a site and build a hospital in the northern part of the State.

At a cost of $78,732.36 a tract of 408 acres of land, beautifully situated in the hills of Morris County, was purchased and work on the hospital buildings begun.

Additional tracts of land have since been purchased at a cost of $32,318.00, making a total of 897 acres, at a total cost of $111,050. The original building, now known as the "Main Building," was erected, at a cost of $2,511,622. The "Dormitory Building" and a new reservoir, made necessary by its construction, cost, when completed, about $650,000; a new laundry building, $18,200; the nurses' cottage, $20,000, and in 1907 the annual appraisement placed the personal property of the hospital at $294,709, thus making the total cost of the entire plant approximately $3,605,581.

The location is ideal for an institution caring for the mentally afflicted, and is unsurpassed in this particular by any similar institution in the United States. The buildings command a magnificent view of the surrounding country, and the air is cool and balmy in Summer and crisp and stimulating in Winter.

The main building, opened in 1876, is four stories in height, 1,243 feet in length, 542 in depth, and has ten acres of floor space. It contains the executive offices, receptions rooms, medical library, chapel, amusement hall and forty wards, which, when crowded to their full capacity, will accommodate 1,200 patients.

In 1901 the dormitory building was completed. It is situated 1,200 feet in the rear of the main building, accommodates 600 patients, and is constructed on the day room and dormitory plan. On the fourth floor of the building are well-equipped pathological and chemical laboratories, five splendidly-lighted rooms on the top floor of the northeast tower being devoted to this work. The laboratories have been well equipped with many of the latest and best instruments for the prosecution of scientific, clinical and research work. and have proved to be a highly important adjunct to the purely psychiatric work of the hospital.

A cottage for nurses was built in 1906. three-story brick building, trimmed with sandstone, and is situated in front and to the south of the main group of buildings. It is within easy access of the female wards, and affords sleeping quarters for forty female nurses, who formerly, after working daily fifteen hours with the insane, were compelled to spend their nights in the wards, in close proximity to noisy and disturbed patients. In addition to furnishing accommodation for the night, the cottage has a reception room and library, where the nurses may spend their time when off duty.

In order to give the hospital a better mail service, the United States government, on March 23, 1908, established a new post office in the main building of the hospital, and named it Greystone Park. The mail matter of the institution was formerly handled at Morris Plains post office, which is one and one-half miles from the building.

The Legislature of 1911 appropriated $15,000 for the erection of a new fire house. This fire house provides stabling quarters for two horses and sleeping room for twenty male employes who are always to be members of the fire department.

The same Legislature appropriated $40,000 for the erection of a male nurses' home. This building accommodates seventy-six men nurses.

A cold storage plant has been added to the institution which produces five tons of ice per day and also provides a room for the storage of hospital food supplies.

The Legislature of 1911 made an appropriation of $15,000 for a dynamo and building, and there was also appropriated $10,000 for a building for the segregation of tubercular patients. The same Legislature also appropriated $8,000 for screening the windows of the main building and dormitory building.

The Legislature of 1912 appropriated $69,000 for new buildings and alterations.

A Training School for Nurses was established in 1894 and it has proved to be of great advantage to the hospital in the humane care and treatment of the insane. A graded three-years' course is given to the nurses and consists of lectures and practical demonstrations given by the medical staff in anatomy, physiology, materia medica and therapeutics, chemistry and toxicology, obstetrics and gynecology, genito-urinary diseases, practice of medicine, minor surgery, practical bedside nursing and bandaging. The course is compulsory upon all who are employed as attendants, and since the establishment of the school, 226 persons have been granted diplomas.

Further provision for the scientific treatment of patients has been made by the equipment of rooms, both in the male and in the female departments, with complete hydrotherapeutic apparatus and by the installation of electrotherapeutic appliances, and a powerful static machine in a room in the main building, convenient to both male and female departments.

A room has also been set apart and fully equipped with instruments and appliances for the examination and treatment of patients suffering from diseased conditions of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

The medical library contains over 1,300 volumes of carefully-selected text books and reference works on medical and other scientific subjects, together with well-bound volumes of the annual reports of every hospital for the insane in the United States, Canada, South American States and many of the countries in Europe.

Among the many improvements added in recent years is a new system of keeping case records. The complete record of each patient from the time he enters the hospital until he is discharged is kept in a separate envelope, filed vertically in steel cabinets especially constructed for the purpose. The files are thoroughly cross-indexed, which permits of needful information being rapidly and easily obtained in any given case.

Additional protection from fire has been provided by equipping the hospital with the Kirker-Bender type of fire escape. Fire drills are held at regular intervals so that the patients may become familiar with the location of the fire escapes and accustom themselves to their use so as to enable them in the event of fire to go through this means out of danger in an orderly and expeditious manner.

The hospital has equipped Dental Rooms with the latest and most modern appliances, thus enabling the Resident Dentist to do scientific work for the patients needing dental attention.

The Legislature of 1912 appropriated $15,000 for a storehouse in which all supplies are kept, and $8,000 was also appropriated for the construction of an industrial building which is equipped with apparatus and supplies of the manufacture of a great variety of hospital utilities.

The normal capacity of the institution is 1,600 patients. In 1914 there were 2,500 patients under care and treatment, being 900 over the normal capacity and increasing annually by about 100. Owing to this condition the percentage of recoveries must of necessity be small and the proper classification of the different psychoses is impossible.

STATE NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS

at Trenton.

These schools are located at the junction of Perry street and Clinton avenue. There are two buildings, the school building on the west side of Clinton avenue, and the boarding halls and dormitories, situated on the east side of the avenue. These schools were established in 1855 by an act of the Legislature. The purpose of the Normal School was defined to be "the training and education of its pupils in such branches of knowledge, and such methods of teaching and governing, as will qualify them for teachers of our common schools." The Model School was designed to be a place where "the pupils of the Normal School shall have opportunity to observe and practice the modes of instruction and discipline inculcated in the Normal School.

The Normal School offers to graduates of approved four year high schools the following courses: a two year general course; a two year kindergarten course; a two year domestic science course; a two year commercial course; a two year manual training course; a four year high school teachers' course, equivalent to a teachers' college course; an industrial arts teachers' course given in conjunction with the Trenton School of Industrial Arts. Special courses are offered in voice training, piano and violin, and electives in advanced work in a number of other branches.

The Model School begins with the kindergarten and includes a full secondary or high school curriculum. It offers three courses: The classical, Latin scientific and English.

The buildings are equipped with laboratories, gymnasium, and the modern appliances necessary to good work.

The following figures show the first cost to the State and the present valuation of the Normal School property. The first cost to the State has been supplemented from time to time by the contributions of private individuals, and by balances from the Boarding Hall receipts after meeting the annual expenses of the Hall,

The enrollments in 1855 were as follows: Normal School, 43; Model School, 125. For the year ending June 30th, 1916, these enrollments had increased to 682 in the Normal and 469 in the Model. During its history the Normal School has graduated 6,130 students.

The Principals of the schools have been as follows: William F. Phelps, A.M., October 1st, 1855, to March 15th, 1865; John S. Hart, LL.D., March 15th, 1865, to February 7th, 1871; Lewis M. MONTCLAIR STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, Upper Montclair, New Jersey.

The Montclair State Normal School is located in the extreme northern part of Montclair on a plot of more than twenty-five acres. By special act of the legislature, so much of this site as was originally in Passaic county was set over into Essex county.

A more beautiful or healthful site could not have been selected. The grounds have an elevation of 400 feet above sea level and command an uninterrupted view of a landscape of remarkable beauty. The Orange range stretches away to the right, while at the front and left the Passaic valley, the Hudson and the taller buildings of New York City are plainly visible.

The main school building, in the mission style, 334 feet long and 133 feet deep, of brick covered with white stucco, is situated on the highest part of the grounds, facing the New York landscape. In front is an esplanade 260 feet long and 44 feet wide, protected by a concrete wall from which steps descend to the lawn.

About 500 feet directly in front of the main school building, parallel to it and connected with it by a broad walk of brick, is the Russ Memorial Dormitory, the gift of the late Edward Russ of Hoboken.

This building, which was opened for the reception of students in September, 1915, is fireproof throughout and is designed in the Spanish Mission style, with white stucco exterior walls and red Spanish tile roof, to conform in character to the present Normal School building.

The dormitory accommodates 96 students, there being 52 single rooms and 22 double rooms. Each floor is provided with ample bath and toilet room facilities, and at each end of the hall, conveniently located, are two enclosed fireproof stairs extending from the top floor to the ground and giving ample exits.

The main floor is particularly well planned for the social requirements of a school. The living room at one end is 33 feet wide and 40 feet long, having at one end a reading room, 13 feet by 32 feet. This is elevated a few steps above the general level of the living room and is used as a reading room and as a stage for giving amateur plays. On one side of the living room is a large open fireplace, which adds much to the attractiveness of the room.

At the other end of the building is the large dining room, accommodating 110 persons. This is finished in old ivory tints and has an attractive fireplace at one side of the room.

The kitchen and serving rooms are up-to-date in every respect. They are arranged with a view to the best sanitary requirements and every convenience of a large kitchen has been installed.

On the first floor is located the matron's suite, which contains a living room and bedroom. There is also a reception room for visitors and a hospital room,

The basement contains store rooms, trunk rooms and a large and well-equipped laundry.

The sleeping rooms, both single and double, are equipped with comfortable and attractive furniture. Each student has a single iron bedstead and excellent mattress, a chiffonier, a desk, a commode, an easy chair and a straight chair. Each student has a separate closet for clothing.

The equipment of both school and dormitory is of the latest and best. The ample grounds have been graded and beautified by walks, drives and by the planting of many evergreens and shrubs.

Four tennis courts, a large athletic field called "The Bowl," a school garden of two acres and an extensive grove of fine trees sheltering a numerous bird life, give opportunity for outdoor games, athletic contests, field gymnastics, horticulture, kitchen garden, geography and nature study such as few institutions can offer.

The Montclair State Normal School opened for its first session September 15th, 1908, with an attendance of 187 pupils. Its present enrollment is 655. In the past six years, it has graduated 969 teachers. The principal is Dr. Charles S. Chapin, who has been at the head of the school since July 1st, 1908.

THE NEW JERSEY STATE NORMAL SCHOOL at Newark.

The new State School building is centrally located between Broad street and Belleville avenue, at the intersection of Fourth avenue, and occupies, including its spacious grounds, an entire city block. The architecture of the building is dignified as well as picturesque and is enhanced by the sunken garden, masses of bloom and hedges. The interior has been greatly admired for the beauty of its color scheme, its fine appointments and educational features. The building is equipped with an auditorium, gymnasium, laboratories, manual training shops, sewing rooms, art rooms and spacious, well-ventilated class rooms for normal work. Special features are the demonstration rooms with raised seats, lecture rooms, conference rooms, a fine library, study halls and a splendidly equipped kitchen and dining room. The building also has a modern system of heating, lighting and ventilating and excellent sanitary conditions.

This new building opened its doors under State control September 16th, 1913, with an enrollment of 450 students and a waiting list. It may be of interest to note that the school is so centrally located that only two students requested boarding places in the city of Newark. The trolley and railroad facilities are such that they can readily come and return to their homes. A dozen prominent high schools are within forty minutes of the school.

A large practice school is connected with the Normal where students are trained under actual school conditions and the aim is to graduate an efficient corps of teachers for the public schools of the State.

The Principal of the new State School is W. Spader Willis, who for fourteen years was Principal of the City Normal School at Newark.

THE STATE HOME FOR BOYS.

"The New Jersey State Reform School" was established by act of the Legislature approved April 6th, 1865. A farm of 490 acres was purchased for the purpose near Jamesburg, Middlesex county.

The first boy was received July 6th, 1867. Its first Superintendent was Rev. Luther H. Sheldon, who was in office from April 10th, 1867, till April 1st, 1874, and was succeeded by James H. Eastman, who was Superintendent from April 1st, 1874, till September 15th, 1884. Upon his withdrawal Ira Otterson was made acting Superintendent, and on December 10th, 1884, he was elected Superintendent. In 1902 Mr. Otterson was succeeded by John Wildes who, March 1, 1904, gave way to John C. Kalleen. In 1900 the name of The Reform School was changed to the State Home for Boys.

Since founding the school, beside the Administration building, there have been erected on the campus eight family buildings (two of them double buildings), capable of accommodating fifty boys each, a chapel, hospital, store and cook house, industrial building, electric light, heat and power, generating station and farm buildings, conservatory, up-to-date cow barn, piggery, all of brick, many of the buildings constructed with bricks manufactured by the boys on the place.

Besides domestic and farm labor, all boys are instructed in the rudiments of an English school education, and many receive instruction in shorthand and typewriting and in the different mechanical branches and band music.

In 1900 there was erected by boys' labor, under regular instructors, a building 40 by 100 feet, two stories high, in which are established schools for trade teaching. In 1910, in this building, a complete outfit of machinery consisting of a planer, mortiser, universal and band saw, and others necessary to make it complete was supplied. While in the past, so far as the accommodations would permit, a number of boys have received instruction in mechanical trades, and with the accommodations furnished in the new building, a greater number of boys receive a more thorough knowledge in lines of skilled handicraft, which will the better prepare them to become good citizens.

During 1910 the cow and dairy barn have been remodeled and rebuilt, and the Legislature of 1910 appropriated $40,000 with which to erect a central school building. The Legislature of 1912 appropriated $40,000 for the erection of a double cottage.

STATE HOME FOR GIRLS.

This institution is located on the line of the Trenton Branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, in the City of Trenton, near the Trenton State Hospital, and is located on a farm of about 79 acres of land. A substantial building was erected at a cost of $23,334, and other improvements since made bring the value of the place, with furniture, &c., up to $186,622. The value of the land is $16,700. Previous to the erection of the new building, the school was at "Pine Grove," in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton. This place had been leased so as to afford room for persons sentenced under the act of April 4th, 1871, and a subsequent act. The Legislature of 1900 appropriated $30,000 for the erection of an additional building. In 1900 and 1901 about $31,000 was spent for improvements and the Legislature of 1905 appropriated $36,000 for the erection of a new cottage and about $9,000 for various other improvements. On February 11th, 1910, a new administration building, named the "Fort Cottage," was formally opened. It is the counterpart of Washington's headquarters at Morristown, N. J., and had served as New Jersey headquarters at the Jamestown, Virginia, Exposition. It is most elaborately furnished with everything suggestive of the colonial period. A new cottage costing $25,000 was erected in 1911 and 1912 to house twenty-five little girls. The Legislature of 1912 appropriated $16,700 for the erection of an infirmary and barn.

The institution is for girls between the ages of ten and nineteen years who may be committed to it by the courts.

THE STATE PRISON.

The New Jersey State Prison, situated on the block enclosed by Federal, Third, Cass and Second streets, in the city of Trenton, is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Its erection was authorized by an act of the Legislature passed February 13th, 1832, and it was completed in the year 1836, having 150 cells, at a cost of $179,657,11. It was built of red sand-stone, from the Ewing quarries, and the style of its architecture is Egyptian, having four Egyptian columns in front of the main entrance, on Third street. It consists of a main building, used as a residence for the Keeper and as reception rooms and offices. From time to time the prison has been enlarged, and although there is not sufficient room to afford separate confinement for each prisoner, as required by law, the provisions of the act are carried out as far as possible. The rules and regulations now in force have brought the internal affairs of the institution, as to cleanliness, discipline, victualing, &c., to a much higher standard than was ever before reached, and a visit thereto will convince the visitor that the management is as perfect as can be.

Previous to the year 1798 there was no State Prison, and prisoners were confined in the county jails. On March 1st, 1797, Jonathan Doane was appointed by an act of the Legislature as an agent to purchase a lot of land from Peter Hunt, situate at Lamberton, containing six and a half acres, and to erect suitable buildings thereon. This was done at an expense of £9,842 0s. 3d., and what is now the State Arsenal, at Second and Cass streets, is the result. Solitary confinement was not practiced previous to 1836, in which year the old prison was vacated and the present one occupied.

On March 4th, 1847, $5,000 was appropriated to build an additional wing to the original building. On March 25th, 1852, $15,000 was granted for the erection of a new wing for hospital purposes. On March 22d, 1860, the sum of $17,000 was voted for the purpose of building an additional wing for cells, and on February 16th, 1861, a further sum of $2,243.01 was appropriated to complete the same. On April 16th, 1868, $6,000 was appropriated for the building of an additional wing to provide room for female convicts. An act passed April 2d, 1869, provided for the appointment of commissioners to extend the grounds of the prison to the wall of the State Arsenal, to build an additional wing and workshops, and made an appropriation of $50,000 for that purpose, and in the same month $9,734 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the wing of the female department. On April 4th, 1871, the sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the new or east wing, and on April 4th, 1872, a further sum of $28,700 was appropriated for the completion of the same. March 3d, 1874, $12,000 was voted for the construction of gas works for the supply of illuminating gas for the prison. On March 8th, 1877, the sum of $100,000 was appropriated for the enlargement of the prison and the purchase of a burial ground for deceased convicts. The north wing was remodeled out of this last appropriation and a burial ground purchased. The Legislature of 1895 appropriated $150,000 for the enlargement and improvement of the prison. The Legislature of 1899 appropriated $14,000 for alterations in the women's wing of the prison. In 1905 $250,000 was appropriated for the erection of a new wing, and it was finished in 1907. The addition, which is at the northeast corner of the institution, is one of the most complete in the United States. There are five tiers, each having seventy cells. The interior is wholly of steel and concrete. The cells are separated from the outer walls by a passageway for the keepers and the entire section of each tier is completely enclosed in a cage of steel. Thirty-five cells are controlled by a combination locking device, although any one cell door or a series of doors can be thrown open by a lever system from the end of the corridor where the locking device is located. Between the cell sections there is a narrow utility court from which the ventilation is controlled and where the sanitary parts can be reached without any necessity for going into the cells. Each cell has a steel cot, porcelain washstand and sanitary arrangement and is lighted by electricity. Special attention has been given to ventilation. A death house was also built on the prison grounds in 1907 to comply with the law regarding the electrocution of persons condemned to death.

THE NEW JERSEY HOME FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS.

This institution is located in Kearny, Hudson county. It originated in the mind of Governor Marcus L. Ward just before the close of the Civil War. His petition to the Legislatures of 1863-64 resulted in the passage of an act on April 12th, 1864, appointing himself, ex-Governors Daniel Haines, William A. Newell and Charles S. Olden, and Edwin A. Stevens and Rynear H. Veghte as commissioners to examine into and report on the subject. On February 1, 1865, they made their report to Governor Parker and the Legislature appropriated $50,000 for the desired purpose. Grounds were purchased in the city of Newark and in March, 1866, the same commissioners were appointed managers of the Home. The board appointed Colonel A. N. Dougherty, Commandant; Rev. Samuel T. Moore, Superintendent and Chaplain, and Dr. A. M. Mills, Surgeon, of the Home. It was opened for reception on July 4th, 1866. For twenty-two years the Home remained in Newark, when a new site was selected in Kearny. This comprises about sixteen acres and $225,000 was appropriated for the buildings, furnishings, &c. On October 4th. 1888, the old home was vacated and the new home occupied. The New Jersey Home is the parent of similar institutions throughout the country. In order to gain admission to the Home the applicant must have served in the army, navy or marine service and been honorably discharged therefrom. He must have lived in the State for at least two years next preceding date of application, or have served in a New Jersey organization, and must be unable to earn a living for himself by manual labor. Since 1888 various additions have been made.

NEW JERSEY HOME FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS, SAILORS OR MARINES AND THEIR WIVES.

Vineland.

This Home was organized in 1898, the sum of $5,000 haring been appropriated for the purpose. A plot of ground, comprising 20 acres, and a building containing about 75 rooms and basement, situated in the town of Vineland, were purchased for a Home, and in 1899 an additional appropriation of $21,500 was made to pay for the property. In the same year the sum of $20,000 was appropriated for altering, repairing and furnishing the buildings. In 1900 a special appropriation of $13,000 was made for new floors, porches, laundry machinery, engine and boiler and furniture. The Home was opened in December, 1899, for the admission of inmates and the first were admitted January 2d, 1900. In 1901 the sum of $7,700 was appropriated for an elevator, alterations and appliances, making the cost of building and land $67,200. In 1903 nine acres of additional land was purchased at a cost of $2,000 and the same year an act was passed by the Legislature providing for the care and maintenance of widows of veterns, and the sum of $28,000 was appropriated for the construction and furnishing of buildings necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. An additional sum of $2,500 was appropriated for extra work and the building was completed and ready for occupancy in July, 1904. Since then two new wings, each eighty feet long and containing some 120 rooms, have been added, and a separate boiler house in the rear of the main buildings erected. A new heating and lighting plant has been installed, and other marked improvements for the care and comforts of the inmates completed. 1912 the Legislature appropriated $30,000 for a new hospital.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF.

This institution, which is located at Trenton, is a part of the public school system of the State, and is open to deaf residents of the State between the ages of six and twenty-one years. The pupils are instructed in the branches of common-school education, and are also trained in some handicraft. Speech is taught to all who can acquire it, and with such success that in some classes it becomes the principal means of communication.

The industrial department is larger and better equipped than in most schools of this kind. From the printing office is issued monthly a paper, the Silent Worker, which, in point of mechanical execution and of quality of contents, ranks as the best issued from any institution in the country. All the work on this paper is performed by pupils of the school.

The wood-working department, under the charge of a graduate of a technical school of high rank, has a course in which theory and practice are united in an unusual degree.

A course of kindergarten work, especially adapted to the deaf child, has been worked out in the school, and has been followed by some of the best schools of the kind in this country.

A building for hospital purposes, designed in accordance with the best modern practice and ample to meet any possible need, was opened in 1899.

The attendance of pupils has risen from 125 in June, 1896, until at the present time it is about 180.

The school possesses a well chosen library, which at present contains about 4,000 volumes, and is rapidly growing.

HOME FOR THE CARE AND TRAINING OF FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN.

Vineland.

This institution was established by virtue of the act of March 27th, 1888, the late S. Olin Garrison, who drafted the original law, being its first superintendent. On November 7th, of the same year, he was succeeded by Mary J. Dunlap, M.D., and then by Dr. Madeleine A. Hallowell. Upon organization of the first board of managers, the late Hon. Alexander G. Catell, of Camden county, was chosen President, a place he acceptably filled until his death. He was succeeded by the Hon. Benjamin F. Lee, of Mercer county, Clerk of the Supreme Court, who occupied the position until his death in 1909. Mrs. Emily E. H. Williamson, of Union county, was secretary of the board from its organization until her death in 1909. The first treasurer was the Hon. Belmont Perry, of Gloucester county, he being succeeded by ex-Senator Philip P. Baker, of Cumberland county; the late Senator Barton F. Thorn, of Burlington county, and George B. Thorn, Esq., of Burlington county, the present incumbent. Harry H. Pond was elected President in 1909.

As its official title suggests, this institution has for its object the care and training of feeble minded women. Its location in a peculiarly healthful and fertile portion of the State, the plan and scope of the buildings, as well as their equipment and the employment of modern administrative methods, make the Home a subject for favorable comparison with any similar institution in the country. The property consists of about 50 acres.

The most conspicuous building of the Home is that devoted to purposes of administration and instruction, including dormitories and a gymnasium. There is also a laundry, a power-house, with heating apparatus, and pump for raising the sewage of the home into the Vineland system. Fire escapes and a water tower give protection to the State's wards. All the buildings are lighted with gas or electricity.

In 1912 the Legislature appropriated $60,000 for a

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN.

Vineland.

This public institution is an outgrowth of a private one, which Prof. S. Olin Garrison established in Millville, Cumberland county, on September 1st, 1887. It was opened at Vineland, on March 1st, 1888, with an enrollment of ten pupils. Adjacent properties were soon acquired and a handsome building, costing about $18,000, was erected in 1890-91. There are fourteen cottages, besides a hospital, large barns, shops and manual training rooms, located on a farm of 260 acres. The school has a fine assembly hall, seating over 600, and also containing seven school rooms, drill room and a gymnasium. The Department of Research has a well equipped laboratory, where studies as to the cause and prevention of feeblemindedness are carried on.

The plan and scope of training and education by the school, require fourteen teachers in English, Kindergarten. Music. Physical Culture and Manual Trades departments, thereby indicating the special and comprehensive fields of instruction. There is also a custodial department for the idiotic.

The property is worth over $250,000, real and personal, with a debt of only $21,000. Besides very good property acquisitions at low cost, at least $150,000 have been donated to the school since its organization, to aid in the current expenses, in improvements and new buildings.

STATE VILLAGE FOR EPILEPTICS.

(Henry M. Weeks Hospital.) Skillman, Somerset County.

This village is located in Montgomery township, Somerset county, at Skillman Station, on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. The location is one of the most beautiful and healthful in the State.

and is admirably adapted for the purposes of this kind of an institution. The managers have secured four adjoining farms containing in all about seven hundred and eighty acres.

The four farm houses are now being used, one for the Administration building, one for residence of the Superintendent, one for patients and one for employes.

In 1884 Dr. John W. Ward, Superintendent of the State Hospital at Trenton, realizing the necessity of separating the epileptics from the insane, went before a legislative committee and strongly urged the appropriation of $50,000 to erect a building upon the grounds of that institution for the proper care of the epileptics. The late Prof. S. Olin Garrison, Principal of the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, early recognized the necessity of separate provision for the epileptics in that institution, and was indefatigable in his efforts to establish the present village.

For a number of years the subject was agitated, and in 1895, in accordance with a resolution passed by the Legislature, the Governor appointed a commission to investigate the number and condition of epileptics in the State. The report of the commission was presented to the Legislature of 1896 and a bill was introduced for the establishment of a colony on a plan recommended by the commission. The bill failing to become a law, the New Jersey State Medical Society, by resolution at their annual meeting in 1896, endorsed the necessity of such legislation. In 1897 the President, Dr. Thomas J. Smith, of Bridgeton, most ably presented the necessity of providing for the epileptics, and urged that the State authorities be importuned most earnestly to revive the movement initiated the year before to establish an industrial epileptic colony in our State. The Society reaffirmed its position, and appointed a committee to urge the matter further.

Through the combined efforts of those interested and with the zealous co-operation of Senator Stokes, of Cumberland, who had charge of the legislation, an act was passed by the Legislature of 1898, and promptly signed by Acting Governor Voorhees, making the necessary provisions for the establishment of the institution. The sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site and to pay for the equipment and maintenance of the village. The "Maplewood Farm," containing about 187 acres, was purchased for $11,500, and the village was opened for the reception of male patients November 1st, of the same year.

The Legislature of 1900 appropriated $30,000 for the erection of two cottages for patients, and $16,000 for the purchase of two farms adjoining the property. Additional appropriations were made each year from 1901 to 1911, aggregating $900,000, for extensions and improvements. All epileptics of either sex, over five years of age, and not insane or idiotic are admitted.

In 1912 the Legislature appropriated $78,000 for new buildings.

NEW JERSEY REFORMATORY.

Rahway.

In 1895 the Legislature passed an act, approved by Governor Werts on March 28 of that year, providing for the appointment of a commission to consist of six persons, who were charged with the duty of building an intermediate reformatory institution for first male offenders. The commission was authorized to set apart the property known as the Edgar farm, located in Union and Middlesex Counties, and then belonging to the State Sinking Fund.

If it were found necessary they were authorized to purchase adjoining property for the completion of the site at a cost not to exceed ten thousand dollars, but this authority was not used.

The institution, when completed, was designed to accommodate not less than one thousand inmates, and the sum of one hundred thousand dollars was appropriated to begin the work.

The site now comprises about 115 acres. That which is not occupied by the buildings or enclosed within a stockade surrounding the same, furnishes occupation to the inmates, and is devoted to the purpose of tillage, to supply farm products and sustain the animals used by the institution.

The original Commissioners were Patrick Farrelly, George S. Mott, David M. Chambers, William A. Ure. John T. Daly and Thomas M. Gopsill.

According to the plans originally adopted the building, when completed, was to have four wings, capable of accommodating 1,024 inmates. The first wing and centre were completed in the year 1901, and inmates were then first received.

First male offenders only are admitted between the ages of sixteen and thirty years.

The criminal courts of the State are empowered in their discretion to commit offenders to the Reformatory instead of State Prison. The original commission was replaced by the present Board of Commissioners. consisting of nine persons, including the Governor, and no more than four to be of the same political party.

The reformatory and grounds are located about one and a half miles south of the City of Rahway. The buildings now erected comprise the guard-room building, northeast and southeast wings, the domestic building and "Tie-to" building, connecting it with the guard-room building, the industrial building, new tuberculous pavilion, independent water system with filtering plant, two trades' school buildings and wall, power house, hospital for contagious diseases, barn, hennery, piggery, shelter station and cold storage warehouse.

The "Tie-to" building, the hospital, the pavilion, barn, hennery, piggery, shelter station and cold storage warehouse were constructed entirely by the inmates and without cost to the State, except for material.

The construction of a sewage disposal system contracted for by the former Board of Managers, has been completed recently by inmate labor.

The inmates are detailed to different trade classes. and do all the work required for betterments and repairs. They enjoy daily educational advantages and are regularly drilled in military tactics.

STATE TUBERCULOUS SANITARIUM.

Glen Gardner.

This Sanitarium, which was completed in 1907, is located at Glen Gardner, near High Bridge, Hunterdon county. The site is on the slope of a mountain nearly 1,000 feet above the level of the sea, where the State has acquired about 600 acres. The slope has been cut away and leveled for a considerable space, and here the buildings were constructed. On a clear day the view from this point is one of the most magnificent in this picturesque section of North New Jersey. It looks away over a rolling country of wooded hills and cultivated farm lands to the mountains on the other side of the valley, which run at its foot. Away in the distance like a thin ribbon of silver is the South Branch river, and in whatever direction the eye turns some new and charming scene is encountered. The structure consists of a service building, administration building and east and west wards. The service building is the source of supplies for the institution. It is 84x110 feet. three stories, including basement, in which is the boiler room, engine room and electric light plant. A cold storage is located in the basement. On the second floor is the main dining hall, which is 84x48 feet, the service room, bakery, kitchen, storeroom, butcher shop and cold storage. The third flood is fitted up with rooms for the doctors, employees' rooms, ironing, drying and linen rooms, coat rooms, sterilizing room, &c. All the buildings are built of field stone, stuccoed on the outside and finished with white plaster on the interior. The ward building is 32x150 feet and the administration building 52x120 feet. The buildings are so constructed that additions may be made from time to time as the necessity of the case demands. About 175 patients can be comfortably accommodated in the ward buildings. The water supply is derived from a large reservoir which is kept supplied from the springs. The system of sewerage is among the most sanitary in existence. The total cost of the Sanitarium represents an outlay of about $300,000.

The first impetus for caring for the State's consumptive poor was given in an address delivered in 1900 before the State Medical Society by Dr. Halsey, then president. A bill was drawn by a committee of the society, and was passed by the Legislature in 1902, when a Board of Managers was appointed by Governor Murphy. Of this Board, Dr. Charles J. Kipp of Newark was elected president, and for whom the mountain on which the State Sanitarium was built was named. The Legislature appropriated $50,000 to carry the bill into effect. The Sanitarium is intended as a model institution, largely educational in character, which would give a practical demonstration of up-to-date methods of treating cases of tuberculosis and point the way for other institutions of a similar type, at the same time extending the direct benefits of its system to as large a number of cases as its necessarily limited facilities would enable it to care for. The institution handles about six hundred cases annually. Its purpose is to arrest the disease in its incipient stage and discharge the patient in such condition that, with the aid of the instruction he receives while at the institution, he may be reasonably certain of being able to effect his own cure. This instruction will prove valuable not only to himself, but to the public in general, as it becomes disseminated through his agency and that of the other patients who undergo treatment and go out again in the world at large. As a rule, the cases selected will be such as can be treated with reasonable expectancy of a cure. In 1912 the Legislature appropriated $89,500 for new buildings.

BORDENTOWN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

The Manual Training and Industrial School for Colored Youth located at Bordentown, N. J., is a State institution maintained by appropriations from the State and under the supervision of the State Board of Education.

The school was established to meet the educational needs of the colored people of New Jersey and seeks more and more to fit its students to go out and do intelligently the work to which they are called.

The Literary Department as far as is practicable is adjusted to the needs of the Industrial Training, and an effort is made to throw around the student a home atmosphere.

The school occupies a conspicuous site on the banks of the Delaware River, comprising 225 acres of good farm land. The physical equipment of the school consists of an administration building, a girls' dormitory, a boys' dormitory and infirmary, a laundry and carpenter shop, a printing office and a group of farm buildings.

Approximately one hundred students are enrolled, this number exhausting the facilities for accommodation.

Tuition is free and a nominal charge is made for board, washing, medical attendance and registration.

In 1912 the Legislature appropriated $20,000 for a new dormitory.

STATE REFORMATORY FOR WOMEN

at Clinton.

The Reformatory is located on a farm of 346 acres, one and one-half miles from Clinton. It was dedicated on May 26th, 1913.

There are five buildings in use at this institution, as follows: 1. Fielder Cottage, old farmhouse, enlarged to accommodate 25 to 30 women; 2, Homestead Cottage, accommodates 10 to 12 women; 3, Stowe Cottage for colored, accommodates 27 to 30 women: 4. Cottage for help, accommodates utility man and family; 5, Chapel of Good Shepherd, used as chapel and school. Nos. 1 and 2 are old farm buildings; No. 2 used to be used by the utility man and family. The third old farm house is so in bad repair that it cannot be used either for inmates or officers. It is used to store farm equipment in during the winter.

Officers: Fielder Cottage-2, teacher, nurse; Homestead Cottage-3, superintendent, farm manager, parole officer and psychologist; Cottage for Help-2, utility man, farm laborer; Stowe Cottage-4, colored matron, colored teacher, dietitian, bookkeeper. The last two officers simply live in Stowe Cottage: they do no work there.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

DEMOCRATIC.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, October 3d, 1916, and presided over by State Senator Henry Elijah Ackerson, Jr., of Monmouth county.)

We, the members of the Democratic State Convention, held October 3d, 1916, composed of delegates chosen by Democratic voters at open primaries, as provided by law, hereby adopt the following preamble and platform, and pledge to it the support of our candidates for Governor, the Senate, and the General Assembly:

We unanimously urge the re-election of President Woodrow Wilson. Amidst world war, devastation and reaction he has kept America unentangled for the reconstruction which must follow. He has maintained peace under terrible difficulties. He has achieved that peace, filled with prosperity and opportunity, by methods so true to American tradition that his opponents cannot or dare not suggest a substitute. He has held at bay the force of militarism, empire and conquest, laid the foundations of lasting peace in Mexico on the self-government of the Mexican people, and has proved to the Republic of this hemisphere that a free people has the courage and patience of friendship; that the power of the United States is not for sale, nor is it controlled by race prejudice and national hatred.

Under his leadership the Democratic Congress shook itself free of the lobby and the special interests, and carried into practical effect constructive legislation, so comprehensive, so sound, so good, that all fair-minded people are filled with admiration.

We assert that the President's record would justify his re-election at any time, and that his Republican opponent, by his campaign of evasion and timidity, would deserve defeat at any time. These are more than ordinary times, and we appeal to the conscience of the voters to decide whether they dare disorganize the Government now, reverse its policy, and upset an administration which has carried the nation peacefully and prosperously thus far through the greatest war in history. We ask the voters whether a man tested and enriched by experience should be displaced by a man who was nominated without stating his views and who has talked now for three months without explaining them.

We commend to the people of the State of New Jersey the administration of Governor James F. Fielder. The splendid devotion to duty in the interests of the people which has marked his administration in the office of Governor has demonstrated the wisdom of their choice. We call attention to the fact that under his administration laws have been enacted increasing the revenue of the State by a fairly graduated tax upon the estates of deceased persons; local revenues have been enhanced by a reasonable bank stock tax; modern methods in the care and employment of inmates of our penal institutions have been established; prompt and effective measures were taken to stamp out the hoof and mouth disease in cattle; a simplified method for the conduct of proceedings in the Chancery Court has been adopted; the pure food laws strengthened; cities were empowered to conduct public markets; a system of traffic regulations uniform throughout the State was devised; the welfare of women, children and operatives in workshops and factories was safeguarded; the Grade Crossing Law, which bears his name, has been upheld by the courts after long litigation, and will bring about the elimination of the death traps in the State.

The Economy and Efficiency measures for which great improvement in State government was claimed, including a reduction in cost of administration of upward of $100,000, will not justify such claims. The bills recommended by the Economy and Efficiency Commission were amended and altered by the last Republican Legislature, and their enforcement will, during the next fiscal year, cost the State an increased expense of $90,000 over the preceding year, and up to this time no efficiency in administration of the departments consolidated can be pointed out by their sponsors.

Our Democratic administration increased the State's revenues to meet the needs of departments and institutions by the enactment, in 1914, of the Direct Inheritance Tax Law. This act added to the taxation on wealth owned by non-residents in this State. The revenue from this source alone amounts to $1,750,000 in hand and in bank in 1916 (ten months to date), as against $243,645.90 in 1911, an increase of over $1,500,000.

We have established the closest supervision over State expenditures by the enactment of the Requisition act in 1914. By this law we have provided a method whereby the State's business has been placed on a business footing. We have made it possible for the State's financial officers to advise the people of the exact condition of the treasury. In 1915 there was a clear balance, over liabilities, of upwards of $400,000. We shall show for 1916 a clear balance, over all liabilities, of upwards of $2,000,000.

The so-called Budget act enacted in 1916 is merely a development of the Requisition act of 1914. This is likewise true of the Purchase act. The way for both was cleared by the Requisition act.

We have wiped out the floating indebtedness of the State created by the vicious overdraft system which was nurtured by the preceding Republican administrations. We have met all of the State's obligations in full, unlike the Republican administration, which, to show a large treasury balance, deliberately deferred the payment of school moneys to the counties when due; we have prevented the imposition of a State tax for current needs and expenses; we shall present the State government to the succeeding administration with a large cash surplus instead of a deficiency of upwards of $1,200,000 which was the situation under the last Republican administration. This was accomplished notwithstanding increased appropriations to many departments, Republicans with full control of the Legislature in both Houses made certain specific platform pledges which they failed to put into execution. For example:

Assembly districts were promised, but this popular plan was deliberately defeated at the dictation of the party bosses in the legislative chambers.

The Republican Platform of a year ago, among other promises, pledged its party to protect the labor interests of the State, but the records show that not a single measure in the interests of labor was passed by the last Legislature controlled in both Houses by that party. Promise's were made that the "Workmen's Compensation Law" would be strengthened, but notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of the Democratic members of the Senate, bills intended for that purpose were buried in committee and were never even considered on the floor of that body. We favor a revision of this law in the light of the experience of other States, so that it may conform to the standard recently adopted in the Federal legislation.

While we have to some extent simplified our municipal governments, no substantial progress has been made toward reassembling the executive powers of the State in the hands of the Governor elected by the people and responsible to them. This work must be done during the next three years.

At present, two-thirds of the State's revenues are expended by boards and commissions which are not directly responsible to the Governor, which have overlapping terms, conflicting duties, and necessarily do not co-ordinate with the Governor. All executive power should be exercised by the executive as the constitution directs, and he should be held responsible for economy and efficiency.

For the protection of the child workers of the State we propose passing a law defining the term factory as applied to places where these children work, so that it will be impossible for children to carry on work in tenement houses. This is rendered necessary by the stringent law of New York along these lines which may cause the moving of such work across the river. New Jersey children must be protected.

We re-affirm the principle enunciated by the last Democratic Congress in Section 6 of the Clayton act, "That the labor power of the human being is not a commodity or article of commerce." Labor produces commodities but it is not a commodity itself.

Therefore, we pledge the enactment of a law forbidding the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes where no property right is involved other than the property right claimed in the labor power of the human being, and to establish the principle of a jury trial in all injunction and contempt cases.

Our State and county roads have failed to meet the needs of the day owing to the great and growing burden which has been flung upon them by the invention and growing use of heavy motor vehicles for transportation. They must all be rebuilt on a better and more substantial basis, just as the steam roads were some thirty years ago, and provision must be made for their proper upkeep. Whether or not this great work shall be begun under the Egan Road law, passed last winter, is for the people to decide at the coming referendum election, but that it must be started under some comprehensive statute, and continued until wide and enduring highways shall replace the inadequate passageway in all parts of the State, admits of no doubt. No other problem of equal importance with this confronts the people of New Jersey. We pledge our candidates for Governor and the Legislature to its solution.

We favor the early abolition of all toll roads and toll bridges within the confines of this State and with adjoining States, and pledge the Democratic Party to accomplish this result. That an enormous sum of money was expended by candidates for nomination at the Republican primaries this Fall is apparent to everybody. Rumor, supported by evidence that assailed the eye on every side, places this sum at not less than $300,000, or more than two dollars for every Republican vote polled. As none of this money was raised by public subscription, it follows that most of it must have come from private and secret sources, in violation of the Corrupt Practices act of 1911, and it is reasonable to expect that an attempt will be made to carry the election in November by similar means. We are in grave danger of a return to the corrupt methods of a few years ago, before the Democratic Party made fair elections possible, drove the corruption out of politics, and established an era of popular rule.

We heartily endorse the passage by a Democratic Congress of the Tariff Commission act, which we believe will successfully remove political considerations from future tariff legislation.

Last winter repeated attacks were made upon the Geran Election act by individual members of the Republican majority in the Legislature and by the majority caucuses. Most of the bills to destroy sections of this great reform law were beaten by the hostility of the Governor assisted by the Democrats and a handful of independents in t... House, but it was evident to everyone that the determination to pass them was merely postponed, not abandoned. Probably arrangements for the necessary votes were made at the recent debauched primaries. We pledge our candidates to the preservation of the Geran act in all of its integrity, and a continuance of rule by the people instead of rule by money and privilege.

We favor a rigid enforcement of the Civil Service laws, and their amendment in all cases where experience shows them defective.

The development of the public schools of the State is a matter of the highest civic importance. To this end we favor:

The extension of agencies for industrial education, including vocational and agricultural education; enlarged facilities for the training of teachers, including a normal school in the southern part of the State; the improvement of the country schools, and the institution of night schools and other agencies.

Every citizen is ungrudging in his admiration of the splendid record of our National Guard made in the performance of their duty. The readiness with which they responded to the call of the country, and the fidelity with which they endured hardships and made sacrifices attendant upon their military service, endears them to the heart of every man who loves his country. We favor legislation for the upbuilding and strengthening of our State Militia and Naval Reserve, and ample appropriations for their maintenance and equipment and for their instruction at the State camps.

Feeling assured that the Democracy has deserved and won the confidence of the people of New Jersey by its fidelity to its platform pledges and its unswerving devotion to the interests of the people of the State, we present our cause to the electorate with sincerity and candor, knowing full well that the splendid record of achievements of our party will meet with the support of fairminded citizens regardless of party affiliations.

REPUBLICAN.

(Adopted at a State Convention held at Trenton, October 3d, 1916, and presided over by President of the Senate, George W. F. Gaunt of Gloucester county.)

The Republican State Convention assembled this third day of October, meets as a reunited party, with past differences. forgotten and with a patriotic desire to see the country saved from humiliation at home and abroad, and to help restore it to its rightful place among the nations of the earth.

We unreservedly endorse the platform adopted by the National Republican Convention held at Chicago, and we pledge our enthusiastic support to its nominees, Charles Evans Hughes and Charles Warren Fairbanks.

The present war has demonstrated the wisdom of the Republican doctrine that this nation should be independent industrially as well as politically, and we affirm our belief in the doctrine of a protective tariff as a means to that end. The war abroad has afforded us a measure of protection which will cease when peace is declared, and a protective tariff must, therefore, be enacted to insure the wage earners and manufacturers as well as all the people of this country against the competition of the cheaply made products from abroad that will flood our country at prices ruinous to the industries and enterprises of the nation. The Democratic party cannot be trusted to legislate in the economic emergency that will arise when Europe ceases to war with arms and begins to war with her cheap productions against the rest of the world. We, therefore, favor a tariff for America.

From a State standpoint, the issue of the campaign surrounds a clearly defined demand on the part of all the people of the State for the introduction of common sense business principles in conducting the affairs of the State. This relates to practically every department of the government, and in brief, means the transforming of a political government into a modern business organization. The cardinal principle in bringing this about is a realization that the Governor of the State should assume the responsibility of its business management and the Legislature co-operating as a board of directors, with the work of every department, board and commission so co-ordinated that the business of the State shall be conducted on modern lines and not with the loss of efficiency heretofore prevailing.

As a part of this plan to transform the government of the State into a business organization, the Republican Legislatures of the past two years have enacted: (1) Economy and efficiency laws, which have consolidated and co-ordinated various State commissions, boards and departments in the interest of economy and efficiency; (2) the law creating a central purchasing department, which will in its first year of trial save to the taxpayers of the State $200,000; (3) the budget system, which for the first time in the State's history will enable the people to know in advance the items of State expense, the reasons therefor, and give to the taxpayers an opportunity to express their judgment upon the merits of the expenditures proposed to be made before they are authorized by the Legislature. In this connection we may here call the attention of the people of New Jersey to the fact that the above laws are the result of the active leadership in the Senate of our candidate for Governor, Walter E. Edge.

The pledges given to the people for the last two years by the Republican Party to place the State on a firm financial basis have been fulfilled, and we now show the gratifying result of a clear balance of over one million dollars, whereas two years ago we inherited from the Democratic Party a treasury deficit of two million dollars. This policy of confining expenditures within our income and keeping inviolate the credit of the State, we firmly believe in and will continue to uphold.

We pledge ourselves to enact such further laws as will make the Governor the actual business manager of the State. To this end we believe there should be further consolidations and co-ordinations of the State's activities so that the heads of the various boards will become in effect a business cabinet, which, under the leadership of the Governor, if given the loyal support of the working heads, will enlarge and extend the practical and economical carrying out of the business of the State to the advantage of all the stockholders thereof.

We favor a more businesslike method of administering our tax laws, to equalize valuations and assessments not only as between individuals, but as between the taxing districts of the State.

We believe that the training of teachers for the public schools is a matter of great importance if our schools are to reach the highest degree of efficiency. For this reason we favor an increase in the facilities for the training of teachers by means of State Normal Schools, additional schools being provided as the finances of the State will warrant. We also strongly recommend the extension of vocational, industrial and agricultural education for the youth of the State and favor all practicable means for the betterment of the rural schools,

We favor a scientific system of road-building, with proper main highways, and with laterals reaching to the rural sections, not abutting thereon, so that we may have a complete network of good roads touching every point of our State, and believe that the State should construct and control the main highways and a patrol system be inaugurated to keep our roads in repair as a prevention against destruction and waste.

We believe that all property which is taxed shall bear its fair share of taxation. This is the principle of equal taxation to which our party was committed in passing the railroad equal tax laws. The franchises of the telephone, telegraph, water, electric light and gas companies of this State represent privileges which are extremely profitable.

These franchises are now subject to a tax at the rate of two per cent. upon the gross receipts, which is less than the tax upon other property. The trolley companies already pay five per cent. upon the gross receipts. The reason that exists for taxing trolley companies applies equally to other public utilities. We, therefore, favor the enactment of a law increasing from two to five per cent. the taxes upon the gross receipts of telephones, telegraph, water, electric light and gas companies. This would bring to the State or to the municipalities thereof nearly $1,000,000 a year in additional taxes.

The fact that within a radius of seventy miles, with the capital of our State as its center, lies the densest population in the world, reveals the unequal market for New Jersey's agricultural products and the opportunity for agricultural development of our State. To this end, we recommend that the new Department of Agriculture created by the last Legislature be given sufficient sums of money to carry into completion the plans that they have already worked out. Through the Bureau of Lands, Crops and Markets we will be able to bring the producer and the consumer closer together, thereby eliminating the great waste in the matter of distribution of farm products.

The inland waterway development of the State, inauguated by the Republican Party, is a practical illustration of the business wisdom of proper development of the harbors, rivers and other waterways. We pledge ourselves to a continuation of this policy.

The Republican Party has always shown particular interest in the humanitarian work of the State by providing liberal appropriations for the proper care of the mental defectives, insane, tuberculosis unfortunates and other dependent wards, and we pledge ourselves to a continuance of this enlightened and humane policy.

We pledge ourselves to the maintenance of the principle of Civil Service and the maintenance of a merit system.

We welcome, as a part of our civic life, the activities of those associations interested in better housing, improved tenement conditions and sanitary and hygienic measures, both in the home and in the municipality, and we pledge to the good citizens active in the development of the social welfare of our commonwealth, the executive and legislative support of the State.

Under Republican initiative was passed the most efficient code of labor laws ever formulated in the country, viz., a workmen's compensation law and laws providing for the upto-date safety devices in machinery, proper hygienic conditions of air, light and sanitation; regulation of hours of employment for women and children; strict provision for fire-escapes to guard the lives of those employed in work shops and factories, and other means to preserve the health, comfort and welfare of the industrial workers of our State. Again, we call the attention of the people to the leadership of our candidate for Governor in the enactment of these laws.

We pledge ourselves to still further progress in this care of the toilers of our State, who, in proportion to population, rank us second among all the States of the union.

A commission appointed last year, under the action of a Republican Legislature, to investigate and report by bills upon the question of home rule, will enable us to carry out our pledged promise to the people of this State to give them the largest measure of home rule possible under the Constitution of our State, and which pledge we reaffirm.

We pledge ourselves to enact such just and practical laws as shall adequately direct the procedure for the creation of, and to provide time and means for the retirement of the temporary obligations of our municipalities, and to throw such safe-guards and supervision around our public finances, that the welfare of the taxpayers shall be preserved; and all with the least possible disturbance of municipal financial systems as at present constituted.

We pledge ourselves to the abolition of all toll bridges and the completion of the Palisades Park, in keeping with our obligations to our neighboring states.

A commission has been appointed upon the revision of our corporation laws. We favor such changes as will simplify our system, but will protect the investor against fraud and dishonesty of management, through a proper system of publicity. We believe in honest corporations and insist that they can be so formulated as to preserve the highest efficiency, honesty and public good in corporate management and control, without driving business from our state to the injury of the taxpayers.

A commission was appointed to revise the general election laws, and it will report at the next session of the Legislature. We believe in a simplification of these acts, without in anywise impairing the safety or honesty of the ballot.

The Democratic Party has been tried and found wanting in the State and in the Nation. The reunion of Republicans and Progressives, working together for the common cause of patriotism and good government, is an evidence of success in November, and an assurance of happier and more satisfactory conditions during the next four years,

SYNOPSIS OF SCHOOL LAW.

The State Board of Education consists of eight members, not more than one of whom shall reside in the same county, and not more than four of whom shall belong to the same political party. It has control of the State Normal Schools, the School for the Deaf and the Manual Training and Industrial School for Colored Youth. It confirms the appointment of the county superintendents of schools, decides appeals from the decisions of the Commissioner of Education, and makes rules for the granting of teachers' certificates and for carrying into effect the school laws of the State. It appoints an inspector of school buildings and an inspector of accounts.

The Commissioner of Education is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. He appoints the county superintendents of schools, decides controversies that arise under the school law; may withhold the State school moneys from any district for neglect or refusal to comply with the provisions of the school law, and has general supervision of the public schools. There are four assistant commissioners appointed by the commissioner by the advice and consent of the State Board of Education; one acts as inspector of secondary schools, another as inspector of elementary schools, another as inspector of industrial education, and another to hear controversies and disputes arising under the school law.

There is a superintendent of schools for each county, appointed by the Commissioner of Education and confirmed by the State Board of Education. The County Superintendent apportions the school moneys among the districts in his county, has general supervision of the schools and, in connection with the local Board of Education, prescribes the course of study to be pursued in the district, approves the encessity for transportation and the cost and method thereof.

Each municipality in the State constitutes a school district, unless by a vote of the people two or more municipalities decide to unite and form one district. There are two classes of school districts, cities forming one class and all other municipalities the other, but a district in either class may, by a vote of the people, be transferred to the other class. The members of the Board of Education in a city school district are appointed by the mayor.

In order to be eligible to membership in the Board of Education, a person must be a citizen of the United States and must have been a resident of the district for at least three years immediately preceding his or her election or appointment and must be able to read and write. A city school district may have a city superintendent, but until one is appointed the County Superintendent has supervision of the schools.

In each city school district there is a Board of School Estimate, consisting of the mayor, two members of the body having the power to make appropriations for city purposes, and two members of the Board of Education. The Board of Education presents its estimate of the amount of local appropriation needed, and the Board of School Estimate certifies to the body in the city having power to make appropriations, the amount to be raised for school purposes. The amount so certified must be raised.

In districts other than cities the Boards of Education consist of nine members each, elected by the people on the third Tuesday in March. The term of office begins the first Monday in April. The qualifications for membership are the same as in city school districts. The special district school tax is voted either at the annual meeting or at a special school meeting called by the Board of Education. Bonds for school houses are authorized by the legal voters. School bonds cannot be sold at private sale except to the Trustees of the School Fund or Sinking Fund Commissioners unless said Trustees or Commissioners have refused to buy them. Bonds cannot be delivered to any purchaser other than the Trustees of the School Fund except upon payment of full purchase price. Women may vote at district meetings on all questions except the election of members of the Board of Education, which is prohibited by the Constitution. Truant officers and janitors cannot be discharged or their compensation decreased except for cause and after a hearing.

Funds for the support of schools come from the following sources: First, from the income of the State School Fund. The principal of this fund is derived almost entirely from the sale and rental of lands under water belonging to the State. The principal cannot be used for any purpose, and the income can be used only for the support of public schools. Second, from State appropriation made by the Legislature to reduce the State school tax. Third, from State school tax, an amount which when added to the State appropriation will make a sum equal to two and three-fourths mills on each dollar of the taxable property in the State. Fourth, the railroad tax received by the State in excess of one-half of one per cent. of the value of the railroad property. Fifth, interest of surplus revenue, and sixth, local school tax.

The income from the school fund is apportioned among the counties by the State Superintendent or, the basis of the total days' attendance of pupils in the public schools. The State appropriation is apportioned among the counties by the State Comptroller on the basis of the ratables. Ninety per cent. of the State school tax paid by each county is returned to it, and the ten per cent. received from all the counties forms the reserve fund, which is apportioned among the counties in the discretion of the State Board of Education. The railroad tax is apportioned on the ratables

The County Superintendent apportions to each district $600 for the Superintendent or Supervising Principal, if there be one; $500 for each teacher in a special class for subnormal children: $400 for each Assistant Superintendent and Supervisor, and for each permanent teacher employed in a high school having a full four-years' course of study; $300 for each permanent teacher employed in a high school having a full three-years' course of study; $200 for each permanent teacher employed in any kindergarten, primary or grammar grade or in a high school having less than three years' course of study; $80 for each temporary teacher employed more than four months; $80 for each evening school teacher; $25 for each high school pupil for whom a tuition fee is paid to another district; $5 for each pupil below the high school grade for whom such tuition fee is paid, and 75 per cent of the cost of transportation of pupils approved by the County Superintendent. The balance of the State school moneys received by the county is apportioned on the basis of the total number of days' attendance of the pupils,

The custodian of municipal funds is the custodian of school moneys, unless the Board of Education appoints the collector as custodian. In either case, the compensation of the custodian must be fixed by the Board of Education and paid from school funds. If there are two or more municipalities in the district, the Board of Education may appoint its own custodian.

Each collector must pay to the county collector the amount of State school tax due from his taxing district not later than December 22d. If the tax is not paid by that date the County Superintendent must withhold the amount of reserve fund apportioned to the district and divide it the following year among all the districts in the county. The county collector must pay the State school tax to the State Treasurer not later than January 20th,

If a district provides a course in manual training, and such course is approved by the State Board of Education, the State will give to such district each year a sum equal to that raised in the district for manual training, provided the amount raised is not less than $250 or more than $5,000.

County vocational schools may be established in any county under rules made by the State Board of Education. The location of these schools shall be approved by the Commissioner of Education with the advice and consent of the State Board of Education. The Board of Education for such vocational school shall consist of the County Superintendent and four persons to be appointed by the judge of the Court of Common Pleas in the county. The State appropriates a sum equal to that raised in the county for the establishment of such school. The amount contributed by the State for any such school shall not exceed in any one year the sum of $10,000.

Every district must provide free text-books and supplies for all pupils and must also provide a flag for each school house, which flag must be displayed every day the school is in session. The selection of a text-book requires the vote of a majority of the whole number of members of the Board of Education. A Board of Education must employ medical inspectors and attendance officers.

Every school which raises $20 to establish a school library may receive a like amount from the State. After the first payment, the State will give $10 each year that the school raises the same amount. Library moneys may be used for library books, reference books, apparatus, or educational works of art.

All plans for school houses must be submitted to the State Board of Education for suggestion and criticism. Every school house hereafter erected must comply with the following requirements: First, light must be admitted to the class rooms only from the left and rear. Second, the total light area must equal 20 per cent. of floor space. Third, there must be 18 square feet of floor space and not less than 200 cubic feet of air space for each pupil. Fourth, all rooms must have a proper system of ventilation which will supply 30 cubic feet of fresh air per minute for each pupil. Fifth, all ceilings must be at least 12 feet in height and all stairs must be at least 4 feet wide, with intermediate landings, enclosed in brick walls or by partitions of slow-burning construction, and without open well holes. Sixth, a school house having eight rooms must have two flights of stairs, each four feet in width, or one flight not less than six feet in width, one having from eight to sixteen rooms, two flights of stairs not less than five feet in width, and one having sixteen or more rooms, four flights of stairs not less than four feet in width, or two flights not less than six feet in width. Seventh, all ceilings must be either metal, wood or plaster on metal laths and painted white or some light tint.

A person cannot be legally employed as a teacher unless he holds a teacher's certificate in full force and effect at the time he begins teaching. Before beginning to teach he must show his certificate to the Superintendent of Schools. A Board of Education may adopt rules governing the employment of teachers. In the absence of rules, the contract must be in writing in triplicate, one copy filed with the Board of Education, one with the County Superintendent, and one with the teacher. The employment, promotion or dismissal of a teacher requires the vote of a majority of the whole number of members of the Board of Education. After three years' continuous service a teacher cannot be removed except upon charges and after a hearing.

All persons appointed as teachers, principals or superintendents, who have not taught in this State prior to January 1st. 1908, are members of the Teachers' Retirement Fund by virtue of such appointment.

A State pension is also provided for teachers who have had thirty-five years of actual service; twenty-five years of such service must have been in New Jersey. The annual pension provided is one-half the average annual salary received for the last five years of service.

The State Board of Examiners consists of the Commissioner of Education, the Principals of the Normal Schools and a County Superintendent and a City Superintendent appointed by the State Board of Education. This Board issues certificates valid in all parts of this State and in any school or grade.

All kindergarten teachers must hold special kindergarten certificates. Special certificates may be issued for kindergarten, physical training, manual training, music, drawing, modern languages, commercial branches, cooking, sewing, agriculture and penmanship. All applicants for certificates must file testimonials of good moral character, and, in case of previous experience, of success as teachers, Graduates of the Normal Schools receive State certificates. Graduates of normal schools in other States may have their diplomas endorsed, provided the course of study pursued is equivalent to the course in the New Jersey Normal Schools, and the State in which they were issued grants reciprocal privileges to graduates of the New Jersey Normal Schools.

All children between the ages of 5 and 20 are entitled to attend the public schools in the districts in which they reside. If a kindergarten has been established, children 4 years of age may attend. A Board of Education must provide suitable school facilities for all the children desiring to attend school. The Board of Education may provide for the education of pupils in the higher grades by payment of tuition fees to adjoining districts. If a child lives remote from any school in the district, the Board may transport such child to school or pay for its tuition in another district. A Board of Education may close a school and transport all the children to another school. Children who have never attended any school can be admitted to a public school only during the ten days immediately following the opening of the school in the fall and during the first five days in January and April, except by the vote of a majority of all the members of the Board of Education.

All children between the ages of 7 and 16 must attend either a public or private school every day such school is in session, unless they are taught at home or are physically or mentally unfit to attend. Children between 14 and 16 years of age who have completed five yearly grades may be granted certificates permitting them to go to work. The parent of a child who does not attend school may be proceeded against before a magistrate as a disorderly person. If the parent is unable to control the child, such child may be proceeded against as a disorderly person.

Corporal punishment in all public schools is absolutely prohibited.

BIOGRAPHIES

GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY.

WALTER EVANS EDGE.

Governor Edge was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, November 20th, 1873. Shortly afterward his father moved to Pleasantville, New Jersey, a community located five miles from Atlantic City. There the boy entered the public schools and graduated. This was all the schoolroom education that he was destined to receive, for stress of circumstances made it necessary for him to forego a college course and to earn a living.

With scarcely more than a dollar of capital, but with an ambition which is characteristic, Walter Edge started to earn money in the humble, but strenuous post of "printer's devil" at the Atlantic Review, Atlantic City's oldest newspaper. Later, at the age of sixteen, he secured a position with the Dorland Advertising Agency of Atlantic City. At the time this was merely a local business, specializing in hotel advertising. Young Edge took such a keen interest in it and displayed such aptitude that when the proprietor died, about two years later, he purchased the business.

Given a free rein under his own management, Edge aimed high. Plans for developing the business beyond Atlantic City, throughout the country and even into Europe did not prove visionary. He started a daily newspaper in Atlantic City and put into practice a co-operative advertising idea in which his newspapers, his advertising agency and newspapers thoughout the country participated. In a remarkably short time Atlantic City and its famous hotels and attractions became advertised from one end of the earth to the other. All hotel men in Atlantic City cheerfully testify to the part which Edge played in giving the map its "greatest resort." The agency developed until its field became first national, handling advertising north, south, east and west in the United States, and then international, advertising outputs of Europe. Edge opened offices in New York, London, Paris, Berlin and elsewhere. His newspaper, the Atlantic City Daily Press, progressed from a mere hotel advertising medium to the leading news medium of Atlantic City. In the meantime Edge purchased the Atlantic City Evening Union and conducted it as the afternoon edition of his morning publication. Later, as the time which he devoted to private business became wholly occupied with his growing international advertising business and his activities in home banking and other institutions, he leased both newspapers to a company, consisting of young men who had been faithful in his employ, and he is not now in any way connected with their management.

In politics, as in business, Walter Edge began as an apprentice. In business life he started as an office boy, with errands to run and floors to sweep; in public life, as one of the minor employes of the New Jersey Senate. In 1897, '98, '99 he served as Journal Clerk of the Senate, and in 1901, '02, '03, '04 was Secretary of that body. He acquired a taste for military life from responding to the call of the country at the outbreak of the war with Spain in 1898 and from his activities in the Morris Guards an independent military company of Atlantic City which mustered into the service during the Spanish-American War as Company F, Fourth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry. Edge was commissioned second lieutenant of this company. Some years later he served as captain of Company L, Third Regiment, New Jersey National Guard. He was a member of the personal staff of Governors Murphy and Stokes and subsequently was Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Ordnance Department on the staff of Major-General C. Edward Murray, New Jersey National Guard. In Atlantic City there is a Walter E. Edge Garrison of the Army and Navy Union. Edge is also the head of the Boy Scout movement in Atlantic county.

In 1904, Colonel Edge was a presidential elector and in 1908, an alternate delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention in Chicago. In 1909, he was elected to the Assembly from Atlantic county by the phenomenal plurality of 7,798 over Burgan, the Democratic candidate. Thus "phenomenal pluralities" were not exactly new to Colonel Edge when he was elected Governor in 1916 by a margin of 69,647 votes—18,003 more than the largest plurality ever received by a gubernatorial candidate in New Jersey.

Colonel Edge had the distinction of serving as Republican leader of the House of Assembly during the first year that he occupied a seat in that body. He was elected to the State Senate in 1910 by a plurality of 5,496 over Langham, Democrat. In 1912, he was the majority leader on the floor of the Senate. In 1913, the Colonel was re-elected to the Senate by a plurality of 3,990 over Shaner, Democrat. In 1915, he served as President of the Senate with much dignity, ability and impartiality. For five weeks in 1915 he was Acting-Governor of the State while Governor Fielder was attending the Panama-Pacific Exposition in California, and this brief special "term" was characterized by close application to the executive duties.

It was during his service in the Senate, however, that the Colonel carved his record for progressive legislation and made possible his famous gubernatorial slogan of "A Business Man With a Business Plan." As member of a research commission he studied conditions and statutes which resulted in the framing of the Workmen's Compensation act, one of the first practical-working laws of the kind in this country. He fathered this bill in the legislature. Besides successively completing the task of protecting working women with a ten-hour law and securing legislation safeguarding factory workers against dangerouslyconstructed workshops and occupational diseases, Senator Edge found time to serve as head of the Economy and Efficiency Commission which initiated legislation eliminating political commissions and consolidating various boards and departments of New Jersey in the interest of economy and increased efficiency. These bills he personally sponsored and fought through to final passage in the legislature against bitter political opposition. Later on he introduced the State Budget System Bill, aimed to systematize New Jersey's finances and make the Governor the responsible head of the fiscal system. Another act which he initiated, creating the Central Purchasing Bureau, is designed to save money by purchasing supplies for the State and its institutions on a wholesale scale and following a fixed standard. It was Senator Edge, too, who thought of legislation abolishing the useless State Census, which had cost $100.000.

With this comprehensive record for constructive legislation at his back, Colonel Edge entered the race for the office of Governor in 1916 on a platform of "business government." His program consisted of a pledge to apply ordinary business principles to the thirty-million-dollar business of the State of New Jersey. His outlined plan designated "the Governor as the business manager, the legislature the board of directors and the people the stockholders." The stockholders approved the record and liked the plan.

Governor Edge "inherited" a taste for public life. Two great uncles were members of the Pennsylvania Legislature and another for years was Collector of the Port of Philadelphia. His great grandfather was a judge in the courts of Pennsylvania for forty years.

On June 5th, 1907, Governor Edge married Lady Lee, only daughter of Mrs. Sarah Lee Phillips of Memphis, Tennessee. She died suddenly in July, 1915, leaving a robust baby boy, Walter Edge, Jr., who is now the bright particular star of the Edge household. The latter consists of Governor Edge, Mrs. Phillips and the little boy. The Governor's father, William Edge, a retired railroad man, and his foster mother reside in Atlantic City.

Walter Evans Edge was nominated as a candidate for Governor at the primary election held on September 26th, 1916, by a plurality of 3,611 over Austen Colgate. At the regular State election held on November 7th, 1916, he was elected Governor over H. Otto Wittpenn, Democrat, by a plurality of 69,647. He was inaugurated on January 16th, 1917, for a term of three years. His salary is $10,000 per annum.

1916—Edge, Rep., 247,343; Wittpenn, Dem., 177,696; Krafft, Soc., 12,900; Vaughan, Nat. Pro., 5,873; Butterworth, Soc.-Lab., 2,334. Edge's plurality, 69,647.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

WILLIAM HUGHES, Paterson,

Senator Hughes succeeded Senator Frank O. Briggs in the United States Senate on March 4, 1913. Mr. Hughes was chosen for Senator at the Democratic primary election held on September 24, 1912, the vote being as follows: Hughes, 62,532; Smith, 33,490; McDermott, 5,291; Wescott, 3,859. The Legislature ratified the selection.

Senator Hughes was born in Ireland, April 3, 1872. He came to this country at an early age, received a common school education, worked in the silk mills of Paterson, studied typewriting and stenography at a business college in that city and became a law student in the office of William M. Rysdyk, of the same city. He enlisted in Company A, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., in 1898, and served five months at Sea Girt and Jacksonville, Fla., during the Spanish-American war. At Sea Girt he was detailed as stenographer to Governor Voorhees and at Jacksonville to Major-General Fitzhugh Lee. When the regiment was mustered out of service he entered the law office of William Nelson. Paterson, and subsequently that of Attorney-General John W. Griggs, and in June, 1900, was admitted to the bar. He has always been closely identified with organized labor and was counsel in several important cases. He was a member of Congress eight years and was appointed Judge of Passaic county in 1912.

He resigned the office of Representaive in Congress in September, 1912, and the judgeship a short time before he took his seat in the United States Senate.

His term will expire March 3d, 1919.

JOSEPH S. FRELINGHUYSEN, Raritan.

Senator Frelinghuysen was born March 12th, 1869, at Raritan, N. J., and has always made that town his home. His ancestor, Rev. Theodorus Jacobus Frelinghuysen, came from Holland in 1720 and was the pioneer in establishing the Reformed Dutch Church in New Jersey. Major-General Frederick Frelinghuysen, who served with great distinction in the Revolutionary war, and who was a member of the Continental Congress, was his great grandfather. General John Frelinghuysen, an officer in the war of 1812, was his grandfather. Theodore Frelinghuysen, United States Senator, Chancellor of the University of New York, and candidate for Vice-President with Henry Clay on the Whig ticket, was a great uncle. His father, Frederick John Frelinghuysen, was a prominent lawyer and closely identified with the political and religious life of Somerset county.

Senator Frelinghuysen's inclination for and activity in public affairs is a natural heritage. Forced by stress of circumstances to surrender his natural inclination for a college education, he, after preparing for college at the Somerville Grammar school, obtained employment as clerk in a fire insurance office, and has since that time built up a business in New York City which is recognized as one of the foremost general agencies in the country, representing nearly a score of large and profitably conducted fire insurance companies.

Senator Frelinghuysen served eight years in Troop 3, Squadron A Cavalry, New York, and rose to the position of Second Lieutenant. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he went to the front as Second Lieutenant of the troop formed from that organization. For special services rendered in that campaign he was recommended to the President by Brigadier-General Guy V. Henry, his commanding officer, for promotion to Brevet First Lieutenant for zealous and efficient services in Porto Rico.

He served several years as chairman of the Somerset County Republican Executive Committee. In 1902, he made his first campaign for political honors as a candidate for State Senator and under the most adverse conditions was defeated by Samuel S. Childs, Democrat, by a small plurality. In 1905, he was again nominated for the same position against the same opponent, and was elected by a plurality of 1,056, and in 1908, he was re-elected to the Senate, over Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, Democrat. During his career as State Senator he has always taken a prominent part in legislation. He was the father of the famous Frelinghuysen Automobile law, generally recognized as one of the most efficient enactments on the subject yet passed in this country. He has also secured the enactment of many acts of especial benefit to the agricultural industry of the State. He was instrumental in having the live stock commission created and while serving on a special commission to investigate the school system secured knowledge which he later utilized in framing various bills for the thorough re-organization of the school system. He was one of the special committee who drafted the present Civil Service law, and in 1909, he served as chairman of the Special Committee on Finance, also other important committees and in other years he held influential assignments in the preparation of legislation.

He was party leader on the floor of the Senate in 1909, and upon the resignation of President Robbins he was unanimously elected as his successor in the chair. He was re-elected President of the Senate in 1910. During the absence of Governor Fort from the State in those years, Senator Frelinghuysen, by virtue of his position, served as Acting Governor.

He was chosen President of the State Board of Agriculture in 1912, and still holds that position. Upon the creation of the New State Board of Education in 1911, Governor Wilson appointed Mr. Frelinghuysen a member of that body for a term of two years, and in 1913 he was given a full term of eight years. He became President of the board in 1915.

Senator Frelinghuysen is active in social and philanthropic enterprises; is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce; N. J. State Chamber of Commerce; Down Town Association; Raritan Valley Grange No. 153; the Union League Club, of New York; of the Somerville Board of Trade; Solomon's Lodge No. 46, F. and A. M.; Somerville Lodge No. 885, B. P. O. E., Plainfield, and is trustee of the Somerset hospital.

At the primary election held on September 26th, 1916, for United States Senator and Governor, Senator Frelinghuysen for the former office received a plurality of 7,878 votes over ex-Governor Franklin Murphy. At the regular election held on November 7th, he received a plurality of 74,696 over James E. Martine, Democrat.

1916—Frelinghuysen, Rep., 244,715; Martine, Dem., 170,019; Doughty, Soc., 13,358; Barbour, Pro., 7,178; Katz, Soc.-Lab., 1,826.

(Population, census of 1910, 230,478.)

THOMAS J. SCULLY.

(Dem., South Amboy.)

Mr. Scully was born in South Amboy, N. J., September 19th, 1868, and is in the towing and transportation business. He received his education in the schools of his native town and at Seton Hall College, from which he was graduated with honors. His father, John Scully, established the towing business in 1874, when the Congressman was only six years old. When he left college young Scully was taken into the business by his father, and from that time dates the remarkable growth of the Scully Towing and Transportation Company.

Mr. Scully served in the South Amboy Board of Education and was Mayor of that city three years—1908-11. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions of 1908, 1912 and 1916, and Presidential Elector in the former year. He was a member of Sixty-second, Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Congresses.

(At the regular state election held November 7th, 1916, Mr. Scully was opposed by Robert Carson, Republican, of Middlesex. The original returns gave Mr. Carson eleven plurality. Mr. Scully asked for a recount of the votes in the district, and it was granted by Justice Kalisch of the Supreme Court. When the State Board of Canvassers met on November 28th, the recount had not been finished. An adjournment was taken to December 12th, again to December 28th, and then to January 8th, when the full returns of the recount, giving Mr. Scully a plurality of 202, were laid before the Board, and he was given a certificate of election.)

FOURTH DISTRICT.

Hunterdon, Somerset and Mercer Counties. (Population, census of 1910, 198,046.)

ELIJAH C. HUTCHINSON. (Rep., Trenton.)

Mr. Hutchinson was born at Windsor, Mercer county, N. J., August 7th, 1855, and is a merchant miller. He has been treasurer of the Trenton Bone and Fertilizer Company since its organization in July, 1889, and its manager since 1892. He does a large business with his flour mill and grain elevator, which are situated in Hamilton township, also President of the Trenton Flour Mills Co. in Trenton, and has large interests in two potteries, being Vice-President of N. J. China Pottery Co. and Treasurer of Cochran, Drugan & Co., and is a Director of Broad St. Bank and Mercer Trust Co. He was a director of the Inter-State Fair Association, and was its first treasurer, having served three years in that position. Mr. Hutchinson was elected to the House of Assembly in 1895 by a plurality of 3,273, and in 1896 by the increased plurality of 7,736. In 1898 he was chosen for the State Senate by a plurality of 1,461 over his Democratic opponent, Bayard Stockton, and in 1901 he was re-elected by the increased plurality of 1,904 over former Judge Robert S. Woodruff, Democrat.

During his career in the Legislature the Congressman always took an active interest in the affairs of that body and was ever alert for the promotion of the welfare of the State and particularly of his own constituency. In the session of 190° he served :s President of the Senate, when he discharged the duties of that office with marked ability and impartiality. He was complimented at the close of the session by his colleagues for his record as a presiding officer, the leader of the Democratic minority presenting a resolution expressing the fullest approbation of the Senate at the manner in which he had presided over the deliberations of that body and which was unanimously adopted.

On January 3d, 1905, Governor Stokes nominated Mr. Hutchinson to the office of State Road Commissioner and he was at once confirmed by the Senate for a term of three years. In a short time after his assumption of the duties of the position he reorganized the department not only in the method of road building, but also the work of the office, which assiduity proved beneficial to the State and all concerned.

In 1914 Mr. Hutchinson was elected to the National House of Representatives, and in 1916 re-elected by a plurality of 1,205 over Beekman, Democrat.

1916—Hutchinson, Rep., 18,131; Beekman, Dem., 16,-926; Van Nest, Soc., 744; Lunger, Pro., 500.

Senator Gaunt was born in Mantua township, Gloucester county, September 9th, 1865, on the "Homestead Farm," residing there until March 5th, 1901, when he purchased the farm he now owns and operates near Mullica Hill. Mr. Gaunt was educated in the public schools of the county, graduating from the Deptford school, Woodbury. He is regarded as an authority on all matters pertaining to agriculture, a successful farmer and a man of wonderful executive ability, which has been best shown by the rapid and substantial growth made by the New Jersey State Grange during his fourteen years as Master; an organization which has grown in membership from approximately 3,000 to 25,000 during his incumbency as Master.

He was not new to the legislative methods as his voice had been often heard prior to his election to the Senate before committees of that body in the interests of legislation concerning the agricultural and dairy interests of the State.

He served the National Grange as Lecturer for four years, and at its 1909 session, held in Des Moines, Iowa, was honored by election to High Priest, the highest official position within the gift of the Grange. In 1913 he was again elected Lecturer of the National Grange for a term of two years. In 1908 he was elected to the Senate by a plurality of 524 over Newton, Democrat.

His first year in the Senate was made especially eventful by his strong, earnest and successful fight for the passage of the "Trolley Freight Bill." Subsequently he took an active part in Public Utility, Cold Storage, Commission on Tuberculosis in Animals, Good Roads and Automobile legislation. He introduced and had passed the Fifty-year Franchise act. He was re-elected to the Senate in 1911 by a plurality of 518 over George B. Hurff, Democrat. He has served as chairman of the Committees on Agriculture, Appropriation, Public Health, New Jersey Reformatory, and as a member of the Committees on Federal Relations, Sinking Fund and Treasurer's Accounts.

He was elected a director of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank under the provisions of the Federal Reserve act by the 264 Banks in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware of group 3, class B and was re-elected in 1915 for a term of three years.

In 1914 the Senator was given a third term by the increased plurality of 1,115 over Allen, Democrat. He is the only Senator who was ever given such a long tenure of office in Gloucester county since the adoption of the Constitution in 1844.

Upon the resignation of William T. Read as President of the Senate on March 29th, 1916, Mr. Gaunt was chosen to fill the vacancy. He served as Acting Governor when Governor Fielder was absent from the State. During the session the Senator served as chairman of the Committees on Agriculture, Education, Highways and Village for Epileptics, and as a member of the Committees on Appropriations, Railroads and Canals and Home for Feeble Minded Children.

VACANCY.

Senator William W. Smalley died at his home in Bound Brook, December 27, 1916, at the age of sixty-six years.

The Newark Evening News, in reference to the sad occurrence, editorially said:

"No issue of importance to come before the Legislature this winter will be affected by the death of Senator William W. Smalley, yet the influence of the representative from Somerset County will be greatly missed. A Republican, he was about to enter the final year of his second term in the Senate, he had served four terms in the Assembly, and his whole record was clear.

"Everybody familiar with politics in New Jersey knew where to find Mr. Smalley's name in any division on important measures. He was no blind follower of party bosses. In fact, he was the leader in the Legislature on all matters concerning appropriations during the past two sessions, when he was chairman of the joint appropriations committee. Democrats as well as Republicans followed his leadership in state financial matters. He was a conservative man of affairs, thoroughly competent, the best type of a business man in state government rather than a politician. He never acquired the title of 'watchdog of the treasury,' but he lived up to that sobriquet, so frequently abused. He was a recognized force for good at Trenton, a Christian gentleman, in whose passing the state suffers a distinct loss."

THE JUDICIARY.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

JOHN RELLSTAB, Trenton.

Judge Rellstab, who was born in Trenton, N. J., September 19, 1858, is a son of John and Theresa (Schaidnagel) Relistab, the former a native of Switzerland and the latter of Bavaria. He obtained his education in the parish school of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church and the public schools of the city of Trenton. Before he was fourteen years of age he began to learn the pottery trade. During the latter part of his apprenticeship he began the study of law at night, having entered his name with the late Levi T. Hannum. In order to complete his law studies he left the trade of potter after becoming a journeyman and took a clerical position in the office of the New Jersey Pottery Company, later taking charge of the company's salesrooms in New York City and subsequently becoming salesman on the western and southern routes for the same firm. At a later period he served in the capacity of commercial traveler for the East Trenton pottery. Having chosen law as his profession, he kept steadily on with that one end in view and was finally admitted to the bar at the November term. 1882, and as a counselor at the November term, 1889. At one time he was a partner of the late Judge James Buchanan. He served in the capacity of solicitor for the borough of Chambersburg from 1884 to 1888, and for the city of Trenton from 1889 to 1892, and from 1894 to 1896. In the last-named year he was made Judge of the District Court for the city of Trenton, serving until 1900, when he was made Judge of Mercer county. He was reappointed to the latter office in 1905. In politics Judge Rellstab is a staunch supporter of Republican principles. In religious faith he adheres to that of the Presbyterian Church, in which he is a ruling elder and teacher of the men's Bible class. He is one of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Work of the same society, the chairman of the Advisory Board of the Florence Crittendon Mission, and a member of the Board of Managers of the New Jersey Children's Home Society. He was appointed United States District Judge on May 6, 1909, and was confirmed on May 18. He was succeeded by Frederick W. Gnichtel as Judge of the Mercer County Court.

His salary is $6,000 a year and his office is a life tenure.

THOMAS G. HAIGHT, Jersey City.

Judge Haight was born at Colts Neck, near Freehold, New Jersey, August 4th, 1879, and is a son of

He obtained his education at the Freehold Military Institute and Princeton University. He attended the New York Law School, from which he was graduated in 1900, with a degree of LL.B., and also served a clerkship in the office of Edmund Wilson, formerly attorney-general of New Jersey. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar as an attorney in November, 1900, and as counselor in February, 1904. He began the practice of law in Jersey City as managing clerk for Queen & Tennant, with which firm he continued until its dissolution in January, 1905, when he formed a partnership with the junior member, George G. Tennant. This partnership continued until Mr. Tennant was appointed judge of the Hudson County Common Pleas Court by Governor Wilson, in 1913. In 1911 he was appointed assistant city attorney of Jersey City by Mayor Wittpenn, and continued as such until he resigned in March, 1913, to become county counsel of Hudson county, which latter position he held until his appointment to the Federal bench. In February, 1914, he was appointed United States District Judge for the District of New Jersey by President Wilson.

In politics, Judge Haight has always been a Democrat, and until his appointment to the bench was active in the independent branch of that party in Hudson county. He was a delegate to the Baltimore convention, from the twelfth New Jersey Congressional District, and worked diligently for the nomination of Governor Wilson for the Presidency.

In 1905, Judge Haight married Annie M. Crater, daughter of the late David S. Crater, who was secretary of State of New Jersey. He is a nephew of the late General Charles Haight, for many years prosecutor of Monmouth county.

J. WARREN DAVIS, Salem.

Judge Davis was born in Elizabeth City, N. C., March 4th, 1867, and spent his boyhood days at that place and at Norfolk, Va., where his father, John Smithson Davis, moved when the District Attorney was a boy. He received his early education at Elizabeth City and Norfolk in the public schools. He prepared for college at Chester Academy, Chester, Pa., and graduated valedictorian of his class in 1892. He graduated from Bucknell University in 1896, from Crozer Theological Seminary in 1899, at both of which places he was one of the commencement speakers. Upon his graduation at Crozer he was elected instructor in Hebrew and Greek. He pursued past graduate studies in history and philosophy at the University of Chicago in 1901, and at the University of Leipsic, Germany, in 1902 and 1903, during which time he took lectures at the Universities of Berlin and Halle. He returned to America and entered the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania in 1904, and graduated in 1906, since which time he has practiced law with his brother, James Mercer Davis, of Mount Holly, N. J., under the firm name of Davis & Davis, with their principal office in the Security Trust Building, Camden, N. J. He is a member of the bar of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and of the State bar associations of both States.

He has the degrees of A.B., A.M., B.D. and B.L.

He was one of the charter members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity in college, and was a member of the Supreme Executive Committee, the executive of the fraternity-at-large for two years, being Worthy Grand Master of Ceremonies, having charge of the secret work of the fraternity. He was District Grand Master of the Second District, extending from Connecticut to Virginia, for two years. He is a member of the following fraternal organizations: Masons, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Mechanics, P. O. S. of A., Grange, Knights of Pythias, Loyal Order of Moose, Tall Cedars and Eagles.

In 1911 he was elected to the Senate of New Jersey from Salem county by a plurality of 732 over William Plummer, Jr., his predecessor in office. Mr. Davis served as Senator until June 4th, 1913, when he was appointed District Attorney for the State of New Jersey. He filled that office until May 29th, 1916, when he qualified as a Judge of the U.S. District Court for New Jersey.

COURT OF CHANCERY.

Chancellor.

EDWIN ROBERT WALKER, Trenton.

(Term seven years, salary $13,000 per annum.)

Chancellor Walker was born in Rochester, New York, September 13th, 1862, where his father, Dr. Walter Walker, practiced medicine and surgery, but since 1869 he has lived in Trenton, the home of his maternal ancestors, two of whom were officers in the American army during the Revolutionary war, and one of whom was State Treasurer of New Jersey.

Mr. Walker went to the Model School until 1878. when he left to become clerk in the office of the late Hon. Henry S. Little, then Clerk in Chancery. While serving a clerkship in the Chancery office he studied law with the late Col. S. Meredith Dickinson and afterwards with Judge Garret D. W. Vroom. He was admitted to the bar at the June term of the Supreme Court, 1886, and at once thereafter commenced the practice of his profession, in which he was actively engaged until appointed to the bench. In 1891-92 Mr. Walker was counsel for the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Mercer, and in 1892-93 was city counsel for the corporation of Trenton. Mr. Walker was Judge-Advocate of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., with the rank of Captain in 1906, and in 1907 was made Judge-Advocate of the Second Brigade with the rank of Major. He was appointed Vice-Chancellor by Chancellor Magie on October 29, 1907, for a full term of seven years, to succeed Vice-Chancellor Bergen, who resigned to become a Justice of the Supreme Court. On March 18th, 1912, Governor Wilson nominated Mr. Walker for the office of Chancellor to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Chancellor Mahlon Pitney, and he was promptly confirmed by the Senate.

The Chancellor is a Democrat in politics. His term expires March 18th, 1919.

Vice-Chancellors.

(Term seven years, salary $12,000 a year.)

Vice-Chancellor Stevens was born in Hoboken, N. J., June 9th, 1846. He was graduated from Columbia Law College in 1865; was admitted to the bar of New Jersey as an attorney in November, 1868, and as a counselor three years later. He first came into public life in 1873, when he was appointed Judge of the Second District Court of Newark. He remained in that position for two years. In 1859 the Judge was appointed County Counsel of Essex county. and filled that office for some years. Although he has not held any other public offices. Mr. Stevens has always been a prominent figure in some of the biggest legal fights ever made in the State and County Courts. One of those was the settlement of the back taxes of the Delaware. Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company. In that case he and Judge Dillon acted as arbitrators. He is a member of the Ecclesiastical Law Committee of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Newark, and, with the late Cortlandt Parker, revised all of the canons governing that body. He was appointed Vice-Chancellor in 1896, as a successor to John T. Bird. In 1903 he was appointed for another term, and again in 1910. In politics he is a Democrat. His term will expire April 4th, 1917.

EUGENE STEVENSON, Paterson.

Vice-Chancellor Stevenson was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 28, 1849. He moved to Paterson with his parents in 1866, and has since resided there. He was graduated from the New York University as a Bachelor of Arts in the class of 1870, and was also graduated from the Law Department of the same institution. Subsequently he entered the law office of Socrates Tuttle, father-in-law of the late Vice-President Hobart, where he continued his studies. In June, 1874, Mr. Stevenson was admitted to the bar as an attorney-at-law, and three years later was made a counsellor. In 1881 he was appointed a Prosecutor of the Pleas for Passaic county by Governor Ludlow. He served a full term of five years in that office. He did not seek a reappointment. Since that time he has never held a public office, although he has often been sought as a candidate for such. Prior to his elevation to the bench he enjoyed a very large practice in the higher courts of the State. He was appointed Vice-Chancellor on April 16, 1901, for a full term of seven years. He was reappointed in 1908 and again in 1915. In politics he is a Democrat. His term will expire in 1922.

EDMUND B. LEAMING, Camden.

Vice-Chancellor Leaming, who was born at Seaville, Cape May county, N. J., fifty-eight years ago, is the son of ex-Senator and Dr. Jonathan F. Leaming and a brother of Dr. Walter S. Leaming, now deceased, who also served as Senator from Cape May. The Vice-Chancellor was, with his brother, educated under a private tutor, and subsequently as a post graduate in the University of Pennsylvania, and thereafter studied law with the late Judge and former Congressman James Buchanan in Trenton. United States Judge William M. Lanning, Congressman Ira Wood, Prosecutor of the Pleas Eugene Emley, Alfred L. Black, Samuel W. Beldon and Samuel Walker, Jr., were law students in Trenton at the same time and prepared for the bar with Vice-Chancellor Leaning. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney in February, 1881, and as a counselor in February, 1884. From Trenton he went to Seattle, and then to San Francisco, where he practiced his profession for a brief period. Upon his return to New Jersey he formed a co-partnership with Samuel W. Beldon. Upon its dissolution by the appointment of Mr. Beldon as general counsel of the Fidelity Trust Company, at Newark, N. J., he practiced by himself in Camden and until he was appointed Vice-Chancellor by Chancellor Magle on September 21, 1906, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Martin P. Grey. In 1913 he was appointed for another term by Chancellor Walker. In politics he is a Republican. His term will expire in 1920.

VIVIAN M. LEWIS, Paterson.

Vice-Chancellor Lewis was born at Paterson, N. J., June 8th, 1869. Prior to his admission to the bar he was engaged as correspondent of several New York newspapers. He was appointed judge-advocate of the old Second Regiment, National Guard, in July, 1896, and served until the reorganization in 1899, when he was placed on the retired list with the rank of captain. He was elected to the Assembly in 1898, 1899 and 1900, and was leader of the Republican majority on the floor of the House during his last term. He was for many years one of the counsel of the State Board of Health. He was elected City Counsel of Paterson in 1904 for a full term of office, but resigned upon his appointment by Governor Murphy as Clerk in Chancery, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Edward C. Stokes, who was elected Governor. He was nominated for a full term of office in 1905, by Governor Stokes, and was confirmed by the Senate. He served in that office until April, 1909, when he was appointed Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, which office he held until April 3d, 1912, when he was appointed a Vice-Chancellor by Chancellor Walker. He was the Republican candidate for Governor in 1910. His term will expire in 1919.

JOHN H. BACKES, Trenton.

Vice-Chancellor Backes was born in Trenton, N. J., August 18th, 1863. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney at the November term, 1884, and in February, 1888, he was licensed as a counsellor. He has always practiced his profession in Trenton. In politics he is a Democrat.

He succeeds John Franklin Fort, who had resigned upon his nomination as the Republican candidate for Governor. He served as Assistant Adjutant General of the State from 1902 to 1907, after twelve years enlisted and commissioned service in the Essex Troop and Fourth Regiment, and was aide de camp on the staff of Governor Franklin Murphy, during the latter's term of office. In politics the Justice is a Republican. His term will expire in 1921. He was re-appointed by Governor Fielder in 1914 and was promptly confirmed by the Senate. His circuit comprises the counties of Morris, Bergen and Somerset. Population, 304,233.

JAMES J. BERGEN, Somerville.

Justice Bergen is a lineal descendant of Han Hanson Bergen, who came from Holland to New York city and was the progenitor of nearly all those bearing the name in America. He married Sarah Rappelyea, who, it is said, was the first white child born in the New Netherlands. Mr. Bergen's New Jersey ancestor was a grandson of the original emigrant, and owned considerable tracts of land in the counties of Somerset and Hunterdon. The family is among the oldest of the Holland-Dutch settlers in this country, and its members have always been conspicuous in business, professional and public affairs.

The Justice is a son of John J. and Mary A. (Park) Bergen, and was born October 1, 1847, in Somerville, N. J., where he has always resided. He attended the old brick academy in his native town, and was graduated from Calvin Butler Seminary of the same place in 1863. At the age of seventeen he entered upon the study of law with the late Hugh M. Gaston, of Somerville, with whom he remained until he was admitted as an attorney at the November term in 1868. During the following year he practised his profession in Plainfield, N. J. On January 1, 1870, he returned to Somerville and formed a law partnership with his preceptor, Mr. Gaston, which was continued under the firm name of Gaston & Bergen for twenty years, when Mr. Gaston withdrew. He was made a counselor in November, 1871.

He was elected to the Legislature in 1875, 1876, 1890 and 1891, serving as Speaker of the Assembly during the sessions of 1891 and 1892, and in 1896 was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention. In 1877 he was appointed by Governor Bedle as Prosecutor of the Pleas of Somerset county, which office he held for six years. He was president of the Board of Commissioners of Somerville and of the savings bank for a long time, and has been a director of the First National Bank of that place. He was especially active in organizing police and fire departments, and is credited with creating the public sentiment which made possible the introduction of a sewage system and other public improvements in Somerville.

In March, 1904, he was appointed a Vice-Chancellor by Chancellor Magie for a full term of seven years, and on October 11, 1907, Governor Stokes sent his nomination as a Justice of the Supreme Court to the Senate, which was confirmed without reference. He took the oath of office on October 16, 1907. His term will expire October 11th, 1921. He was re-appointed by Governor Fielder in 1914 and was promptly confirmed by the Senate. His circuit comprises the counties of Union and Middlesex. Population, 312,038. In politics he is a Democrat.

JAMES F. MINTURN, Hoboken.

Justice Minturn was born at Hoboken, N. J., July 16th, 1860. He was educated in the Hoboken public schools and the Martha Institute. Afterward he entered college, but was forced to retire owing to ill health, and he completed his studies under the tutelage of Prof. Louis Barton, a graduate of Rutgers College. He was graduated from the Columbia College Law School, New York, with the degree of LL.B. He then entered the office of Ogden & Niven in Hoboken and there completed his study of New Jersey law. He was admitted to the bar of New York as an attorney and counselor. In 1884 he was appointed Corporation Attorney of Hoboken and was retained in that office until he became a Circuit Judge, twenty-one years altogether, despite political changes in administration.

He represented Hoboken in many notable law suits, carrying them through the highest courts of the State and the United States Courts. In 1889 he represented that city in the dispute over the ownership of the river front, in which the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company were parties in litigation. The case went through the State Courts and was taken to the United States Supreme Court.

The Justice was counsel for the late Henry George in the celebrated case of the John Hutchins will, of Camden, in which considerable money was bequeathed for the circulation of George's works. After going through the Court of Chancery, it was taken on appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals, where the claim of Mr. George was sustained. Mr. Minturn at one time declined the appointment of District Court Judge of Hoboken. He was one of the organizers of the Hudson County and State Bar associations. In 1903 he wrote an article, which appeared in the New Jersey Law Journal, discussing the proposed constitutional amendments, taking the ground, while not opposing them, that they were insufficient for the relief of the courts. He also contributed to Belford's Magazine an article, entitled "The Iniquities of the Tariff." A Latin scholar and linguist, he is also an orator and a lecturer of high rank.

In 1884 Mr. Minturn was appointed Judge-Advocate of the old Second Regiment, National Guard, and served seven years and until the regiment was amalgamated with the Fourth. He is an honorary member of the DeLong Guards of Hoboken. He has always taken an active interest in military affairs and has won several medals at the Sea Girt ranges and qualified as an expert marksman.

The Justice was one of the organizers of the Free Public Library of Hoboken and of the State Charitles Aid Association. He also helped organize the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and was its counsel for several years. He has been president of the First National Bank of Guttenburg and vice-president of the Ocean County Trust Company.

He was elected Senator in Hudson county in 1904 and served in that office until he took his seat as Circuit Judge. He was nominated for the Judgeship by Governor Stokes on June 21, 1907, was unanimously confirmed by the Senate and was sworn into office on July 31. On January 22, 1908, he was nominated by Governor Fort as Justice of the Supreme Court, and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. The degree of LL.D. was conferred on the Justice at Seton Hall College in June, 1908.

He was nominated for another term in 1915 by Governor Fielder and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

In politics he is a Democrat, and his term will expire in 1922. His circuit comprises the counties of Passaic and Sussex. Population, 262,341.

SAMUEL KALISCH, Newark.

Justice Kalisch was born in Cleveland, Ohio, April 18, 1851. He is a son of Isidor Kalisch, D.D., a noted Jewish divine, who was a pioneer in the establishment of Reformed Judaism in this country and died in Newark in 1886. Mr. Kalisch was educated in the public schools of Lawrence, Mass., and Detroit, Mich., and was also under the private tutelage of his father. He was graduated from the Columbia College Law School, New York, with the degree of LL. B. in 1870, and was in the office of the late William B. Guild, Jr., until he was admitted to the bar. He was city attorney of the city of Newark in 1875. He devoted himself to a general practice of the law and built up an extensive and lucrative practice. He was one of the most prominent trial lawyers in the state and was counsel in many notable cases, both civil and criminal. In politics he is a Democrat. His term will expire in 1918. His circuit comprises the counties of Monmouth, Burlington and Ocean. Population, 205,-024.

Judge White was born on his father's farm near Mount Holly, Burlington county, N. J., August 16, 1863. He is the eldest son of Josiah White and Mary Kirby (Allen) White, the ancestors of both of whom have been earnest members of and often prominent ministers in the Society of Friends in New Jersey and Pennsylvania since the first of them came to America, attracted by William Penn's "Invitation to Friends" emigrated thither in search of religious liberty during the latter part of the seventeenth century. Among these direct ancestors of Judge White who thus emigrated to America were Christopher White, who came in 1677 and settled at Alloways creek, Salem county, N. J.; William Haines, who settled at Bur lington in 1682: also Samuel Smith, in 1694, who was a member of Assembly until his death in 1718; Joseph Kirkbride, who came to Philadelphia in 1682, and Mahlon Stacy, who settled in what is now South Trenton, in 1678, all from England, and besides these other distinguished ancestors from the same country. Another ancestor was Isaac Shoemaker, from Cresheim (now Kriegshein) on the Rhine, who was one of a party of eighty German Quakers who founded Germantown.

Judge White attended Swarthmore College two years, leaving at the end of his sophomore year to enter as a student of law in the office of Nathan H. Sharpless, one of the leaders of the Philadelphia bar. He also attended the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, receiving his B. L. degree in 1884. He was admitted the same year to the bars of Philadelphia and Delaware counties, and three years later to the bar of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. He continued in active practice in Philadelphia until 1901, when he removed to Atlantic City and with his father and two brothers built the Marlborough-Blenheim hotel, of which they have since continued to be the sole owners and managers.

On June 14, 1911, he was appointed by Governor

Wilson a lay judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Judge George R. Gray. In politics the Judge is a Republican. On January 29th, 1912, the Jüdge was nominated for a full term of office and was duly confirmed by the Senate. His term will expire in 1918.

STATE OFFICERS.

Secretary of State.

THOMAS F. MARTIN.

Mr. Martin was born in Hartford, Conn., January 30th, 1868. He is a newspaper editor and publisher by profession and for the past fifteen years he has been the owner and editor of the Hudson Dispatch, published at Union Hill, Hudson county. This paper has grown from a local daily to one which now has an extensive circulation throughout the county of Hudson and a State-wide influence.

Mr. Martin is a member of Palisade Council No. 483, Knights of Columbus, the Cartaret Club of Jersey City, and a charter member of the North Hudson Board of Trade. His legislative career began in 1911. He served in the House of Assembly that year, in 1912, and again in 1913. He was again elected to the House of 1915, when he was chosen as the leader of the Democratic members on the floor.

Mr. Martin takes more gratification out of the result of his efforts in connection with the attempt to enact Morris Canal legislation than any other bill in the passage or defeat of which he played any part. As the Democratic leader Mr. Martin vigorously opposed legislation that he thought would prove detrimental to the best interests of the State, and time has justified the position taken by him.

When Governor Fielder was called upon to name a new Secretary of State because of the death of David S. Crater, the then secretary, Mr. Martin was accorded a tribute such as has never before been extended to any man in this State. Every member of the House of Assembly, of which he was a member, waited upon the Governor, and regardless of their politics, they asked for the naming of Mr. Martin to the place. Governor Fielder named Mr. Martin as Secretary of State, April 5th, 1915, for a term of five years. The salary is $6,000 per year.

Assistant Secretary of State.

WILLIAM L. DILL, Paterson.

Mr. Dill was born in Freeburgh, Pa., March 15th, 1874. His father was Major William H. Dill, commander of the famous 118th Regiment N. Y. Vol. Inf., and one of the foremost educators in the State of Pennsylvania at the time of his death.

Mr. Dill came to New Jersey in 1888 and at once engaged in the fire and life insurance business; he was named by the late John Hinchliffe as private secretary to the mayor in 1902, and served in that capacity during the fire, floods and labor troubles which trinity of disasters made Paterson famous the world over. After his retirement from the mayor's office on December 31st, 1903, he was named secretary of the Passaic River Flood District Commission and upon the completion of this work was appointed secretary of the Taxpayers' Association of Paterson, a civic organization banded together to do the work which a Board of Trade would have done, had such a body existed in the silk city. He resigned this position to become clerk to the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners in 1908 and remained with such board until December 31st, 1913, when he resigned.

Mr. Dill was for many years secretary to the Democratic Senate Minority and when his party assumed control of the Senate, he was unanimously chosen by his party as Senate Secretary for the years 1913 and 1914. He was a member of the Passaic County Board of Taxation for four years, serving as president during the last three years of his term. Mr. Dill resigned from the tax board to assume the duties of Assistant Secretary of State, to which office he was appointed on April 5th, 1915. His term will expire in 1920.

In politics Mr. Dill has always been an ardent Democrat and is regarded as one of the best organizers within the ranks of his party. His acquaintance is State wide. He is at present secretary of the Democratic State Committee.

State Treasurer.

He was also a member of the Jury Reform Commission. He was minority leader on the floor of the Senate in 1913 and 1914, and majority leader in 1915. He was President of the Senate in 1916 and discharged the duties of the office with much ability and impartiality. He resigned the office of State Senator on March 29th, and became State Treasurer on April 1st, His term is three years and will expire March 1st, 1919. His salary is $6,000 per annum.

State Comptroller.

The term of Edward I. Edwards who was elected State Comptroller February 7th, 1911, and re-elected in 1914, expired on February 20th, 1917. His successor was not elected when this part of the Manual went to press.

State Purchasing Agent.

EDWARD E. GROSSCUP, Wenonah.

Mr. Grosscup was born in Bridgeton, Cumberland county, August 2, 1860, and is a son of the late Charles C. and Anna D. Grosscup. The father, Charles C. Grosscup, was a member of the Legislature in 1870 and 1871.

Mr. Grosscup, the subject of this sketch, has been prominent in Democratic politics in New Jersey for years. In 1896 he was the candidate of his party in Cumberland county for sheriff and in 1898 was the Democratic nominee in the same county for State Senator against Governor Edward C. Stokes.

In 1899 Mr. Grosscup changed his residence from Cumberland to Gloucester county and in the latter county in 1906 was the opponent of ex-Senator J. Boyd Avis for the Assembly. In 1908 Mr. Grosscup was the Democratic candidate for Congress in the first district against Congressman Henry C. Loudenslager. For years Mr. Grosscup served as a member of the State Board of Education. He is at present member of the Democratic State Committee, representing Gloucester county, and while a resident of Cumberland county served in a similar capacity as representative of that county.

Mr. Grosscup is extensively engaged in real estate operations. Governor Wilson nominated him as a member of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes on April 20, 1911, for a term of five years and he was immediately confirmed by the Senate.

He resigned that office to assume the duties of State Treasurer, for which he was chosen by a joint meeting of the Legislature held on January 28th, 1913. On August 24th, 1911, he was elected Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and he was re-elected in 1913-16. He rendered very effective service to his party during the Presidential campaign of 1912, and in the Gubernatorial campaign of 1913, and also did hard work in the Presidential and Gubernatorial campaign of 1916. He was nominated as Purchasing Agent by Governor Fielder March 21st, 1916, and unanimously confirmed by the Senate on the twenty-ninth of that month. His term is five years and salary, $5,000 a year.

Attorney-General.

JOHN WESLEY WESCOTT, Camden.

Mr. Wescott was born at Waterford, N. J., February 20th, 1849. He received a common school education under Charles T. Reed, whom he afterward succeeded as judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Camden county. He served in that office from 1884 until 1887. At the age of sixteen Mr. Wescott entered Wilbraham Academy, Massachusetts, and was graduated three years later. Then he entered Yale College and spent four years in the classical department and three years in the law department. In 1872 he was graduated from the former and in 1876 from the latter.

In 1876 Mr. Wescott was admitted to the Connecticut bar; in 1878 was admitted as an attorney, and in 1881 as a counselor of the New Jersey bar. He began his practice in Camden in 1879 and subsequently was appointed a special master in Chancery. He was a Presidental elector on the Cleveland ticket in 1892 Mr. Wescott nominated Frank S. Katzenbach as a candidate for Governor in opposition to Woodrow Wilson at the Democratic convention in 1910, and in 1912 as chairman of the New Jersey delegation at the Baltimore National Convention nominated Woodrow Wilson as a candidate for President of the United States. He is a life-long Democrat and a member of the Masonic fraternity.

On January 20th, 1914, Governor Fielder nominated Mr. Wescott to the office of attorney-general and he was promptly confirmed by the Senate. His term is five years and salary $7,000 a year.

Assistant Attorney-General.

HERBERT BOGGS, Newark,

Mr. Boggs was born at Swedesboro, New Jersey. He graduated from Rutgers College, and studied law with the firm of Parker & Keasbey of Newark; was admitted as attorney-at-law in November, 1876, and as counselor in November, 1879. Since his admission to the bar, he has practiced his profession and resided in Newark. He was appointed assistant attorney-general in March, 1914, to succeed Nelson B. Gaskill. He was city attorney of Newark from April, 1900, to January, 1903, and again from 1911 until his appointment as assistant attorney-general.

Second Assistant Attorney-General.

THEODORE BACKES, Trenton.

Mr. Backes was born in Trenton, N. J., March 10th, 1873. He studied law with the late Attorney-General Stockton, having entered his employ in the attorney-general's department in the year 1890. He took charge of the attorney-general's department in the year 1894, when the late William Y. Johnson was compelled to leave the same by reason of illness, which resulted in his death the following year. He was admitted as an attorney-at-law of the Supreme Court in 1898, having previously practiced the art of stenography, and was admitted as a counselor-at-law in 1903, and has been continuously in the attorney-general's department from the time of his first employment in the early part of 1890. He was appointed second assistant attorney-general in 1913 by the Hon. Edmund Wilson, after the passage of an act of the Legislature for that purpose. Under the terms of the act under which he was appointed, he has no fixed term of office, but is in the exempt class of the Civil Service Law. His salary is $4,800 per year. Mr. Backes is the youngest of five brothers who are members of the bar of this State.

Adjutant-General

CHARLES W. BARBER, Woodbury.

General Barber, Major U. S. Army, retired, was born near Woodbury, New Jersey, on September 21st, 1872. He attended the New Jersey public schools and graduated from Pierce Business College in Philadelphia. At various times he was in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company's transportation department in Philadelphia, of G. G. Green of Woodbury, of the Electric Storage Battery Company of Philadelphia and of the Hon. S. H. Grey, a former attorney-general of New Jersey, under whom he was a clerk and law student.

He served as a member of the National Guard of New Jersey from May 31st, 1890, until October 11th, 1899, as a private, corporal and then Second Lieutenant of Company E, Sixth Regiment, and later Company I, Third Regiment, voluntarily resigning in October, 1899, on his departure for the Philippine Islands with the 28th U. S. Volunteers.

General Barber entered the military service of the United States in July, 1898, as Second Lieutenant of the 4th New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, and served with the regiment at Sea Girt, N. J., Camp Meade, Pa., and Greenville, S. C., until muster-out with the regiment in March, 1899.

He was commissioned First Lieutenant of the 28th U. S. Volunteer Infantry in July 1899, and served during all its Philippine expeditions until mustered out in May, 1901, and was commissioned Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army in July following; served in the Philippine Islands from May, 1902, one year and then again from 1906 to 1908. He served in all grades until he reached the rank of Major. He was detailed on detached service with the Isthmian Canal Commission and was assigned to duty with the Department of Civil Administration by Colonel Goethals. His Panama service extended from 1909 to 1915. He retired from active service on September 1st, 1916, and was appointed Adjutant-General of New Jersey in December, 1916, by Governor Fielder, and by Governor Edge in January, 1917, as a successor to General Sadler who died November 10th, 1916.

Quartermaster-General.

C. EDWARD MURRAY, Trenton.

General Murray was born in Lambertville, N. J., July 17th, 1863. He is the only son of J. Howard Murray and Wilhelmina Solliday Murray, and came to Trenton with his parents in 1865. He received his education at the State Model School and the Stewart Business College. In 1883 he became associated with his father in the mechanical rubber manufacturing business. In 1892 he became sole proprietor of the business, and to-day has other large manufacturing interests. From boyhood he has taken a great deal of interest in affairs of the city of Trenton, as well as the Republican party, and in 1894 he was elected City Clerk, which office he kept until he declined re-election in 1904. In 1900 he represented the Second Congressional District as alternate to the National Republican Convention and in 1904 was elected a delegate to represent the Fourth Congressional District at the National Republican Convention.

His military career began with his enlistment in Company A, Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. J., December 12, 1885. On June 30, 1890, the late Brigadier-General William H. Skirm, then Colonel of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. J., appointed him Paymaster of the Regiment with the rank of first lieutenant. On June 30, 1895, he was commissioned Captain and Paymaster. On May 2, 1899, he was retired under the act reorganizing the National Guard. March 8, 1905, Governor Edward C. Stokes appointed him Quartermaster-General, to succeed the late Brevet Major-General Richard A. Donnelly, and was commissioned Brigadier-General April 5, 1905.

General Murray is one of the best known and most popular among the public men of Trenton. He has distinguished himself as a leader of his party and many of its victories in Trenton and Mercer county are mostly to his credit. He has a host of friends among people of all shades of political opinion, and as an employer of labor he stands high in the estimation of wage workers.

Clerk of the Supreme Court.

WILLIAM C. GEBHARDT, Clinton.

Mr. Gebhardt was born at Croton, Hunterdon county, N. J., March 28, 1859, and is a lawyer. He was graduated at the Clinton Institute, and was admitted to the bar at the June term, 1884, as an attorney, and at the June term, 1887, as a counselor. He began the practice of his profession at Clinton, N. J., and still retains an office there, having one also at 259 Washington street, Jersey City. He served as Corporation Counsel of the town of Clinton for ten years, and as President of the Board of Education three years. He has also filled the position of School Principal. In 1900 he was elected to the State Senate by a plurality of 1,281, in 1906 was again elected by a plurality of 961, and in 1909 was re-elected for a third term by a majority of 2,237. This was the largest majority ever given a Senator in Hunterdon county, and Mr. Gebhardt was the only Senator who was ever elected for more than one term in Hunterdon since the adoption of the new State Constitution. During his legislative career he served on important committees, took an active part in the business of the Senate, and made a most creditable record. Governor Wilson appointed him to the office of Clerk of the Supreme Court, February 19th, 1913, to succeed Joseph P. Tumulty, who had resigned to become Secretary to the President of the United States, and Mr. Gebhardt was at once confirmed by the Senate. His term is five years, and salary $6,000 per annum. His term expires March 1st, 1918.

Clerk in Chancery.

ROBERT H. McADAMS, Elizabeth.

Mr. McAdams was born at Millstone, Middlesex county, New Jersey, July 18th, 1874, and is an attorney and counselor-at-law; he studied law with Honorable Frederick C. Marsh at Elizabeth, and is a graduate of the New York Law School; was admitted to the bar as an attorney November, 1900, and as a counselor June, 1909, and began and is still actively engaged in the practice of his profession at Elizabeth, with offices in the Kean building. He has always been actively and prominently identified with the Democratic party. He was a candidate for state senator from Union county in 1911, and was defeated by Senator Carlton B. Pierce. On March 13th, 1913, he was appointed by Governor Wilson as Judge of the Elizabeth District Court, serving until April, 1914, when appointed by Governor James F. Fielder as clerk in Chancery, succeeding Senator Samuel K. Robbins. Judge McAdams' term as clerk in Chancery will expire on April 15th, 1919. The salary is $6,000.

Keeper of the State Prison.

Thomas B. Madden, who was appointed Keeper March 15th, 1912, died April 6th, 1916. Richard T. Hughes of Florence, was appointed by Governor Fielder to fill the vacancy on April 11th. The Governor sent the nomination to the Senate at the special session, June 27th, but it was later withdrawn. A successor to Mr. Hughes was not named before this part of the Manual went to press.

Mr. Hughes was born in Florence in 1876. He has been a member of the State Democratic Committee for the last six years. He also served as a member of the Burlington County Tax Board, and was a member of the district Board of Education for fourteen years. He was one of the organizers of the First National Bank of Florence, of which he is a director.

State Librarian.

JOHN P. DULLARD, Trenton.

Mr. Dullard was born at Hightstown, Mercer county, N. J., December 9th, 1861. Early in life he took up newspaper work in his native town. In 1885, during the first Cleveland administration, he was appointed to the Railway Mail Service, which was then not under civil service regulations, and was subsequently promoted to be assistant chief clerk in charge of the sub-division of the service of which Philadelphia was the central point. Retiring from the Railway Mail Service in 1889, Mr. Dullard again took up newspaper work in Trenton. For the past twenty-two years he has been the Trenton representative of the Associated Press and also has been connected with several Trenton and metropolitan newspapers, largely as a political writer.

In 1899 Mr. Dullard was appointed by Mayor Welling G. Sickel a member of the Trenton Board of Assessors and served in that office continuously for fifteen years, being reappointed by Mayors Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., and Walter Madden and by the new City Commission. During most of that time he was president of the board and came to be regarded as unusually well versed in matters of taxation. He resigned from the Trenton Board of Assessors upon his appointment as State Librarian, February 1st, 1914.

In politics Mr. Dullard is a Democrat and has been prominently identified with the affairs of his party. He was always a champion of clean politics, and in 1906 when chairman of the Executive Committee of the Mercer County Democratic Committee, he published after the election a sworn statement of the expenses incurred by the committee during the campaign. This was five years in advance of the passage of any law requiring this to be done.

Mr. Dullard belongs to a number of fraternal organizations. He is Past Grand Knight of Trenton Council, Knights of Columbus, and Past State President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The term of State Librarian is five years and the salary is $3,000 a year. His term expires February 2d. 1919.

On January 8th, 1904, the Colonel was appointed Inspector of Factories and Workshops, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of John C. Ward. The title of the office was changed to that of Commissioner of Department of Labor by an act of the Legislature, and on March 24th, 1904, the Colonel was appointed as such by Governor Murphy, and was confirmed by the Senate on the next day for a term of three years, at $2,500 a year. In 1907 he was given another term by Governor Stokes at a salary of $3,500, and he was reappointed by Governor Fort in 1910. On February 18th, 1913, Governor Wilson appointed the Colonel for another term of office. The Colonel served as secretary of the New Jersey Commission, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, from December 9, 1903, until the end. He is identified with the hotel interests in Atlantic City. His term is three years, and his salary is $6,000 per annum. He served as secretary of the Jamestown Exposition Commission. His term will expire September 2d. 1918.

Assistant Commissioner Department of Labor.

JOHN I. HOLT, Trenton.

Mr. Holt was born at Hawthorn, a suburb of Paterson, December 4, 1851, and is a watchmaker by trade. For nearly twenty-five years he carried on the business as a dealer in clocks, watches, &c., in the city of Paterson. He served as a member of the Board of Education for six years and was president of that body during the last two years of his term. In 1885 he was elected Alderman from the First ward and was re-elected in 1887. In 1885 he was president of the Board. Mr. Holt was an Assemblyman from Passaic county in 1889 and 1893 and '94. He served as Speaker in the latter year, and at the close of the session he resigned so as to qualify himself for Riparian Commissioner, in which office he served for five years. He was appointed Assistant Commissioner of the Labor Department in 1905 and re-appointed several times. His salary is $3,000 a year.

Department of Charities and Corrections.

RICHARD STOCKTON, Trenton.

Mr. Stockton was born in Princeton, N. J., in 1858; the son of John P. Stockton, at one time United States Senator, minister to Italy and Attorney-General for twenty years. Mr. Stockton attended the famous Young School in Washington, and afterward Columbia University in the same city. He was secretary to his father during the latter part of his term as United States Senator. In 1875 he entered the Navy department in the office of Secretary Robeson, where he remained until he resigned and went into business in New York City.

Mr. Stockton remained in New York until President Cleveland appointed him Consul to Rotterdam, which post he filled for two years and from which he was promoted to the diplomatic service in charge of the legation at The Hague. He returned to the United States in 1888 and married Clemence Finch, daughter of George R. Finch of St. Paul, Minn. After his wedding he returned to Holland with his wife to complete his official duties there.

When he resigned from the United States diplomatic service, Mr. Stockton again entered the field of commerce, and took up a temporary residence in Chicago, where he remained until his return to Trenton in 1898, becoming treasurer of the Mexican Land Company. He was associated at this time with his father in the office of the Attorney-General, continuing in that position under Attorney-General Grey until he resigned for the purpose of developing a new gas company in Trenton, which was the nucleus of the present Public Service Corporation. He was the introducer of dollar gas in New Jersey.

Mr. Stockton was named receiver of the Princeton Light and Power Company, and later on, receiver of the Freehold Light and Power Company, and American Lamp and Gas Company of Trenton. After settling the business of these concerns, he associated himself with a brokerage firm, since which time he has become a partner under the name of Taylor, Smith & Hard.

Mr. Stockton has done some literary work under the nom de plume of James Ashley. His story, entitled "From the Grasp of a Title," was a prize winner in a contest in which the most celebrated authors of the day competed.

He is a member of the American Cross of Honor, membership in which organization can only be obtained by those who have been recognized by the United States Government for heroic service.

His term of office is three years, and will expire March 29th, 1918. His salary is $4,000 per annum.

State Board of Taxes and Assessment,

LUCIUS T. RUSSELL, President, Elizabeth.

Mr. Russell was born in Mississippi, November 25th, 1870, but migrated to Texas immediately upon leaving Oxford University, where he finished with a special course preparatory for the law. He continued teaching in the public schools (a means whereby he had been enabled to complete his education) for three years more, and by mere accident became interested in newspaper work. He at once dropped teaching and gave up all thought of further pursuing law. He subsequently owned daily papers in four States and Territories.

Mr. Russell is the owner and editor of the Elizabeth Evening Times. While always immensely interested in public affairs and politics, having aided in developing the public utilities commissions and the commission form of government for cities in both Texas and Oklahoma, Mr. Russell never held or sought public office before, with the exception of serving as Secretary to the President of the Oklahoma Constitutional Convention. He was a Wilson-Marshall Presidential elector in 1912, and was appointed a member of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes by Governor Wilson, February 19th, 1913, for a term of five years. He was nominated by Governor Fielder as president of the new Board of Taxes and Assessments and confirmed by the Senate for a term of three years. It expires July 1st, 1918. His salary is $4,000 per annum.

The doctor received his early education in the public schools, entered Blair Presbyterian Academy to prepare for college in 1869, Lafayette in 1872, and graduated in 1876. He studied medicine under the preceptorship of Professor Traill Green, of Easton, Pa., and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1879. He served as Medical Referee of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in New York city for one year, located in Phillipsburg in July, 1880, and has since continued in the active practice of his profession. He has served as City Physician and was a member of the Board of Health for two years. He was appointed Pension Examining Surgeon under the Cleveland administration July 1, 1893. He was elected to the State Senate in 1896 by a plurality of 1,130 over Cramer, Republican, and served a full term of three years, and in 1902 he was elected for another term by a plurality of 749 over William R. Laire, the Republican candidate. In 1912 he was nominated by Governor Wilson as a member of the State Board of Assessors for a term of four years, and was promptly confirmed by the Senate. Upon the creation of the new Board of Taxes and Assessment he was nominated as a member for a three-year term by Governor Fielder and was confirmed by the Senate. His term of office expires July 1st, 1918, and his salary is $3,000 per annum.

FRANK B. JESS, Haddon Heights.

Mr. Jess was born in Philadelphia, Pa., November 3d, 1870, and is a lawyer by profession. He began newspaper work as a reporter in 1887, subsequently went to Philadelphia as news editor of "The Call." since suspended, then became successively news editor. Washington correspondent and financial editor of "The Bulletin." He was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1897, having studied law under the supervision of his brother, the late William H. Jess. He was a member of Council of the borough of Haddon Heights from its incorporation, in 1904, to January 1st, 1906, and of the Board of Education of Haddon township from 1902 till the organization of the Board of Education of Haddon Heights in 1904, and is still a member of the latter board. At present he is Solicitor of the borough of Haddon Heights. Mr. Jess served two terms, 1907-1908, as an Assemblyman from Camden county, and in the latter year he was speaker, when he won high commendation as a presiding officer. He was appointed Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Board on May 8, 1908, and served in that capacity until April 16, 1909, when he was nominated and confirmed as a member of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes. He was appointed president of the board in 1910, to succeed Carl Lentz, for a term of five years. In 1915 he was re-appointed, and upon the creation of the new Board of Taxes and Assessment Mr. Jess was appointed a member and confirmed by the Senate for a term of two years at a salary of $3,000 per annum. His term expires July 1st, 1917.

FREDERIC A. GENTIEU, Pennsgrove.

Frederic A. Gentieu was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., February 10th, 1872. At the age of six he moved with his father to Wilmington, Del. He was educated in the public schools of said city, after which he took up the study of carpentry and architecture, finishing his course with Joseph Seeds & Son, of Wilmington, Del.

In 1891 he accepted the position of Supervising Foreman of the erection of the first smokeless powder plant built in the United States by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, at Carney's Point, N. J. He continued in this position until 1899, when he accepted a position in the chemical laboratory at this plant, to study chemistry and the manufacture of guncotton and smokeless powder under the personal instruction of the Messrs. du Pont. He continued in this department until 1905, when he accepted a position as Assistant Superintendent of the above works, which position he still continues to hold.

In politics he has always been a Republican, and cast his first vote in Penns Grove for the incorporation of the borough in 1894. He has always taken an active interest in borough affairs, and was largely instrumental for the introduction of the high school department in the borough.

He was elected to the Board of Education, and served two terms from March 17th, 1903, to March 17th, 1908, and was President of the board for three years, from March 27th, 1905.

He ran for Mayor of the borough on the Republican ticket in 1907, and was elected. In 1909 he ran to succeed himself, and was again elected by an increased majority.

He is a Past State Commander of the Sons of Veterans of New Jersey; Past Camp Commander of Camp 33, Sons of Veterans; Past District President of the Patriotic Order Sons of America; Past President of Camp No. 47, P. O. S. of A.; Past Master of Penns Grove Lodge, No. 162, Free and Accepted Masons; a member of the Knights of the Golden Eagle and other organizations. He is also President of the Penns Grove Progressive Club.

In 1908 he was an Alternate Delegate representing the First Congressional district at the Republican Convention at Chicago. He had always been a Republican until 1912, when he joined the ranks of the Progressive (Roosevelt) party. At the primaries of 1913 he was elected State Committeeman representing Salem county in the Progressive (Roosevelt) party.

He served as a member of the old Board of Assessors, having been appointed in 1913, until July 1st, 1915, when he became a member of the new Board of Taxes and Assessment. Governor Fielder appointed him to the latter board for a term of two years. His salary is $3,000 per annum. His term expires July 1st, 1917.

GEO. T. BOUTON, Jersey City.

Mr. Bouton was born in the Bergen section of Jersey City, November 24th, 1854. He is the son of John J. and Jean Fraser Bouton, who were among the early settlers of that division of the State, now known as Hudson county. Mr. Bouton is a direct descendant of John Bouton who migrated to Boston in 1631 and subsequently with others assisted in founding the present city of Norwalk, Connecticut.

Mr. Bouton takes particular pride in the fact that members of his family have taken part as soldiers of the United States in every war in which this country has participated from the time of the Revolutionary War down to the Spanish-American War.

He was educated at home, in the public schools of his city, and at Hasbrouck Institute, from which he graduated in 1869. He first entered municipal life in 1878 when he was attached to the tax department of his home city and subsequently in the year 1885, resigned to accept a position with the newly appointed State Board of Assessors, being engaged in the preparation of the first schedules for railroad assessment. Shortly after the completion of this work he was appointed as Chief Clerk of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners of Jersey City, and served uninterruptedly through different political administrations until July 1st, 1911, when he voluntarily retired. Many of the important laws now in force in the first class cities of this State were prepared by him, while his knowledge of matters of water supply and distribution of municipal laws and customs and of municipal policies generally was such as to constitute him an authority on such matters. Mr. Bouton is a Democrat and as such was appointed by Governor Fielder in 1913 as a member of the former Board of Equalization of Taxes, which expired by reason of legislative enactment, whereupon he was again appointed by Governor Fielder to his present position, and was re-appointed in 1916. His term expires July 1st, 1919. His salaryis $3,000 per annum.

FRANK D. SCHROTH, Secretary, Trenton.

Mr. Schroth was born in Trenton, October 18th, 1884, and has always resided there. He is a son of the late Assemblyman, John Schroth, and like his father, has always been actively interested in public affairs. Mr. Schroth is a newspaper man by profession, having been connected with the Trenton True American while a morning paper, correspondent for several out of town papers, and general legislative reporter for the Trenton Evening Times up to the time of his appointment as Secretary of the State Board of Taxes and Assessment. Mr. Schroth was secretary to Prosecutor A. M. Beekman of Somerset county when the latter was Speaker of the House of Assembly, during the session of 1914. Later he was appointed State Supervisor of Census by the late David S. Crater, Secretary of State, and was retained in that position by Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin, until the work was recently completed. Mr. Schroth was appointed secretary on December 14th, 1915, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Irvine E. Maguire.

FRANK A. O'CONNOR, Clerk and Field Secretary, West Orange.

Mr. O'Connor was born in the city of New York, August 25th, 1867, and is a master plumber. He was graduated at St. John's School, Orange, N. J. He was Town Assessor, 1894 to 1904; Collector, 1904 to 1912 inclusive, and was again re-elected in 1912. He was the first Assessor to tax gas, water, telephone, trolley and other public service corporations and advocate right of way and franchise taxes, and first Assessor to make inspection of New York city tax rolls and discover hundreds of thousands of dollars being sworn off in that city by men giving New Jersey as their legal residence, where they had only summer homes, and paid, in many cases, not even a poll tax, with the result of adding such sums to New Jersey ratables.

Mr. O'Connor has been a life long Democrat, and for many years served on the State Committee list of speakers. He was an Alternate Delegate to the National Democratic Convention at Denver in 1908, from the Ninth Congressional district. He was appointed clerk of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes in April, 1913, and served in that office until July 1st, 1915, when he became Field Secretary of the New Board of Taxes and Assessment.

Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

RALPH W. E. DONGES, President, Camden.

RICHARD C. JENKINSON, Vice-President, Newark.

Mr. Jenkinson was born in Newark, N. J., in 1853. After five years training for business in New York, he spent a year abroad studying, and on his return in 1876 he started the manufacturing business, of which he is now the head, R. C. Jenkinson & Co. He ran for Mayor of Newark on the Republican ticket in 1900 and was defeated by the Hon. Jas. M. Seymour, who was seeking re-election.

Mr. Jenkinson was elected president of the Newark Board of Trade in 1898, and was re-elected later. He was one of the vice-presidents of the Pan-American at Buffalo in 1901, representing the State of New Jersey.

He is a trustee of the New Jersey Home for Feeble-Minded at Vineland, and vice-president of the Board of Commerce and Navigation. He is vice-president of the Board of Trustees of the Free Public Library of Newark, a director in the Iron Bound Trust Co. of Newark, and in several other corporations in New Jersey and New York. He is also a director in corporations in Canada.

Governor Wilson appointed him a member of the New Jersey Harbor Board, and July 1st, 1915, Governor Fielder appointed him a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation. His term expires in 1918.

W. PARKER RUNYON, Perth Amboy.

Mr. Runyon was born in New Brunswick, N. J., December 3d, 1861. He belongs to the French Hugenot family, whose progenitor, Vincent Runyon (Rognion), was among the earliest settlers of East Jersey. He obtained his education in the public schools and Rutgers Preparatory School of the city of his birth. Putting aside an ambition to become a physician on account of imperfect eyes, he took a commercial course at the New Jersey Business College, Newark, N. J., and in 1881 entered that greatest of all schools—the business world—where his vital personality and pleasing and genial manner have stood him in good stead.

After two or three positions filled successfully, he became identified with boat craft, waterfront and navigation activities. His father and grandfather, each of whom in his turn, owned and operated the shipyard which met the needs of the Delaware and Raritan Canal at New Brunswick.

He has been president for more than twenty years of the Perth Amboy Dry Dock Company. He, together with Mr. Charles D. Snedeker, re-organized the concern into a close corporation, and during his incumbency the plant has grown from a capacity of two marine railways, to one having four dry docks, a machine shop and boiler works, ample wharves and piers, and has acquired the six hundred feet of water front and two city blocks which it occupies.

In 1904, he was elected an alternate delegate to the Democratic National Convention held at St. Louis, and was a delegate to the one held at Denver in 1908. He is an active member of the Perth Amboy Board of Trade, and a member of the City Water Commission. The State Chamber of Commerce also enlists his heartist interest and co-operation. He is one of the trustees of the State Chamber of Commerce, and director of the Harbor and Navigation Department, and beside he was a delegate to represent it, as well as the local Board of Trade, in the Seventh Annual Atlantic Deeper Waterways Convention, held in New York City, in September, 1914, and was appointed by the governor as one of the representatives of the State of New Jersey at the Eighth Annual Convention of that body held at Savannah in November, 1915,

Mr. Runyon was appointed by Governor Fielder on the State Harbor Commission of New Jersey, and upon the recent re-organization of State Boards, was named as one of the long term men on the Board of Commerce and Navigation. His term expires July 1st. 1919.

JOHN M. B. WARD, Paterson.

Mr. Ward was born in Paterson, December 6th, 1880, and received his preliminary education in the local schools. Later he attended the Roger McGee Preparatory School in Paterson and the Inter-collegiate School of New York City. This was followed by a course in Columbia University which Mr. Ward entered in 1898, and the New York University Law School. In 1901, he was admitted to the bar and he also has been admitted to practice in the United States courts.

After being admitted to the bar, Mr. Ward became associated with his father, Z. M. Ward, one of the most distinguished lawyers Paterson has ever produced. The firm, which was known as Z. M. Ward & Son, continued until the death of Mr. Ward, Sr., 1904. The subject of this sketch then formed a partnership with Peter J. McGinnis, and the firm has continued ever since under the name of Ward & McGinnis. In politics Mr. Ward is a Republican. He was appointed a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation by Governor Fielder and his term expires July 1st, 1919.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE SAUNDERS, Plainfield.

Mr. Saunders was born November 1st, 1856, in Columbus, Ga.; son of William Trebell Saunders, D.D., and Eliza Morton Saunders, Va.; grandnephew of Robert Saunders, fourteenth president William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va. His earliest ancestors landed with the Jamestown expedition, Jamestown, Va., and is descendant of Sir Edward Saunders, one of the Knights of the Horseshoe who discovered the Alleghanies. He has degrees: Bachelor of Science, University of Pennsylvania, 1876; Doctor of Science, 1911.

Before graduation was editor-in-chief "University Magazine" and class poet, 1876, engaged in newspaper work, Philadelphia; special correspondent for southern newspapers Centennial Exposition; made two balloon ascensions, reaching height of three and a half miles, remaining up all night.

From 1878 to 1881, he was engineer in charge of building docks, warehouses and ship channel, New York Harbor, at Black Tom Island. He designed and patented apparatus for subaqueous drilling, using tube and water jet, system now in general use.

In 1881, he was engineer for Ingersoll Rock Drill Company. He invented and patented rock drilling and quarrying devices, track channelers and gadders and bar channelers; invented and patented system of pumping liquids by compressed air, now generally used in Baku oil fields, Russia; also, radialaxe system of coal mining.

Mr. Saunders is prominently identified with various industries both in New York and New Jersey, and is editor and author of numerous magazines, pamphlets, &c., relating to inventions, commerce, economics and politics. He was a member of the New Jersey Harbor Commission, formerly a member of the New Jersey State Democratic Committee, and was twice elected mayor of North Plainfield.

He was appointed a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation by Governor Fielder and his term expires July 1st, 1918.

J. WARD RICHARDSON, Bridgeton,

Mr. Richardson was born in Bridgeton, N. J., on August 18th, 1854, and has spent the major portion of his life in that place. His early years were, however, passed in Philadelphia, to which place his parents removed when he was quite young, and there he studied in the public schools, and was graduated from the High School division of the Northeast Grammar School. Coming to Bridgeton as a young man, he soon became actively engaged in newspaper work and was connected with several publications, eventually founding the Bridgeton Evening News and the Dollar Weekly News, both of which are still being published by a company of which Mr. Richardson is at the head and both of which have enjoyed exceptional success. Mr. Richardson was appointed by Governor Stokes to the old State Board of Arbitration, being elected as its president. This board took an active part in the effort to settle various industrial troubles throughout the State. In 1908, he was appointed by Governor Fort to the State Riparian Commission, and upon the expiration of his term was re-appointed by Governor Fielder, serving six years in all, and declining an effort of his colleagues to make him vice-president and the virtual head of the board during his final period of service. He has long been an active member of the New Jersey Press Association and in 1913-1914, served as its president. In 1915, he was appointed by Governor Fielder a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation and his term expires July 1st, 1917.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Beverly.

Mr. Kirk was born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 1st, 1860, and was educated at Friends Select School, Philadelphia, and has resided at Beverly, N. J., for the last twenty-four years. He served two terms in the city council, having overcome a normal Republican majority at the election both times, has been a delegate to two Gubernatorial Conventions and served as a member of the Burlington County Democratic Committee, and is president of the Burlington County Democratic Club.

He is a director of the First National Bank of Beverly; has served as director of the Building and Loan Association; is a vestryman in the Episcopal Church, and a vice-president of the Philadelphia-Delaware-Trenton Deeper Waterways Association.

He is a wholesale grocer in Philadelphia, being a member of the firm of Kirk, Foster & Co.; also president of the Grocers' and Importers' Exchange of Philadelphia. He is a member of the Joint Committee of the trade bodies of Philadelphia, on the Improvement of the Schuylkill and Delaware rivers. Mr. Kirk was appointed by Governor Fielder as a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation in 1915, and re-appointed in 1916 for a full term, which expires in 1920

ALLEN KIRBY WHITE, Atlantic City.

Mr. White was born at Denton, Md., December 14th, 1872, and is second son of Josiah and Mary Kirby (Allen) White. He attended Friends Central School, Philadelphia and Swarthmore College, Pa., graduating in the engineering department in 1894, as president of the class. He entered the hotel business with his father, at Hotel Luray, Atlantic City, and formed the partnership of Josiah White & Son, and later with his father and two brothers formed Josiah White & Sons Company, owners and proprietors of the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel, Atlantic City, which is his present business. Upon the organization of the Equitable Trust Co. of Atlantic City, he became vicepresident, which office he still fills. He was one of the incorporators of the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Atlantic City and accepted the treasurership thereof, and has been commodore of the Atlantic City Yacht Club since 1911. In 1915, was appointed by Governor Fielder a member of the Board of Commerce and Navigation, and was reappointed in 1916 for a full term which will expire in 1920.

B. F. CRESSON, JR., Chief Engineer and Secretary, Jersey City.

Mr. Cresson was born in Philadelphia in 1873, and was educated at the Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia, Lehigh University and University of Pennsylvania; B.S. degree from the latter.

From 1894 to 1900, he was employed on railroad work for the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Pennsylvania Railroad and West Virginia Short Line Railroad, and on the Reading Subway work in Philadelphia; from 1900 to 1901, in the office of Jacobs and Davies, Consulting Engineers, New York City, on subaqueous tunnel plans and surveys, North River and East River, and was Assistant Engineer in charge of the Atlantic avenue improvements in Brooklyn for the Long Island Railroad.

In 1901 he was Assistant Engineer on resurvey plans, etc., for the completion of the Hudson Tunnels under the North River (McAdoo Tunnels), and from 1901 to 1910, Assistant Engineer, Alignment Engineer and Resident Engineer in charge of precise triangulations on the North River, Resident Engineer in charge of subaqueous tunnels under the North River from Weehawken shaft; Resident Engineer in charge of Terminal Station-West, section of the Pennsylvania Station in New York, from the east side of Ninth avenue to the east side of Tenth avenue.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Member of the Board of Directors for the State of New Jersey on Industrial Preparedness, and a member of the Pan-American Joint Engineering Committee appointed by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Assistant Chief Engineer.

JOHN C. PAYNE, Jersey City.

Mr. Payne, who was born in England, February 16th, 1852, commenced his professional career as a student in the office of the firm of Bacot, Post & Camp, civil engineers, in 1868, and after spending some time in that office left to take a special engineering course in the old Hasbrouck Institute on Grand street, near Washington, in Jersey City, of which Washington Hasbrouck was the principal. Upon concluding his studies he went back into the employ of Bacot, Post & Camp, and was assigned to various positions, one being the charge of construction of the New Jersey and New York Railroad, from Hillsdale to New City; he was also engaged in the construction of the New York Elevated Railroad in Battery Park, New York. In 1877 he formed a partnership with Mr. John V. Bacot. and also became associated with the Riparian Commission as the Assistant Engineer; the duties of that position were such as to allow him to engage in the general practice of civil engineering, and this he did up to the year 1897, when he was appointed Secretary and Engineer of the Riparian Commission and retired from general practice excepting in an advisory capacity, and the filling of such appointments as came to him, among which was the appointment by Governor Edward C. Stokes as a member of a Commission, of which ex-Governor Franklin Murphy and ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees were members, to investigate and report on the whole subject of franchises granted by municipalities to public utilities corporations. He was also appointed by the court, together with ex-Governor George T. Werts and Colonel John J. Toffey, to appraise the value and damages to the terminal lands on the Hudson river of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, taken for and affected by the construction of the Hudson tunnels of the Manhattan and Hudson River Railroad. He was appointed by Hon. Charles J. Parker, Judge of the Supreme Court, a member of the Martin Act Commission, to adjust and levy the immense arrearage of taxes which had accumulated in Jersey City by reason of the failure of the citizens to pay and the inadequacy of the laws to enforce collection of the same.

In 1907 the Riparian Commission made public recognition in its annual report to the Governor, of the connection of Mr. Payne with the work of the Riparian Commission, in the following language:

"The board desires to officially express its recognition of the fidelity and professional skill exercised by its Secretary and Engineer in the work of the Commission.

"Mr. John C. Payne has been associated with the work of the Riparian Commission for thirty years. He associated himself in 1877 with the Hon. Robert C. Bacot, the first engineer of the Commission, appointed in 1864, and when Mr. Bacot, by reason of declining years, retired in 1897 with honor and the respect of the Commission and State, Mr. Payne succeeded him as Secretary and Engineer, and has continued as such until the present time; and the board takes pleasure in testifying to Mr. Payne's fidelity to the work of the Commission and to the interests of the State committed to its care."

Upon the organization of the Board of Commerce and Navigation July 1st, 1915, combining the former New Jersey Harbor Commission and the Riparian Commission, with others, Mr. Payne was appointed Assistant Chief Engineer.

Department of Conservation and Development.

EDWARD SHAFFER SAVAGE, Rahway.

Mr. Savage was born in the city of Rahway (where he still resides), the first day of July, 1854.

He read law in the office of Cortlandt Parker; graduated from Columbia Law College in 1876, and was admitted to the bar in New Jersey in 1877.

He served two terms in the Legislature—1884 and 1885; and practiced law in the city of Newark for a few years after his admission to the bar, then moved his office to New York City and was associated with George W. Miller for twenty years in the practice of the law in New York. In 1912 he retired from active practice.

He was appointed by Governor Fielder in 1915 a member of the Department of Conservation and Development and his term expires July 1st, 1918.

WALTER J. BUZBY, President, Atlantic City.

Mr. Buzby was born at Masonville, Burlington county, N. J., October 12th, 1865. He spent his boyhood days on his father's farm in Burlington county until 1885, when he entered the employ of Mitchell, Fletcher & Company, Fancy Grocers, of Philadelphia, and remained with them for fifteen years, during which time he passed from the lowest salaried boy in the store to one of the junior members of the firm.

In 1900, Mr. Buzby bought from Joseph H. Borton the Hotel Dennis, Atlantic City, having a well-known Philadelphia architect as his associate, and has continued to conduct the hotel as an all year proposition ever since. He was twice elected a member of city council, is a director in two banks and is identified with many of Atlantic City's affairs.

He was appointed a member of the Board of Conservation and Development by Governor Fielder in 1915 for a term of two years, which expires July 1st, 1917.

NELSON B. GASKILL, Trenton.

Mr. Gaskill was born at Mount Holly, N. J., September 12th, 1875. He prepared for college at the Peddie Institute, Hightstown, N. J., and entered Princeton with the class of 1896. Upon graduation he spent two years at the Harvard Law School and studied one year in the office of his father, Judge Joseph H. Gaskill. He was admitted to the bar as attorney in 1899 and passed the counselors' examination three years later. Since admission he has practiced law in Camden, N. J., with his father as a member of the firm of Gaskill & Gaskill. He enlisted in the National Guard in 1896, and was made captain of his company two years later; he was later appointed battalion adjutant with the Third Regiment, which commission he now holds. He was appointed assistant attorney-general in November, 1906, and served in that office until March, 1914. Governor Fielder appointed Mr. Gaskill in 1915 a member of the Board of Conservation and Development, and his term expires July 1st, 1919.

SIMON PHILLIPS NORTHRUP, Newark.

Mr. Northrup was born near Branchville, Sussex county, New Jersey, August 23d, 1876, and is son of Oscar and Mary J. (Phillips) Northrup. Both sides of family can trace descent to English Colonial ancestry. The name Northrup is of English origin and is a compound of the words North and the Saxon thorp (Middle English thrope) meaning town or village. The earliest mention of the name found in England is of the marriage of Maude, daughter of Simon Northrope, in county York, in the reign of Henry VII. (1485-1509). Joseph Northrup, founder of the family in America, came from Yorkshire, England. with Sir Richard Saltonstall, in Eaton and Davenport's Company, in the ship "Hector and Martha," landing at Boston on July 26th, 1637. With others he formed the settlement of Milford, Connecticut, in 1639, and his name appears as one of the forty-four "Free Planters" on the document which laid the foundation for their government on the "Plantation." He was graduated from Dickinson College with the Class of 1897, and from the Law School of Yale University in 1899, receiving degree of bachelor of laws, and Kent prize for superiority in debate. In February, 1899, he was admitted to practice before the New Jersey bar, and for a time was in several law offices, forming in 1905, a partnership with Francis Lafferty. In 1907, he became connected with Fidelity Trust Company and later was elected its assistant title officer.

He was appointed by Governor Fielder, in 1915, a member of the Department of Conservation and Development and his term expires July 1st, 1917.

CHARLES LATHROP PACK, Lakewood.

Mr. Pack was born in Lexington, Michigan, May 7th, 1857, and was educated in this country and in Germany. He studied forestry in the black forests of Germany and spent much time exploring the forests of Canada, the northwest and Louisiana, The Packs in colonial times lived at Rahway and Elizabeth, New Jersey, but all left the State of New Jersey previous to one hundred years ago. Charles Lathrop Pack returned to New Jersey in 1899 and took up his residence at Lakewood. He is perhaps best known as the president of the National Conservation Congress. He is a member and director of the American Forestry Association; served for several years as a member of the former New Jersey Forest Park Commission. Upon the invitation of President Roosevelt. Mr. Pack attended as an expert the conference of governors at the White House in May, 1907, and he was appointed by President Roosevelt a member of the National Conservation Commission. Has attended most of the important conferences on forestry and conservation in this country since 1900. Mr. Pack is a Republican; was a member of the Indianapolis Sound Money Convention, and a member of the Monetary Commission. He served for seven years as a member of the first city Troop A, Ohio National Guard, Cleveland. He is an ex-president of the Cleveland. Ohio, Chamber of Commerce, and is a trustee of Western Reserve University. He is a member of the New Jersey Chapter of the Society of Colonial Wars: a member of the Union League Club of New York and president of the Country Club of Lakewood, New Jersey. Mr. Pack is widely known because of his knowledge of timber and timber interests both in this country and in Canada. He was appointed by Governor Fielder, in 1915, a member of the Board of Conservation and Development and his term expires July 1st, 1918.

STEPHEN PFEIL, Camden.

Mr. Pfeil was born in New York City, December 26th, 1854, and was educated in public and private schools of that city. He graduated from the law department of the University of New York and received the degree of L.B. in 1873; was admitted to the New York bar in 1875 and followed the profession in that State for more than ten years. Since 1888, he has resided in Camden, and has been engaged in literary work, contributing articles on international law and social-political topics to various periodicals and the daily press; was co-author in 1892 of "Walsh's Handybook of Literary Curiosities." In 1893, he became an editorial writer on the staff of the Philadelphia Record, and has continued in that occupation ever since. He was appointed by Governor Wilson in 1911, a member of the Board of Managers of the Geological Survey and on the consolidation of the Survey and various other State Commissions in the Department of Conservation and Development, he was appointed to the governing board of this department by Governor Fielder. Mr. Pfeil has been a lifelong Democrat. His first vote was cast for Samuel J. Tilden, for president. He has been active in furthering Democratic policies, and was a delegate to Convention of 1910, which nominated Woodrow Wilson for governor, of whom he was an early and sincere advocate. In 1914, he submitted a plan for the reconstruction of the Legislative power which aroused widespread comment. He was appointed to the present board by Governor Fielder in 1915, and re-appointed in 1916. His term expires in 1920.

GEORGE A. STEELE, Eatontown.

Mr. Steele was born in Fair Haven, Monmouth county, New Jersey, on June 24th, 1872. His father, John N. Steele, came from old New England stock, his ancestors having settled in the early part of the 18th century on the Massachusetts coast a few miles above Boston. Mr. Steele was educated in the public schools of Monmouth county, and in 1896, he helped to found the Shrewsbury Nurseries, of which he is now the sole proprietor.

On April 21st, 1914, he was appointed by Governor Fielder a member of the Board of Forest Park Reservation Commissioners and when that board was absorbed by the Board of Conservation and Development on July 1st, 1915, the governor appointed him a member of the latter board for the full term of four years. His term expires June 1st, 1919.

New York bar, 1893; of the Supreme Court bar, 1896; practices in New York City, being a member of the firm of White & Wait, 49 Wall street. Degrees were conferred on him by the following: A.B., Yale University, 1891; A.M., Columbia University, 1892; LL.B., University of the State of New York, 1893. He is the author of the White Federal Income Tax law and other legal treatises. He was appointed a member of this new department in 1915 by Governor Fielder and re-appointed in 1916. His term expires in 1920.

ALFRED GASKILL, Director and State Forester, Lawrenceville,

Mr. Gaskill was born in Philadelphia, November 6th, 1861, both his parents being members of old New Jersey Quaker families. He was educated in the public schools and at the Friends Central School, Philadelphia.

In 1881, he went to Cumberland county, N. J., where for ten years, and for seven years more in Philadelphia, he was engaged in the glass manufacturing business. During that time his attention was attracted to forestry, largely through the forest fires which were so manifestly destroying both the timber supply and the land values of south Jersey.

In 1898, he determined to become a forester, gave up business and for three years, studied forestry in North Carolina, at Harvard University, at the University of Munich and in the organized forests of Europe. In 1901, he entered the United States Forest Service, where for upwards of five years he devoted his time chiefly to forest fires and to silvicultural problems. On February 1st, 1907, he was engaged as forester by the Forest Park Reservation Commission of New Jersey and through that position became State Forester. He is a director of the American Forestry Association, Secretary of the Association of Eastern Foresters and a member of other forestry and allied organizations.

On July 1st, 1915, he was appointed Director of Conservation and Development for a term of four years at $4,200 a year, which position he holds coincidentally with that of State Forester,

State Geologist.

HENRY B. KÜMMEL, Trenton.

Mr. Kümmel was born in Milwaukee, Wis., May 25th, 1867. He graduated from Beloit College, Wis., in 1889, and after teaching two years, spent one year in post-graduate work in geology at Harvard University and three years at the University of Chicago. He received the degree of M.A. from Harvard University, and from Beloit College in 1892, and that of Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) from the University of Chicago in 1895. In 1891, he was employed as field assistant in geology on the United States Geological Survey, in Connecticut. In the summer of 1892 he joined the Geological Survey of New Jersey, and for several field seasons was engaged in surveys in Warren. Sussex and Hunterdon counties. During a portion of 1898 he was employed on the Geological Survey of New York, and also spent a short time in studying the geology of Scotland. Returning to New Jersey, he was appointed Assistant State Geologist in 1899, and on the resignation of Dr. John C. Smock, on July 1st, 1901, Mr. Kümmel was put in charge of the survey. On January 10th, 1902, he was made State Geologist, which position he still holds. Upon the establishment of the Forest Park Reservation Commission in 1905, he became ex-officio its executive officer. With the organization of the Department of Conservation and Development, Mr. Kümmel, as State Geologist, became the chief of the Division of Geology and acting director of the department during the absence of the director.

The high standing of the geological survey of New Jersey was recognized by the election of Mr. Kümmel as first president of the American Association of State Geologists, a position which he held for several terms. In 1907, he was a member of the International Geological Congress held in the city of Mexico, and he was again a delegate to the same congress when it met in Toronto, Canada, in 1913, he accompanied Governor Fort as one of the three New Jersey delegates to the first Conference of Governors held at the White House in 1908, and was a member of several subsequent conservation congresses. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and of the Geological Society of America, and a member of the National Institute of Social Sciences. He is the author of numerous papers relating chiefly to the geology and natural resources of New Jeresy.

Board of Shell Fisheries.

GEORGE A. MOTT, Director, Tuckerton,

Mr. Mott was born at Tuckerton, N. J., July 2d, 1864, and attended the public schools until he was eighteen years of age, when he went to Atlantic City, where he worked as clerk in a grocery store for two years, after which he conducted a grocery business at Beach Haven, N. J., for eight years during which time he engaged in the planting and shipping of oysters. He was named as a member of the first oyster commission for the State of New Jersey by an act of the Legislature of 1893, and although a Democrat, he was renamed by an act of the Legislature of 1896, and was appointed by Governor Voorhees in 1899, and by Governor Murphy in 1902, and served as a member and secretary of the commission during the twelve years of its existence. It was largely due to his efforts that the scientific study of oyster propagation was taken up by Professor Julius Nelson in 1900, and as there was no appropriation made by the Legislature for that purpose, he furnished and maintained a suitable station for experimental purposes, also oysters, boats, floats, etc., for the use of the biologist and assisted him personally in his experimental work. In 1912, he was appointed oyster superintendent for the district of Ocean county by Governor Wilson and re-appointed by Governor Fielder in 1915. His selection as director of shell fisheries was made unanimous by the Board of Shell Fisheries July 1st, 1915.

Custodian of the Capitol.

JOHN A. SMITH, Haddon Heights.

Mr. Smith has been a life-long resident of Camden county, where he was born in the city of Camden, October 3d, 1861, and lived until 1907 when he moved from the South Jersey Metropolis to Haddon Heights, one of its suburbs. He was educated in the public schools of his home city and after a business college education, he began life as a clerk and salesman and later established a wholesale and retail merchandise business, which he conducted in Camden for several years.

Later he dealt in real estate and conducted a general brokerage line until May, 1913, when he was appointed by Comptroller Edwards to the position of assistant auditor, which position he held until July 15th, 1914, when he was appointed custodian of the State House, to take effect on August 15th, 1914. During the interval between his appointment and assumption of the duties of the office, the new custodian fully familiarized himself with all the duties appertaining to the position, which his wide and varied experience in a business and professional way makes him peculiarly adapted to fill.

The new custodian has always been active in Democratic affairs, and served as a member of the Democratic State Committee from his home county for three years. His salary is $3,500 a year.

Secretary to the Governor.

FRANCIS E. CROASDALE, Atlantic City.

Mr. Croasdale was born in Atlantic City, N. J., on October 6th, 1886. His parents, Charles Wilson Croasdale, who served during the Civil War with the Pennsylvania Reserves and was mustered out as Brevet Captain, serving later as a commissioned officer in the Third U. S. B. V., and Anna Conover Croasdale, who formerly resided in Gloucester City, N. J., were among the pioneer settlers of Atlantic City. The Governor's Secretary was born and at the time of his appointment still lived in the house which they erected nearly two scores of years ago on the wild sand dunes in the Southern part of the island. He was educated in the public schools of Atlantic City, and graduated from the Atlantic City High School in 1904. A class-mate of his was Wu Chao Chu, son of Wu Ting Fang, the former Chinese diplomat in this country who created much comment at the time by insisting that his boy be educated in the free schools of New Jersey. Immediately after graduating, Mr. Croasdale took a reportorial position on the Atlantic City Daily Press, which at that time was published by Governor Edge. He was studying law at the same time in the offices of Eugene G. Schwinghammer, Esq., Atlantic City. A few years later Mr. Edge appointed him editor of the newspaper. He also served as its legislative correspondent in Trenton. Some time later, Mr. Croasdale, with two other employes, organized a company and leased the Press and the Atlantic City Evening Union from Mr. Edge. He is still secretary and a stockholder in the Press-Union Company. In 1915, Mr. Croasdale served as private secretary to Speaker of the House of Assembly, Carlton Godfrey. He toured the state with Colonel Walter E. Edge and Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen in the campaign of 1916, handling the newspaper publicity work,

In 1916 he married Helen Florence Thorne of Atlantic City. They live in Atlantic City.

Executive Clerk.

JOHN J. FARRELL, Trenton.

Mr. Farrell was born in New York city, August 31st, 1864, and has been a resident of the State of New Jersey since he was three years of age. He is a newspaper man by profession, and was State Riparian Commissioner from 1899 to 1904. During that period the courts set aside as void the attempt of the Legislature to divert State lands, which now form the nucleus of the School Fund, to other purposes. For many years prior to that and since he has been a legislative correspondent, the line in which he was engaged when appointed Executive Clerk to fill a vacancy, the second which occurred in that office in forty-seven years, on February 20th, 1913.

Chief Auditor.

JOHN J. NEVIN, Jersey City.

Mr. Nevin, who has been chief auditor of the State, attached to the Comptroller's Department, since May 1st, 1913, was born in Summit, New Jersey, August 31st, 1871. He finished his preliminary education at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, and after a post-graduate course, became chief clerk and later private secretary in the office of the Mayor of Jersey City, where he remained from 1889 to 1897, having the peculiar distinction of serving in that capacity for five years under a Republican mayor, while always actively identified with the Democratic party of Hudson county.

In 1897 he was appointed police justice of Jersey City, a position he held until May 1st, 1900. Later Mr. Nevin became connected with the American Bonding and Trust Company, of which he was the general agent for a number of years in partnership with Joseph F. Farmer. He was secretary of the Hudson County Consolidation Commission during its existence. After retiring from the police justiceship he was engaged in corporation work in New York and New Jersey for the Lehigh Valley and New Jersey Central Railroad Company and was the general agent of the Bloomingdale Soft Rubber Company. He was appointed assistant to the State Comptroller on May 1st, 1913, since which time he has been in charge of the general auditing of the Comptroller's Department.

During his incumbency, among other things, were established the requisition system and a departure from the old plan of auditing bills after they were paid and establishing in its place the new one, which requires a thorough audit of all accounts before their liquidation.

State Superintendent of Weights and Measures.

WILLIAM L. WALDRON, Trenton.

Mr. Waldron was born in Trenton on December 7th, 1868. He received his early education in St. Mary's Parochial School, the same city. He was obliged to become a bread-winner when but thirteen years old, because of the circumstances of his widowed mother and her other six younger children. Later he attended night school, becoming enrolled as a student in the commercial department of the Stewart Business College. He passed with high honors.

Mr. Waldron's first position was as errand boy for the Trenton Co-Operative Society, which managed a large grocery and meat market. He was promoted a year later to a clerkship and, finally, when the company decided to establish a branch store, Mr. Waldron was the choice for manager. He made such a success of the venture that, a couple of years later the society concluded to open a second branch store. Mr. Waldron was again the unanimous choice of the directors for the management of the newer place.

Twelve years ago, Mr. Waldron decided to go into business for himself. He developed a business corner that had for years been regarded as a hoodoo into one of the most prosperous in Trenton. He sold out this business when Governor Wilson unexpectedly named him to the superintendency of weights and measures August 23, 1911. Governor Wilson's attention is said to have been attracted to Mr. Waldron because of his splendid run for city commissioner in that year. He not only figured among the ten highest men at the primary but also came within a couple of hundred votes of being elected a commissioner. This was regarded as a remarkable tribute to the personal popularity of a man who had never before figured in public life, who had done little or no campaigning, and who was the only one of the ten candidates on election day that had never been previously able to attract public attention through the occupancy of a public office. His term of office is five years and salary $2,500. His term will expire March 12th, 1917.

Commissioner of Public Reports,

BENJAMIN BOISSEAU BOBBITT, Long Branch.

Mr. Bobbitt was born at Hickory, North Carolina, on January 22d, 1883, the son of Dr. Emmet H. Bobbitt and Mary Elizabeth Boisseau. His ancestry was French, Spanish, Scotch, Irish and English, and his progenitors on both sides were prominent in the Colonial history of Virginia and the Carolinas. His first ancestor on his mother's side was one of the founders of William and Mary College, near Jamestown, Virginia, the second college established in the United States, in 1693. He was a student at private schools and the University of North Carolina, where he made a special study of history, language and political science. He also studied law and medicine. In 1902 he married Miss Edna Virginia Boisseau, daughter of Hon. P. H. Boisseau, of Danville, Virginia.

At the early age of seventeen, while still in college, he began writing political articles and reviews for the Morning and Sunday Post, of Raleigh, N. C., and a series of historical and industrial sketches for the Sunny South magazine, of Atlanta. He also did some work of the same character and fiction for the Richmond Dispatch and Philadelphia and New York newspapers and magazines. While in a law office in Danville he became editor of the Evening Free Press there, and later went on the staff of the Norfolk Virginian Pilot, after which he was editorial writer for a time for the Lebanon (Penn.) Evening Report.

Since 1904 he has been editor of the Long Branch Daily Record. He started booming Woodrow Wilson for the Presidency on January 20th, 1908, and his editorials on the subject were copied all over the country. From 1907 to 1912 he was publicity director of Long Branch, organizing the Publicity Bureau there. He was twice elected by the city council, and appointed by both Republican and Democratic mayors. In 1908 he was appointed by Governor Fort on the State Commission to investigate dependency and criminality, and was conspicuous in the work of that body, many of whose recommendations have subsequently been enacted into law. He was first assistant Supervisor of Bills in the New Jersey Senate in 1913, and supervisor in 1914. He became editor of the Trend Magazine, of New York, in 1913, which place he resigned after his appointment by Governor Fielder as Commissioner of Reports, and his unanimous confirmation by the Senate in February of 1914, declining an election as president of the Trend Publishing Company.

Mr. Bobbitt is a trustee of the Long Branch Chamber of Commerce, director of the Garfield Monument Association and a member of the Elks. He is also a member of the Mosquito Extermination Commission of Monmouth county. His term is for five years and expires in 1919, and his salary $2,000 per annum.

TAXES AND ASSESSMENT, STATE BOARD OF.

Lucius T. Russell, President, Elizabeth, 1918; George T. Bouton, Jersey City, 1916; Frank B. Jess, Haddon Heights, 1917; Frederic A. Gentieu, Pennsgrove, 1917; Isaac Barber, Phillipsburg, 1918. Secretary, Frank D. Schroth; Clerk and Field Secretary, Frank A. O'Connor; Engineer, Louis Focht.

The State Board of Taxes and Assessment is a consolidation of the old Board of Equalization of Taxes and the State Board of Assessors. The new body was created under the provisions of Chapter 244 of the Laws of 1915. It organized July 1st, and the purpose of the merger was to co-ordinate two bodies having similar functions.

The old State Board of Assessors was created under an act of the Legislature entitled "An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property," approved April 10th, 1884. The work of this body was increased during the same year by the passage of another act, entitled "An act to provide for the imposition of State taxes upon certain corporations, and for the collection thereof," approved April 18th, 1884. The Legislature further charged this board with the assessment and apportionment of the Municipal Franchise tax to be paid by persons, co-partnerships, associations or corporations using or occupying public streets, highways, roads or other public places, by an act passed in 1900 and taking effect January 1st, 1901.

The State Board of Equalization of Taxes was created by an act of the Legislature approved March 29th, 1905, and was designed to take the place of the old State Board of Taxation.

The report of the State Board of Taxes and Assessment for the year 1916 shows that 129 railroad and canal companies within the State are subject to taxation. These companies represent more than 2,400 miles of railroads and 175 miles of canals.

The following table is a summary of the valuation and assessment of railroad and canal property for the year 1916 subject to review by the board, which review was in progress when this article was prepared.

Third Annual Message of James F. Fielder, Governor of New Jersey.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, TRENTON, January 9th, 1917.

To the Legislature:

In presenting this message, within a week of the close of my term, I consider it only courteous and fair to my successor to make no recommendations on new State policies or legislation, but rather to leave him entirely free to advise with you on such matters as he may wish to present touching the management and conduct of the State. During my term of office I have from time to time communicated to the Legislature my views concerning the condition of the State, and I have recommended the enactment of such measures as I believed expedient or proper. With some of those recommendations the Legislature has agreed. I have no wish to withdraw any of those on which no action has been taken, or even to suggest any modification therein. Rather would I refer you to them again for further consideration.

The growth of the State has been steady, and its population is now three millions. Its field of activity and operation has been greatly extended in recent years, and it did a business, with gross receipts for the year ending October 31st, 1916, of $12,917,658.55. The work of its departments is conducted upon a large and continually growing scale, and the need for more department room is pressing, and must soon be met by the erection of a new building for offices, or to which the State courts can be moved and the space they now occupy in the Capitol building given over to other State departments.

We are giving more thought and attention to protection by the State of the personal rights and property interests of the individual and to his security, comfort and happiness, and to that end we have, in the last few years, increased the scope of courts and departments already established and have added new branches of government. This is shown by the enactment of laws for the regulation of public utilities; the tenement house act; the supervision of weights and measures; the children's guardian board; the widows' pension act; the pure food and health statutes; the workmen's compensation act; improved sanitary requirements for bakeshops, factories and other work places, and the safeguarding of life, limb and health of mechanics and operatives under the supervision of the Labor Department. In the care of the insane and defectives, and for the restraint of the criminal, we have found it necessary to acquire more land and to enlarge the institutions devoted to them, which includes the establishment of a new colony for the feeble-minded, a new site for an insane building or buildings, a new building for the criminal insane in connection with the Trenton Hospital, and the Women's Reformatory. As an illustration of the scale of State expenditures, let me instance that during the three years of my administration the Legislature has appropriated for the purchase of additional lands, for new buildings, and for remodeling of old buildings with their appurtenances, all devoted solely to the State care of mental defectives and the criminal, and exclusive of repairs and equipment, more than one million three hundred thousand dollars.

To meet the legitimate demands of all State departments and institutions for larger appropriations with which to finance the great increase in the State's activities, the revenues of the State were severely taxed, and the Legislature of 1914 was called upon to provide new sources of income, if a State tax or bond issue would be avoided. accomplished by the enactment of an inheritance tax act, imposing a reasonable and fairly graded tax on the estate of decedents, which in the first year of its operation added nearly two million dollars to the State funds. The requisiton act, passed the same year, also aided in relieving the financial situation, in that it helped to check improper expenditures and prevented obligations being incurred in excess of appropriations, which in previous years the Legislature had been compelled to meet by extraordinary supplemental appropriations. Solely because of these acts, our financial condition is better to-day than it has been in years, and with the elimination of extravagant expenditures. through wise legislative appropriations, all fair requirements of every branch of our government can be met.

The net increase of State receipts for the year just closed over the previous year was $749,548.72, and the balance in the treasury October 31st, 1916, for State uses was $3.994,000.42, against which were outstanding requisitions and contracts amounting to $2,137,696.55, leaving a free balance in excess of obligations of every kind and nature of $1,856,303.87. It is a wise financial policy, and it should be the aim of the Legislature always to keep a large free balance, at least a million dollars, in the treasury as a protection against unforeseen contingencies, since the Constitution prohibits the creation of any debt or liability of the State in excess of one hundred thousand dollars except by vote of the people.

Our State departments and institutions are in excellent condition, except for the need of additional room, and are well managed. Indeed, the State is most fortunate in having the services on its various boards, as heads of departments and as superintendents of institutions, men and women who seem peculiarly adapted for the particular work entrusted to their charge. They rank high, and among them are many who are recognized as authorities in the special field of work in which they are engaged. The only criticism I have to offer is directed at our prison conditions, the blame for which can be placed on previous Legislatures, rather than on those in charge of prison management.

The State Prison is old, unsanitary and ill-adapted to the care of twelve hundred prisoners there confined. In fact it should not be located in a thickly settled part of a large city, and the property should be sold and a new location secured. The Rahway Reformatory might well be taken for this purpose and a new site for the Reformatory purchased. A portion of the prison buildings is antiquated and unhealthy, and the use of such buildings should be abandoned. The prison is poorly ventilated and the inmates get little sunlight, and there is no room in the grounds for recreation, and what room there is is insufficient for exercise. If it is not considered feasible to change the location of the prison at this time, the State Arsenal, which adjoins the prison grounds, could be moved elsewhere, the arsenal building torn down and the vacant land included within the prison bounds. This would be a great improvement, the expense of which would be small and the resulting benefit large.

By an act of the Legislature of 1914, it was declared as the policy of the State to abandon the practice of contracting the labor of convicts, and new contracts were forbidden. Although the Board of Prison Inspectors, with the consent of the Governor, was authorized to extend the contracts then in force, it was the intention of that act to lapse those contracts so soon as they terminated, and that employment should be provided by the State within the prison, or on farm, quarry or road work for all prisoners, but it has not been possible to carry out such intention, and some contracts were extended and are still in force. This was necessary because subsequent Legislatures failed to provide sufficient funds to enable the Prison Inspectors to establish other industries. The men should not be permitted to remain in idleness, and all those now employed under prison contracts cannot be put at farm or road work for the reason that the extent of such work is limited, and also because some prisoners are unfitted for manual labor and others cannot safely be trusted at outdoor work. I am not satisfied that it is wise to discontinue the making of prison labor contracts. The aim of the prison authorities is to keep the men employed, and it seems to me that they may as well be at work under prison contracts as at other employment, provided the preparation of such contracts is carefully supervised, their terms made fair and equitable, and a portion of the contract price for their labor is set aside for the men. Under such contracts less money is required from State funds, the contractors making the initial investment for the plant and raw material and assuming all Tisks of the business, such as repairs to machinery, unskilled and usually disinterested workmen, damage to goods and the marketing of the product. If, however, the Legislature believes that these contracts should be terminated, it must do more than pass a law to that effect. It must provide ample funds to enable tue prison authorities to set up other branches of work for the prisoners.

So long ago as 1911 the Legislature directed the Board of Prison Inspectors of the State Prison and the Commissioners of the Rahway Reformatory to pay the dependent families of inmates of those institutions the sum of fifty cents a day for each day such inmates were employed at productive labor, and later on, in 1914, the law was amended so as to direct the Inspectors and Commissioners to establish a wage system whereby the inmates who work would, after deducting a sum for their care and maintenance, be allowed a small wage for the support of their dependents, or for their own benefit after parole or discharge. It was not, however, until this fiscal year that any money was available for such purpose, and, in my judgment, the sum is insufficient. The law presents rather difficult financial problems, because the wage system applies to all persons confined in these institutions, whether they work at productive labor or are employed in clerical or domestic work, which produces no return in dollars. In the State Prison about two hundred men are assigned to duties within the prison, and, while their labor is valuable and saves the State money, it produces nothing which can be sold or exchanged. Seven hundred or eight hundred others are working on prison contracts, the money from which is paid directly into the State treasury and is absorbed in the State Of the remaining two hundred or three hundred, some are employed on road work, for which the Road Department makes compensation, others in industries established in the prison by the State, and still others at the prison farm, the two latter classes producing goods which the State can sell. A wage schedule must, however, be provided for the whole twelve hundred, and it can readily be seen that if the money earned by the work of two or three hundred is divided among the entire twelve hundred, the per capita for each must necessarily be small. Another complication is presented which may be illustrated by the operation of the knitting plant established by the State at the State Prison, where about thirty men are employed. In fixing the price at which the knit goods should be sold there should be reckoned, among other items, the maintenance cost of every inmate, whether within the prison, at the farm, or road camps. The result is that the sale price fixed for these goods may, on the one hand, show that the knitting plant is operated at a loss; or, if a higher sale price is fixed, it may be above the general market price at which these goods sell. It seems to me that since the product of prison labor (which is sold to our own State institutions and departments) must compete with outside manufacturers, the price should compare favorably with general market prices, and that until other industries are established at which the men who now work for prison contractors can be employed at productive labor, the money earned on these prison contracts should be credited to the general manufacturing account and used, first, in the reduction of maintenance cost, and the balance set aside for the benefit of all the prisoners.

Chapter 270 of the laws of 1916 provided that a person convicted of murder in the first degree shall be imprisoned at hard labor for life, if the jury before whom he is tried so recommends. Previous to the passage of that act, there was but one penalty fixed by law for this crime, namely, death. I feel satisfied that it was the intention of the Legislature, in passing the act of 1916, that every person found guilty of murder in the first degree, if saved from execution by the recommendation of the jury, should serve the full life sentence, unless pardoned or paroled by the Court of Pardons under its constitutional power, and yet such may not be the result, because chapter 214 of the laws of 1914 provides that any person sentenced to prison for the term of his life may be released on parole by the Board of Prison Inspectors after he has served fifteen years. The apparent conflict between these two acts should be remedied, otherwise an opportunity for a miscarriage of justice is left open.

The State Purchasing Department, established pursuant to an act passed last year, has not been in operation sufficiently long to justify me in expressing an opinion as to whether or not it will prove a success, but I believe it will. It would have been a failure, however, because of lack of sufficient funds, had not the State House Commission taken advantage of chapter 49 of the laws of 1916 and combined the Bureau of Audit and Requisitions of the Comptroller's Department with it. Naturally the first cost of establishing the Department, including the preparation and printing of its schedules, forms and contracts, will be large. On November 1st, last, the sum of $10,000.00 became available for the use of the Department, and by December 1st it had incurred obligations for printing and advertising, amounting to about $6,670.00, which leaves a balance for the continuation of its work for eleven months of only $3,200,00, out of which the salary of the Purchasing Agent must be paid at the rate of $416.66 monthly. To give this Department a chance to demonstrate its efficiency during the current year. it is imperative that a supplemental appropriation be allowed it. It would be good business to amend the law so as to authorize the Department to make purchases for cash from time to time, in advance of requisitions, of goods in large quantities as the season or special opportunities for low prices make such purchase wise, and to provide it with a fund for such purchases. The goods could be held by the seller to be delivered as required and the fund could be recouped as the goods were requisitioned by the institutions and charged for against their appropriations. The act contemplates the establishment of a warehouse or warehouses for the storage of goods purchased until such time as they may be required by institutions, but no money was provided for such purpose. After it has been demonstrated that the Department is practical and economical, provision should be made to make such investment possible.

I direct your attention to a decree of our Court of Chancery in the case of McCarter, Attorney-General, vs. Lehigh Valley Railroad Company (78 N. J. Eq. 346), which decree declared void a grant made July 12th, 1889, by the Riparian Commissioners of this State conveying to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, for the consideration of $48,000.00, the right of reversion of the State in lands in Jersey City, known as the "Basin of 1867," adjacent to the Morris Canal property, upon condition that the State should pay to the Railroad Company on or before the first Tuesday of March, 1913, or within such further time as thereafter should be allowed by the Court, the sum of $48,000.00 with interest at 6 per cent. from December 20th, 1889. The decree was affirmed by our Court of Errors and Appeals, March 8th, 1916 (96 Atl. Rep. 1917), whereupon the Attorney-General made application to the Court of Chancery for an order designating the time for payment of the amount mentioned in the original decree of that Court. Upon such application, the Court said that the Legislature should be given a reasonable time within which to make provision for the payment, and it fixed March 1st, 1917, as the time within which the sum in question should be paid.

The consideration of $48,000.00 for the grant aforesaid was paid by the Railroad Company into the treasury of the State and was by the State Treasurer credited to the "Income of the School Fund." Our Constitution provides that money or property appropriated or received into the treasury for the support of our public free schools shall be securely invested and shall remain a perpetual fund and "it shall not be competent for the Legislature to borrow, appropriate or use the said fund, or any part thereof, for any other purpose under any pretense whatever." money in question was not separately invested, but went into the School Fund, and there was commingled with other money received by the same fund, and (if it has not been expended for the purposes of the fund) it has now no separate identity, and it certainly has not earned 6 per cent. interest, continuously, from the date it was received by the State. In view of the constitutional provision quoted, I am of the opinion that the Legislature cannot take from the School Fund any money to apply toward the sum now necessary to be paid. It surely cannot take any part of the School Fund not derived from the $48,000.00 originally paid. Since it is of the utmost importance, because of the value of the land involved, that the amount due the Railroad Company shall be paid before March 1st, all question of an unconstitutional attempt to take from the School Fund any part of the sum required should be avoided, and the payment ought to be made in full from the general funds of the State available for State purposes. I recommend that you pass at once a special appropriation bill providing for payment out of State funds to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company of the sum of $48,000.00, with interest at 6 per cent., from December 20th, 1889. The amount needed will be in exceess of the sum of $125,000.00.

In ending my official connection with the State, I venture to hope that I have been of some service in aiding those whose endeavor it has been to so conduct our government that it should produce the greatest measure of benefit to all citizens. I have genuine regret that my official relations with those with whom I have been so closely associated must soon be severed. I have found them conscientious in their work, earnest and painstaking in their efforts, and rendering the State a highly intelligent and beneficial service. It is not necessary to ask for my successor the cooperation, assistance and support that has so generously been given me. I know he will find it ready for him, and with the experience he has had and knowledge he has gained in his long and valuable legislative service, and under his wise guidance, I feel assured that our State will go forward toward a great and glorious future.

Governor.

L. EDWARD HERRMANN, Secretary to the Governor.

Governor Edge's Inaugural Message.

Gentlemen of the Legislature:

I assume the responsibilities of this great office convinced that a Governor should not be merely an executive, concerned chiefly with constitutional functions or following conventional precedents. I revere and respect the traditions of the past, but we are now concerned with the future. I conceive it to be my most important duty to direct the mobilization and encourage the development of the assets and resources of the State, and to improve New Yersey's social, economic and industrial conditions. Together, we will endeavor to capitalize our possibilities and put them on the market for the progress of our industrial life and the happiness of all our

I thoroughly appreciate that the public, in the matter of demands upon and expectations concerning its officials, is far more exacting than the average private employer. I realize, too, that New Jersey is accustomed to the experienced guidance and wise management of many illustrious and able men, including those who were identified with the administration immediately preceding; were identified with the administration inhabitation, the work has been patriotic and painstaking. In view of this situation, I presume I should be somewhat appalled at the magnitude of the undertaking. Frankly, however, I am not. I enter tude of the undertaking. Frankly, however, I am not. I enter into the constructive program looking to the welding of New Jersey's government into a business organization with enthusiasm and confidence. I believe it will be possible, with your earnest cooperation, to effect at least five of the big legislative accomplishments this year:

First—A thorough reorganization of our Road Department, including a modern State Highway System. Second—Home Rule for our cities to that degree which is permissible under the Constitution and consistent with sound government.

Third—The increase in the franchise tax on public utilities companies, as provided in our platform.

Fourth-Additional consolidations of State departments or boards or other activities in the interest of greater economy and increased efficiency.

Fifth—A solution, officially endorsed and officially authorized, for our prison and institutional problems, so that the way may be paved absolutely for genuine penal and institutional reform through feasible development of the State-use system and colony idea.

My vision is clear as to these and other tasks which must be relative and interest in the part to the problems and interest in the problems.

undertaken, and in many instances, as to the method of accomplishundertaken, and in many instances, as to the method of accomplishing them. At the same time, I do not propose here to arbitrarily dictate final remedies, as I do not approve generally of a policy which renders a verdict or decides an issue without a hearing or before the evidence is in. However, I fully realize that the Executive must, to a great extent, be the guiding spirit, a responsibility which I readily assume. I shall endeavor to encourage team work throughout as without this success is impossible. To this cord and is easily activated to the readily activated the proposed the proposed the cord is easily as the readily as this end, and in order that our unmistakable pledges to the people, as presented in our platform, shall be carried out, I respectfully ask the hearty co-operation of the Legislature and other responsible

My hope as well is that a business government may become a reality and not remain a mere campaign slogan unattained. We have pledged to the people of New Jersey that accepted business principles shall direct our course rather than precedent or partisan-They accepted our representations in no uncertain terms; and gentlemen, they must not be disappointed.

Little additional legislation is required at the moment in order to prove our good intentions in this particular respect.

Of course, I urge the further consolidation of departments in the interest of concentrated responsibility, co-ordination of cognate functions and sound economy, and in further messages, as I deem necessary, I shall urge specifically such legislation. In passing, permit me in this connection to draw your attention to the Passate Valley Sewerage Commission. I believe such of its responsibilities as are still existent could be transferred to the State Health Department or to the North Jersey Water Supply Commission, created to deal with a related subject in the same section, and the State threshy carrier, thousage the words. the State thereby saving thousands annually in salaries and receiving the benefit of more concentration of authority. The Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission was established about fifteen years valley Sewerage Commission was established about fifteen years ago, and by devising and furthering a practicable solution for the sewerage problem in the Passaic Valley it has served the basic purpose for which it was created. Then there are the appraisers or agents employed in each county to carry out the work of taxing the transfer of decedents' property. It occurs to me that the county surrogates, through whose hands all such estates must pass finally, could very easily do the work of these special agents, thus abolishing twenty-three offices, saving expense and simplifying the system of collecting our inheritance tax.

But to day we have various important consolidations which should

But to-day we have various important consolidations which should command our immediate attention from the standpoint of careful and energetic administration and prove the possibility of a business government. We also have a State Budget law. We have a Central Purchasing Bureau act. Obviously, it is our immediate duty to go ahead and administer these laws that we already have, so that their operation will be effective and the result will be a thorough business administration, affecting as they do practically every department of the government of our State. All law is valueless without enforcement.

BUSINESS GOVERNMENT.

The question may be asked:

"What is a Business Government, as applied to a State unit? The term 'Business Government' is too general, and we should like to have the plans and specifications."

Briefly, my conception of a "Business Government" is this: I believe the Governor of a "business Government" is this:
I believe the Governor of the State should be the Business Manager of the State's varied interests; that the Legislature, as representing the various county units, should be the Board of Directors; that the people should realize they are the stockholders, owning collectively the business of New Jersey, and that the business of New Jersey, speaking from a material standpoint, consists of all the natural requirems such as coast lines wire. These barbor of all the natural resources, such as coast lines, river lines, harbor facilities—developed and undelevoped, forests, streams, minerals, and all those assets which Nature has provided. But, it may be said, they are in most part privately owned. So they are. But it is through wise, helpful and remedial legislation and co-operation on the part of the State Government with the Federal Government that many of these resources are brought into practical use, where men are employed, where industry is encouraged, where commerce is developed, and through all of which our State is made greater and our people of all classes happier.

The State's business also includes the opportunity—nay, imposes the obligation—to provide for and alleviate the distress of unfortunates and dependents, and through wise legislation and properly conducted institutions, to correct as far as possible those evils responsible for this problem. The causes must be eradicated or their effect minimized.

The entire proposition, whether from the material or social side, is one requiring business judgment and business organization.

I propose to bring together, as far as possible and practicable in a political government, the different boards dealing with these various subjects in order to encourage their co-operation, each realizing that the Governor is the General Manager of all this business, reporting through him, consulting with him, planning with him for further development and further inprovement. The Legislature, otherwise the Board of Directors, is in session approximately only three months of the twelve. It is my plan to form what might be termed an unofficial or semi-official cabinet, consisting of departmental heads and representatives of the Sonate consisting of departmental heads and representatives of the Senate and House, to meet, consult and devise during the nine months that the Legislature is not in session. I want to distribute this responsibility so that our business becomes one of twelve months, rather than one of but three months.

I cannot lay out in detail in a message the many things that go to make up a business government, but, summarized, it is simply introducing into what has been an accepted political government the common-sense rules of every successful private business corporation of the day.

I appreciate, gentlemen, that the millenium has not arrived. Neither have I a remedy for all the ills of government. But I am absolutely convinced that it is possible to transform, to a great extent, a political government into a workable business organization, and to that task we are indelibly committed.

APPEAL FOR EXERCISE OF JERSEY CITIZENSHIP.

If we are to transform a purely political government into a real business organization and capitalize our resources and put them on the market for the development of our industries and the benefit and comfort of our people, we should first exert every effort to interest in their investment the stockholders owning the business of New Jersey. I think everyone will admit that in some parts of our State, the New Jersey interests are subordinated to, or overshadowed by, the interest of the nearby metropolitan cities of adjacent States.

In South Jersey many of the activities which should be robust

In South Jersey many of the activities which should be robust and healthy are weak and struggling because of the competition across the Delaware. Many of our people enjoy living in New Jersey, but they do business in Pennsylvania. They maintain industries in Pennsylvania. They help to build up the great taxable wealth of Pennsylvania. They know all about political Pennsylvania, but little or nothing about political New Jersey.

In North Jersey conditions are similar. In the great colony of New York commuters of this section there are many taxpaying Jerseymen—men of brains, initiative, constructive ability—who do big things to add to the wealth of ratables in New York City, yet big things to add to the wealth of ratables in New York City, yet who do little for New Jersey outside of maintaining homes here and paying their taxes. They do not know our possibilities because they do not know our politics or our local problems of commerce and agriculture and manufacturing and development. In the last election in New Jersey, 50,000 more Jerseymen voted for the last election in New Jersey, 50,000 more Jerseymen voted for the two leading presidential candidates than voted for the two leading candidates for United States Senator or Governor, and to my mind this means, to a considerable extent, that about 50,000 Jerseymen did not have sufficient interest in the internal affairs of New Jersey to take part in the State election.

Is it any wonder that New York and Philadelphia have the means to finance great undertakings of commercial development, while New Jersey sometimes lags behind and hesitates at the expense? What we need is more Jersey eitzenshin_real_eitzen.

expense? What we need is more Jersey citizenship—real citizenship, active citizeuship, Jealous citizenship—rather than mere "residentship." I appeal for genuine Jersey citizenship. I ask the people to come to a full realization of the practically limitless possibilities of New Jersey, commercially, agriculturally and in-

In the creation of nonpolitical business boards I propose to call in men of this type to contribute their part to solving our problems. They will receive no salaries, but will receive dividends in the form of an active, progressive New Jersey, thoroughly alive to its opportunities. In this particular connection I am pleased to refer to three subjects of paramount importance— Roads, Waterways, and the High Cost of Living. All three require the immediate consideration of the Legislature and the closest attention from the public at large.

STATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM.

Obviously the people appreciate the importance of good roads. I need not elaborate on that after the decisive adoption of the Egan Bill. They realize the revolutionary effect which the automobile has had on overland transportation; the possibilities which mobile has had on overland transportation; the possibilities which lie in its further development; and the imperative necessity of a great highway system which shall amount practically to a Statewide trackless trolley, used by thousands of motor car owners, not alone for pleasure, but in the transportation of farm products from farm to market, of raw material from the point of production or delivery in the State to the point of refinement and manufacture and of finished products and foods from the market to the consumer. The remedial effect which the proper development of the roads must have upon the economic and industrial aliments of the day is self-evident. The sole question then for the present consideration is: How?

It is my conviction that we should approach the road problem as promising one of the greatest assets in return for State expenditure. We already receive approximately a million and a balf dollars annually from motor license fees. Roads reach every corner, while only as business warrants can railroads and trolleys serve all the people at their very doors. With the development of motor transportation and hard-surface highways, business interests, especially manufacturers and dealers, are finding a new method of delivery. The State must meet this condition of modern demand, and in return, a rearrangement of license fees to fit the present use of the highways should be devised. New Jersey wishes to encourage the use of her highways for such purposes and to coencourage the use of her highways for such purposes and to cooperate with producers, but the distribution of the expense must be equitable and fair. I recommend a rearrangement of motor license fees to take into contemplation these rew conditions, particularly as they relate to motor trucks and vans.

You are already familiar with the proposition of allowing to remain inoperative the Egan act so that sufficient funds for constructing the State Highway System—that is, through trunk highways, built, rebuilt, and forever maintained by the State-may be raised by a temporary road tax on the entire ratables of the State. This is a pay-as-you-go plan. It saves millions in interest charges necessary to financing the highway system on a bond issue basis. necessary to financing the highway system on a bond issue basis. By levying a tax of one mill on the approximately three billion ratables of New Jersey sufficient money would be raised in five years to finance the whole project, and as much per year as can be wisely expended. By this plan a future generation would not be loaded down with debt. I know of no plan that will oblige a closer scrutiny by the public of highways expenditures than of putting the financing on a tax rather than a bond issue basis. It points the way to escape from excessive road costs and a financial burden of the future which would seriously interfere with necessary expenditures for develonment by the next generation. Generally speaking, therefore, it is a wise example for the State to set: specifically, it offers an immediate solution of our State road problem and one that gives due consideration to other roads in the various counties by maintaining the availability of the fund from which State aid in road building and maintenance is at present provided.

It has been urged that because of the adoption of the Egan act providing for a bond issue, it does not follow that the public would endorse even a temporary road tax, and further, that the bond issue was approved because under its provisions a State highway system would cost the taxpayers nothing. I emphatically disagree with this view.

If the present and future income from motor license fees should be diverted to discharging the road bonds and paying interest thereon, as contemplated under the Egan act, it is, of course, perfectly obvious that this money would be removed from the possibility of use in repairing and building other important highways; or in other words, State aid would practically cease. When it is realized that the Egan act contemplates taking over only about 550 miles of highway, and at present New Jersey has over 2,000 miles of improved State-aid roads, the future burden on the counties without the usual State aid for maintenance must be perfectly clear. Again, the item of interest under the Egan bill totals over $2,000,000 absolutely saved the State by the tax: future generations are not required to discharge bonds for roads which may be inadequate to meet conditions prevailing then, as our present roads are to present requirements; and more important perhaps than either of the above is the declaration by various authorities, and so far as I have been able to ascertain, undisputed, that the $7,000,000 provided under the Egan act would not under any conditions be sufficient to build the highways specified, and that the act is therefore impracticable, if not absolutely impossible of execution. The Egan act, however, has served a very useful purpose. It has enabled you to learn that the people of New Jersey want a State highway system, and are willing to pay for it.

The matter of financing is our responsibility, and must be adjusted to secure results, not certain litigation. Again, if we are to have a real State highway system, the solution must be approached from the broad, unselfsh point of view that it will become a State-wide asset of advantage to all classes of citizenship, cities, towns and rural districts alike. In my judgment, any attempt to especially assess benefits or discriminate in cest as between sections will so confuse the issue that a speedy solution will become practically hopeless and the clear desire of the people, as expressed by their overwhelming vote, remain unsatisfied. It is not an issue for narrow distinctions, but one deserving broad co-operation.

What public improvement could more properly come under the heading of a State-wide accomplishment of universal benefit than a modern highway touching every county in the State? Whether highways are constructed by means of a bond issue or tax, in the fixed arealysis the tayanger must of curso heart the burden.

final analysis the taxpayer must, of course, bear the burden. Before this present Legislature adjourns, the way must be clearly and legally provided. On the question of administration of the road department, I am convinced that the State will be well served by following a similar plan to that adopted for the management and control of other consolidated departments under the economy and efficiency legislation, providing that the Governor shall appoint a highway commission of eight citizens, at least two or three to be recognized eugineers, to serve without salary and to have absolute authority in all matters, selecting their commissioner of highways, engineers and other necessary employees above the grades of civil service. I have followed the particite work of similar Boards of Conservation and Development, of Commerce and Navigation, and of Health, and find the service they are giving the State is of the highest and most intelligent order. Care, of course, must be exercised in selecting such a board, but wisely chosen from that class of men interested in road development.

ment and willing to serve their State, the taxpayers would be assured of a wise expenditure of the large sum of money contemplated. This would prove another practical adoption of recognized business principles in place of political control.

The dirt roads of the State, or what are known as unimproved roads, should receive more consideration. In many parts of the State these are numerous. The bulk of the people in rural communities live on by-ways; it is not their fault that they are not on the trunk lines. If these highways were improved through the ald and supervision of the State, back farms and properties would become accessible and valuations would increase. I appreciate that certain laws passed last year constituted a step in this direction. But under none of these acts may the State spend more than $105,000 a year in such work on a fifty per cent. basis, nor may any road be improved under this plan where the right of way is less than thirty-three feet; and in those acts where county freeholders are authorized to help, the road must be an extension of or connection with some permanently improved road. My idea is that the present legislation is not sufficiently liberal to permit of desirable progress in this important direction. I understand that New York State provides from a half a dollar to a dollar for every dollar that the township raises for the improvement of dirt roads. Some similarly liberal plan in New Jersey would. I firmly believe, assist our aim to increase the accessibility of all New Jersey communities through good roads and thereby help solve the economic and industrial problems with which we all are familiar. It does not reduce the cost of transporting farm products where the farmer located on an inferior byway is compelled to start with a lighter load in order to navigate the poor road from his farm to the improved highway. The benefit of the modern road is thus practically lost in its relation to the cost of transportation, which is but little reduced if at all.

Were we to use our present road income for discharging bonds, however, our finances would, of course, not permit further road development.

The question of a State patrol system, State aid for highways not included in the State system, the improvement of dirt roads in the counties, the question of proper materials, drainage, and in fact. every detail of highway construction and maintenance should be referred, without too much restriction on the part of the Legislature, to the Highway Commission.

PATROL SYSTEM,

Conceiving and working out a systematic, practicable patrol Conceiving and working out a systematic, practicable patrol system should be among the very first considerations of this Highway Commission. Road maintenance is quite as important as road building. New Jersey has invested in many splendid roads, but it has not preserved them. In this respect our highway policy has been shamefully wasteful. I recommend that no road bill be passed unless it is based on the patrol system of maintenance and contains the authorization and provisions necessary thereto. I recommend that you adhere to this principle even when it comes to assisting the counties, and I shall urge that hereafter no State aid be given a county until the latter has agreed and definitely arranged to meet such requirements of the agreed and definitely arranged to meet such requirements of the State for systematic and everlasting repair.

WATERWAYS.

In the interests of the development of our waterways and ports, I urge the co-operation of the Legislature and the information of the public in the comprehensive plans of our Department of Commerce and Navigation.

Almost entirely surrounded by water, with navigable streams running through nearly every county, located directly between two of the greatest ports in the world, New Jersey ought to be the greatest commercial State in the country. It will be if only Jerseymen will speak for Jersey and represent Jersey

I bespeak every possible legislative encouragement for the great marine projects, one on the New York Bay and the other on the Delaware, now being considered by the cities of Bayonne and Camden. Marine terminals, adequate docking facilities and general Camden. Marine terminals, adequate docking facilities and general waterfront development are among the first essentials in the campaign for a Greater New Jersey. Exporters demand adequate dockage facilities. The ports of New Jersey must be accessible and inviting. The cities located on the waterfront can accomplish much for the general development of New Jersey by taking the initiative in these matters, as Camden and Bayonne have done, and co-operating with the Department of Commerce and Navigation. Our municipalities should not hesitate to avail themselves of the assistance of this department.

Under an act passed by the Legislature last year, municipalities bordering on tidal waters have the power to join hands in what may be made a co-operative plan with the State and Federal Government, whereby salt marsh and meadow lands and lands under water may be reclaimed and improved until they become valuable assessed property of the municipalities, enhancing the wealth of the State in ratables.

I call attention to the great possibilities, under this plan, of developing for manufacturing purposes, the hundreds of acros of useless waste land in the northern part of the State, particularly that vast section along the Hackensack river and within small gun range of our great cities of Newark and Jersey City.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF WATERFRONT.

Another matter that should receive careful consideration in connection with the development of the waterways and ports of our State is the ownership of the accessible waterfront along the Hudson and Delaware. I have the opinion of men experienced in international commerce that the business at the ports of New Jersey suffers a severe handicap because of the private ownership of the waterfront. It seems to me some public control, similar to that which New York City exercises, besides creating a source of revenue, would put into the hands of the people the power to our provider the receiver the receiver the control of the power to the property. curb waterfront monopoly. It occurs to me that we want to thus encourage competition along the waterfront of our commercial cities at the same time that we are pressing, as we propose to do vigorously and relentlessly, our fight against the lighterage and rate discriminations of the railroads at the port of New York. We should prosecute this fight, and at the same time, interest and bring in line with New Jersey, if possible, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and other big shipping centers.

TRANSPORTATION OVER OR UNDER RIVERS.

A matter that is properly treated in connection with the development of waterways, because it relates thereto, is the dual project of modernizing transportation facilities across the Hudson and Delaware rivers, with a traffic tunnel for the former and a bridge for the latter. These undertakings, heretofore entirely separate in their treatment and prosecution, have been considered and debated and urged for several years by public-spirited citizens, but in my judgment, they have not received the proper sanction and co-operation. The assistance of the State must be enlisted.

At this stage of the proceedings, when the sails seem to be flapping and in need of some steady, dependable, directing influence, I am frank to say that I believe this administration can well serve the people by getting squarely and aggressively behind these enterprises. I urge the counties most directly concerned to consider them, not as the mystic products of idealism, but as gigantic projects of major importance to New Jersey and to the country at large—as potent factors in the solution of our economic problems, desirable contributors to the comfort and convenience of our people and as invaluable facilities in the event of war. I firmly believe that we may confidently depend upon New York and Pennsylvania for all necessary co-operation; for the enterprises will be mutually beneficial. Progress injures none. The history of the construction of bridges across the East river between the city of New York and Long Island, shows that the population and industries of New York were not affected by the long-apprehended trend to Long Island. Nor would our neighboring States suffer in the slightest degree from the modernizing of traffic facilities across the Hudson and Delaware.

SHIP CANAL DEVELOPMENT.

Along with the encouragement of waterway, waterfront and general transportation development, I believe this administration should take a keen interest in the possibilities of a ship canal. I thoroughly appreciate that to a certain extent this is a federal responsibility, but the federal government is waiting on us for the right of way.

The thirty-two miles of river front from Camden to Trenton is now more than two-thirds occupied, either by manufacturing plants, towns, or configurations of shore that fail to be attractive spots for manufacturing establishments. This stretch is of great value to the State. Of how infinitely greater value, then, would be a river with both sides in New Jersey, running for 34 miles through a strip of what is now farming land, from Bordentown to Perth Amboy? Surely it would vitalize what is now back-country territory. It would be the choice location for manufacturers in the eastern part of the United States. For the coal, pig iron and lumber of the major part of the eastern States it would provide access to two large cities on a safe highway.

I submit for your consideration the desirability of further legislation looking toward the acquisition of the right of way for such a canal or a strip of land two miles wide, so that the State may have the opportunity to recoup its outlay, perhaps many times over, by selling manufactory sites.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

I believe that the extension and development of New Jersey's roads and waterways would have a remedial effect on the malady known as "the high cost of living." Undoubtedly the exorbitant cost of transportation, of handling and rehandling products of the farm and factory, is a factor contributing to this serious condition.

of course I shall not presume to diagnose an economic disease which is baffling experts. But my idea is that New Jersey might do her part in a task which is national in its scope by the authorization of an unsalaried commission of not more than three. This commission, for which I am quite sure we could find well-qualified, experienced men, would co-operate with various agencies which are now considering this all-important subject and represent our State with official standing.

Such a commission might serve as the agent of the State in Such a commission might serve as the agent of the State in the big task of revolutionizing the attitude of official New Jersey toward certain marketing conditions which appear to have direct bearing on the high-cost problem. I have in mind particularly those marketing conditions relating to our fisheries. It is difficult to control the prices of food products acquired through man's enterprise and skill—that is, planted, cultivated and harvested, or raised. But New Jersey is blessed with one large source of food supply which nature alone has provided: the salt-water fish. Here is an inexhaustible mine with ore rich in its possibilities

Here is an inexhaustible mine with ore rich in its possibilities for economic benefit.

The State to-day licenses pound fisheries in return for a small revenue. Millions of pounds of fish are caught. Through an investigation made by a legislative commission we learn that the pound fishermen themselves receive only from 2 to 4 cents per pound for these food fish, shipped almost exclusively to Philadelphia and New York wholesale markets, while the same fish, when retailed in our markets, bring from 15 to 20 cents per pound, or even more. Then again, the waste under the present system of shipment and storage 'is said to be appalling. It might be feasible to have the State establish warehouses along the coast for handling this product, paying pound fishermen the market prices, from 2 to 4 cents, so that this industry would not be interfered with, but fixing the prices for sale to the wholesale markets of New Jersey just sufficiently higher to pay the actual expenses of handling. Unquestionably this would reduce the price to the New Jersey consumer very materially. Even now we regulate through the Public Utilities Commission the price of the use of various utilities because they are regarded fundamentally regulate through the Public Utilities Commission the price of the use of várious utilities because they are regarded fundamentally as the people's, but given over to private control, management and development as a public privilege. Our fisheries are in the same class, if not more so. The price of this particular foodstuff furnished by nature is reasonably subject to regulation, if not by assertive public ownership, then by regulatory legislation. It is a truism that good roads make for better economic conditions and more producers and better transportation and easier marketing; while the continued maintenance of our inland water.

ditions and more producers and better transportation and easier marketing; while the continued maintenance of our inland waterway, supplemented by the establishment of landing stations where farmers could bring their produce to be shipped by boat to the large cities, would, I firmly believe, relieve the cost situation. The establishment by the larger cities of free market terminals at the docks, readily accessible to the waterway boats, would prove a co-operating step calculated to encourage farming and help knock high prices. The latter thrive on excessive transportation charges and the lack of a market where overhead charges are not exorbitant. By way of suggestion and co-operation in all such relative subjects, a commission such as I have recommended might accomplish much for New Jersey and for the nation.

ENCOURAGING AGRICULTURE.

I have referred briefly to the necessity for more markets of easy accessibility, but I want to emphasize this important point. The French plan of 'near markets' and 'sure markets' for the small producer would encourage the farmer in his enterprise, call many of our sons back to the soil and result in a reasonable readjustment of food prices.

However, I believe we should go a step farther and create a great State market of our own in the combined public institutions of New Jersey. Despite the efforts made at produce-raising in separate jurisdictions, it is costing the State hundreds of thousands of dollars to feed its growing number of dependents-the insane, of dollars to feed its growing number of dependents—the insane, the indigent poor, the physically-afflicted and the inmates of various charitable and correctional institutions. Yet adjacent to those institutions there are thousands of acres of land, either owned by the State or readily and cheaply available, which can be cultivated and tilled, and made to yield sufficiently to supply practically all of our dependents with food, thus reducing the tax burden of every property owner. The task calls for uniformity of control, system and the application of modern methods. The responsibility for properly handling this joint proposition of a State Farm and State Market should be centralized in some one body or agency, and I earnestly favor legislation designed to bring this about.

Such a proposition, of course, should have the hearty co-operation of the State Board of Agriculture. I trust you gentlemen will enter into the spirit of any plans which the State Board of Agriculture may have for raising the productivity of this publicowned land through intensive farming, or for encouraging the private farmer, and lessening the distance and reducing the cost between the farm and the market.

CONFERRING WITH MAYORS.

I have already discussed tife need of co-operation between the State and the counties on the question of good roads and between the State and the cities on the question of waterway and water-front development and the reclamation and improvement of waste lands. But there is a broad field for even more extensive co-operation between the State and its municipalities.

our State, though sovereign in power, it should be remembered is a collection of such units as cities, towns, townships and other municipalities. No State can be greater than its component parts. Therefore the interests of the State and of these units are common, and I believe that the mayors of these individual municipalities as the official representatives of the small standard. municipalities, as the official representatives of the people and taxpayers there, and the Governor, as the official representative or mayor, as you choose, of all of these municipalities or units taken collectively, should be brought together on a common ground taken collectively, should be brought together on a common ground occasionally to discuss the problems of the municipalities and the relation of the State government thereto. Of course these conferences should be so arranged that municipalities of the same class only would be represented and considered at any one time, as of course, the needs of municipalities and the methods of assisting them vary according to the classification and location.

I propose calling such conferences from time to time, and I hope that they may prove fruitful in effecting a closer relationship between State and municipal government for the benefit of both. They ought to prove particularly helpful, it seems to me, in carrying out successfully such recommendations of our commission which was appointed to survey municipal financing as may be carrying out successfully such recommendations of our commission which was appointed to survey municipal financing as may be considered feasible and wise. Incidentally, I bespeak the very earnest consideration of the Legislature of such recommendations as are made by this commission, which has made a minute investigation in all parts of the State and has made a businesslike study of the municipal financial problem. The suggested type of work for these conferences of State and municipalities can be taken up and considered between legislative sessions, and it will thus do much toward placing the business of New Jersey on an all-year-'round basis as a permanent business proposition rather than alone an annual subscribing to pledges by political organizations. zations.

STATE PRISON AND INSTITUTIONS.

If New Jersey is to perform its duty to its criminal charges and itself the prison problem must be solved. Likewise, attention must be given to overcrowded conditions and other problems at various other State institutions. Here is a task for this adminis-various other State institutions. Here is a task for this administration upon which I cannot put too much stress, for it is urgent. Conditions in the State Prison at Trenton are admittedly unsatisfactory. Overcrowding prevails. The ground maintained for prison purposes is so extensively occupied with buildings that there is no opportunity for sanitation. It has been suggested that the State take over the old State arsenal grounds and purchase adjoining lands for the purpose of enlarging the prison. At best this is another makeshift proposition. It would relieve the situation temporarily, but not effect a cure. It seems to me that we are far enough advanced in our ideas on prison reform to face this problem and solve it for all time in a big way.

I believe the door of opportunity for this solution opens to penal farms and road work. If these well-known ideas are put into greater practical practice in New Jersey, there will be no need for such extensive prisons. Inside industries, which of course, were the research of a three prisons. must be preserved for those prisoners who cannot do outside work, will be the easier regulated, because they shall need to be less extensive. The State-use system as a substitute for the contract labor system, which is unlawful and ought not to be permitted under the subterfuge of the so-called piece-price plan, can be extended on such a comprehensive scale that it may be possible even to solve the prison problem without adding a foot to the grounds of the institution in Trenton.

I take it that the success at Leesburg shows the possibilities of the penal farm system. Reports show that over one-half of the thousand acres there is now cleared of trees, shrub and roots, and in a year or two all of this farm will be available for cultivation of food crops. At this time, the reports show, the men there have constructed several temporary buildings, have cleared land, have cultivated crops of vegetables, grain and other food crops for live stock, and in general have put the former useless land into a condition of productivity. Such reports suggest the idea that, without interfering with free labor, it might be possible through an arrangement between State and private owner possible through an arrangement between State and private owner to use the prisoners in reclaiming for farming purposes the thousands of acres of pine and shrub barrens in the southern part of the State. This might be done either through greatly increasing the number of penal farms, or if legal and feasible, by merely reclaiming the land for private owners, who would never bother about the task of making it productive under other circumstances. It has appealed to me that this idea may be worthy of some consideration after reading the report of an investigator to the effect that after all of the land set apart for the penal farm at Leeshurz had been elegard and rendered reading the farm. farm at Leesburg had been cleared and rendered ready for farming "comparatively few prisoners can there be employed." Evidently it is in the clearing and preparation of the land for agricultural purposes that the most prisoners can be employed, and the imperative necessity at this time is to devise the greatest possible amount of practical, lawful, healthful, reasonable and profitable employment for the State's prisoners, so that the task of constantly increasing the size of the institutions of confinement and correction may be avoided.

Of course, I am not putting this forth as a mature plan of procedure. I appreciate that the subject requires expert treatment, and to this end I propose calling together in conference in the very near future representatives of the Prison Labor Comthe very near future representatives of the Prison Labor Commission and of the New Jersey State Charities Aid and Prison Reform Association, inspectors of the State Prison, the Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, the State Purchasing Agent, officials of the Rahway Reformatory and other allied institutions and of the Road Department, which has an interest because of proposed convict road work, and of the Department of Conservation and Development, which would supervise any extension of the penal farm idea into the broader field of reclaiming barren lands. I shall want them to tell their stories individually, express their own views and submit to questions.

In brief, there is necessity for harmonizing the conflicting opinions and views upon this question and obtaining speedy legislative action for the purpose not only of solving the prison reform problem, but also, of reorganizing and placing on a sound business basis the management and care of public institutions of a charitable and correctional nature. Regarding the latter, there ought to be more centralization of authority, and in consequence, more workable and reachable concentration of responsibility.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

I believe you will agree with me that the future of the National Guard of New Jersey ought to command the serious attention of this administration. The relation of the National Guard of the State to the United States is going through an evolution. At the present time it is the subject of much discussion by those interested in the military policy of the Nation. Duality of control appears to be a failure. Under the National Defense act the National Guard became federalized, but following the mobilization on the Mexican border, which occurred almost simultaneously with the passage of the new act, there seems to be a wide difference of opinion as to the feasibility of the present system, its adequacy as a means of National defense, and whether the voluntary principle of enrollment will withstand the increased demands made by the Federal Government. In fact, Senator Borah has aunounced that he has prepared a bill to repeal the federalized militia law in favor of a more comprehensive system of military training, Guard of New Jersey ought to command the serious attention of this administration. The relation of the National Guard of the in favor of a more comprehensive system of military training, and it must be admitted that there is throughout the country more or less sentiment for universal military training and service. The recent mobilization on the border, with no state of hostilities existing, developed the fact that the burden of military service

The recent mobilization on the border, with no state of hostilities existing, developed the fact that the burden of military service should be borne by all the people instead of by merely a voluntary class, who were force to partially sacrifice their business affairs and home responsibilities for a considerable period in the interests of the whole people. I believe that the time is coming when this country shall not be required to depend on the States as separate instrumentalities in the National defense, and will enact legislation that will result in a well-trained and adequate force subject to the call of the President, either by strengthening the laws governing the service of the National Guard, or by means of some other organization, whatever its name may be.

We have in New Jersey a National Guard which I regard as highly efficient, and which is qualified to offer admirable service in the National defense, and even should a system of compulsory service be established, the National Guard will not be replaced by it, but rather become the nucleus of it. In my indegment, it would be a grave mistake to do away with support for our National Guard to an extent which would curtail its efficiency, until a satisfactory substitute is assured; and I am not in favor of any hasty action which is not in accord with the ultimate intent of Congress. But that the National Guard is a Federal force, and not essential in its entirety for the special police work of the State is evident, and as such a federalized force the question of how far the State should continue to appropriate large sums for the training of the National Guard is a fair one for us to consider. If special sums are to be appropriated, it might be well to consider if the State should not directly reimburse the troops

If special sums are to be appropriated, it might be well to consider if the State should not directly reimburse the troops who served on the border with the difference between State pay and Federal pay to make up in part for their business sacrifice, rather than to pay for training, which, if the Federal Government is to continue to control, should be assumed by the Federal Government.

What attitude should we take toward the Guard pending the solution of the problem of effective military preparedness? Might it be possible for this administration to save the State the expenditure of a considerable portion of the National Guard appropriations by carefully studying the military conditions and advocating Federal financial support more in keeping with the National aspect of the Guard? The New National Defense act. in addition to other requirements, provides for fifteen days of field service in each year as compared with the previous six days annual training. The State has in the past appropriated annually for purposes of training and instruction, including field training at annual encampment, approximately $100,000, which is in addition to expense of local administration and constructions, maintenance, and repair of armories. In view of the additional Federal requirements mentioned, it seems only reasonable that Congress or the War Department should make appropriations in full of the requirements of the new act. The work of this administration may be commenced this session by carefully weighing the necessities for State appropriations requested for field training and rifle parallel, bearing in mind their relations to the State service, and asto by assuming a policy of opposition to the construction and maintenance of additional State armories until the Nation-wide question of a National defense is permanently settled by Congress.

CORPORATION LAWS.

The question of a revision of our corporation laws is already in the hands of a special commission. No doubt their report will be of valuable assistance to you and to me in determining upon be of valuable assistance to you and to me in determining upon the best program of revision.

There is no doubt that the subject needs our careful consideration because of the changed conditions brought about by the so-called "Seven Sisters" acts. At a recent hearing before the commission which is studying the subject, it was the opinion of a number of speakers that this legislation was so uncertain in language as to render it almost a nullity, though the apparently drastic provisions of the laws have driven away from New Jersey warm conventings formerly operating under Lessy observes and many corporations formerly operating under Jersey charters and have prevented others from incorporating here.

These laws have been in force five years, and that is sufficient time for a fair test. I am not in favor of letting down the bars, but I do want to get this revenue for New Jersey if it can be gotten without fostering monopoly. Have the laws really suppressed monopoly and extortionate prices? Are the food speculators less active and the popular outery against monopoly and extortion less vigorous after five years of the "Seven Sisters?"

Has a single prosecution been instituted under these measures?

Have they folial as remedial agencies and have they succeeded Have they failed as remedial agencies, and have they succeeded as destroyers of the State's business and income? It is a wellas destroyers of the State's business and income? It is a well-known fact that a considerable number of the provisions of the so-called "Seven Sisters" are in conflict with the Clayton act of the Federal government. Is it not unwise that our State laws regulating business should conflict with the last word that the Federal government has said upon this important subject? I do not ask these questions in a spirit of antagonism based on an opinion already formed, but rather in a spirit of genuine inquiry. It is the duty of this administration to ascertain what the future attitude of New Jersey is going to be toward the corporations. While my face is firmly set against the encouragement of understoned in the state of the state porations. While my face is firmly set against the encouragement of_unlawful combinations for purposes of manipulation and extention or undue restraint of trade, at the same time I am not committed to an idealistic principle which costs the State a great deal in lost revenue and business prestige, if that principle is only idealistic and not practical. I take the stand that while unlawful "big business" is intolerable, all "big business" is not unlawful, and business is not unlawful because it is big. On the corporation question let us keep our minds open and search with fidelity and without prejudice for the facts.

with fidelity and without prejudice for the facts.

TAXATION REFORM.

Whole volumes might be written on apparently feasible solutions of the equalization of taxation, and yet it would be necessary to come back to the basic proposition that perfect equalization depends absolutely on the determination, judgment and independence of the assessor, uninfluenced or controlled by partisanship or community selfishness. I am not convinced that permanent tenure in office for local assessors would not be the wise thing. In office for local assessors would not be the wise thing. Of course, the trouble with this plan is that we may give tenure to good and bad assessors allke. At all events, I believe all assessors should be appointed rather than elected; and something must be done to protect the assessor against politics and powerful influence. If it is not so much the system that is wrong as it is the failure of the assessor to do his duty under the system, then we go directly to the root of the matter by safeguarding the assessor in his independence and the full, free exercise of his own judgment.

What I have termed "community selfishness" is a stumbling block that must be guarded against with as much care as influence on assessors through politics. The duty of the county tax board is to hear appeals from municipal assessments and to equalize the is to hear appeals from municipal assessments and to equalize the assessments as between the taxing districts of the county, so that each district shall bear its fair share of the county tax burden, which is now distributed among the districts upon the basis of the local tax valuation as equalized between those districts. Herein, of course, lies the temptation for each district to keep its tax assessment as low as possible for the purpose of having to pay as little as possible of the county tax rate. It is just as important that valuations between counties be likewise equalized, especially in view of a State road tax; and I carnestly recommend that you give immediate consideration to this particular detail. You can solve the question of equalization only by giving final power to a body with State-wide jurisdiction, working in conjunction with body with State-wide jurisdiction, working in conjunction with the county boards, and they with independent, properly protected assessors.

My final thought on this much involved question is to simplify the machinery, rather than to mystify with too much detail.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

No corporation can be conducted along successful business lines unless its employees are competent and loyal. They cannot be competent if they are selected from political consideration rather than because of ability; they cannot be loyal if they are subject to outside political influence. Consequently, I make an earnest plea for the strengthening and broadening of the Civil Service System, and I urge that this administration be in thorough sym-

System, and I urge that this administration be in thorough sympathy at all times with the merit system.

There ought to be a standardization of salaries for the clerks and employees, based as law now provides on "the duties, character of work, hours of service and compensation of the various grades." Not only should employees be classified so that their pay conforms with their duties, hours of employment and responsibilities, but there should be a system that offers an opportunity for advancement from time to time in the service of the State to positions of greater responsibility and more compensation. If necessary, I believe the Civil Service Commission should be given more power in order that the various positions may be justly graded and an incentive for good work provided with the promotion plan. I call attention to the fact that in 1914 the Legislature authorized an act which provides that, in addition to Legislature authorized an act which provides that, in addition to the powers already conferred upon it, "the Civil Service Com-mission shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to suggest mission shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to suggest standards of salaries to be paid those filling offices and positions in the classified service of the State." If this isn't enough law, I am ready to recommend more. But I am going to insist to the limit of my power and ability that we have genuine Civil Service in New Jersey, administered by those thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Civil Service. There must be no sidestepping, no evasion, no interference on the part of partisan politics to keep one man in, to get another man out, or to unfairly favor one group or set of employees as to salaries, working hours, or anything else. We want the merit system carried out in the spirit of the system. I call on the friends of Civil Service to stand with me in the task of putting to flight the enemies of Civil Service and reorganizing the whole system on a business basis.

ELECTION LAWS.

It is our duty to give consideration during this administration to the Direct Primary act and the Corrupt Practices act. They may be considered together for the reason that they are closely related.

Most of the features of the Corrupt Practices act are effective and ought not to be tampered with at all. But the admitted weakness of the act is that there is no limit to the amount which may be expended. Of course, the candidate himself is limited by law, but there is no limit to the help which he may receive from friends. While this loophole may be very useful and may not be so very unfair, because any party may take advantage of the situation, at the same time it utterly destroys the idea of equality.

I suggest that we consider how to strengthen the Corrupt Practices act so as to prevent the excessive expenditure of money. Apparently there are at least two remedies. One is the English system of limiting the amount that can be expended by either a candidate or his friends. The other remedy is to add to the things prohibited by law for which money may be spent. For instance, we might prohibit the printing and posting of pictures, other than such as is necessary to announce public meetings. The posting of pictures of candidates is a very large item of expense, and fails to appeal to the reason of anybody. It gives an undue advantage to the man who raises the most money. It is a needless expense and usually resorted to simply because the other fellow does it. Moreover, posters litter the highways and mar scenery. Of course, this is but one suggestion by way of illustration. Undoubtedly there are other practical ways of limiting the expenditures.

With regard to the Direct Primary act, I want to relterate at this time that any attempt to emasculate the election law in the interests of partisanship ought to be promptly and unceremoniously discouraged, wherever it is found. But at the same time I realize that the question of the practicability of certain features of the Direct Primary and Election acts must be considered by this administration, frankly and featelessly, without any hesitation because of insinuations that men or party are attempting to weaken the acts in their fundamentals. No act is so sacred that it doesn't require improvement or alteration from time to time as people gain more experience and conditions change. Any act, I take it, which so completely closes the opportunity for general competition for public office, needs at least careful review and studied consideration.

Putting the matter concretely, what we need to do is to preserve inviolate all those features of our election laws which provide the obstacles to corruption and to revise and improve upon other features of the laws which have been found, through actual experience, to be faulty and impractical. You realize that in a number of respects the election laws are confusing, and tend to a waste of energy and money. The frequency and conflicting interpretations of recounts demand a clearer understanding. Recently I read in a newspaper that Essex county will pay nearly $75,000 to election officers and owners of polling places for services and rent at the last primary and election, and "it is estimated that the entire cost to the county for this year's election will exceed $170,000." If this estimate was correct, and the other counties paid at the same rate, the total cost of the election in New Jersey must have been about $935,000. Certainly, it ought not to cost nearly a million dollars to select a comparatively few public servants. Then, again, I already called your attention to the fact that at the last election over 50,000 voters failed to express their choice for other than the presidential candidates. I regret to say that, to some extent, this was undoubtedly due to a lack of interest in New Jersey affairs, despite the fact that a United States Senator, Governor and other important officers were to be selected; but it cannot be gainsaid that a great deal of the discrepancy was due to the confusion created by our form of ballot. Some idea of the extent to which general confusion over the ballot caused this failure to get a full expression of sentiment on the election of State officers may be secured by considering the fact that less votes—I think about 11,000 less—were cast for the two leading candidates for Governor. There are a number of other particulars in which our election laws fall short of meeting the popular demand. You probably are already acquainted with some of them. Others you may learn of by sounding the sentiment in particular communities of our State where they have had various experiences with the election laws and hold honest opinions with reference to the type of revision that is needed. I believe we should attack this problem vigorously and courageously. Let us proceed on the theory that all election reform should spring from a sincere desire to have a full expression of the people's choice.

SCHOOL COMMUNITY CENTERS.

I feel that New Jersey ought to take some effective means to make the public school buildings community centers for the benefit of the adult population. Our county vocational school instructors and Federal agricultural agents in the counties might accomplish more if all of the schools were thrown open at night to the public as places of organization for this work. I believe the public school of the city ought to be made a community center to instruct and aid the foreigners who are constantly settling among us through immigration; the public school of the industrial community, to educate the workers so that they may advance in their trade and better their condition, and the public school of the rural section, so that the farmer may get the full benefit of the State-wide and country-wide propaganda of education in scientific agriculture. I am not convinced that it would be unwise to use our school buildings as far as is possible to conduct our elections, thus saving an enormous amount of money spent in the rental of polls. That, however, may have some objectionable features. But I do recommend that the Legislature consider a plan whereby the Commissioner of Education is authorized and directed to deputize one of his assistants to immediately desginate and organize certain school buildings of the State into community centers.

CONCENTRATION OF EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY.

We should congratulate ourselves in New Jersey that we have a comparatively short ballot. Most of the administrative officers are appointed by the Governor, who is elected by the people, and is very properly held directly responsible to them for the success or failure of his administration. The two notable exceptions—Comptroller and Treasurer—I shall say in passing ought to be appointed by the Governor also. But I regret that while the Governor has the power to appoint most of his administrative officers, he has practically no effective power to remove. Undeniably, the people have come to hold the Governor personally responsible. It is unfair to so hold him and yet deny him the power of exercising full control over the administrative officials of his administrative. I submit that there is no danger of a Governor building up a political machine through an abuse of that power, for in New Jersey there is constitutional inhibition against a Governor having successive terms, and besides the very power of appointment where there are always dozens of applicants for the same position, precludes, rather than creates, the opportunity for political machine-building.

In the interests of popularly expected concentration of responsibility, I shall be glad if I live to see the day when the Governor, under an altered Constitution, shall have the power to remove as well as to appoint.

Our platform covers the most important subject of an increased Our platform covers the most important subject of an increased franchise tax on public utilities from 2 to 5 per cent.; municipal home rule, which is already in the hands of a commission, and which I feel sure will be given immediate and favorable attention in order that our municipalities may be given as much liberty as possible in the matter of directing their own affairs; public schools, extending and developing the system from a practical which contacts are the statements. public schools, extending and developing the system from a practical and common-sense standpoint; social upliff education, fair alike to employer and employee, along the lines of workmen's compensation and the betterment of working conditions in factories and among labor circles generally, and like matters. I will expect you to carry out these pledges fully and promptly.

I have endeavored to touch, with some detail, upon a few of New Jersey's additional needs which I regard as equally interesting the standard of the sta

ing and important. Our program is ambitious, and cannot be completed in one administration; but at least the path can be blazed and the future policy clearly outlined. The propositions are so closely related that scarcely one of them could be accomplished without effecting the accomplishment of another or others. Not one of them is too big for us to attempt and to accomplish

Not one of them is too big for us to attempt and to accomplish if we put our shoulders to the wheel of progress and give to New Jersey the same honest service and the same persistent determination to succeed which we give to our private business. I hope that I may be worthy of your confidence and earn your hearty co-operation throughout this administration. It is only through faith in the honesty of our purposes and whole-hearted sympathy and co-operation between the Legislature and Executive branches of our State that we can hope to accomplish for New Jersey the things which New Jersey needs and ought to have. Let us face the task courageously and confidently intent. have. Let us face the task courageously and confidently, intent upon avoiding the pitfalls of political partisanship and selfish business prejudice and determine to apply to the government of New Jersey all of the business principles and progressive, en-New Jersey and of the business principles and progressive still lightened ideas to which our State and our people are justify entitled. New Jersey has led in many things. May the instrumentalities of a business government be the lever to open the way for a still greater Commonwealth and a still happier people!

SENATE.

RULES ADOPTED 1917.

PRESIDENT.

- 1. The President shall take the chair at the time appointed; and a quorum being present, he shall take up the business of the session in the order hereinafter provided.
- 2. He shall not engage in any debate without leave of the Senate, except so far as shall be necessary for regulating the form of proceedings.
- 3. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting. He shall, on all occasions, preserve the strictest order and decorum.
- 4. When two or more Senators shall rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.
- 5. He shall have the right to name a Senator to perform the duties of the Chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond one day.
- 6. He shall decide every question of order without debate, subject to an appeal to the Senate; and he may call for the sense of the Senate upon any question of order.
- 7. He shall cause all persons to be arrested or removed from the Senate chamber who shall interrupt the proceedings of the Senate or conduct themselves improperly in the lobby or gallery.
- 8. The Senate may elect a President pro tempore, who shall possess all the powers and discharge all the duties of the President, when the latter is absent in discharge of his constitutional duty of administering the government of the State.

QUORUM.

- 9. A majority of the members of the Senate shall constitute a quorum; and whenever a less number than a quorum shall convene at a regular meeting, and shall adjourn, the names of those present shall be entered on the journal.
- 10. Whenever a less number than a quorum shall convene at any regular meeting, they are hereby authorized to send the Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, for any or all absent Senators.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

- 11. After the President has taken the Chair the order of business shall be as follows:
 - I. Prayer.
 - II. Calling the Roll.
 - III. Reading the Journal at the first session in each week.
 - IV. Presentation and reference of petitions and memorials.
 - V. Introduction of bills.
 - VI. Reports of Committees.

BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS.

- 14. When a memorial or bill is referred to a committee praying or providing for an act of incorporation, or for any other act, notice of the application for which is required by law to be previously advertised, the committee shall not have leave to report such bill unless satisfactory evidence has been presented to the committee that the application for such act has had a bona fide advertisement according to law; and all committees reporting such bills referred to them shall certify to the Senate that such proof has been presented and is deemed satisfactory.
- 15. The titles of all bills and the parts of bills affected by amendments, together with the amendments, shall be entered on the Journal.

16. When leave is asked to bring in a bill, its title shall be read for the information of the Senate, and if objected to it shall be laid over for one day; and all public and private bills and joint resolutions shall, after the first reading, be printed for the use of the Senate, but no other paper or document shall be printed without special order.

17. All bills, joint resolutions and concurrent resolutions shall be numbered by the Secretary as they are severally introduced, and a list made of the same. Committee reports upon bills, joint resolutions and concurrent resolutions shall be in writing, signed by a majority of the committee, and shall show whether the same are reported favorably or otherwise, and how each member of the Committee signing the report, voted upon the question of the report.

Bills, resolutions and reports shall be called up by the President for consideration, in the order in which they are reported and stand upon the calendar, unless otherwise ordered; and the Secretary shall read from the said list or calendar, and not from the file of bills or reports.

18. No bill shall be committed or amended until it shall have been ordered to a second reading, after which it may be referred to a committee. Upon the written request of seven Senators to the Chairman of a Committee to which a bill shall have been referred, said Committee shall forthwith report such bill.

19. All bills may be made the order of a particular day, and public bills when called for shall have the preference of private bills; and when two or more bills shall be called for by Senators, they shall be taken up according to their seniority, reckoning from the date of their introduction.

20. On the second and third readings of bills and joint resolutions, printed copies thereof shall be used.

21. When bills or joint resolutions are introduced, the Secretary of the Senate shall forthwith deliver the same to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall prepare them for printing, in conformity with the rules defining the duties of said officer.

22. Original bills and joint resolutions, after being printed, shall be delivered by the Supervisor of Bills to the Secretary.

23. Bills and joint resolutions originating in and passed by the Senate and amended by the House, when concurred in by the Senate, shall be delivered by the Secretary to the Supervisor of Bills for re-printing.

24. Bills and joint resolutions which have passed their second reading, together with all amendments thereto, shall be delivered by the Secretary to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall see that the same are in proper form for printing for third reading.

25. When the Supervisor of Bills receives from the printer the bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading and the same shall be found correct, he shall affix his official stamp to each page of the copy to be used as the official copy and intended to be submitted to the Governor for his approval, and shall deliver the same to the Secretary.

26. Two copies of every bill and of every joint resolution ordered to a third reading shall be printed on good bond paper, to be approved by the Supervisor of Bills, one of which copies shall be retained in his office and the other of which shall be delivered to the Secretary to be used thereafter as the official copy of said bill or joint resolution.

27. The Supervisor of Bills shall have printed for the use of the members of the Legislature at least one hundred copies of every bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading, which shall be known and designated as "Official Copy Re-print." The Supervisor of Bills shall deliver twenty-one copies of all bills and joint resolutions designated as "Official Copy Re-print" to the Secretary of the Senate, and sixty copies to the Clerk of the House, and he shall retain the remainder in his own custody for the use of State and Legislative officers.

28. Except as otherwise provided, the system and procedure which have heretofore prevailed shall be followed in the preparation of all bills and joint resolutions for their various readings as far as practicable.

29. The consent of the majority of the Senators present shall be sufficient to print or re-print any bill or joint resolution, but no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there shall be a majority of all the Senators personally present and agreeing thereto, and the yeas and nays of Senators voting on the final passage of . any bill or joint resolution shall be entered on the Journal and the like entry on any other question shall be made at the desire of any Senator.

30. Every bill and joint resolution shall receive three readings previous to its being passed; and the President shall give notice at each reading whether it be the first, second or third, which readings shall be on three different days; but no bill or joint resolution reported adversely by the committee to which it shall have been referred shall receive a second reading except upon motion for that purpose made by or in the presence of the introducer of such bill or joint resolution and concurred in by a majority of all the Senators.

31. The final question upon the second reading of every bill or joint resolution originating in the Senate shall be whether it shall be read a third time; and no amendment shall be received at the third reading unless by unanimous consent of the Senators present, but it shall be in order, before the final passage of any such bill or joint resolution, to move its recommitment, and should such recommitment take place and any amendment be reported by the committee, the said bill or resolution shall be again read a second time and considered and the aforesaid question again put. Instead of recommitting any bill it shall be in order, before the final passage thereof, to move that it be placed back on second reading for amendment.

32. When a bill or joint resolution shall have been lost, and reconsidered and lost again, the same shall not again be reconsidered but by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

33. Bills and joint resolutions, when passed by the Senate, shall be signed by the President,

34. When a Senate bill or joint resolution shall have been passed, the same shall be signed, taken to the House of Assembly, and its concurrence therein requested, without a motion for that purpose.

35. When a bill or resolution passed by the Senate shall be carried to the House of Assembly, all papers and documents relating thereto on the files of the Senate shall be carried by the Secretary, with such bill or resolution, to the House of Assembly.

36. The introducer of a bill may annex thereto a brief statement explaining the object of the bill, which statement shall contain not exceeding three hundred words and shall be printed at the end of the bill under the caption "Statement."

When a bill is introduced amending an existing law, it shall in the body of the bill, have new matter underscored, and matter proposed to be omitted, printed in its proper place, enclosed in brackets.

The introducer of a bill amending or supplementing an existing law shall designate at the head thereof the page of the Compiled Statutes, or the chapter or page of the Pamphlet Laws, where may be found the law proposed to be amended or supplemented.

It shall be the duty of the Secretary to cause any bill not complying with this rule to be returned to the introducer to be made to conform hereto, and when put in proper form, to be printed and restored to its place on the calendar.

When a bill has passed to a third reading, no explanatory statement, special marks, underscoring or brackets shall be printed in the same; but if the bill has been amended, such amendments shall be printed and distributed for the convenience of the members.

37. The annual, supplemental and incidental appropriation bills shall not be considered until at least one week has elapsed after they shall have been introduced, printed and placed upon the desks of memhers.

38. No Senate bill or joint resolution shall be considered on third reading until five days after the second reading thereof, except by unanimous consent.

39. The Secretary of the Senate shall cause to be printed and distributed prior to each day's session, a daily memorandum which in addition to the transactions of the preceding legislative day, and other matter heretofore furnished, shall contain a day calendar of bills on second and third reading, and a list of bills awaiting the third reading calendar. The calendars shall be called in order, and matters on the third reading calendar, reached and not acted on, unless passed for the day or otherwise disposed of, shall be reserved generally, to be restored to the calendar on request. No bill, joint resolution or concurrent resolution not on the printed calendar for third reading shall be considered on third reading except by unanimous consent. At the close of each legislative day, the Secretary shall cause to be posted upon the bulletin board in the corridor, the calendar of bills on third reading for the next succeeding legislative day.

40. Wherever the words "bill" or "bills," "joint resolution" or "joint resolutions" occur in the rules they shall be construed to include bills, joint resolutions and such concurrent resolutions as are referred to Committee.

MOTIONS AND THEIR PRECEDENCE.

41. When a motion shall be made, it shall be reduced to writing by the President or any Senator, and de-livered to the Secretary at his table and read before the same shall be debatable.

42. All motions entered on the Journal of the Senate shall be entered in the names of the Senators who make them.

43. If the question in debate contains several points, any Senator may have the same divided; but a motion to strike out and insert, or to commit with instructions, shall not be divided.

44. The rejection of a motion to strike out and insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and insert a different proposition, nor prevent a subsequent motion simply to strike out; nor shall the rejection of a motion simply to strike out prevent a subsequent motion to strike out and insert.

45. On filling blanks the question shall be first taken on the largest sum, the greatest number, and the most distant day.

46. When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a Select Committee, and to a Standing Committee, the question of reference to a Standing Committee shall be put first.

47. When a question is before the Senate, no motion shall be received but-

1. To adjourn.

2. To proceed to the consideration of Executive business.

3. To lay on the table.

4. To postpone indefinitely.

5. To postpone to a certain day.

6. To commit.

7. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they stand arranged.

48. The motion to adjourn, or to fix a day to which the Senate shall adjourn, shall always be in order, except when a vote is being taken or while a Senator is addressing the Senate.

49. The motions to adjourn, to proceed to the consideration of Executive business, and to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

50. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be equivalent to its rejection.

51. When a motion shall have been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any Senator who voted on the prevailing side to move a reconsideration thereof on the same day or next succeeding day of actual session; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken, announcing their decision, shall have gone from the possession of the Senate, and they shall not pass from the possession of the Senate until the expiration of the time in which a reconsideration is permitted; and every motion for reconsideration shall be decided by a majority of votes, except a motion to reconsider the vote on the final passage of a bill or joint resolution, which shall require the same majority as is necessary for their final passage.

MEMBERS.

52. The seats within the bar shall be reserved exclusively for the Senators, the officers of the Senate, and the reporters of the press who may have seats assigned them.

53. No Senator shall speak in any debate without rising, nor more than three times on any subject of debate, unless he shall first obtain leave of the Senate.

54. Every Senator, in speaking, shall address the President, confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality.

55. Any Senator may change his vote before the decision of the question shall have been announced by the Chair.

56. No Senator shall have his vote recorded on any question, when the yeas and nays are called unless he shall be present to answer to his name. After the calling of the roll has been commenced upon any question, no member shall be permitted to explain his vote.

MESSAGES.

57. All messages shall be sent to the House of Assembly by the Secretary, under the direction of the President, as a standing order, without a vote thereon.

58. Messages may be delivered at any stage of the business, except when a vote is being taken.

59. When a message shall be sent from the Governor or House of Assembly to the Senate, it shall be announced at the door by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

SENATE BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

60. When an amendment made in the Senate to a bill from the House of Assembly shall be disagreed to by that House, and not adhered to by the Senate, the bill shall be considered as standing on a third reading.

61. An amendment of the House of Assembly to a Senate bill shall not be divisible.

62. In case of disagreement between the Senate and House of Assembly, the Senate may either recede, insist and ask a conference, or adhere, and motions for such purposes shall take precedence in that order.

63. When a Senate bill shall be returned, amended by the House of Assembly, the sections of the bill so amended, together with the amendments, shall be read by the Secretary for a first reading and be entitled to a second reading without special motion, at which reading the proposed amendments shall be open to the action of the Senate. And if, at its third reading, upon the question being put by the President, "Will the Senate concur in the House amendment to Senate bill No. -?" a majority of the whole Senate should, by a vote of yeas and nays, concur, the question shall then be upon ordering the bill to be re-printed. If so ordered, the bill shall be re-printed, the amendments embodied therein and the re-printed bill examined and reported by the Committee on Printed Bills and read in open Senate, to the end that it may be known to be correctly printed, and shall be then signed and certified as other bills.

DISORDER.

64. In case of any disturbance in the gallery or lobby, the President shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

65. The Sergeant-at-Arms shall aid in the enforcement of order, under the direction of the President.

66. No Senator, in speaking, shall mention a Senator then present by his name.

SPECIAL ORDERS.

67. When the hour shall have arrived for the consideration of a special order, the same shall be taken up, and the Senate shall proceed to consider it, unless it shall be postponed by the Senate.

68. The unfinished business in which the Senate shall have been engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the special order of the day.

69. No concurrent resolution shall pass unless by the consent of a majority of the Senators elected.

SECRET SESSION.

70. On motion made and seconded to shut the doors of the Senate on the discussion of any business which may, in the opinion of a Senator, require secrecy, the President shall direct the chamber to be cleared, and during the discussion of such motion the doors shall remain shut.

RULES.

71. No standing rule or order of the Senate shall be suspended unless by the consent of two-thirds of the Senators elected, nor rescinded or amended but by the same number, and one day's notice shall be given of the motion for rescission or amendment.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

72. When nominations shall be made by the Governor to the Senate, they shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, be referred to appropriate committees; and the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

73. When acting on Executive business the Senate shall be cleared of all persons except the Senators and Secretary.

74. All information or remarks concerning the character or qualifications of any persons nominated by the Governor to office shall be kept a secret.

75. The Legislative and Executive proceedings of the Senate shall be kept in separate and distinct books.

76. All nominations approved by the Senate, or otherwise definitely acted on, shall be transmitted by the Secretary to the Governor, with the determination of the Senate thereon, from day to day, as such proceedings may occur; but no further extract from the Executive journal shall be furnished, published or otherwise communicated, except by special order of the Senate.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

RULES ADOPTED IN 1917.

OF THE MEETING OF THE HOUSE.

1. Any member or members less than a quorum may meet and adjourn the House from day to day, when necessary.

2. Every member shall attend in his place precisely at the hour to which the House was last adjourned; and in case of neglect, he shall be subject to a reprimand from the Chair, unless excused by the House; nor shall any member absent himself from the House for more than the space of a quarter of an hour without leave previously obtained.

3. In case a less number of members than a quorum shall be present after the arrival of the hour to which the House stood adjourned, they are hereby authorized to send their Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, with a warrant duly executed, for any and all absent members, as the majority of such as are present may agree, and at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be rendered as the House, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient. Immediately after the appointment of the Standing Committees, the members shall arrange among themselves their several seats appropriated to their counties; and in case of disagreement, the same shall be decided by lot.

OF THE DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER.

4. He shall take the chair at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and immediately call the members to order; and on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read, which may then be corrected by the House,

5. He shall preserve order and decorum, and in debate shall prevent personal reflections, and confine members to the question under discussion; but he shall not engage in any debate, nor propose his opinion on any question without first calling on some member to occupy the chair. When two or more members rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.

6. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House, when demanded by any four members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

7. All questions before the House shall be stated by the Speaker, and distinctly put in the following form, to wit: "As many as are in favor of (the question) will say aye;" and after the affirmative is expressed, "Those of a contrary opinion, no." If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative; and in case of an equal division, the Speaker shall decide.

8. All Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House.

9. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants and subpœnas issued by the order of the House shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk. If the Speaker be absent, a less number of members than a quorum may appoint a Speaker pro tempore, who may sign any warrants, or perform any act requisite to bring in absent members.

10. He shall have a general direction of the hall, and he may name a member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond a second adjournment.

OF THE ORDER OF BUSINESS.

11. After the reading of the journal, the business of the first meeting of each day shall be conducted in the following manner, to wit:

I. Letters, petitions and memorials, remonstrances and accompanying documents may be presented and disposed of.

II. Reports of Committees may be read.

III. Griginal resolutions may be offered and considered; items of unfinished business referred; motions to reconsider and to appoint additional members of Committees made; and leave of absence, and leave to withdraw documents asked.

IV. Bills and joint resolutions on a third reading may be taken up.

V. The House shall then proceed in the order of the day, preference being always given to the unfinished business of the previous sitting: after which bills and joint resolutions on a second reading shall be taken in their order; and the House, in its afternoon session, will proceed to business as though there had been no adjournment of its morning session, excepting that original resolutions, and leave to introduce bills of Committees, be the first business in the afternoon session; and shall, on demand of the majority, proceed with the order of the day.

12. The Clerk shall make a list of all public bills and joint resolutions. He shall from day to day prepare under the supervision of the Speaker a calendar of bills and resolutions for consideration. He shall keep a separate list of private bills. No bills for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing a charter for any corporation, other than a municipal corporation, shall be placed on the calendar of public bills. All bills, public and private, shall be numbered according to the time of their receipt by the Clerk. They shall be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they were reported, or ordered to a third reading, as appears by the calendar; and the calendar shall be proceeded in until all the bills thereon are called up before the commencement of the calendar anew. The Clerk shall post in a conspicuous place in his office a list of all hearings to be held on bills.

13. All messages shall be sent from this House to the Senate by the Clerk.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

14. When a member is about to speak in debate, or communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the Speaker, confining himself to the question under debate, and avoiding personality.

15. If any member in debate transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain. The House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House, and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure of the House.

16. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

17. No member shall speak more than twice, or longer than five minutes each time, without leave of the House.

18. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the hall; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall anyone entertain private discourse; nor shall anyone, while a member is speaking, pass between him and the Chair.

19. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.

20. Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put shall give his vote, unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced; any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief verbal statement of the reasons for such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

21. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the introducer, and, if called upon, he shall declare that it does not, in his opinion, contain any indecent or reproachful language, or any expressions of disrespect to the House, or any committee of the same.

22. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms, at all times, not to allow any person to smoke in the Assembly chamber.

ON MOTIONS.

23. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

24. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Clerk, when it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House and open to debate; but it may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

25. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but-

1. To adjourn.

A call of the House.
 To lay on the table.

4. For the previous question.
5. To postpone indefinitely.

6. To postpone to a day certain.

To go into a Committee of the Whole on the pending subject immediately.

8. To commit to a Committee of the Whole.

9. To commit to a Standing Committee.

10. To commit to a Select Committee.

11. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are stated, and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

26. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or joint resolution shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

27. A motion to adjourn shall be always in order, except when the House is voting, or while a member is addressing the House, or immediately after the question to adjourn has been negatived; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so distinct that one being taken away from the rest may stand entire for the decision of the House; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

29. When any motion shall be made and seconded, the same shall, at the request of any two members, be entered on the Journal of the House.

30. When a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof, on the same day or on the next day of actual session of the House thereafter; all motions may be reconsidered, by a majority of the members present; but bills, to be reconsidered, must have the same majority that would be necessary to pass them; and such vote, on motion to reconsider, shall be by taking the yeas and nays.

31. When a blank is to be filled, the question shall first be taken on the largest sum, or greatest number, and re-motest day.

32. The yeas and nays shall be entered on the Journal of the House, when moved for and seconded by five members, and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members, including the Speaker, shall be called alphabetically.

33. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be, if decided affirmatively, to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question; if decided in the negative, to leave the main question and amendments, if any, under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking the question, or in some other manner. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

34. After the Clerk has commenced calling the yeas and nays on any question, no motion shall be received until

OF COMMITTEES.

35. The following Standing Committees shall be appointed at the commencement of the session, until otherwise ordered:

 - 36. The several Standing Committees of the House shall have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

37. No committee shall sit during the sitting of the House without special leave.

38. All committees appointed at the first sitting shall continue to act during every subsequent sitting of the same Legislature, or until they have reported on the business committed to them, or have been discharged.

OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE.

39. In forming a Committee of the Whole House, the Speaker shall leave his chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the Speaker.

40. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed, as far as practicable, in Committee of the Whole, except that any member may speak oftener than twice on the same subject, but shall not speak a second time until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken; nor shall a motion for the previous question be made therein.

41. All amendments made in Committee of the Whole shall be noted by the Clerk, but need not be read by the Speaker on his resuming the chair, unless required by the House.

ON BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS.

42. Bills and joint resolutions to be introduced in the House shall be delivered to the Clerk, endorsed with the signature of the member offering the same. The Clerk shall examine them to see that they are in proper form, and shall submit them to the Speaker, who shall endorse upon each the committee to which it is to be referred, returning the bills to the Clerk. At each session of the House the Clerk shall read the number, title and committee reference to all bills returned to him by the Speaker, which shall be taken as the introduction and first reading of the bill. If any bill offered shall not be in proper form, the Clerk shall return it to the introducer for correction.

43. Every bill and joint resolution saall receive three separate readings in the House previous to its passage, but no bill or joint resolution shall be read twice on the same day, without special order of the House.

44. All bills and joint resolutions shall, after their first reading, be printed for the use of the members, and referred to their appropriate committees.

45. All bills and joint resolutions may be made the order of a particular day, on which day they shall be taken up in preference to others on the calendar; and the calendar of private bills shall not be taken up until the calendar of public bills shall have been gone through with.

46. All bills and joint resolutions, previous to their final passage by the House, all petitions, motions and reports may be committed at the pleasure of the House. And the recommitment of any bill or resolution, when the same has been ordered to a third reading, shall have the effect of placing the same upon the second reading.

47. Printed bills and joint resolutions shall be used on their second and third readings, and no amendment shall be received to any bill or joint resolution on its third reading unless by unanimous consent of the members present.

48. When bills or joint resolutions are introduced, the Clerk of the House shall forthwith deliver the same to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall prepare them for printing in conformity with the rules defining the duties of said officer.

49. Original bills and joint resolutions, after being printed, shall be delivered by the said Supervisor of Bills to the Clerk.

50. Bills and joint resolutions originating in and passed by the House and amended by the Senate, when concurred in by the House, shall be delivered by the Clerk to the Supervisor of Bills for re-printing,

51. Bills and joint resolutions which have passed their second reading, together with all amendments thereto, shall be delivered by the Clerk to the Supervisor of Bills, who shall see that the same are in proper form for printing for third reading.

52. When the Supervisor of Bills receives from the printer the bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading and the same shall be found correct, he shall affix his official stamp to each page of the copy to be used as the official copy and intended to be submitted to the Governor for his approval and shall deliver the same to the Clerk.

53. Two copies of every bill and of every joint resolution ordered to a third reading shall be printed on good bond paper, to be approved by the Supervisor of Bills, one of which copies shall be retained in his office and the other of which shall be delivered to the Clerk, to be used thereafter as the official copy of said bill or joint resolution.

54. The Supervisor of Bills shall have printed, for the use of the members of the Legislature, at least one hundred copies of every bill or joint resolution ordered to a third reading, which shall be known and designated as "Official Copy Re-print." The Supervisor of Bills shall deliver twenty-one copies of all bills and joint resolutions designated as "Official Copy Re-print" to the Secretary of the Senate, and sixty copies to the Clerk of the House, and he shall retain the remainder in his own custody, for the use of State and Legislative officers.

55. Except as otherwise provided, the system and procedure which have heretofore prevailed shall be followed in the preparation of all bills and joint resolutions for their various readings, as far as practicable.

56. On a motion to strike out any item in the incidental bill, the question to be submitted to the House shall be, "Shall the item be retained in the bill?" and a majority of all the members of the House shall be necessary to adopt the same.

57. After the introduction of any private bill, the applicants for said bill shall, at their own expense, furnish the usual number of copies for the use of the members, unless the printing thereof be dispensed with by a special order of the House.

58. On the question of the final passage of all bills and joint resolutions, the yeas and nays shall be entered on the Journal of the House.

59. Whenever a bill or resolution that has passed the House shall be carried to the Senate, all papers and documents relating thereto, on the files of the House, shall be carried with such bill or resolution to the Senate.

OF RULES.

60. No standing rule or order of the House shall be rescinded or changed without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor; nor shall any rule be suspended except by a vote of the majority of the whole number of members of the House.

61. When an Assembly bill is returned amended by the Senate, the report thereof by the Secretary of the Senate shall be taken as the first reading, and the same be entitled to a second reading, without a motion for that purpose: after its second reading, the question shall be, "Shall the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. - have a third reading?" If ordered to a third reading, the amendments shall be read, but these readings shall be on different days; the question shall then be, "Will the House of Assembly concur in the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. -- ?" upon which question the votes shall be by yeas and nays. If concurred in by a majority of the whole House, the bill shall be re-printed, the amendments embodied therein, and the re-printed bill examined and reported upon by the Committee on Printed Bills, and read in open Assembly, to the end that it may be known to be correctly printed, and then signed and certified as other bills.

62. Cushing's Manual shall in all cases, when not in conflict with the rules adopted by the House, be considered and held as standard authority.

63. No person shall be allowed on the floor of the House during its sessions except State officers and members and officers of the Senate, unless by written permission of the Speaker.

64. No committee of this House shall report a bill adversely without notifying the introducer of the bill; nor shall such adverse report be acted upon unless the introducer of the bill is in his seat.

65. After the calling of the roll has been commenced upon any question, no member shall be permitted to explain his rote

66. Every bill amended in the House, after its report by the commmittee to which it was referred upon introduction, when ordered to be printed and have a third reading, shall, if ordered by the Speaker of the House, be delivered to the Committee on Bill Revision, whose duty it shall be to examine the same, and if it be found that such amendment agrees with the context, the bill shall then be printed. If in the opinion of the committee such amendment is, as to form, improper, they shall report to the House with such recommendations as they think fit. Such report shall be made promptly.

67. That hereafter any motion or resolution which will result in relieving a standing committee of a bill referred to it shall not be entertained unless twenty-four hours' notice shall be given the House of the introduction of such motion or resolution; provided, however, that on a written request made by fifteen members, duly presented to the House, said request shall be read, and delivered forthwith by the clerk to the chairman of the committee named therein; said committee shall, within twenty-four hours, report on the bill, resolution, motion or matter named in said request.

68. When a bill is introduced amending an existing law, it must, in the body of the bill, have all new matter underscored, and all portions of the law proposed to be omitted must be printed in its proper place, enclosed in black-faced brackets. Every bill which amends or supplements an existing law shall have printed thereon, under the number of the bill, the page of the Compiled Statutes or the Pamphlet Laws at which is found the law proposed to be amended or supplemented.

All bills reported with amendments shall be immediately reprinted; the new matter must be underscored, and all matter proposed to be eliminated by amendment must be included in brackets.

It shall be the duty of the Speaker to direct the Clerk to cause any bill appearing on the calendar and not complying with this rule to be immediately amended and reprinted, so as to comply with the same, and when reprinted it shall be restored to its place on the calendar.

69. At each session of the House the Sergeant-at-Arms shall call the roll of officers and employes of the House, and shall report in writing, within twenty-four hours, to the chairman of the Committee on Incidental Expenses as to the attendance of said officers and employes.

The Committee on Incidental Expenses shall recommend such action as said report may show to be necessary.

70. Any three members of a Standing Committee may report a bill.

71. Each member when introducing a bill shall submit with each copy of the bill a statement setting out the objects proposed to be accomplished by its enactment and the localities or persons the bill will affect, which statement shall be referred to the Committee with the bill. An equal number of copies of such statement and bill shall be printed and a copy of the statement shall be attached to each copy of the bill. Such statements shall not exceed in length one printed page or four hundred and fifty words.

72. All resolutions, amendments to bills and resolutions shall be presented in one original, together with a copy thereof, and all bills shall be presented in one original and shall be typewritten or printed.

73. No bill or joint resolution shall be considered on third reading and final passage until five days after the second reading thereof.

74. All standing committees shall meet at least once each week for the consideration of measures referred to them, and all committee hearings shall be announced in open session and advertised by posting a notice thereof in a conspicuous place in the Assembly Chamber and also at some prominent point in the main corridor of the State House.

75. After a majority of any committee has made its report on any bill or resolution, a minority of such committee may submit a report upon the same proposition, and any member of the House may move to substitute such minority report for the majority report of such committee.

JOINT RULES AND ORDERS

OF THE

SENATE AND GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

1. In every case of an amendment of a bill agreed to in one House and dissented from in the other, if either House shall request a conference and appoint a committee for that purpose, and the other House shall also appoint a committee to confer, such committee shall, at a convenient hour, to be agreed on by their respective chairmen, meet in conference, and state to each other, verbally or in writing, as either shall choose, the reasons of their respective houses for and against the amendment, and confer freely thereon.

2. After each House shall have adhered to its disagreement, a bill or resolution shall be lost.

3. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed in one House is rejected in the other, notice thereof shall be sent to the House in which the same shall have passed.

4. Each House, in which any bill or resolution shall have passed, shall transmit therewith to the other House, all papers and documents relating to the same.

5. When a message shall be sent from either House to the other it shall be announced at the door of the House by the doorkeeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it is sent.

6. After a bill shall have passed both Houses it shall be

6. After a bill shall have passed both Houses it shall be delivered by the Clerk of the Assembly or the Secretary of the Senate, as the bill may have originated in one House or the other, to a Joint Committee on Passed Bills, of two from each House, appointed as a Standing Committee for that purpose, and shall be presented by said Committee to the Governor for his approbation, it being first indorsed on the back of the bill certifying in which House the same originated, which indorsement shall be signed by the Secretary or Clerk, as the case may be, of the House in which the same did originate, and shall be entered on the Journal of each House. The said committee shall report on the day of presentation to the Governor, which time shall also be carefully entered on the Journal of each House.

NEWTON ALBERT KENDALL BUGBEE, Trenton.

Mr. Bugbee was born at Minneapolis, Minn., on April 22, 1876. He is the son of Alvin Newton and Lucy Kendall Bugbee.

At about the age of twelve (12) years he moved, with his parents, to Templeton, Mass., where he finished his education in the public schools of that town.

At the age of seventeen (17) he started his business career at the Edge Moor Bridge Works, Wilmington, Del., and came to Trenton about twenty (20) years ago and entered the employ of the New Jersey Steel and Iron Co., from which position he resigned to start in business for himself, on January 1st, 1904.

He is Secretary and Treasurer of the Newton A. K. Bugbee Co., Inc., structural iron work contractors. The company occupies a prominent position in the business world and Mr. Bugbee, himself, is very active in public affairs and all that tends toward the prosperity of the nation. He is a director of the Mechanics National Bank of Trenton; was elected chairman of the Republican State Committee in September, 1913, and re-elected three years later. He wielded much influence in the great Republican victory in New Jersey in 1916.

Secretary of the Senate.

FRANCIS B. DAVIS, Woodbury.

Mr. Davis was born in Camden, N. J., March 12th, 1878. The same year his parents moved to Woodbury, N. J., where he has since resided. He was graduated from the Woodbury public school in 1894, studied law, and was admitted to the New Jersey Bar as an attorney March 14th, 1899, and as a counsellor-at-law March 14th, 1902. He was appointed a Special Master in Chancery in 1912. Since his admission he has practiced law at Woodbury. He has been city solicitor of Woodbury continuously since 1908, and is attorney for several boroughs and townships in Gloucester county. Mr. Davis is a 32d degree Mason and a member of Crescent Shrine of Trenton; was secretary of the Woodbury Country Club for eleven years, and has been chairman of the Gloucester County Republican Executive Committee since 1907, with the exception of one year. He was elected secretary of the New Jersey Senate in 1912, and re-elected in 1915, '16 and '17.

Mr. Davis was married in 1913 to Miss Martha W. Westcott, of Woodbury, N. J.

UPTON SAGER JEFFERYS.

Mr. Jefferys comes of a line of native Jersey folks dating back to the Colonial period. One of his paternal ancestors was among the original settlers of Connecticut Farms in North Jersey; on the maternal side were early settlers of Gloucester county. He was born in Trenton while his father, the Rev. William H. Jefferys, was pastor of State Street M. E. Church. He attended the public schools, learned the printer's trade, became a reporter for Camden and Philadelphia dailies, was New Jersey editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer for nine years, and since 1900 has been editor of the Camden Post-Telegram. He servel in the New Jersey National Guard for sixteen years. His legislative experience began as a correspondent, then he was Secretary to Speaker William J. Bradley, served as Assistant Clerk of the House for several terms, and was chosen Clerk in 1912. '15, '16 and '17. He is a member and ex-President of the Legislative Correspondents' Club, member of the New Jersey Press Association, Camden Lodge No. 293, B. P. O. E.; Camden Republican Club and other political and social organizations.
