Team to recover Remains of WWII U.S. Airmen in Russia

August 6, 2001

A team of 10 specialists left Hawaii for Russia to bring home the remains of seven Navy airmen missing in action from World War II.

The wreckage of an U.S. Navy PV-1 Ventura bomber was discovered on Russia's Kamchatka peninsula in 1999. In August 2000, a survey team at the isolated crash site on the slopes of a volcano, confirmed that the Navy aircraft was the one missing from a March 25, 1944, mission from Alaska to the Kurile Islands, south of the Kamchatka peninsula, to bomb Japanese targets.

The survey team found large pieces of aircraft debris and unexploded 500-pound bombs in the wreckage. The team also recovered some human remains and brought them to the U.S. Army Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii (CILHI).

Since 1978, CILHI scientists have identified the remains of nearly 300 servicemen missing in action from World War II.

Vietnam War MIA Identified

August 2, 2001

Remains of a U.S. Air Force pilot missing in action from the Vietnam War have been identified and were returned to his family. The formerly missing serviceman is Maj. Victor J. Apodaca, Jr. of Englewood, Colo.

On June 8, 1967, Apodaca and Capt. Jon T. Busch were flying an armed reconnaissance mission over Quang Binh province, North Vietnam, when their F-4C Phantom was struck by enemy fire. Other U.S. aircrews in the area reported receiving a radio transmission from Apodaca that he had lost use of the hydraulic system on his aircraft. Soon after, a weak emergency beeper signal was heard, but no aircrew saw where Apodaca's plane might have crashed. A visual and electronic search of the area continued into the next day without results.

Apodaca's remains were returned to his family for burial with full military honors.

A Hand Up to Homeless Vets Stand Down 2001 - Cherry Hill

By G. Natasha Zoe

Veterans Information Officer, DMAVA

On Friday, September 21, beginning at 8 a.m., the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans Affairs (DMAVA) and Stand Down of South Jersey, Inc., will be co-hosting Stand Down 2001 at the Cherry Hill Interactive Community Resource Center (Armory.) DMAVA, along with many volunteers and civic organizations, is holding the Stand Down to provide homeless veterans with access to healthcare, mental health screening, substance abuse counseling, social services availability, religious counseling, a hot meal, a haircut and winter clothing. Stand Down's ultimate goal is to show disenfranchised veterans that someone still cares and to assist them in bringing their homelessness to a close.

This is the second year Stand Down has been held at the Cherry Hill Interactive Community Resource Center (Armory.) Prior to 2000, Stand Downs were held at Fort Dix and Naval Weapon Station Lakehurst. Last year 133 homeless veterans and their families attended the Stand Down. Three of the veterans were admitted directly to Veterans Haven (a transitional housing program for New Jersey's homeless veterans.)

"On any given night there are 341,000 veterans estimated to be homeless, up from 274,000 in 1995," said Paul Sutton, Chief Homeless Veterans Services, DMAVA. "About one-third of the homeless in the United States have served in the Armed Forces. The number of homeless Vietnam veterans exceeds the number of servicemembers killed during that conflict. There are currently 7,000 homeless veterans in New Jersey."

Stand Down comes from the military term referring to exhausted combat units that were removed from the battle front to a place of security and safety for rest and recovery. Today Stand Downs are a grass-roots, community-based intervention program to help homeless veterans battle life on the streets. "The program has a philosophy of a hand up not a hand out," explained John Ulrich of Stand Down of South Jersey, Inc. The first Stand Down was held in 1988 in San Diego. Today more than 80 are held annually to reach an estimated 100,000 homeless veterans.

The organizations supporting Stand Down 2001 are DMAVA, Stand Down of South Jersey, Inc., the Veterans Administration, The Retired Officers Association, Disabled American Veterans, American Legion, Marine Corps League, American Ex-Prisoners of War, Veterans of Foreign War, Gold Star Wives, Jewish War Veterans, Burlington County Veterans Services Office, Camden County Veterans Services Office, Camden County Board of Social Services, Community Services of Camden County, U.S. Department of Labor, and the Fort Dix post chaplains.

The Camden County Clerks Office along with the Camden County Department of Parks has donated the sanitation facilities. SYSCO Foods of Philadelphia and the Maple Shade Rotary Club have joined forces to provide the food, supplies and refrigeration needs for the Stand Down.

"In our country's time of need these fine men and women were willing to jeopardize their lives to defend our homes. Now in their time of need the community needs to work together to support and honor our local unsung heroes," said Ellen McDowell, president of the Maple Shade Rotary.

To donate goods or services for the Stand Down contact Stand Down of South Jersey, Inc. President Harry Ruhle at (856) 854-0149.

For more information about this Stand Down call John Ulrich at (856) 795-5184.

Letter to Maj.Gen. Glazar

Dear Major General Glazar:

I am writing this letter to inform you of the fine care that my father, Berthel A. Cedermark, a veteran of the Navy in World War II received over the past year and one half at the New Jersey Veterans Memorial Home at Vineland.

Unfortunately, he passed away on June 26th of this year. However, prior to his death he was cared for by the most compassionate group of individuals that I have ever met. I am a Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist with 26 years of experience in patient care and feel qualified to make this judgement.

It was not an easy decision to admit him to a nursing care facility when his health began to deteriorate in late 1999. The daily news is replete with scandals involving nursing institutions and the mistreatment that many of our country's elderly receive when entrusted to the care of these homes. This, however was not even remotely the case when we had my father entrusted to their care. From our very first contacts with social services, the business office, medical staff and administration, the process was courteous and efficient.

I would particularly like to acknowledge the fine work of the nurses and nursing assistants of the 2A, the Alzheimer's Unit on which he resided. Geriatric nursing is a challenge, even under the best of circumstances. These folks have taken upon themselves an even more challenging task, the care of the Alzheimer's patient. The frustration that many Alzheimer's patients experience is often exhibited by physical behavior that makes him or her particularly difficult to care for. Daily care is tedious and sometimes dangerous. They must be assisted with all activities including dressing, eating and bathroom activities. Not just sometimes, but all the time.

The patients of Unit 2A were always clean and well fed. Despite being short-staffed I witnessed staff members sitting with a patient a full hour to ensure that a patient's full meal would be consumed. Toilet activities were scheduled on a regular schedule so that patients would not have to suffer that indignity of "accidents" – and if they did occur, they were attended to in a timely manner. All of these duties were performed with a caring, loving manner which I have never witnessed before. When my father did suffer medical setbacks they were quickly identified and treated. When he required hospital treatment, he was accompanied by a familiar staff member.

Perhaps the most agonizing time that a family member can experience is at the end of a visit to their loved one – not knowing what care will be taken of him when we are gone. My brothers and I were able to return home knowing full well that our father was receiving the finest, most compassionate care. The people caring for him not only became his care givers but also his friends.

Despite the fact that their duties often require them to work overtime, even double shifts, so that staff shortages do not adversely affect the care of their patients, these folks remain efficient and patient. Their dedication to these veterans and their families sets a standard that the Vineland Veterans Home can be proud of.

Although my father is now gone, I will look back on my visits with fondness toward the people who took care of him in what could have been the most difficult time of his life. I am indebted to them forever.

Sincerely,
Bert R. Cedermark

It was the Veteran, not the reporter, who has given us freedom of the press.

It was the Veteran, not the poet, who has given us freedom of speech.

It was the Veteran, not the lawyer, who has given us the right to a fair trial.

It was the Veteran, not the campus organizer, who has given us the right to demonstrate.

It is the Veteran who salutes the flag, who served under the flag, whose coffin is draped by the flag, who allows the protester to burn the flag.

Legislative Process

A bill is introduced into the senate, assembly or house of representatives by a member of that house. The bill is then sent to committee(s) to determine its impact. If the bill leaves the committee, the full house votes on it. If it passes one house, the same process occurs in the other house. If it passes both houses it is sent to the chief executive office (president or governor) to be signed into law or vetoed. A veto can be overruled by a re-vote in both houses. Most bills never leave committee. An average of one in 300 bills become law.

Your input and opinion

If you want to influence the legislative process, you must call or write your elected representatives. Only elected representatives can vote on a bill.

The effected benefits would be (1) civil service preference, (2) veteran’s retirement allowance under TPAF or PERS, (3) the purchase of additional military service credit in PFRS, TPAF and PERS, and (4) the annual property tax deduction or the property tax exemption.

Updates from U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs

Compiled from VA press releases

Veterans Claims

To achieve the Administration's commitment on claims processing, more than 1,000 full-time employees - all dedicated to helping veterans directly or to deciding their claims - were added to the Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA) in the first 180 days of the Bush Administration, marking the largest increase in VBA's workforce since the Vietnam War.

The President's FY 2002 budget also provides a 13-percent increase for the VBA that will help address one of the Administration's top priorities for the VA - improving the timeliness and accuracy of claims processing. That funding commitment will add more than 860 employees to the VA's compensation and pension program.

Veterans Health Care

The VA medical care budget proposed by the Administration provides a $1 billion increase to support veterans' health care. That budget includes funds to begin implementing the VA Capital Asset Realignment for Enhanced Services (CARES) program recommendations that will improve the quality and accessibility of health care services for veterans.

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Anthony J. Principi announced the establishment of six new VA Parkinson's Disease Research, Education and Clinical Care Centers in February. One of the centers being established is in Philadelphia.

Veterans Burial Options

Principi has continued and expanded initiatives to increase accessibility of burial options for an aging veteran population. He has also worked to decrease the wait time for headstones and markers. The NCA scanning initiative, an electronic scanning process for headstone and marker applications, was completed. All facets of headstone and marker application processing are faster and more accurate. This project significantly decreased the wait time for families to receive their headstones and markers.

Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance

The maximum amount of Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance increased from $200,000 to $250,000, effective April 1, 2001. VA coordinated system and procedural changes to implement the new law and notify service members of the change.

VetPop2000

Principi approved VetPop2000, the latest actuarial model providing VA's official estimate of the veteran population and its projection through the year 2029. The new population model and its projections are more accurate, comprehensive and accessible. The data will enhance assessments of legislative and program impact, future costs, workload and resource placement.

Veterans Enterprise Center

Principi opened the new Veterans Enterprise Center in February as part of the VA Small and Disadvantaged Business program. The center is a one-stop resource for veterans who own or want to start their own businesses. It offers information about loans, business management programs, online training and procurement opportunities at all levels of government. The center is associated with the Small Business Administration, the Department of Labor and the Association of Small Business Development Centers.

Veterans' Group Life Insurance

The VA is cutting premium rates for Veterans' Group Life Insurance (VGLI) policyholders between the ages of 30 and 59. This affects more than a quarter-million veterans and includes about 70 percent of those who maintain policies through the regular payment of premiums. Policyholders will see the premium reductions and additional discounts reflected in their first premium bill after July 9.

Depending upon the age of policyholders, premium rates will decrease from 5 percent to 24 percent. For example, policyholders with $100,000 in coverage between the ages of 55 and 59 will see a $4 drop in their monthly premiums to $84, while the group from 45 to 49 years of age will have a $10 monthly reduction to $32, a $120 yearly savings.

VGLI is a program that allows former military personnel to convert their Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance coverage to lifetime renewable, five-year term life insurance. There are about 392,300 veterans covered under VGLI policies with a total face value, or basic insurance amount, of about $37.4 billion.

Homeless Veterans Council

The VA announced plans to form an advisory committee to evaluate policies and programs affecting homeless veterans. It is anticipated that the Homeless Veterans Council will be operational for at least six years.

The 15-member committee will include health care specialists, benefits counselors, mental illness and substance abuse professionals, education and training experts and social workers knowledgeable about permanent and transitional housing. The group will include at least one veteran who had been homeless and had benefited from homeless programs.

East Orange - New Center For War-Related Illnesses

May 10, Principi approved the selection and funding of two new centers that will specialize in studying the treatment of war-related illnesses among military patients and veterans.

Updates from U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs

One of the two Centers for the Study of War-Related Illnesses will be located at the VA medical center in East Orange.

“We’ve learned that combat casualties do not always result in visible wounds,” Principi said. “Inevitably, some veterans return with health problems that, while difficult to diagnose, are no less debilitating.”

Traditional medical care for service members and veterans tries to prevent and treat casualties caused directly by combat. However, experience from the Gulf and Vietnam wars has shown this approach does not address all the health care needs of combat veterans. The centers will develop ways to minimize illness and injury that can be implemented before, during and after future conflicts and peacekeeping missions. Additionally, the centers will explore ways to improve care for active-duty patients and veterans.

“Modern medicine cannot fully explain the causes of some of the illnesses suffered by returning veterans. Therefore, finding curative therapies is difficult,” said Dr. Frances M. Murphy, VA’s Deputy Under Secretary for Health. “Finding effective prevention and treatment will be the primary purpose of these two new centers.”

Toll-Free Agent Orange Helpline

Vietnam veterans now have a national toll-free helpline to answer questions about Agent Orange exposure, health care and benefits. The new helpline is 1-800-749-8387.

Callers can speak directly to VA representatives Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. E.S.T., or access a 24-hour automated system.

They can leave voice mail messages to have information sent to them or listen to recordings about exposure to Agent Orange, VA benefits, health care and disability compensation.

Diabetes-Agent Orange Benefits

Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange with “Type 2” diabetes are now eligible for disability compensation. VA offices are already accepting claims from eligible Vietnam veterans.

Veterans affected by the new rule will receive a priority for VA health care, and, depending upon the severity of their illnesses, disability compensation that ranges from $101 to $2,107 monthly.

The VA estimates that about 9 percent of the 2.3 million Vietnam veterans still alive have Type 2 diabetes. The illness is characterized by high blood sugar levels caused by the body’s inability to process the hormone insulin. Approximately 16 percent of veterans currently receiving care in VA medical facilities have been diagnosed with diabetes.

The number of diseases recognized by VA as associated with Agent Orange (service connected) has steadily increased since the early 1990s. The following conditions are also considered service-connected for veterans who served in Vietnam: chloracne (a skin disorder); porphyria cutanea tarda (a liver disorder); acute or subacute peripheral neuropathy (a nerve disorder); and certain cancers, including non-Hodgkin’s lymphoma, soft tissue sarcoma, Hodgkin’s disease, multiple myeloma, prostate cancer and respiratory cancers (including cancers of the lung, larynx, trachea and bronchus).

Toll-Free Spina Bifida Hot Line

Vietnam veterans now have a new national toll-free hot line to answer their questions about health care benefits for their children who have spina bifida. The number for the hot line, operated by the VA, is 1-888-820-1756. Callers can speak to a benefits adviser Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m.

to 1:30 p.m., and from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

An after-hours phone message will allow callers to leave their names and telephone numbers for a return call the next business day. The hot line is managed by VA’s Health Administration Center in Denver.

New Regional Liaisons to Work with Veterans Groups

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Anthony J. Principi announced the creation of a new network of six regional liaisons who will work with state and local elements of veterans service organizations (VSOs).

“VSOs are our partners in developing solutions, as well as in identifying problems,” Principi said. “By strengthening our ties to the VSOs at the state and local levels, we can improve VA’s service to veterans.”

Working with community-based veteran organizations, including state directors of veterans affairs, the liaisons will attend conventions, meetings and other functions to provide a communications channel between veterans and VA. They will also coordinate outreach activities to inform veterans and the public of VA programs.

New Jersey’s liaison is Paul A. Spera, of Attleboro, Mass., former National Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Office of Policy and Planning

Claude M. (Mick) Kicklighter, a retired Army lieutenant general, is the new Assistant Secretary for the Office of Policy and Planning at the VA. He will be responsible for reviewing policy and programs to assess whether they meet the intent of lawmakers and the needs of veterans and their families.

MIA/POW Brief

those of eight American soldiers missing in action from the Korean War were repatriated in formal ceremonies at Yokota Air Base, Japan, on July 10.

A joint U.S.-North Korean team operating about 60 miles north of Pyongyang, recovered the remains during operations that began in June. The area was the site of battles between Communist forces and the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division, and 2nd and 25th Infantry Divisions in November 1950.

Of the 88,000 U.S. servicemembers missing in action from all conflicts, more than 8,100 are from the Korean War.

MIA Joint Arrival Ceremony Held June 28, 2001

Remains believed to be those of 12 unaccounted-for American servicemen from the Vietnam and Korean Wars were honored at an arrival ceremony at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

Eight sets of remains from the Vietnam War were recovered by military and civilian members of Joint Task Force-Full Accounting and the U.S. Army's Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii (CILHI) during search and recovery missions in Laos and Vietnam. Four sets of remains from the Korean War were recovered by CILHI teams during excavations in North Korea.

Following the ceremony, the remains will be taken to CILHI where the forensic identification process will begin.

Lao Repatriation Ceremony held in Savannakhet

June 28, 2001

Remains believed to be those of three American servicemen from the war in Southeast Asia were repatriated during a repatriation ceremony at Laos' Savannakhet Airport.

The remains from Laos were recovered by military and civilian members of Joint Task Force-Full Accounting and the U.S. Army Central Identification Laboratory-Hawaii during a search and recovery mission.

Since 1973, more than 600 American service members, formerly listed as missing and unaccounted-for from the war in Southeast Asia, have been identified and returned to their families.

Vietnam War MIAs Identified

June 19, 2001

A U.S. Air Force pilot and a Marine Corps aerial observer missing in action from the Vietnam War were identified and returned to their families.

Identified were Air Force Col. Harley B. Pyles of Enon, Ohio, and Marine Col. Winfield W. Sisson of Berkeley, Calif.

On Oct. 18, 1965, their O-1E Bird Dog aircraft encountered low-level cloud cover and rain en route to Da Nang Air Base from Kham Duc, South Vietnam. About 10 minutes out from Da Nang, Pyles attempted to make radio contact with the control tower. No further radio transmissions were received, and their aircraft failed to return. An aerial search was initiated hours later and continued for seven days but ended when no evidence of the men or their aircraft was found.

The evidence suggests that Pyles and Sisson died in what is now Thua Thien-Hue Province, Vietnam, when their aircraft crashed on the side of a mountain. There is no evidence that either man survived the crash. Human remains were recovered by local villagers who scavenged the crash site, as well as by CILHI personnel who excavated the site. Some of the remains were confirmed to be those of Pyles and Sisson on the basis of dental records and DNA analysis.

WWII Airmen Found in Tunisia

June 6, 2001

Remains believed to be those of the six-man crew of a World War II bomber have been located in Tunisia and were repatriated in Tunis.

The aircraft wreckage was discovered in November 2000 during a dredging operation of Lake Tunis, near the capital city of Tunis. The aircraft was under approximately six feet of silt and mud. The government of Tunisia halted the dredging operation and contacted U.S. authorities. The U.S. Army's Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii (CILHI), mounted underwater excavations in November and January, recovering remains and personal effects.

The bomber, a Martin Marauder B-26, crashed in the water after having been struck by enemy anti-aircraft fire during a raid on El Aouina air base in December 1942. Based on serial numbers from the aircraft, the Army has made an association with a specific aircraft, and has located most of the surviving family members of the crew.

During the past 28 years, CILHI teams have recovered remains believed to be those of 389 World War II servicemen, more than 250 of these have been identified.

Remains of Three U.S. Servicemen Recovered in North Korea

May 29, 2001

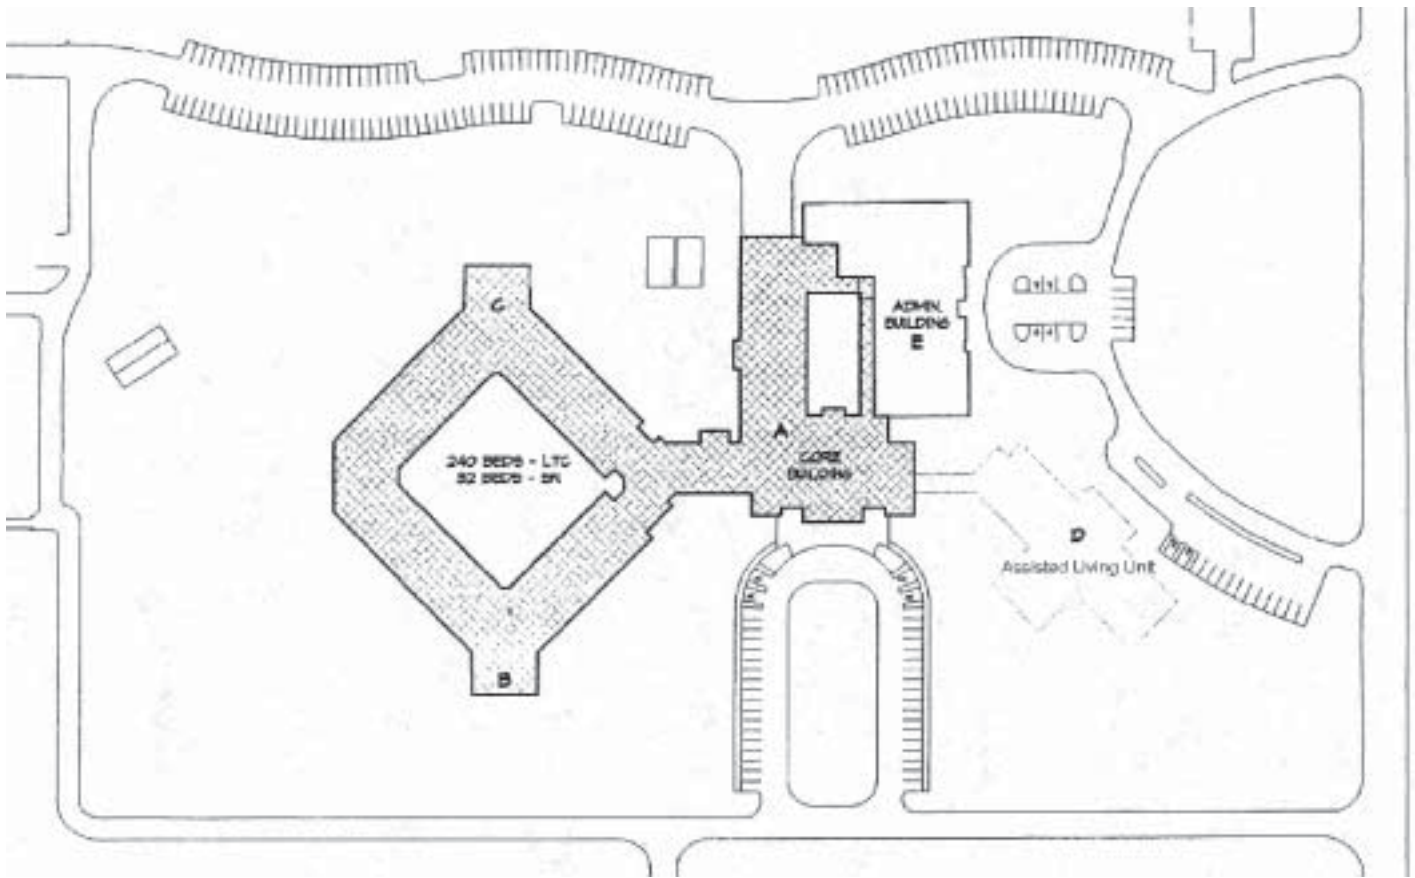

Remains believed to be of three American soldiers, missing in action from the Korean War, were repatriated at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

A joint U.S.-North Korean team operating in Unsan and Kujang counties and along the Chong Chon River, about 60 miles north of Pyongyang, recovered the remains during operations that began earlier this month. The area was the site of battles between Communist forces and the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division, and 2nd and 25th Infantry Divisions in November 1950.

Seventeen operations were conducted between 1996 and 2000 in North Korea, which resulted in the recovery of 107 sets of remains believed to be those of U.S. soldiers.

Vineland's New Construction

*By Cynthia Romano, Project Secretary,
N.J. Veterans Memorial Home at Vineland*

The State of New Jersey has recently submitted a final grant application to the Department of Veterans Affairs in Washington, D.C. for their review and approval to construct a new 300 replacement facility. The facility would be constructed on the existing site within the confines of the existing buildings.

There will be 240 long-term care beds divided among four 60-bed wings, a 32-bed Alzheimer wing, and a 28-bed assisted living unit. The facility will house all support services to include rehabilitation therapy services.

The two-story structure would connect to the existing administration building, affording access throughout the facility eliminating the need for residents, staff, and visitors to walk outside during inclement weather. The circular design of the 60-bed wings will provide equal access to all nursing stations. A landscaped courtyard with a water fall, surrounded by the residential bed wings, will be a focal point.

The project will cost more than $47 million. Ground breaking for construction is slated for August 2002, pending approval of VA funding. New Jersey has appropriated $12.9 million as their 35 percent share of the design and construction cost in July 2000.

The assisted living unit will be attached to the long-term care facility but will be a self-contained facility that will provide a continuum care approach for veterans in need of health care. This assistance will be available to New Jersey veterans, their spouses and widows/widowers, and gold star parents who cannot afford this service in private assisted living facilities. Residents will have access to the resources available in the long-term care facility, such as full-service healthcare as well as the chapel, library, canteen, arts and crafts, bowling, etc., and will be able to participate in the daily activity programs provided.

Due to the high demand within the veteran community for such services, the Casino Reinvestment Development Authority is currently in the decision making process to fund an additional 32 assisted living beds (at a cost of $4.6 million) as a living memorial. CRDA has provided partial funding for both the N.J. Vietnam Veterans' and the Korean War Memorials.

Also on the facility site, is a VA Clinic that provides out-patient services to community veterans. Construction of the new facility requires the demolition of the existing clinic's building. Recently a location at the facility has been tentatively identified to provide the veterans community with an interim VA Clinic.

World War II Memorials Updates

New Jersey's World War II Memorial Commission Announces Location and Plan for New Memorial

By Stephen G. Abel, Administrator for Cemeteries, Monuments, Memorials and Museums, NJDMAVA

On August 16, the NJ World War II Memorial Commission approved the working plan for their final report. In letters to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the General Assembly, the Commission made recommendations that addressed the need, location, design, funding of the construction, and long-term maintenance of the memorial.

The Commission unanimously believes that a Memorial honoring our World War II veterans is needed. They believe that such a Memorial should be incorporated into a veterans' park that already is being planned for a state-owned piece of land in Jersey City. The Memorial should be designed so that it is an integral part of the park and the Commission should be given the authority and responsibility to approve the final design of the Memorial. They recommend that the Memorial construction be funded through a state appropriation as well as corporate and private donations. The city of Jersey City, via a lease agreement, will provide maintenance of the Memorial.

The Commission also approved the schematic design for the Memorial at a design workshop that also was held on August 16. The designer expects to submit the final design for the Memorial in early January 2002, construction should begin during the fourth quarter of 2002, and the Memorial should be completed by the fourth quarter of 2003 barring any unforeseen circumstances.

The Commission also recommended that the legislature authorize a New Jersey World War II Memorial Fund so that the Commission could accept donations. They also recommended that the Memorial be included to the States Tax Check-off Program.

National WW II Memorial to Begin Construction

Compiled from the The National World War II Memorial Campaign

President Bush signed HR 1696 into law on Memorial Day, clearing the way for construction of the National World War II Memorial. Congress passed the legislation overwhelmingly, approving construction of the memorial on its dedicated Rainbow Pool site on the National Mall in Washington, D.C.

The American Battle Monuments

Commission announced that a $56 million contract to build the National World War II Memorial in Washington, D.C., has been awarded to the joint venture of Tompkins Builders and Grunley-Walsh Construction.

Tompkins Builders, established in Washington, D.C., in 1911, is the third largest general contractor in the Washington Metropolitan area. Grunley Construction and Walsh Construction, both headquartered in Rockville, Md., trace their roots to the Grunley-Walsh Construction Company founded in 1955.

Some of the construction and renovation projects the companies have participated in collectively include the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Memorial, the FDR Memorial, the Reflecting Pool, and the U.S. Capitol Building.

The memorial was authorized by Congress in 1993, the site was approved and dedicated in 1995, and the final architectural design was approved last fall.

On-site construction work is expected to begin this summer. The construction project is scheduled for completion in the spring of 2004.

New Jersey Distinguished Service Medal

The New Jersey Distinguished Service Medal (NJDSM) was originally issued in 1858 for those who had distinguished themselves in the New Jersey Militia, but was infrequently used until re-authorized by Governor Kean in 1988.

After the Spanish American War, the Mexican Border Expedition and again after World War I, the State of New Jersey minted special medals for returning New Jersey veterans to honor their service. After World War II and subsequent combat actions no such medal was available. The State of New Jersey was looking for an appropriate way to honor all of these returning combat veterans and acknowledge the debt the state owed them for their service. The NJDSM was then authorized for that purpose. It is New Jersey's highest military award. Since its re-authorization in 1988, more than 4,000 medals have been awarded to New Jersey combat veterans.

"The New Jersey veterans receiving the New Jersey Distinguished Service Medal are a credit to our state and our nation. Their sacrifice and their bravery in combat is truly deserving of New Jersey's highest military award. The award also serves as a great way to thank our veterans for their extraordinary achievements while our nation has been at war," said Acting Governor Donald T. DiFrancesco.

In order to be eligible for the Distinguished Service Medal you must meet all the following criteria:

- ~ currently be a resident of New Jersey
- ~ have been a resident of New Jersey at the time you entered into military service
- ~ have been honorably discharged
- ~ have proof of having served in combat while on active duty during wartime.

Those recipients whose service was recognized by the award of the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Air Medal or equivalent medal will receive a NJDSM with an oak leaf cluster.

The NJDSM can be awarded posthumously to the next-of-kin of a veteran who meets the criteria.

Anyone interested in applying for the New Jersey Distinguished Service Medal should send a written request together with copies of all pertinent information, discharge document (e.g. DD 214), award citation, honorable discharge, etc. to:
