CONSTITUTION

OF THE

State of New Jersey.

A CONSTITUTION agreed upon by the delegates of the people of New Jersey. in convention: begun at Trenton on the fourteenth day of May, and continued to the twenty-ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four.

WE, the people of the state of New Jersey, grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this constitution :

ARTICLE I.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security, and benefit of the people, and they have the right at all times to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

3. No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor under any pretense whatever be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes, or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform.

4. There shall be no establishment of one religious sect, in preference to another; no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and no person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil right, merely on account of his religious principles.

5. Every person may freely speak, write, and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libellous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the papers and things to be seized.

7. The right of a trial by jury shall remain inviolate: but the legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men.

8. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defence.

9. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offence, unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger.

10. No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offence. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offences, when the proof is evident or presumption great.

11. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

12. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner: nor in time of war, except in a manner prescribed by law.

14. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required, excessive fines shall not be imposed, and cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted.

16. Private property shall not be taken for public use, without just compensation; but land may be taken for public highways, as heretofore, until the legislature shall direct compensation to be made.

17. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any action, or on any judgment founded upon contract, unless in cases of fraud; nor shall any person be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

18. The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives, and to petition for redress of grievances.

19. This enumeration of rights and privileges shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

1. Every white male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this state one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote five months, next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be elective by the people, provided, that no person in the military, naval, or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident in this state, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack, or military or naval place or station within this state; and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of a crime which now excludes him from being a witness unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector.

2. The legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery at elections

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Section I.

1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and general assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the senate who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the state for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election: and no person shall be a member of the general assembly who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the state for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either house of the legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected yearly and every year, on the second Tuesday of October; and the two houses shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election, at which time of meeting, the legislative year shall commence; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the legislature.

Section II.

1. The senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the state, elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, for three years.

2. As soon as the senate shall meet after the the first election to be held in pursuance of this constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year; of the second class at the expiration of the second year; and of the third class at the expiration of the third year, so that one class may be elected every year: and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

Section III.

1. The general assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the general assembly shall be made by the legislature, at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member: and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

Section IV.

1. Each house shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the legislature, the writs may be issued by the governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

2. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

3. Each house shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

5. Neither house, during the session of the legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each house, before the final passage thereof; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass, unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present and agreeing thereto; and the yeas and nays of the members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

7. Members of the senate and general assembly shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the state; which compensation shall not exceed the sum of three dollars per day for the period of forty days from the commencement of the session; and shall not exceed the sum of one dollar and fifty cents per day for the remainder of the session. When convened in extra session by the governor, they shall receive such sum as shall be fixed for the first forty days of the ordinary session. They shall also receive the sum of one dollar for every ten miles they shall travel, in going to and returning from their place of meeting, on the most usual route. The president of the senate and speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation, equal to one-third of their per diem allowance as members.

8. Members of the senate and general assembly shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Section V.

1. No member of the senate or general assembly shall, during the time for which he was elected, be nominated by the governor or by the legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this state, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time.

2. If any member of the senate and general assembly shall be elected to represent this state in the senate or house of representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the legislature of this shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the supreme court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace, nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this state, shall be entitled to a seat either in the senate or in the general assembly; but on being elected and taking his seat, his office shall be considered vacant; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States shall be entitled to a seat in either house.

Section VI.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of assembly; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but for appropriations made by law.

3. The credit of the state shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the state, which shall singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for the purposes of war, or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by a law for some single object or work to be distinctly specified therein; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election: and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be, deposited with this state by the government of the United States.

Section VII.

1. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by this state; and no ticket in any lottery not authorized by a law of this state shall be bought or sold within the state.

3. The legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title.

5. The laws of this state shall begin in the following style, "Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey."

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock, and other property, which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested, and remain a perpetual fund; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the state; and it shall not be competent for the legislature to borrow, appropriate, or use the said fund or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretence whatever.

7. No private or special law shall be passed authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. The assent of three-fifths of the members elected to each house shall be requisite to the passage of every law for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing charters for banks or money corporations ; and all such charters shall be limited to a term not exceeding twenty years.

9. Individuals or private corporations shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

10. The legislature may vest in the circuit courts, or the courts of common pleas within the several counties of this state chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages, and sale of mortgaged premises.

Section VIII.

1. Members of the legislature shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation :

“I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be), that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator (or member of general assembly, as the case may be), according to the best of my ability.”

And members elect of the senate or general assembly are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor.

2. The governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this state. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the governor; but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen governor by the vote of a majority of the members of both houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be determined in such manner as the legislature shall direct by law. When a governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and at the place where the the people shall respectively vote for members of the legislature.

3. The governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter: and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired: and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the governor during the last week of his said term.

4. The governor shall not be less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this state seven years next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States or of this state.

5. The governor shall, at stated times, receive for his service a compensation, which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.

6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the state; he shall have power to convene the legislature, whenever in his opinion public necessity requires it; he shall communicate by message to the legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the state, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the state, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both houses shall be presented to the governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to the house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it; if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that house, it shall become a law: but, in neither house shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

8. No member of congress or person holding an office under the United States or this state, shall exercise the office of governor; and in case the governor, or person administering the government, shall accept any office under the United States or this state, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant.

9. The governor, or person administering the government, shall have power to suspend the collection of fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, to extend until the expiration of a time not exceeding ninety days after conviction; but this power shall not extend to cases of impeachment.

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor, and the six judges of the court of errors and appeals, or a major part of them, of whom the governor or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

11. The governor and other civil officers under this state shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office, during their continuance in office, and for two years thereafter.

12. In case of the death, resignation, or removal from office of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate, and in case of his death, resignation or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly, for the time being, until another governor shall be elected and qualified; but in such case another governor shall be chosen at the next election for members of the legislature, unless such death, resignation, or removal shall occur within thirty days immediately preceding such next election, in which case a governor shall be chosen at the second succeeding election for members of the legislature. When a vacancy happens, during the recess of the legislature, in any office which is to be filled by the governor and senate, or by the legislature in joint meeting, the governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire at the end of the next session of the legislature, unless a successor shall be sooner appointed; when a vacancy happens in the office of clerk or surrogate of any county, the governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire when a successor is elected and qualified.

13. In case of the impeachment of the governor, his absence from the state, or inability to discharge the duties of his office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate; and in case of his death, resignation, or removal, then upon the speaker of the house of assembly for the time being, until the governor, absent or impeached, shall return or be acquitted, or until the disqualification or inability shall cease, or until a new governor be elected and qualified.

14. In case of a vacancy in the office of governor from any other cause than those herein enumerated, or in case of the death of the governor elect before he is qualified into office, the powers, duties, and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the president of the senate, or speaker of the house of assembly, as above provided for, until a new governor be elected and qualified.

ARTICLE VI.

Section I.

1. The judicial power shall be vested in a court of errors and appeals in the last resort in all causes, as heretofore; a court for the trial of impeachments; a court of chancery; a prerogative court; a supreme court; circuit courts and such inferior courts as now exist, and as may be hereafter ordained and established by law; which inferior courts the legislature may alter or abolish, as the public good shall require.

Section II.

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of the chancellor, the justices of the supreme court, and six judges, or a major part of them; which judges are to be appointed for six years.

2. Immediately after the court shall first assemble, the six judges shall arrange themselves in such manner that the seat of one of them shall be vacated every year, in order that thereafter one judge may be annually appointed.

3. Such of the six judges as shall attend the court shall receive, respectively, a per diem compensation, to be provided by law.

4. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

5. When an appeal from an order or decree shall be heard, the chancellor shall inform the court, in writing, of the reasons for his order or decree; but he shall not sit as a member, or have a voice in the hearing or final sentence.

6. When a writ of error shall be brought, no justice who has given a judicial opinion in the cause in favor of or against any error complained of, shall sit as a member, or have a voice on the hearing, or for its affirmation or reversal; but the reasons for such opinion shall be assigned to the court in writing.

Section III.

1. The house of assembly shall have the sole power of impeaching, by a vote of a majority of all the members; and all the impeachments shall be tried by the senate: the members, when sitting for that purpose, to be on oath or affirmation "truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question, according to evidence": and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of the senate.

2. Any judicial officer impeached, shall be suspended from exercising his office until his acquittal.

3. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and to disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, profit or trust under this state: but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable to indictment, trial and punishment, according to law.

4. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

Section IV.

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor.

2. The chancellor shall be the ordinary or surrogate general, and judge of the prerogative court.

3. All persons aggrieved by any order, sentence, or decree of the orphans' court, may appeal from the same, or from any part thereof, to the prerogative court; but such order, sentence, or decree shall not be removed into the supreme court, or circuit court, if the subject matter thereof be within the jurisdiction of the orphans' court.

4. The secretary of state shall be the register of the prerogative court, and shall perform the duties required of him by law in that respect.

Section V.

1. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and four associate justices. The number of justices may be increased or decreased by law, but shall never be less than two.

2. The circuit courts shall be held in every county of this state, by one or more of the justices of the supreme court, or a judge appointed for that purpose; and shall in all cases within the county, except in those of a criminal nature, have common law jurisdiction concurrent with the supreme court; and any final judgment of a circuit court may be docketed in the supreme court and shall operate as a judgment obtained in the supreme court from the time of such docketing.

3. Final judgments in any circuit court may be brought by writ of error into the supreme court, or directly into the court of errors and appeals.

Section VI.

1. There shall be no more than five judges of the inferior court of common pleas in each of the counties in this state, after the terms of the judges of said court now in office shall terminate. One judge for each county shall be appointed every year, and no more, except to fill vacancies, which shall be for the unexpired term only.

2. The commissions for the first appointments of judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April next; and all subsequent commissions for judges of said court shall bear date and take effect on the first day of April in every successive year, except commissions to fill vacancies, which shall bear date and take effect when issued.

Section VII.

1. There may be elected under this constitution, two, and not more than five, justices of the peace in each of the townships of the several counties of this state, and in each of the wards, in cities that may vote in wards. When a township or ward contains two thousand inhabitants, or less, it may have two justices; when it contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and not more than four thousand, it may have four justices; and when it contains more than four thousand inhabitants, it may have five justices; provided, that whenever any township, not voting in wards contains more than seven thousand inhabitants, such township may have an additional justice for each additional three thousand inhabitants above four thousand.

2. The population of the townships in the several counties of the state and of the several wards shall be ascertained by the last preceding census of the United States, until the legislature shall provide, by law, some other mode of ascertaining it.

ARTICLE VII.

APPOINTING POWER AND TENURE OF OFFICE.

Section I.

MILITIA OFFICERS.

1. The legislature shall provide by law for enrolling, organizing and arming the militia.

2. Captains, subalterns, and non-commissioned officers shall be elected by the members of the commissioned officers of their respective companies.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, ss.

The within constitution was delivered by His Excellency Daniel Haines, governor of this state, to me, in open convention, and is, by his order, filed in my office this 29th June, 1844.

CHARLES G. McCHESNEY,
Secretary of State.

A true copy,

CHARLES G. McCHESNEY, Sec'y of State.

By an act entitled "An act to provide for the election of delegates to a convention to prepare a constitution for the government of this state, and for submitting the same to the people thereof for ratification or rejection," passed February 23, 1844 (PAMPH 111), delegates were elected, who met at the time and place prescribed, and agreed upon the foregoing constitution. And at an election held by the people, on the 13th day of August, 1844, pursuant to the provisions of said act, the same was adopted as the constitution of the state, by a majority of 16,750 votes, the number of votes cast being 23,871, of which 20,276 were in favor of its adoption, 3,526 against it, and 69 ballots rejected.

NOTES.

The grant of power to a company to take land for a railroad, upon paying or tendering the value assessed by commissioners, without waiting for the result of an appeal to a jury, is constitutional. 1 Zab. 443.

A private road, although open to the public, is not a public highway, and therefore, not being within the exception in Art. 1, Sec. 13, of the constitution, private roads cannot be authorized by law to be laid out without providing compensation to the land-owner. 2 Zab. 356.

The power given to the common council of Newark to direct a public street, opened by an individual on his own lands, to be graded, put in repair, and made fit for travel, and to assess the whole expense thereof upon the lands of the person opening the street, is constitutional. 3 Zab. 335.

Double taxation may be unjust, and oppressive, but not being prohibited by the constitution of this state, it is in the discretion of the legislature. 3 Zab. 494, 542.

The trustees of school districts are officers, within the meaning of Art. 2, and therefore, if elected by the people, none but white male citizens can be authorized to vote for them. State v. Delsler, June T. 1855.

It has been decided by the courts of several of the states, that the legislative power, being vested in a legislature, cannot be delegated even to the people at large, by submitting the question to them, whether a particular law shall take effect; whether this be or not, the true construction of the constitution, it is not unconstitutional to submit the question, whether a city charter shall be adopted, to a vote of the inhabitants. 4 Zab.

An act of the legislature directing the removal of a dam, which had been erected across the mouth of a small creek, by owners of the meadow by virtue of a prior law, without compensation to such owners, is unconstitutional. By Chan. Williamson. Glover v. Powell, Octob. T. 1854.

THE EARLY GOVERNMENT OF NEW JERSEY.

The government of New Jersey was first established by the proprietors, Lord John Berkley and Sir George Carteret, the parchment constitution bearing the date of February 10, 1664. This government continued until the division into East and West Jersey, 1676. Robert Barclay was appointed Governor of East Jersey by the proprietors for life, in 1682, and immediately by deputy convened an assembly elected by the people, which sat again in 1686, in 1688, and afterwards at irregular intervals. In West Jersey some of the Governors were appointed by the proprietors, and others by the Legislature, the latter body appointing also the other governmental officers.

In 1702, upon the assumption of the government by the Queen of England, a governor of the Province of Nova Cæsarea or New Jersey was appointed by the crown, to hold office at the pleasure of the sovereign. The Governor was assisted by twelve counselors, appointed by the crown and occasionally by himself, six from East and six from West Jersey, any five to make a quorum. The General Assembly consisted of two elected by the inhabitants and householders of the town of Perth Amboy, and ten by the freeholders of East Jersey; two by the inhabitants and householders of the town of Burlington, and ten by the freeholders of West Jersey. In 1709 an act was passed reciting that the constitution was inconvenient, and enacting that the majority of the votes of the freeholders of each county worth fifty pounds or owning one hundred acres of land be taken to elect representatives, who should be worth five hundred pounds or possessed of one thousand acres of land. Two were to be elected for Perth Amboy, and two for each of the then five counties of East Jersey, two for each of the towns of Burlington and Salem, and two for each of the then four counties of West Jersey. Hunterdon county, though established in 1714, continued to send representatives in conjunction with Burlington till 1727, when it was authorized to send two, and Salem town was deprived of its separate representation. Cumberland County was set off from Salem in 1747, but continued to elect representatives as before until 1768, when two additional members were added from Morris County, two from Cumberland, and two from Sussex.

In 1725 the first formal polls were opened, and a clerk was appointed to take down each voter's name, the Sheriff being ordered to keep the poll open from day to day till all had entered their names. One polling place alone was in each county, and in 1789, when East and West Jersey contended as to whether the temporary seat of Government should be at Philadelphia or New York, the polls were kept open three or four weeks. Voting by ballot was first introduced in 1779, was discontinued during the war, restored in several counties in 1783, required by law in 1790, but was not universal till 1797. There were twenty-two assemblies from the surrender to the Revolution, some continuing longer than one year, and one from 1761 to 1769, eight years. The assemblies sometimes met five or six times within a year, and once never convened for five years.

In 1774 the assembly called upon Governor Franklin to convene the Legislature for the purpose of appointing delegates to a general congress of the colonies to meet in Philadelphia. On his refusing to do so, a meeting of the people of Essex County was held at Newark in June, when notice was sent to the other counties to send delegates to a general committee to meet at New Brunswick in July. This general committee did meet, and sent five delegates to the General Congress. In the next meeting of the assembly the Governor strongly condemned the congress, but the assembly elected five delegates notwithstanding to attend at the next meeting of the congress. A Provincial Congress of New Jersey also met in Trenton May 23, 1775, and proceeded to aid the Revolution.

On the 12th of August, 1775, the Provincial Congress enacted that all inhabitants worth fifty pounds in real or personal estate should meet at their county court-house on the 21st of September, and choose any number not exceeding five to represent them in the Provincial Congress to be held at Trenton, October 3d next ensuing. The regular assembly met in November of the same year for the last time, but did not attempt to interfere with the Provincial Congress, and being prorogued by the Governor until January 3d, failed to appear on that day. Governor Franklin then ordered them to appear in the name of the King, but the Provincial Congress vetoed that measure, and in return arrested the Governor and sent him a prisoner to Connecticut.

On June 18th, 1776, the Provincial Congress ratified the Declaration of Independence, and the next day adopted the name of the "Convention of the State of New Jersey." The new Legislature met at Princeton on August 27th following, and continued in session till the 8th day of October, choosing in joint meeting, William Livingston, Governor.

GOVERNOR JOEL PARKER.

Joel Parker was born in Monmouth County, November 24, 1816. His father, Charles Parker, was Sheriff of Monmouth County at the close of the war of 1812, and was then returned to the Legislature for five consecutive terms. During his fifth term he was elected State Treasurer by the Democrats on joint ballot, and held that position for sixteen successive years, and under various political administrations. In and about the State Treasurer's office, at Trenton, young Joel Parker passed much of his time, assisting his father, and afterwards entering Princeton College, graduated from there in 1839 and studied law with Hon. Henry W. Green, of Trenton. He was admitted to the bar in 1842, and settled down to his profession in Freehold, where he has ever since resided, marrying the eldest daughter of S. R. Gummere, of Burlington.

In 1844 Mr. Parker took the stump, and distinguished himself as a ready and pertinent speaker. In 1847 he represented in the Legislature the old district of Monmouth, since divided into five districts and two counties, (Monmouth and Ocean). In the following year he refused the nomination for the State Senate, and soon after was appointed Prosecuting Attorney of Monmouth County, serving five years. In 1860 he was chosen United States Elector by 5,000 majority, and was one of three Northern Electors who cast their votes for Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, in the Electoral College. Mr. Parker having been for some time before the war Brigadier General of the Monmouth and Ocean Brigade, in 1861 Governor Olden nominated him to the Senate as Major General of the five counties of Monmouth, Ocean, Mercer, Union and Middlesex, with a view of organizing the forces, and promoting volunteering. He was unanimously confirmed to this position by the Senate, and in 1862 his county presented his name for Governor, and he was elected by 14,600 majority over Marcus L. Ward.

The record of Joel Parker during the trying scenes of his administration, when war with its horrors was upon the land, while it would be absurd to say that it was pleasing to every one, was nevertheless characterized as one of true devotion to the interests of the State, and of an economical administration of the public finances. The Governor labored early and late in his endeavors to see that New Jersey did her duty towards the United States Government, then at war, and under his administration the soldiers of New Jersey were promptly furnished when their aid was needed. In February, 1864, a demand was made on the State for 12,000 men, alleged to have been a deficiency not furnished by the previous Governor. Unable to procure redress from the War Department, Governor Parker sought President Lincoln and explaining to him the unjustness of this levy, was able to have the quota stricken off. As the State was then paying $500 bounty per man, a sum of six millions of dollars was thus saved to New Jersey.

At the close of his Gubernatorial term, Governor Parker returned to the practice of his profession at Freehold, and in 1868, at the National Democratic Convention in New York, received the full vote of New Jersey on every ballot for the nomination for President. When the campaign of 1871 was awaiting its nominees, ere commencing, the name of ex-Governor Parker was prominently mentioned as the Democratic candidate for the Gubernatorial chair. Up to the time of the assembling of the nominating convention it had been positively asserted that Gov. Parker would not, under any circumstances, accept the nomination. There were, however, far seeing men of his party, who saw in the ex-Governor the only hope of the Democracy in an attempt to carry the Executive office, and when the letter of Governor Parker to a friend was read, in which he was seen to studiously avoid a nomination, but nevertheless to be willing to accept it if unanimously offered, these leaders of the party at once brought forward his name, and, although other prominent candidates were not only in the field, but had had their names cast in the convention, and were at the moment of the nominating of the Governor awaiting the return of the tellers of the ballots, they were set aside, and county after county followed each other in withdrawing their candidates and giving in their warmest adhesion to ex-Governor Joel Parker. During the campaign he worked most energetically, speaking in all the principal cities of the State and at many other points, and his election followed in due course, he obtaining 82,362 votes against 76,393 for Cornelius Walsh, giving a majority of 5,979. In person Governor Parker is commanding. He is over six feet in height and weighs some two hundred and forty pounds, and yet is not corpulent, further than is becoming to his stalwart form. He has an open, ingenuous countenance, black eyes, hair and beard steel mixed, and a well balanced head.

50. In case of disagreement between the Senate and House of Assembly, the Senate may either recede, insist and ask a conference or adhere, and motions for such purposes shall take precedence in that order.

51. When a Senate bill shall be returned, amended by the House of Assembly, the sections of the bill so amended, together with the amendments, shall be read by the Secretary for a first reading, and be entitled to a second reading, without special motion, at which reading the proposed amendments shall be open to the action of the Senate. (Rule 50.) And if, at its third reading, upon the question being put by the President, "Will the Senate concur in the House amendment to Senate bill, No. —?" a majority of the whole Senate should, by a vote of ayes and nays, so concur, the question shall then be upon ordering the bill to be re-engrossed. If so ordered, the bill shall be re-engrossed, the amendments embodied therein, and the re-engrossed bill examined and reported by the Committee on Engrossed bills, and read in open Senate, to the end that it may be known to be correctly engrossed, and shall be then signed and certified as other bills.

Executive Session.—59. When nominations shall be made by the Governor to the Senate, they shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, be referred to appropriate Committees; and the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a Committee, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

Of the Meeting of the House.—1. Any member or members less than a quorum may meet and adjourn the House from day to day, when necessary.

2. Every member shall attend in his place precisely at the hour to which the House was last adjourned; and in case of neglect he shall be subject to a reprimand from the Chair, unless excused by the House; nor shall any member absent himself from the House for more than the space of a quarter of an hour without leave previously obtained.

3. In case a less number of members than a quorum shall be present after the arrival of the hour to which the House stood adjourned, they are hereby authorized to send their Sergeant-at-arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized with a warrant duly executed, for any and all absent members, as the majority or such as are present may agree, and at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be rendered as the House, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient. Immediately after the appointment of the Standing Committees, the members shall arrange among themselves their several seats appropriated to their counties; and in case of disagreement the same shall be decided by lot.

Of the duties of the Speaker.—4. He shall take the chair at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and immediately call the members to order; and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read, which may then be corrected by the House.

5. He shall preserve order and decorum, and in debate shall prevent personal reflections, and confine members to the question under discussion; but he shall not engage in any debate, nor propose his opinion on any question, without first calling on some member to occupy the chair. When two or more members rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.

6. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House, when demanded by any four members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

7. All questions before the House shall be stated by the Speaker, and distinctly put in the following form, to-wit:

“As many as are in favor of (the question) will say aye;” and after the affirmative is expressed, “those of a contrary opinion, no.” If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative; and in case of an equal division the Speaker shall decide.

8. All Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House.

9. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker: and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the order of the House shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk. If the Speaker be absent, a less number of members than a quorum may appoint a Speaker pro tempore, who may sign any warrants or perform any act requisite to bring in absent members.

10. He shall have a general direction of the Hall, and he may name a member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond a second adjournment.

Of the Order of Business.—11. After the reading of the journal, the business of the first meeting of each day shall be conducted in the following manner, to-wit:

I. Letters, petitions, and memorials, remonstrances and accompanying documents may be presented and disposed of.

II. Reports of Committees may be read.

III. Original resolutions may be offered and considered; items of unfinished business referred; motions to reconsider and to appoint additional members of Committees made; and leave of absence, leave to withdraw documents and leave to introduce bills asked.

Leave for Bills and to Introduce Bills.—IV. Bills and joint resolutions on a third reading may be taken up.

V. The House shall then proceed in the order of the day, preference being always given to the unfinished business of the previous sitting; after which bills and joint resolutions of a second reading shall be taken in their order; and the House, in its afternoon session will proceed to business as though there had been no adjournment of its morning session, excepting that original resolutions and leave to introduce bills of Committees be the first business in the afternoon session; and shall, on demand of the majority, proceed with the order of the day.

12. The Clerk shall make a list of all public bills and joint resolutions. He shall keep a separate calendar of private bills. No bills for granting, continuing, altering, amending or renewing a charter for any corporation other than a municipal corporation shall be placed on the calendar of public bills. All bills, public and private, shall be numbered according to time of their introduction into the House. They shall be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they were reported or ordered to a third reading, as appears by the calendar; and the calendar shall be proceeded in until all the bills thereon are called up before the commencement of the calendar anew.

13. All messages shall be sent from this House to the Senate by the Clerk.

Of Decorum and Debate.—14. When a member is about to speak in debate, or communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat, and respectfully address himself to the Speaker, confining himself to the question under debate, and avoiding personality.

15. If any member in debate transgress the rules of the house, the speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain. The House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.

16. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

17. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the House.

18. While the speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the hall; nor, in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall any one entertain private discourse; nor shall any one while a member is speaking, pass between him and the Chair.

19. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.

20. Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put, shall give his vote, unless the House, for special reasons, shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced ; any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief verbal statement of the reasons for such request ; and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

21. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place. A brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the introducer, and, if called upon, he shall declare that it does not, in his opinion, contain any indecent or reproachful language, or any expressions of disrespect to the House, or any Committee of the same.

22. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms at all times not to allow any person to smoke in the Assembly Chamber.

On Motions.—23. Every motion shall be reduced to writing if the Speaker or any member desire it.

24. When a motion is made and seconded it shall be stated by the Speaker, or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Clerk, when it shall be deemed to be in possession of the House, and open to debate ; but it may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

25. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, but—

27. A motion to adjourn shall be always in order except when the house is voting, or while a member is addressing the House, or immediately after the question to adjourn has been negatived ; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so distinct that one being taken away from the rest may stand entire for the decision of the House; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

29. When any motion shall be made and seconded, the same shall at the request of any two members, be entered on the Journal of the House.

30. When a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof on the same day, or on the next day of actual session of the House thereafter; all motions may be reconsidered by a majority of the members present; but bills, to be reconsidered, must have the same majority that would be necessary to pass them; and such vote on motion to reconsider shall be by taking the yeas and nays.

31. When a blank is to be filled, the question shall first be taken on the largest sum, or greatest number, and remotest day.

32. The yeas and nays shall be entered on the journal of the House, when moved for and seconded by five members; and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members, including the Speaker, shall be called alphabetically.

33. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by majority of the members present, and its effect shall be, if decided affirmatively, to put an end to all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any then upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question; if decided in the negative to leave the main question and amendments, if any, under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking the question, or in some other manner. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

FREDERICK T. FRELINGHUYSEN, of Newark, Republican, was born at Millstone, Somerset County, New Jersey, August 4, 1817, and is the nephew and adopted son of the late Theodore Frelinghuysen; graduated at Rutgers College in 1836; studied law, and was admitted to practice in 1839; was appointed attorney general of the State of New Jersey in 1861, and reappointed in 1866; was temporarily appointed United States Senator in 1866 in place of William Wright, deceased, and was elected in 1867 to fill the unexpired term, which terminated in 1869; was elected to the United States Senate to succeed A. G. Cattell, and took his seat March 4, 1871. His term of service will expire March 3, 1877.

JOHN P. STOCKTON, of Trenton, Democrat, was born in Princeton, New Jersey, Aug. 2, 1826; was graduated at Princeton College in 1843; was licensed to practice law in 1846; was called to the bar in 1848; appointed a commissioner to revise the laws of New Jersey; was subsequently reporter to the Court of Chancery, and published three volumes of equity reports, which bear his name; was appointed in 1858 minister resident at Rome and was recalled at his own request in 1861; elected a Senator in 1865 for the term ending in 1871; after holding the position for more than a year his election was declared by the Senate to have been informal, and he was unseated, and returned to New Jersey and the practice of his profession; was again elected Senator in the place of Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Republican, and took his seat March 4, 1869. His term of service will expire March 3, 1875.

UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVES.

First District.—Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem Counties.

JOHN W. HAZELTON, of Mullica Hill, Republican, was born at Mullica Hill, New Jersey; attended the public schools there, and the high school at Burlington; has been a practical farmer; was a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Chicago in 1868; was an elector on the Grant and Colfax ticket in the fall of that year; and was elected to the Forty-second Congress, receiving 14,502 votes against 12,469 votes for B. F. Lee, Democrat. He was re-elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 15,312 against 8,948 for Oscar Clute, being a majority of 6,364.

Second District.—Atlantic, Burlington, Mercer and Ocean Counties.

SAMUEL A. DOBBINS, of Mount Holly, Republican, was born at Vincentown, Burlington County, and is now in the fifty-ninth year of his age. He was educated in the common schools of his neighborhood and at an early period in life turned his attention to farming. He was elected sheriff of Burlington County and served a term of three years as such. He was elected a member of the Legislature, in the lower House, and served during the sessions of '58-'59 and '60. Mr. Dobbins is well known as a man of sterling integrity and as such has been entrusted with the executorship of many large estates. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 14,192 against 11,787 for Samuel C. Forker, being a majority of 2,405.

Third District.—Middlesex, Monmouth and Union Counties.

AMOS CLARK, Jr., of Elizabeth, Republican, is a native of that city and was born Nov. 12, 1828. At an early age he went to New York as a clerk, and by his own indefatigable industry, attention to business, and capacity for management, attained in 1853 a commanding position as a wholesale clothing merchant in that city, at the same time carrying on three extensive branch stores in the city and one each in Rochester, Buffalo and Geneva, N. Y. In 1865 he retired from this business and began to devote himself to real estate in Elizabeth. He made extensive purchases of buildings and lots on the main street, and also of extensive tracts of farm lands adjacent to the city, the bulk of which valuable and rising property he still holds.

Mr. Clark organized the First National Bank of Elizabeth, of which he became, and still is, the President. The National Fire and Marine Insurance Co., the Dime Savings Bank, and the Elizabeth and Newark Horse Railroad followed in rapid succession as the fruits of his enterprise, and their present flourishing condition is largely owing to his able management and oversight. Mr. Clark was also a main mover in the New Jersey State Agricultural Society, which maintains at Waverly the most prominent annual fair in the state. As a citizen of Elizabeth, Mr. Clark has always been foremost in all good works. He was the principal mover in the organization of Westminster Church (Presbyterian) and a munificent contributor towards the building of its imposing edifice. Mr. Clark built at his own expense "The Arcade," a magnificent building in which is the Bank, the Post-Office, a fine Opera House, Commercial College and the Young Men's Christian Association Hall. Thus Mr. Clark has built his monuments in his native town, the regard and esteem of whose citizens for him is attested by his unexampled triumph at the recent election, where a Democratic majority of 1,800 was transformed into a Republican majority of 2,100, an overthrow of a Congress district without a parallel in American politics. In 1866 Mr. Clark was elected to the State Senate from Union County, which had hitherto returned a Democratic Senator by large majorities, and served with distinction. He has also been a member of the Elizabeth Common Council. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 14,794 against 12,618 for J. H. Paterson, being a majority of 2,176.

Fourth District.—Hunterdon, Warren, Somerset and Sussex Counties.

ROBERT HAMILTON, of Newton, Democrat, was born at Hamburg, Sussex County, in 1811 and was a son of Gen. Benjamin Hamilton. He was admitted to the bar in 1836. He filled the position of Prosecutor of the Pleas of Sussex County for two terms. In 1863 and 1864 he was elected to the State Assembly and in the session of '64, in consequence of the death of Speaker Taylor, was elected to fill the vacancy. He was a member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Sussex and its Director for many years. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress, receiving 13,458 votes against 10,994 for F. A. Potts, being a majority of 2,464.

Fifth District—Bergen, Morris and Passaic Counties.

WILLIAM WALTER PHELPS, of Teaneck, Bergen Co., a native of the State of New York, was born Aug. 29, 1839. He graduated at Yale College in 1860 with high honors. Having continued his education in Europe, he returned home to study the profession of the law. He received at the Columbia College Law School of New York, the valedictory appointment as the most proficient member of a large class and immediately entered upon active practice. Being possessed of a large fortune, he was forced to turn his attention to financial matters, and in railways, banks, trust companies, etc., he became largely interested. Among the railways he is director in the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western; the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; the Oswego and Syracuse; the Syracuse & Binghamton; the Cayuga & Susquehanna; the International, of Texas; the Houston & Great Northern; the New Haven & Northampton; the Morris & Essex and many others. He is a director of the City and Second National Banks, of New York, and of the United States and Farmers' Loan & Trust Co's. His largest interests are in Bergen County, where his estate, consisting of 1,000 acres, extends from the Hackensack to the Hudson rivers and covers all the land lying between the villages of Englewood and Hackensack. In cultivating and developing this large farm Mr. Phelps finds his chief occupation. In July 1872 he was elected a Fellow of Yale College. This was the first election ever held and at the polls Mr. Phelps' plurality was excelled only by that of Mr. Evarts. Next to New Jersey his largest interests are in Michigan and Texas. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 12,701 against 9,986 for Absalom B. Woodruff, being a majority of 2,715.

Sixth District.—Essex County.

MARCUS L. WARD, of Newark, Republican, was born in the city he has been elected to represent, November 29th, 1820. Educated more especially for business pursuits, he early commenced the conduct of a manufactory, and managed its affairs so ably and efficiently, that several years since he withdrew from it entirely with an ample fortune. Notwithstanding his ample means, and the temptations to ease and idleness, he gave to the work of saving the Union his best physical and mental energies, and by his unwearied efforts in behalf of the soldiers of his native State, won the title of "Soldiers' Friend." In 1862, he was nominated as the Republican candidate for governor, but owing to the absence in the army of thousands of Republican voters, he then failed of an election. In 1865, however, he was again nominated for that position, and was triumphantly elected. His administration was one of the wisest, and most generally acceptable, of any that the State of New Jersey has known. During all the time he officiated as Governor, he kept open, at Newark, an office for procuring wounded soldiers their pension, without onerous cost, and for aiding others in receiving back pay, or gaining such means of livelihood as his great influence at home and at the Nation's Capital enabled him to secure. At the outset of the late campaign, all eyes turned to the ex-governor as the best Republican candidate for Congress who could be named. Wholly without ambition for the honor, and almost begging that his party might unite upon some other gentleman, he reluctantly consented to the sacrifice after much urgent solicitation. At the election which followed he ran largely ahead of Gen. Grant and other candidates upon the ticket. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 16,061 against 10,403 for J. M. Randall, being a majority of 5,658.

Seventh District.—Hudson County.

I. W. SCUDDER, Republican, of Jersey City, was born at Elizabeth, N. J., 1818, and is, therefore, in the fifty-fifth year of his age. His father, Smith Scudder, was a lawyer of eminence, whose tragical and sudden death in the court-house of Hudson County, some years ago, is well remembered. Mr. Scudder studied law in the office of his father in Elizabeth, and in 1841, by advice of Gov. Wm. Pennington, removed to Jersey City and commenced the practice of his profession there. He has since risen to the highest distinction as an eminent jurist, and is generally recognized as one of the leading lawyers of the State. He has twice been Prosecutor of the Court of Common Pleas for Hudson County. For many years past Mr. Scudder has devoted himself almost exclusively to important railway interests, being retained as counsel by many of the largest railroad corporations in New Jersey. Mr. Scudder is a universal favorite, being conspicuous for his unfailing good nature, genial manners, and conversational powers of a high order. He is unmarried. The late nomination for Congress was accepted by Mr. Scudder with much reluctance, and that at the earnest solicitation of friends and party. His nomination insured a Republican victory, which was most decisive; the district in which he obtained 1,268 majority having previously been good for democratic majorities of 3,000 and upwards. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress by a vote of 10,377 against 9,108 for Noah D. Taylor, democrat, being a majority of 1,269.
